The Situation in France Evokes Caustic Comment.

Indications That Brisson Will Be Canada Complimented by a Leading Elected President.

Many Persons Perish by Avalanches in Spain-Lord Randolph Churchill Said to be Sinking.

Avalanches in Spain. MADRID, Jan. 16.-Avalanches have broken over several villages in Austria, and many persons are said to have been killed.

Lord Randolph Churchill Sinking. London, Jan. 16 .- The bulletin issued by Lord Randolph Churchill's physicians at 10:25 this evening says that the failure of the heart is very marked and that the patient's weakness is increasing.

British Cabinet in Council. London, Jan. 16 .- A Cabinet council was held at noon today. Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequor, presided, Lord Rosebery being absent owing to the death of his nephew, a son of Lord Lecon-

Terrorized!

LONDON, Jan. 16 .- The Times correspondent in Pekin telegraphs: "There are riots and lootings in the provinces of Shan Tung and Pe Chi Li. The mission stations are believed to be safe, but the missionaries would be wise to retire to the

Bogus Dollars,

London, Jan. 16.-The Central News correspondent in Madrid says: A sensation has been caused by the discovery that 24,000,000 spurious Spanish silver dollars are in circulation. The coins are of the fuil mint weight; many are even slightly superior to the standard. The Spanish officials say that the dollars are produced in France and America.

Warm Work With Abyssinians. Rome, Jan. 16 .- The Government has received telegrams of the gravest character from Massawab, indicating that the situation is not as hopeful as has been officially stated. Official telegrams have been received stating that the battle with the Abyssinians under Chief Ras Mangascia was renewed on Jan. 14, resulting in the defeat of the Abyssinians, who were pursued by the Italians. Abyssinians lost several hundred men, including several chiefs and several under chiefs. The loss of the Italians during two day's fighting was twelve men.

The French Crisis. Berlin, Jan. 16 .- In commenting on the French President's resignation the Tage- | tion opened with a largely increased atblatt says: "His fall is a great loss. It concerns Germany and all other friends of peace, as his successor possibly will seek to divert the attention of the people to foreign questions. It behooves Germany to keep her powder dry."

London, Jan. 16 .- The Duke of Orleans, chief of the French pretenders, left London with his suite today for Dover, where he will hold himself ready to start for France in case political developments

Paris, Jan. 16 .- M. Brisson held a cancus and discussed the availability of several candidates in an informal way, but they separated without taking a vote. As things look now M. Brisson's election seems a certainty.

The conference of senators and deputies in the Palais du Luxembourg finally dissolved shortly before 8 o'clock without taking a vote. In consequence of the re-fusal of M. Waldeck Rousseau to be a candidate the Union Republicans and the Union Progressists have put forward as their choice M. Felix Faure. This leaves Brisson and Faure the probable candidates. According to the latest estimates M. Brisson will obtain 330 votes on the first ballot of the National Assembly to-

Rome, Jan. 16 .- The Vatican is worried by the sudden changes in French affairs. The Osservatore Romano says it is deplorable to see French Socialists and Radicals so successful in their schemes, and asks, at the end of a pessimistic article, "Whither are we tending?"

The opinion tonight is that the main struggle will be between Felix Faure and Henri Brisson, and that a dark horse is likely to run ahead of either. It is not believed that the election will be made on the first ballot.

The Paris correspondent of the Daily News writes: "There is but one opinion in all parties, and that is that the resignation was a grievous fault, the outcome of a fit of petulant irritation.

THE HARTLEY CASE REVIVED.

Serious Charge Preferred Against the Accused Woman's Counsel. WOODSTOCK, Ont., Jan. 16 -At the police court today Thomas Brown, barrister, of Norwich, was called to answer to a charge of attempting to persuade Louis Henry Ling, an important witness in the Hartley murder trial, to leave the country and not to give evidence for a reward. F.

R. Ball, Q.C., represented the crown, and Samuel G. McKay the defendant. The crown called two witnesses, Ling and his brother, to prove that on the 7th and 11th of October last Brown visited their place to induce Louis Henry Ling to go away to the United States and not to give evidence, Another unimportant witness was called named Hussey, which closed the case for the crown, and an adjournment was asked for by the defense which was granted until Wednesday next at 10 o'clock.

In Congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16 .- The debate on Senator Hill's amendment to the Urgent Deficiency Bill in reference to testing the constitutionality of the income tax, occupied most of today's session and ended in the rejection of the amendment by an overwhelming majority. The Urgent De- the year; in fact, of an increased expendi-ficiency Bill finally passed.

Already several members have in preparation bills authorizing the laying of a Hawaiian cable under the patronage of the United States.

Continuation of the Western Ontario Convention.

Wisconsin Dairyman.

Quebec Profiting by Lessons from Ontario - The Most Valuable Equipment.

STRATFORD, Jan. 16 .- The Western Ontario Dairymen's convention resumed last evening with an increased attendance over that of the afternoon. Mayor Monteith delivered a short address of welcome, to which the president replied.

A. F. Maclaren, on behalf of the association, presented Mr. Millar, their inspector, with two handsome arm chairs. Mr. Millar briefly returned thanks.

Mr. John Gould, of Ohio, gave a brief address on "Some of Our Principles of Dairying. C. H. Everett, president of the Wisconsin Association, in speaking of the dairy, said that Canada had the reputation of making the best class of cheese in the world. He paid a high tribute to Prof. Robertson, who was doing so much good work to build up the dairy interests in Canada. Hon. Thomas Ballantyne spoke of 28 years' experience in dairying. The only branch of farming that paid today was the cheese dairy. He spoke against sour whey going home in cans. In breeding cows he advised them to breed for a purpose. If for the dairy, breed for it. Nothing was so profitable today as dairying. You find that grain does not pay, cattle do not pay, but dairying has always Prof. Chapais, assistant dairy commisdoner for Quebec, in a brief address, stated that in Quebec they were working on the same lines as those adopted in Ontario. "And we have prospered," he added, "so much that we have extended butter-making a little more than even Ontario has done.

Prof. Robertson, Dominion dairy com-missioner, was of the opinion that the most valuable equipment of a dairyman was a clear head and a good mind. Speaking of the cheese industry, he said that we exported $16,500,000 as the product of the dairy last year. Of this $15,500,000 was in cheese and a little over $1,000,000 in butter. The needs of the dairyman were next touched upon. Habit of thinking clearly on the problems of his own business, fund of exact information, and need for persistent hard work, were the essentials.

The convention then adjourned to meet at 9 o'clock today.

Wednesday's Session. The second day's meeting of the associatendance in the city hall. The receipts for membership exceed those of the large meeting at Ingersoll last year.

This morning Prof. Fletcher, of Ottawa, addressed the convention on the subject of injurious insects, and gave valuable information as to their extermination. Mr. C. H. Everett discussed the subject of breeding, feeding and caring for swine. At the afternoon session John Gould took for his subject "All-the-Year-Round Care of the Dairy Jow."

Prof. Dean, of Guelph, gave the results of some experiments in cheese making, and his remarks, together with a paper by Prof. Vanslyke in support of the Babcock tester, gave rise to considerable discussion as to the value of rich and poor milk for cheese making purposes.

The Stratford Board of Trade arranged a meeting today of cheesemen of the neighborhood, when it was decided to establish a cheese market here. John Dempsey was elected president and W. S. Dingman

LADY SOMERSET COMING.

She Expects to Visit Canada Next Month.

BOSTON, Jan. 16 .- Lady Henry Somerset will soon leave Boston for Canada, where she will go in response to invitations of White Ribboners. She will visit some of the principal cities of Canada in the inter- | the Board of Trade rooms. est of the W. C. T. U. She expects to be in the Dominion shortly after Feb. 15.

THE MONTANA HORROR! Fifty-Seven Persons Known to Have

this forenoon the known number of dead was 47. This list will undoubtedly be increased when the debris is removed. Of the dead thus far recovered 26 have been identified.

Two of the injured, John Sloan and Basley Dunford, died tonight. Many others cannot recover. The total loss will be nearly $1,000,000.

Grip Claims Thirteen More. from grip were reported for the 24 hours ending at 10 o'clock today.

Fined $1 and Costs.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 16 .- In the police court today Mr. W. F. MacLean, M.P., was fined $1 and costs for publishing on Sunday, Jan. 6, a newspaper containing a report of the Globe fire. Several boys who were charged with selling the paper published were discharged.

Doomed to Die. MALONE, N. Y., Jan. 16 -Isaac White, who has been on trial for over a week for the murder of Mary La France, his mistress, on Aug. 21 last, was found guilty this evening and sentenced to die in the electrical chair at Clinton State Prison during the week beginning March 3.

Presbyterian Prosperity. TORONTO, Jan. 16.—Seven or eight Presbyterian churches held their annual meeting tonight. The year was fairly prosperous in most cases, but in the case of St. Andrew's (Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, pastor), there has been a considerable fall-ing off of membership and revenue during Large Gathering of Unemployed Men in Montreal.

