

CAPT. SCOTT AND 4 PERISH 11 MILES FROM SUPPLIES RETURNING FROM POLE

Vivid Story of Tremendous Hardships Told in Capt. Scott's Own Diary—Provisions Were Short, and Unusually Stormy Weather Prevailed.

WERE NEAR THE BASE OF SUPPLIES BUT DIED ONE BY ONE OF HUNGER

[Canadian Press.]

London, Feb. 11.—Grief and pride in the simple narrative of high courage, endurance and sacrifice given in Capt. Robert F. Scott's farewell message to the world, written before he was doomed to death with his companions, in the Antarctic ice and snow, are close competitors for dominance in the feelings of the British public today.

"It is a white and not a black mourning we wear for these gallant souls who have done and dared so greatly," is the prevailing note in the comment.

Scott's Last Words.

The closing words of Capt. Scott's epic:

"Had we lived I should have had a tale to tell of the hardihood, the endurance and the courage of my companions, which would have stirred the heart of every Englishman. These rough notes and our dead bodies must tell the tale, but surely, surely, a great and rich country like ours will see that those who are dependent upon us are properly provided for."

Steps are on foot already to respond to his appeal to the nation by assuring a comfortable home and future for those dependent on the men who, while awaiting certain death, could still write that they did not regret their journey.

TURKS LOSE 5,000 IN BULAIR FIGHT

Bulgarian Shell Fire Was Excellently Directed on the Attacking Force.

COMPELLED TO RETIRE

Warships Kept Up Heavy Fire and Saved Retreating Troops From Annihilation.

[Canadian Press.]

Sofia, Feb. 11.—The Turkish army in the peninsula of Gallipoli lost between 5,000 and 6,000 men and 50 officers during the fighting at Bulair, according to an official who arrived here. Several thousands of Turkish soldiers fell in a battle before the Tchatala lines on Feb. 9, and thousands more at Charkui to the south of the Rodosto.

The report says that the Bulgarian army having repulsed several Turkish attacks along the Tchatala lines, except on the extreme right flank where they were exposed to the fire from the more and Gulf of Buyuk Chekmedje, retired to fresh positions, five or six miles back.

Losses Insignificant.

The losses of the Bulgarians were insignificant, while those of the Turks amounted to several thousand men, mainly due to the excellently directed Bulgarian shell-fire.

The report continues: "The Bulgarians are entrenching their positions in front of Bulair. Large bodies of men have been sent out to clear the field of battle of the dead bodies of Turkish soldiers, which number from 5,000 to 7,000. It is expected that a number of wounded Turkish soldiers must be more than double that great."

Shelled by Warships.

The Turkish warships shelled the Bulgarian left flank all day but only killed one and slightly wounded another Bulgarian soldier.

"The Turkish troops which descended upon Charkui, left the port of Rodosto, on Saturday and Sunday were almost surrounded by the Bulgarian army and were compelled to retire hastily under the protection of the Turkish warships to their transports lying off the coast."

"The Bulgarian infantry on shore kept up a deadly fire on the small boats loaded with Turkish troops inflicting losses amounting to several thousand men. The Bulgarian losses in the whole affair did not exceed 100 killed and wounded."

SCOTT A REAL MAN SINCERE, HONEST SAYS AMUNDSEN

Leaves a Greater Name Than Any Mere Discoverer Ever Could.

TELLS OF HORRORS IN THE ICE FIELDS

Hopeless Tramp in the Cold—The Silence of the Snow.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

[By Captain Roald Amundsen, the Discoverer of the South Pole.]

Chicago, Feb. 11.—In this my first and only statement regarding the terrible but superbly heroic death of Captain Robert F. Scott and his four companions in the Antarctic regions, I wish, first of all, to point out the picture, as I conceive it, of this most awful of all the tragedies ever enacted on the wastes of the polar ice fields, to bow before the great character of my companion-discoverer, Robert F. Scott, who by his declarations in his diary, has left as a monument a record of a man, a man as sincere, as honest and as modest as the rough "polar bear" who pushed the snow before him.

"Discoverer" could ever hope to equal. Was Too Modest.

Captain Scott, indeed, far from ever assuming too much—a trait quite common to many pioneers of the ice lands—took rather too little credit to himself. He showed a contented spirit in his diary, to simply verify my findings. And this, although he reached the pole but a little over a month later.

The last news we heard of Captain Scott and his four companions was in legends of 47 minutes after their arrival in New Zealand that they had brought back all the dogs, leaving Scott without any traction power at all. This means that these men had to haul the sledges filled with provisions themselves. This is one thing that our party never did. We figured that provisions were the most important thing, and we feared to trust their carriage to any human beings. Dogs hold out long after men's strength has failed. Just what circumstances resolved Scott to undertake to transport his own sledges I do not know. However, his reason must have been a good one, for he was an experienced explorer and had traversed the snow-fields before.

It was Jan. 3, 1912, when the Terra Nova party took leave of Scott. According to the diary Scott reached the Pole Jan. 18, just fifteen days later. We had discovered the Pole Dec. 14, 1911—only a month and four days previously.

Will Never Be Told. Immediately on setting his flag at the Pole and verifying our findings, Scott turned back. The record of that returning flight will never be told. It is beyond the power of man so to do.

Imagine—he was a man who had reached one of the Poles, one of that scarce and honored company of men who were ready to welcome him and to do him homage as it has so generously done homage to me. His was a pure scientific spirit, and he was anxious, as his diary shows, to corroborate what I have reported on my own word.

He started up from the end of the world towards home, towards civilization, warmth, friends, glory, children, and wife and then—across this bright horizon of hope and longing, just across the lowest corner the shadow of defeat, indeed, perhaps, death appeared. It was horrible, and of course a brave spirit like that of Scott's would not for a second tolerate the presence of such a vision. He was used to hard things, and he brushed this aside as he had brushed (Continued on Page Eleven.)

Captain Scott's Dying Wish Will Be Fully Carried Out

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.]

London, Eng., Feb. 11.—Out of the pall of gloom which settled over the British nation with the news of the heroic deaths of Captain Scott and his comrades in the stark and sullen solitudes of the south, rose today the spirit of old England rejuvenated.

No deed of heroism or high enterprise in modern times has done so much to stir patriotism here. In the House of Commons, in the clubs, and in other public places, cabinet ministers and others vied with each other in paying tribute to the brave but unfortunate quintette.

The Archbishop of Canterbury and other high ecclesiastics are already making plans for memorial services.

As for Scott's last injunction that those dependent on his dying party should be provided for, the whole nation is today rising in response to this appeal.

Scott's widow and baby, the little chap whose only thought of his father, for two years absent, was to take his photograph to bed with him every night "to keep daddy warm," are already idolized by the British people.

The relatives of the other four members of the ill-fated party will be well looked after by a committee formed for this purpose.

EXPECT 30,000 FIREMEN TO GO ON STRIKE SOON

Heads of Eastern Railways Say Men Are Voting by Big Majority for a Walkout and They Depair of a Settlement.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Feb. 11.—A crisis was due today in the long-standing differences between the managers of fifty-four eastern railroads and the 30,000 locomotive firemen in their employ over the wage question and working conditions.

The result of the ballot of the members of the brotherhood of locomotive firemen and engineers was to be made known officially by President W. S. Carter, of the union at a meeting of representatives of the brotherhood and the conference committee of railroad managers.

Although the union officials have withheld announcement of the vote, the railroad managers have repeatedly given out statements to the effect that they were aware that the majority of the firemen were voting for a strike.

Notwithstanding the crisis to which affairs seemed to have come today, it was believed likely that negotiations might continue for some time looking to a settlement, but it was also said that the railroad managers were despairing of a settlement and that they were preparing for a strike.

Home Reunion Brought Over 1,591 People

[Canadian Press.]

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—The second annual report of the Home Reunion Society, which was organized four years ago, was presented today. It brought to Winnipeg 1,591 persons, the wives and children of workmen who had preceded them to Winnipeg.

The expense was $55,443, and the committee, which was called on for one cent, every dollar being repaid by the men themselves. The association is now active in 25 Canadian cities, namely: Winnipeg, Montreal, Toronto, Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Hamilton, Brandon, Ottawa, Regina, Red Deer, Moose Jaw, Yorkton, St. John, Medicine Hat, Halifax, Nelson, Galt, Wharfedale, Port Arthur, Port William, Leamington, London and Peterboro.

LONDON IS TO HAVE A SUFFRAGE SOCIETY

Forest City Ladies Have Called a Meeting for Organization Purposes.

There is little doubt but that London is shortly to have a real, live suffrage society. A meeting for organization has been called for Tuesday afternoon next at 4:15 in the Normal School, and all ladies of London are cordially invited to attend.

It will be remembered that last May considerable interest was taken in the suffrage movement in London during the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips, of London, Eng., who addressed several gatherings in the interests of "the cause." At that time a meeting was called to form a suffrage society, but, although those present were very enthusiastic, it was decided to postpone definite organization until the winter. Already some sixty ladies have pledged their names as members, and no doubt a large number of others will follow suit shortly.

