Helpless to Render Aid, Liners See Ship and Crew Go to Their Doom

Ministry of All the Talents Weather Their First Storm.—Security for France is Chief Object of New French Government.—Archbishop of Nova Scotia Reviews the Strike Situation.

SANK WHILE LINERS LOOKED ON HELPLESS.

NEW YORK, April 21. Thirty-eight deep sea men, the entire crew of the Japanese steel freighter Raifuku Maru, were drowned in raging North Atlantic seas today when their ship sank under the eyes of two ship loads of humanity unable to help them. Two ocean liners, the Cunarder Tuscania, and the Homeric of the White Star Line, fully stood by as the seas gulped the men and boat. A wall went up from the helpless spectators as the stricken ship up-ended her stern and plunged beneath the waves. Rescue was impossible; it would have been suicide to launch lifeboats into the boiling waters that churned the luckless crew to inevitable death. "Regret unable to save life," read the laconic message wireless to the White Star offices here by Captain John Roberts, of the Homeric, a few minutes after the Raifuku Maru sank. Riding the air close upon Captain Roberts' message came this from the Tuscania: "Tuscania arrived at S.O.S. at time to see her sink with all lives lost. Rescue impossible." A detailed story of the disaster, which occurred 180 miles south and west of Sable Island, will not be known until the Homeric, New York bound from Southampton, arrives to-morrow.

The story of the hours spent in their hopeless struggle with the sea probably never will be known. All that is known now has been put together from the meagre report sent through from the stricken steamer and the ships that sought to aid her. The high lights of the tale are supplied in two or three messages. "Ship 39 degrees low, now very dangerous, please quick assist." It was this message with its quaint language of the Raifuku Maru's captain that rang a full speed ahead signal aboard the Homeric and sent it plunging through wind and waves on its futile race against death. The message for help was sent out shortly after four o'clock this morning. Hours later Captain Roberts sent this message to his 'line's offices: "Homeric proceeded to the assistance of the Raifuku Maru at 4.47 a.m., Eastern Standard time, and sighted the steamer at 11.54. The steamer sank at 11.55 in latitude 44.43 north, longitude 61.39 west. Regret unable to save life. Proceeded on voyage 12.03 this afternoon." This marked the end of the stricken freighter's seven hour struggle against half a gale which swept the waves into monstrous battering rams. Throughout much of this time her crew were helplessly trapped for her decks had been smashed by thundering seas. The ship, of 5,483 gross tons, listed badly, her bulk cargo of wheat having shifted in her holds. Many vessels and shore stations heard the plaintive pleas of the foundering Japanese. The Homeric, twenty miles off and Tuscania, 63 miles away, as well as the Scotia of the Cunard Line, and the Greek liner King Alexander, with two tugs from Halifax and Canso, set out for the rescue, sending reassuring messages to the stricken boat. It later was estimated that her position was a scant 600 miles from the scene of the Titanic disaster.

LOST WITH ALL HANDS.

HALIFAX, April 21. While two ocean greyhounds stood by helpless to render aid, the five thousand ton Japanese freighter Raifuku Maru, carrying a crew, reported to number about forty souls, foundered and sank in mountainous seas, 100 miles southwest of Sable Island at noon today, after her grain cargo had shifted and given the steamer a thirty degree list and the lifeboats had been shattered by waves. Answering the first wireless calls for help sent out at 8 o'clock this morning, Greenwich Time, the White Star liner Homeric, bound for New York, put on all speed for the position given, latitude 41.33, longitude 61.41, and the Cunarder Tuscania also answered the call. The Homeric was first at the scene, arriving at 12 o'clock, Atlantic Standard Time, but was prevented from reaching the disabled craft because of the force of the wind and waves and the necessity of protecting the hundreds of souls making the liner's passenger list. The Homeric's tragic report was then sent out that the Raifuku Maru was sinking before their eyes, but they were unable to save any lives. A little later the Tuscania came up, but was unable to do more than stand by and watch the little freighter in its death struggles, and at 1.15, Atlantic Standard Time, advised the world by wireless that the Raifuku Maru had gone down with all on board. The Raifuku sailed from Philadelphia on April 3rd, and called at Boston, leaving that port April 8th, with a cargo of grain for Hamburg. It was the shifting of the cargo that caused this tragedy, according to the sketch report that came out of the air to-day. It was evident, judging from this report, that the steamer listed during the dark hours of the morning, the first message having been picked up here at six o'clock, Atlantic Standard Time, and timed 8 o'clock Greenwich. The story of the struggle that followed probably never be told, unless some members of the ill-fated crew remained alive long enough to be picked up after the steamer sank. The most dramatic message came at ten o'clock when the wireless flashed out "now very danger come quick." This was answered by the reassuring message of the Homeric, seventy miles away, and travelling 20 knots an hour, asking the Japanese operator to maintain his bearings. Whether any further messages were received from the sinking steamer was not known this afternoon, but none were intercepted here, and it was apparent that the wireless was out of commission several hours before the steamer went down. The Maritime register gives the Raifuku's tonnage 5,557, and her sailing port as Kobe Japan. Captain Iseka was in command and it is believed she carried a Japanese crew. Both the Tuscania and Homeric were bound for New York with large passenger lists from British ports and are due at New York to-morrow.

DEPUTIES VOTE CONFIDENCE IN PAINELE.

PARIS, April 21. The Chamber of Deputies to-night gave Premier Painele and his Government a vote of confidence, 804 to 218. The vote came after nine hours of bitter personal debate in which Joseph Caillaux, the new Finance Minister, was the central point of attack. Caillaux, restored to power from prison,

The Ministerial declaration was a matter of secondary importance both for those within the Chamber and for thousands who had come to see Caillaux.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, April 21. This morning more than fifty parents had to come before Judge J. C. Lacroix, in the Juvenile Court, and hand over a fifty dollar bond that their respective offspring would "maintain the peace" for the next twelve months, following a wave of juvenile delinquency which swept the city over the week-end.

CURZON'S REQUEST.

LONDON, April 21. The Daily Mail understands the late Marquis Curzon requested to the nation two historic ruins on his estate, namely, Tattershall castle, Lincolnshire, and Soden castle, Sussex. The former was built about 1440; the latter in 1376.

THE FRENCH POLICY.

PARIS, April 21. The ultimate position of drastic financial measure, maintenance of the embassy at the Vatican, and pacification of internal dissension, but above all real security for France, were the prime points in the Ministerial declaration in the Painele-Briand-Caillaux Cabinet read before the Chamber of Deputies and Senate this afternoon. France has "bitter disillusionment," the statement declares, "but is determined to look the facts in the face." The statement said France would maintain all her present treaties and pursue the execution of the Dawes plan as well as a settlement of the Inter-Allied debts. "Faithful to all its allies, just and pacific towards all nations," says the statement, "France has a profound desire to give to the world repose and stability, of which it has such great need; but the first conditions of stable peace is that France herself be secure."

ARCHBISHOP WORRELL'S VIEW.
HALIFAX, April 21. In the present case either the mines are not worth working or the miners should be able to have decent homes and adequate provision for food and clothing and recreation; or if the mines won't stand the cost of working let them be closed. But if, as we believe, they are one of the most valuable assets of the country, let them be worked by fairly treated men, even if dividends are lost. In the above words the Most Rev. Clare L. Worrell, D.D., Archbishop of Nova Scotia, summed up the condition among the Nova Scotia coal miners in the course of his charge to the synod of the diocese of Nova Scotia this afternoon.

Imperial Oil to Prospect in Far North

EDMONTON, Alta., April 10.—The Imperial Oil Company will seek a definite decision on the oil prospects in the Canadian Arctic this summer. The company which has been drilling at Fort Norman since 1921, hopes this year to establish the true worth of the field.

The party under the command of Angus Sutherland, who superintended the operations last summer, will leave here for Fort Norman as soon as it is possible to travel. Going by way of the Nelson river they will avoid Great Slave lake and will be able to reach their destination quicker than if they waited for the ice to clear from this body of water. With the best of luck, however, it is not likely that the party will reach Fort Norman before July 1.

