Vapo-Cresolene

Established 1870.
Whooping Cough, Croup, Bronchitis,
Cough, Grip, Asthma, Diphtheria.
Cresolene is a boon to Asthmatics.

Cresolene is a long established and standard remedy for the diseases indicated. It cures because the active ingredients are in the form of a fine spray, and the fine spray of the vapor of the active ingredients is inhaled and instantaneously absorbed. Those of a sensitive nature, or who are prone to the disease, should keep a bottle of Vapo-Cresolene at all times,
and use it at the first onset of the disease.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists and is put up in a small bottle of 1/2 oz. and a larger bottle of 1 oz. The price is very low. It is sold in all parts of the world.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST SEA FIGHTER.

This is the centennial of the battle of Trafalgar, which meant so much to the British Empire, and of the death of Lord Nelson, the world's greatest seaman. At this time well meaning people do not regard the anniversary so much in the light of celebrating a victory for British arms as an occasion for paying tribute to one of the world's heroes. An entente amounting almost to an alliance now exists between the British and the French and the sailors of the French fleet who recently fraternized with their English brothers at Portsmouth did not hesitate to pay tribute to the statue of the dead hero. Likewise, it is pleasing to note, the French Canadian Veterans' Society of Montreal will take part in the celebration of the day in that city, when the statue of Nelson will be decorated in appropriate manner.

It is gratifying also to note that the leading newspapers of the United States are giving their mead of praise to the great Nelson and his achievements, while not forgetting that he met a valiant foe. The following from the Boston Transcript is fairly representative of articles of its class in the press of the neighboring Republic:

"All England is preparing to observe the centennial of the battle of Trafalgar, October 21. There will be many public celebrations, and it is proposed to associate the date with the establishment of Nelson funds for the amelioration of the lot of sailors, not of the navy, but of the merchant service. Nelson himself at a stage of his apprenticeship, served on board a merchantman, a rough and ready school of seamanship in his youth. The English papers bristle with reminiscences of Nelson and suggestions for fitting commemoration of his great deeds and his crowning victory. Nelson busts and pictures are already the rage. Busts made from the wood of the Victory are to be placed in the Guild Hall and other London public buildings. Salvers and similar articles made from the Victory's copper are offered as premiums for subscription to various Nelson funds. Even the French entente will not effect the jubilation of October 21, when all England will hear the life and works of the greatest of naval commanders set forth by the foremost of naval officers and naval experts. Orators other than specialists will sound Nelson's praises, and the lights of the jubilation will be seen across the channel, if the shouting is not heard. France will not be disturbed, for if the French-Spanish fleet was vanquished at Trafalgar, it put up such a fight that Frenchmen and Spaniards can take a pride in reading of the conduct of their sires on that day. Seaman-ship and skill, marshalled and directed by genius, were on the side of the British, but in courage and endurance the allies were foemen worthy of their steel. That the British had to work for their victory is now recognized by all writers who study the duration of the resistance encountered and the terrible losses the allied ships sustained before their colors came down.

"That Nelson was the greatest naval commander of which history makes mention is the consensus of opinion of the world's experts. Even the French have come to admire him and to maintain not wholly as a justification of their misfortunes, that he was on the sea when Napoleon was on land, the master of his profession, was a genius for war. Today we are under the influence of achievements of the Japanese commanders, and it may be that many will incline to the belief that Togo threatens Nelson's fame but marked as he is not that stamp of genius that puts Nelson in a class by themselves.

WILLIAM PURCILL TRAGIC DEATH.

Was Struck by Shunter at Chatnam
Pulp Mill and Died
Almost Immediately

One of Chatham's good citizens, William Purcill, was suddenly deprived of life this morning in a tragic manner. He was going to his work, the unloading of cars at the Miramichi pulp mill, and was walking along the mill's railway track, just opposite the engine room door, when the locomotive overtook him, knocked him down, and dragged him several feet before it could be stopped. The driver, seeing that Mr. Purcill did not seem to notice that the engine was close to him, put on the brakes, but the rails were wet and the wheels slipped. Mr. Purcill, when struck, fell in the middle of the track, and was caught by the fire box and dragged along under the engine for about twelve feet. He was taken out when the engine stopped, and the only visible injury was a heavy cut and bruise over the right eye. The poor man opened his eyes, then closed them, and in two or three minutes his heart ceased to beat. Mr. Purcill was a quiet, hardworking man whom everybody liked. He was fifty-eight years old, and leaves a wife, one son and one daughter, the latter having gone to Boston a few days ago.—World.

