Jury Charges Germans With Wholesale Murder

Capt. Turner Gives Evidence Before Jury Investigating Deaths Caused by Sinking of Lusitania

London, May 10.—The Cunard Line steamship Lusitania, which was sunk last week off Old Head of Kinsale by a submarine, was struck by but one torpedo, according to the testimony of Captain Turner, of the steamer, given today at the coroner's inquest at Kinsale. But this deadly missile found a vital spot, and sent the liner to the bottom in less than twenty minutes, carrying with her over a thousand souls.

The evidence of Captain Turner, which cleared up many other points concerning the disaster, and that of other members of the crew of the vessel, with a general knowledge of the situation, led the jury to bring in a verdict of "wholesale murder" against the German emperor and his government and the officers of the submarine directly responsible for the sinking of the ship.

The Coroner's Verdict

"We find that the deceased met death from prolonged immersion and exhaustion in the sea, eight miles south southwest of Old Head of Kinsale, Friday, May 7, 1915, owing to the sinking of the Lusitania by torpedoes fired by a German submarine.

"We find this appalling crime was committed contrary to international law and the conventions of all civilized nations.

"We also charge the officers of said submarine, and the emperor and government of Germany, under whose orders they acted, with the crime of wholesale murder before the tribunal of the civilized world.

"We desire to express sincere condolences and sympathy with the relatives of the deceased, the Cunard Company and the United States, many of whose citizens perished in this murderous attack on an unarmed liner."

It was also disclosed today by Captain Turner and by Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, in a statement in the House of Commons, that the captain had received wireless advices from the admiralty in regard to the presence of submarines on the liner's course. Captain Turner, in his testimony, said he had followed this advice "to the best of my ability."

The character of the advice tendered by the admiralty was not divulged, and will not be until Lord Mersey opens his inquiry into the loss of the ship.

Meantime the cause for the heavy loss of life, the absence of any naval escort for the threatened vessel and the suddenness with which she sank afford room for much speculation. Captain Turner, in declaring that one torpedo did all the damage, said the second explosion which the passengers heard was an internal one, and that the engines having been put out of commission it was impossible to stop the Lusitania and permit of her boats being lowered properly.

The Captain's Story

Captain Turner, of the Lusitania, appeared before the coroner and was questioned. The coroner asked him whether he had received a message concerning the sinking of a ship off Kinsale by a submarine. Captain Turner replied that he had not.

"Did you receive any special instructions as to the voyage?"

"Yes, sir."

"Are you at liberty to tell us what they were?"

"No, sir."

"Did you carry them out?"

"Yes, to the best of my ability."

"Tell us, in your own words, what

Rumor Says Sir Max Aitken Likely Candidate at Conservative Convention.

It is rumored Sir W. Max Aitken's health has not been very good of late and that he has decided to come back to his native air on the Miramichi.

It is also rumored that he would consent to allow his name to be submitted as a Candidate at the coming Conservative Convention for the County of Northumberland.

Sir Max has gained a world-wide reputation as a financial genius. He has been prominently identified with the promotion of a number of very large industrial concerns throughout Canada, which are now successfully competing for trade in the home and foreign markets.

Sir Max has also been very successful in the political arena in the Mother Country, successfully winning his spurs against heavy odds.

The citizens of Northumberland County can easily see what a great advantage it would be to the county to have a representative at Ottawa with the proven business capacity and wide influence of Sir Max.

His influence in business and political circles if chosen as a representative of Northumberland would undoubtedly be of immense advantage to the county.

We are satisfied that citizens who have the interests of the county at heart will take concerted action to see that Sir Max is chosen as the County's Representative at Ottawa.

Cunard Liner Lusitania Sunk By Infamous Pirate Murderers

Amid the Shrieks of 1,149 Souls Who Perished, the Giant Liner Plunged to the Bottom, the Victim of German Submarines.

The Total Number of Saved is Now Placed at 767, Of Whom 465 Are Passengers, While 144 Bodies of the Victims Have Been Recovered From the Sea

EYES OF THE WORLD TURNED TO THE UNITED STATES AWAITING THEIR ACTION

London, May 8.—German piracy on the high seas reached a climax with the destruction of the world's fastest passenger steamer, the Cunard liner Lusitania, by torpedoes from a submarine off the Irish coast yesterday afternoon and the sacrificing of many human lives. The loss of life this morning can only be estimated but it is placed by members of the crew who have been rescued at about 1,000 including both passengers and crew.

Many survivors, mangled by the force of the explosion and exhausted by the unequal battle with the waves, have died in hospital at Queenstown, Ireland, since being rescued. Some hundreds have been landed at Queenstown, Cleveley and Kinsale, but the Cunard office at London closed at midnight without any definite information as to the number saved and no list of survivors was given out.

There were 2,067 souls on board, of whom 1,257 were passengers. Of these 138 were American citizens and if the proportion lost is maintained throughout passengers and crew this means that President Wilson will hold Germany, according to the terms of his previous note, to "strict accountability" for the death of many citizens of the United States.

The loss of life claimed the first attention throughout Great Britain tonight but the possibility of American intervention in the submarine murders is one of the first questions arising from yesterday's disaster.

The Lusitania left New York May 1 with a large passenger list and a valuable cargo, consisting partially of military supplies for Britain and her Allies. Many prominent people were on the list of passengers, including Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Elbert Hubbard, Charles Frohman, Howard Elliott, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway; and, it is believed, many Canadians. More than 900 of the passengers were British subjects. The attack was made soon after 2 o'clock while the Lusitania was on her regular course nine miles off Kinsale, Ireland, and although details are woefully lacking, it is evident from the wireless call for help that the winged giant of the seas was doomed from the first.

Queenstown, May 8, 11 a. m.—The tug Storm Cock has returned here bringing about 150 survivors of the Lusitania, principally passengers, among whom were many women, several of the crew and one steward.

Describing the experience of the Lusitania, the steward said:

"The passengers were at lunch when a submarine came up and fired two torpedoes, which struck the Lusitania on the starboard side, one forward and the other in the engine room. They caused terrific explosions.

"Captain Turner immediately ordered the boats out. The ship began to list badly immediately. Ten boats were put into the water, and between 400 and 500 passengers entered them. The boat in which I was approached the land with three other boats and we were picked up shortly after 4 o'clock by the Storm Cock. I fear that few of the officers were saved. They acted bravely.

"There was only fifteen minutes from the time the ship was struck until she foundered, going down bow foremost. It was a dreadful sight."

Two other steamers with survivors are approaching Queenstown.

New York, May 8.—The Lusitania, with a total of 1,251 passengers aboard, of whom 188 were Americans, and with a crew of 816, sailed from here last Saturday, in the face of a warning published on the day of her departure by the German embassy, which stated that travelers intending to embark on British ships did so at the risk of the ship being destroyed, in accordance with the German war zone decree.

This warning, published in the form of an advertisement, did not result in the cancellation of a single passenger, nor did anonymous notes of warning, said to have been received by some passengers just before the big liner left her pier, deter any one from sailing.

Reports from Washington that it was privately known in official quarters that the Lusitania was to be torpedoed at the first opportunity, gave color to the opinion expressed in shipping circles tonight that the embassy's warning was intended to apply particularly to the Lusitania.

"Travelers intending to embark on the Atlantic voyage," read the advertisement, "are reminded that a state of war exists between Great Britain and Germany, and that the zone of war includes the waters adjacent to the British Isles, that, in accordance with formal notice given by the Imperial Government, vessels flying the flag of Great Britain, or any of her Allies, are liable to destruction in these waters, and that travelers sailing in the war zone on ships of Great Britain, or her Allies, do so at their own risk."

The Lusitania's cargo was valued at about three-quarters of a million dollars, and contained a large quantity of war supplies. Her manifest included 280,000 pounds of brass and copper wire, $66,000 worth of military goods, and 5,471 cases of ammunition, valued at $200,000, all of which was contraband of war.

London, May 8.—An enormous crowd besieged the Cunard office all night and increased as day broke. All were anxious to learn the fate of relatives on board the Lusitania.

The line officials said they were endeavoring to perfect a list of survivors, but that this work would be delayed, as some had been landed at one port and some at another. They said there was little doubt that the list of saved would be less than 700.

Relatives of survivors were angrily asking why no effort was made to protect the Lusitania. They pointed out that it has been known for a week that an attack was to have been made on the big liner, but that not a single destroyer had been detached to act as an escort for her from the Atlantic.

Captain Turner is about the only officer of the vessel reported saved, and he is said to have been carried from the water three hours after the Lusitania foundered.

The Cunard officers at nine o'clock had the names of only seven first-class passengers who had been saved. Although early reports said Alfred G. Vanderbilt probably had been saved it is now believed certain that he perished, along with Charles Frohman, Charles Klein and other noted members of the American colony.

Dublin, May 9.—The Lusitania was sunk without warning by a German submarine that fired three torpedoes into her. The liner was shattered by the three explosions and sank within twenty minutes after the first missile had been fired. This information was given here today by the cabin steward of the lost ship upon his arrival from Queenstown.

