DISCUSSED SPEAKER.

There was a long discussion of the action of Speaker Sproule in taking the chair while the House was sitting in committee, and ordering Acting Chairman Robidoux to close the debate. Yesterday Speaker Sproule refused to allow his action to be discussed on motion by Mr. Emmerson to adjourn. It was decided that the liberty of Parliament for the future required the discussion of this matter, and it was decided that it must be discussed in some way. parently knit again the broken bond MAY CENSURE SPROULE.

It can be discused on a resolution censuring the Speaker. There is a disinclination to make such a motion, but if opportunity is not given in any other way to discuss the disregarding of the ance on Friday evening James M. Minrules, the vote of censure will be moved.

The caucus also came to the conclusion that in view of what occurred Saturday night, it will be necessary hereafter for them to be always vigilant and watchful of the Speaker, and of the Government's interpretation of Parliament's rules.

As to future action respecting supply, the naval bill and other business, it was decided to take the course allowed by the Government, and to take such measures as circumstances direct should be taken.

The caucus was absolutely unanimous.

Tear It Down, Many Say. But the impression is general that un-ess the Springbank dam is to be used to generate power-rivermen assert that 1,000 horse-power goes down the river every day in the year-it should be taken down and the city saved the expense of constructing a breakwater. The removal of the dam would bring the water down several feet, and in flood time the highest water would be much lower than the West London level.

The Dredging Proposal.

Those who advocated the dredging of the river as a means of lessening the danger of floods, state that they still believe this to be the best scheme. They assert that they have all along agreed that more flood gates would have to be placed in the Springbank dam, and that with this provision made there would be a great difference effected in the height of the water.

Head of Gang That Has Been Terrorizing New York Confesses. [Canadian Press.]

New York, March 18. - Joseph Taylor, the dapper, cane-twirling young man, who coolly confessed to the police last night that he was the leader of the band of taxicab bandits that not up to the Ontario Government to has been terrorizing the city for the last few months, was expected by the police today to make revelations which would lead to further arrests. Besides Taylor, ten men are held today as the result of the work of detectives, who have been trying to run down the perpetrators of some of the boldest street obberies in the present generation of police. Taylor gives the names of some of his allged confederates, but with one exception refused to implicate them further.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty said today that he was confident that Taylor would tell more said today that he was and added that he believed his con-Toronto, March 10 .- This, the second brushed aside in favor of a party fession would spur the others in custody to confess also. Spring May Be Late, But This Is Easter Week

THE weather is frivolous, and it is problematical just what notion it will take between now and Easter—the best we can do is to be prepared, and considering the early date, our Easter display was never more complete.

> An acknowledged authority on woman's dress has declared that this will be a frivolous season; and it is true that everything is gay, piquant in tone and draped, but above all it is a season of richness in fabric and color. The new things we are unpacking every day are examples of this, and the piles of empty cases suggest how thoroughly we are equipped to meet every imaginable Easter need.

Women's New Easter Fashions in Tailored Suits, $13.50 to $50.00

E ARE in full readiness for Easter and spring wear, and are particularly proud of our Women's Suits at from $12.50 to $25.00 so, as they are attracting much attention. No sooner out of the boxes until they are picked up. They are so different from the ordinary tailored suit, as they have touches that distinguish to-order suits selling at double and triple the price. The makers have taken their cue from Paris, and have reproduced the choicest conceptions from the best designers, and skilfully worked them into these tailor-mades of the finest imported materials. Women who have already seen these suits say that they are the best they have ever seen for the money. See special Easter Suits...... $13.50 to $25.00

Your Easter Hat

UNDREDS of Spring Hats are trimmed ready for Easter, fresh from our own workroom. A constant changing variety. Each day brings something new to replace those that troop out—and trooping is the word, for never were Women's Hats so easily sold as this season. Each day adds variety. Not an endless repetition of styles.