An interesting program is being arranged for Tuesday's meeting, and a large turnout of London ladies is hoped for. Among those prominent in the movement in London are Mrs. Tilley, Mrs. Gordon Wright, Mrs. Gordon Hall, and others.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Accused Said To Have Attacked London Township Lady With a Stone.

John Cousins, alias George Jeffrey, who was arrested last Tuesday evening by Constable Heath, of the London Township, on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Webb Conklin on June 23, 1911, was committed for trial yesterday afternoon by John Wallis, J.P., of Melrose. He appeared before Judge Macbeth this morning and was remanded until Monday.

Cousins, it is alleged, attacked Mrs. Conklin at her home on the fourth concession of London Township, and inflicted serious injuries by means of a stone which he had in his hand. At the time of his disappearance, a warrant was also issued for the arrest for setting fire to the barn of Squire Henry Jones, of Delaware.

BRAKEMAN'S FOOT BADLY CRUSHED

William Foley, G. T. R. Brakeman, Hurt Seriously But Will Recover.

William Foley, a Grand Trunk yardman, who resides at 684 Queen's avenue, had his right foot badly crushed while attempting to make a coupling between two cars of a siding near Waterloo street at 10:30 this morning. Foley was removed to Victoria Hospital in the police ambulance, and Dr. Seaborn, who was summoned to attend him, decided, after making an investigation, that it would not be necessary to amputate any part of his foot. The coupling stuck, and Foley seeing that the automatic pins were not working properly, stuck his right foot between the ends of the cars and attempted to kick one of the pins loose. There was some snow and ice on his foot, and as soon as it struck the iron buffer it slipped and crushed his foot.

COL. DAVIDSON HAS BEEN ILL IN THE WEST

This Necessitated Delay in Important Business Engagements He Had Made.

Col. Davidson, of the Canadian Northern, is expected in the city shortly. It was stated to The Advertiser today that he would have been in the east before this but for the fact that he has been this some very important western business for the C. N. R., and while there with his wife was taken so ill that the business had to be temporarily postponed.

This is delaying his return to London. Citizens are looking forward with no little interest to the offers which it is expected the C. N. R. and G. T. R. will make for the London and Port Stanley line. It is rumored among Grand Trunk men here that the G. T. R. will make every effort to secure the road, and is preparing to make London a proposition that will be a very attractive one.

[Special to The Advertiser.] New York, Feb. 11.—James Patten, the cotton-grain speculator, pleaded guilty in the federal court here today to six counts in an indictment charging him with restraint of trade. Judge Mayer fined Mr. Patten $4,000, which was paid immediately.

ENGLAND FEELS PROUD OF CAPT. SCOTT AND HIS MEN

"I Do Not Regret This Journey," Wrote Dead Explorer, and His Message Has Thrilled the Entire Nation—Whole Party Died Like Englishmen.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.] London, England, Feb. 11.—Those last magnificent words of the great explorer scribbled with half-frozen fingers into the records, as he lay with two companions in the little shelter tent, while the spirit of the frozen spaces took its grim revenge for their intrusion on its domain, have burned into the heart of every Englishman.

Deep as is the sadness manifested in the faces of every crowd before the bulletin boards, one cannot miss the glow of pride and the almost involuntary straightening of the shoulders that comes to each casual citizen as he reads Capt. Scott's final message to his countrymen.

A Brave Man's Message.

"I do not regret the journey, which has shown that Englishmen can endure hardships, help one another, and meet death with as great a fortitude as ever in the past."

These words of Scott's aroused the ancient fighting spirit of the Anglo-Saxon as has nothing else of recent years. Everywhere one goes in London today the picture is the same. There is a fraternity and heartiness in even the casual handshake of greeting, and the words, "They died like Englishmen," are heard on every lip.

A New Fraternal Bond. Kipling's "Hammled fools" poem, written to stir the blood of the English and awaken them to the dangers of self-satisfaction, social and political lethargy, succeeded only in making England furious with her virtue poet.

The play "An Englishman's Boy," written for the same patriotic purpose, served to bring a flicker of the old spirit back to life. But the story that has come out of the south polar spaces has given England a new bond of brotherhood, and five new immortals for her hall of fame.

The great facts that stand out from the story of Scott's and his companions' deaths are those that show qualities in the men far finer than mere physical courage. It is not the mere knowledge that this little band of five was overwhelmed in the fury of the Antarctic storm that has so awakened the patriotic spirit of the English. It was the splendid indifference to personal safety and suffering that all five of these men possessed. It is the thought of their grim disappointment when, on reaching the hard-won goal of their perilous venture, they found the record of the Norwegian victory; their magnificent courage in yielding in their own post-journal full credit to their triumphant rival.

Stayed With Evans.

It is the story of the fall and injury of Petty Officer Evans, the strongest man of the five, and the weeks of delay in the backward march caused by this accident. Evans begged his leaders to leave him, but they struggled slowly on, while the pitiless Antarctic water they had planned to escape drew grimly in upon them.

With Evans dead, the remaining quartette forged on hoping against hope for their return to their winter quarters and companions before the blasting breath of the polar winter could blow their death call.

Death of Captain Oates.

Another picture that has thrilled every heart in England is that of the death of Captain Oates, who, knowing himself to be a hindrance in the advance of his companions, struggled to his feet in their shelter tent during one of the first blizzards they encountered on the return journey, and with the casual remark that he was going "outside and might be some time," walked voluntarily into the wastes and disappeared forever.

It is the remembrances that will live to remain the national impulses of a great people.

C.P.R. TO MOVE STATION SOUTH EIGHTEEN FEET

As Many New Tracks as Possible Will Be Placed in the Space Secured in Order to Relieve the Present Congestion.

The C. P. R. is preparing plans for as far as Woodstock this fall and from the important changes to be made at the local depot. Work will start in the spring, and when completed, the present buildings will be eighteen feet to the south of where they stand now. The south of where they stand now. The work of moving the building will be undertaken by special contractors, who will do only this sort of thing. It will be one of the biggest structures ever moved here.

The object in moving the station back is to make room for a new line of tracks. It is expected that the line will be double-tracked from Islington to Woodstock through London the following spring. It is planned to put in as many new tracks as possible as far as the station and connect them by switches with the present main line. For some time past the company has suffered from the congested state of the yards, and it is expected that the improvements will help greatly to relieve the jam.

"We are breaking all records for business at the present time," said a C. P. R. official to The Advertiser today. "Freight business is unusually brisk and we look for it to continue so."

KING IS GRIEVED OVER POLAR CATASTROPHE

News Created a General Gloom in the House of Commons.

London, Feb. 11.—The news of the disaster to the Scott expedition created a painful sensation in the lobby of the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. The First Lord of the Admiralty was bombarded with questions as to whether any official information had reached the Admiralty with regard to the fate of Capt. Scott and his gallant men. Mr. Churchill had to explain that no official information had yet been received.

Lord Charles Bessford, in the course of an interview, stated he knew Captain Scott well. "Scott," he said, "served under me. He was a most charming man; a brilliant officer, and a delightful companion. It is no exaggeration to say that his death is a little short of a national loss, since he had a brilliant future in front of him, had been spared to return to civilization and to the navy." In reply to a message from Lord Curzon, as president of the Royal Geographical Society, to the King, who is patron of the society, announcing the death of Scott and his companions, his Majesty telegraphed the following: "I deeply grieve to hear the very bad news you give me of the loss of Capt. Scott and four of his party, just when I was hoping shortly to welcome them home on their return from their great and arduous undertaking."

WAS SELDOM FREE FROM THAT WEARY, DROOPY, HALF-DEAD FEELING.

New Cured, and Gives Good Advice to Others With Dyspeptic Tendencies.

If you have any stomach distress at all you will certainly be interested in the following experience, which is told by Mr. Edward Dawkins:

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond, "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to go to work in spring. But something went wrong with my bowels. I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and all ways after eating there was pain and illness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses, but got results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. Today I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

Refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butterworth. Twenty-five cents per box, or five for $1, at all druggists and storekeepers, or post paid from the Cattaraugus Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

This furniture store is supplied by several makers of renowned reputation, such as Berkey & Gay, who make furniture to satisfy the taste of people who scorn the shoddy and insincere. Names which represent honest materials, honest workmanship and straightforward dealings. When you buy a piece of such furniture you may be absolutely free from any doubt concerning the soundness of your investment and furthermore, you have the satisfaction of knowing that such furniture when placed in your home will never lose its appeal to you and that your grandchildren will be proud to inherit it.

LONDON, TUESDAY, FEB. 11.

THE BRAVE DEAD.

