VETERANS TO TAKE UP LAND ACCEPT GRANTS

Over Five Hundred Write Department They're Ready for Farms

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—From present appearances a good many men who wielded the sword in South Africa will shortly follow the plow in Western Canada. The act of last session qualifying every man who served on a Canadian contingent in South Africa to a special grant of three hundred and twenty acres of land beyond the Great Lakes is proving exceedingly popular among the soldiers. Word of the government's generosity has carried. Of the eight thousand odd men who made up Canada's three contingents over five hundred have already written to the Militia Department declaring that they want the land. Letters are coming every day. Most are from Western Canada, but Canadian soldiers are writing from all parts of the world. There have been letters received from a large number of men in South Africa; more than a few from England, Australia and New Zealand, and a scattering from other portions of the empire in the world. The veteran will be able to make himself exceedingly comfortable in the Canadian West; for in addition to the soldier's rights he will be able to exercise homestead and pre-emption privileges of the ordinary settler and can become the possessor of a square mile of land. Warrants have been printed for the soldiers and the militia department will issue them from now on in favor of men qualified and forwarded to the Interior Department, which will give the necessary authorization to keep up the land.

Things worth knowing.

USE OF KEROSENE—Kerosene is excellent for cleaning painted and varnished floors and wood work, bathtub, marble washstands and furniture. A few drops in the water when washing window will add a fine polish. Rags saturated with kerosene and laid near their runs will cause ants to disappear. Kerosene is surely a household necessity.

CARE OF HAIR COMBS—All combs used for the hair or in the hair should be washed often in warm water with a dash of borax. Rinse by holding under the cold water faucet, dry and polish with a linen towel.

SPOTS ON POLISHED TABLES

White spots made from a too hot dish can be often removed by rubbing with spirits of camphor. THEY SAY—A teaspoonful of butter dropped into boiling vegetables will prevent any boiling over. New lamp wicks boiled in vinegar and dried thoroughly before using will never give out any disagreeable odor. Patent leather shoes if oiled frequently with either sweet oil or vaseline will last much longer.

TO TIE SHOE LACINGS—Tie in the usual manner, but before tightening the bow pass its right hand loop through the knot in the centre. Then draw the bow tight, and it will stay tied until you pull the string to undo it.

TO SHARPEN SCISSORS—Draw the blade several times firmly over the neck of a long necked bottle, as though trying to cut the bottle. You will be surprised to see what a fine sharp edge the scissors will have.

PAIRING GARMENTS—Leave all coats and skirts on the hangers when airing. This prevents sagging or marking with clothespins.

FURNITURE SCRATCHES—Scratches on polished furniture or wood work that has been varnished or finished natural can be entirely obliterated by rubbing vigorously with linseed oil.

Mrs. Curry Begins Her Suit in Equity Court

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 2.—At the office of the clerk of pleas in this city, papers have been filed in the suit in the equity court which is being brought by Mrs. Mary Eliza Curry against her husband, Dr. L. A. Curry of St. John. Mrs. Curry was formerly Miss Mary Elizabeth Child of Jackson, Michigan. They were married in 1894. According to the papers in this case, while they still live under the same roof, it is not as man and wife, relations having been strained for some time past, Mrs. Curry is bringing action against her husband for the purpose of recovering $1,818.40. She alleges that she received the amount named partly as a legacy from an uncle, partly in presence from her husband, and $100 came as remuneration for writing a story for a magazine. It is alleged that her husband got her to have the money put to their joint credit and withdrew it while she was away attending the funeral of her father in Michigan.

A "Stinging Slap"

The Conservative Kingston Standard, speaking of the racial cry of the Halifax organ of the Fosters and Fowlers and Tanner says—"It is to be recalled, however—and this fact should be borne in strongly upon the Conservative newspapers—that the French-Canadians have not always been loyal to Mr. Laurier, nor yet to the Liberal cause. It is a fact testifying strongly to the remarkable personality of that greatest of all Canadians, Sir John A. Macdonald, that he was able for many years to hold Lubec strongly to himself and to his party, and that he was no less worshipped in that Province in his day than Sir Wilfrid is now. It was not the habit then of the Conservative papers, though, if we recollect it, it was the habit of the Liberal papers, to find fault with the French-Canadians, not alone for their nationalism, but also for their political allegiance. We cannot see how, when the shoe is on the other foot, why the French-Canadians, praised on the one hand and denounced on the other some years ago because they were French and because they were Conservatives, should now be praised or denounced according as the paper which discusses the matter is Liberal or Conservative, because, forsooth, they are yet French but no longer Conservative."

THE CALL OF HOME

The following verses were composed by Dr. E. G. Stone, who was born in St. Stephen, N. B. and is now of Boston, Mass. Dear Canada My native home, Far from thy fold my feet have strayed Far, from thy rugged fir renowned hills, Thy wearied child has played; Long have I dwelt in other lands Well have I loved the eagles nest, But every heart clings to its own, My own, I loved the best. And though dear land I wonder far, Yet ever in my fondest dreams, I hear the call of home, Dear Canada, I seek thy shore, As seeks a child the mothers knee, To whisper e'er the day is done, God watch o'er me and thee.

The St. John Exhibition, which opens Saturday, September 12th, will be the greatest fair ever held in that city. The plans that have been under way for months to make this year's show the biggest and best are now complete.

As a special feature the Wonderful Driving horses, King and Queen, have been secured, and they will give two performances daily in front of the Grand Stand. This act is costing a great deal of money, but the management are determined that no expense would be spared to make the St. John show far superior to all others.

Another feature that will be looked forward to with great interest is the appearance of Adgie and her performing lions. Those who witnessed her performance four years ago can readily believe she has the best wild animal act in the world.

