CHAPTER IV.

"Wee, he's a celter beggar; and he's never more clever nor more effective than when he's turning on his friends. He is the coming man, there can be no doubt of that. And yet I don't like him. But I don't know him so well as you do."

"Oh, I know him well enough," said Boucher, "but I don't like him any better than you do. He's one of the best-looking men in the House, and his manners are simply perfect; and yet there is something about the man that repels one. Oh, I don't mean because he has a slash at his party now and then; that's the fashion, it pays. It is something in the expression of his eyes, in his voice. Whenever I am talking to him or listening to him I seem to be talking or listening to a man who is wearing a mask; I am always suspicious of a man who is always on guard; and I never part from Talbot Denby without thinking, 'There is a mystery about that man; there is something in his life he is concealing.'"

"You ought to have taken to fiction," said the famous Mr. Boucher, with a sigh and a weary glance round the crowded House, still listening with strained attention and tense excitement to Mr. Denby's cutting remarks. "I hear that his uncle, Lord Lyndborough, and he do not get on very well together," said Welch, after a pause.

"Not particularly well, I believe," assented Mr. Boucher, "Talbot Denby's father and the earl quarrelled—the old man has a genius for quarrelling—I should say Talbot Denby gets his bitterness from him. It was not until Talbot's father died that the earl recognized and took up Talbot. He was in succession. The earl makes him a very good allowance, and they see each other occasionally and keep the peace, mainly owing to Talbot, who is too wisely to quarrel with his bread and butter; in fact, too wise to quarrel with anyone. That's his way. He will be quite affable and friendly with his party, notwithstanding this speech which is making them all mad. And really there is nothing against the man, though you and I don't like him. He leads, apparently, an irreproachable life; lives quietly in quiet modest rooms in Chelsea; goes into the proper kind of society; entertains his friends occasionally in an unobtrusive way, and appears to have no vices."

"Just so, observed Mr. Welch. "Just the man to succeed; and of his shadow to-night there can't be a shadow of a doubt. His party will have to do something to shut those thin lips of his or he'll ruin them. How the other side cheer! And yet he seems quite unmoved; there isn't a touch of colour in that white face of his, not the trace of a smile in his eyes or on his lips! 'Pon my soul, I believe that young man to be incapable of feeling any emotion; incapable of experiencing one thrill of honest triumph, of generous impulse; incapable of any love—"

"Excepting for himself," put in Mr. Boucher. "Well he's—finishing. There'll be no division to-night; let's get out of this insupportable hole and go to bed."

Mr. Talbot Denby concluded, not with an eloquent peroration, but with a short sentence which seemed like the last out of a lanceet, the last thrust of a poisoned dagger; then, while the opposition was still cheering and laughing, he took his hat and, passing through his "friends" with his white, impassive face and half-closed eyes, he left the House.

The evening of the day which had shone so brilliantly on Veronica as she rode across the moor had clouded over, and the air was blowing with a pleasant coolness as he walked across the yard and, calling a cab, was driven to his flat in Charlotte Mansions, Chelsea. He left himself in with his latch-key and went into the dining-room where Gibbon, his man, had set a spirit stand and siphon and a biscuit-box on the table as usual.

Talbot Denby rang the bell and Gibbon appeared. He was not altogether unlike his master; a tall, thin man with downcast eyes and a repressed manner; a toneless kind of man with colourless eyes and colourless hair.

Mr. Talbot Denby had shown a somewhat peculiar method in his choice of a servant, for he had taken Gibbon from the "Prisoners Aid Society." The man was a convicted thief; but his master did not appear to be afraid to trust him. He was not until Talbot's father died that the earl recognized and took up Talbot. He was in succession. The earl makes him a very good allowance, and they see each other occasionally and keep the peace, mainly owing to Talbot, who is too wisely to quarrel with his bread and butter; in fact, too wise to quarrel with anyone. That's his way. He will be quite affable and friendly with his party, notwithstanding this speech which is making them all mad. lips moved in a scarcely audible, "Yes sir," and, with a glance round the room of his colourless eyes as if to see if there was anything wanting, he went out.

Talbot Denby leant against the mantel-shelf for a minute or two, his thin lips curved with a smile that was half a sneer; he was thinking of his night's triumph. Presently he took up a biscuit, but though he broke it, he did not eat it, and throwing it on the table, poured himself out a soda-water and brandy. He was about to drink this as a draught but checked himself, and, setting the glass down, murmured:

"No, no! I've got to keep cool to-night."

He smoked a cigarette with the same air of repression, but with a kind of patient impatience, as if he were waiting for something; then, when half an hour had elapsed, he opened the door quietly and, crossing the small, artistically decorated corridor, listened at Gibbon's door. The man was snoring. Talbot Denby came back to the dining-room and, unlocking a safe—an unusually large one—took out first a cash-box and then an old, long overcoat and a soft felt hat. From the cash-box he lifted a small bundle of notes and some gold.

As he counted these his lips grew tight and his dark brows drew together with an anxious frown. He put the notes and the gold in his pocket, replaced the cash-box in the safe and put on the long overcoat and hat, turning up the collar of the former and pulling down the latter well over his face. As he assumed this disguise his erect figure became bent, and, as if mechanically and instinctively, he slouched across the room instead of walking at his usual light and firm gait.

As he let himself out of the flat stealthily, he listened once more at Gibbon's door. Striking across Lower Sloane Street he went quickly but slouchingly through the smallest and least frequented of streets until he reached Soho, and, stopping before an ordinary-looking tobacconist's, which appeared to be closed like the rest of the shops in the squalid street, he knocked four times on the shutter.

The door was quickly but stealthily opened by an unseen hand, and Talbot Denby, going down the narrow passage, looking neither to right nor left of him, as if he were familiar with the place, passed through a door into the usual kind of shop parlour, in which there was yet another door. He gave the four knocks on this, and it was opened by a short, thick-necked, ally, foreign Jew, with a villainous countenance which was rendered still more villainous by the smirk with which he welcomed his visitor.

"Goot-efening, goot-efening, sare!" he said, in a hoarse whisper, half servile, half impudent, and with a confidential leer which one would have thought would have been an irresistible temptation to the great Mr. Talbot Denby to strike him across his thick, evil lips. "I was afraid you wasn't coming; you was so unlucky the other night. But there! Luck ish always changing; thatsh the beauty of it; thatsh what makes it so—what you call it?—fashinating. Come this way; there ish a goot company to-night."

