THE GRANITE TOWN GREETINGS

A Real Lung Tonic

Rev. Father Morrissey

"Father Morrissey's No. 10"

There are many preparations that will relieve a cough—few that will cure it. The first class, containing such drugs as Opium and Morphine, simply deaden the irritation and stop the cough, but do little or no permanent good.

This does not contain a trace of these dangerous drugs, but is an absolutely safe and scientific preparation of Nature's own remedies—Herbs, Roots and Balsams. It entirely removes the irritation that caused the cough, by cleaning out the mucus, stopping the inflammation and healing the delicate membrane of throat and lungs. Moreover, it tones up and strengthens the whole system, particularly the lungs, and protects against future coughs and colds.

Trial size 25c. per bottle. Regular size 50c. At your dealer's. 23

Consumption

ITS CAUSES, TREATMENT AND PREVENTION

From a Layman's Point of View

For many reasons an attempt should be made to cure the patient at or near his own home. "Home-sickness," a malady that often baffles the skill of the physician, frequently hastens the death of the consumptive. Then there is to be considered the fatigue of a journey to a distant place, the lack of home comforts there, the removal from home associations, all of which tend to handicap the best efforts made to cure the patient. And last but not least, the expense. For the wealthy patient who can be surrounded by his relatives and friends wherever he goes, a change of climate may be desirable; for the poor patient—and consumption is often a disease of the poor—a change of climate frequently hastens an unfavorable termination of his disease.

If you change climate, endeavor to do so as soon as practicable after you have learned that you have the disease. After destructive changes have progressed in the lung, so that "cavities" have been formed, or if haemorrhages have taken place, you should exercise great care in leaving home, particularly if there be any marked fever. A few weeks' rest in bed at home, in the open air, may be necessary before starting on the journey. In such cases it may be best not to go at all.

Before changing climate, obtain competent medical assurance that the change will be beneficial. A climate or altitude which is suitable for one consumptive may cause the speedy death of another. An extremely hot climate is often not only more exhausting but more dangerous to the consumptive than an extremely cold climate. Dr. Paul H. Carrington, speaking in 1904, before the International Congress of Military Surgeons at St. Louis, said: "The sending of consumptive patients indiscriminately to great altitudes has caused the deaths of hundreds who, under judicious treatment would have recovered." Surgeon Carrington is in charge of the United States government sanatorium at Fort Stanton, N. M., and has made a careful study of consumptive cases.

Must a consumptive abandon hope if he cannot gain admission to a sanatorium? Certainly not. He can turn his own house into a sanatorium by spending his entire day in the garden, resting from work and eating plentifully, and keeping his bedroom windows wide open during day and night.

THE HYGIENE OF THE SICK ROOM

Consumption is a house disease. It is a disease which is produced by residence in houses. The germs which cause it thrive in the quarters of houses where sunlight and fresh air are often excluded. It is in the house that con-

a good board floor, well raised from the ground. Or a wide porch on the house, with an eastern or southern exposure, can be utilized as a sleeping and living room during nights or unpleasant weather. In the day-time the patient should remain outdoors continually, if possible. The porch can be boarded in at the bottom, and fitted with window glass, which should be so arranged as to permit free entrance of air. In the summer time the porch can be enclosed with wire screen painted white, which permits the free entrance of air and excludes flies, mosquitoes and the vision of the curious.

As already stated, the consumptive is in himself almost harmless. He becomes harmful usually through bad habits, such as spitting. He becomes harmful also through coughing, a symptom of the disease which the consumptive cannot control. Fine particles of saliva are often expelled in coughing, and these, being thrown some distance from the patient, become a very potent means of infection unless extraordinary precautions are taken.

Frequently when the patient is bed-ridden, and especially during the last few weeks of life, he is totally unable to prevent the spread of infection, and it is often impossible for the attendant to do so. It is necessary, therefore, to constantly clean everything which may become soiled: the bed clothes, clothing of the patient, the floor, the furniture and the walls. A pail or tub of Standard Disinfectant No. 3 should be kept in the sick room and in this all clothing, towels, blankets, sheets, etc., used about the patient or in the room, should be dropped immediately after being used and before being removed from the room. They should be well boiled as soon as it is practicable. Rags, toilet paper, or other material used about the person of the patient should be immediately burned. Standard Disinfectant No. 3 may be also used to clean the wood-work, floors, walls, etc.

In the room the sputum should be received in a spit cup or spittoon containing a disinfectant fluid. For patients not able to sit up, a small spit cup should be emptied daily into the water closet, not in the yard. If the cloths or handkerchiefs are used, they should be immediately burned. Boxes filled with sand or sawdust should not be used.

The floor, wood-work and furniture of the room should be wiped with a damp cloth and not dusted. A feather duster should never be used. When necessary to sweep, use a broom dampened with a disinfectant solution.

If death should occur the body must be wrapped in a sheet thoroughly soaked with Standard Disinfectant No. 3, and placed in an air-tight coffin, which must remain in the sick room until removed for burial. Public funerals, and wakes over such bodies in the infected house, should not be held.