Simplicity Is the Keynote

And the charm of the Hats this season. But it is the art in giving it that touch which is more difficult in simple styles than with hats heavily burdened with

Our famous Trimmed Hats at $6.00, $8.00 and $10.00, present an unequalled display. Unequalled in style, variety and quality. All made and trimmed in our own workroom, and only materials of excellent quality used. See special Easter showing at, each...$6.00, $8.00 to $12.00

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 19

AN APOSTLE TO AFRICA.

One hundred years ago today, in ar humble cottar's home in the little village of Blantyre, in the lowlands of Scotland, David Livingstone was born, Not much might be expected of a life beginning in poverty like this. But it was the cot of one of the best type of the Scottish peasantry; and though it comprised but a single room, in it were thrift, and industry, and perseverance, and piety.

At the age of ten years David went to work in a cotton mill, and with his first earnings he bought a Latin grammar. From six in the morning till eight at night his work was in the mill: then followed two to four hours at night-school and at his studies. So passed his youth; and from the labor of his hands he secured enough to take him to the neighboring university at Glasgow. There was no royal road to learning for him-no express train carried him through school and college. It was the work of years, of zuelos, the present prime minister, hard work and hard study. No pleasure parties, no dissipation of time, or health, or money. The life of a poor Secttish student was his, till at last that he just lived to see his country

For he had long planned his life work. But it was to be neither that death at the scene of a dazzling of a country doctor nor a college pro- triumph of Greek arms, the city of flunkeys who fawned upon Charles the fessor. A deeply pious youth, with a Saloniki, the goal of national hopes Second. firm belief in the verities of the long deferred. Christian religion, and with a love of humanity that reached beyond kindred and country, the welfare of the heathen in distant lands had been resting as a burden on his soul. And his medical training had been with a view to fitting himself for the mission field. "God's only son," he said, "was a missionary and a physician: a poor, poor imitation of Him I am, or wish to be." In London he met Robert Moffat, a missionary to Africa, and this turned his thoughts to the Dark Continent, press that the Liberals intend to give the first line of the famous song, "The with the result that in 1840 he was up the fight against the naval bill. sent by the London Missionary So- Readers of the Conservative press ciety to labor among the negroes of must be weary of this iteration, of served with the society; then returning to England he published his first book of missionary travels, the pro-

Thenceforward he was missionary, explorer, pioneer of civilization, all the continent; up rivers; through forests; over deserts and lakes; preaching the gospel, healing the sick, instructing the ignorant, and letting the light into the hitherto unknown land. For three years he was lost to the world, until the enterprise of a newspaper enabled Stanley to find him. Then another year of wandering; his body was worn with suffering and privation, and on the morning of May 1, 1873, he passed to his final rest.

Some months before his death, the church society sent a party of six and converted, with instructions to bring Livingstone back to civilization, alive or dead. But he was dying when they reached him. They guarded his hut with anxious eyes; they saw him move from his bed to the floor and kneel in prayer; they went to his help. but he was dead, with a prayer on his lips, a prayer, no doubt, for the people for whom he had lived.

His body was roughly embalmed in salt, packed in the hollow trunk of a tree, and carried on their shoulders a thousand miles to the sea. And so he came back to England; and among the heroes and statesmen and poets of the mother land he lies in Westminster Abbey. But not all of him is there. For his heart lies buried in the African jungle near where he died. Fit resting place for that great heart. Where a man's treasure is, there should his water on? heart be also.

Many volumes contain Livingstone's contributions to our knowledge of Africa, and the record of his travels. But no books have yet been written, or can be written, that will tell the full story of his life work, or give a right estimate of his influence for lasting good. For ages Africa has groaned under two great burdens of sin and shame, the ignorance and brutality of Kendal, Westmorland, England. The up as a market gardener on his own the native within, and the avarice and Unionist candidate, Col. Weston, is brutality of the slave-dealer from running as a free trader and an adwithout. And Livingstone spent his vocate of compulsory military trainlife trying to lift those burdens, and ing. THE OTTAWA FIGHT.

Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier spent a quarter of an hour together on Tuesday. The interview was sought by the Premier, who went to Sir Wilfrid's office. Few can know what passed between them, but a verylarge and ingenious structure of inference has been built upon the incident, and we are informed for the 'steenth time by the Conservative

Mr. Borden could break the Liberal blockade by frankly declaring that he would proceed, after the bill was passceeds of which he devoted to his ed, with the organization of a Canadian naval service, on the lines of the parliamentary resolution of 1909, and of his own speeches in that year. If through what is now Rhodesia; across he would make this concession to his own convictions expressed less than four years ago, and to the national spirit and self-respect of the country, he would afford ground for a compromise which the Liberal party could not very well refuse to occupy. Some of Mr. Borden's lieutenants still flirt with the Canadian navy principle, but Mr. Borden himself has banged, bolted and barred the door against it. That is why the Liberals are fighting. If Mr. Borden will not reopen the door, they will try to break it in, or at least give the people the opportunity to negroes, slaves who had been liberated force it. The people gave Mr. Borden no mandate to close it.

> Tight money is usually the sequel of speculative spree.

This naval issue is a battle of Can-

THE NELSONS AND TRAFALGAR.

The death of Earl Nelson reminds a correspondent who knew the family the word Trafalgar is still a matter of controversy. Lord Nelson himself, the members of his family, and the people in the countryside, have always been accustomed to speak of Trafalgar House, with the accent very marked on the last syllable of the word. Whether they would do the same in asking their way to Trafalgar Square is questionable. The truth probably is that Death of Nelson," settled the matter once and for all for the majority of accent on the last syllable, in his There are none of England's daughters "Nobly, Nobly, Cape St. Vincent," who can show a prouder that made no difference. Nelson, written by John Braham, was in the book of an opera called "The American," produced at the Lyceum in 1811. Braham had thus some twenty years' start of the designers of Trafalgar Square, and had already influenced people in this little matter of pronunciation.

A Criticism of Mrs. Browning [By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

Possibly it is because the feminist movement is assuming such amazing proportions that Henry Frowde (London and Toronto), has just included the poems of Elizabeth Barrett Browning in his tastefully-bound series of world's classics. So that for a mere shilling the modern woman who glories in the intellectual triumphs of her sex can procure most of the poems of the greatest female Grecian of the nineeenth century. George Eliot and Mrs. Browning were paragons of learning: Romola" was produced after its learned author had read fifteen thousand books and, it is said, that the author of "Aurora Leigh" was qualified to fill any Greek chair in Europe. It is certain that Mrs. Browning was more deeply versed in the classics, even if George Eliot could have downed her in philosophy. Whether it is a greater feat to march through Kant than to sport with Sophocles, I cannot Referring to the middle classes, if say; that is a question for the classics man to fight out with the professor of philosophy. But let us be properly impressed with the mental power of mons; in intellectual achievement Mrs. Pankhurst and Mrs. Despard are mere babes to these elder sisters. Mrs. Browning was even so terribly learned that she introduced quotations from the Greek dramatists in her love letters. I do not seriously demur when she pays her respects to the Greeks in her poems, but surely it was going too far to worry her Robert with Greek phrases when she should have been making hectic protestations after the "And fashion of unlearned lovers! * * *

Nevertheless, Mrs. Browning, and George Eliot, too, was of the oldfashioned sentimental Victorian type of woman. In spite of her great learning, in spite of such poems as "A Vision of Poets' and "Wine of Cyprus," which are saturated in the classics, Mrs. Browning is a sentimental poetess. Where, in all the range of English verse, can we find a more emotional poem than "Lady in Wiltshire that the pronunciation of Geraldine's Courtship"? The hand of Lady Geraldine of Wycombe Hall was eagerly sought by belted earls. Why? Because she was an heiress:

She has halls among the woodlands, she has castles by the breakers, She has farms and she has manors, she can threaten and command, And the palpitating engines snort in steam across her acres.

As they mark upon the blasted heaven the measure of the land.

ence: Upon princely suitors praying, she has looked in her disdain. She was sprung of English nobles, I was born of English peasants; What was "I" that I should love her -save for competence to pain?

