NOTICE
OF SALE AND TRANSFER OF WOOD'S CANDY STORE, GRAND FALLS.
I hereby given notice to all whom it may concern, that with the consent and approval of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company, I have sold and transferred my business known as Wood's Candy Store, Grand Falls, to Mr. Chas. H. Hayward, under whose management it has been from its inception.
Mr. Hayward will conduct the business henceforth on his own account, under the name of the "Allied Store", and will be responsible for all debts contracted in its name.
Mr. Hayward is authorized to collect and give receipts for any amounts due to Wood's Candy Store, Grand Falls.

In this connection I wish to heartily thank the people of Grand Falls for the liberal manner in which they patronized the store in the past. Their kind interest was much appreciated. I trust that they will accord a hearty support to Mr. Hayward, who I am confident will do his utmost to merit continuous success.
I also take the opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the unvarying kindness and consideration I have received from the Anglo-Nfld. Development Co., through its representatives at Grand Falls, from the time when I, at their request, commenced business at Grand Falls. The people at Grand Falls, my late Manager, Mr. Hayward, and the A. N. D. Co., have my hearty good wishes for their welfare. May increasing prosperity be theirs.

A MOTHER'S STRENGTH

Mother, whose hands rock the cradle, often needs more than ordinary food to help maintain the blood-quality and strength and to assure adequate nourishment to the child. It is as unwise for the mother, as it is dangerous to the child, to place dependence upon alcoholic stimulation, for strength is not found in alcohol.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

of purest cod liver oil, absolutely free from harmful drugs, is mother's true friend, in that it performs a two-fold duty. Scott's is tonic-nourishment, particularly fitted for the trying period of motherhood.

CHAPTER XII. SIR CYRIL'S CHOICE.

"Good news!" said Cyril, abstractedly, and with a grim smile. "Judge for yourself," said Mr. Burdon, and he took up from the table the deed which he had brought with him. Cyril put up his hand wearily. "For Heaven's sake, Burdon, spare me! Tell me what you have to tell in plain English. Mr. Burdon laughed. "You are like my other client—the other party to the deed. Well, Sir Cyril, what do you say to a large fortune—another fortune?" he added, with a slight emphasis. Cyril looked up with a faint expression of interest. "Is that it?" he said, nodding his head absently. "Then, why on earth didn't you write and tell me, or let your man tell me, instead of dragging me from one corner of the earth to the other?" Mr. Burdon certainly bore his burden well, for though he leaned back in his chair and gave vent to one or two ejaculations, they were not profane. "Come, come!" he said, "is this fair, Sir Cyril? How was I to know that you had suddenly grown indifferent to money and all its advantages? Besides, there are conditions to be complied with before you can claim—"

Cyril, gravely: "you have not answered mine fully yet." Then he sat down again and waved his hand. "Tell me all—why don't you tell me all?" Mr. Burdon, with a patient sigh, resumed his seat, and with a good deal less prolixity than he had indulged in upstairs, went over the same story. When he came to the condition he paused, a little and watched his client's downcast and firmly set face with anticipatory enjoyment. "There is only one condition, Sir Cyril—only one, and John Weston's money is yours, and that is that you marry my niece, Edna Weston." "What!" exclaimed Cyril, springing to his feet and confronting the astonished and somewhat alarmed lawyer, with a face on which conflicting emotions struggled for expression. "What!—I—marry—Edna Weston?" and his face flushed a bright crimson that almost restored to it its old, light-hearted expression. "That is it," said the lawyer, "and it is not a very hard condition, Sir Cyril, as you will admit when I have the pleasure and honor of introducing you. I may say, with all respect and sincerity, that a more charming, a more beautiful young girl I never saw! Ah!—and he rubbed his hands slowly—"many a man would deem her hand alone, without all it carries with it, a fortune good enough for the gods. Sir Cyril, may I be permitted to congratulate you?" And he turned with a congratulatory smile of the most pronounced type. But Sir Cyril did not appear to hear him; he was lost in deepest meditation, his head resting on his hand, his lips set tight. Presently he got up and paced to and fro, and at last stopped before the lawyer, his face quite pale and stern, as if he had come to a resolution that had cost him much to arrive at. "Burdon," he asked, in a quiet, constrained voice, has she—Miss Weston—seen me?" It was a strange question, and Burdon, looking hard at the haggard, resolute face, which a few months, it seemed, had been sufficient to rob of all its freshness and characteristic levity, grew more bewildered than ever. "Has she seen you? How can I say? Ah, yes I remember. No, certainly she has not seen you; but what has that to do with it? The choice, as I tried to explain, is with you. You propose to her, declare yourself agreeable to conform to the conditions of the deed, and in any case, whether she refuse or accept you, the money is yours. Should you refuse to do so, the money goes in its entirety to her. But of course, you will allow me to say, as an old and faithful adviser, that that is out of the question. Will you come upstairs? One glance at her will do more to convince you of your great good fortune than any talk, legal or otherwise. Will you come upstairs, Sir Cyril?" Cyril paused in his pacing, and leaned against the mantelpiece. "No, Burdon," he said, quietly, "there is no need for that—I have made up my mind." "Sir Cyril, I am delighted to hear it!" exclaimed Burdon, with a sigh of relief. "I—upon my word—I said upstairs to your brother—" "My brother—Edward here, too!" Mr. Burdon nodded. "I said that you would decide at once. But come upstairs, Sir Cyril!" Cyril frowned. "I think you have misunderstood me, Burdon," he said, coldly; "I have decided to decline the honor of becoming Miss Weston's suitor." Mr. Burdon, the long-suffering, fell back in his chair and gasped for breath. "Great Heaven!" he exclaimed. "But—Sir Cyril—you cannot have understood!" "Yes, yes!" said Cyril, with grim impatience, and a dark cloud settling on his brow. "I understand that by consenting to marry Miss Weston I take the money with her—or without her. Well—I decline to marry her, and I relinquish any and all claims to the fortune that should in all justice be her inheritance!" Mr. Burdon groaned, and dashed his hand upon the open deed. "Sir Cyril! Sir Cyril!" he implored, "do consider this thing! Don't decide so hastily! Great Heaven, you are throwing away a fortune—an immense fortune!—ah! and a lovely girl, as if they were so much dirt! Take time—go abroad—the deed gives six months!" "I do not want one month, or one week," said Cyril, with a sigh; "I have quite and finally made up my mind. I decline to fulfill the condition."

WHEN OTHERS FAIL

Zam-Buk cures the most stubborn skin diseases and sores. This is because Zam-Buk's method of healing is entirely different and superior to that of ordinary ointments. When Zam-Buk is applied it does not remain on the surface skin, as an ordinary ointment would. Because of its unusual refinement it penetrates to the underlying tissues. This is where all skin troubles have their origin. The germicidal properties of Zam-Buk then destroy all germs and thoroughly cleans the diseased parts. Having done this, the healing essences contained in Zam-Buk so stimulate the tissues that new, healthy skin is quickly produced. The result is a complete and permanent cure of the sore or injury. Zam-Buk is best for eczema, ringworm, scalp sores, boils, pimples, itching rash, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, "barber's rash," blood-poisoning and piles. As a first-aid, Zam-Buk is indispensable. It stops bleeding, ends pain, draws out soreness and inflammation, prevents blood-poisoning and heals quickly. All dealers sell. FREE SAMPLE.—Send name of this paper, and a stamp to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and we will send you free trial box.

Zam-Buk

remembered years after. "Miss Weston is up here—still!" he said. "Yes," said Mr. Burdon, eagerly. "Will you see her?" "No," said Cyril, shortly, and immediately disappeared. A moment after Burdon heard a cab door shut with the usual bang, and the rattle of departing wheels. He turned the letter over in his hand and looked at it with a grimace of distaste. "I wonder what it all means—what he has said?" he muttered. "I've a great mind—" Not to give it to her, he was going to say; but Mr. Burdon, like Brutus, was an honorable man, and marched upstairs with the letter in his hand, and anything but an amiable look upon his face. "Well!" exclaimed Edward More, with ill-tempered curiosity, "where is he?" "Gone!" said Mr. Burdon, almost curtly. Edna, who sat waiting with a pale, troubled face, flushed and lowered her eyes. "Gone!" repeated Edward More. "What for—where to?" "That, Sir Cyril declined to inform me," said Mr. Burdon, leaning against the mantelshelf and eyeing the hearth rug moodily. "Yes, he has gone, Miss Weston; and, for reasons best known to himself, refused an interview which, at least, might have paved the way to a settlement of this question." "What's that in your hand?" asked Edward, whose eyes were sharp and nature suspicious. "A letter," said Mr. Burdon, reluctantly, "for Miss Weston." And he gave it to her. "For me!" said Edna, taking it. "From—"

A GOOD COMFORTABLE APRON MODEL.

