Good Bread

is the keystone to the structure of health. It means vigor, bone and muscle to your growing children. It means nutrition to the whole family. But you cannot make good bread out of indifferent flour, no matter how you treat it, no matter how proficient you may be in baking. In her desire to make a loaf that looks and tastes well, the housewife is tempted to use flour that is almost devoid of gluten—the rich, strengthening constituent of flour that makes bread the staff of life.

"Beaver" Flour

alone—of all the flours on the market—makes a loaf that is rich in nutrition, and at the same time is white, light, pleasing to the palate. The reason is simple. "BEAVER FLOUR" is milled in carefully balanced proportions from the Manitoba Spring wheat and the Ontario Fall wheat—one with its powerfully nourishing qualities, the other with those properties which make the bread attractive to the eye and taste.

"BEAVER FLOUR" makes equally successful biscuits, cakes and pastry. One flour accomplishes all the requirements of baking, saving trouble, expense and uncertainty as to results. Try it. You will quickly appreciate its superiority. All the best grocers keep it.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Those Beastly Carriages.

"HERE'S the grand, old man," said Gerald. "Come drink it off, it's as old as the hills and as mild as milk; it won't hurt you. I know exactly what you are feeling. It's those beastly carriages. Those wretched cushions hold all the damp; I believe it would be better to travel third class; and then you didn't have a wrap, did you; I didn't see one in the carriage."

"No," said Harold, sipping the liquor. "That was it, no doubt. I forget it."

"By Jove! we mustn't forget to put plenty of wraps in the carriage when you go away to-morrow! It wouldn't do for Lillian to catch cold!" said Gerald. "Come, how do you feel now, Warner?"

"All right now," said Harold. "Don't wait any longer, old man; I'll get into civilized togs."

"All right!" said Gerald, cheerily; "I'll send Withers to you. Don't be long. By the way, he said, putting his head into the room again, 'we sent word to Lillian that you have arrived, so that she should not think that you had sought safety in flight!' Thanks!" said Harold, with a laugh, but as the door closed he sank into the chair again, and the laugh turned into a groan.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The Voice of the Storm.

UP at the Hall there was a stir and thrill of excitement and anticipation which, though subdued, made itself felt.

In Lillian's room confusion reigned triumphant. Travelling dresses, hats, bonnets—all the innumerable trifles which are considered necessary to a young bride of position and fashion, were scattered about on tables and chairs; two maids were busy on their knees busy packing the huge imperials; a local dressmaker was hard at work sewing on the last hooks and eyes, servants were running to and fro continually.

Lillian's own maid was engaged in the delightful task of making a list of each article as it was consigned to the hungry maw of the travelling trunks. On a side table stood the casket, iron within, velvet without, which contained the bride's jewels. In it were not only the Wood eight diamonds, but the costly presents which Sir Talbot had given his daughter. The evidences of wealth met the eye at every turn. A princess of the blood would have been content with such a trousseau.

Presently the door opened, the chatter of tongues was silenced—Lillian entered.

She stood for a minute or two, looking at the busy scene, her face calmly serene, her clasped fingers snowy white against her rich dress of silk and velvet.

"Have you nearly finished?" she asked.

"Not nearly, miss. There seems no end to it, miss; I don't believe these imperials will hold it all."

"Why pack so many?" she asked.

"I shall not want them; I can't possibly wear them, there seems enough here for three women."

"The maid looked horrified.

"Not pack them, miss! Oh, we must pack them now they are here."

"Can I help you?" she asked, moving towards the boxes.

"Oh, no, miss, don't you trouble, answered the maid, quietly. 'We can manage; we are not at all tired. Please don't trouble.'

"Very well," she said, 'I will come up again after dinner.' She left the room and went down the staircase. As it was above, so it was below; the servants were busy preparing the large drawing room, the whole house seemed alive and restless as she reached the hall; it was lined with costly, exotics, placed there in readiness for to-morrow. She stood for a moment looking round her, then passed into the small drawing room. On a Florentine table, but were arranged the wedding gifts—it was not a small table, but it was covered with the good-will offerings.

Mechanically she took them up one by one and looked at them—vases, objets d'art, elegantly bound books, and the usual costly and useless articles which accumulate on such an occasion.

Calmly she turned them over one by one until the last was reached; then, closing the door after her, entered the library.

"Is that you, my darling?" said Sir Talbot, turning in his chair, where he was sitting in front of the fire.

"Yes, it is I, dear," she said, "Come and sit down," he said, holding out his hand.

She came and sat opposite him, her hands clasped, her eyes fixed on the ground.

"Where have you been all the afternoon?" he asked, his eyes fixed on her, lovingly.

She looked up.

"Have I been away so long? I have been wandering about. This seems the only room in which one can rest."

He smiled.

"We don't marry a Lillian Woodleigh every day in the week," he said, with a proud smile. "Are they making much fuss?"

"A great deal too much," she said, quietly. "Too much for your comfort," and she looked at him.

He laughed feebly.

"No, I like it. If I had my will I would have a great deal more; you know that, my darling. To-morrow will be the happiest day in my life, and he fixed his eyes on her, eagerly.

She sat motionless as a statue, her face turned toward the fire.

