MUNICIPAL COUNCIL DOWN TO WORK

Coun. H. C. Gillis Elected Warden—Accounts Are Being Passed.

The regular annual session of the Restigouche Municipal Council convened at Dalhousie Tuesday.

At 11:30 the council was called to order, and Coun. Firth appointed chairman.

The following councillors were declared elected by the Secretary Treasurer:—

Grimmer—Alexis C. Levesque, H. P. Peters.
Eldon—Murdoch Firth, James Chester.

Dalhousie—John Harquail, H. C. Gillis.
Dugans—Balmoral—Henry Diotte, Narcisse Levesque.

Dalhousie—John C. McLean, W. G. Mawhinney.
Durham—Archibald Murchie, John Lawlor.

Town of Campbellton—C. A. Alexander.
Town of Dalhousie—W. S. Montgomery.

On motion of Coun. McLean, Coun. H. C. Gillis was nominated as Warden. This was voted on and Coun. Gillis was elected unanimously.

In taking the chair Warden Gillis thanked the council for the honor conferred upon him. The direction of the council was now to him, and he would do the best he could, and asked for the assistance of all to expedite the business.

The minutes of the last session in July were read and approved.

Coun. Firth moved that A. T. LeBlanc, M. P. P., be appointed legal adviser for the council.

Coun. Murchie moved in amendment that the council appoint no legal adviser.

The amendment was lost and the original motion was carried, 7 to 6. Coun. Montgomery stated that according to the bylaws, if all councillors were not present, business should not be transacted until 12 o'clock, and consequently any business transacted previous to that hour was illegal.

Council adjourned until 2 o'clock.

Tuesday Afternoon.
Council reconvened at 2 o'clock.

Upon motion Messrs. H. J. Currie and M. M. Mowat, a delegation from the Restigouche Auto Association were invited to take seats within the railing.

The minutes of the forenoon session were read.

Coun. Montgomery moved that the minutes of the forenoon session as read be confirmed as they were taken before twelve and not legal.

Coun. McLean moved in amendment that minutes be confirmed as read. The amendment was carried on the casting of Warden.

A letter from the Department of Agriculture re sheep raising and dogs, was laid on the table for further consideration.

Coun. Firth moved that Mr. LeBlanc be the legal adviser be given a seat on the floor of the council—Carried.

The Warden suggested that the delegation from the Restigouche Auto Association be heard, and on motion they were given permission to address the council.

Mr. H. J. Currie thanked the council for their courtesy in inviting them to take seats within the railing. He and Mr. Mowat were appointed a delegation to meet the council and asked for a grant to assist in placing road signs at all junction points in the county. He spoke of the necessity for such signs and stated that the Restigouche Auto Association would pay half the cost, which would cost $150.00.

Mr. Mowat also spoke of the necessity of these signs and pointed out that the N. B. Auto Association were doing this work in St. John.

Coun. Montgomery thought that the appeal should be made to the local government, as all the fees collected from Auto owners went into the N. B. government. He thought the government should bear the entire expense of such work.

Coun. Dickie thought that the local government had shouldered all they could when they promised to fund the Auto tax, and spend the money thus procured in improving the roads. This was a very necessary work and he suggested that the grant be made.

Coun. Mawhinney moved that the matter stand over until to-morrow afternoon. Carried.

SMALLPOX APPEARS IN RESTIGOUCHE

Number of Cases Said to Exist in Durham and in Grimmer Parishes.

New Brunswick is today experiencing an epidemic of smallpox, which is causing considerable alarm and should be firmly dealt with.

The disease is of such a mild form that frequently members of a family are sick with it, but no physician is called and consequently no precautions are taken and the infection is scattered abroad.

In the parish of Durham it is said there are a number of cases and until last week nothing was known of them.

In the parish of Grimmer there are also one or more cases.

Prompt measures should be taken to stamp out the disease.

GERMAN DYE RECIPES

British Textile Industry Will Be Greatly Benefited.

London, Jan. 9.—A group of men in the British textile trade has captured the secret recipes of the great German dye industry, according to the Daily Mail, which displays the item under large headings. The recipes numbering 257 belonged to the great Badische works and are now in the keeping of a London bank. The Mail says:—

"The capture is of the first importance in economic war against Germany and will free the British textile industry and scores of other important industries from the bonds of Germany. It means that when the war is over Great Britain will be in a position to compete equally with Germany dyed goods in every market in the world."

