The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER XXII.

The general was greatly perplexed and quite at a loss what to do. At first he thought he would consult the duchess, who appeared to him to be a compendium of all worldly knowledge, but he soon dismissed that idea. It would be a betrayal of a secret that he had discovered himself only by chance. During the next few days he watched Leah covertly, and now that he had the key, he understood the enigma of her conduct better. He saw how completely engrossed she was in her love—that she seemed to have no thought, no interest, no care outside it. It would be in every respect a most eligible match, thought the general. The two estates would become one, and Sir Basil would make a name for himself. They were both young, handsome, gifted. What a pity that Sir Basil did not fall in love with the girl who was so devoted to him!

Leah came down one morning looking pale and tired; she had not slept during the night, and the dark eyes were languid and shaded. Sir Arthur grew alarmed and anxious about her. He wanted to take her out for a drive, but she declined going. She admitted that she was not well. He proposed that he should take her into the woods, or for a walk down to the sea, but the sun was hot—she would not venture. The general was greatly distressed.

The duchess found him wandering uneasily up and down the terrace. "You are looking very grave this morning, Sir Arthur," she said. "May I venture to ask what occupies your thoughts?"

"I am thinking about subjects that I do not in the least understand," he answered. "It seems to me that even after so many years' experience, I know but little of life. Tell me, duchess—you understand matters—do girls ever really suffer and die from love?"

The duchess started. Had he, too, found out the secret that she had discovered?

"Yes," she answered. "I think they do sometimes die of love. Not often; there are exceptional cases, as there are exceptional natures."

His face cleared a little.

"It is not the kind of thing you

I'm So Tired

Fatigue is the result of poisons in the blood. So when the kidneys fail to purify the blood one of the first indications is unusual and persistent tired feelings and pains in the back.

Neglected kidney troubles lead to years of suffering from rheumatism or develop into such fatal ailments as Bright's disease.

The kidney action is promptly corrected by use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills—the best known regulator of kidneys, liver and bowels.

Mrs. John Ireland, R.R. No. 2, King, Ont., writes:

"I was a great sufferer from severe headaches and bilious spells. I tried a number of remedies without obtaining any benefit until I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These completely relieved me and made me feel like a new person. I am very grateful to Dr. Chase's medicines for what they have done for me, and you may use my letter for any part of others."

would expect from a sensible girl?" he interrogated.

"No," replied the duchess; "it is the last thing that would happen to a sensible girl."

He gave a great sigh of relief.

"And yet you think there are girls who would really die if they were what is called 'crossed in love'?"

"Yes," said the duchess. "I think so. If a girl is full of romance and poetry, and throws her heart and soul into her love, the consequences are likely to be serious if matters do not progress smoothly."

There was little comfort to be gained from this—for Leah, he knew, was visionary and romantic.

"It seems to me," he said gently, "that such love causes more pain than pleasure."

"I think it does," agreed the duchess.

Then she went away. She would say no more; it did not seem to her either fair or honorable that they should discuss the secret which both had discovered.

The general became more and more anxious. He was thinking always of his niece; he watched her face intently. If it is unclouded, if her eyes were bright and the red lips smiling, he was happy; but if she looked sad he was miserable. He had not known until now how dearly he loved her. He had thought money and position all-powerful; but they were not so. All his wealth could not buy for his niece that which she desired—could not give her love and happiness. It was late in life for him to make this unpleasant discovery. What could he do for her? Sir Basil liked her; he was quite sure of that. He seemed happy always when he was with her; he sought her society frequently—why should he not love her?

It struck him suddenly one morning that, if Sir Basil only knew how matters stood, he might, in all probability would, ask Leah to marry him.

"I spoke to Lady Bourgoyne at once," he said to himself, "when the major told me that she would never be a happy woman unless I married her. The chances are that in the same circumstances Sir Basil would follow my example."

He determined that, as he was Leah's guardian, uncle, and adopted father, he was the right person to give this delicate hint.

A favorable opportunity occurred a few days afterward. He overtook Sir Basil, who was strolling on the beach alone, smoking a cigar. The general reddened all over his honest bronzed face when he thought of the great interest at stake, and how much depended on the result of the conversation.

They first discussed the weather and matters of general interest. Then Sir Arthur began cautiously to feel his way. He always thought afterward that this conversation had been a masterpiece of diplomacy. He commenced to talk about Glen and its surroundings.

"You will want a mistress for that beautiful home of yours some day, Sir Basil," he said.

The young baronet laughed.

"I suppose so," he said.

"Have you begun to think of looking out, or settling down, or whatever it is called?" asked the general.

"No; I have not had time. I am in no hurry; I should like to make some position for myself before I think of marriage," said the young baronet.

"Quite right," cried the general, hastily. He must not show his hand too soon. "Are you ambitious?" he asked, suddenly.

"Yes," was the frank reply. "For my part, I do not believe in hereditary position; I believe that every man should carve out a name and fame for himself. I, for instance, would far rather be known as Basil Carlton, statesman, or skilful soldier, or able writer, than merely as Sir Basil Carlton, of Glen."

"I hope to Heaven," said the general, "that you are not a radical!"—and his thoughts flew back to Martin

Ray. "No, I am not a radical; but I think there are many fine and noble men in England to be found among the radicals."

"That may be," acknowledged Sir Arthur. "Politics," he continued, "are a fair game, at which every man can play. I respect the convictions of every honest man; but I loathe and detest men who trade upon others, make tools of them, and foster rebellion and murder."

"That is not radicalism," said Sir Basil, calmly.

But it was not politics that the general wished to discuss.

"I suppose you would like to go into parliament, Sir Basil," he remarked.

"I have often thought of it," he said; "and I shall most certainly try for it. That is my ideal life—to serve my country in some way during part of the year, and to live on my estate during the remainder. One of my greatest ambitions is to have a model estate."

"A very noble ambition, too," remarked the general. "I approve of that. And you do not think of marrying yet? But you will want a wife to do the honors for you, if you carry out your plans."

"I had better make my mark first," he said.

The general looked at him keenly.

"You are not one of those who despise marriage, or think it of little consequence?" he queried.

"No—far from it. I think it is the one step in life that makes or mars a man; his happiness or misery most certainly depends upon it; therefore, I hope to look before I leap."

"Quite right," said the general; "you could not do better. Men have such different tastes. Now, what is your idea of a wife?"

Sir Basil laughed.

"I do not know that I have formed one yet."

The general looked relieved. If his heart was yet untouched, why could he not learn to love Leah?

"I should like to know," he said, thoughtfully, "what you would expect in a wife. What are the qualifications you deem necessary in a woman who would aspire to that position?"

"I have never thought about it; I suppose my ideas are not different from other people's," answered Sir Basil, laughing.

"Would you marry for beauty, money, or position?"

"No; I should marry for love," said Sir Basil. "I should never marry for beauty, though I should like the woman I love to have a fair face of her own. I do not care for money—I have quite enough; but I shall not be ill-pleased if my wife has some fortune." (To be continued.)

Corundum.

Corundum is first cousin to the sapphire and the ruby, but lacks their brilliance and color and transparency. It is a most excellent abrasive material, better than emery, which is impure corundum, in that respect, but for a long time its rarity made it too high priced for general use. Some ago, however, valuable deposits of corundum were found in the mountains north of Kingston, Ont., and these have furnished a large supply of this material. Traces of sapphire have also been found among the deposits, but no specimens of the precious blue gem have revealed themselves.—Washington Star.

RUSSO-GERMAN TREATY arising from the past and clears the way for future co-operation between Russia and Germany.
GENOA, April 17. (Associated Press)—The treaty between Germany and Russia signed at Rappallo on Sunday, April 16, has caused a great commotion in the Foreign Office of the two countries, Genoa, April 17. The treaty nullifies the Brest-Litovsk Treaty and establishes full diplomatic relations on an equality basis. The treaty also cancels all war claims as well as claims arising from nationalization of property. The treaty signed yesterday, it is stated, represents the conclusion of negotiations begun several months ago. This action by the delegates meeting independently of the Genoa Conference itself, is regarded as establishing a precedent for the nations participating in the discussion of the Russian problem here. The Brest-Litovsk Treaty was a sequel to the armistice between Germany and Russia signed December 14, 1917, following the collapse of the Bolshevik government.