Other attractions will be the Imperial Japanese Troop of Acrobats, Torellis Pony and Dog Circus, Mrs. General Tom Thumb and her Lilliputian Company, and a most magnificent display of Fireworks, comprising 55 pieces, showing the eruption of Mount Vesuvius, the Railway Disaster, the walking elephant and many others.

The Pike will be more amusing this year than ever before, as many more features will be introduced, including the mystic Maze, etc.

The entries for cattle, horses and poultry have never been so large, nor has there been such a fine class of stock as will be seen this year.

The exhibits in the Industrial Building Agricultural Hall, and Carriage Hall will all be new, and there will not be a dull moment for the visitors from the time they enter until the time they leave.

Excursion rates are offered on all railroads and steamboats, and everyone should plan to be in St. John during the week of September 12 to 19.

Tickling or dry Coughs will quickly loosen when using Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so thoroughly harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else, even for very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub give the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. It calms the cough and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Accept no other. Sold by All Dealers.

The Ottawa Free Press says: The campaign mottoes seem to be in evidence early in the campaign.

For the Liberals it will be: "Four years more for Laurier."

Rev. Geo. Titus at Every Day Club.

(Telegraph.) The temperance meeting in the Every Day Club last evening was doubly interesting. Rev. George Titus delivered an eloquent address on temperance and Dr. J. W. Daniel, M. P., at the request of the W. C. T. U., gave a very instructive explanatory talk on the temperance chits to which reference was made in Saturday's papers.

Rev. Mr. Titus began with a tribute to the Every Day Club and its work, and then proceeded in a fluent and well considered address, to set forth the evil effects of intemperance. An intemperate life, he said, deprived a man of his reasoning faculties and will power, made his home unhappy and poor, weakened his physical power, and made him lose those opportunities which were open to every man to devote himself to human service. The cry of the world is for men—sober and steady men. The railways did not want them, the banks did not want them, and places of responsibility were everywhere being closed to them.

Mr. Titus referred to the wonderful growth of temperance sentiment, and declared that while local opinion was good, the real good should be prohibition. He urged the young men from Canada to free this country from the evil which was the fruitful source of so many other evils in the life of the people. Referring to today's athletic sports, Mr. Titus said that the competitors would not be able to put forth the same energy to win the prizes if they were intemperate in their habits. Dr. Daniel congratulated Mr. Titus on his eloquent address.

The Chieftain

Only a week's vacation! That was all that Sir Wilfrid Laurier took after nine steady months of the most exacting work, ten hours a day, week after week, with hardly a let up. And now he is back at Ottawa again, closely applying himself to the duties of his office. Such devotion to the public service is as exceptional as it is praiseworthy. That Sir Wilfrid has borne the heavy strain of the past session and in such excellent physical condition, as the St. John Sun remarks, should be cause for good cheer to every Canadian—even to those who see in his greatness an insurmountable bar to their party's ambitions. A man of unspotted purity, and exceptional height of character; a politician whose watchword has been moderation and conciliation and fair dealing; an orator unexcelled in modern times; a statesman broad and far seeing; a leader of a nation rather than of a political party—Sir Wilfrid Laurier has placed upon this Dominion and upon the British Empire a debt which, at least in part, must be left to the posterity to pay. The singular work of his personality and the value of his public service will not receive their due recognition until viewed through the perspective of his history.—Stratford Beacon.

Mr. Bayne in New Brunswick.

Mr. Bayne of Colchester, has been committed for trial on a charge of bribery in the Conservative interests. As the investigation into the wholesale debauchery of the constituency proceeds discovery will probably be made of the source of the supply of money and rum which this tool lavishly distributed. It is to be hoped that it will also be shown just what part Mr. Bayne played in the recent provincial election in New Brunswick, where he is reported to have been considerable assistance to Mr. Hazen's party. In one county seat last February he was present at the nomination proceedings and was seen in close conference with the Conservative candidates. Asked regarding the purpose of his presence he replied, "Oh, I was just giving the boys some tips." The revelations in Colchester give one an idea of the nature of the tips and it would be interesting in the extreme to know how they were applied.

Strictly Fresh Eggs

Where are summer resorts remote from any agricultural communities where fresh farm products are even harder to obtain than in the city. It was such a place that the new boarder, who had eaten four or five breakfasts there, began to wonder why the eggs were invariably served fried. "See here," he inquired one morning of the genial colored man who waited upon him, "why do you always fry eggs here? Don't you ever boil them?" "Oh, yes, sah!" responded the waiter, pleasantly. "Of co'se yo' kin have 'em boiled if yo' wants 'em but yo' know, sah, yo' takes de risk!"—New York Times.

What Rum and Money Did at Colchester

What the solid Liberal agreed was broken by John Stanfield at Colchester, the conservative party announced a victory in the cause of good government, and a triumph for pure elections. It transpires that the election was won by the expenditure of $41,000 and 5,175 gallons of whiskey. This is what the Tories describe as the expression of the will of a free and untrammelled people.

Laurier will win says London paper

Great British Paper Says Liberals will be Victorious again.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Discussing the prospect of a general election in Canada, The Morning Post recently said:—The opinion prevails that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will carry the country, albeit with a reduced majority. Mr. R. L. Borden has not the magnetic personality or platform powers of his great opponent, and an early change of government might prevent the ratification of the Franco-Canadian treaty, the impending obstacle to unfettered negotiations for imperial reciprocity.

Skenck Beer is not Alcoholic

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 4.—The Skenck beer test case came to a climax in the police court today, when Morris V. Paddock, of St. John, was called as provincial analyst, and told of a test of samples of beer which had been sent him for the purpose. The beer was manufactured by James Ready, of Fairville, and the test showed 17 per cent. of alcohol, while under the law at least 2.25 per cent. is allowed before beer becomes an intoxicating liquor. The beer was non-intoxicating, Mr. Paddock was on the stand most of the morning, and his examination will be resumed this afternoon, his cross-examination following. It is understood that those interested in trying to suppress the sale of Skenck beer will now endeavor to prove that it malt liquor, and thus not permissible for sale under the Scott Act.—Globe.

