CROWN CASE IS FINISHED

This Morning's Session in Collins Trial Was Brief

CHIEF CLARK ON STAND

Mr. McKeown Says Defence Will Call No Witnesses-- Court Will Sit Tonight to Hear Argument and Case Will Finish Tomorrow.

HOPEWELL CAPE, via Hillsboro, N. B., Jan. 23 (Special).--At this morning's session the crown closed its case in the Collins murder trial.

Two witnesses were examined, Chief Clerk of St. John, and Fred F. Burton, of Albert.

Chief Clark told about the incidents which followed the capture of Collins, and identified the telephone calls in court as the same one which was handed to him in Dean's hotel, at Musquash.

Mr. Burton, a house and carriage painter, painted the closet doors in Father McArdy's house during the winter of 1903. He described the composition of the color and gave as his opinion that if one were striking an axe into the door in warm weather some of the paint would adhere to it.

Mr. McKeown said that the defence proposed to call no witnesses in the case. He asked the court and counsel what they thought of section 66 of the Criminal Code, which gives counsel for the defence the right to examine the jury list with a right of reply where they summon no witnesses.

His honor ruled adversely to the request, and the court took recess at 11.15 till two o'clock.

Rebuttal evidence was heard and the case adjourned till 5 o'clock.

Judge Gregory announced that a night session will be held tonight to allow counsel to finish their addresses. The case will be finished tomorrow.

THE CHARGE IS CRUELTY

Donaldson Line is Summoned to Court

BY THE S. P. C. A.

Charge that Donaldson Line Employees Abused a Stallion While Landing it From S. S. Marina-- Evidence Was Heard and Case Adjourned.

The case of the S. P. C. A. against the Donaldson line for cruelty to a Clydesdale stallion while it was being landed from the steamer Maria, at the McLeod wharf, occupied considerable time at this morning's session of the police court.

J. King Kelley appeared for the prosecution and Edmund S. Ritchie acted for the defence.

John Miller, the cattle foreman of the Donaldson line, against whom the information was laid, pleaded not guilty.

The witnesses examined were S. P. C. A. Secretary S. Merritt Wetmore, Milton Porter, of Simcoe, Ontario; William Mason, Duke Fox, William F. Fox.

In the evidence it developed that on Monday afternoon Secretary Wetmore went to the McLeod wharf and saw the stallion referred to lying on the ice and snow at the edge of the wharf. He had measured the opening in the vessel through which the horses were ashore, and found it to be 5 feet 5 1/2 inches high, one inch shorter than the stallion. The animal was taken later to the shed and veterinarians were unable to state just what was wrong.

It also appears from testimony that the animal was beaten and probed in an effort to get it through the opening, which it is alleged, was too low, considering the position of the gang plank.

Rebuttal evidence was heard and the case adjourned till 5 o'clock.

CONSIDERABLE DISORDER AT TRIAL OF HARRY THAW

STARTED THIS MORNING

Clashes Between Police and Newspaper Men Enlivened Proceedings Before Court Opened--Countess of Yarmouth and Thaw's Wife and Mother in the Court Room--The Line of Defence.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.--The trial of Harry K. Thaw, for killing Stanford White, will begin today before Justice Fitzgerald in the criminal branch of the supreme court. Two hundred talesmen have been summoned and it is expected that it will take a week to fill the jury box.

Criminal lawyers generally have taken an interest in the case, and it is their opinion that the unwritten law and emotional insanity will play a large part in the efforts of Thaw's lawyers. This being so, it is thought that Thaw's counsel will endeavor to obtain only such jurymen as would be influenced by the plea indicated. Thaw is said to have been studying up criminal trials during the last few days. It is understood that he intends to take an active part in the election of a jury.

Thaw will be seated beside his counsel, at the head of which will be Mr. Hart, Mr. Deltus, the California lawyer, will play an important part later in Thaw's defence. On the prosecution side there will be District Attorney Jerome and Assistant District Attorney Garvan. The witness will attend mostly to the selection of the jurors, while Mr. Jerome will cross-examine the defendant's witnesses and conduct the direct examination of most of the people's witnesses.

Of Thaw's family, there will be in court his mother, his wife, his two sisters, Mrs. Carnegie and the Countess of Yarmouth, and his brother Edward. The Thaws will occupy seats behind the defendant.

It has been suggested that women be not allowed in the court room and few appeared. The quarrels with the Thaw family, and those that are there on duty for the newspapers.

Great preparations have been made for the trial. A telegraph company has strung wires into the court house and telegraph office has been erected temporarily on the main floor.

Many out of town newspapers will have reporters present and even London and Paris have sent correspondents, so widespread is the interest in the remarkable tragedy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.--Scenes approaching absolute disorder attended the opening of the trial of Harry K. Thaw in this city today on the charge of murdering Stanford White. Most of the clashes were between reporters and correspondents and the police.

Of the newspaper men there were perhaps 200 and there was a policeman for each. The great squad of bluecoats was commanded by a police inspector. Only about 50 newspaper writers finally were admitted, the remainder of the space in the court room being reserved for the 200 talesmen, summoned on the special jury panel.

The trial before Justice Fitzgerald, in part on trial terms for the supreme court, was scheduled for 10.30 a. m. Before that time the police lines had been extended for the corridor adjacent to the court room to include the entire first floor of the criminal courts building. When the newspaper men had been disposed of there were more police than any other in the neighborhood of the big building. The public had been warned in advance not to attempt to get into the court room and few appeared.

IMPROVEMENT AT SAND POINT

Shelter for Longshoremen and Employees Advocated

THAT OIL SHACK

Where Roy Nobles Lost His Life--Citizens Say it Should Never Have Been Built of Wood--Should Have Been Fireproof.

