A COUNTERFEIT GREENBACK.—A very cleverly executed counterfeit of the Canadian twenty-five cent. paper currency has made its appearance. In the first place, the counterfeit is executed on a thicker paper than the genuine; the engraving on the face of the note is brown, instead of black, in color; the figures "25" used as a water-mark in each corner, are indistinct and darker than in the original. On the whole, the face of the note might pass by gas light, or when a person is receiving change in a hurry. On turning to the back, however, the deception is at once manifested to the keenest comprehension. Instead of the neatly executed design in green of the original, the counterfeit has nothing but a great deal of green, which at once disposes of its genuineness.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY.—Messrs. Jas. Osgood & Co. have sent us the Atlantic Monthly for April. There are some very interesting articles in the new number, among which we may mention "Jefferson in the House of Burgesses of Virginia," "John Brown in Massachusetts," "Immigration," "Taine's English Literature." We have also a continuation of the stories "A Comedy of Errors," "Divisions of the Echo Club," Hawthorne's "Septimas Pelton" and Holmes's "Poet at the Breakfast Table." There are some choice pieces of poetry, interesting reviews of new books, besides the monthly summary of art, music, science and politics. The Atlantic for April is well worth perusal and no one who is desirous of becoming acquainted with the highest class of American literature should be without it. For sale at the Bookstores.

LONDON SOCIETY.—Mr. T. J. Day has laid on our table the March number of this Journal, which contains a continuation of the interesting tale "The Room in the Drayon Volant"; "It's an ill wind that Blows Nobody any Good"; (New version and pictorially illustrated); "Leaders of the Bar" is lavish of much that is entertaining, novel, and amusing to other readers than those of the legal profession; "Young Cade's" concludes his travels and his narrative thereof simulates, "Peculiarly papers" give many thousand outsiders an inside view of the House of Commons when interesting questions are on debate. The various illustrations are as usual excellent, indeed the frontispiece alone is well worth the price of the Magazine, as well as the "Study for Life" of March. Mr. Bidley, aptly pictures the degree of the severity of the weather, and our unucky lot recently, and purchasers of this number will find some consolation for their experiences of "March

"Woman's Sphere and Influence."

On Thursday evening, Rev. Mr. Wardrope delivered a lecture on the above subject, in Chalmers' Church, before a pretty large number of listeners, the majority of whom were ladies. Mr. Robt. Melvin was called to the chair, and, after singing a psalm and prayer from Rev. Mr. Mackie, introduced the speaker in a few appropriate remarks.

Mr. Wardrope, on rising, was greeted with applause. He began with a reference to the advancement of the age, and the reforms that were continually being effected as we progressed in civilization. Among the many eries that were being raised, the "Woman's Rights" cry was very prominent. The cry does not come from Turkey, India, or the uncivilized worlds where women are treated more like the slaves of men than their equals, but from the American Republic, where we have always and still consider that more deference is shown them than in any other part of the world. The evils exposed by the exponents of this cause were imaginary as well as real, and we should learn to discriminate between them. The lecturer then proceeded to inquire the true duties and rights of woman. This had been decided long ago, by a most unquestionable authority, viz., the Bible. The arguments brought forth by the agitators for the rights of their sex, with regard to woman's claim to equality with man, were of no weight; but it had to be admitted that the higher the kind of greatness in which excellence is aspired after, so much the more evident does it become that woman can, and does, successfully compete with man. So long as greatness consisted in physical strength, as it did in the days of Ajax, Diomed, and others of that age, women may at once abandon the idea of maintaining their equality with man. It was in intellectual intelligence that she appeared advantageously, as intellect had proved itself superior to physical greatness. Notwithstanding the "doctrines of Smith, there is much to be said in that "woman are more remarkable for delicacy of sensation, and men for strength or powers of attention." Women will excel more in art and literature than in mathematics or any of the more exact sciences. It was in moral greatness that the real excellence of woman's character appeared most conspicuously. Chaucer and Pope had spoken disparagingly of woman's morality, but they must confess that they deemed them pure enough to respect their presence by suppressing questionable language and sentiments. The further a people advanced in civilization the more apparent it became that woman was the equal and help meet of man. The avenues to the truest greatness are equally open to men and women. With regard to ladies entering the pulpit, the lecturer quoted frequently from the Bible, which clearly excluded her from debating in public the bar, the camp, the magistracy, the professor's chair, it laid her before of how she overlaps the delicacy of her sex. Yet it gives her her throne—she is the queen of the domestic circle, where love and tenderness of thought and feeling preside. It is her position to make her sons and daughters ornaments of human society, and to further the happiness of her husband. Let woman be true to themselves, let them live as becomes the true woman of the Bible; but let them beware of admitting into their own minds the idea that there is something antagonistic between their interests and those of men.

