Carranza of Mexico Killed In Hill Fight

Deposed President Was Fugitive in the Mountains... General Herrera Said to Have Directed Attack—Several of Companions Also Meet Death—Obregon Says News Based on Official Despatches.

Mexico City, May 22—President Carranza, who with a small party of followers has been a fugitive in the mountains of Puebla since late last week, was killed at Taxcalalongo early on Thursday morning, according to official announcement here.

General Herrera, it is said, directed the attack that resulted in the death of the fugitive president and his followers. He belonged to forces commanded by General Francisco de P. Mariel, who accompanied Carranza in his flight from this city, but who last week deserted Carranza and joined the revolutionists.

There is some uncertainty regarding the exact affiliation of General Herrera. It is generally believed possible, however, that he commanded a small guard which was with the fleeing president. He was in rebellion against Carranza for several years, centering his operations in the state of Puebla.

When General Mariel went over to the revolutionists last week, a portion of his troops, it is known, remained loyal to the president and belief exists that Carranza might have taken along with him his flight toward Taxcala, Herrera's forces, which finally turned against him.

The official announcement, which was given out last night from headquarters of General Obregon, stated that it was based on official despatches which have been received.

Orders have been given that a train be taken to Beristain, the nearest railway point to Taxcalalongo, to receive the bodies of those killed in the encounter in which Carranza lost his life.

GRATUITIES FOR VETERANS OF THE CANADIAN NAVY

Order Tabled by Minister in House Yesterday—For Men Who Saw Continual Service Since 1914.

Ottawa, May 22—An order-in-council, dated May 15, providing for the payment of gratuities to naval ratings and warrant officers in the royal Canadian navy, who served continuously since July 1, 1914, and who were distinguished in combat during the war, was tabled in the house yesterday by Hon. C. C. Ballantyne.

It provides for the payment of one month's pay and allowances, including marriage allowances, but not allowances in lieu of lodgings, provisions for fuel and light, and subsistence allowance, for each year of service as warrant officer or rating.

In cases where gratuities are payable for service both as rating and warrant officer, the rating gratuity, if not already paid, shall be reckoned on the basis of the exact amount of General Herrera's forces, which finally turned against him.

The gratuities are being paid in view of the fact that ratings and warrant officers are unable through discharge to complete the time necessary for pension and the orders set forth that payment of this gratuity frees the government from any future claim for pension or gratuity, except in the case of disability.

FELSCH AFTER RUTH FOR HOME RUN HONORS
Chicago Fielder Tie with New York Slugger

Each Has Made Five Homers—Cobb Getting His Eye on Ball and Boosts Average to .277—News of the Big League.

Chicago, May 22—"Happy" Felsch, Chicago outfielder, has entered into competition with "Babe" Ruth of New York for the honor of leading in circuit drives in the American League. "Happy" cracked out his fifth homer in the game against Boston, Wednesday, giving him two in two days, and placing him in a tie with the New York slugger. Each has made five homers, according to averages released today and including Wednesday's games.

Most of Ruth's runs were made on the Polo grounds, where the field is short. Those of the Chicago fly catcher were long, clean drives.

There is a merry race in the Washington club between Ruth and Rice for the honor of being the leading base stealer. Rice has pilfered eleven bases and Ruth ten.

Ty Cobb, the Detroit star, is gradually finding his batting eye and has boosted his average to .277. Ruth is batting .260.

Johnston of Cleveland widened the gap between himself and Jackson of Chicago, among the batters who have participated in ten or more games. Johnston added a few points to his average of last week, while Jackson dropped a few points. Johnston is topping the list with an average of .417 while Jackson is hitting .380.

The St. Louis National League club is in third place in team batting, with an average of .260, and is ranked in last place in the percentage of games won and lost, according to averages published today and which include Wednesday's games. Only one member of the club is hitting in the .300 class, and that is Rogers Hornsby, star keystone seaker, who is the runner-up to Nicholson of Pittsburgh.

Nicholson is leading the regulars with an average of .422, acquired in twenty-four games. Hornsby, in twenty-five games in which he has been at bat 101 times, has cracked out forty-two hits for a total of fifty-seven bases, which include eight doubles, two triples and a homer, for an average of .422. He is being pushed by Hines, captain of the Cincinnati world's champions, who is trailing with .408.

Dode Paskett, veteran outfielder of the Chicago Cubs, has joined his team mate, Robertson, among Cy Williams, of Philadelphia, for home run honors. The trio is tied with three home runs each.

Max Carey, a foot footed outfielder of Pittsburgh, is showing the way to the base stealer with nine thefts. His nearest rival is a team mate, Southworth, who has stolen seven.

THE Y. W. C. A.

The Young Women's Christian Association, in the report submitted by the directors on Thursday evening, reveals a record of work of great value to St. John. The work for girls is as necessary as the work for boys, and the home and recreation opportunities and activities afforded by the Association are moral safeguards of the highest character.

THE QUESTION MARK.

It is perfectly clear that the new excise taxes will give all the merchants of the country a great deal of trouble and extra work. The making of returns will also involve expense for clerical help.

TWO VIEWS CONTRASTED.

"A Conservative revival," says the Montreal Gazette, applauding the activities of Hon. Robert Rogers, "is the natural and necessary consequence of the failure of the Union government adequately to realize the hopes of those who gave it their support during the early period of reconstruction, in the belief that its administration would meet the requirements of the country."

MILFORD FIRE.

E. Percy Howard, who began the work of appraisal yesterday afternoon on the fire loss at Milford, said last evening that a rough estimate of the loss to Dwyer Brothers and to Mrs. Dwyer, who owned the grocery store and residence, would be in the vicinity of $100,000.

NON-PRODUCERS.

Ten thousand statements fame and fret, upon the well known stump, and tell how crises should be met, and carted to the dump. They elocute until they're hot, and rant and tear their duds, and it would help things out a lot if they'd start raising spuds.

LIGHTER VEIN.

The six-year-old boy had told a fib and had been commanded by his mother to go to bed in the evening. He selected, reluctantly, and upon taking a look at the dark stairway, turned to his mother and said, "Mother, don't you think you'd better come along and see if I really go to bed?"

STRIKE AT HAMILTON HAS BEEN AVERTED

Hamilton, Ont., May 21—All danger of a general strike of engineers which has been threatened here since May 1, was removed yesterday as the result of a conference between Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, and Robert Hobson, president of the Steel Company of Canada, and other officials of the company, whose engineers have been on strike for three weeks. It was announced that the company had agreed to take back all the strikers on the condition that they should be paid for the time they were out of work.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES.

Sir—I would like to ask if the recent bad fire in the parish of Lancaster has not brought to the attention of those in authority the lack of fire protection in this district. Take every street west of City Line, including Lancaster Heights and from there to Fairville crossing, and you can hardly find a hydrant. I have noticed one in DeMonts street, and a few on Lancaster avenue, west, but all the upper parts of the city streets, including west from City Line have absolutely no fire protection. I believe this district is supposed to depend on the Fairville fire department, which is about two miles away, and there is no way to get them in a hurry, as there is no fire alarm system and the engine house in Fairville is not even a telephone. Anyone can readily see that this is a dangerous state of affairs, and all it needs is a fire to break out at any time there is a high wind. This is one of our finest residential sections, and it should have a motor fire engine, sufficient hydrants installed and an alarm system. This matter should be seen to now before a disaster occurs, which would also endanger the western portion of the city. If we wish St. John to grow we cannot afford to see any sections of it wiped out by fires for the want of proper protection. Trusting that this will be given attention by those in authority, and thanking you for your valuable space, I remain, Yours truly, LANCASTER.

RECENT DEATHS

Word was received yesterday by Adjutant Gilbert Best, commander of the local division of the Salvation Army, of the death on Thursday night, of his father, George Best, one of the prominent lumber merchants of St. John's, Newfoundland.

The death of John Tennant occurred yesterday at Fredericton at the advanced age of eighty-seven years. The late Mr. Tennant was a shipbuilder in the days of the wooden ship, and he will be remembered in shipping circles by men of the older generation as the builder of many of the sturdiest vessels that ever left this port. Mr. Tennant was of Scottish descent and possessed in a large degree the fine quality of the Scottish race. He is survived by five sons and two daughters. The sons are George E. of Vancouver; Ernest E., of Winnipeg; Walter H., of Amherst; Fred M., of Moncton; and William B., and Robert, of St. John's. The daughters are Miss Maud M., of New York, and Mrs. Richard Hoeken, of Barrington, N. S.

A telegram received by Joseph Irvine, 45 High street, contained the news that his brother, Herbert T. Irvine, had died in Mexico City after an operation. Mr. Irvine left St. John about twenty years ago for British Columbia, and entered the drygoods business with his brothers at Nelson (B. C.). Retiring from the drygoods trade, a few years ago, he engaged in the real estate business and opened offices at Spokane (Wash.). He left this city for Mexico on business and while there succumbed. He is survived by his wife and two children, at present in New York, also by three brothers and one sister: Joseph, of this city; Frederick and William, Nelson (B. C.); and Mrs. E. R. Atherton, Victoria (B. C.).

Edwin T. S. Clark died at his home, Dipper Harbor, on May 20, at the age of seventy-eight years. He served in the war of secession and was wounded. He was twice married; his second wife, formerly Miss Lily Sweet of Fairville, survives. He leaves five sons and three daughters, including Mrs. Harry Carr of Fairville.