DISINFECTION

After recovery or death all articles worn by, or that come in contact with the patient, together with the room and all its contents, should be thoroughly disinfected, in the following manner:—

(a) Paste strips or sheets of paper over the key holes, window cracks, door cracks, fire places, pipe holes, and other openings except the door of egress. Have all windows and doors shut. See that all chimney flues and fire places are tightly closed.

(b) All articles in the room that cannot be washed must be spread out on chairs or racks. Clothing, bed covers, &c., should be hung on lines stretched across the room. Mattresses should be opened and set on edge. Window shades and curtains should be spread out full length. If there is a trunk or chest in the room open it, but let nothing stay in it. Open the pillows, so that the fumes can reach the feathers. Do not pile articles together.

(c) Use the free sprinkling or spraying of formalin (40 per cent solution of formaldehyde) on streets suspended by so-called closed compartments, 10 ounces per 1,000 cubic feet. One

CHASE and SANBORN MONTREAL

A Startling Revelation

The friends of Miss Mary McKenzie of London, were astonished to hear that she had gone into consumption.

This sad intelligence came as a shock to Miss McKenzie's many friends. In the early fall she contracted a heavy cold which developed rapidly into Catarrh, and finally made such rapid advances that the bronchial tubes and lungs became affected. Although the doctors said nothing short of a change of residence to the south would benefit, on the advice of a Dundas Street druggist Miss McKenzie decided to thoroughly test Catarrhazone, which is warranted to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs, and bronchial tubes.

Miss McKenzie says: "After my druggist had recommended Catarrhazone I spoke to my friends about it and they all said it was such a good remedy that I commenced forthwith to inhale it five or six times each day. I breathed it deeply into my lungs and felt its beneficial action very quickly. It seemed to go where other remedies did not reach, and was so pleasant and convenient that I did not mind using it very frequently which, probably was the cause of its curing my obstinate case so quickly. Certainly no case of Catarrh or Bronchitis should go uncured if the sufferer can get Catarrhazone, which is a sovereign remedy, worthy of the highest recommendations."

Miss McKenzie's case needs no enlargement. She was in a critical condition, apparently beyond the aid of doctors' medicines. Catarrhazone has cured her, and others in her condition should no longer experiment with uncertain, untried treatments, but should turn at once to catarrhazone, and in it they will find relief and cure unobtainable by other means. Remember the name, Catarrhazone. Complete outfit guaranteed to cure. Price $1.00. Small size 50 cents. Druggists or G. Pollock & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Strange Good Friday Custom

In Munich and Vienna the churches on Good Friday are the scene of a very striking picture of the burial of Christ. A figure of the Saviour is carried in state around the church in the altar, where is a sepulcher, to which access through an opening formed by artificial rocks awaits it. The windows are darkened, and through the gloom the eyes of thousands of awed worshippers are drawn to the tomb, where a solitary light illumines the white pallid figure of the crucified Christ. In some parts of Austria large processions parade the streets, headed by priests riding on horses and bearing banners, with an escort of white robed choristers chanting hymns, and in Bavaria the peasants form processions, hundreds, sometimes thousands, strong, headed by a man bearing a gigantic candle.

Easter in Russia

Throughout Russia the Easter ceremonies are impressive because of many solemn details. Thus on the midnight preceding Easter the priests leave the church, as if going out to seek the body of the dead Lord. The congregation wait in the sanctuary with bowed heads, in silence and in darkness. Then the listening multitude is aroused by ponderous knockings on the door of the church. The priests have returned, and as the doors swing open a great chorus of voices fills the air with the chant, "Christ is risen!" The priests file in with upturned faces and singing lips, each bearing a lighted taper. Fire is quickly communicated to the candles of the supplicating throng. In a twinkling the church is ablaze with light and incense, where only darkness and silence had been before.

A NEW POST OFFICE

We are pleased to learn that a strong effort is about to be made to procure for St. George a federal building in which to locate our post office and the custom departments. Such a building has been long needed in this place both on account of the large amount of business which is done in the post office and of the very inadequate accommodations we now have for the distribution of our mail. The business in connection with the post office, has been steadily increasing for years. We understand that every month shows a marked increase over the one preceding, and now with the new pension scheme, which has been recently launched by the government, there will be much more work for this department of the public service, and consequently an increase in revenue. At the present time the St. George office is a distributing centre for the mail of a community possessing a population of over 4000 people. This office is also the only Government Savings Bank in the province of New Brunswick. When we take all the above facts into consideration we have no hesitation in saying our case is strong and one which should appeal to the Government. Efforts have been made for such a public building often before, but circumstances were strongly against us, from the fact that our representative was not in line with the Government. At last fortune has smiled upon us, and we are in accord with the government. So with the representative on the floor of the House of Commons, a St. George man in the Senate, the minister of public works from the province of New Brunswick, it would seem that the psychological moment had come and now the people of St. George, one and all, should make every effort to bring about this long wished for consummation.

