RETIREMENT OF THE CZAR. London, Aug. 13.-The Chronicle prints an Odessa dispatch maintaining the persistent circulation of rumors of the withdrawal of the Czar, Nicholas II., from the active guidance of the affairs of the empire and the gradual assumption of power by the ex-Czarina, aided by M. PRE-ELECTION PROMISES RE-

London, Aug. 13 .- The heads of five prominent religo-social settlements of the poor districts of London, including those of Toynbee, Halland, Whitechapel, have presented to Lord Salisbury a memorial asking the Premier to give effect to his utterances of May last at Bradford, where he contended that the problem presented by the condition of the unemployed in England was foremost among the questions which need ed the attention of Parliament. In his reply to the memorial Lord Salisbury promised to give the matter his careful

London, Aug. 13.-The Catholic priesthood of France are still awaiting anxiously that dispensation from the Vatican which shall allow them to cycle, despite the opposing bishops. But the Vatican is silent, and meanwhile the French priests whose bishops see no objection just roll up their gowns and pedal around the districts where they were wont to tramp so wearily. HANGED FOR MURDER. York, England, Aug. 13.—Robert Hudson, a young and highly-educated man, who had run through his own and his wife's fortunes, was executed by hanging here today for the murder of his wife and children on Helmsley Moor, Yorkshire, in June last. He decoyed his victims to the moor, cut their throats, shot them with a revolver and buried them on the moor. Before he killed his wife Hudson had advertised for another wife under the name of Hunter The crime was accidentally discovered by a man who noticed the freshly-turned earth on the moor, investigated the matter, and dug up the bodies. After being tracked for five days Hudson was captured, and his trial and condemnation to death followed. He died

THE SALISBURY PROGRAMME

London, Aug. 13.-The Government have intimated to the Opposition leaders their intention to submit to Parliament at an early date a supplementary estimate for small-arm ammunition in accordance with the opinion the expression of which by a vote in the House of Commons was the means of overthrowing the late Government. The Times says that inquiries made since the formation of the Unionist Government show that the criticisms of William St. John Roderick, who made the motion upon which the Government was defeated, was fully justified. The Ministers, the paper says, have facts and figures to prove the impregnability of their position.

The Daily News says it learns that the Government will propose an addition of £60,000 to the army estimates for the purchase of cordite, and that a lively debate on the subject is expected.

MR. BLAKE'S POPULARITY. It is said that even Justin McCarthy would be willing to give place to the member for South Longford, but the leader has not given utter-ance to that effect as yet. Certain it is, however, that if Mr. Blake is put forward he will receive a very strong support. Mr. Blake expects to leave for Toronto in a few days and after a brief rest will start for New Zealand, where he has been retained to arbitrate in a case of the Government and the Colony and the Midland Railway. London, Aug. 13 .- In the House of Commons today the Speaker, Mr. Wm. C. Gully, took the chair at noon in semi-official attire. There was a poor attendance of members present. A Lively and Interesting Municipal Fight at Superior. Wis.

Superior, Wis., Aug. 13.-There was another sensational situation in the remarkable case of Rev. Charles S. Unparalleled Donation at a Missionary Meeting.

$75,000 Raised in a Few Minutes-Many Give Their Gold, Si ver, Their All-Others Offer Their Lives.

Old Orchard, Maine, Aug. 13.-The n ost remarkable meeting in the history of the Christian Alliance was that of yesterday, when nearly $75,000 was given and pledged for the cause of foreign missions. Rev. Dr. A. B. Simpson, the leader of the camp meeting (a former Hamilton, Ont., preacher), announced at the close of the meeting that the lists had not been entirely gone through, but at that time the $72,000 mark had been passed. Dr. Simpson

"I asked the Lord last night howmuch I could hope and pray for, and found that $50,000 was too little. At last I received not a promise of $75,000, but liberty to pray for that offering, and we have already received $72,000, and I have not gone over the list of pledges, and many more are coming in. I do not say that we shall receive $75,000, but I hope we shall." Thus the world's record for giving for missions has been

There was a great audience present, the largest seen for many years at Old Orchard, larger even, it is said, than the great meeting Mr. Blaine addressed when a Presidential candidate, when 10,000 people were within the sound of Midway in his sermon an usher took a check and handed it to Dr. Simpson. He announced it was for $4,500. Then Mrs. Rounds, of Chicago, pledged $300 in the name of the Oak Park Alliance. A man who declined to give his name sent forward $800 in cash, and that was followed by a check for $1,000 from an unknown woman.

Then the most sensational event of the day occurred. Rev. Mr. Holden, of Texas, went forward and laid upon the platform a deed to his entire property. It consists of land in California that cost him, with the outlay he has made on it, over $10,000, and which he said ought to bring at least $7,500 at a forced sale. A man who was present and who knew about the property thought so, and on it Mr. Holden will find a purchaser at once.

GIVES AWAY HER HOME. Mrs. Holden joined in the generous gift and swept away their home and all they had saved. The excitement caused by this gift was great. "Believe and let go," cried Dr. Simp-Mrs. Mary D. Perkins of Boston, then pledged some property she thought ought to bring $4,500. It was accepted, but no value was placed on it in the Dewitt, an old contributor, who is the president of an association of Christian commercial travelers, pledged $1,000 in the name of his organization and Dr. Simpson asked for special prayer for the "drummers."

Rev. Walter Russell, the Canadian evangelist, pledged $550 in the name Melritt gave $500. Deacon McGregor gave $500 in cash and Mrs. S. M. Ely, of St. Louis, sent forward a note for $500, the proceeds of the sale of her

"I gave $100 last year," said a woman out in the audience, "and God blessed me so greatly that I want to make it $200 this year."

The excitement was now becoming intense. Louise Shepard, the vocalist, sa.d she had faith to believe that the jewelry fund would reach $2,000 and she tore the diamonds from her ears and sent them to the platform. This was the signal for the contributions of jewelry and diamond earrings, finger rings and watches were sent forward by the hatful. Now Dr. Simpson held up a little boy who earned almost $4 by selling papers, and asked for contributions to a fund for the Children's Alliance. Within ten minutes $2,000 had been subscribed, $980 of it in cash. By this time it was long past 1 o'clock, and yet few thought of leaving the ground. Dinner was forgotten, the wonderful scene having blotted out everything else from the minds of all present.

GOLD EXCHANGED FOR IRON. Then an announcement was made that Louise Shepard would meet those who wanted to "exchange gold for iron for Jesus' sake," and Dr. Simpson said that a recess would be taken. At the end of the platform the work of exchanging gold for iron was going on, Miss Shepard giving iron watches bearin the inscription: "Gold for Iron for Jesus' Sake." This part of the offering was founded on the appeal made by Frederick the Great to the ladies of his kingdom to give gold for iron for the sake of the fatherland. One woman, with a patient face and poorly dressed, came up and passed out a gold watch that was evidently of oldfashioned make, probably her one valuable bit of jewelry. She looked at it for the last time, shed tears she could not keep back, and then gave it to Miss Shepard, saying: "For the sake of Christ. I wish I could do more."

In all 36 watches, many of them valuable, were exchanged for iron watches and much jewelry, some of it costly and beautiful, was handed in. All contributors of jewelry received a small fron cross, inscribed, "Gold for Iron for Jesus' Sake."

When Dr. Simpson returned to the platform he made the announcement that 100 persons had given $60,000, 100 others gave $4,000, and still 100 others $1,000. The balance of the amount was made up later by pledges. Then there was still another remarkable scene, not likely to be forgotten by those who witnessed it. Dr. Simpson said that so far men and women had only given up their earthly possessions. "How many of you will give your life for Christ? How many of you are ready to be sent to the missionary fields of Africa?" he asked

Then one after another said, "I will go," until more than 40 had responded.

upon a new idea for raising funds, by inaugurating a plan for clearing poor corps and officers of debt. The plan was an annual "Harvest Festival Scheme," to be held all over the Dominion and Newfoundland on certain dates. This year the dates are: Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 31, Sept. 1, 2

In this scheme it is possible for all who appreciate the Army's work to assist in ome way or other.