Strong Language Used by the Deputation Who Wait On the Mayor.

Shall We Have Starvation or Anarchy?" -A Demonstration in Quebec -The Trolley Tieup.

Montreal, Jan. 16 .- About 4,000 unemloyed workingmen were at the city hall this morning, and a deputation, introduced by Wm. Darlington, interviewed the mayor. Darlington, who is a prominent abor leader and organizer, stated that he had been asked to organize a physical force association. Three hundred Anarchists could be mustered in Montreal just now. The mayor appointed Friday next for a public meeting to discuss the question. QUEBEC, Jan. 16.—Unemployed working-men held a large meeting at Champlain market today, when resolutions were adopted asking work from the municipal and Provincial authorities. The demonstration, which included 3,000 men, was the third of its kind that has taken place in the city within the last few weeks, and it shows the condition of affairs n Montreal. Thousands of workingmen have been thrown out of employment by the closing down of the Canadian Pacific shops, and many of the men who have families to support have grown desperate. There would have been serious trouble today if it had not been for some cool heads among the leaders. Finally a delegation of about 30 men was selected to interview the mayor and the vast crowd remained out-A strong guard of police was on duty on the building, but hundreds of the unemployed entered and packed the corridors, waiting to hear what the mayor had to say to the delegation. R. Ouimet, who acted as spokesman for the delegation, reminded the mayor that there had been two other demonstrations of thousands of unemployed around the city hall. They had been told that work would soon be provided for them by the city. The men had waited patiently, but in vain. They were grow. ing tired, and they wanted to know, without any further parley or delay, whether they were to get work or not.

William Darlington, a prominent labor leader, followed. He said that the workingmen of Montreal had arrived at such a condition today that they had been forced to ask themselves whether they had a right were those who denied that poverty and hardship and want prevailed to a large extent in the city at present. But they were wrong. Misery and wretchedness existed to a considerable extent, many cases of death by actual starvation had been brought to his own personal knowledge. The doctors gave certificates that they had succumbed to pneumonia, or consumption or some other similar complaint, but the real cause was starvation, lack of food and necessary medicine. He would tell the mayor that men were not going to lie down peaceably to die from starvation in a country where there was plenty of food and many others were living in luxury. If the council refused to give the unemployed any assistance in the way of providing them with work, he would not like to be answerable for the result. If through their being refused work they were driven to use guns and dynamite they would not be to blame. He could assure his worship that an army of 500 Anarchists could be raised in Montreal in a few hours. He knew for a fact that many men had lately applied to be enrolled in the labor organizations for the avowed purpose of using force to oblige those who could do it to give them employment. The question of the moment was: "Shall we have starvation or anarchy?" The mayor expressed his sympathy with those who were out of employment. He pointed out, however, that many of those who passed as unemployed were not in need of work. They labored all summer and saved enough money to keep them all winter. The city had done its best to give employment. A requisition was presented to the mayor, who will call a mass meeting on Friday in

The leaders threaten to repeat the demonstration if something is not done. The situation creates great excitement. QUEBEC, Jan. 16 .- The local union of journeymen bakers have decided to join the K. of L. in a body and will form a separate assembly of the order.

THE TROLLEY TIEUP. BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 16 .- The third day of the battle between the trolley companies and their employes resulted in a slight advantage for the companies. Three lines out of the 48 tied up were operated under police protection, but the ranks of the strikers are still intact. Practically the surface lines of the city were paralyzed today. The public as usual was the greatest sufferer. The great army of residents of the city who are engaged in business in New York had much difficulty to go to the NEW YORK, Jan. 16.-Thirteen deaths bridge and ferries. The elevated roads were unable to carry the crowds. New York, Jan. 17.—A crisis is at hand in the Brooklyn trolley strike. Mayor Schieren issued a manifesto last night saying if the strike was not settled in three days by the roads and the men the city administration would seek to take effective measures.

THE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

STRATHROY, Jan. 16 .- The West Middlesex Agricultural Society directors elected officers today as follows: Presdent, i L. Fortner; first vice-president, E. McClurg; second vice-president, H. Hardy; directors, Adelaide, Thomas Bogue, Archibald Campbell; Caradoc, W. A. Thomson, James Ferguson; Lobo, John McPherson; Metcalfe, J. W. Bryan, Robert Brown; Strathroy, James Cox, James Healey. David Evans was reappointed secretary and Mayor Kennedy's Majority 48. TORONTO, Jan. 16 .- The mayoralty recount was completed this afternoon, Judge Kennedy on the ground of corrupt prac- charge going through the center of his foot. One half of the foot had to be amputated.

The Italian losses in the fighting which occurred on Jan. 13 and 14 with the Abyssinians amounted to 120 killed and 90 wounded. The losses of the Abyssinians included a large number of petty chiefs, besides several hundred of their rank and

THE HENDERSHOTT MURDER.

Chief Justice Meredith to Preside at the Elgin Assizes.

TORONTO, Jan. 16.—Chief Provincial Detective John Murray returned yesterday from St. Thomas, where he has been engaged for the past fortnight on the Hendershott murder case. The trial of the accused will take place at the Elgin Spring Assizes, which open at St. Thomas on Tuesday, March 5. Chief Justice Meredith will be the presiding judge. Mr. B. B. Osler has been retained to prosecute the accused.

The defense is already figuring upon a postponement of the trial until the Fall Assizes, but the crown will resist any application of this nature.

Discussing the case the St. Thomas Journal pays a well-deserved compliment to the worth of Detective Murray. It says: "Detective Murray has presented a remarkably strong case. The evidence is mostly circumstantial, but is closely corroborative of the theory of the crown, and the manner in which it has been marshaled and presented shows that the authorities have been fully alive to their duty."

Amedee Chatelle, the murderer of Jessie Keith, of Listowel, will be tried before Judge Armour at Stratford on March 26. Should the counsel for Clara Ford succeed in having her trial postponed next week until the Spring Assizes, Chancellor Boyd will try this case on April 30.

FOOD FOR FLAMES.

LUCAN, Jan. 16 .- The extensive grain warehouse and elevator belonging to R. S. Hodgins is on fire. The loss will be heavy Boston, Jan. 16 .- Fire tonight burned the West End street railway car houses on Columbus avenue and burned 50 cars. Loss unknown yet. Fire still burning, though under control.

PLUCKY PAUL JONES

Will Win His Wager-Around the World Silks. Without a Cent.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 17 .- Among the passengers by the Empress of Japan is Paul Jones, who started from New York to travel around the world on a wager. He left without a cent, and had to accomplish the trip in a certain time, besides earning $5,000. He has already got $4.800, and has three weeks in which to get to New York. He is pretty sure to win the wager.

Joseph Faulder Confesses That He Tried to Influence a Juror

To Stand Out for his Brother-in-Law

ou Trial. Verdict for the Plaintiffs in Noyes vs.

> Assizes Before Judge Meredith.

Young-Proceedings of the Winter

Wednesday Aiternoen. The seventh suit for damages engaged the court's attention this afternoon and evening. James and Jane Noyes were the plaintitis, and Seth Young was the de-fendant. Mr. and Mrs. Noyes live on a farm near Byron, and Young is a West Nissouri blacksmith. The parties were in the city on June 23 last, and about 4 o'clock in the afternoon Noyes and his wife prepared to go home. They got into their rig on King street, west of Richmond, and were just going to drive off when a runaway team of horses, attached to a heavy rig, ran into their wagon. The tongue of the air. They landed on the block pavement and the runaways trampled on both plaintiffs. Noyes and his wife were picked up for dead and carried into an adjoining hotel. It was found that Noves had three ribs broken, severe internal injuries, and was bruised and cut about the back and shoulders. His nervous system was also shocked, and he has not yet fully recovered from the effects. Mrs. Noyes received severe bruises on her arms and shoulders and her left foot and leg. Noyes claims that the accident was caused by recklessness on the part of Young, and wants $3,000 damages. His w fe asks $2,000. Young denies the charge of carelessness. He was returning from his son's house on Clarence street. and when near Richmond one of the horses took fright at a street car. A break in the rig caused the other horse to join, and then they went at a lively gait. In trying to stop his horses the lines broke, causing him to fall out of the wagon and onto the road,

The collision with Noyes' rig soon followed. PLENTY OF EVIDENCE. A number of witnesses were examined. The court sat till 7 o'clock and then adjourned for an hour. The evidence for Noyes and his wife went principally to prove that Young had gone into Walsh's hotel on King street and left the team outside and untied.

Young stuck to his story as given above until cross-examined by counsel for Noyes, when he got tangled up. His statements at a previous examination were compared with his present evidence, and were found to differ materially. Young, however, abandoned the old evidence and stuck to the new. NEWNES AND HIS BEER. Thomas Newnes, of 526 Ontario street, followed Young in the box. He had a yards at that time," said Newnes to Mr. Chisholm. "I had been working all the night previous to the accident and came down town at 7 o'clock that morning. Q .- You are a pretty sociable kind of a fellow, ain't you? A .- They say I am, Q .- Where had you been just before the accident? A .- In a hotel for a glass of

"And you got it," joined in Justice Meredith.