2333—This style is nice for percale, lawn, gingham, chambray, drill or khaki. The apron is in one piece, with added straps that cross over the back and are buttoned at the waistline. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 32-34; Medium, 36-38; Large, 40-42; and Extra Large, 44-46 inches bust measure. Size medium requires 3 1/4 yards of 36-inch material. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

NOTICE!

TO ROYAL NAVAL RESERVISTS: It is notified for information that the Government has ordered that there be paid an additional amount of 20c. per day from the time of the commencement of the War, in cases where men were then serving, or otherwise, from the time when their services began up to the time of discharge, or of decease, or to 30th Sept. 17th, 1917, inclusive. And the sum of 35c. per day from the 1st October, 1917, up to the time of discharge or decease.

TO SOLDIERS OF THE ROYAL NEWFOUNDLAND REGIMENT—SERVING OR DISCHARGED—AND DEPENDENTS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

It is notified for information that the Government has ordered that the following Allowances, and additions to already existing Allowances, shall be paid: 1. A Clothing Allowance on the following sliding scale: For men discharged up to 1st April, 1917—$35.00. For men discharged between 1st April, 1917, and 1st April, 1918—$45.00. For men discharged on or after 1st April, 1918—$60.00. 2. A War Service Gratuity, in place of Post Discharge Pay, to be graduated up to six months' Pay and Allowances, exclusive of subsistence or allowances in lieu of rations and quarters. For men who have served in an actual theatre of war, or were on the strength of some recognized overseas establishment on Nov. 11th, 1918, the Gratuity is graded as follows:— For three years' service or over—183 days' pay and allowances. For two years' service and under three years—153 days' pay and allowances. For one year's service and under two years—122 days' pay and allowances. For less than one year's service—92 days' pay and allowances. For men who have served overseas, and were discharged prior to November 11th, 1918, without having been in actual theatre of war, and for men who have served in Newfoundland only, the Gratuity is graded as follows:— For three years' service or over—92 days' pay and allowances. For two years' service and under three years—61 days' pay and allowances. For one year's service and under two years—31 days' pay and allowances. In the case of an Officer or man without dependents whose pay and allowances, as above described, are less than $70.00 for a 31 day period, a consolidated rate of $70.00 will be paid in lieu of every 31 or 30 days' pay and allowances to which he is entitled. In the case of an Officer or man, with dependents who are entitled or who, before his retirement or discharge, were entitled to Separation Allowances, whose pay and allowances including Separation Allowance is less than $100.00 for a 31-day period, a consolidated rate of $100.00 will be laid in lieu of every 31 or 30 days' pay and allowances to which he is entitled. If part of, or all the gratuity under Post Discharge Pay Regulations has been paid to any officer or man, the amount so paid will be deducted from the Gratuity provided for by "War Service Gratuity" Regulations. 3. Separation Allowance to wives of members of the Regiment and to other dependents entitled thereto, shall be retroactive, making it effective from date of enlistment, or from the date when entitled to receive same under authorized Regulations. The foregoing will necessitate a large amount of accounting and additional work, and it will not be possible for the Department of Militia to make payments before the 1st of March. J. R. BENNETT, Minister of Militia. feb5.101.

And the Worst is Yet to Come

"All you have to do is to hand that to Miss Weston," he said. Mr. Burdon took the note gingerly between his finger and thumb, and looked at it as a child might look at a dose of medicine. "We lawyers don't like anything in the dark, Sir Cyril." "What is to be done if you won't do anything in the light?" retorted Cyril. "Come, Burdon, you had better do as I wish; it will save you a world of trouble. Take my note—if you don't care to, I can send it the post, and, with a grim smile, he took up his hat. "Stop!" said Burdon, in despair. "I'll take it; you will wait to see if she sends any answer?" "No answer is possible," said Cyril, "and I am in a hurry." "In an uncommon hurry to fling away a fortune!" exclaimed Mr. Burdon, his patience quite exhausted. "Good-by, Sir Cyril, if you will not listen to reason. Perhaps you will give me your address?" "I will when I get one," said Cyril. "Good-by," and he held out his hand. As he turned to leave the room he looked up at the ceiling with a singular wistfulness, which Mr. Burdon

ABLE NEWS.

LEADERS TAKING ACTION.

LONDON, Feb. 6. The Trade Union leaders are contemplating action dealing with the revolutionary movement which has led to the unauthorized strike in England, Scotland and Ireland. The lead is taken by the Amalgamated Society of Engineers whose executive committee has called on the district committees to participate in London, for the purpose of participating in the strike. Furthermore, the executive committee of the Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades Union sent a manifesto to their branches in Belfast, Glasgow, and on the west coast, urging that work stoppages weaken the influence of Trade Unionism and impose hardships on loyal trade unionists who are carrying out the duties of their profession. The threat to make London the headquarters of the union but by the electrical branches, not by the London district, has been met by the Government's refusal to interfere with the union, that of the Electrical Power Engineers' Association, resolved that this threat was not to be taken and that the Government should call on its members, who are skilled electricians, to do their duty to maintain the supply of electricity. A representative of this Association conferred with the Board of Trade yesterday and arrangements were made to supply unskilled labor to the electricians and guards employed by the workers. At a meeting of the Executive of the National Association of General Workers it was resolved that while approving of the shorter hours the members of the union in the prosecution of the claims of the Executive of the Party which yesterday agreed to approach the parliamentary committee of the Trades' Union Congress in a view of holding a national conference to consider industrial relations. Edward Controller Clynes is expected to visit the Secretary of the Trades' Union. The suspension of the Committee of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers to-day will be in the machinery of the threat of a strike whose influence with the rank and file will be tested by the length of the strike movement. The men involved in the London strikes are endeavoring to secure the stopping of all trains and buses in the city of London being employed in the power station. Last night the strike was declared to be delicate. A meeting of the Woolwich Arsenal workers yesterday the result of the meeting of members of the strike question was announced. Those favoring a strike at work numbered 2,110 and against 1,012. The balloting of the Barrow Shipbuilding Engineers resulted as follows: In favor of forty hours per week, 3,378; in favor of a week, 3,353; in favor of negotiations to obtain shorter hours, 4,783, in favor of strike 1,774. A number of thousands of workers, both male and female, were again commencing to bring home in the street. It is understood that the Government to-day has arranged to divide the railway employers with the engineers capable of driving locomotives to prevent a complete stoppage of the transportation system. The strike in Belfast has notified Lord Pirrie, Controller of merchant shipping construction, that they will meet to-day. Lord Pirrie has asked the men to immediately restore tramway, gas and electric light service and the matters in dispute are being settled. None of these services have resumed last night.

LOOKS SUSPICIOUS.

Two railway coaches recently handed over to France by Germany, played a most important part in a puzzling accident on the Paris-Metz railway line last night, in which five persons lost their lives and sixteen persons were injured. Train number 47 bound for Metz had just entered the tunnel at Nanteuil, when the passengers occupying the two coaches handed over by Germany began an experience trouble in breathing, and strong obnoxious gases began to fill up the coaches. The passengers then smashed the windows, and as soon as the fresh air came in contact with the gasses the coaches became a mass of fire. The passengers in the interior fled to the tracks in the dark tunnel. A train going in the opposite direction crashed into them and five were killed. Of the sixteen injured all of them were treated at the hospital at Chateau Thierry; eight suffered only from the effects of asphyxiating gas. An official statement given out by the railroad company says the fire in the coaches was not due to any defect in the lighting or heating apparatus nor to a hot box. The presence of the obnoxious gases is still unexplained. Both coaches were consumed by the flames.

CONFIDENCE IN BORDEN.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6. Official advices have been received here that the British Government has offered to Sir Robert Borden, and that Sir Robert has accepted, the post of chief representative of the Empire on a commission consisting of two representatives of each of the five great Powers to define the future boundaries of Greece and Romania. It will not be necessary for Sir Robert to visit either of the countries, it is stated, and he will be engaged for the work for two or three weeks' time.

PIRRIE'S MISSION FAILS.

BELFAST, Feb. 6. The attempt by Lord Pirrie, the Controller of Merchant Shipbuilding, to bring about a settlement of the strike here, has failed. The conference between him and the Loyal Strike Committee to-day broke up without an agreement being reached. It is understood that the strikers would not consent to the restoration of the public services pending a settlement.

POLES DEFEATED.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 6. The city of Bromberg, German Poland, has been captured from the Poles by German troops, after brisk fighting, according to advices received here.