Many friends throughout the Maritime Provinces will learn with regret of the death of John A. Edwards which took place in Halifax yesterday afternoon about 8 o'clock. He was widely known in these provinces and was a native of Fredericton where he was for many years the proprietor of the Queen hotel and afterwards became the post master of that city. For the last few years he had been a resident of Halifax, where he was engaged in business with his brother, R. H. Edwards. He is survived by his widow; one sister, Mrs. George W. Hodge of Fredericton; two brothers, R. H. Edwards of Halifax and M. B. Edwards of St. John. Two sons, William F., of Fredericton and Jack, in the West and one daughter Mrs. Dawes Gilmour. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

The death of Mrs. Nelson Russell occurred at her home in Maine recently. Mrs. Russell was a native of St. John and was sixty years of age. The last three years of her life had been passed in Houlton. She is survived by her husband, an adopted daughter, Mrs. Charles McDougall, of Lawrence (Mass.), and one sister, Miss Elizabeth Thompson. The funeral services were held Wednesday in Kirland (N. B.).

Sister Superior Mary Borgis, head of the Sisters of Notre Dame, is dead in Waltham (Mass.).

The boy or youth who loafs on the job will find himself out of a job and engaged in toiling, exclusively.

THIRTEEN HORSES BURNED TO DEATH.

FISH AT THE CAPE

Sackville Post: Theo. Estabrooks of Cape Tormentine was in Sackville yesterday. He says the run of herring there last week was perhaps never equalled. The water was literally alive with them and the fishermen took great quantities of the fish for the factories.

AFTER FORTY YEARS

Sackville Post: J. M. Barnes, of the C. F. R., St. John's, has been spending a few days in Sackville this week taking in the college closing exercises. Mr. Barnes attended college here something like forty years ago, and strange to say has never been back until this year.

THRILLING TIME DURING NIGHT OF THE SAXBY GALE

J. E. B. McCready Writes of Narrow Escape

Got From Vessel and Spent a Night in Fisherman's Hut Not Far From Eastport—Devastation Wrought in That Part of Country.

J. E. B. McCready, now of Charlottetown and for many years prominent in New Brunswick journalism, in Moncton and St. John, has written the following letter to A. H. McCready, publisher of the Sackville Post, who has printed it in this week's issue of the Post.
Charlottetown, May 18, 1920.
My Dear A. H.—
Some kind friend has sent me the 50th anniversary number of The Post. It is in every way creditable, and I have perused it with interest.

found it difficult to get in. At the front was a porch with a door opening outward, and against it were leaned half a dozen sticks of birch wood in sled lengths and quite heavy. Eventually I got these lifted and entered the porch, with the props still against the door outside. From the porch a window gave me a view into the living room. There I saw two large young women each holding one end of a broomstick which they had thrust through a rope hitched to the door handle and were in a great fright lest the door should be blown open. Had this happened in gale such as this the house would have gone up like an inverted umbrella.

THE CITY AND THE N. B. POWER COMPANY

The public protested loudly, the common council took the matter up, a searching inquiry was demanded through what was afterwards called a committee of citizens of one hundred, with the result that the legislature was petitioned to appoint an independent commission to inquire into all matters regarding the management and general relations existing between the city of St. John and the power company. The city council brought sufficient influence to bear on the legislature to appoint a royal commission and to demand that the firm stand in defence of the city's interests.

The commission in the opinion of the city council and citizens' committee made very generous allowances in their award by deciding that $2,800,000 should be allowed the company for the rate base. They also made many other recommendations which in most cases accepted in principle but made several variations in the bill they proposed in substitution for the commission bill.

Woman District Attorney Keeps Faith In Humanity

"D. A.'s" Can and Should Be Much More Than Mere Public Prosecutors, Says Miss McCormack of the Kings County, New York, Office.

(New York Evening Post)
The woman district attorney measuring up to her job? Does she find that being a public prosecutor is undermining her health and human nature, making her hard and unmerciful, causing her to feel that all the world is criminal and that Diogenes was a credulous old gentleman to hope that the brightest of lanterns could help him to locate an honest man?

Many men who have held this office in the past have confessed sadly that the attitude of mind engendered by having to consider every man guilty until he proved his innocence had produced this blighting effect upon their characters.
But Miss McCormack, assistant district attorney for Kings county, doesn't see it at all in that light. In fact, she was rather horrified at the idea that any one should so tremendously that the work has such an appeal for me," she said.

"Why, Judge Lewis, my superior officer, looks upon himself as a public defender as well as a prosecutor. Our only interest here is in getting at the real facts of the case, whatever the results may be. We use our full power to prevent the imprisonment of any one of whose guilt we have the slightest doubt. We are not intent upon seeing how many people we can convict but only on being certain that all the evidence is brought out."

Miss McCormack maintains that the office of public prosecutor demands a person of limitless sympathy, whether he be man or woman. Don't imagine from this, however, that she tolerates sentimentality. But then nobody countenances that once popular failing any more.

"My own work is almost entirely with the women and children," she explained. "Very naturally, the girls confide in a woman more readily than they would in a man. Our aim is to be perfectly fair both to society and to those involved."
"An instance that may illustrate just what I mean is that of a young Italian factory girl who was tried here recently. She had been betrayed by a man in whom she trusted, and shortly before the birth of her child she killed him. She appeared in court with the child in her arms, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the second degree and was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment. I do not tolerate privilege on account of sex," she emphasized, "but in this case every one felt that it was a very happy manner in which to adjust matters. Society was satisfied and mercy was shown. The sentence was most acceptable to the district attorney."

Has Had a Varied Experience.
"Criminal law is very personal," she commented, "and a knowledge of psychology is most necessary in order to understand human instincts."
"I have always been even more interested in prevention than in the reformative end of courts, and have given much thought to juvenile delinquency. Before studying law I was a teacher for several years and after my graduation was a factory inspector. Both experiences were excellent for me. The first taught me to understand the nature of children and the latter gave me a fine insight into industrial relations."
She had always intended to be a lawyer.

To Have Wavy Hair Like Nature's Own
Here's a brand new recipe of unquestioned merit, that you should make note of, unless you are one of the few possessors of naturally wavy hair. It's very simple, for all you need to do is apply a little liquid simerine before doing up the hair—with a clean tooth brush—and in three hours you will find this has dried in the sweetest curls and waves imaginable. They will be just like "Nature's own," having no resemblance to the effect produced by a hot iron, which is so obviously artificial.

Why a Woman Needs More Iron in Her Blood Than a Man And Shows the Lack of It More Quickly
Physician says that Indoor Life, Cares of Motherhood and Lack of Outdoor Exercise Sap the Iron from a Woman's Blood and Often Make Her Look and Feel Tired, Care-Worn and Old when She Ought to be Rosy-Cheeked and Glowing with Health.

How Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron—Solves the Problem of Iron Deficiency and Helps Build up in Pale Anaemic Nervous Women the Enduring Health and Vigorous Strength that Red-Blooded Men have.

Tens of thousands of American women are starving their blood and weakening their bodies for want of iron. Rarely do you see a woman who is not paler and more careworn than a man of the same age. This is chiefly due to the greater proportion of anemia—lack of iron in the blood—among women. Women need iron much more than men because of their peculiar nature and the heavy demands upon their physical and nervous strength caused by the cares of housework and motherhood. A woman is tied down to a daily round of indoor duties that saps the iron from her blood, wears down her strength and makes her look and feel old, faded and care-worn. When a man feels his strength falling he gets plenty of vigorous outdoor exercise, he eats coarse foods, rich in iron, or he takes organic iron to build up his red blood corpuscles. And that is what pale, weary women need to give them health, strength and beauty—more iron in their blood. But be sure that the iron you take is organic iron—Nuxated Iron. If you have taken other iron products and failed to benefit thereby, remember that such preparations are entirely different from Nuxated Iron, which contains the same variety of iron as that found in spinach, lentils, peas, beans, and husks of grain. It most nearly resembles the natural iron in the blood and is quickly assimilated and absorbed into the blood circulation. This is one of the reasons why Nuxated Iron often restores health and strength to pale, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time—and why medical men, such as Dr. Ferdinand King, whose statement is quoted below, prescribe Nuxated Iron for their anaemic patients.

in which she taught school she studied law in the afternoon and evening. "It was not easy," she admitted, "with a sigh at the remembrance, "but there was no other way. And I had to be a lawyer!"

"The profession is still to me the most fascinating in the world. And instead of destroying my good opinion of mankind, I really think this experience as an assistant district attorney has enhanced it. It has brought out vividly in so many instances how very decent humanity is, after all. Whenever a child is brought here, no matter how low his parents may have sunk, it is a horrible catastrophe to them. For all parents love their children and want them to be good."

Why Children Go Wrong.
"Being constantly about a court of this sort also makes you realize what a tremendous job parenthood is. It is the most difficult in the world and it is one that begins with birth and ends only at death. There are five conditions responsible for the child criminal; unfortunate environment, the wrong job, want of the right sort of recreation, bad associates and lack of parental discipline. But the most important thing of all is the influence of the parents. The father or mother who is lax in meeting the demands of the great work of parenthood is largely responsible if the outcome is disastrous.

"In an assistant district attorney but nobody could be more interested than myself in urging a preventive campaign against juvenile delinquency carried on by parents, social workers and teachers. Such a campaign would do wonders toward giving to each boy and girl the chance of becoming a self-respecting citizen.

"No, don't imagine that public prosecutors are necessarily callous, inhuman bloodhounds," she concluded. "Judge Lewis has often said that the district attorney who abuses his power is more lawless than any man whom he prosecutes."

