

PARKER DISPUTES DREDGE CO. BILL

Cuts $300 From $1,600 Action
Now Before Supreme Court.

C. S. Parker, defendant in an action brought by the Bay City Dredge company for payment of two excavators, disputed the claims of the company for $1,600 in the witness-box this morning to the extent of $300.

Mr. Parker purchased two road excavators from the Bay City company, to which certain accessories were, he claimed, by the company, which he did not order. He also disputes the bill sent to him for the time of an expert to install and erect these machines. He claims their expenses were not as high as listed in the bills.

Witness declared that he had agreed to pay the amount when he received what was due him. Alton Ryckman, warden of Middlesex in 1921, stated that a committee composed of himself, County Engineer Charles Talbot, Frank Nichol and William Rosser had been appointed by the council to purchase an excavator for the county.

The price was $4,800, and the excavator made by the Bay City company for which Mr. Parker was agent, was accepted.

J. S. Cousins, warden in 1922, told of meeting W. S. Ramsay, president of the Bay City company, in the Walker house, Toronto, in March of that year. Witness was interested in excavators, as Westminster township, of which he was reeve, was thinking of purchasing one. Mr. Cousins said that Ramsay declared Mr. Parker was sole agent of the machine in this territory.

"Are you and Parker friends?" asked W. F. Henderson, acting for the plaintiff company, to which Mr. Parker was agent.

"I'm friendly with almost everyone," declared Mr. Cousins, favoring Mr. Henderson with an expansive smile.

Andrew Baechler, warden of Oxford county in 1922, said he was present at the conversation between Ramsay and Cousins. Ramsay had quoted witness a price of $4,800 on an excavator.

The case is proceeding this afternoon. J. A. E. Braden is acting for the defendant.

CITY LABOR PERSEVERES IN DRIVE ON CADET PLAN

Once again the opponents of the cadet movement, as far as Labor is concerned in London will prepare plans to defeat their foe when the subject is brought up tonight at the trades and labor council. The council has been opposed in the past to the cadet movement in general, and in particular to the proposed plan of the local school board for the movement. It is expected that a motion to appoint a special committee representative of all Labor in London and including every branch of the city, will be presented at the next meeting, and that the view of the Labor party and the trades council is, that in view of these times, when unemployment is common in the city, that money should not be spent on what they believe are not essentials.

BREAKS ANKLE.

As a result of an accident at James Park, Miss Ursula Logan, a Normal school student from Sarnia, is suffering from a broken ankle. Miss Logan was one of a party of students who were returning after skating at the Thames park rink. She slipped on the ice-coated steps and broke several bones in her ankle. Suggestion has been made that the city take steps to have these steps properly cleaned, though this would entail constant work on the part of the rink-keepers.

SPEAKER URGES 30-MILE WALK

C. H. Peacock Attributes
Health to Exercise and Proper Dieting.

Two interesting speakers were heard by the members of the Boyle Memorial Mothers' Club at the meeting held last night at the school. Dr. G. A. Ramsay gave an instructive talk on "Going to the Sun," pointing out its cause and the uses of iodine in combating it. He explained minutely just how and when to use iodine and in what stages it is of value.

The second talk on "Food Values" was given by C. H. Peacock who has made quite a reputation in the city as a long distance walker. Mr. Peacock, although 75 years of age looks about 40, and claims it is all due to his diet and exercise.

The speaker declared that the under-fed child was the outcome of bad cooking and eating of wrong foods. He urged elimination of meat from the diet, more brown bread and butter and milk added.

He strongly urged parents to see that there was plenty of lettuce and spinach in the child's diet as well as in the diet of the adult.

Mr. Peacock says that by taking a 25 or 30 mile walk every Sunday and holiday and proper dieting he has been able to preserve his good health.

The meeting was marked by a good attendance. Mrs. J. P. Tennant in the chair. Mrs. Tennant is lending her home on Friday afternoon for a tea in aid of the Cafeteria Tea to be held by the club in March. The Friday tea is from 2:30 to 4 o'clock, and every member is asked to bring a friend.

The excellent work which the club is doing for the Child Welfare Association was reported by Mrs. Thompson, while Mrs. J. McKay made a report on the relief work which is being carried on in the district.

A shower of soup, jelly, etc. for the Salvation Army Rescue Home will feature the Friday afternoon tea. A speaker is also promised. An attractive program last night included vocal numbers by Miss E. Comber, with Miss Kathleen Golby, violinist and Mrs. Armstrong, pianist, acting as accompanist; a Dutch dance by Miss K. Davies.

TRY AT SETTLEMENT IS ADVISED BY JUDGE

Fidelity Trust Company Sued
by V. Andrew in Supreme Court.

Counsel in the case of Vera Andrews against the Fidelity Trust Company, which was heard yesterday afternoon in the supreme court before Mr. Justice Rose, were advised to retire and reach a settlement out of court after the case had been heard. Vera Andrews is proceeding against the company for fulfillment of contract in connection with the purchase of a parcel of land. No settlement had been arrived at in the matter when court adjourned shortly before 1 o'clock today. Should counsel not arrive at a decision, the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Rose, stated that he would give judgment in the matter.

CHARACTER CLUB HEARS TALK FROM HIGGINS

President Gives Address on
"Consistency and Flexibility" Last Night.

Mr. Higgins, president of the Hawk character analysis club of London, was the speaker at the regular meeting of that organization last night. His subject was "Consistency and Flexibility."

Consistency and flexibility, cited as variables by the character analyst, are so closely related to texture that the speaker transgressed his ground and dwelt on texture to a considerable extent as it affects the other two variables. The lecturer showed how to apply the variables in selling or handling people.

COCK PHEASANT TAKES MODERN ULYSSES ROLE

Yesterday and today there stalked a fine cock pheasant along Hill street between Waterloo and Colborne. It seemed to be a homeless wanderer, a sort of Ulysses following a path of adventure. The neighbors saw it, and one or two attempted its capture, without avail. When last seen it was heading south, and as the song says about to "follow the swallows back home."

DISCUSS RELIEF.

A relief board composed of members of the staff of the Salvation Army met this morning to discuss plans for handling extreme cases where families needed immediate help. The following were present: Brig. MacMonn, chief of staff; Adj. Spooner, young people's division; Adj. Treask, Clarence street; Adj. del; Adj. Lewis, industrial department; Commandant Hurd, financial representative.

Mr. Weir has held office under twenty successive reeves.

WOODSTOCK BACKS PLOWING MATCH

City Clerk States Fifty Thousand Present—City Well Repaid.

The city council would not go far wrong in inducing the International plowmen's association to bring their annual match to London in November, if the recommendations of Woodstock are considered. Woodstock today contributed the information that the match there a few years ago cost the city $2,700, and it was a huge success.

"Fifty thousand people were here for the match," the city clerk of Woodstock declared in a telegram to Samuel Baker, London's city clerk, this morning. "We were well repaid."

Efforts initiated by Dr. Hugh Stevenson, ex-M. L. A., are being followed up by members of the present council, and Mr. Baker is securing information from outside points respecting the success of the plowing match elsewhere.

The greatest speech made at the North American foreign missions conference held in Washington, D.C., during the past ten days, was that made by Hon. Newton Wesley Rowell, K.C., Toronto.

Such was the comment made today noon by Rev. (Col.) Wm. Beattie, D.D., pastor of First Presbyterian church, upon his return from the conference, which was attended by 3,900 delegates from all parts of Canada and the United States. Representatives from England and Scotland and missionaries from all lands were also present.

HOUSING BOARD HAILS DELINQUENTS TO TALK

Chairman Harry Wray and Commissioners Seek Reasons
For Arrears.

Delinquent purchasers of city-owned houses will appear before the city housing commission at a special meeting in the city hall tomorrow night. Chairman Harry Wray and other commissioners are seeking reasons for arrears in payment, and unless explanations are satisfactory there is danger of a number of agreements being cancelled.

In several cases citizens are in arrears for several years and have not been paying taxes. They are further behind than if they were renting houses.

Chairman Wray is confident of useful information being secured from this meeting, which will be held behind closed doors. He points out that the housing commission in the city of Winnipeg earned $24,000 for that city last year, an answer to the argument that housing commissions never show surpluses.

SALVATION REVIVAL SERVICES WELL ATTENDED

The revival services which are being held by the Salvation Army at the Tecumseh and Edward street circuit this week are attracting much attention in Salvationist circles. LABOR MOVES TO BLUE STRONGHOLD

Old Dundas Street Temple Is
Forsaken For Majestic
Building Quarters.

After five years in the old Labor temple on Dundas street, Labor in London is moving to new quarters. Today the trek commenced, and by the end of the week Labor will be safely ensconced in its new rooms in the majestic building on Dundas. The old temple has not been suitable in many ways, and for some months now a special committee has been looking for other quarters. Several places were found that would be acceptable, but the rooms in the majestic building, which were once the headquarters of the blue boys in London, were chosen and taken.

In these new rooms all meetings of the Canadian Labor party, the Canadian Women's Labor party, the Trades and Labor council, the Industrial Labor party, meetings of the various locals, and all socials and dances will be held. In every way the new place is preferable to the old Labor temple, and the committee has been consulted by members of the party in its selection of quarters. Several organizations in London are looking for a place to meet, and all of the Labor temple that was being inspected by others. It is rumored that the blue boys have been seen wandering over the building.

Wives and the Labor men may change rooms, and each party fill the niche left empty by the other.

TORONTO BREAD LINE EASES PROBLEM HERE

Transients Quit Salvation Army
Hostel For Greener Fields.

The presence of a bread line, with its attendant soup kitchens recently established for the unemployed in Toronto has had its effect here. When press reports reached London telling of the doles in Toronto, the Salvation Army hostel on Horton street was filled to capacity each night. Many of the men have since slipped aboard the night freights and gone to that city.

Adj. Lewis, head of the industrial department here, said today that a week ago they had difficulty in handling the number of men who applied for relief at night. Several pleaded to be allowed to sleep on the floors of the dormitories. Six slept in the chairs in the reading-room.

It looked for a few days as if the hostel would have to be enlarged at once. Their came the news of the dole in Toronto and the attendance dropped off to normal. The hostel takes care of enough to comfortably fill it. The real transients have moved on to greener fields.

Only two lates since September, 1922, is the record achievement of Mr. Willis' class, which at the present time includes 25 and 25 pupils. Thirty-one school months with but two lates is a record which only Mr. Willis' class can surpass, for January has just closed with late perfection.

One girl was late one morning in February, 1923. The second late also a girl, occurred in October, 1924.

MOTHERS REVIEW NOTED CANADIANS

Riverview Club Presents Program Prepared Wholly by Members.

The mothers themselves furnished the program for last night's meeting of the Riverview Mothers' Club held in the school. "Famous Canadian Women" were the subjects of three instructive papers. Mrs. Cotton spoke on the life of Laura Secord; Mrs. O. G. Wallace on Judge Murphy; better known as Jany Canuck; and Mrs. A. H. Strong on Jean Blewett, reading from her works. Laura Secord's motto, "It is never the darkest hour just before the daylight," was received with interest by the members.