CANADA AND ITS FISHERIES

To most inland people fishing suggests a holiday outing spent along a "habbling brook" beside a meandering river or in the bosom of a placid lake. A well-fitted lunch basket always forms part of the picture, and the sequel of that day's sport is stories of the "big ones" that were lost. But with fisheries it is a different matter. There is something utilitarian about the word, something corresponding profits. Among the many blue books issued by our Federal Government there is one of fair size bearing on its cover the word Fisheries; and the contents of the book fills all that might be expected of it, for it tells of the great harvest gathered each year from the coast and inland waters of the Dominion—gathered where no man has sown and renewed year by year by the unaided efforts of nature.

According to the official record the commercial fisheries of Canada last year yielded fish and fish products to the value of $25,000,000; that is, the value of the fish taken from our coast and inland waters was practically one third as great as the value of the wheat crop gathered from the farms of our three prairie provinces. All of which reminds one that our country possesses great sources besides those of the soil. The gold mines of the entire Dominion did not produce this amount of wealth last year.

As a producer of fish wealth Nova Scotia bears the palm, closely followed by British Columbia. The fisheries of Nova Scotia last year yielded $7,632,000; those of British Columbia $7,132,000; those of New Brunswick $5,300,000. The fisheries of Quebec yielded a little more than two million dollars, those of Ontario a little less than two millions, and those of Prince Edward Island a million and a half. Not quite a million dollars worth of fish were taken from the waters of the three Prairie Provinces.

As a wealth producer, salmon heads with a record of over five million dollars, the lobster is second, but one million behind salmon; while cod comes third, but almost a million behind the lobster. The cod fishery the long list with only $116,478 to its credit.

Of our total catch of commercial fish, one-half are consumed by Canadians and one-half exported, chiefly to Great Britain and the United States. To be exact, our exports of fish and fish products last year amounted in value to $13,906,367, or a little more than half of the value of our exports of butter, cheese and eggs.

This gives one some idea of the value of our fisheries, and, it is claimed, they are only partially developed. A special committee of the House of Commons is going to enquire into them, and it is to be hoped that as a result of this enquiry our coast and inland waters will be made to yield even more wealth than is now taken from them.

BY THE WAY

Spring?

The first robin duly announced.

Spring fancies and fannels.

A new public building for St. George. We need it.

The cold wave, headed from the west, arrived on time.

If rumors around town are true several new faces will be seen at the next council board.

It's up to the citizens to see to it that suitable men are elected at the town election next Tuesday.

Business is quiet in the granite sheds and the prospect for an improvement for the next few months is not very bright. This doubtless is due to the fact that during the late strike the Scotch granite men made a thorough canvass of the country and secured all available orders. —Beacon.

We have been informed that one hundred and ten men are at work in the granite sheds and quarries, and total pay roll is about $3000 per month. From this we infer that all the orders were not secured by the "Scotch granite men."

Maine's "old maids" are to be pensioned at the expense of the bachelors if the bill before the Legislature becomes law. Men who do not make a reasonable attempt to marry by the time they are thirty, will be taxed at the rate of $10 per year, the fund to be applied to the support and relief of deserving women who are still spinsters, although willing to marry if they get a fair chance.

Patrick arrived home much the worse for wear. One eye was closed, his nose was broken, and his face looked as though it had been stung by bees.

"Glorious!" exclaimed his wife.

"That Dutchman Schwartzheimer—"

"was he," exclaimed Patrick.

"Shame on ye!" exploded his wife without sympathy.

"A big shapalpeen the looks of you to get taken up by a little comadloon of a Dootchman the size of him! Why—"

"Whist, Nora," said Patrick, don't spake disrespectfully of the dead!"

The Dominion, Provincial, and Municipal Governments are taking up the war on consumption. A suggestion by the Eastern Chronicle that churches and other public buildings be better ventilated is a good one and the suggestion applies to private houses. The old log houses allowed plenty of fresh air to enter, and the healthy appearance of children in homes with frequent panes out of the windows goes to show that poorly heated houses with ventilation, are better than well heated houses with no provision for ventilation. —Picton Advocate.

It is expected that seventy thousand immigrants will enter Canada from the United States during the present season. As the great majority of these have come to this country to take up land, and are familiar with agricultural life across the border, they should prove a desirable class of settlers. There is plenty of room in Canada for newcomers to settle upon vacant lands. But precautions against the entrance to Canada of undesirable elements are necessary, and the Federal authorities are wisely enforcing restrictive regulations. Statistics published recently show that much care has been shown in this regard during the past fiscal year.

CORRESPONDENCE

Mr. Editor—
Have we a harbor master? A fish warden? A wharfinger? A game warden with authority over the streams? We have. Did we have a dredge in here last fall? Was a berth dredged out at the end of the public wharf, where a schooner loaded with one thousand tons of pulp on board? It was. Did a schooner—a smaller one at that, ground with less than four hundred tons of pulp on board this spring, in the same berth? Well, it said she did! Now, Mr. Editor what are officials paid for? It is a notorious fact that a good third of the gravel, (funeral express dump cart product) finds its way to the river bed. All of the granite chips, iron, plaster and by products of one stone shed goes over the bank to join the gravel at the bottom of the river and by the way this material, placed on our streets, would, in less than two years, give us the best roads in the land. The wasted pulp along our river banks would pay for the mill. Is this to be allowed forever? Have we a board of health? Pulp is crushed wood, let it rot and decay about the shores of our river and what will follow? Stench unbearable, stench horrible, stench fall of death. People lived many a night last summer with doors and windows closed tight. What was it? Low tide and rotten pulp wood. Wake up the Harbor Master, the Fish and Game Wardens, the Board of Health the King if necessary. Yours for pure air, good streets and assse harbor.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

In spite of the cold weather wild geese are flying north.