The officers of the various corps are in-structed to visit friends and collect from them anything they are able to contribute, whether it be in cash or otherwise. Gifts of produce, groceries, fruit, grain, cattle, poultry, or anything of any description which is saleable, will be acceptable. After the collection of these various articles a sale of the same is arranged for the Tuesday night, and the proceeds placed into one common fund to help out the debts mentioned.

Commandant Booth hopes by this scheme also to replenish the storehouses of his various institutions, such as Rescue Homes for Fallen Women, Men's Shelters, Children's Institutions, Home for Sick Officers, also his Industrial Farm, so that it will be unnecessary to spend money on these articles during the fall and winter.

He contends that though money is scarce, the land is laden with good things, and he calls upon those who have enough and to spare to remember those who are not so favorably circumstanced.

Board.

The board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association met in the temporary quarters, corner Dundas and Wellington streets, yesterday afternoon, and considered plans for a new building. Plans were submitted by twelve of the leading architects of Western Ontario, but to make the competition fair to all, the names of the competitors were unknown until the choice was made. The plans submitted and marked "Simplicity" were accepted, it is said, unanimously. The architects were Messrs. Moore & Henry. The new building is to be situated on the west side of Wellington street, immediately adjoining the new Free Library. The cost is limited to $20,000, but for this sum Messrs. Moore & Henry promise a magnificent threewhich will throw the library "into the shade," improve the appearance of Wellington street, and greatly increase the value of property in the city. The material to be used is white brick, with considerabe stone trim-The dimensions are: Length. 118 feet; depth, 110 feet; height from ground to top of tower in the center of the building, 104 feet. The basement will contain the heating apparatus, a plunge bath, shower baths, marble wash basins, locker rooms for 250 per sons, 16 private dressing rooms, bowling alley, work rooms and lavatories.

The ground floor is laid out perfect-The entrance to the association building is about the center, and is in the shape of a 20-foot arch, reached by a few wide stone steps, and having a agonal in form, and 29 feet each way. The secretary's public and private offices adjoin the reception room to the north, while to the south, and ornamented with a pretty bay window, is a reading room, 20 by 23, to be provided with all the requisites to leisure. The parlor, 20 by 23, the boys' room, 22 by 19, and a lecture hall to seat 150, also have suitable positions. In the rear of the building, however, is where the boys will shine, for there is located the gymnasium. It is to be second to none 40 by 60 feet, and fitted with everything necessary to physical development in the boys. On the south end of the ground floor is the auditorium with circular seats, and accommodation for 800, and lighted by means of an immense dome skylight with stained glass. The entrance to this is separate from the main entrance, being situated at the southerly corner. The ground floor is also fitted with coat rooms, lavatory, etc., and the lay-out of it is such that easy access from one room to another is secured. The second floor comprises a runing track for the gymnasium, gallery for the auditorium, board room, ladies' parlor, entertainment hall, kitchen, serving rooms, class rooms, lavatories, and wide, airy corridors.

The third floor will be fitted for commercial college purposes. The foundation of the building is stone, the roof is slate, and will be surmounted by a handsome turret. The windows are plate glass throughout. Those of the second floor are nicely arched, while the third are gabled, and surmounted with ornamental designs. Fireplaces, large and open, are located on the main floors. The style and class of woodwork, etc., depend entirely on the tenders. These will probably be called in a month.

There Are Ten Idle Men to Every One Employed.

Dundas Street Now Presents a Busy Scene.

Two Gangs Employed-Barber Company Pays $1 25 a Day-What is the Street Railway Paying? - Waterworks Employes Also at Work-Laying a Temporary Track.

Tuesday, Aug. 13 (otherwise today), has been notable in the history of London. At one stroke of the pick, as it were, work was commenced on two great modern improvements electric street railway service and asphalt paving. Neither the Barber company nor the street railway company had any superstitious qualms because of the date, and no doubt the former will put down as good a pavement, and the latter as well an equipped road, as if the work had been begun on any other day than the thirteenth. The men employed by the street railway company were so satisfied with the day that they did not even ask what wages they were to receive. In fact, the only men who felt as if the day was at all unlucky were those who stood along the pavementand they were probably ten to oneand watched their more fortunate brothers work. THE COUNCIL MEETING. Today's developments hinged largely on last night's council meeting, when, as mentioned in Monday's "Adver-tiser," the company asked that the track allowance be paved first in order that the motors could be running by Fair time; also that the company be given permission to lay a track temporarily on the north side of the street. Ald. Carrothers moved that the request be granted, the south side of the road to be done at the same time. Ald. Pritchard seconded

Ald. Armstrong moved that the question be left with the mayor, Ald. Jones and the engineer. Ald. W. Heaman seconded. Ald. Parnell moved in still further enough for the cars to run over it. "What we want is to begin work tomorrow somewhere or somehow." said Mr. Rodney. Ald. Parnell's amendment, granting the request, carried. Mayor Little said that as soon as the Fair was over the asphalt top dressing would be put on. Only the concrete would be laid before OTHER CONCESSIONS ALLOWED

On motion of Ald. Skinner and Ald. Pritchard, the company's request that the double tracks required on Dundas street to Ridout street should be contracted about 100 feet east of Ridout street into a single track, was granted on condition that the city solicitor found no objection and that the street railway company paid the extra cost of paving which would thus devolve upon the city.

Mayor Little presented a statement by the city auditor showing that this would amount to $206 07. The company received permission on the same conditions to reduce from the double track to a single at Richmond street immediately north of the G. T. R. crossing, continuing the single track south to Horton street. Also on Richmond street reducing the double track to single immediately south of the crossing of the C. P. R.

During the discussion a wordy was arose betwen Ald. Carrothers and Ald. O'Meara. "I don't propose to be sat on by a thing like that," Ald. Carrothers said. "A thing!" shouted Ald. O'Meara "He's just as good as you, or any of the breed of you," retorted Ald.

shouted Ald. Carrothers. "Yes, you tackled the wrong party, and you can't take it up, mister," and Ald. OMeara thumped the table. The mayor finally succeeded in restoring order.

The members present were: Mayor Little (in the chair), Ald. Weld, Parnell, Nutkins, Ardill, Dreaney, Callahan, Armstrong, Skinner, W. Heaman, Carrothers, Powell, Jones, O'Meara, J. Heaman, Pritchard and Acting Clerk Bell. IN THE MORNING.

The council chamber was filled with interested workmen. But the number there was not a patch on the crowd that gathered bright and early this morning at the intersection of Dundas and Wellington streets. They sat upon boulevards and lay upon the grass, and when a team brought down a tool box belonging to the Barber company a number secured reserved seats on its top. The morning advanced, but no work was commenced. Down the street Mr. Robert Ironsides and an assistant were busy taking levels, and the foreman was waiting for them to finish before taking on any hands. A number of the more importunate of the men fairly camped out with the foreman, a pleaswell-built, sandy-complexioned American. The most conspicuous of his immediate followers were several small boys who wanted to carry water for

About ten yards east of Wellington street another gang of about a dozen men was busy preparing to put in a temporary switch leading to the north side of the street. Here a single track will be laid, the rails being merely spiked to the cedar block pavement, so as not to cause too much of an ob-struction. The street railway gang follows the Barber gang and takes up the rails as they are laid bare. The men working for the street railway company do not know what they will be paid. "Dollar and a quarter, I expect," said one of the employed.

"I have no idea," said Cashier Currie.
"I don't know, I am sure," answered

Foreman Reycraft.

A BUSY SCENE.