Looking straight before him, Talbot Denby followed the man in a low-browed room, dimly lit by an evil-smelling paraffine lamp which hung from the ceiling, so that its murky rays should fall upon a round table covered by a greasy green cloth, in the centre of which was a battered roulette board.

Round the table were seated about a dozen men; a motley crew. There was the dissipated "gentleman" with bloodshot eyes and bags under them; the swarthy Pole with hollow cheeks and pointed chin adorned by a blue stubble; the well-to-do Jew merchant in evening dress, with a diamond stud in his creased shirt-front and rings half way up the fingers of his dirty hands; the glided "youth about town," with a vacuous smile on his flushed face; the book-maker, with red, swollen lips and bulbous eyes; in short, the usual crew of lost souls which may be found any night in their fitting places—the low gambling halls of London or Paris or Vienna.

They were so absorbed in watching the roulette board that they scarcely noticed the entrance of the newcomer, and Isaacs, the keeper of the hell, had to push two men apart so that he could place a chair for Mr. Talbot Denby.

One of the men he had displaced, the man on the right, gave a kind of snarl and muttered an oath as he looked up and suddenly shifted his chair. He was an evil-looking fellow—but so were they all—with shifty eyes and a cunning, cruel-mouth which writhed as he blinked at the dancing ball on the roulette board. Talbot Denby scarcely glanced at him; and, taking his seat, at once fell into the attitude of the rest, as he placed some gold on the table and pushed a sovereign into a black square of the design painted in circular form on the table. The ball fell to the corresponding colour, and he raked in his winnings with a curved white hand. As the play proceeded he won or lost his stakes grew heavier, and some of the notes had taken their place beside the gold. There were many such piles in front

Delicious Bread or Your Money Refunded

Every Barrel Cream of the West Flour Guaranteed for Bread

Yes, madam, I am the Cream of the West miller. I know what Cream of the West is. It's a strong flour. It has extra bread-making qualities, and I'll guarantee great, big, bulging loaves of the lightest, whitest, most wholesome bread.

Cream of the West Flour

the hard wheat flour that is guaranteed for bread

Tell your grocer you want to try Cream of the West. Buy a barrel subject to the guarantee. Tell him we expect him to refund your money if the flour fails to do as we claim. He won't lose a cent. We will reimburse him in full. Show him this paper with the guarantee. It is his authority to pay you back if you ask him.

Guarantee

We hereby affirm and declare that Cream of the West Flour is a superior bread flour, and as such is subject to our absolute guarantee of money back if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Any dealer is hereby authorized to return price paid by customer on return of unused portion of barrel if flour is not as represented.

of the players; it was astonishing that such a crew should be possessed of such wealth.

For a time Talbot Denby's luck swung backwards and forwards from good to bad; but presently the bad set in firmly and one after another of the notes disappeared, but he played on, apparently unmoved, though his fellow-gamblers might have seen, if they had not been too engrossed to notice, that his lips were growing tighter and more bloodless, that his nostrils were becoming white and strained, and that the black eyes were glowing like points of fire under the half-lowered lids.

There were but few of the notes left and he was placing one of them on a red square, when suddenly his lips parted with a snarl like that of a dog, his elbow crushed down upon the hand of the man beside him and he turned on him with the fury of a wild beast; he had caught the man in the act of stealing one of the notes.

The sudden low, repressed cry, all the more startling for its repression, shook the other players from their absorption. Snatching up their money they sprang to their feet as one man, leaning forward and staring breathlessly at Talbot Denby, who had clutched the thief by the throat with an expression so savage, so primal in its malignant ferocity that it was, in its incongruity with the refined face and graceful form, simply appalling.

The detected man struggled in the grasp of the long, lean fingers which held him as if in a vice and threatened to choke him, the two men were swiftly locked in a fierce embrace and swung to and fro, overthrowing the table. There were no shouts; indeed, not a loud word was spoken, as if, even in that moment of intense strain and excitement, all were aware that they dared not make any noise.

Isaacs rushed toward them, waving and wringing his fat, dirty hands, and regarded the man's working face and blood-shot eyes with haughty indifference, and turned away contemptuously.

He stood for a few moments leaning against the wall, his arms folded, his eyes downcast. The table had been put on its legs again, play had been resumed as if nothing had happened. Isaacs came back presently.

"He's quite gone, sare!" he said, stretching out his hands apologetically. "I'm sorry! I keep a respectable house, as you know, sare—"

Talbot Denby waved his apologies aside and left the place. As he emerged into the cool air of the June morning, he drew a long breath through his closed teeth and shrugged his shoulders.

"The cursed luck!" he muttered. "I shall have to go to the Court, after all!"

It was characteristic of him that he had forgotten the thief, the struggle, the man's heart—everything but his ill luck. In short, Mr. Talbot Denby, the "coming man," the rising politician, the heir to the Earldom of Lyndborough, was a born gambler of the worst and most vicious type.

In a hoarse whisper imploring them to be quiet.

"Shentlemen, shentlemen!" he hissed, hoarsely. "What ish the matter? Oh, Moses! The policemen—they'll hear you! What ish the matter?"

Talbot Denby moistened his lips and turned his dry tongue in his mouth ere he could speak.

"This scoundrel has stolen a note from me," he said in a low voice.

"It's a lie!" retorted the man, pawing at his throat and glaring at the white face above him with the air of a cur balked of a bone.

"He has it in his hand now," said Talbot.

As he spoke, he bent towards a side-table and, snatching up a spirit decanter, struck the man's fist a terrible blow. The man's head opened and the crumpled note fell on the floor.

He made a rush for his assailant, but before he could reach him, the Jew had flung his arms round him and, aided by some of the other men, had dragged him to the floor.

In springing back, the soft hat fell off, and he stood, the centre of the excited group, a strange contrast to the rest. He caught up the hat and put it on. The thief had got to his feet, but was still held by Isaacs and a couple of men.

"Out you go!" said Isaacs. "You're a cheat, a low cheat! We don't want your kindish here. Thish ish a respectable place—"

As they pushed the man towards the door, he turned and looked over his shoulder and waved his bleeding hand at Talbot Denby.

