THE FINES IN COURT

Elliott Hotel, St. John, July 3, 1918. To the Hon. Mr. Justice.
Sir—How is it that men are arrested in St. John, taken to the lockup, and next day fined $20 or $30 or $40, and then the fine allowed to stand? There must have been thousands of cases like that in the thirty years I have been here. We pay taxes and have policemen on duty day and night. They see some offences of the law, but they do not take them to court, a fine is struck and yet he is often given his freedom, to be chased and arrested again. Why should they stand? Why not let them roll into the city treasury to help pay the cost of police force and court?

THE NAVY LEAGUE GATHERING

To the Editor of the Times:
Sir—The result of the children's free entertainment at the Imperial last Friday, in the interests of the Navy League, was to say the least a disappointment. There were very many children present (girls in the majority), but comparatively few qualified for junior membership at the fee of only twenty-five cents. Our executive prepared an instructive and interesting programme, in the hope that all parents would take the opportunity to interest their children in such a cause. Surely our people must realize the great work of the royal navy and how it has saved our empire, and that what they have done and are doing for us, while the objects of the Navy League are educational, patriotic, instructive and charitable; so it was hoped parents would encourage their young and old to show our belief in sea power and how it has saved our empire, and transported us to the ends of the earth. Now that the government and people are doing their utmost to build ships, surely we should assist in making a nation of sailors, and assist its objects.
May I ask every citizen, male or female, to join the league. We already have 800 regular members, but aim at 15,000, and as another opportunity to give our children to enroll as junior members, it is hoped that the response will be such that we shall see very many children wear the badge.
Yours truly,
E. T. STURDEE,
New Brunswick Division.

IN WALL STREET

New York, July 3.—Stocks opened with a general denunciation of strength today, despite the less favorable character of early war bulletins. Copper and kindred metals led the broad advance at gains of one to two points on the higher price granted by the war board. Liberty bonds were steady.

New York, July 3.—Stocks opened with a general denunciation of strength today, despite the less favorable character of early war bulletins. Copper and kindred metals led the broad advance at gains of one to two points on the higher price granted by the war board. United States Steel's first transaction embraced 5,000 shares at an extreme rise of 1-1/8. Oils, motors, tobacco and leathers trailed along at fractional gains, but rails again were listless. Liberty bonds were steady.

CORN AND OATS

Chicago, July 3.—Bullish crop estimates tended to put fresh strength today in the corn market. A prominent authority figured the acreage at 3,100,000 less than the total last year. Scantiness of offerings counted also as a factor in lifting prices. The opening, which ranged from 1-8 to 1-10 higher, with August $1.31 5-8 to $1.22 1-4 and September $1.30 to $1.23 1-4, was followed by a decided general advance.

BOLSHEVSKI COMMISSIONER IS MURDERED; SYMPTOM OF GROWING OPPOSITION

London, July 3.—The murder of M. Volodarsky, Bolsheviki commissioner for press affairs, in Petrograd on June 21, is very significant as a symptom of the growing discontent among the workers, and the opposition political parties, says the Petrograd correspondent of the Times under date of June 28. The Bolsheviki threaten vengeance and party passions are running high among them. The Bolsheviki regard the assassination of Volodarsky as the first terrorist act against their supremacy by the Mensheviki and Social Revolutionists. The correspondent says they even endeavored to implicate Englishmen in the counter-revolutionary movement which they consider the murder is connected intimately.

MONTEAL AND THE M. S. A.

Montreal, July 3.—It was said at military headquarters here yesterday that the returns of men recruiting for overseas service under the M.S.A. were much less than had been expected, especially since the discussion arising after the report statements by Lieut. Col. Machin. "We are prepared to take care of 300 men a day, but the matter is entirely in the hands of the registrar who has complete charge of calling out draftees," said Lieut. Col. Piche.

BACK AFTER ROTARY CLUB CONVENTION

A. Ernest Everett arrived home at noon after attending the International Rotary Club convention in Kansas City. He reports a delightful time and lists statements by the other local delegates, R. W. Wigmore, M.P. and Dr. H. Barton, was royally entertained. The Rotarians held business sessions, at which Mr. Wigmore's election as governor for N. B., N. S., P.E.I. and part of Q. was confirmed. There also were banquets at which St. John's M. P. spoke of recent demands for copper and outdoor entertainments. Much inspiring allied work was done and everybody returned home more thoroughly Rotarian than ever.

GERMANY AND POWER

Prof. Delbrick, Tutor in The Emperor's Family

This is No. 7 of a Series of Ten Articles Written For The Times By W. FRANK HATHEWAY.

This noted teacher of history succeeded Von Treitschke at the Berlin University before 1900. One of the most influential members of the anti-peace school, Hans Delbrick threw the whole force of his intellect against the ideas of peace and disarmament. These university professors, being in the pay of the crown, were pushed by the dominant militarists in the government and in the court circles to combat the ideas of international arbitration and disarmament. This militarist party saw at once that they would be ruined if the peace movement assumed practical shape. The government control of the educators was sharply shown by the fact that Delbrick was dismissed in 1909 because he had dared to say that Schleswig-Holstein that Germany had not treated Denmark fairly.

He referred to the "brutality which exhibits us to the admiration of the civilized world." This remark nearly cost him his job. Happily he was not, and since that time Professor Delbrick and university professors have sailed in the same boat. Prof. Delbrick is the acknowledged interpreter of the ruling class. He is widely known, and is accepted by the masses as the chief spokesman of the world-power idea. These extracts show his position. In his book "The War of the Future," published in 1906, he says: "German agriculture is quite able, alone, to feed us in case of war." He then gives full proof to substantiate his remark.

Of arbitration he says: "What self-deception to imagine that obscure questions of destiny can be abolished by a court of justice? They are not questions of right, but questions of might. If the powers were to begin to disarm, the number of pretors for war, and of causes of war, would not be lessened, but increased, the tension not modified, but strengthened. Will this preaching be only loosen the sword in the scabbard so that it may be the more easily drawn?"

He calls disarmament a "delusion." All these later military inventions are introduced to "dispose us to peace." "A few more such inventions, a further extension of universal military service, and it would appear that we shall have done with war."

"The Germany of today, let us imagine her ever so strong, would certainly never begin a war." Yet a German prince in 1917 shows how incorrect are these statements by the professor. This prince who was German ambassador to London, 1918-14, issued a pamphlet lately which proves that Germany wanted the present war, and urged Austria not to accept the humble offers of Serbia. He says, "The impression grows stronger that we wanted war under any circumstances. It was impossible to interrupt our attitude in any other way."

The urgent requests and assurances of M. Sazanow, followed by the case of the humble telegram, the repeated proposals of Sir E. Grey, the warnings of the Marquis San Giuliano and Signor Balotti, my urgent consuming all were no avail. Berlin persisted; Serbia must be massacred. My London mission was wrecked, not by the wiles of the British, but by the wiles of our policy."

Today German professors and students know that Germany began the war, and that she refused to urge Austria to accept Serbia's most contrite apology. They also know that Baron Thyssen and other financiers in Germany were pledged in secret committee with Prussian statesmen, to finance the coming world war, and that these merchants were promised arms in Australia and Canada, and other booty in Britain as reward. Germany expected to have France and Britain at her feet by 1915. Her failure lost to Baron Thyssen docks and other property in Europe and Africa.

Angered at the result, he and others have exposed the war schemes of 1918. Now he is a refugee in Switzerland.

Prof. Delbrick, anti-peace, anti-disarmament writer, admits that "the foremost cause of the present war is undoubtedly the long continuance of peace."

He wrote that in 1909. Yet in another book he says: "In Germany any agitation in favor of disarmament is absolutely unpardonable."