The shocking fatality at Sand Point last night, when Roy Nobles, a well known young man was burned to death in a shack, was the principle topic of conversation on the streets today.

Attention has been directed to the fact that the shack should never have been allowed to have been built of wood. After the disastrous fire at the Point a few years ago it was decided that all oils should be kept in a shed outside the building, and the lamps filled there. Accordingly this shack was built as a point about midway between No. 3 and 4 sheds and the elevator, but instead of building it of brick or sheet iron or other fireproof material it was built of wood, which when it became soaked with oil, burned like a torch when the fire was applied to it. It is also argued that the door of the building should have been kept locked, and no one allowed in but the man whose duty it was to be there.

A prominent west side resident speaking of the matter this morning said that while the young man's life might not have been saved, even though the shed had been of brick or other material, yet it should have been made as near fireproof as possible on account of the valuable property in that vicinity. It is understood that when the shed is rebuilt it will be made of fireproof material.

A shelter for the use of the longshoremen and freight handlers, where they get wet and could eat their meals, is also advocated. At present the men have no place to which they can go if they are cold, and in eating their lunches they have to sit around on bags or boxes in the sheds, no matter how cold the days may be.

The Telegraph and Times will gladly acknowledge subscriptions. This afternoon the mayor will again accompany Hamilton MacCarthy, secretary, on a visit to some of the citizens in the interests of the Champlain monument fund.

This morning Rev. W. C. Gaynor accompanied Mr. MacCarthy and several establishments were visited but as the proprietors were absent practically nothing was done.

Mr. MacCarthy was in consultation with the mayor this morning and a list was made up of those who would be visited this afternoon.

It is probable that within a few days an effort will be made to induce the provincial government to make a grant towards the project.

SWETTENHAM'S EXPLANATION HAS REACHED THE GOVERNMENT

LONDON, Jan. 23.--The government has heard from Governor Swettenham of Jamaica concerning the incident involving the withdrawal of the American warships from Kingston. Absolute secrecy is maintained with the colonial office but the fact was elicited that during the night a good many telegrams were received from Swettenham, some of which dealt with the incident. These it is understood confirm the main features of the affair already published. It is not the present intention of the colonial office to make the telegrams public, the official view being that it is a personal matter between a government department and an official which is properly adjustable between them, and the authorities incline to the view that general interest will be best served by having the replies appear in a blue book at some distant period, in the meantime being dealt with through the usual diplomatic channels for intercourse between powers and power.

At the foreign office it was admitted that there were telegrams from Swettenham relative to the incident but it was added they are not regarded as being the governor's reply to the request of the Earl of Elgin for his explanation. The foreign office officials say no statement can be made, as they desire to have the facts before shaping their course.

A Canadian Opinion

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.--(Special).--In the house today W. F. MacLean (S. York) on a motion to go into committee of ways and means said: "I take the opportunity of this motion to say for myself, perhaps for many of my fellow Canadians, that I regard certain incidents of the Jamaica earthquake as a distinct loss to Imperial prestige on this continent a thing all Canadians took pride in. The British naval stations on the Atlantic are no more. There is a lesson in it for us. Intimations were given us some time ago. We may have failed to apprehend them although they were distinct. The lesson is to have a care for ourselves. If we are to be continental in our aspirations we must have means of expressing it ourselves, even as our neighbors have. We may yet find need for a more Canadian flag on a Canadian ship in seas that are as much ours as theirs."

LAST NIGHT'S FATALITY

Coroner's Jury Viewed Body This Morning--Inquest Starts Tomorrow.

The inquest in connection with the death of Roy Nobles, who was burned to death at Sand Point last night, was begun before Coroner Kenney this morning. The following jurymen were empanelled: J. Leslie Smith (foreman), John Leonard, Henry Rowley, John M. Christopher, Fred Fullerton, George Reid, Samuel McChelland.

The jurymen viewed the body at Beatley's undertaking establishment and also viewed the scene of the fire. An adjournment was then made until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

Coroner Kenney gave permission for the removal of Mr. Nobles' body to Chamberlain's undertaking rooms.

The four rinks of St. Andrew's curlers who played at St. Stephen last evening returned home at noon today. The local men won the match by 7 points, the score being 69 for St. John and 62 for St. Stephen. An error in the dispatch which appears in the sporting columns on page 7 gives the result as being in favor of St. Stephen by 2 points. The error was in crediting Skip Klein of St. Stephen with 19 points instead of 10.

A very pleasant surprise was experienced last evening by Miss Clara McGow, when a number of her friends and fellow workers in White's restaurant, King street, called on her at her home, Paradise Row, and presented her with a handsome case of silverware and an address. Miss McGow has severed her connection with White's and tomorrow will become the wife of Arthur Cassidy, of Brookville. Her many friends will wish her every happiness.

A special meeting of the Y. M. S. of St. Joseph will be held this evening to discuss the proposal of entering a team in the local league. In all probability the society will enter a team.

The outward cargo of the steamship Manchester Trader, now on her way to Manchester from this port, is valued as follows: Cotton goods, $61,298; foreign goods, $23,287; total, $84,585.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

THAT JAMAICA JOKE.

The announcement by Governor Swettenham that he was only joking in his letter to Admiral Davis has caused a profound sense of relief, although several prominent persons have gone off their heads and had to be confined in lunatic asylums as a result of their efforts to see the joke.