The woman's cause is man's; they rise or sink together, flourish or wither, bond or free: If she be small, slight, nate, el, miserable How shall men grow? But work no more alone For woman is not undeveloped man. But diverse: could we make her as the man, Sweet love were slain; his dearest bond is this Not like to like, but like in difference. Yet in the long years liker must they grow; The man be more of woman, she of man; Be gone in sweetness, and in moral height, Nor lose the breathing that throw the world.

Still the child-like, nor fall in childhood care, Nor lose the child-like in the larger man; Till, at the last, she see herself to man, Like perfect man, and awaken long for And so these twin, upon the skirts of time, Sit side by side, full summed in all their powers.

Reaping harvest, sowing the seed, Distinct in individualities, But like each other even as those who love; Then comes the steller Eden back to men; Then reign the world's great brida's, chaste and true; Then springs the crowning van of human kind!

A vote of thanks was moved by Rev. Mr. Mackie, and seconded by Mr. Laird-law, to Mr. Wardrope for his excellent and interesting lecture, which was heartily concurred in by the whole audience. After singing and prayer, the audience dispersed, much pleased and satisfied with the discourse.

A CANADIAN SWINDLER IN NEW YORK.—Andrew Reagin arrived from Canada in this city, on Saturday, intending to sail for Glasgow in the afternoon in the City of Paris. While standing in the wharf he was addressed by William Edwards, a notorious emigrant swindler, who asked if he would take care of an invalid brother of his who intended to sail in the same vessel. Reagin replied that he would, and was about to go the order when his new friend was angrily accosted by a stranger who demanded payment of a debt. Edwards said that he had nothing in his pocket-book but checks for large amounts, and asked Reagin if he could lend him for half an hour the money to pay the debt. Reagin answered "yes," and gave all the money he had, 13 gold sovereigns, to Edwards, who presented the coin to the importunate debtor. After the departure of the stranger, Edwards volubly expressed his thanks to Reagin, and then saying he would have to bring his sick brother to the boat, bade Reagin farewell for half an hour's absence, as he said. Reagin waited patiently for three hours, and then the City of Paris being about to depart for Europe, he became convinced that he had been swindled out of his sovereigns.

The Cleveland Herald says that owing to the perfection of their system of train-despatching, not a person has been injured in the cars of the Michigan Central Road for the past 16 years.

The latest report respecting the Tichborne claimant was that he was to have been haled out last Wednesday, but since that time he has been in hiding.

Lecture on Scottish History.

The lecture on this subject, as announced recently in our columns, was delivered by Mr. J. P. MacMillan, at Morrison, on the 19th inst. Notwithstanding the weather being most unfavorable, a goodly number were in attendance. The Rev. Kenneth McDonald, of Puslinch, occupied the chair. On introducing the lecturer of the evening, and the musician, Mr. O'Kain Cameron, he remarked that as they both hailed from his native County, Glengarry, it gave him a peculiar pleasure in being present. He hoped that these two gentlemen would prove highly entertaining to them, and that the audience would have no cause to regret their being present.