Announcement was made by the president, Mrs. J. J. Goodhouse, that the April meeting would take the form of a Hard Times Party. Reports of the visiting committee and the relief committee were presented by Mrs. McLaren and Mrs. E. J. Newhouse, respectively.

A very fine program included a duet by Mrs. F. J. Newhouse and Mrs. I. Ballantyne. Mrs. Clifford acted as accompanist; and several delightful choruses from the following members: Mrs. H. I. Lamont, Mrs. E. J. Newhouse, Mrs. W. Lippett, Mrs. C. Walter, Mrs. Carter, Mrs. C. H. Froggett, Mrs. I. Ballantyne, Mrs. W. Cotton, Mrs. L. Stone and Mrs. A. H. Strong.

Mrs. Frank Hardie, Stanley street, has offered her home for a musicale and tea to be held next Wednesday afternoon in aid of the club funds. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Lamont.

UTILITIES EARNINGS INCREASED FOR YEAR

Increased earnings of $19,471.34 in 1924 for the public utilities commission are shown in the report of H. B. Ashplant which will be presented at the next meeting of the commission. Mr. Ashplant's report shows the total receipts of all utilities departments to be $1,313,713.38.

Hydro Shop sales, in spite of the aggregate gain on the entire operations of the department, dropped off to a net of $39,427.85. This outstanding loss in trade was offset by a gain of $48,217.65 in electrical department receipts and $10,681.55 increase in waterworks department income.

BIG BEARSKIN DREAMS OF UTILITIES SHATTERED

When the big black Himalayan bear died at the Springbank park zoo some weeks ago the public utilities commission cherished the hope of securing the bear-skin rug for its board room.

These hopes were rudely shattered, however, when it was learned from Prof. A. D. Robertson, professor of zoology at the university of Western Ontario, that the skin was of no value whatever.

Prof. Robertson was able to retain the skeleton for zoological instruction purposes, but the skin itself was found to be of no use.

Such a loss was explained by the fact that owing to prolonged ill-health prior to his death the bear had not properly shed his previous year's coat.

"The federal government has washed their hands of the situation," stated Mr. Nickle.

"Their ties cannot bear the financial strain of relieving the situation so you come to us. We had a deficit of $15,000,000 last year and of $8,000,000 the year before which makes it difficult but I assure you that the government will be informed of the urgency of the situation and will see if something cannot be done."

PASSES UP CHANGE TO MAKE $120,000

Spanish Prisoner Writes and Tells of Way Londoner
Can Make Fortune.

POLICE GET LETTER

A Londoner was given a chance this morning of making $120,000 in cash. He had nothing to lose and everything to gain. The proposition was simple and entailed only a small investment, a few hundred dollars probably. But he passed it up.

All the way from sunny Spain came a letter addressed in bold handwriting to A. W. Palmer, grocer, London, Canada. It was from a mysterious Mr. "C" of Valguier, Spain, but the fact that the writer withheld his full name did not in the least detract from the gilt-edged proposition the missive contained. The letter follows:

"Sir—Being imprisoned here by bankruptcy, I beseech you to help me to obtain a sum of $360,000 I have in America, being necessary to raise the seizure of my luggage, paying to the court the expenses of my trial and recover my portmanteau containing secret pocket, where I have hidden two checks payable to bearer for that sum.

"As reward I will give up to you the third part, viz., $120,000. I cannot receive your answer in the prison, but you can send a cablegram to Mr. W. person of my confidence, who will deliver it me addressed below.

"Awaiting your answer to instruct you all my secret. I know, I now sign, 'C'."

"I trust of all answer by cable, not by letter."

"JOSE CLARET.
"Lista Correo 19F."
"Valguier, Spain."

Mr. Palmer, who was a grocer in London five years ago, neglected to forward a reply by cable. Instead he turned the letter over to Chief of Police Robert Birrell. What would you have done?

EALING MOTHERS WANT NEW FLAG FOR SCHOOL

Mrs. Charles Turner Gives an Inspiring Talk Before
Club Members.

That there must be a new flag for the Ealing Mothers' is the opinion of the members of the Ealing Mothers' club. They brought up the matter at the regular meeting of the club last night action concerning it being left over until the next meeting.

About fifty members were present. A report on the excellent relief work being carried on was given by Mrs. A. Fuller. Mrs. Charles Turner gave an inspiring talk on "Democracy in the Home," in which she pointed out that high ideals should be instilled in the children by their parents. They should be taught the unselfish love of one to another. Mrs. Mark Ayres, the president, was in the chair.

An interesting program included vocal solos by Mrs. Fred Jackson, Miss Harrison acting as accompanist; a piano solo by Miss Harrison, and character dancing by Miss Ena Goodings.

VALUE OF ZONING FULLY EXPLAINED

North London Residential District Brought Before Meeting of Ratepayers.

Physical details of the proposed North London residential district occupied most attention of ratepayers at last evening's town planning meeting in Ryerson school. The gathering started off a series of public sessions for the discussion of the new zoning bylaw. Lauded by some and condemned by others, the proposed bylaw brought out active discussion and promised an interesting week for the town planners.

Col. Ibbotson Leonard, vice-chairman of the town planning commission, and Horace L. Seymour, town planning expert, explained briefly the history of town planning in London and the value of proposed legislation. Neither attempted to tell those present that zoning would be foolproof or infallible, but they emphasized that experience of years had impressed the need for zoning.

"In 1906 a block of property in New York City was valued at $17,000,000," pointed out Mr. Seymour. "Ten years later it was valued at $10,000,000 less. That was simply because there had been no building restrictions, and manufacturing establishments ruined the value of the district for residential purposes."

Citizens at the Ryerson school meeting appeared more interested in their own residential district than in changes proposed for other sections of the city. Mr. Seymour told one inquirer that it would be better to build houses together than to leave only a foot or two space between, the latter providing a dirt collector and a fire hazard.

"Don't condemn the man who builds now after restrictions are put in force," was the advice of Joseph Trow, who thought the bylaw should boost his tax account and at the same time make lots of 30-foot frontage useless.

It was suggested that districts where there were a number of small lots be included in the second residential district instead of the higher class third district. However, Mr. Fraser stated that his objections were against the whole principle of zoning.

Community Garages. Ald. Harry Bottrill's question regarding garages on small lots brought out a suggestion for community garages, at least in the case of small lots. Mr. R. S. Lashbrook, 309 Richmond street, was one of the two serious objectors to the zoning plan.

City Engineer Neat pointed out to Mr. Lashbrook that the city building bylaw could not restrict the type of architecture of a building. A man could build an unsightly eyesore, and still be within the restrictions.

Possibilities of making north Richmond street a business district were discussed briefly in an informal way before the meeting adjourned.

RIDOUT STREET SEXTET BEATS LAMBETH, 4-2

The hockey team of the Ridout street Methodist church took a close game from the Lambeth sextet last night on the Lambeth rink. The mix was slow but clever stick work pulled out a 4-2 win for the Londoners.

Mathews and B. McCullum were the best among the goalkeepers while Backnell and Myers played well for Lambeth.

Referee—W. Anguish, Lambeth.

TWO MINOR ACCIDENTS.

Two minor accidents occurred at Wolsley barracks yesterday. One soldier was kicked by a horse and received slight cuts and bruises on the body. Another soldier sprained an ankle while playing hockey on the barracks rink. The medical officer in charge said today that both men would be around in a few days.

47 Above Zero In W. Alberta

Calgary, Feb. 3.—Warm Chinook winds are blowing steadily in Calgary and Western Alberta, holding the temperature to 45 above zero, with brilliant sunshine. The minimum temperature Monday was 40 above zero and the maximum Monday of 47, will be far exceeded today at the present rate of rise of the thermometer. Low barometer readings which always accompany Chinooks in Calgary indicate warm weather.

ADDITION TO TECH. ALMOST CERTAIN

Urgent Need for More Accommodation Realized in Educational Circles.

Impetus is likely to be given the urgent need for additional classroom accommodation at the technical high school when the advisory-vocational committee holds its first business meeting of the year on Monday evening next.

It is expected that the committee will make a formal request to the board of education to make provision for the erection of a second addition to the technical school, at the same time suggesting that L. E. Calvert, superintendent of building and caretaking, be instructed to proceed with the plans and specifications for the same.

The proposed addition is to consist of eight classrooms to be built and equipped at a cost of approximately $29,000. Of this sum the provincial government pays half and the city pays the other half. Interest and sinking fund charges on the portion of the cost to be paid by the city would amount to about $2,800 per annum.

In pointing out that the technical school is not asking for a present time for a gymnasium and an auditorium, both much needed at the school, Principal H. B. Beal is authorized to state that a second classroom in the new addition could be used for physical training and thus eliminate the item of $3,500 per annum now being paid out for gymnasium accommodation outside the school building.

The technical school, which now embraces 21 classrooms and shops, was first erected 12 years ago. The first addition to the main building was opened only last year, but so rapidly has the attendance increased that a second addition has now become imperative.

Because of this fact and because of the splendid work being done in the institution in accomplishing its aim and purpose little opposition is anticipated either in the board or the public concerning the erection of the new addition.

FATHER-SON BANQUET HAS BIG ATTENDANCE

Arthur Kennedy Urges Knox Boys to Develop Into Leaders, Not Leanners.

The father and son banquet held in Knox Presbyterian church last night brought out an attendance that well filled the new gymnasium-hall of the church. The ladies had provided an excellent supper for the occasion, and during this a lively sing-song was led by Hiles Templin and A. Devenney.

The proceedings were presided over by D. Wilson, who acted as toastmaster and also called the roll of the various groups in the Sunday school. Class yells were not on the program but were given with a vigor that was contagious. The following toasts were proposed and honored:

"The King," by Frank Love; "Our Church," by Bill Haylock, and responded to by Rev. Mr. Symington; "C. S. E. T.," by Leslie Pickles, responded to by W. L. Spearman of the Y. M. C. A.; "Our Fathers," by John Haylock, and response by Mr. Wadell; "Our Fathers," Allan Riddle, response by V. K. Greer.

The ladies were thanked for their kindly efforts in a neat speech by L. Gray. Arthur Kennedy of The Advertiser was the speaker of the evening, and dealt with what he considered some of the most important phases of boys' work warning against any tendency to make the boys develop a feeling of expectancy that some day money was going to be done for them and urging that they be developed as leaders instead of leanners.

Excellent piano selections were given by Fred Underhill, and vocal numbers by Mr. Patterson and Carmen Lindsay. One of the most unusual parts of the program came at the conclusion, consisting of a series of sleight-of-hand performances by Melvin Turner and Everet Case, his assistant. Melvin Turner proved himself an apt hand at this business and his work was remarkably well done. He provided entertainment that was far from being amateurish.