Later dispatches reduce the dimensions of the Antarctic tragedy, but it loses little of its poignancy. The last entry in the diary of Captain Scott must touch the heart of humanity. Written in the shadow of death in its grimmest form, it was mainly a narrative of the return journey told with the coolest precision, closing with an uncompromising submission to the will of Providence, and appeal to the British nation in behalf of dependents. The only emotion Captain Scott permitted to peep out of these pages was a patriotic one. He spoke of the honor of his country and the bravery of Englishmen, but there was no hint of the agony which must have seized the bravest men in such circumstances. Weak from privation, with food for only two days, the three survivors were imprisoned by a storm eleven miles from a depot which would have yielded them supplies and safety. Only eleven miles between death and life; between death in its most terrible shape, and life in its most alluring. To overcome that gap meant fate, fortune and reunion with loved ones. The last gleam of hope had expired when Captain Scott penned his farewell. Yet with the fangs of death in his throat, he could be careful even of literary form. His rough notes, as he calls them, were a finished composition. His courage was indomitable, his nerve unshaken, to the last. He could say, with the poet, "I am the captain of my soul."

There is a gleam of comfort in the recovery of this noble story of British heroism, and of the scientific records of the expedition. The observations were the most elaborate ever made in the polar regions. Those gathered by Captain Scott's party combined with Amundsen's and Peary's, will surely render useless any further sacrifice of life in the Arctic or the Antarctic. The age-long mystery, which has wrapped about the poles, has been penetrated by man's courage and hardihood. The lure has gone forever; it has ennobled many homes and been ennobled by them, but as the secret has been spelled out to the last letter, the chapter should be closed.

CANADA'S BREACH OF FAITH.
The Australian authorities have reason to feel they have been betrayed by the present Canadian Government. The Commonwealth abandoned the policy of contribution and joined with this country in the plan of creation of local fleets, to co-operate with one another, and with the Imperial navy. It was virtually a contract, now broken by Canada, through miserable party exigencies.

Australia's great concern is the maintenance of British naval power in the Pacific to counterpoise Japan and China. The Sydney Morning Herald thus exhorts us:

"We have no wish to intervene in the political controversies of sister dominions, but we feel that Canada's only satisfactory manner of joining in Pacific defence is the establishment of a local naval unit, co-operating with the other Imperial Pacific forces. The question of the control of these contingents is most important, but not difficult of solution, since there is a general disposition to accept the admiralty's advice of utilizing the available ships to the best advantage, and with the least delay in times of stress."

The London Times, in urging another Imperial conference on defence, says that all the members of the last defence conference, save Australia, have departed from the principles of the policy which was there laid down. In pursuance of that policy Australia has been steadily developing a fleet unit of her own. She has had a Dreadnought built in Britain, and is building cruisers and smaller craft in her own yards, while the policy which she discarded, and which in her opinion was discredited—we are not here quoting the Times—has been taken up by the Borden Government. Why? Because to catch the Nationalist vote, Mr. Borden repudiated Canada's engagement with Australia before the general election. To keep a following in Quebec, to enable his supporters in that province to save their faces, he refuses to couple his gift of money with any promise to redeem the Canadian navy pledge to which he was a consenting party in 1909. He hints at a permanent program to be framed before the next election, apparently with the hope that something will turn up in the meantime—preferably another German scare—to furnish an excuse for a second payment of tribute as a substitute for a genuine Canadian policy. But circumstances more powerful than any set of trimming politicians are driving toward the Laurier plan as the only possible practical course for a self-respecting country. All the time-servers at Ottawa can do is to postpone it for a while. Canadian cruisers would have been building in Canadian shipyards today if the Laurier plans had been followed. Australia has nearly completed her fleet unit, while Canada has not begun.

BUFFALO BILL.

The visit of the famous "Buffalo Bill" to a relative in London is a matter of interest to many who have seen his show or read of his exploits in the old days. Mr. William F. Cody is no mere stage cowboy, or paper warrior, but a survivor of the genuine frontiersman and once a United States Government scout.

At 16 years of age he was a very real boy scout and express rider. In his 23rd year, 1867-68, during the construction of the Kansas Pacific Railroad, he contracted to furnish the laborers with meat, and killed in eighteen months over 4,000 buffaloes. He has a clear title to his show name of "Buffalo Bill." Born in 1845 in Iowa, when it was still a Territory in the midst of the prairie, he had made early acquaintance with buffaloes, as with Indians, and paid them for a long time serious attentions.

Here is not the border of dime fiction and five-cent moving pictures, but a representative of life as it was lived in the stirring days that Bret Harte knew. Buffalo Bill was not one of the "bad men," either; he was a faithful servant of the Government, on the side of the angels, as Disraeli would have said. He worked for order, law and civilization. He has his niche among the builders of the American west. He is worthy of the office of judge-advocate-general, to which the State of Wyoming has called him. The 1870's were the most exciting period of his life. In those years he engaged in a larger number of Indian fights than any other living man. He was with Custer as a Government scout in the fatal campaign of 1876, though fortunately for him not too close to that ill-starred hero. Upon the decline of Indian warfare Mr. Cody utilized his wonderful experience in the world-famous "Wild West Show," which has been a joy and an inspiration to boys of all nations. It is a pleasure to have such a man for a time in the city, and to reflect that one whose career was so meteoric has quiet family connections, including the Rev. Canon Cody, of Toronto, here in humdrum, twentieth century Ontario.

Haven't the last victims been sacrificed to the polar Minotaur?

Captain Scott proved that Amundsen was not a Dr. Cook.

Mr. Turiff accuses the Borden Government of protecting the millionaires. Why not? See what the millionaires did for the Borden Government.

The Postmaster-General has wiped out the name of Graham from the list of postoffices. Having failed to wipe out the owner of the name in South Renfrew, this is the best the Government can do.

Australia is going ahead with her navy, while Canada is going in the opposite direction. This country would deserve the thorough-going contempt of the Commonwealth if its policy represented Canadian opinion. Its policy is only a wretched party manoeuvre, and will be denounced by Canadian people at the first opportunity.

A clause in the proposed bakeshops act prohibits the importation into Ontario of bread manufactured outside the Province, unless permitted by the inspector. The object is a good one—to keep out foodstuffs not made under such sanitary conditions as in Ontario, but is the act constitutional? The Dominion Parliament alone has the power over trade and commerce.

RECONCILABLE.

The Duke de Roquelaure was told that two ladies of the court had quarrelled and had each all kinds of invectives at each other. "Did they call each other homely?" asked the Duke.

AGE OF BRITISH STATESMEN.
(Victoria Colonist.)
Replying to a correspondent, who wants to know the age of Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Winston Churchill, we may say that the former was born in 1863, and the latter in 1874. While speaking of the ages of British public men we may add that Mr. Asquith was born in 1852; Mr. Bonar Law in 1858; Mr. Balfour in 1848;

Smith in 1872; Lord Morley in 1878; Viscount Lansdowne in 1885; The Marquis of Londonderry in 1885; Baron Curzon of Kedleston in 1889. The father of them all is Lord Halsbury, who was born in 1825. He will be 88 next September, and is as full of fight as ever. It will be remembered that he was the leader of the "last ditchers." The above shows that the affairs of the United Kingdom are in the hands of men for the most part in the very prime of life, although Messrs. Churchill and Smith might rank themselves open to criticism. It is a great thing that so many of the leaders of public opinion in the mother country have yet, to all appearances, many years of usefulness before them.

THE MODERN CINDERELLA.

(St. Louis Republic.)
One day the teacher during recess told the children the story of Cinderella. The next day, to test their memory, she asked them:
"Why did Cinderella have to leave the ball promptly at twelve?"
A bright little maid answered: "So she could catch the last car."

WHY BOOS? TORONTO.

(Simcoe Reformer.)
We see no good reason why anyone in Ontario outside of Toronto should entertain a desire to see that city grow into the million class. It would be infinitely better for the province as a whole to have the future growth of Toronto reduced to slim proportions, and the half million hypothesis, if added, instead, to Kingston, Simcoe, Brantford, Hamilton, Orillia, London, and a score or so of other places scattered over Ontario. There are three places in North America with populations exceeding a million, and none in New York, Chicago or Philadelphia are exceptions so near ideal as to warrant any Ontario man wishing good luck to Toronto's efforts to reach the class.

COUNCILLORS OPPOSED TO CURFEW LAW

Mayor Graham Says He Does Not Think Bylaw Can Be Passed.

The city council has not considered the applications from the various Mothers' Clubs in the city to institute a curfew law, but will do so later. The Children's Aid Society have agreed with the proposal, and will also petition in favor of the scheme.

Mayor Graham is not in favor of the proposition, and stated that so far as he knew the council would not institute a bylaw for this purpose.

In conversation with a number of aldermen today, it was stated that the larger majority were greatly opposed to the innovation, and would under no consideration accept the suggestion. However, it will furnish the aldermen with a subject for debate, and may give them pointers on the up-bringing of children.