"See this!" he cried, hoarsely, as if he were still choking. "I'll make you pay for this some day. I'll make you pay for it, swell as you are! I'll wait on you! It may be for months, it may be for years, but it may be to-morrow! I'll be even with you!"

Talbot Denby, calm and cold again, regarded the man's working face and blood-shot eyes with haughty indifference, and turned away contemptuously.

He stood for a few moments leaning against the wall, his arms folded, his eyes downcast. The table had been put on its legs again, play had been resumed as if nothing had happened. Isaacs came back presently.

"He's quite gone, sare!" he said, stretching out his hands apologetically. "I'm sorry! I keep a respectable house, as you know, sare—"

Heaviest Rain in 40 Years.

Two Inches in Two Hours at Boston.

Boston, July 19. — A cloudburst which poured nearly two inches of rain into the city streets inside of two hours yesterday afternoon and added an inch more during the evening, created a record for Boston as the heaviest rainfall in any one day in 40 years, or since the establishment of the weather bureau station.

The downpour created havoc with construction work on two new subway, flooded innumerable cellars in the lower part of the city and caused no little damage by backing up sewer and drainage pipes and flooding many buildings.

A Wealthy New Yorker

Arrested on Charge of Killing Woman Companion.

New York, July 20.—Geo. R. Harkness, a wealthy real estate dealer of Sea Cliff, Long Island, was arrested by the police here early to-day, charged with having shot and killed Mrs. Florence Hopp, of Lewisburg, Pa., at the Hotel York shortly after midnight.

Mrs. Hopp, who was 25 years old and a handsome brunette, had been in Harkness's company for several days. It is alleged, Harkness declared that the killing was accidental, occurring while Mrs. Hopp was examining an automatic revolver he had recently purchased.

PAIN ALMOST CEASED

FROM THE FIRST APPLICATION OF DOUGLAS' EGYPTIAN LINIMENT.

The experience of Mr. J. G. Hood of Montreal, is a sample of what Egyptian Liniment will do. He tells it himself. "I met with a serious accident at Belleville, breaking my leg and dislocating my ankle. On leaving the hospital where I was confined eight weeks, I had to go on crutches, with my leg in a rubber bandage, suffering agony from swollen and contracted cords. For four weeks I tried every liniment without benefit, then I procured Egyptian Liniment and from the first application the pain almost ceased. In less than two weeks I put away the crutches and walked with a cane though I weighed 221 pounds. I cannot speak too highly of this Liniment. Not only the severest cases, but the scores of little troubles that come up, cuts, bruises, burns and the like are quickly relieved and cured by Douglas' Egyptian Liniment. 25 cents at all Dealers, free samples on request. To quarrel with one's own family is a disgraceful thing. It is to be pealed to in this way. To have to witness a family disagreement is bad enough. It makes one feel awkward and self-conscious, so painful in the way and so wishful of an Aladdin's carpet on which to whisk oneself to the farthest corner of the earth. But to be appealed to to take sides—that is the last straw.

A friend tells me that she actually ceased to visit at one home because the husband and wife were continually embarrassing her by urging her to express her opinion.

"I suppose they are fond of each other," she said, "but they never agree on anything, but they never have the slightest hesitancy about arguing at the front of me. I wouldn't mind that so much, but they always insist on me saying what I think, and when the one I disagree with gets cross with me, I try to be polite and not take sides, but you know sitting on the fence all day is kind of hard work. ## The Wizard Who Ends All Corns

Some years ago a chemist invented the now famous B & B wax. To apply it we invented the Blue-jay plaster. Since then, fifty million corns have been ended forever by this little application. It is applied in a jiffy. The pain instantly ends. Then the B & B wax gently loosens the corn. In two days the whole corn, root and all, comes out. No soreness, no discomfort. You simply forget the corn. Why pare corns when this thing is possible? Paring simply removes the top layers. It is exceedingly dangerous, for a slip of the blade may mean infection. Why trifle with corns—treat them over and over—when a Blue-jay removes them completely, and in 48 hours. Prove it today.

Violating the Neutrality Laws.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

To quarrel or air one's family disagreements in front of outsiders is painfully bad taste. To appeal to these outsiders to take sides by expressing their opinion on the points of contention is worse than bad taste. It is discourtesy; it is unkindness; it is a flagrant violation of the golden rule. For everyone knows how embarrassing it is to be appealed to in this way. To have to be a witness to a family disagreement is bad enough. It makes one feel awkward and self-conscious, so painfully in the way and so wishful of an Aladdin's carpet on which to whisk one's self to the farthest corner of the earth. ## MAN AND THE SOIL.

Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, author of the Common Sense Medical Adviser, says "why does not the farmer treat his own body as he treats the land he cultivates. He puts back in phosphate what he takes out in crops, or the land would grow poor. The farmer should put back into his body the vital elements exhausted by labor, or by ill-health induced by some chronic disease." Further, he says, "the great value of my Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in its vitalizing power. It gives strength to the stomach and purify to the blood. It is like the phosphates which supply nature with the substances that build up the crops. The far-reaching action of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due to its effect on the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases that begin in the stomach are cured through the stomach. A bilious spell is simply the result of an effort made by the liver to catch up when over-worked and exhausted. I have found the 'Discovery' to be unsurpassed as a liver regulator and rich blood-maker."

Miss LOTTIE KNISELY of Perth, Kansas, says: "I will here add my testimony of the effectiveness of your remedy upon myself. I was troubled with indigestion for two years or more. Doctored with three different doctors besides taking numerous kinds of so-called 'stomach cures' but received no permanent relief. I was run down, could not sleep at night with the pain in my chest, caused by gas on the stomach. Was weak, could eat scarcely anything although I was hungry nearly all the time. About one year and a half ago I began taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and after having taken several bottles am nearly cured of stomach trouble. Can now eat without distress and have gained fifteen pounds in weight. I thank you for your remedy and wish you all success in your good work."

Is the Capt. of the Titanic Alive?

A Baltimorean Says He Talked With Him in That City on Friday.

Baltimore, Md., July 22.—The statement that Captain E. J. Smith, commander of the ill-fated "Titanic" was not drowned, but was seen Friday morning in Baltimore, is made by Peter Bryal, a retired mariner of this city, who was quarter-master on the steamship Majestic of the White Star Line 30 years ago when Captain Smith commanded the vessel.

