The turn which the tide of temperance legislation has been taking over the border of late is worthy of particular attention in Canada.

An Ottawa telegram states that the Marquis of Lorne has expressed a desire to have his term as governor-general of Canada extended for another year.

Several of our contemporaries take the announcement that England intends to withdraw her troops from Halifax, N. S.

The Montreal Post, referring to the announcement that Halifax, N. S., is to be abandoned as a British garrison, says: "Our government and our people are in quest of excellent opportunities to learn the lesson of self-reliance and self-sufficiency."

High license being in the ascendant in the States, with the probability that it will take hold in Canada too before long, it is of interest to the public to know just what it means.

High license means, then, that there shall be fewer drinking places, and those conducted by wealthy proprietors, whose profits out of their comparative monopoly will be enormous.

All things have their uses, even a misanthrope. At least one would judge so from reading the following advertisement in a German paper: "Wanted, a man without embarrassment, of middle age, willing to travel; must be a misanthrope, with a bitter experience of the wickedness of mankind."

Remarks the Boston Star: "Last year the 105,000 Indians in Canada cost the dominion government about $200,000. Palaw; that isn't anything. We have about 200,000 Indians in this country and they cost the United States from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000."

In his inaugural speech on March 23, as lord rector of Glasgow university, Mr. John Bright thus referred to imperial federation, which, like ourselves, he evidently regards as rather chimerical: "I read a few weeks ago an interesting speech delivered in Edinburgh by the commissioner to this country from the dominion of Canada. Some of you possibly may also have read it. Canada, as you know, is now an ancient colony of this country, and is one in which I think Englishmen generally take a strong interest, but Sir Alexander Galt in his speech uttered, not as an angry complaint, but something like a gentle complaint, that Canada had no share in the government of the empire with regard to the questions of peace and war."

Mr. Durand evidently resists his evidence for Christianity in property. He cites several so-called prophets from the old testament plainly pointing, as he thinks, to which they could share the losses and the gains.

Christianity, Durand claims, it would be very hard task to show the utter weakness of the partnership in which I could share the gains and avoid the losses. (Laughter and cheers.) And that is the partnership which now exists between this country and the dominion of Canada. [Applause.] But how this is to be brought about, how something more than this sentimental attachment is to be completed, I know not.

It is reported that Toronto journalism is shortly to receive an acquisition in the person of Hon. T. W. Anglin, ex-M.P. of the St. John Freeman. What paper Mr. Anglin will be connected with is not stated, but as it is certain not to be the Mail, and the Globe is the only other paper that favors foreign talent to the exclusion of that to be obtained nearer home, it is natural to conclude that the ex-speaker's talents are to find employment on that detestable sheet.

As one who has the utmost confidence in the scriptures, and who utterly repudiates any attempt to deny the divine origin of the word of God, as not being intended to teach science, whenever it touches scientific facts, I should like to call attention to the simple but apparently unanswerable matter, to the simple but apparently unanswerable matter, to the simple but apparently unanswerable matter.

Copernicus admitted that his system, which makes the earth the centre of the world around which the earth revolves, was merely an assumption, incapable of demonstration.

When Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., announced that his "Favorite Prescription" would positively cure the many diseases which were peculiar to women, some doubted, and continued to employ the harsh and caustic local treatment. But the mighty truth gradually became acknowledged. Thousands of ladies employed the "Favorite Prescription" and were speedily cured.

Medicated vapors applied by inhalation cure catarrh, bronchitis, consumption, etc., while all other remedies fail, by destroying those microscopic germs which cause those diseases. For full particulars apply to Dr. Malcom, 107 St. George Street, Montreal.

Ladies buying a sewing machine for their spring sewing should see the light-running, noiseless "Wander" before trying any other, as it is the most improved, and better than all other makes of any of the old-fashioned American makes. It should not be forgotten that the Wander machine took the only medal last fall given to any sewing machine in Canada. Only depot 82 King Street West, C. O. Elliott, Manager, 246

These men generally agree now to deny the necessity of proof, because it is considered that the evidence of their assumptions appears to explain the phenomena. This is too much after the manner of theologians in certain well known controversial points. Such statements may be made as scientific facts in the word of God; for the two are utterly at variance.

Such ministers as the above should be sat upon by their congregation, or sent to P. T. Barnum for exhibition. I have no doubt he would make more money during the past year than any other man in Toronto.