Something About Mr. Chesterton

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

It seems to me a fine joke that the writer, who attempted to interpret the obscurities of Browning should himself be chosen as an enigmatic person who requires a commentator. Chesterton, prince of epigram-makers, and lord of tosy-turvydom, will no doubt be annoyed to find that the Rev. John Kelman, of Edinburgh, has presumed in his new volume, "Among Famous Books," to explain to the British public just what Mr. Chesterton means by all his peculiar essays; just what kind of philosophy he thinks he is teaching. Although Dr. Kelman does not say so in just so many words, he has really come to the conclusion that Chesterton's brain may be compared to a hot box on a railway car. The number of correlations to the minute is so high, and the mental sparks thrown on are so hot, that the brilliant essayist does not let anything pass. To change the figure Mr. Chesterton's tongue is, you big for his mouth. As Dr. Kelman says: "He is so full of ideas that many of his essays (like Mr. Bernard Shaw's plays) find it next to impossible to get themselves begun. He is so full of matter that he never seems to be able to say what he wants to say, until he has said a dozen other things first."

Dr. Kelman is right, and I am grateful to him for performing an autopsy on the mysterious carcass of Chesterton's philosophy. I question very much whether any one would have been able to say from our reading of Chesterton's works that he is "the most vital of our modern idealists," or that his peculiar way of thinking himself in his idealism has given to the term a richer and more auspicious meaning, which combines excellently the Greek and the Hebrew elements. Dr. Kelman further informs us that Chesterton's great ideal is that of "manhood." "Be a man," he cries, "and not an artist, not a reasoner, not any other kind or detail of humanity, but be a man." Eternity, he thinks, is in the heart of every man, or to put it in another way, every man comes into some contact with a higher world than that of sense; for man is a creature whose life swings far out beyond this world and its affairs—swings dangerously between heaven and hell.

Perhaps it is because Chesterton is an idealist that he loves fairy tales. One day a short-sighted young man, who had curly green hair and a very long neck, called on the master of a paradox and incidentally mentioned that he did not believe in fairy tales. This is what Chesterton says he said to the bold young reader of problem novels—"Man," who are you that you should not believe in fairy tales? It is much easier to believe in Blue Beard than to believe in a blue beard. The man, however, was a green fies which are sins. It is far easier to believe in a million fairy tales than to believe in one man who does not like fairy tales.

The philosophical basis for this explosion is to be found in Chesterton's explanation that he likes fairy tales because they show that the human being at the centre of the amazing story is a man, while all about him the universe is wild and full of marvels. Today we need the same element of wonder in our souls, for all about us Nature is performing mysterious feats.

As Chesterton says in a fine sentence: "The grass seems signaling to me with all its fingers at once; the crowded stars seem bent on being understood. The sun would make me see him if he rose a thousand times." No wonder then that the fairy tale is to be preferred to modern fiction. I conclude with Mr. Chesterton's startling contrast between the oldest kind of story and the latest: "The problem of the fairy tale is—what will a healthy man do with a fantastic world? The problem of the modern novel is—what will a madman do with a dull world? In the fairy tale the cosmos goes mad; in the modern novel the hero is mad before the book begins, and suffers from the harsh steadiness and cruel sanity of the cosmos."

Toronto capitalists, incorporated under the name of the Elgin Gardens Company, have purchased a 2,000-acre tract of land about one mile from the town of Dutton. They purpose subdividing it into small garden plots and Mr. F. W. Farmcombe, of this city, has been instructed to make the necessary survey and to report on a drainage system for the property. The land is particularly well adapted to the growing of celery, and is said, upon analysis to be the equal of the famous Kalamazoo celery lands in Michigan.

SERIOUS RIOTS IN JAPANESE CAPITAL

Special Conference of Older Statesmen Has Been Called by the Emperor.

A NEW ADMINISTRATION

Baron Kato, Formerly British Ambassador, Is Likely To Be Included.

[Canadian Press.]
Tokio, Japan, Feb. 11.—The rioting and disorders which broke out in the Japanese capital yesterday in connection with the cabinet crisis, continued until the early hours of today, when the mobs dispersed owing to the intense cold and lack of further objectives on which to vent their fury. Up to noon today there were no further disturbances in the city, and the authorities decided to withdraw the patrols of soldiers from the streets. Prince Kato Katsura, the premier, and the members of his cabinet, who had assembled at 10 o'clock last evening in the official residence of the premier, remained in session until late this morning. The building was strongly guarded by police and soldiers.

The council of elder statesmen was called together by the Emperor at the Imperial palace this afternoon. Count Gombeli Yamamoto, formerly minister of marine, has signified his willingness to accept the premiership together with the leadership of the old constitutional party, of which the Marquis Saionji is now chief.

Prince Katsura will in the meantime proceed with the organization of his proposed new party.

Change Shortly.
The official announcement of the change of administration will probably be made before the Diet meets again on Thursday. The new cabinet is likely to include Baron Takaaki Kato, formerly ambassador to Great Britain, Kei Hara, formerly minister of the interior, and Masahisa Matsuda, formerly minister of justice.

Violent political riots broke out in the city of Osaka today. The offices of the newspapers which support Prince Taro Katsura, the premier, were attacked by great mobs.

THIRTEEN CARS BLOCKED BY FREIGHT

Schedule of Street Railway Was Badly Disorganized For Time Today.

The schedule of the London street railway was badly interfered with this morning shortly before 9 o'clock. A long east-bound freight on the Grand Trunk was stalled at the Richmond street crossing, and no less than thirteen street cars were tied up at once.

The delay kept the company back several minutes, and the passengers were loud in complaints.

Manager C. B. King will take the matter up with the Grand Trunk authorities in a day or two.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS TO KNOW

Billie Burke's Message Is Today Addressed to Men.
Practical Home Recipes.

BILLIE BURKE TELLS MEN: DON'T TRY TO OWN A GIRL, JUST TRY TO UNDERSTAND HER!

"REALLY, SHE ISN'T A CHATTEL, YOU KNOW."

These funny, funny men!
I never had an idea they took us so much to heart. They write me from out hearts full of self-hurt and rooted in old-fashioned ideals in which the 1913 girl has no part.

From their letters you would think there was not a beautiful girl who had a grain of sense in the whole world, or another thought than of herself.

One says to me: "I have never yet seen a girl who was interested in your beauty talks that was not a vain little minx. She thinks more about herself than anything else on earth; she never says to me: 'How well you are looking tonight,' or 'How nice of you to come and call.' But she always asks, 'How do you like my hair?' or 'Do you think my new gown pretty?'"

"She might be sure that I think she looks all right, or I would write her out with me. I will not take a girl to a party or the theatre that is not a 'good looking,' and she ought to know that without me telling her so."

Now, girls, what can you do with a man like that?

Right down in his heart he thinks he is much superior to any woman that ever lived, and while he wants you to be the prettiest and cleverest girl in the room, when he takes you out anywhere, he wants all your beauty and popularity to reflect upon his choice.

He wants to be thought a "good picker," and wants the other fellow to say: "Isn't Jim's girl a peach?"

He is not at all happy if his friends say: "That little girl who tags around with Jim is so clever and pretty. I don't see what she finds in him."

Do you know, I sometimes think many men are of this sort. We have them about the stage doors of our theatres.

The type is described by an actress in one of the woman's magazines of February. In telling of her earlier days when she was first on the stage, she describes a kind of girl that has crept into the chorus—the kind of a girl who pays her maid more than she finds in her own weekly envelope.

The actress writes: "When my first shock was effaced by familiarity with conditions and I had come to understand their point of view, there was still one thing which puzzled me."

"Why," I asked, "do you stay on the stage? I should think you would hate all this hard work and the uncomfortable dressing rooms and the stage managers ordering you about. You don't have to do it, why DO you?"

"Well, you see," said she of whom the question was asked, "it is this way: Freddy likes to have me do it."

"Of course, he doesn't let me go on the road, but when I am here in a Broadway show, Freddy likes to drift in with a bunch of his friends, squat down in the front row, and look at all the chorus girls in our theatres as if it would not be right for me to think that all the chorus girls are like all other women—good, bad and indifferent; no better, no worse, just human. I only quoted from the article to show that MOST MEN HAVE STILL THAT OLD IDEA THAT WOMAN IS A CHATTEL TO BE OWNED."

Don't try to "own" any girl of the 1913 type. Just try to understand her, and you will be much happier for the girls that are willing to be "owned" the littlest, teeniest bit, are not worth "owning."

MISS BILLIE BURKE.

Problems of the Fair Sex Solved by Cynthia Grey

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received. No letters can be answered privately.]

From "Sweet Sixteen."

Dear Miss Grey: Would you kindly tell me if black seal furs are too old for a girl of sixteen?

Thanking you in advance, I remain, yours truly, "SWEET SIXTEEN."

A.—They are not as girlish looking as some of the other furs, but if I had them and were sixteen I'd wear them by all means.

2. It is very neat; exercise more care with your loop letters, and try to improve on your "d," "k" and "h," especially in the joining with the following letter.

Bothersome Hives.

Dear Miss Grey: I have been a reader of The Advertiser for a number of years and have found your answers very helpful. Will you please put in your columns a cure for hives, and oblige?