THE "ELU" IN AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 6. (Via Reuters)—Contrary to a decision of the Federal government, New South Wales, on account of the influenza epidemic, has established patrols along the border to prevent overland passengers from Victoria entering New South Wales. The Federal director of quarantine says the New South Wales decision raises the most serious issues. Victoria has strongly protested against the quarantine. Five hundred and fifty-nine cases of influenza were reported in Victoria yesterday and 30 deaths. The government has ordered that everybody on the streets or at public gatherings after Monday must wear a mask. Seven hundred thousand must be manufactured before that time. After Monday all maskless persons are liable to arrest.

UNION THREATS.

LONDON, Feb. 6. The Electrical Trades Union has addressed a letter to the Newspaper Publishers' Association "informing that organization that unless the newspaper controlled by the members of the Association are more sympathetic towards the strikers, in published articles in newspaper, offices will be called upon to act as censors and to deal with articles which give offence to the strikers.

BEATING ABOUT.

PARIS, Feb. 6. When Professor Bahkmetoff, a member of the Council formed by the anti-Bolshevik factions here, was advised of M. Tschitcherine's acceptance of the invitation to the Princes Island conference, he said that he would be unable to say what the Russian committee in Paris would do. He indicated that a copy of the official message must be received and discussed before any announcement would be made. Mr. Bahkmetoff said that the despatch from M. Tschitcherine was a surprise, as previous messages from the Soviet Government had persuaded the Russian Committee that a conference was not probable.

THE ELECTRICIANS' STRIKE.

LONDON, Feb. 6. The Union strike order was issued during the evening, but passenger trains ran until midnight. A freight service, however, was partially suspended, following the issuance of the strike order. Trains to the suburbs from Waterloo station, the London terminus of the southwestern, were not started this morning, as the drivers did not appear late last night. An official notice was posted at Waterloo station, stating that owing to labor troubles the train service might be considerably reduced or entirely suspended. The notice added that the railroad company was not responsible for any delay or inconvenience resulting from the strike. The centres on the Brighton route which hitherto have not been affected are Newcross and the Battersea freight yards and Brighton and Eastbourne on the south coast. As some of the drivers who have stopped work operate steam-driven trains, it would seem to be the intention to extend the strike to all of both the lines affected. Only sections in London and suburban areas are electrified. The Southwestern in addition to serving many western suburbs of the city, runs westward through England as far as Cornwall, while the Brighton road serves a populous area in southeastern England as far west as Portsmouth and the Isle of Wight. It is one of the largest passenger routes in the southern London suburbs.

THE GILL-CANTWELL ENQUIRY.

Yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, the enquiry into the charge against Mr. Cantwell and Dr. Gill was continued. Before calling any witnesses Mr. Emerson, who appeared for the Crown, commented very strongly upon the appearance in the Advocate of the day previous of an article entitled "Wants a Trial." This article not only made an attack upon Hon. M. P. Gibbs, K.C., in relation to some action of his which, it was alleged, last summer contravened the provisions of the Military Service Act, but also criticised adversely the action of the authorities in the case now before the court. Counsel pointed out that such an article was calculated to interfere with the administration of justice and tended not only to prejudice the Crown case but also to interfere with the fair trial of the accused. He therefore drew the attention of the court to it for such action as it might deem wise. When Mr. Emerson concluded his remarks, which lasted about a quarter of an hour, His Honor commented very strongly upon the action of the Advocate in giving place to such an article. Among other things His Honor said: "Newspaper comment on the enquiry now before the court is very reprehensible. They tend to interfere with the due administration of justice. As to the alleged misconduct of the third party, the court has nothing to say, but I strongly condemn the utterances made in connection with the parties now before the court. The Press reporters have had the privilege of admittance to this and all other enquiries of the kind, and they have not taken undue advantage of that privilege. This comment is made by a correspondent, and if further reference of a similar kind is made, I shall cause to be issued contempt proceedings against the newspaper publishing same." The Crown then called Miss Agnes F. Buckley to prove certain medical history sheets of men examined by Dr. Gill. This closed the case for the Crown. Mr. Higgins in opening the defence stated that neither he nor his clients were in any way associated with the publication of the article in the Advocate. The parties most injured by such articles were the accused themselves, and he hoped there would be no repetition of same. He then called Dr. Gill, whose examination occupied the attention of the court until 6 p.m., when adjournment was taken until to-day.

BOARD OF TRADE ANNUAL.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Board of Trade was held yesterday afternoon, Mr. R. Gordon Winter presiding. The principal business discussed was the adoption of the report which had been deferred to further ventilate the clause dealing with the creation of a sub-department or the creation of a jurisdiction of the Government with a thoroughly qualified competent man as its permanent head to co-operate with Sir Edgar Bowring, disseminate information from him as well as supply and distribute generally information relative to the trade and commerce of the Dominion. Mr. Morine objected to the creation of a department as it would be too expensive and would like the Council to consider and definitely define what the duties of the new bureau or office would be; to see if the work would clash with that of some of the existing departments. Mr. H. E. Cowan thought the word department in the clause under discussion might be poorly placed and pointed out that at present there is no body in a position to supply the Home Government or others with any information sought. The Chairman felt the whole trouble was due to the word department. The original report was finally adopted with the following amendment proposed by Mr. Morine and seconded by Mr. A. McDougall. "Resolved that the matter of an office to supplement here the work of the High Commissioner in London and for other similar purposes, is approved by the Board and should be further considered and reported upon by the Council."

M. C. L. I.

There was a large attendance at the Institute last evening, when the Resolution "That legislation be enacted at the next session of the legislature to compel capital and labour to arbitrate disputes and abide by the decision." Mr. Wm. White moved the resolution, and dealt with the question in a masterly fashion. The body suggested would be a Court of Arbitration composed of persons supposed to be neutral in interests and sympathies; representatives of capital and those of labour; but the balance of the power would be the neutral representatives of the general public. The award in question would be enforced by the law. Prevention was better than cure, and the fact that great organizations, which depended and lived on strikes have failed, and the unfairness and oft-times the injustice of strike settlements should convince all that the Resolution as stated and as interpreted should pass by a large majority. Mr. I. C. Morris seconded the resolution in an enthusiastic speech. Mr. C. C. Pratt strongly opposed the resolution, as also did Mr. S. R. Penney. During the present great strain, such legislation as that suggested would be unsond, and could only lead us to a far worse state than the world has ever known before. The Negative side agreed with arbitration and a conciliatory settlement of labour disputes, but here was the nasty question of "compulsion." And not only compulsion of arbitration but a compulsory execution of the award. Man had a right to his wages. Union had the same right as individuals. It would be impracticable to try to deprive labor of a recourse to a "strike." Though often ill-used labour regarded their right to strike as sacred, and should not be taken from them through any arbitrary measures. And lastly the words "At the next session of the legislature" were dealt with and the impotency of the Government criticized. Such a measure should not be passed only by a full and representative government. The Resolution was spoken to by many of the members, the full time for general discussion being taken up. Mr. W. A. O'D. Kelly who was present addressed the members after which the Institute closed with the National Anthem.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

NOT GOING TO HALIFAX. OTTAWA, Feb. 6. The steamer Corsican, carrying 1,027 Nfld. troops, as well as 48 women and children, and two civilians, left England on Jan. 30. The vessel will dock at St. John's, Nfld., if ice and weather conditions permit, and if they do not she will proceed to Halifax for disembarkation. The soldiers on board include 48 officers, 14 cadets, 14 warrant officers and 951 other ranks.

POWER HOUSES AND SHIPS ONLY.

LONDON, Feb. 6. At a meeting of the Electrical Workers' Union this afternoon, it was decided to withdraw to-night all labor of electricians outside of the power houses, according to one of the delegates. Ships and the power houses, however, will be worked normally until Saturday at midnight, in order, it was said, to give the Government the opportunity of reconsidering the situation.

"JACK CANUCK" COMMITTED.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 6. Arthur R. R. Jones, of Toronto, editor of the "Jack Canuck," was committed for trial to-day in the police court, on a charge of criminal libel preferred by W. C. McMullen, Sporting Editor of the Spectator, and Patrick Jones, Sporting Editor of the Herald. The case arose out of an article the publication of which insinuated that the complainants were identified with two boxing bouts, run for the benefit of soldiers' widows and orphans, and that they shared in the profits.

LICENSED DRIVERS ANGRY.

LONDON, Feb. 6. The action of the Government, in permitting motor lorries to be used to relieve the traffic congestion, has angered the licensed vehicle workers union, the membership of which includes the Bus Street Car and Taxicab Drivers.

FAIR AND EQUAL COMPETITION.