ALLIES ANNOYED.
GENOA, April 17. (Associated Press)—According to Reuters, the Allies are anxious at the signing of the treaty between Russia and Germany. They take no action until the matter has been cleared up. The British Ambassador, Sir Schanzer and Lloyd expressed astonishment to the German official who handed them the text of the treaty. It is not clear if the incident will break up the conference. In British circles it is the possibility of the treaty being signed has been foreseen. One reason for the British desire to prevent the signing of the treaty is the fact that it would place her in a bad position towards the Allies, but it is considered Russia's situation at the conference declares the official communication, removes obstacles

The Boy Who Started to Town With a Hundred Dollars

The advice they gave him for getting on in the world was simple and familiar enough: "Keep what you have, and build on it. Be careful what you do and it will grow into more."

It's a safe rule—with money or health, but a good many overlook the rule with health, until they have lost what they had. Then it's hard to get a new supply.

Postum is a splendid help in saving health from the very common losses through the drug elements of tea and coffee—whose effects on the nervous system any doctor can tell you.

Thousands of people who think it wise to be as careful of their health as they are of their dollars are users of Postum. They find this famous cereal beverage a delightful drink with any meal, and it's free from any disturbing element.

You can begin with Postum today, with an order to your grocer. The road to health is a good road for anybody to follow. "Save what you have, and build on it," is sound policy for everybody.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

In Cherry Blossom Time.
PRINCE OF WALES SEES JAPANESE AT PLAY.

TOKIO, April 12 (Associated Press)—The Prince of Wales is visiting Japan in cherry blossom time, the most delightful season of this "Land of Sunrise." Some of the ceremonies which will attend his tour will be made more attractive by the festivities in which the Japanese indulge during this time when all Japan puts on its loveliest appearance. As soon as the cherry buds begin to open the whole country including even the city streets is transformed into a fairy land enticing all its people into the open air for the national fête of flower visits. In this season the holiday spirit is abroad and all who can give themselves up to gaiety. The people gather at all the well known resorts dressed in their best or fantastic costumes that match their feelings and keep festival all day long here, declared to-day that the first shot was fired by someone of the Collins party and that later, shots were fired from an armoured car in O'Connor's office. O'Connor added, "If these provocative acts continue no one can say what will happen. We don't go out around firing indiscriminately, but we know Free Staters do."

JAPAN'S SPRING FESTIVALS.
The Imperial Garden Party or cherry party is one of the most interesting of these spring festivals and one of the two outstanding social functions of the year in Japan. Government officials, prominent business men, merchants, social workers and distinguished foreign visitors are guests of the Emperor and Empress in this occasion and it is expected that the Prince of Wales will attend the function this year. The party is held in the cherry blossom garden at Hachikō, a suburb of Tokio where the spacious lawns decked out with beds of spring flowers and blossoming trees and shrubs provide ample accommodation for a big assemblage. A welcome innovation of recent years has been the removal of all restrictions on women's dress. Heretofore a

THE THISTLE AND THE ROSE.
A very humorous instance of the almost incomprehensibility of things Scotch by the English mind occurred during one of the earlier visits of the Royal Family to Balmoral. The late Prince Consort, dressed in a simple manner, was crossing one of the Scottish lochs in a pleasure boat, and was curious to note everything relating to the management of the vessel, and among other things the cooking. Approaching the galley, where a brawny Scot was attending to the culinary matters, he was attracted by the savoury odours of a dish of hotch-potch which Sandy was preparing. "What is that?" asked the Prince who was not known to the cook. "Hotch-potch, Sir," was the reply. "How is it made?" was the next question.

"Weel, there's mutton intill't, and neeps intill't, and carrots intill't" and "Yes, yes," said the Prince, "but what is intill't?" "Weel, there's mutton intill't, and neeps intill't, and—" "Yes, I see; but what is intill't?" The man looked at him, and seeing that the Prince was serious he replied, "There's mutton intill't, and neeps intill't, and—" "Yes, certainly, I know," still argued the Prince; "but what is intill't—intill't?" "Gude sake, man," yelled the Scotsman, brandishing his big ladle, "am I no thrang teltin' ye what's intill't?" "There's mutton intill't, and—"

Here the interview was brought to a close by one of the Prince's suite, who fortunately was passing, explaining to His Royal Highness that intill't simply meant "into it," and nothing more.

A DESCRIPTIVE HYMN.
A minister in Orkney having been asked by the Rev. Mr. Spark, minister of St. Magnus, to conduct service in his church, and also to baptize his infant daughter, gave out for singing, before the baptismal service, a portion of the fifth paraphrase, beginning, "As Sparks in quick succession rise."

DRAWING AN INFERENCE.
A certain functionary of a country parish is usually called the minister's man, and to one of these who had gone through a long course of such parish office life, a gentleman one day remarked—"John, ye have been seen lang about the minister's hand; that I dare say ye could preach a sermon yersell now?" "To which John modestly replied: "O na, Sir, I couldna preach a sermon, but maybe I could draw an inference."

PRACTICAL PIETY.
The following story was told by the Rev. William Arnot at a soiree in Sir W. H. Moncrief's church some years ago: Dr. MacLeod and Dr. Watson were in the West Highlands together on a tour, ere leaving for India. While crossing a loch in a boat, in company with a number of passengers a storm came on; one of the passengers was heard to say, "The two ministers should begin to pray, or we'll be drowned." "Na, na," said a boatman, "the little one can pray, if he likes, but the big one must tak an oar."

ACTS OF PARLIAMENT.
A junior minister having to assist at a church in a remote part of Aberdeenshire, the parochial minister (one of the old school) promised his young friend a good glass of whiskey toddy after all was over, adding slyly and very significantly, "and gude smuggled whiskey." His Southern guest thought it incumbent to say, "Ah, minister, that's wrong, is it not? You know it is contrary to Act of Parliament." The old Aberdonian could not so easily give up his fine whiskey, so he quietly said, "Oh, Acts of Parliament lose their breath before they get to Aberdeenshire."

There was an old bachelor clergyman whose landlady declared that he used to express an opinion of his dinner by the grace which he made to follow when he had a good dinner which pleased him, and a good glass of beer with it, he poured forth the grace, "For the richest of Thy bounty and Thy blessings we offer our thanks; when he had poor fare and poor beer, his grace was, "We thank Thee for the least of these Thy mercies."

Lupine Instinct.
PORT WILLIAM, ONT.—That a wolf, once trapped, may yet be caught again, is the experience of an Indian, named Charlie Shaganash, at Quorny. Last fall Charlie trapped a large wolf which, however, earned its way to freedom by the rather heroic method of gnawing off the front leg by which it was held. The wound healed, and ten times during the winter Charlie caught sight of the three-legged beast shambling his way through the bush, and leaving behind unmistakable foot prints that revealed its identity. Recently Charlie went out along his trap line and found the lame wolf securely clamped by the steel jaws, which were clamped about his other front leg. The wolf apparently realized that it would be fatal to gnaw off of this one remaining front leg, and it was just as fatal not to do so. And now, after waiting five months, Charlie is ready to collect the bounty.

Crumbling Monument Of a Great Divine.
WESLEY'S TOMB IN STATE OF DISREPAIR.
London, April 15. (Canadian Press.)—A forlorn and decaying object is the monument over the grave of John Wesley, the founder of Methodism. The little graveyard where Wesley was buried is behind the famous chapel in the City Road, and is visited by thousands of pilgrims. The turf in this place is meagre and impoverished, and the asphalt paths are cracked. The monument itself is in a very serious state of disrepair. With its long inscriptions telling of the life and labours of the evangelist, it is blackened with soot. The surface of the stonework is scarred and defaced, and the foundations are falling to pieces. It is well-known that the atmosphere of London corrodes certain kinds of stone, and this one shows the atmospheric effect in pronounced deterioration. The atmosphere has bitten deep into the surface of the plinth of the memorial, and honeycombed it with ruts and fissures. The memory of John Wesley deserves something other than this crumbling monument in a decaying wilderness. Nearly two years ago the First London District Synod passed a resolution drawing the attention of the trustees of Wesley's chapel to the unkept condition of Wesley's burial ground, and urgently requesting that "an appeal be made to the Methodist people for funds to put the historic site in a state worthy of its traditional importance." A renovation fund has been opened and £10,000 is asked for. It is estimated that this amount will be required to defray the cost of repairing the chapel and the churchyard with its memorials.

The Premier's Reply.