In the course of a long story described how the recipes were obtained in Switzerland, the Mail says that the merchants who captured them have refused tempting offers from capitalists and speculative elements have been barred carefully from the enterprise. The merchants intend to offer and sell the recipes to the British government for the use of the government dye works, permitting the bulk of the profit to go to the nation, on the understanding that the dyes will be sold freely to all British manufacturers needing them."

"COURCLETTE SNOWSHOE CLUB ON THE RESTIGOUCHE."

A group of young men and joyful young ladies, promoters of the idea of forming a "Snowshoe Club" in this town met on the evening of the 9th inst., at Miss E. Roy's home and definitely organized a club for the coming season.

Snowshoeing is above all a Canadian sport, and the name "Courcellette" was given to this club to remind us of our brave soldiers who recently fought so well in France. It is an historical name that cannot be forgotten by any.

The following officers were elected for the season:

J. D. Brule, President.
J. J. Daley, Vice President.
J. J. Bernier Secretary,
Dr. J. H. Brennan, Captain.

The following members were present at the meeting:

Misses E. Roy, L. Boudreau, L. McIntyre, E. Hogan, M. Henry, B. Richard, R. Vermette, G. Vermette, G. Kean, Messrs. R. O'Keefe, E. Daley, E. Cantin, R. Cantin, J. J. Bernier, J. D. Brule, Dr. J. H. Brennan.

The Officers of the Outing Committee were elected amongst the ladies.

Mrs. L. Pincault, Mrs. L. P. Roy, Miss G. Kean, Miss M. Henry, Miss L. Boudreau, Miss R. Vermette, Miss E. Hogan.

The Club under the auspices of Mrs. L. P. Roy has already had its first outing and may say "en passant" that every snowshoer enjoyed it immensely. After the animated outing a delicious "gouter" was served at the Florence Hotel, and needless to say every one did justice to the "menu" which was especially prepared for the occasion.

At the end of the "gouter" the President thanked the members of the Courcellette Club who had taken part in the first outing and declared he was exceedingly satisfied with the success obtained at this first tramp. Others presented toasts to the officers and members and wished the Club all the success obtainable, and hope that the enthusiasm existing would certainly increase with the days coming.

Then! Snowshoers of the Courcellette Club do not miss any outings!

Halifax, Jan. 10.—At the School for the Blind yesterday a committee of relief workers was organized under the title of "Halifax Home and Blind Relief Fund." $500.00 is required as an endowment fund for this necessary work.

The idea organizer was Havelock Sansom, manager of the Tobique Lumber Company, Campbellton who has been giving his valuable services for the relief of stricken Halifax, particularly the blind.

He aroused the sympathy of Mrs. E. A. Smith of St. John who visited this city last week. Mr. Sansom also met Mrs. P. M. Fielding of Windsor, another outside worker with the medical relief committee. She escorted Mrs. Smith to the various hospitals to obtain evidence of the extent of the disaster.

The following committee was organized under the name already stated the personnel of which is as follows:

Sir Frederick Fraser, chairman. Havelock Sansom, Campbellton, Secy. Treasurer; Lady Fraser, Halifax; Mrs. E. A. Smith, St. John; Mrs. P. M. Fielding, Windsor.

Mr. Sansom is obtaining pictures of the city and other data for a series of lectures to be delivered by Mrs. Smith and others throughout Canada and the United States for the purpose of obtaining funds to carry on the work of educating the blind at Halifax to teach them to live under new conditions.

Sir Frederick Fraser has with wonderful courage undertaken the great work of caring for and educating those who suffered most of all in the recent calamity.

The far reaching influence of the work of caring for and educating such an energetic committee to bind the movement it is bound to succeed. Halifax Herald.

A "TRUSTED" GERMAN SPY.