Mr. Peter Binks, discussing the question this morning, said that he could quite appreciate the governor's humor, because the governor had lived long in the east, and he (Mr. Binks) had read of one eastern potentate who was in the habit of calling one of his subjects before him, cutting off his head with one blow of his sword, and then assuming the dejected person that it was all a joke. No doubt Governor Swettenham was familiar with the pleasure of this nature, and had modified it to suit the conditions and opportunities of his own less absolute authority.

the cause of Governor Swettenham's action is not credited on Prince William and Water streets, or at the Club.

THE SNOWSTORM.

Director Hutchinson informed the Times reporter this morning that the meteorological department was in no way responsible for last night's snowstorm. It was entirely unexpected, and he had no idea when the snow came from, as the west had sent in a requisition weeks ago for all that could be secured, in order to reach maritime provinces, who are rushing to the prairies, to stay at home in the east and be comfortable. Director Hutchinson said that he was personally pleased, however, to see the snow, as Miss Birdie McWhat had kept the telephone busy day after day enquiring when there would be enough snow for her snowmobile party. Birdie, he said, was quite vexed that he could give her no encouragement.

E. TENNYSON SMITH OPENS CAMPAIGN IN WOODSTOCK

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Jan. 22.--(Special).--A seven days' campaign against the liquor traffic was opened in the opera house by E. Tennyson Smith, the temperance orator, last night before a crowded house, and will conclude with the Trial of Alcohol in the same building on Monday night. Rev. Dr. Kierstead, pastor of the United Baptist church was chairman and introduced the lecturer, who recently conducted a campaign in Rockford, Maine, in the church of which Rev. Mr. Kierstead was pastor.

Mayor Munro welcomed the distinguished lecturer to the town. He said he was proud to be there as the representative of the town to extend a welcome to the world renowned temperance lecturer, E. Tennyson Smith, who stands alone and far above any such lecturer, who ever came here.

Mr. Smith congratulated the town on having a temperance mayor. He said he never feels like a stranger in any town for he is always favored by having many friends. War was declared on the liquor traffic and if he did not hurt somebody there would be no war. It would not be his fault if he did not hurt somebody in Woodstock. He told of his work throughout the world.

He explained his crusade in St. John and Fredericton. In the latter city the temperance people were downcast before his visit; now the whole city was stirred and $500 had been raised for Scott Act purposes, notwithstanding the claim of the liquor traffic that it had been secured by a scabby rope and of a beam over which it hung, coupled with marks on the victim's neck indicated that he had been strung up to the rafter for a time. Apparently a blow in the head with a hatchet had ended his sufferings. It is thought that the murderers secured the booty they sought as no money was found.

...That... Preposterous ..Will..

BY L. G. MOBERLY.

Mrs. Bedworth had informed him of her invitation to Miranda, and although he was as averse to the proposed arrangement as Stella had been, he quickly understood that his future mother-in-law was not a lady to be turned from her purpose when she once had made up her mind. After the first remonstrance, he had therefore refrained from arguing the point with Mrs. Bedworth, but he continued to abhor the idea that his beautiful and adored Stella should be brought into close contact with a girl of Miranda's class, and that he should be present when the servant girl, as the contemptuously called her, was first introduced to the household, gave him supreme annoyance.

Mrs. Bedworth went forward to greet the newcomer, with outstretched hands, and a cordial smile of welcome. "I am so pleased to see you, Miss Hume," she said, "you are just in time for tea."

Miranda stood awkwardly by the door, her eyes wide with surprise not unmixed with fear, for she had never even imagined, much less seen, any room in the least like this dainty, luxurious drawing-room. Not only had the fact of following the parlor-maid upstairs, and being announced, given her an overwhelming sensation of embarrassment, but her new surroundings, and her new clothes, both helped to enhance the awkwardness.

By nature the girl was not in the least shy, but she did not feel herself in the least at ease in the drawing-room. She looked at the white blouse which Madame Laura had insisted on slipping off, and her face grew red with embarrassment and increased her nervousness, and a tearful smile swept over her to run back to the door, and her unbecomingly unattractive dress. Mrs. Manning's maid of all work.

But Miranda was not to be so easily deterred. She had a certain amount of backbone, and she was determined to see what she could do. She looked at the white blouse which Madame Laura had insisted on slipping off, and her face grew red with embarrassment and increased her nervousness, and a tearful smile swept over her to run back to the door, and her unbecomingly unattractive dress.

Miranda started as if she had been struck, and she looked over her face to the very roots of her bright hair. Alan, being kindly heart, and of sympathetic disposition, saw and understood her embarrassment, and setting aside his annoyance, came forward and put his hand on her shoulder.

"How do you do, Miss Hume?" he said gently when she shot his proffered hand with awkward vigor. "I think we are both grandchildren of the same gentleman, though we have not met before."

The gentleness of his tone touched the girl, to whom all that was kindly invariably appealed; she lifted her brown eyes and looked up at him with a curiously wistful glance that made him think of a dog he had once cared for.

"I'm sorry the old gentleman went and behaved so to you," she said simply; "to my way of thinking it was playing 'lout' down to treat you the way he did."

"The gentleman's old shyness diminished, and she was her natural self."

"Oh well," Dayrell answered lightly and with nervous dread of discussing a difficult situation, "we mustn't worry about that now, must we? We won't hear Mr. Hume any grudge. Perhaps he had a good reason for his conduct."

Miranda scanned the young man's face gravely.

"Perhaps he had," she said, "but he didn't oughter do it the way he did; and I'm glad I've got the chance to tell you so."

Something in her straightforward speech pleased Alan, even though her manner of speaking offended his sense of refinement, and her appearance, despite Madame Laura's best efforts, made him say in his own mind—

"Poor little slavey."

STREET SUIT OF BROWN CLOTH.