When the prospectors reach the fort, they will continue drilling No. 2 well, which now is down 800 feet. They will push the hole down another 500 feet to the same depth at which oil was struck in No. 1 well.

Great care has been exercised in drilling this hole in order not to freeze in the casing, as happened in the case of the first well. The company's plans for the future will depend largely on the result of this summer's drilling.

Strike Causes an Exodus

GLACE BAY, N.S., April 15.—"As a result of the industrial tie-up Glace Bay has lost and is losing many of its best citizens to the United States," says the Glace Bay Gazette which continues:

"In the four weeks that have passed since the strike began upwards of sixty residents of the town have left for the States the majority of them having secured employment in Boston and New York. A number secured employment in Detroit, Pittsburgh and Chicago.

"Many other local young men are only waiting until the opening of the shipping season and if they find that the period of idleness at the mines is to be prolonged beyond this point they contemplate seeking other fields. Not only are the younger men leaving the community but entire families propose leaving Glace Bay and the mining areas for good and settling down in the country to the south."

England Faces Ship Competition

UNIONS ARE OBSTACLE.

The man sweeping the streets in Newcastle-on-Tyne is drawing more wages than the skilled artisan in the shipbuilding yards, stated T. E. Thirlaway, Vice-Chairman of the Swan Hunter and Wigham Richardson Company, shipbuilders of Wellmouth-on-Tyne, England, who is a guest at the Ritz-Carlton to-day. The wages paid in the sheltered trades such as the railways and on corporation work, are out of proportion to those skilled workmen are receiving in branches of industry where there is keen competition. Mr. Thirlaway said he thinks a readjustment is needed. Shipbuilding in Britain is very dull indeed. Not more than half the yards are fully employed and many closed entirely. They are suffering from Scandinavian competition, and, what is worse, from German competition. The Germans claimed, he said, that their yards are not being subsidized, and, due to superior efficiency, they were able to quote a price for five important cargo-passenger vessels so much lower than any British firms that a well known English line gave them the contract. Mr. Thirlaway absolutely repudiates the suggestion of greater efficiency. "We have in Great Britain some very up-to-date and well-organized ship-building establishments," he said. "The difference in tenders might partly be due to the lower wages and the longer hours put in by the German workers, who are laboring very hard to regain lost ground. However, this only accounts for a very small part of the difference. The cost of material was as heavy for the Germans as for British builders with the possible exception of steel, but lower steel would not account for the discrepancy."

Union Restrictions.

"Our men are working very well. A lot of them are paid strictly according to results, and no German or any one else could toil harder. We are quite ready to adopt any labor-saving device available, and our men will have to help us in this direction."

In most cases the men individually are loyal and willing to co-operate, but they have difficulty in many cases owing to trade union restrictions. However, the unions are having their eyes opened as a result of the severe competition of the last few years from Holland, due to longer hours and harder work.

In spite of the opposition of the union many suggestions of value are given by the men, and the company has a system whereby they are encouraged to invent devices and also stop wastage of material.

In addition to keener competition, the limitation of armaments has proved another serious factor to injure shipbuilding and firms which were accustomed to have some berths occupied all the year around now have to fill up the gaps. But the greatest bug-bear to shipbuilders and shipowners is high taxation, both imperial and local, he said. Taxes now amount to three and four times as much as before the war. The Germans do not have to pay in taxes anything like the sum which is levied from their British competitors. Transportation charges and the cost of coal will have to come down also before any revival of trade can be looked for. Lower-priced coal is in sight, for the German mines are knocking the bottom out of the coal trade, and France is also getting heavier supplies from the Ruhr, he asserted.

Immigration and Imperial Sentiment

It is axiomatic that the capacity of any country to absorb new citizens without disturbance to its economic and social life must be the factor limiting immigration into it. It must be obvious that a little organization, a certain degree of management, would increase that capacity enormously. The Dominions have the empty spaces, theoretically the capital for development and the suitability of the migrants to settle are the two principal desiderata. Britain offers to provide the capital for direct application to the land, and to train the prospective migrants. Both offers have been made largely in vain because the Dominions have not displayed any real energy in co-operation. Meanwhile migrants from other countries are pouring into Canada and knocking at the door of Australia. It is no thanks to what is done by New Zealand that the same thing is not being experienced here. The moral is that a paramount need exists for a more aggressive sentiment for, and a more practical interest in, the question of settling the British Empire by British people, so that the existing machinery for effective systematized migration may not be left to rust in idleness.—Auckland Weekly News.

Phillip's Sociable Unprecedented Success

The Evening Telegram. Sir—Will you kindly insert following. On the evening of April 18th the doors of L.O.L. No. 44 of Phillip's were thrown open to the public for the purpose of innocent amusement and relaxation, after the usual and sombre days of Lent just through. Never before in the history of the place was a hall more thronged or an object more highly patronized.

The entertainment began at 8 p.m. with an appropriate address from our Rev. A. T. Tulk, who honoured us with his presence, and was kind enough to act the part of Chairman to help us out. The Rev. Mr. Tulk's address followed by a concert programme, which consisted of about 15 items humorous and otherwise. Perhaps, as the concocter of the programme, I should be allowed to say that the programme was a success. However, to judge by the applause which greeted the efforts of the artists, it is safe to say that none of us were bored beyond endurance or in danger of losing their heads with disgust or impatience.

While the programme was being given, the audience all had a chance to enjoy themselves, as the items were from a sentimental to a comic. Could the author of the "Silent Movie" have seen one of our bands, Moses Squires acting his part as he would have had a fit. Probably the most enjoyed parts of the programme were the band selections, which were totally unexpected by the audience. The beauty which music brings to the life of a band and the progress of a couple of months was an agreeable surprise to our hearers. Many were heard to comment on the able way in which the bandmaster and teacher, Mr. F. T. Tulk, led us out. He began his address to us in February past. At that time most of us would not have known him from a wire hoop, but we feel well on the way to know him now.

Mr. Spencer has worked very hard. Besides his daily vocation, he has been giving nearly all his nights to his band. He has entered heart and soul into the life of the place, and well he should, for the respect and good wishes of all who know him here. In the name of the brotherhood I wish to thank him a hearty vote of thanks for the considerable share he took in our concert a success.

The concert, which ended at 11.30 p.m., was followed by the customary refreshments and tea. It will be remembered that the former was a success and the rising orb of the sun supplied the radiant light for two last sets of quadrilles. The evening without a hitch, except for a couple of teetotalers, who, however, were slight breaches of etiquette. The net proceeds amounted to $10.00, which will be devoted to beautifying the appearance of our Hall, and also making our small band more comfortable than it is at present. Besides our people, many of our esteemed friends from the city and also from the presence, and it is hoped that the troupe I represent, I wish to thank all for their patronage of the little efforted entertainment. Yours truly, G. S. SQUIRES.

How Birds Count

Four young swallows launched themselves from their nest and settled in line on a barn-roof. One of the parents began feeding them in turn, beginning from the one on the left—No. 1 and worked down the line to No. 4. Presently No. 4 shifted his position, to between Nos. 1 and 2, as if to gain earlier attention. But the next time the parent worked along the line she fed No. 1 first, as before, then fed the two on the right of the line before tending the one which changed place, thus giving him a lesson in bird morals.

The incident throws a light on a question of curious study. "How far can mother birds recognize their young? That they may be deceived easily is indicated by the story of a cuckoo of India, the Koel. The male is glossy black, the female a mottled brown; and the young, instead of resembling their mother, as is usual, are black. This cuckoo is a parasite, making a victim of the black starling called Myna. The starling accepts the cuckoo's offspring, but it would kill the little black cuckoo if it were dressed in brown feathers.