His narrative follows:

"Most of the first cabin passengers were at lunch. The weather was beautifully clear and calm. We were about seven or eight miles off Galleyhead and were making about 16 knots when the attack was launched."

"Following the first torpedo two more were launched. The first staggered the ship. The others completed the work of destruction, shattering the gigantic liner to fragments. The submarine was seen upon our starboard bow, suddenly appearing upon the surface and then diving abruptly again after firing the first torpedo. We saw the track made by the torpedo in the water and knew it was going to get us. It was aimed to strike amidships and it got us fair and square. The Lusitania listed forward and at once began to settle. While submerged the submarine released two more torpedoes, both of which struck us. From the moment the submarine sighted us and submerged it was not seen again. It went off after accomplishing its dirty work and never attempted to save man, woman or child, but left them to drown like rats in a trap. I believe that both Alfred G. Vanderbilt and his valet were drowned.

"The Lusitania lived just twenty minutes after the first torpedo was fired.

"The approach and explosion of the first torpedo presented a terrible sight, but the passengers remained surprisingly cool. I believe that most of the first class passengers were drowned. At the most not more than 500 of 600 could have been saved. Most of those rescued were second and third class passengers. But a moment's notice was given before the attack was made. The ship sank like a stone. It was a terrifying sight. A great many were carried down by the suction of the whirlpool. Hundreds jumped overboard and clung to floating wreckage or overturned boats which had been blown from the ship by the explosion. Captain Turner remained on the bridge and went down with his ship. I think the first and second officers, five engineers and seventeen out of seventy-four firemen were saved. We had about 374 saloon passengers and as far as I know only 12 were saved.

A sixteen year old lad named W. G. E. Myers, of Stratford, Ontario, who was on his way to join the British navy, saw the torpedo approaching the ship. He said that only two torpedoes were fired.

"I went below to get a lifebelt on as soon as I saw the torpedo coming towards us," said Myers. "There was a whole lot of excitement, and I saw some passengers trying to quiet a woman who had become hysterical. A lot of us got into a boat but the lines had become fouled and it could not be lowered. Meanwhile the liner was fast settling and it looked as though we would be carried down with her. Finally some one found a hatch and we cut the moorings and got cleared, but we were only two hundred yards away when the ship sank bow first. Hundreds of persons went down with her. We could hear the shrieks of those men and women as they were caught in the suction that dragged them to their death. It was appalling to hear the death screams of those doomed persons, and some of those in our boat held their hands over their ears to shut out the dreadful clamor. We saw women and children drown, although we did our best to save all possible and at the last the boat was burdened to its capacity."

Clinton Bernard, of New York, jumped overboard without a lifebelt and clung to a piece of wreckage until he was picked up.

Queenstown, May 10.—With all survivors now almost certainly accounted for, it is possible to make up the figures of the toll of death exacted by the German submarine which sent the giant Cunard Lusitania to the bottom of the sea. The latest revised figures as made public by the Cunard officers are as follows:

Total number of dead, 1,149; to-

Week's War News

Private Arnold W. Smith, another Fredericton boy, is reported as being wounded in the battle of Ypres.

Privates Alex. Watling, Harold Baldwin, Chatham, and Earle Wilson, Derby Junction, are reported wounded.

Amsterdam, May 5.—A despatch received here from Berlin says that General Hugo Von Seelentz has been killed on the field of battle.

London, May 5.—Information was given out at the War Office today that Joseph Benoit, a member of the Canadian Contingent, had been accidentally shot in camp by a friend, who was cleaning a rifle.

London, May 5.—Great Britain is about to prohibit the exportation of coal and coke to all countries abroad, other than British possessions and protectorates and allied countries. A committee will be appointed, however, to consider applications for the export of these fuels to prohibited destinations.

London, May 5.—Furious fighting is reported from the northeast of Ypres, where the Germans are making tremendous efforts to advance south from Gravenstafel, toward which the British have held a wedge and so straightened their line from St. Julien to Zonnebeke.

London, May 5.—The British are clinging tenaciously to a group of villages and hamlets in this corner, although at several points they are subjected to a flanking fire from the enemy in positions between Gravenstafel and southward toward Zonnebeke.

London, May 5.—Troop movements in Belgium indicate that the Germans are sending all available reinforcements to this small zone of fighting, in a desperate attempt to push back the British from the line, which if held threatens to prevent the enemy from reaping the advantage from the ground captured in last week's advance.

Northern France, May 5.—The Canadian Division, or most of it is still resting. They are billeted in little villages almost in the same places where they were garrisoned weeks ago before the 22nd Canadian's name figured in British history.

London, May 5.—The Petrograd correspondent of the London Times telegraphs that he learns that three brigades of cavalry and one of infantry, composing the German raiders of the Baltic Provinces, have been trapped. He adds that probably none will escape, unless they succeed in reaching ships off the coast.

London, May 5.—Eleven travelers of the North Sea fishing fleet have been sunk in the North Sea by a sea-going German submarine with a facsimile of the Iron Cross painted on her conning tower. It is feared that other trawlers have been sunk, as the last seen of the hostile submarine it was headed for the Aberdeen fishing fleet.

Ottawa, May 5.—Killed in action—Private Hector Cameron, Lepreaux, N. B.; Private Harry L. Dupuy, Amherst, N. S.; Sergeant John Dauvergne, Harris Rundell, St. John, N. B.

Kingston, Ont., May 5.—This afternoon Lieut. Col. W. S. Hughes, commanding the 21st Overseas Battalion, was presented by Warden Creighton with two machine guns, as the gift of the penitentiaries of Canada.

Lieut. C. S. Major, formerly of Fredericton and who has been in charge of the soldiers in training at Truro, N. S., has been notified that he will be expected to join the reinforcements for the First Canadian Contingent now at the front in France.

London, May 6.—"The legation here has notified the Japanese to prepare to leave the capital within twelve hours," says the Daily Telegraph's Peking correspondent. "Telegrams are pouring in from every part of China, foreboding hostilities. An ultimatum by Japan is expected, by the latest, on Thursday."

Berlin, May 5.—Germany today was more confident than ever before that all efforts of her enemies to crush her must prove in vain. With a three-fold offensive, in Flanders, in Galicia and in north-west Russia, being successfully prosecuted, there was a spirit of enthusiasm displayed in both military and civilian circles that exceeded even the stirring days immediately following the outbreak of the war.

Women's Weakness And Health Perils

Anaemia Comes so Gratefully That the Victim Scarcely Realizes the Hold the Trouble Has Upon Her Until Almost in a Decline.

Women's work is more wearing than man's because it lasts almost every waking hour. There is no eight or nine hour day for the breadwinner's wife, and often she toils under the greatest difficulty because her strength is below what it should be. The woman who is indoors all day is very often careless about what she eats and does not keep her blood up to the mark. It becomes thin and poor, which makes her weak, headachy, tired, breathless and liable to pains in the back and sides, the scourge of her sex. New blood will do wonders for the woman who is tired out, who aches all over when she rises in the morning and feels unaccountably depressed. She can gain new blood now, and drive away the pains and aches and tiredness if she will take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have worked wonders for other women and will do the same for you if you are weak, tired, depressed or suffering from backaches or sideaches. Mrs. Elmer C. Taylor, Calgary, Alberta, says: "I was so run down with anaemia that I could scarcely walk without aid. I was not able to leave the house. I had no color, no appetite, and was constantly troubled with headaches, dizzy spells and a general disinclination to move about or do anything. My friends did not think I would get better, and even the doctor was apprehensive. I was constantly taking medicine, but it did not do me a particle of good. One day a friend asked if I had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so almost as a forlorn hope. After I had used a few boxes there was a decided change for the better, and people began to ask what I was taking, the change was so noticeable. As I continued the Pills my color came back, I could eat my meals regularly, the headaches and dizzy spells ceased, I gained in weight and took a new interest in life, my cure being complete. I have told many sickly women and girls what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me and urged them to take them and shall continue to do so, knowing what a splendid medicine they are." Every weak and ailing woman who will follow Mrs. Taylor's example and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial will find new health and strength through their use. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

This war is doing an enormous amount towards encouraging tea drinking all over the world, and it looks as though in countries where tea has up to now been more or less an experiment or a luxury it will in the near future be in a fair way of becoming a national beverage. Once attract a taste for tea and it will come to stay. The Russians have of course always been large tea drinkers, and with the Government's action in closing down the State-run vodka canteens an even larger consumption is bound to follow. France, hitherto a very small consumer and essentially a coffee country, has been adopting tea to fight upon, and every French soldier who returns from the field will take the taste back to his family. It will all spell extra consumption and a continued range of high prices. Consumption has in the last year or two increased in a far greater ratio than has production, and fresh planting owing to various causes, chiefly the labour difficulty, has been handicapped. New land takes some years to come into full bearing, and young gardens require to be treated tenderly at first. Of course, China could, if she would, produce countless millions, but unless British grown tea goes to absolutely prohibitive prices there is not much prospect of the tea-drinking public reverting to China Tea.—From London "The Grocers' Gazette" April 3rd, 1915.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Doucette Tells of her Distressing Symptoms During Change of Life and How She Found Relief.