The medical officer in charge said today that both men would be around in a few days.

Dr. H. B. Beal, who is authorized to state that a second classroom in the new addition could be used for physical training and thus eliminate the item of $3,500 per annum now being paid out for gymnasium accommodation outside the school building.

Because of this fact and because of the splendid work being done in the institution in accomplishing its aim and purpose little opposition is anticipated either in the board or the public concerning the erection of the new addition.

FISH AND FRUIT TRADE BROADENS

Representative of English Firm Tells of Plans on Visit to London.

If the plans of a company recently formed in England follow their anticipated course, Canadian fish will in future find a market in the old land, and so will Ontario fruit to a much larger extent than formerly. Major Hughie Green, who was responsible for putting fish on the menu of the C. E. F. during the war, and who is in Canada just now with Gen. Garnet Hughes in connection with this scheme, passed through London last night on his way to Sarnia.

"The company in which I am interested," explained Major Green, "is planning to develop a fishing industry at Halifax on a large scale. There is a growing demand for fish in England and a diminishing supply. The fishing fleets of Grimsby and other English fishing ports are having the greatest difficulty in securing catches. Whatever the reason, since the war the fish have become scarce in the North sea. The travelers have to travel tremendous distances to get any catches. On the other hand, the seas along the coast of the Maritime provinces swarm with fish. We are planning to have our own trawlers at Halifax. We will build our own cold storage and our own plants. The market is enormous in England and there are unlimited possibilities in the project."

"At the same time there is no reason in the summer season and the early fall why the fruit of Ontario should not be shipped by these same boats through our cold storage plants to the old country. The fruit, with boats properly fitted up, should arrive in first-class condition, and the peaches and apples of Ontario should soon be at a premium."

SANDSLIDE FREES FOOT, BUT BOULDERS HOLD

To lose confidence, I prayed continuously. Sometimes, I would be in a stupor. I could hear people coming in, but they seemed far away. I could hear voices, but I could not remember who was speaking. I kept night I slept some. I dreamed of angels and I awakened praying.

"Monday was the first day when strangers came back to me. I kept working around, whenever I felt strong enough, thinking I could twist myself free. But each time I would fall back, I kept trying to drive my mind to something else, but it wasn't any use. How could I? You've been here and you know—you know why. I couldn't do much to help those who came to help me, but I knew a lot of people were willing to do all in their power. This gave me courage."

IT'S IN THE BLOOD. Associated Press Despatch.

Cave City, Ky., Feb. 4.—"A kind of a feeling in the blood—like the thrill of a great victory—was discovered America," comes with the exploration of underground caverns where men have never been before, Floyd Collins, 35 years old, father of Floyd Collins, who has been imprisoned more than 100 hours in Sand Cave, near here, declared yesterday.

"I can understand what made my boy go in there," he said, "because I have been in many tight squeeze myself," the elder Collins said. "Floyd has been exploring caves all his life, and he believes in them, and when I was one. He'll manage to get out just like he did once before when he was caught in Crystal Cave."

Mr. Collins was a cave explorer for more than 40 years, and is one of the most faithful watchers at the mouth of Sand Cave. He has lived in this part of the country forty years, and when he moved here I dug a hole on my farm, where I thought a cave would be found. My wife, Martha Jane, told me to give it a try, because she was afraid I would get hurt. I quit digging.

"In 1917 I set a groundhog trap at the same place, and when I went back it was gone. That boy Floyd of mine got busy and started digging in the sinkhole for the trap, and the first thing you know he discovered the cave. Ever since that time we have been running Crystal Cave and that is the reason Floyd was trying to discover another cave here."

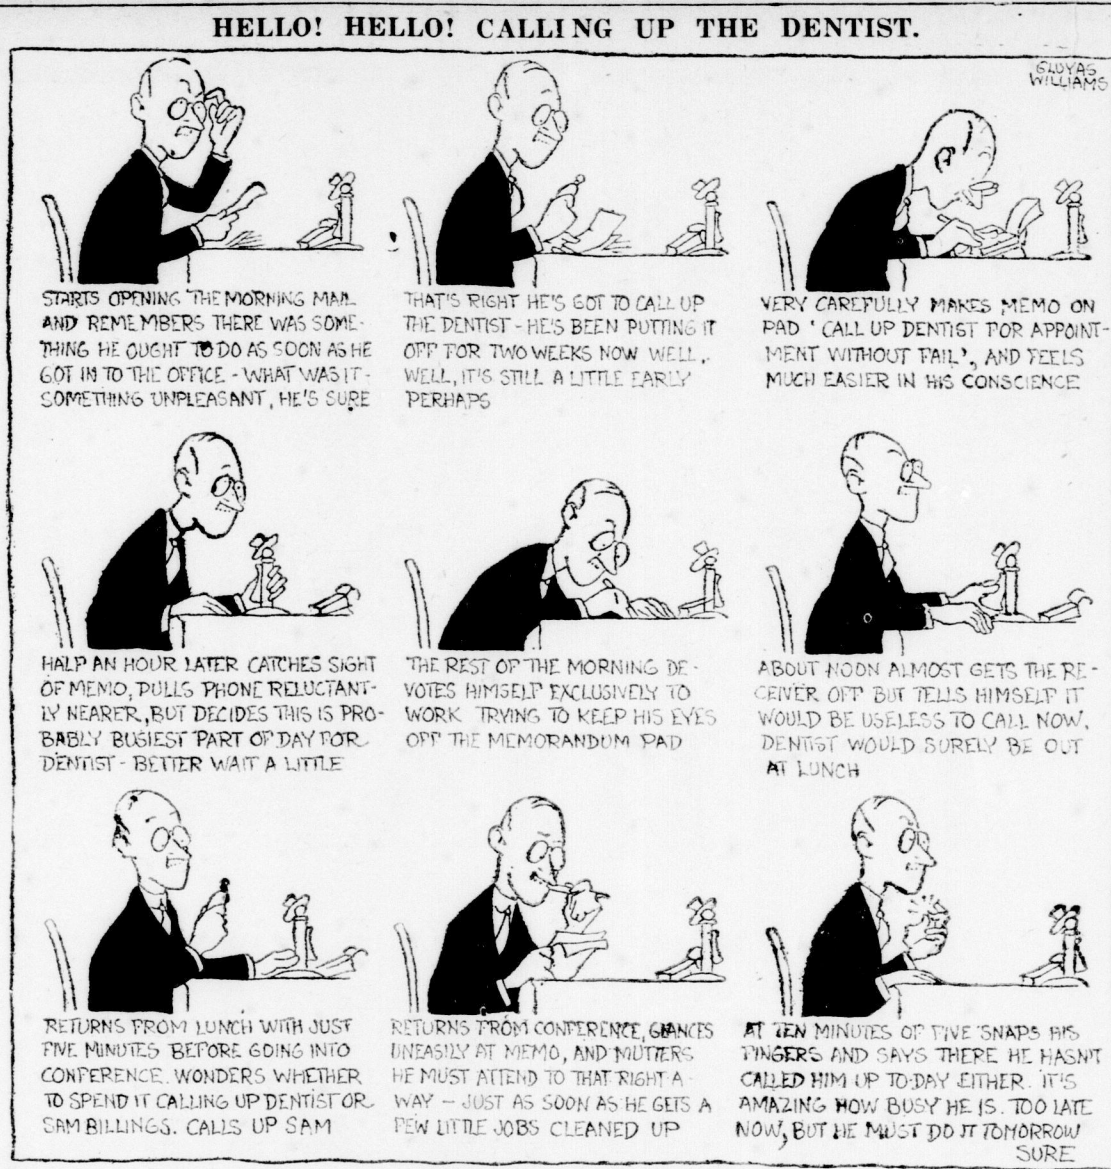

DRILLERS ON WAY. Associated Press Despatch.

Cave City, Ky., Feb. 4.—Encouraged by their progress during the night, a party of men, including the same men who have worked their way into Sand cave again and again since Floyd Collins, 35, cave explorer, was trapped 150 feet from the tunnel entrance, Friday morning, went back into the cave early today, hoping to dislodge the boulder which pins Collins by the foot.

Meanwhile an expert driller was sent to Cave City from Louisville with an electrical equipment. The driller, Jack Collins, was born in Silver Cliff, Col., and has worked in all the mines in the famous Cripple Creek gold field. Jack Collins, who is not a relative of the entombed man, plans to enter the cave as soon as he can cover the six miles of rough road from Cave City.

A special train at Louisville was to meet Dr. William Hazlett, surgeon of St. Luke's hospital at Chicago, when he arrived there today en route to Cave City. The physician, equipped with quantities of anesthetic and special instruments, was understood to be ready to cope with the unusual situation caused by cramped quarters in the cave.

Permission to amputate Collins' leg would not be granted until his relatives are convinced it is the only hope of bringing him out alive. It is known here, despite early reports of $500 reward to any surgeon who would undertake the task.

EIGHT RELIGIONS LISTED IN BOOKS

Officer Resigns Over O.T.A. Case

Special to The Advertiser. St. Catharines, Feb. 3.—Although an individual carrying bottles of liquor on the street was pointed out to Constable William Banks by two Toronto special enforcement officers, Banks did not investigate nor make any arrest. The matter was reported to Chief of Police W. J. Lammie. The police commission ensured the constable, who today tendered his resignation. The constable gave no reason for neglecting to take action. The two special officers had seen bottles protruding from the individual's pockets when he had asked them for a cigarette.

DR. BEAN IS CHIEF L.O.L. IN COUNTY

Chosen County Master at the Annual Meeting in Ulster Hall Yesterday.

Dr. S. J. T. Bean was elected county master of the L. O. L. County lodge, East Middlesex, at a gathering of members in Ulster hall yesterday afternoon. The annual organization of the lodge took place with a representative gathering of members from all sections of the district.

Plans were made for the annual Orange celebrations which is to be held in London on July 12. In anticipation of the visit to the city of thousands of Orange followers from all parts of Western Ontario for the celebration, arrangements were made for their accommodation. Orange-men in London are preparing to make the day one of elaborate celebration.

Reports from the various lodges indicated a successful year during 1924. Addresses were given by past county masters, and E. T. Essary, grand master of Ontario West, who had charge of the election and installation of the new officers for 1925.

The officers elected and installed, in addition to the county masters, were as follows: P. G. M. W. J. Hodgins; D. S. M. J. G. Goadley, Thorndale; chaplain, Rev. William Low, St. Johns; recorder, secretary, W. B. Malrow; financial secretary, James Fleming; treasurer, J. Murray; marshal, E. Monteith; lecturers, N. Langford and O. Banks, Thameston; auditors, R. Harden and J. Morrison.

HIGH ACCOMMODATION COMMENT IS EXPECTED

Provincial Inspector of Collegiate Completing Local Tour.