"Yes," he went on, almost to himself, "I have prayed to be spared until to-morrow; after to-morrow I can die contented. Where is Harold—has he come back yet?"

Without looking up she answered: "He goes to the Grange to-night."

"Yes—yes, I remember," he muttered, apologetically. "I wonder whether he has come back. I should have liked to have seen him."

"Shall I send for him?" she asked. Before he could answer a servant knocked at the door with Gerald's message.

"Ah! he's got back," murmured the old man. "That's all right. What was that?"

"It is the wind," she said; "it is a very bad night."

She went and sat at his feet and held his hand.

"I shall soon be back," she said.

"Yes—yes," he responded. "Oh, yes, you will soon be back. You will come back Harold's wife. You will be glad to get back to the old place, Lillian?"

"I shall be glad to get back," she said, laying her head on his knee.

Then there fell a silence upon them; every now and then he leaned forward and looked down at her and caressed the silken hair, but neither of them spoke.

Presently the gong sounded; it was the dressing bell. "I shall not be long. We are to dine here to-night, papa, you know."

He nodded and lay back watching her until the door closed.

Her dress rustling as she moved, she went up the stairs again. Under the calm, serene exterior a storm was raging which required all her strength for its suppression. Once or twice she paused on her way to press her hand against her heart, which beat wildly in her bosom, like some caged wild beast wanting to be free.

They were still packing in her rooms, but as she entered they put their task aside, and, excepting her maid, withdrew. With a gesture she dismissed her, and stood looking round at the costly confusion.

To-morrow was the wedding day!—to-morrow she would be Harold Woodleigh's wife, the future Lady of Woodleigh Hall! What more could she desire?—what more could her wronged, dead mother wish? She had kept her vow.

Through peril, through hate, through love itself, she had kept her vow, sacrificing all. She, the nameless and friendless, had thrust aside the world's scorn and clambered to this altitude! If her dead mother had lived, could she have desired a fuller, a richer vengeance for the wrong Sir Talbot Woodleigh had wrought her?

No! She, the illegitimate daughter occupied the place the lawful daughter would have filled—she, Hilda Fane, the outcast, was the acknowledged heiress of Sir Talbot Woodleigh, and would be the future Lady Woodleigh!

"I have kept my vow, mother," she murmured— "I have kept my vow!"

And, with a weary sigh, she stood looking at her pale, beautiful face, mirrored in the dressing glass.

Wanted,

TO BUY OR RENT, A small modern HOUSE, of six or seven rooms; situated, preferably, on LeMarchant Road or Patrick Street.

Possession at once or May 15th next. Address, giving rent or purchase price,

"CITIZEN," TELEGRAM Office.

Suddenly the dinner bell rang. She was already dressed, but, from habit rather than intention, she took a flower from a glass that stood on the table, and placed it in her hair, and arranged some lace round her neck. She felt like one in a dream—she felt as if she were playing some part just as she had done in the past, when she was a great actress; and she was content to feel as if in a dream, for she could play her part then. It was only when Dawson Slade's face—white and anguished as it was when she found it on the cliff—rose before her, that she lost her presence of mind.

And how often that face would rise! At night, when all was still in the great house, she saw that face, heard

"Blood Will Tell" Strength, stamina and vitality depend upon the blood supply. Keep it pure, fresh and red with that voice, with its broken curse! Yes! she had kept her vow—through love she had been obedient to her mother's dying command. For she knew now—now that she was about to set up an insurmountable barrier between them—that she loved this man who had told his love months ago in the distant land. Yes, she loved him too well to let him marry her—her, the impostor and usurper! As for Harold, he was one of the race on whom her mother had made her swear vengeance, and by marrying him she would be safe. With feverish hands she arranged the flower and the lace, and left the room.

Man's Narrow Escape.

While Mr. Moses Kelly, cooper at Bowring's premises, was crossing Water Street on his way to breakfast at 8 a.m. to-day he narrowly escaped being killed by a street car going west. He did not notice the car until he was hit in the shoulder and thrown one side. He says the motorman did not ring his gong and that it was fortunate that the car was going slowly. Motorists should be careful to give warning to citizens of the approach of trams.

Harmony Strikes Rock

The S. S. Harmony, the Moravian Mission ship, Capt. Jackson, returned to this port from Nain via Hopedale, at seven o'clock last evening. The ship left here the latter part of August with a load of supplies for the Labrador stations included between Hopedale and Cape Chidley. When going up to Nain on Sept. the 1st, in the evening, the Harmony struck on a rock in the run about 9 miles from the harbor. She at once began to leak and all the pumps had to be brought into requisition. She struck on the port bow down near the keel. Capt. Jackson ran her up to Nain and beached the ship at high tide after shifting the cargo aft and discharging a large part of it. Next day at low tide the hole was visible and proved to be a bad smash. Capt. Jackson set the men to work and made temporary repairs with canvas. When the work was completed and the Harmony floated off Capt. Jackson found that the job was as good as could be expected, and very little pumping was now required. Under the circumstances, however, he believed it the wisest course not to continue north but to come to St. John's for permanent dock repairs. On the way he put into Hopedale where ballast in the shape of 140 barrels trout and 16 cuncheons of oil was taken on board. The trip was made here in fine weather and with very little pumping. The ship will go on dock to-morrow. Capt. Jackson reports several Newfoundland schooners with full loads of fish. From Margford to Cut Throat the fishery has been good. Nearly all the vessels are on the way home.