"Yes, sir," answered the witness. "I thought so," replied the court. (Laughter.) Q.-When did you get the first glass A.—About 9 o'clock that morning.
Q.—What! A thirsty man like you waiting till that hour? A .- Yes, sir.

(Laughter.) Q.—How many drinks did you have from then till the accident happened? A .-Just one; I was treated by my boss. Newnes gave other evidence regarding unimportant points, but maintained that he was sober. When leaving the box

Judge Meredith called Newnes back. "Where did you come from ?" "Hamilton." Q .- What is your business? A .- Porter at the Grand Trunk freight sheds. I am laid off, though, owing to slackness of traffic.

Q .- That is the truth? A .- It is. Q.-What made you WRIGGLE IN THE BOX so much? A.-Well, it was only the first or second time that I have been in a witness box. "Well, I hope it will be your last," re= joined the judge, and Newnes stepped down and out. Peter Ryckman was next called. The crowd was astonished at Peter's unsteady step, and as he drew himself into the box,

Ryckman was then escorted out of the George and Miss Young were also ex-amined, and a host of doctors gave technical descriptions of the injuries received by the plaintiff. Mr. George Powell, the King street marble dealer, saw the accident, but denied that Young's team had passed his shop. He had been standing in front of his shop and would have noticed the runaway if it had occurred. Counsel then addressed the jury, and the court adjourned at 9:30 p.m. Thursday Morning. Justice Meredith began his address the jury in the Noyes-Young case at 10 o'clook. He gave a clear review of the evidence given by both sides, and stated that if the story given by the plaintiffs was to be believed negligence on the part of Young had been clearly proven. He clearly allowed the inference to be drawn that he did not place much reliance on the evidence given by Young and other witnesses for the defense. He criticised it very severely in many respects and left the case in the hands of the jury.

The jury returned a verdict for $250—$150 for Mr. Noyes and $100 for his wife—with full costs. FAULDER ON TRIAL. The only criminal case on the calendarthat of the Queen against Faulder—was next taken up. Joseph N. Faulder is a McGillivray township farmer, and is accused of attempting to bribe a juryman. At the December sessions John Hodgins and Wells Sholdice and Edward Sholdice, all of McGillivray, were placed on trial for the alleged theft of about $400 worth of goods from Muir's woolen mill, in Exeter. John Mawson, of McGillivray, was a jury-stand out for Hodgins' acquittal. Faulder was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Squire John B. Smyth recognized the information laid against Hodgins and the warrant for the arrest. Sheriff Cameron was also called, merely to identify the petit jury panel chosen for the session. MAWSON IN THE BOX. John Mawson, the juror, was next called. He was a McGillivray man, and had known both Hodgins and Faulder for about fifteen years. On the Sunday evening before the December sessions Fautder came to his house and called him out, saying that he wanted to see witness. Mawson went cutside and then Faulder asked him if, were he on the jury, he would HOLD OUT FOR HODGINS? "I answered that I could not tell until I heard the evidence," continued Mawson, whereupon Faulder said they had not evidence the size of a man's hand against Hodgins, and that if I held out in his favor he would make it all right.' Q-How did he mean that he would make it all right? A .- He did not say. Q.-No money mentioned? A.-No; nothing about the amount. Mr. Magee endeavored to bring to Mawson's recollection a previous statement he had made. Judge Meredith-Did you on any previous occasion say more than that? "Well," replied Mawson, "when I was challenged at the sessions and put in the box I was all shaken to pieces, and, I believe, stated that Faulder promised to

FAULDER'S CO NEESSION. James F. McFadden, county constable, was the man who arrested Faulder. He had a long conversation with the accused when on the way to the city. Faulder said he would not deny the charge. He knew he was doing wrong and that he would be punished if found out. Faulder also stated that he wanted to screen Hodgins

McFadden was given a rough overhauling by Mr. Meredith. He acknowledged having been on the county constabulary for twelve years. He had been dismissed once.

Q .- Was it not for bringing A MAN WITHOUT LEGS to jail in an open carriage when the thermometer was away below zero? A .- That is what I did. Q. -Because the cripple infringed the The defense sought to prove the accused's temperament. Mr. Meredith made an appealing address to the jury, but Mr. Magee did not speak for the prosecution, as the defense set up was as to the accused's character, and no attempt was made to disprove the state-

The 25th annual meeting of the directors of the City of London Horticultural and Agricultural Society was held in the City Hall last night. There was a large attendance, and the president, Capt. Porte,

No doubt I have some merit, or my have always believed that Grand Lodge is governed by the rules of sound common sense, judging by the selection of my predeces-choice, not only for presiding officer, but for all the other offices. That I have the love and friendship of the brethren of Lon-west to Kingston in the cast - I have been received with such warmth on the part of all the brethren that I can assure you will tend to moderate my temperature in my far north home. (Laughter and applause.) When I arrived in London this afternoon I had the good fortune to be taken in hand by the reception committee and was given a drive around your beautiful city. I had some idea of London before, but until today I had no conception of the size, the wealth and beauty of the city. You may well be proud of your city, and the city may well be proud of its Masons.

You were kind enough to say that my coming was an honor to the brethren.

Believe me, I considered it an honor to be invited to visit you and to accept the invitation. I may not be following in the footsteps of some of my predecessors, who told you to be prepared. I have always waited to be asked, because I believe that when the brethren really desire me to come to Masons of London Held Festival Last Night.

They Receive Grand Master White and Entertain Him and Their Lady Friends.

Interesting Addresses by the Chief Head and Ruler and the Deputy Grand Master.

Last night brethren of the eight Masonic odges of the city and London West held a lemonstration in honor of the grand naster, Most Wor. Bro. White, of Pembroke. It was one of the most successful gatherings of the kind ever held in London, several hundred of the brethren and their lady friends being in attendance. The proceedings began with the official reception of the grand master in the blue room, and while that function was in progress the ladies assembled in the Grand Opera House, the time in the interval being taken up with lively instrumental music. A lodge was opened at 8 p.m., with R. Wor. Bro. Rowat, of Nilestown, D.D.G.M. of the London district, acting as W. M., with the following assistants: S. W., Wor. Bro. Hayman, St. George's; J. W., Bre. Dambra, Kilwinning; G. D., Wor. Bro. Swazie, St. John's, No. 20; J.D., Wor. Bre. John Graham, St. John's, 2094; Treas., V. Wor. Bro. Bridle, Corinthian; Sec., Wor. Bro. E. B. Smith, the Tuscan; Chap., Wor. Bro. Wattam, Corinthian; organist, Wor. Bro. Baker, St. George's. Not only was there a large number of the brethren of the city in attendance, but many brethren came from a distant part of the jurisdiction to do honor to the grand master. Among others in attendance, in addition to those mentioned below, were Right Wor. Bro. Barker, of Toronto; R. Wor. Bro. P. W. D. Broderick and R. B. Hungerford, P.D.D.G.M.s; Very Wor. Bro. M. D. Dawson and Ed. Burke, Right Wer. Bro. Dr. Geo. C. Davis and A. B. Munson, and many others.

Reception of Grand Officers. By request of the D. D. G. M., Most Wor. Bro. D. Spry and R. Wor. Bro. Porte retired and introduced the Grand Lodge officers other than the grand master, who were in attendance. They were: The deputy grand master, R. Wor. Bro. Wm. Gibson, M. P. for Lincoln; R. Wor. Bro. A. E. Cooper, grand senior warden; R. Wor. Bro. J. W. Hodgins, of Seaforth, grand chaplain; and R. Wor. Bro. Thos. Robson, P.D.D.G. M.

The Grand Master Received. R. Wor. Bro. J. S. Dawar and V. Wor. Bro. J. D. Clarke were then requested to retire and introduce the grand master, which they did. He, as well as all the Grand Lodge officers, was received with grand honors.

Wor. Bro. A. B. Greer, chairman of the joint reception committee, then read an address of welcome to the grand master, which was in book form and beautifully It was couched in the following The Address.

"To William R. White, Eq., Q.C., Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada, A., F. and A. M.: "Dear Sir and M. W. Bro.,—The Masonic fraternity of London extend to you a hearty and sincere welcome on this your first visit as grand master. We congratulate you, most worshipful sir, upon your advancement to the highest position n the gift of the craft in this jurisdiction, and we desire to express the belief that your worth and ability fully entitled you to the considence thus reposed in you. "Being a resident of a distant part of the jurisdiction you are not in consequence so well known to your western brethren as many of your illustrious predecessors, but your high character as a citizen and the vidences you have already given of your ability as a wise and judicious ruler of the craft, has firmly established you in our hearts, and we trust your term of office may be a most prospercus one, and we have every confidence that the affairs of the craft will be administered with that same degree of judicial equity and intelligence which has hitherto distinguished your Masonic career.

"la conclusion we tender our sincere thanks for the henor you have conferred upon the craft in Lendon by this visit, and feel sure that it will result in a lasting benefit to Masonry throughout this section of the jurisdiction."