Judging by the Premier's reply to the Board of Trade, published in another column to-day, Sir Richard apparently is not inclined to fall in line with the wishes and desires of that body. He requires more definite information on the points raised by the original Resolutions. An additional motion passed at yesterday's meeting, after considerable discussion provides for the appointment of a Consulting Committee by the Council to meet the Prime Minister and to ascertain the points on which the Government require assistance. No decision of the Board can be arrived at until this Committee completes the work allotted it and reports back. From the synopsis of proceedings as taken down by one of the Telegram news staff, we cannot discover any intention on the part of the Government to fall in line with suggestions from either the Board of Trade or any public body. The Prime Minister himself, who was present at the meeting yesterday, spoke at some length on the subject of discussion, but threw but very little light on the dark spots. The burden of his argument was that at present it was practically impossible—if not inexpedient to reduce the vote of any department of the public service. Whether the Committee to be appointed can induce Sir Richard to change his view, remains to be seen.

Official Jauntings.

Eight other official jauntings of patriots, who worked so hard and so strenuously for their country's good are reported in the Public Accounts, as having been sent on errands abroad, the ample cloak of Trade Commissioners covering their appointments. True the sums they individually received do not approach the amounts paid the two gentlemen referred to yesterday, but nevertheless they reach goodly figures and are by no means insignificant. These picnics cost the taxpayers of the Colony a sum total of over Seventy thousand dollars, or equivalent to the annual earnings of one hundred and forty fishermen at five hundred dollars each. Think of it ye "underdogs," whose patron so soon forget you, how the money which you wrested from the bosom of the ocean by toiling in many instances night and day for months, was lavished upon favorites by thousands of dollars. Your money, every cent of it. And what benefit accrued to you or your families from this outlay? Have you gained one red cent by the residence of these fortunate gentlemen abroad, or by their visits to the capitals and chief towns of Europe? Has the knowledge that they derived from rubbing shoulders with the nobility of Southern Europe, and in one case of Norway proved an any financial advantage to you? We think not. But you have to pay the Bills, and to follow out the ideas of the Government as at present demonstrated, it is "Yours not to reason why; yours not to make reply," but continue to provide funds for the indulgence of every conceivable extravagance. How much longer are you going to stand for it?

Begin at the Right End.

(Hr. Grace Standard.)
The Advocate in a recent and bitter editorial draws attention to and comments upon the Government offices that are in Hr. Grace naming each and every one of them. It says "Every section of the Island that is not carrying the same overhead charges for the unnecessary government services will be glad to see that the public spirited citizens of Harbor Grace are beginning retrenchment at home and are petitioning the government to close up at least half of the Government offices in that town and to discontinue the relief work that is going on."

It is true that we have the usual public services, but so have the chief towns of the Island, more than the majority in the several electoral districts but none at all in comparison with those of St. John's. If retrenchment is necessary in the interests of the Colony then let a discreet and wise government do the necessary pruning but it should and must be laid down as an unalterable condition that the pruning knife must first be used, and used generously, in the many offices and government machinery of St. John's. That city is today receiving two million dollars from the country's revenue. The same reason that exists for a reduction in the civil service expenditure in this town applies with stronger force to the capital city of the colony, as also does that of reduction of expenditure in relief work. Was not the sum of $500,000 spent last year in St. John's for relief work charged to the general revenue of the Colony? This year it also received direct grants for relief as well as the outports. The item in the list of the Advocate, that of a Ferry at a cost of $2800 a year cannot be laid at the door of the people as a party fourteen years ago. The other offices here have been with us from the beginning and should not be put in the invidious category that our contemporary places them.

C. L. B. Band Concert.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT.

The annual C.L.B. Cadets Band Concert held in the Methodist College Hall last night was a great success. A full house greeted Capt. Alex. Morris and his musical artistes and their performance was very meritorious. The most popular selection for the evening was "Harry, Lauder's" favourite Scotch Melodias." His Excellency the Governor was present. He was accompanied by the Captain and Surgeon of H.M.S. Cambrian, and by Capt. A. Baird, A.D.C. and was met at the door by a guard of Honour under Capt. J. H. Snow. His Lordship Bishop White, the Prime Minister Sir R. A. Squires and many clergy were also present. Miss Marguerite Mitchell's song was sweetly sung and her encore was even more highly appreciated. Messrs. F. M. Ruggles and Karl Trappell who also contributed songs, were in excellent voice. Mrs. Herbert Outerbridge's recitations were delightful and she was enthusiastically encored. It was good to see Mrs. W. C. Job on the concert platform once more. Mrs. Job's voice was quite up to her usual high standard, and she was encored by an appreciative audience. Miss Marjorie Hutchings' splendid control of voice was heard to advantage. During the evening His Excellency congratulated Band Master Morris upon the excellence of his work. The programme was as follows:—

Military March—C.L.B. Band.
Song—Miss M. Mitchell.
Song—Mr. F. M. Ruggles.

Operetta, "Dame Durdle."

YOUTHFUL PERFORMERS STAR.
Judging from the crowded house which greeted the youthful performers at St. Patrick's Convent School last night, the entertainments there are becoming more popular than ever, and in the presentation of the operetta "Dame Durdle" the pupils have added one more triumph to an already lengthy list of successes. The various parts were faultlessly portrayed, and in the feast of music and beauty of scenic effect the audience was lifted into a veritable fairyland. One of the most outstanding of the many attractive features was the dance by the "babies," and the little tots had to respond several times to persistent encores. We regret that limited space permits of only a running commentary on this entertainment, but those who appreciate talent should not fail to see the performance, which is being repeated to-night and on Wednesday.

Youth Drowned.

FROM FALL IN WATER WHEN BOAT CAPSIZED.
Clayton Sparkes, aged 17 years, was drowned at the entrance to Bay Roberts Harbor on Saturday last, when the boat in which he and three others were returning home capsized. The body has not yet been recovered nor is it likely to be, as the unfortunate lad sank in 50 fathoms of water. The news of the accident was conveyed to the city in the report of Acting Sergt. Wells, of Bay Roberts. Clayton Sparkes, who is the son of Jesse Sparkes, of that place, with three companions, Walter, Chesley and Victor Badcock, went out gunning on Saturday. On the way home one, in changing the oars, fell on the side of the boat, which was a dingy. Causing the others to fall on the same side. The boat capsized and the four occupants were thrown into the water. None of them could swim. Walter Badcock held on to the boat and succeeded in getting two others with him but the third, Clayton Sparkes, could not be reached. An oar was thrown to him and he supported himself on this for ten minutes but sank before assistance could be given. The others were rescued by John Earle and his two brothers of Juggler's Cove. A number of boats are still trawling for Sparkes's body.

Stole a Post.

A young boy was charged before Judge Morris to-day with stealing a post, the property of the Municipal Council, from the Parade Ground. Accused was seen removing the post, by a constable and was arrested. The post was part of a fence which surrounded a ditch. The accused was warned that his offence was a serious one, but was let go on suspended sentence.

HIS DIARY.

April 17th.—This afternoon, I to the meeting of the Board of Trade, and about the reply made by Sir R. Squires to their resolutions. Sir Richard himself there, a cunning fellow. There was much silly quibbling about the wording of a resolution which did move for the appointment of a Committee to enter about the reduction of the estimates and tariff. Mr. Attorney Morine did offer an amended resolution, but this not accepted, and after much idle discourse, another amended resolution passed. Sir R. Squires did discourse, and in saying much, did commit himself to nothing. The whole thing, indeed, what the people call and fun are to be found in it, so home and hear my wife sing, but her ear so had, poor wretch, that it made me angry. At night to the play house to see "Hazel Kirke," an old play and a good one.

"The Crucifix."

During the last meditation at the Three Hours Devotion on Good Friday, which concluded the Holy Week Mission at St. Thomas's Church, the Rector, Rev. E. C. Barp, recited a poem entitled "The Crucifix" which made a profound impression on the large congregation present. The poem was written in France in May, 1915, by Private J. B. Nicolson, son of the Rev. T. B. Nicolson, of Dunfermline, and was inspired by the many life-size Crucifixes which adorn the country roads in France. The young soldier-poet, who before the war was on the staff of the "Dunfermline Advertiser," made the supreme sacrifice two months later. So many requests have come in for copies of the poem that we have applied to the Rector for, and have received his own copy for publication in this paper. The poem will appear in to-morrow's Telegram.