SHORTAGE OF LINENS OF WORLD-WIDE EXTENT.
(A Toronto Globe.)
A limited consignment of airplane linen was purchased recently by a Toronto agent from a British business house. This is part of the surplus army supply turned over for civilian use. Linen of this quality is not made in any of the different countries, and quite a number of uses were found for the fabric. It became quite fashionable for women's dresses. The airplane linen comes in various widths, and is unbleached. Prices have been advancing on all linen goods during the last year on account of the world scarcity of flax, and the latest consignment of airplane linen is higher in price than earlier shipments.

some new quarter a further reduction of spinning and weaving, if not total suspension of manufacturing, will be forced by July. The reduction of working hours will probably be necessary for an indefinite period.

The present failure of supplies of raw materials is declared to be due to the lack of foresight of the leaders of the linen industry and the government departments. Britain is dependent on foreign countries for supplies of flax to the extent of 80 per cent., and of cotton to the extent of 85 per cent. It is stated that 115,000 tons annually is necessary to supply the British linen industry for an average year.

On account of the shortage of flax, most of the British factories are running much below capacity. Spinners are using a considerable quantity of hemp and other substitutes in combination with flax in order to keep operating. A writer in the Overseas Daily Mail states that unless more flax is available from required. It will be futile to grumble at prices, and in some instances he will have to be content with getting the "best" in the form of unions. It is not a question of seeking another market, for all producers the world over are faced with exactly the same problems."

THE LITTLE HEN.
(Henry Edward Warner, in Richmond Times-Dispatch.)
I had a little Hen, and she laid me an egg.
And she cackled, and she laid me another.
And I said: "Much obliged" to the nice little Hen,
And she said: "Don't mention it, Brother!"
And I think it's mighty nice of the fine little Hen,
And I pray for the Hen's health nightly;
And it isn't just because she laid me the egg.
But especially, she did it so politely.

1,360,919 Voters Indicate Their Choices for President

Six weeks of THE LITERARY DIGEST'S presidential poll of the nation, with only two weeks' returns still to be tabulated before the meeting of the first of the great national conventions, have resulted in the gathering of nearly 1,500,000 ballots, fairly distributed over all sections of the country. That "silent, inscrutable majority," as the Washington Herald calls it, which does not express itself either at party primaries or party conventions, undoubtedly has revealed something of the state of its mind in the columns of figures classified in THE LITERARY DIGEST for May 22nd.

It is the practically unanimous verdict, at least of the hundreds of editors North, East, South and West, that the balloting gives a genuine indication of the way in which the United States will vote for its next president. It is not too much to say that the results of this gigantic poll of the Nation will be a considerable factor in determining the candidates to be chosen by the Republican and Democratic conventions.

on Work of Soldier Settlement Board.

In the house of commons on May 7, Mr. Caldwell, who sits with the progressive wing and represents the new farmer movement in New Brunswick, spoke of the operations of the Soldier Settlement Board in his own province. He had very warm praise for Mr. Melgren, Mr. Black and the government generally for what has been accomplished. Mr. Caldwell spoke as follows:

"I desire to make a few remarks on this subject, especially in view of the fact that I was very closely connected with the operation of the Soldier Settlement act in the province from which I come. I was chairman of the qualification board before whom the soldiers in any part of the country came for examination in regard to their fitness as settlers, and shortly after the work began I was made a member of the loan committee. I want to speak particularly in regard to the price per acre of land in the different provinces. I observed when they heard what the price per acre was in New Brunswick, and I am inclined to think they got a wrong impression in that respect. Perhaps no one realizes better than I that the statement is correct, because I was one of the board who decided what should be paid. I realize this probably more than anybody else because I was one of the board who decided what farms should be bought and what we should pay for them. The soldier selected a farm and the inspector inspected it and put a valuation upon it. We did not in every case pay what the valuator said it was worth. We even turned down a number of farms that the farm inspector said were good value at the price asked for them. That is the reason why the prices were less per acre in New Brunswick than in some other provinces. But we estimated the value of these farms on the production basis. If a farm would not produce enough to enable the settler to sustain his family and to give him a pretty fair chance of making his payments, the board asked the settler to select another farm. In a great many cases the farms were good but were too heavy with buildings. We realized that the soldier could not make any money out of the buildings and while they would be a good investment for the man who had the money to pay for them, we did not encourage soldiers to burden themselves with such farms. We refused different farms that were too heavy with buildings. That is another reason why our price per acre is smaller than in other provinces where they purchase farms with better buildings. I know that farms were sold to private individuals, cash down for a price that we said the soldier could not pay and still I believe we were right. When the purchase was made by a man who had the money to pay for the farm and the buildings, there is no doubt that he made a good trade, but there is a great difference between a man going on a farm and going into debt for it and a man who has the money to pay for it. "I was in hopes that a bill would have been brought down by the minister to extend the time for repayment of the advance on land, stock and equipment. I think the period should be no longer. However, I suppose we should be grateful for small favors. I understand you extend the time for two years?" The minister replied in the affirmative. Mr. Caldwell did not think that was sufficient, but the time could be extended if necessary. He went on to say: "I, like the honorable member for Winnipeg (Mr. Andrews), feel like giving the government every credit for this act. I believe that it is a good thing and that it serves a good purpose. I believe that it will put returned soldiers into civil life who otherwise would not be able to establish themselves under such favorable conditions. I hope the time for repayment will be extended if necessary and I feel sure it will be. The honorable member for Winnipeg (Mr. Andrews) made a suggestion with regard to insuring the settlers and I think that would be a wise provision. However, I do not believe that the board or the government or the country takes any risk of losing anything by this transaction. The settlers pay ten per cent. of the purchase price down. He must do that. If he dies next year the government has the property absolutely, together with the ten per cent. of the price which the settler has paid down. If he makes his payment for five years he will have paid approximately one-third of the purchase price and the government still absolutely owns the property because the soldier has no claim against it until it is fully paid for. I think there is very little chance of the government losing through this scheme but I think that as an extra safeguard and as a protection to the settler's family he should be insured. If the settler dies the board will have to take the farm over and it may not be able to realize as much at forced sale as it otherwise would. You cannot sell a property at forced sale for all it is War's Preparatory Course.

"But, you see by our deferred-payment plan your payments extend over a period of years."
"I understand perfectly. I'm paying for a war that way now."—Life.

J. P. Mosher, Frank Boyle and Ex-Commissioner Hilyard Heard.

The evidence in the inquiry into the alleged unlawful cutting of lumber, piling, knees, cordwood, etc., on the city land near Lake Latimer and Loch Lomond was practically completed last evening at a session in city hall. Commissioner Jones presided and Mayor Schofield and all of the other commissioners were in attendance. The city solicitor, Hon. Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, K.C., examined the witnesses directly. No other attorney was present.

The witnesses included J. P. Mosher and Frank Boyle, both of whom cut on city lands, the latter through a verbal agreement which he says he had with Rupert W. Wigmore, M.P., then commissioner of water and sewerage, which department has charge of the lands in question.

Mr. Mosher in his testimony admitted cutting about sixty thousand feet of lumber on city property. He said that at the time of cutting he had no idea he was operating on city land and had no intention of taking timber which did not belong to him. He said he had been in the lumber business forty years and never before had trouble of this kind.

E. J. Hilyard, commissioner of water and sewerage between the tenure of office of Messrs. Wigmore and Jones, who also was a witness, explained his part of the Boyle transaction, which was handed down to him when he succeeded Mr. Wigmore.

Mr. Mosher testified that Timothy O'Leary, who cut lumber, came to him and told him the line was not plain. They then located what was supposed to be the line. He had no knowledge then of being on the city land. He had been forty years in the lumber business, and never had any trouble about it.

Mr. Mosher said he thought Mr. Boyle was mistaken. Whatever was cut over the line he (the witness) cut but not intentionally. He did not sell to the city.

there were a dozen or fourteen rods. In reply to a question by Mayor Schofield, Mr. Mosher said that when he first went to Mr. Wigmore it was two months before he began cutting. He knew the city owned land on the opposite side.

The chairman—"Why, when you had doubts did you cut?" Mr. Mosher—"I supposed I was on the safe side of the line."

The witness, replying to Mayor Schofield, said he wanted to have a new line run. The chairman—"Why did you cut after John Johnson, a resident of the place, showed me the line?"

To Mayor Schofield, the witness said he got no notice from any of the city men while working there. To the chairman, Mr. Mosher said Mr. Brown did not ask him if he was cutting on city property. Mr. Brown showed him as nearly as he could where the line was.

At this point Mr. Brown interrupted the witness to deny a statement by Mr. Mosher that the latter cut birch on his (Brown's) land. "You were cutting on the city line," said Mr. Brown. "I did not show you the line. You took me up and you showed me a line that divided my property from that of the city. You showed me the line in August, 1918."

Mr. Mosher said he thought Mr. Brown was mistaken. Whatever was cut over the line he (the witness) cut but not intentionally. He did not sell to the city.

1918. Mr. Shaw (Philip) and he went half a dozen times to see Mr. Wigmore. Mr. Wigmore told him he did not know if he would sell the stumpage. In a few days after this interview he (the witness) met Mr. Shaw and Mr. Shaw asked him what he meant by saying Mr. Wigmore wouldn't sell. They called at Mr. Wigmore's home and Mr. Shaw told Mr. Wigmore. He had said the commissioner would not sell. Witness asked Mr. Wigmore if he had not said he would not sell. Mr. Wigmore said he did not tell the witness he would not sell, but that he (the witness) must have misunderstood him. He asked the witness if he were willing to take the stuff at the cruiser's estimate. Mr. Wigmore told witness not to take any stuff between the lake and the road. The witness had asked him what he thought about the value of the timber between the lake and the road. He asked the witness if there were two hundred cords of wood between the lake and the road. The witness said there were more. Mr. Wigmore asked him if he were willing to take the stuff between the road and the Mispic stream at fifty cents a cord, up to 800 cords. Witness told him he thought the price was a little bit too much. Witness accepted the understanding being that nothing was to be cut between the lake and the road.