(Philadelphia Ledger)

No more alarming case of German espionage has been brought to light than that of Paul Henig, the "trusted" master mechanic of a company making torpedoes for the United States Navy. Since another Henig, who passed as his son, now interned at Ellis Island, it is not easy to understand the blind confidence which continued him in a position where he could do so much damage. Lieutenant Shea, U. S. A. was the first to suspect him. This capable officer began an examination of the torpedoes on his own account and found that they were designed to circle back and sink the very ships firing them. There is no need to expatiate on the formidable nature of such a plot. Nor is it surprising that there should be considerable apprehension lest other unknown dangers of the kind threaten our military and naval forces. That Henig should pay the death penalty as a spy goes without saying; the example cannot be too severe. But there should also be an immediate and searching investigation of other "trusted" Germans who are employed in war work. The consequences of untrustworthiness are too perilous to be ignored.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I have been informing myself on current affairs." "Have you indeed?" "Yes, I know the difference between a standpatter and a progressive." "I would like to have your lead of it." "A standpatter is a person who comes to a stop and can't be started, and a progressive is one who gets started and can't be stopped."

WOMEN HEROES FACE DANGER

The Tenderest are the Bravest Might Be Said of Halifax.

The world has still a few people who assert that, in the face of danger, women are not so courageous as the lords of creation.
They had better not let the Halifax men hear them say so—that's all. The Halifax men are extremely proud of their women. It does one's heart good to listen to them recounting incidents which illustrate the coolness and intrepidity of their women. By all accounts the Halifax brand of bravery would be hard to improve upon. It is the kind needed in the hour of shock and stress.

One bit of femininity was alone with a paralyzed father and a babe of six weeks old, when the explosion wrecked her kitchen, upsetting the stove and setting fire to the place. Though badly bruised by being flung violently to the floor, she refused to lose her head—or her consciousness. Crawling through the kitchen debris, she snatched the cradle and—
A ship-building firm in Montreal has commenced the construction of such vessels. One of these is a 125-foot single screw steamer having structural steel ribs and keel with a hull of reinforced concrete. The shell is from three to five inches in thickness. It is, of course thicker than a steel plate ship, but it is claimed that the weight of the hull is less than of a wood ship of similar dimensions. One of the outstanding advantages of this method of construction is the great speed that may be obtained in building. The work on the vessel in question was commenced early in September and the boat was launched November 14th.

SAVING HER HOME.
"You came pretty nigh being too late," explained a neighbor. "Why under the canopy didn't you leave the old man and the baby till after you'd soused the water to the roof?"
"I thought of it," she answered, "but fearing the shack might cave in and take me with it, I naturally hugged Pa and Billy out while the lugging was good."

"Do you realize that you are a brave woman?" asked the nurse, who had come in to see if help were needed.
"Not especially," she returned, modestly. "Any lady would think that of saving two such perfectly happy things as Pa and Billy."

"Your husband will be thankful on his return," said the nurse.
"He ought to be; he won't miss anything from his belongings,"—with a sweep of the hand which included the homely house with its homely furniture, Pa himself, the wooden cradle and its precious freight—"but the clean-to and the smoky chimney, thinks usually happen lucky for him."

Things certainly "happened" in a for him when he made that strong-armed, stout-hearted woman his wife.
A Resourceful Operator.

And what could be finer than the conduct of Miss Jean Groves? The Halifax dock yards have—or, rather, had—a private branch telephone exchange, and Miss Groves was the operator. Not noise, confusion, no falling buildings and flying timbers, not death and destruction, could throw her into panic. She had work to do, and did it. Every second new demands were made on her. She sent out calls of warning, calls for help. On her call doctors hurried to the scene; workmen to lend a hand in the rescue work; firemen to fields where needed. She stuck to her post until literally put out of the building which was so badly shattered it rocked on its foundations.

Did she crumple up, faint away, or do anything untoward when the crisis was past? Not a bit of it. There was still work to do. The very next part of the story is told in the brief paragraph which the daily press despatch closed with its account of this girl's bravery:
"Within an hour she was at another exchange, reported for duty."

A party of tourists were examining the curios in a little shop on a back-street in a certain European city. The aged dealer, desirous of making a sale, picked up an ancient-looking sword, and said:
"You see, my friends, this most wonderful sword. This is the sword that Balaam killed the ass with."
"But," said one, "Balaam didn't kill the ass; he only wished for a sword that he might kill her."
"Well," said the dealer, "this is the one he wished for!"

CONCRETE SHIPS TO INCREASE TONNAGE

Boats are Now Being Constructed in Canada. No Longer an Experiment.