The scene at the corner was a busy one, and the large crowd of idle men standing about made it appear more so. Spread down the block on the north side were a number of men clearing the pavement of encumbrances so that the rails could be laid. On the south side a pile of sand and dirt was being thrown up in front of each store. while waterworks employes dug for the base of the stop-cocks under the sidewalks. These now rest on wood, and as it is feared the wood might rot, iron is being substituted before the pavement is put down. The north side of the street will be treated similarly, and for at least two months the merchants along Dundas street will be put to some disadvantages in the matter of front entrances. And the long-talked-of work is under way at last!

Made an Offer

The Water Commissioners Lap Down Terms

By Which Springbank May Be Entered

By the Street Railway Company-Will the Company Accept ?-Some Interesting Clauses.

The water commissioners held an informal meeting last nigh, at which an offer was submitted to Manager Carr, of the street railway company, upon the terms of which the water commissioners are willing to allow the company to enter Springbank, but not to grant them exclusive entrance. Mr. Carr took the document, a closely typewritten, bulky affair, and will submit were as follows:

The line to be extended 1,200 feet west of the pump house to a point 500 feet west of the baseball grounds. Permission to run at the discretion of the commissioners; road operations to quit upon 90 days' notice in event of the railway interfering with the purity of the water supply. The company to supply lights wherever they cross roads in the park and at their stations. Stations to be built in the vicinity of the pump house and one at the western terminal. Company to indemnify the commissioners and the city from all loss or damages incurred by reason of their running through the grounds.

Company to run at least four trains daily each way; one to leave the city at 6:30 in the morning, and another to leave Springbank at 6 in the evening-a workinkman's train, practically. Parcels of 50 pounds, property of the water commission, to be carried for 5 cents. Company to fence their track through the grounds, or shall fence all the feet high, if required to do so by the commissioners. Company to erect water closets an I haul coal for the use o' Springbank furnaces to the extent of 1,000 tons per annum free; shall put in a switch between their line and the Grand Trunk, and from their line to the department's ponds with a screen wire fence, six coal shed, at their own expense. But in the event of the company heing made to vacate within five years, the commissioners are to pay for the switches and also for the fencing, in excess of what it would have cost to fence the line in the ordinary way. The company shall haul stone or gravel from Springbank to the city. and will haul garbage out of the city at the rate of $1 per car of eight tons.

city or commissioners to supply the necessary switches. Agreement to be bound by the same conditions as the city franchise; cars to be running within 30 days from the date of the execution of the agreement. Commissioners to pay 25 cents a ton for all coal hauled in excess of 1,000

It is altogether probable that the company will not seriously consider the offer, as Mr. Carr has already expressed himself very strongly in regard to some of the points contained in the text. On the other hand, the commissioners state that, while they may alter the basis somewhat, they will not submit to grant exclusive entrance or to be bound for a long term of years. It is interesting to note in the garbage clause a straw which may show the way the wind will blow before very long in the construction of a sewerage farm and the freedom from polluting the river. With the sewer separated from the River Thames, the place will become more and more of a eleasure resort. Three train loads, consisting of two trailers and a motor, were run to the end of the line last night.

SENT FOR TRIAL.

Wm. B. Chisholm One of Canada's Oldest Horse Thieves.

Preliminary Hearing Yesterday-In the Business Thirty Years Ago.

At the interim sessions room in the court house yesterday afternoon one of the most notorious horse thieves Canada ever saw came up for preliminary examination on the charge of stealing a "hoss" and rig from Oneida. Chisholm's days are apparently few. He is now almost 80 years of age, is tall and very frail, and has a head of snow-white hair and similar colored side whiskers, The old man is also badly crippled with rheumatism and gets about with the assistance of a heavy stick. And as he sat without friend or counsel, awaiting trial, he presented a most miserable picture. The charge this time is that of stealing a horse from Abraham C, Cornelius. of Oneida, and a buggy, harness, robe and whip from Charles W. Vallick, a Methodist missionary living directly across the road from Cornelius. A couple of days before the theft Chisbolm was seen in the vicinity of Oneida prowling around in a very suspicious. manner. The evening prior to the theft Cornelius found him in his hay mow, took him into the house and gave him a bed. In the morning Chisholm was given breakfast, and then left the premises. He hung around the place all day, however, but the next day was missing -as were the horse and rig. A few days afterwards Chisholm was arrested in Tilsonburg with the horse and rig. The prisoner claims that the outfit was left with him by another man, whom he does not know. He was sent for trial. As stated before. Chisholm is an old hand at the business. During the olden days when the soldiers were located ere, Chisholm was put on duty with others to try and catch Slippery Jack. After Chisholm's appointment, farmers around the country began to lose their horses. Three or more thefts were re-corded every week, until finally an officer traced one team into Northern Michigan. The horses were recovered and the thief brought back, when it transpired that he and Chisholm were in league. Both went to the penitentiary for long terms.

"But that is only one of his exploits." said an old official, as Chisholm was ushered back to his cell.

A good appetite and refreshing sleep are essential to health of mind and body, and these are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

When Should a Man Swear?

Man is not only a reasoning but a swearing animal, sometimes his feelings are expressed audibly, and at others they are so deep down in his nature that nothing less than a volcano would thrust them to the surface. If man should swear at all, when should that time be? The church is silent on this important matter, and the law gives no sanction to cuss words. Stovepipes are provocative of feeling, but corns are far worse. Wives should see that their husbands' corns are kept down. Uncle Clearwater (noted temperance apostle, on a visit to his nephew, looking out of the parlor window)-What a fine building that is across the way! Nephew-Oh, no; he's a dentist. Content has robbed more men of greatness than has defeat.

In an article in McClure's on Barnum & Bailey's great show, which recently visited the city, the writer says that in the circus, as on the stage, one incurs the risk of disenchantment in going behind the scenes. The queens of the ring, seen in their dressing-room chewing gum and mending an old garment, are not what they are in mid-air. And it is a curious fact that women born in a circus and trained from childhood in the severest athletic exercise, are liable to lose grace of form and carriage, just as other women are, and perhaps earlier and more certainly. This loss, when it occurs, is not always conspicuous before the scenes, but it is more than conspicuous behind them,

The following purports, says the New York Observer, to be an exact translation of the letter sent by a Chinese editor to a would-be contributor, whose manuscript he found it necessary to return: "Illustrious brother of the sun and moon-behold thy servant prostrate before thy feet. I bowtow to thee and beg of thy graciousness thou mayst grant that I may speak and live. Thy honored manuscript has deigned to cast the light of its august countenance upon us. With raptures we have perused it. By the bones of my ancestors, never have I encountered such wit, such pathos, such lofty thought. With fear and trembling I return the writing. Were I to publish the treasure you sent me, the emperor would order that it should be made the standard, and that none be published except such as equaled it. Knowing literature as I do, and that it would be impossible in ten thousand years to equal what you have done, I send your writing back. Ten thousand times I crave your pardon. A woman with a shabby gown and tightened purse strings, may easily be consoled if she will step into a large shop and see the many devices provided for the concealment of a bodice which has seen better days.

Has the back at the neck become slightly soiled, and does benzine refuse to wipe out the stains? She may seek comfort in a large sailor collar of embroiderd grass cloth. Is it the front of the neck which is the objectionable feature. She may secure a stock collar of some fancy color, or a jabot of lace, to be pinned with a bright bit of ribbon over the discolored spot.

Or, perhaps, the gown buttons down the front and the button holes have be-

CHIFFON AND LACE. come ragged. Ah, for such sufferers there are numberless modes of relief. There are soft silk blouse fronts, with rows of narrow Valenciennes lace running up and down. There are stook collars of chiffon, with a fall of chiffon, edged with lace to conceal the entire front. Or, mayhap the blouse front is made of grass cloth with a delicate color underneath. These various confections may be served at very reasonable prices-say ranging from fifty cents up.