The Grand Master's Reply. M. Wor. Bro. White, who was received with many demonstrations of pleasure, said: "Right worshipful sir and brethren of London,—There are, I suppose, many oc-casions in the life of most grand masters when they find considerable difficulty in fully expressing the feelings of their heart. This is one of those occasions, and it has come early in my official career. I have been for the past two days visiting other portions of the western part of the jurisdiction. I had the pleasure of dedicating a hall at St. Thomas on Monday and of attending a Masonic function-the installation of the officers of Norfolk Lodge, No. 10-yesterday, and any of the brethren who have joined with these brethren in their celebrations will know what that means as far as physical endurance is concerned. (Laughter.) May I say to you and all the brethren of the city of London that it affords me the greatest possible pleasure to make my first official visit to this city under such auspicious circumstances? This is not my first visit to this good city. When I had the honor of being grand senior warden, in 1875, the Grand Lodge of Canada met in London. Then I was elected D. D. G. M. of the Ottawa district, in which I have my home-an honor which I then felt exceedingly proud of. And a little over two years ago I was elected deputy grand master at the meeting in London-a stepping-stone to the position which I tonight occupy. (Applause.) Brethren, you may feel assured that London is pleasantly associated with me as far as Masonic memories are concerned. To the brethren of London and of London district I owe a debt of gratitude, and I have come over 700 miles to, in some measure, repay that debt by attending this gather. ing. It is a subject of personal congratulation to me that I have been advanced to the proud position which I now hold. Worthy or anworthy, no man could more fully recognize and appreciate the confidence, the love and the friendship of the brethren who have placed me there. (Applause.) I trust that I may be so aided and assisted that I may be able during my term of office to show to the brethren that they have not reposed their trust improperly. I come trom the far northeast of the Province of

Why will you allow a cough to lacerate your throat or lungs and run the risk of filling a consumptive's grave, when by the timely use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the pain can be allayed and the danger avoided? This syrup is pleasant to the taste, and unsurpassed for relieving, healing and curing all affections of the throat and I admit, but our hearts are as lungs, coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc.

-The many friends of Mr. D. L. Moody, the distinguished evangelist, will regret to hear that he is not in robust health. He has gone to New York to consult specialists in regard to his heart. His physicians have forbidden him to work longer in northern cities in winter, and he will spend the next month or two in Texas.

-When the Japanese soldiers became intoxicated with the sight of the carnage wrought by them in recent battles, war correspondents report, they acted like fiends. There seems to be something in systematic bloodshedding that forces contending humanity to act worse than beasts

-There seems to be no end to the adaptation of electricity to man's wants. United States Consul Chancellor reports from Havre, France, that during the last five years electrically lit private carriages have been extensively used by the affluent classes in Europe. The Prince of Wales was the first to adopt the idea in London, and the German Emperor has had during the last five years electricity lit private outside lanterns, the interior also being illuminated by means of a series of accumulators carried under the boot, and all over the harness are placed what the German's call gluhlampe, small colored lights which glow like fireflies and conquer the thickest fogs. The accumulator for a carriage is carried in a box only eight inches long by seven high and four wide. It furnishes a good seven and one-half candle power for from one to two months. It costs from 50 cents to $1 to renew the charges. less than the cost of smoky, unreliably and ill-smelling oil lamps. The consul says that in a few years all public conveyances will be thus lighted, as a 50-cent plant is sufficient for each.

TOO MUCH MONEY TAKEN FROM THE PEOPLE IN TRIBUTE.

It is to be regretted that times are so hard in Montreal, Toronto, and other cities in the Dominion as to necessitate the demonstrations of hungry workingmen that have recently been held. According to the testimony laid before the mayor of Montreal by the large crowd of unemployed who assembled at the city hall on Wednesday, those out of work are suffering many privations. No doubt many of them voted for the sustenance of the men in power who are, in part, responsible for the present depression in trade. They did so, we suppose, because they believed the story that the country had but to consent to be taxed highly enough and all would have plenty of work at high wages. The taxes have been collected promptly, the debt of the country has been increased every year, and the money so abstracted from the pockets of the people has been expended in pampering political favorites and in promoting at unwarranted cost unnecessary public works. If the workers are now out of employment, if railway managers, merchants, manufacturers and farmers find it difficult to make ends meet, and are diminishing their help wherever they can do so, let the cause be traced to its proper source. The debt of this country could not be increased from $142,000,000 to $241,000,000 since the men now in pover got control of it, the annual expenditures could not be increased from $24,000,000 to $36,000,000, without someone paying the piper. Who is there to pay, but the workers ? and in that class we include every honest toiler. The time has come when this country must get back to first principles, and the first necessity is to so collect the national taxes that not one cent of the money shall be spent except for the legitimate purposes of economical government. The railways, for example, continue to pay hundreds of theusands of dollars of a tax on coal yearly, and they are unable to and prosper as they would do with free fuel. And so it is with every other line of industry in the country. Hard times come periodically, undoubtedly, but they are aggravated by unfair methods of taxation and corrupt methods of administration, such as have been revealed at Ottawa in Everything was done for our comfort, and weather all that could be desired. We traveled via C. P. R., Wabash and Iron Mountain Railroads (Mr. T. R. Parker, agent). It is certainly the route for winter; we can recommend it. We were equally fortunate with our car of furniture, which came through fully a week sooner than we had any cause to anticipate, arriving some days before we did ourselves, and in excellent shape, virtually without damage. I find quite a little building since I was here last winter, and though they have not yet fully recovered from the recent depression the outlook seems good for the near future. The passage of the bill for the Nicaragua Canal now before Congress, which is expected, would be of very material advantage to the Pacific coast generally, and to San Diego in particular, and coupled with the probable early completion of negotiations for an extensive irrigation scheme and the railway talk, give some ground for the better feeling. At all events, considerable investments are being made on the strength of it. This seems certainly a marvelous climate. I did not any more than reach here than my health began to improve. We are having more rain than last winter, but it is good for the country, and not noticed by an Easterner like a few gentle summer showers over there. In the main it is the bright, beautiful sunshine for which the locality is noted. On Christmas and New Year's Day we were all out without wraps or overcoats, enjoying the flowers and balmy sea breezes. Later I will give you my impressions of the country and the singular things we meet. In the meantime I give a quotation from the authoress and newspaper writer, Kate Sanborn: 'I am fascinated and enthralled by your sun-kissed, roseembowered, semi-tropical land, with its paradoxical antithesis of flowers and flannels, strawberries and sealskin sacques, open fires and open windows, snow-capped mountains and orange blossoms, winter looking down upon summer, a topsy-turvey land, where you dig for wood and climb for coal, where water pipes are laid above ground with no fear of Jack Frost, and your principal rivers flow bottom side up trees are green all the year, and you go and invisible most of the time, where the outdoors in December to bet warm. * * Then the climate—Spell it with capital letters and then try to think of To a tenderfoot from New Hampshire, where we have nine months of winter

SENATOR TASSE DEAD. The Editor of La Minerve-A Painful Iliness.

MONTREAL, Jan. 17.—Senator Tasse died this morning at 5:30, after three months' illness, which he bore with great fortitude. In the last fortnight he has been unconscious most of the time. During his illness he was visited by Sir A. P. Caron, Archbishop Fabre and leading citizens. He was 47 years of age, and leaves a wife and two daughters. For fifteen years he has been the editor of La Minerve, and was an uncompromising Conservative. He formerly represented Ottawa city in the Commons, and succeeded the late Senator Trudel in the Senate. Mr. Tasse was unsuccessful in several elections. He was one of the Canadian commissioners at the World's Fair, and was the author of several books. The funeral will take place on Saturday morning.

MR. LUDWIG, CHAIRMAN

Of the London West School Board-The First Meeting of 1895.

The first meeting of the London West School Board for 1895 was held last night, with all the members present as follows: Messrs. L. V. Ludwig, Frank A. Jones, John Crockett, Charles Paul, Edward Pudney and W. H. Dell. The selection of a chairman was the first duty, and Messrs. Ludwig and Jones were named for the office. Mr. Jones withdrew and Mr. Ludwig, who is the oldest member and assessed the highest, was elected to the office. Trustee Jones was appointed secretary and the committees were struck. They are: Managing, Trustees Dell (chairman), Pudney and Paul; finance, Trustees Crockett (chairman), Ludwig and Jones. Votes of thanks were passed to the retiring officers, time. His physician says he will need and a resolution was passed expressing sympathy with ex-Trustee Houghton in his severe illness, and wishing him speedy and permanent recovery. The attention of the board was called to an application for a position on the teaching staff, presented to has been greatly increased, it being feared the late chairman by Miss Sutherland. It did not come before the board with the other applications, and inquiry into the matter will be made. The report of the finance committee was ordered to be printed and distributed throughout the village. In future the board meetings will be held on the first Wednesday in each month instead of the first Friday.

The Easiest Way to Acquire a New Language.