The "I" in the second stanza was a poet, poor and proud, but gifted with a sublime daring. For he actually told the white-armed, haughty, icyeyed Geraldine that he loved her. Bertram was the poet's name and it took fifty long stanzas for Mrs. Browning to enable him to propose to the heiress. Geraldine answered him in words that turned "grimly gray the hairs of youth." True to the literary instinct, however, he crept into the house and proceeded to write the story of the refusal to a friend. imagine how Victorian ladies wept in sympathy as they read this

Bertram finished the last pages, while along the silence ever Still in hot and heavy splashes, fell the tears on every leaf:

Having ended he leans backward in his chair, with lips that quiver From the deep, unspoken, aye, and deep, unwritten thoughts of grief.

But when the clammy poet lifted up his streaming eyes, he was surprised to see that Geraldine had come back She had gone away to change her dress, and now she came to tell him that she had only been fooling him, and he was a winner after all. Of course, she wept as she said thiswept there copiously, for "the tears ran ever lightly from her eyes and tenderly." When Bertram saw the moonlight shining through her tears, he began to wipe his eyes, and when he saw "the silver tears run faster down the blushing of her cheeks," he cheered up still more, and then fell on his knees before her and heard her sweely tell him that he was the only man for her. Oh, it is all very touching, but it makes difficult reading for a prosaic man in these days of the acid brigade and the hunger strikes. Browning's rhetoric seems strangely antiquated and her tearful

TREASON! [Ottawa Citizen, Conservative.]

'For instance, a farmer might reuire a farm implement. Inquiring he price from the merchant, he would learn that it would cost him $150. He does not realize that possibly $30 of the price has been added because of customs duty. He pays up and looks pleasant. Yet the very same implement, made in Canada, is likely being sold in England for $120. The extra dollars go to swell the bounding customs revenue, of which the press notice boasts.

"Of course, if the farm implement or manufactured in Canada the customs epartment does not get that particuar thirty dollars. The farmer pays the extra just the same, but it goes into the coffers of the manufacturer; because the customs duty protects the nanufacturer from outside competitors and allows him to charge the consumer

Many people who do not care for boiled eggs are very fond of them cooked in fat. Eggs cooked in fats are not as digestible as those cooked in water.

TORONTO EVENING PAPERS PRAISE LONDON PLAYERS ANOTHER CHALLENGE

Toronto News Says That With Strict Referee London Would Have Won Easily-Star and Telegram Give Much Credit to London Team.

C. H. Good, in Toronto News: London, though beaten by Collingwood in the intermediate final last night, deserve fully as much credit as the winners. There was no disgrace attached to the defeat. With a stricter official, there is no doubt but that the Forest City outfit would have won. Equip. Davidson let the players won. Beulah Davidson let the players run loose, and the champions took full advantage of his laxness. They bumped, cross-checked and tripped their lighter run loose, and the champions took full advantage of his laxness. They bumped, cross-checked and tripped their lighter opponents all the way, and though the London team was not at all backward in returning the compliment, they played much cleaner hockey on the whole. Fryer, who was perhaps the most brilliant player on the ice, was also the roughest, and some of the "stuff" that he "pulled off" should have earned him liant player on the fee, was also roughest, and some of the "stuff" that he "pulled off" should have earned him banishment for the game. London's combination proved their undoing. They passed when they should have shot, and vice versa. On three occasions in the last half they threw away goals when completely inside the defence. The teams, however, are very evenly matched, as is attested by the fact that in the three games played only one goal separated the winners from the losers. Collingwood won at home, 6 to 5, and lost at London, 3 to 2. Last night they won again by one goal. W. Hewitt, in Toronto Star: It was "catch-as-catch-can" and "go-as-you-please" hockey all the way, but the better team unquestionably won. Collingwood had the strength and weight, an edge in the speed, but a wide margin in the forwards gave Wardrope a busy night. London passed a little too much, and many good chances for shots were wasted. In addition to this, the Collingwood men were on them like a flash and intercepted many a pass.