A CHARMING PICTURE.

A sample copy of the new premium picture issued by the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, has come to hand. It is certainly a decided change from their pictures of former years, and a change that will be appreciated. It is entitled Queen Alexandra, Her Grandchildren, and Dogs, a most charming and interesting subject. It portrays Queen Alexandra on a visit to the Royal Kennels, accompanied by her grandchildren. The picture of the Queen and the children is an excellent one, and the handsome collies and hounds are so life-like that one falls in love with the picture at once. All subscribers to that great weekly will receive a copy of this beautiful picture, size 22 x 28 inches, absolutely free, on receipt of one dollar for a year's subscription. The publishers of the Family Herald have also issued this year a book of immense value to farmers. It is entitled "The Farmer's Manual or Veterinary Guide." This book is said by competent authorities to be the best of the kind ever issued. It cannot be bought, but can be had free on conditions which may be had on application at this office, or by writing to the Family Herald or Weekly Star, Montreal.

The Better Way

The tissues of the throat are inflamed and irritated; you cough, and there is more irritation—more coughing. You take a cough mixture and it eases the irritation—for a while. You take and it cures the cold. That's what is necessary. It soothes the throat because it reduces the irritation; cures the cold because it drives out the inflammation; builds up the weakened tissues because it nourishes them back to their natural strength. That's how Scott's Emulsion deals with a sore throat, a cough, a cold, or bronchitis.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

FRENCH FORT COVE BRIDGE OPENED

parish he was glad to be present at the opening of this bridge. The premier had been frequently criticized that this work was not sooner done, but only those conversant with the immense amount of such structures to be erected, of the many claims on the department throughout the province would know the reason of the delay. But he thought that the whole electorate would commend the work done and thought the government deserving of a great deal of credit, not only for this bridge but for the many structures and fine roads throughout this country. Applause.

D. MORRISON, M. P. P.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Previous speakers had all spoken of this beautiful bridge, but he did not think it any too good for the people of Northumberland. He was surprised as Mayor Nichol, in his remarks about the young men driving. He no doubt forgets that he is telling the people of his earlier days, as he formerly spent some time in Newcastle and frequently drove over the road mentioned. He was pleased that last the bridge was built. It had been talked of for a long time but it was not until the government had opposition that the work was done. In conclusion he thanked the people for patient hearing and the government for the bridge. Applause.

W. S. LOGGIE, M. P.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It gave him great pleasure as the representative of the county to be present and address the people assembled. This bridge had been long talked of but now was a certainty. What we here today participate in would be a link in the chain which will bind the whole county in a unit, and trusted that the people would find it a boon to the trader. Applause.

P. TENNESSY.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

He was very happy to be present at the ceremony of opening of this bridge. As a member of a delegation which waited on the Premier he took a great interest in the work as he felt that he had in a small measure aided in having it built. For a time the Premier told Newcastle's representatives that if they would build the road, the bridge would be erected but the town did not feel like assuming this work.

A delegation of which he was a member visited Mr. Tweedie at Chatham and after talking the matter over the Premier promised them that if the town had undertaken the work, the government would supply the necessary money. Today we see the finished work. The last few years had been ones of marked prosperity in the town and county. We had new factories etc., and new roads and bridge, and this one would not only greatly benefit Newcastle, but the whole county. Great applause was due to the Premier and the chief Commissioner for giving us the fine road and bridge. Applause.