CANKER AT MR. BUFFETT.—People in from Harbor Buffet, P.B., by yesterday's express say that potato canker is very prevalent and that not a place of ground where these vegetables are raised but what is more or less affected. The same applies to other parts of Placentia Bay.

SCHOONER STRIKES ROCK.—We learn by the Harmony that the sch. Levant, Blackwood, master, of Wesleyville, went ashore near Davis' Inlet some weeks ago and was pretty badly damaged. She was at Hopedale when the Harmony was there last week having been got off the rocks. All her fish and oil was discharged and she was repaired. After the cargo was taken on board she left for home.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Do you laugh? No, that's not a funny question. If you think it is, just pause a moment and look over your acquaintances, and I'm sure you'll find that there are mighty few of them who really do laugh. Most people smile, and once in a while chuckle or giggle, but the hearty, natural, unrestrained laugh that makes you want to laugh too, even if you don't know what the joke is—well, that's about as rare as a man who doesn't measure success by money or a woman who doesn't judge other women by their clothes. And because of its rarity, the gift of laughter is an invaluable social asset. A man was telling me recently how he happened to spend an evening at a summer boarding house where there were half a dozen girls and not a man but himself. He told how he was introduced to the group, and what nice girls they were, and what a shame it was there weren't some nice men to amuse them. "Did you see any of them again?" I asked. "Yes, I was back there the next week and I took one of them canoeing," he said. It was an interesting opportunity to inspect the psychology of a man's choice, and find out just why, with the pick of six, he chose that one. I put the question. "Why did you

Clarenville Notes

Clarenville bridge, which is 150 feet in length, is now undergoing extensive repairs. The bridge was in a very bad condition and really became a great public danger, when representation was made to the Hon. Col. Secretary who succeeded in having an amount appropriated to meet the present emergency. A feeling of general satisfaction is manifest to-day because this work, so greatly needed, is being so rapidly pushed forward towards completion. The suave Chairman of the Road Board here superintends the job, and Mr. John Adey has the oversight of the mechanical operations, while all the parties employed seem to be doing their best to push the work along. The framework of the bridge has been put in proper shape, some new beams have been supplied, and now a breadth of six feet is being covered with two-inch plank, sawed by Mr. Walter Tilly. The work when thoroughly completed, we have no doubt, will bear inspection.

We notice that the new day school teacher has commenced her work here, and that her labours are already beginning to be appreciated.

The Methodist preacher, Rev. Mr. S. Taylor, preached here last Sunday, and the teacher, Miss Hodnot, played the organ. Miss Hodnot gives promise of more than ordinary usefulness in connection with the struggling little church in this settlement.

It is rumored that a pie sociable will be the next public function to take place here.

The man who received injury to one of his hands in connection with train work recently is staying in quarters at the station and is improving under the careful attention of Dr. Leslie.

All kinds of root crops in this neighborhood are excellent. The hay crop is about the best on record.

The fishery here, as in many other places, has been a total failure the past summer, and the few people who used to rely somewhat on this industry have now directed their efforts in other directions. Railway labour is the great panacea for the people here; it provides large numbers of them with the means of employment and inspires life and energy in all the activities of Clarenville and adjacent settlements.

Lumber mills are operated rather extensively here. There are seven of these now in operation and with push and hard work the owners manage to be out a livelihood. They are an optimistic class and always appear to be impressed with the idea that "This better on before."

The Tenderfoot Farmer. It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations. It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness. To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use. In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

Fads and Fashions. Very wide velvet ribbons have a vogue for hat trimmings, scarves and sashes. Facings of bright satin, silk or velvet are popular on white or black dresses in Paris. Already it is evident that hats and skirts of this season are to be far less eccentric than last. Overwaists and regular waists for fall are mainly of the peasant or body-and-sleeve-in-one type. The uncurled ostrich plume is a new-comer in fashion, with already considerable popularity. Black and white striped silk is an effective trimming for suits of the fashionable new ochre shade. Byron and Dutch collars both continue in favor. Jabots are especially popular in the lace varieties. In hosiery the tendency is to very sheer plain styles with a moderate indulgence in lace or openwork hose. Tosca net, black plaided with threads in Scotch colors and designs will be much used in dressy waists. Belts of leather, kid, braid, etc., are to be worn with the new waists; patent leather seems the present leader. Ruffles of the dress goods, seven or eight inches wide and only just full enough to prevent "hooping", are also favoured again. In dressy gowns it is thought that the high or Empire waistline will again be popular since some of the latest models show that tendency. The beauty of new black and white costumes lies in the transparency of Black and white veerings are chiefly

New Fisheries

Treaty is Predicted.

It will be interesting to our readers to learn that the St. John's correspondent of the New York Herald states that a treaty between Newfoundland and the United States is regarded as probable. In the Friday's issue of our American contemporary appears the following message from St. John's, dated Thursday:—

"ST. JOHN'S, N.F., Thursday. A treaty between the United States and Newfoundland is regarded here as a probable outcome of the Hague decision which, in effect, seriously handicaps American fishermen operating in Newfoundland waters. It is believed here that no room for further misunderstanding and prosecutions on the West Coast of Newfoundland would be left. The existing Newfoundland Government is not unfriendly to the United States and had no part in the Bay of Islands troubles in which serious restrictions were placed on American fishermen."

