CAMPAIN FRUITFUL

Giant Fire Crackers Cause of Death in the Greater Number of the Cases—Chicago Band Master, Welding Baton, Falls Dead

(Canadian Press) Chicago, July 5.—Thirteen deaths from the old fashion celebration of the fourth of July was the total reported in the United States according to figures compiled by the Chicago Tribune last night.

The nationwide spread of the same fourth movement brought fruit in the smallest number of celebration casualties ever recorded. In nearly every city where the use of explosives by individuals was prohibited, no accidents were reported. In others, where the discharge of explosives was permitted under limitations, there was decided falling off in the number of dead and injured as compared with the previous years.

The death list of thirteen compares with twenty-eight reported the first night of last year's celebration, when the same fourth movement was effective in fewer cities. The number of injured reported in 24, as against 1,785 reported up to the same hour last year. In 1909 there were 44 killed and 8,901 wounded. Giant fire crackers took the lead in the number of fatalities causing five of thirteen deaths. Revolvers and fire arms were second with four, gunpowder caused two and the top pistols formerly the chief death agents, caused two deaths.

The holiday generally was celebrated with parades, speeches, concerts and displays of fireworks under municipal regulations. Chicago, Ill., July 5.—While his band was playing the Star Spangled Banner, C. Frederick Kellogg, the leader, prominent in Chicago musical circles, dropped dead at 31st street, a suburb, yesterday from heat prostration during the observance of a "same fourth."

Wolgast and Moran San Francisco, Cal., July 5.—The measured swing of referee Welch's arm tolling off the ten seconds over the writhing body of Owen Moran of England, brought victory to Ad Wolgast in the 13th round of yesterday's international battle for the lightweight championship. It was a clean knockout and the decisive victory was earned by the rugged strength and punishing power of the champion.

Right uppercut to the stomach, followed by a left hook to the jaw, forced the game little English fighter to take the count for the first time in his eleven years in the ring. Moran came up undistressed for the unlucky 13th round, although his plain he was tiring. Wolgast met him with a well timed rush and forced his way to close quarters. Moran checked

La MARQUISE de FONTENOY

New Premier of France Unpopular Because of Putting on Taxes—Son of Noted Engineer—King George's Descent From High King of Ancient Ireland

(Copyrighted, 1911, by the Brentwood Company.)
France's new premier, Joseph Caillaux, is one of the most unpopular men in the country. He is unpopular because of his skill in devising new taxes and his skill in the private life of the citizens. He is unpopular because of his skill in the management of the income tax system, which is resented as an iniquitous intrusion into the private life of the citizen. Some time ago, when he was minister of finance in the Clemenceau administration, he created a great outcry by proposing that fox, deer and bear hounds should pay a heavy tax, in addition to the ordinary dog tax.

The uproar raised by this proposal was enormous, when the fact is borne in mind that there are only about 150 packs of hounds left for hunting purposes in France. Hunts, however, are regarded as aristocratic. It is considered almost essential for a gentleman to be able to hunt, and, to intelligently interested in that particular form of sport.

The Marquis de Laigle, who with regard to hunting in France, enjoys much the same pre-eminence that is held by Lord Lansdale in England, called upon Minister Caillaux in the name of the St. Hubert Club, of the Jockey Club, and of the leading horse-breeding associations to inform him that the proposed tax would absolutely do away with hunting in France, since the owners of every one of the packs of hounds had decided to get rid of their hounds if the tax became law. He pointed out to the minister, moreover, that whereas the income tax would bring in a relatively small sum, the loss to the allied interests would amount to something like $10,000,000 a year, since the abolition of hunting would mean the discharge of all the servants employed in connection with the hunt, and losses to horse dealers, horse shoers, tailors, boot-makers, blacksmiths, saddlers, liveries, stables, etc.

These arguments, eloquently submitted to Minister Caillaux proved effective, for the minister, realising that if the packs of hounds were abolished as threatened by the marquis, there would be no hounds left to tax, abandoned all project, and the future of hunting was saved from extinction in France.

The interest between the marquis and the statesman must have been entertaining, for it is difficult to conceive a greater contrast than that which exists between the new premier, who is an expert financier of the French re-appeal order, blended with a professional knowledge of political science, and Robert de Laigle, who was secretary of the embassy in London and who, during the last ten years of the Napoleonic empire, who is married to a daughter of the historic house of de Colbert, and who, in the old school, leads at his chateau of Fontenoy, near Compiègne, the life of a great territorial magnate, devoted to the art of horse breeding, his other pastimes consisting of water-color painting and the collection of rare books.