W. B. SNOWBALL, ESQ.

W. B. Snowball, who was next called on thought that Mayor Miller was imposing on the good people assembled in asking him to make a few remarks, but would join with all in expressing his appreciation of the work done, it would bring Newcastle and Chatham nearer together and he had no doubt more of the Chatham boys would now drive up to Newcastle. Applause.

PREMIER TWEEDIE.

Premier Tweedie was loudly applauded as he stepped forward to address the people. He in part said:—

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It afforded him great pleasure to be present, although so late in the fall and a little later than he had anticipated to aid in the opening ceremonies of the new French Fort Cove bridge. The delay was due to the fact that the road approaching the bridge was not in shape at the time expected and he and the Commissioner had thought it best not to open the bridge until it was put in proper shape. This bridge was one of the finest in the province with but one exception it was the highest. A great deal had been said about uniting the people of the Miramichi. From his experience, and it was a well known fact, that Miramichi people were the most chivalrous and although we have our differences, Messrs. Morrison and Morrison sometimes oppose him, yet we are jolly good fellows. He was proud that Newcastle was progressing. The wise and intelligent manner in which the Mayor and Aldermen were administering the affairs was clearly to be seen when you walk on the fine walks equal to any in the province, and see the well kept streets, the fine water and electric light service.

Reference had been made to some rumored changes; to the appointment of the Chief Commissioner to the Senate. He wished to say that if such took place the Senate would be the loss of a fine man. While New Brunswick would lose a fine and capable official, as for himself he was anxious to pull a little string through before he was shelved. Mr. Morrison had said that this was likely to be the last bridge he would open. Well he wishes to say that he hopes early next year to have the pleasure of opening another bridge on the Miramichi; one over Morrison's cove for which plans are already being made. Applause.

THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER.

Hon. Chas. LaBillois, Chief Commissioner, was the next and final speaker. He said:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

He was pleased to be present and proud to add to a large assembly of Miramichi people. He was glad to say that in New Brunswick we were as progressive as the larger provinces in building bridges. When he had been asked to assume charge of the Department of Public Works he had insisted on being given a free hand, and that had been granted him. He assumed the people of the Miramichi that if they had not more bridges of this nature it was not the Premier's fault but with the large demands for other work throughout the Province all had been treated as fairly as possible. A great deal had been said in the opposition press about the New Highway Act. He wished to state that with his experience during the past summer this Act was a success and in two or three years the people will see by the great improvements in the roads, the wisdom of the act.

In conclusion Mr. LaBillois gave a description of the bridge which is printed elsewhere. At the conclusion of the remarks the gentlemen entered carriage and headed by the band drove over, the first carriage contained Mr. Tweedie, Hon. C. H. LaBillois, Mayor Nichol of Chatham and Miller of Newcastle, and about fifty carriages followed in line.

GLOUCESTER CO. TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Interesting Meeting Held at Carquet Last Week.

GOOD ATTENDANCE.

The Gloucester County Teachers' Institute was held at Carquet on the 19th and 20th inst. President Jerome Boudreau was not able to be present on account of sickness. Inspector Doucet filled the chair. Thirty-two teachers were present. After an enrollment address of welcome was given by Mr. A. J. Witzell which called forth happy responses by Dr. U. G. Hay and Mr. P. Girdwood. Inspector Doucet addressed the meeting and said that he regretted very much of not having Mr. Boudreau to preside over meeting. He gave words of encouragement to teachers, also reasons why they should attend institute read educational papers. He spoke also on the necessity of having good school buildings and apparatus.

Miss E. A. Stout then read a very practical and interesting paper on the teaching of fractions to beginners. The paper was favorably received and discussed by Mr. A. J. Witzell, Miss R. S. Cormier and Inspector Doucet who delivered a good address on the beautifying of the schoolroom. His remarks were right to the point and attentively listened to by the audience. Then Mr. P. J. Veniot spoke at length in French and English emphasizing the urgent necessity of having new French books for the Acadian schools. The last speaker was Dr. Hay who as usual interested his audience. "He was the last but not the least."