"But" some one is complaining "if I can't afford a gown how can I spend money on such things' You need not spend money. We have all odds and ends of lace and silk and bright bits of ribbon, and for deft Amerlcan fingers it is the simplest matter in the world to stand at a counter for a few minutes (while the floorwalker, who knows what you are up to, frowns), and then hasten home to take of those pieces which were hitherto useless, a dainty bit of ornament for a gown which is not all it might be.

I don't advocate this sort of thing for those who can afford to buy. My advice is to the great host who envy the fortunate ones their bright feathers, until the seeds of anarchism are planted in their hearts.

There is a material-silk waterproofof which travelling cloaks, and even entire costumes are made now, which is extremely pretty, light and comfortable, but expensive. Several women who have gone abroad this summer have had gowns made of it and washet de were thing like it. It is quite comfortable waterproof, and, looks like a thin India The best colors are a changeable red and a dark blue with narrow white

Gowns made of it have gored skirts of medium width, trimmed with but a thin heavily corded ruffle two inches wide. These corded ruffles produce the desired flares without making the gown uncomfortable and heavy as broadcloth would

Dark silk petticoats should be worn when travelling. They can now be bought for $5 and $6, with sull bias flounces, trimmed with narrow corded ruffles. They are made of taffeta silk, which does not, alas! wear well, but while it does wear is most satisfactory, for it is cool, light, and keeps out one's skirts far bet-ter than any heavy facing. White petti-coats are not to be thought of, but for those who have a prejudice against dark ones, there are the pongees, which never wear out, and which wash like muslin. A pongee skirt, cut well, gored and hung well, and trimmed with ruffles, is a very nice garment, and admirably adapted for wear when travelling.

There is a natural prejudice against black under clothing, but if it is ever desirable it is when taking a long journey. White corsets soil so easily, and are never just the same after being cleaned, and the black ones are vastly more sensible things to wear when traveling.

The Biarritz gloves, which are without buttons, are preferrable to the buttoned ones, for it is the fashion to wear them a size larger than necessary, and they can be pulled on and off so much more easily. The darker shades of them are the best. Light gloves soil too easily, and black get rubbed and gray after a few hours' wear in the cars. It is a difficult matter to know what style of hat to wear. Nothing that projects at the back of the heed, forcan anything be more uncomfortable than to try to rest one's head against the back of a seat and have the stiff rim of a hat interfere An English walking hat that comes down on the forehead and fits well to the head at the back is the very best pattern of headgear, but it is not always becoming, so that individual tastes must be consulted. White hats, of course, are impossible. Black, dark blue, or brown, are the best colors, and trimmings of ribbon velvet with stiff wings, in preference to feathers or flowers. In a travelling bag it is well to have a flask of brandy, a bottle of salts, a brush, comb, and toilet articles, and a dressing jacket. The regular fitted bags are most delightful things to own, but they are so heavy as to necessitate a maid's services. A large supply of good humor and as little unnecessary luggage as possible, with a trim neat gown will go a long way toward making a woman look well and many a jolly time does she have who is always ready to start off at a day's notice and does not think it necessary to attire herself in laborate and most inappropriate travelling costume.

What is believed to be the largest glacial bowlder in the country is near the little town of Madison, N.H. It is 88 feet long, 49 feet high, 46 feet wide, and 226 feet in circumference. The weight is estimated at 16,800 tons. Marshall Tidd, of North Woburn, Mass., has spent many summers in Madison, and has taken much interest in this giant bowlder. He has consulted all the authorities on the subject, and finds there is only one glacial bowlder which will come anywhere

Members Get Very Warm in a Close Room and Use Unparliamentary Language-Hard Fight Over a Teaching Appointment.

The trouble may have been the lords interjecting questions, very freaugmented by the heat of the small committee room in which the meeting was held (the aldermen were using the regular council chamber) and it was smoked in the 10x20 room. The meet ing was called for 7:30, and as chairman Blackwell had not yet arrived at 7:40. Trustee Murphy was moved into the chair. Matters were running smoothly when Mr. Blackwell appeared at ten minutes to eight, and the discussion of the clause of No. 1 committee's report, recommending the appointment of W. R. Mr. Griffin moved, seconded by Mr. Anderson, that F. Bryant be appointed. Then the chairman announced that Trustee Hunt, who was at Port Stanley, wanted a voice in the selection, and he asked that the matter lay over until he could arrive at 8:25. This was debated and at last voted down. Then some of the members insisted on hearing the testimonials belonging to each man read. This occupied another ten minutes. Trustee Martin moved to adjourn, but the chairman ruled the motion out as there was a motion before the board. Trustee Keenleyside moved amendment to the amendment that the appointment be deferred until the In-

A COMING BOON TO CANADA. One of the best of all gauges for measuring the rise and fall of the world's trade is the production of pig iron. It is the one metal indispensable to a state of high civilization, and a leading characteristic of civilized peoples is trade. If the times are prosperous and commerce is in a healthy condition, the iron furnaces are busy and the demand for iron in the various forms in which it is prepared for use in the arts is large and steady. But on the other hand, if the times are dull and commerce is languishing, mines are closed down or worked with a reduced force, and furnaces are blown out to reduce the output. In the period of depression from which Great Britain and the United States are now emerging, the production of pig iron had fallen off by fully one-third, but new that trade is reviving the output of the mines and furnaces is showing

What is the prospect for increasing the make of iron, and what are the signs of the business times? Here in Canada we have had it dinned into depression at all, and that the blessed N. P. has singlehanded kept the wolf from the door. Of course every business man, every farmer, every workingman knows that this is not true, United States they are heavy over Canada from ocean to ocean. When prosperity comes to others, and especially to those two countries with which we are so closely allied in business affairs, its influence will extend to us also, and the only effect of trade restrictions such as we maintain is to delay its coming.

But what is the outlook?

This question is discussed very interestingly by Edward Atkinson, of Boston, in the August number of the Engineering Magazine, and this usually careful writer is sanguine enough to forecast a period of great industrial activity. Mr. Atkinson is no believer in a policy of trade restrictions; neither does he give any countenance to the nostrum of a double standard in coinage, and both these causes, he believes, contributed largely to the unsettlement of trade in 1892-4. Writing of the United States, Mr. Atkinson says:

"This country is the only machineusing nation which produces food, fuel, metals and fibres far in excess of its own wants. If to that advantage is added a difference in the burden of national taxation corresponding to the previous figures" (he had shown that in the United States the tax imposed for all national purposes Goes not exceed 2 1-2 per cent of the product, while in Great Britain it is more than 6 per cent, and in the Netherlands, France and Germany more than 10 per cent) "there can be no competition on the part of other countries with this country in making any products, except those which depend either upon fashion or fancy for their sale or upon the skill of the handicraft man for their production. These fabrics are relatively unimportant and insignificant in comparison with the great mass of useful goods which the world is calling for in increasing quantity. Capital has accumulated in recent years faster than ever before, especially in this country. Anything that shows a gress profit of 10 per cent would be instantly taken up by capitalists for development. Therefore when useful goods show a profit of 10 per cent free of national taxation, the ratio of our national taxes to that profit is 2 1-2 to 10; in Great Britain at least 6 to 10; in France and Germany 10 to 10. That is to say, our rate of national taxation takes only 2 1-2 parts from gross profit of 10; other things being equal, the British national taxation takes 6 parts from 10; in France and Germany national taxation takes the whole. But other things are not equal, the advantage is with us. Manifestly the capital and the skilled workmen will tend year by year to that section of country in which the highest wages can be earned by converting the greatest abundance of crude products into finished goods under the least burden of national tax- the recent dreadful crime will change.