A few days later Mr. Shaw told the witness that Mr. Wigmore had told him that the witness could go ahead and cut. There was nothing written, except the receipts for the payments. Mr. Boyle said he got probably three or four cords, some piling and less than 800 cords of wood. He had not finished cutting.

The chairman, the witness said he had cut less than 100 sticks of piling, which was sold to the Courtenay bay works. He had sold piling to the city, but he had not sold anything else. Continuing, Mr. Boyle said he saw Commissioner Jones after the posters were put up (the no trespass notices). He told Mr. Jones the people living out there might think he was stealing. Mr. Jones told him he did not think the people would think so.

To Mr. Bullock, the witness said he did not pay the city all at once. At different times he paid $200-$300 and another hundred to the city chairman. He got bills from Mr. Martin (chief clerk of the water department). When Commissioner Hilyard took office, he told witness to stop cutting and he could go out and see the land. Witness stopped cutting. Mr. Hilyard asked him if he was willing to pay $400 for the land. Mr. Hilyard said at the time: "I think you paid it well for it."

In the interests of prohibition a large and representative gathering of the business men of the city met last night in the Y. M. C. A. building and organized themselves into a committee to direct the campaign for the referendum in July, and also appointed an executive committee with R. T. Hayes as chairman and J. Willard Smith, M. E. Agar, D. C. Clark, F. G. Spencer, A. H. Wetmore and W. A. Lockhart as members, which executive committee authorized to its members, to appoint ward chairmen and to act in both the city and county. The suggestion was made that some of the additional members should be women, especially in view of the facts that the women were said to have been more efficient than the men in the federal election campaign of 1918, and that there would be seventy-six booths to man in the coming referendum in St. John city alone, when it was thought 20,000 would be entitled to vote, the largest list ever known.

Plans for the coming campaign in the interest of prohibition were considered here yesterday afternoon at a conference of members of the executive of the New Brunswick branch of the Dominion Temperance Alliance. Among those in attendance were Rev. W. D. Wilson, Rev. Thomas Marshall, W. G. Clark of Fredericton, and Donald Fraser of Plaster Rock.

IN FAIRVILLE COURT. Dennis Hanlon and Elmer McFarlane, who were arrested a few days ago on the charge of having liquor in their possession other than in their private dwellings, appeared before Magistrate Allington in the Fairville court last evening. Inspector Merryfield and Detective Biddiscombe gave evidence, and the case was postponed until Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. J. B. Dever appeared for the defence and William M. Ryan appeared for the prosecution. Inspector Merryfield made application for the issue of a bench warrant for John Keeffe, who he said, was involved on the same charge.

THE NEW TAXES.
(Moncton Transcript).
It looks as if the new taxes will fall most heavily upon the middle classes, and salaried people who are already sufficiently afflicted by the high cost of living. They are also likely to strike at the standard of living of the higher paid wage-earners. The excise taxes on clothing touches prices that the general public now find most servicable and economical for it is often charged in the long run to try a $50 suit of clothes than a $30 suit. Had the government really accomplished anything in the way of regulating prices, the imposition of these excise taxes on so-called high priced goods might not have affected the wage earner to any extent, or have imposed a very heavy burden on the salaried man who is expected to keep up a certain style. But judging by the results of the work of the board of commerce, we are likely to see decent wearing apparel pass in to price limits of the luxury class, while the poorer people will be condemned to shoddy and to pay more in the long run. In fact if that is not the result the purpose of the excise tax on wearing apparel will be largely defeated. While the general principle of "luxury" taxes promise the collection of more money from people of very moderate means or a moderate standard of living, their mode of operation implies a naive faith in the extinction of profiteers, or other unscrupulous persons. This new excise system seems to offer considerable inducements to surreptitious trading, and may be more difficult to enforce than the illicit trading in strong drink.

LABOR MEN ASK FOR INVESTIGATION OF THE HOSPITAL
An investigation of the affairs of the General Public Hospital is advocated by the Trades and Labor Council, which at its regular meeting held in its hall in the Oddfellows' building last night, appointed a committee to draft resolutions to be presented to the Hospital Commission and the city authorities regarding the reported lack of treatment at the institution in several recent cases of accidents. The council maintains that there is a lack of attendance of doctors in some cases. It advocates an investigation, which, if granted, will entail the summoning of witnesses and the taking of testimony. The council decided not to hold a Labor Day parade this year. A committee was appointed to look into the matter of having a labor book at the exhibition to be held in St. John this year.

More Mileage
Means Less Cost Per Tire

Look below the surface when you buy a tire. Most tires are cured but once on an iron core.

GOODYEAR TIRES
are the only tires receiving a second cure on bags of air that are shaped like inner tubes. Under heat, this air expands and smooths out any wrinkles the fabric may contain. This saves many blow-outs—caused in rival tires by wrinkled fabric.

ALL-WEATHER TREAD
Note these rows of rugged deep-cut blocks. They are sharp edged so they grip where common "non-skids" slip. They are tough and extra thick so they minimize punctures and give extra mileage. This famous tread enhances the matchless beauty of Goodyear Tires. Yet the blocks are flat, and so the tire runs smoothly. We offer you Goodyears in both Fabric and Cord Tires.

FIRST COMMUNION IN THE CATHEDRAL

Sixty-Five Girls and Sixty Boys — Large Congregation at Mass.

In the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception a most devotional spectacle was witnessed this morning when Rev. William M. Duke, the rector, administered First Holy Communion to about 125 little ones. The ceremony took place at the 8 o'clock mass, which was attended by a large congregation.

There were about sixty-five girls and sixty boys. The girls were dressed all in white with white veils and the boys in dark suits with white bows on their arms, and presented an appealing sight as they approached the altar rail with marked devotion. During the mass and while the Blessed Sacrament was being administered, the choir sang appropriate hymns.

After the ceremony, Father Duke spoke a few words to the children, counselling them on their duty for the future. He announced that this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock they should be enrolled in the secular. During this morning's ceremony the choir marshalled the little ones most efficiently.

CLEAN UP, ALL, AND HELP MAKE CITY BRIGHTER!

Next Wednesday and Thursday will be clean-up days and citizens are asked to take particular note of the fact. Superintendent Price of the public works department, will have fifteen or twenty teams employed collecting ashes, rubbish and debris of all kinds, which must be placed at the curb on the sidewalk by citizens, and it will be removed free of charge. The city will be divided into six districts and teams will be operating during the two days in each. Many citizens are expected to take advantage of the holiday to clean up their premises for the summer and they will be able to get rid of all rubbish by following the above instructions.

ATTRACTIONS FOR HOLIDAY

Citizens who are planning on remaining in the city over the holiday will have ample opportunities to enjoy themselves. In the morning the East End Playgrounds will be auspiciously opened. There will be a flag-planting, and Mayor Schfield, some of the city commissioners and members of the executive will be on hand to officiate at the celebration. After a few remarks by his worships, various games will be started for the children. It is also the intention of the officials to run sports and offer prizes to the winners. It should be a gala day for the children.

Baseball lovers will have an ample opportunity to witness their favorite pastime as two exhibition games will be played in the afternoon. On St. Peter's new diamond the green and white nine will line up against the Great War Veterans. The other game will be played on the East End grounds the Atlantic Sugar Refinery. As all four teams will have their strongest line-ups fans should see some real fast ball. Games will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Many people plan on spending the holiday along the shores of the St. John and Kennebecasis rivers, and with this in view motor boat owners have been working getting ready for their first trip of the season.

The river steamers will have special excursions to points of interest and it is again that large numbers will avail themselves of an opportunity to spend the day in the country.

In the city the theatres announce holiday programmes of interest.

THE LUXURY TAX.

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir—May I be allowed a few lines in your valuable paper on the so-called luxury tax. In the first place, if it were not for the title, "Luxury Tax," my estimate would be only wasting time. We must have a pair of boots, a hat, a shirt and a suit of clothes, and pay a luxury tax on them. Now look at the luxury and extravagance which would bring in a big revenue and is not taxed. If we chew gum and eat chocolate we are taxed, but as far as I can see we can sit at the table and drink all day without being taxed. It has been said that one soda fount in St. John sold 30,000 drinks a month. One cent on each drink would bring in $300 a month from one store. The soda fount has taken the place of the barroom, and the business is growing fast. We have pool rooms, billiard rooms, bowling alleys and jazz halls which are swarmed with people who have money to waste, and it is difficult to see where they come in on this tax; and yet the man who is barely able to keep his family clothed and fed has to pay a tax on the necessities of life. Then take the shoeing shops. It's not so many years ago we only had one at the head of King street; now look at the number all over the city. A man will go in and sit down to have his shoes shined when one tin of shoe polish would serve the whole family for a month. Is this not extravagance? Again, is it not extravagant to go into a barber shop and sit down and let the barber wash your hair; or a girl going to a dance, previous to which she must go to the hair-dresser and pay about a dollar to have her hair put up. I don't see any tax on these luxuries. Then we are taxed on cut-glass and expensive china, but I don't see any tax on electrical novelties, and a person who has money to burn can go to a store and get an expensive lamp or a fan or a toaster or a flatiron or tea kettle without being taxed. Are these not luxuries? And yet they tell us at Ottawa that the burden will fall on those best able to bear it; but I fail to see it unless they tax these things mentioned.

