NO CALL FOR REGRETS

I regret the result that in a constituency where there was a large majority as 49 the election should be affected by a transaction of this kind, in which there is not any moral culpability. It was an inconsiderate act, but I see no way of escape from the consequences of the action.

If Chancellor Boyd is correctly reported in the foregoing expression of opinion he went considerably far in his way to give the minister of crown lands a certificate of character. Chancellor Boyd is free to do all the regretting he pleases on his own account, but it is a question if he should give so much prominence to his regrets in a judicial decision.

No one questions the good faith of the trial judges in the North York election trial or disputes the honesty of their endeavor to judge fairly between the petitioner and the respondent. But the judicial habit of acquitting the principals in election trials of any knowledge of corrupt practices is becoming very wearisome to a province which is wallowing in corruption and wants to lift itself out of the mire.

The judges who presided at the North Perth election trial were careful to emphasize the innocence of candidates who are in the election trial at Sault Ste. Marie, the most notorious in the history of the province, the trial judges pointed out that there was nothing to show that C. N. Smith was aware of the gigantic scheme of corruption that won him the seat in the government.

These judicial pronouncements acquitting candidates of all responsibility for the crooked work of their agents is no doubt justified by the evidence. It is extremely difficult to connect up a reasonably cautious candidate with corrupt agents in his service. But no matter what the evidence may indicate the people will not readily accept the doctrine that of all the electoral corruption practiced in Ontario during the past five or six years not a particle of it was within the knowledge of the candidates who accepted the rewards.

What then is the purpose of the judicial habit of commenting with the utmost severity on the conduct of the tools and at the same time exonerating the candidate in whose election the tools were employed? If the judges must comment on the position of the unseated member let them assure him that if he did not know he should have known how his campaign was being conducted. If they do not think they are justified in passing censure on the culpable ignorance of a candidate they should at the next best thing—refrain from comment.

Chancellor Boyd's pronouncement in the North York election trial, even though a fair interpretation of the statutes, misrepresents the merits of the case. The charge, which voided the election of Mr. Davis, was not the first step of suspicion raised in investigation of the long bill of particulars. Several charges of bribery were proven, and the failure to establish agency was a technical rather than a moral indication of the cleanliness of the election.

It is beyond Chancellor Boyd's purview of course, but nevertheless a fact bearing on the merits of his lordship's "regrets" that Hon. E. J. Davis has been mixed up in two election trials within the past two years. That his means was shown by dishonest methods was shown by the fact that he abandoned his seat and paid his election costs rather than face the election courts. Now the by-election is shown to have been won by corrupt methods.

The public will not therefore share Chancellor Boyd's "regrets" that the large majority of 49 was affected by the transaction in which Mr. Davis was personally implicated. The public will not regret the stringency of any statute which is designed to protect honest electors against corrupt agents and negligent candidates. The public will rather welcome such revision of the statutes as will attach reasonable responsibility to the candidate for the work of criminals in his service.

PERJURY IN ELECTION TRIALS. The Globe is grieved and astonished because Conservative newspapers have not denounced and repudiated Nelson and Mulroy, whose evidence in the North Grey case was rejected by the judges. What is the necessity for such repudiation? The judges have, rightly or wrongly, rejected the evidence, and it therefore has no influence upon the election. False testimony is frequently offered in election trials, and in other

HE KNOWS WHAT HE WILL DO WHEN PROPER TIME COMES

But Lieutenant-Governor is Very Much Amazed at the Efforts of Newspapers to Get Him to Express an Opinion at this Time.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor is very much annoyed at the persistence of the newspapers in seeking to obtain interviews on his duties, in face of the present situation in Ontario politics.

"I consider it a most outrageous impertinence for the papers to approach the lieutenant-governor of the province on a question of his duties," he remarks. "It is a matter I cannot discuss at all. The newspapers must understand that there is a limit to these things."

When a Conservative government appoints Nelson and Mulroy to lucrative offices, The Globe will have a right to lecture the Conservative party. Nelson and Mulroy are as much entitled to the benefit of the doubt as Jackson is.