LONDON, Feb. 6. At a conference to-day, between British Manufacturers, British Importers and representatives of American Shoe Manufacturers, an agreement was reached by which American and British firms dealing in boots and shoes can start competition on a fair and equal basis. Details will be arranged later. The Conference was arranged by the American Chamber of Commerce, in London, to discuss the new import restrictions of the British Government.

MORE GERMAN TRICKERY.

PARIS, Feb. 6. Germany is making utmost efforts to have the Allies believe that she is nearing bankruptcy, declared Raoul Peret, Chairman of the Budget Commission of the Chamber of Deputies, and former Minister of Justice, in discussing to-day the financial problems facing the Peace Conference. The first measures of the Conference along financial lines he added, should be to take measures to prevent Germany from declaring herself an insolvent debtor or a bankrupt State.

THE EVANGELISTS.

The interest in the Demarest Evangelistic meetings continues unabated, notwithstanding the fact that for 23 evenings the auditorium, balcony and upper gallery of Gower Street Church are thronged with serious, eager and attentive people, men and women, youth and maiden, all attracted to the Church by the eloquent yet simple exposition of the Gospel message so forcibly and soulfully delivered by a cultured and gentle lady Evangelist. Burly men and winsome maid alike are conscious of a power behind the word that compels interest and demands attention and action.

THE SUBJECT FOR LAST EVENING WAS—

The Will—or The Power of Choice, "Ye shall be as Gods"; the spirit of God in man produce godliness in man, next to Omnipotence the power of the Will is the greater force in human life. The Will controls life, action, destiny, the Will not desire, hope, aspirations can settle the great issues of life; it is not enough to weep, to hope, to pray, even; the "Will" must be brought to bear, and action crystallize the emotions into facts. The Prodigal Son in the far country became a conqueror when he said, "I will arise." In the life of the Jewish people the choice lay between Christ or Barabbas, "we will not have this man."

GOD DOES NOT FORCE MAN; THE POWER OF CHOICE IS GIVEN WITHOUT RESERVE INTO HIS KEEPING—MAN MUST EXERCISE HIS PERROGATIVE—THE KEYS OF THE CITY OF "MANSOUL" ARE IN HIS HANDS, BUT THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE ACT RESTS ON HIM ALONE—HE MUST ACCEPT OR REFUSE, THERE IS NO OTHER ALTERNATIVE; WHEN GOD CALLS MEN TO REPENTANCE THERE IS NO ESCAPE OF THE ISSUE.

WITH THESE AND MANY SUCH LIKE WORDS, A FAITHFUL, FEARLESS MESSAGE WAS DELIVERED. ONE MOST STRIKING PASSAGE ARRESTED OUR ATTENTION; WE PASS IT ON AS NEARLY VERBATIM AS POSSIBLE. IT IS THIS: "WHAT IS THE WORTH OF A MAN WHO CANNOT UNDER CONVICTION MAKE HIS WILL CONVERT HIS ACTION," A STATEMENT ALMOST AS CONVINCING AS THAT FROM HOLY WRIT. "THAT KNOWETH HIS FATHER'S WILL AND DOETH IT NOT SHALL BE BEATEN WITH many stripes."

THE EFFECT OF THIS MESSAGE WAS SEEN IN THE MANY DECISIONS REGISTERED BY THOSE WHO WILL NO LONGER HALT BETWEEN TWO OPINIONS.

The Victors Return.

The return of the Guards from the ever memorable field of Waterloo in 1815, and their triumphal march through London, was made the subject of a great painting by a celebrated artist—a picture which fires the hearts of those who look at it, because the painter caught the inspiration of his theme and made the figures on his canvas living realities. We have no great artist in Newfoundland capable of transferring to canvas the scenes which will take place in St. John's when the thousand and odd members of our regiment are welcomed by the citizens of the city, after the arrival of the good ship Corsican, therefore the reception of our war-torn veterans will, after witnessing, be retained only in memory. The men who are coming home have saved us from a far greater peril than that from which the British Army saved Europe when they won the victory which sent Napoleon Bonaparte to exile on the barren rock of St. Helena. The menace of the little Corsican was not half so great as the menace of German Kultur, which has after four years of titanic struggle been finally destroyed, but not before the blood of millions ran like rivers on the continent of Europe. Napoleon's lust for power might have slain its hundred thousands but Wilhelm's ambition for German domination of the world has slain its millions, and among these millions of dead with which the battle fields of Europe are covered, there are the bodies of many, alas! too many, of men from Newfoundland, who with their brothers from the other dominions answered the call and gave their lives in defence of the Empire. That the Pax Britannica stands to-day is due to these men, and our contingent of returning warriors have had their share and borne well their part in the great struggle. Not yet perhaps do we fully realize all that they have done for us, but when the full tale is written we shall have a more perfect comprehension of the fate from which we escaped, and from which we could not have been freed but that Britons all the world over hastened to interpose their bodies between the advancing human tide of barbarism and its object.

There will be gladness of rejoicing in many homes shortly because of the safe return of loved ones; but that joy will be tinged with sorrow for those less fortunate ones who wait in vain by the hearth stone for the familiar step which cometh not. In the midst of our jubilation for the living, let us not forget the lonely Rachel who mourns for her dead. She gave her boy that freedom might be won and safeguarded, and though his death helped in that grand consummation, yet will she not be consoled when other boys, warm and palpitating with life greet mother and father and sister, while hers lies "in Flanders fields where the poppies grow."

To the returned ones, Soldiers, Foresters, and Nurses, and to the strangers, the women and children who have come to make their homes among us—all Newfoundlanders now, and no longer strangers, but friends and kindred—we offer the heartiest of welcomes. The men of the fighting and forestry battalions, the gentle nurses, those ministering angels, those ladies with the lamp, those "noble types of good, heroic womanhood," who knowing their duty dared maintain it—to them, one and all, we offer the acclaim, All hail and Welcome home.

Glencoe's Passengers.

C. L. B.

The C.L.B. held a full battalion parade last night. Lieut. Col. Goodridge announced the following promotions: Staff-Sergt. Reeves to 2nd Lieut.; Lieut. Avalon Goodridge to Captain; Rev. and Lieut. Herbert L. Pike, to Captain. A number of the lads were also promoted to N.C.O.'s, amongst whom were Lance-Corporal Cyril Pitman to Corporal, and Pte. Berg, to Lance-Corporal. Sergt. Bursell is rejoining and will be promoted to Armourer's Sergt. Capt. W. Hayward, accompanied by Miss Hayward, visited the Armoury during the evening. Capt. Hayward is a former member of the Brigade, and was highly pleased at the progress of the Brigade since his departure from the colony. Miss Hayward presented the chevrons to the N.C.O.'s and promoted officers. The battalion dispersed at 9.30.

Engineers' Annual.

The annual meeting of the Marine Engineers' Association was held last night and was largely attended. After the routine business was disposed of the following officers were elected: President—Jas. Coffey. Vice-Pres.—John Pollock. Asst. Vice-Pres.—John Tizzard. Sec.-Treas.—W. Martin. Executive Committee—Wm. Crossman, John MacFarlane, A. McKinley, John Forbes, E. Birch, Thos. Crossman.

City's Health.

During the week 7 cases of diphtheria, 1 of smallpox and 4 of Spanish influenza were reported in the city. Eleven residences were disinfectant and released from quarantine. At present in hospital are 18 diphtheria, 2 smallpox and 18 influenza patients, while 9 with diphtheria and 1 with influenza are being treated at home.

Llewellyn Club.

A very interesting and enjoyable smoker was held last night at the club rooms, Canon Wood Hall. Messrs. Earle, Williams, C. J. Fox, T. Halley, Courtenay, accompanied by Miss Jones, Messrs. H. Stirling and W. H. Jones, sang, while Messrs. Brown and McDonald recited. Mr. Morine then spoke to the meeting, gist of which we hope to publish tomorrow.

The Wrong Gun.

At 9.45, a steamer lying at a pier in the East End, fired a rocket, not as a signal, but rather for purposes of trying it out. Thousands mistook it for the signal gun at Cabot Tower, and almost immediately the streets became black with people quickly wending their way toward the Funness Wharf pier. Disappointment awaited them there however, but for hours a great crowd of people hung around the gate, the police constables having all they could do to keep back the enquiring and anxious people.

Shipping Notes.

The Emily H. Patten, which left Grand Bank a few days ago for Lisbon, arrived in this port yesterday afternoon.

The barque Madeline Constance is now at the dry dock pier undergoing a general overhauling.

The Adolph reached port yesterday afternoon from Halifax, with a full general cargo.

The Meigle, on her inward passage from North Sydney passed through a lot of slob ice, which almost extended from Low point to Cape Race.

Obituary.

