More British Subjects. The 600 mark in the number of naturalizations that have been made of foreigners has been passed and still the list grows. This morning Mr. Justice Craig signed nearly 100 certificates, 45 more were filled out ready for his signature and 50 additional were received later in the day from the committee rooms and the different creeks.

To Be Mining Recorder. It was rumored today that Tom Hinton, who this time last year was acting comptroller of the territory, is to be appointed mining recorder for the Clear Creek district.

NOT NECESSARY. Dr. McLaughlin has written a book which tells how the physical body can be filled with vitality. It is not necessary to read his book. Just trade with Dunham, who carries the finest line of family groceries in Dawson.

PRACTICAL ECONOMY. Never spend a cent unless you are benefitted by so doing. If you see anything that will benefit you and the price is right, buy it. If everybody did this they would save many a dollar. If you have a cough or a cold don't wait till it runs into pneumonia or consumption, but treat it promptly and avoid the expense of a physician. If you have a cold or cough consult Cribbs, the druggist, who has a full line of the very best cough and cold remedies on the market, which he is selling at virtually outside prices.

ROSS' ACCEPTANCE PROVES UNANSWERABLE

Enthusiastic Meeting of Ross Supporters Held at Last Chance. A very large meeting of Ross supporters was held at Doland's hotel, Last Chance, last night, and although Clarke was present, with his first lieutenant, George Black, the meeting was overwhelmingly for Ross. What materially aided to this result was the reading of the acceptance of the platform by Mr. Ross from the Nugget of yesterday. This was done by the first speaker, Barney Sugrue, and it entirely carried the audience by storm. Mr. Sugrue read it slowly. It was listened to with the most respectful silence. Every section of it was marked by applause, and at its conclusion there were hearty cheers. After that there was no chance for the opposition. The mere reading of Mr. Ross' acceptance aroused such enthusiasm for the people's candidate that the meeting might as well have ended right there.

WILL OPEN ON TUESDAY

Have Your Quartz Assayed Free. There is a great difference between the result of an assay ton made in an assay office, and the assay of a ton of ore. Those interested in quartz have been sending outside to have assays made, and the shipment of a few pounds of ore only has been at a large expense. Some few have shipped out as much as half a ton to one of the leading assayers. This is more expensive still, both for the shipment and the treatment. And when the certificate from an assay office is received, the value of the document lies entirely in the signature, whether it is that of a well known, careful, and honest assayer. There may be two opinions upon that.

NO INQUEST HELD

Modes Remains Being Prepared for Burial. The remains of John Mode which were brought to the city by Corporal Piper day before yesterday have been inspected by Inspector Wroughton, acting as the coroner, and he has decided that no inquest is necessary, it being so clearly proven by the circumstances surrounding the recovery of the body, that death ensued from natural causes alone. Mode simply became exhausted, lay down in the snow, went to sleep and froze to death. The remains are now at the undertakers being prepared for burial.

Government Mill Will Be in Operation Early on Tuesday Morning.

"I shall advocate the establishment of an assay office in Dawson, where miners may obtain full value for their gold, such office to be operated in conjunction with the quartz mill where ore may be tested free of charge."—Mr. Ross in his letter of acceptance.

The above is not a mere ante-election promise. Mr. Ross has been working for both these reforms for some time. He has been promised by the government that we shall have an assay office, the quartz mill will be in operation next Tuesday morning.

In order to assist in the development of quartz Mr. Ross gave instructions for the erection of a quartz mill where the prospector could have his ore tested and obtain an official statement of its true value. It was determined to have a complete mill, one that would be capable of treating not only free milling quartz, but base ores also. But it was late in the season; all the machinery manufacturers had stacks of orders to complete, and the result was that the new machinery could not be obtained before the close of navigation. So that the quartz development of the country should not be retarded this winter by this circumstance, the Munger mill was leased, and such additional machinery as could be obtained has been placed therein. In fact it is a completely new mill, with the exception of the stamps.

The mill is situated near the Ogilvie bridge, the site of the old Munger mill, but the building is entirely new, and is sufficiently commodious for the installation of the machinery for the cyanide and other processes which are to be added to it next spring. Beginning Tuesday morning, all the ore brought in by prospectors will be treated absolutely free, and a government certificate given as to its value. This will be continued for two months, after which a nominal fee will be charged to meet actual running expenses.