CONSTANT READER.
A.—An old-fashioned remedy for external application is to touch the pustules with the tips of the fingers dipped in warm soft water in which baking soda had been dissolved. Castor oil is another suggestion for outward treatment. Inwardly the home remedy has been found invaluable: 1 cup molasses, 1 tablespoon sulphur, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar; mix. Take 1 teaspoon each morning before breakfast until the bothersome hives cease to make their appearance.

Has Dyed Her Hair.

Dear Miss Grey: I want to ask your advice about my hair. It was nearly gray and I dyed it. It is simply a horrid color and so much darker than I intended. What would you advise me to do? I am in an office and would not want to cut it off. I am only twenty-two. What causes my hair to turn gray?

Thanking you in advance, BELLA.
A.—I am afraid that nothing can be done except to let Time remedy the matter. Your hair will grow out and this is better than to sacrifice your tresses by cutting them. The "growing out" process will seem tedious, I know, but I can only advocate patience. In the meantime, you might try lighter hair by using lemon juice in the water when washing it. Premature grayness is usually ascribed to one of three things: an unhealthy scalp, too much mental strain, and sudden nervous shocks. Yours is probably due to one or both the first two causes. I think electric treatments would help to prevent the grayness. They do not cost a very much, but, whatever you do, don't attempt dyeing the hair again.

See a Doctor.

Dear Miss Grey: Would you please answer the following question, and oblige? What will stop the buzzing in the ears? I have had it since last winter. Yours truly, A READER.

A.—You should have your ears examined by a specialist in this line at once, or the trouble may become chronic and result in deafness. The ear is too delicate an organ to be tampered with by anyone but an expert. My advice is not to delay, but to have the matter attended to at once.

"Reads Every Word."

Dear Miss Grey: I will you kindly tell me if Bruce Ismay wrote a book relating to the Titanic disaster? Also is he dead? A friend of mine declares he is, while I am positive he isn't, so I come to you to settle the dispute.

2. What do you think of my writing? I always read every word your write and I enjoy it so much, sincerely yours, SKIT.

A.—1. Bruce Ismay has not, to my knowledge, written a book such as you mention. He is still living, but has retired from his office as director of the White Star Line.

2. Your writing is very neat, attractive and easily read.

Thanks for your appreciative remarks.

Hail, Mutt and Jeff.

Dear Miss Grey: Knowing that you have helped other people out of their difficulties by answering questions, would you please do the same for me by advising how to prepare tomato bouillon?

MUTT AND JEFF.
A.—Well, you funny pair, I thought you were "way off in Turkey" buying antiques, and having most peculiar adventures. Is it that they don't give you enough to eat over there in the land of mosques and fez? Anyhow, here is the recipe you ask for.

First, it is necessary to make some beef stock. Prepare it by placing a pound or two of fresh beef in a frying pan, and cover with one cup of cold water. Simmer for fifteen minutes, then add two cups boiling water, and simmer steadily for an hour or two, adding more hot water as you see fit. Strain the clear liquor off into a clean

BILLY STEVENS—His Story

X.—Billy Is Weighed.

Copyright.

About this time, somewhere about Sept. 30th we plucked up courage to weigh Billy. There he lay day by day, and the eyes of compassion beamed on him in the southeast corner of the Sky Ward—in a wee crib.

It seemed impossible to think that he really would live—but perhaps, he might. Who knows?

So on Sept. 30th, 1912, Mrs. MacMurphy's calculations, at least something over seven months old, we plucked up courage to weigh him and held our respective breaths when he really tipped the scale.

It was an open question whether the tiny gameness wrapping him would not weigh more than the tiny body inside.

But what was the result? Seven pounds. Seven pounds. Just the average weight of the newborn. And Billy had been seven months at it.

One pound for every month. Some of us thought it would have been more—some thought not so much—but seven pounds it was. On Oct. 7, we tipped the scales at seven pounds.

He gained nothing but he had held his own and he had lost nothing.

Then came the turn of the tide. For on Nov. 9 he weighed 9½ pounds. Think of that. And he kept it up.

Dec. 8, 11½ pounds. Dec. 16, 11½ pounds. And then the medical superintendent said what Wellington said at Wat-erloo (only Wellington said he never did), and very likely the medical superintendent will say the same. We shall not believe either of them. Never mind what Wellington says he said, we like our own way of telling the story. "The field is won—Order the whole line to advance once more. What then? Do you ask? Then you will find the answer in our next."

HOW TO SLEEP

[BY A PHYSICIAN.]

Hours of sleep, bedding, ventilation, hours of work, and medical attention are perhaps as much to be considered as the food problem in the daily program of a consumptive who is fighting the uphill battle.

A consumptive should sleep at least nine hours out of the twenty-four. Preferably, he should sleep out of doors. In cold weather or damp weather, he should sleep on a sleeping porch which is properly protected from snow and rain.

If he finds it necessary to sleep in a room, the window should be wide open. The temperature should not go above 45 degrees.

Nevertheless it should not be forgotten that the patient must be kept warm.

KATHERINE LESLIE'S HOME CHAT

VEILS AND VEILS.

The very nice girl in charge of the cell department pointed to what appeared to be hundreds of varieties of black, white and colored veils, and said: "There is really no particular veil now. Ladies wear the veil which is most becoming to them." Women there are who wear those embroidered black net veils, and veils with curious lace patterns, but for the most part, these veils are considered disfiguring. They give a woman's face all the appearance of having a skin disease. A veil should enhance instead of taking from a woman's looks, and it usually gives the face a touch to her toilet. The less pattern a veil has the better for her appearance, and certainly the better for her eyesight. White veils are always worn by the young, and especially by the dark-eyed women. But they are rather a luxury since they must be scrupulously fresh and clean. A soiled white veil is impossible to a dainty woman. The peace of the white veil lies in the fact that it can hardly be worn more than twice in the smoke-laden atmosphere of a town or city. Accordingly the white net veil is the most economical, and the most becoming, and in good style. White veils soften the complexion wonderfully, and a clever combination of black and white veils, that is, one at $5 cents or a dollar and a half makes a charming veil for a pretty face. It is a very good-looking veil, and its finality makes it one of the luxuries of one's toilet, since it is almost full and bakes in its favor the fact that it makes a little meat go a long way, and enables one to use up "left-overs."

The ingredients are one cup of flour, two eggs, a pinch of salt, a scant cup of milk and a pound of sausage, or one and a half pounds of cooked lamb or beef. If sausages are used it is better to boil them gently for fifteen minutes, after which they should be skinned. Let other meat be cut into convenient-sized pieces. Grease a roasting pan or deep baking pan and lay the meat in it; make a batter by sifting the flour and salt, adding the eggs and a little of the milk, then when smoothly mixed, adding the remainder of the milk. Let the batter stand an hour before using, pour it over the meat in the baking pan, and cook twenty-five minutes in a moderate oven. It is well to have a little gravy or tomato sauce heated separately to be served with this dish.

Savory and Economical Dishes For the Family Dinner

In answer to a request made recently by a correspondent, we give below several unishing cold-weather dishes, based upon economical recipes. We are sure our readers will appreciate them.

English Hot-Pot—Two pounds of lamb, or mutton shoulder, or best part of the neck; cut into pieces convenient for serving. Peel and slice 2 onions and 6 or 8 potatoes (cut into "chips" pieces); mix one tablespoon of flour, a level teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper; add a little water and simmer the meat in this mixture for half an hour. Then take a deep baking dish or casserole, place a layer of potato in the bottom, add a layer of seasoned meat, then some onion, and proceed in this manner until the dish is full, having potatoes on top. Add cold water until the dish is almost full and bake in a moderate oven for three hours. More water can be added if needed during the baking.

"Toad-in-the-Hole"—Is a peculiar name for a most appetizing dish, which has in its favor the fact that it makes a little meat go a long way, and enables one to use up "left-overs."

The ingredients are one cup of flour, two eggs, a pinch of salt, a scant cup of milk and a pound of sausage, or one and a half pounds of cooked lamb or beef. If sausages are used it is better to boil them gently for fifteen minutes, after which they should be skinned. It is well to have a little gravy or tomato sauce heated separately to be served with this dish.

Stuffed Onions—As a supper or lunch dish, when in need of something appetizing and savory, try stuffed baked onions. Parboil them, then drain well and remove the centres, filling the space with either a savory mince of cold meat, chicken or even a savory bread dressing, according to the state of the refrigerator. Season rather highly and sprinkle over the tops of the onions a spoonful of buttered crumbs. Dredge with flour

JOE KEENAN NEARLY LANDED JIM THORPE FOR HAMILTON

But His Plans Miscarried When Knotty Lee Became Obstinate and Would Not Put Up the Money for Garlow to Make the Trip to New York.