On finding twelve or sixteen titmice in one nest, we may wonder if the parents recognize them all, and if they manage to distribute their food evenly. They may be helped in knowing which birds need food by the position of the young ones in the nest. But we can hardly suppose that a pheasant with twenty chicks takes a daily roll-call, and so finds out if any are missing. This fearless bird will lead her callow brood over a dyke which she can manage to cross herself, but in too deep or wide for most of her chicks. When some of them scramble over, she will unconcernedly go on her journey, leaving others behind and to their fate.

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is dangerous unless checked. Gin Pills will remedy all kidney troubles. Get a box to-day before it is too late.

Gamekeepers often hold a theory that rooks and other clever birds can only count up to one, and cannot subtract one from two and leave one. If one man goes to a rookery, for example to shoot the rooks, the birds will be suspicious and will keep away, whereas if two men go openly and one walks ostentatiously away the rooks think the coast is clear.

Bird photographers who use hiding-tents often attempt the same ruse, taking an accomplice as far as the tent which they have set up before the bird's nest.

But the eagle will not be deceived by this stratagem, and travelers' tales assure us that he can take three from four and leave one. The writer recently gained some information about the shooting of eagles in Roumania, where the plan is to throw bait on the ground and shoot the birds from a shelter. If four men go into the shelter and three retire, the eagle will not come to the bait; but if five the eagle will swoop down to its dinner, and its doom—"Cassell's Weekly."

Labor Revolt in Britain Denied

LONDON, April 13.—The revolt against Ramsay MacDonald's leadership of the Labor party by the rank and file of his followers is daily becoming more and more pronounced. This was especially evident at the congress of the International Labor party which has just closed its sessions when a decision was reached to refer back the report on the Zinovieff letter to the committee which has been deliberating the matter ever since the general election, with the understanding that the matter should be more fully probed. This resolution is generally regarded as a mild rebuke to the former Labor Premier, and a vote of censure on his leadership.

It is quite apparent for some time past that several of the most influential of MacDonald's lieutenants have not seen eye to eye with him and that local leaders have shown an even greater hostility to the domination of Labor by the intellectuals and the moderates. Reports from all parts of the country give evidence of a determination to go into battle on the next occasion under a more adroit and less self-satisfied leader than MacDonald proved himself to be last November.

It is feared in moderate circles that if this movement gains much momentum it will be impossible for the moderates to continue to dictate Labor policies, and in that case the direction of the movement would fall into the hands of the extremists and the Reds, of whom the Clyde school are the most noted adherents. This, it is believed generally, would have a disastrous effect not only on Labor itself but on the country generally.

Conquering Mt. Logan

McCARTHY, Alaska.—(Can. Press)—The attempt to conquer Mount Logan, highest peak in Canadian territory, will not be accomplished this summer by the Canadian Alpine Club without extreme difficulty. Captain A. H. MacCarthy, leader of the expedition, is now musing his way toward the glacier, where he will establish a supply base, and already he has had a bitter taste of the perils ahead.

The storm king has added its force to the other elements of nature that are harrassing the advance party. This part of Alaska and British Columbia has not experienced such severe weather in years as visited here in January and February. The snow is banked in deep drifts and when the MacCarthy party, with a four-horse team and three dog teams reached Hubrichs on February 27, they reported that the temperature had averaged nearly 35 degrees below zero, with an almost steady wind.

MacCarthy has pushed on toward the glacier base with his dog teams.

For more than five miles he had to travel along a narrow track, high up on the face of the bare slope, dropping almost perpendicularly into a deep, open stream. When he reaches the glacier itself, he will find the travelling even harder, because there is less snow there and the rocks are showing in many places. A change in the plan has been made necessary owing to the weather conditions and the inability of the advance party to make faster progress. Seven thousand pounds more to feed will have to be taken along for the horses and dogs. When the supply base is once established, MacCarthy will return here to meet the main party, and the actual assault on the mountain will be made in June or July.

New Steel Homes Go Up Like Magic

Urgent need of houses that can be rented at prices a workman can afford to pay, has brought about a new type of steel home in Great Britain, principally in Scotland. They can be erected, largely by unskilled labor, almost overnight.

Three motor-trucks are said to be sufficient to carry the materials for a complete house from the factory to the site. No excavation is necessary and the parts are easily put together. Some of the buildings with six rooms are now being erected for about $2200 each, approximately half the cost of a house of similar size made of brick and plaster.

The steel, in plate or sheet form, is used in some cases for the exterior of houses; in other cases for interiors or lining. In one type, a wooden framework is constructed in sections. To this are fixed metal sheets that will form the outer walls of the house.

Inside the framework, interior walls of various kinds of composition are placed, leaving an air space between the outer and inner walls.

Other builders are using steel framework instead of timbers. The parts of this are marked plainly and fit together readily. It is said, enabling four men to erect the framework of a house a day.

The outer walls of this type of house are made of slabs of synthetic stone that lock into place, hiding the steel framework completely. In the interior, the steel is covered with a lining of composition sheets, giving the appearance of ordinary walls.

Wasted Energy

Windsor, N.S., April 10.—(By Canadian Press)—Entering his grocery store on O'Brien street recently, Walter Card went to his safe to see if the receipts of the previous day's trade were intact. When he started to open the safe door he was surprised to have it crash to the floor at his feet. Considerably alarmed for the safety of his cash he examined the contents of the safe and found everything as he had left it.

The hinges had been cut through until they were barely strong enough to support the door, which needed only his touch to dislodge it. Evidently the would-be burglars had been alarmed just as they were about to reap the reward for their ill-advised labor which must have kept them busy throughout the dark hours of the morning.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.

HOW MANY HURT?

"Suppose," said I, "you chanced to see a small boy tumble from a tree. How would you tell that tale to me?"

"Well dad," said he, "I'd simply say I saw a boy get hurt to-day. And two men carried him away."

"How many injured would there be?" I asked. "Just one, of course," said he. "The boy who tumbled from the tree."

No, no," I answered him, "that fall which hurt the lad, brought pain to all who knew and loved that youngster small."

"His mother wept, his father sighed, His brothers and his sisters cried, And all his friends were hurt inside."

"Remember this your whole life: Whatever hurts may come to you Must hurt us all who love you, too."