The northern lads had about two-thirds of the play in the first half, but London came back in the second half and had the better of things, although they could not score—the Collingwood defence was too much for them. Drohan is not back at the head of the Peterboro team. Dave had a runin with the club owners last fall as a result of a contract he had with the club. Dave was to get a share o any money received by the club if any players were sold and when Trout was drafted by Toronto he claimed that he was entitled to some of the draft money. The Peterboro club said no, and Dave walked out.

Frank Shaughnessy says St. Thomas made a ten strike in landing George Ort, the former Pacific Coast leaguer, as manager of the Railroaders. Ort is not only a swell hitter but a crackerjack utility man. He played second for Portland in 1910 and worked in the outfield as well. He was a team-mate of Vean Gregg, the Cleveland southpaw, and Olsen, the Naps' shortstop.

The Canadian League has certainly leveloped into a trim little eircuit, and from now on can be considered a permanent institution. Failure to play out their schedules always attended the efforts of the promoters of a Canadian League in several instances in former years, but the system employed by the gentlemen in charge of this latest venture would lead on to believe that they have se cured the right drop.

City Hockey Title May not be Decided Owing to Lack of Ice

It looks as if the city hockey cham pionship will not be decided this season. The present mild weather has turned the ice at the local rinks into pools of water, and unless a pretty severe cold snap arrives there will be no more hockey this winter. Both the Simcoe and Westminster rinks have cups emblematic of the city championship, and as there are only three teams at present eligible to compete for the cups, and two games will have to be played before the winner of one cup is decided, it is doubtful if any suitable arrangement can be made for the play-off.

The A. M. C. and Alpha teams were to have played off in the Simcoe street rink last night for the Simcoe rink cup, but owing to each team being unable to present a full line-up the game was called off. The ice was in pretty fair shape, but the warmth of today has turned it into water, and it is extremely unlikely that it will be fit for hockey again this season.

An Excess of Prosperity:

Unique Condition of O. H. A.

The receipts at the Arena on Monday night counted 4,634 people paid, giving Collingwood, London and the O. H. A. $401 each.

This will make a record year for the O. H. A. in receipts from final games, netting in the seven contests about $2,600.

As the O. H. A. funds now reach or surpass any amount that could possibly be necessary for carrying it on, it is proposed to abolish the fees from clubs, to increase the value of the medals for winning players, and in other ways seek a lower lever for the surplus.

"It's a pity you didn't understand me," he answered indifferently.

Nothing he could say led in the direction he would have had it lead, for he wanted her to realize her part in what had happened, to knoow that the burden beneath which he had gone down was in a measure the work of her hands. His instinct was as primitive as a child's fear of the dark; he must escape from the horror of his isolation; his secret was made doubly terrifying because he knew he instinct was as primitive as a child's fear of the dark; he must escape from the horror of his isolation; his secret was made doubly terrifying because he knew he dared not share it with any living creature. Yet his mind played strange tricks with him; he was ready to risk much that he might learn what part of the truth he could tell her; he was even ready to risk all in a dumb brute impulse to gather up the remnants of his strength of heart and brain, and be the centre of some widespread catastrophe; to put his fear in her soul just as it was in his own. How was she ever to comprehend the horror that held him in its cruel grasp, the thousand subtle shades of thought and feeling that had led up to this thing, from the memory of which he revolted! He turned his bloodshot eyes upon her; something of the old light was there along with the new; he had indeed loved her, but the fruit of this love had been rotten. He was silent, and again his heavy tread resounded in the room as he dragged himself back and forth.

The force in him was stirring her.

resounded in the room as he dragged himself back and forth.

The force in him was stirring her. Sensation of any sort had always made its strong appeal to her. Without knowing what was passing in her mind she yet understood that it was some powerful emotion, and her pliant nerves responded. For the moment she forgot that she no longer loved him. She rose and went to his side.

"Is it all my fault, Marsh?" she said.

"But who is going to bring him back?"

"Is it all my fault, Marsh?" she said.

"What is it, Marsh—why are you so unhappy? Just because you love me?
What an unkind thing to say!"
He turned to the table to pour himself a drink, but she caught his hand.
"For my sake, Marsh?" she entreated.
Again he looked down into her eyes.
"For my sake," she repeated softly.