R. W. Anglin, inspector of high schools and collegiate institutes for the provincial department of education, is just completing a ten-day inspection of the central collegiate and the east and south units.

Though the east and south units are not recognized by the department as collegiate, nevertheless the department inspector pays an official visit to those schools the same as to the central collegiate.

Undoubtedly some comment will be made by Inspector Anglin anent the collegiate accommodation in his official report which will be forwarded from the department in two or three weeks' time.

Inspector Anglin was appointed only last June in succession to Inspector J. A. Houston, who was forced to retire owing to ill-health. It is thus his first visit to London in his present capacity. He was formerly registrar of the department for upwards of fifteen years.

The staff of high school inspectors consists of Senior Inspector I. M. Levan, formerly of Woodstock; Inspector G. F. Rogers, formerly of London, and Inspector Anglin.

KNOLLWOOD ASSOCIATION SHOWS GAIN IN MEMBERS

Since the beginning of the new year the membership of the Knollwood Park and district improvement association has been growing rapidly.

The officials of the organization report that they are gratified with the work that is being done, and believe that they will be able to improve their district considerably if given assistance by the city council.

LABOR WILL HEAR FISH STALL REPORT

Unemployment Question Also Likely To Come Up For Discussion.

At the meeting tonight of the trades and labor council the special committees which waited on the city council last week in connection with the civic fish stall in the market house will bring in its report. It is quite likely that unemployment in London will be given another run in the open of free discussion and that the attitude of the federal authorities will once more come under fire in this matter.

Also there is the question of the official attitude of the council toward the chamber of commerce to be considered and made clear. At the second meeting of the council this year, when officers were elected, President Colbert suggested that the council should apply to the city council for a grant similar in size to that made each year to the chamber of commerce. At that time he charged that certain members of the chamber had been instrumental in reducing the rates of wages paid in the city and in this way helped to reduce living standards in the city. He argued that to reduce the spending money available in London was prejudicial to the best interests of the merchants and that therefore the trades union might reasonably look to the city council to treat its request for such a grant with favor.

Several members have been airing their personal opinions for some time and with the official meeting of the delegates, a definite attitude in regard to the activities of the chamber of commerce will be arrived at. RYERSON HOCKEY. NO 7.

The members of the three teams which represented Ryerson school in the public school hockey league are being tendered a banquet at the school on Friday night at 6 p.m.

The banquet is being given under the joint auspices of the Ryerson school and the mothers' club of the school. It is expected that nearly 50 will sit down at table.

Helped Hubert E. Galt, R.A., will preside for the brief program which will consist of toasts to the three teams and replies from members of the different sextettes and an address by Rev. A. S. H. Cree, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, on "The Spirit of Sport in the Schools."

Members of the three teams are: Fred Parry, Keith Grant, Clifford Petherburgh, Willie Chapman, Tom Fenton, Jack Ferguson, Bob Wilf, Fred Underhill, Fred Tanner, Bill Petherburgh, Jim Wallace, Cameron Ware, Doug. Baddell, Frank Hindmarsh, William Shortt, Walter Bluff, Kenneth Wright, Bill Jay, Harold Watson, Peter Goudy, and Hugh Kennedy.

"FULL STOP" PROPOSAL HIT BY MOTOR CLUB

Crossing Plan Would Tangle Traffic, Officials Here Contend.

The compulsory stopping of all motor vehicles before proceeding over a level crossing would tangle up motor traffic, is the opinion of the Ontario motor league. A communication to the London motor club today states that the league is attempting to have obstruction signs removed and danger signs posted at all crossings.

The statement points out that a wholesale clearance of all obstructions which hamper the vision of the motorist is being advocated by the league. To bring about an order making stopping compulsory would do away with the need of removing obstructions and place the weight of the responsibility on the driver.

The league shows that the law would hardly be practical on the busy highways, and so slow up highway movements.

A survey of those states to the south which adopted compulsory "stop" laws, shows that they have shown, according to the motor league, that the law does not seem to have made any material difference in the problem, and that the recent tremendous increase in motor lines when motorists have been charged with not stopping.

JANUARY CONSUMPTION OF WATER DECREASES

Water consumption in the city of London continues to decrease. According to figures given out this morning by Manager E. V. Buchanan, the consumption during January amounted to 171,754,000 gallons.

During January of last year the customers of the public utilities commission used 178,946,000 gallons, and the year previous 184,975,000 gallons. The decrease of 13,221,000 gallons since January, 1923, is largely credited to the general installation of water meters throughout the commission's system.

A. T. TAYLOR RECOVERING.

The many friends of A. T. Taylor will be pleased to know that he is making a speedy recovery at St. Joseph's hospital, where he recently underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Small Audience Enraptured by Singing of Noted Canadian Soprano.

Evelyn Tierney's lovely lyric soprano voice was heard by but a few of London's music lovers at the Grand last night. It seems a pity that so many should miss the treat of being present at the charming recital offered by the noted Canadian artist.

The thrill usually felt by an audience which finds itself in quarters too amply was quickly overcome by Miss Tierney. Her first number, "Oh, Had I Jubal's Lyre," completely captivated everyone. The bird-like tones, the freedom and quality of her voice were all there. Grace and delicacy were expressed in Arne's "Where the Bee Sings." In the plaintive "O Ma Tendre Musette," Monsigny, and the "Non, je ne t'aime plus," her phrasing and expression added to the rich and very vocal qualities left little to be desired.

Fine Expression. In the Schurmer's (Whitney) all the sweetness of that lilting song was brought out and there again the singer's expression wrought into the song something more than a flawless note. It was followed by "Niemand Hatt's Gesehn," Loewe.

If one had any doubts of the singer's powers they were quickly dispelled in Rossini's "Una Voce Poco." In this brilliant number the rippling notes of ecstasy proved that the enthusiastic record of the noted singer had been merited.

In part seven of her program the singer sang "I Know Where I'm Going," H. Hughes, sweetly and feelingly rendered. Other numbers were the lovely fairy song, "The Immortal Hour," Rutland Boughton; Arne's "The Lass With the Delicate Air," and "At the Well," R. Hageman.

For encore Miss Tierney sang "I Know My Love," Hughes, and "Danny Boy," they were delightful.

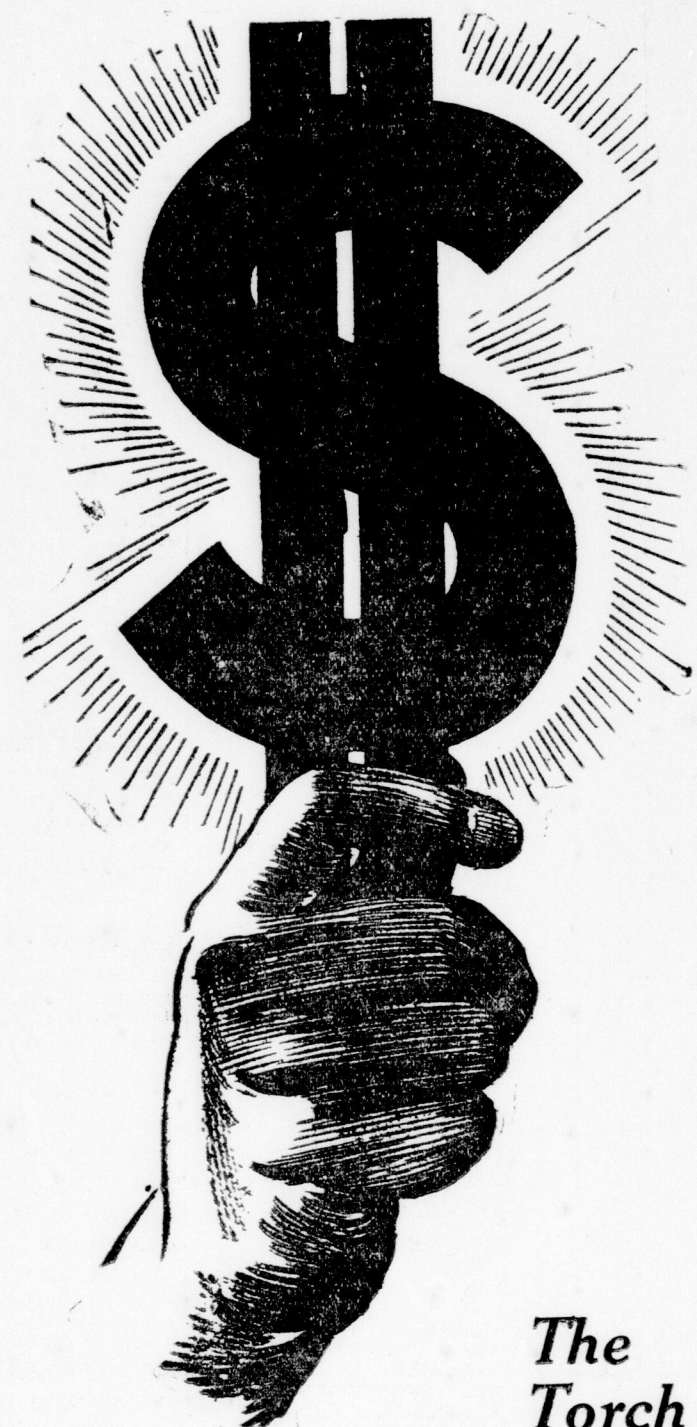

Miss Tierney is a Toronto girl who studied under Signor Vegara; that master coach of international fame, who has been in Toronto a few years ago. He has numbered among his pupils many of the now famous singers, among them Cecil Fanning and Oliver Fremerey. It used to be his boast that he would not undertake to teach a person who had not in him the making of a brilliant singer, and it is easily seen that he made no mistake in devoting his unusual talents to the training of Miss Tierney.

Back of Miss Tierney's career lies the hope and ambition of a father, war veteran, who is still suffering in the Military hospital, Toronto. Realizing the various possibilities of his daughter's voice, he sent her through the severe training in Canada and England to return with their ambition realized.</

The Thrifty Happy Jack Squirrel Always Keeps Plenty of Food

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Rabbit was lean and hungry. He was lean all the time these days and hungry most of the time. You see snow covered the Green Meadows and lay all through the Green Forest. Peter could get little to eat, excepting bark and such young twigs and buds as he could reach. These were not very filling. They kept him from starving, but they didn't put any fat on him and they seldom satisfied his hunger. Winter is sometimes very hard on Peter Rabbit.

He was sitting in a bramble-tangle on the edge of the Green Forest. A little way from him Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel was running about on the snow. Now and then he stopped to dig clear down to the ground. Then he would pop up with an acorn or a nut and eat it. Happy Jack was sleek. He looked well fed. He was well fed.

"It isn't fair," said Peter, talking to himself. "There is Happy Jack fat, comfortable, with plenty to eat. Here am I thin, hungry all the time, and always having to hunt for enough to keep me alive. It isn't fair."