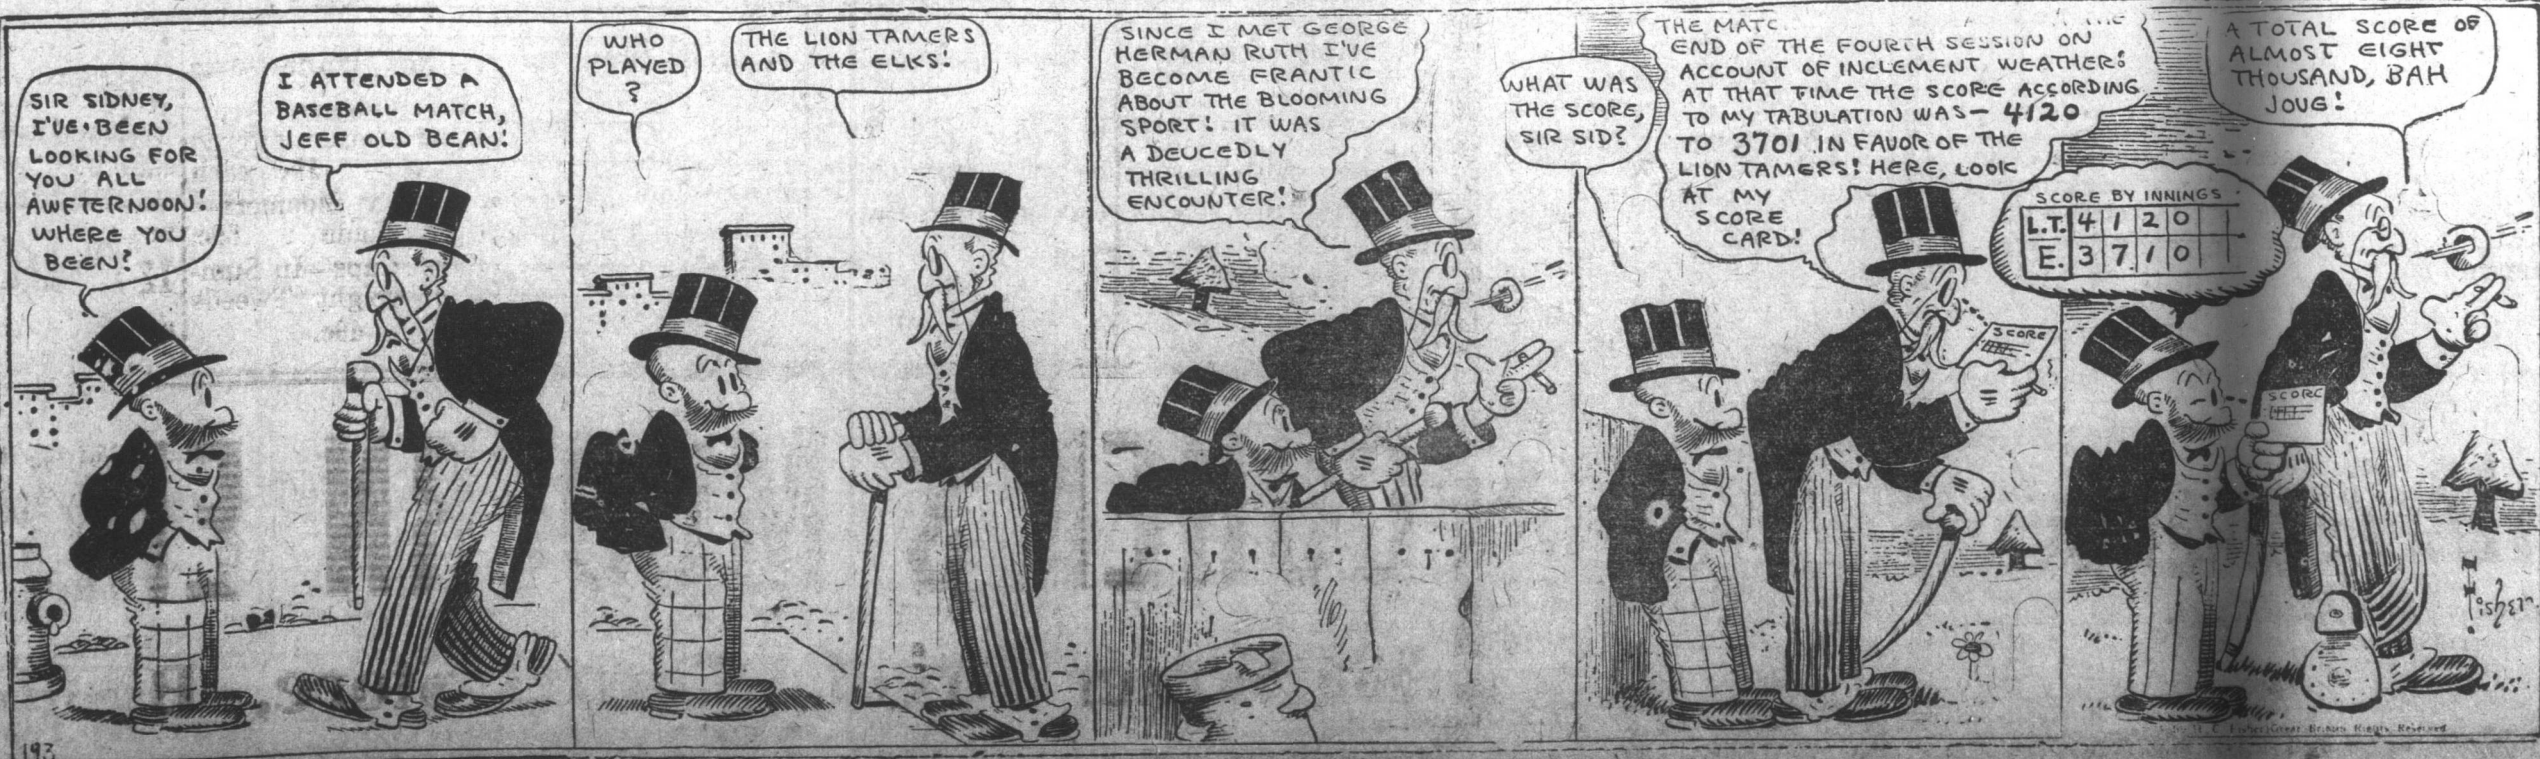

"You cannot live your life alone, You suffer with your slightest groan, And make your pain or grief our own."

"If you should do one shameful thing, You could not bear alone the sting, We'd spend our years in suffering."

"How many hurt, we cannot state, There never falls a blow of fate, But countless people feel its weight."

Our Patron Saint

The anniversary of St. George, the patron Saint of England is celebrated on the day on which he is believed to have suffered a martyr's death in Nicomedia, (or as some reports say, in Lydda), in the year 303, by the command of the Emperor Diocletian.

According to accounts which have been preserved, George was born of Christian parents in Cappadocia, and choosing a military career, rose to high rank in Diocletian's army. When the latter began a persecution of the Christians, George sought an interview with him, made a profession of his faith, and as a protest against his master's hostility to the Christians, resigned his commission. He was at once arrested, subjected to torture and finally executed.

Legend and historical fact are somewhat confused in the accounts of these early days, and even the circumstances of our patron Saint's death and the place where it occurred vary with the different biographers. The popular representation of St. George slaying the dragon seems to be due to writers of a later date, and it would appear that they were more concerned in adding to his reputation than in sticking to facts.

St. George did not become patron of the kingdom until the days of Edward III, but the popularity of the saint is traced to Richard Coeur de Lion, who, it was said, had successfully invoked his aid during his first crusade, and the celebrating of April 23rd as a national festival dates from the Council of Oxford in 1222.

Not only England, but several other European states were under the protection of this notable figure—the Republics of Genoa and Venice, for example, and in many Oriental churches his name is held in veneration.

A Fitting Anniversary of Epic Events

To-morrow is the anniversary of England's Patron Saint. Ireland honours St. Patrick, Scotland, St. Andrew, but in these days there is no attempt made by any section of the race to claim exclusive rights to the patronage of either of these worthy men, and as each festival comes round English, Irish, and Scots unite in doing honour to their memory by keeping holiday and enjoying to the full whatever form of recreation or entertainment is provided.

To-morrow is the anniversary also of one of the most glorious events in the annals of naval warfare, the attack on Zeebrugge in 1918. Discussions may wax hot over the Jutland engagement, but criticism ceases and nothing but admiration is expressed when that notable raid on Germany's submarine base is recalled. No trenches there in which to take cover from the deadly hail of missiles; no means of retreat, but into the waters of the North Sea, and in fact, that mattered not, as there was no other thought in the minds of those gallant sailors but to go forward and show the enemy what the British bulldog could do when it came to close grips. It can well be imagined that many of those men recalled the day on which they fought, and voiced again the old battle cry—"St. George for Merrie England"—as with irresistible impulse they pressed home their attack.

No more fitting date could be chosen than St. George's Day were it ever decided that the heroism of the British forces which were engaged in the war should be celebrated in a fitting manner by the generations to come for it was on or near that day when the Empire's soldiers, fresh from the farm, the office, the workshop and other civilian occupations were put to the supreme test and proved their mettle.

It was on April 22nd-23rd, 1915 that the Canadians, confronted by highly trained troops in overwhelming numbers, and deluged by shells until even their trenches were obliterated, suddenly and for the first time in the history of war between civilized races found themselves choked and blinded by the fumes of poisonous gas. Helpless and baffled, to remain in the zone seemed to court death, but to withdraw meant that the road to Calais would be open to the enemy, and something worse than death in store for those whom they were defending. And these raw troops stood firm and saved the day, even after their left flank had been left "in the air" by the retreat in disorder of the North African troops.