Ship building has received a tremendous impetus during the past year. The determination of Germany to wage unrestricted submarine warfare has made the question of providing ships to make good the wastage one of momentous importance. Months ago it became evident that a shortage of plates for steel ships and of suitable wood for wooden ships was well without the range of possibility. Substitutes were, therefore, sought. One of the most promising is ferro-concrete. This material has been in use in barges, launches and, even to some extent, in larger vessels for a number of years. Consequently, it was not without hope of success that attention was turned to the construction of concrete boats to take care of the traffic on the Great Lakes and, thus, set free for coastal and ocean freightage, boats at present plying thereon.

A ship-building firm in Montreal has commenced the construction of such vessels. One of these is a 125-foot single screw steamer having structural steel ribs and keel with a hull of reinforced concrete. The shell is from three to five inches in thickness. It is, of course thicker than a steel plate ship, but it is claimed that the weight of the hull is less than of a wood ship of similar dimensions. One of the outstanding advantages of this method of construction is the great speed that may be obtained in building. The work on the vessel in question was commenced early in September and the boat was launched November 14th.

REFORESTATION IN QUEBEC

Reforestation of denuded lands in Quebec continues to make progress, though on a small scale. The provincial forest nursery at Berthierville is to be materially extended. The reforestation work of the Laurentide Company is particularly notable. Planting also has been done by the Riondan Company and the Pejepeco Company.

So far, practically all of the forest planting has been done on privately-owned lands, but the provincial government has now under consideration the question of systematic reforestation of denuded crown lands. Obviously, the question is one of the highest possible importance.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try It! Hair gets soft, fluffy and beautiful—Get a small bottle of Danderine.
If you care for heavy hair that gleams with beauty and is radiant with life, has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine. Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff. You can not have nice healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp, the hair roots fall out, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast. Surely get a small bottle of Danderine. Danderine is free from any drug store and just try it.

INSULT TO INJURY.

He was trudging along, hoping to reach the front line some time or other. On his shoulder was his "best friend" and a pair of gum boots; on his left was a bag containing 12 bombs; in front carried 100 rounds of ammunition, and on his back was strapped a shovel and six empty sand bags, in addition to his equipment and fighting kit. He also carried a tin of water in his right hand and two "days" rations in the other.
"Say, Matey," enquired a chap who was proceeding on leave, and who had handed all his "armor" in, "could you oblige me with a match?"

Cardinal Hartman's allusion in his pastoral letter to Cologne to "their monarchs, who were given to them by God," recalls in its rash attribution of events, the story of Antoinette Sterling, who, after one performance, was asked by a foreign musician "With whom did you study this song?" "I sing it," said Mme. Sterling, "as God taught it to me." "I do not know the gentlemen's name," was the reply, "but, whoever he is, he is no musician."

Master Archie, aged four, had been told that babies came down direct from heaven per story, and he was puzzled to understand why he could not recall his former celestial surroundings. When a second child was born into the household Archie was admitted to his mother's bed-chamber to take a look at his new relative. The little chap looked up to the cradle and gazed down at the pink wrinkled mite, lying there. He bent over it. "Brother," he whispered, "tell me about God before you forget."

There was rather too much noise in the nursery, and mother interfered. "Bilby!"
"Yes, mother!"
"What are you children doing?"
"Playing royalty."
"Indeed!"
"Yes, I am a Knight of the Garter."
"I see."
"And Cobb is Saturday."
"That is an odd name for royalty."
"Oh, it is just a nickname on account of his title."
"What is his title?"
"Night of the Bath!"

A certain mayor once arose to make a speech. And after talking for three-quarters of an hour began to wind up with the words:
"And it is my greatest wish that the Government shall all hang together."
"Hear, hear!" cried a voice in the crowd.
"I don't mean in the sense in which the idle scuffer in the crowd would have you to understand," went on the mayor with dignity, "but that they may hang together in concord and accord!"
"I don't care what kind of cord it is," came the voice again, "as long as it's a strong cord!"
And the mayor gave it up.

MICE RAID WHEAT CROP.

Australia's immense wheat crop is being raided by an army of mice, and grain stacks for shipment can be saved only by heroic measures. One of these measures is poison gas; another is the mouse-proof fence built about the stack of grain. The fences are of galvanized iron, with openings every ten feet. In each opening is sunk a tin of water and kerosene and water. Mice cannot enter the fortification and those within cannot escape alive. When the later become thirsty they make for the tins, and almost at once fall in. It is said that in one small railroad station 10,000 mice were drowned in a single night.