Is Headache a Blessing in Disguise?

HE better the human system is understood the more we realize the usefulness of pain as a sort of danger signal.

Headache is said to be the most beneficial of ail ackes and pains, because it comes as a warning with so many ailments. Rarely is the cause found in the head itself, but usually in the condition of the system.

The most persistent and most painful head. aches are caused by exhausted nerves, and are of a neuralgic nature. The nerves are in a starved and wasted condition, and a little extra strain or excitement brings on an attack of sick, nervous headache.

Nervous headache is said to be the cry of starved nerves for more rich, nourishing blood. The brain is the centre of the human nervous system, and there is manufactured the nervous energy which controls the action of the members of the body.

Consequently, when nervous headache comes it is a warning that the nervous system is in a run-down condition, and must be restored if some form of paralysis is to be avoided.

It is a mistake to use powerful headache powders to relieve the pain and then neglect to remove the cause of trouble, which is of far more consequence if you value life.

You can restore and revitalize the wasted nerve cells by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This treatment is not recommended as a relief for headache, but it does positively cure by removing the cause of trouble.

Nervous headaches will disappear only when the nervous system is nourished back to strength and vigor by use of such a restorative as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. T. Gray, farmer's wife, Earlton, New Ont., writes: "I had nerve and heart trouble, and was very much run down. I suffered terribly from headaches, and my eyesight was so bad I could scarcely read or sew. The pain in the top of the head was almost constant. Two doctors found they could not help me, and wanted a surgical

"I had heard of many being cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and decided to try it. Altogether I used six boxes, and with the most marked benefits. They did me good in every way. It was not long until I was about and doing my own

No one wants to take chances with locomotor ataxia or paralysis. And yet it is to such ailments as these that neglected nervous troubles naturally lead.

How much better it is to be warned by such symptoms as headache, sleeplessness, irritability, lack of vigor and energy, and feelings of fatigue and discouragement.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is bound to benefit you under such conditions, for by forming new, rich blood it works hand in hand with nature, and supplies the very elements which are necessary for the restoration of health and strength. The benefits of this treatment are both thorough and lasting.

The company intends to rush the work to completion, and as soon as the weather permits the cross-over at the Adelaide street crossing of the C. P. R. will be put in.

Finished Last Fall. The line along Cheapside street to William, and down to Oxford, was fin-ished late last fall, and a stub service has been run over it for several months. As soon as the line down Adelaide street from Oxford to Central avenue is constructed, a new schedule will be prepared y the company, and Oxford cars, instead f running on Oxford street, will run ever the cheapside loop, alternating in opposite directions on the line. New Switches.

New switches will be put in at the corner of Dundas and Adelaide streets, and the Ottaway cars will turn north at Adelaide and Richmond streets to Oxford, and continue the loop east and west on Oxford street. Extra cars will be added, and a two-way service will be

Stops Street Car to Have a Soda

While travelling east on a Dundas street car, which was loaded, one night recently, a motorman and conductor became thirsty, and not having any water on the car or any visible means of slaking their thirst, they figured for a short time as to the best possible means of getting something to drink. Suddenly an idea hit one of them. Why not stop the car and drop into the ice cream emporium in East London and have a soda? No sooner thought of than acted upon, for the car was then at the corner of Dundas and Lyle streets. The motorman stopped the car, and the conductor joined him. Into the ice cream store they sauntered, and, ordering a soda, they sat on a stool and enjoyed it. As soon as they finished one offered to buy the other a second dish, but he refused. They then sauntered out to their car, the motorman took a firm grip of the controller, the conductor gave the bell rope two pulls, and the passengers were taken on their way.

Mr. David Murray gave several violin selections during the evening, and Mrs. B. Taylor sang several solos. Readings by Miss W. Short and a duet by the Misses Kerr were much appreciated. Before leaving for their homes the guests sang "Auld Lang Syne." STARTS WORK ON FIRST HOUSE IN CHELSEA GREEN WHEN WEATHER PERMITS

S614 ANGLICAN CLERGY NOT ALL WANTING PULPIT EXCHANGE

Bishop Williams Said to Oppose Closer Union-Remains Silent.