Thanking you, Sir, for your valuable space and, as I said before, my argument would be useless if it had any other name than A Luxury Tax.

Yours,
TAXPAYER.

CLOSE RACE FOR THORNE TROPHY FOR BOY SCOUTS

Indicates Hard Struggle for Next Year

Uniformed Lads Help in Clean-Up Campaign — St. Jude's Patrol Leader Has Fine Record — The Scout and Thrift.

The results of the Thorne trophy competition will be announced in this column on next Saturday. The examiners have already seen enough to convince them that the race will be close, and that the winner this year will have a very hard struggle to come out ahead next year.

Friday and today every troop has been busily engaged distributing pamphlets in connection with the clean-up campaign which is to take place next week. This service will count on the new community service badge and all Scouts are racing to be the first to secure this badge when it is issued.

Patrol Leader Eddy Jenner of the St. Jude's troop now holds the largest number of badges in the province. He has passed for and secured twenty-three proficiency badges in addition to his first-class. Several other Scouts are close on his heels but they will have to hurry if they wish to catch up to him as he is studying for others at present.

Many troops and individual Scouts took advantage of Loyalist Day to go off for a hike in the surrounding country and several cooking tests were passed. It is expected that many will also go off to the woods on May 24.

Headquarters has received a copy of the Boy Scout Herald, published in connection with St. Luke's troop. The paper is very promising and contains many items of interest. The value of the Herald to the troop should be very great as it gives an opportunity to every member to render suggestions for future activities and for the officers to get in closer touch with the Scouts. Good luck to the Herald. Any other troops who have troop papers are requested to send a copy to headquarters.

9th Scout Law. A Scout Is Thrifty.

Some of the most interesting literature that exists with regard to scouting is contained in the four small books written by the late Captain the Honorable Phillips. In an article on the 9th Scout Law he says, speaking of a visit to a troop headquarters: "A Scout is standing waiting for me in the street. He gives me a salute and shakes my left hand so vigorously that he nearly dislocates my shoulder. He almost carries me off to his headquarters to see what we are doing, sir. I come to see. It is true that on opening the door some green paint nearly finds its way into my left eye. It is also true that I nearly knock over a wall of water and that I do quite knock over a Scout who is kneeling beside it and scrubbing the floor. Then at last I arrive safely in the middle of the floor. At the far end of the room there is a patrol leader putting in a window-pane, while his second is cutting out a groove for the ash-tray to enable the window to open and shut after it has been put in. Three or four Scouts are occupied in painting the walls, while farther along a Scout is carving a design for a picture frame. Another Scout is engaged in splicing. He is making a rope ladder which is going to be suspended from the left above because they hadn't room for stairs and a ladder would be in the way. I express a desire to be hoisted to the loft. The loft was certainly dusty but I would not have missed seeing it for anything, for there I find a patrol of Scouts sitting round with needle repairing the holes in some of their tents. One boy has taken a turn on the heel of his stocking by way of variety.

"When I get down again I have another look around. The wall which is now being painted has five little notice boards. A little farther along there are some carefully pressed flowers fastened up on a large sheet. Beyond that is a shelf which holds the troop cup as well as two model bridges. Every one of these things has been made by Scouts themselves.

"As I walk home I think of the 9th Scout Law. These boys had set to work on a place which it would have cost perhaps $50 to convert into troop headquarters; yet they had not only done it without spending money, but they were actually making themselves considerably richer than when they had started.

"There were also at least twenty badges which they would earn while engaged in this excellent work, and they would have got something which no money can buy, namely, the real Scout spirit of thrift."

"This is only a sample of Sir Roland's style of writing. His books are all written in the form of letters to a patrol leader and present every subject in a new light entirely. This selection was taken as a result of a visit the editor paid to St. Luke's troop where he was shown the new officers' room which the Scouts had converted from an old store-room to a bright officers' headquarters. 11th St. Luke's Troop.

With every Scout looking spick and span St. Luke's Troop turned out in full strength last Monday evening to be inspected for the Thorne Trophy competition. After the review which was witnessed by parents and friends, the examining officer, Capt. Ingleton, and A. C. Skelton complimented the troop on its

the Scouts had refitted and decorated. King's Scout E. Jenner of St. Jude's troop was also in attendance. Next Monday being a holiday there will be no meeting of St. Luke's troop.

3rd Wolf Cub Pack. The Cubs met as usual on Thursday night under Cubmaster W. Dunlop. Games were played and then instruction was taken on the Second Star tests. Headquarters officers are at present inspecting several camp sites for the provincial camp which is to be held after July 9. An announcement in this regard will appear soon.

TO BREAK STRIKE. Vancouver, May 21—An attempt to break the coastwise sailors' strike now in its third week, will be made Friday evening when the Union S. S. Company's steamer Venture will sail for Skeena. The company has refused to make any concessions to strikers.

HAIG NOT HELPED BY POLITICIANS

Field Marshal Gives First Interview to Newspaper Man

Objects to Interference of Politicians in Military Plans — Has Prepared Secret History of the War — The Decisive Day.

(Toronto Mail and Empire.) A few days ago Field Marshal Earl Haig gave to Frank Scudamore, a veteran British war correspondent, what is said to be the first interview he has ever granted to a newspaper man. The interview was designed for circulation in the United States, where, a few days earlier a statement by Marshal Petain seemed to disparage the American soldier and especially the methods of training at West Point. Earl Haig spoke gratefully of the American soldiers, and said that if in recent speeches he had appeared not to give them their due it was because in these cases he had just received the freedom of the city in which the address was made, and as his hearers were for the most part demobilized British soldiers, it was natural that he should devote his utterances to a eulogy of the county regiments. We consider the apology ample, especially when the field marshal proceeded to declare that he yielded to nobody in his admiration for the great American armies that fought in the war.

Foolish Politicians. The field marshal then proceeded to general discussion of the war, in which he made it plain that like all other distinguished soldiers he strongly objects to the interference of politicians in military plans once war is in progress. As

TORTURED BY TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Suffered Three Years Until She tried "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

DAME PETER LAMARRE Pointe St. Pierre, P. Q. "I think it my duty to tell you how much your medicine has done for me. I suffered for three years with terrible eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good. Then I used one box of Sootha-Salva and two boxes of 'Fruit-a-tives' and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is a marvellous cure because no other medicine did me any good and I tried all the remedies I ever heard of, without benefit until I used 'Sootha-Salva' and 'Fruit-a-tives.' 'Fruit-a-tives' cooled the blood and removed the cause of the disease and 'Sootha-Salva' completed the cure." Dame PETER LAMARRE (Mrs.) 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. far as he was concerned he could recall no useful assistance rendered in the military sphere by politicians. He said that so many of them spend their lives in an effort to attain office that they have not time to study history and learn the factors that make empires. He said that at different times the political chiefs in London, Paris and Rome formed definite opinions as to the line of action that would be adopted by the enemy in certain circumstances and at certain dates, and he adds: "It is noteworthy that in no single instance were these provisions accurate. The definite anticipations they formed were never justified by events." When pessimism might have been justified the politicians were unanimously optimistic. When optimism was natural they were filled with forebodings. Just two months before the Germans signed the armistice the field marshal visited London in order to tell the authorities that he regarded the war as being near the last paragraph of the last page.

Could Not See the End. He said that as a result of the constant hammering the German power of resistance could not possibly last out the year. "But," he says, "the people at home would have nothing to do with my conclusions. They had evidently resolved in their minds that the crucial period of the war—the determining phase—would begin in the first week in the month of July, 1918. Although I received a most friendly hearing I felt that he regarded me as an optimist and

Mrs. E. Bainbridge, 80 Maple Ave., Amherst, N. S., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you of the good I received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for headaches. I was so bad I had to go to bed, and could not sit up. A friend told me about your wonderful medicine, and two vials have made me as well as I can be. that I had not prevailed on them to alter their minds." One can only comment on this, that if the politicians refused to accept the judgment of the commander-in-chief of the British armies on so technical a matter, it is a wonder that the war was won. Perhaps similar conditions prevailed in the enemy armies. The correspondent was struck by the extreme modesty of the house occupied by the field marshal. It is simply a roomy villa on Kingston Hill, close to Richmond, which was secured by Lady Haig for herself and children when her husband was in France. It stands in pretty grounds of no great extent and is one of thousands of such houses occupied by moderately well-to-do business men in London.

The Decisive Days of the War. The hall leading to the library where the interview took place bore testimony to the sporting tastes of the owner, for on stands and racks were arrayed guns and rifles, fishing rods, riding whips and golf clubs, and the fact that these personal treasures were thus displayed argued the absence of a gunroom. There is an apartment at Eastcott which might have served as gunroom, but it had been adapted to another purpose, and a more important one. It contains what will undoubtedly prove to be the greatest treasure of the Haig family for all time to come. This is the great war map of the western front on which Haig and his staff worked out their problems throughout the whole course of the war, and on which the changing positions of the opposing forces were recorded from day to day during the struggle. There are, of course, hundreds of smaller maps. The favorite map of the field marshal is that showing the position of the armies on Sept. 27, which he regards as the decisive day of the war. On this map there is this note in Earl Haig's hand, "British broke the Hindenburg line on 27th September, 1918."