Friday morning a paper on School Management was read by Mr. P. Girdwood. This most excellent paper was attentively listened to and favorably commented upon by A. J. Witzell, E. Degraze, Dr. Hay, Inspector Doucet and the Secretary, C. Poirier.

Then a bright paper on the teaching of primary geography was given in French by Charles C. Poirier. This paper was favorably discussed and commented upon by Miss L. B. Mullins, Mr. J. E. Degraze, Dr. Hay and others.

Another interesting address followed by Dr. Hay on Nature study. His description of plants and the best method of teaching this study will certainly be a great help to teachers in this too neglected branch of our School Course.

The following officers were elected for ensuing year:—

President—P. Girdwood,
Vice President—R. L. Cormier,
Secretary—A. J. Witzell.

Additional members of Executive Committee: R. D. Hanson, Josephine Dumas.

Votes of thanks were given to Dr. Hay, the Inspector and the Secretary.

The Institute adjourned to meet next year at Bathurst.

GRAND ANSE CHURCH BURNED.

Also Presbytery Barn and Out-buildings With Contents

LOSS ABOUT $17,000.

Grand Anse, Oct. 24.—At 10.30 o'clock Sunday night the Catholic church at Grand Anse was discovered to be on fire. At the time most of the residents had retired and before assistance could be got the fire had spread to the Presbytery and barns, completely destroying them. Nothing was saved from the church and very little from the house, and only the horse from the barn. The cause of the fire is unknown. Loss, seventeen thousand dollars; small insurance.

A GREAT ENTERTAINER.

Coming to Newcastle Under the Direction of F. G. Spencer.

F. G. Spencer the well known concert promoter who has toured the country with such fine attractions as Madame Nordica, Jessie McLachlan and scores of others, has secured our opera house for the first time, and proposes on the evening of Nov. 17th, to introduce to our public for the first time one of the most celebrated entertainers in the United States Mr. Fred E. Kendall, who will be assisted by Edna Munro, Belling the leading Vocalist of Boston, also a very excellent pianist.

Mr. Kendall will be a novelty here, his work is unique as a baritone soloist. He is one of the best in the country, while as an impersonator and humorist it would be indeed difficult to find his superior.

Mr. Spencer has secured this celebrated entertainer for a full tour and after spending a day in Newcastle looking over the ground came to the conclusion that our people would appreciate the opportunity of seeing his attraction, and consequently booked the date with Mr. Corbett. Should Mr. Spencer secure the patronage which Mr. Kendall undoubtedly deserves, he purposes bringing other good people our way. We bespeak for Mr. Spencer the best patronage our population is able to bestow.

WILL FOUND ON RAILS.

(Vancouver World, Oct. 11.)

When the workmen at Wallace's shipyard at the Granville street bridge, went to work this morning they found a will and marriage certificate on the wall under the stern of the steamer Columbia, which is hauled up there for repairs. The marriage certificate, which is dated Newcastle, N. B., June 20, 1900, is drawn for the marriage of John Falconer, and Henrietta Niven, both of that place. The will is dated March 7, 1904, and signed by James Niven, also evidently of Newcastle, N. B. The document is enclosed in an envelope bearing a return stamp of a Chatham, N. B., druggist. Mr. and Mrs. John Falconer, left here some time ago for Vancouver and no doubt the above was lost by them, or stolen.

The Return of Sherlock Holmes.

By A. Conan Doyle.

Author of "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes," "The Hound of the Baskervilles," "The Sign of the Four," "A Study in Scarlet," Etc.
(Illustrated by F. D. Steele.)

Half past two chimed, and it was the darkest hour which precedes the dawn, when we all started as a low but sharp click came from the direction of the door. Some one had entered the drive. Again there was a long silence, and I had begun to fear that it was a false alarm, when a steady step was heard upon the other side of the hut, and a moment later a metallic scraping and clinking. The man was trying to force the lock. This time his skill was greater or his tool was better, for there was a sudden snap and the creak of the hinges. Then a match was struck, and next instant the steady light from a candle filled the interior of the hut. Through the gauze curtain our eyes were all riveted upon the same within.