The Easter goods in A. G. Brown's window were very artistic.

A new brass band has been organized by Campbell. Frank Mitchell is instructor.

The semi-annual session of the Grand Division will be held here the second week in May.

The Easter window display at D. Bassens was very attractive and elicited much favorable comment.

Fishery Officer Marshall, has been supplied with fishing certificates, which are issued to those who want to fish through the ice.

D. Regan has been awarded the contract for the plumbing for M. E. Frauley's hotel. Howard Allen has the plastering contract.

Mr. George H. Sullivan has been appointed by the Ottawa government, immigrant inspector for Charlotte county at a salary of $800 a year and expenses, and went on duty Friday. The appointment is a good one, and is deservedly popular among all parties.

"The Pathfinder" is the name of a bright little paper issued in connection with Red Granite Division. The members contribute and much fun and amusement is derived when the sheet is read each month. T. Stewart McAdam is the editor-in-chief.

It is reported that it is the intention of the N. B. S. Railway Company to put a number of men on at once and rush some necessary work on the road. The condition of the road bed for this time of the year is unusually good.

There is quite a run of water over the falls. Anyone wishing to see a rainbow at close range, may do so. All that is necessary is a bright sun, a trip to the Lower or Upper bridge and a look through the spray and mist that fills the air for hundreds of feet where the water dashes over the rocks. There will be found all the colors of the rainbow, in rainbow vapor and beautiful to see.

Red Granite Division had installation of officers Wednesday evening, 7th inst., D. G. W. P. Dewar officiating. The following officers will guide the destinies of the order in town, during next term:

George Kernighan, W. P.
 Mrs. Perry, W. A.
 Mrs. S. J. Moran, Recording Secy.
 Vida M. ... Asst. Secy.
 James ... Financial Secy.
 Edwin ... Treasurer.
 Earl Dow, Conductor.
 Blanche McKay, Asst. Conductor.
 Chas. Cawley, Inside Sentinel.
 Allan Messenette, Outside Sentinel.
 Irene O'Brien, Organist.
 Chaplin, T. S. McAdam.
 Wm. Seelye, P. W. P.

Owing to the rails spreading, a freight train went off the track Saturday afternoon, delaying the regular train about four hours. The accident happened near Spear's crossing, and from the appearance of the wreck, the escape of the passengers was a miracle. Conductor George Green was cut about the head, requiring the services of a physician, but was able to resume work next day. Some others in the car were slightly bruised. Trackmaster Lister had a crew of men at the scene of the accident shortly after the occurrence, and had the track in condition to let regular trains pass at eight o'clock. Trains were running as usual Monday.

An important meeting of the Maine Mercantile Co., was held in this city yesterday, at which action was taken with view of dissolving the corporation. This comes somewhat as a surprise as it was generally believed that the co-operation of the packers along certain lines worked greatly to the advantage of the industry. However, some have always claimed that any combination of this character had its serious drawbacks, and it will be remembered that Eastport has enjoyed some of its most prosperous days during active competition in the sardine packing business. Methods of packing have changed greatly in late years, and in place of high priced hand labor factories are now fitted with expensive machinery to do much of the work. Pierce and unlimited competition in this case will probably result in the survival of the strongest if not of the fittest. The passing away of the Maine Mercantile Co., will not be mourned by commission merchants and brokers, the middlemen who have reaped rich harvests from the business in the past. —Eastport Sentinel.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

The work of sawing the lumber at L'Etang has been resumed, a number of local men are employed at the mill.

A runaway horse caused some excitement on the street Friday. He was soon rounded up, with no damage to the equipment.

Owing to an accident to one of the water wheels the granite mills were compelled to shut down for a day. Repairs were made, and everything is running smoothly again.

Several parties are said to have applied for water privileges in the river, closer to town than any of the old wiers. Who knows? we may live to see a sardine factory within the town limits.

Local experts are preparing their nets and getting ready for the arrival of the tasty smelts. The presence of numbers of gulls in the basin would indicate herring or fish of some kind, in the waters.

Cott's hall was crowded to the doors Monday evening when the Red Granite Dramatic Club appeared in the drama "Millie the Quadroon." The acting was of a high order and brought out many favorable comments. The specialties were good, stage settings appropriate and the audience expressed their approval and delight by hearty and prolonged applause. The Company appeared Tuesday evening in a complete change of bill.