Secret History of the War. The map room is locked and guarded. The lynx-eyed correspondent did not fail to note that when the host prepared to escort him thither he drew from a locked drawer in his study the key that gives access to the treasure house. There is something else in the house that is priceless. This is the secret history of the war which has been compiled by the field marshal. It will not be made public for perhaps fifty years, or until those who played the chief roles in the conflict have passed away. A copy of this work has been made, and has been placed with the British Museum for safe keeping, in case anything untoward should happen to the original. It is said beside his great estate of Strathfield-say, and Apsley House in London, Haig has received £100,000, but is understood to have considerable private means. It is unpleasant to read that the movement to purchase by popular subscription the Haig family ancestral property, "land and houses," has failed through, as a result, opines Mr. Scudamore, of the apathy of the London newspapers. However, any time the field marshal is pressing need for a million or so he has only to conquer his scruples about the immediate publication of his book.

SELLING YOURSELF TO YOUR EMPLOYER Big organizations are gradually learning that it is quite as important to sell themselves to their applicants for positions as it is to select employees. The reason is plain, and in the current issue of "Forbes Magazine," New York, William Marvin Jackson tells the following story:

"There's a young man outside who refuses to fill out an application blank," said the employment manager to his assistant. "Did you tell him that he had to fill out an application before he could be interviewed?" asked the employment manager impatiently.

"Yes, sir, but he says he's not sure that he wants to be considered as an applicant until he's talked to you."

To the employment manager this was something new. He had people kick at filling out such a long application blank before, but he had never had anyone put the matter up to him in just this way. "Well, send him in," he said. "I have a position," said the young man, "but I have heard some good things about your company and thought I would try to get some first hand information. If I'm convinced that this is a good place for me I would like to file my application. If you don't mind my interviewing you a bit about your company, then, of course, I shall be glad to have you interview me about myself. Unless I want you, you don't want me. If it's too much bother for you to go about it in this way either now or later, then I'll know already that this is not the kind of connection I'm looking for." The upshot of the matter was that the employment manager first said the company to the young man, and then the young man sold himself to the company's representative.

DUNLOP TRUCK TIRES

CHOOSE THESE TIRES FOR ECONOMY USE THESE TIRES FOR EFFICIENCY

- As a Motor Truck owner, with a desire for economy, you should investigate the following: 1. There are more cubic inches of rubber to the cross section in Dunlop Motor Truck Tires than in any other make of Truck Tires obtainable. That extra volume of resilient, road-resisting rubber means a lower operating cost-per-mile. 2. Dunlop Motor Truck Tires are made from the matchless English Dunlop formula, which has proven its worth in indisputable mileage records. 3. The wear and tear on your truck will be noticeably decreased. More resilient rubber means more buoyancy—less damage to the truck's mechanism and to its contents—as well as a marked saving in fuel consumption. 4. If you use the new "SAMSON" Tire you will enjoy a confidence born of the knowledge that your tires can bear, without injury, an occasional over-load to save an extra trip. 5. From actual tests made, Dunlop Motor Truck Tires are the lowest cost-per-mile Truck Tires you can use.

Dunlop Motor Truck Tires absolutely will not split or come loose from the steel base. You cannot chisel them off.

Health and Happiness

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Women of today seem to listen to every call of duty except the supreme one that tells them to guard their health. Home duties, church duties, war activities, and the hundred and one calls for charitable enterprises soon lead women to overdo. Nervousness, headaches, backaches and female troubles are the inevitable result. Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which, added to my weak condition, kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. This kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness. Health and happiness? Yes, I have both now."—Mrs. J. WORTLENE, 2842 North Taylor Street, Philadelphia, Pa. The majority of women nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down nervous condition with headaches, backache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. Avoid them by taking in time

Your complexion tells a story to the world

NOTHING so quickly creates an impression of your personality as your skin. Don't let it tell of unhygienic or thoughtless habits. If it lacks clearness—if it is marred by disfiguring little blackheads—give it the special treatment that will overcome this defect. Blackheads are a confession that you are using the wrong method of cleansing for your type of skin. To keep your skin free from this trouble, use this treatment every night: Apply hot cloths to the face until the skin is reddened. Then with a rough washcloth, work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and rub it into the pores thoroughly—always with an upward and outward motion. Rinse with clear hot water, then with cold. If possible, rub your face for thirty seconds with a lump of ice. To remove the blackheads already formed, substitute a flesh brush for the washcloth in the treatment given above. Then protect the fingers with a handkerchief and press out the blackheads. Special treatments for each different skin need are given in the famous booklet of treatments that is wrapped around every cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap. Get a cake today—begin using your treatment tonight. Woodbury's Facial Soap is on sale at any drug store or toilet goods counter in the United States or Canada. A 25 cent cake lasts for a month or six weeks of any treatment or for general cleansing use. The Andrew Jergens Company, Cincinnati, New York, and Perth, Ontario.

WHY GOOD ROADS ARE ADVANTAGEOUS

Thirteen Reasons Given for Their Importance in the Life of a Community.

(Montreal Herald.)

Good roads are so important to the financial, social and educational well-being of a rural community that no enumeration of their advantages is likely to include all the benefits; but a brief consideration of some of the chief advantages of good roads will be of value in determining the amount of money that may justifiably be expended to secure road improvement and in deciding who should in equity bear this expense. The principal advantages of good roads, i. e. of permanently hard ones, are as follows:

1. Good roads decrease the cost of transportation—at some seasons of the year considerably, but at others very little. This item will be considered more fully later.
2. Good roads make the marketing of crops easier. This advantage results in extending the area devoted to the cultivation of fruits and vegetables, and is most effective in the vicinity of a large city.
3. Good roads give a wider choice of time for the marketing of crops. In some instances good roads permit the marketing of crops when the labor production is not pressing; but this advantage accrues only to the producers of perishable crops, and is not of great importance since the labor required to market the produce is small in comparison with that of production.
4. Good roads permit the marketing to be done when prices are most favorable. This advantage is more important with perishable than with imperishable products. As far as perishable products are concerned, this advantage is virtually

The bride-elect had been showing her presents to a party of admiring friends. "And I've got such a good idea," she gushed. "I'm so afraid people will discover we are newly married that I've made Jack promise that when—when we go away tomorrow he'll treat me in public just as if he had no thought for any one except himself."

"A middle-aged friend shook her head. "Don't," he said, in tones of sad wisdom. "I tried that plan—and my husband never got over it."

included in paragraph two above. As far as imperishable products are concerned, this advantage is important only near a large city, i. e., where the producer hauls to the market. Prices of staple farm products (not garden products) are not much affected by roads, since the conditions of the roads is local, while prices are governed by world-wide conditions.

5. Good roads give a wider choice of the market place. This advantage affects perishable products chiefly, and for geographical reasons is, as a rule, not very great.
6. Good roads tend to equalize the produce market between different weather conditions. In the absence of railroad transportation and cold storage, this advantage might be of considerable local importance, but under ordinary conditions it is comparatively unimportant.
7. Good roads tend to equalize railroad traffic between the different seasons of the year. Impassable wagon roads over any considerable area materially decrease the amount of agricultural products to be transported by railroads, and at times congest the railroad transportation facilities. The effect of good roads in equalizing railroad transportation is partially neutralized by the fact that agricultural products are only one of many classes of commodities transported by the railroads; and also by the fact that most railroads transport agricultural products originating over a considerable area, and bad wagon roads are not likely to occur over all the contributory area at the same time; and further by the fact that the storage capacity of warehouses helps to equalize the traffic.

8. Good roads tend to equalize mercantile business between different seasons of the year. Merchants having a considerable rural custom could do business more economically if the trade were distributed uniformly throughout the year. However, the succession of good roads and bad wagon roads is only one cause of the unequal distribution of rural patronage.

9. Good roads permit more easy intercourse between the members of rural communities, and also between rural and urban populations. This is an important benefit, particularly under a democratic form of government.
10. Good roads facilitate the consolidation of rural schools, and thereby increase their economy and efficiency. This is an important matter to coming generations.
11. Good roads facilitate rural mail delivery, and thereby tend to improve the social and intellectual condition of the rural population.

12. Good roads sometimes change rural into suburban property.
13. Good roads are a material factor in stimulating tourist travel and making rural communities attractive to vacation residents.

Income Tax In Old Country Takes £120,000 From Man With £150,000

SOME OF THE WEALTHY SAID TO BE LIVING ON CAPITAL

Sir Ian Hamilton's Challenge Re Gallipoli—A Glimpse at the Germany of Today—Topics of Interest of a Week in Empire Metropolis.

(From our own Correspondent.) London, April 29—A city friend, discussing the effect of the budget on the manner and methods of personal expenditure, expressed the belief that the relationship of capital and labor has undergone a very radical change under the influence of the present-day taxation. Mr. Chamberlain explained that the man with an income of £150,000 will pay £120,000 to the revenue in income-tax. The business man who is sufficiently successful to earn such income is of the opinion that the risks that have to be taken to obtain it are not compensated by the rewards attendant on success, in view of the fact that four-fifths have to be paid in taxation. The result is that many of the richest men are deliberately living on their capital. A man with capital of perhaps £500,000 keeps possibly £100,000 invested in this country, which at 10 per cent. brings him in £10,000 a year. Roughly half of this is taken by the income tax authorities, leaving him a net £5,000 a year. He keeps £100,000 of his capital for current expenses over the next five years, which gives him, without interest, £20,000 a year, and the remaining £300,000 he invests abroad in some sort of investment such as rubber estates, tea or tobacco plantations, which take five years to develop, pay no dividend during that period, but at the end may have doubled in value. He will then withdraw his capital, by this time £600,000, will retain one or two hundred thousand pounds to live upon, and will again invest the remainder in the same way. In this way capital is being spent all the time and no income-tax is payable upon it. My friend declares that the city is agreed that this is the only way in which wealth can be increased today.