In rising the lecturer was greeted with cheers, and commenced by showing the names in which Scotland received its name, and why it was called Albansh in the Gaelic language. He pointed out the extent to which the progress of the country had been retarded from the fact of the landed estates having fallen into the hands of a few, which had the effect of obstructing the lower classes, and of causing many to leave the country to better their condition in life. He also pointed out the disadvantage to land owners themselves to have so much favored the entailment of estates, and showed that other modes of disposing of them would be preferable, and more to the interest of the country. After entering fully into other important questions appertaining to the history of Scotland, Mr. MacMillan concluded his lecture by a feature more prominent than another in the Scottish character, it was their devotion to their country. Having dwelt at considerable length upon the bravery of the Scottish people—recounting the different battles, the names of Scottish heroes, Wallace, Bruce, &c., quoting the lines recited to the latter before an engagement, "Wha' for Scotland's King and Law," and commenting on the happy result which followed the alliance of Scotland with England—the lecturer introduced to the notice of the audience the piper, Mr. Cameron, who gave them a specimen of his skill, after which Mr. MacMillan continued his lecture. He remarked that though bagpipes are to be met with in other countries, Scotland claims them as peculiarly her own. There the piper, clad in tartan and kilts, conscious of the power he possesses to awaken sad or merry feelings in the national heart, treats with an air of pride over his instrument, which gains him a ready admittance to castle or hall, he evokes music, the captivating influence of which expands the Scottish heart, and holds it spell bound at the will of the performer. Modern genius may have given us instruments tuned to produce strains most pleasing to the ear, but to the Highlander the wild notes of the bagpipes have a charm which is identified with his nationality. He listens with feelings of patriotic enthusiasm to those same thrilling pibrochs which coked in their hearts that martial spirit which led on to the deeds of heroism and the achievement of victory by the followers of William Wallace and Robert Bruce. His war blast of sounded in the mountains and glens, called the clansmen together, and loud above the clamor of battle, its sounds have been heard animating and encouraging Scotland's warriors to advance and brighten the pages of her history by presenting to the world a record of bravery unexcelled and patriotism unsurpassed. As in war the bagpipe has not been less effective than the sword, so in peace its power was unquestioned, to enchain the Scottish heart, and gather around it the most ennobling ideas of our race and character. He concluded by saying: "Many of you ladies and gentlemen whom I have the honor of addressing to-night are from your mountain homes in the Highlands. Seldom, perhaps, are you reminded of the days when you frolicked over the wild hills and around the wild streams of old Caledonia. What music, however melodious, would thrill round your hearts and awaken long forgotten memories of your youth like the burst of your own native bagpipes. To-night you have, thanks to my friend Mr. Cameron, the unusual privilege of listening to those inspiring sounds you loved to hear ere the waters of the Atlantic divided you from your native land—sounds that speak to you of homes you have long left, friendships severed, country abandoned, and all those fond ties that cling around your hearts in the sunny days of your youth out asunder forever.

Mr. Cameron then tuned up his pipes and gave them such Scottish music as could scarcely be surpassed at the present day.

When the time was growing late, Mr. Joseph Grant moved, seconded by Mr. Charles B. Smith, that the thanks of those present were due to Mr. MacMillan for having so ably entertained them by his lecture, also for affording them such an opportunity of hearing Mr. Cameron's music, which was most edifying to them.

A similar resolution was moved by Mr. John S. Scott, and seconded by Mr. Donald McPherson, thanking Mr. Cameron for the pleasing manner in which he entertained them.

Afterwards Mr. Joseph Grant and Mr. Charles B. Smith danced a strathspey to the music in right good style.

The audience then took their departure, well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

SOUTH BRUNSWICK.—Wm. Paterson who received the unanimous nomination for the Commons of the Reform Convention for the South Riding of Brant, and who was given two weeks to consider the matter, has accepted the nomination. Mr. Paterson's election is safe. The Conservatives have not yet found a man willing to enter the field, and now it is extremely doubtful if they will find one. The Reform party is united to a man.

The city council of Ottawa have voted $1,000 to aid in an exploratory survey of the proposed Ontario and Quebec railway. This line will run from Toronto to Ottawa via Peterboro', Madoc and Carleton Place, crossing the river at Ottawa and connecting with the North shore line.

Writs for the Prince Edward Island elections have been issued, and the House is to be called on Monday.

THIS MORNING'S DESPATCHES

Great Snow Storm in London.

Review at Brighton.

Tax on Raw Materials.

Earl Granville's Second Note

Condemned to Death.

LONDON, March 21st.—A driving snow-storm, the first that has occurred in fourteen months, has prevailed here all the morning. The city is enveloped in a dense fog, and at this hour—1:30 p.m.—the day is as dark as at midnight.

The Mayor of Brighton has informed the War Office that he can obtain sufficient ground near that city for the movement of a large body of men; and it is now probable that the review of the volunteers will come off near that place on Easter Monday.

PARIS, March 21st.—Owing to the re-nunciation by France of the commercial treaty with England, members of the Left in the National Assembly have determined to favor the tax on raw materials. The passage by the Assembly of the bill imposing such taxes is therefore certain.