Some idea of the desperate situation in which the Canadians were placed at Ypres on that occasion may be gathered from the fact that out of the division of 20,000 engaged, there were 6,000 casualties.

Moving to another battle zone while the Canadians are struggling on the Ypres front, we find the Colonials from "down under" assembling in Gallipoli where a landing was effected on the 25th—Anzac Day. Of the gallantry displayed in what was the beginning of, in some respects at least, a fruitless enterprise, it is sufficient to say that these Britishers from the Southern islands of the Empire showed the same contempt for hardship and discomfort and the same Spartan courage as their comrades in arms from the sister Dominion.

United Schools
THE PRESENT SITUATION IN REGARD TO THE COLLEGE.

The College is operating like a family living in a borrowed house, thankful for the housing obtained but suffering many inconveniences and privations. This must reflect itself upon the work of the year, but we have a wonderful staff whose capacity for dealing with difficulties can hardly be estimated. Let us hope that the College will not do so badly this school year despite its difficulties. But what of next year? We can only be assured of three classes rooms and the Assembly Hall at the Normal School and that at great inconvenience to the student teachers, so we are told. Moreover the Assembly Hall is quite unfit to be used as a class room. It looks like disaster to contemplate a College with its classes scattered and dispersed. What are we to do? There is only one practicable answer in sight, rush the restoration of the Long's Hill Building. Lose not an hour that can be used in starting and pushing its restoration. In the meantime provide somehow for housing the classes till the end of 1925 and keep repeating Deuteronomy 31:6.—From the Official Bulletin.

A Possible Misunderstanding

In the synopsis of the Proceedings of the House of Assembly published on the 18th instant, appears the following:—"The Prime Minister tabled a reply to a question by Mr. Godden and read an extract from a letter received from Read, Son and Watson. The letter referred to instructions from Mr. Warren regarding audits in the Post Office, Crown Lands Department, and the Auditor General's Department. The firm of Read, Son and Watson wished to know if they were to proceed with these enquiries. The Premier took occasion to say that at the present moment there was no need to continue the investigations. As happened in the case of the logging investigation, nothing was disclosed that the Government was not previously cognizant of and though carried out the expense amounted to between twelve and thirteen hundred dollars."

From the above it would appear that the logging operations mentioned referred to the audit of the Pitt River accounts, which was so thoroughly conducted by Messrs. Reid, Son and Watson. Such is obviously not the case, as two discharges received during the Hollis Walker enquiry and based on that audit were certainly new to the Government and a "clerical" startling to make the public sit up and take notice. The verbatim report in the House makes it clear that the logging investigation referred to was that conducted by Mr. W. H. Warren and it reads as follows:—"The Premier said Mr. Brown asked to have an investigation into the logging conditions at the last session of the House. It will be remembered that Mr. Brown said that the loggers had some grievances and we appointed a commission which consisted of Mr. Warren and the investigation was held, with the result that it turned out exactly as anticipated. Mr. Varro did his work as well as any commission that could have been appointed. The cost of the commission was twelve hundred dollars and the result was exactly what we new before."

HAD SUCCESSFUL SALE.

The annual Sale of Work by the Cathedral Women's Association, which took place in the Synod Hall yesterday, was largely patronized, and proved in every way to be an unqualified success. The stalls were tastefully decorated and were overlaid with plain and fancy goods of all descriptions. During the afternoon the ladies in charge were kept busy attending to the wants of their many patrons and by closing time all the stock had been disposed of, and a gratifying sum realized. Teas served afterwards were largely patronized. In the evening a most enjoyable concert took place when musical selections were rendered by the following ladies and gentlemen:—Misses D. Withers, J. Anderson, Elinor Mews; Mr. H. B. Wardell, and the Male Quartette of the Cathedral Choir, Messrs. Somerville, Bastow, Cornick and Dewling; Monologue and Song, Mr. S.S. Horsley; Piano Solo, Mrs. Alex. Mews; Violin Solo, Mrs. B. Dunfield; Cello Solo, Mr. A. W. Mews; Recitation, Miss C. Wood, and a piano, violin and violoncello and banjo selection by Messrs. Fenman and McLeod. The numerous calls and encomiums fully expressed the appreciation of the audience with the manner in which the various items were rendered.

Mrs. Jeeves, the President of the Association, and the other ladies who had spared no effort to make the affair a success, were well pleased with the results.

We understand that an immense amount of money would have to be spent in lowering the level of the Pond, so as to prevent the water from running out into the ocean.

Portia Arrives

GOOD FISHING ON SOUTH WEST COAST.

S.S. Portia, Capt. Connors, arrived from the Western Coastal Service at 2.45 this morning, bringing the following passengers:—James Carmichael, G. Hillier, Miss McCormack, R. Power, W. G. McDonald, Mrs. St. Croix, Miss St. Croix, Daniel St. Croix, Miss Gibbons, Stephen Gibbons and 18 in steerage.

The steamer called at all ports both going and coming, and the only delay met with was when the ship was obliged to remain at Francois, on Saturday night, on account of a thick snow storm. Capt. Connors brings very encouraging reports of the fishery. He reports that sixteen of the Grand Bank fleet have returned, with an average catch of 550 quintals. Captain Thornhill, of the scho. Mystery, was the first arrival, hauling for 750 quintals. The fishery on the South West Coast, particularly from Rencontre to Channel, has been very good, mostly all the skiffs have done well, and with such splendid prospects so early in the season, the fishermen are looking forward to a banner voyage. The fleet from Belleoram are still out, and although nothing has been heard from them, it is expected that they have done well. At Rose Blanche and vicinity the fishery is said to be the best for many years. General activity prevails over the whole of the West Coast. Considerable freight was handled by the ship for the various ports, while a large number of people took passage for various ports of call.

Engineers Will Burst $100,000 Dam

STARTLING TEST TO MEASURE
SAFETY OF ARCH CONSTRUCTION.

(By TRUMAN STEVENS.)

One of the most startling scientific tests ever conceived, soon will be made at the dam at Fresno, Calif., when the Engineering Foundation, the joint research organization of the American Societies of Civil, Mining, Metallurgical, Mechanical and Electrical Engineers, will construct a full size arch dam for the sole purpose of causing it to burst under pressure of the water it impounds.

The object of the test is to determine the weakest parts of dams of this type of construction and their manner of failure, for the purpose of ascertaining how to build dams of maximum safety, yet with minimum thickness of construction and consequent economy of material. The experiment will cost $100,000.

Arches of stone or concrete are familiar sights in bridges. Relatively few persons, though, have seen arches stood on end to back up the water of a stream so as to create an artificial lake or reservoir for power development, water supply, irrigating arid lands, or regulating floods. Dams of this type, however, have been constructed for more than 300 years. The oldest known, the Almanza, was built in Spain before 1586 and is standing to-day. The Roosevelt Dam in Arizona is an outstanding example of the curved dam built in modern times.

Some of these dams are low, but a few exceed 200 feet in height above the stream bed. Very few have failed, and they because of faults of the foundation chosen. From these circumstances the question naturally arises: If the thin dams were strong enough, were not large sums of money wasted on the thick ones? This is one of the questions that the impending experiment in California aims to answer.

The other question—safety—undoubtedly is the first consideration in dam construction. A great volume of water let loose at high velocity through the failure of a dam may be more quickly destructive than fire. Furthermore, the loss of the water stored by the dam may be disastrous in itself because it is needed for supplying a community, for irrigating crops, or for generating power. In the past, engineers have been dependent for their knowledge of dams upon the results of experiments with small models in laboratories, and upon the development of various methods of design by mathematics.

The California experiment will furnish engineering science with its first opportunity to perform needed tests on an adequate scale.

Through the Department of the Interior and the Southern California Edison Company, an ideal site for suitable facilities have been obtained for the test dam on Stevenson Creek, a small tributary of the San Joaquin River. The creek gorge is of granite, steep and narrow, so that the reservoir will be small. A recently completed water-supply tunnel of the Southern California Edison Company is near and provides means for furnishing and controlling the water needed.