Belleville, Nova Scotia, Can.—"Three years ago I was suffering badly with what the doctors called Change of Life. I was so bad that I had to stay in bed. Some friends told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the first. It is the only medicine I took that did help me and I recommend it. You don't know how thankful and grateful I am. I give you permission to publish what your good medicine has done for me."—Mrs. SIMON DOUCETTE, Belleville, Yarmouth Co., Nova Scotia, Canada.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dizziness, palpitation, timidity, sounds in the ears, evaporation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound purifies and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

NICE GIRLS, HIS WIVES: NAMES? M'M, LET'S SEE

Atlantic City, May 4.—A middle-aged couple entered the Bureau of Civil Statistics in the city hall, seeking a wedding permit. They were conducted into the marriage bureau and Register Glenn asked them the usual questions. The woman answered without a hitch and the man did well until the last question was put.

"Have you ever been married before?" asked Mr. Glenn.

"Yes, twice," was the answer.

"What were the names of your wives?" requested the Registrar.

"Bertha was the first and May was the second," was the prompt reply.

"Their last names, please?"

"H'm, let's see, I don't believe I ever heard either more than once and that was when they were introduced to me. No, I don't remember their last names, but they were both nice girls," was the innocent answer.

The witness was excused until he could supply the necessary information.

PROVE IT YOURSELF BY BUYING

a box of Tonoline Tablets NOW

"By George, I never saw anything like the effects of that new treatment, Tonoline Tablets, for building up of weight and lost nerve force. It acted more like a miracle than a medicine," said a well-known gentleman yesterday in speaking of the revolution that had taken place in his condition. "I began to think that there was nothing on earth that could make me fat. I tried tonics, digestives, heavy eating, diets, milk, beer and almost everything else you could think of, but without result."

"Any man or woman who is thin can recover normal weight by the best new treatment Tonoline Tablets. I have been thin for years and began to think it was natural for me to be that way. Finally I read about the remarkable processes brought about by use of Tonoline Tabs, so I decided to try myself. Well, when I look at myself in the mirror now, I think it is somebody else. I have put on just forty pounds during the last forty days, and never felt stronger or more 'nervy' in my life."

Tonoline Tabs are a powerful inducer to nutrition, increases cell-growth, food, increases the number of blood-corpuscles and as a necessary result builds up muscles, and solid healthy flesh, and rounds out the figure.

For women who can never appear stylish in anything they wear because of their thinness this remarkable treatment may prove a revelation. It is a beauty maker as well as a form builder and nerve strengthener. Tonoline Tabs cost $1 for a 50-days' treatment, at druggists, or mailed by American Proprietary Co., Boston, Mass.

WEDNESDAY MAY 12TH, 1915

THE SINKING OF THE LUSITANIA

While it may perhaps be true that the loss of 1400 lives is reckoned as only an incident in these days, when 12,000 Canadians suffer nearly 6000 casualties in one battle, and the British dead—not the casualties, but the killed—in three days' fighting round Neuve Chapelle numbered 190 officers and 2,337 of other ranks, it is none the less equally true that probably no incident since the war started has so stirred the whole civilized world as the sinking of the Lusitania. The fate of this noble vessel was a maritime massacre in which non-combatants of various nationalities were deliberately murdered by German sea power, just as non-combatant French and Belgian men, women and children have been murdered by German land power. Germany's responsibility remains, in the light of this latest outrage, the most crushing she has yet had to shoulder. Doubtless however, it sets as lightly on her, as all her other responsibilities appear to do. In their desperation, the Kaiser and his subordinates intend, it would seem, to stop at nothing. The iceberg which sunk the Titanic was an unconscious agent, while the Empress of Ireland was the victim of an accident. But to deliberately torpedo a great passenger ship with 2000 non-combatants, including women and children aboard was to undertake murder on such an unprecedented scale as to proclaim those who ordered this outrage nothing short of fiends incarnate.

The dastardly deed was no unfortunate mistake, for there is ample proof that the horror was deliberately planned weeks ago. The submarine commander had orders from Berlin to destroy the Lusitania on this voyage. Germans all over the United States knew this. Hence the telegrams that poured into would-be passengers to abandon the journey! Hence the swarm of Germans who buttonholed passengers on the dock at New York last Saturday and begged them not to sail. The German Embassy at Washington had gone so far as to insert official advertisements in the Metropolitan press informing the public of the danger of embarking upon any but American vessels. This warning was a deliberate insult to the intelligence of the American people.

The Lusitania was a peaceful commercial vessel purging her ordinary avocation. The subjects of neutral countries had as much right to travel on her with impunity and safety as they had to travel upon their own vessels, subject to the chance of the ship's capture and confiscation as a prize of war. Germany's action in attacking this vessel and thereby placing in jeopardy the lives of hundreds of neutral subjects brings to the fore a direct conflict between the rights of neutral countries, such as the United States, and her own arrogant pretensions as a belligerent. She is entirely in the wrong, and the warning she gave in no way minimises the offence.

This fresh display of German "Kultur," raises anew the question as to how long the Washington Government is going to be scooped and trampled on by the most unscrupulous and barbarous race of modern times. What effect is this deliberate destruction of two hundred American lives in cold blood going to have upon public sentiment throughout the United States? Can President Wilson and his cabinet continue to stand on one side and allow their protests to go unheeded, and still submit as though they represented some little insignificant state? The world has heard a good deal of loud talk emanating from Washington, and threats that if any disaster happened to American lives, Germany would be held to "strict accountability." The time has come now when talk is of little avail; something more definite must take place unless the United States and its government is to fall into contempt among the other nations of the world.

Moreover, if the Washington Government continues to hold aloof, what standing will it have at the close of the war? If it persistently ignores continuous breaches of international agreement and convention, what weight can it hope to carry hereafter in the councils of the nations?

Germany has served notice on the world of her intention to disregard anything and everything in the shape of international law and custom that in anyway interferes with her plans. Unable to enforce with her navy her marine position, she claims everything in order to hide the hollowness of her pretensions as a sea power. Her navy is unable to leave its retreat, and she chooses instead to adopt the methods of the thug and the hoodlum. If the other nations are not prepared to admit and accept this latest exhibition of German "frightfulness," the full force of their practical indignation will be brought down on Germany's head. Consideration of common humanity demand that all should unite in putting this dangerous menace to the world's peace out of business once and for all.

Derby Women's Institute Meeting

Held in Millerton on Friday Was Enjoyable Affair

At the monthly meeting of the Derby Women's Institute, held at Mrs. J. D. Lyon's, Millerton, Friday night, 7th inst., eighteen members answered the roll call and there were several visitors. It was a long-fellow night, and each member responded with a quotation from that poet. The president, Mrs. W. G. Thurber occupied the chair. Mrs. Douglas Brown secretary.

The meeting opened with "O Canada," and closed with the National Anthem. A letter from Miss Hazel Winter of Fredericton, Supervisor of Institutes, was read wherein she advised that the Institute sell buttons to raise money to be forwarded for Red Cross Work. On the front of the button are the Allies' Flags with "Allied for Right" while on the back is: "For the Soldiers: 3 buttons buy 1 pair of socks." It was decided to send for 500 of them to be disposed of on May 24th.

Miss Imogene Jonah of Sussex, Field Demonstrator, was present and gave an address on "Chocolate and Cocoa: their uses and nutritive values." She answered questions and gave recipes for making of cakes in which chocolate or cocoa are used.

During the proceedings, Mrs. Jessie Lyon sang Longfellow's "The Arrow and the Song;" Mrs. J. A. Ives accompanied, and Miss Joan Wathen of Harcourt recited "The Children's Hour."

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Michael Monahan's, Kirkwood, on the third Thursday in June, the subject: "Ways and Means of Preparing Strawberries and Making Summer Beverages." Roll call will be answered with quotations from Tennyson.

After the meeting the hostess served a dainty luncheon. The latter had been prepared by her guest, Miss Jonah. Miss Jonah addressed a similar meeting at Napton Tuesday evening. The Women's Institutes are organized under the direction of the Provincial Agricultural Department. Misses Winter and Jonah will tour this county next month with a view to organizing more Institutes. There is room for them in Whitneyville, Douglastown, Newcastle and lots of other places near.

REXTON ITEMS

Of Interest to Readers From Our Regular Correspondent.

May 11—On Wednesday evening, Misses Jennie and Mary Scott were pleasantly surprised, at the home of Mr. Wm. Whitney, when about 25 of their school chums assembled. A well-worn address was read by Miss Grace Moore and each of the girls were presented with toilet sets, the presentations being made by Miss Hazel Whitney and Jennie Palmer. The evening was spent in games and music and a delicious supper was served. Among those present were, the Misses Francena Lanigan, Alice McInerney, Janie Clark, Greta Palmer, Elizabeth Gifford, Hattie McInair, Lizzie Clark, Alice McLean, Jennie Palmer, Lulu McInair, Priscilla Hutchinson, Grace Moore, Hazel Whitney, and Messrs. Will Gifford, Alphonse Richard, Verne Hutchinson, George McMichael, James Clark, Freeman Atkinson, Grant McDonald, Ralph Hutchinson, Bruce Atkinson.