An attractive model for a dressy little street suit is here pictured, the design being practical for either cloth or velvet. The skirt was a gored circular one, and was cut in ankle length and trimmed with strappings of inch-wide sat silk in color. The coat had a position back, which was held in place by the fitted girdle of the cloth, which was, however, separate from the jacket except across the center back. Broad and buttoned were also used to trim the jacket, the fancy collar showing inset pieces of cream-white cloth heavily braided with brown velvet. The little vest was also braided in brown, and the undersleeves of heavy white lace were gathered in above the elbow by a band of brood velvet. A ribbon tied in a bow at the outer arm.

happens suddenly forgotten, she went up to Stella, saying quickly—

"You're the young lady, ain't you? I'm Miranda Hume, only most folks calls me Molly."

"There was something singularly disarming about her frank smile, and the admiration which looked so plainly out of her brown eyes could not fail to appeal to Stella's vanity. Her own expression became more cordial; she held out her hand to the strange guest."

"Yes—I am Stella Bedworth," she said. "How do you do, Miss Hume? I am sorry I was out when you arrived."

"You mustn't think things like that," Miranda answered cheerfully; "you and me, we'll get chances to know each other—if you ain't vexed to have me here." She added shyly, her keen eyes fixed on the other's lovely changing face.

"Vexed?" Stella stammered, and hesitated. "You mustn't think things like that," Miranda answered cheerfully; "you and me, we'll get chances to know each other—if you ain't vexed to have me here." She added shyly, her keen eyes fixed on the other's lovely changing face.

"There was a wistfulness in her voice which touched a kindly chord in Stella's nature. Her character was vain and shallow, and her upbringing had not diminished these faults, whilst adding selfishness to them, yet there was a strain of kindness in her, to which Miranda's words appealed."

"I hope you will be very happy with us," Stella said, more warmly than she ever dreamt she could have spoken to the other girl; "will you come to my room to-night? I'll show you my things."

"I'll take you to my room," she said, "and I'll show you my things. It is pleasant and cool, and one feels more comfortable."

"I expect Madame Laura has made you one or two very pretty evening dresses," she said easily; "she is very clever about dinner gowns."

"She said I'd got to have 'em for parties," Miranda answered; "but I thought I'd wear them if I ever went to a dance or something 'o that. You don't never mean you put on them grand things every evening?"

"I will come and see what Madame Laura has made you," Stella said pleasantly—clothes possessed an immense attraction for her, and her tone became increasingly friendly—and then I can help you to choose what to wear to-night. We do dress—change, I mean—every evening. It is just a custom."

"There's lots 'o things to learn about 'em," a lady, ain't there?" Miranda answered, with again that wistful note in her voice, "and me knowin' nothin'."

THE TECHNICAL NEEDS OF CANADA

Subject Introduced At An Important Dinner in Montreal.

(Montreal Gazette.) Technical education, and the conversion of waste matter into profitable by-products, were the subjects of consideration last night at the meeting of the Society of Chemical Industry, in which representatives of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association took part.

The executive committee brought before the meeting for consideration the co-operation of the Society with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association for the appointment by the federal government of a royal commission to report on the best method for establishing a comprehensive national system of technical education to provide Canadian industry and commerce with trained assistants from amongst the Canadian people.

A motion to this effect was carried towards the close of the meeting. Professor Rutan's address centred chiefly of an experiment which had been made in the distillation of sawdust. D. H. Huseman, of Baltimore, induced W. G. Edwards & Co. of Ottawa and Rockland, to build one unit of a plant for the economic destructive distillation of sawdust.

A discussion ensued, in which the project of briquetting the sawdust had its supporters, though it was stated that at present this process is rather too expensive.

Charles Hazen spoke of attempts made in Michigan to convert sawdust into alcohol acid. He believed that several plants in that state were at present making profitable use of pine sawdust.

Then the theme changed to technical education, in favor of which vigorous speeches were made by J. P. Murray and by Col. Burland. The latter thought that the working classes were anxious for technical education. "It is not," he said, "the college-bred end of manufactures that is deficient. It is the technically trained working men that are difficult to obtain. In many cases, to get a good foreman, you have to go to the United States or Germany, or to Great Britain."

Both the representatives of the Manufacturers' Association and the members of the society were at one in their expressions of opinion that the matter of technical education should be represented clearly and strongly to the government.

At the monthly meeting of the Free Kindergarten yesterday afternoon, plans were considered for holding a series of monthly entertainments in February, March and April, to aid the fund to carry on the work. The entertainment given last Saturday in the Germain street Baptist church was reported to have netted nearly $40. The result was considered very satisfactory and to warrant a further effort on similar lines during the next few months.

HAMILTON MacCARTHY AT THE EVERY DAY CLUB

He Gives an Address and Signs the Membership Roll—Citizen Sends $25 to Chairman.

Hamilton MacCarthy, the designer of the Champlain monument, accompanied J. N. Harvey to the Every Day Club last evening, and to an audience of men and boys that crowded the rooms, gave a very interesting talk. He spoke in high appreciation of the club and its work, and was confident similar ones would be started in other cities. He was delighted with the order maintained by so many boys, and boys that crowded the room, gave a very interesting talk.

He spoke in a very interesting way to the club and its work, and was confident similar ones would be started in other cities. He was delighted with the order maintained by so many boys, and boys that crowded the room, gave a very interesting talk.