Why is this disclaimer made? Who prompted it? Sir Edward Morris was the Attorney General in the administration of that day and as Minister of Justice prepared instructions for the Inspector of Fisheries which led to the prosecution of Crane and Dubois.

Latest From Labrador.

The Minister of Fisheries had the following wire last evening:—
"INDIAN HR. via Cape Ray. Arrived from Ryan's Bay. Five schooners doing well. No improvement any other part of coast. Forty floaters north of Muford now south. Floaters all gone last trip."

Is It a Wreck?

The captain of the Harmony to-day reported to Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, Assistant Collector of Customs, that last night while his ship was coming along off the Funks he saw a light about 3 1/2 miles distant from the ship, but as she was leaking and he could see another vessel in the distance he came on to St. John's. Mr. Piccott, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, arranged with the Reid Nfld. Co. to send the Dundee to the island to investigate and discover whether a wreck has occurred there or otherwise and as to why the light was there. It was a white light. The vessel seen in the distance had the appearance of a yacht. It is the intention of Mr. Piccott to have a light-house placed on these islands.

Money and Feather Bed Stolen.

A robbery of a peculiar nature occurred at the residence of Mr. J. Fitzgerald, Maxe Street, a couple of nights ago, so people who live in that neighbourhood say. As far as we can learn the thief entered by a window in the rear and while the whole household was napping in slumber, some of the rooms were ransacked and about $8 in cash stolen besides a feather bed valued at about $15 which the thief got out through the doorway and got clear away with it. He worked so quietly that not a sound was heard by any person in the house, and after getting up he opened the door and left with the bed. Who he is or where he came from is not known, and only when the family got up next morning was the robbery discovered.

Rosalind in Port.

The S. S. Rosalind, Capt. Smith, arrived here at 1 p.m. to-day with a full cargo of foodstuffs. She left Montreal on Saturday last at 7 p.m. and arrived at Sydney at noon and all the way after leaving Sydney at midnight Wednesday last she adhered to this port except for a blow from the N.E. last night and this morning with some sea. Her passengers were from Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. A. Waldin, Geo. W. W. and 2 sons, Mr. and Mrs. F. Wood, M. Tynan, A. LeMessurier, Mrs. W. J. Cross, and from Sydney, Rev. W. C. Booth, on discharging she will lay up in port for a week and then take up the Halifax-New York route.

Boy Goes Overboard.

As a boy named Ryan, was jumping from a craft to Balue Johnsons wharf at noon yesterday he overestimated the distance and took a header into the water. Men discharging lumber at Howwood's wharf, noticed the danger and threw boards to him but the youngster was like a duck in the water and swimming out about the harbour for a while came back and was pulled up on Howwood's pier. He divested himself of his clothing from which he wrung the water and then left them to dry on the wharf. A companion took off some of his clothes and covered the other to keep him from catching a cold.

OUR IRON ISLE.

Last week a very enjoyable reunion took place at the hotel of Mrs. Dicks on the "Beach," when a number of young gentlemen from the Dominion Company, tendered a reception and dinner to Mr. Herbert Barnes in honor of his natal day. Quite a number attended, including many of the fair sex. Dancing was in order till 10.30, when all sat down to the splendid repast catered by Mrs. Dicks. Mr. J. M. Greene, occupied the chair and the following toast list was gone through after the menu had been done justice to:—
"The King"—Prop. the Chairman.
"God Save the King."
"Our Guest" (Herb. Barnes)—Prop. Mr. J. Greene; resp. Mr. Barnes.
"Bell Island"—Prop. Mr. Barnes; resp. Mr. A. Tucker.
"Our Athletic Winners and Losers, 1910"—Prop. Mr. F. Burke; resp. Messrs. Barnes, Greene and Cahill.
"The Ladies"—Prop. Mr. J. Greene.
"Good Night, Ladies."
Recitations were given by Messrs. Shanahan, Doyle and Greene, while solos were tendered by Miss Fitzgerald and Messrs. Burke, Noonan and Barnes. After midnight the reunion terminated, all voting it to be a great success. Such a proceeding was a very much appreciated one, and Mr. A. Tucker, the originator, deserves great praise for the manner in which it went off.

Mrs. R. Costigan, who spent last week in town, returned by Saturday's boat, having had a pleasant stay in the "Capitol."
Miss Victoria Murphy, daughter of Mr. W. R. Murphy, the well known Postmaster and proprietor of the Murphy Hotel, so long established a Bell Island, has entered Littledale to complete her studies. Mrs. Murphy, who accompanied her to the city, has not yet returned.

Mr. Leo Murphy, of the Chronicle staff, paid another week-end visit Saturday. While here he represented the Press at the Dominion staff dinner.

Mr. Davidson, of the Dominion Company, who has been here the past week, returns in a few days' time to Glace Bay.

Mr. Herbert Knight paid a flying visit to the Island Friday last and returned the same day.

Rumor has it that during the fall months several "smokers" are to be held by the different athletic associations as a wind-up to the season's sport.