To the United States demand that disarmament be submitted to the Hague Conference, he adds "This momentary proud position (of the United States) need deceive no one. The Americans have not yet stood any really severe test." He claims that England wants disarmament because the Empire will not furnish her for new ships. How very little he knew of the maritime spirit in Canada and Australia!

He adds that "Italy is on the verge of bankruptcy, and that Austro-Hungary seems nearer dissolution of strength than increase." He sits in his college chair and talks of army and navy and war. Peace for the people, disarmament to conserve wealth, are not for him. He believes in the "Will to Power," and demands colonies; "There is no higher duty for the forthcoming generation than to see to it that the world be not partitioned between England and Russia only, but that Germany and France should also obtain their share, and that the nations who have culture value should Hoeing is a severe strain on the back. It calls into play muscles not used much in lifting or in other kinds of farm work.

If you have a weak back you cannot stand much hoeing unless you use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to set the kidneys right and remove the cause of weakness and lameness of the back. Just try one pill a dose at bed time and see how much better you will feel.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. How true is the saying: "The people's blood!"

It is the professors who stand by and applaud the invasion of cultured Belgium, and the effort to make Greece become the ally of Turkey. These are the people's educators who fear to speak their honest thought, who denounce disarmament, and who are in favor of colonial extension; all at the dictate of the government that pays the monthly stipend.

ROSS BROTHERS WIN THE MILITARY CROSS

Major Stetham Returning—News of the Soldiers

To have two brothers win the Military Medal in the field while fighting with the Canadian forces in France is something of which any man might be proud and that fact is making Deputy Liquor Inspector James H. Ross feel a proud and happy man today.

Inspector Ross has received a letter from his brother, Sergeant William W. Ross, 54th Canadian in which the letter stated that he, together with other winners of this coveted decoration had been decorated with the Military Medal on June 9, by Major-General MacDonald, of the first Canadian division.

Sergeant William Ross is a former resident of St. John, and was at one time employed by the S. H. White Lumber Company of Sussex. He moved to work about ten years ago and enlisted with the 54th Battalion early in 1918.

Inspector Ross' other brother, C. M. Ross, was decorated with the M. M. for bravery in the field on the Somme. Major H. Stetham, former staff officer, under Brigadier-General McLean of late provost-marshal in Niagara district, is coming to St. John as assistant provost marshal.

Word has been received in the city that Major T. H. Raddall, D. S. O., a former New Brunswick man, has been

By stimulating and arousing the circulation with light applications of Absorbine, Jr., rubbed in thoroughly. This invigorating liniment acts quickly and surely. It is fragrant and pleasant to use—leaves no greasy residue on the skin.

As Absorbine, Jr., is a powerful germicide as well as a liniment, it is effective for psoriasis and scabies; it destroys the germs in cuts and sores; it may be diluted and used successfully as an antiseptic and germicide for the mouth and throat.

Athletes will find it efficient for limbering sore, stiff muscles. A good formula for a rub-down is one ounce of Absorbine, Jr., to a quart of water or witch hazel.

It is composed of vegetable extracts and essential oils and is positively harmless. Get a bottle today and keep it in your desk, in your traveling bag, in your medicine cabinet or in the side pocket of your automobile. It is health insurance at a high price.

BEHIND HALIFAX

The city of Halifax has one supervised playground with seven play leaders, one with six and two others with two each, besides a general supervisor. The largest ground is on the Common, the next, at the Exhibition grounds, and the others are connected with schools.

This is the way the Wall Street Journal explains the position of the Kaiser: "The position of the Kaiser, figuratively speaking, is like that of the man who is loaded up with one stock with no market to sell. He is 'long' of Germany, leader of the war brides. He accumulated everything in sight, and Germany looked good on paper. It was 1,000 bid at one time, but the Kaiser was the only bidder. Now that he has everything he wants he would like to unload piecemeal. But his market is ragged. Everyone will sell him a little more, but no one will buy. If he had a little short interest he might pull out. As it stands, his stock is selling at top prices, but he is going broke. After the war is over the Kaiser will learn that the world is not a one-man market."

If Miss Anna Stammers of this city has fallen a victim to the submarine, a noble and devoted woman has gone to her rest, and another woman murder is set down to be expiated by the German butchers of women and children. In the words of Mr. Bonar Law, "A wild beast is at large and the only thing to do is to destroy it!" But that will not give back to us the pure lives of those we have lost. We can but revere their memory and seek for ourselves the inspiration which made them face wounds and death with splendid fortitude.

Canada should give a hearty welcome to Dr. Béland. Like Byrd's Partner of Chillon, his hair is grey but not with years, and he comes home bearing, in the words of Tennyson, "a life long sorrow in his heart," because of the bereavement he suffered and the anguish he beheld. A gallant gentleman, he felt the loss and of German ruthlessness. What he will be able to tell his compatriots in Quebec cannot but have a powerful influence upon their minds in relation to the war.

The mayor and commissioners have had before them for more than two weeks a request for the use of a piece of city property in the south end for a baseball diamond and playground. The question could have been settled in a day. Either the council can spare this piece of ground or it cannot do so. The holiday season is here and the playground is needed. Why fiddle about? Why not plain yes or no to the request of the citizens of the south end?

British airmen on July brought down forty-two German airplanes and three balloons. Eight of their own machines are missing. The enemy is continually getting the worst of the air fighting. As time passes and more American machines are available the Allied mastery in the sky will become more and more pronounced.

The next great German offensive on the western front is daily expected. That it will be a terrific drive for a decision may be accepted as a fact. The Allies are not dismayed, however, and their resistance will be such as to inflict enormous loss upon the enemy for every yard of ground he may take from them in the end.

Toronto Globe: The house famine in Toronto becomes more marked. The men of the building trades who are at the front will have a lot of work waiting for them on their return. There appears to be a shortage of over three thousand houses in Toronto.

Further escapes from the Bay of Industrial Home lend additional force to Rev. George Scott's recent letter to the press regarding that institution and the need of having facilities for classifying the inmates so that the bad and the worse would not all be herded together and treated alike.

Wood from city lands to be of the best service next winter should have been cut last winter or spring, so that it would be partly dry, but even green wood may be eagerly sought after before next spring.

The death of Baron Rhonda, British food controller, is a severe loss. He had rendered service of immense value ever since the outbreak of the war.

The Americans have more than a million men in France. No more depressing news could be sent to Germany.

Germany and Finland have sent troops across the Russian border.

Not Ashamed of His Religion. (From Case and Comment.) The woolly-headed Uncle Rasmus was accused of disturbing the peace. Officer Meert Rudolph explained it as follows: "Your Honor, this man was running up and down the Mill River Road, waving his arms and yelling at the top of his voice, and otherwise raising the mischief, at half-past one in the morning. The people of that district complained, and they had a perfect right to. The judge frowned at Rasmus, who didn't seem to be particularly worried. "What do you mean by such unbecoming conduct?" His Honor demanded. "Religion, Judge," was the response. "Religion? Are you a Holy Roller, or something like that? I have religion, Rasmus, but I don't get up at midnight and yell everybody down."

"Good-morning, children," said the arithmetic teacher. "How many of you have prepared an original problem in multiplication, as I requested?" Only one hand went up. "Well, William, you may give your problem and the rest of the class may solve it." "If my baby sister is a year old now and weighs twenty pounds, and keeps on gaining two ounces a day until she is sixteen years old, and if the price of living doubles again in the next ten years, how much will my sister's graduation outfit cost? Mother says she would like to know."

The War Walter Won. Overhead at a railway buffet "Garcon, what do you call this liquid?" "War coffee, monsieur." "And this jammed putty?" "War butter, monsieur." "And this dirty piece of sponge?" "A war bill, monsieur."—From "The European edition of the New York Herald."

TRIBUTE TO THE DOCTORS.