Berlitz Method to be Again Taught in This City.

An Old Pupil on the Advantages of the System.

It is a matter for public interest and congratulation that London is againand this time it is to be hoped permanently-to receive two visits a week from one of the most successful teachers of the French language in Canada. West of Toronto the name of Professor Eugene Masson may not be quite so well known as it is farther east, for it is in Toronto and Montreal that his labors have been principally extended. From both these cities, as elsewhere, he has received a host of letters of the most enthusiastic and genuine ex-pressions of appreciation from people prominent in society and educational circles. For while he can command respect from the heads of public edu-cational institutions and linguistics, Professor Masson has the good fortune to possess in a rare degree the gift of being able to render his lessons most highly entertaining and amusing, so that the atten-tion of even the thoughtless and frivolous does not wander. Professor Masson teaches after the Berlitz method, and that is equivalent to saying you would have to learn French in spite of yourself, even were you to start out with the determination not to do so! Berlitz method is a "natural method," as entertaining, as agreeable and thorough as the practice of teaching children the elements of geometry with toy blocks in a kindergarten. To avoid the dry instruction in theoretical grammar the subject is presented in the garb of practical and entertaining illustrations, closely connected with object teaching. The student, though in reality studying grammar, does not perceive that he is familiarized with the rules of that dreaded wearisome science, but enjoys the exercises as an attractive and useful conversation. The various methods of teaching languages by translation have never produced practical results of much consequence. The advantages gained by using a natural method are as follows: 1. The difficulties the student encounters in pronouncing foreign words are overcome by constant practice, and his ears become accustomed to the peculiar sounds of the language. 2. The pupil familiarizes himself with new expressions, not by the drudgery of memorizing them, but by continually hearing and repeating them. 3. The teacher's accentuation, gesticulation, modulation of voice and general expression of countenance aid the pupil in grasping a number of words or phrases for which there is often no true equivalent in his native tongue, and this enables him to learn many shades of expression and other niceties seems like enchanted ground. A climate of the language that are otherwise lost. These are some of the many reasons why the method of learning foreign ness in its heart, cool with a latent languages known as the Berlitz sysvivifying warmth peeping out of its coat-tail pocket. June does not define it, nor September. It has no synonym, tem has made such marvelous progress in every part of the civilized world. M. Berlitz has indeed provided a royal for there is nothing like it. I am glad I have lived to see hedges of heliotrope, of geraniums and calla lilies. * * * road to the knowledge of languages other than one's own, and Professor Masson comes to London armed with This may read like gush, but it comes an excellent certificate of his ability granted by the heads of the Berlitz

School of Languages in New York city.
"We can truthfully affirm that we were always satisfied with him," the chiefs of the system say. He also has a strong testimonial from the Ingres-Coutellier School of Languages in this country, in which he was a professor for five years. Special stress is laid upon his popularity with all his pupils and his character as a gentleman. From the principals of the Model School, Toronto, Mr. McIntosh and Miss Scott. come an appreciative letter welcoming Professor Masson back to the work which he carried on there so successfully last year, and the Minister of Education has expressed himself as pleased with Professor Masson's abilities and

With such recommendations as the above, together with the goodwill and entire satisfaction of every pupil with whom he has ever come in contact. those of his old London pupils should experience no difficulty in getting up a class in the city large enough to insure London the presence of this most efficient and popular teacher at least twice a week as long as he remains in Canada. Professor Masson started a very successful class in London last winter, but was compelled by illness to break off his connection for some time. He is now fully recovered, and has been engaged by Mr. Barron, of the Conservatory of Music, for the coming season. Old pupils will be glad to know that, as before, it will be possible to obtain instruction at very low charges by joining classes in which there may be several other members. It is hoped that any who may as yet never have given much thought to this most easy, natural and amusing method of learn ing a new language will be induced by this reminder to seriously resolve to join a class. For the benefit of all such, an old pupil has penned these suggestions.

RISE OF THE READY-MADE.

How Women's Garments Are Following Shoes and Men's Clothes. The rise of the ready-made garment for women, and its popularity, may have been slow, but it certainly has been sure, Ready. made gowns for women-as ready-made suits for men-have come and promise to

A trip through the leading dry goods stores of the city, recently made in quest of a gown that needs must be modish in cut and cloth and yet in price not beyond the limitations of a pocketbook far from being "heaped up, pressed down and running over," revealed more fully than I had ever thought how wise it was to regard the ready-made garments as the salvation of many a woman's neatness and tidy, and even stylish appearance; and how they have often rescued her-just in the nick of time, too-from the awful and much-to-be-dreaded state of shabbiness. When Annie Besant lectured in America not long ago, it so happened the night I went to hear her that among other things she said, in very plain language, too, was that the woman who would buy and wear the garments that were sold in the shops at such low figures, which were only made possible by the women who constructed them being underpaid, was-well, what she thought Madame Annie almost hesitated herself to say. It so happened that to make the very best appearance I could that same evening I had donned a gown regarding the becomingness of which I felt no doubt and whose price caused me no bittter little darts of regret. For I had really gotten it at what I considered quite a "bargain," and it was wholly and altogether pleasing. Madam Besant's remarks, though, caused me to feel something very like a twinge of conscience, I must confess, but I gave the folds of my skirt another and more loving pat as I readjusted them, an though: "Well, women only can help women after all and so long as such garments are made, the more sale found for them the more work for others to do; and though the laborer may be more than worthy the hire she receives, still poor pay is even better than none." Thus reasoning I consoled myself; and the ready-made gowns have proved so satisfactory that to recommend them to the trial of there comes almost involuntarily. The busy woman, no matter how deft her fingers may be in fashioning garments for herself, had better economize in some way or other than bending over seams and ruffles and such like "fixings" when her strength is needed along other lines of work the next day and the day after. Of course, she wants to "look nice."

Cheap, chic and stylish are soul-inspiring and heart-cheering words to the woman in quest of new raiment, and garments answering to all this, and more, abound in the stores at this midwinter season, when the styles are well established, with little change, except in detail and accessories, until spring opens. Among the ready-made garments, be sides the stylish cloth gowns, which the appellation "swell" fittingly describes, are to be found all manner of mysterious combines of muslin and lace, silk and wool, velvet and furs. These things usually have tacked onto them, in some odd corcieties, the other physicians of Winnipeg | ner or other, a mark that hints at foreign origin. But I have been assured that the most of them have never had a sea voyage. And so we, who have a little pet hobby about "home industry" need not hesitate to purchase them on that score, and those who adore French and other importations can easily forget that this little secret has been let out, and can still believe in them, if they feel inclined to, and no one will be any the wiser either.

The winter fashions have known the most exaggerated forms, and appear to have exceeded their limit, for a reaction has set in, and now we discover there is really more beauty and jauntiness in the short jackets than there was in the long, English, Prince Albert style of coated costume worn earlier in the season.

The possibilities of appearing well and appropriately dressed by the woman who is the fortunate possessor of a handsome skirt, and a variety of waists, are limitless. The newest skirts are of enormous width. The fashion of wearing skirts and waists of entirely different material and color is a great boon to women who want variety in costuming.

The ideal ready-made skirt is quite plain, the elaboration being all confined to the waist. The fullness of this skirt is all arranged at the back in godet folds, and such skirts come in all grades of material. The heavy, shaggy or corrugated materials stand highest in favor for ordinary wear. A black crepon is looked upon, however, as indispensable to most wardrobes. The camel's hair weaves are exceptionally pretty.

With the death of Mrs. Bloomer, a few days ago, one was almost tempted to wish would come the last and final talk of the ungraceful style of dress bearing her name. There is no reason in the world, though why women should not be equipped for out-door sports in a garb allowing freedom of movement, and that, too, without any sacrifice of her modesty and with all due regard to her womanliness.

An illustration is given here which I am much inclined to believe will be accepted by women as the ideal garment for wear during all out-of-door sports.

The trousers are zouave in shape, and extend to the ankles. They are finished .: the feet with elastic bands, which adjust them comfortably to the limbs. They can be fastened around the ankle or below the knee, as shown in above cut. The trousers close with buttons, and can be as easily removed as an ordinary skirt. The skirt is skillfully adjusted and permanently fastened to the waistband of the trousers, and opens at the side, on the hip line. This allows the front to unclose and fall about eight inches at the waist when being put on. As a bicycle garment it is of exceptional merit, and when worn on the street the skirt is of very stylish appearance. These garments are the new-est of their kind, and come in cloth of not too heavy weight for comfort, and are sold at $10 and less.—Dorcas Dare.