Master J. Dwyer has entered St. Bonaventure's College where he will get the necessary training and education to take up the teaching profession.

Mr. Peter Doyle, the popular photographer, has returned after several weeks' absence.

Both Companies are shipping more this year. On Tuesday the Dominion loaded the Ellen and Sygna with several thousand tons.

Mr. Joseph Murphy arrived here Tuesday after an extended trip around the bay. Joe is very popular here, especially among the Dominion "boys," of whom he is a great supporter.

The football cup was presented the Dominion Athletic Association at the League meeting last week, Magistrate O'Donnell, the President of the League, making the presentation, to which Mr. A. House on behalf of the D. A. A. responded. Congratulatory speeches were made by the representatives of the Nova Septians and Wabanas.

A soiree in aid of the R. C. Church takes place at Wabana Hall on Thursday evening. The Misses Shanahan and Doyle, the promoters, are doing their utmost to make it a success.

It has been truly said, if you miss any familiar face from St. John's, go to Wabana mines or Grand Falls, for here are to be found many city folk, more especially young chaps, ex-pupils of our prominent colleges; St. Bonaventure's having the greatest representation in the persons of J. B. Murphy, F. Jardine, W. Coughlan and J. Greene, who are working with the Dominion; and Messrs. Joseph, Norbert and Francis Burke, of Burke Bros.
Wabana, Sept. 13th, '10.

Her Luck Continues.

Capt. Davidson of the whaler Hump is a very energetic man, and occupied with this he is also lucky, so much so that not a day passes but that his whaler captures a fish. Last week the Hump took six fish down in the mouth of Conception Bay and got two others Thursday. She had to that date 115, and it now seems probable that she will take 150 fish before the season closes.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

A number of relatives and friends went out by this morning's train to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. W. Spracklin, daughter of Mr. John Trappell, of this town. Mrs. S. died at Sydney on Monday and will be interred at Whitbourne to-day.

Mrs. James Fitzgerald, who has been visiting here for some weeks, leaves to-morrow for St. John's en route to her home in Boston.

The whaler Port Saunders has now two whales at the factory here, and the men will begin the work of manufacture to-day.
The presentation of the Shamrock cup to the Orange Society, whose crew won the race in the Edith, took place in the Orange Hall last night. The Society had prepared refreshments, and invited the five boats' crews and a number of other friends, about 40 in all. Mr. Jordan Sheppard, Master of the Lodge, presided, and made a neat speech in announcing the cause of the gathering. Mr. Jno Tapp, on behalf of the Shamrock Club, proceeded to the platform and uncovered the trophy of victory. He felt it a great pleasure to be able to present the cup to the Society, and trusted that they would strive as hard to retain it as the other societies would to secure it another season. He paid a very high tribute to the Shamrock Club as genuine sports, intimating that our people looked forward to the Shamrock cup race as the chief event of the season. He wished them, as did all the others present, much success and many pleasant excursions to this town. The following toast list was gone through with and heartily discussed:
"The King"—Prop. Mr. Jordan Sheppard, Master of Rising Sun Lodge; responded to by the whole party singing the National Anthem.
"The Shamrock Club"—Also proposed by Mr. Sheppard; responded to by Mr. W. H. Kennedy in very appropriate language, also by the company singing "They are jolly good fellows."
"The Winning Crew"—Proposed by Mr. T. G. Ford, President S. O. E. Society; responded to by Mr. Sheppard, coxswain of the winning boat.
"Sister Societies"—Proposed by Mr. Albert Rogers, President C. B. B. Society; responded to by Constable M. Grouchy.
"The Absent Ones"—Proposed by Mr. John Tapp; responded to by "Jolly good fellows."
"The Ladies"—Proposed by Mr. T. G. Ford; responded to by Mr. Kennedy by singing the song "Maggie Jones."
"The Losers" was also proposed and ably responded to by Constable Grouchy, who though being in the losing boat the past two years will we trust, be in a winning one next season.
The evening's enjoyment was added to by songs by M. Grouchy, Jas. Garland, W. H. Kennedy and others. The waiters did their work in splendid style and left nothing to be desired. A vote of thanks was proposed, seconded and unanimously accorded the Orange Society for affording their guests an opportunity of spending such a pleasant evening. Success to the Shamrock Club.

Placentia Notes.

On Wednesday, 14th inst., at noon, the whistle of Engine No. 62 was heard far inside of Dunville, and as she approached the station it was seen that The Royal Amusement Club were coming. About 150 people came by the excursion, and all left fully satisfied with the day's sport. At 1 p.m. crowds could be seen flocking to Brewley where a football and cricket match were played. The former resulting in a win for St. John's by a score of 5 to 2; the latter for Placentia for one run and four wickets. The interest taken in both games was intense, and they were both clean and square which showed that either side had no ill-feeling for their opponents. I now append the names and scores made in the cricket match:—

A Twillingate Schooner Lost.

While coming from the Labrador on the 8th inst. Capt. Simon Young of Twillingate lost his schooner near Black Island with 200 qtls. of fish on board, his season's catch on Labrador. He went ashore in a dense fog, but fortunately it was calm and he saved all his fish and gear while the crew saved their effects. The captain and crew were brought home in a Westleyville schooner.