Other numbers on last evening's program were: Funny sketch, McCluskey and Lynch; flute selection, Mr. Stokes; songs, Messrs. Seago, Wetmore and McNeill and Master Callahan's funny stories; W. McAvour; dancing, C. McFadden and George Johnson; recitation, W. Cummings; piano solo, Joseph L. Molloy; trich singing by the boys. More than thirty new members signed the roll. The chairman yesterday received the following letter from a gentleman who asked that his name be not given:

A. M. Bolding, Chairman: Dear Sir:—I have been deeply interested in the Every Day Club, and feel that the work it is doing is of the highest importance to the community, deserving general support. I enclose my check for $25.

Just like purgatory to be started out of a sound sleep by the thumping of your heart. Don't be scared, it's only the result of acute indigestion which ten drops of Nervine cures instantly. Heaps of worry and sickness saved by keeping Nervine handy. For stomach and bowel troubles it's a wonder worker. In sick headaches and minor ills, no doctor can give better advice than just "Nervine." For general family use a 25c. bottle of Nervine is the best; try it for any ache, pain or bruise and you'll never use anything else.

BREAK IN LATH MARKET

Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 22.—The feature of the lumber market during the past few days has been a great slump in the price of laths, which have fallen off 15 cents to $1 per thousand on the New York price. Laths have been running at from $4 to $4.50 per thousand, delivered in New York, about $1.25 per thousand being allowed for freight and duty from this section.

CHAMPLAIN MONUMENT

Owing to rush of business, Mayor Sears was unable to accompany Hamilton MacCarthy on his visit to the citizens yesterday and Mr. MacCarthy spent most of his time in lengthy conferences with Rev. O. Raymond and Rev. W. C. Gaynor, regarding the project of the Champlain monument. With them every point of the scheme, the character of the design, the site, the manner of raising money, etc., was gone over. The desirability of taking the various banking institutions to contribute was discussed.

Today Father Gaynor will accompany Mr. MacCarthy and a number of prominent citizens will be interviewed. In addition to those already mentioned, J. N. Harvey has promised to contribute.

Mr. MacCarthy said last evening that four sites had been proposed by those interested. One at the head of King street, where the W. C. F. U. drinking fountain now stands; one in King street, where Germain crosses it; one in Market square, and the fourth in Queen square.

Those advocating the King square site claimed that it is the most central. The site in King street, if adopted, is looked on as a compromise between the King square and Market square sites. On sentiment, with a desire to have the monument placed on the spot where Champlain stepped ashore, a number favor the Market square site. Queen square, it is claimed, would make a very beautiful location, but would not be as central as the others. In connection with this proposed site a pretty story was told by Mr. MacCarthy last evening. He said he was passing through Queen square yesterday and asked a little girl about seven years of age some information concerning locations of certain streets.

The girl seemed to be very bright and intelligent and Mr. MacCarthy talked with her a while. During the conversation the remark: "This is a beautiful square, is it not?" Mr. MacCarthy replied, "yes, how would it do as a site for the Champlain monument?" Her answer came quickly, "Oh, yes! we all hope it will be here." Mr. MacCarthy said he did not know what party she represented.

"Nowhere," said the architect "have I encountered a discouraging word. All are looking forward to the monument being an embellishment to the city, no matter where it may be placed. Look at every American city of any size. They all have monuments representing the beginning of the city, something to look up to and be proud of. The old country cities, London, Edinburgh and others are filled with monuments."

On Sunday the funeral of Harris Estey a widely known and much respected farmer of Carleton county, was held at Jacktown. Mr. Estey was about sixty-five years of age, and unmarried. For many years he had carried on farming in Jacktown and had been very successful. He had been ill for more than a year, and succumbed to Bright's disease. He leaves one brother, William, of Jacktown, and four sisters, Mrs. John Hopkins, of Jacktown; Mrs. Kitchen, of Presque Isle (Me.); and Mrs. Wm. Sippell, of Hartland; and Miss Elizabeth, who resided with him.

EXPERT IN MONTREAL WANTS CHEAPER GAS
 Engineer of Forty Years Experience in England and France Says Seventy-Five Cents is High Enough Price—Less Than Fifty Cents in English Towns.

(Montreal Witness.)
 Thomas Boag, a gas engineer, with forty years' experience in the construction and management of gas works in England and France, was seen by a Witness representative yesterday afternoon, when he made some very enlightening observations on the question of the day. He came to Montreal from France just over a year ago, and is as yet unable to understand the wondrous ways of the city fathers.

"I am astounded," he said, "that aldermen should go on their knees, before the Light, Heat and Power Company in the manner they have done, asking what will be done for them. They are not to be made like that. For the life of me I cannot understand it! Things are not done like that either in England or in France. In matters of this kind the city council would dictate the terms, if there was to be any dictation at all; certainly not all classes of people, before the company seeking a renewal of the contract would not come to reasonable terms, other corporations would be invited to tender."

"As a taxpayer, and a consumer of gas for cooking, I protest against the high prices proposed for both services in the submitted new contracts. The question the aldermen are considering is quite simple, especially as regards gas. There is no mystery today as to what it costs to make and deliver one thousand feet of gas in a city such as Montreal, where it would be consumed by all classes, rich and poor, if sold at a reasonable price."

"What is a reasonable price? Well, seventy-five cents per thousand feet would allow for a good margin of profit to an enterprising company, I am convinced. I understand that only about one-fifth of the householders now use gas. But if you had seventy-five cents per thousand feet, the demand would increase so quickly that the company would have to double or triple its plant. There is a splendid field here for cheap gas, but the company do not want to supply it. It would compete with their electricity."

"Therefore there is no doubt in your mind regarding the wisdom of separating the two services?"