The mill has a capacity of about eight tons per day, and it was believed that two months is ample

GROUPING OF CLAIMS

Further Extension Made of Recent Order in Council. Word was received at the gold commissioner's office today from Ottawa relative to a new interpretation that is to be placed on a recent order in council passed concerning the grouping of claims for the purpose of representation or development. The communication bears the signature of Deputy Minister of the Interior Smart and is as follows: "By an order in council of the thirty-first ultimo, the following was added to subclause (D), clause forty-one of the placer regulations. The same provision may also apply to any number of claims which can be worked by dredging or by any other extensive method satisfactory to the government mining engineer, and this provision may cover any claims worked in this manner on and after the first of July, 1902."

MAY BE POSTPONED

Athletic Building Not Yet Quite Ready. It was arranged to have the grand opening of the Dawson Amateur Athletic Association building on Monday evening, but it was found impossible to get the workmen out before that time, so it was wisely decided to postpone the opening for a few days, in order that the completeness and accommodations of the building may impress the visitors and thus help the treasury.

There was skating this afternoon, and the rink will be open to the public every day. The time for the formal opening of the building and the celebration of the event will be decided at a meeting of the executive committee to be held at five o'clock this afternoon.

Ross Supporters. A meeting of the Ross supporters will be held this evening at the mouth of Bonanza, and several speakers from this city will attend.

Robert Barr's Pen Name. Literary men sometimes derive their pseudonyms from strange sources. Robert Barr, when driving through the main street of an American town, came upon the name "Luke Sharp" over an undertaker's shop. It was a rather grim jest, but its grimness so tickled the humorist that he decided to adopt it as a pen name.—New York News.

WON HIS GOLD SPURS

Presentation to T. Dufferin Patullo

Testimonial of the Gold Commissioner's Staff and a Gold Watch.

T. Dufferin Patullo, for so long chief clerk in the office of the gold commissioner, part of which time and until recently acting as assistant gold commissioner, was yesterday presented by the office force with a testimonial. Mr. Patullo came in with Major Walsh in 1898, as the commissioner's private secretary. Major Walsh's party came to Skagway in the government steamer, Quadra, and were accompanied to that point by Hon. Clifford Sifton, minister of the interior. Mr. Sifton intended to make a hurried trip to Dawson and return. He did get as far as Tagish, going over the Dyea trail and returning over that of the White Pass, which was then in bad repute.

Mr. Patullo remained as the commissioner's private secretary until Major Walsh resigned, when, instead of returning with him he decided to remain here and accepted the office of chief clerk in the gold commissioner's office. That was four years ago, and it represents four years of honest and effective work. Mr. Patullo resigned recently, and he leaves today to join Emil Staaf in the real estate business.

Just before the gold commissioner's office closed last evening Mr. Patullo was told that he was wanted in the court room. There was nothing unusual in this and Mr. Patullo proceeded there unexpectantly. He found the court in session with all his office force as witnesses. Gold Commissioner Senkler, as the judge, said as Mr. Patullo entered:

"The staff has asked me to read this address. We have been together for four years, and during that time our relations have been most cordial. I speak for myself and the rest of the staff when I say that we regret to see you leave. Your work has been an arduous task, yet you have been fearless in your duty. There is not one man in the entire service but what is sorry to see you leave. There have been times when it became your duty to enforce discipline, yet when it was done no man could say you had not performed your duty with delicacy. Again, I say we are sorry to see you go, but with you goes our best wishes for your successful career in private life."

He then read the address, as follows: "T. Dufferin Patullo: We, the undersigned members of the gold commissioner's staff, take this opportunity of expressing our sincere regret at your resignation from the civil service of the Yukon, and as a mark of appreciation, respect and esteem gained during your five years' connection with the service, we have the pleasure of presenting you with this small token, which carries with it our best wishes for your success in the new order of life which you have decided to follow. (Signed) E. C. Senkler, W. R. Hamilton, L. G. Bennett, W. C. Noble, J. E. Boldue, George D. Munroe, J. C. McLagan, A. R. Boyes, X. G. Grant, Gerald Petre, F. C. Holden, H. A. Watt, Brown, F. A. H. Fysh, N. A. Watt, J. H. Walker, W. R. Little, W. C. Young, O. S. Finnie, D. R. McLennan, B. C. Robertson, Phil Holliday, P. H. Becker, G. W. Coffin, Percy Reid."