"What isn't fair?" demanded Happy Jack. "I say it isn't fair," replied Peter. Happy Jack finished the nut he was eating, licked his lips and grinned at Peter. "If there is any unfairness whose fault is it?" he asked.

Peter hesitated. Happy Jack didn't wait for him to answer. "It is your own fault," he declared. "The reason I have plenty to eat now is because I worked hard last fall and stored away enough food to last me all winter. Thrifty people seldom go hungry. I don't want to boast, but I don't care how much snow and cold weather we have. You won't find me going hungry. No, sir, you won't find me going hungry. I can get a good meal from my storehouse whenever I need it."

"What isn't fair?" demanded Happy Jack.

"If you've got so much in your storehouse, what are you trying to find nuts under the snow for?" demanded Peter. "If I had a full storehouse I certainly wouldn't waste my time hunting for food the way you do."

Happy Jack chuckled. "It is thrift, Peter. Of course you can't understand it because you don't know the meaning of thrift. Only those who are truly thrifty understand what real thrift is. It is true that I have plenty of food in my storehouse. But while I can find food outside of that storehouse I don't touch the food that is in it. Then I know that I've always got it. Then I know that if the winter should be extra long there will be nothing to worry about. When I can't find anything outside it is time to take the food from the storehouse. But the truly thrifty never use up what they have when they can find more. It is only the lazy and thriftless who would do that."

"Huh!" snorted Peter. "If I had a storehouse full of food I wouldn't waste my time hunting for food."

"No, I don't believe you would," chuckled Happy Jack. (Copyright, 1925, by T. W. Burgess.)

Premature Old Age of Women
It is no secret that so many women suffer from ailments peculiar to their sex. Dark circles appear under the eyes, a pale, drawn, haggard expression to the countenance, and the weakness which accompanies such ailments is evidenced by the lagging step, headaches, backache and nervous conditions. Every woman who is afflicted in this way should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which for half a century has been overcoming some of the most stubborn ailments of women.

Dorothy Dix

The "Good" Father Who Is a Model in Public But Broke Beats His Family at Home.

Dear Miss Dix—What is wrong with a husband and father who is good morally who claims to be a good Christian, always attends church, spends his evenings at home and provides for his family, but who never has a kind word for his family? This man has a furious temper, and gets angry at his wife every time she fails to think just as he does, and he is hard and cruel to his children, but he is so pleasant to outsiders that he is held up as a model in the community. Is there any way to make him be more considerate to his own family? L. T.

Answer: I think everything is wrong with the man who is an angel outside of the home and a devil within it. He is the meanest sort of a contemptible coward because he takes advantage of his wife and children being dependent on him to browbeat and bully them.

The greatest of all the virtues is love. If a man has not this the others avail him little.

DOROTHY DIX.
Dear Miss Dix—Don't you think a man gets tired of wasting his affection on a wife who shows him none in return? Don't you think a husband and wife should be affectionate to each other, even if there are grown children in the family? Don't you think a wife should show appreciation when her husband takes her to a show or a place of amusement?

Should a husband, after he has fixed his own breakfast, arouse his wife, and take her breakfast, and kiss her good-bye. R. L. A.

Answer: Certainly, Mr. R. L. A., I should think that a man would get good and tired, and that very soon, of wasting his affection on a wife who shows him none in return. The marble-goddess business doesn't go far. We must have something human and responsive on which to bestow our love. Otherwise it dies of coldness and neglect.

DOROTHY DIX.
Dear Dorothy Dix—We are a couple of young girls 16 years old. Will you please give us a few suggestions about how to pass the evening, as we do not care for either sewing or reading and do not go out? ANXIOUS.

Answer: Well, my dears, there is conversation left to you. That's the favorite indoor sport of women. And there are cards, a knowledge of which Talleyrand advised every one to acquire in their youth in order that they

If too fat, don't wait—go to your druggist now and for one dollar (the same price the world over) procure a box of these tablets. might not pass a bored old age. And there are puzzle games, particularly the cross-word puzzle, which is making all of us sit up of nights just now.

But if you do not sew or read you are depriving yourself of the two great resources of your sex, and my earnest advice to you is to cultivate a fondness for both. If you like to sew and like to read you can never really be bored, because you have always something interesting to do, something new and wonderful to think about.

So, anxious little girls, I urge you to get someone to teach you how to sew. Form a little club of girls who sew of evenings together, and while you are sewing have one of your number read aloud to you some thrilling story of adventure. In that way you will learn to love both sewing and reading.

WEDDINGS

DRESS By MARY MARSHALL

Turquoise and Coral Are Among the Smart Color Combinations for Spring.

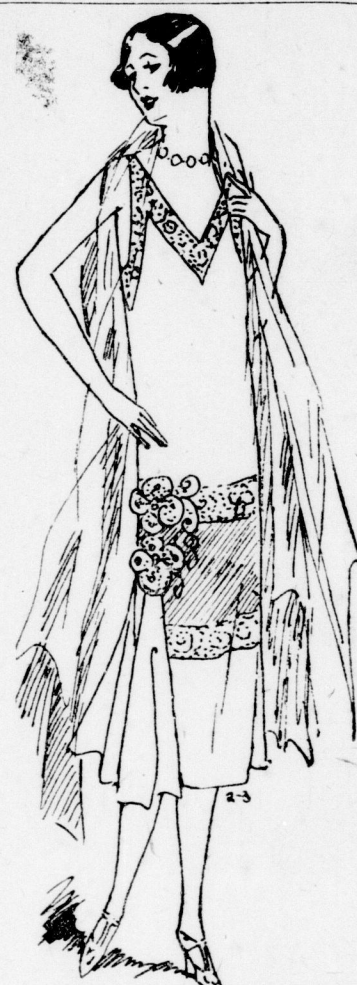

To say that colors were rampant in the new clothes designed here and abroad for spring would be a mistake, but it is true to the facts to say that not since the war have women in France shown as much willingness as now to put aside their everlasting black frock and to show themselves in colors. And the colors seem to be lighter.

Immediately after the war, you know, there were many observers who felt that women would express their relief from anxiety and their joy in the establishment of peace by bursting forth in all colors of the rainbow; and while certain folk most concerned with what women were trying to decide whether a virile green or a glorious shade of rose should be chosen to express the new peace that had come, most women went right on wearing black. Black and brown frocks were as popular for evening during the months that followed the armistice as they had been before.

Perhaps there was sound psychological reasons behind this. Perhaps women, and men thrown off the gloom of the war as quickly as had been expected. But bright colors are no longer a matter of question. And they are made easier to splendor now by the manner in which they are combined with gold.

The sketch shows a frock of turquoise blue georgette with inserted bands of coral georgette embroidered in gold, with gold and turquoise motifs at the side, holding a separate circular piece which falls on the skirt. Two tulle scarfs are worn with the frock—one of coral and one of turquoise. Quite characteristic of the season is the approaching of this combination of two pastel shades—and when it is achieved in an evening frock an attractive circular piece which falls on the skirt. Two tulle scarfs are worn with the frock—one of coral and one of turquoise.

Orchid and hydrangea blue are combined in some of the new frocks for late winter and spring.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

THE WAY WITH MAYONNAISE.

The making of mayonnaise dressing is a trick we learned from French cooks, but we have developed a method all our own in making use of this important ingredient.

Many Canadian travellers abroad miss most and are most eager to taste when they return home is "our salad dressing." The French call it "sauce à l'huile." They use it in their salads mixed with mayonnaise dressing. True, they have salads in France, Italy and elsewhere, and they have mayonnaise, but they don't use their mayonnaise on their salads. Such a dish as our pineapple salad, consisting of slices of pineapple filled with cream, served on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise is the sort of salad that Canadians usually find only in their native land.

Among Europeans usually there is only one way of serving salad leaves and that is with French dressing. Most Canadians prefer to encounter lettuce leaves under some concoction consisting of bananas rolled in nuts, "slathered" with mayonnaise, or beneath a tasty bit of chicken mayonnaise, or something of that sort.

Fish mayonnaise is a favorite dish with the European cooks, and it offers a splendid way for using up left-over fish. However, the European cook serves his rich mixture on shells, whereas we would serve it in a bed of lettuce leaves.

A very good fish mayonnaise can be made from cold cooked fish or from canned salmon or other such fish. But the fish mayonnaise made famous by some of the renowned French cooks is a more complicated affair. The salmon or steurgeon must be cooked specially in the kettle in which it is cooked there must be a few carrots, a little celery and a leek. Moreover, there must be beets, potatoes, cucumber, zucchini, capers, olives, beans, mushrooms, bits of cauliflower, crayfish and lemon by way of garnishing.

WOODSTOCK EXPECTS REDUCTION IN TAXES

Surplus From Last Year Aids Committees in Striking Estimates.

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Feb. 3.—According to a preliminary draft of the estimates drawn up by the chairman of the various committees of the city council, the ratepayers are assured of a reduction in their tax rate for the year 1925. A surplus from last year, instead of the substantial overdraft as was the case in the previous year, is partly accountable for the anticipated reduction. Last year the tax rate was 39½ mills, and if the board of education utilizes its surplus of about $6,000 to reduce its estimates, the result will be a net reduction of over a mill in the rate of the city. Issuing debentures to pay the highway bills this year, the mayor favors taking the amount out of current revenue.

Library Report.

The annual report of the public library board shows that over two thousand persons in the city are taking advantage of the many opportunities offered by the library. During the year, 59,525 books were taken out by the members, of these 53,262 were for home use and 6,263 for reference purposes. The library now contains 13,900 volumes, 558 having been added during the year.

Mrs. John A. Rowe.

Mrs. John A. Rowe, a resident of Woodstock for the past 45 years, passed away at her home here today after an illness extending over the past few months. Mrs. Rowe was formerly Miss Eliza Palmer Northover, was well known and very highly respected in this city. She was born in Jersey, Channel Islands, and came to Woodstock from her birthplace as a young woman. She was an Anglican in religion.

Survivors are the husband, one son, William B. of this city, and three daughters, Mrs. Cameron Clarkson, Woodstock, Mrs. Edward Davis, East Oxford, and Mrs. John Whitshire of Detroit. Nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild also survive.

Get rid of constipation by internal cleanliness

HEADACHES, biliousness, sleepless nights, heaviness, are Nature's warning that intestinal poisons are flooding your system. If this is allowed to continue, you may become a victim of serious organic disease.

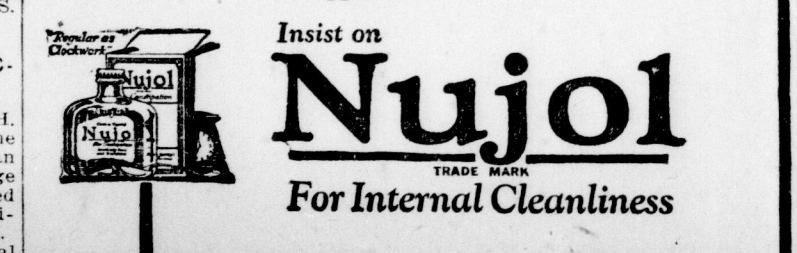

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favour Lubrication

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot grip. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

The Boston Red Sox stand up to the feed rack this coming season with any of their contemporaries—provided Lee Fohl succeeds in making his first start with Boston and stay right where he is put until Fohl manages to get someone better. There is a little tale about Prothro that is worth reading.