Joseph McCormick left on Monday's train for St. Stephen, enroute for Vermont where he will reside. Mr. McCormick is one of our oldest residents, three generations have grown up, since he came to St. George. For the first he fashioned long leaved boots with nails long and big to hold the thick soles, for the second an occasional pair of fine boots with shorter softer tops; for the third he has heeled and soled the foot wear product of the factory and once in a while he fashioned a hand made shoe that fitted the wearers feet like a glove. Possessing a remarkable memory Mr. McCormick could tell amusing and entertaining stories of the days and men of years ago, tell of lumber days, of the progress of the town, of the people who have come and gone and give day and date of the birth of some of our grand parents. The father of a large family he goes to join his daughters and sons in Vermont taking with him the good wishes of his fellow townsmen and acquaintances.

The stone business is the duller for months, and unless it picks up very soon some of the sheds will let more men go. The same report comes from Barre. The orders are not coming in as they usually do at this time of the year. The manufacturers who have been waiting for the wave of good prosperity are a little disappointed. One local firm who usually has two gangs and a half of men employed, about 30 or so, has only eight today, another has only one gang where it had had three gangs, and still another has only four cutters at work. Manufacturers are employing from one-third to one-half of the number usually engaged on spring work.

One dealer stated yesterday that his pay roll averaged $1000 a week, yet last week he received only $600 in orders. Three dealers state that all the work they have on their books can be finished in a month.

The granite business is one of the last to feel the effects of the hard times and one of the last to revive. Indications are it will be a quiet summer in that line. Local yards are filled with unshipped orders accumulated during the winter which will be sent out as soon as the season opens. —Montpelier, Vt. Argus.

Edmund Billings, who represented the state of Massachusetts in distributing $100,000 among the sufferers from the Messina earthquake, returned from Europe yesterday, arriving in New York on the steamer Lucania, and proceeded to Boston. Mr. Billings said he had visited Messina, Catania and Syracuse, and had distributed the fund where he conceived it would do the greatest good. During his stay in Sicily he was in touch with Ambassador Griscom, and said he was shown every kindness and attention while fulfilling the purpose of his mission.

"I was in Sicily about three months distributing funds," said Mr. Billings. "I took more than $100,000 to the stricken districts, and with the help of Gen. Mazza, who was directing the Italian relief forces, began looking up Italians who had Massachusetts relatives. I had a list of about 200 names that had been furnished me, and to these persons I was to give funds as individuals. This work was very difficult, as children who had been left parentless by the disaster were scattered all over Italy. Much of the money I took over went to the many private hospitals which were doing relief work." Mr. Billings was accompanied home by Mrs. Billings who had assisted him in his mission. —Boston Paper.

Victory Over White Plague
Philadelphia, Feb. 7.—By official announcement the greatest discovery in the war against consumption since the finding of tubercle bacillus by Dr. Koch was made public. This is the discovery by Dr. Randall C. Rosenberger, biologist and holder of the chair of bacteriology at Jefferson Medical college, that the tubercle bacillus can be readily found in the blood long before it reaches the lungs; that it is in a condition which makes it readily amenable to destruction by simple treatment and fresh air and that it will soon be possible to use a perfect antitoxin which will stamp out the disease entirely.

Dr. Rosenberger's discovery makes consumption, the greatest scourge of modern times, the easiest treated disease in existence. He has tested his theory and has records of 150 cases, in none of which there was a failure.

He has made known the result of his experiments to the College of Physicians and the faculty of Jefferson college and his whole paper on the subject will appear shortly in a medical publication. Before that, Dr. Rosenberger, who is a purist in medical ethics, will not go into details. Beyond the more confirmation of the essential points he had nothing to say.

ALWAYS UNDER FIRE

Our Lungs are Continually Attacked by Deadly Disease Germs

Modern science tells us that many a deadly battle is fought in the cells of our lungs between the attacking disease germs and the resisting forces in our blood. Scarcely a lung but shows clearly the scars of such encounters.

So long as our power of resistance is strong, we are safe. But the moment a neglected cold or run-down condition makes an opening, the disease germs win, and we have an attack of pneumonia, bronchitis, asthma, or even fall a prey to consumption.

Realizing the danger, Father Morrissey, the famous priest-physician of Burlington, sought long and carefully for a remedy that would promptly check and at the same time build up the lungs and system and enable them to throw off disease.

His "No. 10" Cough Mixture and Lung Tonic does just that. Used promptly it is a most effective safeguard against serious lung troubles. Trial in bottles, 25c. Regular size 50c. Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Ltd., Charlton, N. B.

Appreciate Your Mother

The graveyards are full of mothers who died taking care of their children. Better appreciate your mother before your appreciation of her will be no kindness to her, and the post mortem regrets will be more of an agony as the years pass on. Big headstones of polished Aberdeen and the best epitaphs which the family put together could compose and a garland of white roses from the conservatory are often the attempt to atone for the thanks we ought to have uttered in living days and the kind words that would have done more good than all the calls likes ever piled up on the silent mounds of the cemeteries. The world makes complimentary ado over the work of mothers who have raised boys to be great men and most of our readers could turn to their books and find the names of fifty distinguished men who had great mothers—Cuvier's mother, Walter Scott's mother, St. Bernard's mother, Benjamin West's mother. But who praises mothers or what they do for daughters who make the homes of this land. We do not know of an instance of such recognition. You never hear a word in appreciation of the self-denial, of the fatigues and good sense and prayers which those mothers go through who navigate a family of girls from the edge of the cradle to the schoolhouse door and from the schoolhouse door up to the marriage altar. That is an achievement which the eternal God celebrates high up in the heavens, though for it human hands so seldom clap the faintest applause. My! My! What a time that woman had with those youngsters, and if she had relayed care and work and advice and solicitation of heavenly help, that next generation would have landed in the poor house, idiot asylum or penitentiary. It is while she is living, but never while she is dead, that some girls call their mother "maternal ancestor" or "the old woman."