(By Marion Couthou Smith of The Vigilantes.) Pastor Debevoise of South Orange, N. J., has contributed an article to "Suburban Society," a local weekly, describing a recent tour through France and England, on government business. He visited the armies at the front, and speaks with enthusiasm of their indomitable spirit, and unflinching hopefulness. He says there was less depression, after the retreats in the great drive over there than here.

In commenting on various conditions, he speaks as follows on the work done for wounded soldiers: "The men in English cities, of whom I saw hundreds, without legs or arms, or with reconstructed faces, and those in hospitals in process of being mended, all had the same words: 'If only I could play golf, and work at lathes. It is another wonderful thing; and that is the way the hospitals are performing miracles. When, finally, something after months and months of treatment, the reconstructing process is finished, the men are taught trades and placed in positions so that they are not left stranded upon the whims of charity, but are enabled to take up their lives again with a sense of freedom and happiness. Straps operate as muscles on artificial legs and arms; and I have seen such men as bright and cheerful as any I have ever seen. It is almost incredible what is being done. Hats off to the doctors, I say!'"

Offensive Breath Caused Usually by Catarrh

A Simple Remedy Discovered That Cures Without Drugs. The American people suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. It undermines more constitutions and creates more sickness than all other diseases combined. It is, therefore, very dangerous.

You can't successfully treat Catarrh by internal dosing—you must in some way send a purifying, healing agent through the breathing organs, and those who are unable to do this you do every time you inhale Catarrhose. It's rich essences and healing balsams are built all through the nose, throat and lungs, and effectively destroy every trace of Catarrh. This is a proven fact.

I endorse Catarrhose because I know of six bad cases of Catarrh, including my own, that it has cured. It is a sensible remedy because it is capable of going where the disease is. I believe it cures quicker than other remedies because it gets sooner to the source of the disease than anything else I know of. I had headaches, bad breath, and much stomach trouble associated with my Catarrh, but they have disappeared since using Catarrhose, which keeps me free from colds, headaches, catarrh and all winter ills." OTTO E. KRAMER, Belleville (Ont.)

Catarrhose is needed in every home. Large size lasts two months, price $1.00; small size, 50c.; trial size, 25c. At all drugstores and druggists or The Catarrhose Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

After War Plans For Soldiers

British Government Already Preparing Progress Made

German Idea Is For Intensive Development of Homeland To Increase Resources

According to the London correspondent of the New York Sun, the British government is now at work considering how the great task of demobilizing the army and of providing the soldiers with civil occupations at the conclusion of the war is to be accomplished. The plan drawn up by the Minister of Labor is receiving careful attention, and it is understood considerable progress has been made. Germany also is giving this subject her attention, and the series of articles by Herr Utsch in the Deutsche Landwirtschaftliche Presse considers the proposed settlement on the land of soldiers returning from the war. Herr Utsch begins by pointing out that it is a national duty to provide the disabled or injured soldier not only with an adequate pension, but with suitable employment which will enable him to support himself and his family in sufficient comfort. He says that the Government, he says, due regard must be paid to the wishes and the capacity of the individual and to the nature of the employment which can be found in home colonization, for in no other domain are the possibilities so great, since vast tracts of waste land still exist in Germany waiting to be opened up, and the returning soldier cherishes no dream wish than to have a home of his own.

At the same time, says Herr Utsch, the interests of the country will be served, since every fresh small colony increases the national wealth and makes it more independent of foreign countries in the production of food. He sees a further advantage in attracting labor to rural districts. "The direct labor of the settlers as follows: Settlements for men employed in industries or factories, for the district administrative authorities as founders of settlements and to build new factories in the country near railways or navigable waterways.

The question of the settlement of those coming under class two will be vital for agriculture. The best land, these holdings, he says, should be large enough to enable the settler to grow sufficient corn for his family, and to keep one or two cows. They might be as large as eight acres in extent. As to the land in class three, it would be for the interests of every community to do its utmost to provide for the settlement of its immediate vicinity. Under class four, which would be providing of peasant holdings for agricultural laborers, farm agents, or belonged to the more efficient class of farm laborers.

Fine Jobs as Servants. With the artisans of class three they would contribute to the solution of the agricultural labor problem, for their children could obtain situations as servants in the large land owners in the neighborhood. Herr Utsch believes that during the first period after the war it will be necessary to proceed mainly with the establishment of individual settlements near existing villages, for the settlers will find it easier to make a living and with the assistance of the communities, buildings will be cheaper. It will be necessary to proceed mainly with drainage operations on a large scale. This character of settlement, he believes, would induce soldiers to settle near their old homes, where, as they are known, assistance will be more readily given to them. As to the capital that will be necessary to establish such communal settlements, the writer suggests that about 10 per cent of all war profits which after the payment of taxes exceed 20,000 marks, ought to be lent on mortgages on the settlements at the rate of 8 to 11-2 per cent.

Looks for German Revolt. Herr Utsch admits the war profiteers would strenuously resist this proposal, but insists that the soldiers who have helped to make the profits should get first consideration. Another article dealing with conditions in Germany after the war, but on entirely different lines, from the pen of C. D. Stelling, considers the extent in which revolutionary ideas permeate the German army and the actions of Heinrich Heine, who observed with fine scorn in 1848, "No revolution will take place in Germany because revolutions are verboten," the writer says: "The fuel of revolt is being heaped up to await the torch that will set it aflame. Competent observers foretell that revolution will inevitably follow the conclusion of the war. The drugged and brainless proletariat is waking from its trance. With organization and leadership the torpid German people will at last turn against the false gods it has been worshipping and dash them to the ground."

STORROW PUTS LIMITS ON USE OF ANTHRACITE COAL. Boston, July 3.—James J. Storrow, federal fuel administrator for New England, has issued instructions to local boards restricting the sale of anthracite coal for use in factories, hotels, business and office buildings because of the necessity of conserving the limited allotment of hard coal for the benefit of householders. NEW WHO HOLDS HIGH RANK IN BRITISH ARMY

Remarkable Record of Lieut. Gen. Sir John Monash, Who Heads an Army Corps on French Front

Monash Valley, one of the names with which the Anzacs have enriched the geographical nomenclature of Gallipoli Peninsula, was so called by the men of an Australian regiment in honor of their colonel, now Sir John Monash, who has just been promoted to the rank of lieutenant-general and placed in the command of a British army corps in France. His picture appears in the pictorial section of the Sunday Times.

The importance of this promotion is two-fold. Sir John Monash has the distinction of being both the first Australian and the first Jew to reach so high a position in the British army. The number of Jews in the federal and state parliaments has, for example at times reached as high as 11 and 12 per cent.

AMERICANS BEHIND FRONT MAY REVEAL WHEREABOUTS. Paris, June 17.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—American soldiers at posts behind the front, may reveal the secret of their whereabouts to friends and relatives at home, according to a new ruling of the army authorities. They may indicate freely that they are at Tours or other behind-the-line posts and may receive their mail so addressed.

It is still forbidden, however, to send to America or anywhere else for that matter, any picture post cards of the places where the troops are stationed. The base censor does not feel like taking a chance on sending out photographs that might come into German hands.

commanded an Australian division at Ypres and Messines. For his services he was rewarded with a knighthood. Now in the process of wedding out generals who have gone stale and picking younger and abler men as army commanders, the British military authorities have selected him and promoted him to the rank of lieutenant-general. For a man who was originally a professional soldier, it is a remarkable record.

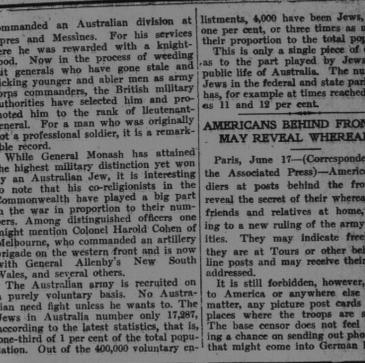

While General Monash has attained the highest military distinction yet won by an Australian Jew, it is interesting to note that his co-religionists in the Commonwealth have played a big part in the war in proportion to their numbers. Among distinguished officers one might mention Colonel Harold Cohen of the western front and is now with General Allenby's New South Wales, and several others.