SON OF NOTED ENGINEER

Caillaux is a son of the engineer of the same name, who with the Belgian, De Gansmont, first conceived the idea of constructing a tunnel beneath the channel between Calais and Dover, and drew Sir South Eastern Railroad, running from London to Dover, into adopting their plan. The tunnel would have become an accomplished fact at the time had it not been for the opposition of the English military authorities, who declared that the existence of the tunnel would imperil England's means of military defence, and parliament declined to give its sanction to the scheme.

Premier Caillaux has a certain likeness to the late Duc de Morny, and rather cultivates the resemblance by affecting what he imagines to be the manner of the famous son of Napoleon III. It is owing to this rather than to any disposition of the government, announced in the past, that he conveys the impression of a former vicar or ex-actor. He is happily married to a very rich and charming widow, whose large fortune renders him wholly independent of the emoluments of office and also of any danger of having to restrict his income to the amount of his income tax liability.

It is curious that Caillaux's advent to power as premier, should have followed the other day by Prince Victor Napoleon, after a long period of silence—a manifesto in which he states that "France would not tolerate a master, but wishes a leader," and, disclaiming all dynastic rights, insists that "the very name of Napoleon stands for the sovereignty of the nation, the equality of liberty of conscience, and the universal suffrage, for Prince Napoleon soon two years ago came out in the most flat-footed way against the proposal to introduce the income tax into France, as a hateful and intolerable violation of the privacy of the citizen, and

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTE CAMERON

HE is usually as well dressed as any woman she is with. And yet everybody knows she has far less meant than most of her companions.

Her plan of action is to buy very nice, though simple things and then keep them looking well about twice as long as the average woman. Everybody wonders how she accomplishes this. Here are some of the minutiae of the trick explained to one wanderer.

"In the first place, I never buy anything that is cheap or shoddy or extreme in any way. I am willing to pay well for good lines and good materials. If necessary, I economize on trimmings. Consequently, my things will always be all right for three or four seasons if I keep them well."

"I always have on hand in summer a plain sailor hat, which I can wear in stormy or even damp or threatening weather. Such a hat will last me three or four seasons, and the saving to my nice hair is incalculable."

"In winter I have a felt sailor for the same purpose. It always has a good looking rain coat and wears it when old faster than wetting it. A suit that is never worn or caught in a storm will look well just about twice as long as one that has had several such experiences."

"I always keep two or three pairs of shoes going and keep those not in use on shoe-trees. You know one pair of shoes worn constantly will go to pieces much more quickly because they never get a chance to get rid of the animal heat which rots the leather."

"I also change my stockings at least three or four times a week. They wear longer that way."

"I have a full set of skirt and coat hangers and keep all my gowns and suits on them when not in use."

"I never take off a hat without brushing it thoroughly with a stiff hair brush. I polish my shoes at least three times a week. You know that softens and preserves the leather and keeps them looking well."

"I keep a pair of storm shoes and try never to get my good shoes wet. 'Don't all this take a lot of time and planning?'"

"But was ever anything worth while accomplished without some outlook? I can't spend as much money as my friends, so I try to make it up in time and thought in the things I do. My extra pocket money is the price of being well dressed. I pay the former."

MANY MORE DEATHS DUE TO THE HEAT

Twenty-Four in Two Days in Philadelphia—Nine Drownings on Tuesday in New York

Philadelphia, Pa., July 4.—Nine additional deaths from heat were reported at the coroner's office today, making a total of 24 deaths within the past two days. The maximum temperature here today was 93 degrees which was reached at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

New York, July 4.—The cumulative effect of three days of the hottest weather in the city has experienced in years, manifested itself today in a list of twenty deaths attributed to the heat. Prostrations were easily counted by the score and nine drownings were reported during the day.

While an automobile was coming into town at a rapid pace during the storm last night it ran over a man at Charlesburg and broke his back and one of his legs in two places. There were five occupants in the machine at the time.

Ottawa, July 4.—Ottawa today is experiencing but slight surcease from the torrid conditions of the past three days. At noon the thermometer registered 88 in the shade with practically no breeze blowing. Work on many buildings is at a standstill and a number of firms have had to suspend heavy transportation operations.