The nocturnal visitor was a young man, frail and thin, with a black mustache, which, I felt, was the death of him. He could not have been much above twenty years of age. I have never seen any human being who appeared to be in such a pained, frightened, and his teeth were visibly chattering, and he was shaking in every limb. He was dressed like a gentleman, in Norfolk jacket and knickerbockers, with a cloth cap upon his head. We watched him staring round with frightened eyes. Then he hid the candle and upon the table and disappeared from our view into one of the corners. He returned with a large book, one of the logbooks which formed a line upon the shelves. Leaning upon the table, he rapidly turned over the leaves of the book until he came to the entry which he sought. Then, with an angry glance at his cramped hand, he closed the book, replaced it in the corner and put out the light. He had hardly turned to leave the hut when Hopkins' hand was on the fellow's collar, and I heard his loud gasp of terror as he was seized that he was taken. The candle was snuffed, and there was our wretched companion, shivering and cowering in the grasp of the detective. He said, "I am the man you seek, and I look down at you from one of us to the other."

"Now, my dear fellow," said Stanley Hopkins, "who are you and what do you want here?"

The man pulled himself together and freed us with an effort at self-composure. "You are detectives, I suppose," said he. "You imagine I am connected with the death of Captain Peter Carey. I assure you that I am innocent."

"Well, see about that," said Hopkins. "First of all, what is your name?"

"It is John Hopkyns Neeligan," I saw Hopkins and Neeligan exchange a quick glance.

"What are you doing here?" "Can I speak confidentially?" "No, certainly not."

"Why should I tell you?" "If you have an answer, it may go badly with you at the trial."

"The young man winced." "Well, I will tell you," he said. "Why should I not? And yet I do not think of this old scandal gaining a new lease of life. Did you ever hear of Dawson & Neeligan?"

"I could see from Hopkins' face that he never had, but Holmes was keenly interested."

"You mean the worst country bankers," said he. "They failed for a million, ruined half the county families of Cornwall and Neeligan disappeared."

"Exactly," Neeligan was my father. At first we were getting something positive, and yet it seemed a long gap between an absconding banker and Captain Peter Carey pinned against the wall with one of his own harpoons. We all listened intently to the young man's words.

"It was my father who was really concerned," Dawson had retired. I was only ten years of age at the time, but I was old enough to feel the shame and horror of it all. It has always been said that my father stole all the securities and fled. It is not true. It was his belief if he were given time in which to realize them all would be well and every creditor paid in full. He started in his little yacht for Nor-tain Peter Carey, the owner of this hut. Naturally, I made some inquiries about the man. I found that he had been in command of a whaler which was due to return from the arctic seas at the very time when my father was coming to Norway. The autumn of that year was a stormy one, and there was a long succession of southerly gales. My father's yacht may well have been blown to the north and there met by Captain Peter Carey's ship. If that were so, what had become of my father? In any case, if I could prove from Peter Carey's affidavit how these securities came on the market it would be a proof that my father had not sold them and that he had no view to personal profit when he took them.

"I came down to Sussex with the intention of seeing the captain, but it was at this moment that his terrible death occurred. I read at the inquest a description of his cabin, in which it stated that the old logbooks of his vessel were preserved in it. It struck me that if I could see what occurred in the month of August, 1883, on board the Sea Unicorn I might solve the mystery of my father's fate. I tried last night to get at these logbooks, but was unable to open the door. Tonight I tried again and succeeded, but I find that the pages which dealt with that month have been torn from the book. It was at that moment I found myself a prisoner in your hands."

"Is that all?" asked Hopkins. "Yes, that is all," his eyes shifted as he said it. "You have nothing else to tell us?" He hesitated. "No, there is nothing."

"You have not been here before last night?" "No."

"Then how do you account for that?" cried Hopkins, as he held up the damning notebook, with the initials of our prisoner on the first leaf and the blood stain on the cover.

The wretched man collapsed. He sank his face in his hands and trembled all over. "Where did you get it?" he groaned. "I did not know, I thought I had lost it at the hotel."