The Australian army is recruited on a purely voluntary basis. No Australian need fight unless he wants to. The Jews in Australia number only 17,287, according to the latest statistics, that is, one-hundred of 1 per cent of the total population. Out of the 400,000 voluntary enlistments, 4,000 have been Jews, that is one per cent, or three times as many as their proportion to the total population. This is only a single piece of evidence as to the part played by Jews in the public life of Australia. The number of Jews in the federal and state parliaments has, for example at times reached as high as 11 and 12 per cent.

FIRST CANADIAN AVIATRIX

The distinction of being the first Canadian aviatix will belong to a Toronto girl, Miss Marion Cassidy, who will leave this week to complete her course at the Long Island Aviation School. She is only 18 years old. A visit to Miss Cassidy's study revealed a model aeroplane made by her own hands, complete in every detail. The construction and mechanical mechanism of the machine were planned with the ease and skill of a veteran.

A piece of fabric was shown which she captured from a German machine brought down in the spring of 1915. "It is too heavy and clumsy," said Miss Cassidy. "The control column of that machine had no definite seat for the pilot; instead, there was a large leather circle. The German machines lack the definite lines of the French and British," she added.

Miss Cassidy commenced to study aviation early, and took out a chauffeur's license. She made her first flight with Victor Carlston, who was killed on May 10. Among those who have encouraged the daring little Toronto girl are Col. Hamilton Merritt, Major Herbert Fisher, Capt. Leonard Andrews, and Major Sherrin, all noted flyers.

$13,000,000 IS WAR'S COST TO UNITED STATES

$12,600,000 Outlay for Year—Normal Was $1,000,000,000

Washington, July 3.—The United States government at the end of June closed its books for the financial year just ending. This, the first full financial year in the war, will go down as a period of expense hardly dreamed of a decade ago. More than $12,600,000,000 is the actual outlay since July 1, 1917, for war purposes, government activities and loans to the allies. In peace times, the government spent less than $1,000,000,000 annually.

With the addition of the $1,200,000,000 which the government spent in the three months of war preceding this financial year, the war's cost in money, to date, has been $13,800,000,000.

DR. HASTINGS FLAYS W. C. T. U. LEADERS

Says Resolution to Ban Grape Juice the Work of Fanatics

"Of some of these women would come their efforts to work of vital importance, instead of romping off to extremes of this kind, they would be doing something to aid their country, and in the meantime improving their own minds," said Dr. Hastings, M. O. H., to the Toronto Star, when asked his opinion regarding the condemnation of grape juice and the keeping of cigarettes from the soldiers, by President Mrs. F. L. Thurston at the Wentworth and Halton County W. C. T. U. convention at Hamilton yesterday.

"It was owing to the activity of extreme fanatics in the past that the real effects of the temperance movement were delayed," continued the doctor. "All bounds were exceeded by this faction, which resulted in widespread indignation throughout the country. This will be the result in the present movement if this state of affairs is continued. All the effects of the present temperance legislation will be menaced by activity in this direction."

The health officer declared that the condemnation of grape juice and cigarettes for soldiers was absurd, and made the true work of the organization look ridiculous. The beverage is non-intoxicating, and has no ill effects. "The women have no grounds for opposing the use of grape juice any more than they have the sale of ginger ale; in fact, if anything, grape juice is more wholesome than ginger ale," he said.

Not Far Wrong.

The bashful bachelor on the fifth floor recently encountered a neighbor, a young mother, and, wishing to be neighborly, asked:

"How is your little girl, Mrs. Jones?"

"My little boy is quite well, I thank you, Mr. Smith," replied the proud mother.

"Oh, it's a boy!" exclaimed the bachelor in confusion. "I knew it was one or the other."

COMPOST HEAP.

In every war garden this year a place should be set apart in which unused green stuff from the house—weeds, leaves and so on—may be kept to be used, when thoroughly decomposed, as manure for the following season's crops. If a sprinkling of lime is added from time to time, it will sweeten the material. This provides the best for the best manure and none of it should be allowed to go to waste.

If the compost heap was made up early in the season or if part of an old one remains, it is an ideal place to grow squash or other creeping vegetables, provided that it is not situated in too shady a part of the garden. Every square inch of ground should be made to count.

TRUSTIES FROM JAIL NOW WORK IN CITY

Men Allowed to Leave Jail in Morning and Return at Night

(Toronto Star)

Humanity finds its scope and it's a big one—the Toronto Municipal Farm, better probably than anywhere else on this continent today. There was a time when the men who were in the jail by society in good fellowship and confidence and he makes it his business not to lose it.

The honor system entered into rather cautiously has made rapid strides in the city. It has grown to such an extent and some of the prisoners are so well trusted that instead of working on the farm they are allowed to follow out their lines of occupation in the city.

Some of the "trustees" which signifies the man who has reached the stage where he can be trusted alone, go down into the city every morning at an early hour, returning at night. A few of them are caretakers, others work in tailor shops while still others are engaged in the Thornham and Richmond Hill districts as farm hands and men of all work.

Supervised in City.

Brigadier Fraser of the Salvation Army, supervisor of the men working in the city. From the money each man makes sufficient is deducted to pay their expenses and the remainder goes to their wives and families. If they are proved incapable of spending it properly, it is doled out to them by Brigadier Fraser.

"The success of the going-to-town proposition is attributable largely to the fact that the men are not compelled to wear striped uniforms. Instead they wear blue overalls and are never "spotted" by the over-curious public.

As soon as the prisoner comes into the prison, he is given a crock of clean clothes and cleaned up, his linen washed and his hair combed. The store room awaiting his release.

"Reformation" is the foundation note of the system. A crock of clean clothes and a clean shirt are given to the prisoner. He is given every chance in the world to make a good thing of his honor he gets renewed confidence in himself and humanity "and would rather than be sent back to the cell," said Major Morrison, superintendent of the farm.

Few Attempts to Escape.

Proof of this is the fact that out of 5,000 inmates living in the institution in the last five years only thirty have tried to escape, and these were being held to be deported to the United States.

The most outstanding case of loyalty to honor is that of a man who had served twelve years in the Kingston Penitentiary. He was brought up on a charge of house-breaking when released and sentenced to two years on the prison farm. When he first arrived, he was locked in one of the cells, where he stayed a week. He has served one year of his two, is now a "straw" and says that it is the first time in years that he has been given a man's chance.

The writer spoke to him while he was mending shoes in the shoe shop, and a more courteous fellow would be hard to find. He was working in the fields along with the rest in a short time, and in another year will be free.

The gratitude of the men who have left the institution is to be read in a file of letters in the office, in which they tell of the occupations they are now engaged at, and there are numerous letters from men who enlisted from the prison and are now fighting in France.

The majority have only a slight charge against them when they come in, nothing more serious than carrying a "crock" in dry Ontario. The gravest charge is house-breaking or forgery. The average term is from sixty to ninety days, and the longest is two years.

Probably one of the saddest features of the institution are the fourteen padded cells, located in one of the buildings. Here the "dope" victims are kept. They present a pitiful sight with their hollow cheeks and sunken gleaming eyes.

Drug Traffic Stopped.

One man came to the farm an inveterate dope fiend. He had been receiving treatment in hospitals for two years without effect. He was sent to the farm. He has been there a year, and today is out driving a team. Major Morrison says he thinks the dope traffic has been entirely stopped at the farm.

The wonderful spirit of the men is only an echo of those in charge. Major Morrison has been superintendent of the farm for a year, and he says he would not change his work for any other thing under the sun. Both he and S. B. Weir, deputy superintendent, are held in the highest respect by the prisoners, who all think the sun rises and sets on these two men.