ation. Yet Great Britain /will retain her supremacy in manufactures and commerce if she maintains her standard or unit of value, the pound sterling and we do not maintain our own. When we surely lestablish the unit of walue in this country so as to give confidence in its maintenance and in its integrity, we shall assume our paramount position in the production and distribution of all useful fabrics. Possessing as we do the power to produce food, fuel, fibres and metals in excess of all our wants; enjoying absolute free trade on a continental scale over a large area and among a greater number of people than ever before secured that great advantage, and holding the control and use of practically unlimited supplies of the ores of iron and copper upon which the commercial world must soon rest for its principal supply of these metals-our dominion is established.'s

These are all important points for consideration, and particularly to us in Canada who have been committing the three-fold folly of piling up a national debt, increasing the rate of taxation for national purposes, and building a Chinese wall to shut out trade with our continent. But as to the coming period of good times, Mr. Atkinson finds the evidence of it in the almost steadily increasing demand for iron and the rapid growth of the production of that metal. In 1856 England's consumption of iron per head was 144 lb., that of the United States 117 lb., of Belgium 70 lb., of France 60 lb., of Germany 50 lb., and the world's total production in that year was 6,000,000 gross tons. In 1889 the estimated consumption per head in the United States was 300 lb., and in Great Britain, Franc, Germany and Belgium 175 lb. while the total production in all those countries was 22,800,000 tons. Mr. Atkinson estimates the world's production in 1890 at 25,000 000 tons, and on the rate of progress since 1856 he computes the prospective demand of the world in the year 1900 to be 40,000,000 tons. In this large increase he finds evidence of his forecast for a period of great industrial activity, and out of the total 15,000,000 tons of growth from 25,000,000 in 1890 to 40,-000,000 in 1900, he assumes that 7,-000,000 tons will fall to the share of the United States, or an aggregate production of 14,000,000 tons. If these estimates are realized the boon to Canada cannot fail to be very great, in view of the immense iron ore deposits we possess as yet untouched by the hand of man. But much depends on what we may do in the interval. Very much depends on what we shall Never before in the history of Canada did so much depend on the adoption of a liberal trade policy and the establishing of closer and friendlier relations with our great neighbor.

Hon. Edward Blake, according to our cable dispatches, is making steady headway in Great Britain, both in his profession and as a member of the British House of Commons.

Our fellow-countryman has in recent months been engaged in some of the most important legal cases coming before the British Privy Council, and we have information from England that if he chooses he can have the advocacy of the cream of the colonial appeals that go before the highest court in the empire. Politically, Mr. Blake also holds a position of prominence, and it is asserted that if he chooses he can have the position of leader of the Irish M.P.s. It is doubtful if he will accept such an onerous post, however. Mr. Blake comes to Canada to visit his relations, and then proceeds to New Zealand on an important legal mission. THE HOUR OF CLOSING.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": I see that the license inspector has expressed the carry observed affican when the hour was half-past ten. We can agree with him this far, that if the saloons were allowed to sell the whole 24 hours, there would be few infractions of the law. Notwithstanding the sharp but shallow saying that people cannot be made good by act of Parliament, most ordinary people will continue to believe that increased opportunities for getting drink will be followed by increased drinking, and that increased drinking is always followed by an increase of poverty, hunger and crime. It is the old story -history repeating itself. Many will remember some years ago when the hours for closing the bars was eleven o'clock, but the liquor dealers succeeded in convincing the authorities that the law would be better observed if the hours were made twelve, and twelve it was made. You will soon see that the next move will be for twelve o'clock, on the plea that the law would be better observed. Drinking in bars after ten o'clock is surely unnecessary, and citizens had better be warned before it is too late. If they do not govern the saloon, the saloon will govern them, as it does in many other places. If Christian people will continue to encourage the saloon, to work with the saloon and to vote for the saloon candidate, they must expect saloon consequences to follow.

Instead, they offered $2,000 for a race between Gentry and Patchen, leaving Robert J. out, but Col. Montreal, Aug. 13.-Mr. M. P. Baldwin, of London, Ont., son of his Lordship the Bishop of Huron, is in the city on a cycling tour which will cover fully 1,500 miles of road before he returns home again. About three weeks ago Mr. Baldwin, leaving the city of London, wheeled to Wiarton, and thence to Owen Sound, where he took the steamer City of Collingwood for Manitoulin Island. He traveled some 200 miles on the island. Returning to Owen Sound by steamer, Mr. Baldwin wheeled back to London and thence on to Toronto, to Kingston and to Montreal. From there he will proceed to Quebec and Riviere du Loup, and when he returns to London Mr. Baldwin estimates he will have wheeled over 1,500 miles. One thing which he remarked was that the worst roads which he met with were in the last 75 miles before he reached Montreal, having sometimes to leave the public highway and proceed for miles on the railway track. coming back to London Mr. Baldwin and a companion, Mr. Andras, also of London, traveled 200 miles. There is no certainty, however, that it was Valkyrie that was sighted off Cape Race, but if she is any nearer this port her presence has not been noted.

At a Man Who Looked in Her Window-The Bullet Took Effect.

For some time past residents on the west end of Horton street have been bothered with an unknown man who has made a practice of prowling around at nights and looking in people's windows.

Sunday night the intruder went to the room of Mrs. Fred Pickard, at 92 Horton, and endeavored to raise the window. Mrs. Pickard was in the room at the time and frightened the man away, warning him that if he returned she would shoet him. The stranger did return a short time afterwards and had raised the window only a few inches when Mrs. Pickard, true to her word, got the revolver and fired it at the then retreating figure.

The bullet is supposed to have struck the fellow in the shoulder, as he was seen to raise his hand to it. Blood stains were found in the man's tracks, but they are the only clue to his identity. The police have been notified, but no

CANARIES FOR CONVICTS. Michigan Convices Keep Them for Com

fort and Rai e Them! for Profit. Jackson, Mich., Aug. 12.-Convicts in the Michigan state prison have many more favors than those of almost any other penitentiary in the Uni d States, and it is the belief of the management of the institution that for this reason there are fewer outbreaks of lawlessness than are found elsewhere. Among the favors granted to them here is that of keeping and caring for birds. There are fully 600 feathered songsters in Michigan's principal penal institution, all owned and cared for by the convicts, and as soon as daylight approaches on bright mornings their sweet notes are heard in striking contrast to the natural feelings of their wners. Many of the most hardened crimin als, who, from their general appear ance and history, would not be expected to care for anything of a refining nature, tenderly care for and caress their little pets.

More than three-quarters of the cells in the prison contain one or more canaries, and they are also found in various shops throughout the institution. During the day the cages are hung cutside the cells to give the birds light and air, but as soon as the convict returns from work at night the cage is taken inside. This practice has been carried on in the prison for years, and the officials say that instead of any detrimental effect being noticeable the little songsters have proved a benefit, as they not only give the cells a more home-like appearance, but they also wield a decided influence in the way of humanizing the most reckless and hardened criminal. Besides being permitted to keep the birds for the sake of their company and influence, the convicts are also allowed to raise them to sell, and many a dollar is credited to the accounts of the prisoners from this source. Of course. the convict handles none of the money realized from the sale of the birds until he is discharged, but it is placed to his credit in the prison bank.

It is interesting to walk up and down the prison corridors and note the different kinds of canaries in the cages, and more particularly to note the different methods adopted by the convicts in caring for their pets. All styles of cages are to be seen, and while one bird is provided with a veritable palace of a home and all the luxuries known in the bird world, the one in front of the next cell will have simply the plainest wood or wire cage and only the ordinary seed and water hold-This is also true in the shops, ers. and the character of the convict can

Through the day the music of the birds is hardly noticeable, although it can be heard more or less at almost any time, but on a bright morning the songsters are pleasingly noisy. On the afternoon of July 25 the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Rolph Dorchester Station, was entered and taken possession of by their children, grandchildren, and great-grandchild-ren in honor of the 50th anniversary of their marriage. Two members of the family were not present, the eldest son, Frank, residing near St. Paul, Minn., and Mrs. R. Groat, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. For a short time the quiet little home presented a lively scene, as homes generally do where the children enjoy unrestricted freedom. After spending a very pleasant time together the self-invited guests took their departure, not, however, before presenting Mr. and Mrs. Rolf with a purse containing a little of the "needful" with which to secure a suitable memorial of the event.