We regret with deepest sympathy the death of Mr. Thomas Mundy, which occurred on the 5th inst. The deceased had been suffering for some months past. He was for many years wharfinger in the firm of the late P. & L. Tessier and later Inspector for the Board of Trade. Interment took place this morning at Pouch Cove, St. John's East, in the family plot. A widow and three daughters are left to mourn their sad loss.

VERY LATEST
From 'Corsican.'

Not Due Till To-Morrow.

At 10.30 o'clock this morning the Minister of Militia received a wireless from the Captain of S. S. Corsican asking if he should proceed on to St. John, N.B., or Halifax, as the ship was then 66 miles East of St. John's, and according to the Captain's statement "in impenetrable ice." The reply to this message by the Minister was a very peremptory order to come on to St. John's as it was out of the question to take the soldiers so far out of their way and no arrangements had been made for transportation other than that for debarkation at this port.

From the message received from Corsican it is gathered that the ship would have to steam South a considerable distance in order to get around the ice floe, and therefore she cannot possibly arrive until late to-night and perhaps not before morning.

In consequence of this new development, no holiday will be given to-day.

At the City Hall.

Deputy Morris presided at yesterday's meeting. Councillors Brownrigg, Ayre, Vinnicombe, Mullaly and Tait being present.

The Solicitor replied to Council's communication re the application of C. O'N. Conroy for right to use the waters of Tor's Cove Pond. The Council has no legal rights in the matter, and can only offer a protest to the Government against the application being granted.

A. F. Moore, Waldgrave Street, complained of ashes and garbage being deposited near his residence.

The Sanitary Supervisor will attend to the matter.

A. E. Canning submitted price list of trees, etc., and asked for order. Referred to Park Committee.

Councillor Tait brought forward notice of motion re the taxing of dogs. He said he was induced to bring the matter up for the reason that as one of the utilities belonging to the city, the city was not receiving full compensation for the privileges extended. The dog he said, was either a luxury or a nuisance, in fact both, and if people indulged in the "dog luxury," they should be made pay for it. It was the Council's duty to collect all the taxes possible in a fair and legitimate way, and rather than increase the taxes on the house owner it would be better to increase it on the dog owner. The Councillor, after referring to the existing law in the matter, the present means of collection of taxes and their distribution, he urged that a tax of $5.00 be paid on every male dog and $10.00 on female dogs.

The Councillor moved a resolution asking the Government to enact legislation at the approaching session which would give full powers to the Council to deal with the dog taxation within the municipal limits.

The motion was seconded by Councillor Mullaly, and passed unanimously.

The reports of the Health Officer, Engineer, etc., were read and adopted, and the meeting closed at 8.15.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—The proposal to erect by public subscription a monument to Sergt. Thos. Ricketts, V.C. has proved exceedingly popular and I desire to thank the general public for their enthusiastic support and the city papers for their goodness in publishing from day to day the acknowledgments.

The thousand dollars that I sought for the building is now subscribed, but there are many yet in the country, who I believe, would like to subscribe, and therefore I propose to continue the subscription list in the hope that a second thousand may be subscribed as an endowment towards the maintenance of a teacher. The subscription will continue to be limited to one dollar, but of course persons may subscribe any smaller amount.

Regarding the education of our hero, I may say that I shall be glad to be the custodian of any subscriptions for this good purpose. Of course the man himself must be consulted in this matter, and I am sure that the Civil Re-Establishment Committee will do its part in this particular. But any who care to supplement what the Civil Re-Establishment Committee can do, and have a heart to do so, may send in subscriptions for this special purpose.

The Monument will be built in concrete. The Mr. James Murdoch has very kindly prepared plans of which I have

A Milk and Water Complaint.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—The story goes that a teacher in one of our schools was giving her pupils a practical lesson in Geography a short while ago, and to illustrate her point, was supposing a small article on her desk was a piece of land. The conversation went as follows:—
Q—"Johnny, when would this be an island?"
A—"In a bowl of water, Miss."
Q—"And when would it be a peninsula?"
A—"When it is in a bowl of the Milk the Milkman brings us."
You see the point; it would be nearly surrounded by water. The boy was only too correct in his reply to his Teacher, the Milk that the average person in this City gets is enough to make them weep, and, in fact, I think the Cow weeps in it; it is the only excuse that the Milkmen can bring for trading such diluted stuff as they sell.

You need not worry about it making your mouth water, there will be enough water in your mouth when you drink it to fill your requirements. If the doctor prescribes a pint of water daily, drink two pints of Milk and you will be filling his orders to the letter.

If the Department of Public Health got busy, testing the Milk, as is the custom in civilized cities, the health of the city would be greatly improved, and they would be getting the value, to a certain extent, of the money they pay out. Grades of the immortal Cow! Is it not enough to raise the price without lowering the standard of that article. Some fine morning the Milkman will be forgetting to put in the Milk and give us the clear water. That, at any rate, will be up standard.

If some of the Police Force would take samples of our "Milk" (?) for a test, and submit it to the Analyst it would be something to the purpose.

This cry is raised from a long suffering heart, a soul full of bitterness, and the sight of a jug full of Blue-Looking Watery Milk, and I trust that, with your usual compassionate attention to the cries of the down-trodden, you will give this crying space in your valuable paper.

I remain,
Yours in the interest of Pure Milk,

ON SILHOUETTES.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

My attention has been turned recently to the subject of silhouettes.

By silhouettes I mean the genuine shadow photograph, not the outline cut out by hand by some individual who fancies he has a talent in that direction, and who operates either amateurly at church bazaars and fairs, or professionally in his studio. The profile produced by this sort of artist usually has nine tenths of his artist usually has nine tenths of his ten's.

Some Silhouettes Better Likenesses Than Photographs.

But the actual shadow picture is ten tenths the pure individuality of the sitter. In fact, strange as it may sound, it seems to me that some of the silhouettes I have been seeing lately were better likenesses of the person than photographs.

I suppose that may sound revolutionary and deliberately exaggerated to some people. But not, I am sure, to anyone who has studied a few silhouettes.

Take for example, the silhouette of John Barrymore in the part of Peter Ibbetson which has been so widely published. I defy anyone to produce a photograph or set of photographs which would carry the spirit of Mr. Barrymore's incarnation as Peter Ibbetson half so well as that single silhouette. All the grace, all the quaintness, all the spirituality and tenderness that thrilled us in that beautiful presentation seem somehow caught in the lines of that silhouette. The Picture That Meant The Most To Him.

A particularly striking example of the power of this art came to me in connection with a cad contact. We ran across, this fall, a man whom we had met with his wife a couple of years ago on a trip. They had been an unusually happy and companionable couple. We had greatly enjoyed her, and our first question was as to her whereabouts. And we found that he had lost her the previous summer. Naturally we looked upon our inquiry as a most unfortunate break, but he was so glad to be able to talk about her to someone who had known her, that he readily forgave it. In the course of the conversation he drew out a wallet from his pocket and said, "I want you to see her picture," and from it he produced, not a snap shot nor a studio picture, but a little silhouette done by an amateur. "I suppose you'll think it's queer," he said, "but I carry this thing about because it seems more like her than anything I've got." And when we looked at it and saw how the characteristic pose of the head, the droop of the shoulders, the very atmosphere and personality of her seemed to have been caught, we could indeed understand.

The Silhouette Reproduces the Subject In the Spirit.

A photograph may reproduce the subject in the flesh, but it seems, somehow, as if the silhouette produced here in the spirit. It does not give so much to be sure, but what it gives has the rich suggestive quality of art. I suppose that the present popularity of the silhouettes is more or less a tad, but one is thankful that fashion permits us so charming a fad and hopes that she will not take it away too soon.

Battlefield Tours.

When peace is signed, and normal traffic conditions are resumed, there is going to be one of the biggest touring seasons on record. Thousands of people are already contemplating, for various reasons, visiting the battlefields of Europe, to see for themselves where the great fights for freedom took place.

Of course a very large number of people will go out to see where their beloved ones fought and fell for England. Others, naturally, want to see places like Mons, Arras, Ypres, Verdun, and so on that have made history for all time.

The various "personally-conducted touring" companies have already made preparations for these tours, and wherever possible they are appointing as guides men who have actually fought as soldiers in the places they are describing. These companies have already received thousands of inquiries from people anxious to get across, though, of course, few will be allowed to travel for many months yet. Not only have these inquiries been about places in France but a very large proportion of people want to visit the Balkans and the Holy Land.

THE DOCTOR.

I don't see why Pa likes him so. And seems so glad to have him come.

He jabs my ribs and wants to know if here and there it's hurting some. He holds my wrist, coz there are things

In there, which always jump and jerk. Then with a telephone he brings. He listens to my breather work.

He taps my back and pinches me. Then hangs a mirror on his head. And looks into my throat to see.

