PARK DIRECTORS FIRM. Will Probably Persist in Intention to

At the meeting of the Horticultura Association this afternoon a commit-tee from the Evangelical Alliance will lay before the association the protest of the alliance against the Sunday opening of the park restaurant. The protest will be backed by petitions from nearly every church in the city. Irom its purpose, one of the directors saying yesterday that there was little likelihood of any change being made in the intentions of the board.

James Reynolds, the secretary of the board of directors, characterized the cutcry against the Sunday opening as absurd. He said that it was "very hard if a men." It does not seem as if the action of the churches will turn the association absurd. He said that it was "very hard if a man could not give his children an orange or a piece of candy on the only day that he had a chance of the only day that he had a chance of having the children about him.

"The matter was placed in the hands of men of which any community might be proud, men who had given thousands of dollars for the park and who were, moreover, upright men."

Mr. Reynolds "did not suppose that those who had signed the petitions had given a cent towards getting the park for the city. Not that he wished a man to be allowed to break the Sabbath on account of the gift of any