An infant child was found dead in the carriage last night in Chicago, July 4.—Chicago was the hottest city with two exceptions in the history of the local weather bureau, the thermometer at 11 p. m. indicating 10.5 degrees. The exceptions were in July of 1903 when a mark of 102 degrees was followed the next day by one of 103 degrees.

Boston, July 4.—In sight of many people Anna H. White, 16 years old, of 7 Farrington street, Chelsea, and Sarah Gurdette, 15, who lived in the rear of 84 Lincoln street, Brighton, were drowned yesterday afternoon while bathing opposite the starting line of the Charles River speedway in Brighton.

I should be the last person to complain if I found the Imperial conference, if the resolution at which it arrives, if it forms it endeavours to set up, are illogical and in accordance with the known law. The British Empire was not built up by force and it is not to be free of the Imperial idea that it will be undermined.

"Great and Substantial"
To my mind, the progress marked in this conference in the Imperial idea is great and substantial. Contrast this present time with those of a few years ago. At that time it was a small departmental committee summoned by the Colonial Office from different parts of the Empire, to sit in secrecy and consult on all sorts of subjects of which the public knew really nothing. Now it is an Imperial gathering, over which the Prime Minister himself presides, and in which the most distinguished statesmen, naturalization, immigration, cables, and post, but it is not even known whether it ought to come out at any rate, you have something very much like an Imperial Cabinet, a cabinet of Imperial statesmen, sitting in temporary session, and conducting themselves with dignity, with mutual sympathy and forbearance, and with a successful attempt to reconcile the spirit of autonomy and nationalism with the broader conception of Imperial unity.

The school record of Alys E. Kelley of Rockland, Mass., who has not been absent or tardy for 13 years, the whole time she has been going to school, is thought to be without parallel in the state.

COMMISSIONER GREAT SUCCESS IN SPOKANE

Three Months Trial Has Convinced Opponents That Administration is the Best Ever Had

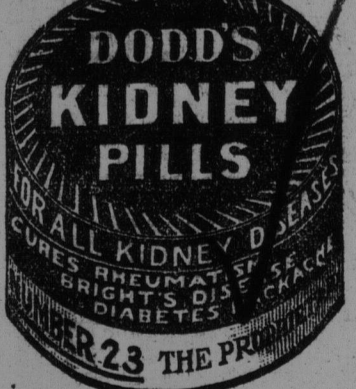

Spokane, Wash., July 3.—Three months' trial of the commission form of government in Spokane has convinced many, including the severest critics of the plan, that the history of Great Britain, conducted with greater efficiency, economy and dispatch than under any administration since the incorporation of the city in 1881. Many wastes have been stopped, numerous abuses have now been corrected, and modern methods have been employed in all the departments. The business of the city is conducted in the same manner in which a successful merchant or manufacturer operates his store or factory plant.

Bolter Fairley, commissioner of finance, says that, while there is nothing certain yet relative to a reduction of taxes, he has received 100 cents' worth of work for every dollar expended by the commission. Commissioner Fairley has received requests from more than 100 cities in various parts of the country for copies of the Spokane charter.

Daily Hints For the Cook

TOMATO SALAD
You may make this in half a dozen ways. The simplest way is to peel the tomatoes with a keen knife, then slice and arrange upon a dish, with an underlying lettuce or without, and season with fresh dressing. Secondly, peel and halve, arrange upon a dish and put a spoonful of mayonnaise upon each half. Thirdly, peel and halve rich, ripe tomatoes, sprinkle lightly with salt, and lay upon each half a spoonful of whipped cream.

BAKED TOMATOES.
Get tomatoes of uniform size. Cut off tops and scoop out a portion of the pulp. Butter a pudding dish and put the tomatoes in this. Fill tops of the tomatoes with bread crumbs, plenty of butter, a little sugar, and pepper and salt. Put pieces of butter, sugar, and bread crumbs in spaces between the tomatoes as they lie in the dish. Put in oven and bake a nice brown. When done, put baking dish with the tomatoes on top of stove, pour three-fourths of a cup of cream over them and let boil up once or twice. In this way they are simply delicious.