[BY JINX.] It Happened in St. Thomas. The Hamilton club was playing a series with St. Thomas at that time and the Indian Garlow had been playing a winning streak for several games. He was out to beat the record of Joe McManus. It was the day before Thorpe landed, and to get him in time, Garlow would have to leave on the Wolverine that night. The Indian went in to pitch and was getting along fine. In the meantime, Keenan and Lee were having it out about Thorpe. Lee would not put up the expense money. Along about the seventh or eighth inning, Keenan went to Garlow and told him that he could not make the trip. The Indian's disappointment was pitiful. He lost heart and an inning or two later lost the game and broke his winning streak. All because Knotty Lee could not see how he was to get a $100 worth of usefulness out of another Indian on his team. Knotty could not see, just then, that Hamilton needed Thorpe, even for advertising. But later he woke up, and then the Hamilton papers published the report that Thorpe would be secured. But it was too late then.

Nearly Had Him, Anyway. "Yes," said the versatile Jo-Jo, "we'd had that 'guy' if 'Natty' Lee and those other fellows could have been persuaded to put up that $100. Why, Garlow and I had it all framed up and we would have grabbed him and had him playing ball in the Canadian league a couple of days after he arrived from 'Stockholm'."

And then Jo-Jo went off to ruminate on the vagaries of baseball managers in arrived from 'Stockholm'."

What the Scheme Was. The idea was to send Garlow to New York to meet the boat on which Thorpe arrived from Stockholm. Garlow stated that he could easily persuade the Indian to come as soon as he landed and the prospects were pretty rosy for the Hamilton team landing him. All he needed was $100 expense money for the trip. Jo-Jo again approached Knotty Lee and put the matter up to him. In fluent words, Joe pictured to Lee the fame and advertising which would be heaped on the Colts by the presence of so great an Indian on the team. But even Keenan's eloquence failed to move the stubborn Knotty, or "Natty," as Joe calls him.

VISITING DETROIT CURLERS BEAT THREE THISTLE RINKS

Were Trimmed at St. Thomas Earlier in the Afternoon, But Won in London Last Evening.

A trio of rinks from the Detroit Curling Club were in London on Monday, and played three rinks of the London Thistles at the Thistle rink. In the afternoon they were guests of the St. Thomas curlers, and they were given a royal welcome in the Railway Club. In this city, St. Thomas did not care to deprive the St. Thomas clubs of victory, and came out second best, with the score 21 shots against them.

Regained Laurels. When they came to London in the evening, they regained their fallen laurels after a severe tussle with the London Thistles. Rink No. 1 of the Thistles, where S. D. Swift was skip, lost by 2 shots, but this disadvantage was overcome by Rink 2, where Alf Talbot was "skipper" some, and came out on top by 2 shots. Skip Fulton, of Thistles' rink, was playing against a strong quartette of the Detroit men, and lost the round by 5 shots. The Thistles secured a total of 27 points, while the visitors notched 32.

Keen Ice. Keen ice provided the snappiest kind of play. It put the players on edge and they made every shot count. First one side would forge in the lead, and would soon lose the advantage. It was a grand exhibition of the "roarin' game," and among the best seen in this city. Thomas Davies, skip of Detroit's second rink, on his last shot made a beautiful drive, and one that cleared away two of the Thistle stone and planted his own in the ring for a counter. It was a difficult drive, and Skip Davies was loudly cheered on the play.

The following are the results of the games in London:

Rink No. 1.
Detroit, 27 points.
F. W. Kerr, 10.
D. B. Duffield, 12.

London Fans Heavily Fined as Result of Ingersoll Row

Ingersoll, Feb. 10.—Police court cases which grew out of the recent hockey match between Ingersoll and London Juniors occupied the attention of Magistrate Patterson for several hours this afternoon, and as a result the police court exchequer was enriched to the extent of $110 in fines alone.

In a mix-up that occurred after the game last Tuesday night Patrick Ryan, a London young man, was injured and taken to the hospital, which, however, he was able to leave the next morning. On his interment warrants were issued for several local young men on a charge of assault. Since that time similar charges were laid against Ryan and a companion by the name of Frank Cowan. Considerable evidence was offered at the trial this afternoon, at which County Crown Attorney Bail prosecuted. The upshot of the case was that the following were found guilty and fined imposed:

Frank Cowan and Paddy Ryan, London, each $20 and costs; P. Leonard, J. Bridson, W. D. Burke, Ingersoll, $20 and costs each, and Wm. Griffith, Ingersoll, $10 and costs. The hearing of the cases created much interest and the heavy fines imposed would indicate a determination on the part of the magistrate to stop all forms of rowdyism.

WILL WE ACCEPT? YOU BET WE WILL!

The Free Press has got a bowling team. Whenever the Free Press gets anything that looks like a winner, a challenge is less likely thrust at The Advertiser, and so it is in this latter case. The Free Press bowlers have challenged The Advertiser to a game of tenpins with five men on each team.

Now, The Advertiser does not profess to have a bowling team. It is doubtful if there are any more than five men in the building who know what a bowl looks like, but having trimmed the Richmond street aggregation in the past at everything from baseball down to chess, The Advertiser gladly accepts the challenge and leaves the arrangements for the game to the Free Press.

Bring on your bowlers.

TRI-COUNTRY LEAGUE WILL STAY INTACT

London and St. Thomas Will Play Here On Friday Night.

SIMCOE MAY COME IN

Sarnia Is Also Mentioned as a Likely Team to Take Woodstock's Place.

The Tri-Country League games will be finished as far as London and St. Thomas are concerned. Although Woodstock has dropped out, London and St. Thomas will fight it out for the championship, and the return game between these two collegiate teams will be played at the Princess Rink Friday night.

An effort is being made to get Simcoe Collegiate to enter a team as an application was sent in some time ago from this club. If Simcoe comes in, a new schedule will be drawn up, and an effort made to get the games run off as soon as possible. There is also a possibility of getting Stratford or Sarnia Collegiate to enter the league, so that there is no present danger of the organization going out of business. If these other teams cannot be induced to enter, London and St. Thomas will play off for the Riddle cup. London lost in St. Thomas by a score of 2 to 1, but the locals believe they can win in this city on Friday night by a greater margin than that. A play-off will likely result if London wins on Friday night.

MIKE YOKEL CAPTURED MIDDLEWEIGHT TITLE

[Canadian Press.] Duluth, Minn., Feb. 11.—Mike Yokel, of Salt Lake, last night won the middleweight championship wrestling title from Walter Miller, of St. Paul. Yokel got the first fall in one hour and ten minutes, and the second in eighteen minutes.

DOINGS IN CITY HOCKEY CIRCLES

Perrins and Lawson & Jones will meet in the first game and Empire Brass and McCormicks will meet in the second game of the Manufacturers' League this evening.

The City League meeting last evening was postponed until a later date, owing to the fact that Wilbur Morenz, who was to have been present to settle the Hyman-Hussars controversy, left for his home in Mitchell yesterday, as his mother is seriously ill.

The Spalding trophy donated to the City League has apparently become lost in transit. The Spalding people, in a recent letter, stated that it had been shipped on Feb. 4, but so far it has not been received in this city. The indoor baseball trophy is being shipped with it.

It is time the officers of the various church leagues took some action in regard to straightening out the middle all these leagues are in at present. In justice to the public and the Simcoe rink management, such alleged games as have been played in these leagues during the past two or three weeks should be prevented.

Some players play all three games in the Church Leagues, despite the rule that the Methodist League and Presbyterian League players cannot play on teams in both leagues. The Church League is a farce, and the sooner it goes out of

NEW HAMBURG PUT OUT BY FAST BERLIN TEAM

Were Swamped Under Pile of Goals, Which Overcome Their Three-Point Margin.

Berlin, Feb. 10.—New Hamburg was eliminated from the O. H. A. map for this season, when the Flying Dutchmen this evening swamped them by a 15-to-3 score. At New Hamburg the villagers won out by 10 to 7, and came back with a three-goal lead. It didn't last long. After 15 minutes' play the score board showed one to the good for Ald. Hahn's Berlin youngsters. There were three features—the crowd of about 2,600, the consistent team play of the locals, and the spectacular work of Solomon, Berlin's left wing man, who tallied seven out of the fifteen goals. On the round, the score stands, Berlin 15, New Hamburg 13, and at the finish it was Berlin 15 and New Hamburg 3. At half-time the score was 7 to 2 in favor of Berlin. The ice was keen, and the work of Referee Harvey Spruille was gilt-edged. What penalties he had for impudence were for minor offences, and none of the players had to be laid up for repairs. Hamburg brought down about 400 supporters, and considerable money changed hands. It was fast, clean, nifty hockey, but the Hamburgers were outclassed on the big sheet of ice.

The line-up:

FREDDIE WELSH WON FROM FRENCH CHAMP

Lightweight Battle Pulled Off in London, Eng., Last Night.

[Canadian Press.] New York, Feb. 11.—A London cable says: "Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of the world, defeated Paul Breivieres, lightweight champion of France, in the third round of a twenty-round contest at Abbeville last night, the Frenchman retiring with a broken thumb."

CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES A FARCE

Only One Fixture Was Pulled Off Last Evening in Three Leagues—Teams Plugged With City League Players—Time Something Was Done About It.