Panel Your Rooms With Beaver Board

Beaver Board whilst being artistic enough for your parlor is cheap enough for your kitchen. A Beaver Board ceiling won't crack like plaster and won't show ugly seams like V jointed or pitch pine ceilings. Beaver Board can be painted or kalsomined and is easier to wash than either plaster or wood ceilings. A carpenter can put up a Beaver Board ceiling in half a day, thus saving time, labor and money.

Obituary.

ELIZABETH SUMMERS.

On Saturday, April 15th, there passed away Elizabeth Mealey, widow of the late James Summers. This deceased spent her early years at Little Bay. Having left there on the closing down of the mines, she came to St. John's and lived with Mrs. Manning on Water Street. Thirty years ago she was married to the late James Summers. For the last six or seven years she has retired from business on Military Road owing to ill health. Previous to that she was well and favourably known both for her charitable acts and business ability. She leaves a host of friends and relatives, amongst whom are Mrs. W. Martin, a sister, Messrs. P. and H. Berrigan and Miss Berrigan, Messrs. Mealey, Mrs. J. W. McNeilly and Mrs. J. Kelly to whom the Telegram extends its sympathy.

ARTHUR POWER.

On Tuesday, April 11th, the people of New Bridge, Salmonier, were horrified to learn that Arthur, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. David Power, aged 24 years, who with his father and brother was engaged in putting a mast in their schooner was working as usual when some defect in the hoisting apparatus, resulted in his receiving such a severe blow on the head that he died a few hours afterwards without having regained consciousness. Rev. Father Enright who hastened to the scene of the accident was with him in his last moments consoling the grief stricken parents and administering the last Sacrament to the son. This tragic cutting off in the very prime of life of one of its most promising young men has caused a gloom over the whole parish and sympathy for the sorrowing family is heartfelt and universal, as the boy, for he was little more, was esteemed by all who knew him as a most dutiful son and a model Christian. Happening, too, as it does, at the close of the penitential season not Lent, this sad accident most forcibly reminds us that in the midst of life we are in death; that the call may come at any time. When it does come, may we all be as well prepared as the devoted son who, in Mount Carmel Cemetery, now sleeps his last long sleep. He has left to mourn him a heart broken father and mother, two brothers, and three sisters

An Open Letter on Railway Matters.

C. Morgan, Esq., C.E.
 Winnipeg, in the Dominion of Canada, and of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, City.

Sir,—In my comparison of Railway systems with that of the Pacific, and other Companies to which you made reference, I do not feel it supposed that I am the Reid Newfoundland Company to be held responsible for the equipment of the line. They are no way responsible for it. This is, that the pioneers of Railway in this country considered accommodation originally provided sufficiently elaborate and expensive for the means of the Colony, they were right. The people were contented with it, but they contemplated the fact that such a rate and accommodation they would be charged rates equivalent to anywhere in the neighborhood of the world and first class Railways of the United States. To suggest such rates for their own and acceptance is an affront to the intelligence of the people of this country, who are not, as some would like to believe, "too stupid to burn." There are some and rogues too, in our midst, but do not by any means form the bulk of the population of this island as they are, for the most part, honest and good.

These antitheses, to the railway systems you have submitted for comparison, will come to you with a spontaneous flash, and answer in their sharpness to the sharp edges of fact. And now with regard to freight rates. When people have to wait for days and weeks together to obtain goods shipped over short distances, and weeks and months for goods ordered from abroad via the Reid Newfoundland Railway; when they have to submit to having their goods knocked to pieces, lost, and destroyed, the service can hardly be termed first class, and the public cannot reasonably be expected to pay first class rates, or even to forward their goods by rail if they can avoid so doing. The freight service is as bad, perhaps worse, than the passenger service. Permit me to quote from Official Records in corroboration of that statement:

"The freight rates charged over the Reid lines are something to 'appal'. The present rates on flour, beef, and pork and other provisions are something terrible. If the Company have the right to charge exorbitant freight rates, then something should be done to compel a reduction because this whole increase eventually comes out of the pockets of the fishermen; the Government should certainly do everything possible to try and remedy anything that puts a burden upon the fishermen at a time when prices are so high." (See Hansard 1917; page 325).

The steamer service, which is, as I have before remarked, a part of the Railway system under the Contract, comes in for equal condemnation in official quarters. Here is an extract from a Board of Trade Report:

"It has been impossible to obtain prompt supply of cars for car loads of goods. Shippers in St. John's have been much hampered by the delayed delivery of their shipments. Large quantities of freight have accumulated at Sydney awaiting removal by the Reid Newfoundland Company. The complaints made to the Board of Trade by shippers have been numerous, and a sub-committee has been appointed to investigate the matter."

"The Intercolonial Railway has refused to accept the transportation of goods via North Sydney because the Reid Newfoundland Company is not able at certain seasons of the year to relieve the freight congestion at North Sydney." (See page 367 Hansard 1917).

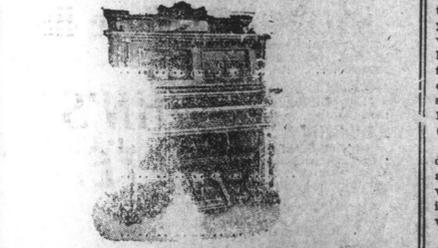

Are you surprised then, in the light of the foregoing, that freight traffic by rail and steamer dwindled as the years advanced? And are you still of opinion that such a service warrants increased rates, and increased subsidies?

If I read your Report correctly, you assume that the Railway rates in force to-day, are precisely those which were in operation twenty odd years ago. Permit me to say that is not correct. The Contractor has increased the rates from time to time. It was alleged before the Legislature, that in some instances the increase amounted to two hundred per cent. over the rates that had been applied previous to the war; and it was not contradicted. Sir W. D. Reid, late President of the Reid Newfoundland Company, in his letter to Lord Shaughnessy from which I have previously quoted, boasted of having increased the rates in face of "popular disapproval." And it was stated by a business man in the House of Assembly that the rate increased on all goods was "from one to two hundred per cent. higher." (See page 24 Hansard 1917). Up to this date those war rates apply to freight and passengers. Is your recommendation then, for an increase of freight and passenger rates, made upon the basis of present rates? I cannot think so, because the present revenue from the operating of the railway would assuredly be "lost in the follies of excess." Higher rates than the present ones, would force people to other means of transit. I must assume that you were not aware when compiling your statistics that the original rates under contract have been increased for years, from one to two hundred per cent. It just shows how necessary it is to have "verified" records and accounts before one.

"Hazel Kirke."

A MELODRAMA REVIVED.
 (By Our Dramatic Critic.)

I wish I were an actor. The footlights never did attract me much, although I once would have played the little part in "Henry V," by a fellow named Brakestoff or Shakespeare, something like that I know, but all my supports (not braces, you know) got the flu and neither the play nor I came off. Since seeing "Hazel Kirke" at the Casino, however, I am simply pining to play "Pittacus Green" and perform the duty he owed to society and which he executed so often—provided of course, that Miss Kathleen Fraser still plays the title role. How much easier would life be to us poor mortals if all our duties to society were so pleasant and easy to perform! Seriously, I really enjoyed "Hazel Kirke" from beginning to end. It was a revival of the good old English melodrama that was so prevalent in the last years of the past century. I envy those who could go to a play every night and always get a good thrill, a real heartache and plenty of good bright comedy. The modern type of play never did appeal to me, and now that I have seen the kind of drama enjoyed by our fathers and mothers and uncles and aunts, it appeals to me still less. It was, indeed, a pleasant sensation to feel my hair stand on end at times, and my hearty laughter some people refer to it a little less politely—at the droil sayings of "Pittacus Green" caused the lady in front of me to turn and ask if I had a fit and would I like a cough drop. One thing I have learned from the play, and that is that if I ever marry, Scotland is the last place in the world in which I should commit the deed. It appears that besides the usual accessories to a proper wedding, in Scotland one must have a map to see if one is really over the border or not. If not, then the marriage is not legal. That was the unfortunate position that "Hazel Kirke" found herself in after being thrown out of her home by her father because she preferred the man of her heart to her father's choice. Everything came right in the end, I am pleased to say—although there is one death—a sorrow escape and an accident, before the ultimate happy ending is reached.