To keep Salt dry

To prevent salt in saltcellars from becoming damp and lumpy, when filling them up put in ten to twelve pieces of rice, says Woman's Home Companion for September. "This will not come through the holes in the cover of the saltcellars, but will break the lumps of salt and gather the moisture; thus the salt is always dry and fine."

Avoid Ice Water.

A Bloomsburg woman who had returned from a berrying trip on the mountains the other day, drank a large quantity of ice water; threw up her hands and expired in a few minutes. This is only one of the many warnings that have been given against ice water. Yet many take chances by drinking ice water at this season of the year who would be insulted it accused of robbing the boat or indulging in any other hazardous amusement. In fact it is surprising to see how many who never take a drink in warm weather unless it is ice cold have survived the effects of the chilling beverage.

Avoid Ice Water.

All should drink large quantities of pure water in the summer time, and at all seasons of the year. But water should be warm or cool, not ice water. The effect of a lot of ice water suddenly poured into one's stomach when we are suffering from excessive heat is about the same as if rapid-running machinery was brought to a standstill by a severe jolt. A good many persons who would not think of bringing an automobile to a stop by running it up against a stone wall, use without hesitation the same tactics with their physical machinery during the hot weather in drinking quantities of iced liquid.

Avoid Ice Water.

Drink water drink pure water, drink often. But do not fill up on ice water when over-heated or at any other time.

Cure Your Dandruff

Why? Because it is annoying, untidy. And mostly, because it almost invariably leads to baldness. Cure it, and save your hair. Get more, too, at the same time. All easily done with Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula. Stop this formation of dandruff! Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle Show it to your doctor Ask him about it, then do as he says. The new Ayer's Hair Vigor will certainly do this work, because, first of all, it destroys the germs which are the original cause of dandruff. Having given this aid, nature completes the cure. The scalp is restored to a perfectly healthy condition.—Made by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.—

Gas is liable to puff out of the front door of any furnace unprovided for gas escape.

"Sunshine" Furnace has Automatic Gas Damper directly connected with smoke-pipe. Gas pressure sways damper sufficiently for it to escape up chimney (see illustration), but heat doesn't escape.

What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" Furnace? Means protection to the furnace parts against evil effects of gas.

What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" householder? Means furnace can be operated without fear as to "puffing" gas furnace can be left without doubt as to whereabouts of gas.

What does "Sunshine" Gas Damper mean to "Sunshine" coal account? It means, instead of owner with "ordinary furnace" having to keep check-draft indefinitely closed in "gas" when there's two-thirds parts of heat-energy to one part of gas passing up—chimney—draft can with all safety be opened, and coal saved for another day's duty.

For The Last Time

"Don't go tonight, Dick. Stay home with Kiddy and me."

A slender pale-faced girl was speaking. She was about 26 years of age, and undoubtedly she was pretty, but what had set its mark on her, so that her hollow cheeks added several years to her appearance; and, at the same time, detracted from her good looks. Her eyes were deep blue, and now, as she gazed on her husband they were very wistful.

"I must go to the club tonight, Ethel, the man replied. I'm almost sure to hear of a job tonight."

Richard Carrington had been a member of the unemployed for nearly nine months. Perhaps, it was largely due to himself; he was too anxious to find an opportunity just but cut for him. He was good-looking, at least many people said so, but, on close inspection, a certain weakness was apparent in his face. He was an excellent boon companion, ready to be his fellow well met with anyone, ever ready to dip his hand in his pocket (when there was money there) to help a friend, but just as ready to yield to temptation that a stronger character would have kept clear of.

He had one child, a boy, commonly known as Kiddy, and he was wrapped up heart and soul in the youngster. He was as fond of his wife as he was in his somewhat shallow nature to be, but her good advice, which would have steered him clear of many racks, had little or no effect on him.

Now their finances were at their last ebb. Lot's husband and wife knew that in a day or two the wherewithal to live would be missing, and yet Dick Carrington must go to his club.

"Don't go tonight, old boy. Stay with me, Ethel Carrington pleaded.

"I must go tonight, Ethel, but it shall be for the last time.

The girl sighed. How often she had heard those words, "for the last time." Carrington tried to look injured.

"I might hear of something tonight he said. It would be silly to miss it. Look here, it's 8 o'clock now. I'll be back by 9."

Ethel was silent; she knew she was powerless to prevent him going. He kissed her—there was rarely any lack of affection between them when he was sober—and presently the door slammed.

The girl's eyes filled with tears. She mounted heavily up the stairs and sat by Kiddy's cot. The youngster slept the deep sleep of innocent helplessness. No care or trouble had any effect on him, except his childish ailments. If his father and mother were hungry, he was always looked after and well fed.

"My darling little Kiddy" whispered the mother, gazing with mingled rapture and pain at the soft face and tiny clenched fists.

Meanwhile, Dick Carrington was laughing and joking with his companions at the Welcome Club. All care had fallen from his shoulders for there was not a fall glass before him and laughter going on around him?

Then, curiously enough, the last thing that he expected happened. He was fond of talking of looking for work at the club, but he never anticipated finding it. Now a man entered the room, a man to whom the surroundings and company were neither familiar nor congenial. He singled out Carrington.

"Ah, I thought I should find you here, he said. I want to have a few words with you."

Somewhat regretfully Dick left the circle of his friends and joined the new comer. The upshot of the conversation was that Dick was offered, and he accepted an appointment. He was to commence work on the following morning.

It was characteristic of him that his first thought was to hasten home and tell Ethel of his good fortune. With this idea in view, he acquainted his friends with what had happened, and then said good-night.