The Gallipoli Blunder. Sir Ian Hamilton has caused a distinct flutter in the official corridors by his challenge on the question of the supreme direction of the Gallipoli adventure, of which he was the local commander-in-chief. Evidently the distinguished literature and soldier smarts under a strong sense of injustice back to himself and the gallant fighters whom he commanded. The gravamen of his indictment is that he might have knocked out the Turks, taken Constantinople, joined up with Russia and kept Bulgaria out of the war, and presumably Rumania in, on many occasions between the Gallipoli landing and the historic evacuation. Once the miracle of the landing was accomplished, says Sir Ian, there was no further doubt of success. It was a matter of the supreme Allied control making up what may be called their minds. Had the adventure been run not from Paris, but from London, says the general, we must have triumphed. So emphatic and daring a challenge must be taken up by someone. It is understood that Sir Ian and Mr. Churchill see eye to eye on this question. They want the army and the navy to co-operate, and both to go all out for a knock out against the Turk early on. Sir Ian Hamilton is the gallant officer who, while on Sir George White's Lady-smith staff during the siege, led the famous charge of the Devon from Waggon Hill. He went through the Russo-Japanese War as our military attaché and wrote a fine book about his experiences. He has never been very popular in this country. He asserts that alone in Europe the German has grasped the vital necessity of economic reconstruction by means of production. In Germany the workers are striking at it, almost night and day, and not bothering at the moment about wages and conditions so much as the national economic well-being and the future prosperity in which they mean to share. He says that the Germans from end to end of Germany are obsessed by a bitter hatred of the Allies, but particularly of the French and that what they have in mind is clear. This is an American business man who has no prejudices, and he says that Germany will first restore her national economic stability, and then her military prowess. That is what the people dream of at all times. He mentions that most of the German prisoners of war who have been repatriated from England readily admitted their good treatment here, and they were better fed as prisoners in England than as soldiers in the German armies. Their attitude is one of gratitude to England, but of contempt for English stupidity. They think we are fools to do it. Incidentally this American cordially endorses the statement of a distinguished commander-in-chief in Germany since the peace the man who is not a thief is either stone blind or helplessly paralytic. In Berlin at night one runs the risk of being held up and robbed of one's overcoat. Extravagant living and reckless profligacy are marked characteristics of certain sections of Berlin life.

Mrs. Asquith on Women. Mrs. Asquith, it appears, is not one who approves of women in the House of Commons, and the rumor that she is herself to stand for a constituency is, I am told, entirely unfounded. A few weeks ago she and Mr. Asquith were staying with some friends of mine in Lancashire, and during their stay she gave the most emphatic expression of her views on this subject. The topic of conversation had turned on the suitability of the average woman for administrative work and particular mention was made of the recent advent of Lady Astor to the House. "All women," declared Mrs. Asquith, sweepingly, "are fools. They are mostly cats, and also most of them are Tories." I suspect, however, that these views are not widely aired at Paisley.

It is remarkable how exceedingly unpopular the one and only lady M. P. has become with the average member of the house of commons. At first the tendency distinctly was to make a pet of the first woman M. P. But that has most emphatically changed now. And the majority of members, when the subject of women in parliament is mentioned, say fervently "Dunt." It may be mere elemental Adam, or it may be primitive sex antagonism, but one fancies the real explanation is that Lady Astor has impressed the house of commons, and a rather unfortunate squabble over the corner seat below the gangway and what is regarded as the unsporting disregard for unwritten law, in a phrase one member used in discussing the question, "put the top-hat on it."

At the same time one finds the most marked hostility to the lady M. P. among the foremost champions of her own sex. Leading feminists are very angry about it. Their case is that Lady Astor, however admirable as a society woman in her domestic capacity, is not a bit representative of the woman's movement. And they say she is giving a wrong impression of the woman politician of the near future. For Papa! Apparently the male members of some families do not have time to buy their own hats, or, at any rate, pretend they have not, when urged to fresh expenditure by a critical family. The manager of a large firm of Strand hatters told me an amusing story this week. The other night, it seems, at about five o'clock, he was standing about in the shop waiting to lock up the premises, a dandy entered, and declared that he wanted a hat. It was not for herself, she explained, but for her father, and the size she wanted was seven and one-eighth. Green hats, brown hats, and hats of every shade of grey were produced for her inspection, until she finally hit on a color scheme "will you try it on for me, please." She was buying no pig in a poke, and intended to see how it looked when actually worn. The young salesman pointed out that she had explained that her head was too small to act as a dummy. "Oh," she said, "I am not a dummy. I am a young girl, and she is a head the right size. Then, satisfied that the hat she had chosen was up to her sartorial standard, she paid for it, and with perfect self-possession carried the purchase home.

St. Paul's was crowded inside and out when the ornate and beautiful service was held for the commemoration of the departed knights of St. Michael and St. George and the installation of the banners of new members of the order in the place of the dead members. The departed knights were Baron Robson and Sir Henry Blake, and the new knights were Baron Emmott and Sir Gerald Strickland. The knights and companions of the order were in their full regalia, and marched up the cathedral in slow step to the solemn music of the Dead March. Most of them were old soldiers or sailors, but they found it difficult to perform the slow march step. A touch of pathos was imparted by the tottering steps of some of the aged members of the famous order of English chivalry. The removal and installation of the banners was a very impressive ceremony, full of romance, as distinct from the workaday world that went roaring past the cathedral and down Ludgate Hill, as one could picture or imagine. When the service was over and the knights were leaving, a very one ancient member drop his handkerchief just as he was getting into his motor. A woman in the crowd, with a crust of bread in one hand and munching the white, picked the dainty handkerchief up and handed it to the distinguished veteran as naturally as could be. The Barrie Fantasy. Most of the London critics give highly appreciative notices of the new Barrie play. Compared with most of our modern London plays, except one or two topical satires recently produced, it is quite beyond criticism. Barrie is never banal or dull; he is never hackneyed or cheap. But, compared with his own best work, the new play lacks just that final touch of genius that should bring down the curtain on a convincing dramatic climax. All night we were straining eagerly forward, with fervent interest and delight, for the stupendous denouement we all felt in the air, like one senses the thunder storm, but there was only a mild April shower at the end of it all. Still—a most delightful night's entertainment, full of the happiest Barrie domestic touches, and superbly acted. Robert Loraine in the final scene plays with a gripping vital restraint that is masterly. The first night audience was very brilliant, and not so amateurish in experience as to entertain any serious hopes of getting the author to take a "call." Everybody laughed once—when Mr. Theagar, and the boatman, forgot to unroll the cigar, the famous hit and powder off with the stumps of a tree. My Lady Weeps! An agonized protest is raised by the cigar smokers against the terrific new duties on their favorite form of weed. It is asserted that the cigar industry has been only just managing to struggle along under existing burdens of taxation. And nobody is likely to waste much sympathy on the cigar smoker's troubles, he taking honorary rank among those who in these days are known as "blooming—or something else—producers." But the object of taxation is either to raise money or to penalize. In this instance of the raised duty and the fifty per cent. ad valorem additions on the duty, it is claimed that it cannot possibly be taxation for revenue, since it is practically prohibitive, and the workers are striking at it, almost night and day, and not bothering at the moment about wages and conditions so much as the national economic well-being and the future prosperity in which they mean to share. He says that the Germans from end to end of Germany are obsessed by a bitter hatred of the Allies, but particularly of the French and that what they have in mind is clear. DEVELOPMENT OF ST. JOHN PORT

Ottawa, May 21.—There is no doubt as to where O. Turgeon, the veteran Gloucester Liberal, stands on the tariff question. He proclaimed in a ringing speech in the commons tonight his absolute belief in the policy of free trade. "I am a free trader in principle, in theory and in practice," he asserted. Mr. Turgeon suggested to Sir Henry Drayton that a revenue of $80,000,000 could have been raised by placing a one per cent. tax on land values in the dominion.

Strong appeals are being made every day for the development of the port of St. John and I am one of those who appeal for that," continued the Gloucester member, who as a citizen of St. John, but as a Canadian, knowing the facilities that port commands for the transportation of grain and other products of the west as well as for the products of the east. That port seems to have been placed there by providence not merely for the benefit of the people of St. John but for the benefit of the people of Canada as a whole.

MORE MOTOR CARS IN TROUBLE

A Franklin five-passenger car met with an accident about 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon at nearly the same spot on the Rothesay Road, where the Renforth tragedy occurred about one month ago. According to a resident of Renforth the car was going towards Rothesay at a moderate rate of speed, when a passer-by noticing that one of the doors was open, called out to the driver. The latter turned to close the door and as he did so the car swerved and went into the ditch just beyond the culvert at George Colby's grocery store, Renforth. The automobile was not damaged, but the driver was injured.

PRESENTATION TO PASTOR

The meeting of the Junior Epworth league of the Portland Methodist church last evening partook largely of a social character. A few choruses were sung by the league, followed with readings by Iselone McBeath and Donald W. McLaughlin and piano solos by Eva Mathewson and Vicar McLaughlin. A half hour was spent in quiet games, followed by refreshments. At the close the league presented to the pastor, Rev. Nell McLaughlin, a gold mounted book, bearing his initials. The presentation was made on behalf of the league by Frank W. Merrill, who related the valuable work Mr. McLaughlin had done during the past four years, and who is shortly to go elsewhere. Mr. McLaughlin, in reply to the presentation, thanked the league, and spoke of the valuable aid rendered the league during the four years he was the pastor by Miss Evelyn Hux, Miss Annie Harshorn and Mrs. Edward Harshorn.