BOSTON BOOKSELLER IS ORDERED INTERNED

Boston, July 3.—Theodore A. Ritter, a bookseller, who, officials say, formerly was a member of a Prussian guards' regiment, has been ordered interned at Fort Ogdethrope, Ga., as a dangerous enemy alien. After his arrest in April, Federal officers searched his house in Newton and found a German uniform. He was suspected of extensive circulation of German propaganda.

Joseph Vlerick, an Austrian, arrested here some time ago after an altercation with soldiers, also was ordered interned.

Jerome Eddy, said to have been the first professional theatrical press agent in the States, is dead at the age of 83.

THREE TORPEDOES HIT U. S. PRES. LINCOLN

Francis X. Rist of Bangor Was Adrift 18 Hours After U-Boat Encounter

She Sank in 27 Minutes, But Destroyer Got the Submarine Next Morning—No Danger to France

(Bangor Commercial)

Francis X. Rist of this city, who was on the torpedoed transport President Lincoln when it was sunk by a German submarine 400 miles from the coast of France on May 31, is visiting at the home of his mother on Hazel street for a short furlough and tells an exciting story of having been adrift eighteen hours after his steamer was sunk.

"We were hit at 9 o'clock in the morning by three torpedoes, which landed almost simultaneously, one forward and two aft. Immediately the command came to man the lifeboats. I was down in the forenoon, shovelling coal but it didn't take me long to reach the deck. Everything was orderly—there was no confusion and everyone was cool and collected as I am telling you this. We launched the lifeboats and rafts so that all on board were off before the ship sank, twenty-seven minutes after she was struck. Most of the rafts and lifeboats were lashed together, making one great raft, but a few drifted off before they got attached in this way and some of the men on them were never picked up. In this way we lost three officers and twenty-three sailors.

"Let's in the day the submarine that blew us up came out of the water and the German captain asked where our captain was. We told him he had gone down with the ship, which wasn't so. They wanted him as a prisoner as positive proof that they had sunk the President Lincoln. Not finding him, they took one of the other officers. Meanwhile several of the U-boat crew were engaged in taking our pictures with hand cameras. But I doubt if they ever exhibit our photos in Germany. I was told that the submarine which hit us was sunk by our destroyers next day. She was 300 feet long and bore the number U-101. The officers were polite enough to us and their pleasure at having sunk the transport was quite evident.

"None of us worried much while adrift for we felt confident that we would be picked up. The wireless man had been busy giving our position in the few minutes after we had been struck. Sure enough, at 3 o'clock the next morning along came the destroyers and took us aboard. We were glad to see them, for the sea had been rather rough. I had only an overalls and jumper on and was glad to be in a warm place again. Our captain said we were the coolest men in the face of danger that he had ever seen.

"I could tell you a great many interesting things about the wonderful work our navy is doing in transporting the hundreds of thousands of men that are landing in France every month. You would be astonished if you knew how many soldiers we took over in the convoy I was with going across. I don't think it would do any harm to say that we carried 6,000 men on the President Lincoln and that the largest vessel in our convoy had 17,000 men aboard. It seems impossible, but it is so. No submarine would dare to tackle a transport convoy for it would be sure suicide. They don't stand any show when our destroyers are around. That is why we feel perfectly safe on the trip across the Atlantic. It's coming back that we are a bit nervous, for then we take chances that we wouldn't with thousands of soldiers aboard.

"We are taking troops over so fast that the Germans will be defeated before the end of the year or I'll lose my bet.

"I want to say a word in favor of the Red Cross. They certainly were kind to us when we reached this country from France, giving us comfort kits and showing that they were willing to do all in their power to make us feel at home."

Seeking Secret Of German Dyes

British Have Accomplished Great Results
A Big Undertaking

United States Also Makes Progress in New Industry—Canadian Market Too Small to Justify Work Here

(Toronto Globe.)

Financial conditions, insufficient demand, etc., minimize the possibility of successful dye-making in Canada. Dye experts declare that Canada is not and will not for some years be in a position to compete with other nations as a dye-maker. In this respect Canadian firms will be dependent upon the British and United States dye-makers for their supplies.

South of the border the big demand and the capital on hand has encouraged immense expenditures on dye investigations, and huge factories have sprung up all over the country, so that the United States now takes a foremost position as a dye producer. This industry has developed to such proportions that the United States can now compete for much export trade.

But, notwithstanding any claims that may be made that dyes are being made, despite the loss of the German products, which was considered so essential to successful dye-making, the dyes being sold now are not up to their pre-war standard.

A dye expert informed the Globe that it is foolish to expect the recently developed dyes to be as fast or otherwise as perfect as those formerly used, because such a condition of advanced development is well nigh impossible. "The reason why the dyes are satisfactory is that they are not up to such severe tests as heretofore," said he. "The ordinary citizen wearing a suit of clothes does not submit a piece of cloth to a very hard test, so that it is comparatively easy to make dyes that will meet the requirements of ordinary everyday wear."

It is very well that these things should be in their former days. There is no cause for complaint in this, but the country dye-makers deserve much praise. It is very difficult to realize the amount of the heavy expenditures entailed in the manufacture of dyes, and it is a wonderful accomplishment to bring them to the present standard.

"It appears that we are getting lots of Swiss dyes," he continued, "and these seem to be so perfect that many of the sure belief that they come from Germany. At present Switzerland is doing a comparatively big business in dyes, and, as the Swiss cannot go into the business to the extent they apparently have done, and as the dyes seem to be the German standard, we are of the opinion that already German dyes are being sold throughout the world as Swiss dyes."

It is stated that there are no big hopes of success in the dye-making industry, and the supply is a hand-to-mouth affair. The authorities in the United States demand so many of the ingredients used in dye-making for munition purposes it is considered that it would be very foolish to attempt to get large quantities of dyes on hand. Regardless of this, it is said to be exceedingly difficult to arrive at any special color effect. "We do our best in this regard," declared this expert. "If we want a certain color or shade, we get as near as possible to it and live with it at that."

While the struggle for supremacy in dye-making in the United States and Germany, Great Britain is also doing her utmost. The British Dyes Company is working hard to outdo the German by the production of a dye which is more brilliant than the German's. A correspondent of the New York Sun states that in a secret war of dye-making is being fought between the United States and Germany, one of the grimmest and most far-reaching battles of the war. It is the preliminary bombardment of the great commercial war after the war. For here are situated the works of the British Dyes Company, which is struggling with Germany for one of the most vital industries of the modern commercial world, that of the dyes.

The works of the British Dyes Company are typical of the evolution of the new industry and the new life. Sprawling the length of a narrow and smoke-stacked Yorkshire valley, the sheds, boiler plants and sere rows of towers occupy acre after acre of ground. Situated in the background, in a tiny cobbled street, a little factory that struggled for years against swelling German competition has tucked on either side and behind it a phalanx of raw red brick buildings. Stretching far along the valley, above the green fields and copses, fed by thirteen miles of railway and drained by three miles of sewers, are the great new sheds.

A Great New Discovery.
Many years ago an English chemist discovered that artificial dyes could be made by chemical processes. On that discovery a great industry responsible today for almost every atom of color in our clothes, our books, our pictures and our household goods has been built. Germany was the first to realize the value of such an invention. Every possible invention was put in the way of intending manufacturers in the valley, who were engaged in the new industry were subsidized by the government.

What took Germany over thirty years to accomplish with laborious research cannot of course be achieved by British chemists in a year or two, but surprising and gratifying progress has been made. The cheap production of the "intermediate" products, without which the finer products cannot be made profitably, is guaranteed. Patience and perseverance are expected to win further success.