The idea of the committee that has the experiment in charge is to approximate the most dangerously thin dams that have been built, and perhaps "go them one better." Then after many tests and measurements, an attempt will be made to break the dam in order to discover its weakest part and the manner of failure. For this purpose the dam will be extended vertically to increase the depth of water and its pressure against the dam.

Preliminary to the construction of the test dams careful measurements are being made of existing dams and dams under construction.

German in Paris

READS THOUGHTS OF SEVERAL OFFICIALS AT DISTANCE.

PARIS, April 10.—Paris is amazed and disturbed by the mysterious, uncanny power apparently possessed by a man of German origin named Otto Kahn, who has convinced a number of people prominent in the political and social world that he can read thoughts, even when transmitted at a distance, expressed in writing and enclosed in an envelope.

The other evening former Premier Barthou, Louis Loucheur, political leader, and Prefect of Police Morain and other well known persons tested Kahn's "sixth sense," as they call it. They now admit they were astounded at the result.

A dozen persons, one after another, went into another room, alone, wrote a phrase, enclosed it in an envelope and brought it back to the drawing room. Then they shuffled the envelopes and each took one.

Kahn, who was in another part of the house, was then called in. He not only accurately read each phrase but also accurately indicated who had written it.

Prefect Morain is enthusiastic and thinks Kahn might be able to aid the police. Scientists are investigating.

Radio Interference

Radio Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The enclosed clipping reflects the opinion of Montreal folk respecting regenerative sets. The annoyance is becoming acute St. John's. Cannot you organize a Radio Club and discuss the problem and the best means of trying to effect a remedy? Yours truly,

WIRELESS WAVE.

REGENERATIVE SETS ARE BECOMING A BIG NUISANCE.

The time must surely be coming when Governments will enact legislation making it necessary for all radio sets to pass laboratory tests and be approved before being used, and when the manufacture and sale of regenerative sets will be prohibited.

To-day in the homes of Canada and the United States there are thousands of expensive radio sets that are practically useless. Why? Because the regenerative sets, by their nightly cross currents of whoops and howls, make it next to impossible to receive programs without aggravating distortion. The men and women who bought the non-regenerative sets and paid high prices for them, bought them for the purpose of hearing and enjoying concerts, operatic, recital, church and lecture programs from radio broadcasting stations. It is unfair, therefore, that they should be thwarted in this purpose night after night by men who own and operate the type of set that makes the air hideous by its shrieks and squeals.

Regenerative sets were a nuisance a year ago, but they have been a much greater nuisance during the present winter because they are far more numerous now than they were then. If their manufacture is not prohibited, people will lose interest in radio broadcasting and the radio industry will take a tumble. Even those who own the howling sets will become disgusted at the squeals they hear from other sets of the type they are operating, and they, too, will be unwilling to listen in to unpleasant and discordant noises night after night.

Many former radio enthusiasts nowadays do not listen-in as frequently as hitherto for the simple reason that jazz is ever present in the air, and they have had enough of it. But jazz is music compared with the ear-splitting noises that regenerative sets send out into the ether.

Millions Borrowed in United States

Washington, April 16.—Canadian borrowers obtained $57,000,000 in the United States during the first quarter of 1925, compilations of the Commerce Department showed to-day. European loans, either Government or Corporation amount to $138,000,000 during this period while Latin-American countries got $56,000,000, the figures disclose.

The amount of foreign securities publicly offered and sold were valued at $297,000,000 in the Department's figures as compared with $238,000,000 during the first quarter of 1924.

N. S. Motorists to Get Benefits

OF A SENSIBLE GAS TAX.

Halifax.—Imposition of a tax on gasoline, which will possibly lead to a considerable reduction in the automobile license tax, will be made by the provincial government if legislation introduced in the local house on Friday afternoon by Hon. William Chisholm, minister of works and mines, passes.

The legislation fixes the minimum tax on gasoline at three cents a gallon, to become effective with the issuance of a proclamation by the governor-in-council. The legislation provides that in the case of farmers and fishermen, buying gasoline for purposes other than operation of motor vehicles, the tax shall not be imposed.

The act requires every vendor of gasoline to take out a license and post it in a conspicuous place in his store or garage. Monthly returns must be made to the department. The penalty for any violation of the act shall be not more than $50 nor less than $20.

It is believed that even if passed the act will not be put into effect this year.

Sex War Sweeps Through British Schools

LONDON, April 15.—A sex war has broken out among teachers in Britain. Men teachers charge that for a long time boys have objected to the supervision of their physical training undertaken by a woman inspector, and at last the National Association of Schoolmasters has decided to give financial assistance to any of these members who may suffer by their refusal to submit to female supervision. The Association also insists that boys over the age of seven shall come under the predominant influence of men. Unless this is done they fear a detrimental effect on the future of the race.

A woman teacher, Miss L. Burrows, of Leicester, is quoted this morning as saying: "It is quite right that boys should have many principles instilled into them, but women have by no means been ineffective in achieving this. Most likely the perfect man will be evolved after the perfect woman is first developed, somewhere in the neighborhood."

There are many indications in all parts of the country of this new war. Females outnumbered the males in Britain to-day by more than 1,000,000 and the war is an economic quite as much as a sex affair. Men are insisting that women should take up domestic service and not encumber business offices. Only the dose has prevented this warfare from developing into an acute stage before now.

Westmount Light Charges Reduced

Electric light in Westmount will be reduced from 4 cents a kilowatt hour to 3½ cents. At the meeting of the city council last night, Ald. Hogan, chairman of the electric light committee proposed that this reduction come into effect on May 1. The reduction was possible, because the lighting was on a paying basis and also that such reduction would save Westmount citizens $25,000 a year.—Montreal Star, April 15.

Quebec's Liquor Profits Large

QUEBEC, April 16.—The surplus of the Quebec Liquor Commission for the fiscal year will approximate $4,500,000, according to reports gathered to-day.

This has been the average profit realized by the Commission since its organization, the Province having thus benefited from that source a total of nearly $17,000,000, with operations reaching over $50,000,000.

By Special Request "The Loves of Mary, Queen of Scots"

According to the general demand of the many who did not see the historic drama "The Loves of Mary, Queen of Scots," at the Majestic during the first part of the week, the management have decided to repeat same as the holiday programme to-morrow. This celebrated picture, as already announced, is one of the most remarkable produced by British Corporation. Truly a wonderful story, remarkably described and in every sense of the word a revelation. Of particular interest are the views of France and Scotland, in which are included many of the greatest old castles, which makes the picture very realistic. Those who have already seen it, were agreeably surprised and pleased, and not a few have intimated their intention of seeing it the second time. Lovers of history will be especially pleased, and all should make an effort to see it to-morrow afternoon or to-morrow night.

The musical artists Messrs. Adams & Cheney, who are coming direct from Keith's Theatre in Boston, where they were highly successful in an extended engagement, will arrive by the Rosalind. Notwithstanding the very many complimentary recommendations sent in advance, we are prone to extend to them any particular mention until such time as we have had the pleasure of seeing and hearing them in their opening performance.

PAN AMERICAN PETROLEUM & TRANSPORT.
Wide Fluctuations.

N.Y.—Wide fluctuations have prevailed recently in Pan American Petroleum & Transport Co. securities. At $70 a share for the stock, that is $1400 principal of bonds for $1000 Class B common (20 shares of $50 par) with adjustment of dividends and interest, so that the bonds fluctuate about 1½ points to a one point change in the stock.

If the bonds are called prior to maturity, right to convert is to extend to 30 days prior to date fixed for redemption. As Edward L. Doheny has sold part of his holdings, to Clair & Co. and associates, including Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, it is not improbable that the bonds may be called. They are callable at 103 up to 1929, less ¼% annually from that figure to maturity. The bonds outstanding in amount of $12,000,000, are a direct obligation of the company, but are not secured by a mortgage.