"Not the slightest," replied Mr. Boag. "I read Ald. Ward's remarks in the Witness on Thursday evening, and he puts the case very pointedly. We must have gas seventy-five cents per thousand feet, separate and distinct from the electric supply concern. I am not in favor of competition in the supply of gas to a city such as Montreal. It is very doubtful if that would result in benefiting the consumer."

"But in regard to electric light and power?"

"Let us have competition by all means," said Mr. Boag emphatically. "But, not on the conditions that the submitted contract proposes," he hastened to add. "They propose that all wires should be put underground, and that the company should put down their own conduits. They will put down conduits only for their own requirements, and leave a liberal return on the capital legitimately—I emphasize that word—invested in the gas supply."

"The company would produce and deliver one thousand feet of gas of sixteen candle power at seventy-five cents per thousand feet, and the electric light company would produce and deliver one thousand feet of light at fifty cents per thousand feet. Mr. Boag does not favor the proposal made in some quarters to municipalize the gas service."

SOME LABOR QUESTIONS

No. 1—MIKE, THE MILLMAN.

Prof.—So you have been at the lumber mill for the last ten years. Is that right?

Mike—Yes, sir, and I like it. I would soon be able to buy lots of land. I would soon be able to buy lots of land. I would soon be able to buy lots of land.

Prof.—Most of the lots in north end are owned by just a few people. I would like to see if you would help me get off my taxes. You see just after I got the bill last October I had the millmen to help me. I would like to see if you would help me get off my taxes. You see just after I got the bill last October I had the millmen to help me.

Prof.—How much was it?

Mike—$100.00.

Prof.—$400.00 at $1.50—$7.50, and poll tax $2.00 $2.00 you have to pay for 1906. Oh! Mike, how I would like to pound you. Just take a shillab and give it to you.

Mike—Why, why, what for?

Prof.—Don't you remember three years ago, when the millmen got a list asking them to attend a meeting to get this income tax taken off and not one of them came to the meeting? They let it all go. I would like to see if you would help me get off my taxes. You see just after I got the bill last October I had the millmen to help me.

Mike—That was the hard part of it, but I could have saved quite a bit, if the old people had kept hearty.

Prof.—I remember the old man well. How he liked to tell me about O'Connell and Shield. He told me that as a little boy he used to stare and wonder at them. Many an argument had I with your father on church and state, about which he thought I had all the college tricks. But he floored me on the saints. Do you remember how he used to sing "Kitty Coleraine"? But how did you get hurt?

Mike—I was working at the edge when a deal struck me on the back. I was laid up a month in bed. The fellow next to me was a new hand. The boys told me that he had checked the gear badly and his head fell over his head and hit me.

Prof.—What did the boss do for you?

Mike—He was very kind, sir. He came to see me often, paid all the doctor's bills. He offers me work as a watchman as soon as I want it. But the wife is not well, and I can't go back yet, until she gets well. Besides, I don't think I can stand the idea of not working hard. Oh! I'll get over this crick soon and then I'll get my $1.85 again. I had a bit saved, and I wanted to buy a house and lot three years ago, but do you know that company won't sell any land. Here they have hundreds of lots and I wanted just one. They would rent at 50 cents a foot, but wouldn't sell. Can't they be made to sell? You don't know what a comfort it is to own your own house and lot.

Prof.—I am afraid you and I will return to dust before the people here will pass that law. It is a shame to tie up the land that way. Fifty cents a foot! That means $20.00 a year on a 40 foot lot. The

DRAWING TO ITS CLOSE
 More Witnesses Examined in Collins Trial Yesterday—Crown Case A Most In.

HOPEWELL CAPE, Jan. 23.—Detective Killen continued his evidence in the Collins case yesterday. He told of securing the pair of reins from Frederick Daley. This was on the same day the value was found. Returning to a description of his search of Mr. McAulay's house on Nov. 7, he said he searched the priest's bedroom, looking under the bed and bureau and going through the bureau drawers. He also described his search of the collar and wood pit.

James Doyle told of assisting Detective Killen in the search for the axe. In searching the Collins case yesterday. He told of securing the pair of reins from Frederick Daley. This was on the same day the value was found. Returning to a description of his search of Mr. McAulay's house on Nov. 7, he said he searched the priest's bedroom, looking under the bed and bureau and going through the bureau drawers. He also described his search of the collar and wood pit.

At this point Judge Gregory resumed his examination of Mr. Skinner. Dr. Andrews, crown witness for W. W. Andrews, professor of chemistry and physics at Mount Allison University. This witness was first shown the white stains on the axe found in the priest's bedroom. His honor handed the instrument over to him and asked several questions. He asked if the substance, removing as little of it as possible from the blade.

Mr. Skinner, recalled, took one of the axes in court and replaced it behind the commode in the position she found it. The end of the axe handle was then six or seven inches above the back of the commode. She said she saw one razor in Mr. McAulay's room and two on the outside of the door. He also tested the point on the wood to determine the hardness. By rubbing the middle of the axe, where the surface was rough over the point, it smeared the iron readily.

A jurymen suggested that the bright part of the blade be used. Dr. Andrews did so but the effect was so slight as to be imperceptible.

In answer to a question by Mr. McKewen witness said that it would be almost impossible to strike a bloody axe into court and leave no stain.

Sheriff Lyons identified the prisoner as the man whom he brought up from St. John.

Father McAulay was next recalled and in answer to a question by Mr. Skinner he said he could not tell what razors Collins had. He himself missed two, one in a tin case. The last named was the razor with which the case he had already identified in court. Since the tragedy he had not seen it.

Father McAulay said that he had six razors altogether. His usual way of going home, he said, was to take the train from Petitcodiac to Elgin and thence by team. The ordinary place to keep his new harness was on a cotton covering on a sleigh.