ORGANIZED IN TEN MINUTES. On one occasion, to recall an illustration of the past, he had convened a great conference in Liverpool. The theme for discussion was a favorite one-"How to reach the masses." One of the speakers, the Rev. Charles Gar-rett, in a powerful speech, expressed his conviction that the chief want of the masses in Liverpool was the institution of cheap houses of refreshment to counteract the saloons. When he had finished, Mr. Moody called upon him to speak for ten minutes more. That ten minutes might almost be said to have been a crisis in the social history of Liverpool. Mr. Moody spent it in whispered conversation with gentlemen on the platform. No sooner was the speaker done than Mr. Moody sprang to his feet and announced that a company had been formed to carry out the objects which Mr. Garrett had advocated; that various gentlemen, whom he named (Mr. Alexander Balfour, Mr. Samuel Smith, M.P., Mr. Lockhart and others), had each taken 1.000 shares of $5 each, and that the subscription list would be open till the end of the meeting. The capital was gathered almost before the adjournment, and a company floated under the name of the "British Workman Company, Limited," which has not only worked a small revolution in Liverpool, but-what was not contemplated or wished for, except as an index of healthy business—paid a handsome dividend to the shareholders. For twenty years this company has gone on increasing, its ramifications are in every quarter of the city; it has returned 10 per cent throughout the whole period, except for one (strike) year, when it returned 7; and, above all, it has been copied by cities and towns innumerable all over Great Britain. To Mr. Garrett, who unconsciously sent the ball a-rolling, the personal conse-quences were as curious as they were unexpected. "You must take charge of this thing," said Mr. Moody to him, "or at least you must keep your eye on it." "That cannot be," was the reply. 'I am a Wesleyan; my three years in Liverpool have expired; I must pass to another circuit." "No," said Mr. Moody, you must stay here." Mr. Garrett assured him it was quite impossible -the Methodist Conference made no exceptions. But Mr. Moody would not be beaten. He got up a petition to the Conference. It was granted—an almost unheard-of thing-and Mr. Garrett remains in his Liverpool church to this day. This last incident proves at least one thing—that Mr. Moody's audacity is at least equaled by his influence.— Prof. Drummond, in McClure's Maga-

A JAPANESE THEATRE.

SKETCH OF TME HENRY IRVING OF THE FLOWERY KINGDOM.

Donjuro, Who Has the Biggest Theatre in the Empire, and His Works-What the Place Looks Like-Talks with Actor and Donjuro, the Japanese actor, is as celebrated as Henry Irving is in England. He is the Edwin Booth of Japan, and he owns the biggest theatre of the Japanese empire. It is known as the Kabukiza theatre, and it will seat 3,000 people. It has a stock company, I venture, as large as that of any theatre in the western world, and its nightly receipts often run into the thousands of dollars.

It takes a big house to seat 3,000 people.

We have only one or two theatres that large in the United States, and we have none like that of Donjuro's. It has no chairs, and the people sit on the floor in little square pens about four feet wide. There is usually a little box of charcoal in the middle of each pen for the lighting of the pipes, and there is no objection to smoking. There is an immense pit and two galleries, and the walls in the summer are open, and it is more like an open-air concert hall than a theatre. The stage is made in the shape of an immense wheel, which is turned by man power at the change of the scenes, and which moves one set of actors behind the scenes, and brings another before you. The supes come on during the play to fix the clothes of the actors. They are dressed in black and you are not supposed to see them. Right DONJURO, THE EDWIN BOOTH OF JAPAN. through one side of the house there is a board walk of the height of the stage, Jackets for $9 and $25 about five f et wide, which forms a part of Jackets for $12 50. Never the stage, and some of the actors will step such valued offered in Lon- off and come down on this walk above the don. These prices are acting is different from ours, but it is wonderfully strong in some respects. ary styles of jackets. Ours There are no better fencers in the world, are the finest makes of im- and these people have a wonderful power ported Jackets. We can of facial expression: The Japanese appreciate good acting. They roar with laughter over the comedies, and a strong piece of tragic acting brings shouts of applause, and the people tear off parts of their clothing and throw them onto the stage, expecting to redeem them with presents of money at the end of the play. There are no ticket offices, and you get your tickets at the tea houses near-by. Ladies bring their fine clothes to the tea houses sometimes and put them on there before they go in, and many order lunches sent in to them and eat during the acting. The plays begin in the morning and last until night. The shoes are all left outside in the hall, and on going in you pass by 3,000 or 4,000 wooden clogs which are marked with checks. The Japanese women go bareheaded.

I attended the theatre in company with S. H. Tokioka, who is connected with the household department of the palace, and with him made a call upon the famous Donjuro. It was between the acts that we made our way down under the stage, and on through wheel after wheel until we came into the dressing-room. In some of these there were actors half naked taking their siestas. In others they were making up for the next act, and we had gone through about twenty, I judge, when we came into a little den looking out on a beautiful garden. It was a room about twelve feet square, and was carpeted with mats. The walls were filled with closets. and swords and different costumes were lying about. In the middle of the room. lying on his elbow on the floor, was a long, thin, sallow-faced man, with as refined features as I have ever seen. He had bright eyes, a very high forehead, large ears, almond eyes and a very long face. His dress was the soul of simplicity. It consisted of a blue cotton kimono, which was open almost to the waist, and was about as near nothing as possible. This was the great actor Donjuro. He rose to his knees as we entered and bowed gracefully in Japanese style. We got down on our knees and bowed our heads to the floor, and then sat on the floor and chatted for a time about Japanese art and acting.

Leaving Donjuro I made a call on Shinzo San, who is one of Donjuro's favorite pupils, and who is, perhaps, the brightest of the younger Japanese comedians. He received us in his dressing-room. He had to go on the stage within a few moments, and he made up for his part while he chat ted. His gown was pulled down to his waist, and he was absolutely naked as to the upper part of his body. He squatted on his knees before a little glass on the floor, painting and patching and turning himself from a modern Japanese gentleman into a bridegroom of the olden time. He had his servants to help him, but he did most of the work himself in the most artistic way, painting his arms and his eyes and his neck, and patching up his head so that he looked like an old Daimio. He finally put on a gorgeous suit of light blue silk and Knight of the One Pantaloon." As he stood there I happened to remark that I wished that I could have a picture of him. Whereupon he replied: "Why don't you take it? There is my camera." I looked, and I saw one of the finest of modern cameras, with tripod and all conveninces. He directed his servant to put it up for us, and Mr. Weldon took the picture while he posed. As the button was pressed the call for the act came, and he left the room for the stage. We took out the plate holder and went back to our seats. It was not a minute after the picture was taken before we reached them, and the house was in roars of laughter. Shinzo was playing one of his great parts, and 3,000 people were doubling themselves up in ecstacy over his acting. FRANK. G. CARPENTER.

COMMERCIAL.

Local Market. Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son

Grain was steady today and no advance occurred in any line but oats. Wheat sales ranged from 9.c to 99c, with the bulk of sales at 95c and 97c. Only thin and smutty samples sold below the 95c point, and it required an extra good quality of white to bring over 97c. Only one load of peas came in; the price paid was 93c; bidding was quite free on it, and would indicate urgent want. Corn was quite steady; one load of old corn sold on private sale at 83c; new brought 8.c to 81c. Beans were scarce and demand light; sales of unpicked at 75c to 80c; 90c and 95c bid on hand picked to come in. Butter and eggs steady, with lower prices for the former, 16c and 17c being paid for pound rolls in basket lots, and other makes selling 2c to 4c lower, according to quality; eggs brought 18c to 20c for strictly new laid. Chickens and turkeys quiet; demand limited; values about the same. Beef and lamb quiet and unchanged. Dressed hogs came in freely and sold at $1.75 to $5 for good lots; extras brought 13c to 15c more. Apples quiet at 50c to 75c per bag. Potatoes quiet and slow at 50c to 75c per bag. Potatoes quiet and slow at 50c to 75c per bag. Potatoes quiet and slow at 50c straw. General quotations: LONDON. Jan. 17.

-City Engineer Graydon has written to the chief of police asking him to see that the law in relation to snow and ice on city sidewalks is better enforced. Parts of Dundas and Richmond streets were, he said, in a very dangerous condition. He drew attention to the fact that ashes and sand should be spread on the ice and not sawdust, as the latter was worse than useless as a preventive of slipping.

A Victim of the Fire. The remains of the late Mrs. Frances H. Hill, formerly of this city, who perished in the burning of the Delavan House, Albany, N. Y., on Dec. 30, have been forwarded to this city for interment. The funeral will take place tomorrow, from the residence of James H. Fleck, Q.C., 438 Adelaide street, at 3 o'clock p.m. Service

Hazel Cummings Arrested.

Detectives Rider and Nickle arrested a young girl named Hazel Cummings this morning. Hazel is charged with stealing a suit of gray cloth and a storm collar from Mrs. Betts, a Brantford woman. The girl had the clothes on when taken to the station. She was in a talkative mood and gave vent to dire threats of vengeance on Mrs. Betts, if it should take a year to get back at her. "Why, I left better clothes than those I took," said Hazel, with the addition of severa! unnecessary and uncomplimentary adjectives. Miss Cummings is a former London girl and was seven weeks in Brantford, returning here last Friday. As the information was laid against the girl in a county court she was handed over to Constable Ward to be tried by Equire Lacey.