Since first of the year, Pan Petroleum convertible 6s have sold at a low of 103½ and a high of 118½. Recent price is around 111. The fact that the bonds were offered in October, 1924, at 97 and their subsequent sharp advance is a demonstration of opportunities for good profits in bonds having convertible features offered by strong corporations. Such bonds are generally offered at prices that represent on investment yield without giving any value to the conversion privilege, so that purchasers at original offering price get the benefit of any increased market value of the conversion feature without paying for it.

Corporations are now paying more attention to value of the conversion feature as an aid in selling loans, and in recent years many bond issues have in the end been paid off in common stock, eliminating the obligation of paying the bonds at maturity.

Punta Alegre Sugar so far this season has made a very profitable operating record. Production at the four estates to March 14, totaled 916,000 bags, as compared with 691,145 bags to the same date a year ago. This means an increase of 224,855 bags, or 32%.

It is more than probable that Punta Alegre will realize its estimates of 1,500,000 bags for the full crop, which

Adding Audio-Frequency Amplification

EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

People still get mixed up on the proper way to connect an audio-frequency amplifier to their set. Connections are reversed, A and B batteries shorted and many questions asked before the hook-up is finally done. Above we show any receiver to which we want to connect any amplifier, and here is how it's done. First the A battery terminals of the receiver and amplifier should be tied together. If it is a ready-made amplifier the posts are marked, and if not you know which post is which anyway. Connect the Positive post on the amplifier to the post marked Positive on the receiver. Connect the Negative post on the amplifier to the Negative post of the receiver. The A battery connections to the amplifier are done. Forget them. You have "juice" from the A battery both to the receiver and to the amplifier. Next the B battery connections: We will assume you are using 45 volts on the plate of the detector tube of the receiver. The minus terminal of the B battery naturally goes to the minus B terminal on the set and the plus B terminal goes to the plus terminal on the receiver. If the minus post of the amplifier is connected to some part of the filament circuit (or to one of the A battery posts) of the amplifier, forget the minus B connection. It is taken care of through the A battery lead back to the receiver. If the minus B post, however, is not connected to the filament circuit, Copyright, 1925, by The American Radio Relay League, Inc.

THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF A CRUSHEE.

A few weeks ago, in response to a letter from a friend's request, I wrote about crushes—the harm they can do if they are the wrong sort, and the good they can do if they are the right sort. I wrote about the crush which sort they are depends on the person who is crushed. What kind of a person is the crusher is also a factor. A great responsibility to be a crusher.

A Wicked Thing To Do.

A woman told me once that when she was a girl she had a crush on a brilliant older woman. This woman was an agnostic. The girl had brought up by a very religious mother and had at that time a strong religious faith. If the older woman had been as wise and good as she was brilliant, and had realized her responsibilities as a crusher, she would have respected that faith and her agnosticism to herself. But she didn't. Instead she scoffed at the girl's beliefs, and the girl, who was so full of faith, lost her faith. "After I was freed from under her spell," she said, "I had a reaction, but I never could get my old faith back. I am now neither a satisfied agnostic nor a happy believer as I used to be. I think she took pride in power over me, but it was a bad thing to use it that way."

Power Is Thrust Upon Her.

There is always a temptation. There is a test of character in the way power is used. And the crusher always has power thrust upon her and a chance to show what stuff she is made of by the way she uses it. The emotions of which a crush are made are a powerful lever, the personality of the crusher is the fulcrum which determines in what direction the force shall be exerted. I remember an experience of my own in which the object pressed her self worthy of the power I gave her. I had promised to do a certain thing and after the promise had been given, a very unhappy experience came into my life—my first experience with death. I was infinitely depressed and I felt that my grief had released me from the necessity to keep my promise and perform the task. "I can't do it," I said. "I ought not to be asked to. When I promised I didn't know this was going to happen."

She Would Justify Me.

I went to her with this self-pitying plaint, thinking she would sympathize with me and justify me. But she didn't. Gently but firmly she made me realize that there was no reason why I should not fulfil my obligation, and that I should lose some of her respect if I didn't.

It would have been much easier to sympathize with me and justify me. It was nothing to her whether I fulfilled my obligation to others or not. But she knew her responsibility and lived up to it.

I have long since gotten over the crush but I still admire her for that, and many other things like it that she did. I think most of us have at some time in our lives in some degree had the experience of being a crusher. Let's not forget that it is a responsibility and let's use the power wisely so that after we have ceased to be worshipped we shall still be liked and respected and admired.

Now of course you are anxious to learn whether Lady Love received the rug safe and sound. Well, she did Little Reader. And why not, for in the last story didn't the brave Policeman Dog and the Yellow Dog Tramp get them away from Danny Fox and Mr. Wicked Wolf? Well, I guess they did. And when the pretty lady bunny opened the kitchen door and saw those two good dogs standing on the back porch, she looked at first one and then the other and then, spying the rug, she gave a happy laugh:

"Won't you come in and rest awhile. You two nice doggie boys. I have two bones which you may crunch. And never mind the noise."

"Bring them out on the back porch," answered the Yellow Dog Tramp. "I'll feel more at home out here and need not be so particular about my manners."

Dear me, what a noise they made for the next ten minutes! Crunch, crunch! And munch, munch, munch! After the bones were eaten, Lady Love brought them each a nice drink of water.

"Well, I feel better, less tired and much less hungry," barked the kind Policeman Dog, and with a wag of his tail, he said goodby and hurried back to the Police Station in Rabbitville to answer hurry calls from frightened little furry and feathered folk in distress. Yes, that's what he did, the good, brave old howl wow.

"Where's Little Jack Rabbit?" asked the Yellow Dog Tramp, as his blue-coated friend disappeared over the hilltop.

"He left half an hour ago to call on Uncle Lucky," answered Lady Love, taking the saucers from the old dog's paw, which he had politely picked up for her.

"Want me to saw some wood?" he what happens after that.

asked, with a twinkle in his eye, knowing full well that people generally thought him to be a lazy, wandering kind of a doggie.

"Very kind of you," answered Lady Love. "You'll find the back saw in the barn."

At once that good old dog set to work, making the sawdust fly as he worked the saw up and down, but never sideways, through the heavy logs. By and by he took out an old bandanna and, wiping his forehead, sat down and began to sing:

"When I was a pup down on the farm, Way up in dear old Maine, I chopped the wood and hoed the corn And sang a glad refrain.

But now I'm a wondering, roving dog, And love the woodland charm; Although sometimes I grow homesick For the dear old quiet farm."

Then, wiping a tear from his left eye, the old tramp dog set to work again to saw the wood for pretty Lady Love, the little bunny's rabbit mother. Maybe, boys and girls, by the time he finishes, Little Jack Rabbit will come hopping up the path through the bramble bushes. But until then we must wait for the next story to hear

"Want me to saw some wood?" he what happens after that.

With the Sealers

The sealing steamers Neptune and Terra Nova have done nothing with the seals on the northern front since Friday last, and their chances of doing anything further do not look very bright, as the gale on Sunday broke up the ice. It is likely they will soon give up the voyage. The messages read as follows:

BOWRING BROTHERS.

TERRA NOVA—Saw no seals today.

JOB BROS. & CO.

NEPTUNE—Steamed N. 40 miles but saw no seals; now heading W.S.W.; Sunday's gale has torn the ice in places.

POSTAL TELEGRAPHS.

Both ships report crews on board all well.

Immense Holiday Bill at the Nickel Theatre

"THE FATAL MILLIONS" A STRONG
SOCIAL MELO DRAMA.

The Nickel Theatre offers for the holiday attraction to-morrow a great Metro Special entitled "The Fatal Millions" featuring Forrest Stanley and Huntley Gordon. Other attractions are an Our Gang Comedy with the little rascals and an up-to-the minute Pathe News.