From the time of the tragedy till the week in November he had been in his house three or four times and never to stay over night.

Witness missed the housekeeper's gold watch the Tuesday night he returned home and found her dead body. He saw the empty wash case on her bureau and looked through the drawers for it.

Father McAulay then identified the mat in court as his and said it was generally kept in the peddler's room. He had a spade against the door which opened inward. From the way in which the spade was inclined, he thought it was placed there to keep the door shut. The dog might have opened the door by pushing against it.

Mr. Skinner asked witness the name of the person who burglarized his house and who was also suspected of beating and robbing a peddler. The witness said he had never accused the party himself. It was John Duffy. The place where the peddler was supposed to be beaten and robbed was Patrick Duffy's cousin of John, who lives a mile from him.

Mr. Skinner asked witness if he had ever heard that the peddler in question had been robbed. Witness said he heard that the peddler had been robbed of a gold watch and a woman struck him with a stone. Rumor connected the two Duffy families with these things. He never heard his housekeeper object to hiring help to keep the door shut.

In re-examination by Mr. Skinner witness said that he heard that the peddler, after the robbery, went to Thomas Campbell's and got his horse to go to a magistrate. He also heard that he went to one in New Ireland, who would not do anything for him and then he went to Moncton.

Concerning the Duffy witness said that

BLAZE IN PRINCE WILLIAM STREET

Fire in Stockton and Price's Office Last Night -- Started From Register Grate.

The Stockton building on Prince William Street was discovered on fire last night shortly after 8 o'clock and about $1,000 in damages resulted.

The fire was first discovered by Milton Price, of the firm of Stockton & Price, who upon opening the office found that the fire had originated from the register grate and was eating its way down into D. C. Clinch's office. An alarm was rung from Box 29, but 25 sounded and a considerable delay was occasioned thereby.

The firemen had to tear away considerable of the ceiling in D. C. Clinch's office to get at the seat of trouble.

The building is owned by Hon. Joseph Wood, of St. John, N. B., and is insured with A. C. Fairweather for $5,000. Messrs. Stockton & Price have $1,000 with the Royal Company on their books and papers and Mr. Frink carries $800 on his office fittings with the Atlas Co.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

For Weak People Having Heart or Nerve Troubles.

Palpitation of the Heart, Irregular or Skipped Beats, Dizzy Spells, Smothering Feeling, Shortness of Breath, Blush Color of the Lips, Pain in the Region of the Heart, Thin Watery Blood, Cold Hands and Feet, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, etc.

It will bring the whole system into healthy action, and give power, force and vigor to every organ of the body thereby strengthening the weak heart and unstrung nerves.

Mrs. Harmon Dayball, Welland, Ont., writes: "I write to let you know that good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me."

For over two years I suffered with pains under my left breast and my nerves were completely unstrung. I purchased two boxes of your pills and before I had the first box finished I felt much better and now I am cured."

For over two years I suffered with pains under my left breast and my nerves were completely unstrung. I purchased two boxes of your pills and before I had the first box finished I felt much better and now I am cured."

It is a good thing to stick to what you say, but remember that what you say is likely to stick to you for a long time.

LATE LOCALS

Mrs. C. H. Jackson will receive her friends Thursday, January 24, afternoon and evening, at 114 Elliot Row. The adjourned annual meeting of St. Andrew's church will be held this evening in the lecture hall at 8 o'clock.

The German street Baptist Sunday school sleigh drive will be held this evening. Sleighs will leave the church at 7 o'clock.

Clan MacKenzie will celebrate the 148th anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns by a dinner at White's on Friday evening.

The horses that ran away on Saturday night on Main street, belonged to W. Corbett, and not Samuel Corbett, coachman, as stated by this paper Monday.

During last night's storm four inches of snow fell. The velocity of the wind was 34 to 36 miles an hour from southeast to southwest. At Point Lepreau the wind blew 55 miles an hour with heavy snow fall. The weather to day all along the coast is clear and is turning colder.

Samuel Tobin, engineer of the steamer Maggie Miller, was quite badly injured yesterday by being thrown from his sleigh while driving across the ice from Millidgeville to Baywater. Mr. Tobin's horse ran away, throwing him to the ice with considerable force and cutting his head. He was driven to his home and is reported to be improving. The horse was captured near the Tobin farm.

NEW STEAMER FOR BAY TRADE

The Ruby L. Will Ply Between Canning and St. John.

The new steamer Ruby L. is now at Yarmouth, N. S., receiving her machinery. She was built at Margarettville, N. S. The Ruby L. will ply as a packet from Canning, N. S., calling at Margarettville, N. S., and St. John. The steamer is a very substantially built craft, and will have good accommodations for her freight and passengers on her route. Her service will be a great convenience to trade across the Bay of Fundy. The steamer will be commanded by Captain Baker, formerly of the schooner Murray B. It is expected that the owners of the new steamer will receive subsidies from some extent from both the Dominion and provincial governments, as an encouragement to the enterprise of endeavoring to maintain a steamer in trade which has hitherto only been carried on by small schooners.

OBITUARY

Frances M. Crawford KINGSTON, Jan. 21 - Frances M. Crawford, the 15 year old daughter of Leonard Crawford, died here and was buried on Jan. 17. She was a delicate girl, and succumbed to an attack of pneumonia. She was a pupil in the advanced department of the Macdonald Consolidated School here. Miss Crawford was a remarkably keen student and enjoyed merited popularity.