A Londoner in Trouble. Henry C. Mowrey and Chas. Parker (the letter a former Londoner), have been arrested in Chicago on the charge of swindling E. L. Paul & Co., real estate agents, of that city. Mr. Paul also comes from this city. Parker began to work for Paul in 1889, seiling real estate on commission. He was enterprising and energetic and earned a good salary. When business was dull he was allowed to draw money against unearned commission at the rate of $125 a month. Paul became sick and left the office for several months in charge of Mowrey and Parker. When he returned there was an alleged discrepancy of $4,200, and in addition to this the two men are alleged to have overdrawn their accounts $3,200. Paul estibeing discharged by Paul they opened up a real estate office on their own account.

Paying Death Claims. The affairs of the defunct Masonic Mutual Benefit Association are nearing the winding-up stage. Col. Shanly, master-in-chancery, has presented an interim report dealing with general creditors' claims and death claims in class "A." The majority of the former were allowed, and in the latter class the claims allowed amount to nearly $10,000. Argument has been heard on the class "B" death claims, and a decision will be presented shortly. They amount to about $8,000. Besides these there are between 1,100 and 1,200 membership claims to dispose of. They come last on the list, and any money remaining on hand when they come up for settlement will be divided pro rata.

No Resolution Was Passed by the Askin Street Board

Cordemning the Action of the Lady Workers of the Church.

Following up the course adopted after Mr. Jones' deleat and the endeavor made then to excite a spirit of strife among the members of the Askin Street Church of different political opinions, the Free Press this morning stated that at the meeting of the trustee board on Monday night a resolution was passed with reference to the use of the class rooms by lady workers in the mayoralty contest. In the article it was said that "a resolution, virtually admitting the charges made in the Free Press exposure, was adopted. The resolution declared that in future the rooms should not be used at elections upon any pretext whatever." Mr. J. A. Childs, who is secretary of the trustee board of the church and who therefore knows whereof he speaks, was asked if the paragraph was correct.

"It is not correct," replied Mr. Childs.
"If any resolution had been carried would you have knewn of it?"

Press charges worthy of taking any notice of. The members regretted that an attempt had been made by the Free Press to introduce politics into church matters, and thought the least said was the sconest mended. And so the matter dropped." Another member of the board, speaking on the subject said: "It was found that the ladies secured the permission of the members of the trust board of both political parties. It was known what the rooms were required for when the permission was granted, and at the meeting last night it was agreed that the rooms could be used for the same purpose again should mutual consent be gained in the same manner. However, the matter had better drop. The Free Press is bothering itself much more over the matter than the entire board."

VICTIMS OF THE KURDS.

Some Recent Atroctics to Which Ar menians Eave Been Subject-Terrible Persecution of Christians.

The New York Independent recently published an article upon the treatment of the Armenian, Jacobite, and Nestorian Christians at the hands of the Kurds and the Turkish Government, the statements in which, it says, are drawn from trustworthy sources and can be relied upon as being correct. The list of outrages cited includes pillage, murder, the extortion of taxes, and the petty exactions of officials, and instances are given of communities that have been wiped out of existence by their oppressors. In the case of the village of Mansurich, already impoverished by previous extortions, the tax gatherers swooped down upon the people last summer and demanded a big amount of suppositious back taxes. The villagers mortgaged their fields to their full value, and that not making the amount, they gave up in despair, and deserting the village fled to the mountains. They were coaxed back after awhile by fair promises, but no sooner had they returned than the old methods were resumed. Many other villages were treated in the same fashion, and in those viliages farther back in the mountains the custom of selling the people as slaves is a common one. Christians who complain to the authorities not only get no redress, but are quite sure of being murdered by the Kurds when they hear of the complaint. Some villages have been raided so often that the men are compelled to send their women and children away and leave their fields uncultivated. Any number of instances of the murder of Christians are given, and in no case has punishment been meeted out to the offender. An old missionary who is familiar with the region says the oppressions are steadily increasing, and that it is only a matter of time when all the villages will fall into the hands of the Kurds. It is not the great raids that are the most serious to the Christians; it is the daily exactions and oppressions that are crushing the life out of them. The system of unjust and corrupt assessments, the injustice and severity of collectors, and the farming out of the taxes to powerful Kurdish chiefs, and the constant "private" assessments of the chiefs are the most harmful. As an example of another kind of treatment at the hands of the Sultan, the story of the massacre of the Yezidis is told. The Yezidis are a remnant of a heathen sect that has never been converted to the Moslem faith. Their holy city is not far from the city of Mosul. In 1892 an officer called Farik Pasha was sent to Mosul with absolute power to correct certain abuses in the government, collect back taxes, and to convert the Yezidis. For each conversion he was to get a certain sum. As his priests did not succeed in converting the Yezidis at once be gave them the choice of the Koran cr the sword. They chose the latter, and his soldiers put every one to the sword that would not accept the faith. Three villages were burned, the women and girls carried off to harems, and all sorts of atrocities were committed. A remnant escaped to the mountains and successfully defended themselves until the spring of 1893, when the Government troops dislodged them. Those that remained in the villages had Moslem priests set over them to instruct them in the faith. They were compelled to attend prayers and were nominally Mohammedans, but in secret they practiced their own rights and declared themselves Yezidis.

SPORTING NEWS. KLOTSCHIESSEN. WHAT IS IT?

Under the title of "A Game We Might Play," the Marquis of Lorne, in "Good Words," puts in a plea for an open-air winter pastime in the low countries of northern Europe which has for centuries enjoyed a sort of national reputation. It is a rough sort of golf played without clubs or holes, is inexpensive, and can be played mates his loss through their work at $11,000. Parker is a married man. After being discharged by Paul they could be one side. The article contains a very picturesque description of a match between wo villages in Friesland, at which the writer was present, and contains a striking impression of the popularity of the game and of the spirited emulation which it awakens. It is pointed out that in England there are many districts-especially in the east of the island-which are peculiarly well adapted to the game, there being in these parts much flat land where winter makes the ground hard. Wherever these conditions exist, there, we are told, the "Klotschiessen" or "Clotshot" game can be played with advantage.-[London Daily News. HOCKEY. DID YOU EVER PLAY?

Hockey is the most popular winter sport in Canada, taking the place of lacrosse. Lightning speed and a level head are the two principal qualities required by successul exponents of this popular game. Each team is composed of seven players, namely: goal-keeper, point, cover-point, and four forwards. Each player is armed with a stick about four feet long, bent at the end. The puck is about the size of a box of blacking, made of rubber. The sport is not unlike the old-fashioned game of "shinney." To start the game the puck is placed in the center of the rink, the two center men draw up on either side, the rubber is placed between their sticks, the latter are raised and tapped together lightly three times. On the last tap the puck is started, the man getting it first having the advantage. The forwards immediately close in and the rubber flys from player to player with the speed of lightning. An exciting struggle ensues to put the puck through the goal. The play is hot and fierce, all fourteen players working like trojans. Shot after shot is poured in, but the goal-keepers prove varitable stone walls and stop lightning shots. Cracks like pistol shots are heard continually as the sticks come in contact—the checking is heavy. Only the most expert skaters can stand the shocks, and some players spend a good deal of the time on the ice.

At last the puck is carried down the rink by some brilliant team play or a splendid run is made by some individual, a magnifi-cent shot is made, the umpire's hand goes arop, as there were nothing in the Free pent-up enthusiasm of the spectators gives way and a mighty cheer goes up; men shout, and even the fairer sex manifest their delight by the waving of handkerchiefs and clapping their dainty hands.

"Oh, but what a cozy room!" He had halted just inside the door and was looking "Does it look so? I tried as much as I could to make it like my old home. A few friends bought in some of the furniture for me, and when I was really settled it was sent up. Lodging house rooms are so very dreary."

His answer was a half-stifled sigh. In that moment he had compared the black horse-hair covered chairs and sofa of Miss Bates' drawing-room-the rigid back of each one protected by a wool antim-cassar—with the homely snugness which reigned here.

"As you see," she said, pointing to the table, "I was just making myself a cup of tea. Now won't you sit down and join me? That would be showing yourself neighborly."

"I think I have had my tea."

"Weil, I know my landlady brought it to me, because it was then she spoke of having seen the doctor here, and I at once jumped at the conclusion that you were ill, because for a week past I have never caught sight of you at the window."

'And I have never seen you." "No; we don't see unless we look."

"But I have looked." "Not from where you usually stand, or I must have seen you. I began to feel a little huffy. I thought, 'She never fancies I mean to presume on that little chat we had to-

"Why, of course not. How could I? I was only afraid I might have let my tongue run too quickly."
"Come, come!" he said, smiling. "It has taken us ten years to break the ice. It must not take us ten more before we thaw While he spoke his eyes were following her-watching her measure out the tea, pour the water from the kettle. He did not offer to help her; the sight of a woman doing these trifling acts brought to him a pleasurable sense of home.

"You are looking very tired," he said as she sat down waiting for the tea to draw. "That is partly because I was up allnight, and then during the day I have felt rather anxious about being awayfrom the office." "Oh, don't worry about that. They'll get on all right without you."