The Misses Scott will soon leave Rexton with their parents and brothers and sisters, to reside in Bathurst. Much success is the wish of the many friends they leave behind.

A social dance given by the young men of the town was held Friday night. A large number were present and all enjoyed themselves immensely. The "Moonlight Waltz" was a special feature of the program. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. John Ferguson, of Sussex, N. B., Miss L. Crocker, Miss Wheten, Mr. Herb Irving and Mr. Duncan McIntosh, of Buebeche; Mrs. Dr. Bourque and Mrs. Will Hanay; the Misses Mary Carter, Mary McDonald, Ida McDonald, Keith, Eva Munde, Edith Vautour, Kelly, Leah O'Leary, Alfreda Vautour, Lotie Long, Jess Hanna; and Messrs. Herb O'Neil, George O'Leary, Frank Troy, Will Hanna, Alfred Robichaud, Fred Hanna, Emile LeBlanc, Irving Munde, Frank Lanigan; all of Richibucto; Mrs. Davis, Miss E. Rogers, Mr. Al. Keswick, Mr. Campbell and Mr. Harry Keswick of Bass River; the Rextonian guests were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Kullender, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LeBlanc, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parkhill, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. R. G. Girvan, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. M. DeMille, Mr. and Mrs. H. Marks, Mr. and Mrs. John Dickison, Mrs. Mayme Dobson, Mrs. George Jardine, the Misses Nell Lanigan, Norma Smith, Alkena Wood, Lucie Mallett, Emma Lanigan, Roberta McMichael, Alice Jardine, Gertie Price, Lillian Williamson, Stella Lanigan, Helen Carson, Hattie Dickson, Emma Short, Annie McMichael, and Messrs. G. C. Machum, Pionel Robichaud, J. S. Dewar, E. J. Poirier, Harry Glen-cross, Will Girvan, Freeman Atkinson, James Clark, Alphonse Richard, Will A. Martin, Thora Bowser, Price, Elwell Smith.

Mr. Frank P. Fraser went to Burnsville, (Gloucester Co.) on Tuesday. Mrs. S. J. Squires of Waterford, Ont., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jardine. Mr. John Ferguson who came from Sussex on Friday to attend the dance, returned on Saturday. Mrs. Edward Hanna, Miss Sadie Dickison and Miss Ruth Gifford, went to Boston on Monday. The schooners "Dwina," captain Alex. Fraser, Jr., and "Maude Weston," Captain William Weston, left the wharf on Wednesday but was forced to anchor at Richibucto on account of the running ice which tore the bougies out of position.

Word was received here on Saturday morning, by Mr. John McInerney, that his son George, who went in the First Contingent had been wounded. The telegram did not state the seriousness of the wound but much anxiety is felt by the people of Rexton.

Mr. and Mrs. James Maloney are rejoicing on the arrival of a daughter. Mr. George McNulty went to Bathurst on Thursday. Miss Edith Scott who for the past few years has acted as organist of the English church here, was presented by the congregation yesterday with a beautiful toilet set. Miss Scott will leave shortly for Bathurst to reside.

"The Murder of Innocent Women and Children Brought Rejoicing to Hearts of Germans." Amsterdam, May 10—The Cologne Volks Zeitung says: "The sinking of the Lusitania is a success of our submarines which must be placed beside the greatest achievement of this naval war. The sinking of the giant English steamer is a success of moral significance, which is still greater than material success. With joyful pride we contemplate this latest deed of our navy. It will not be the last. The English wish to abandon the German people to death by starvation. We are more humane. We simply sank an English ship with passengers who at their own risk and responsibility entered the zone of operations."

RICHIBUCTO NEWS

Personal and Local Happenings at the Shiretown of Kent County

May 8—The following were shipped on April 26th by our Red Cross society: two dressing gowns, eighteen night-shirts, eleven surgical shirts, nine day-shirts, six dozen and three face cloths, one pair of pyjamas, two pairs of socks, one pair of mittens, one scarf, two pairs of knee caps. Twenty-one pairs of socks were sent to the Sock Social.

F. J. Robidoux, M. P., returned last week from Ottawa. Mrs. Robidoux does not expect to come for a week or so, being a guest of her sister, Mrs. W. A. Russell, Shediac.

Miss Mayme Murray returned last Saturday from a lengthy visit to friends in Moncton, on her return from a trip to Nova Scotia.

Miss Annie Babzin, of Sackville, was a guest for a few days this week, of Mrs. B. Doucet.

Russel Long, of the 26th Battalion, after spending a week's furlough with his mother and sisters, returned on Tuesday to St. John.

William Long, sr., returned home last week, after spending several months in the Moncton hospital. Mr. Long had a very serious time; first with his foot, from which he had several toes removed, and later with his chest. He returned considerably improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lezoo, Jr., returned recently from the state of Maine, where they spent the winter.

The death of Joseph Haltes occurred on the morning of Thursday, the 6th inst., after quite a lengthy illness. Besides his widow he leaves eight children—five daughters and three sons. The sons are Charles J., Joseph and Earle, at home. The daughters are: Mrs. William Muzeral of Waltham, Mass., Mrs. G. H. Laskey, of St. John; Mrs. George Laskey, St. John, Mrs. John Carr, of Yarmouth, Maine, and Mrs. Alexander Cail, of Ford's Mills. The funeral will be held tomorrow. Services in St. Mary's church of England and at the grave will be conducted by the rector, Rev. F. W. M. Bacon.

Excelsior Mission Circle Meeting

Mrs. H. H. Stuart, Hon. President Presented With an Address

At the regular monthly meeting of the Methodist Excelsior Mission Circle, held in the Vestry Monday night the following officers were elected for ensuing year: Honorary President—Mrs. H. H. Stuart; Pres., Miss Jean Ashford; Vice-pres., Miss Bessie G. H. Dick; Recording Sec., Miss Florence Price; Treas., Miss Lida Copp; Corresponding sec., Miss Ethel Allison.

Miss Dick, who had been president for three years, was warmly thanked upon motion of Mrs. W. Harrison and Miss Ashford, for her faithful and efficient work for the good of the Society.

Miss Ashford rendered a solo, and Miss Dick gave a reading—"The Seventh from Adam."

Mrs. H. H. Stuart was presented with an address and a "Life Membership Certificate," the address being read by Miss Ashford and presentation made by Mrs. Harrison. The address was as follows: Dear Mrs. Stuart,

The Members of the Excelsior Mission Circle wish to convey to you their appreciation of your efforts to help and encourage them in their Circle work.

In our regular meetings your presence has been most helpful, and in our special undertakings you have always been a source of help.

As a slight token of our affection and esteem we ask you to accept this "Life Membership Certificate." Hoping you will still continue your help, and praying that God's blessing may rest upon you and yours.

Signed BESSIE G. H. DICK, LAURA C. WILLISTON.

The ladies of the Auxiliary of the W. M. S. were present on invitation, and after the close of the business meeting, a very pleasant social was held.

Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry
The Canadian Militia Department has authorized the organization of a Second University Company for Overseas Service, to go as a reinforcement to the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. The Company will be commanded by Captain Geo. C. McDonald, of the McGill Contingent, C. O. T. C., with Captain Percival Molson, also of the McGill Contingent, C. O. T. C., as Second in Command. Owing to the success which has attended the recruiting for the First University Company, which is at present up to full strength, and attached as "D" Company to the 38th Battalion Canadian Expeditionary Force, it was thought advisable to form another Company, and an application was made to the Department for the necessary authority, which has been granted. Recruiting for the Company has already been started, and many names have been received. The Company will be composed of Graduates or Undergraduates of Universities or their friends. Conditions of Service and Rate of Pay will be the same as in the other Units of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. The First University Company and the Toronto University and McGill University Contingents, C. O. T. C., are going to a training camp at Niagara-on-the-Lake on May 3rd to the 15th, and it is expected that during that period a large number of Recruits for the new Company will be obtained. Immediately after the Camp active recruiting will be commenced at Montreal. The Headquarters of the Company will be at 382 Sherbrooke Street West, and any enquiries or applications should be addressed there to Lieutenant Geo. S. Currie, Recruiting Officer.