THIRD LARGEST DAM IN WORLD IN QUEBEC

Makes Nearly a Million Horse-power Available. Exceeded Only by Assuan and Gatun Dams.

The most important water conservation work thus far undertaken in Canada is that undertaken by the Quebec Government and now nearing completion at La Loutre on the St. Maurice river. It will store up the waters of the St. Maurice for the benefit of its many water powers and will double the low-water flow.
This work had been projected for many years as the regulation of the river is of the greatest value to the important developed water powers at La Tuque, Grand mere and Sheawinigan Falls, but no construction work was undertaken. After full investigation of the project, both from engineering and financial viewpoint, the Quebec Streams Commission let the contract for construction in the summer of 1915.

The work has progressed steadily since in spite of the great difficulties in transportation. It is now 50 per cent completed and will cost about $11,500,000. When finished, it will create a reservoir of 160,000 million cu. ft., forming the third largest artificial reservoir in the world, being exceeded only by the Assuan reservoir on the Nile and the Gatun lake on the Panama canal. From the owners of the power sites already developed, the Commission will receive a revenue of upwards of $150,000.

Between the reservoir and the mouth of the St. Maurice there are 17 power sites with heads of from 10 feet to 150 feet. The aggregate descent at these sites totals 800 feet, but the dams erected in developing the various sites will increase this total head to 900 feet. Under present conditions, these sites have a total capacity of approximately 350,000 theoretical h. p., but it is estimated that some 90,000 h. p. will be available when the flow is regulated from the reservoir. At Shawinigan, Grand mere and La Tuque also, the three sites at present utilizing on the St. Maurice, the potentiality will be raised from an aggregate of some 190,000 theoretical h. p. to over 400,000 h. p.

MESSAGE OF BRITISH PRIME MINISTER TO CANADA

"We Are Now on the Fourth Year of War and Far on the Path to Victory"

—By Standing Firm the Allies Will Give Peace to the World—
Quebec's Message to the King.
Ottawa, January 2.—The Prime Minister has received, through the Governor-General the following New Year's message from the Right Hon. David Lloyd George, the British Minister:
"At the beginning of a New Year I wish to send, on behalf of the War Cabinet, a message of goodwill and confidence.
"We are now far on in the fourth year of war; despite many set backs and many disappointments, we are also far on in the path to victory.
"By standing firm the Allies will not only restore liberty to Europe, but give lasting peace to the world. In the accomplishment of this great work no people will have played a greater part than those who are members of the British Commonwealth. Against their steadfast courage the legions of autocracy have cast themselves in vain and the Empire which the millenarists of Prussia persuaded themselves would crumble at a blow, has proved itself the most united and most massive of the bulwarks of freedom, because it was sprung from the eternal soil of freedom.
"An army officer who served in the Spanish war tells of a New York regiment, many of whose members were recruited on the Rock's side. They were spilling for a fight, and it became necessary to post guards to preserve order. A big lanky Bowery recruit, of pugilistic proportions, was put on duty outside and given special orders to see that quiet reigned, and above all things, if trouble came his Who's comin' shouts Pat. The Germans, replied Mike. How many are there? About fifty thousand. Begorra, shouts Pat, jumping up and grabbing his rifle, our fortune's made!"

NOT FOOLED.

"What have you on your breath?"
"Peppermint drops, m'dear."
"Then camouflage," declared Mrs. Fludd, but she said no more, and was glad to let it go at that.

WOMAN HAD NERVOUS TROUBLE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—“I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it.”—Mrs. DEWITT SINGERDAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.

Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, backache, headaches, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has, for forty years, proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Be sure and send my trousers out to be pressed, and have them back by night,” was the parting injunction a man left with his wife one recent morning. She coiled up the tailor once. He did not come. She called him up again toward noon. A few minutes later she heard footsteps in the hall. “Here they are,” she said, with relief, opening the door and forcing the trousers into the hands of a man outside. “Thanks,” he said and shuffled away. When the tailor had not brought the trousers back that night the husband telephoned him. “I didn't have time to go and get them,” the tailor replied. The husband wore an old suit that night. Two days later the janitor saw the husband. “I'm much obliged to you for those trousers your wife gave me,” he said.