IMMIGRATION FIGURES SHOW GREAT TOTAL

C. P. R. Carried 110,000 Westward Since Middle Of March

CANADA MILLIONS RICHER

Estimated That Newcomers Average $300 Each in Cash and Effects—Fully 85 Per Cent Were From British Isles—Mostly Through St. John

Montreal, July 5.—A little forecast of the enormous increase in population that may be expected to be revealed when the census figures are finally made public, is given out by the C. P. R. Company in the statement that since the first of March last their immigration traffic from St. John and Quebec, westward, has reached the stupendous total of 110,000 souls.

While at the beginning of the year it was expected that all immigration records would be broken, it was hardly expected that the increase in traffic would be so great. However, the big advertising campaign that was carried on by the company last fall and winter, has borne wonderful fruit, and this year's record will be hard to beat for some time to come.

Compared with the figures for 1910, new figures are astonishing, though the increase over last year is not so marked, the difference being only about 15,000. In 1910 the total immigration for the three spring months and June was only 46,000 passengers, making an increase this year of nearly 120 per cent, or 64,000 people.

The establishing of this record was not due so much to the traffic for June as for that of the three previous months. Though the traffic generally starts about the end of January, it is never particularly heavy until the middle of March, increasing daily throughout April and May, and falling off again in July and August. This year's figures for June were 20,000 and for April 32,000, the latter compared with only 10,000 in April, 1910. The advance for May was even greater, the total being 34,000, and for March 24,000. Most of these 110,000 immigrants, in fact, fully eighty-five per cent, were natives of the British Isles, while Scandinavians, Poles, Germans and Galicians made up the remaining 15 per cent, and as most of these are settling along the lines of the C. P. R., they are doing their share towards building up a traffic producing country for that company. One fact that has been very noticeable about the new citizens is that they all seem to be fairly well-to-do. They were dressed neatly and comfortably, and paid all their travelling bills with ready cash. In fact, one authority states that the newcomers would average in cash and personal property at least $300 each, in which case they would have brought with them to this country about $33,000,000.

Itching Scalp Falling Hair

To prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove dandruff, itchy itching and irritation of the scalp, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, frequent shampoos with Cuticura Soap, assisted by occasional dressings with Cuticura Ointment, succeed when other methods fail.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment have been equally effective in the treatment of itching, disfiguring scalp humors and the alarming loss of hair which so often results.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER AND LORD STRATHCONA

Wonderful Pair at Unveiling of Federation Tablet in London—Foreigners Gave Address That Was Full of Vigor

(Times Staff Correspondence) London, June 30.—The Canadians the most notable of the many notable functions of the last week has been the unveiling of the tablet commemorating the conception of the constitution of Canada as an autonomous unit of the empire, in the identical room in Westminster Palace Hotel, where difficulties which seemed at the time insuperable were smoothed over successfully.

Gathered round Sir Wilfrid were the premiers of three provinces, not thought of when Sir Charles Tupper and his colleagues were laying the foundations of that overseas dominion, which in this coronation year grows to its fortieth anniversary since 1867, monopolizing the attention of the bulk of the population of the motherland, and contains the majority of their happily settled kin overseas.

"This meant also was worth coming over for," it has given me a deeper impression of what the men of my generation owe to the father of confederations; they have become a reality and an inspiration to me," said one of the visitors at the close of the remarkable speech made by the last survivor of the men who built better than they knew.

Poverty is the only luxury that the rich man can't afford.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Budget of News Concerning Stage Favorites Known to St. John Audiences.

Mrs. Melba a short while ago sounded a plea for the use of better spoken English, and in Musical America in a late issue in an article by an artist well known in St. John, David Blagman. He has written in part as follows:—

"On every side one notices how slovenly Americans are in speaking. How many study to speak intelligently and masterfully, but with the exception of a few, they refer to our college and university men. Who should speak well it is not the alumni of our American institutions of highest learning? However, they do not. Their language is, far too often, the slang of the baseball or of the football field or of the racetrack. Sometimes it is hardly intelligible to a listener who is truly educated."

"We are taking in so many foreigners and assimilating their errors so rapidly that we need to work to keep our language up to the highest standard. Every effort in that direction is commendable. Tone production, enunciation and inflection are almost unknown quantities to the average American. The consequence is a deadly monotony of sound in the speaking voices of Americans. It is joyless. There is no color, no enthusiasm, no feeling in it."