But the Globe, in its tu quoque argument, which it vainly endeavors to call by some other name, misses the main point. It is quite true that the two parties in this country are not divided by any moral line, and that under similar circumstances, one may be as bad as the other. But this is no reason for letting both go scot free.

The cure for corruption is to make corruption unpunishable. Turn out the government, which is maintained by corrupt means, no matter how it may corrupt its innocents to-day. If it cannot give its protests, if it cannot maintain its existence without corruption, it has no right to hold power and office, and the remedy is to go on turning out one government after another until a strong and honest government is formed.

HOW WE ARE GOVERNED. The constitution of this province, which is as nearly as possible the British constitution, requires that the ministry, the advisers of the crown, shall be supported by the legislature. What would happen if the Ontario legislature were in session to-day? The government would depend on the casting vote of the Speaker. What does that mean? It means that the Speaker must be at one and the same time the impartial umpire of the chamber, and the person who votes with the cabinet absolutely devoid of its existence.

Is not such a position absurd? It is to imagine an analogy for it in a game of baseball lacrosse—a man who is an excited player at one moment and an impartial umpire at another. This is not a matter of mere ridiculousness, but impossible. Yet it is practically contemplated that the government of Ontario can be carried on in this way. An important matter is brought up in the legislature. Points of procedure arise. The Speaker decides upon them with judicial gravity. The question may even be raised, who is competent to vote, and the Speaker is the referee. Then, when the discussion is over, the Speaker walks out of his judicial robes and votes for the government.

In other words, it follows on a larger scale the precedents already set in connection with cities, parishes and counties. These some measure is necessary and will soon become imperative, not merely as regards Ireland, but also as regards Scotland, Wales and England.

The imperial parliament is over-loaded with matters of detail which occupy a large portion of its time, and which could far better be dealt with by subordinate bodies acting with a full knowledge of local conditions and circumstances. A notable advantage of procedure by delegation is that it may be done by states, as experience warrants. It would also unite both sections of the Liberal party in its support and would command the approval of many Conservatives who recognize the growing congestion of parliamentary business.

COL. MACON NOT IN FIELD.

Would Like to Be a Candidate, Were It Not for Business Duties.

A World reporter interviewed Col. Mason yesterday regarding a statement in The Globe, that he might be the Conservative candidate in South Toronto.

"I do not see how I could have aspirations in that direction," he was asked. "The statement is entirely without foundation. I will say this, however, 'were it not for my duties as manager of this institution make it impossible for me to aspire, I would like nothing better than to represent South Toronto in the commons, there to use whatever means I could employ to the interests of reciprocity, not with the United States, which I am opposed to, but with Great Britain, as it could possibly and practically be carried out. Furthermore, I would deem it my duty to look after the interests of the Canadian militia, in which I am deeply concerned."

It looks as if the Ross government will have to get in line with the early going movement. Strangely that the election courts will take such a perverted view of the untainted innocence of Hon. E. J. Davis. Unfortunately for Hon. G. W. Ross, he can't f-g-h-t in the election courts the way he can f-g-h-t in the by-elections.

Hon. E. J. Davis has been unseated, but the chances are that he "doesn't know" it. The Yankees may remember the Maine, but Ontario will remember the Minnie M.

THE MORE WE SEE OF THESE ELECTION TRIALS the more we are persuaded that the government is doing what he called the legislature to dodge them. The North York election trial showed that Mr. Davis hadn't a leg to stand on, and the judge's decision makes it equally clear that he hasn't a seat to sit on.

Kuropatkin and Kuroki will have another fight as soon as they can decide on the place of battle. The trouble seems to be with the surveyors. Who has not yet staked out the grounds.

NEW THEORY ON HUMAN DESCENT. Amsterdam Professor on Heredity and Distinguishing Features. St. Louis, Sept. 22.—Great interest has been aroused in the International Congress of Arts and Sciences by a proposition, advanced by Professor Hugo De Vries, professor of botany in the University of Amsterdam, Holland, who combats Darwin's theory of the origin of species, and advances a new theory of heredity.