"Hazel Kirke" was charmingly portrayed by Miss Kathleen Fraser. The part is a heavy one, the heaviest I think that this talented young lady has yet undertaken, and no professional could have excelled her. The one fault that can be found with her and one or two others, is that their voices were very low at times, and could not have been audible to those in the back rows. Miss Fraser seems to live in every part she plays, a true sign of the born actress, and she seems to be equally at home in the lightest comedy and the heaviest drama. She combines a fascinating personality with histrionic talent, making a matchless combination.

Miss Hilda Krentzlin had a lighter role in the character of "Dolly Dutton" and played it well. This is, I think, her first appearance on the local stage, but I have no hesitation in forecasting that it will not be her last. Mrs. Baxter was her old inimitable self, and her splendid portrayal of "Mercy Kirke" won well merited applause. Mrs. Hutton had very little to do as Lady Travers, but what little she had was difficult, and to say that she did it well is but a poor compliment to her excellent effort. Miss Joyce Dunfield was quite good as "Clara," the maid.

Mr. A. E. Holmes was the life of the play, and as "Pittacus Green," he gave a performance which has seldom been equalled on the local amateur stage. The part was not an easy one, and Mr. Holmes deserves all the more credit for his splendid characterization. I am thinking of sending him a bill for the embrocation with which I was compelled to annoint my aching sides as a result of laughing at his droileries. Mr. T. H. O'Neil had a very difficult part, that of the hard hearted father, and he played it in the powerful and able manner with which one always associates him. In the third and last act, when he was blind and delirious, he played his part so well, and with such conviction, that the audience was visibly affected. Mr. A. Stansfeld played the part of "Lord Travers" with distinction. His bearing and diction were all that could be desired. Mr. Glass also played a difficult part in an able manner. Mr. Percy Jardine as the village idiot, "Methusalem Miggens" again showed the wonderful versatility which he has so frequently demonstrated within the past few years. Mr. P. J. Grace, "Paddy for short" was good in the minor part of Bernery O'Flynn. In the other minor roles, Messrs. J. Walsh, J. Maddigan and G. Jackman were good. I am hoping to see "Hazel Kirke" again. I think others intend to do so, too. Between the second and third acts a beautiful bouquet was presented Miss Fraser, amidst thunderous applause. Music was supplied by the Majestic Orchestra, whose talents in this direction have won for them unstinted praise. "Hazel Kirke" will be repeated to-night to-morrow night and on Thursday and Friday nights. It is a play worth seeing.

Italy's Position Greatly Improved.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR BETTER FISH SALES.

It is gratifying to learn that the industrial and financial condition of Italy is fast improving and the prospects of better fish sales there the coming season are vastly improved. The revenues are increasing, while the expenditure is below that of last year. Receipts to the last of March were three million lire above those of last year. The foreign trade figures too, says the Government Commissioner's report, are very favorable, and show that imports exceed exports by 1,716,969,596 lire, as against 5,595,317 (434 for the same period in 1920).

In the northern provinces the drought has ended, and there has been abundant falls of snow and rain, which both improved agriculture and increased the electric current for the working of factories.

We understand that there is a considerable quantity of Labrador fish held there still unsold, but we believe it will be cleaned up before the winter comes. In fact, it has been moving into consumption fast since the middle of March.—Trade Review.

Board of Trade Meeting.

Lengthy Debate---Nothing Conclusive Accomplished---Amended Resolution Accepted.

After spending more than an hour in quibbling over the wording of a resolution prepared by its Council, the largely attended meeting of the Board of Trade adjourned yesterday, without having accomplished anything worth while. The original resolution was passed in an amended form. The Prime Minister attended the meeting not in his official capacity, but as a member of the Board of Trade. Mr. C. R. Duder, Vice President of the Board of Trade was chairman.

RESOLUTION PROPOSED.

After explaining the reason for the meeting which was to consider the Prime Minister's reply to the resolutions passed by the Board and presented to him, Mr. Duder read a resolution to the effect that a committee should be appointed with a view to reducing taxation and expenditure. He read the letter which accompanied the Board's resolutions which had been submitted to the Government and also messages from the outports concurring with the stand the local Board of Trade had taken on the questions of tariff reform and reduction of the Estimates. All these messages have appeared in the press. Mr. Duder said that two days after he had interviewed the Premier in connection with the resolutions, he had received a message from Sir Richard asking for a signed petition. This was obtained and the result was known to all. As no reply was received to this, a further letter was sent to the Prime Minister, and on Thursday afternoon a reply was received and was laid before the Council of the Board of Trade. It was then decided that the reply should be laid before a general meeting of the Board.

THE PREMIER'S REPLY.

The reply sent by the Prime Minister to the Board of Trade petition was as follows:—

April 13, 1922.

E. A. Payn, Esq.,
Secretary Board of Trade.

Dear Sir,—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the ninth instant forwarding four copies of printed resolutions considered at a meeting held in the Board of Trade rooms some days ago, to which are appended certain signatures.

On the 8th instant Mr. C. R. Duder, Vice-President of the Board of Trade, the Chairman of the meeting referred to, called upon me and handed me a letter of April fifth over his signature to which was annexed, unsigned, printed copy of the resolutions.

These resolutions, together with the original resolutions printed and circulated by the Board of Trade of which the printed resolutions forwarded are a modification, were then discussed by Mr. Duder and myself and I pointed out to him in brief my reply to the various recitals and paragraphs of the resolutions both original and as modified. I also pointed out to Mr.

Duder that up to the time your Council had printed and circulated the original resolutions neither the Council or anybody on behalf of the Board of Trade had approached me with respect thereto. I showed Mr. Duder copy of the Estimates for the coming year, discussed with him various Departmental votes and at his request immediately telephoned the clerk of the House of Assembly asking him to forward you copy of the Estimates, which I understand the clerk did promptly. I told Mr. Duder that I would forward him copy if a spare one could be secured, but doubted very much whether that would be possible as the number of copies printed were merely such number as were sufficient for the House of Assembly and would be reprinted with such alterations as would be made in them by the House.

I submitted both sets of resolutions together with Mr. Duder's letter of date the 8th instant, and your letter of the 11th, to the first meeting of Committee of Council held after their receipt, and have the pleasure of informing you that Committee of Council would be glad to receive for consideration and discussion with you any views which you as Secretary of the Board of Trade, Mr. Duder as Vice-President and Chairman of the meeting, or any Committee which the Board of Trade desires to appoint, may have to submit for consideration.

With respect to that portion of your resolutions in which you refer to the Income Tax in which members of the Board of Trade are deeply interested, I have to say that I have already informed you that the consideration of that matter by Committee of the House would be delayed until the Committee which you have appointed in this matter has had an opportunity of submitting its recommendations.

Very truly yours,

S(gd.) R. A. SQUIRES,
Prime Minister.

THE INCOME TAX.

Mr. Duder dwelt briefly upon some of the matters which he had discussed with the Prime Minister. With reference to the Income Tax, he said that he had been assured that this would not be applied in a discriminatory manner. So far as he could see, the only answer that the Board of Trade could make to the Government was to appoint from among its members a committee which would make suggestions as to the best methods of reducing expenditure and tariff. He then put the resolution before the meeting and asked for a mover and seconder. Mr. W. White moved that the resolution should be adopted and Mr. E. A. Bowring seconded the motion.

OBJECTS TO RESOLUTION.

Mr. A. B. Morine took exception to the wording of the resolution. His objection was that the committee might make suggestions which would not have the approval of the entire Board of Trade, and if accepted by the Government, the responsibility would be upon the Board. He suggested that the resolution should be amended so as to have the Committee refer their recommendations to a general meeting of the Board before offering them to the Government. The Board in any case should not assert to themselves the right to dictate to the Government as to what reductions ought to be made. The Government alone was in a position to take action in this connection. It would be assuming a dangerous attitude and a useless one, to attempt to dictate to the men who know all. He suggested an amendment to the resolution. Mr. W. G. Gosling did not agree with Mr. Morine. He did not suppose for an instant that the Government would turn over any of its powers to any body but it seemed to him that the Board of Trade could offer assistance. If necessary, the committee could report back to the Board. He thought that taxation should be reduced to permit producers to make a profit, and if the revenue were not sufficient to make both ends meet, then we should have to borrow again. He favoured the appointment of a committee as suggested in the original resolution.

MISUNDERSTOOD.