"That is enough," said Hopkins sternly. "Whatever else you have to say, you must say in court. You will walk down with me now to the police station. With Mr. Holmes, I am very much obliged to you and to your friend for coming down to help me. As it turns out, your presence was unnecessary, and I would have brought the case to this successful issue without you; but, none the less, I am grateful. Rooms have been reserved for you at the Brambletye hotel, so we can all walk down to the village together."

"Well, Watson, what do you think of it?" asked Holmes as we traveled back next morning. "I can see that you are not satisfied."

"Oh, yes, my dear Watson: I am perfectly satisfied. At the same time, Stanley Hopkins' methods do not commend themselves to me. I am disappointed in Stanley Hopkins. I had hoped for better things from him. One should always look for a possible alternative and provide against it. It is the first rule of criminal investigation."

"What, then, is the alternative?" "The line of investigation which I have myself been pursuing. It may give us nothing. I cannot tell. But at least I shall follow it to the end."

Several letters were waiting for Holmes at Baker street. He snatched one of them up, opened it and burst out into a triumphant chuckle of laughter.

"Excellent, Watson! The alternative develops. Have you telegraph forms? Just write a couple of messages for me: 'Summer, shipping agent, Ratcliff highway. Send three men on to arrive to-morrow morning. Basil! That's my name in those parts. The other is Inspector Stanley Hopkins, 46 Lord street, Brixton. Come breakfast to-morrow at 9:30. Important. Wire if unable to come. Sherlock Holmes.' There, Watson, this infernal case has haunted me for ten days. I hereby banish it completely from my presence. Tomorrow I trust that we shall hear the last of it forever."

Sharp at the hour named Inspector Stanley Hopkins appeared, and we sat down together to the excellent breakfast which Mrs. Hudson had prepared. The young detective was in high spirits at his success.

"You really think that your solution must be correct?" asked Holmes. "I could not imagine a more complete case."

"It did not seem to me conclusive." "You astonish me, Mr. Holmes. What more could one ask for?" "Does your explanation cover every point?"

"Undoubtedly. I find that young Neeligan arrived at the Brambletye hotel on the very day of the crime. He came on the pretense of playing golf. His room was on the ground floor, and he could get out when he liked. That very night he went down to Woodman's Lee, saw Peter Carey at the hut, quarreled with him and killed him with the harpoon. Then, horrified by what he had done, he fled out of the hut, dropping the notebook which he had brought with him in order to question Peter Carey about these different securities. You may have observed that some of them three men inquiring for Captain Basil.

"Show them in one by one," said Holmes.

The first who entered was a little ribston-pippin of a man, with ruddy cheeks and curly white side whiskers. Holmes had drawn a letter from his pocket.

"What name?" he asked. "James Lancaster."

"I am sorry, Lancaster, but the berth is full. Here is half a sovereign for your trouble. Just step into this room and wait there for a few minutes."

The second man was a long, dried up creature, with lank hair and sallow cheeks. His name was Hugh Pattins. He also received his dismissal, his half sovereign and the order to wait.

The third applicant was a man of remarkable appearance. A fierce bulldog face was framed in a tangle of hair and beard, and two bold dark eyes gleamed behind the cover of thick, tufted, overhanging eyebrows. He saluted and stood sailor fashion, turning his cap round in his hands.

"Your name?" asked Holmes. "Patrick Cairns."

"Harpooner?" "Yes, sir; twenty-six voyages."

"Dundee, I suppose." "Yes, sir."

"And ready to start with an exploring ship?" "Yes, sir."

"What wages?" "Eight pounds a month."

"Could you start at once?" "As soon as I get my kit."

"Have you your papers?" "Yes, sir." He took a sheaf of worn and greasy documents from his pocket. Holmes glanced over them and returned them.

"You are just the man I want," said he. "Here's the agreement on the side table. If you sign it the whole matter will be settled."

The seaman leaped across the room and took up the pen.

"Shall I sign here?" he asked, stooping over the table.

Holmes leaned over his shoulder and passed both hands over his neck.

"This will do," said he.