It is essentially a key industry. The problem the British works attack is not merely every atom of color in our clothes or discovering the secret of one or another obscure German patent, but that of establishing an industry which can stand on its own bottom and which is not to be upset by the withdrawal on the part of a foreign competitor of any essential substance used in the manufacture.

In this valley the gospel of thoroughness has not been preached in vain. In building after building there goes on an silent, almost automatic series of operations that prepare the raw material and produce the intermediates.

In the laboratories a chemist performed two or three little pieces of magic

COOL DRY WEATHER BAD FOR BUSINESS

Crops Also Suffered, But Underlying Conditions Are Good

Toronto—Unseasonably cool weather during the past week has had a decided depressing effect upon business in general, and in retail distribution in particular, says Dan's Bulletin. Wholesale dry goods establishments complain that house trade has been very quiet and that a warm spell of weather is badly needed to give more activity in assorting goods. Orders for fall trade are still coming in from travelers in the country, who report conditions very favorable. Crops in some districts have suffered from the prolonged dry and cool weather, but, on the whole, prospects are looking good. Payments are fair and satisfactory, no complaints whatever being heard on this score. Wholesale fruit and vegetable dealers find business a little slower, which they also attribute to the cool weather. Groceries are normally active. Further food regulations and restrictions have again caused an unsettled feeling in the trade as to supplies of sugar for the coming season. Provisions are quiet. Exports of butter continue very heavy, amounting so far this year to more than twice the quantity exported during the same period last year. Eggs are in a very firm market. Prices paid in the country show an advance of two to three cents, dealers now paying 87c to 88c per dozen. In some instances dealers are already withdrawing eggs from storage to supply the retail trade. Coal dealers are predicting a further advance of a dollar per ton for coal, due to an increase in freight rates. Leather trade continues very active and market firm. Hides firm in recent advance, particularly for high grades. Hardware business is good, especially in building supplies. Building permits issued continue to show an increase. Prices in all lines of metals are still on the upgrade. Iron and steel industries are threatened with further restrictions. Limiting supplies for ordinary commercial

39 Liquor Samples Were Clear

Ottawa, July 3.—A McGill dominion analyst, has issued four bulletins containing his conclusions after conducting an inspection of wines, liquors, brandy, rum, gin, whisky, and other spirits sold in Canada.

With regard to wines and liquors, the Dominion analyst reports that of 114 samples which came under that head, he finds that fifty-three samples were true to the name under which they were sold, and up to legal standard, while thirteen "may be regarded as meeting the type, but are below standard requirements in one or other respect." Thirty-nine samples were found to be clearly fraudulent, while the remaining nine were judged as doubtful in the absence of a standard for the term "condemned." He expresses the conviction that such names as "crime de mente" are generally understood to imply the presence of alcohol in liquor, and says that the sale of non-alcoholic liquor under such names should be regarded as advertisement.

Here the American soldier shows himself a charming child. There is nothing of the "Innocent Abroad" about him. I heard scarcely anything (except about tele-

BRITISH FOOD CONTROLLER DEAD

Viscount Rhonda Succumbs To Attack of Pleurisy

OWN RATIONS TOO SMALL

Health Undermined by Putting Himself on Smaller Allowance Than He Imposed on Public—Had Done Great Work in His Position

London, July 3.—Viscount Rhonda, (David Alfred Thomas), British food controller, died this morning at nine o'clock.

Since recent operations for dispersion of the food consequent to a severe attack of pleurisy, Lord Rhonda weakened gradually. There were few rallies, and the bulletin from his bedside in the last few days had held out little hope for his recovery. Yesterday's announcement recorded that the patient had lost strength and that his heart showed signs of failing to respond to treatment.

Viscount Rhonda was the man who put England and most of the United Kingdom of Great Britain on rations and won the gratitude even of the people whose food supply he regulated. Before he achieved the task it was generally regarded as all but impossible.

Food was running short in the United Kingdom in June, 1917, when Lord Rhonda was appointed food controller of Great Britain. The German U-boats were sending ships to the bottom of the ocean and Great Britain was supporting a tremendous army in France. The civilians at home were beginning to feel the pinch of long queues of men, women and children stood for hours at the food stores in scores of British cities and there was a loud grumble from the public.

Firm Grip on Task.

The man, who as David A. Thomas, had been managing director of the Great Cambrian coal combine, apparently undertook his task with many misgivings. "I have a suspicion," he told his Welsh friends, "that Lloyd George conspired me for this almost impossible job because he knew I had the bite of a tiger."

"I am going there," he added, "as guardian and trustee of the consumer, and particularly the poor consumer." He declared that he was determined to stop profiteering and speculation in food.

"If it is necessary to put the whole country on compulsory rations I will do so without compunction," he gave warning. Then followed a series of orders and regulations that a year or two before would have caused the Briton to wrath.

The new food controller took over control of all the crops for 1917, and within a few months announced the formation of an inter-alleied food council to purchase in the United States and Italy in co-operation with Herbert Hoover, American food administrator. The purpose was to eliminate competition and stop speculative advances in the price of food. By fixing the price, he put it to effect a policy of controlling the profits of food dealers from the producer down to the retailer.

Transportation in America was snowed bound for weeks during the winter of 1917, and America failed to deliver to England the food she had promised. Rhonda met the crisis by fixing the amount of food to be served every person in hotels, restaurants and boarding-houses down to the minute fraction.

DOCTOR BELAND NOW IN ENGLAND

Canadian M. P. Three Years a Prisoner in Fortress in Berlin—Not Allowed to See Dying Wife

London, July 3.—(Canadian Associated Press)—Dr. Beland reached England today from Holland, where he spent the last few weeks after three years of confinement in Berlin. He preferred to remain in Holland until he was able to bring his daughter, who had been in Belgium, with him. Doctor Beland looks remarkably well. He spoke without bitterness of his experiences, and admitted frankly, in fact, that his treatment by the enemy had been courteous, although he admitted again but received no answer. Ultimately they broke the news of her death. I assume they did not tell me earlier because they knew I should want to leave Berlin for Antwerp and my wife.

VISCOUNT RHONDA

carried England over the crisis and resulted in his elevation to Viscount.

But the new viscount seemed to have fallen a victim to over-devotion to his own theories. He had boasted that he was living on a far smaller ration than he had imposed upon the British public.

Before undertaking that task Rhonda had, in 1915, organized the British munitions factory in the United States and Canada and had put it on a business basis.

Baron Rhonda was born at Adare, Wales, on March 29, 1856.

HIS EXPERIENCE ON HUN SUBMARINE

Major Lyon of the Llandoverly Castle Now in London Hospital

London, July 3.—Major T. Lyon of the Canadian Field Artillery, who suffered such severe treatment when he was taken from the captain's boat and dragged aboard the German submarine which sank the hospital ship Llandoverly Castle, has been brought to a hospital in London.

"I dread to think what would have happened to an American officer had he been in my shoes," said Major Lyon yesterday. He then related to the Associated Press his experience with the Germans.

"Captain Sylvester (master of the hospital ship) sent aboard the submarine, remaining perhaps five or ten minutes," Major Lyon said. "Then they came after me. The second officer of the submarine grabbed me by the hand and I was jerked aboard, a bone in my foot being broken."

"I ascertained afterwards that the Germans had questioned Sylvester as to whether a wireless message had been intended to make the trip, but one did not sail at the last minute because of illness."

ORGANIZE BANGOR AGRICULTURAL UNIT

Permanent organization to be known as the Bangor Unit of the State of Maine Agricultural and Industrial League

A permanent organization to be known as the Bangor Unit of the State of Maine Agricultural and Industrial League was perfected at a luncheon given by the members of the temporary organization at the Bangor Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon. The general advisory committee was elected which will appoint the chairman of the sub-committee.

The work planned by the organization contemplates on a general scale to coordinate the marketing of farm products and in the buying of supplies, farm machinery, and equipment; to arouse public sentiment for highway improvement and to encourage the development of agriculture and rural life in the state.