YESTERDAY MORNING the Retail Merchants' Association had Charles Philip and E. D. Ross doing business as usual in any important part of the city. The police court, charged with conducting a business akin to that of trading stamps, this is the basis on which we are governed to-day. Can any honest and sensible man say that it is better than a farce?

SHAPING TOWARDS NATIONAL COUNCIL. With the approach of the general election, which will in all probability happen in the spring or early summer of next year, it is not surprising that the British again falls athwart the field of Irish politics. It is an open secret that the Nationalist party count upon again holding the balance of power and resuming the place of one party against another in the house of commons. They are not so difficult about announcing their support can be purchased, and the price they set is the old and high one. Nothing less than Mr. Gladstone's abortive measure, and even if by any chance a bill on its lines should succeed in again passing through the house of commons it would be promptly and effectually strangled by the house of lords. Nor is there much doubt about the attitude of the electorate upon the question. Not a scrap of evidence exists to show that England has to any material extent altered its view of Irish home rule, and, as Lord Rosebery long ago pointed out, without the consent of the predominant partner, the success of the measure is impossible.

But there is another movement which it is quite on the cards may have a practical result. The committee of landlords, organized by Lord Dufferin for the purpose of promoting the Land Purchase Act, ultimately passed by Mr. Wyndham, have transformed themselves into an association for securing for Ireland an extension of the local government now enjoyed, and they propose to do so by a further devolution of the powers belonging exclusively to the imperial parliament. What is evidently aimed at is a national council, authorized to deal with purely Irish affairs within the limits assigned, and subject to the approval and control of parliament. But it would be a mistake to look on this proposal as in any real sense identical with Mr. Gladstone's bill. What he advocated was precisely the converse of the scheme now favored by the Reform Association. Mr. Gladstone's measure granted the Irish legislative exclusive power to deal with all matters except those specifically reserved to the imperial parliament. The

She will look thru the properties of the Homestake Extension Mining Company, in which a number of Ontario people are interested. The Homestake Extension properties immediately adjoin the great Homestake mine, which has produced over $70,000,000 since 1877.

FRUIT A GREAT DANGER. St. Catharines, Sept. 22.—The fruit-growers of the Niagara Peninsula were greatly disappointed for the threatened frost did not materialize last night. Fruit men said to-day that it was the next thing to frost, but the weather was very cold, and the only thing that saved the fruit was probably the cloudiness.

TAKEN TO JAIL BY MISTAKE

Hearty Had Burst a Blood Vessel and is Dead.

Peterboro, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—While at work on the erection of Meldrum's new mill here this morning, George Cowling fell from a beam to the ground, a distance of ten feet. He sustained a bad shaking up, but continued work for about half an hour, when he felt unwell and started for Dr. Green's office on his bicycle. After going a short distance, he fell unconscious on the road. He was picked up by the police, who thought him to be dead drunk and he was confined in a cell for about 20 minutes before it was known that he was injured. He was taken to the hospital and died in about an hour, a rupture of a blood-vessel in the brain causing his demise. QUACKENBUSH ALLOWED TO GO. The jury disagreed on the case of William Quackenbush, who appeared before Judge Winchester at the general sessions on a charge of aiding and counselling Burke in his attempt to release Charles Quackenbush from the Central Prison. When Quackenbush took the stand in his own defence, he denied close acquaintance with Burke. Burke had asked him what would occur if Burke did not, being in that line of business, he did not know. He had loaned an overcoat to Burke on the night of the attempted jail delivery. The evidence of his wife and daughter cleared him of the charge of aiding and abetting. They swore that he was in the house early that night. Quackenbush was allowed to go on his own bail.

