External Affairs Supplementary Paper

No. 63/5

X

hed

0

Statement by Canadian Representative in the First Committee of the United Nations in Explanation of Vote, November 19, 1963.

to vote for the 17-power resolution contained in Document A/C.1/L.330.

When the question of convening a conference to sign a convention prohibiting the use of nuclear weapons was first proposed at the sixteenth session of the General Assembly in 1961, we voted against Resolution 1653, which is recalled in the resolution now before us, for reasons given in our reply of January 26, 1962, to the Secretary-General's enquiry, which I will now quote:

"The Canadian Government has consistently sought to bring about far-reaching measures of nuclear disarmament, and to have all aspects of this important problem carefully studied in international disarmament negotiations. Canada considers, however, that the convening of a special conference on the question of the prohibition of the use of nuclear weapons could have an adverse effect on international disarmament negotiations already in progress. In the opinion of the Canadian Government, the only effective way to ensure that nuclear weapons will never be used is through agreement on a comprehensive and carefully verified system of disarmament which would deal with all aspects of the problem of nuclear weapons. The Eighteen-Nation Committee is continuing to give full consideration to the question of nuclear disarmament, as well as related measures dealing with armed forces and conventional armaments, and it is to be hoped that agreement will be reached on a comprehensive programme.

On the basis of the above considerations, the Canadian Government has concluded that it would not be desirable to convene a special conference to consider the signing of a convention on the prohibition of the use of nuclear weapons".

This continues to be the Canadian position, since, in our view, the basic considerations have not changed since we replied to the Secretary-General's enquiry. Indeed it seems to us that the 17-power resolution could Create a more difficult situation in resumed disarmament negotiations than we believed would be the case when Resolution 1653 was adopted in 1961. The present resolution not only asks the ENDC to study the question of convening a conference on prohibition of nuclear weapons, but it requests the Committee to do so urgently. This runs counter to the agreement resolution, from w Committee a few days ago on the general disarmament resolution, from which all mention of specific collateral measures was omitted (at the request of the Soviet of specific collateral measures was omitted, it could delay Soviet Delegation). If the 17-power resolution is adopted, it could delay further than the view of the could be solved by the could be so further discussion in the ENDC of collateral measures which - in the view of majority of its members - offer the best prospects for early agreements. It could also delay continued study of the important question of a comprehensive ban on nuclear-weapons tests, and the measures contained in the plans for general and complete disarmament.

For all these reasons...the Canadian Delegation has serious misgivings about the resolution now before us and must therefore oppose it, even though we appreciate and sympathize with the desire to put an end to the possibility of nuclear weapons being used in war, which has motivated the co-sponsors in putting it forward.

xternal Affairs

Dut are still important. Operative Persons as 4 and to did with question affecting international peace and security. My Date and shares the operative persons of most members that any attaches ergod nathened you important. Operative Persons and the operation of most members that any attaches ergod nathened you import a security of south members that any attaches ergod nathened you desired to estimate the operation of south members that any attaches ergod not be attached to estimate the operation of south members that any attaches to the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the purpose of the circumstance and the operation of the circumstance and the operation of the circumstance and the operation of the

When the question of convening a conference to sign a convenitor consisting, the use of muclear weapons was first proposed at the sixteenth ession of the Ceneral Assembly is 1961, we voted against Resolution 1653, with is recalled in the resolution now herers us, for russons given in our coly of January 26, 1962, to the secretary-General's enquiry, which'l will

The Canadian Government has consistently sought to bring about members far reaching measures of nuclear disarmament, and to have all sopied aspects of this important problem carefully studied in inter-notuloser netional disarmament negotiations. Ganada considers, however, begind that the convening of a special conference on the question of the probabilition of the use of nuclear weapons could have an adverse eligit on international disarmament negotiations already use at a property of the country of the Canadian Government. The only moves through agreement on a comprehensive and carefully verified system of disarmament which would deal with all aspects of the problem of of disarmament which would deal with all aspects of the problem of effective way to ensure the manufacture with never he beed is through agreement on a comprehensive and carefully verified system of disarmament which would deal with all aspects of the problem of nuclear weapons. The Eighteen-Nation Committee is continuing to give full consideration to the question of nuclear disarmament, as well as related measures dealing with armed forces and conventional armaments, and it is to be noped that agreement will be reached on a comprehensive programments.

On the basis of the above considerations, the Canadian Government has concluded that it would not be desirable to convene a special conference to consider the signing of a convention on the prohibition of the use of nuclear weapons".

This continues to be the Canadian position, since, in our view, basic considerations have not changed since we replied to the Secretary-baral's enquiry. Indeed it seems to us that the 17-power resolution could sate a more difficult situation in resumed disarmament negotiations than we silved would be the case when Resolution 1653 was adopted in 1901. The esent resolution not only asks the ENDS to study the question of convening conference on prohibition of nuclear weapons, but it requests the Committee as a few days ago on the general disarmament resolution, from which all thion of specific collateral measures was omitted (at the request of the contion of specific collateral measures was omitted (at the request of the material discussion in the ENDS of collateral measures which is adopted, it could delay could also delay continued study of the important question of a comprehensive could also delay continued study of the important question of a comprehensive on nuclear-weapons tests, and the measures contained in the plans for general complete disarmament.

For all these reasons. ...the Canadian Detegation has serious misgivings out the resolution now before us and must therefore oppose it, even though we preciate and sympathize with the desire to put an end to the possibility of clear weapons being used in war, which has motivated the co-sponsors in putting forward.