Bryal said that he had not only seen the captain, but talked with him. Bryal also said that he saw Captain Smith last Wednesday morning but was skeptical as to his identity and to confirm his belief that the captain was alive went to the same spot on Friday morning and again saw the captain. Walking up to him he said, "Captain Smith, how are you?"

"Then, according to Bryal, the man answered, 'Very well, Pryal, but please don't detain me; I am on business.' Without realizing what he was doing, Pryal followed the man, who later bought a ticket for Washington.

WIRE WOUNDS

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks, the sores have healed, and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is NOT White as is most always the case in horse wounds. ### Dog's Bark Saves Collision at Sea.

Newfoundland Animal Averted Steamship Crashing Into Vessels of Fishing Fleet.

Boston, July 16.—The barking of Prince, a Newfoundland dog, saved the steamship Portonia, Capt. Neilson, from crashing into vessels of a fishing fleet off Nantucket in a heavy fog, Sunday morning. Capt. Neilson told the story on his arrival here.

The dog had been on the bridge from Saturday night. When he grew excited and began barking on Sunday morning, Capt. Neilson asked the lookouts what they saw. They reported nothing, but the vessel slowed down and was proceeding only slowly when the first fishing vessels were sighted.

Noted Hockeyist

Has Narrow Escape Following Explosion on Motor Boat.

Montreal, July 20.—Swimming and diving ability yesterday saved the life of Riley Hern, former goal tender for the Montreal Wanderers, and one of the best known hockey players in Canada.

His motor boat was being replenished with gasoline and the sidelights ignited the fuel, which caused a slight explosion. This fired some gasoline which had been spilled in front of the boat, and in a moment Hern's clothes were on fire. He promptly dived into the river, and just as he came up some twenty feet away, the current was bringing towards him a sheet of burning gasoline. Again Hern had to go under water to avoid this. He escaped with a badly burned hand and arm.

Columbus' Voyage Cost Only $7,000!

London, July 18.—The Madrid correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette says that some ledgers recently discovered at Palos, Spain, contain interesting information concerning the outfit made by Columbus on his great expedition to the New World. The armament of the little fleet cost 14,000 pesetas; Columbus and his officers spent about 2,000 pesetas on their personal expenses and including those of the crew 22,050 pesetas was spent for the eight months during which the voyage lasted. The sum total for which America was discovered amounted to some 34,000 pesetas or about $7,000. In spite of the small amount required, however, Queen Isabella was forced to pawn her jewels if it is related to provide funds for the expedition.

Business Shrewdness and Financial Folly.

How Reid Foresight Profits $270,000 Over Morris Hind-sight.

Time was and that not long ago, when Mr. Donald Morrison, then in opposition, used to sign for a business government. He roundly declared business acumen was markedly absent from the methods of the administration he was opposing politically. He contended that the accession of the Tory party, with himself as one of its business lights, would be a profitable change. The change took place, and it was profitable, but not to the country. The profits are going to individuals. Let all the timber grabbers of the past three years deny it if they can. Let the Hague Court lawyers deny it if they can. Let the Railway Contractors deny it if they can. These have got the plums, and the people have done the providing, and done it more profusely than has ever been known in the history of the country. The profusion of the supply was compulsory and was largely done to the continued exaction of high duties on rising prices of imports.

ever the intentions of the Government may have been, the fact remains, that this contract is peculiarly and emphatically in the interest of the Reid Nfd. Co. from whatever standpoint you view it.

Sir Robert also made an estimate of what the change would eventually cost the Colony. His estimate was remarkably accurate when viewed in the after-light of the realization on the 1910 loan, but fell quite short in view of what will be realized on the 1912 loan. He expressed the apprehension that $16,000 of bonds would have to be sold to realize the $15,000 cash which is the cost of the bare construction of each mile of railway, that is the cost without extras which may be $4,000 a mile or more. In other words the bare mileage would cost $16,000 in bonds and eventually in cash, as compared with the $15,000 in bonds and eventually in cash of the old contracts.

But under the latest Morris loan it will eat up $17,000 stock to provide the $15,000 cash for a mile of railway.

On the expenditure of the proceeds of this loan it will thus take $17,000 of the stock and therefore in cash on redemption, to pay the contractor for what he was doing before for $15,000 stock.

It will be seen from this that Sir Robert Bond was wise in warning the Government against taking the risks of turning the debentures into cash.

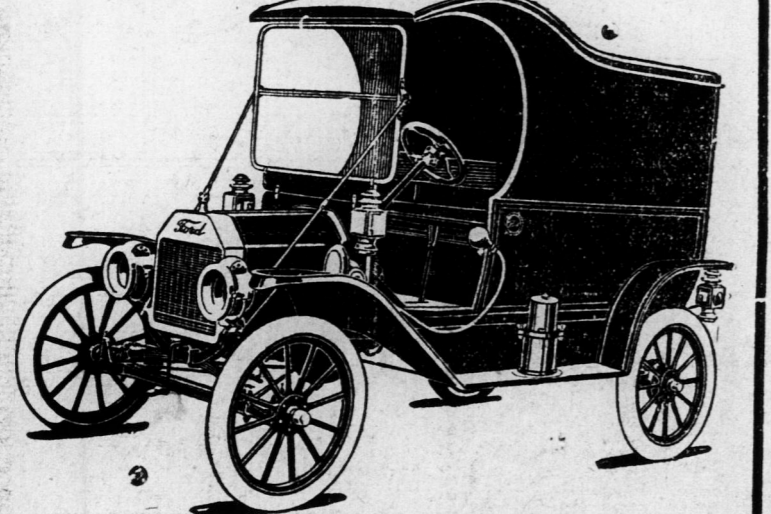

On the other hand the Contractors showed great prudence and foresight for themselves in obtaining the changed rate and style of payment.

We estimate that on the two loans if the Contractors had been paid at the old rate in bonds, and if they had been no more successful in their realizations than Sir Edward Morris, they would have netted $270,000 less in cash than they will under the new style of payment.

In other words, besides avoiding the delay and trouble of realizing the blocks of stock, as they used to be issued to them, we estimate that by the time the proceeds of the two loans are paid to them for their work they will benefit some $270,000 in cash by the change in the style and rate of payment.