Wm. H. Starratt HOPEWELL HILL, Jan. 21 - After a brief attack of bronchitis, William S. Starratt died here today, aged 73 years. He was a son of the late Jeremiah Starratt, one of the early residents of the country. Besides a widow, he leaves three sons - C. S. Starratt, of the post office penitentiary staff, Jackson and Samuel, of New York; besides one brother, Samuel, and three sisters - Mrs. Calvin Smith, Mrs. Judah Wain and Mrs. Carter Smith, all residing in the west. He was a member of the Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Starratt celebrated their golden wedding anniversary three weeks ago.

COMING ENTERTAINMENTS

The gymnasium class of the Mission church have about completed preparations for a dramatic entertainment, which they will present in the school room of the church on the evenings of Feb. 6th and 7th. The programme will consist of four short plays by different members of the class, and specialties by Miss Leona Burdill, Master Henry H. Freese, of Boston, Mass., and a squad from the gymnasium class, who will give a musical dumb-bell drill. The proceeds are for the Men's Association and the securing of apparatus for the gymnasium. The drama, "The Outcast," to be presented in the west end Salvation Army hall tomorrow evening promises to be a real success. All are invited. The Young People's Association of St. Mary's church will hold a dime entertainment in the church tomorrow evening. The young people of Portland Methodist church will present the ice maiden's drill.

ENGINEERS ORGANIZE

Nova Scotia Engineers Form a Society for Mutual Benefit.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 22. - (Special). - An organization was formed here today to be called the Nova Scotia Society of Engineers. The objects of the society are to solidify the engineering profession in Nova Scotia, to investigate the resources of this province, to conduct investigations in regard to engineering materials and supplies in Nova Scotia, to raise the standing of the profession, to bring together all branches of the engineering profession as well as architects, contractors and those interested in engineering. Besides the regular officers, consisting of president, vice-presidents, secretary and treasurer, there will be a committee composed of officers and a councillor from each of the following districts: District No. 1 - Halifax, Guysboro and Hants counties; District No. 2 - Cape Breton Island; District No. 3 - Antigonish, Pictou, Colchester and Cumberland counties; District No. 4 - Kings, Annapolis, Digby, Yarmouth, Queens, Shelburne and Lunenburg counties. A general meeting of the society will be held on Feb. 5th, for the election of officers and members of the council.

THE OTTAWA DELEGATION

To the Editor of the Times: Sir, - I notice in the morning papers that a delegation of twelve men is to be sent to Ottawa to lay before the government information regarding our harbor and if possible to have it made a national winter port. I cannot see the use of delegations when we have two representatives at Ottawa at the present time. It seems to me that this is just an excuse for the aldermen to have a good time. I remember that about eleven years ago, a delegation left Halifax to go to Ottawa in connection with matters affecting that port, and they met a like delegation from St. John and Moncton and both proceeded to the capital, where they had a fine time, but did not accomplish much for their cities which paid the bills. There have been few delegations from Halifax since that time as the legislature of Nova Scotia passed a law that a man must be eligible for the office of alderman, possess at least $3,000 in unencumbered property, and the class of men who would go in for a good time have been eliminated. How much will it cost for this delegation and will the members pay for it, or will the taxpayers have this bill added to their already overburdened shoulders? I am not alone in asking this question. Yours truly, A TAXPAYER.

Business Notices

J. N. Harvey advertises today a large number of men's suits, just received, which were bought at a great bargain the advantage of which will be given to the public. Sale starts tomorrow. Read his ad on page of today's issue.

Macaulay Bros & Co. will have with them in their costume rooms for next three days commencing tomorrow (Thursday) D. L. Carley, expert designer of Nova Scotia garments. The purpose of this is that Mr. Carley can show a much larger range of costumes, coats, skirts, waists, and wash costumes, than Macaulay Bros. & Co. can hold during the season. Ladies by this opening display can select their exclusive design and colorings, in any costume. All are invited to the grand display of Novi-Modi garments for spring and summer, 1907.

HIGH CLASS LAUNDERING. Not only in laundering shirts and collars has the new Ungar Laundry plant proved superior, but delicate fabrics and fine garments of all kinds are cleaned with such care and thoroughness, that patrons are perfectly delighted with the results. The Ungar people are determined to keep fully up to the hour in high-class laundering.

ANOTHER POSITION. Egbert Prime, of Freeport, N. S., has been selected from the employment bureau of the Currie Business University, Ltd., to fill the position of stenographer for the Inglewood Pulp & Paper Co.

THE KINGSTON FUND

(The Daily Sun). Owing to special and other advice that the Jamaica authorities are capable of handling the Kingston situation without outside assistance, The Sun has decided to suspend further collection of funds until the actual condition of affairs is ascertained. If it is found that the money collected is not needed, it will be returned to the subscribers. If conditions prove to be as supposed when the fund was opened further opportunity will be given to the generous. [The Sun had received subscriptions amounting to $619.03.]

ROAD HOUSES AND OTHERS

A correspondent writes to point out that while the latest fine imposed upon road houses of ill repute was $20 and costs, for selling liquor without license, it is customary to fine a reputable hotel on the road $20 to $100 if convicted of selling liquor after hours. "Why," asks this correspondent, "are the men who find so heavily, when houses of ill-repute, without license, that make more money on Saturday night and Sunday than one of the others would make in a month are let down so easily?"

R. K. Y. C.

This club will hold a January smoker at their club rooms, Masonic Hall, George street, tomorrow evening, commencing at eight o'clock. The committee have arranged the best and most attractive programme that has yet been presented by the club. The new R. K. Y. quartette will make their debut; the Mandolin and Banjo Club will play solos, trios and quartettes; several of the best male voices in the city will sing solos, and a chorus of twenty voices will also take part. The boys are looking forward to having a good time.