CASE OF A HORSE. The jury at the general sessions yesterday afternoon was unable to agree on whether Patrick McCarthy and William Gleason, "billed" William Morris out of a horse and $5. Morris claims that he bought the first horse of his life from Gleason and it was by the influence of McCarthy, secured another horse. This time he paid an extra $5, and got another horse. The second animal had the heaves. Morris brought the case to court, accusing both Gleason and McCarthy of fraud. The two were allowed to go on $500 bail, and the case will come up at the next sessions.

LET TARIFF BE DEVISED TO MAKE THE TARIFF POLICIES

C.M.A. Recommends Its Members to Support Higher Tariff Candidates.

Montreal, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association closed its convention to-day by adopting the strongest resolution in favor of a revision of the tariff recorded in its history.

A resolution was also adopted in favor of the establishment of a fire insurance department on account of the excessive rates now charged.

W. K. George of Toronto was chosen president of the association.

The closing meeting this morning was held behind closed doors. It was after the establishment of the fire insurance department which had been suggested as a possible "last word" in the tariff changes.

The association put itself on record in regard to an imperial tariff presentation, as follows:

"That whereas the events of recent years, industrial, political and international, have shown that the safety strength and safety of the British Empire depend upon the close union of all its parts, and whereas the time has come when the mother country and the colonies should extend to one another some practical expression of such union, therefore, be it resolved that this association in convention assembled, reaffirming its belief in an imperial tariff preference, and favors the appointment of a special committee to present to the British dominions, who shall consider the whole question of the tariff, and the consolidation and permanency of the empire and its trade."

The report of the fire insurance committee went very fully into the entire question indicated in its title, winding up by a proposal that an insurance department of the association should be organized. After some discussion the report was adopted.

Your committee recommend that the executive committee of the association be authorized to consult the branches of the association and to appoint a special committee, as outlined herein, to prepare a plan for fire insurance, and submit the same to the executive committee of the association for approval; no plan to be considered which in any way affects the existing tariff on fire insurance. A resolution regarding the woolen industry was also adopted. It declared that the woolen industry of the industry had not improved since the slight increase in the net tariff had been effected. The committee on the Canadian mills were reducing prices which more than counter-balanced the benefit of the change in the tariff, and especially in cheap lines of cloth, continue to increase. It was therefore resolved:

"That the woolen section of the C.M.A. request the association to appoint a special committee to bring the strongest pressure to bear upon the Dominion government to grant an increase in the tariff on woolen goods manufactured in Canada."

Respecting technical education, it was resolved that the association should, thru a special committee, investigate the subject of technical education as it is dealt with in other countries with a view to recommending early action on the part of the Dominion government in aid of a national movement for a standard system of technical education in Canada.

A resolution was also adopted referring the government control of telephones to the parliamentary committee of the association.

The election of officers brought the convention to a close.

The results of the vote were the following: President, W. K. George, Toronto; first vice-president, C. C. Ballantyne, Montreal; Ontario vice-president, J. O. Thorn, Toronto; British Columbia vice-president, John Hendry, Vancouver; Quebec vice-president, George E. Amyot, Montreal; Manitoba vice-president, E. L. Dowry, Winnipeg; Nova Scotia vice-president, D. W. Robb, Amherst; Prince Edward Island vice-president, Bruce Stewart, Charlottetown; Treasurer, George W. Drummond, J. McMaster, C. W. Davis, Col. J. H. Furland, R. C. Wilkins, W. Ewing, J. Horsfall, R. J. D. Eolland, J. J. McNeill, C. M. Fortier, J. R. Laurendeau, C. Faucher.

The executive committee reported that a Toronto brewery was working its men into an unfair condition, and the committee was appointed to interview the master brewers.

The report of the educational committee condemned the abolition of the supply-room in the Technical School, and the proposition to reduce the number of manual training those who had taken but a three months course in the work. The committee also strongly urged the practice of telling fairy tales and reading novels to school children. The report was approved.

SUPREME COURT TO SAY. Question of Control of C.P.R. Rates Up to It.