The one game that was played in the United Church League last night at the Simcoe street rink was undoubtedly the fastest of the season among the church leagues, and the result was in doubt until the last few minutes.

Hill Street and Askin Street were scheduled for the first game at 7 o'clock, but as several of the members of the former team failed to put in an appearance, the game was defaulted to Askin Street. A practice game was played, and the South Londoners won by a score of 2 to 0.

Bungling Affair.

The second game, between Knox and St. Andrews, in the Presbyterian League, also remained unplayed, and the spectators had to be content with watching about 40 players practicing during the hour from 8 to 9. The Knox players were on hand, but owing to a difference in the published schedules, St. Andrews thought that the game was to be played from 9 to 10. At 9 o'clock all the St. Andrews' players were ready, but the Anglican League officers refused to delay their fixture for half an hour so that the spectators could get some return for their money. It is likely that the league executives will do something towards arranging the schedules so that the small crowds that attend the games are not further diminished by the lack of games.

The Only Game. The game between St. Paul's and St. James, in the Anglican League, was fast from the start, and both teams presented strong line-ups for the affair. The St. Paul's Club presented a line-up very much similar to that of the Alpha Club in the Methodist League, and the A. M. C. in the City League, while St. James presented an all-star aggregation.

St. James scored the first goal, but the St. Pauls were not to be denied, and at the end of the first half the score was 2 to 1 in favor of the "migrators." The last half was even faster than the first and both teams scored two goals.

The stars for the Cathedral boys were Chandler, Lankin and McGehee, while Harold and George Thompson and McPhee did the best for St. James. The line-ups:
St. Pauls—Burridge, goal; Chandler, point; Riggs, cover; Nelles, rover; McKay, centre; Lankin, right; McGehee, left.
St. James—Widdowson, goal; Parkinson, point; Fowling, cover; McPhee, rover; G. Thompson, centre; Thorne, right; H. Thompson, left.
Referee—S. Dowell.

CHANCE PLAYS FIRST; CHASE GOES TO SECOND

Peerless Leader Announces His Intention of Playing With Yankees.

New York, Feb. 10.—Frank Chance, the new manager of the local American League club, reached here from the Pacific coast a few minutes after the league meeting ended, and was accorded a hearty greeting by the big gathering of club owners, managers, players and baseball enthusiasts. He declared he was ready to take up his new duties at once.

One of the first to shake his hand was Manager McGraw, of the New York Nationals, who said: "I congratulate you on getting into a good town." Jake Stahl and Clarke Griffith followed suit. As soon as Chance could catch his breath he said: "I am glad to come to New York, and doubly glad that I intend playing first base myself, and hope to be in the opening game. I feel in fine shape and my head does not bother me any more. I am positive I can manage the team better as a player than from the bench. Chase will play second, and I feel confident in his speed will overcome the handicap of his being left-handed."

TO FINISH GUELPH BONSPIEL.

Guelph, Feb. 10.—The finish of the Diamond Jubilee bonspiel, which was indefinitely postponed in January on account of the mild weather, has been set to be played off here, commencing on Tuesday next. There are eight clubs left in the trophy competition, and twelve in the consolation.

GENTLE LITTLE STRANGER LEFT FIVE CHICKENS

Angel of Mercy Hands Gift to Ben Blackstock, Who Is Broken-Hearted—Yes!

Benjamin Blackstock and John Hooper were tried at the police court this morning on a charge of stealing five chickens valued at $15 from Turnkey Robert Marsh on Saturday evening. Magistrate Judd remanded the two men for a week, and at that time will present a written judgment. Mr. J. F. Faulds, who appeared for Blackstock, stated that he would take the case to the court of appeals if the verdict was against Blackstock. Mr. Faulds said that the evidence connecting Blackstock with either the theft or the receiving of stolen property was very meagre.

The crown presented three witnesses, Mr. Marsh and Detectives Down and Nickle. Mr. Marsh's evidence was in the information. The coop which was situated outside the jail wall, was broken into, and five birds stolen between 6 and 8 o'clock Saturday evening.

The stolen birds were found by the detectives in a shed in the rear of Blackstock's residence on Dundas street west later that evening. Detective Wm. H. Down related the circumstances from the laying of the information with the city police until the time that the men were locked up in the jail. Detective Nickle corroborated the evidence of Mr. Down.

Blackstock was put in the witness box, and told his story of the happenings of Saturday afternoon and evening. He and Hooper, who boards with Blackstock, had been working on Saturday afternoon, and at 5:30 the witness left for home with his wife. About 6:30 Hooper came to the door and asked if a man on the bridge could leave a bag in the shed until Monday morning. The witness did not know the man or what the bag contained, but gave the permission and was greatly astonished when the detectives told him what the contents were. He denied knowing anything about the theft of the fowl, and stated that he was broken-hearted over the whole affair. Hooper said that he did not know the man, but that he had seen him often about town. He first spoke to the unknown man about 6:30 o'clock on the bridge, when the man asked him to see if Ben would let him leave his bag at his house until Monday morning. Magistrate Judd decided that a week might be able to find defendants to aid the city police to locate the man who was responsible for this position.

Great Inventor Celebrates His Birthday by Hard Work.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, Feb. 11.—"I am 66 years old today, but I feel like 25," said Thomas A. Edison at his home in West Orange, N. J., today.

The inventor was busy arranging for producing the new kinetophone, his latest invention. He said he planned to spend his birthday in hard work in his laboratory, although during the evening he would "knock off" long enough to attend a family dinner party arranged in his honor.

During the past year he has invented the kinetophone and further perfected the storage battery and the disk phonograph.

TOWNSHIP WILL DRAIN THE PETERS SWAMP

Engineer Farncombe Preparing Plans for Big Ditch, and Will Call for Tenders.

Work will shortly be commenced on a huge ditch, through what is known as the Peters swamp, on the outskirts of London West. The drain, which will be a mile and a quarter long, will be begun close to the Canadian Pacific tracks north of Oxford street, and will have its outlet in the Thames River near the Cove bridge. Considerable opposition to the scheme has been offered by several whose properties will be affected, but Mr. F. Farncombe, engineer for London Township, has been instructed to proceed with the work and to force an outlet under the ditches and water-courses act. Over three hundred property holders will be assessed for the cost of the drain, and these have already been notified. The plans and specifications for the drain are about completed, and work will be begun at an early date.

ESTIMATES FOR PAVING PLANT ABOUT READY

City Engineer Brazier at Work
On the Figures at Present Time.

The necessity of a paving plant for the city will be again brought to the attention of the board of works by City Engineer Brazier, who is preparing a report on the question at the present time.

He has procured a mass of information regarding the operation of such plants in other cities, and particularly regarding the cost and that also of maintenance.

His estimates will include a plant, not only for pavement work, but also for sidewalks.

As a matter of fact, if the suggestion of some of the aldermen is carried out, there will be but one outfit capable of doing all the work.

In substantiation of this position, it is pointed out that cement roads, used in several cities in the United States, City Engineer Brazier has inspected some of them, and has prepared a report. He is convinced that such pavements could be constructed in London at a reasonable cost, and that they would be very successful here.

Who's Who in the Turkish Tangle

The "Young Turks" Who Won't Accept Defeat

[By a Diplomat.]

One day a few years ago, at about the time when rumors of an approaching revolution were flying thick and fast through the length and breadth of the Turkish Empire, the old Sultan heard that one of his bravest young officers Enver Bey, a dashing young major, was plotting with the Young Turk party. He dispatched an aide to Enver Bey's apartments, with the information that Abdul Hamid would be delighted to have a chat with him.

Enver Bey bowed low to the aide, and in a most humble and loyal manner begged him to tell the "king of kings" that he would make haste to the palace.

Enver Bey did make haste, such great haste that he didn't take along any extra turban, but it was to Macedonia, and not to the Sultan, that he hastened.

A historian of the period remarks that if Enver Bey had called upon Abdul Hamid that day "his body would have been carried by the swift current of the Bosphorus out of human ken."

In Macedonia Enver Bey helped kindle a little revolution, and joined forces with the other Young Turks in the overthrowing of the old Sultan. After that he was one of the most popular officers in the army, and during the war with Italy played a prominent and daring part in Tripoli.

Talaat Bey, who recently, with Enver Bey, headed the Young Turk party that demanded the resignation of the aged vizier, Kiamil Pasha, and who later went to Nazim Pasha's palace and killed him, has played a smaller part in Turkish history than Enver Bey. After the old cabinet resigned Talaat Bey acted as secretary of the interior until the present cabinet was formed. Both he and Enver Bey are too military to take any civil position as long as there is an opportunity to fight on a battlefield.

Mahmoud Shekret Pasha, the man

TALAT BEY.

they helped make grand vizier, is the most forceful figure of modern Turkish history. He was born in Bagdad, and is more the Arab than a Turk. Also, he is a soldier, a writer, an orator, and the best politician in Turkey today. He commanded the Young Turk army when it entered Constantinople and forced Abdul Hamid into retirement. He will hold the war portfolio in the new cabinet as he did in the last.