Clean Up Day—Friday May 14

Cunard Liner Lusitania Sunk

Under the caption "The Heart of Christ, the Sword of the Lord and Gideon," Colonel Henry Waterson says in the Louisville Courier Journal—
"Truly the nation of black hand and bloody heart has got in its work. It has got in its work not upon armed antagonists, in fair fight on the battle front, but upon the unoffending and the helpless, lying on what has always been and should ever remain, to the peaceful peace loving, God's free and open sea."
"Nothing in the annals of piracy can in wanton and cruel ferocity equal the destruction of the Lusitania."
"But, comes the query, what are we going to do about it. Are we at the mercy of the insane Hobnobbler, not only through his emissaries, sending his odious system of Government and debasing theories of castism, affecting superiority to our door, and proclaiming them, but bringing his war of conquest and murder across the line of our transits and travel over the high seas, which are ours to sail, as we live, without let or hindrance from man or monarch, from him or from anyone on land or water?"
"Must we as a people sit down like dogs, and see our laws defiled, our flag fouled, and our protests whistled down the wind of this Lordling's majestic disdain?"
"Must we as a nation emulate at once the impotence and the docility of China, and before such proof of the contempt in which we are held by him and his, throw up our hands in entreaty and despair, saying to the insistence of the autocracy to the insolence of vanity, 'Thy will is law?'"
"The Courier Journal will not go the length of saying that the President should convene Congress and advise it to declare against these barbarians a state of war. This may yet become necessary. Whilst actual war is not possible, Germany having no fleet we can wipe off the briny deep, nor army near enough to be met face to face and exterminated, yet we are not wholly without reprisal for the murder of our citizens and the destruction of their property. There are many German ships, at least two German men-of-war, in the aggregate worth many millions of dollars, within our reach to make our losses repudiated by Germany good, and their owners robbed by Germany, whole again."
"We must not act either in haste or passion. This catastrophe is too real. The flashlight thrown upon the methods and purposes of Germany is too appalling to leave us in any doubt what awaits us as the bloody and brutal work goes on. Civilization should abjure its neutrality. It should rise as one mighty Godlike force, and as far as its moral influence and physical appliances can be made to prevail forbid the riot of hate and debauch of blood that like a madman is running amuck among the innocent and unprotected."
"Every pulpit in America should send a prayer to God, in protest."
"Every patriot minister of the Gospel of Christ should lift his voice in protest and more than all, the Christian President of the United States, a cool and brave man sprung from a line of heroes and saints, ceasing longer to protest, should act, leaving no doubt in the minds or hearts of any, that he is not merely a leader in Christ, but a leader of men and nations, and that he holds aloft the sword of God and of Gideon."

LUSITANIA WAS SUNK BY SUBMARINE U-39
London, May 10—Advice from Munich say that the U-39, the most powerful type of submarine in the German navy, was the submarine which sunk the Lusitania.

KAISER GOT HIS PROPER ANSWER
The German Emperor Rebuffed in Appeal to the Queen Dowager of Italy

Rome, May 11—It is reported here that the Queen Dowager received from the Kaiser an autograph letter pointing out the advantages that Italy would derive from remaining neutral in the present war, and her intervention to avert a conflict with Austria. In reply he received the following: "In the House of Savoy only one reigns at a time."

TURKS LOSE HEAVILY AT THE DARDANELLES

Athens, May 11—A vigorous bombardment by the entire Allied fleet of the Turkish fortifications along the Dardanelles, and sanguinary combats for the strategic position of the Gallipoli Peninsula continued today. The fighting for ferocity and continuity has eclipsed even the long drawn out combats of the Balkan war, and the loss of life on both sides is very much greater. The Turkish losses in killed and wounded alone on the Peninsula number 45,000.

FRENCH AVIATORS DROP BOMBS ON ZEPPELIN HANGAR

Paris, May 11—The French aviators are dealing heavy blows on the enemy and have dropped bombs at several points behind their line. Their most conspicuous success has been at Maubeuge, where the Germans had established a dirigible station. A French aviator has been successful in dropping several explosive bombs there. While the extent of the damage is not yet known his report says that the hangar was set on fire, and it is believed that if there was a Zeppelin there it was destroyed.

GERMAN DROPS BOMBS UPON PARIS SUBURB

Paris, May 11—A German aeroplane of the taube type flew over St. Denis, a suburb of Paris this morning, and dropped two bombs. One missile wounded five persons, while the other fell on a building without causing damage.

GOOD-BYE, DOLLAR

Every dollar you send out of town flies away with a value that rightfully belongs to you: community. Spend it at home, with your home merchant, where its value stays with you and helps to build up your interests. When you come to think of it, there are only two kinds of dollars—the "Dollar with Wings" and the "Development Dollar." The "Dollar with Wings" goes to build up the Far Distant City, The Big Metropolis. The "Development Dollar" goes to build up the Home Town. It helps build up a nation of real men and women. Then, let us make the dollars we spend "Development Dollars," home-town builders, building for us and our neighbors and our children, making our community more prosperous, more happy, more contented.

Jury Charges Germans With Wholesale Murder

to approach without being seen?"
"Oh yes, quite possible."
"Something has been said regarding the impossibility of launching the boats on the port side?"
"Yes," said Captain Turner, "owing to the listing of the ship."
"How many boats were launched safely?"
"I cannot say."
"Were any launched safely?"
"Yes, and one or two on the port side."
"Were your orders promptly carried out?"
"Yes."
"Was there any panic on board?"
"No, there was no panic at all; it was almost calm."
"How many persons were on board?"
"There were one thousand five hundred passengers, and about six hundred crew."
By the foreman of the jury:
"In the face of the warnings at New York that the Lusitania would be torpedoed did you make an application to the admiralty for an escort?"
"No, I left that to them. It is their business, not mine. I simply had to carry out my orders to go, and I would do it again."
Captain Turner uttered the last words of this reply with great emphasis.
By coroner:
"I am very glad to hear you say so, captain."
By a jurymen:
"Did you get a wireless to steer your gear in a northern direction?"
"No," replied Captain Turner.
"Was the course of the vessel altered after the torpedoes struck her?"
"I headed straight for land, but it was useless. Previous to this the watertight bulkheads were closed. I suppose the explosion forced them open. I don't know the exact extent to which the Lusitania was damaged."
"There must have been serious damage done to the watertight bulkheads?"
"There certainly was, without doubt."
"Were the passengers supplied with lifebelts?"
"Yes."
"Were any special orders given that morning that lifebelts be put on?"
"No."
"Was any warning given you before you were torpedoed?"
"None whatever, it was suddenly done and finished."
"If there had been a patrol about, might it have been of assistance?"
"It might, but it is one of those things one never knows."
With regard to the threats against his ship Captain Turner said he saw nothing, except that which appeared in the New York papers the day before the Lusitania sailed. He never had heard the passengers talking about the threats, he said.
"Was a warning given to the lower decks after the ship had been struck?" Captain Turner was asked.
"All the passengers must have heard the explosion," Captain Turner replied.
Captain Turner, in answering another question, said he received no report from the lookout before the torpedo struck the Lusitania.
After physicians had testified that the victims had met death through prolonged immersion and exhaustion the coroner summed up the case and the jury brought in its verdict.

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF, HAIR STOPS FALLING

Save your Hair! Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine right now—Also stops itching scalp.
Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is sure evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.
Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store. You surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. Save your hair! Try it!

SHOP IN YOUR OWN CITY FIRST

This "Made in Canada" movement can be brought a little nearer home to each individual by emphasizing this suggestion: "Patronize the stores of your home town."
Each man is entitled to spend his own money where it will buy the most—whether it be in Rome or A—
But in fairness—
Is it not wisdom before purchasing elsewhere to see what the stores of our own town have to offer?
The prosperity of each of us is tied up with the prosperity of his neighbor.
Acquaint yourself with what the stores of your own town are offering by reading the advertisements in The Union Advocate.

Mrs. Whitney died on the 20th ult.

Dum-Dum Bullets And Their Origin

Why it Was Found Necessary to Make This Flesh-Tearing Death Dealer

During the present war, as in all recent wars, each army has frequently charged the other with the use of Dum-Dum. They are forbidden, of course, by all of the laws of civilized warfare. Like most other inventions, they arose from necessity. During the Indian campaigns of the British army the Indians or similar East Indian tribes did not seem to be readily stopped by the small bore jacketed bullets then in use. Such bullets did not stop them. They would charge the British squares by moonlight or by daylight brandishing their enormous machete-like knives, as sharp as razors, and frequently succeeding in reaching the British lines and slash to death a soldier or two before they themselves would be brought down by the bayonet. When killed, they would be found "full of holes", pierced clear through the body by several small bore bullets. Yet, they charged ahead as though they had not been touched. Obviously, the British soldiers had to find some way to make their bullets more deadly, or else they must expect to wait to meet their Afghan face to face in a contest of bayonet against machete, with the odds all in favor of the machete. So, in the little hill armory of Dum-Dum the new bullet was evolved for making "good men" out of the Afghans. This was done by removing a part of the jacket from the point and exposing the lead. When tried on the next Afghans, the effect was surprising. Every man hit stopped where he was. It was found that the new bullet, as soon as it struck, split up, or spread out or "mush roomed," making a terrible wound which would immediately put the worst savage out of business. Since then, many other ways have been found for giving the same effect, but one and all have been named after this place of origin of the first one of the type Dum-Dum.

HOW TO BEAUTIFY NEWCASTLE

What would be your suggestion in that respect? How have you managed to keep your lawn nice and clean and attractive? Write your ideas, and your letter will be published through this new department.

Dirt chased on clean-up day means a town chaste.

A spade and a rake and a little elbow grease and get busy, on Friday next.

CLEANING WINDOWS

A good idea, particularly in the winter time, when the washing of windows is always unpleasant work, is to frequently wipe off the inside of the glass with a dry cloth. It is surprising to find how much dust and dirt can be removed. In cleaning the windows, if a little washing soda and a tablespoonful of alcohol are added to each pail of water the glass will be much brighter.