Mr. L. C. Outerbridge said that the first speaker was under an entire misapprehension of the plain English of the resolution. The Board of Trade would not be committing themselves in any way but merely wanted the committee to offer assistance on any point on which assistance might be necessary. The object of the appointment of the Committee was simply and solely to give any information that the Government had not got and that they were only too willing to give. Last year eight bankers of Belleoram had all bumper catches and yet each one of them lost $5000 owing to the high rate of taxation. If this were to continue the Bank Fishery would have to be wound up. There was nothing in the resolution that the wording of it did not actually say. Mr. Morine asked what other assistance could be offered beyond an expression of opinion on what should be done. He was opposed to the resolution in its original form.

Mr. Outerbridge suggested that the resolution should be reworded.

Some further discussion took place. Mr. White offering to withdraw his support of the original resolution and offering to support the amendment. Mr. Bowring held to the original form. Mr. C. Marshall seconded the amended form. Mr. Howley said that if the amended resolution were accepted capital might be made out of the fact that it was proposed by an active politician. No matter what the imperfections of the original resolution were, it would be better coming from a non-partisan body of men, anxious to help the country out of the mess which it is in. Mr. White submitted a re-worded resolution and this was seconded by Mr. Bowring. Mr. F. Bradshaw suggested that the Prime Minister should be asked to give his opinion.

PREMIER SPEAKS.

Sir Richard Squires said that he was present as a member of the Board of Trade and not as Prime Minister. He said he would be happy to submit any suggestions received from a committee of the Board to Committee of Council. Nothing would give him greater pleasure than to confer with such a committee. He quoted figures to show how difficult it would be to return to 1913-1914 conditions. He again repeated his statement that he would be delighted to confer with a Board of Trade committee.

The resolution as amended, was then put to the meeting and carried unanimously.

RESOLUTION.

This meeting being firmly convinced of the immediate necessity of a general reduction in taxation, and consequently a corresponding reduction in expenditure, hereby empowers the Council of the Board of Trade to appoint a Committee to meet the Prime Minister in accordance with his request, and to ascertain the points on which the Government require our assistance for action by the Council of the Board of Trade.

All Night on the Ocean.

SEALERS DRIFT WITH ICE IN OPEN BOATS—TUG BRINGS THEM TO PORT.

After sailing all last night and a few hours of this morning adrift in the ice in two open motor boats, eight residents of the Battery who went out sealing early yesterday, reached the city this morning. The boats were towed in by the tug "Hugh D." which left at 1 a.m. to look for the missing men. The occupants of the boats are none the worse for their unpleasant experience. The strong S.W. wind which was blowing last night took the ice off the land, but while it was a rather chilly night the boats crews made themselves as comfortable as circumstances would permit.

Star Club Dance.

The Star Club Dance held in the Star of the Sea Association Club Rooms last night was attended by over 400 people. The affair proved very enjoyable, and the music by the Empire Band was of an exceptionally pleasing character. The Club is to be congratulated on the success of their effort.

Schooner Nancy Lee is now loading at Monroe's premises and sails for Brazil during the week.

An Appreciation of Mr. Karl Trapnell.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I was present last evening at the C.L.B. Band Concert. Prominent on the list of artists who assisted was the ever popular Karl Trapnell, and as I listened to his ringing tenor voice I wondered to myself if our people ever realized the vast amount of work he has been doing voluntarily and freely for so long a period. If it is mainly possible he has ever been ready and willing to place his services at the disposal of all classes and creeds of the community. During the past seven or eight years he has been continually before a public which has never tired of his art, but on the contrary, like Oliver Twist, has constantly demanded "more." It would not, I think, be an exaggeration to say that Mr. Trapnell has sung and tested methods, having taken a special course abroad in sight-testing and glass adjusting. Last year he started in business for himself with offices at 307 Water Street where he conducts an optical establishment fitted with the most modern appliances for locating and remedying all defects of the vision. He has already gained an enviable reputation in this line. I trust by these few lines I will remind the public that they have in their midst not alone a splendid singer, whose voice is a public asset, but also, and what no doubt is more important from Mr. Trapnell's standpoint, an optical specialist who would no doubt be very pleased with any tangible appreciation of his worth in the shape of business patronage.

Yours truly,
PROFESSOR.

Why Griffith Selected "Way Down East."

The news that David Wark Griffith's production of "Way Down East" will come to the Majestic Theatre on Monday, the play which for the past twenty-two years has been a classic among rural dramas, provokes the inquiry: "Why did Griffith select this bucolic story on which to devote the talents he gave to the making of 'The Birth of a Nation,' 'Intolerance,' 'Broken Blossoms' and 'Hearts of the World'?" And again others will ask: "Why did Griffith select this simple play for his genius in direction, when he might have had for the mere asking almost any new and modern story in present-day literature?" And yet, perhaps it is best to let the man most concerned with "Way Down East" have his say. Here is what Mr. Griffith says:

"I selected Lottie Blair Parker's story of 'Way Down East' because it lies closer to the human heart than any play I ever read dealing with plain people and told in a plain manner. I have had so many requests from those who care for my work to perpetuate, insofar as the motion picture may be capable of perpetuation, this story of New England life. Naturally, being a Southerner, I might have preferred to handle the subject from the viewpoint of a man who was born and who has lived in the South. I am a Kentuckian and mighty proud of it. But my heart is not sectional. I can see human love and human fondness in Maine just as quickly as I can see it in Alabama. 'Way Down East' is a human story, humanly told by a woman who deserves a place in the dramatic and literary Hall of Fame for the reason that she has given to the American people as a heritage one of the most tender and appealing stories ever written."

SHIPPING PARALYSED.

ROME, April 18.

The shipping crisis has tied up 152 ships of 790, 755 tons in Italy.

WHO WILL BE STUNG?

GENOA, April 18.

Action of the Germans in making a treaty with Russia is an absolute breach of loyalty to the general idea of the Genoa Conference, and in that sense is dishonorable and a challenge to Europe authorized British spokesmen declared to the Associated Press. Nevertheless the British Delegation does not think the Conference will be broken up, though Germany has broken loose from it. The French Delegation denounced the treaty bitterly, and said France would exact from Soviet recognition of debts, and restitution of confiscated property. The Italian spokesman alluded to the action of Germany and Russia as dishonorable, adding that it was deplorable from a German viewpoint, and not calculated to bring about happy results in the Conference. The general opinion is that Germany and Russia have overturned the beehive.

PURELY GERMAN.

GENOA, April 18.

The German Foreign Minister, Dr. Rathenau, calmly discussed the Russo-German Treaty, which has created such excitement. He said "this Treaty does not in the least interfere between the relations of Russia and Germany with any other state, but simply cancels the past with regard to Germany and Russia, and lays a foundation for future common reconstruction. Because we reached this understanding, during the Genoa Conference, doesn't mean that we intend to do anything beneath our dignity nor that we intend to renounce the general European aims of the Conference."

SCRATCH A RUSSIAN.

GENOA, April 18.

George Chitcherin, head of the Russian Delegation, discussing last night the Russo-German Treaty, said negotiations for full resumption of diplomatic relations with Germany and Russia had been in progress several months. "The place and time of signature" he added, "must not be interpreted as indicating that the two Governments intended a special significance in concluding this Treaty at Genoa which was contemplated long ago."

ONLY A SCARE.

BELFAST, April 18.

Disorders continued this morning in the Marrowbone District of North Belfast, inhabited largely by Sinn Feiners and a score of casualties from shooting were reported, but only six cases were treated in hospitals.

ON DANGEROUS LEG.

PONTO PRAYA, CAPE VERDE ISLANDS, April 18.—Portuguese trans-Atlantic aviators, Captains Coutinho and Sacadura, hopped off at 5.50 o'clock for St. Paul Rocks, on the third and probably the most dangerous leg of the flight from Lisbon to Rio de Janeiro. Their route lies over 900 miles of water, devoid of markers or guideship and they expected to reach the rocks in mid-Atlantic in from ten to twelve hours flying.

CONFUSION WORSE CONFOUNDED.

GENOA, April 18.

Organizers of the Genoa Conference, to-day, were dazedly attempting to grope a way out of the debris and confusion caused by the explosion of the German-Russian bombshell, secretly signing a formal peace treaty between the two nations at Rappallo on Sunday. Judicial experts of the powers, which organized the conference met this morning to consider whether the new pact violates the stipulation of the Treaty of Versailles, or conflicts with the resolutions of the Supreme Council at Cannes, on which the present conference is founded, and which all nations coming to Genoa were expected to assent, as a basis for meeting.

Children in Court.

JUDGE ORDERS INVESTIGATION.