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—(Globe Special.)—The supreme court at its coming term will hear argument as to whether the net income of the C.P.R. Company exceeds 10 per cent. per annum on profit upon the capital assets expended in the construction of the line. Upon the determination of this question rests the issue as to whether the rates. Under its charter the company is freed from government control, and they fix its net income reaches the amount stated. As to whether this stage has been reached in the company's private affairs, the difference of opinion between the minister of justice and the officers of the company, and it is thought that the judicial determination of the questions involved would materially assist in arriving at an understanding between the company and the government and the obligations of the company in this behalf.

The first resolution introduced by Delegate J. A. Simpson, acting on behalf of Toronto local 91 of the Typographical Union, was as follows: "Resolved that the executive committee call on the Dominion senate men to appoint to the former position favoring the complete abolition of the senate."

Delegates Carey, Launders and Page strenuously opposed the motion, and declared that the congress had declared on principle for the total abolition of the senate, and that they would not support a motion which would place in the hands of a labor representative who had never in the past been a member of the senate, and he hoped to see the day when it would be re-elected.

Another resolution also introduced by Delegate Simpson of Toronto met with an exceedingly warm reception. "Whereas the working classes are underpaid as producers and overcharged as consumers, be it resolved that this congress place itself on record as favoring the abolition of the senate, and that it should be the duty of the organization to obtain the benefit of their labor by the complete system of co-operation or the common ownership of industry and the means of production and distribution."

A hot debate greeted the reading of the proposal. President D. J. Ross, who took part in the discussion. The resolution, according to the speaker, appeared on the face of it. Such measures had been introduced in the past, and had been in reality inoperative resolutions introduced by a body of men who wished to substitute their visionary schemes of industrial co-operation for the industrial system of the day.

The trades union movement had, in the opinion of the speaker, gone through a long and arduous struggle, and it was not to be expected that it would be able to do so.

Delegates Sangster and Wilson of the American Federation of Labor, who were in the room, declared that the measure was too advanced for the present state of affairs.

TO LABOR FOR SERVICE BUT LET BE RECOGNIZED

Trades and Labor Congress Does Not Approve of Delegate Simpson's Propaganda.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The principle of socialism was voted down to-day at the meeting of the Trades and Labor Congress. A proposal to ask the government to appoint labor representatives to the senate met with a warm reception.

The first resolution introduced by Delegate J. A. Simpson, acting on behalf of Toronto local 91 of the Typographical Union, was as follows: "Resolved that the executive committee call on the Dominion senate men to appoint to the former position favoring the complete abolition of the senate."

Delegates Carey, Launders and Page strenuously opposed the motion, and declared that the congress had declared on principle for the total abolition of the senate, and that they would not support a motion which would place in the hands of a labor representative who had never in the past been a member of the senate, and he hoped to see the day when it would be re-elected.

Another resolution also introduced by Delegate Simpson of Toronto met with an exceedingly warm reception. "Whereas the working classes are underpaid as producers and overcharged as consumers, be it resolved that this congress place itself on record as favoring the abolition of the senate, and that it should be the duty of the organization to obtain the benefit of their labor by the complete system of co-operation or the common ownership of industry and the means of production and distribution."

A hot debate greeted the reading of the proposal. President D. J. Ross, who took part in the discussion. The resolution, according to the speaker, appeared on the face of it. Such measures had been introduced in the past, and had been in reality inoperative resolutions introduced by a body of men who wished to substitute their visionary schemes of industrial co-operation for the industrial system of the day.

The trades union movement had, in the opinion of the speaker, gone through a long and arduous struggle, and it was not to be expected that it would be able to do so.

Delegates Sangster and Wilson of the American Federation of Labor, who were in the room, declared that the measure was too advanced for the present state of affairs.

Tour of the Railway Commission Months of Work is the Result

Cases, Sempel at First, Developed Intricate Phases—Acquired Information in Practical Ways.

Nelson R. Eutcher, official reporter for the railway commission, who traveled with the commissioners throughout the whole of their journey of between 7000 and 8000 miles, covering the whole of the Canadian Northwest and British Columbia, contributes to The World the following comprehensive account of the business transacted. The traveling board consisted of the Hon. A. G. Blair and Dr. James Mills, with George Blair, jr., law clerk and acting secretary. The Hon. Mr. Bernier remained in Ottawa to look after the matters which can be attended to by one commissioner. A. D. Cartwright, the secretary, also remained to complete the organization of his new department.