Surely you're not going without drinking luck to your new job?" cried a man.

Well, just one, then said Dick, sitting down again.

The just one was but the forerunner of many others, and it not until the public house closed did Dick try to go home.

"Richard is himself again, he quoted in a thick voice, tossing a final whiskey and soda down his throat.

He mumbled his way unsteadily home and tumbled into the living room. Then he collapsed into a chair, and tried to recall what had happened. A new idea suddenly glimmered in his fuddled brain.

"Wouldn't do for wife to see me," he muttered. "Must keep her in room."

He felt his way to the bedroom and turned the key in the lock. Then he staggered back to the living room.

"Salvi" now, Richard, he hiccupped gravely, addressing his reflection in the mirror. Knew you'd find job didn't you, Richard?"

He staggered back against the table, and with a sweep of his arm, upset a lighted oil lamp. A moment later a pale blue flame ran all over the tablecloth. The man collapsed into a chair, and gazed in surprised annoyance at the flame.

"Ridiculous" he muttered. Silly little flames aren't they? If big nice big flames in a Richard don't like like little flames.

He felt aggrieved, and, to show his annoyance, he closed his eyes, so as not to see the sheet of blue flame that was rapidly growing larger and licking up everything in its path. Carrington's head nodded, and a few seconds later he fell into a drunken stupor. He was awakened by two causes, one was a loud thundering noise the other was a feeling of suffocation.

In a dazed manner he started around to find the room filled with dense smoke tinged with a warm red glow. On all sides the crackling of burning timber was apparent, and every now and then the thun of falling plaster was heard.

He was sober now. He realized that he had done this. He was responsible for the fire—he and the drink within him. He jumped to his feet his eyes smarting, his breath coming with difficulty, because of the smoke. He dimly heard people shouting and thundering at the door, but he gave no heed to this, he was thinking of Ethel and Kiddy.

A great wave of smoke came out to meet him as he threw the door open. He felt his way through it to the bed, shouting "Ethel" at the top of his voice. His scorched and bleeding hands grasped at the smouldering sheets, but there was no life beneath them. Like a madman he began to feel about the room, thrusting his hands before him through flame and smoke, until suddenly he felt something soft on the floor.

It was Ethel and beneath her was Kiddy. He called passionately to her, but she made no reply. Then, with a sudden fierce strength, he gathered the girl and the baby in his arms and plunged through the fiery smoke to the doorway. Down the trembling stairs he went, his clothes on fire, his hair burning, his skin black and scorched. Burning wood and masses of plaster fell about him, but on he strode, until a sudden blast of cool air met him as the street door was burst open by the firemen.

Then all seemed to go back before him. Great arms seemed to seize him and hurl him through space. On, on he flew, until suddenly he began to fall, down—down—

"I think he'll do now," said a man's voice.

Dick's eyes opened, and he gazed vacantly around, to see whitewashed walls, a nurse, a white-coated doctor, and—Ethel and the Kiddy.

A wave of feeling so intense as almost to suffocate him swept over him. What were they doing here? They were dead—he knew they were dead.

Only three minutes, Mrs. Carrington said the doctor.

Then the girl-kneelt by the bedside and Dick felt her cool, soft hands smooth his shorn hair. Her soft face was pressed to his.

Dick my love, my hero, see whispered. Alive? he murmured weakly.

"Yes my dear, and loving you more than ever. Oh Dick, I was so afraid you were going! But all's well now, Dick, you're getting better. See here's Kiddy; he wants his daddy."

The man felt the chubby hands of the boy straying over his face, heard the childish crooning, and then a scalding tear fell on to his cheek.

"No, no, Mrs. Carrington, that won't do," said the doctor. "You must leave my patient now."

Ethel bent over her husband and kissed him passionately, and with Kiddy in her arms, went from the ward.

So it was only a dream—they were not dead. From his heart the man offered a silent prayer of thanksgiving; then he shuddered. She had called him her hero. A grand hero he had been almost a murderer. His teeth gaited together. Here she had called him, and he meant to earn the title. And he did, though his prowess was humble enough. Yet it brought life and living to Ethel and the Kiddy—it made a weak man strong, and if it was not the V. C. bravery, it was, at any rate a bravery that was as noble.

Sure enough that visit to the Welcome Club was the last Dick Carrington paid. The appointment that had been offered him was still vacant, but the man who offered it made the proviso that Carrington must become an abstainer—a proviso that was accepted and faithfully heeded to.

OUR PROBLEM CONTEST.

Have You Tried It?—Send in Your Solution Today—It's a Brain Stormer. Here's a chance to exercise your brains. This is a problem that will keep you guessing. Get your paper and pencil ready and send in your answer. You may be right. It will do no harm if you are. It's a tensor, the hardest since a hen and a half problem that puzzled all the wise ones. This is the problem:

A dog is chasing a rabbit, and the rabbit has thirty yards' start on the dog. The rabbit runs at the rate of eight yards in a second and the dog at the rate of ten yards a second. How long will it be before the dog catches the rabbit?

MABEL'S ANSWER.

Dear Problem Editor—In answer to your interesting problem published last week I would say the dog will catch the rabbit in one minute and eight seconds.

MABEL.

HOW A HIGH SCHOOL BOY FIGURES IT.

Problem Editor—Let  $x =$  the rabbit and  $y =$  the dog. Then  $x =$  the dog running after the rabbit. Now, the dog runs ten yards a second, therefore  $10x = x$  or  $x = 10$ . The dog will therefore catch the rabbit in ten seconds.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY.

NO HIGHER MATHEMATICS NECESSARY.

Problem Editor—Each interested in your dog and rabbit problem and have lost much sleep over it. The answer can be found without resort to the higher mathematics, but the puzzle is most ingenious. The dog will catch the rabbit in just 2 x 10 = 20 seconds.