LONDON, March 22, 5 a.m.—The Daily Telegraph this morning says: Earl Granville's second note with regard to the Alabama claims was delivered to the American Minister on Wednesday. It does not recede from the position taken in the first note, and reiterates the repudiation of claims for indirect damages, but proposes that counter cases on both sides be lodged with the Geneva Board of Arbitration on the prescribed data without prejudice to the position taken with regard to indirect damages.

PARIS, March 21.—Ernest, the Communist incendiary, and seven of the rufflers of the Rue Haxo, have been convicted and condemned to death. Many other Communists, pronounced guilty of similar crimes, have been sentenced to transportation.

LONDON, March 21.—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Gladstone, in reply to a question by Mr. Torrens, stated that since the conclusion of the Treaty of Washington, correspondence had been going on in regard to its provisions, as they affected Canada; between the Colonial Secretary and the Governor-General of the Dominion. That correspondence was as yet incomplete and it would be impossible to produce it at present.

WATERLOO, N. Y., March 21.—The severest storm that has visited this region this season has been raging since Tuesday. There are three express and two freight trains now bound between here and Rome. No mails through via Rome, Waterbury and Ogdensburg road since Tuesday. Trains on the Cape Vincent road have been abandoned for the present. Weather intensely cold with piercing wind. The city water-works are nearly all frozen up.

POLICE COURT.

Before T. W. Saunders, Esq. March 22.

ASSAULT AND ROBBERY. James Lowry, of Guelph, was charged by Robert Beck, of the Township of Guelph, with assault and robbery on the 14th March.

It appears from the prosecutor's story that both he and Lowry live near one another, and that they both came to town together, and whilst there, Beck received some money from Messrs. Thompson & Jackson, and this Lowry was aware of. The two visited several taverns together, and had been drinking freely. Beck alleges that Lowry wanted to borrow some money from him which he refused to do. About four o'clock on that afternoon Lowry and Beck left town together, and Beck, having a considerable sum of money in his possession, was from some reason or another, apprehensive that Lowry intended to rob him, and to avoid him turned into Mrs. Atkinson's shop, Waterloo road, whither Lowry followed him. Beck soon after left the shop, and Lowry followed him, running; Beck, seeing this, ran also, but ultimately Lowry overtook him, near McKersie's farm, seized him by the collar, threw some blinding stuff in his eyes, hit him on the head, knocked him down, kicked him, and then kneeling upon him, rifled his pockets of $8. In one of Beck's vest pockets there was a $20 bill, but it managed somehow to escape the clutches of Lowry, probably from the fact that the lining of the pocket was torn and the bill had got between the lining and the pocket. The prosecutor was so blinded that he had to be led home by his mother, as the alleged assault and robbery was committed near Beck's home.

John Smith testified to seeing Lowry and Beck scuffling together, and when he came up to them Lowry was on top of Beck. The latter asked witness to drive him to McKersie's, as he wished to get clear of Lowry, but, judging it to be a drunken brawl, did not comply with his request but drove on.

Enos Walker testified that he saw prosecutor and prisoner running down the Waterloo Road.

Prisoner was committed to take his trial, Bail accepted.

EDITORIAL NEWS.

The Hon. William McDougall is to be opposed in North Lanark by Mr. Daniel Galbraith.

There's a project on foot in connection with the Canada Southern Railway to construct a bridge for railroad purposes from the Canada shore across the Niagara river to the State of New York, at or near Strawberry Island.

An Imperial Russian decree, just published, re-opens Sebastopol as a commercial and military harbour, with the fortifications restored. This announces the final neutrality of the Black Sea which was supposed to be one of the main objects of the costly sacrifices entailed upon Great Britain and her allies by the Russian war.

The Town Council of St. Mary's, Ont., have proved their wisdom by voting a grant of $50,000 in debentures for the purpose of loaning $8,000 to such manufacturers as will establish a business that will employ not less than twenty-five hands; the loan to be repaid in ten and twenty years, with interest at five per cent.