The business of the commissioners divided itself into two branches; first, the hearing of complaints regarding railway matters; second, visiting the whole territory with a view of getting as nearly as possible a practical knowledge of the requirements of the various industries of Manitoba and the territories, and the lumber, shingle, mineral, coal, fish and fur industries of British Columbia and the coast. Railway facilities throughout the great west have grown up in accordance with the advance of settlement, in other cases concurrent with it, and in some instances have followed business development. The freight tariffs are an evolution, based upon conditions and circumstances existing at certain periods. They are so far-reaching in their effects and so interlarded with the building up of industries at certain periods that many industrial enterprises are dependent upon these special rates, and even changes which in other cases would eminently favor, react on some other industry fostered or brought into existence by reason of the necessities of the case at some former period.

Acquired Practical Knowledge. This phase of the matter was so strongly developed that in dealing with these cases the commissioners have proceeded with extreme care. They have traveled nearly 8000 miles, covering the main line of the C.P.R. to the coast, the branches to Prince Albert and Edmonton, returning thru the Kootenay district and the Crow's Nest Pass, including the Macleod and Edmonton branch. They also covered the Canadian Northern between Fort William and Winnipeg, the Grand Trunk between the Port Arthur and Fort William terminals, inspected the facilities afforded for the storage and distribution of grain at Rainy River, and in British Columbia they visited the lumber mills, the best ones in the province, the sawmills in the Kootenay, Carberry, Brandon, Regina, Prince Albert, Medicine Hat, Calgary, Macleod, Edmonton, and Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Vernon, Nelson and Macleod.

At these places the acquisition of specific complaints was but a small portion of their work. A great deal of their time was devoted to becoming acquainted with the requirements of the different industries. They visited the first farming districts, in one instance covering as much as sixty miles in one day, talked with the farmers, and the shippers, with the fruit growers, the lumbermen and with the traders, and also representatives of the different towns and the divisional superintendents of the railways.

In this way they have acquired on the one hand a knowledge of what the public requires, in a most practical manner, and on the other hand the difficulties which the railway companies experience in coping with the marvelous increase in traffic consequent upon the rapid development of the country.

William Whyte, an exception of a few special instances, their exists a friendly feeling between the people and the railway companies. The whole western country there was constantly looking up the influence of the C.P.R. at Winnipeg, and whom the people describe as "a big man." Many of the towns visited, where complaints had been lodged for hearing, it was found that his diplomacy had effected an amicable settlement, and the boards of trade would announce that the things had been arranged to the satisfaction of all concerned. Most of the trouble complained of had been the result of some misunderstanding, or where the business had grown faster than the shipping facilities, but everywhere were to be seen immense improvement works worth millions of dollars. On the whole, those who addressed the board as complainants, or on behalf of the railways treated the subjects in a manly way, there was very little bitterness, and the meetings closed with amicable feelings as between the companies and the people.

Fire Guards an Important Question. One of the most important questions brought before the commission was the subject of fire guards throughout the franchising districts between Moosejaw and the Rockies. The railways demand that the fire guards, consisting of sixteen, eight on either side of the railway, should be placed at 300 feet from the track, and that then the

CLOSING OF O'HARA-AVE. HAS WORSE ALTERNATIVE

Commissioner Fleming Favors Company's Request—Aldermen to Visit the Locality.

The closing of O'Hara-avenue was set down for argument before the board of works yesterday, but as only Ald. Foster, Hay, Harrison and McChie were present it was decided that the committee should be asked to visit the locality on Saturday next at 2 p.m. Commissioner Fleming reported that he had examined the situation and was in favor of allowing the Gutta Rubber Co. to close the north end of the street providing it indemnified the city against damages. The Gutta Rubber Co. has offered to build a street line on both sides, which would be worse than the present. The street has already a sidewalk, and there being a fence south of the tracks. The company could not leave the tracks, but they could take their premises, but it would be necessary to submit figures to show the damages and move out. In regard to the price for the land, he had not had time to consider it. He advised the opening of a street, between the Gutta Rubber Co. property, and also a connection between O'Hara and Cunningham-avenue by way of the company's tracks.