Oh, for a business government, but if the country is to benefit, don't let it be of the Morris-Morison brand.

MAY SUCCEED BRYCE.

London, July 17.—Though the post is not yet vacated, Mr. J. Alfred Spender, editor of the Westminster Gazette is being named in usually well-informed circles as the Ministry's probable choice as successor to the Rt. Hon. James Bryce, British Ambassador at Washington.

Mr. Spender had a brilliant Oxford career. He left the Pall Mall Gazette when William Waldorf Astor bought it, and became editor of the Westminster Gazette in 1896.

He has been the confidante of Campbell-Bannerman and Asquith in succession of Liberal Ministers since 1905. He has also been a member of the Royal Commission on Divorce, written scholarly books on the foreign policy of England under New World conditions, and on social themes. His Imperial ideas are of Asquithian mould; that is to say, Whiggish rather than Radical. He has always warmly supported the Anglo-American entente.

Explorer Goes to Labrador.

Quebec, July 17.—Mr. H. G. Bryant, president of the Geographical Society of Philadelphia, has set out from St. Augustin, Labrador, to explore the Hamilton River and its tributaries.

Going up the main river to its source Mr. Bryant will cross the north of land and descend on the other side to Hamilton Bay. He will visit all the many Hudson Bay posts. The trip will last about three months.

As companions he will have Messrs. Porter, of Greenland, Alaska, and Franz Joseph. Two Indians of Newfoundland will go as canoe-men.

Placed Under Arrest.

SPECIAL TO EVENING TELEGRAM.

DETROIT, To-day.

Eight aldermen and the secretary of the common council have been placed under arrest on a charge of accepting bribes or for conspiracy to accept bribes for their votes and influence in passing a measure affecting its property recently transferred to railroad. Six other arrests of aldermen are expected.

The second and final VEEDEE Demonstration takes place next Tuesday, at 8, at the Casino Theatre, (E. A. Hall), and Tickets for reserved Front seats at Ten Cents each can be secured in advance without extra charge, at Verantille Chambers, 129 Water Street, (two doors west from City Hall), between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., or from 3 to 5 p.m.—July 27, 21.

Another Schooner Gone.

W. S. Monroe & Co. yesterday had a wire from Belle Isle in the Straits, via Fogo saying that his schooner the "Ellie C.", Capt. James Croke, was lost in the ice near there yesterday. The crew were saved. The hull of the vessel was insured. She did well, had a cargo of fish on board but unfortunately no insurance was effected on this and the skipper and owner suffer a severe loss.

Would Fall in a Faint

This letter from Mrs. Martin very well describes the terrible condition in which many a sufferer finds herself. She also tells how she regained health and strength by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food after all other treatments had failed.

Mrs. Edwin Martin, Ayer's Cliff, Que., writes:—"Before I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was in a terrible condition from nervous exhaustion and prostration. Dizzy spells would come over me and I would fall to the floor. The weakness was so great that I could not so much as sweep the floor without fainting, but the nerve food helped me after the doctors failed. It has done wonders in building up my nervous system. I can do my own housework now and washing, and feel that this great medicine has been a God-send to me. I think it is the best of medicines."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Schr. Almeda Missing.

SIX MEN ON BOARD.

The S. S. Mary left Seldom Cove by Monday last with the schooner Almeda in tow. The vessel had been ashore down there, was leaking and light in ballast. The vessel is a coaster owned by Mr. Jas. Miller, and brought timber to Belle Isle repeatedly. It was so foggy that the steamer and tow saw no land until Thursday evening, when the Mary ran into Bay Bulls short of coal and got enough there to bring her to St. John's. She reached here yesterday evening and reports having to slip the Almeda before she reached Bay Bulls. The vessel has 6 men on board and in her leaky condition must be in great danger, as the wind blew a deal in shore. A man named Hodin is in command of her and there is much anxiety about the vessel to-day.

Such appointments are made by the Council of Higher Education, some weeks previous to the exams. It is, therefore, a little out of place for Fair Play to attempt to bring under notice of the Council that which it has done months ago. At every centre where there is a superior school, an assistant teacher acts either as supervisor or as Secretary of Committee. Now I think your correspondent has committed a grave breach of the eleventh commandment, and Fair Play's thinking apparatus is sadly in need of repairs. Or perhaps it is but another proof of the old proverb, semel insanimus omnes, and Fair Play should be entrusted for a few months to the soothing care of Dr. Duncan. ## Great Damage By the Storm.

The storm of last night worked great havoc in various parts of the city and suburbs and was the worst recorded for several years. The train from Placentia did not arrive here until 12:30 a.m. to-day, and her passengers say that they never saw anything like the rain which fell as they came through. It descended in sheets of water, and just below Browning's Bridge the ballasting under the ties was washed away and the passengers had to leave the cars there as it was unsafe for the engine to pass over it. A gang of men worked at the place all night. The water in various places crossed the South Side Road in a river several feet deep; the waters above Browning's Bridge became miniature Niagara, and the people of the little old style houses on the South Side of the structure got ready to leave them. Had the rain continued an hour longer these buildings would have been swept down stream and out into the harbour.

At Placentia the rivers and pools were abnormally swollen, and the old residents never before saw such floods.

From the King's Bridge down to the beach of Quidi Vidi Lake a new lake has been formed and all the crops of turnips, oats, hay, cabbage, etc., owned by Mr. Robert Cole and others have been completely inundated and destroyed. Quidi Vidi Lake rose several feet in a couple of hours, and all the wharves opposite the boat houses were several feet under water this morning.

On the South Side much damage ensued. All the houses in the track of the torrents which poured off the hills were badly flooded. Tons of water poured into them at the rear; chairs, tables and other furniture floated about in the basement kitchens, and tons of silt, sand and mud were left on the floors when the flood subsided. Several small bridges were carried away. Hundreds of tons of clay and rocks were hurled against the rear of Mr. Patrick Horan's residence, when part of the hill above it gave way the back part of the house heaten in and a river ran from the back to the front of the building for hours. Tons of earth, rock, etc., were scattered about the floors and the furniture and effects were badly damaged. Mr. E. Coyne's residence near suffered similarly. In trying to clear the debris in front of his house Mr. Coyne had a narrow escape. A river about 4 feet deep ran across the road very swiftly into the waters above the Long Bridge and these swept under the parapets of the bridge into the waters of the harbour like mill race. Mr. Coyne was swept off his legs and would have been taken out into the harbour but that he was grasped by a bystander and drawn to safety. Two miles of the Cove Road have been torn up and almost impassable. Rickett's Bridge is unsafe for man or beast and badly requires repairs.