No Harold Lloyd picture would be complete without a thrill of one nature or another. And "Hot Water," which is showing soon at the Nickel Theatre, is no exception to this rule. Although a story of domestic life, "Hot Water" contains several incidents destined to send a chill through the most blasé audience, as well as to arouse the loudest laughs heard in a theatre since the side-splitting chase episodes in "Girl Shy."

did, and then some! This episode is only one of the three big laughing fables into which "Hot Water" is divided. There is just enough plot in the new Lloyd opus to hold the incidents together in one trend of thought, but that is just what Lloyd and his staff set out to do. "Hot Water" is one continuous string of "gags," with the imagination being heavily drawn upon for their originality.

Flipper Supper To-Night

AT CANON WOOD HALL.

The annual Flipper Supper of the Llewellyn Club takes place to-night in Canon Wood Hall, and an enjoyable time is being looked forward to by the members. An admirable Toast list has been prepared and amongst the speakers will be Hons. W. S. Monroe, W. J. Higgins, K.C.; Messrs. J. C. Pridmore, M.L.A., Vice-President M.C.E.I., R. R. Wood, H. Y. Mott and L. Colley. The musical part of the programme will be taken care of by Messrs. F. J. King, P. K. McLeod, Jas. P. Crotty, Dan Delmar and the Cathedral Male Quartette.

"Safety First"

Only a fair audience attended last night's presentation of "Safety First" but the performance was, if anything, even more enjoyable than before. The specialties by members of the troupe were received with much applause, while the instrumental selections by Messrs. H. B. Chate and A. Walker, added greatly to the pleasure of those present. The play will be repeated to-night and to-morrow night. Part of the proceeds will be devoted to the Maternity Hospital.

CHAMPIONSHIP BOXING & WRESTLING TOURNAMENT.

C. L. B. Armoury, To-morrow Night.

The much talked about Championship Boxing and Wrestling Tournament will take place in the C. L. B. Armoury to-morrow night and, judging by the programme of events, the attraction promises to be worth while, and no doubt a large attendance will be present to watch the contestants do their stuff in the four square ring. The following is the programme:—

WRESTLING

Paperweight—W. Brady, 87 lbs. vs. J. Parsons, 81 lbs.
Featherweight—T. Hall, 126 lbs. vs. R. Reid, 120 lbs.
Lightweight—B. Chancey, 132 lbs. vs. R. Dwyer, 132 lbs.
Middleweight—H. Adams, 160 lbs. unopposed.

BOXING

Paperweight—A. Frost, 80 lbs. vs. C. Reid, 85 lbs.
Flyweight—V. Reid, 97 lbs. vs. F. Rowe.
Bantamweight—C. Jones, 117 lbs. vs. J. Bishop, 118 lbs.
Featherweight—S. Lafosse, 126 lbs. vs. C. Brocklehurst, 126 lbs.
Lightweight—J. Phelan, 134 lbs. vs. G. Cook, 135 lbs.
Welterweight—E. Young, 149 lbs. vs. K. Garland, 147 lbs.
Middleweight—F. Stamp, vs. T. Dormandy.

Mr. Stan Cullen will be the third man in the ring for both the boxing and wrestling and his ability in this respect is too well known to need further comment. The judges of boxing will be Messrs. Fred Marshall and Arthur Johnston and Messrs. Robin Stick and B. B. Stafford of the wrestling.

We understand that a "foreign" gentleman recently returned to the city, and has ever since been undergoing training with the intention of competing for the middleweight title, but we fail to see his name appear in the list. What has happened? Did he get cold feet?

House of Assembly Proceedings

TUESDAY, April 21.
THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE presented petitions, one from Outer Cove, on the subject of a wharf, and another from Biscayan Cove on the subject of a launchway. Mr. P. F. Moore supported the petitions.

THE MINISTER OF JUSTICE was given leave to introduce a bill to amend the Industrial and Provident Societies Act. The Bill was introduced and read a first time.

QUESTIONS.

MR. HICKMAN—To ask Hon. the Colonial Secretary if we have Board of Health? Give names? What is his salary? What does he do? Does he furnish report, if so, lay it on the Table of the House. Is there a report from Superintendent of Child Welfare Association?

HON. THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.—In reply, said that there is now no Board of Health in the Colony, all matters relating to this subject being dealt with by the Department of Public Health, which is presided over by Dr. R. A. Brehm, Medical Health Officer. The inspection of towns, milk, meats, etc., is undertaken by special inspectors attached to that Department whose salaries are those voted in the estimates. Reports are furnished by these inspectors upon any particular matters, which may arise. Health matters in the various outports are under the immediate care of the respective magistrates, they being constituted under the act as Boards of Health. The Government has received no report from the Superintendent of the Child Welfare Association.

MR. DUFF—To ask Hon. the Colonial Secretary if it is correct that the Evening Telegram and Daily News are being paid for publishing the Synopsis of the Debates in the House of Assembly for this session.

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY in reply, stated that The Evening Telegram and the Morning News are not being paid for publishing the synopsis of debates in the House of Assembly. He further informed the member that the verbatim speeches would be published in Hansard this year.

MR. GODDEN—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister: (a) if it is correct that Mr. Joseph Peters, Liquor Commissioner, has been deputed to visit Canada, and what is the purpose of his visit.

HON. THE PRIME MINISTER replying, said, Mr. Peters, of the Liquor Control Board, has not been deputed to visit Canada officially. He has applied for leave of absence and goes to seek medical attendance.

MR. ORRIS—To ask Hon. the Minister of Education if any one is now employed at the Normal School other than the teaching staff and the janitor. If so, to give the name of the party or parties so employed, the salaries paid and whether they are to be permanent employees of the Department.

HON. THE MINISTER OF EDUCATION (Prime Minister) replying, said, The only persons in connection with the Normal School building, other than the teaching staff and janitors, is Mr. Thomas, who was Clerk of Works during the construction of the building, and who is still employed at the rate of $5.00 a day pending the settlement of some outstanding differences between contractors and the Government. At present Mr. Thomas is engaged in supervising the grading of the ground of the building.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

Committee stage of Supply and Ways and Means, was deferred at the request of the Finance Minister. The Bill, an Act to Amend Chapter 4 of the Consolidated Statutes, entitled of Legislation Disabilities and Vacation of Seats in the House of Assembly, was deferred.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on Bill An Act Respecting a Tax on Certain Incomes.

THE LEADER OF THE OPPOSITION asked some questions as to the application of the tax as it applies to banks and absentee landlords, and was replied to by the Finance Minister and Minister of Justice.

MR. WARREN thought it would discourage absentee landlords from improving their property when it is known that they are to be subject to a 5% tax. He suggested that as there was many only receiving a small return which was exempt under the income tax, that a stipulated amount, say $500 should be named as the minimum.

THE PRIME MINISTER in relation to the tax on absentee landlords said he thought these people should be put in the same class as the banks and insurance companies and he did not see how the line could be drawn between the big one and small one. He believed that the absentee landlord takes the money out of the country and should be compelled to contribute a small amount to the revenue before it went out. In regard to the tax on the Banks, the Prime Minister explained that it was a tax on their entire business and if the intention was not clear in the bill he suggested that the committee first settle the matter was given further consideration.

THE LEADER OF THE OPPOSITION pointed out that the most profitable of the banks business, via the buying and selling of sight drafts was left out.

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY joined in the debate and in reply to the point raised by Mr. Warren, stated that the absentee landlords were taking all they possibly could out of our people, and they pay nothing towards the upkeep of the city. He thought that the vacant lands held by the absentee landlords should be taxed to the limit. He hoped that no reduction would be made and at the same time provision should be made so that the local tenant would not suffer.

MESSRS. CRAMM, ASHMOURNE and DUFF engaged in some discussion over the portion of the fire insurance tax that goes to the Municipal Council.

Some further debate on the income tax followed, after which the committee rose, reported progress and was given leave to sit again.

Committee of the Whole on the Hotel Facilities Limited Bill, reported the Bill passed without amendment. The report was adopted and the bill was sent for third reading to-morrow.

The Bill, An Act respecting a Tax on Goods Imported into Newfoundland was given second reading.

The House adjourned until 3 p.m. Wednesday.