Last spring down in Tampa, where the Red Sox were training, the team appeared to be a much better ball team than Griffith had taken to Washington. The players were full of snap and pep, and there was much debate as to whether or not the Sox were the best team in the league. The Sox were the best team in the league, and the third base corner was plugged in—no filled—and the plug kept dropping out all the time.

This year, Prothro, who started with Washington in 1924 and was sent back to Memphis at his own request, will start with Boston and stay right where he is put until Fohl manages to get someone better. There is a little tale about Prothro that is worth reading.

The Sox were the best team in the league, and the third base corner was plugged in—no filled—and the plug kept dropping out all the time.

While Prothro did go back to Memphis, and while he was perhaps not as fast as Buege at third, there was no question that his presence with Washington did give the team more hope for the future than might otherwise have been the case.

If he can produce the same sort of mad up-lift at Boston it will make a difference in the American league, for if Boston can win ten games more than in 1924 the Red Sox will have supremacy of the league. And if they happen to play better than they did in 1924, the Sox will be the team that will prevent Washington from winning another pennant. It is certain that Washington will be attacked harder in 1925 than in 1924.

A New Pilot.

Mickey Silverman, alias Mike Baker, alias "The Mighty Mite," is announced as London's new manager in the 1925 M.C. League. Michaelovitch came here last summer under somewhat of a cloud, but departed in a cloud of glory. Umpires who had worked in other leagues and that thumb-print system with which ball players speedily find out all there is to know about experienced ball players, quickly penetrated Mike's disguise. Mike couldn't disguise his ability on the ball field. He didn't look or act like a sandlotter. Moreover as far as investigators could learn, none of the branches of the Baker family had at any time been located either in Palestine or adjacent countries.

Baker was offered the post in the middle of the season last year, but declined. He's a likable chap, full of fight as he is short on inches, and has real baseball brains. Though he's had three or four years of near big league experience, it hadn't made him a mechanical player. He was always alive to situations. He rarely made a wrong move and was always a couple of moves ahead of the play—mentally.

Last year when Mike joined the team, the Tecs were a sorry looking ball team. He filled the hole at short and everywhere injected new life and confidence into the team. He added dash to their play and to their thinking. He should be a success.

Determined To Maintain One-Goal Lead Over Sarnia Kids.

VISITORS HUSKY

The London juniors are assured of a good crowd tonight when they start their trek for the O. H. A. championship against Sarnia. It's the return game of the group play-off, and the Londoners, while they have only a slender one-goal margin, are big favorites.

The locals were not satisfied with their game in Sarnia and have worked out each night since. They had one midnight workout, showing how keen they are to let nothing slip tonight.

The Borderers are a husky bunch of youngsters. They have been playing city league games, and though they did not get team work, because of drawing a bye in the group, they did not lose out otherwise. Two of them have starred on the intermediate team and altogether they are a fairly hard-litten bunch of youngsters, capable of giving another team a battle at home or away.

The locals already have a partial route laid out for them, once they dispose of the Sarnians. They will meet either Paris or Simcoe Friday, and the return game will be played here Monday night. Paris defeated the Londoners 3-2 in an exhibition tilt, so the fans have something in store for them in the next round.

Tonight's game, which has been handled by Toronto referees, in the opinion of the local fans, have missed one bit. If Pascoe and Jones were the best for Harveys, all scoring was accomplished in the first period when Lynch, Brown and the C. P. R. proved superior in speed and weight, and their effective shooting rounded out the winning combination nicely.

Associated Press Despatch.
Boston, Feb. 3.—Ottawa moved up a peg in the National hockey league standing by defeating the oft-defeated Boston Bruins here tonight 3 to 1. As a spectacle the game lacked much, as Ottawa for more than half of the contest seemed to have difficulty in getting together. On the other hand the Bruins had developed a little more team work than in earlier games. Both teams specialized on defensive tactics, and the result was colorless from the point of view of the spectators. For the third consecutive Tuesday the arena management had to cope with a snowstorm. The crowd did not exceed 2,000.

Herberts of Boston was the star of his team and scored the Bruins' single goal, putting the locals in the lead at the end of the first period. Clancy evened it for Ottawa in the second, and in the final period Boucher and Smith added the Senators' margin of victory. It was a rough contest, but with no serious incidents. Boucher and Jackson collided frequently and each drew two penalties.

Referee—Jerry Lafamme, Toronto.
Summary:
First period—1, Boston, Herberts.
Second period—2, Ottawa, Clancy.
Third period—3, Ottawa, Boucher.
10:10, 4, Ottawa, Smith, 10:20.

This is the fourth of a series of articles on the remarkable athletic career of Paavo Nurmi, the marvel of Finland. At ten years of age he ran 1,500 metres in 5 minutes and 2 seconds, and now is breaking world's records about every time he faces the starter. Generally recognized as the greatest runner of all time, the story of his athletic life reads like a romance.

The Olympics Loom Ahead.
Seventeen-year-old Paavo Nurmi was the hero of Abo upon his return from the Finnish national junior championships at Helsinki in 1914. When Paavo stepped to the door of his compartment he found half the town on hand to greet him. He would have rushed to the embrace of his father, and then raced with little Martti, his younger brother, to their home in the outskirts of the town but he was caught up by members of the Abo Urheiluliitto and borne to a neighboring platform, where his victory was described and extolled in orations.

This was a new experience for the young athlete, and he thrilled to it as would any youth of his years. Yet despite his liking for the acclaim he found it did not equal the joy that had been his as he breasted the tape, the winner of the junior 3,000-metre run, and the creator of a new junior record for the distance. That reaction—the joy in victory, the lesser pleasure in acclaim—has been a Nurmi characteristic throughout his career. As victory has followed victory Paavo has been less and less desirous of the plaudits of the crowd. Nowadays, when he does respond, it is with the perfunctory nod and the wooden smile of one who follows custom. The cheers are part of the game, but he finds no real pleasure in them.

But the hero of the hour in Abo is expected to serve his country for sixty minutes. A band of worshipping schoolboys made the journey homeward a noisy procession with the winner of the junior 3,000-metre run on hand, and wherever he appeared he was besieged. On Sunday, in the Lutheran church, pastor sought vainly to command the rapt multitude to disband the throng, which kept wandering toward the Nurmi.

War Spoils Game Schedule.
But, for Paavo, the junior championships were over. That record-breaking victory was merely a step toward the goal he had set. His eye was on the Olympic games, two years off.

It was just after then that Paavo developed a distinct dislike for one Wilhelm Hohenzollern. Paavo was old enough to know that a scrap of the prophecy that developing would not be halted for an athletic meeting of world athletes in a 1916 Olympic meet. That meant the upsetting of his program.

However, Paavo did not allow the years of carnage to interfere with his training. As he was not drawn in the struggle he continued his training the roads and fields with his home town rivals, competing in the Sunday afternoon track meets, and journeying each year to Helsinki for the national championships.

His first championship success was duplicated in 1915 in the junior title events, and in 1916 he was a senior competitor. But he lacked the wisdom of his older rivals that year, and for the first time in open competition failed to win his event.

Paavo ascribes his failure in a measure due to the strict requirements of the Abo Technical Institute. Paavo was appointed to that school and at the outset found the schedule of study and laboratory work a most difficult one.

"Our schools are not like yours in this country," Paavo says. "The three-year training we receive is much more intensive. At 8 a. m. the school opens, and except for the noon and evening recesses it lasts until 10 o'clock at night. There are no organized sports in the schools, no time for them; no coaches to supervise them if there were time. And although I was out on the roads at every opportunity during the warmer months, and in winter used my skis to good advantage, I could not keep up the athletic training I had been accustomed to."

Not Yet at Full Growth.
The summer vacation periods, however, found him back on his old schedule, but he had not then attained his full growth and development. Bringing himself to championship form was much more difficult than in later years. Speed was at his call, but not endurance.

His final year in the technical institute proved somewhat less exacting, and Paavo by continuing a year-round training program—skiing and skating during the colder months, playing soccer football and boxing when the roads were not in condition for foot-racing—was better prepared for the 1917 and 1918 national championships. He won the senior 3,000-metre run in 1917 and the 1,500-metre run in 1918.

It was not until 1919, however, when plans were under way for the seventh Olympic games at Antwerp that Paavo attracted the attention of the outside world. At that time there was much speculation as to the strength of the team Finland would send to the games. The record made by the little Baltic nation in 1912 had not been forgotten, and athletic followers the world over were excited to know if Finland's new stars, Kolomoineen, Saariisto and Taipaleen in the making, Paavo Nurmi was ambitious to show it had.

THE WELL LIGHTED CORNER HAS THE WELL WORN CHAIR

WHEN everybody makes a bee line for a certain corner of the living room, or looks with envious eyes on its occupant, it's time to get the other chairs into use. Light will do it, by the generous use of floor and table lamps, well shaded to kill the glare.

You will be surprised at the wonderful difference an extra floor or table lamp makes to your living room.

To obtain the best results, choose wide shades that throw the light upward and downward. Use 50 or 75-watt white Edison Mazda Lamps. Put 25-watt all frosted Edison Mazda Lamps in small decorative table lamps, wall brackets and candlesticks, always using shades.

Near you is an Edison Mazda Lamp store, recognizable by the yellow and blue cartons. There you can obtain real information about good lighting.

White Edison Mazda Lamp most suitable for portable lamp use, as the filament cannot be seen.

When the War Started.

A Detroit paper, writing a sketch of "Who's Who in Detroit Aeronautics," makes mention of an officer of the U. S. aviation section.

It is interesting to note the progress of this man, who, starting as a bookkeeper, went on to learn his trade as toolmaker, and then on to designing engineer. When the war came he offered his services, and his skill as a designing mechanic was at once recognized.

In one essential the Detroit paper is wrong, and that is where it states:

"He entered the service of the army in 1917, when the war started."

There are thousands of men in Canada, some of them still in hospitals, others minus legs or arms, who have a recollection that the war started in August of 1914.

Racing Against Death.

Men, women and children died in Nome, Alaska, while sleds of dog teams raced across the waste of hundreds of miles trying to arrive in time with a consignment of anti-toxin to fight a scourge of diphtheria. The one doctor left up there knew that with this serum he could fight a winning battle, without it he could not.

Ordinarily a dog team going on a trip across the great open spaces that skirt the Arctic circle is not an item of news. True, the moving picture men may use such an outfit now and then to give a touch of color to some otherwise stupid play, but apart from that the drivers and their strings of huskies go about their way unnoticed. For days, though, they have been taking their place on the front pages of the newspapers of the world—they were engaged in a mad chase with death itself. The crack of the whip, the flying snow, the relief train waiting at some agreed upon point to take up the flight—it had all become news.