Backache Suffering

A wonderful medicine is this man's description of DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.
Mr. Fred Gummer, Lillies, Ont., writes: "I can honestly say that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are a wonderful medicine. For six weeks last fall I could scarcely walk around for pains in the back and legs, and was almost completely unfit for work. Though I tried several medicines I got no better. I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised and bought five boxes. After I had used three boxes, I was greatly improved and by the time I had them all taken felt as well as I ever did. I would advise anyone suffering from kidney disease to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.
"We have also used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for bad colds and sore throat and would not be without these medicines for anything."

"The Old Black Punt Again to the Rescue in Placentia."

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Mr. Editor,—Just a few words from the "Ancient Capital" to give you an idea of the inconvenience that we have to put up with under the Tory so-called improved ferry service.

Under the "old black punt" we had a fairly reliable service, it was as regular as clockwork. We had two boats running continuously under Messrs. Mansfield and Mooney, and we could cross the gut at any time with only a few minutes waiting. Now we have the new gasoline ferry steamer (save the mark); she is almost hourly breaking down, and as a result we have to put up with the greatest inconvenience and delay. If she is not soon put in good running order the indignation of the people will find vent in a public meeting, requesting that if the service is not improved, we go back to the old black punt until the bridge is built.

It was really laughable, Mr. Editor, to see a rope stretched across the gut and the people pulling themselves (or working their passage) across to the town side on the broken down ferry. On other occasions we were amused to see the Tories falling back on the old black punt and getting her ready to go to the rescue of the new "Maurentia."

Now, Mr. Editor, we feel had over this ferry fiasco, because we were faithfully promised a bridge. A well known captain who visits Placentia fortnightly, and who is the main adviser of the Premier in all matters affecting Placentia, told us that he had Sir Edward's assurance that he would build the bridge and that it would be part of his railway policy. The writer can distinctly remember "the fourth member" for this district inspiring the grandiloquent description of Sir Edward on the style, dimensions and cost of this structure that was to be built when the People's Party would be returned to power.

There is now widespread indignation among the people because of this policy of fooling them. The slogan of the Tory party candidates was at the last election "The Bridge! The Bridge!" and nothing but the bridge; now we must be content with a mere toy steamer. We wish to say in the three members and also to "the fourth member for this district" that the cost of running this breaker-down will be about the same as the interest on the $80,000 bridge that we were promised by Sir Edward Morris. We learn that there is to be another man appointed for her. The expense, then, of three men and the cost of the boat and engines, which, I am informed, cost nearly $3,000, will amply prove the contention, Mr. Editor, there is no disappointment so bitter as to know and to feel that we were fooled and taken in. We feel indignant because we are not getting our share of the public money, and we hear that Harbor Grace and the Conception Bay districts are getting everything; that Sir Edward Morris is keeping his promise to build a dock a new court house and generally boosting Harbor Grace; and that again in Port de Grave we learn that hundreds of men are employed at big breakwater, and also that he is building a railway to the Grate's Cove; and we hear that nearly every member of the Government and their wives are getting big excursions abroad. Now, in view of all this, we expect the bridge! the bridge! and nothing—but the bridge!

A DISGUSTED TORY.
Placentia, Sept. 14th, 1910.

When Sleep Fails You

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will bring rest, comfort and vitality by building up the nerves.

Mr. Jas. Wesley Weaver, a veteran of the Fenian Raid, Fort Dalhousie, Ont., writes:—"For years I was afflicted with nervousness and dreaded insomnia, so that I never knew for three years what a full hour's sleep was, never more than dozing for a few minutes at a time. Heart pain and headaches almost drove me wild. I had spells of weakness and cramps in stomach and limbs.

"Though I tried several doctors, it was money uselessly spent. Finally Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was brought to me and eight boxes cured me. It is simply wonderful what benefit I have obtained from this treatment. Sleeplessness and headaches are warnings of approaching nervous collapse. You can positively remove these symptoms and prevent prostration or paralysis by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmondson Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes."

Yesterday there arrived here by the Florizel from Halifax the following directors of the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co.: R. E. Harris, President; Senators R. Jaffray and J. McGregor, Messrs. T. Cantley, G. S. Campbell, J. W. Allison, F. Stanfield and T. J. McMullen. Accompanied by Hon. Jas. Pitts they drove to Portugal Cove in three autos and crossed to Bell Island on the s.s. ### Accident at Twillingate Passengers by the Prospero say that a serious accident happened to a young man named Ephraim Jacobs, at Twillingate, on Monday last. He was at work on a scaffold repairing Mr. Hodder's house, when the whole thing gave way and he was precipitated to the ground, a distance of 20 feet. The man was rendered unconscious in which condition he remained for a long while, was seriously hurt internally and badly cut about the head. He was taken home and attended by Dr. LeDrew, and is in a critical condition.

Very Largely Attended Funeral

The funeral of the late Thos. Penny, who was accidentally killed on Queen's Street Tuesday afternoon, took place at 2.30 p.m. yesterday. Mr. N. J. Murphy was undertaker and the casket containing the remains was covered with handsome floral wreaths, the gifts of friends of the deceased and his parents. The funeral was very largely attended, the employees of Mr. C. Lester being present in a body. Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan read the burial service in the R. C. Cathedral and imparted the final absolution. Interment was at Mount Carmel Cemetery.