CANADIAN MARINE.—There are building, at various points on Lake Ontario and the Welland Canal, and at Chatham, no less than eleven sailing vessels, ten propellers, and four barges. These will add to the carrying trade facilities for 354,000 bushels of grain. In addition, several old vessels are undergoing such repairs as will greatly increase their efficiency. These appearances indicate that the Canadian lake marine continues to grow and prosper steadily.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Montreal Gazette calls attention to what he considers a serious error in the Washington Treaty, the Queen's speech, and President Grant's message. In all these documents it is said that the San Juan question has been referred to the Emperor of Germany, while, as a matter of fact, there is no such personage. The real title of that monarch is German Emperor and King of Prussia. The distinction is common and well understood in Europe, marking the difference between legitimism and mere constitutionalism. The Bourbons are Kings of France; the Orleans are Kings of the French; Napoleon was Emperor of the French; Leopold is King of Belgium; Wilhelm is King of Prussia, believes the land belongs to him and his house, but he is only German Emperor by cession.

The Fairlie Locomotive.

The Toronto, Grey and Bruce, and the Toronto and Nipissing Railway Companies have each recently imported from England one of the Fairlie locomotives. This locomotive consists of two ordinary locomotives, minus the tenders, joined together at the rear and with the boilers so united that they have the appearance of being only one. The cab is thus brought to the centre of the locomotive and is enclosed on all sides. The supply of water is kept in four tanks, one on each side of each end of the boiler; and on the top of the boiler, extending like the tenders from the cab to each end of it, is a gallery for the fuel. There is also a reservoir for water below the centre of the boiler and between the two pairs of driving wheels. The engine-driver occupies the same place of the cab to matter which end of the locomotive is ahead, and the boiler is placed through doors in that side of the boiler on which is the "maker's" post. On each end of the locomotive is a long, low, cow-catcher and above each is a long, narrow, flat, which is attached to the cow-catcher, on that which, for the time, is the rear end of the locomotive being removed. The boiler being of much more than ordinary length and the platform and pipes from end to end, it might be supposed that the locomotive could not go around sharp curves; but this is not the fact, as the locomotive sets of wheels are so connected with the body of the locomotive that they work as independently of each other as though the engine were two entirely separate locomotives. The weight also is so disposed that there is no more pressure by any one of the wheels on the rail than there is by the corresponding wheel of the ordinary locomotive. These two locomotives are the first of the sort ever seen on the continent of America, and it is said that only about twenty of them have yet been manufactured. The distinguishing merits claimed for them are economy and much more than double the power of ordinary locomotives. Those two are intended to be used for hauling freight and passenger trains. It is proposed to make a trial trip with the one belonging to the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Company on Saturday, 24th.

A very remarkable matrimonial case this is, in Santa Clara, Cal. A man claims a woman as his wife. The Justice of the Peace who performed the ceremony supports the man's pretensions. Perceiving the lady vows, sobs, protests, and declares that she is no such person, but quite another woman. So she declines to sign the matrimonial bond. If there is one thing which a woman ought to know, it is whether she is married or not; but all matters connected with this subject seem to be getting gradually mixed.

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION WITH AUSTRALIA.—A telegraphic cable has been successfully laid between England and Australia, although as yet there are some four hundred miles of wire to be stretched through the inland Australian wilderness before messages can reach Melbourne. Since November last Darwin in North Australia, has had the ocean cable landed there which connects it with Java, India, and the whole Western World. The line now runs from Gibraltar to Malta, and from Malta to Alexandria, by three lengths of cable under the sea; across the Isthmus of Suez, then by another length of cable from Aden to Bombay. The Australian message takes to the land again here, and crosses India by the Government line to Madras. At Madras it is one more transferred to a submarine cable, and is carried to Singapore, touching at Peking. Up to this point, messages for China and Australia have followed the same route. Here they diverge, those for China being taken northward to Hong Kong, Amoy, or Shanghai, while the Australian message is transmitted by cable to Bavaria and Java, where it is taken along the Dutch line to Batavia, and from thence, by cable once more under the sea, to Port Darwin. The whole of the cables forming this enormous chain have been made and laid by the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company.

A fatal shooting affray occurred on the morning of the 15th inst., at the ranch of Major Crane, near Cannon city, Denver, between John E. Tyndall and Adam Hanna. They were at the breakfast table, when a dispute arose about the size of the potatoes in the dish before them. The fire was passed, when Tyndall seized a butcher-knife and attacked Hanna. Hanna picked up a pistol and shot his assailant several times, causing wounds from which death ensued. Hanna was arrested.

HELEN MOIR

OR LOVE AND HONOUR.