A BEAUTIFUL CHARACTER

Touching Tribute Paid by Rev. Gratz to the late Mary Letitia Wyman

Many friends of the late Mary Letitia Wyman gathered at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ala Hoblen, last Friday afternoon to attend the last rites over her mortal remains. The services were conducted by Rev. Parker, rector of the Episcopal church in Duluth. Mrs. D. A. Burke sang a solo entitled "Homeland," Mrs. Burke and Mrs. J. W. Dorsey a duet, "Sometime We'll Understand," and Mrs. Moulton and Mrs. Dorsey rendered "The Lord is My Shepherd." Miss Agatha Cotter was organist. The pallbearers were Dr. J. D. Bold, Messrs. John Shea, Albert Hunter, David Ross, D. A. Burke and John F. Barton. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

The relatives of deceased from out of town who attended the funeral were W. J. McGee, of Oconto, Wis., a brother and C. J. McGee of Houghton, Mich., a nephew.

Rev. W. E. J. Gratz, pastor of the local M. E. church, delivered a very beautiful and touching tribute to the character of the deceased. His remarks were in part as follows:

The words of the text are words which

Mrs. Wyman had marked her own Bible. "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain."

"For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ; which is far better."—Phil. 1, 21 and 23.

My friends I am not here today in my professional capacity, but as a friend who mourns with you. I am not here as a preacher to preach to you but desire simply to say some things that are in all of your hearts.

During my pastorate here I have frequently called to visit Mrs. Wyman, and like many of you I have come to help and have been helped myself. I have come to comfort and went away myself comforted. Once I ventured to speak to her of the value of patience and found that she had learned that lesson long before I had studied it as a student.

Like the apostle Paul she was a great sufferer and like him "none of these things moved her." She seemed not to think of herself but of others and in the midst of her great suffering she frequently found that for which she thanked God. I remember how a little while ago when I called she asked me of my father who for a year had been going blind. I told her that he was losing his eyesight and then she said, "Oh, I am so thankful that I can see. One can endure pain but to be shut in darkness would be much worse. I am so thankful that I can see."

In all her suffering she had her eyes fixed on the unseen realities. Heaven was to her the sure home of the soul; it was no unknown country. This it was that gave her courage and strength. The words of our text was the motto of her life: "For me to live is Christ, to die is gain—I have a desire to depart and to be with Christ; which is far better."

Mrs. Hannah Whitfall Smith in her beautiful volume "The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life," has a splendid exposition of the words of the prophet Malachi "He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver." She asked a silversmith to tell her the meaning and he said, "Why I put the old silver or the raw ore into the caldron and I make the fire very hot and stand beside it to see that it does not get too hot." "Ah, that is it," said Mrs. Smith, "your Father stands beside us in the trial to see that the fires do not get too hot, for He will not suffer us to be tempted beyond what we are able to bear but will with the temptation also make a way of escape so that we shall be able to bear it. But how do you know when it is purified?" she asked.

"O, I stand beside it and watch it keep looking into it until I see my own face in the molten silver and then I know that it is done."

And so with our departed sister the Master stood beside her and the other day He saw His image in her life and He called her home.

"Caught up to meet the Lord
With sweep of angel wing,
No winding-sheet for her or home of soul
O Death! where is thy sting?"

Today she is among that great multitude which St. John saw who have "come up out of great tribulation and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

And so my friends I do not feel as though we were at a funeral today, but at a coronation. One of the King's daughters has gone home to receive her crown, for the Scriptures tell us: "That if we suffer we shall also reign with Him. She has passed from trial to triumph, from conflict to victory, from grief to glory!"

The apostle's words are gloriously true for us today. "O Death! where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?—Thanks be to God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!"

And so I close with these words of the hymn: "Out of the shadow-land into the sunshine,
Cloudless, eternal, that fades not away
Softly and tenderly Jesus hath called her,
Home, where the ransomed are gathering today.

Out of the shadow-land weary and changeful,
Out of the valley of sorrow and night,
Into the rest of the life everlasting,
Into the summer of endless delight,
Out of the shadow-land, over life's ocean
Into the rapture and joy of the Lord,
Safe in the Father's house welcomed by angels,
Her's the bright crown and eternal reward.

Silently, peacefully, angels have borne her
Into the beautiful mansions above,
There shall she rest, from earth's toiling forever.
Safe in the arms of God's infinite love.

sheet will hold about 5 ounces with out dripping.