IMPROVE THE HOME GROUNDS

Now is the time to clean up about the house and lawn. The dead parts of vines and shrubbery should be removed and the fence straightened up if need be, flower beds laid out and planted, and perhaps a few shade trees planted. Native trees, especially those grown in the rather other places, often thrive best and make the most desirable shade trees. In case a lawn is to be started this spring it should be done without further delay. A desirable lawn grass seed mixture for one acre can be made by mixing 42 pounds of pure Kentucky blue grass seed, 5 pounds of Red Top and 3 pounds of white clover. Rake the seed in well and roll lightly. Probably there are worn or bare spots on the lawn that needs repairing. Cover such areas with an inch or two of well rotted manure, spade deeply, stamp lightly and sow with lawn seed. Rake well and roll. If possible, these areas should be kept moist.

A notice appeared in the last issue of the Advocate, under the signature of Mayor Stohart, asking parties who have wood piled on the street to have it removed, as in summer time it is a source of danger. During the winter it does not matter so much, as teams usually keep to a beaten track. In summer, however, where auto and teams pass, the case is different, and for this reason particularly the council has made the above request.

Vegetables fresh from the garden are a luxury only appreciated by those who cultivate their own back yard or the vacant lot.

It has been suggested that a coat of paint be given the fountain and also the gun carriages in the park. This would add to the beauty of this leisure spot.

MIRACULOUS CURE OF ASTHMA

Suffered Terribly for 15 Years Until He Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

D. A. WHITE, Esq.

21 WALLACE AVE., TORONTO, Dec. 22nd, 1913.

"Having been a great sufferer from Asthma for a period of fifteen years (sometimes having to sit up at night for weeks at a time) I began the use of 'Fruit-a-tives'. These wonderful tablets relieved me of Indigestion, and through the continued use of same, I am no longer distressed with that terrible disease, Asthma, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives' which are worth their weight in gold to anyone suffering as I did. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers from Asthma, which I believe is caused or aggravated by Indigestion." D. A. WHITE

Timely Topics ON PRINTING

FINE PRINTING IS AN ART

Do you know good printing? Do you like good printing? Do you know that it always pays to have the BETTER kind? Perhaps you have been used to the one class of printing and know no other. If this is so, it is time for you to have a look around and investigate and see what's what. Do you know you do not have to go any farther away than Newcastle to obtain the BETTER class of printing.

Perhaps you have not given it a thought, but a great deal depends on the stock used in order to get a BETTER job. Investigate this.

Last, but not the least, do you know that The Advocate Job Department turns out only this BETTER class of work. If you will read on a little further, we will tell you how and why.

1st—We cater to that class of people who use only the best stock, and who know what BETTER printing is.

2nd—In order to give these customers the class of work they want, we have to keep in stock only the best grades of material. We do not handle cheap lines.

3rd—In order, again, to be able to turn out that BETTER class of printing, we employ only experienced and competent printers, who keep abreast of the times and watch the styles.

4th—What is as important as the above is equipment. If The Advocate Job Department was not fitted out as it is, with the most modern machinery and the very latest in type faces, it could not handle the fast growing trade, that has developed in the past year, of turning out that BETTER class of printing. Only the best inks are used, because this is necessary when high grade stock is used.

Now, Mr. Business Man, if you will read the above over carefully, see how your supply stands, then get in touch with this office, we feel sure you will become a customer. Give up that old-fashioned notion that first class printing comes only from the large city printing offices. As a matter of fact, the reverse is the case, and prices are invariably lower.

REMEMBER THAT WE DO ALL KINDS OF PRINTING

For commercial use, we have superior grades of Letter, Note and Bill Head Stock, at prices and quality to suit any business and any purse. Our prices range from $2.50 to $4.00 per thousand for Letter Heads, and from $2.50 to $3.25 per thousand for Envelopes. Our Envelopes are the same material as our papers, and therefore match. We are always pleased to submit samples of stock, and prices, on application.

More Business IS WHAT WE WANT

You want the work—we want to do it for you. We have just the grade of paper you want, so why not let us get together in a co-operative way and make a strong pull for increased business—more business than usual.

The LAPSE of ENOCH WENTWORTH

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS
Author of "The Woman from Wolverton"
ILLUSTRATIONS BY ELLSWORTH YOUNG

COPYRIGHT, 1914 BY F. G. DROWNE & CO.

through the pages. He looked bewildered for a moment.
"Jeh! What can I do with so much money? I swear, Enoch, I don't want a penny more for being a wealthy man."
"You did not answer. He was sitting at a slip of paper he had drawn from the yellow envelope. "You remember this, Andrew," he asked abruptly.

Merry nodded. He caught a glimpse of Wentworth's name and his own name in the tiny writing they had called the bond. Enoch leaned back against the pillow and began to destroy the paper with slow deliberation, tearing it across and across until it was reduced to a heap of flakes which fluttered down into the hollow of his gaunt palm. He shook them into the envelope and handed it to Merry, who took it without a word and slipped it between the leaves of the bank-book.

"If you can trust me, Boy, until the right time comes and I reach the right place, I will make full restitution before the world."
"Don't, old man, let us bury this now and forever. Good God! isn't it restitution enough to have saved my life?"

"No," Enoch spoke with swift passion, "no, it isn't restitution. Don't stand in my way. You have to humor sick men, you know. Besides, I want to lay my soul bare to you now, Andrew. Had I been a Catholic I should have done it to a priest long ago, I suppose."

"Go ahead, Enoch, I'll listen," he said gently.
Wentworth turned in bed and clasped his hands around one bent knee. "Years ago," he began busily, "I was wandering about in the Tennessee mountains on an assignment when I fell in with a chap who taught psychology in Yale. He was nothing wonderful, but his science was fascinating. Time and again, since those days, I have planned, if I could find the leisure, to go into psychology and study the thing out. Still, any man who knocks about the world as I have done learns to puzzle things out for himself. You have to humor sick men, you know. Besides, I want to lay my soul bare to you now, Andrew. Had I been a Catholic I should have done it to a priest long ago, I suppose."

"I should imagine so. Still, it's an unopened lock to me," Merry admitted.
"We used to sit and talk every night around the campfire. I remember once this young MacGregor explained to me why a man we had both known committed murder. He killed his wife first, then, horror-stricken, shot himself. It's a common enough story, you read it in the papers every day of the week, but it came close to us because we had both known the fellow well. He was a decent, quiet, cheerful citizen, with a genial, kindly way about him. His taking off seemed a mystery. None of us had even seen him angry. Suddenly he turned into a flaming fiend, a murderer, and a suicide. Nothing but insanity or the Yale man's theory explained it."

"What was his theory?"
Wentworth paused for a minute with a haunted look in his eyes. "He claims that the morals of every human being are molded during the first twenty years of his life. Into a fairly decent career there comes occasionally—for the life of me I can't remember his technical name for it—I should call it a moral lesion. Some sin which a man has committed, and you might say lived down, before he was twenty, crops out again years after and it conquers him. Each time he may repent and turn over a new leaf. The world looks on him not as an Admirable Crichton perhaps, but as a tolerably good fellow. Then, suddenly, without the ghost of a warning, even after he imagines he has outgrown the tendency to that particular sin, there comes a temptation, and he goes under as if his backbone was gristle. He falls as quick as that!"

Wentworth paused for a moment and snapped his fingers. "Curious, isn't it?"
"Certainly is curious," agreed Merry.
"When the career of this murderer was brought to the light of day, they found that once when he was a school-boy, and again, when a friend stole his sweetheart, he might have committed murder if a weapon had been at hand. The third time a gun lay close to his elbow."

Andrew Merry did not speak, but sat watching Enoch with bewilderment in his eyes.
"I am going to tell you about two lesions which occurred in my own life. There was a third—you know about that one yourself."

Across the pale face of the invalid swept a wave of scarlet; then he began to talk slowly and hesitatingly.
"I was in a Southern academy the first seventeen or thereabouts. Prizes were to be given for a public oration and people were coming from everywhere to hear us. My father was a lawyer, one of the big lawyers of the state. He went to this school when he was a boy, and he had carried off the oration prize. His heart was set on my winning it. I talked and talked over that speech; it was about the death of Julius Caesar. I can remember, as I lay awake nights staring out into the darkness, how the speech came throbbing in my brain. I could never write, though, as I declared it to myself in the still dormitory. I used to go out into his chair. Then, on, Enoch, I swear you're not fit for this sort of thing! Your temperature will go up, then the nurse—"

"Damn the nurse. I'm fit enough; keep still. I want to finish my story. Forsyth, the intrepid young fool, went creeping along the face of the cliff. He had never seen a battle before. I called to him to be low, but he never needed me. Through a crevice in the rock I saw him stretch his head over the chasm and crane his neck, then plunge down and begin to write as if he were mad. Once I sneaked out and tried to drag him in beside me. He fought like a wildcat, so I went back to shelter. The bullets pinged on the rocks all around me. Suddenly I heard a low, gurgling, awful cry and somebody called my name in a hoarse shout. It was Forsyth. I crept out. He stood on a cliff above me, clutching at his throat, then he toppled and fell. He came plunging down over the rocks until he reached my feet. He was dead, stark dead, when I pulled him into the cave. His notebook was clutched so tight in his hand that I tore a corner from one page as I took it from his fingers. I buried him right there."