MATHEMATICIAN.

A PROTEST.

Problem Editor—As a lover of all wild creatures I wish to protest against the needless cruelty of your recent problem. Any one who has seen, as I have, the tortured, quivering, innocent furry thing in the cruel jaws of the savage murderer can take no delight in speculating on the all too short term of life allotted to the offensive rabbit.

NATURE LOVER.

P. R.—I hope the dog will never catch the rabbit.

NO, THERE IS NO PRIZE.

Problem Editor—The dog will catch the rabbit in just one minute. Thus:  $10 - 8 = 2$ ;  $2 \times 30 = 60$ . Sixty seconds is one minute. Is there any prize for correct answer?

R. T. D.

A SOLUTION FROM BOSTON.

Problem Editor—The velocity of the dog minus the velocity of the rabbit will equal the difference of velocity between the two quadrupeds. The arc subtended by a chord described in an equilateral circle having a radius of thirty yards can readily be determined. The dog therefore overtakes (not necessarily catches) the rabbit in 11.55 seconds.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

AN ANSWER FROM WASHINGTON.

Problem Editor—Your problem is calculated to give grossly inaccurate ideas concerning rabbits to every child who reads it and may do great harm. A rabbit does not run in bounds or holes and it is not known an ordinary rabbit to run eight yards in a second. A jack rabbit may do so, but you do not mention a jack rabbit. I have killed thousands of rabbits and never knew one to travel faster than seven yards a second, so any one stating or implying the contrary is guilty of deliberate mendacity.

They All Paid Up

M. Brown, a Kansas gentleman, is the proprietor of a boarding house. Around his table at a recent dinner sat his wife, Mrs. Brown; the village milliner, Mrs. Andrews; Mr. Black the baker; Mr. Jordan, a carpenter, and Mr. Hadley, a flour, feed and lumber merchant. Mr. Brown took a ten dollar bill out of his pocket book and handed it to Mrs. Brown with the remark that there was ten dollars to mark the twenty he had promised her. Mrs. Brown handed the bill to Mrs. Andrews, the milliner, saying, "That pays for my new bonnet." Mrs. Andrews, in turn, passed it on to Mr. Jordan remarking that it would pay for the carpentry work he had done for her. Mr. Jordan handed it to Mr. Hadley requesting his receipted bill for flour, feed and lumber. Mr. Hadley gave the bill back to Mr. Brown, saying "that pays ten dollars on my board." Mr. Brown again passed it to Mrs. Brown, remarking that he had now paid her the twenty dollars he had promised her. She, in turn, paid it to Mr. Black to settle her bread and pastry account. Mr. Black handed it to Mr. Hadley, asking credit for the amount of the flour bill. Mr. Hadley again returned it to Mr. Brown with the remark that it settled for that month's board; whereupon Brown put it back into his pocketbook, observing that he had not supposed a greenback would go so far.

The above clipping is a good example to follow. If each one of us would pay what we owe, it would enable our neighbor to do the same.—Atlanta Constitution.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL

Schr. Mattie J. Alles sailed Wednesday for Norfolk, loaded with pulp.

Alex. McRae will run in the conservative interests in St. John, opposing Dr. Pugsley.

Let us show you our samples of Fall and Winter suitings they tell a story of supreme style Hanson Brothers.

There has been a noticeable change in the atmosphere, and thoughts of coal are paramount at present.

What about the Penfield fair? Can't St. George and Penfield double up and have the exhibition here this year.

The odor from the river at low water is not the sweetest ever, and for some reason has been very much in evidence lately.

The house owned and occupied by Ald. Magowen is undergoing considerable repairs, and will be much improved when finished.

On account of low water the pulp mill is shut down. It needs a heavy rain to raise the water sufficiently for milling operations.

Mayor Lawrence has, in one field, ten thousand heads of cabbage. The Mayor is farming on a large scale, and can supply vegetables in large or small quantities on short notice.

A very pretty yacht came up the river Thursday, with a jolly party of ladies and gentlemen. They spent some time sight-seeing and left in the evening.

Friends of Norman Lee will regret to learn that he is confined to the house through an attack of typhoid fever. He is quite ill, but his condition is not considered serious at this writing.

The tea held by the golf club, on their grounds, Wednesday was a most enjoyable affair. Members of the club and invited guests were present in large numbers, and all had a merry time.

The Conservative convention was held at St. Stephen Thursday. G. W. Ganong accepted the nomination for Charlotte. The new rates of the I. O. F. will take effect in October.

The streets are now presenting quite a creditable appearance. Most of the stones have been raked off and a general clearing up has made a change appreciated by the public.

The quantity of hay in a mow can only be approximately ascertained by measuring. Of well-settled timothy, it takes about 350 cubic feet to make a ton. Of partly settled, from 400 to 450 cubic feet while of new hay it takes 500 cubic feet and over.

Several of the young men who take an interest in sports, have organized a foot ball team and commenced practice. The base ball team demonstrated its ability to "hold up its end" with the best, and on the foot ball field, the boys will undoubtedly make as good a record.

H. V. Dewar has made a decided improvement on the entrance from the street to his store. Recent extensive street improvements made a deep ditch along the sidewalk. Mr. Dewar has built a substantial platform over this making an easy entrance to his place of business.

Manufacturing fertilizer out of peat, a company that is operating near Espy, Pa., have erected a big plant at a cost of $15,000. It is estimated that there is enough peat on the land to keep the company busy for fifteen years. It makes a good fertilizer.

The engagement is announced of Miss Gertrude Greene, daughter of the late James Greene of St. Stephen, now employed with the New England Telephone Co. at Sanford, Maine, and Mr. Orin Fremont Davis of Boston, the marriage to take place the latter part of October. —Courier.