A Sad Home Coming.

Capt. E. Penny of the motor tug Minora arrived here Tuesday night all unconscious of the fact that his son had met with a fatal accident that day. Fearing that he would proceed home without knowledge of the sad fatality a friend boarded his vessel and broke the news to him as gently as possible. Mr. Penny was overwhelmed with grief and his home-coming intensified the sorrow of his wife and family. Mrs. Penny, whose health is not of the best, is prostrated ever since the accident occurred.

Twillingate Schooners Reported.

Reports by the Prospero from Twillingate say that the Harmony, Churchill, has 300 qts.; the Passport, White, 300; Capt. D. Wheeler's schooner, 200, and a number of others with 100 and 200 qts. each. Most of the schooners fished at Cape Mugford and Cathcart. The majority of Twillingate schooners are still down the shore, many of them down as far as Cape Chidley, but it is not yet known how these have fared.

Old Vault Found.

While men were at work at the rear of the Whitten Hotel yesterday making an excavation, they came across after digging down several feet in the earth what appeared to be an old vault. An iron door guarded the entrance and this will be forced open to-day. It is thought the place was used as a wine cellar by people who occupied the premises many years ago.

A Pretty Spectacle.

The new marble statue of the Sacred Heart, surmounting the Chapel of Our Lady of Good Counsel, on Military Road, has been set in a kind of niche, the interior of which is tinted a bright red. The niche is bordered with electric bulbs and when this is illuminated, as it was last night for the first time, the spectacle presented is a pretty one indeed.

Going to Alberta.

Mr. Frank Jackman, who is now at Montreal, will shortly leave for Alberta where he will engage in business. A friend has held out strong inducements to him to settle there instead of going on to British Vancouver.

Mining Work.

There is big development going on now at Sleepy Cove Mine on the eastern end of Twillingate North Island. The S. S. Molina took away 530 tons to New York recently. There are about 150 men employed there, and more will be taken on soon. The mine will be in full swing next year.

Mr. Grubert is now the Manager of the Union Brewery, Ltd., and employs about 200 men and 50 delivery horses. Mr. Grubert has the great advantage of being able to speak the French language fluently. He occupies a beautiful residence at West Mount. His income is $7,000 a year.

Floater's Coming Back.

We learn by the Prospero that when she was going north she met a number of floaters coming from Labrador nearly all badly fished. The Twillingate vessels were very unfortunate, with the exception of Ashbourne's Mikado, 370 qts. Gillet's Milta, and James Young's schooner Robin, 200 qts. The schr. Sea Hawk has 200 qts. and Waterman's schooner, 350 qts.

get up plays in any kind of a building which would hold a crowd. Well, Pat O'Neill, that's our Pat inside, him and a few more of the boys were getting up a performance, and they were putting it on in the Bishop's Engine House, up in the College grounds. Everything was cleared out and the place made nice and snug for the play. They had the stage built, and the only drawback seemed to be that they couldn't manage the sky. Well, the thought struck 'em that the American Consul had a big American flag—the Stars and Stripes, and they drew lots as to who would have to go ask a lend of it. Anyway, a good talker from the East End struck the job, and after putting on a good begging face, and "getting himself up" for the part, he faced the kind-hearted Consul, who smiled at the ridiculousness of the idea, but gave the flag "to help to make the affair a success." There was great jubilation when the flag reached the "hall," and soon the boys had a beautiful stary sky, although 'twas daylight they were supposed to be playing in. The scenes were all painted by a member of the troupe, oh, a proper dab at the job, and he had ducks swimming over mountains, and boats to hold one, carrying seventeen. "I was simply grand and we got them all pasted together with good hot paste, and soon everything was in readiness for the play. 'Twas now five o'clock, and the play was on at eight, so Mr. O'Neill said 'twas about time for us to go home and have our tea and get over our costumes. We left the barring of the "Hall" to a half fool that used to run messages and "get in" for nothing, as payment for a month's work. He was never any good, and begor he went away and forgot to close the door. The Bishop had a cow grazing out in the field, and when she got our backs turned she poked her nose into the hall, and smelling our new scenery, she politely went in and swallowed it, and not contented with that she hauled down the Stars and Stripes and used it for dessert. The troupe returned from their tea in gay spirits, and had all their costumes with them, but imagine their surprise when they entered and discovered the cow and the loss of their scenery. The audience rushed in and all was in great confusion when Pat O'Neill came on the stage, and announced that owing to the fact that the cow had swallowed the sky and the scenery, the play would have to be postponed till repairs were effected. Needless to tell ye his remarks brought down the house. "There's the bell for the next act," said Tucker, and we bundled in to our seats, and formed our own opinions of the truth of the story.