George Bronson-Howard, author of "Scotch" a play in which Frank McIntyre will make his debut as a star at the Hudson Theatre Monday, September 4, was in London reporting the coronation for syndicate of American newspapers. Mr. Howard will return on August 1 to be present at the coronation of his play.

Elsie Ferguson, who will star this coming season in "Dolly Madison," Charles Niddinger's comedy, will return from abroad in August to begin preparations for next season's work. While in Europe she has been visiting the theatre with the idea of securing a play to see her for the season following that.

ONE METHOD OF MAKING BIRDSEY PHOTOGRAPHS

One method of making birdseye photographs is by the use of a "gun camera" which is shot several feet into the air from the top of a standard in the base which is an explosion chamber. The camera is set to explode from one to 100 yards above the explosion, when it reaches its full height. It must be caught in a net when it comes down to prevent it from being smashed.

Sussex, N. B., July 4.—The second camp for this year opened today with a schooling and officers and men of the different regiments did their work with streamy faces.

THE HARNESS HORSE AND POOL SELLING

Racing Not Greatly Affected by Abolition of This Betting

Breeding and Industrial Interests Are Declared Benefited—Statistics Show Wide Interest in Trotting and Pacing—An Article of Interest

(By Palmer L. Clark)

The suspension of thoroughbred racing at the several metropolitan centres has been a severe blow to that interest, and while the sundry and several state laws prohibiting all attendant features of betting may, on the face of things, seem to have relegated the "king of sports" to the discard, a sane review of all the conditions, such as prevailed as to demand the curtailment of certain predatory interests, demands popular acclaim of the present prohibitive statutes which, though seemingly drastic, will in good time prove the salvation of legitimate racing.

Thoroughbred racing will endure and with the management of the sport once again in the control of men, to whom the thoroughbred horse is the product of generations of interested heredity rather than a machine of chance, the classic events of the running turf, around which are clustered the halo of tradition and sentiment, will be renewed, and the racing glories of Ascot, of Derby, of Longchamps and of Melbourne will be revived.

Though the thoroughbred interests have been buffeted by adverse legislation and their promoters and their devotees have been driven from pillar to post, the light harness horse—the trotter and the pacer—has pursued the even tenor of its course and has in no manner been affected by the ban imposed upon the betting ring.

Races conducted in a fair and sane manner and solely to the fact that the managers of harness racing have ever considered the horse as the only incident to their racing programme and have not viewed it as a source of principal revenue.

On account of the glamour of the running track, the sulky brigade has never come into the picture, and where the thoroughbred was so greatly in evidence, but with the elimination of the horse the trotter is gradually receiving merited recognition not only where the thoroughbred once reigned supreme, but in every city, town and hamlet from coast to coast and from the Canadian wilds to the gulf.

REPORT MISSING GIRL IN MONCTON HOTEL YESTERDAY

Story Not Confirmed—A Description of Maggie Beckwith Who Disappeared Last Week

The disappearance of Maggie Beckwith, of Gardiner's Creek, is a source of deep worry to her sister, Miss Lilian Beckwith, who is employed in the city, and who has had no word from her to relieve the intense anxiety caused by her unexplained absence from home. To a Times reporter this morning Miss Beckwith said she was unable to throw any light on her sister's disappearance.

"Maggie came here on Friday with father," she said, "from home. That is at Gardiner's Creek, and we've heard nothing more of her since that day. I haven't the slightest idea where she has gone, nor can I account for her going. There was no reason why she should have left home. She and father drove to the city and she helped him dispose of some produce in the market. A little later she disappeared. So far as is known there are no relatives in the province to whom she might have gone. She had about $25 in her possession when she was last seen."

John Warren, an employe of M. A. H. Gallagher of this city arrived home from Moncton this morning. While in Moncton he happened to be in the Riverside Hotel, and says that yesterday he saw a young girl, answering the description of the Beckwith girl, sitting at the dinner table in company with a man. Mr. Warren saw the picture of the girl in the Telegraph and is almost positive that the girl he saw is the Beckwith girl.

The Times was in communication with the Riverside Hotel on the long distance telephone this afternoon, but it was said that no girl answering the description of the Beckwith girl had been there yesterday.

According to the description given by the local police the girl has a peculiar habit of walking along the street, looking down at the ground and laughing.