A pool 8 feet deep formed in the E. Graveyard and filled several of the graves and all the country side in that section was buried last night with water.

Mr. Crane's house, Pleasant Street was badly flooded and a river running through the garden washed away all the turnips, potatoes, etc., which were in the garden and the place was full of debris and mud. The cellar under Mr. Reid's shop was filled with water which entered at the front, the south gable of the house was wrecked and there are four feet of silt, etc., in the basement covering furniture, etc., and only the stove pipe protruded through it. The fences and all the garden crops were swept down to the Horwood Lumber Co. yard on New Gow Street.

Mr. T. Mahoney's house on the South Side, opposite Ayre's Cottage, was badly damaged, and 20 by 20 feet of the road taken away with a wall 20 feet long by 14 feet deep. A large iron pipe weighing 4 cwt. was swept into the river.

Inspector Bambrick with a gang of the Council's men were out all night looking after the damaged areas.

Avon Battalion, Church Lad's Brigade—Battalion with Band will parade at Headquarters on Sunday, the 29th, inst., at 2:30 p.m. for the purpose of attending Divine Service at St. Thomas's Church. All ex-members who can possibly do so are requested to attend. By order, J. A. WINTER, Lieut. and Adjutant.

Boats Collide.

Yesterday in the storm a motor boat collided with the skiff of Mr. Levi Snelgrove as he was making for his premises at the north Battery. The force of the collision was such that the skiff was considerably damaged and Mr. Snelgrove had his leg so badly injured that he had to be assisted home and is now confined to his room and being attended by a doctor.

Skeletons Kept Vigil

On Wrecked Steamer Since 1865. Alpena, Mich., July 20.—Forty-seven years ago the steamer Pewabic foundered in Thunder Bay, Lake Superior, with a loss of one hundred and forty lives and carried down with her a cargo of pure lake copper. Yesterday a diver encased in a new deep sea working device known as the "Iron Man," descended one hundred and sixty feet and trod the Pewabic's decks while on all sides of him grinning skeletons kept vigil as they have done since that awful night in 1865. As the diver worked below, the steamer Nelson Bloom, sister ship of the Pewabic, and a vessel with which the Pewabic collided, passed by a short distance away, saluting the wreckers as she moved.

To spend a pleasant evening with profit was the privilege of those who took advantage of the "Musicale" at "Thornlea," (residence of Mr. John Ayre) last evening. All present, and there was a nice gathering—promoted the venture a distinct success. Music lovers and lovers of elocution were treated to selections which reflected great credit upon the artists who rendered them with much taste and fine feeling. The programme was: Part 1.—Organ solo, Mr. Mews; solo, Mr. G. W. B. Ayre; piano solo, Mr. Kendall; violin solo, Miss Sybil Johnson; selection, Miss Doyle; selection, Miss C. N. Dodd. Interval. Part 11.—Piano solo, Miss Anderson; solo Miss Story; selection, Miss Ayre; reading, Mr. Mews; solo, Miss Dorothy Johnson. Refreshments. The proceeds were in aid of the proposed new school room in connection with George St. Methodist Church. The ladies of the Church Aid are to be congratulated upon their efforts to do for this purpose and deserve to have sympathy and help in this work.

To spend a pleasant evening with profit was the privilege of those who took advantage of the "Musicale" at "Thornlea," (residence of Mr. John Ayre) last evening. All present, and there was a nice gathering—promoted the venture a distinct success. Music lovers and lovers of elocution were treated to selections which reflected great credit upon the artists who rendered them with much taste and fine feeling. The programme was: Part 1.—Organ solo, Mr. Mews; solo, Mr. G. W. B. Ayre; piano solo, Mr. Kendall; violin solo, Miss Sybil Johnson; selection, Miss Doyle; selection, Miss C. N. Dodd. Interval. Part 11.—Piano solo, Miss Anderson; solo Miss Story; selection, Miss Ayre; reading, Mr. Mews; solo, Miss Dorothy Johnson. Refreshments. The proceeds were in aid of the proposed new school room in connection with George St. Methodist Church. The ladies of the Church Aid are to be congratulated upon their efforts to do for this purpose and deserve to have sympathy and help in this work.

The Storm.

Last night's south east gale and rain storm was severely felt in the city. There was a very heavy under-tow in the harbour, and along the waterfront shipping were pounding heavily against the different piers. The S. S. Stephano had to be removed from the wharf to prevent damage being done.

A few schooners broke their moorings and drifted down the harbour and it was only after considerable difficulty they were anchored securely.

A terrific sea was running at the North and South Batteries and stages and fishing gear were threatened with destruction. Most of the residents were up the greater part of the night taking in their boats and protecting their property from being destroyed. In this connection it is expected that havoc was wrought around the coast and the extent of the damages will be known in a day or so.

In the city it rained hard and incessant, while the wind was at a high point. Streets were inundated, gutters and drains became choked and some of the Council's men were up all night making repairs.

Quidi Vidi Lake was overflowed causing a flood on the roadside and in the fields near Pleasantville.

Bank Fishery Successful.

From present indications the bank fishery for the summer season of this year will be a phenomenal success. Nearly all the local schooners engaged in trawling on the Grand Banks have their second trips under sail. From one of the most experienced skippers prosecuting the voyage, we hear that the average catch for each craft will be in the vicinity of 2000 quintals. A marked contrast is that most of the Lunenburg bankers have met with poor success. However, the voyage has been attended with a material drawback, that of the prevalence of foguish as well as the scarcity of bait.

Boats Collide.

Yesterday in the storm a motor boat collided with the skiff of Mr. Levi Snelgrove as he was making for his premises at the north Battery. The force of the collision was such that the skiff was considerably damaged and Mr. Snelgrove had his leg so badly injured that he had to be assisted home and is now confined to his room and being attended by a doctor.