Mrs. R. F. Howard, of Glencoe, is visiting with her mother in Petrolea. Alex. Thompson, formerly in Glen-coe, has bought out the tailoring business of J. McEachren, in Alvinston. Miss Eva McKenzie, of Glencoe, who has been visiting friends in Toronto, has returned to her home here. Mrs. H. Taylor, of Detroit, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Robt. Stevenson, Glencoe, has returned home. Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kennedy, con. 12. London township, were "At Home" on Tuesday evening last to the numerous friends and members of the Littlewood auxiliary of the W. M. S. The rooms were well filled and refresh-ments served by a most attentive hostess. Addresses were given by Rev. Messrs. Garbutt, Barltrop and Mc-Vitty; recitations by Miss Harvey, city; songs by Mrs. Dr. Robson, Rev. C. Barltrop, Messrs. Graham, Merritt, and the Misses Hodgins and Kennedy. A good silver collection was taken up. Rev. John Campbell, who recently arrived in this country from Scotland with a commission from the colonial committee of the Free Church of Scotland, preached in Gaelic and English in Burns' Presbyterian Church, Mesa, last Sabbath with much aceptance. Mr. Campbell's discourses were of the rich, experimental kind which characterized the preaching of Scotland in her palmlest preaching period. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell go to Glensandfield for a few weeks.

Mrs. Andrews, of Clinton, who is visiting Dr. Steep, Fort Rouge, left last evening for Portage la Prairie, where she will be the guest of Rev. A.

Ross.-Winnipeg Free Press. Constable Atkinson, of Guelph, discovered two youths on Sunday night burglarizing Quigley's shoe store. He captured both. They were Edward White, of Detroit, and Wm. Smith, of Chicago. An epidemic of dysentery of a serious nature has broken out among the innates of the Thomas Williams Home, St. Thomas, the source of which, it is believed, has been traced to a disused sewer running under the building.

Wm. Carrick, of Oban, Sarnia town-ship, who died Aug. 7, was one of the oldest settlers and most respected residents of that part. He was a native of England and 80 years of age. He settled in Lambton in 1852, clearing 200 acres of land, then woods. A wife and nine children survive him.

The St. Thomas police are looking for John William Bell on a serious charge. On Saturday night, it is claimed, he went to the residence of Frank Keegan, who is employed at the Wilson House, and attempted to assault his wife, who is in a delicate condition. A number of M. C. R. employes, hearing the woman's screams, went to her assistance. Bell made his escape. Bell was tried at the assizes in March last on a charge of assaultng Mrs. J. A. Smith, St. Thomas. The jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty demned those who circulate scandalous and unfounded stories about their neighbors. Among other things he "The slanderer injures others said: by robbing them of what is more precious than money. The man who robs another of a cow or a horse would probably if discovered be sent to prison; but the slanderer may do a hundred times worse than that, and yet escape the law of the land. To rob a man of his character, or friends, is surely worse than robbing a man of his cows or horses, or even burning his house. Shakespeare represents a character as dropping poison into an ear. That is the work of the slanderer. His tongue is full of deadly poison. He drops it into the ears of others, in the form of lying or insinuating words. He grops it into their eyes, in the form of insinuating looks or actions. We are told that the deadliest poisons in nature are those for which no test is known. One drop of these insinuated into the veins produces death in three seconds; and yet, no chemical science can separate the poison from the blood, and say-this is the poison. So the most hurtful slander may be that of which no hold can be taken. It may be produced by a shrug of the shoulder, a nod of the head, a glance of the eye, or by silence when duty demands speech. In such and other ways the unbridled tongue may rob of character, and in a short time poison dear friends, thus making them as if they were dead to each other. It thus transgresses the sixth, the eighth, and the ninth commandments. If the thief, the burglar, the incendiary, or the murderer is wicked, need we hesitate in saying that the slanderer with his unbridled tongue is a wicked and dangerous character."

SCANDAL.

Character Robbery One of the Meanest Offenses of Which Man or Woman Can be Guilty.

888 Richmond St. KANSAS' UKEAT CORN CROP.

Quarter of a Billion Bushels-Will Feed the Country. Chicago, Aug. 13 .- "The bigness of our corn crop beggars the arithmetic,' said Frank P. MacLernan, editor of the Topeka State Journal, in an interview here today. "You will understand in a measure what corn figures of Kansas mean when I say to you that the crops will be more than a quarter of a billion bushels. It will exceed 300,000,000 bushels. It will give 5 bushels, or 400 pounds, to every man, woman and child in the United States, and leave enough to send several shiploads to Russia. The corn is practically 'made. Much of it matured very early, and frosts have no chance for anything more than killing the leaves which convey the nourishment to the ear-

("Advertiser" Agent, A. McGregor.) Aug. 12 .- The Mount Brydges Methodist Sunday school picnicked at the Council House grounds near the Mount Elgin Institute. Rev. G. J. Kerr and Superintendent Elsey had charge of the party, which numbered 300 happy people, old and young. Everyone seemed bent on having a good time, and they evidently were successful. As usual, the Tecumseh Cornet Band (Muncey) enlivened the occasion with their stirring selections and serenades, to the satisfaction of the white brothers and sisters. Before supper there was a friendly game of football, in which the two preachers took part-Baptist and Methodist. Both of the reverend gentlemen are excellent kickers, but the Methodist side got the best of the match. At 5 p.m. the ladies spread the tablecloths on the grass in shady places about ten rods long, and after singing grace enjoyed them-In a recent address Rev. Angus Macselves heartily. Provisions sick. Cudahy covered short pork, and held that from breaking badly, but lard and ribs don't seem to be wanted. The Herald estimates the total wheat crop at 373,000,000 bushels on Government report. The market seems to have builted wheat as much as its ability without better assistance from Europe. The trade threatens to weaken materially on account of the spring wheat crop, the movement of which promises to be a large as transportation facilities can supply. Visible-Wheat, 37,839,000; corn, 4,-613,000; oats, 3,925,000; rye, 254,000; barley, 44,000. English visible increased 1,-280,000 the time for the past three months, returning yesterday from the Northwest. From what he says, there is no doubt the spring wheat crop is the largest ever harvested. He says Manitoba will have 30,000,000 bushels for export. He believes the yield of corn prenomenal, and that it will be nearer 3,000,000,000 than 2,500,000,000. He says oats, barley and potatoes are all immense. This mean low prices for breadstuffs and high prices for stocks.

An extraordinary wager was decided in a certain bar in Cork lately, when a man swallowed six dozen raw eggs and a quart of milk for a wager. The eggs were broken up and divided between two half-gallon measures for the pur-

the purpose of washing down the remarkable feast. A tragic incident occurred at Coagh, recently, during the election of a member for East Tyrone. Mr. Jeremiah Maneely, a voter, became so excited that he dropped dead at the polling

A Detroit Dispatch says: Last night a Frenchman named Fountain, from London, Ont., asked a policeman to send him to a station as he was homeless and penniless. The officer did so, and a charge of vagrancy was entered against him. This morning while in the police court he was seized with a nervous erileptic fit. The judge ordered him turned over to the city physician and the poor commission. Fountain told Secretary Dwyer that he is a teacher of the French language by profession, and that he had made London, Ont., his permanent home, but was ruined by epilepsy. He has been an inmate of a charitable institution in London, but they got tired of caring for him at the public expense over there, and he claims that he was shipped to this city, the tickets being supplied by the mayor's office in London. Secretary Dwyer, of the Poor Commission, said although he felt very sorry for the stranger, he thought Detroit had all it could attend to caring for its own unfortunates. He therefore shipped Fountain back to Canada. BAND CONCERT.