After reading the address Mr. Senkler handed Mr. Patullo a beautiful gold watch. Mr. Patullo held the watch in his hand and trembled. He was taken off his feet by surprise. After a few moments he managed to say:

"Mr. Senkler and Gentlemen: I feel deeply touched by the kind words you have spoken and the sentiment you have expressed in your address. This token of esteem, this watch, I shall always highly prize, as it is something that I shall always have with me and recall continually the many happy days I have spent in your company for the past several years. My relations with the gold commissioner during the time I have been in the office have always been of the most friendly character, and during that time we have always agreed upon everything that has come before us. You, gentlemen, who have worked with me, I wish to thank for your hearty co-operation, and I hope you will give Mr. Senkler and Mr. Goselin the same kind support you have given me. As you say, this watch is not given for its intrinsic value, but as a token of esteem. As such I accept it, and, gentlemen, for your kind words and expressions I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

Mr. Backward-Well—er, yes, since you asked me, I was thinking of consulting a fortune teller.

Miss Coy—To find out whom you will marry, eh?

Mr. Backward-Why—er, yes, I—

Miss Coy—Why not ask me and save the fortune teller's fee toward the price of the ring?—Pearson's.

Overland Guardians

Winter Police Patrol Is Established

Different Detachments Will Traverse the New Road to Whitehorse.

Major Cuthbert has caused to be started the regular winter patrol of the police over the new overland road between here and Whitehorse the same as has been the custom each year for the past four seasons. Owing to the completion of the new road and its general adoption for travel quite a number of changes have been necessary from those in vogue in previous years when the trail followed the river and the old cutoff from Minto to lower Lebarge. Several new posts have been established and other steps have been taken which will ensure the policing of the trail throughout the winter. The patrol will make the round trip weekly starting from the Forks, from which point to the southern boundary of "B" division at Mackays has been divided into five beats.

The detachment at the Forks will patrol that beat extending from the Forks to Eureka. From Eureka to the Stewart river crossing will be under the charge of the police at Eureka. The detachment recently established at Stewart river crossing will care for that stretch of the road as far as the Humes road house not far from the Pelly. Two patrols will travel out of Pelly. One will run from Selkirk over the cutoff to the Humes road house and back again, and the other will traverse the new road from the roadhouse straight through to Minto. The detachment at Minto will run from there to Mackays where the patrol will connect with that from "H" division which will carry it on through to Whitehorse.

The maintenance of the winter patrol in the past has been of immense advantage to the traveler who was aching to get over the ice, thus affording him a protection that he otherwise would not have, and besides proving a terror to the criminal classes who might have conceived in the winter trail an avenue of easy escape after a crime committed. Suspicious characters encountered on the trail by the police are obliged to give an account of themselves and an escape from justice in the winter time is much more difficult than in the summer.

Little Chance for Him.
They tell this story of a western telegraph operator:
He was trying to call up a small town, where the office was in charge of a young woman, and for some reason he couldn't raise her. He was about to give up in despair when another operator broke in with the inquiry, "What do you want?"
"I want Miss Brown of Wellsburg," was the reply. "I've been trying to get her for the last half hour."
"That's nothing," returned the interrupting operator. "There's a young fellow clerking in a dry goods store there who's been trying to get her for the last two years and he hasn't succeeded yet."—Chicago Post

The Tallest Trees.
The highest trees in the world are the eucalyptus trees, which are famous because it is believed that they have the quality of purifying regions that are cursed with fever. There are nearly 100 different varieties of eucalyptus, nearly all of which reach great heights. The biggest variety produces trees that grow to such enormous heights that no structure in the world can compare with them. Trees have been measured that were 390, 405 and even 450 feet high. They are not as big round as would be expected, the largest being only little more than 25 feet in girth. The trees are wonderfully swift in growth. In southern France a eucalyptus tree that was planted twenty years ago was measured recently and it was found that it was 102 feet high.

Soundings at Wrangle.
Seattle, Oct. 23.—Supt. J. W. Morris and party of eleven men returned yesterday from Alaska, where they had been making a survey and taking soundings of the Wrangle narrows. A report will be made to Maj. Millis on the findings, and he will make a recommendation to the department as to whether or not the improvements to the channel contemplated are practical, with an estimate of the cost.