We are informed that Wellington Ross is digging for gold on his land in Ross Avenue, Milltown. Mr. Ross dreamed three nights in succession that the precious metal could be found in one corner of his lot. There are many in town who entertain the hope that an abundance of wealth will not be found till after the election, as money is the life of so much evil. —Courier.

Fred Mathewson Menze Dewar and Will McMasters have started a Granite business in Barre Vt. The young men are all graduates of the business here. They are enterprising and will no doubt repeat the success of other four boys who have made themselves known in the granite centres of the States.

Labor Day, while not generally observed as a holiday was recognized by a number of storekeepers, who closed their business places and spent the day in the country. The children enjoyed a holiday and the bank was closed. Quite a number took advantage of the day and attended the Carnival at St. Stephen.

A rifle company of fifty members has been organized at Beaver Harbor. The "accoutrements of war," stored in St. George, will be taken over by the Beaver Harbor company, who was taking great interest in the formation of the company. A shooting range has been secured and no doubt some crack shots will be developed among our friends in the beautiful little hamlet by the sea.

The motor boat races during the St. Stephen carnival, if all reports are true, if part of them can be relied on, will be a great feature. There are going to be some racers there and no doubt all records on the river will be teetotally smashed. Everybody interested in motor boats should make it a part of their business to be on hand and see them eliminate distance. —Times.

Rags, used by painters working in the up-stairs department of J. Sutton Clark's store on Portage Street, in some unknown manner started a small blaze in one of the shelves and burned a hole in the wood. The smoke caused Mr. Fred Smith the general manager of the medical department to investigate. He promptly extinguished a fire that would have ended in a dreadful conflagration.

American Sports are said to be in the woods shooting and hunting, the season opens the 15th, this applies to visitors as well as natives. The opening of the season promises well, game of all kinds is reported plentiful. No medals will be given for the first moose, but then the "glory of it" will be something. Perhaps the only advice we can offer is, be positive before you fire of your quarry, be careful handling your rifles—loaded or supposed to be empty and do not shoot too many holes in the air when pursuing a deer.

A huge horse mackerel weighing about 800 pounds was captured in the Buttercup weir at Deer Island, owned by Frank Arnason, on Monday last and sold to Messrs. Stickney & Wickerson, at whose place of business the big fish was viewed by many residents. Horse mackerel were never known to be so numerous in these parts as during the past season, owing probably to the unusually large amount of fish in our waters. Several of these species have been found in the weirs about this place of late, who have made their escape before they could be captured, carrying away with them large portions of weirs and seines and all kinds of missiles in their bodies used by the weir owners in trying to secure them. —Bestpost Sentinel.

Twelve Years of Laurier

When the Conservative party left office in 1896, after eighteen years of a fair trial of their ability to forward the development of the country, the export trade in the Dominion's own products had reached a value of a hundred and six millions; foreign products exported stood for six millions more. It is a great deal to be able to say that in the fiscal year which closed on March 31 last, these figures were more than doubled (two hundred and sixty-three millions all told), but even that does not give us the measure of what the Twelve Years of Laurier have meant to Canada. A much more instructive calculation may be made, and one that will help us to account for many other features of the most notable period in the history of Canada. Taking the record of exports for 1896 the top notch of Conservative performance, let us see how the Laurier record compares. The figures year by year are available in the blue books, and need not be set out here. Suffice it to say that in every year of the twelve there was an increase; that in home produce the least increase in any one year was thirteen millions in 1897, and the greatest increase a hundred and forty millions in 1908; that in eleven years and nine months the aggregate increase over the high level of 1896, was 917 millions for exports of home products alone, and the increase in exports of foreign produce was eighty-three millions; that, therefore, the Twelve Years of Laurier have meant to the people of Canada, in the value of export trade, a clean net thousand millions of dollars.

Is Your Home Cosy?

There are so many so-called homes that do not deserve the name at all. Home means comfort, but when we have it fixed up so elaborately that we cannot sit in the garret or in the back yard to genuinely enjoy ourselves then it is high time we made a change and substituted for them real homes. Things that we could enjoy every day of the year and every moment of the day. Men like pretty home-makers, so much so that they can appreciate beauty as well as the next man, but they want that beauty to be of an order that appeals to their sense of home comfort. Of what good are cushions so elaborately embroidered that no head can ever repose on them? What sense is there in case chairs of such rich material that they are quite the reverse of the name given them? Is there any satisfaction in a room the furnishings of which cost hundreds of dollars, when in no one's opinion are the materials, while the owner perhaps sits in some dingy sitting room or kitchen, where he can put the feet on the fender if he wants to, can smoke, and as a great indulgence, sit back in his chair? For the summer time, the young folks, have a couch to be set, a guide to play out in fact a little of the one winter, a sense of hospitality and good cheer smiles from the very tables and chairs, instead of a blank, elegant and gloomy elegance, women ever, and a girl show one a home to be used.

An Invalid's Meal

The serving of an invalid's meal is almost, if not quite, as important a matter as the cooking of the food. The appetite of an invalid (shut up for days in one room) requires to be tempted, not only in regard to the food, but also with the serving. The tray must be covered with a snowy cloth; the best china and glass out of the "China Closet" will add charm to the simplest meal (children are greatly pleased with this little attention). Tea or coffee in a little pot gives the invalid the pleasure of having it made just to suit; besides, if you pour it out in the kitchen and carry it up a flight of stairs it will arrive cold, and possibly stopped over into the saucer. The little accessories, cream, sugar, pepper, salt, glass of water, napkin, etc., should never be forgotten. Invalids eat slowly, so the plate for hot meat must be very hot, and the meat not uncovered until placed before the patient. Never crowd the tray or you will give a distaste for food; a small portion at first, daintily served, will tempt your patient to eat more. Two or three books under each end of the tray will prevent its weight resting on the knees; a bed table is a luxury seldom found in the home. One little dish, daintily cooked, is far more acceptable than a variety to choose from; but, above all, do not trouble the invalid beforehand to think of something she wishes to eat, and so take the edge off her appetite.