Ask Your Grocer About Red Rose Tea

MOST good Grocers sell Red Rose Tea. If a grocer recommends Red Rose Tea, it will be an honest opinion, because he makes less profit on Red Rose Tea than on most others.

When a merchant recommends an article upon which his profit is less than upon other similar goods, it is because he wants to sell satisfactory goods and to please his customers.

Your grocer knows he can recommend Red Rose Tea for its "rich fruity flavor" and its strength, and because

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been unable to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Baby Had Eczema

And suffered what no pen can ever describe—Three doctors baffled.

Mrs. S. MILLER, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema, and for three years the disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that has ever come under my notice, and she apparently suffered what no pen could ever describe. I had three different doctors attend to her, all to no purpose whatever. Finally I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to my surprise she immediately began to improve, and was completely cured of that long-standing disease. That was four years ago, when we lived at Cornwall, Ont., and as not a symptom has shown itself since, the cure must be permanent."

CARNEGIE HAS PLAN TO END ALL WAR

Great Britain, France and United States
Combine They Could Bring About Universal Peace.

London, Oct. 17.—Five nations forces or money in lieu thereof in or even three banded together in proportion to her population or a league of peace and inviting all other nations to join them could banish all war in the future.

This opinion was expressed today by Andrew Carnegie in his address to the students of the University of St. Andrews, Scotland. In outlining his plan for the league for peace, Mr. Carnegie said: "If the principal European nations were not free, through conscription, from the problem which now disturbs the military authorities of Britain, the lack of sufficient numbers willing to enter the man-slaying profession, we should soon hear the demands formulated for a league of peace among the nations."

Five nations co-operated in quelling the recent Chinese disorders and rescuing their representatives in peril. It is perfectly clear that these five nations could banish war. Suppose even three of them formed a league of peace inviting all other nations to join and agreed that since war in any part of the civilized world affects all nations, and often seriously, no nation shall go to war, but shall refer international disputes to the Hague Conference or other arbitration bureau for peaceful settlement, the league agreeing to declare non-intercourse with any nation refusing compliance.

"Imagine a nation cut off today from the world. The league also might reserve to itself the right where nonintercourse is likely to fail or has failed to prevent war, to use the necessary force to maintain peace, each member of the league agreeing to provide the needed force."

The number that would gladly join such a league would be great, for the small nations would reap the opportunity.

The relations between Britain, France and the United States today are so close, their arms so similar, their territories and fields of operations so clearly defined and so different that these powers might properly unite inviting other nations to consider the question of such a league as has been sketched.

"It is a subject well worthy the attention of rulers, for of all the modes of hastening to the end of war this appears to be the easiest and the best. We have no reasonable doubt that arbitration in its present optional form will continue its rapid progress and that it in itself contains the elements required finally to lead us to peace, for it conquers wherever it is tried, but it is none the less gratifying to know there is in reserve a drastic mode of enforcement, if needed, would promptly banish war."

Mr. Carnegie's address was devoted entirely to the desirability, necessity and even the possibility of putting an end to war.

You run no risk—therefore use Catarrhizone—at our expense if not satisfied.

Leaving California For Canadian West

Vancouver, Oct. 19.—Fifty settlers for Alberta passed through Mission yesterday from California with large heads of cattle, most of which were thoroughbreds, and a lot of household effects. The settlers stated that they were the advance guard of a large migration from California to Alberta which is to take place early in the spring.

THE HUNTERS SEASON

Nimrod was a mighty hunter but had he hunted in the 'Highlands of Ontario' that are reached by the Grand Trunk Railway System he would have been a mighty one. Nimrod hunted for glory, but those who go up into the several districts in Ontario hunt for game and have no difficulty in finding it. The regions in which deer abound are the Muskoka Lakes, 'Lake of Bays,' 'Magnetawan River,' Georgian Bay, 'Lake Nipissing,' the 'French River,' 'Kawartha Lakes' and on the line of the Canada Atlantic between Scotia Junction and the boundary of Algonquin Park. The open season is from November 1st to November 15th. For moose, the best region in Canada is found in Temagami, where the season opens October 16th and continues until November 15th.

