GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS

Sir Charles Dilks is a widower who was narried to an Irish lady of great beauty and sterling accomplishments. He was profoundly attached to her. She died in the child-birth of her first child. Dilke has since her death suffered from a grief so profound that many of his friends thought his reason would become unhinged. He used to be seen wandering by night around the railings of the park which is opposite his house, hatless raving, hysteric. His grief was intensified, perhaps by the fact that he could not visit r grave. She was a woman of strong mind and advanced opinions, and she left it as a solemn testament that her body should be cremated. Cremation was llegal in England and her body had to place. The boy survived the mother, and Chamberlain has brought up the lad with his own children.

Scarcely a family exists but that some member is suffering with bad blood and poisoned secretions from constipation, giving rise to Rheumatism, Scrofula, Eruptions, Catarrh and other complaints inducating lurking blood poison which a few bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters would eradicate from the system.