Maj. Millis was out of the city yesterday on a trip to Grays harbor. He is expected back today and will get the report. He is inspecting the work on the government jetty on Grays harbor before making a final acceptance of the contract.

A Wasted Argument.
An admirer once wrote to Lowell, describing his autograph collection and concluding with the remark: "I would be much obliged for your autograph." The reply came, bearing with it a lesson on the correct use of the words "would" and "should," which deeply impressed itself on the mind of the recipient. The response read: "Pray do not say hereafter, 'I would be obliged'; if you would be obliged, be obliged and be done with it; say 'I should be obliged,' and oblige yours truly, James Russell Lowell."—Chicago News.

Where Tramps Are Welcome.

America's Biggest Cathedral

Lesson in English.

There is an imposing mansion in Geneva, O., where tramps are never turned away. It was built by the late George W. Hopper.

Years ago Hopper was a poor young man, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean. He received but little schooling, and his education was very limited. In early youth he became identified with the Standard Oil Company, being given the management of the department where barrels were painted before they were filled with oil. Though the barrels were thoroughly painted on the outside, the oil would soak through them, and in a short time the paint would peel off and allow the oil to seep out. The company was considerably hampered in this way, and many were the experiments tried to alleviate the difficulty, but without success.

One day, while Hopper was pondering over the question, a tramp walked up, and, hearing Hopper lament that the barrels could not be painted so they would hold oil, he said: "I'll tell you how to fix them. Fill them with water and then paint them. When they are dry pour out the water, and the water in the wood will stay in and prevent the oil from soaking through and cutting the paint."

Rather dubious of the success of the tramp's suggestion, Hopper tried it and the scheme worked successfully. The advancement and royalties Hopper received from this idea soon resulted in wealth, and when he died a few years ago his fortune was estimated at from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. Hopper's stepping stone to wealth has long ago been succeeded by better ways of making barrels un-leakable, but the idea given Hopper by the tramp was the means of securing for him the vast fortune he possessed. After retiring from active business life, Hopper offered to make the tramp rich, and although a reward of $25,000 was offered for the tramp's appearance, none ever came to claim the money, nor has any thing ever been heard of the tramp.

Out of gratitude to this one tramp, the whole army of tramps receive a benefit, for, no matter how disreputable or seedy-looking a tramp may be, he is always given a square meal at the Hopper home, even on this day. Charles Hopper now occupies the home built by his father nearly a dozen years ago.

"Gentlemen," recently said a German professor who was showing to his students the patients in the asylum, "this man suffers from delirium tremens. He is a musician. He is well known that blowing a brass instrument affects the lungs and the throat in such a way as to create a great thirst, which has to be allayed by persistent indulgence in strong drink. Hence, in course of time, the disease you have before you." Turning to the patient the professor asked: "What instrument do you blow?" and the answer was, "The violin."—Chicago News.

No Hold-Up Scheme

Bryan in Idaho

Jobs Promised Tomorrow

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Entire responsibility for the organization of the United States Packing Company under the laws of New Jersey was accepted yesterday by John W. Dekay, secretary of the North American Beef Company. He denied, however, that his project has aught to do with the merger of the Chicago packers.

"The Chicago packers do not figure in the United States Packing Company," said Mr. Dekay. "The enterprise is legitimate and bona fide with plenty of capital back of it and good Chicagoans are interested. Their names, however, and the plans of the company I cannot state at this time, nor can I say when I will be able to divulge the information. This is no hold-up scheme, neither is there anything in the report that it was a stock jobbing plan arranged by those who have bought Swift & Co. stock as low as 150. I reiterate that the Chicago packers have nothing to do with this company."

The North American Packing Company is building a packing plant in Mexico, but is said to have no interests in the United States that would require a new corporation.

Fierce, even angry, denials of connection with the newly organized United States Packing Company made the "beef merger" a deep financial mystery today.

"As to the United States Packing Company," said George J. Brine, of Armour & Co., "you may unqualifiedly deny the report that we have any connection with it. We do not know anything about it."