Some Anglicans Have Gone So Far as to Sign a Petition.

Many of the Anglican clergy in London are in favor of a closer unity between the church and other Protestant denominations. The question of pulpit nterchange with the ministers of ther churches is viewed by the macrity in a most favorable light, and the matter of giving permission to members of other communions to observe the rite in the Anglican Church is supported.

Some Are Reticent.

Several of the Anglican clergy in on the subject, but some have gone so far as to sign petitions in favor of he denominations. Among the latter class are Canon Tucker, of St. Paul's Cathedral; Rev. C. C. Waller, principal of Huron College, and Rev. R. W. Yorwood, rector of Cronyn Memorial

Bishop Is Silent. It is claimed that Bishop Williams i against any steps toward union. This morning he would give no opinion on

Rulers Who Have Been Assassinated

There is scarcely a country of the world that has not at some time felt the hand of the assassin. Emperors, kings, presidents and statesmen have been slain by anarchists, persons disgruntled because of real or imaginary wrongs, fanatics, insane persons and political conspirators.

Since the year 1801 the toll of the assassin among world's rulers and presidents of republics is:

Abdul Aziz, Sultan of Turkey, June 4, 1876.

Head so Itchy Could Hardly Stand It. Dandruff Showed on Coat Collar. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in One Month.

223 Elizabeth St., Montreal, Que.-"Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me permanently from dandruff and scalp itch that I was suffering with since over a year. I had an inflammation of the lungs and a very strong fever. When I recovered, my head was covered with scales and dandruff, and it was so itchy I could hardly stand it. The dandruff showed on my coat collar. I had used various medicines without relief. I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to try them, and I am very glad of it, because I am perfectly cured. I used two boxes of Cuticura Ointment with the Cuticura Soap. It took one month to cure me. I take pleasure in recommending Cuticura Soap and Ointment to anyone who is suffering with scalp or skin diseases." (Signed) Hector Perras, Dec. 30, 1911.

Oh, yes, I had quit it "forever, The scissors and paste and all that, The haste and the frantic endeavor,

The typewriters' merry rat-tat; I tired of the holler for "copy,"

I longed for a life that was tame, And my friends called me shabby and sloppy, So I dropped from the Newspaper Game.

But something kept whispering, "Billy, You're out of your element here. This sinecure's meant for some Willie Who don't know a scoop from a beer. This joint is too tied by decorum, This routine is always the same; Your clothes don't wear out where you wore 'em,

When playing the Newspaper Game." Whenever the newsboys would holler, Whenever the extras came out,

I tugged at my unsweated collar And my heart-strings were tugged by a doubt, Till at last—well, I doubted no longer,

I passed up my cinch, and I came To the call that I knew was the stronger, And I plunged in the Newspaper Game.

The typewriters rattled to greet me, The smell of sour paste-pots was sweet, I found the old "mill" there to meet me, I dropped in my battered old seat. The newsroom was dingy and smoky,

But a shiver of joy shook my frame, For I'd quit the "good job" that was pokey, And was back to the Newspaper Game.

Below the linotypes clicking, And the smell of hot lead came to me; The sport man was nervously flicking

The ash from his "cigarootee." My typewriter acted unruly, My fingers felt clumsy and lame, But I knew I was back again, truly, To the joy of the Newspaper Game

You can swear you will leave it behind you, You can flee to wherever you will, But the newspaper fever will find you,

The newspaper fervor will thrill. It makes—or more likely, it breaks you, You die—and leave scarcely a name; But not until death overtakes you Are you free of the Newspaper Game!

Sure Way to Remove Freckles and Eruptions

[From Fashion Record.]

Some women have skin of such texture they occasionally are annoyed by the sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines. March winds usually play havoc with skins of that kind. In such cases if one will procure an ounce of common mercolized wax at any drug store, apply this before retiring, like cold cream, she can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off next morning, flaky skin particles come with it. The entire cuticle is removed in this way in about a week, with all its defects. No bleach could so completely remove every freckle or blemish. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No pain or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.