J. N. Candor, the published reports of what was going to do. It proposed building an ornamental iron fence on the south side of the property, and not putting up buildings on the street, except a small one near the tracks. He thought the fence for the protection of its property. It had spent $15,000 for fire protection, which it could not get from the city, and the whole neighborhood had benefited.

City Engineer James McChie, who yesterday in what he asked for a declaration of policy on the question of the building of buildings on the street, sufficiently signed petitions had been received in favor of such work. He proposed the use of any existing material which was patented, in the hands of one company, which prohibited the use of other materials. He also considered the practice of having agents present the ratemakers to sign petitions for certain kind of pavements.

On account of there being but a bare quorum of the committee present, it was decided to take no action on the matter until the regular meeting next week.

Value of City Charter. "There is no magic in the word 'charter.' It is merely a legislative act defining our rights, privileges and powers," said Corporation Counsel Fullerton yesterday. "It is only in a limited sense a delegation of legislative functions. Unless the legislature is prepared to give the city complete or very substantial powers to legislate for itself in all matters that pertain to it as a municipality—to enact and change its laws at its will—in short, a complete delegation of legislative functions in municipal matters. I see no advantage rather than advantage in a charter."

A Good Idea. Commissioner Fleming expressed himself yesterday as being strongly in favor of the proposition to erect a summer hotel at Westport. He considered it an ideal spot for a resort which would attract the tourist trade on all steamships. Still, there might not be as much opposition to the erection of our charter as there is now to our applications for special legislation.

Must Clear the Sidewalks. The city engineer threatens these firms with prosecution if the sidewalks fronting their property in the burned area are not cleared of debris in a week's time. Proposed New Park Sites. The controllers and Park Commissioner Chambers will on Tuesday inspect the proposed park sites, including the Jarvis property, Rosedale avenue, Victoria Park, Guffer's Grove, Mallon property and the ravines near Shaw-street from College-street to the city limit, the latter of which both parties think should be secured before areas are erected along the street.

MALLED BY A BULL. Fleisherton Advance: Wesley Buskin of the west back line had an extremely narrow escape from a horrible death by an enraged bull one day last week. He had taken the animal out for exercise, holding it with the usual ring and bull stick, when the animal suddenly tried to gore its owner. Mr. Buskin held it off for some time, but in the struggle the stick became detached, and the enraged brute was upon him in an instant. He managed to grab the ring in the animal's nose, and exerted his full strength to hold him in the air several times, and finally got him down and again attempted to gore him, the horns passing on each side of his breast. Again he managed to get to his feet, and the animal was gradually he was backed against the barn, where the furious beast once more got its horns planted on each side of his body.

Young women may avoid much sickness and pain, says Miss Alma Pratt, if they will only have faith in the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all young women how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Wonderful Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was completely run down, unable to attend school, and did not care for any kind of society, but now I feel like a new person, and have gained seven pounds of flesh in three months.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO YOUNG GIRLS. All young girls at this period of life are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; her advice is freely and cheerfully given, and her address is Lynn, Mass.

A Young Chicago Girl Saved from Despair. DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to thank you for the help and benefit I have received through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. When I was about seventeen years old I suddenly seemed to lose my usual good health and vitality. Father said I studied too hard, but the doctor thought different and prescribed tonics, which I took by the quart without relief. Reading one day in the paper of Mrs. Pinkham's great cure, and finding the symptoms described answered mine, I decided I would give Lydia's Compound a trial. I did not say a word to the doctor; I bought it myself, and took it according to directions regularly for two months, and I found that I gradually improved, and that all pains left me, and I was my old self once more. —LILLIE E.