Should the monarchy be overthrown and a republic made of Turkey, Mahmud Shekret Pasha is more than likely to be the first Turkish president. There is no other Turk so well qualified to hold that position.

Fraternal Prescription For Nervous Wrecks.

[From "Medical Reports."]

Thousands of men, nervous wrecks, have found the following "fraternal prescription" a blessing and a boon. Such men lack assertiveness, they are timid, nervous, easily discouraged, lacking in self-esteem and confidence. They suffer from cold, extremities, thin, watery blood, nervousness, sleeplessness, frightful dreams, trembling hands and limbs, unsteady gait and an absolute inability to perform the ordinary natural acts of life.

Healthy normal man can eat and sleep always with the keenest enjoyment. The greater his exertions are, the stronger becomes his appetite and slumbers.

The nervous man, seems always tired and no relief. Sleep brings no refreshment, all because of an abnormal condition of the nervous system, brought about by well, no matter what the desire is for relief and freedom with rich, red blood surging through the body supplying the sensitive nerves with all the power of sensation, so that sleep is refreshing, food is delicious, work is play and play is pleasure.

This treatment is thorough, simple and correct. The ingredients are used in filling various prescriptions and can be obtained of any well stocked druggist and mixed at home without embarrassment or questions. Obtain three ounces of syrup sarsaparilla compound in a six-ounce bottle. To this add one ounce of compound fluid balsam of sassafras and two hours. Then add one ounce of the compound essence of cod-liver oil and one ounce of compound essence of cod-liver oil. Shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring until new health takes hold of the few weeks' treatment. Only a few weeks' treatment will cure the nervous wreck, because the treatment is the right thing at the right time, and contains no deceptive promises.

HERE'S THE MOST CURIOUS GAS ENGINE IN THE WORLD.

The most curious of all gasoline motors has recently been brought out in Paris and was exhibited there at the aviation show. The pistons, four in number, are placed at the ends of long arms and look like the letter X. They swing alternately together and apart, as the gas is introduced in the cylinder, the latter revolving around them at high speed from the effects of these impulses, while the arms themselves swing at a slightly slower speed in a continuous revolution.

Only one spark plug is used with this engine and the fuel consumption is extremely low. The four operations of the internal combustion engine, suction, compression, explosion and exhaust, are carried on in a regular cycle of continuous motions. The charge is introduced simultaneously, or practically so, because of the rapid revolution of the cylinder, between the pistons at opposite sides of the cylinder, the explosion forcing them apart like scissors, to meet another charge introduced between them as they come together. The motor attains a speed of 1,600 revolutions, delivering 60 horsepower, and yet weighs but 200 pounds.

WHERE MR. BALFOUR COMES IN.

"The position which the ex-premier occupies upon the front bench can only be described as unique," says Mr. Guy L'Estrange in the London Budget. "If, after the holding of a shadow cabinet," Mr. Balfour Law and his lieutenants have any misgivings in regard to the decision reached, it is submitted to Mr. Balfour for his opinion. If he says it is all right—all is well. If he is inclined to be critical, not in severity, but in a friendly way, Mr. Balfour Law calls his colleagues together once more, and the question at issue is reconsidered. There is one subject, however, upon which Mr. Balfour has expressed a desire that he should be consulted. That subject is the one of fiscal policy."

HOW TO GET SERVANTS.

NEW ZEALAND'S SUICIDE.

"Race-suicide—in the shape of a dwindling birth-rate—is a somewhat ominous sign wherever it appears; but when it makes its appearance on new soil, and in a young and exceptionally happy community it is a very perplexing phenomenon," writes Dr. W. F. Catledge in his magazine, Life. "New Zealand is suffering from a shrinking birth-rate in an acute form. In 1878 the rate was 327 per 1,000; in 1896, it had fallen to 252; in 1901 to 244; in 1906 to 238, and in 1911 to 209.2. These figures have been meditated over before their significance is realized. If anyone with an arithmetical turn worked out what the population of New Zealand would be today if the birth-rate of 1878 had been maintained up to 1911, the figures, it may be suspected, would be startling. They would reveal an army of the unborn of tragical dimensions. New Zealand, like Australia, is eager for immigrants and no other country in the world has better things to offer to intending immigrants."

RUSHING WORK ON POWERHOUSE

Work on the London street railway powerhouse is being pushed ahead as rapidly as possible, and it is expected that it will be finished inside of a month. This morning an armature, weighing 25 tons, was taken off an M. V. flat car on Bathurst street near Wellington and drawn on rollers by two teams of horses to the powerhouse.

MR. COLEMAN PLAYS HERO

Stops Runaway That Was Started by Pair of Playful Pups.

Two dogs pulled at a rope that held a horse to a tree on Clarence street this afternoon until the horse was released and had started to run away. Just then who happened along but John Coleman, of the Grand Opera House, and by acting quickly he succeeded in getting hold of the rope and fastened the equine to the tree again. The dogs returned to renew their efforts at liberation, but Mr. Coleman's knots were too much for them. It is believed that Mr. Coleman put a tack in it.

BACKSLIDING

Its Cause and Cure, Presented by Rev. H. H. Bingham, Sunday Evening.

"Is the Backslider Lost or Saved?" was the theme of an eloquent sermon by the Rev. H. H. Bingham at the Tabernacle Baptist Church on Sunday. The church was filled to capacity, only standing room being available. "Backsliding," said Mr. Bingham, "always supposes religious profession, but does not necessarily imply that the profession is sincere. Backsliding at the present time seems to be a prevalent condition in the religious life of a large number. There are two species of backsliders. One is the converted, such as Peter and David. A backslider is a child of God out of fellowship and out of communion with his Lord," defined Mr. Bingham. "Therefore, a backslider can never be happy in a backsliding condition." He went on to define the symptoms of backsliding in a Christian, enumerating several conditions which always attend the backward path. In closing, he spoke of the security of the backslider referring to his text in Jeremiah 3rd chapter and 14th verse: "Turn, O backsliding children, saith the Lord, for I am married unto you, and I will take you one of a city and two of a family, and will bring you to Zion."

Indigestion for 2 Years

Few people seem to realize that chronic indigestion is a disease of the intestines rather than of the stomach. Even the doctors err in this way, as is proven by this letter.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most effective treatment obtainable for chronic indigestion, because they awaken the action of the liver, and bowels, sweep the foul impurities from the system, and set the whole digestive system in perfect working order.

Mrs. George Swan, Ashworth, Ont., writes: "My husband suffered with indigestion for two years. We tried three different doctors, but they didn't know what he had. As he was still suffering, he began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and soon got relief. I am thankful to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the cure my husband found after other treatments had failed."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

THREATEN JURORS IN PARISIAN BANDIT CASE

Anarchistic Paper Proceeded Against For Trying to Intimidate the Court.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, Feb. 11.—A cable to the Tribune from Paris says: Contradictory evidence was produced in an effort to establish an alibi for Deudonne, but several of the witnesses testified that Deudonne was not left-handed, the object of Deudonne's advocate being to discredit the statement made by the caddy that Deudonne held the revolver in his left hand when he discharged it at him.

Court adjourned after hearing a string of witnesses for the prosecution, whose statements, which, whenever they incriminated any of the prisoners, were promptly and firmly denied in the bank.

Callem, for instance, interrupted three times the witness, Mlle. Josephine Bellot, with "You lie!" and "You're a liar!"

The journal L'Anarchie, which served as the organ of the Bonnot bandit band, which is being proceeded against criminally for libelling the jury and publishing their names and addresses, and urging all "patriotic anarchists" to mete out severe punishment for the jurors, and their families, in case they should find the prisoners guilty.

WHAT WILL WE DO WITH BOYS?

Some Great Thinker Has Said the Best Thing To Do Is To Teach Them To Be Men.

"Boys will be boys," as the old saying goes, and many of us do not appreciate that fact, for some parents treat the boy as an infant up to the time when he is old enough to vote, while some go to the other extreme and try to make a full-grown man of him in his infancy, so there arises what is known as the "boy problem."

Those who have made a study of the subject say that we should not deal with him as a boy, neither as an infant, nor as a full-grown man. If we solve the "boy problem" of today, we solve the man problem of tomorrow.

The is no question but that the early teaching of the boy has much to do with his character in after years. One mother, who is competent to judge, says that she has started her boys in by reading the Bible as part of their education.

The advertiser supplies a Bible that is ideal for this particular purpose. It contains over 600 illustrations printed in with the type. These illustrations alone cost $50,000 to prepare. It is the custom to embellish a book with pictures instead of actually illustrating it. This Bible is not merely embellished, but is accurately illustrated throughout. Some Bibles contain pictures, but none of them take up certain verses and texts and illustrate them individually, so that they make plain the meaning. In the preparation of the illustrations for this magnificent edition more than one hundred of the world's leading artists, working under the instruction of the foremost authorities, have contributed the choicest prod-