Two boys were charged in the Police Court to-day with doing malicious damage to a house in the Battery. One was a tiny little fellow, who could not be seen behind the bar and had to be picked up by a constable and stood on a chair. His size drew from the judge a remark to the effect that he should have been brought in a cradle. The owner of the house said the accused had broken a window in his house and had taken things from it. Mr. Halley appeared for one of the boys and pleaded not guilty. The judge ordered the matter to be investigated.

A Casual Visitor.

"I haven't been here for five or six years, Your Honor," said a drunk in the Police Court this morning. "No, I don't remember seeing you here," said the Judge. "You are discharged, but mind you don't come back within six months." Several other drunks were dealt with by His Honor during the morning, all being discharged.

The young stenographer arrested some months ago for passing checks forged by herself, appeared before Judge Morris this morning. The Crown announced that certain considerations had inclined them to leniency and they permitted the accused to be tried summarily. Judge Morris said the Crown had taken a very lenient view of the case. He impressed the seriousness of her crime upon the accused and told her that as it was her first offense he would give the option of a fine but the value of the forged checks would also have to be made good. This amounted to $122 and a fine of $100 or 6 months was imposed.

Current Business Conditions

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS
(From the Monthly Bulletin Issued by The National City Bank of New York for April)

THE general feeling in business circles is one of strengthening confidence that the corner has been turned and that 1922 will be a better year than 1921. The improvement in fundamental conditions and in general feeling since the first of the year has been very marked; indeed, from the middle of January to the first of March optimism was perhaps over-pronounced, and a moderate reaction in some lines has naturally resulted.

The stock market, which is prompt to reflect and even anticipate changes in fundamental conditions, has been creeping upward for the last six months in a slow but persistent movement which suggests faith that better days are coming. Railroad traffic, as indicated by the reports of car-loadings since the first of the year, have been running ahead of last year, although January gross earnings were about 16 per cent. below those of the same month of 1921. On the other hand the net earnings of 199 roads were $57,421,605 in January against $28,331,956 in January, 1921, which reflects the reduction in operating expenses.

Trading in all lines is on a short order basis. Foreign buyers wish to avoid the risks of exchange fluctuations so far as possible, and in the domestic trade there is a prospect that in some lines, particularly clothing and textiles, prices may be lower. There is general agreement, however, that both at home and abroad stocks have been worked down to the minimum and that there must be constant buying to meet the demands for current consumption. This is one respect in which the situation is decidedly more favorable than it was in the latter part of 1920 and throughout most of 1921.

The steel industry has made a marked recovery, the United States Steel Corporation now operating at about 70 per cent. of capacity and the independent companies in the aggregate at probably 60 per cent. When it is considered that production capacity has increased about 50 per cent. since before the war, it will be seen that this is far from a state of stagnation.

The implement industry, although still far from normal, is much better than at this time last year, and that is the case also with the automobile industry, and even more so with the building industry. The figures for the latter are quite remarkable, permits in 161 cities aggregating $132,909,000 in February last, against $50,433,167 in February, 1921.

The Situation in Agriculture
The chief factor in the change of sentiment which has occurred since the first of the year has been the

OTHER FACTORS INFLUENCING CONDITIONS

Aside from the unsettled and extremely unsatisfactory state of the reparations question, European affairs have been progressing in a manner to give encouragement. The Genoa Conference, although of vague import, should accomplish something by bringing the high representatives of all Europe together.

The disturbance in the textile industry of New England is unsettled and spreading, with a likelihood of involving the entire textile industry of that section before it is settled.

The public has taken the impending coal strike very quietly, refusing to believe that there will be any serious effects upon business.

The labor organizations may have more power than the employers, but both are subject to economic law. There is more to the industrial problem than a mere trial of strength between employers and wage-workers. Industrial peace and progress is dependent upon a general understanding of this fact.

The unfavorable factor which continues to retard industrial recovery is the unbalanced relationship between values in the different industries, resulting from the uneven fall of prices and rise in prices of farm products. It came so easily and naturally as to demonstrate that the country had been suffering from excessive pessimism, and that in the natural order of things the economic situation, given reasonable time, would recover its equilibrium. Grain prices in March lost a part of their February gains, but the reasons were obvious and there was no serious loss of confidence. The breaking of the drought in the southwest and high prices for cotton. Such an improvement in the outlook for the winter wheat crop was the principal factor in the decline. For several months the country had been

Prospects Encouraging
On the whole there seems to be a good basis for believing that agriculture in all branches will have a better market for the last one. The farmer's costs which are declining, and we believe that important news is likely to have what is closely balanced and for the most part favorable than it was in the latter part of 1920 and throughout most of 1921.

Corn and oats always are influenced more or less by wheat, and both are down from the top. The stocks in the central markets are well up to storage capacity, and the speculative market is not inclined war to take more. The price of corn will be dominated in the long run by the price of live stock, particularly hogs. Ten dollars per hundred for hogs mean that a large part of the corn crop is being marketed at very profitable prices.

Citizens Hold Meeting.

PUBLIC MEETING MUST BE HEARD

The preliminary meeting which took place last night in the L. S. P. U. Hall, was attended by a fairly representative gathering of citizens. The meeting which was called by a number of citizens discussed the present conditions of the country and formulated plans to again set the wheels of industry going. A Committee to investigate the estimates and show where reductions in expenditure and tariff can be made was formed also. The meeting opened at 8.30, and Mr. G. Parsons was called to the chair. After a brief resume of the object of the meeting, he called on the audience to express their views and Mr. L. Cullen was the first speaker, he outlined the discouragement with which the trade of the Colony, especially in its principal industries was threatened. In many instances no less than 75 cents was taken from the people out of every dollar earned, or in other words one dollar could only buy 25 cents worth. This condition, he said, made it impossible for the Labourer or ordinary citizen to live, and it was time that an immediate remedy was applied.

Mr. L. C. Morris being called upon delivered a splendid address. He first expressed his great faith in the future of Newfoundland. Then turning to the present crisis he deplored the position in which the Colony is now placed. One of the causes of which, the speaker said, was that public service was too great for the small population to support. We have come to a point where we must cry halt. All impartial men must agree that in many departments of the government, there was room for substantial reduction, and retrenchment should be the watchword. All the producing classes accepted a reduction of about 25% and if the labourer had to bear this cut, a chance should be given him to live by reducing taxation accordingly. It was only fair to ask for a reduction in the extremely high taxation. The speaker looked forward to a square deal being given and better times for the country.

Mr. Arthur English was the next speaker called on. In his address he said he supported the present Government and was a candidate for their party in the last election, but after the exhibition of incapacity they have given since taking office, he was ashamed of being ever associated with them. The government were inadequate to the task imposed upon them. He would not be satisfied with making requests to the government for reduction in taxation and retrenchment, but thought that this should be demanded. He proposed that a Congress or Committee be formed to go into the estimates and strike out unnecessary items. This committee to report to a mass public meeting for approval. The motion was seconded by Mr. L. Cullen and passed unanimously amidst much applause.

Mr. E. G. McDonald in endorsing the sentiments of previous speakers said that the matter of taxation and expenditure was now a matter of the most vital concern to the Colony and if some action was not immediately taken to check up, ultimate ruin would result. The public, owing to its inability to blame for the conditions at present existing, but he was glad to see that the indifference had given way to interest, and action would be taken demanding reduction in taxation and a more careful expenditure of revenue. Other speakers, including Messrs J. Wheeler, F. J. Shea, and E. Neary followed. A Committee of four was appointed to prepare some concrete proposals to put before a public meeting, which will be held as soon as possible. The Committee which was given power to add to its numbers arranged to meet to-day, after which the meeting adjourned.

VIVIAN MARTIN APPEARS IN DIFFICULT ROLE.

Last night's vast audiences at the Nickel were treated to picture entertainment that will live long in ones memory. The title attraction was "The Song of the Soul" featuring the popular young actress Vivian Martin. In refinement of spirit this picture is detached from that great mass of motion-picture production which goes to the theatre for a theme and not to life. Its development is along the right theme for drama—the characters begin early to take the upper hand. The definite decision of an unhappy man to live the life of a recluse because of a physical affliction, the definite placing of a woman's sympathy, her unflinching love, her tremendous sacrifice, bring about action almost purely dramatic. Never before has Vivian Martin had such an opportunity. She responds so well that she made the character of blind Barbara Seaforth stand almost unique. Her impersonation is one of reserve and restraint. Mr. Fritz Leibler also plays a good role. The other attraction was "The Vagabond" with the one and only Charlie Chaplin. Mr. Henry G. Kelly, a celebrated concert artist, opens at the Nickel this week.