A TALE OF THE CLYDE.

CHAPTER XXIII.

ANXIOUS DAYS AT ARDENHAM—EDWIN AND RITCHIE IN LONDON.

Before Hermann left, he and his friend Edwin Allerton had come to an understanding on an important matter. They both entertained a suspicion, amounting nearly to a conviction, that Helen's father had, in the matter of the forged bank bill, been made the victim of a conspiracy. This suspicion was fully shared in by Mrs. Allerton and Ritchie Dunlop. In the story told by Bridgenorth—so simple, and evidently so truthful in its particulars—there were various things which forced this belief in their minds. First, the character and conduct of Philip Jerdan was highly suspicious. That he was a reckless and unprincipled professional gambler, there could be no doubt, and neither could there be any doubt that he had a deep design in his behaviour towards the youth whose misfortune had cast him in his way. The friendship he had possessed for him, and the apparent kindness he had shown in lending him small sums of money, had been exhibited in their true colours by his luring the friendless, sorrow-stricken youth to the gambling saloon, and prevailing on him to engage in play. By this time he had wormed himself entirely into the young man's confidence, had been made acquainted with his whole history and the exact position in which he was then placed. How easy for one so sharp-sighted and unscrupulous as Philip Jerdan to turn the knowledge he had obtained to just such advantage as they suspected he had done. Knowing Allerton's desperate, penniless situation, he knew that the temptation to play, in the hope of winning money—of which he stood so sore in need—would be irresistible. First his appetite was whetted by the small sums he was allowed to win, and drink was given him to render him reckless. Then, when his losses began—losses doubtless effected by their superior knowledge of the game, or perhaps even by cheating him—fill as these accumulated he drank deeper and played more desperately, getting further and further into their coils, losses his till amounted to five hundred pounds, for which he was asked to sign a paper.

The question was, Did he sign the bank bill which had been cashed, and which was found to be a forgery? He had a recollection of writing the name Waldgrave Wintrop upon a sheet of paper, though what the paper contained he did not, in the state in which he then was, know anything. Considering his excitement and intoxication it was not at all likely that he would write with a steady hand, yet the forged bill, which Mrs. Allerton had carefully kept, showed a boldy written signature, steady and regular, and Bridgenorth, when he now saw it, declared that it was not the least like his handwriting.

These things presented sufficient grounds of suspicion, and they were by no means cleared away by the peculiar behaviour of Philip Jerdan's father to Bridgenorth in Australia—his desire to have him in his service—his extraordinary kindness culminating him sole heir to all his possessions, under the singular condition which he attached to his will. It was this condition which made old Jerdan's conduct so very suspicious. Why should he impose it? It could not, one would think, be mere caprice which dictated it; the old man must have had a certain object in view. Now, what object could he have in preventing Bridgenorth from returning to his true name of Allerton, or revealing his existence or himself to his relations in England? There was nothing to suggest an explanation of this, yet that something lay under it they were all convinced. The rest of his conduct towards Bridgenorth was explicable enough; his son was dead, he had no other near relatives living, and as this son had been the means of bringing ruin upon Bridgenorth, it was natural for the old man to wish to make what atonement he could. To make Bridgenorth his heir, therefore, was not so very wonderful; but to detain him from making himself known to his relations, under the penalty of forfeiting the whole property, was strange, was extraordinary, in the extreme, and, taken in connection with the former suspicious circumstances, added weight to these suspicions in all their minds.

To what did the satirists point as a possible fact? Why to this—that Bridgenorth had not committed forgery, even in a legal sense. They all—even Helen herself—agreed in considering him morally innocent of the crime. Suppose he had written the signature to the bank bill, he was not in the circumstances, conscious of what he was doing, though the law held him fully liable, and would treat him as a criminal. But suppose that it had not been his hand at all, but the hand of another, which had traced the letters of the signature; in that case he was in no way guilty, and Helen's remark implied that the stain was removed from her father's name, and—oh, joy—the barrier, which separated her from Hermann, had fallen.

The Way "to minister to a mind diseased" is to take Peruvian Syrup, a protected solution of the proteic iron, which gives strength and vigor to the whole system, restores the digestive organs to perfect health, thereby restoring the mind to its natural vigor.

We have seen it stated in various papers throughout the country, that Agents for the sale of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were authorized to refund the money to any person who should use them and not be satisfied with the result. We doubted this at first, but the proprietors authorize us to say that it is true.