How lightly we value and how easily we hold the advantages we have. In a city or country home around here a case of diphtheria means a call to the doctor; and the use of the telephone makes that easy. He knows at once the nature of the case, and with his needle the medical man proceeds to apply the serum that has proved its worth in fighting the disease right from the start, and winning.

It is different in Nome. There was no serum to speak of when the plague came, and word was flashed out by wireless of the need. The necessary supply was sent off, but it could land only 650 miles away from the infected city. The final lap of the journey had to be made by dog sleds, and in a temperature that was 60 degrees below zero. Over a country where trails are lost by blinding storms, across lakes and rivers where the ice piles up rough and high, stopping now and then to cut loose a faithful dog who could no longer stand the killing pace, all night and all day, the race proceeded. The north had its dog derbies, but the records set up then were smashed. This was no sporting event; it was a matter of life and death.

With a final yelp and crack of the long whip the team running the last lap arrived in Nome carrying the anti-toxin that was to save the lives of the people. The 650 miles had been made at an average speed of over five miles an hour in a temperature 60 below zero. There is still romance in the world and the drivers of the northern dog sleds, and may we stretch a point to include the dogs themselves, have added a chapter as fine as ever was written.

A Losing Team Needs a Cheer.

A crowd attending a hockey game is an interesting mirror of human nature, and in its voice it does at times show some of the traits of character to which frail humanity is heir. Above all else there is that old feeling, "We want to see the home team win," a very natural and quite a proper attitude to take. But in hockey, as in anything else, one team must lose unless the contest ends in a tie.

It was noticeable at the last hockey game between Niagara Falls and London that there was a tendency in many sections of the rink to cheer for the home team when it looked as though they would win, and on the other hand to offer a great deal of adverse criticism when the Niagara Falls team was running ahead in the scoring of goals. Of course it is necessary to make allowance for the feeling of the hockey enthusiast who watches every play and expects his home team to have a monopoly of skill and foresight, but after that allowance is made, and allowing a fairly wide margin for it, there remains a big gap between cheering for a team only when it is winning and good sportsmanship. It was a matter of some relief to find in that great crowd a few here and there who were devoting their vocal efforts to telling the London team, when the score was against them, that they could even up the count and win. Even a hockey player likes a pat on the back when he is losing as well as when he is winning.

No hockey game is complete without a referee, and Lou Marsh is the best official in the game. It is not possible that he should give 100 per cent decisions all the time, because no referee ever does accomplished that. The action of London hockey fans at the game in booing and hissing the referee when he appeared between periods with the intention of announcing hockey scores in games being played elsewhere was not a big enough performance for a city the size of London, the central point of Western Ontario. A city or a crowd will never become famous for the small things done by it, but famous by the big, whole-some actions that speak the mind and calibre of a fair-minded people. London can very well stand to make amends by giving evidence that it is big enough to cheer for the home team when it is losing, and also that it realizes that a referee has only one aim in view, trying to have the game played according to the rules and giving his decisions to the best of his judgment.

Vincent Massey Is Right.

Vincent Massey, president of the Massey-Harris Company, struck a new note in the giving of addresses when he told a gathering at Hamilton that one difficulty with Canada was the proneness of its people to measure themselves by the people to the south.

It is a common practice, and is indulged in to such an extent at times that it has become a common fault.

Our politicians do it, many of our writers follow suit, especially when they want to complain of conditions here. They hold up the progress of a nation of 120,000,000 people and draw comparisons to be applied to Canada with less than 10,000,000 population. Not that there is any harm in taking from the progress of United States any good point that comes to notice—but the conditions are so widely apart that comparisons are not fair, and when given in a spirit of hurtful criticism can readily have the effect of making people think we are tied in Canada to a hitching post, whereas United States is bounding ahead every month and every year to greater prosperity.

Canadians need to turn their eyes and their minds to Canada. It is of more interest to know where we have been, where we are today, and where we are going. If we are making progress, and we are, it is of more national importance than that United States is doing the same. If we are evolving a policy that is suited to develop Canada nationally it is of more importance than the enunciation of a new policy from Washington. Let us put a firm hand to the plow, turn our own Canadian furrow true, and there can be no doubt about our national destination.

When the Load Seems Too Heavy.

The sympathy of the whole district goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ritchie of Chatham, because the load they have been called upon to bear seems too heavy. The husband has been out of steady employment, which is nothing to his discredit, but at the first of the week he had a chance to start work cutting ice and he went.

After dinner the mother put the two little ones, a boy of two and a baby girl of twelve months, to bed for their afternoon sleep. Outside the door of the bedroom a small stove was placed, and the mother proceeded with her work. The babes asleep, the husband at work again, things may have been fairly cheerful in that little home.

One short hour later neighbors were struggling to do what the mother had failed to accomplish, rescue her children from a fire which came from an explosion of the stove. A messenger called the father from his work, and when he arrived his cottage was nothing but smoldering ruins—the children had gone with the home.

The parents can probably secure another place in which to live; in time they can gather articles of furniture, but the blotting out of two little lives leaves a heartache and a dull pain that even the kind words and generous deeds of friends and neighbors cannot remove.

Note and Comment.

Four-wheel brakes are not much use to the man who puts both feet on the gas.

The lowbrow says a lotta snow fell last night. Highbrow is he who admits it was a copious precipitation.

Some 1,500 skirt makers in Montreal have gone on strike over low wages. They object to skirts and the pay envelope getting shorter together.

Fifty dozen people who were dabbling in wheat when it slumped are wishing today they'd stayed sitting by the kitchen stove thumbing over the spring seed catalogue.

London city council had a session that lasted 42 minutes. It used to take that long for the spectators to get their legs stretched comfortably before starting to enjoy an evening's fun.

Where It Belongs

Chicago man is reported to have made $3,000,000 in seven days in the wheat market. —News item.

I couldn't help just wonderin' how come he unto such chunks of wealth, me knowin' how it couldn't be if he had growed the wheat himself.

When I was livin' on the farm we never made such fortunes there, and we was workin' late at night and siffin' in the mornin' air, but when we got the taxes paid and had the grain all cut and tied, why when we sold the year's hard work there wasn't much to lay aside.

I'd like to take that Yankee man, that million dollar start of Jay, and put him where I used to work and start him in the clover hay.

I'd go to him next day at dawn and put a scythe into his hand, and walk him out to where the hay was sittin' high upon the land, I'd make him go unto the field nor wince when he would blink and frown, because I give to him the job of cuttin' all fence corners down.

And when come the time to cut the wheat I'd make him stoop up till 'twas done, I wouldn't give him half a day for pryin' thistles from his thumb.

When threshing time she come to us I'd stick him up inside the mow, and let him work until he sweat like some fly-bitten muley cow. Next day I'd put him on the stack and let him fork until he bust, up where he'd get his fill of work, likewise a goodly share of dust.

Then after I was done of that why I would set him on the load, and let him drive ten miles to town a-bumpin' on a country road. I bet he'd think before he quit as how Bill Smith or Johnny Jones would have to raise a pile of wheat before they had three million bones.

It riles me up a bit, but it does, to see some Jay with puley hair, who wouldn't know to save his hide which way was gee and which was haw, a-sittin' in behind a desk and rakin' millions in his till, who never stooped a sheaf of wheat or got the bran chop at a mill.

I'd like to get a hold of them, I'd start and use 'em sort of rough, I'd take the seeds from them to give unto the men what growed the stuff.—ARK.

Where Is Hutchinson?

Resident of Portland, Ore., Asks the Question and Former Postmaster is Able To Supply the Information.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—Can you tell me how "Hutchinson" or "Hutchison" postoffice got its name? I looked it up on the map and found that it is near London. Some of our relatives once farmed there, and we were wondering if you could give us any information.
R. A. REID.
187 17th St., Portland, Ore.

The Advertiser is indebted to Robert Hutchinson, of Parkhill, formerly postmaster at Hutchinson, for the following information about the postoffice and its name, the postoffice itself having been closed 15 years ago when the mail formerly delivered there was put on the rural mail service.

Hutchinson postoffice was established in 1895 on the farm formerly owned by my father, William Hutchinson, who was one of the early settlers in that locality. The postoffice was named after him, he being the oldest settler, having located on the farm, lot 4, concession 26, McGillivray, when it was a wilderness. The farm is still in the possession of the Hutchinson family. The postoffice was in the northwest corner of Middlesex county, about half-way between Parkhill and Grand Bend. If your correspondent wishes any further information I will be glad to supply any information I can.
ROBERT HUTCHINSON, Ex-Postmaster.

Was King Tut Joseph?

Correspondent Says Some of the Authorities Claim That Famous Tomb Was For Joseph of the Bible, and Will Be Found To Be Empty.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—I have followed with interest the discussion now going on in research circles in the old land over the question, "Was Tutankhamen (or King Tut) the Joseph of the Bible?" This Professor Selkowitzsch, the renowned Egyptologist, maintains that he was.
If this theory is correct it follows that when the sarcophagus comes to be opened it will be found to be empty.

Tutankhamen, says the professor, was never a king of Egypt. He was a full-fledged regent, or rather coregent, in the time of the 18th dynasty, which corresponds to the time in which Joseph lived. Tutankhamen was a heretical pharaoh, who erased from the Egyptian monuments the names of the various gods—Ra, Osiris, Isis, Ptah, Seb—and substituted the new deity Amen. The professor declares, is an error, and the word should be "Aton," which is, of course, the Hebrew for Lord.

If Tutankhamen and Joseph were the same it would explain the fact that no "Book of the Dead," or anything in the nature of a religious ritual, was discovered in the tomb.

Professor Selkowitzsch points out that the Talmud states that Joseph had concealed three precious treasures in Egypt. These, he holds, must refer to a concealment in the grave, "the safest place to conceal treasures."

The Jewish World, which quotes the professor's theory, says that it will account for the confusion in which the treasures of the tomb were found.
A violent panic must have prevailed at the Exodus and nothing is more likely than that in the wild rush the remains of Joseph were hurriedly, and perhaps surreptitiously, taken from the sarcophagus in which they had for so long lain and that the treasures that had been disinterred in the process were replaced and that the tomb might be quickly closed again.
WE SHALL SEE.

Had Heard Mr. Christmas.

Divine Healer and Prophet Made Predictions That World War Meant the Second Coming of Christ.

Editor of The Advertiser:
Sir,—I noticed in your issue of Jan. 31, 1925, a reference to the prediction of Rev. E. Christmas, Bible prophet and divine healer, that wheat would go to $2.50 or more a bushel for the 1924 crop. This reminds me of having once seen and heard Mr. Christmas. It was in the early days of the great war and shortly after the allied forces attacked the Dardanelles.