Or the formalin-permanganate powdered or in fine needles, and one pint of formalin for each 1,000 cubic feet of room space to be disinfected. The permanganate must be put in before the formaldehyde solution. The vessel in which the mixture is made should be of considerable size else the vigorous foaming will overflow. A flaring ten-quart tin pail may be used, or if a wide bottom vessel be used it need not be high. If the bottom of the dish be so wide that the requisite amount of permanganate just conceals it and the side be eight inches high, there will be no overflow from foaming or sputtering.

The room in either of these methods should be closed up four hours. Do not have any light burning in the room, as the gas is inflammable.

Formaldehyde gas does not injure fabrics nor most colours.

It cannot be depended upon to kill rats, or other vermin, or mosquitoes.

Clothing, textiles and luggage, clean and in good condition, but inspected of infection, can be efficiently and least injuriously disinfected by formaldehyde.

Where desired, the smell of the formaldehyde may be subsequently neutralized by the use of ammonia in liquid or gaseous form; or

(3) Use three pounds of powdered or crushed sulphur for every 1,000 cubic feet in the room. A room 10 feet long, 10 feet wide and 10 feet high has 1,000 cubic feet. For a closet half as large use two pounds of sulphur.

Burn the sulphur in an iron vessel. Take a tub partly filled with hot water, stand some bricks in it, put the sulphur in the vessel, then place the vessel on the bricks, moisten the sulphur with alcohol and ignite it, taking care not to inhale the fumes. When the sulphur begins to burn, close the room tightly by sealing the doors of egress and keep it closed for ten hours or longer. In the absence of moisture the fumes of sulphur have no disinfection power.

There is one serious objection to the use of sulphur, and this should be fully understood. The fumes of sulphur have a destructive action on articles of wool, cotton and linen, on tapestries, and exercise an injurious influence on brass, copper, steel and gilt work. Coloured fabrics are frequently changed in appearance and the strength impaired. Fabrics however, can be effectually disinfected by hanging them on a line exposed to the sun and wind for several days. Curtains and all articles of cotton or linen by boiling and soaking them in Standard Disinfectant No. 3 for several hours, and portable articles of brass, copper, steel and gilt work, by washing with a strong solution of carbolic acid (Standard Disinfectant No. 1). Coloured fabrics which have been in a room during disinfection, should be immediately exposed to the sun and wind. Uncoloured fabrics which will not be injured by moisture should be at once soaked in water. This action will prevent further injurious action of the sulphuric acid.

(e) After the apartments are opened, take out all articles and place them in the sunshine. Carpets should be well beaten and placed in the sunshine.

(f) All surfaces in the room should then be thoroughly washed with Standard Disinfectant No. 3. Walls and ceiling, if plastered, should subsequently be washed with lime. Wash well all out-of-the-way places, window ledges, mouldings, &c. Floors, particularly, should receive careful treatment, and the solution should wet the dust and dirt in the cracks.

(g) Mattresses and pillows soiled by discharges should be burned. It is better to burn all toys and articles of small value which have been handled by the patient. Burn what you cannot boil. Books which have been handled by the patient can be saved. Lay them on edge on a table, with leaves open, in a room during disinfection.

STANDARD DISINFECTANTS

Standard Disinfectant No. 1.—Four per cent solution or chloride of lime. Dissolve chloride of lime of the best quality, in water, in proportions of six ounces of lime to one gallon of water.

This is one of the strongest disinfectants known. Discharges from the bowels of a patient suffering from a contagious or infectious disease should be received in a vessel containing this solution, and allowed to stand for an hour or more before being thrown into the vault or water closet. Discharges from the throat or lungs should be received in a vessel containing this solution.

Chloride of lime in powder may be used freely in privy vaults, cesspools, drains, sinks, &c.

Instead of the solution of chloride of lime, carbolic acid may be used for the same purposes, in a strength of 64.2 ounces to the gallon of water. This makes a five per cent solution of carbolic acid.

Standard Disinfectant No. 2. Bichloride of Mercury, 1,500. Dissolve corrosive sublimate and muriate of ammonia in water, in the proportion of two drachms (120 grains—ounce) of each to the gallon of water. Dissolve in a wooden tub, barrel, pail, or an earthen crock.

Use for the same purpose as the same way as No. 1. Equally effective but slower in action, so it is necessary to let the mixture stand about four hours before using it. This solution is of less value than the chloride of lime solution on account of its smell.

Standard Disinfectant No. 3. Bichloride of Mercury, 1,000. Dissolve one drachm (60 grains—ounce) each of corrosive sublimate and muriate of ammonia in one gallon of water. Dissolve in a wooden tub, barrel or pail or earthen crock.

Use for the disinfection of soil under clothing, bed linen, &c. immerse the articles for four hours then wring them out and boil them. This solution is excellent for wetting the floors of offices, stores, workshops, halls and school-rooms before sweeping. Mixed with an equal quantity of water this solution is useful for washing the hands and general surfaces of the bodies of attendants. Chloride of lime, carbolic acid and corrosive sublimate are deadly poisons.

Standard Disinfectant No. 4. Milk of Lime (Quick Lime.) Sift a quart of freshly burnt lime (small pieces) with three-fourths quart of water, or, to be exact, parts of water by weight with 1 lime. A dry powder of slack (hydrate of lime) results. Make a solution of lime shortly before it is to be used by mixing one part of this dry hydrate of lime with eight parts (by weight) of water.