What makes it hurt and if it's red. Then on his knee he starts to write. And says to mother, with a smile, "This ought to fix him up all right. We'll cure him in a little while."

I don't see why Pa likes him so. Whenever I don't want to play He says: "The boy is sick, I know! Let's get the doctor right away."

And when he comes, he shakes his hand. And hustles him upstairs to me. And seems contented just to stand inside the room where he can see.

Then Pa says every time he goes: "That's money I am glad to pay. It's worth it, when a fellow knows His pal will soon be up to play." But maybe if my Pa were me And had to take his pills and all. He wouldn't be so glad to see The doctor come to make a call.

Strike Anniversary.

In 1897 there were strikes among colliers, strikes among railway employees, and strikes among ironworkers. One agreeable feature prevailed amidst this general state of discontent—that the riotous instinct which had been so rife in the previous year was conspicuous by its absence. The one exception was at Liverpool, where during the month of February, there were grave breaches of the peace. The dock labourers who had struck, reinforced by a large body of roughs, marched on the 7th to the 7th to the Waterloo Dock, and maltreated the non-strike hands. They rushed to the ship "Eulomene," and threatened to throw the labourers into the docks if they resumed work; and then attacked the steamer "Victoria" on board of which were some Bristol men, who prudently retired below and secured themselves from the violence. Finally, the mob was driven into the roadway by the police, and the dock gates were closed. Demonstrations of an equally formidable nature were made during the day at the other docks, and there was some danger of a night attack, which, fortunately, was averted by the excellent arrangements of the police, who could be massed to the number of five or six hundred at any one point on very short notice. On the 8th the military were called out. These very prompt measures had the effect of checking disorder; in fact, at the various mass meetings held by the men, their leaders urged them to refrain from violence, and to behave as good citizens. There was no renewal of the disturbances, but the total number of men who were idle was estimated at from fifty to sixty thousand, including clockmakers, sailors, firemen, coalheavers, boiler-makers, and engineers. Gradually the air cleared; the steamship owners, whose vessels were unable to leave port, offered arbitration, which was at first refused, and then referred to delegates. They recommended to the men the acceptance of the owners' ultimatum which offered a conscientious examination of the whole question of labour and time; and by the end of the month the strike was over.

Sailors for German Ships

(From the New York Times.) According to the agreement reached at Tientsin last week, the German ships which are to carry troops to this country and Australia will take back food to Germany. All must be manned by British or American seamen. Germany's delegates in the brief conference asked that sailors of their own country be used. Their plea was rejected. The seamen's boycott appears to have been overlooked. Nearly all the British seamen have signed a pledge which excludes them for seven years to come from any service in the interest of Germans, and this boycott movement has the support of the French sailors' organization. The leader of it, J. Havelock Wilson, President of the International Seamen's Union, and his Executive Committee have called an international conference, to be held on February 24th, for the consideration of a resolution saying that seamen "will not man any ship going to or coming from an enemy country" until provision has been made for due compensation to the dependent relatives of those whose lives were taken by submarines. There were more than fifteen thousand British victims of the U-boats. He predicts that the resolution will be adopted "providing that no food shall go to Germany" until the compensation is assured. If the seamen stand by their pledges the movement of troops as well as the carrying of food may be delayed, for in many cases the same ship will be used for both kinds of service. The German ships in home ports are ready for sea work. An early announcement by the Peace Conference of its purpose to care for the dead sailors' dependents would promote effective and immediate use of them, if German seamen must be excluded.

THE STAY AT HOME.

WALT MASCO

I had no chance to go to France and do some useful fighting; I had to stay from war away and earn my living writing. I offered twice to put up ice with Muskatoon and Sabre; the sergeant said, "You're too well fed, too fat for martial labor." You're all knocked out, you have the gout—I say it all with kindness—swayed is your back, your feet don't track, and you have color blindness. Your head is bald, your withers galled, your knees are sprung and bandy; I cannot think how such a gink in war could come in handy. Go earn your bread," the sergeant said, "in safety and in quiet; men must be sound—not six yards round—who'd quell that Teuton riot." And so you see, and you'll agree, I'm not to blame for staying far from the fields of swords and shields, where battles steeds were neighing. Yet I could weep, I feel so cheap, now that the boys are coming from scenes of gore on foreign shore, where shot and shell were humming. To think I sat submerged in fat, and punched an old typewriter, when navies wrought and armies fought, and glory hailed the fighter! I was, my friend, until the end, as harmless as a rector, and wrote wise saws, but never was a Conscienceless Objector!

Milady's Boudoir.

USES OF ALL SOAP.

"It seems to me we use an awful lot of soap at home," said Marjorie, "and I do so want to be an economical housekeeper for father even in the smallest things."

"Every good housekeeper knows that economy in little things makes all the difference to her weekly bills. And one of the household necessities that every one can economize is soap. Instead of buying shredded soap for the washing of your flannels and woollens make your own jelly by gathering all the odd pieces of soap and putting them into a jar. Pour over sufficient water to just cover the soap and stand the jar in the oven until the jelly is quite clear and without lumps. It is best to make a fresh supply every week, as it deteriorates with keeping."

The best possible silver cleanser is made from this soap jelly mixed to the consistency of cream with powdered whiting. To use a damp cloth in the preparation and rub on the silver. Rinse in warm water, dry and give a final polish with a chambray leather. This method is especially applicable to engraved or embossed silver and the operation creates no dust.

"If a dresser or table drawer does not easily run in and out rub the edges with soap and the trouble will vanish. Sometimes windows are difficult to raise and shut, and rubbing the cases with soap will cure this bother. The same measure will stop a door from squeaking. In fact it is a useful remedy for the many inconveniences caused by two surfaces of wood not running smoothly one over the other."

"Soap is excellent for stopping a leaky gas pipe, and the soft remains of a cape plastered over the faulty trap or joint will effectually stop waste and unpleasant odor."

Scotch Cured Herring.

The intelligence that Scotch herring are being sold in New York, and the first stocks of fall caught herring to come into New York did not stimulate the demand to any appreciable extent. Indeed, there are still lots received within the past few weeks which remain unsold at this time. The selection and grading of the herring packed on the West Coast was poor; that on the East coast was little better. Some Green Bay herring received in this market on the last steamer was found to be packed badly and many small fish were found packed in packages marked "large fulls." This accounts for the variable prices which have been quoted. It is reported that new lots now en route from St. John's are of better quality and of more careful selection. These undoubtedly will command a higher price than the others, but the jobbing trade has not displayed any special interest in either the stocks now on the spot or those yet to come. The herring pack has been small on both coasts by comparison with other years, but as purchasers by New York factors have been small there is the appearance of a heavy supply when the offerings from Canadian points are considered.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette, Jan. 25.

Not Our Real Market.

Newfoundland Scotch cured herring is now offering through Canada. At the same time prices are reported to be declining at packing points. The fact that New York importers did not see their way clear to buy at the extremely high prices seems to have had the effect of developing a resourcefulness in the Newfoundlanders. The herring, which importers declined to buy, is offering to New York now through second hands, and naturally the offerings are not particularly attractive. The logical market for this herring is New York. It might have been profitable for the packers themselves to have fixed their prices at levels that would have permitted its sale direct to the importers. They might have kept the prices of herring down by refusing to buy fish when prices were high, thereby doing a service to the industry, to the fishermen, to themselves and the ultimate consumers. The year's experience may have been costly to some, doubtless they were or will be, but the lesson may be of lasting value to all concerned.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

Dried Fish.

Since many factors in the dried fish trade have been looking for a weakness in this market, the condition lately developed in Newfoundland as well as in Porto Rico and Cuba was no surprise to the trade. Although the local market shows no signs of a weakening, there is expressed the opinion that dried fish generally is due for a decline. This view is not shared by all factors in the trade here, but those far-sighted merchants who have foretold conditions in the past seem to be of one mind on the subject. Soft cured codfish in Newfoundland has reached a very low level, and stocks are not selling. With heavy stocks of hard-cured codfish on hand, merchants and shippers in St. John's are reported to have little immediate business in sight. The European situation is none too hopeful at present, for Norwegian codfish is already in many markets and it has found a demand where other supplies have not. There are indications that some Norwegian cod, perhaps a heavy supply, will be exported to this country within the next few months. Supplies of codfish, haddock, hake and pollock are generally light in New York and holders are not making any concessions in prices because of their inability to procure desirable lots to replace those now on the spot. Most grades offering through this market are held at the quoted prices of a few weeks ago, and, despite the weakness in the West Indies there is no cutting of prices as yet. Newfoundland and American Porto Rico are held at $70 and $71 for medium, while large have reached $78 in some instances, but not for this market. Cuban codfish remains at the levels of a few weeks ago, with few offerings. There is a supply of haddock available, but little hake and pollock. On these latter grades prices are held firm.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

First American Deep-Sea Voyager.