"After a little while the battle fizzled down to a stray shot or two. That was the end of it."
"Yes," acceded the Englishman. "The first night or any other night." "Wentworth's escape from death was a great one," he said at that way. He had a close call."
"Yes," Oswald spoke absently.

That morning he had arrived from London. Although he was the least curious of men, he felt as if the people from whom he had parted four months ago were living in a different atmosphere. Before the ship docked he had discovered a group waiting to welcome him. Dorcas was there, her beautiful face glowing with happiness. He watched her until a gray scarf from her hat and wave it. Merry stood beside her, but the girl's face was clasped inside her brother's arm. Wentworth was wan and thin. Across his temple gleamed a wide red scar. Merry lifted his hat when he caught sight of Oswald and the wind tossed down, almost into his eyes, the way of long fair hair which protruded from his collar. Alice Volk stood in the group, with Julie jumping impatiently beside her. Little Robin clasped her hand, while he searched for the ship with his sightless eyes.

With a courteous "Good night" Oswald left the man and walked into the theater, where any, cheering crowd streamed past him. The throng was so dense that he was pushed into a corner. When the overture began he moved toward the rail and took his place among a group of men who had not been able to buy seats. He found Singleton, at the times, at his elbow. "Hello," said the young editor cheerily. "I'm glad to see you back and glad you've come back to such a house. Why, it's one of the biggest I ever saw in New York. You fellows must be raking in the shekels."

"I do," Oswald said, "Oswald smiled, and he knew how long it would hold out. The play has already gone far beyond my expectations."
"It ought to last through several seasons. Generally a drama that pulls night under the gleam of a spluttering little torch I read Forsyth's story. It was tremendous—perfectly tremendous—perfectly tremendous! It read like inspired stuff. I had never dreamed the fellow had such a vocabulary. And he lay there close beside me, asleep—under the damp, warm, soft earth. I had a fit of the horrors. I put out my light, stuffed the pages of writing in my pocket, then went dozing and twisting down those wild mountains, dodging the enemy's campfires and their infernal bullets, until I reached the miserable little town in the valley where two men had our headquarters. I hurried to the telegraph office to send out Forsyth's story to the Tribune, and I was there when the news of his death came. I was waiting to get the wire when somebody handed me a cable. I looked at it half-dazed. It came from my own paper, crazy because I had sent them no story; they were hungry as vultures for news. As soon as I could get a wire I sent out Forsyth's story."

"Under his name?" asked Merry quietly.
"No," Enoch lifted his head, looked at his friend with guilt and shame in his eyes, then he turned away. "No, I signed my own name to it. I sent it to my own paper. I fired the news of Forsyth's death to the Tribune. Neither of the men spoke for some minutes. When Merry turned, Wentworth lay staring at him with a prayer for pity, comprehension, and forgiveness in his eyes.

"I want you to understand one thing," said Enoch. "I was assigned to interview him. He remembered me instantly. For a moment he stared at me from head to foot, then he turned away without a word and never touched the hand I offered him. My God! how that hurt!" A shiver went through the man's body.
"That happened twenty-five years ago," said Merry hesitatingly. "You can't lay up a boyhood sin against a man. He changes—he's almost another human being."

"No, he isn't," answered Wentworth doggedly. "I want to show you that the moral of every human being is in the right. That was my first fall from grace; but there was a second lesson. It was worse, worse even than—that what I did to you, Merry. I was out in the Balkan mountains where the blinded barbarian Turks go tearing at each other's throats once in so often. The world looked on, waiting for a story of war. I had none to tell, nothing happened but a skirmish or two once in a while. There was nothing a man could make into a story. It was a wretched campaign. Young Forsyth, of the Tribune, and I hung together through it for months, living like stray dogs, sick to death of our job, and ready to throw it up at any moment. One morning at daybreak we were awakened by shooting. We scrambled from the cave where we had slept and looked down into the valley. We were in the very heart of a battle, and these savages were climbing over the rocks with their cutlasses flashing. They shrieked like maniacs, the bullets went flying about our heads. I crept back to the hole among the rocks where we had spent the night. I couldn't see what was happening; I didn't want to see. Death shrieks echoed all around and above me. It was the most hellish din of battle I ever listened to. I had turned coward. I lay there with every tooth in my head chattering. A nice confession for a man to make, eh?" asked Wentworth with a grim smile.

Merry half rose then dropped back into his chair. "I understand," cried Merry. There was a thrill of compassion in his voice. "Now, dear old man, let's forget it. The one thing I can never forget is that you have raked me from the depths more than once. I might have been worse than dead today if it hadn't been for you."

"You never descended to the depths I did," said Wentworth absently. "He sat silent for a minute. Wentworth's eyes were fixed upon him like an insistent question. "Because Enoch," he went on in a steady voice, "because Dorcas has promised to be my wife."

"Oh," cried Wentworth quickly. "Oh, thank God for that!"

CHAPTER XXVII.
Behind the Curtain.
It was a wet night in October. A line of carriages moved slowly over the shining asphalt to the door of the Gotham. Grant Oswald stood in the corner of the foyer watching the throng pass by.

"This beats your first night in London, doesn't it?" queried a newspaper man who stood beside him.
"Yes," acceded the Englishman. "The first night or any other night." "Wentworth's escape from death was a great one," he said at that way. He had a close call."
"Yes," Oswald spoke absently.

That morning he had arrived from London. Although he was the least curious of men, he felt as if the people from whom he had parted four months ago were living in a different atmosphere. Before the ship docked he had discovered a group waiting to welcome him. Dorcas was there, her beautiful face glowing with happiness. He watched her until a gray scarf from her hat and wave it. The one thing I can never forget is that you have raked me from the depths more than once. I might have been worse than dead today if it hadn't been for you."

If the people waited intently for some news. I don't believe he dissipated exactly; he simply tossed his money away and went downhill. Wentworth would hunt him up and drag him back where he belonged. He straightened up suddenly when he began to play "John Esterbrook." You can't even pull him into a poker game now. I guess I took the winnings at the last game he stood in for. That night I had a great mind to hand the money back to him. We said "Good-by" about daylight. He looked pessimistic and glum. No, he wasn't glum either; Merry never gets glum. He had a downward-out, don't-give-a-damn expression that morning. I can see him yet. Suddenly he disappeared again. When he came back Wentworth and he cut each other dead. That Paquet woman affair began, then Wentworth stepped into the picture. Why, it's a tremendous story!"

Oswald turned abruptly. Something in his quiet gaze made Singleton shift his eyes with a start of guilt. "I want to say a word to you," the Englishman's voice was stern, "and I want you to repeat what I say to every man in your fraternity. There may be a big story somewhere behind this—I cannot tell. If there is, if an emnity or a misunderstanding did exist, if there was a wrong done, or if anything lies behind these two men which we do not comprehend, leave it to them. They have buried it. Don't, turgidly," he pleaded, "and dig it up, simply to make a curious, heartless world buy your paper for a day or two. I am told there is a bond between newspaper men, like a warm-hearted brotherhood. Wentworth belonged to that brotherhood; he does yet—remember that."

Singleton stretched out his hand with an impulsive gesture. "Thank you, Mr. Oswald. You're a good deal of a man. I never knew you before. We all need a jog on the elbow once in a while. A newspaper man grows a hazy when a story is may be air. He forgets how the other fellow feels. I'll pass the word around. I can promise you that not a man among us will do anything but take Merry's word for it. His confession is a big story in itself."

"Thank you," said Oswald with a cordiality which few men had seen in the dignified Englishman.
He stood talking with a group who gathered about him at the close of the play, eager as Singleton had been to discuss Merry's dramatic confession, when an usher interrupted them.
"Mr. Oswald, you're wanted back of the scenes," said the boy.
Under the white glare of electricity a little group stood on the half-dismantled stage. The people in the cast were there—property men, the call boy, electricians, ushers, and the humblest employee of the house. The actors still wore their stage garb and make-up. Dorcas' hand was linked in her brother's arm. For a moment Oswald stood watching her. Her face was flushed, her eyes shone, she seemed transfused by happiness.

Merry stretched out a welcoming hand to Oswald. "We've been waiting for you, Oswald, to round out our circle," he cried gaily. "I had a Scotch grandmother. When she reached the western wilderness and built a home, she made her husband carve over the chimney-piece: 'We're a sibb tae ane anither here.' Once, when I was a little boy, she explained it to me. I understood. The English language won't translate these words, but they mean that there's nobody here but the best of friends. Because we are a sibb tae ane anither here tonight I want to break a secret to you. It is a more wonderful secret than the news I gave to the audience."

Merry looked about him with a quick, boyish smile. "I used to say I could not make a certain speech to save my life. Tonight I feel as if I were blossoming out. I seen capable of speeches behind the curtain as well as on the stage. I suppose happiness means an order of a man." He laughed joyously. "But—to my secret. This dear lady, whom you all love and honor, has promised to be my wife."