Pink Pain Tablets—Dr. Shoop's—stop Headache, womanly pains, any pain, anywhere, in 20 minutes sure. Formula on the 25c. box. Ask your druggist or order from this formula—it's fine. Sold by All Dealers.

New York Times: As president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy is head of the most gigantic railroad corporation in the world, which owns or controls 15,000 miles of tracks, has five fleets of steamers on two oceans, employs 74,000 people in three continents and besides having its own mines, has nearly 12,000,000 acres of land in Canada. He attributes his success to his marvelous acquaintance with all details of railway organization.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1908

Mr. Wm. F. Todd the Liberal standard bearer in Charlotte County, nominated at St. Stephen last week, was born in 1856. He is popular and the evidence of his popularity was well demonstrated in the local election of 1899, when he led the highest man of the "Big Four" W. C. H. Grimmer—414 votes. In the local house no member was more zealous in attending his legislative duties. It is on record that he never missed a sitting of the house during his term, constantly working for the interests of his constituents.

Mr. Todd appears before the people of Charlotte with a thorough knowledge of public affairs, well equipped to represent the County at Ottawa. An excellent and convincing speaker he will, in the coming campaign, discuss questions of public interest dealing with the welfare of the country, and his audiences need expect no personalities and petty innuendoes.

Mr. Todd has the undivided support of his party. Delegates to the convention will not soon forget the wave of enthusiasm that greeted the presentation of his name for the nomination, and the cheers that welcomed him in his speech of acceptance. It is Todd and victory now with the Liberals of Charlotte.

A Strange Situation.

Assuming that an election is to be held within the next eight weeks, about which there seems now to be no doubt, it is curious to note how slight an extent the temperature has been raised. The government stands upon its record of course, and its supporters naturally wait for an exposition of that record by the Prime Minister. It is the part of the Opposition, if past experience goes for anything, to make people talk, to make an election look like a fight, and there is no talk, no fight. For months before the elections of 1878 Sir John Macdonald and his friends had been forcing the whole electorate to think about, to fight the merits of tariff protection; for months before the election of 1882 everybody was taken sides about the C. P. R. for months before the elections of 1887 passions were aroused over incidents connected with the Northwest rebellion; for months, yes years, before the elections of 1891 the country rang with debates on reciprocity; for months before the elections of 1896, sleeping or walking, the electors were persuaded by the Manitoba School question; for almost a year before the elections of 1900 we had savage denunciations of Quebec, arising out of Boer war, and passions inflamed to the point where race riots took place in the streets of Montreal. After the election of 1900 Sir Charles Tupper dropped out, and in the election of 1904 there was hardly any visible Opposition, nothing with which to raise the temperature or appeal to the emotions; in short nothing that could be pointed to as giving sign of positive leadership or as signifying the fervent acceptance of a positive policy. The only opposition that could be located revealed itself in the dubious methods employed by a group of men who apparently had more money than sense. This time the visible opposition is confined to the appeal made by Mr. Foster and Mr. Ames, who ask the people to disregard the big things the government has done and concentrate attention upon some details of administration in which cupidly inside and outside the civil service seems to have got the upper hand. For the rest, Mr. Borden will appear before the people in the company of four men who have little or nothing to do with the work of the Dominion Opposition, but who have won elections in their own provinces. It is a curious situation, making the best of it, and one out of which it is impossible to deduce any general belief that the existence of the government is seriously endangered. The country evidently looks to Laurier's going on with his work.—Montreal Herald.

BY THE WAY

Another letter!

Everyone helps.

Wages are going up, not down.

And now for the "golf teas."

"Liberalism and liberalism are not always synonymous terms."

Perhaps valuation and undervaluation are "synonymous terms"—sometimes.

Politics now take the centre of the stage.

Fear not to look upon the cranberry sauce when it is red.

It is hard to win a $900,000 suit and have the lawyers get it all.

Over indulgence in onion-sandwiches will sometimes put romance to flight.

The great show politician generally makes a poor show when called out into the open.

Have you noticed any valuations, aggregating $75,000 or $80,000 on the assessment list?

The Conservative estimate of the valuation of O'Brien and Baldwin's plant is mighty—Conservative.

A cynic says if a seventeen-year-old girl wants to remember anything she pastes the memorandum on her mirror. But why "seventeen"?

Every time I see a woman kiss her worst enemy and call her "dear," I think what a great career would have been hers had she been a man, and in politics.

"What are the issues in this campaign?"

"There is only one of any importance, replied the candidate. "Our party is on the outside looking in, and they want to be on the inside looking out."—Exchange

Like most minister's families, they were not extensively blessed with this world's goods. She, however, was the youngest of 10 children until her father explained to her of the baby sister who had come in the night.

"Well," she said, after due thought, "I 'pose it's all right, papa, but there's many a thing we needed worse."—Delineator.

A writer in the Courier, over the signature of "Fair Play," seems inclined to the accuracy of our statement with respect to a late seizure of Scotch granite. In justice to the officer who made the seizure, and who has a very intimate practical knowledge of the granite business and of the methods of measurement employed therein, we would state that the seizure was confirmed by the department and a fine imposed, showing that the officer did not act without justification. The smallness of the fine indicates that the department was inclined to take a lenient view of the offence.—Beacon.

The Canadian Courier which is neutral in politics, (its editor being one of Toronto's strongest Conservatives) commenting in its last issue on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's tour, said:

"He will be more in the position that he occupied in 1896 when his tour through this Province aroused 'ed great enthusiasm. Certainly he is the best public tribune that the country contains. His platform appeal is far and away more effective than that of any other man in Canadian political life. We have other convincing speakers, logical debaters and masters of platform humor; but we have in political life only one orator, and he is the Prime Minister of Canada. Whether or not Sir Wilfrid will attract voters by his tour, he will infallibly attract listeners."