Beats His Wife Unmercifully—Street Car Lrivers in Court—An Incorrigible Woman.

Levi F. Lattimer, a cooper living with his wife and two children, was the lone occupant of the police court cage this morning. He was arrested for threatening his wife. Mrs. Lattimer wept as she told her story.

Between sobs she stated that she had been married to Lattimer for nineteen years. He had been drinking almost incessantly since Dominion Day and had beaten her three times and used very threatening language. He came home on Monday, and hearing that the oldest boy had been to church on Sunday, began to find fault. She interfered when he made a vicious kick at her and threatened to cut her liver out.

On the afternoon of Saturday, July 13, he came home very drunk, locked the doors and pounded me to his heart's content,' sobbed Mrs. Lattimer. "And had I not called 'murder' I doubtless would never have lived to tell the tale."

Mrs. Lattimer has kept herself and two children by sewing, and says she is still able to. The prisoner did not deny his wife's story. He was committed to find $200 sureties to keep the peace. Degraded Mary Ann Carey, who was

"Even her white hair. Why, sir," the doctor proceeded, after a moment's pause, "have you thought what she went through in a few hours? Her disappointment in Molesworth, the revulsion of feeling it must have caused, her return, her meeting with Mildred, dressed and ready to take her part in the great drama they were playing, the shock and realization which must have come at the sight of what her change of intention would tear from the poor girl with whom she had lately interchanged every token of affection; then the hurried rush to get back into her own clothes which likewise meant her own identity, followed by that final act of Mildred which in one moment made the room a charnel-house and threw across her triumph and the festivities of the hour, a pall of mortal fear and horror, which was all the more terrible that she must hide it from every eye, even from that of her bridegroom. And then that shrick, telling of some unknown terror and discovery. Either Mildred had come to life, and was in anguish to find herself locked in the room with her memortes and the smell of death upon her; or the key that Genevieve held in her bosom had not turned the lock, and in a moment, perhaps, she would hear another shrick and this time that of Murder! Was there no fierce mental strain is this? Then the thought which must have been continually with her of what she should say and do, when concealment was no longer possible, and she must not only explain the presence of this dead girl in her room, but the incidents and possibly the shameful scheme whose failure had produced the catastrophe. Do You think she was not planning excuses and uttering mental pleas all the time she was receiving the congratulations of her friends? And then the shock of seeing Molesworth at the door, Molesworth whom she had in a measure betrayed, and who she must have felt was capable of anything at that moment, even of denouncing her to her bridegroom and the hundreds of guests there assembled. Was it not a moment to try the soul of the strongest man, much less that of a weakened and already greatly troubled woman? And when by her hurried action she had forstalled his possible speech, and by her woman's wit succeeded in hiding herself with him in that room of death above, can you not imagine the shame and horror which must have overcome her as she found heirself forced to show him the shastly results of her trick and plead with him for aid where she hoped to to triumph over him in her disdain. If this and all of this was not enough to whiten her hair in a night, I can imagine no train of circumstances that would. My own hair almost turns at the thought of it, and I am a hard and world-worn man."

"You are her worthy advocate," affirmed the inspector, "and I am almost convinced by your arguments. I should like to ask you one question, however, which may strike you as impertinent and unfeeling, but which I assure you is prompted by no other sentiment than the desire to do you a service." "Ask it; I know of nothing which I should dare withhold from you in this

"It presupposes that you know me to be acquainted with the letters you have just shown Mr. Gryce, and it is in regard to the sentiment with which you suppose your wife to regard you. It is love, you say?" 'Yes, sir.'

"Not gratitude simply, nor regard; but love?" "Love."

'Yet It is but a short dime since she was pouring out the most extravagant expressions of affection for another. Excuse me; I cannot stop to soften these hard truths."

"I know; but a passion so wild and unrestrained has terrible revulsions. She needed just such an experience perhaps, to show her what true love

'And you have missed nothing?-nothing in her regard for you I mean?" A smile appeared on the doctor's pale lips for an instant. "If I had no trouble but that I should be a very happy

The inspector, grave beyond his wont, eyed the doctor doubtfully. "You are not deceiving yourself?" he asked significantly. "Pretty women can often make a man believe anything." The doctor rose. Anger flashed from his eye and sounded in the tone of his

"You insult a most miserable man," he began, but meeting the inspector's eye, he stopped, quivered and sat down. "I see that this is only another wrench of the rack," he exclaimed. "You have a purpose other than that of destroying "I want to find out if Genevieve Gretorex was of so light a nature she could turn from one love to another in the twinkling of an eye."

Dr. Cameron surveyed the speaker, realized what danger might lie in his reply, and was silent.

"I cannot believe," the inspector in-exorably pursued, "that a woman who could feel and express herself as Genevieve Gretorex has done in these letters we have read, could from any mere revulsion of feeling, give her whole self to you with that freshness and ardor your language seems to imply. And still the doctor was silent.

"If time had elapsed, if after a season of indifference and mental depression she had shown, first appreciation of your goodness and then a gradual awakening love for the man who eherished her so fondly, I could have understood her conduct, But to leap from one ardent passion into another without pause or transition seems so unnatural that I should not blame you if you felt some doubt as to the truth."

"But—" the doctor began in protest, though he got no further. He felt himself in a net tand he did not know which self in a net and he did not know which way to turn. The inspector noted him keenly and proceeded with seeming heartlessness.

"Would not that have been your opinion if it were another man's case than your own that you were considering?" "Possibly; I cannot say-I seem to have lost the power of thinking; you awake a nest of sleeping serpents in my breast and ask me to stand off and analyze their writhings. Is it necessary to make me suffer so?"

"It is necessary. That you suffer fixes an important fact in my mind. Had you not suffered-had you been able to contradict me—I should possibly have drawn different conclusions. You will fergive me when you receive the clew to my motives."

"But am I not to know them now? Am I to be kept waiting in this sus-

"Dr. Cameron, I will not keep you in suspense. Though in consideration of Mrs. Cameron's condition I shall refrain for the present time from placing her under actual arrest, I am so co. fident that she knows more than she ever told us concerning this poor girl's death that I must beg of you to consider her as under surveillance. You will find when you return home, a woman in your parlors whom I request you to place at your wife's side in the capacity of nurse, though her business directly is that of a detective. She is a kindly, capable, and discreet woman who will nither offend you nor betray us. May I rely upon you to receive her and put nothing in the way of fulfilling her duties properly?"

"Ah, sir," came from Dr. Cameron in a burst of shame and agony, "how can I do otherwise! Are you not the master of my fate and honor?"

The inspector who found this as hard a piece of work as he ever had had to do in his life, shook his head. "I go no further than my duty compels me," said he. "You have been made the victim of a woman wholly unworthy of you, and have my sympathy, as you will have that of every other honest man in the community."

But the doctor did not care for sympathy; it was justice he wanted. "And is there no escape?" he cried. "Must we submit to this indignity, though you do not even know there was any murder committed?"

"There is a mysterious death to ac-count for and Mrs. Cameron is the only one who can account for it. To be sure if we knew all that Dr. Moles-worth could tell—"

"That he shall tell. I will appeal to him and he will answer with the The inspector gazed at the other, compassionately, "You might not want to hear it," he suggested. But the doctor flashed out quickly and earnestly:

"I do. These doubts, this uncertainity will ruin me. If you think he knows the facts which surround Mildred Farley's death, confront me with him. He will not long retain his secret when he sees what his silence will cost me.' But the inspector was not so sanguine. "Dr. Molesworth is a very strong man, and having made up his mind to suppress the truth in this matter, it will not be so easy to force him into speech."

"He does not know that my wife has confessed to the death of this girl in her room."