In case of wrinkles which sink beneath the outer skin, a solution of saxolite, 1 [From Fashion Record.] the outer skin, a solution of saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½-pint witch hazel, makes a face bath which is wonderfully effective.

Miners Trapped by Fire and Death List May Be Large. [Canadian Press.]

Germany, March 19 .- What was frared would turn out to be a mining catastrophe of considerable proportions occurred during the night at the President colliery near here. The shaft of the pit burst into flames soon after midnight and fire has been raging in the galleries ever since.
Superintendent Koester, who had charge of the mine, was trapped underground, together with a number of miners, whose total is not known Rescue parties were formed, and these made several efforts to penetrate into the galleries, but after working for several hours they were able to advance only a short way. They succeeded, however, in finding the body of the superintendent at the shaft's bottom.

The London Advertiser's GIFT TO ITS MANY READERS

Everybody

All who have taken advantage of The Advertiser's wonderful offer this week are astounded to learn that such a volume can be offered at these terms. It is indeed a wonder. Think of it! A $5 Bible for six certificates and the small expense items named. Surely no such offer was ever made before. Clip your certificates and present them at the London Advertiser office.

Pictures With a Meaning

Besides 600 text illustrations are full page plates of the famous Tissot pictures in colors. As Edward W. Bok, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, says: "This Bible is not a meaningless picture book. The illustrations enrich the text-they intelligently explain it, so that many a hitherto obscure passage assumes a new meaning through these eyeteaching pictures."

Self-Pronouncing

Every proper name in this illustrated Bible is separated into syllables, and marked for pronunciation, being treated the same as in a dictionary, so that mispronunciation is impossible. This is one of the most important features of this great work, and is of immense value to both young and old who find it difficult to pronounce Bible names.

A Gift for All

Where is the man, woman or child that will not appreciate this Bible as a present? Take the Genuine Limp Leather Bible, for instance. No more beautiful book was ever offered for $5. It is boxed, ready for mailing; bears the $5 label, and is given to you for only six coupons and the small expense bonus amount which defrays the necessary expense items or distribution. You'll never again have such a chance to get $5.00 presents for your friends.

It matters not how many Bibles you may now have, here is one that will be used by every member of the family—young or old—for these eye-teaching pictures make plain the subjects illustrated. It is not essential to belong to church that you may realize the educational value of this Book of Books. Every progressive man, woman and child-everybody who wants to advance should be familiar with the educational and literary merits of this great work.

Present Six Free Certificates

More than 600 beautiful art pictures, by the world's greatest artists, are printed with the type matter, where they at once explain the subjects which they accompany. These magnificent illustrations alone cost $50,000. In addition thereto are full page plates of the worldfamed Tissot collection in colors. These beautiful color engravings are also carefully selected with the object of further making plain obscure passages in this greatest of Books. It can truthfully be said that never before have illustrations so vividly portrayed their subjects and embodied in them the spirit of living reality.

Nineteen Confirmed at St. George's by Bishop Williams

Nineteen candidates for confirmation were presented to His Lordship Bishop Williams by Rev. Canon Sage, rector of St. George's Church, West London, at a confirmation service held last night, His lordship preached a sermon from the text, "He that overcometh shall inherit all things." The evangelist, St. John, placed great emphasis upon the need of being conquerors, and not slaves

"Our position in this world is, as i were, between heaven and earth, and i s our destiny to endeavor to grasp the things of heaven. If we cling to the things of earth we become degraded. We sink instead of rise," said his lordship. "In our own inner lives we need to become masters of ourselves, of our apin our organized work. If rightly pursued it may be a worship of God, but if we become the slave of our work, folneap up wealth, we forget God."

lowing it solely to acquire fame, or to This danger was present in joy and sorrow, and in every experience of life, said his lordship, and if man is to be victorious in the battle he must rely upon the spirit of God to help him. The ishop likened the human soul to an electric wire that is weak and useless until the current of electricity has passed through it. In the warfare against the world, the flesh and the devil, it was necessary, he said, to have the current of God's holy spirit moving and directing our lives.