The first American built vessel to make a deep-sea voyage, the Trial, was launched in 1842, 277 years ago. The Trial was launched at Boston, and was for the purpose of carrying fish to England from the Massachusetts Bay Colony. The fisherman who owned the ship thought to save the freight and middlemen's commissions which had to be paid when the fish were exported in English bottoms. The Trial was rudely constructed and few people would care to trust their lives to such a craft nowadays, but the ship successfully crossed the Atlantic, hauled the cargo of fish for sugar and wine and returned by way of the West Indies.

Cross-Breeding of Fish.

It will be recalled that the Mendelian theory of the working of heredity came as a result of experiments of Abbot Mendel, who grew a patch of peas in the garden of his monastery in the middle of the last century. The typical experiment ran somewhat as follows: Mendel took two varieties of the garden pea, one of which was tall and the other short. He made sure that the tall produced tall, and then he crossed the varieties. The hybrids were all tall. But these tall hybrids themselves produced mixed progeny, three tall ones to one short one. When these reproduced, one of the tall ones produced only tall offspring. The short one produced only short offspring, while the other two tall ones produced tall and shorts at the ratio of three and one, which obeyed the same law as the immediately preceding generation.

In the light of these Mendelian facts, interest is attached to a recent experiment with fishes described by Prof. G. C. Embury, of Cornell, writing in the "Journal of Heredity," and reprinted in the Sunday "World" of New York.

A cross was effected between the pike and pickerel. The offspring of this union are now eight months old, and compare with individuals of the same age and of the parent types. In color pattern the pike and hybrid resemble each other very closely, very different from the pickerel. This gives a striking general resemblance of pike and hybrid. In the shape of fins, however, it can be seen that the hybrid, while different from both parents, bears a greater likeness to the pickerel.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

Literary Spendthrifts.

(Tri-Bits.)
The elder Dumas probably made more money by his pen than any writer who ever lived, and he spent the money he earned, with equal freedom. It is even said that he kept a dish of gold, as others at that period might have kept a bowl of punch, for his friends to dip into and help themselves. He placed no value upon money, and would give a handful of loose coins away to a beggar. Certainly his friends never appealed to him in vain. He was generous to a fault.

Just such another by nature was Goldsmith. Whilst he was studying medicine at Leyden he lost all the money his uncle had provided at the gambling-table, and a fellow student and countryman, Ellis, thinking he would be utterly ruined if he stayed in the town, offered him his fare back to Ireland. This Goldsmith accepted, but was immediately struck with the idea that he ought to show gratitude to his uncle for much kindness, and so, the tulip mania being at its height, he expended the whole of Ellis's money in bulbs.

Again reduced to poverty, he started on foot for a tour through Europe, with one clean shirt, a flute, and a guinea as provision for his journey! His unofficial epitaph was that he was the best loved and most "trusted" man in London, for he died in debt to all his friends and mourned by all the beggars and cadgers of the town.

It is a big step from Goldsmith to Scott, for they are as dissimilar as two men of genius can be. But Scott, although canny like all his countrymen, was a very lavish spender of money. He made prodigious sums by his writings, but during the years of his greatest prosperity, say 1811 to 1825, he spent it faster than he made it, and was often paid for his work before it was finished. He made the mistake of imagining that he had an inexhaustible gold-mine in his brain on which he could count for untold supplies.

The amount he spent upon Abbotford was prodigious. The building and furnishing of this shrine of genius became a mania with him, and even the land on which it stands was acquired piecemeal at ridiculous cost. The grand baronial residence was built at fabulous expense, and then Scott set himself to fill it with antiquarian and historical relics, for which he gave any price which was asked. The place became a show where he entertained the greatest men of Europe with princely hospitality. The story of his later terrible financial embarrassment and his heroic struggle to pay his debts is too well known to need recapitulation.

George Morland, whose "Interior of a Stable" is one of the treasures of the National Gallery, was a terrible spendthrift. Dealers literally sat upon the doorstep whilst he painted and carried off the canvases wet from the easel, and for a time he made a very big income. But he lived lavishly, kept a dozen horses, was surrounded by a horde of sponging comrades, and, after being imprisoned several times for debt, died miserably at an early age.

Lawrence was in most respects the very opposite of Morland, being a man of polished and gentle manners, but he was equally capable of earning fabulous fees and also of spending his income foolishly. He was always in pecuniary straits, although half the aristocracy were clamoring up his steps to sit for one of his gorgeous canvases. He could never resist anything which he thought beautiful, and it is said that on drawings by the old masters he spent no less than £50,000.

HOCKEY LEAGUE—At to-morrow night's meeting of the Hockey League the matter of having six men teams will be discussed, and it is quite possible that such a plan will be adopted, as many players are in favor of same.

Ambitions French Fishery Plan.

A Paris paper has this to say of the plan to aid the French fisheries: "M. Buisson, whose boldness of conception is well known, considers that the hour has come to make the necessary effort to raise our sea fisheries to the level of our needs. In agreement with M. Klots, he asks Parliament to grant him a special credit of 200,000,000 francs. This sum is necessary to realize the extensive program. This includes the creation of special fishing harbors, built according to the latest designs, at Lorient, Boulogne-sur-Mer and La Rochelle. He anticipates the installation of two cold stores at Lorient and St. Pierre, etc., Miquelon, which will allow frozen fish caught on the Newfoundland bank to be brought to France at low prices. It also includes the purchase or the building of the necessary ships, steam trawlers, motor boats, etc.

"Reserving a share in the profits, the State will hand over the working of the fleet, which has thus been created, to the fishing owners, who will have absolute control. In fact, realizing a long-expressed desire of those interested, M. Buisson proposes to create a technical department of fishing which shall undertake the studies requisite for the development of shrimps and its cognate industries, and which shall have at its disposal a special ship for fishery research. Thus for the first time a serious effort is being made to renew an industry from which France may draw very large supplies of food."

Peace and Palestine.

An infants' welfare bureau has been established already in Jerusalem! Mothers are given all the medical care needed, baby clinics are well organized, health visitors are being appointed and kitchens that provide food for babies and the poor are being opened. The nurses are mainly natives of Jerusalem who need thorough training, but it confidently predicted that the rate of infant mortality will quickly drop.

General Allenby's triumphant entry into Jerusalem many thousands of natives throughout the country have gone of their own free will to these centres and asked for vaccination. The disinfecting plants distributed with a lavish hand by the Government have effected a wonderful decrease in typhus and relapsing fever cases.

The supply of fresh pure mountain water with which Jerusalem is now blessed is the close of what at one time seemed a hopeless undertaking and was given up by a band of earnest workers who laboured for nine years with the Turkish government to secure the right to supply pure water to the city. General Allenby's civil engineers discovered a group of mountain springs which yielded 14,000 gallons per hour. This was pumped to a hilltop and then handed over to gravity and allowed to run to Jerusalem through a line of pipe. All hospitals were supplied and the insanitary cisterns were cleaned and then filled from the pipes. These cisterns were the only water supply known and have been in use since before the time of Christ. They were always filled from the winter rainfall and were most objectionable. The total capacity was between 60,000 and 70,000 gallons.

It is a matter of but a few months before aeroplanes and tractor ploughs, electric trains and machinery driven by electricity, "wireless" news service, "movies" and those great disturbers of ancient civilization, sanitation and hygiene, will take complete possession of Palestine after 400 years of misrule under the unspeakable Turk.—Canadian Directory of Public Information.

Our Merchant Marine Heroes.

A Tribute to Their Bravery

(By H. F. SHORTIS.)