The open season for ducks in Ontario is from September 1st to December 15th and for partridge September 15 to December 15.

A beautifully illustrated book 'Haunts of Fish and Game' giving descriptions of the different hunting districts, game laws, maps etc. sent free on application to J. Quiglan, District Passenger Agent, Bonaventure Station, Montreal.

THE CHANGE OF LIFE

INTELLIGENT WOMEN PREPARE
Dangers and Pains of This Critical Period Avoided by the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that the most critical period in a woman's existence is the change of life, and that the anxiety felt by women as this time draws near is not without reason?

If her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, it is at this time likely to become active and, with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden.

At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to begin their destructive work. Such warning symptoms as a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, dizziness, headache, dread of impending evil, sounds in the ears, timidity, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the world's greatest remedy for women at this trying period, and may be relied upon to overcome all distressing symptoms and carry them safely through to a healthy and happy old age.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism, and builds up the weakened nervous system as no other medicine can.

Madame Louis Belleau, of 17 Ramsay St., Quebec, Que., writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound assisted me to pass the change of life with but very little sickness and pain, and I am pleased to give my endorsement, for I feel that it is the medicine which every woman should take. I am the mother of three children, and when I reached the age of fifty naturally my health was none too good, and I feel sure that if I had not taken your Vegetable Compound I should not have passed the climax safely. I took it off and on for two years and now find that I am in splendid health and strength and feel younger and better than I did ten years ago. Much praise to your medicine, and may all suffering women learn of its value."

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Everybody is cordially invited to be present.

Policeman Foley, was in Newcastle on Wednesday, and decided to drive down by way of the bridges. He was agreeably surprised, in the upper end of Nelson, to meet James Walsh, for whom he had been looking in vain ever since the boat trust operated on the Babiniau Hotel, outbuilding. He invited James to take a seat by his side, and drove him to the Chatham lock-up—World.

Messrs. P. F. Collier & Son received a despatch from Quebec on Thursday stating that Mr. H. M. Henderson, the representative of the company in Quebec had been probably fatally injured by the collision of a runaway freight car loaded with stone with a passenger car on the Louis eliot railway. He is now in the Hotel Dieu Hospital. Mr. Henderson was formerly with the company in Nova Scotia, and went to Quebec only three months ago. He is about forty years of age and is a native of Kingston Ont.—Globe. Mr. Henderson is well known on the North Shore where he was a regular visitor in the interests of P. F. Collier & Son for some time and his many friends will regret to learn of his accident.

THE R. N. WYSE 18,000 Sacrifice Sale.

I want to candidly explain why the difference is so great between our prices and those of our competitors. This business has been built up by applying good common sense to business methods. The goods were bought from the most reliable firms in the Dominion and Great Britain. These firms got their money promptly and were always anxious to give me any Snaps that they had to offer. These good, reliable goods, bought at the closest margins, were placed before our customers at the lowest cash prices, marked in plain figures. Customers could see our prices, compare the values with others, then buy. They were told they could get their money back if goods were not satisfactory in every way. Every effort was made to treat customers "white." As a result our business has been growing from year to year. Now I am selling out preparatory to going away. To do this quickly every article in the store has been "marked down." This is no fake (as our competitors are trying to circulate), but a genuine Slaughter Sale where you can save from 20 to 50 per cent. on every dollar's worth you buy.

FLANNELETTES

We can save you considerable on this class of goods. Our stock is still large, and prices will please you. 36 inch Heavy Pink Flannel at only 10c the yd.

BLANKETS

The cold weather is here. Our Blankets are going rapidly. The price sells them every time. If you need them get here as soon as possible.

SILKS

35c the yard is rapidly clearing all those beautiful Silks and Satins that were 50c, 65c, 75c and 95c the yd. Do you want a Waist. Black Silk, $1.75 value for $1.15.

VELVETS

Buy a Dress, or the material for your new Fall Hat. In some cases the prices are cut in two on this class of goods. Others are saving money, why not you.