"And do you propose to tell him " "If you wil countenance me in so do-

"And you think that will be sufficient to loosen his tongue?" "Yes, sir."

"I do not agree with you. Men of his stamp have peculiar ideas of honor. If he was willing to perjure himself to Fave your wife from consequences that she feared, he will need something more than this indirect acknowledgment from her to make him change the story predetermined between them." "Not with the arguments I shall add to it. If he is a strong man, I am a desperate one, and I will wring the truth from him if he be made of iron." (To be continued.)

A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than a) half-bottle cured me; I certainly be-lieve it saved my life. It was with reluctaince that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good."

LARRY LAWLESS' SUICIDE.

One of the Bullets Passed Through the Heart.

What Transpired at the Coroner's In-Quest-Deceased D. sponding -The Verdict.

The circumstances surrounding the tragic death of Lawrence Lawless, the postoffice clerk who fired seven bullets into his left breast on Friday night last, were ventilated before Coroner Dr. Flock and a jury last night. The inquest was held at the police station at 7:30 o'clock, and lasted about two hours, but in that time an unusually large amount of evidence was taken. From the very first, however, everything pointed to suicide, and the jury judging by their remarks, were very weary. In fact one member wanted to stop before half the witnesses were examined, but things were not going that way, and the proceedings went

The story of the suicide, as published in Saturday's "Advertiser," was fully corroborated by John R. Gosling, proprietor of the house where Lawless boarded; John E. Rose, who assisted in forcing open the door of deceased's room; Sergt. Robt. Crawford, and P. C. Thomas Howie, who were called in by Mr. Gosling, and Misses Etta and Sarah McIntyre, two servants in the house, the former having just entered her room somes the hall just entered her room across the hall from Lawless' when the firing began. It was she who raised the alarm, after artial recovery from nervous pros-

R. J. C. Dawson, postmaster at the city postoffice, spoke of Lawless as a third-class clerk, whose attendance to his duties had been very good. Mr. Dawson had seen him very frequently, and never considered him unfit for duty. Lawless was appointed in 1879, and had been once suspended for de-laying some registered letters. That was many years ago. Mr. Arthur Carrothers, a fellowclerk of Lawless', was a pretty inti-mate friend of Larry's and frequently paid his insurance assessments. The money was always repaid. Mr. Carrothers had heard that Lawless was in financial difficulties, and that his wages were to be garnisheed. That was the end of it. Deceased had a United Workmen policy for $2,000, payable to his wife.

The only evidence to show that poor Lawrence was in the least despondent was given by Mr. Addison Raymond, stamp vendor at the office. The rest of the witnesses had always found him very quiet, yet agreeable. Raymond had found him the same, even on the afternoon of his death. A month or so previous to that, however. Lawless was reciting his troubles to Raymond, and said that a man was better dead than in such difficulties. "It mde an impression on me," said Raymond, "as he had talked rather strangely before, and I was not in the least surprised when I heard he had taken his own life."

The result of the post-mortem was given by Dr. Waugh. The body was well nourished and developed, and all the organs were in a healthy condition, except the kidneys and liver. Six of the seven bullets had entered the body, and one had become lodged the chest walls. The lowest ball entered the spleen, two passed through the stomach, another went through the lung, another took the same course and injured the heart, while the highest had also passed through the lung and heart. This bullet, the dootor was satisfied, had produced death. Dr. Waugh was satisfied from the direction of the bullets, that Lawless had worked the revolver with his left Coroner Flock, before leaving the matter to the jury, called attention to the many stories which had gone about Lawless' domestic Derogatory remarks had troubles. been made about his (Lawless') motherin-law, Mrs. Barrett, of Dundas street, London West. The coroner had learned, however, that she had acted a very good part, and had proven herself a lady. During Larry's financial troubles she had mortgaged her house for $450 and advanced it to him, and that mortgage, with the exception of $50. was still standing against the property. Both Mrs. Barrett and her daughter were ladies in every sense of the word, and were in no way to blame for the rash act.

The fury unanimously agreed, and without leaving the room returned a verdict that the wounds were inflicted by Lawless with suicidal intent.

MAD DOG SCARE.

Four-Year-Old Child Bitten on the Hand.

Wound Cauterized and the Dog Kept a Prisoner Awaiting Developments -Acts Queerly - Who Owns It?

There was a genuine mad dog scare on William street near Grey yesterday afternoon, and as a result a little girl has a cauterized hand, and a spaniel dog is a prisoner, awaiting develop-

The little 4-year-old daughter of Mr. Thomas Evans, of 152 William street, was playing in her father's yard, when the dog entered. The animal appeared to be all right, but as it came near the girl it snapped at her, sinking its teeth into her hand. The screams of the child brought the other members of the family to her. Medical aid was summoned at once, and the dog was locked up in the barn. It was acting queerly, and the family thought that it showed signs of hydrophobia. A doctor came, and the child was put under chloroform and the hand cauterized. A veterinary and a dog fancier were also brought to examine the dog, and it was decided to keep it for awhile and await results.

Today the little girl was resting very easily. The dog was still in the barn, and still acted queerly, although Mr. Evans thought that distemper might be the trouble with it. Mr. Evans is cashier at the M. C. R. depot. The dog is a nice specimen of a black cocker spaniel. It had no tag and nothing to identify it except a leather collar and brass buckle.

A Good Investment.

There is no surer or better way to invest spare funds than in endowment policies in a well-established and prosperous company. The returns may not be as large as in some other lines, but when taken in connction with the protection afforded to the life assured in the event of early death, no more desirable investment is possible. Dr. Moore, of Brampton, took out an en dowment policy of $1,000 in July, 1880, which matured on the 1st inst. A PIONEER'S BIRTHDAY. Mrs. Elizabeth Logan, Thorndale, Logan, celebrated her 95th birthday yesterday. Mrs. Logan is the widow of the late Strobart Logan, and was born in Edinburgh. They settled in Nissouri, in a clearing in the forest. over half a century ago, and there Mrs. Logan still lives. The old lady retains all her faculties, and remembers when in the early pioneering days of herself and her husband they had to bring their sheep into their log hut one severe winter to save them from the wolves. Even then the animals were so ferocious that they came and placed their front paws on the sill of the only window the place could boast of, and pressed their faces against the pane. Mrs. Logan has seen Middlesex grow from the virgin forest to be the head center of Western Ontario. Her children are Robert (G. T. R.), and George, city; Andrew, William and Thomas, Nissouri; John, Arkona; Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzsimmons, Arkona, and Mrs. Margaret McQueen, Sault Ste.

STRANGE RELATIONSHIPS.

It is rarely that a daughter becomes her mother's mother-in-law, yet this curious coincidence does occasionally lappen.

A friend of mine, a colonel in the army, had been a widower for some years, and resided with his sons and daughters in Plymouth. At a ball given by the officers of his regiment he met a beautiful young girl, with whom he fell desperately in love, and, to make a long story short, they were soon married. At the year's end there was an addition to the family. Of course, the mother came to be with her daughter on this interesting occasion, and, being handsome, well-preserved woman the colonel's eldest son became much attached to her, and before long led her to the hymeneal altar. Thus the daughter became mother-in-law to her own mother. Another strange relationship is that of a lady who is mother-in-law to her two sisters in a somewhat similar fashion to the above, they having married her stepsons. I myself am cousin to my own sister, she having espoused my husband's first cousin, and am second cousin to my nephews-her sons. -Tit-Bits.

One of the best attractions to our citizens on Monday next (Civic Holiday) is the excursion to Niagara Falls under the auspices of Court Forest Queen, Ancient Order of Foresters. The rate for a two-day excursion has been put within the reach of all, ling only $1 75, so that none need be deterred from attending on that score. The many attractions at the Falls make this a most pleasant resort, and it is becoming more popular every year.