Council's Preferential Treatment.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir,—In passing along LeMarchant Road last evening I was agreeably surprised to notice how nicely the splendidly kept thoroughfare was sprinkled. With such attention as this given it not a particle of dust could be seen, and believing that the Council were giving a similar service to other streets nearby, wended my way through Boncloddy Street, down across Cabot Street and the street which intersect it, but what a comparison! No sprinkler around these thoroughfares where people sat on their doorsteps inhaling the dust which their children, in their gambols kicked up in clouds. And yet these people were contributing their taxes to the sprinkling of LeMarchant Road. Why such discrimination, I asked myself? Is it that the people of the streets alluded to are of a different mould and are impervious to the death-dealing germ, or that by inference another reason could be assigned for the sprinkling of one street to the neglect of others. Come gentlemen of the Council, the people of St. John's want no discrimination and a service given to one set of taxpayers should be available for all. If not, that Vigilance Committee which "Reform" suggests in the Telegram will be formed, and that quickly, and then—well I will not anticipate, but I feel sure that abuses of this kind will disappear.

Yours truly, PLEBIAN.

KEEP MINARD'S LINIMENT IN THE HOUSE.

A Fine Trip.

As soon as the public are aware of the pleasure and benefit of a round trip on the s.s. Fogota, will her capacity be taxed to accommodate passengers. One needs to take the trip to appreciate its worth. Nowhere on our coast is there finer scenery than in Notre Dame Bay, and the beautiful stretches of Gander and Dog Bays excel among the best. The run to Wesleyville and return occupies less than two days, and the rest of the time is spent at ports approaching and within the bays specified. This is where the real charm of the trip lies. Those who suffer most from seasickness can enjoy the sheltered waters of these deep inland reaches, which are traversed four times en route to and from St. John's. It is not to be wondered at that for the first time some were lured outside the Narrows for sea trips and most enthusiastically appreciated it. There only needs to be added that the captain and his subordinates are most obliging, and the menu par excellence. Hon. Mr. Crosbie is to be congratulated on such an excellent and cheap service, and we predict for it a large share of patronage.

Shannahan, Tucker and Delaney at the Theatre.

THE STORY ABOUT THE COW AND THE SCENERY.

Monday night myself and Tucker and Delaney started for the Play, ye know the play I'm talking about, "Shaun Rhue," 'twas the first time it was played around here—this year. Anyway we went down, and as 'twas for the benefit of an old-time amateur who acted a hundred and forty times for charity, and as we wanted to show people we weren't tied to a dollar, we hired seats away up in the Reserved Circle. Oh, didn't we feel out of place up there, for you're supposed to sit up straight in the Reserves and not to talk to anyone along side of you. Tucker gave us our instructions before we went in, and I think we carried them out to the letter, although to tell ye the truth I felt like being carried out myself before 'twas half over. You know it might be considered vulgar to tell ye that I wasn't long in the Reserves before I felt a bashful feeling creep over me for I was all on fire. A pin that I had stuck in my tie behind, to keep it from coming up around my neck, had taken the liberty to make a voyage of discovery by taking a short cut through my neck, and although I suffered a maddening sensation, I bore it with out making any attempt to fix matters. If I were to put my hand down inside my collar in the Reserve Seats what would people say? That I was an ignoramus, a booby, and I order to please the crowd and uphold my respectability I suffered. How many of us are placed in the same box? How many of us bear tortures to please others? How many of us get unnaturally to keep up appearances? I was used to the Pit, and I was in the Pit to-night I'd suffer no agony. I told Delaney, and Delaney said 'twas only another sample of what people suffer when they get out of their own sphere. "Anyway," said he, "hold on, the act will soon be ended, and we can go out and get you fixed up and have a smoke." The curtain dropped and who appeared before the footlights but our old friend Mr. Slattery. I knew him well in the days when Watty Grieves held sway. He worked in the office, and a fine office hand he was, by the same token. "What's he going to give," asked Tucker, "a step dance?" "Not at all," says Delaney, "there's not a step in his body, he's going to make a speech." He's a regular howler in a speech." But soon the orchestra pealed forth and Mr. Slattery shaped himself to sing, and before we could realize it we were spell-bound. Hearty applause greeted his effort, and Mr. Slattery was induced to come out the second time, and even the third. Mr. Slattery is a man that knows himself and he requires no coaxing to respond to a whole-hearted encore, unlike the "upstart," "Baraney," we had here last winter. Here again I noticed the difference between the "Reserves" and the boys of the "Pit." In the Pit when a performer deserves it, we come down with both feet, we clap our hands and show our genuine approval, but in the "Reserves" it appeared to me that it was considered vulgar to clap hard. You might touch your fingers together, but look out and don't let anyone see you striking hard or you'll be considered low bred, badly brought up, or half bred. Oh, kind Providence, save me from striking a good Govt. job; protect me from being elected on the Government side; save me from an outboard judgeship—where there's nothing to judge, if I have to sink my natural inclinations and act like a buffoon to be considered gentlemanly or suitable for the job.

I won't make any exceptions about the players, every one of them deserves the credit of the community, for man, and many's the dull hour they have helped to make pleasant. People are inclined to treat play actors with derision, well not exactly that, but to look upon them as something to criticize, but amateur actors do not pretend to be IT, and their aim is to please; they have done that and they have done more, for they have shown us an example of brotherly love that is as good as a sermon.

During the interval between the acts myself and Tucker and Delaney were out in the porch having a smoke when a friend of ours hove along, a real old-timer that we often sat side by side with in the pit. Story and yarn followed one another pretty lively, and at last our friend took the cake with this:—

"You know," said he, as he moved his chin to the starboard side of his face, "before we had halls like this one in the old times, the boys used to