Many prominent Bangor business men were present at the organization of the permanent unit and gave their hearty endorsement of the plan. President Alley, who spoke after the luncheon, said that there was a big field for such an organization in this state in order to increase the production of pork within the state so that so much would not have to be imported as formerly.

Food Administrator Merrill of the U. S. has also given his hearty endorsement of the league which will co-operate with the college authorities in its future work. After the committee has been appointed by the advisory committee, active work will at once be begun in the country for the purpose mentioned in the aims of the league.

An expert staff of workers has been secured by the state committee which sends them where needed. It is probable that Penobscot county will soon be actively investigated for the best development possible of its resources. An expert staff of workers has been secured by the state committee which sends them where needed.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRE

The Dominion Steel and Coal Company has completed the purchase of one steamer and chartered another to carry coal from Sydney to Halifax and St. John.

James Douglas, a New York copper magnate, has bequeathed $100,000 to the General Hospital, Kingston, Ont., and $20,000 to McGill University, Montreal, for a dormitory.

A. W. Bennett, recently appointed to the bench to succeed the late Judge Borden, presided for the first time at the Kent county court on Monday.

It is feared that Captain John H. Pratt, formerly of this city, who was captain of the government cruiser Curlew, was lost when his steamer, the George L. Eaton, was torpedoed a few days ago. Captain Pratt served St. John about three years ago.

Washington, July 3.—President Wilson was asked yesterday by a committee of union laborers to use his influence to prevent enactment of further prohibition legislation at this time. The committee was headed by Samuel Gompers.

Urges Use Of City Woods For Fuel Purposes

Council Will Consider Suggestion—Favor Shamrock Grounds and Queen Square, West End, for Playgrounds—Veichle Licenses

The question of what vehicles in the city should be taxed and how the citizens may be asked to pay a license on their vehicles on which they already pay a property tax and plate tax by making stringers coming to the city and using the streets pay a tax as well, is a problem that is now confronting the council. It is the opinion of the council, that vehicles be called upon to pay a license fee even if it is only nominal and sufficient to bring them under the control of the city in their operation but difficult surrounding the application of such a license system seems to be manifold and of a very real nature.

The commissioners at yesterday's council meeting decided to struggle with the problem individually until the next meeting when an effort will be made to reach a decision.

Tenders for the reconstruction of the ferry wharf at West St. John were opened as follows: Edward Easton, $7,600; John A. Adams, $8,687; S. Herbert Mayes, $3,480. The tenders were referred to the mayor, Commissioner Bullock, with the city engineer with power to set.

A petition from residents of Lancaster, asking for more adequate water service was referred to the commissioner of water and sewerage and city engineer.

J. H. Frink, provincial fuel administrator, wrote pointing out the prospect for fuel shortage near winter and suggested that the city should cut the wood on city lands at Spruce Lake and elsewhere for this purpose. The engineer will report on the proposal.

A petition from residents of the city asking for a request from the Toronto city council for co-operation in seeking reasons for the increased price for gasoline.

The council went into committee and Commissioner Fisher reported that he had not recommended much work for Rockwood Park grounds, but that he would be required to fit the grounds for use.

He thought it better to secure the old Shamrock grounds, located between the Queen Square in the west end. He did not favor the south end playground plan suggested. It was decided to let the matter stand until Thursday morning.

The committee upon rising and going into council, again revised a resolution from Commissioner McLeelan that the city should acquire a portion of the provincial authorities as to what had been done with the memorials presented to the city magistrate by the citizens and that had the proceeds of fines under the prohibition act be paid over to the city of St. John. The resolution was seconded by Commissioner Fisher and passed.

The council decided to erect a temporary band stand in Alexandra Square, North End, and that four concerts be given there in July and two in August. It was also decided that four band concerts be given in the West Side square, two in July and two in August.

AN IMPERIAL TOPIC REVIVED

(Toronto Globe.)
The Imperial Conference of 1918 has revived in the British Press the discussion of an Imperial Commonwealth. The London Daily Mail says the Imperial War Cabinet may be the nucleus of the Imperial Commonwealth. This is the old centralizing policy in a new dress.

The people of Canada, Australia, or any self-governing unit of the Empire, do not want to be governed by any board not wholly of their own choosing. If, as the Mail avers, each nation would preserve its own autonomy, wherein lies the scheme for improvement on the machinery of the Imperial Conference?

The London Daily Chronicle says the signposts do not indicate Imperial Federation. Sir Robert Borden himself declared last year that the project of a central parliament for the Empire, the corner-stone of Imperial Federation, was unrealistic and impracticable. "Those who still dream of it will try to promote it, but it is the scheme for improvement on the machinery of the Imperial Conference."

The Manchester Guardian wisely remarks that the British Commonwealth must be left to shape itself as conditions grow, and that the changing circumstances of the world may indicate. That is how it has developed in the past. Do the results justify the conclusion that the process should be changed? The present war has answered the question with a final and emphatic negative.

PRESBYTERIAL SESSION OPENS IN MONCTON

The twenty-ninth annual meeting of the Presbytery of St. John, opened in Moncton last evening. Mrs. E. E. Drumm welcomed the delegates and devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. George Wilson. Reports were submitted by the county vice-presidents and committees on creation and nominations. Prand resolutions were appointed. Mrs. R. C. Cruikshank of St. John addressed the meeting on the missionary conference to be held in Wolfville in July.

German Appeal For Rebellion

Bavarian Says Prussianism is Road to Rebellion—Puts all Blame on the Kaiser

Paris, June 28.—The French are very curious, how very skeptical, about a strange document which was found on the morning after a recent air raid on the lawn of a French country estate in a section that had been heavily bombed during the night. It is a passionate protest against Prussian over-lordship and oppression, written in German, apparently by a Bavarian, and directed to his compatriots. Without any crease such as would come from folding the document, and wet with dew, the paper was picked up by the owner of the estate. It says: Bavarian Compatriots!

"The frightful misery which because of the war has spread also to Bavaria, and which is leading our Bavarian people to almost certain ruin, imposes upon us as the sacred duty of thinking of the welfare of our country and our compatriots."

"Who is it that has led us to this abyss of perdition? Let us be frank! It is not Prussianism. It is not the English and the French. Neither is it the other countries that we call the Entente. The guilty ones, one can say in all conscience today, are solely and only the Prussians, or more precisely, there is but one guilty party—the King of Prussia. The official assertion that our adversaries started the war against us and menaced us, and our own, is a falsehood."

"Now, the King of Prussia has the right, in the name of Bavaria, to declare war and make peace."

"What the atrocious misery this country suffers signifies—a misery that shouts to heaven—must make us realize the terrible misery of the next war?"

"The present war, also, is not at all in the interests of Bavaria, but is solely a gambler for the power of the Prussian state, its military and its agrarians. Commands Entente."

"We Bavarians are not in any way in opposition to the interests of the peoples whom we are fighting. On the contrary France, for example, has not only favored our country and our people during the course of history. Among the governments that are our opponents in this war not one has as one of its aims the extinction of our country. But the war hinges entirely, and with good right, against Prussia, which, with the Russia of other days, is the most corrupt state in Europe. The sons of Bavaria sacrifice their lives by hundreds of thousands for this Prussia, for the country which a few decades ago, in 1808, took away a part of our territory and an enormous war indemnity."

"And even if it were possible to be victorious what can our country, what may we Bavarians expect from such a victory? As little as nothing."