Air-slacked lime is worthless. A dry hydrate may be preserved for some time if it is enclosed in an airtight container. Milk of lime should be freshly prepared, but it may be kept a few days if it is closely stoppered.

Quick lime is one of the cheapest disinfectants. The solution can take the place of chloride of lime, if desired. It should be used freely, in quantity equal in amount to the material to be disinfected. It can be used to whitewash exposed surfaces, to disinfect excreta in the sick room or on the surface of the ground in sinks, drains, stagnant pools, &c. It is preferable in such places to the mercuric chloride, which should not be used where there is such albuminous matter in masses.

CONCLUSION

In conclusion, it may be said that the prevention of consumption lies very much with the individuals afflicted with the disease and with the intelligent people of the country. Its cure is within the reach of a majority of patients, if they will exercise care in their methods of life. For prevention and for cure we must rely upon the hearty co-operation of the people of the Dominion.

Preventives—those Candy Cold Cure Tablets—will safely and quickly check all colds and the Grip. Try them once and see! 48-25c. Sold by all dealers.

The "Big Smile" of a President

A President of the United States who is called by his familiar name throughout the country is assured of popularity. Very few Presidents have been so honored. There have been "Andy" Jackson, "Abe" Lincoln, "Teddy" Roosevelt, and now comes "Bill" Taft.

"Big Bill" some call him, and he is big in brain as well as body. That he is going to be one of the most popular Chief Executives America has had no-doubt. He was born to be popular from the time he graduated from Yale University, in 1878, when he was 21 years old, and was elected class orator, until the present day he has been called "the man with the winning smile."

A man who is a member of a multi-millionaire family, and who, after his university days, starts right in to work, reporting for a newspaper, as did Mr. Taft, has in him the kind of stuff that Americans like. Such a man does not have to play to the galleries to become popular, and Mr. Taft has never done anything intentionally to attract attention to himself.

He is one of the few American public men who can tear an opponent's arguments into tatters and yet leave no resentment behind. Everything he does is accompanied by his winning smile, and if the blows he delivers hurt, the smile acts as a salve.

His smile, though, does not make him a mollycoddle. He has as strong a character as has President Roosevelt, but his method of work is the antithesis of the man's whom he succeeded on March 4 in the White House.

Mr. Taft never thinks his victory is complete if any resentment remains. He wants to convince by persuasion, and he has a marvellous faculty of putting his thoughts into pure English, logical as a proposition in Euclid. Though he is as firm as a rock when his principles are concerned, he is ready always to recognize that the other side has principles, too. The totally different characters of President Roosevelt and President elect Taft probably caused the two men to be so drawn to each other that in Washington they are called Damon and Pythias.

SKILFUL DIPLOMAT

In the first year of his Presidential term Mr. Roosevelt found that the man way out in Manila was looming up as the strongest official of his Administration. "Big Bill" was handling the extremely delicate situation in the Philippines with consummate skill, and his smile, in Manila, was doing more to make the Filipinos contented under American rule than all the soldiers in the Archipelago could do.

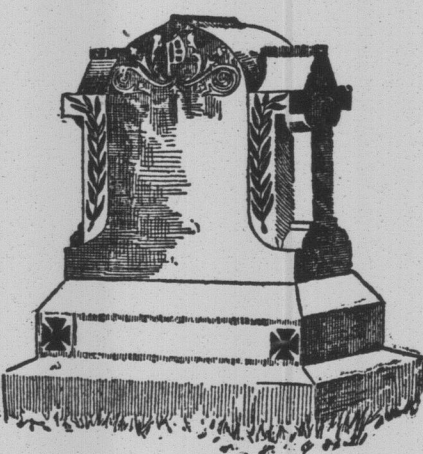

The Philippines situation again causing anxiety, President Roosevelt ordered his Secretary for War to Manila to smile the clouds away. The clouds were dissipated, and on his way home Mr. Taft dropped in at Tokio. There he had a heart-to-heart talk with the Japanese statesman about the Californian situation, which then was beginning to loom big. The frank exchange of views at that time has done much towards permitting Washington and Tokio to work together in trying to settle the Pacific dispute.

With "Big Bill" Taft in the White House, there will be no termination of the strenuous days that have tumbled over one another since Mr. Roosevelt entered the Executive mansion. There will be no let-up in the trust protections, and no return to the period of professional politicians and machine rule. Mr. Taft is imbued with the essence of the Roosevelt doctrine, but instead of wielding the "big stick" he will swing the big smile." His admirers predict he will accomplish more with the smile than Mr. Roosevelt has been able to do with the stick.

Defeated by Dr. Hamilton

In no way is health so menaced as by constipation. It leads to indigestion, insomnia, anaemia and a hundred ills. Ordinary remedies fail—they relieve—don't cure. The worst case is defeated and cured quickly by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which cleanse the entire intestinal tract, stimulate kidneys and liver, keep the pores of the skin open. You'll never have stomach trouble, yellow complexion or headaches if you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They are a perfect system tonic. 25c. at all dealers.