USE THE WANT AD WAY

LET US BE FRIENDLY CRITICS

To the Editor of The Times: Sir,-In an endeavor to make St. John a better place to live in, and considering the many changes necessary to the attainment of that objective I would suggest the following as of some assistance: Be a friendly critic of any effort being made; it is the easiest thing in the world to find fault; it is the hardest to analyze causes and apply remedies. Conversely, because upbuilding is so difficult, involving analysis, good judgment and originality, we seldom apply ourselves to this work. It is easy to tear down; it is difficult to build up. So we unconsciously following the line of least resistance, tear down. When we interest ourselves in a thing it is in a bitterly critical way. Not that criticism is not a good thing. It is. Without it there would be no appreciable progress. The one is destructive and to be avoided except in a few unusual cases; the other is constructive and to be applied generally. The first requires no serious thought, while the second involves some study; so most criticism is of the destructive type. You may think these statements prevail is plainly exhibited, when delegations from St. John visit Fredericton or Ottawa. Respectfully submitted, H. R. McLELLAN, Secy. The Commercial Club.

'PRESIDENTIAL YEAR' IN THE UNITED STATES

Practically 12 Months Devoted to Choosing Head

Thousand Delegates at Each National Convention—Many Women at Gatherings This Year—Some Possible Candidates.

(Canadian Press.) New York, May 20—One year in every four, thanks to the rigid terms of its constitution, the United States must lay aside less important business and elect a president and a vice-president. This being the year, the American people are at present deeply preoccupied with elections. "Presidential year" is a phrase in the United States that means more than the year during which a new president is chosen. Counting the preliminaries of electing delegates to the national party conventions that choose presidential candidates, and all the varied activities of the many freeborn citizens who think that the mantle should descend upon them, practically the entire year is devoted to politics, from February, when some states pick their convention delegates, until November, when the actual presidential voting is held.

Candidates for president and vice-president are actually selected at national party conventions. This year these will be held in June, the Republican convention at Chicago and the Democratic at San Francisco. Delegates to these conventions are elected at special party primaries held in the various states early in the year, or at district and state conventions in parts of the country where the primary law is not in vogue. Every state is allowed double as many delegates as it has senators and representatives in congress. The men in each state corresponding to the representatives of that state in the senate are delegates-at-large, while the others are district delegates. This makes up about 1,000 delegates to each national convention.

Selecting Delegates. The system under which the various states operate in selecting their delegates to the great national nominating conventions is by no means uniform. There are almost as many variations to the primary laws as there are states in the republic. In some states, such as New Jersey and Ohio, the voters at the primaries are given an opportunity of expressing their personal preferences for presidential possibilities, and they elect delegates "instructed" to vote for this or that man as candidate. In other states the delegates are uninstructed. Many states have not adopted the primary system in electing delegates to the presidential conventions, retaining the older convention plan, which roughly corresponds to the method of choosing parliamentary candidates in Canada. District conventions are held throughout the state, and district delegates to the national convention are selected. Then a state convention is called, and at this the delegates-at-large are named. New York's "Big Four" for example, were chosen at a state convention at Albany. Alternate delegates-at-large are also selected. It is a sign of the times that this year quite a number of delegates to Chicago and San Francisco are women.

At the Republican national convention a majority vote is sufficient to nominate a presidential candidate, but at the Democratic convention a two-thirds vote is required. It often happens that the "instructions" under which a proportion of the delegates come to the assembly go for nothing, and a dark horse is picked upon the second or third ballot. In fact, the whole primary system is declared by many influential newspapers of the United States to be a failure, in that it gives as much opening as the old convention for the operation of the party "machine," and after all, decides nothing.

Commenting on this year's results in the state primaries up to the present time, the New York Times says editorially:

"In 1916, when, in a number of states the presidential primary was little more than a joke or a fraud, there was a great deal of talk about reforming it in preparation for 1920. Nothing was done. It remains an expensive luxury, largely useless as an expression of public opinion even in states where party integrity is supposed to be maintained under it. In states of laxer primary laws it hospitably permits the opponents of a political party to have a hand in, and it may be, to decide the selection of the delegates who are to nominate its candidate for president.

"Everywhere it is the voice of the minority of the party. In some states it does not possess even that authority; but the will of all sorts of oppositions that invade it. Mr. Bryan is permitted to continue his favorite task of promoting Democratic harmony because outside the large towns, it is the privilege of Republican voters to go into the Democratic primaries. In Montana, by a trick at the last moment, a list of Republican delegates whose surnames conveniently begin with the early letters of the alphabet so as to give them first place on the ticket, includes Socialists and Farmer-Laborites. Wherever the Non-partisan League is strong it plumps solidly into the primary of the party which it most desires to injure or control. Even the great state of Ohio has a primary system so 'liberal' that anybody seems able to vote in the primaries of a party other than his own.

"Politicians use the primary to foster candidates to whom they are opposed, for the sake of injuring candidates to whom they are likewise opposed, but whose strength alarms them. In some states palpably absurd candidates for president and vice-president have their opportunity for notoriety. Even in Oregon, whose people have sought perhaps more constantly and seriously than those of any other state to improve political machinery, there is absolutely no way to express the prevailing opinion of a party on great public questions, on the League of Nations, for instance. You can vote for a candidate but not for a principle.

"There is something exasperatingly unreal, as there is something potentially dangerous, in this face of presidential primaries. What sufficiently condemns it, however, is that it decides nothing. After all the time and effort and money expended, after the creation of animosities and irritations, it is clear that the primaries this year amount to very little and settle nothing. The national conventions will have to do on their own hook the work of selecting their candidates. It may be said that this is what they ought to do, but what has been the use of the primaries? In each convention there will be delegates who never could have been elected if the principle of party integrity had been maintained. It is a reproach to the American political intelligence that so much of comedy, of trickery and of illusion should attach to what is supposed to be a consultation and indication of 'the people's will.' It has failed stupendously, it ought to be abolished."

"Favorite Sons."

The results of the primaries already held point to the fact that the great majority of the delegates to the Republican and Democratic conventions will be uninstructed, or instructed for local candidates who are not likely to last much beyond the first ballot. "Favorite sons," as state favorites are called, do not appear to be having an easy time of it this presidential year. Senator Harding of Ohio secured a nominal endorsement from Republican voters of that state, but won only by a nose from Major-General Leonard Wood. In Illinois Governor Frank G. Lowden did better, defeating General Wood by a plurality of 64,351 votes. In Massachusetts Governor Coolidge is the tentative choice of the Republican delegation, but it is known to favor Wood strongly for second choice. So the story goes.

In the meantime, the press in general is remarking the efforts of the Wood and Johnson committees to win delegates for their respective candidates throughout the country. Senator Hiram Johnson of California is not the choice of the Republican party, that is, of the conservative element of the party, and his whirlwind campaign is being closely and nervously watched by the Old Guard. The pro-Wood newspaper the New York Tribune, says:

"The country is beginning to take note of the character of the senator's chief support. He has attracted to his standard the remnants of the old German-

American alliance, likewise the special champions of Eamonn de Valera, and also radicals and their dupes who regard Lenin as a great statesman. Finally he has the vociferous endorsement of Hearst, who makes little secret of the fact that he hopes Senator Johnson will be defeated in Chicago, and that in his irritation he will consent to head a third party.

"In the main the Johnson candidacy is flavored with two kinds of hyphenism and carries an odor of extreme radicalism. During the remaining weeks of the pre-convention campaign these things will come more and more to public attention, and the fact will not tend uninstructed delegates to turn to it."

"But think," pleaded the amorous old millionaire, "of the jewels and motor cars and foreign trips a rich husband could give you."

"Oh, a rich father would do just as well," said the girl; "marry mamma."

A permanent roof at a moderate cost

IF you are going to erect a home, store, factory, garage or other building with a slanting roof upon which an attractive, permanent covering is desired at a moderate cost you will find that Brantford Crystal Roofing meets your requirements.

This roofing is comprised of felt, asphalt and crushed crystals of quarry slate and weighs 80 to 85 lbs. per square. Its extra weight will give you an idea of its durability and permanency.

Brantford Crystal Roofing is sold in reddish brown and dark green, which are the natural, unfadeable colors of its crushed slate surface. This roofing adds beauty to any roof covered with it. Being in rolls and pliable it is very easily and quickly laid, which is an advantage when the need is urgent, labor so scarce and wages so high.

Brantford Crystal Roofing

is non-absorbent and therefore completely waterproof. It makes a solid, permanent roof which is proof against rain, snow, frost and heat. Flying embers and clouds of sparks may fall on its crushed slate surface but they harmlessly die out without injuring the roofing.

Gorman Captain.
There was a full attendance of the G.W.V.A. baseball team and sports executive at the meeting held last evening in the rooms. The chairman of the committee, F. P. J. Travers, presided, and the popularity of Charles Gorman was shown by his being unanimously elected captain for the coming season. In the absence of Gorman, who was unavoidably detained elsewhere, the line-up of the team was not officially announced, but a good fighting team will be on hand for the exhibition game May 24. During the evening amateur cards were issued to the players and preparations made for the coming campaign on the diamond.