"Yes, I know they will; but I don't want them to find that out. There are so many women wanting employment, and some know French and German, which I don't and others have a home with their parents, and could take a smaller salary. Oh, it does not do to stop away! When I found that poor thing lying helpless on the mat I thought—supposing this was my case, what would become of me? It isn't death I fear sooner or later that comes to all-but old age, sickness, sends a shiver through me."

"Then you have nothing put by?"
"A few pounds only. How could I? I get 30 shillings a week. That is not quite £80

"And you manage to live here on that?"
"I pay my way. Why? Does that sound to you very little?"
"Very little."

"I suppose they do pay men better, and it's well they do, for you want more than we do, and you are not able to manage as well." "I am in a fire-insurance society," he said.

'The salaries there vary from one to three hundred. When I had £100 it did not matter to me. My mother was living then, and in addition to a pension, she had a little put away, which at her death came to me." "I am glad you need not be troubled with my anxiety."

"No, and yet I have as great a dread of sickness and of old age. Each year I live the sense of my loneliness more oppresses

"I know. Why, I can't tell you the pleasure it gives me to have somebody drinking tea with me, to be able to speak of things we feel—things that give one sorrow or joy. The men at the office are all good fellows, and very kind to me, but I should never dream of talking to them as I have to you. They would not understand! I might as well speak in Chinese!"

He did not answer in words, but he gave her a nod of sympathy, and stooped down to stroke the cat.

"Now, Totty, get up and be friendly to Mr.—" She stopped.
"That reminds me," he said, "we have not exchanged names, yet. My name is Robert Morley.

"And mine is Elizabeth Davidson."
"Elizabeth!" he repeated softly. "My mother was called Elizabeth." "And my father Robert. Robert is a very dear name to me. He had such a sweet, generous nature. When I think of his trust I feel ashamed of my despondency. Not that I am despondent long. My disposition is buoyant. I am very much like a cork—if I go under water one minute, the next, up I bob again." "You always struck me] as being very cheerful." "What! Did I seem cheerful from over the way? Dear me! How little the tiniest bit of interest in me. I am so glad 1 know now—so glad that we have spoken to each other, and that we are friends."

He had risen from his chair and seemed suddenly about to go. She, a little em-barrassed that he had not responded, added, 'At least that is my feeling towards you." "Is it?" he said, stiffiy. "I forgot it was so late: I really must go. Good-bye.
And before she had recovered from her surprise he was gone.

A wave of hot color went over her. What did it mean? What did he think? Surely. at her age no one could misunderstand her? The tears sprang to her eyes and fell in a quiet shower. The door being opened made her look up. It was he back again.

"When I got into the street I found I had left my hat behind," he was saying; and she making an effort at regaining her self-possession, answered. "Oh, what a pity! Did you? Where?"

This brought him into the room, and near o her. "Why are you crying?" he ex-"I? No, no," and she forced herself to

"But you are. Your face is wet; your eyes are full of tears. What is the matter? Have I offended you?" "No, but I thought that perhaps I had offended you—you seemed to go so suddenly; but please take no notice. Woman's tears come very readily. It must be feeling so tired that makes me so silly." He stood for a moment irresolute, turned towards the door, came back, and standing in front of her said, "Silly! If you think yourself silly, what will you say of me? You were surprised to see me go. It was because I feared you would think I had taken leave of my senses if I stayed." "Why? Because all at once the truth flashed upon me. Suddenly, I knew why I had felt so angry because I had not seen you at your window: why I was so anxious when I thought you were ill: what made me come over to find out the truth about you; the reason that seeing you were here made me rejetce and feel happy. It is that I kee you. Oh, it has not come now, for years it has been growing upon me, only I did not know it. And now it has come to this, Will you marry me? I must know."

"But I feel sure you are making a mistake. I have been talking to you, and you feel sorry for me. No, no; forget what you have said. In the morning everything will look different to you. Pity is not love.

"But it is akin to it. If I give you love contains a said to be said."

can you not give me pity?"
"I pity you! Why, you have brought all the sunlight I have known for years to me. When you spoke to me on that omnibus I could have hugged you."

"Hug me now," he said—for the temerity of quiet men is remarkable—and he took her hands and placed them on his shoulders, and looking at her, continued, "We are two very lonely beings: a kindly providence, as it seems to me, has brought us together. Can you trust yourself to me? I would strive to make you happy."

The tried to speak, tried to force back her tears, but the happy flow would come. "It is because I am so happy," she said, "for I must tell you that often and often, years ago, when I felt so solitary, I have aside my blind and looked over at your window, and pictured you sitting there alone, I have said, Why couldn't it be that we took a fancy to each other? he looks so nice and kind, but if he married it would be to a young girl; not to me.'
"But you are young."

"I-I am 38.

"And I am 45. We have no time to lose, you see. Already we have wasted ten years. I shall put up the banns immediately. You must give notice that you are going to leave at your office. and I will tell them at mine that I want my holiday."

"It must be a dream," and she put up her hands add pushed back her hair. "It cannot be reality. Of late have feit quite frightened thinking how sad it would be if you wer haway."
"A similar dread has haunted me especially to-day, when I saw the blind down. But now we shall leave together and we will go down to Putney. Tue old house I lived in from a boy is there, and it is vacant toe, and we will make it our home, and, as before, the dear name of its mistress will be Elizabeth Morley."

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the East Middlesex Agricultural Society.

The annual meeting of the East Middlesex Agricultural Society was held yesterday afternoon in the interim sessions room. The attendance was large and the room was crowded to the doors.

The statement was audited and found Mr. A. R. Rowat, secretary, presented the annual report in which it was stated that during the past year there had been many things discouraging to the farmer. Continued heavy rains in May and June flooded the low and level land, then followed nearly three months drought and a grasshopper pest, tending to shorten the spring crops. Fall wheat was, on the whole, very good. Plentiful warm fall rains and very little frost gave a great growth to the fall grass and root crops, and the so far mild winter had been a great saving of winter fodder. The greatest drawback was the very low price of grain, live stock and meats of all kinds. Cheese was about the only thing that held its own price, while pork had been very disappointing. With reference to the Western Fair, it wassaid that the exhibit of live stock in 1894 had exceeded that of 1893 in number, and Fair. There was room for improvement in the agricultural hall. The report continued to criticise the various exhibits. It had been said by many that the Western Fair was not as good as it used to be. But in taking a survey of the whole there was very little difference from days gone by. There was one thing they took pleasure in saying, that there was no finer grounds in the Dominion of Canada for fair purposes than Queen's Park. (Applause.) The election of officers was then proceeded with and resulted as follows: President-John Kennedy. First Vice-President-Charles Trebil-

The annual meeting of the West Middle-sex Agricultural Society was held here to-day. The annual report showed a very prosperous year. The Fall Show had been a great success, and entries away ahead of any previous year. In three years over an bove all ordinary expenditure $1,020 had been expended on permanent improvements and nearly $1,000 applied to the reduction of the debt. The union of the Lobe and Adelaide Agricu tural and Strathroy Horticultural Societies had been found very advantageous, and had contributed much to the success achieved.

A Pretty Face.

The important item in the cultivation of facial beauty is the rendering of the blood periectly pure. In fact, on the condition of the blood rests the difference between a homely and a comely countenance. There is no more effective way of bringing the blood into a rich, pure and healthful condition than by the continued use of Eseljuy's Liver Lozenges. They can be got at any drug store at 25 cents a box, or five boxes for $1.

Woman's Morning Music Club. Following is the programme of the thirteenth concert of the Woman's Musical Club, held yesterday:

Anglican Lay Workers. A branch association of Anglican lay workers was formed in this city on Tuesday evening. Dean Innes, president of the Anglican Cierical Association of the city, occupied the chair, and most of the Anglican clergy were also present. There was a large and representative meeting of laymen from the several congregations, and after considerable discussion a constitution was adopted, provisionally, on the basis of the Huron Anglican Lay Workers' Association, of which this is a branch. The objects of the association were declared to be Christian fellowship and the active participation of the laity in the spiritual and temporal work of the church. The election of officers for the current year resulted as follows: Honorary president, for the next 24 hours for the lower lakes region (covering the peninsula and as far the front benches were filled with "inthe officers and one representative from each congregation. The clergy of the city were constituted honorary members of the association. Regular meetings are appointed to be held on the second Tuesday in each month. New Business Firm.

Messrs. Lew Leonard and J. L. Johnson, formerly travelers for Jas. A. Skinner & Co., Toronto, have entered into partner-ship as Leonard, Johnson & Co., and intend to carry on a wholesale business only at 73 Dundas street, this city, in glassware, lamps, chimneys and fancy goods. Mr. J. L. Johnson visited the eastern markets and placed their orders with some of the largest glass factories in the United States for cash, thus enabling them to buy goods at very close prices. This firm will enter business with the object of not being undersold by any firm, as all expenses will be small. Mr. Lew Leonard has been for years in the crockery business and thoroughly understands it, as also does Mr.
