JOHN SMITHSON'S SUDDEN DEATH

Taken Ill at the Schiller House and Died After Being Removed to His Home in a Cab.

John Lane Smithson, who arrived in this city from Minneapolis two weeks ago, died at the residence of his brother, 162 Bolton-avenue, last night under circumstances which Coroner W. H. B. Atkins thinks justifies the issuance of a warrant for an inquest into the cause of death.

Since arriving in the city Smithson has been engaged in fruit at the St. Lawrence Market, and boarding with his brother. He left the house Monday morning and did not come back to the Schiller House. He had been drinking during the day.

Yesterday evening he was brought home in a cab from the Schiller House and died at 5.10.

A world reporter called at the Schiller House in Adelaide-street east last night. Here it was learned that Smithson had appeared at about 6 o'clock, apparently under the influence of liquor. He had been drinking during the day.

Mr. Smithson was taken to his room in the rear of the bar and set down at a table. A drink was called for, and Smithson took one of ginger-beer. He then rested his head upon his hands and seemed to go to sleep.

He was taken to his room at 11, and the bartender became alarmed. He had thought Smithson was very drunk, and calling a waiter to his brother's residence. Smithson's new arrival at the cab, and went with his uncle to the house on Bolton-street. Smithson's companion visited with him until he was taken to the cab, and then left. No one around the hotel knew the name of the man who accompanied Smithson to the hotel.

MR. BALS MAKES A STATEMENT

East Toronto's Treasurer Explains the Ap parent Shortage.

At last night's meeting of the East Toronto Council, the treasurer, Mr. Bals, made a statement regarding the apparent shortage of funds.

Mr. Bals explained that the shortage was due to a number of factors, including the payment of salaries and the cost of maintaining the council's operations.

He stated that the council had a surplus of funds at the end of the previous year, but that this surplus had been used to pay for the council's expenses during the current year.

Mr. Bals also mentioned that the council had received a number of donations from the community, which had helped to offset some of the council's expenses.

He concluded his statement by stating that the council was confident that it would be able to meet its obligations for the remainder of the year.

Mr. Bals' statement was well received by the council members, and they agreed to continue to work together to ensure the council's financial stability.

The council meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock, with Mr. Bals' statement being the last item on the agenda.

Mr. Bals' statement was a significant contribution to the council's understanding of its financial situation, and it is hoped that it will help to prevent a similar shortage in the future.

Vast Crowds of People.

TORONTO IN A WHIRLWIND OF EXCITEMENT.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS GONE TO THE WINDS.

Scenes Unparalleled in the History of the City.

The Army & Navy Stores surrounded upon all sides.

Thousands of excited people. Terrific struggles to gain entrance. The streets blocked and traffic impeded.

On Saturday the Army & Navy stores of this city were the scene of the wildest confusion.

It had been announced that the third great sale of the $67,000 worth of Surplus Clothing would start at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

But long before the hour appointed vast numbers of people had already congregated in the three big stores of the company, and by ten o'clock the space in front of the King and Yonge streets was densely packed with eager and anxious buyers.

An hour later and the situation was becoming serious, pedestrians were compelled to walk on the road or run the risk of injury in passing through the crowd.

By three o'clock vehicular traffic was entirely impeded and the authorities began to take action.

A posse of police were detailed to clear the way, but their efforts were useless, the crowd held by this time become greatly augmented and nothing but the most extreme measures could have effect.

A rumor gained credence that the Queen's Own and Royal Grenadiers had been ordered out—this information had a decided effect and eventually succeeded in dispersing the crowds.

It was only a rare, however, but it answered the purpose and by six o'clock all excitement had subsided on the outside.

Inside the buildings, however, the scene was exciting in the extreme and it was with difficulty that order could be maintained.

Such was the interest and enthusiasm displayed by buyers at the LOW prices on every garment of the surplus stock.

To-Morrow.

The firm announces the following great values, and every effort will be made to keep the crowds within bounds.