In appearance he was a tall, dark-complexioned man of middle age or over, with long, straight, dark hair of the vogue in early Christian times. He apparently not only aped the works but, in this detail, the appearance of the first Christians. In religion, he belonged to a society or sect of zealots diffusing enthusiasm from every pore.

This people believed in divine healing, speaking in tongues, and the casting out of devils. On the front wall of the little church hung a collection of shoes, crutches and such trappings, intimating that people came in lame and halt and went out walking and praising the Lord. I heard one woman speak in a foreign tongue; so foreign that neither I nor any one present, including the lady herself, could interpret it, so the purport of her testimony was lost and her effort wasted.

On one occasion the regular preacher (not Mr. Christmas) was addressing the congregation and claiming to have seen Christ, in a vision, when a youth, who was subject to fits, was suddenly seized of one in his pew. The preacher ceased speaking and, as the victim lay standing before the altar, he commanded the evil spirit, in the name of Christ, to come out of him. I didn't notice him come out. I may have been blinded by the firm belief that it was not the boy that the devil was in.

Reverting to the "prophet," the gist of his address was a prediction that the end of the world was at the Dardanelles, after which the Jews would return to Palestine, and then he could accurately predict the time of the second coming of Christ. The "prophet" declared it would be in his day and he would not die but would, with others of the faithful, be caught up in the clouds, and with Christ would judge the world.

He had been praying for this for the last forty years, he said, and though it might seem selfish, he was glad that his prayers were now going to be answered. Time has proven the fallacy of this prophecy. The Dardanelles were not taken and the "prophet" himself is dead, so that all hopes of its fulfillment are blasted. Many farmers and others who still have wheat will, however, hope that his prediction regarding the prize will be more successful.

SPEAKS AT DUTTON

Alex. Campbell of Iona Elected President of Elgin Liberals.

PLAN ORGANIZATION

Preparations Are Made To Win Riding—Success Is Foreseen.

Special To The Advertiser
By Staff Correspondent.

Dutton, Feb. 3.—Liberalism, its integrity and upright policy, was clearly pointed out at the annual meeting of the Elgin Liberal association, held here today. The gathering was one of the largest and most enthusiastic held in this constituency in a decade, which is plain evidence of the confidence this riding has in its present leaders.

Duncan Marshall, dominion organizer of the Liberal party, and W. E. Sinclair, leader in the provincial house, gave inspiring addresses, which were listened to most attentively by a capacity hall of Liberals, many of them women.

ELECT OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected:

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Exactly and cheaply made at home, but is equally good for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right off a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs, loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying cough, wheeze and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.
Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

THOMAS D. SCHALL, blind congressman from Minnesota, whose election is being contested by Magnus Johnson, who charges it was obtained by "unlawful means and corrupt methods."

for the provincial riding: President, Alex. Campbell, Iona; 1st vice, Neil McLaughlin, St. Thomas; 2nd vice, John Gillis, Aldboro; secretary-treasurer, William Patton, Dutton; West Lorne, Earl Lemon; Dutton, Leslie Hamilton; St. Thomas, G. McLean, Colin Walker; Aldboro, John C. Gillis, Alex. McColl; Dunwich, Douglas Blue, John McPherson; Southwold, John Campbell, John McNabb. Chairladies of the various municipalities—Southwold, Miss McLaughlin and Mrs. John Campbell; Dunwich, Mrs. Arthur Gow and Miss Mary Duncan; Rodney, Miss Bissett; West Lorne, Mrs. Wainess; Aldboro, Mrs. Norman McNichol and Mrs. Russell Love; Dutton, Mrs. J. A. Snell.

The election of officers for the federal riding was left over until Feb. 17, when a convention will be held in St. Thomas. These officers would have been elected today but for the absence of representatives of two townships in East Elgin.

J. A. McLean of Rodney, last year's president, who presided in introducing the speakers, said: "I have great pleasure in introducing Mr. Sinclair, one of Canada's best stamp of Liberal, and Canada's coming premier." Applause.

Calls For Organization.

In opening his address, Mr. Sinclair pointed out the great necessity for organization. "Organization is the foundation of success," he said. "If we are to be a successful party we must organize and place a candidate in the field as soon as possible. Choose your candidate without delay, and West Elgin will carry the next election. It is a fact that there are only 14 Liberals in the provincial house at the present time, but they are active, progressive men, who uphold the principles of Liberalism. They are not like the men on the government side, who have not measured up to what was expected of them, and the people of Ontario are now looking forward to the Liberals to govern the affairs of this province."

STRIKERS PICKET MONTREAL SHOPS

Garment Workers Picket 115 Establishments Affected by Walkout.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, Feb. 3.—More than a thousand striking garment workers in Montreal were today holding mass meetings, and discussing the best methods to obtain better wages and working conditions. Their leaders declared the strike to be nearly 90 per cent effective, and that at least 1,500 workers were out.

Early this morning pickets surrounded the 115 establishments affected by the walkout, but there was no disorder. Precautionary squads of police were patrolling the district.

Manufacturers and employers claim that there was a great number of workers who did not join in the walkout.

Facts About Optometry

Why do small errors of vision cause more distress in some cases than larger ones in other cases? Sometimes this is a question of temperament. But often a small error is not known by the patient to exist. The never-ending irritation to which the nerves are subjected by reason of the eye strain has a detrimental effect upon a nervously organized person. Naturally the smaller defects are liable to be overlooked? Yes, a defect that is very pronounced is almost sure to get attention, while smaller ones are overlooked because they are not known to exist.

RUSSIANS LOOK TO TROTZKY WITH BOLSHEVISM ON WANE

Mrs. Philip Snowden Thrills London Audience With Attack On Soviet.

DESCRIBES HORRORS

Declares, However, Nation Is Swinging From Left To Extreme Right.

No other London audience had ever heard such a severe denunciation of Bolshevism as that delivered last night before the men's and women's Canadian clubs of this city by Mrs. Philip Snowden. She spoke in the Smallman & Ingram dining-room to nearly three hundred people, who marvelled at the eloquence of her delivery and the knowledge and conviction with which she spoke.

The impression which she left behind her was given in the heavy demonstration during her hasty withdrawal from the banquet hall at the close of her address.

Was Sent To Russia.

The audience had only just come into contact with this great personality—a personality which was recognized four and a half years ago by the British labor movement, when it delegated Mrs. Philip Snowden to be a member of a party of twelve sent to Russia to make inquiry into conditions there. The delegation was sent in response to an invitation from the Bolshevik government.

The audience, as a whole, may not have been in agreement with her prediction that "at no distant date, Labor government would be established."

Cash Is Saved As Auto Barks

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Two armed bandits, operating a stolen car, were frustrated in their attempt to rob a Chinese restaurant here late last night, when their motor car stalled. They had carried a cash register containing $100 from the restaurant, but were forced to drop it in order to make good their escape when the automobile refused to start immediately.

ished in Great Britain as its almost sole form of government, but by means of an automatic appliance, it demonstrated that it approved of her ideas on Bolshevism.

"There is absolutely no single point of political contact between the Labor government of Britain and the first Bolshevik government in Russia," she declared.

Communism Plus.

"Bolshevism is communism, plus militarism, and all that that word implies. I have no sympathy with its revolutionary ideals, and its terrible tribulations. I visited Russia myself. I saw to it that my interpreters were not supplied by the Bolshevik sympathizers, and so I know conditions as they actually are.

"I found that there was no democracy and no liberty in Russia, except on paper, and this remains true today. There has been a change for the better, 'tis true, but the change has been economic only.

"The political terror of Lenin was far more horrible than the political terror of the Czar. There is no secret voting by ballot. Voting at election time is by a show of hands, and people are afraid to vote against the government's nominees. There is no freedom of the press or of speech. There is conscription of labor, both male and female. There is a condition of ignorance and poverty among the peasantry. There is child labor. There is no legitimate private trading in shops.

Indicts Soviet.

"My two great indictments of the Bolshevik government are: First, that they have taken over the old tyrannical methods of government in Russia; second, that they have turned unscrupulousness into a cult.

"Every other country in Europe has changed its government two or three times since the war and yet the Bolshevik government persists. Why? Because of the folly of the allied governments in financing worthless adventures in Russia. And because the revolutionary tribunals have kept the Bolsheviks in their thrones.

"And let me say here, something which I have not said publicly before. One of the most deplorable things in my own country (and in your country, too, possibly, and I know conditions here) is the academic theorist who approves of the theory of communism and goes out his way in lecturing to his classes to support the Bolshevik of Russia. He is ignorant of the tears of the people of Russia and the misery in which they dwell, as he sits in his class in comfort and talks.

Great Improvements.

"There have been great improvements in Russia during the past four and a half years, however, and I venture to say that they have taken place as the Russian government has receded from Bolshevism.

"There has been a gradual change on the part of the leaders from the extreme left to the extreme right. Compromise has begun to work. Before he died, Lenin was on the extreme edge of the right, and I think that Trotsky must have slipped over the edge entirely. We don't know what will happen to him yet.

"Compromise and the retreat of Bolshevism marks the strongest political movement in Russia today. As does the establishment of the new economic policy, which is nothing more than the re-establishment of capitalism.

"I believe that Lenin was one of the greatest political leaders of his time, because, in his march back to his starting point, he showed himself to be a greater man than the majority of the men of his time.

Look To Trotsky.

"People are now looking to Trotsky, who began his political life as a pacifist, and who has since created such a tremendous military machine that Russia must be reckoned with among the nations.

"Trade in Russia is reviving, slowly but steadily. And let me tell you, as one who knows that the former chancellor of the British exchequer had no intention of granting one half-penny on a loan for Russia, unless on guarantee that it would be impossible for the people of Russia to cheat. Russia is gradually coming to understand that she must recognize her debts if she is to secure a place among the nations.

"Bolshevism is the product of Czarism with all its cruelties. And for what I know of it, I condemn it. Do not make the mistake that I am making against the Russian people. I am not. I have a great admiration for them. All nations of the earth are tied up in common bundles. The suffering of one means the suffering of all and the well-being of one means the well-being of all.

"I am not alone in condemning Bolshevism. The whole report of the delegation of twelve sent to Russia, was a condemnation of Bolshevism. And four of the delegates were just as definitely opposed to it as I am. The only difference is that I have kept up the fight. And I shall keep it up as long as there are men and women who misunderstand what Bolshevism means."

Mrs. Snowden, wife of the former chancellor of the British exchequer, who comes to Canada under the auspices of the National Council of Education.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE NO. 97

You will find this puzzle one of the best you have tackled so far. It is neat in design, not too many words, and the definitions are clear. "Rolling along" would be a good one for the family to work out together. Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical) according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock. Each number in the white squares also refers to a definition in the accompanying table. Each definition suggests a word possessing the exact number of letters to fit the white spaces allotted to it. Each white space is to receive one letter only. Words start only in numbered squares.