Pocatello, Idaho, Oct. 22.—William J. Bryan spent the day in Idaho, arriving from Utah early this morning and returning over the same route after his last speech here tonight. Mr. Bryan made in all seven speeches, one each at Reensburg, St. Anthony, Idaho Falls, Shelly and Blackfoot, and two at Pocatello. He arrived here at 8 o'clock tonight and found the Auditorium, the largest building in the city, packed to the doors and several hundred people outside. Mr. Bryan spoke for about thirty minutes to the crowd outside from the steps, and for two hours from the stage of the Auditorium. He urged the election of the Democratic nominee for congress, and of a legislature that would elect a Democratic United States senator, declaring that Republican principles fostered the trusts, promoted imperialism and ground down the common people while enriching the favored few.

The dimensions of the cathedral, in the creation of which the architects had no modern guide, are interesting. As planned now, the external length is 520 feet and the internal length 20 feet less. The total width through the transept is 296 feet, of the front 193 feet, of the nave 92 feet, and of the choir 54 feet. The width of the central aisle of the nave is 54 feet, and the side aisles are each 19 feet wide. The length of the transept is 86 feet, of the nave 184 feet, of the choir 126 feet, of the portico 36 feet, of the ambulatory 15 feet, and of the Belmont chapel, the easternmost part, 55 feet. These lengths added give an internal length of 590 feet. The combine seating capacity of all the different parts will be about 7500. The height of the nave is 106 feet.

and of the choir 2 feet more. The height of the dome is 252 feet, and its diameter 106 feet. The height of the great tower is 435 feet, and of the two lesser towers 248 feet.

Made President.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 18.—At a meeting today of the board of governors of the Thomas Jefferson memorial association of the United States, held in Independence hall, Admiral Dewey was elected president. The board consists of one member from each of the thirteen original states, the district of Columbia and the territories. The territories are represented by Hon. Mark A. Smith, Arizona.

The Belmont chapel, now nearing completion as far as the stone work is concerned, also aptly illustrates the great masses of material and human energy that must be utilized before the final touch is placed on the cathedral.

This chapel, the largest of seven to be used for holding religious services in foreign tongues for the benefit of newcomers to America, presents dwarf-like proportions when its lines are compared with those of the cathedral of which it is the easternmost part. Its 55 feet of length is lost sight of in the cathedral's grand length of 590 feet, and the cathedral, at its widest point, will be 296 feet, or ten times, less 4 feet, as wide as the chapel, which is being built by money from the coffers of August Belmont as a memorial to his wife.

No one, not even the architects, George L. Heins and C. Grant La Farge, who know more about the big cathedral than any other persons, ever has attempted to make a rough estimate of the amount of stone and bricks and other material and the quantity of decoration that the building will demand. "All we know," said Mr. La Farge recently, "is that the amount will be great, great almost to the point of incomprehensibility. Each day we find our task grows larger; each day we are astounded by its continually magnified proportions."

"When will the cathedral be completed? When will the world come to an end? Conjecture—conjecture. We are arranging the drawings so that the architects, whoever they may be, who succeed us when we are dead, will be able to understand them clearly and take up the work without a hitch where we left off. And we are not old men by any means. No, I can't even make a guess when the cathedral will be completed."

"What will it cost? What was Adam's salary the first year he was banished from Eden? Conjecture—conjecture. I only can answer millions upon millions—and still more millions."

Hon. James Hamilton Ross' Address to Yukon Electors

To the Electors of the Yukon Territory:

I have received a copy of the platform adopted by the convention which honored me by its nomination as a candidate for the house of commons of Canada. I freely subscribe to every measure suggested therein. In respect to most of the planks, they are in perfect accord with the policy I have sought to have adopted in the Yukon. I recognize that the whole business life of the Yukon depends upon the success of the prospector and miner, and they above all others must be encouraged. With this in view I shall advocate the reduction of fees, which, I think, may now be safely done without impairing the revenue; the adoption of regulations compelling the actual working of successful mines of the past; I was engaged in an endeavor to revise and amend not merely the mining laws but all the laws specially applicable to the Yukon when my illness interrupted the work. I think this work most essential in order that the laws may be fixed, clear and certain. With respect to the mining laws I propose to have them codified and then submitted to representative miners for criticism, alteration and approval in order that they may as far as possible meet with the approval of the mining community.

I shall be greatly honored by being elected as your representative. I have the assurance of the government that so far as possible the direction of the Yukon affairs will be in my hands if I am elected, and I can assure the electors of the Yukon that I shall use such trust wholly for their interest and for their benefit.