It is believed that Birnam Wood never recovered from the effects of that excursion to Dunsmuir. Larches, however, have been planted on the site, and a natural birch covers some part.

CANADA COTTON COMPANY

THEIR LARGEST AND IMPROVED FACTORY AT CORNWALL.

A Great Industry Developed by the National Cotton-Eleven Acres of Buildings and Five Hundred Operatives—The Electric Light in Use.

Special Dispatch to The World.

CORNWALL, April 5.—Our busy little town was invaded yesterday by a large party from Ottawa and Montreal. They came here on invitation of Hon. Donald McLean to visit and inspect the factory of the Canada Cotton Company, of which he is the honorable visitor and the head and front. The visitors from the capital were principally members of parliament and their lady friends, while those from the Quebec province included the leading business men of that city. The whole party numbered about four hundred.

They arrived at six o'clock and were at once driven to the factory, which faces the St. Lawrence a mile and a half distant from the station. The buildings and outhouses constituting the works cover an area of not less than eleven acres. As originally built, the factory contained twenty thousand spindles and five hundred looms, all the carding, spinning, drying and weaving being done in the one building, which was lighted by gas manufactured on the premises.

Recently an immense building for weaving is used, as will be seen when it is stated that the dimensions of the structure are 550 feet by 120 feet, forming one vast room, in which all the latest improvements in construction are to be seen.

It is intended to put in the remaining 240 machines as soon as possible. Perhaps the most striking feature in connection with this building is the fact that it is illuminated by the Edison electric light—the first instance of the kind in Canada—there being 200 lamps of 16 candle power each. Mr. McLean says without hesitation that this building is the finest of its kind in the world, and the visitors, who witnessed the grand sight of 760 looms in operation under the brilliant light of electricity, were unanimously of the opinion that they had never before seen anything to equal it. Even Mr. Edison himself, who was the first view of industry he had ever witnessed.

The carding and spinning will continue to be done in the old building, the number of spindles being increased to forty thousand. The party went all over the premises, not forgetting the dye houses, drying houses, and building containing machinery for finishing dyes. An enormous quantity of dyes are sent monthly to all parts of the dominion, this being the only mill in Canada producing this class of goods to any extent. Prior to the establishment of this company, the home market was supplied entirely from the United States.

Besides dyes, the company manufacture cottons, and all tent dyes, brown sheetings and hosiery. The goods are distributed to the trade direct from the works, thus avoiding the middleman, and so lessening the retail price of the goods. This is an important feature of the company's system of business and cannot fail to give the utmost satisfaction to consumers.

The factory gives employment to five hundred operatives, whose monthly wages amount to over $15,000. Large sums are also paid out for supplies. The raw cotton is imported direct from Texas and the southwest.

Prior to 1876, the concern was simply struggling for an existence. Since then the largely increased sales, improvements and extensions of the factory indicate in a most unmistakable manner its progress as a progressive enterprise. The fostering care of a protective tariff. The consumer is supplied with a class of goods equal to any manufactured in any part of the world, and at prices lower than those which prevailed prior to the adoption of the national policy.

It is almost needless to add that the visitors from Montreal and Ottawa were not only astonished and delighted with the factory, but also proud to be associated with such a great industry cannot be regarded with a feeling other than that of satisfaction and pride by every true Canadian. It is the principal mainstay of this town, whose inhabitants' worst wish is that its present prosperity may be long and continued.

ADAM ISAACS MENKEN.

The death of her first husband recalls in memory the death of Ben Russell, Adah Isaacs Menken's first husband, recalls recollections of that gifted but erratic daughter of genius. It was in 1858 that she made her dramatic debut in this city at the old National Theatre. At this time she appeared to be a tragedienne, and her piece of resistance was "The Jewess, or the Council of State."

Shortly before coming here she had played in Dayton, and for some reason or other she was taken up by a military organization, then called the Light Infantry, and she made its honorary commander, and for a while she disappeared as Captain Adah Isaacs Menken. Her work at the National was neither a financial nor artistic success, and she next went to Louisville, where for a time she supported the then young tragedian, Edwin Booth, playing Ophelia, Hamlet, Lear, Macbeth, etc.

Her success as a leading lady was not pronounced, and she returned to this city just as John C. Heenan made his dramatic debut in this city at the old National Theatre. Heenan gave several evening performances, one among them being a well-known sporting lawyer, who still retains his name as a leading feature of the National, and who was coming out of the theatre here.