Every man, every woman and especially every young man and young woman ought to be interested in politics this Fall. Because after all, we, the people really rule this country, and how can we rule unless we know rather definitely just what we are about? If any man says he has nothing to do with ruling the country, never votes and is indifferent to the whole subject, that means somebody else is acting in his place. Every man who forfeits his right to rule is giving else just twice as much power as he ought to have.

P. S. Every reader of the GREETINGS between now and election will get enough information to enable him to decide intelligently what he wants to do on election day.

ENGLAND'S ROYAL HOME

HIS MAJESTY'S PRIVATE APARTMENTS AT WINDSOR CASTLE.

Where Foreign Potentates are Entertained—Queen Alexandra's Treasure House—Famous "Long Corridor"—Unique Collection of Rare China—Enviied by French Royalists—Drawing Rooms at the Castle.

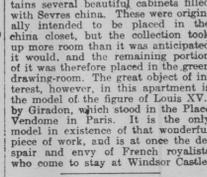

The private apartments which are occupied by Their Majesties King Edward and Queen Alexandra when the court is in residence at Windsor Castle are separate and distinct from what are known as the state apartments, which the public is permitted to see on frequent occasions. The private apartments, says G. Aston, writing in The Woman at Home, lie beyond the state reception-rooms adjoining the Waterloo chamber and are entered by a massive door which is converted into what is probably the most magnificent china closet in the world; it contains in electrically-lighted cabinets at either side of the marble walls some hundred sets of Sevres, Worcester and Chelsea china, each set having a long and interesting history of its own and each absolutely perfect.

Rare China. The china closet opens on to the long corridor which runs the whole length of the private apartments, and the plan of its arrangement was mainly devised by Queen Alexandra. The long corridor is a treasure house of inexhaustible interest. Picture a corridor some 400 yards long, lined on either side with pictures, cabinets, chairs, tables, clocks, ornaments of silver and gold and every article the product of an artist famous all the world over, and replete with historical interest. Queen Alexandra spent several months planning how these treasures should be placed, and when the work of arranging these was finally begun a daily report of its progress was submitted to her. In this corridor Queen Alexandra sometimes entertains at afternoon tea a few guests who have the privilege of being on terms of intimacy with Her Majesty.

On the right of the long corridor lie the three rooms chiefly used by Queen Alexandra. These are known as the white, the green and the crimson drawing-rooms, from the coloring that is generally observed in each. The white drawing-room is, perhaps, the most stately and magnificent of the three, and is used mainly when their Majesties are entertaining a large party of guests at Windsor. When foreign royalties are being entertained at Windsor Castle, it is in the white drawing-room that the "visit" Her Majesty. During the visit of a European sovereign to Windsor, the ordinary routine life of the court is considerably altered. The state apartments, which, at ordinary times, are never used, are occupied on such occasions by the royal visitors, who are "visited" there by the King and Queen; in their turn the royal visit "visit" King Edward and Queen Alexandra, and it is on these occasions that the white drawing-room is chiefly used.

Best Liked. The crimson and green drawing-rooms are the Queen's favorite apartments. From the former a lovely view is obtained, and it is Her Majesty's favorite room at Windsor. Though the crimson drawing-room is, of course, of considerable size and very beautifully furnished, it has, perhaps, a more homely appearance than the others, and contains more than any other room in Windsor Castle. It was in this room that the Princess Patricia and Victoria of Connaught took their first dancing lesson, in the presence of the Queen, and it is here that Her Majesty entertains her guests in the evenings when the party at Windsor is a small one. The green drawing-room is also used a great deal by Her Majesty, but it is more stately in appearance than the crimson drawing-room. It is upholstered throughout with green damask silk, and contains several beautiful cabinets filled with Sevres china. These were originally intended to be placed in the china closet, but the collection took up more room than it was anticipated it would, and the remaining portion of it was therefore placed in the green drawing-room. The great object of interest, however, in this apartment is the model of the figure of Louis XV., by Girardon, which stood in the Place Vendome in Paris. It is the only model in existence of that wonderful piece of work, and it is at once the despair and envy of French royalists who come to stay at Windsor Castle.

Smallest in the World.

Mr. J. Beale, who lives in Kent, has reared a pony which he claims is the smallest in the world. It is only 18 inches high.

A Large Sponge. A record sponge, ten feet in circumference and two feet thick, was found

Keep Your Lamp Bright

There are many houses that are not lighted by gas nor electricity, and the proper care of lamps becomes an important matter. Many a lamp gives a dull feeble light, or has been set aside for dangerous, because the burners had not been kept clean, and the dust has accumulated in the small air tubes at the side of the wick. The remedy is so simple that there is no need for the condition of affairs.

The lamps should be filled daily and the chimneys brightly polished. Remove the wicks from the burners once a week, put them in water containing enough pearline to make a good suds, and boil them half an hour or more. This will remove all the oil and leave them bright and clean. Polish with dry flannel.

Use none but the best oil and keep the lamp full to insure good light. Keep the reflector (if it has one) brightly polished. Do not cut the wick, but turn it just above the tube and rub off the charred portion with a match.

New lamp chimneys are toughened and made more durable by putting them in water and heating gradually until it is boiling hot. When they have boiled five minutes set them off the stove and allow them to cool in the water.

To keep Salt dry

To prevent salt in saltcellars from becoming damp and lumpy, when filling them up put in ten to twelve pieces of rice, says Woman's Home Companion for September. "This will not come through the holes in the cover of the saltcellars, but will break the lumps of salt and gather the moisture; thus the salt is always dry and fine."