He held out his hands to Dorcas and caught hers, then he drew her into his arms as if they stood alone in some empty corner of the world.

Minard's L'niment Lumberman's Friend.

THE WEEK IN NEWCASTLE

Lightning Storm
Newcastle was visited on Sunday evening by a thunder and lightning storm. No damage in this vicinity, however, was done.

Must not Chew Gum
His Honor the Police Magistrate several times lately has cautioned persons for chewing gum during sessions of the court. Gum must not be chewed in court.—Frederick Mail.

George McInerney Wounded
The casualty list Monday morning contained the name of George Valentine McInerney as being wounded. George's Newcastle friends will regret this and will hope for his speedy recovery.

Well Known Here
Bombardier Gordon Turner, of Benton, N. B., and Signaller Joseph Arthur Comean, of Moncton, reported as wounded in Monday's list, are well known here, and their many friends hope for their speedy recovery.

Left for Sussex
The ninety recruits who have been drilling at Chatham for the past two months, left Monday morning for Sussex where they will finish training.

Received Cab's Message
Col. R. L. Maltby received a cable message on Monday from his daughter, Mrs. Orr, stating that the Str. Hesperian, on which the medical corps sailed for England, arrived safely in Liverpool, Monday morning, and that all were well.

James Cantwell Wounded
Among the list of casualties given out by the Militia Department on the 5th appears the name of James William Cantwell, wounded. Private Cantwell belongs to Campbellton, but enlisted here with the first Newcastle boys who went to the front.

500 Has Enlisted
Mr. James Power, of Redbank, received a card photo of a group of volunteers who have enlisted with Company D, Fifth Battalion, third contingent at Calgary in which is shown his son, Lawrence Power. They are all a sturdy looking lot of men.

Damage by Lightning
Sunday night's lightning storm did considerable damage to a house at Ferry Road, occupied by a Mr. Simondson. It entered by the chimney, making its way through the house and escaping by the pantry window downstairs. Besides knocking over the stove, other damage was done, but fortunately no one was injured. Three telegraph poles on the old road were cut off close to the ground as if done with a saw. A barn across the river was also struck.

W. M. S. Elect Officers
At their meeting on Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. E. A. MacLean, the Methodist Auxiliary of the W. M. S., elected following officers: Pres., M. W. Harrison; 1st V. P., Mrs. A. B. Leard; 2nd V. P., Mrs. Thos. J. Jeffrey; Rec. Sec., Mrs. J. A. Follensbee; Cor. Sec., Mrs. Henry Price; Treas., Mrs. E. A. MacLean; Supt. of Systematic Giving, Mrs. H. H. Stuart; Supt. Mite Boxes, Mrs. J. Robertson Allison; Supt. Cradle Roll, Mrs. Frank Hare.

Salvation Army Self-Denial Week

We readily respond to the request of The Salvation Army's local representative to draw the attention of our readers to the Week of Self-Denial, which commences on Sunday, May 16th. This Annual Appeal is certainly a remarkable illustration of what zeal and system can accomplish. A great deal of the Army's success is due to this yearly effort to raise funds to carry on its good works of mercy, and to extend its operations where most needed. We sincerely hope that friends and admirers in our midst of this great body of workers will liberally give towards the support of its Christ-like labours.

It is noticeable that in a very short time the army has developed a most extensive missionary organization. Its evangelistic efforts have reached all continents. Its work in India is quite unique, and nothing short of miraculous. An astonishing success has been met with by the Army in Korea, and in varying degrees in South Africa, Japan, and Java, and among other aboriginal people. The Army has adopted methods that are likely to bring distinct success. The Canadian wing embraces a number of Social Institutions which must be an asset to the country.

A huge movement of this description cannot be carried on, of course, without a great deal of money, and we venture to hope the effort will meet with the success it deserves. Donations may be sent direct to Capt. P. Forbes.

Started School Gardens
Douglasstown and Newcastle Superior Schools have started school gardens this spring.

New Quarters
J. D. Kennedy has moved his tailoring shop to the Buckley building, next the Hotel Miramichi.

Successful Operation
Bernal Watling's many friends will be glad to know he is recovering after having undergone an operation in the Chatham hospital for appendicitis.

In New Quarters
Mr. Thomas Russell has removed his grocery store from Pleasant St. to his building on Henry St., in rear of the Post Office.

Lusitania vs Titanic
The loss of life when the Titanic went down was 1,503, and according to latest reports from the Cunard officials of the number lost on the Lusitanic, 1,149 souls perished, a difference in the number lost of 354.

Merchants Won
The basket ball game between the Merchants and the 73rd garrison, in the Temperance Hall, on Monday night was won by the Merchants, 19-17. The game was very exciting, and was witnessed by a large number of spectators. Locke, McMur-ray, Macdonald and Allison scored for the Merchants, and Barry and Frenette for the 73rd. Harold Drum-mie refereed and Willard Allison kept time.

Mission Band Meeting
The Methodist United Workers' Mission Band held their annual meeting last night, at Mrs. Bessie Gough's. The following officers were elected: President, Enlah M. Stuart; Vice-president and recording secretary, A. Evelyn Price; Cor. Sec., Josie Jeffrey; Supt. Palm Branches, Eileen B. Stuart; Supt. Mite Boxes, Katherine Maltby; Delegate to branch meeting in Chatham next month, E. M. Stuart; alternate, A. E. Price.

Clean-up Day
Mayor Stothart has decided to hold Friday next, the 14th, as clean-up day. Posters will be posted around town to-morrow regarding the closing of the stores on that day. It is hoped that the citizens of the town will unite in making the best of the day, and while the streets are not in a proper state for good work, nevertheless much cleaning up can be done. Don't wait for someone else to make the start—start in and keep at it.

Concrete Crossings Are Badly Needed

Suggestions Offered for the Improvement of our Streets and Sidewalks

A matter that might be taken up again by our town council to very good advantage, is the laying down of more concrete sidewalks. There are several stretches of sidewalk, in the business portion of the town, where the old wooden walk might be done away with and the concrete walks laid down.

Besides this there are also a number of places where concrete crossings would be an invaluable improvement over three inches of mud as at the present time. The crossing from the Lounsbury corner to the postoffice is one place where a concrete walk would be much appreciated by the public. Another from the corner of Jas. Miller's store to the postoffice would find much favor with the travelling public. One from Mrs. S. A. Demers' corner to the opposite sidewalk in front of the J. D. Creaughan store would serve a like purpose, and besides others we could mention, we believe if Mr. Willis of the Hotel Miramichi were approached on the matter he would be willing to bear a portion of the expense for one from the front entrance of his hotel to the opposite walk. One here would certainly find much favor with the fast increasing commercial patronage this new first-class house is enjoying.

We have been informed by one of our most influential citizens and a business man that his offer to bear half the expense for a concrete walk from in front of his residence, past which a concrete walk now runs, to the concrete walk on the opposite side, was refused by a former council. Just what the council's reason was we were not informed, but it is rather surprising to think of a case of this kind existing.

The streets and sidewalks of the town, for the most part, are not the best, especially during such a wet season as has been the case during the past week or so, and a little more money expended on them in the way of additional concrete walks would be money spent to good advantage. Permanent sidewalks are not a luxury, they are almost a necessity, and in fact they are a necessity if we wish to keep up to the growing times, and be as much up-to-date as other towns our size and larger.

Work at Station Progressing Rapidly

Main Office and Two Large Waiting Rooms Nearly Completed

Work in connection with the I. R. C. station house is progressing very favorably, and when completed will be a decided improvement over the old station.

Two large waiting rooms are being fixed up, with the main office in the centre, something after the style of the new station at Chatham. What is now the main office will be changed over into a lunch-counter room, and when in running order will fill a long-felt want.

The bay window of the present office will be removed to a parallel with the main building. The new office is much larger than the present one, and will be found much more convenient. Other changes are also being made upstairs, and when the work is completed, Newcastle will have a much more convenient and comfortable station.

"Let Me Explain" Scored Distinct Hit

Chatham People Enjoyed Musical Comedy by Newcastle Amateurs

On an invitation from the people of Chatham, the "musical comedy 'Let Me Explain,' was presented in the opera house there on Friday night, and was thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience. The Gazette has the following to say:

"The musical comedy, 'Let Me Explain,' was thoroughly enjoyed in the opera house by a large and enthusiastic audience, who vigorously applauded the excellent histrionic qualities displayed by the clever Newcastle people who staged the pleasing and amusing comedy.

The local orchestra was of great assistance throughout and their entire programme was a revelation to the music loving public.

Mr. Gibb as usual greatly delighted the audience with his dancing specialty.

The Mr. Gibb mentioned above is a Chatham man. The members of the company were well pleased with the reception recorded them by the people of Chatham, and believe more strongly than ever that the unfriendly feeling that has so long existed between these two towns is fast becoming a thing of the past.

After the entertainment a dainty luncheon was served the Company on the spacious stage, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all who partook. The Miramichi was held until after the concert and the Newcastle people returned that night well pleased with their trip.