Twenty Years Ago To-Day.

(Evening Telegram, April 18th, 1902.)

The Jere McAllister Stock Co. presented "A Young Wife" at T. A. Hall. This was the second performance of the troupe. Miss Pauline Saxon, singer and dancer and the Martin Bros. Acrobats were amongst the personnel. At 7 o'clock in the morning a fire was discovered in the basement of Mr. Sydney Woods' Hardware premises.

The crew of the schooner Orandu, Capt. Paul Young of Codroy, were paid off at Bowring's with $61.66 each, their share of a voyage of 1,683 seals brought from the Gulf.

The Lotteries Bill was given a six months' hold on its second reading in the Legislature.

The British eight million war loan offered for public subscription was over subscribed 30 to 40 times. It was quoted at one per cent premium.

The Boer delegates at Pretoria agreed to all the British terms making practicable a basis for peace.

The Social Problem.

AND HOW TO SOLVE IT.

From the various philanthropic efforts now being made here in aid of the young, it would appear that the good old philosophy has come back to us—the philosophy that instills into the minds of our well-to-do citizens a personal interest in the needy. Especially is this the case with regard to the young whose surroundings are more likely to give them a wrong than a right start in life. Clubs and societies are constantly being organized for the purpose of helping the young, and reclaiming those who have gone astray, the central idea being the providing of suitable places of recreation, and friends whose example will aid the teaching and help in resisting the downward pull of family tendencies.

Large sums of money are often spent and charitable labor wasted in schemes which fail because they do not reach the class they were intended to benefit. The object of all these societies should be to try and assist the most deserving, to improve, if possible, their temporal position by teaching them to help themselves, rather than look to others and thus become a burden upon the state. Relief bestowed by first impulse does very little good, but every method of helping them effectually to help themselves, is worth all the study and time bestowed upon it.

Healy, who is one of the best known authorities says, "That success can be had sometimes by placing the offender in a different home where there is a better range of interests, or where there is less friction, or in country life away from city temptations, as well as by placing in institutions, goes without saying."

If that is so, it is certainly worth while to make some effort. This has been part of the programme of the Social Reform Department during the past few years, and while the work accomplished has not been as large as could be desired, yet interest has been aroused in the public mind, but the need of increased effort in this direction is only too apparent. It is not only large associations and wealthy societies with vast machinery that have accomplished great things in the world; but how much has been completed by solitary individuals, single minds and single hearts, bringing to bear upon others their enthusiasm and thus creating an interest in some special work. Vaughan says of Schleiermacher, "He did not so much desire to found a school as to stimulate individualities."

The committee in charge of the Girl's Industrial Home have been active during the past year, but they feel the time has come for increased activity. The need of an Industrial Home for wayward girls is apparent. We have in the city a number of girls, some of whom have come from the outside places, and others who are without home or friends. What is to be done with these? In many cases, they are turned adrift in the world on their own account, with wild natures, ungoverned passions, and roving dispositions. Not being under any discipline, they know practically nothing of work, and it is to these the chance should be given to try and make good, in spite of all obstacles. This has been the aim of the Committee. That is why they feel a Home is needed; a Home in the true sense of the word, where young lives may be moulded in the right way, and, overcoming the evil influences of the past, they may be fitted to occupy the places in life for which they were intended.

With this in view, arrangements have been made for a sale and tea, to be held in the Empire Hall tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon, and it is hoped that all those who are interested in this work will make an effort to be present and thus give the committee their sympathy and support—G. I. P.

The G. F. S. are having an attractive Sale on May 4th in the Club Rooms, Synod Building. Plain and fancy Work, with useful and dainty Aprons, and a Pantry Stall. Teas will be served.—Apr 17, 21 is Levald Krassin, Bolshevik Minister of Foreign Trade, who was opposed to Bolshevism in 1917 but joined the Communist party after Lenin's victory. His first assignment, that of organizing the transportation system of Russia, ended in utter failure but his efforts along other lines, particularly in securing a trade agreement with England were more successful. He is 45 years old, an electrical engineer by profession and has been referred to as the only real business man of the Soviet government.

ADOLPH JOFFE, "signer of peace treaties," headed the Soviet delegation which carried on the long peace negotiations with Poland during the fall and winter of 1920-21. He goes to Genoa as Premier of Soviet Turkestan. He was born in the Crimea, of Jewish parents, 45 years ago. His father accumulated a fortune as carrier of mails in road wagons before the days of railroads.

DR. JACOB JANSON, who will represent the Soviet Far Eastern Republic, is a Lett, considered obedient to the Central Executive Committee. He was sent to China to replace M. Krasnashchikov after the latter had been there six months and developed tendencies which the Soviet government considered too independent and also too favorable to the United States. He formally resided in New York, under the name of Tobbinson.

ALEXANDER SHELLAPNIKOFF, Soviet Commissioner of Labor and an old leader of the Petrograd labor movement, is a metal worker, and one of the three trade union leaders appointed to the delegation. He is well known in Russia for his position as leader of the workmen's opposition which nearly caused a split in the Communist Party in 1920. Twice he has been given minor positions in the Murman district and at Gornel in order to keep him away from Moscow.

CHRISTIAN RAKOVSKY, President of the Ukraine Republic, a Rumanian Jew, was expelled from his country as a Socialist agitator and went to Russia in time to join the 1917 uprising. He speaks several languages including French, German, Turkish and Russian. He is regarded as intelligent, ambitious and cultured.

M. KARIMOV, President of the Soviet Azerbaijan Republic, will represent the four Caucasus republics. He is a Tartar Mussulman, 55 years old and very popular at home. Until 40 years of age he was a country school teacher and then studied medicine at the University of Odessa. His entrance into politics was as a leader of the Persian revolution of 1908-09. He endeared himself to the people of the Azerbaijan republic when he repeatedly refused to sign warrants for the 5,000 or 6,000 sentences of death carried out by the Cheka at Baku after the Azerbaijan republic was taken back into Soviet Russia more than a year ago.

The delegation is completed by M. Litvinoff, Soviet Minister for Foreign Affairs; M. Vorovsky, Soviet representative in Rome; M. Midivani, representing Soviet Georgia; M. Bekzadian, representing Soviet Armenia; M. Hadjief, representing Soviet Bokhara; M. Roudzadack, and M. Salronoff, Trade Union Leaders.

There will be answers to five questions in the B. I. S. Club Rooms on Easter Wednesday night. YOU must know them.—apr15,21,22

It's Flavor that Makes the Meal!

And the sauces that the Libby chefs have adapted for you give flavor to the simplest dishes.

It may be eggs, or macaroni, or a cheap cut of meat—an unusual and delicious sauce will make it something you eat with delight and remember with pleasure—because of its flavor.

LIBBY'S CATCHUP and CHILI SAUCE are made from red, ripe tomatoes, grown in the fertile soil of Kent County, Ontario, picked when they are mellowed by the sunshine of long summer days, then rushed to the nearby Libby kitchen.

Here in sunny rooms the tomatoes are cooked with fragrant spices, onions, sugar and the best vinegar—cooked for hours until all the flavors are blended through and through.

Now the sauce is ready to give an appetizing relish to your steaks and chops, or a new piquancy to the meat gravy you serve with your roasts.

Your grocer has, or can get you, Libby's Catchup or Chili Sauce. Use it with your cold meat teas and note how quickly the second helping is necessary.

The delightful flavor of Libby's Beans is due largely to the wonderful Sauce prepared by the skilled chefs. Have you tried them?

Upon His Honor as Minister of the Gospel REV. W. A. THOMPSON WRITES OF DR. F. G. KINSMAN'S HEART TABLETS.

I had heart trouble severely for fifteen years and had many doctors to treat me with no discernible effect. I had become so low that I could scarcely walk fifty steps. At night I was troubled with fluttering of the heart, and by no means had a night's rest for that length of time. I had pains most excruciating and could not lie on my left side even for a moment. I tried five boxes of your Heart Tablets and can now truthfully say that I am well. I am a Minister of the Gospel and upon my word as such, I believe I could not have lived had it not been for your remedy. I am not, generally speaking, willing to give testimonials, but I fully owe this or more to you as owner of the Heart Tablets.