12 Tumors Removed Without An Operation

Dear Mrs. Currah—I am enjoying better health than I have for eight years, and I think I am entirely cured. I have now a new lease of life. I am very grateful for my present health, and think Orange Lily is the greatest treatment ever used for the removal of tumors. I had 12 tumors removed without an operation. That Affair on Quidi Vidi.

The "Daily News" Reporter is still losing sleep over that affair on Quidi Vidi Lake. He designates the Telegram man an alarmist and finishes by saying that the talk of a possible fatality is an absurdity. Suppose for this purpose of argument the "Aurora Sensation Drama" was reproduced, who then would be the alarmist and what of the absurdity of the tragedy? What sayest thou friend? For that the boat fits the other boat.

The "News" man complains that we gave all the credit to the Shamrock's coxswain in an awkward fashion. The tenor of his phrase would lead one to believe that we were influenced by the Shamrock's coxswain. Such is false and further we would be sorry to cast any disparagement at Coxswain Day. But we emphatically assert that if the Shamrock had continued her course on the evening in question she could have cut through the cable anchors and the aftermath would yet be unrolled. This appears to be getting the "News" "know all" who terms it stupid and ridiculous and in attempting to uphold his argument cites that the "Herald" and "Telegram" were in collision in 1908 but no tragedy occurred. From what we know of that incident the collision was less grievous and with not half the attending danger as the one we are dealing with. To sum up the logic of the "News" man is that if a race boat capsizes the aftermath only amounts to juk swimming for a month, and furthermore, a man would not want to know how to swim at all to escape from a race boat. We would advise our esteemed friend to "dry up" but we presume he is looking for notoriety, as in this morning's proceedings of last night's Regatta meeting his name was mentioned nearly a half dozen times. At all events we hope he will get well advertised.

McMurdo's Store News.

Those who are going off on a holiday, especially if it is "to the woods" will find Colgate's Rapid-Shave Powder very convenient and useful. A few grains of the powder shaken on a wet brush makes at once a thick and creamy lather on the face that renders shaving a delight. Shaving Powders were introduced a couple of years ago and scored an instant success, on account of the ease with which they can be used and their quickness of action and their economy. And their use is becoming more general every month. If you have not yet used Colgate's Shaving Powder, try a box of Colgate's. Price, 25c. a tin.

Sandicut Tooth Paste is pre-eminent as a cleanser and whitener of the teeth and an agent for putting the gums in a healthy state. Price, 25c. a tube.

TUG SENT TO RESCUE.
At 8 p.m. yesterday, in the height of the storm, the people of Logy Bay heard the cries of men evidently in distress and saw flare ups and rockets thrown from a vessel which was perilously near the rocks. They telephoned for assistance from Mrs. Croble's on Logy Bay Road. Minister Piccott got the news and at 10 o'clock he went forward in the tug Inghram. The tug rushed to the scene and found the banker Saratoga, of Lunenburg, in a position of extreme danger. She left Trinity yesterday for the Banks, and in the storm which overtook her she was veered but could not clear Red Head in the S. E. gale. The vessel then anchored and dragged into Logy Bay. When her anchors held she was not 50 yards from the cliff, against which a terrible sea pounded. Had the cables burst not a man would have been saved. The tug stood by until 5 a.m., when the wind ceased and the vessel set sail.

Obituary.

We note with regret to-day the sudden passing of Mr. John Haddon, whose sad death occurred at his home this morning. Deceased was a well known and respected resident of Monkstown in this province. Besides several sons and daughters, some of whom are married, a large circle of friends are left to mourn, to all of whom the sympathy of the community will go out.

The Tale of Perfect Time in a Watch

From Mainspring to Hairspring, between them lies the secret. The Mainspring is the power which it transmits to the active parts of the watch. The Hairspring has the control and regulates the motion. The fitting is most delicate; imagine a 10th part of a hair. Impossible to copy. Yet it is enough to interfere in its performance, so wonderful is the adjustment. The friction from accumulating dirt; lack of oil, etc., destroy these perfect fittings. Do not let your watch run to ruin from neglect. Remember our business is the care of watches, and our opinion costs nothing.

TOKIO, July 26.
The condition of the Emperor of Japan is regarded as being very grave.

Special to Evening Telegram.

HAMBURG, July 26.
The manager of the Vulcan ship-building yards announces that the company has received orders to construct a cruiser for the Greek Government. Eight torpedo boats are already being built for Greece.

Special to Evening Telegram.

NEW YORK, July 26.
A special cable from London this afternoon, says: "German Dreadnoughts are feared more than British Dreadnoughts," shouted Ben Tillett to the striking dock workers at Tower Hill. In his speech he charged the government for spending money on battleships while English workmen and their families are starving. From the crowd, someone retorted: "The speaker there had yet been no answer to his prayer for the death of Devonport." "True," agreed Tillett, "I am satisfied now God does not want Devonport, may the devil take him."

Special to Evening Telegram.

BOSTON, July 26.
The party of treasure hunters which left England a month ago to seek the ten million dollar cache of gold supposed to be buried in Coco Island off the coast of Africa, will arrive at their destination next week. Anticipating trouble from an armed effort by natives to take the treasure from the adventurers if they should recover it, the Costa Rican government has sent a company of soldiers to the lonely island. The treasure hunters are under the leadership of two young women, Miss Barrittely and Miss Davis. The former recently spent some time upon the island, and her kindness to a half-breed is said to have resulted in his giving her a map showing where the pirate Bombacha and his followers cached their booty.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, July 26.
The British Government was nearly turned out of office by a snap division in the House of Commons this afternoon. A small margin of three votes saved it from defeat in the presence of the usual thin Friday attendance of members. Chancellor Lloyd George moved that Monday be devoted to the discussion of the supplementary appropriations. The Opposition protested, and forced a division. By dint of hurried search through the lobbies of the House, the Government whip just managed to save the situation. The announcement that the Government had been successful by only 136 votes against 133, was greeted by the Opposition with loud cries of resign. Liberal members have been recently somewhat slack in their attendance at the House, and the Government majority on several occasions has for this reason been below 50. Only the keenness of the Irish Nationalists and the Labour party have enabled the government to hold the fort.

Regatta Notes.