For the past four years every effort has been made to chronicle the deeds of daring and heroism of our brave countrymen who have so nobly distinguished themselves, both in the army and navy, and thus have reflected undying honour and glory upon Newfoundland. All this is perfectly correct, and we cannot do too much to hand down to posterity the heroism of our countrymen in both branches of the service, which has won immortal fame in the history of the world's war. It may be that very many acts of heroism will be passed over, either through neglect, or through ignorance of the fact that the Newfoundland Regiment, which has covered itself with glory, is wholly composed of Newfoundlanders, the descendants of those hardy and adventurous pioneers who came here from England, Ireland and Scotland many years ago, and who figured so conspicuously in many a hard-fought battle in defence of their adopted country when it was invaded by foreign foes upon several historic occasions. Their descendants were actuated by the same love of liberty, and wherever the battle raged the fiercest, the Newfoundlanders were to be found in the front, whether it was upon the land or sea. We have only to go back to the American Civil War to illustrate this fact, when two thousand hard and practical Newfoundland seamen, trained in the dangers and cold of the Arctic regions, were to be found in the Federal Navy, distinguishing themselves by their heroism, valor, and contempt of danger, and very many of them rising to responsible and remunerative positions in the service of Uncle Sam. All this is very well, but unfortunately, we have very little written upon these matters, as the great majority of our brave countrymen who survived the terrible struggle of the Civil War never returned to Newfoundland, as they became subjects of the United States, and it is only from letters received or the statements of those who did return that we know anything at all about the prominent part played by our countrymen in that terrible war waged in the cause of liberty and right, the success of which meant the preservation of the United States. It is true that from time to time a few brief sketches have been given through our magazines and the Evening Telegram, but the details were very limited, and thus we have lost this opportunity of doing full justice to our brave seamen who have covered themselves with glory, fighting in the cause of freedom, under a foreign flag. The same may be said with regard to our countrymen who fought in the Cuban war of Independence, as well as that of Chili and other countries. Actuated by an inborn love of adventure, nurtured amongst the icefields of their own coast and that of Labrador, they sought the scenes of dangers, and distinguished themselves upon all occasions by their bravery, heroism, hardihood and determination. From childhood they cherished a love for seafaring life. It was second nature to them, and their fame for agility and seamanship was world-renowned, and their services were eagerly sought after and availed of by every country in case of emergency. Where danger or adventure was at its height, there was to be found the Newfoundland seaman—even in far off Japan.

And we have the same spirit of adventure and contempt for danger animating our seafarers of the present day as that which animated our brave countrymen of half a century ago, or as far back as the seventeenth century, when they defended our shores stratification taking place before the Emperor's palace, they decided to make an addition to the large concourse of people who had assembled there to celebrate the Emperor's birthday. Amongst those present were the foreign ambassadors, the officers of the warships of various nationalities, the clergy, the public officials, military, etc., with six or seven bands of music and many thousands of citizens of all classes. The principal event of the day was the Grand Parade and review in which thousands of Brazilian soldiers and sailors from the ships of war took part. Of course Dom Pedro, the Emperor of Brazil, was the cynosure of all eyes, and courtiers, funkeys, admirals and generals, ambassadors and other representatives, with the elite of the city, were elbowing each other to receive a patronizing smile of recognition from the august personage who occupied the throne of that country, a scion of the proud and haughty House of Braganza of Portugal, but who had to abdicate some years afterwards when Brazil adopted a Republican form of Government, which has been retained up to the present moment.

The Emperor Dom Pedro sat in state under a canopy beautifully decorated for the occasion, with the best of music Brazilian musicians could produce, playing the national anthem, and the bands of the American, English, French and other warships in port taking their part in turn. The chief officers of the State were there, also the representatives of different nationalities, and everybody else from prince to beggar. After a time there was a lull in the music and manifestations of loyalty, etc., and Dom Pedro's eyes wandered over the thousands of spectators alighted upon the stalwart figure of the captain of the main-top of the Lancaster, Mr. Duggan, and His Majesty beckoned to him, but, of course, Mr. Duggan never, for a moment, thought it was to him the honour was done, and remained in his place in the front rank of the spectators. The Emperor, seeing that Mr. Duggan did not move, sent one of his attendants to request him to come forward to His Majesty wished to speak to him, and Mr. Duggan, not the least bashful, went towards the Emperor, feeling a little uneasy, as public affairs were beginning to be somewhat complicated in that country even at that time, and he was not certain but some charge might have been laid against him.

However, he was determined not to show the white feather, and stood up manfully before the Emperor, waiting for His Majesty to address him. After inspecting his splendid physique, his sailor-like appearance with his neat and becoming uniform, and his dauntless air, His Majesty addressed him, asking him "whence he came, how long he was at sea and how long in the navy, etc., and congratulating him on his appearance," the illustrious prince of the ancient dynasty of Braganza, then reached out his princely hand and warmly shook that of the Newfoundland sailor-man, and when the Emperor released Mr. Duggan's hand, the latter found three or four gold pieces of large denomination resting in his palm. Amongst other questions the Emperor asked him was, "how he liked the service?" and it is my firm belief that Dom Pedro was feeling his way to induce Mr. Duggan to enter the service in the Brazilian navy, but Mr. Duggan was not a man who would accept any inducement to do a dishonourable act, as he was bound to the American navy for three years, and all the jewels in the crown of Brazil, or even the crown itself, would not induce him to accept service under another flag.

The next day, Mr. Wilson, an Englishman, who was editor and proprietor of a paper published in the city of Rio Janeiro, came out with three or four columns, giving a full and detailed account of the event, which was copied in the American papers, and the brave and adventurous Newfoundland seaman from the West End of St. John's became the hero of the hour, and justly so, because, perhaps never before was such an honour done to a sailor, more especially in those days when the kings and queens were not imbued with that spirit of democracy as that by which they are actuated to-day. To be selected from amongst fifty or sixty thousand people, unsolicited, would be sufficient to drive the aspirants for tin-pot titles out of their mind, even in these days, when democracy is the order of the day, and plays such a prominent part in the ruling of the world, and will continue to do so until—something else turns up.

Now is the time for those who are appointed to write up and transmit to posterity the deeds of daring, the heroism and adventure of Newfoundlanders who have taken such a prominent part in the Great War. It will be nothing short of a crime if we neglect to do so, and to accomplish this task successfully we must do full justice to our brave and fearless countrymen who manned our Mercantile Marine during the eventful period, and who were the means of enabling our merchants and business men to conduct the trade of our country successfully, when it was impossible for them to procure outside assistance in tonnage to convey our products to market in the great centres in the Mediterranean, Brazil and elsewhere, in defiance of all the German submarines, raiders and pirates which infested the waters on both sides of the Atlantic. I am not certain how many of our ships have been torpedoed and sunk, but I should say this can be easily ascertained from the records which are kept in our Customs Department. But even these records are not sufficient. We must have details, and the right way to go about it, is to ascertain those details from our brave seamen in our mercantile marine who were participants in these events, and who suffered untold hardships in playing their part in the trade of our country by carrying our products to market at the risk of their lives and returning with the necessaries for home consumption. Many of our brave captains and crews have had their vessels torpedoed, and again risked their lives only to meet with the same experience, and others have been confined in German prisons for twelve months and more, subjected to every indignity and suffering, and only released a few weeks ago to return to their homes and families. Amongst these I may mention Capt. Burke and his crew. It is also probable that many of our vessels which have been lost during the past four years were the victims of the nefarious and blood-thirsty propaganda of the German naval authorities of the Tirpitz and Capelle kind, who caused the indiscriminate destruction of all shipping from the smallest fishing boat up to the ocean greyhound and leviathan Lusitania. Then, taking everything into consideration, the history of the Great War and the prominent part that Newfoundland has taken in it cannot possibly be a correct and complete compilation of facts without full justice being done to the imperishable deeds of daring performed by our Newfoundland seamen in our Mercantile Marine. We have had experience enough in the past, covering a period of three hundred years, as to what assistance can be given by reference to the records. Even our histories, such as they are, would be literary skeletons if we were not fortified with the traditions which have been handed down from generation to generation by word of mouth. Then let us not depend wholly upon the records, which after all only inform us that such a vessel was torpedoed in the Mediterranean and the captain and crew had been rescued and conveyed to Malaga or elsewhere. This is not sufficient, and it is only a partial explanation. We want details, and these details must be obtained from the captains and crews who were the victims of German brutality, and then in writing up the history of the war in which Newfoundlanders were second to none, not alone will full justice be done to our immortal Royal Newfoundland Regiment, and the heroism, daring and skill of our men in the navy, but, justice will be done to our world-renowned sailors in our own Mercantile Marine, who braved the storms of the Atlantic at all seasons of the year, as well as piratical warfare of the German Sea Lords and their submarines and raiders, to perform their part in enabling Newfoundland to carry on the traffic with other countries and to which we may attribute the prosperous condition of commercial life we have to-day, in comparison to most of the other countries which have been in a state of commercial stagnation and semi-starvation. And this prosperous condition of affairs may be attributed to the daring, hardihood and contempt of danger which has, from time immemorial, been the chief characteristic of the captains and crews of the Newfoundland Mercantile Marine.

Lobsters. Lobsters are in short supply, says a Boston report, but the demand is small owing to the high prices asked. There is some talk of a change being made in the measurement of lobsters that will be allowed to come on the market. Experience during the past few years shows that the demand for lobsters measuring more than 11 inches is growing less and less because the hotels and restaurateurs find there is no profit in them. It is now proposed that lobsters measuring more than 10 inches shall not be taken in water as seeders.