"All the precious Bavarian blood, all the morning, the stirring, horrible suffering of our compatriots, of our women and our children, all the lives sacrificed and ruined and all the material losses, all of that has gone for nothing! All the sacrifices have been without object, they haven't even been for the defence of our country for it has not been recognized, but merely have been for the conservation of Prussian power. In addition, as allies of Prussia, we have drawn

LADY PINK TOES HAS HER INNINGS

There is no excuse today for women to have ugly, painful corns

For a few cents you can get a quarter ounce of the magic drug Freestone recently discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. Apply a few drops of this Freestone upon a tender, aching corn or callus and instantly, yes, immediately, all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you lift it out, root and all, with the fingers. Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying Freestone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on the bottom of feet, just seem to shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. It is almost magical.

ALONG THE RIVER

About forty people got off the steamer Osborne at Public Landing on Saturday evening. This simple statement will convey some idea of the number of people landed by all the up-going steamers at all the various points between the Point and Wickham, on the eve of the national holiday. Every spot, and they are all attractive, had its quota of people eager to enjoy Sunday and Monday amid the summer charms of the lovely valley, through which the broad river flows in tranquil majesty or answers the challenge of the winds with tossing waves.

Both Sunday and Monday were delightful summer days, not too warm for comfort. Monday's excursions greatly increased the number of visitors at all the various points. The first day of the season was announced for Saturday evening at the pretty pavilion at the Landing, in which a piano has been placed, but the opening attendance was small.

The immigrant who fought the mosquitoes bravely until darkness fell and the fireflies came out, and then gave up in despair because the enemy were after him with lanterns, would have had a hard fight with great numbers of light-makers set out in great numbers in the meadows.

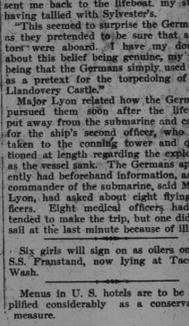

Yesterday's rain was welcomed by the farmers and gardeners, as there has not been enough moisture for sturdy growth of crops. The grass crop will be lighter than was anticipated. Garden crops are looking well, however, and the war-gardeners have much to do. There may be beans to be hoed and poled, rows of vegetables to be thinned, potatoes to be treated with Bordeaux mixture, and arsenate of lead, weeds to be removed, and other things to do that are quite different from the city man's ordinary avocation. But there is also restful sleep in the darkness and silence of the night, and the birds are there to herald the freshness of the morning.

$2,000,000,000 of the third Liberty Loan changed hands the first day it was quoted on the New York Exchange at prices ranging from 98.40 to 99.10.

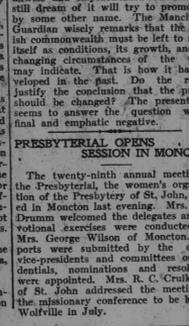

Free transportation for all U. S. troops on furlough is the object of a bill introduced at Washington by Rep. Mott, of New York.

Leaders In The Air Fighting
Some of Those To Whom War Brought Fame
Of All Nationalities
Credit Given to German as Well as Allied Aviators—A Canadian Ranks With the Best

In the London Aeroplane C. G. Grey, editor, writes interestingly about some of the greatest flying men of the war, and explains how they won renown. The list to attract international attention was Roland Garros, not because of his particular exploits, because he was brought down and made prisoner before he could run up a big score, but because of his daring and the great fame he enjoyed as a birdman in the days of peace. Then came the first of the great German flyers, the man who made the world famous, whether the Fokker made immensum famous or the pilot made the machine famous at a most point. From the point of view of the expert designer of flying machines, the Fokker was more or less a joke, but it was admirably adapted for its own purpose, and had advantages over British machines that helped the Germans for some time to claim mastery of the air. The Fokker was light, and it had good engine, and as a defence machine was swift and beat.

FRENCH NEWSPAPERS DEMAND REPRISALS
Want German Cities Bombed in Retaliation
Paris, June 29.—Reprisals against German cities are demanded by the French press, as a result of the raids on Paris, the Fokker Partisan demanding that the cities of Cologne, Coblenz and Frankfurt be made special objects of attack. The newspaper recommends that the control of airplane bombardments of German cities be placed in the hands of an independent body.

relection that he had done his bit, and done it with a chivalry that is rare among Germans. So much has been written about Guyener, the French ace, whose name will never be forgotten, and whose single-handed exploits have never been surpassed, that no tribute to his skill and bravery is needed. He flew, apparently by instinct, like a bird. Nor does Capt. Ball stand in the front rank of the war as a pilot. He looked after his plane, and the British supremacy of the air in 1916. He loved to go off alone, scouting over the German lines, looking for adventure, and whether the combatants far behind him made no difference to Ball. When he fell it was in a great battle against Hawker and Bishop. Equally gallant, but of a different mental type was Major Hewaker, an engineering officer who was learning to fly, when war broke out. He was the first British flying man to win the V. C. a soldier of rare gifts as a leader and administrator and inventor of new "stunts." His fighting abilities and his knack of training and inspiring those under him had much to do with the British supremacy of the air in 1916. He died in a duel with Richthofen, when a great wind tore the combatants far behind the German lines, and Hawker had the option of landing and surrendering or fighting to a finish. He chose the latter course. Major Bishop, the great Canadian ace, is to be reckoned among the best of the British flyers. His nerve and his mastery of machine guns—in the latter respect he is not surpassed. If, indeed, he is equalled, by any man who ever drove a plane—are his chief characteristics. He has won all the British honors bestowed on Ball and Hawker, and he survives as the commander of a squadron to add new laurels to his magnificent record.

Boys At Front Put on "Show"
Reality of "Girls" Who Take Part In Behind-the-Lines Drama
Crowded by Soldiers—Talented Actors Lighten the Hours of Canadian Soldiers Out of Trenches
(By Lacey Amy, Special Correspondent of the Toronto Globe)
London, June 2.—The curtain rose to the sudden stilling of the movement and bustle of a crowded auditorium. And into the centre of the stage gracefully glided a beautiful girl, extremely well groomed. The oval of her face was set off by the wide sweep of a large black hat that dropped languorously to one side. The carmine of her lips, the happy blending of white and pink on her cheeks, the ebony of her brows and lashes, were applied with the effective care which considers the front seats as well as the rear. The sinuous movements of feminine pose and balance, the slender lines of hands and feet, the clear and flexible voice, the sly wink of a practiced eye, the drooping tilt of the hat, one uncertain smile that struggled to claim its own—no wonder more than one soldier forgot for the moment the girl he had left behind.

Out before he stretched a packed hall. Not only was every seat occupied—had been booked, indeed, the day before—but the aisles were lined three deep. Ten boxes, ranged on either hand, were as well filled as the cheapest sections behind. And every seat was crowned by a welcoming face that would thrill the heart of any actress and inspire her to efforts which make reputation. A cheer went up, a laughing, gladsome greeting, and a thousand hands expressed themselves.

Giuses of Appreciation.
She stood there behind the footlights smiling pleasantly down on them, waiting for the orchestra to conclude the prelude. Once she shifted her eyes to an upper box, and as if in a burst of spontaneity, blew a kiss from her shapely fingers—and flushed a bit, perhaps. And then her sweet, true voice broke into the telephone song from "Zig-Zag."

the show, and on every face was a glow of anticipation that came to those who have forgotten what came in pleasure.
The two things that struck me most were this common smile and the unceasing cheer and interest. For a soldier's cap is a stationary part of his uniform. I have seen them with heads covered in restaurants and theatres, and halls. But every man, when he entered the door of the Division Show removed his cap. This was their show; their venture into the realm of society, and they acknowledged it instinctively. And never has a better order prevailed in a London theatre. There was no talking except to one's neighbor, no shouting or "jollity," as one would expect where fellow-soldiers monopolize the gathering.

It was the last night of my visit near the front lines, my last memory of war. That it should be so was accidental, but now I am glad, for it keeps before me the bright spots in the life of the Canadian boys who have offered themselves for the Empire. An evening of the cleanest, completest pleasure—and perhaps tomorrow into the trenches. It is part of the vagaries of war.