From increased Physical and Mental Strength of persons who use Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, their augmented facility of endurance, their regular and healthy action of the Heart, Lungs, Stomach, and Bowels, and their improved appearance, demonstrated in thousands of cases within our knowledge, its power of restoring the great sympathetic and muscular system on which full and healthy development depends, is certain.

Breakfast—Epp's Cocoa—Gratefully and Comfortably.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor bills.

Dr. Epp's Milk Cocoa. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet is labelled "James Epps & Co., Homeopathic Chemists, London." Also, makers of Epps's Milk Cocoa (Cocoa and Condensed Milk).

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is, without doubt, the safest, surest, and best remedy that has ever been invented for internal and external use. It is applicable to a great variety of complaints, and is equally beneficial for man or beast.

HAVE YOU A COUGH?
HAVE YOU BRONCHITIS?
HAVE YOU THE ASTHMA?
HAVE YOU ANY LUNG DIFFICULTY, OR WEAKNESS IN YOUR THROAT?

READ THE FOLLOWING:
Mrs. Amy Kennedy, of Painesville, Ohio, says: "I have suffered with Asthma 24 years, have been doctored by many Physicians, as soon as I took the Balm it relieved me, I cannot express the gratitude I feel for the benefit your Allan's Lung Balm has been to me."
Dr. Harris, of Middlebury, Vermont, says: "I had been troubled with Bronchitis for two years so affecting the organs of the throat, that I could not speak aloud for six weeks, I had with it a severe cough and cold night sweats, I took two bottles of Allen's Lung Balm, and an entirely cured."
Capt. Foster, of Bureau, Ont., says: "I have been troubled with a cough at times very severe for years past. I have found Allen's Lung Balm to relieve my cough more readily than any other cough medicine I have ever tried. My wife also used it with the most satisfactory results."
The Balm is sold by all druggists. Price 25¢ per bottle.

FELLOWS
HYPOPHOSPHITES

All life-endowed bodies, whether they be Beasts, Birds, Reptiles, Insects, or even Zoophytes, and subjects of the Vegetable Kingdom are governed by vital force, which binds all the springs of existence, and as nothing can save them from destruction when this principle leaves them, the discovery of means whereby vitality may be sustained in the living body is in itself a boon to the world.

Modern Chemistry has vented the question and discovered the ingredients constituting the brain, muscles and nerves, and finds that by introducing these ingredients in proper proportions the brain and nervous system are strengthened.

It is a substantially the basis on which the Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is built, its direct action upon the Brain and Nervous System, and the Muscles, strengthening the Nerves, it causes the rapid distribution of Vitalized Blood in the Muscular Organs of the Body.

Restoring the Stagnant Heart and Liver, strengthening the Action of the Stomach and Bowels, and enabling the Lungs to be fully saturated with Oxygen.

It is adapted for all cases of Weakness and Excitation, whether arising from a Sedentary Life, a tropical climate, from fever, or debility from any cause, and is efficacious in Pulmonary Consumption, many confirmed cases having been cured and all benefited, where its use has been continued over a fortnight.

In Bronchitis it is a specific, and in Asthma it gives relief where every other remedy fails. For Nervous Debility it stands unrivalled, and may be used with confidence in all cases. As this is entirely distinct and different from every other preparation of Hypophosphites, be careful not to take Fellows' Syrup, and take no other.

HAIR RENEWER

Nine years before the public, and no preparation for the hair has ever been produced equal to Hall's "Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer," and every honest dealer will say it gives the best satisfaction. It restores GRAY HAIR to its original color, eradicating and preventing dandruff, curing BALDNESS and promoting the growth of the hair. The gray and brassy by a few applications is changed to black and silky locks, and wayward hair will assume any shape the wearer desires. It is the cheapest HAIRDRESSING in the world, and its effects last longer, as it excites the glands to furnish the nutritive principle so necessary to the life of hair. It gives the hair that splendid appearance so much admired by all. By its tonic and stimulating properties it prevents the hair from falling out, and none need be without Nature's ornament—a good head of hair. It is the first-learned perfected remedy ever discovered for curing diseases of the hair, and it has never been equalled, and we assure the thousands who have used it, it is kept up to its original high standard. Our Treatise on the Hair mailed free; send for it.