As was expected no crews were out on the Lake last evening. It is said that Bell Island will be represented in the Labourers and Fishermen's races, and arrangements are being made to the suburbs, pursued by sewer assessments and the unrelenting form of the poll tax, until he is so far from his place of business that he has to take a sleeper. If it were not for the docile and unfermented taxpayer, this government would have to be put up at auction and sold to the highest and best bidder for cash. Yet who ever hears the taxpayer mentioned in poetry or song? Nobody spills any Fourth of July orations over his prostrate form or hangs an enlarged crayon portrait of him on memory's walls. The tax dodger is a person who has become weary of drawing checks for people with whom he does not mingle socially and conceals a few moneys and credits in a hair trunk. He is a noxious weed, but has a very rank growth in cities which are about to macadamize the residence district on the installment plan. If a taxpayer is displeased with his assessment he can either move out of the state or go into a clinch with a first mortgage lien, which is a very popular and satisfactory method. After the taxpayer has floated a few bond issues and maintained the city hall patriots in a state of affluence, there isn't much left for the sinking fund but the tariff. This is the most flourishing form of tax we have and allows a large number of happy and contented people to ride around on rubber tires and unearned increment.

FISHERMEN DOING WELL.—Our local fishermen who have trap berths found cod in abundance on the grounds yesterday morning and some large hauls were made. Mr. Joseph Peckford took 300 qts. from a trap, and Mr. Burt, of the North Battery, had his seine overflowed. Most of the hook and liners were engaged bringing boat loads of fish ashore for the trap owners.

Kidney Pains in the Back

Mr. Thos. D. Walsh, Pictou, N.S., writes: "Two years ago my wife took to her bed after suffering for a long time from kidney pains in the back. She was not able to stand on her feet or even turn herself in bed. The doctor's medicine was no benefit whatever, that we got tired. Sometimes her legs would swell considerably. Reading about a woman in similar condition being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, we purchased two boxes and when these were used she was able to sit up. With three more boxes she was restored to health and doing her own household work. "As for myself I also found these pills all that is claimed for them. I give this statement in order that others may obtain the same ease from suffering as that experienced by my wife and myself. One pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto."

Regatta Meeting.

Though it was so stormy last night the Regatta Committee's meeting was largely attended. A letter was read from Hon. J. Harvey, thanking the committee for appointing him an honorary member and congratulating Mr. A. Hiscock on his election as President. The Premier sent in $2 an oar for the winning crews in the Labourers and Fishermen's contests. Mr. Jno. Dooley was appointed caterer for the luncheon. The T. A. Band was engaged to furnish music. Mr. J. L. Slatery referred to conditions affecting the swimming race and thought that by shortening the course overcrowding would be prevented and the danger of accidents minimized. Quite a discussion occurred, most of the members taking part and the matter stands in obedience to the presence. President Hiscock nominated a subcommittee to wait on His Excellency the Governor and to consult with him as to the distribution of prizes by Lady Williams. It being reported that some not eligible to do so were practicing for the Regatta race so that the Secy. was instructed to write the crews informing them that only bona fide employees of the offices could enter. Four buoys only will be placed at the foot of the Lake. The collectors are still short of funds and if a successful Regatta Day is to be had more cash should be forthcoming. Positively all crews must enter next Friday night at the T. A. Armory. After this meeting, it has been absolutely determined to enter no more crews. Next Friday night the Committee will meet in the T. A. Armory.

The Taxpayer.

BY H. L. RANN.

The taxpayer is a form of municipal goat, whose diet consists mainly of paving certificates and double assessments. He is consulted every once in a while by a total stranger who has been elected assessor on a reform ticket and allowed to contribute a section of his salary to the waterworks fund. The assessor is a cold-blooded individual who assesses everybody alike, except the board of review and a few prominent citizens who dabble in politics in order to purify the Augean stables. In some of our larger cities the taxpayer has been pushed back further and farther into the suburbs, pursued by sewer assessments and the unrelenting form of the poll tax, until he is so far from his place of business that he has to take a sleeper. If it were not for the docile and unfermented taxpayer, this government would have to be put up at auction and sold to the highest and best bidder for cash. Yet who ever hears the taxpayer mentioned in poetry or song? Nobody spills any Fourth of July orations over his prostrate form or hangs an enlarged crayon portrait of him on memory's walls. The tax dodger is a person who has become weary of drawing checks for people with whom he does not mingle socially and conceals a few moneys and credits in a hair trunk. He is a noxious weed, but has a very rank growth in cities which are about to macadamize the residence district on the installment plan. If a taxpayer is displeased with his assessment he can either move out of the state or go into a clinch with a first mortgage lien, which is a very popular and satisfactory method. After the taxpayer has floated a few bond issues and maintained the city hall patriots in a state of affluence, there isn't much left for the sinking fund but the tariff. This is the most flourishing form of tax we have and allows a large number of happy and contented people to ride around on rubber tires and unearned increment.

Damage by Storm At the City Hall.

The weekly session of the Council Board was held yesterday afternoon. Messrs. Harvey and Company wrote asking that the drain in Factory Lane be given attention; also that the garbage, etc., be cleaned off the track. Both matters will be attended to. Mr. W. H. Small, Hagerty Street, applied for sewerage extension. Referred to Engineer. A resident of Flower Hill asked that something be done to remedy its condition. Referred to the West End Road Inspector. The President of the Truckmen's Union wrote regarding the bad condition of the crossing at Custom House Hill and at McBride's Hill. Referred to Engineer. Mr. P. Murphy who removed snow from sidewalk Water Street West last winter, asked for compensation. The bill was submitted for $17.50, but Council assumed no responsibility, as Murphy was not given authority to do the work. Mr. J. Mitchell asked for water and sewerage extension on Beaumont St. Deferred. Plans and specifications for building belonging to A. Joseph were submitted by contractor. Mr. D. Galway asked to repair store on Water Street. Referred to Engineer. Permission was granted J. Cuddihy and James King to repair houses and to P. Foley to build fence. The Water Committee reported several recommendations respecting the extension of water and sewerage pipes in several streets. The report is awaiting consideration. Sewerage pipes will be laid on Hayward Avenue from Catherine Street to Mullock Street. The Engineer's report was read and adopted. The Solicitor's report on Brennan's land was received. The Sanitary Supervisor reported the Department short of hay and suggested that a supply be got. It was decided to clean up the Race Course before Regatta Day. After the reading of the Health Report and the passing of pay rolls, etc., the meeting adjourned.