Delicious “Fruit Laxative” can't harm tender little Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleaning at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of “California Syrup of Figs,” and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently move out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a bottle of “California Syrup of Figs,” which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

S. C. A. MEETING HELD, GOOD REPORTS HEARD

Campbellton Sends a Fine Donation—Wool Fund Contributions—Outside Circles Heard From.

An outstanding feature of the monthly meeting of the Soldiers' Comfort Association held at Centenary, yesterday afternoon, was the report of the splendid donation of socks sent in by the ladies of the Campbellton Circle. This month the Campbellton Circle shipped to headquarters in St. John 729 pairs of hand-knitted socks, as well as other knitted articles such as mittens, caps and wristlets. This circle is an independent one supplying the wool for the socks and the donation is a very fine example of faithful work on the part of the members.

Mrs. George McAvity presided at yesterday's meeting. A discussion took place as to ways and means of raising the money which is so badly needed for wool and it was decided to ask the mayor for permission to hold a tag day in July. This will be a provincial appeal and all circles will be asked to assist.

Another suggestion which was adopted was the use of several 45 shells which are to be made into receptacles for collecting money. These shells are to be put in central places throughout the city.

For the special wool fund appeal which has been made lately the sum of $470.60 has been contributed.

Cash received during December was $479.61. Cash received since Jan. 1st $174.

Returns from association wool, 2,141 pairs of socks and 117 other knitted articles.

This is a splendid showing for December when one considers the many other calls of that season.

The smallest number of socks ever sent into the S. C. A. in any month, 769 cases containing 6,300 individual pairs of socks.

The total receipts for the year 1917 (Jan. 1st to Dec. 29th), are $3,886 was 1,016 pairs in 1916.

For the packing committee Mrs. H. McLellan reported: In 1917 shipping parcels, of which 3,174 were for lone soldiers. The Christmas shipment contained 3,311 parcels. During the year '18 cases were sent overseas for general distribution—Standard, meant it to be.

A farmer tells a story of his shooting. Says he: “I was very much troubled with those winged thieves (the birds), for they made terrible havoc among the corn. I put scarecrows up till I was tired, so I took my gun, loaded with powder and pellets, and you should have seen the quantity I brought down in one day. One morning my boy rushed indoors and yelled: “Dad, hundreds of birds among the corn!” I took my gun, put in powder, but could not find the shot, so I thrust in a handful of tacks and off I ran. Getting to the corn, I yelled pretty hard and up flew the birds into a tree.” Being excited, I fired, and behold every bird was nailed to the tree, with their wings flapping as if flying. Struck with the sight, I stood watching them, when the blessed things pulled up the tree and flew away leaving me in disgust.”

Tommy and Teddy were having a heated dispute as to which of their respective countries the Kaiser feared most.

“I tell you,” said the American, “that the Kaiser knows he can never conquer America. I've proof positive of it.”

“And what's your proof?” grunted the Britisher sceptically.

“Sure,” replied the American, “the Kaiser hasn't announced his intention of eating his Christmas dinner at Washington!”

I continued to use, with the result that my cough was entirely disappeared. MOTORCAR ECONOMY.

How to Make a Gallon of Gasoline Go Further Than It Does.

In the first place, use care in the selection of fuel. Gasoline which does not vaporize with sufficient readiness to remain in a gaseous state eventually condenses in the cylinders and is either burned or lost without developing its power. Furthermore, the gasoline must be pure, with a minimum amount of residue which will serve to form carbon.

Secondly, the gasoline must be burned under the most favorable conditions conducive to a development of maximum power following each explosion. Such conditions require tight piston rings and valves, which prevent the escape of compression or the power of the explosion; a uniform and quickly attained engine temperature; a hot, fat spark occurring as early as is possible without producing a knock; and a sufficiently flexible carburetor which will give proper mixtures at all engine speeds. The above mentioned maintenance of engine temperature is an important consideration, especially in cold weather.

Thirdly, the carbon should be removed from the engine as soon as an undue accumulation is indicated, usually every 500 to 1,000 miles, depending upon the kind of oil and the condition of the rings, the nature of the fuel, and the like.

In the fourth place, the mixture should be set to as lean a point as will run the motor under normal conditions when the engine is warmed to its average temperature. Nearly every carburetor will permit the needle valve to be screwed down one or more notches. In fact, it is well to set the carburetor to so lean a mixture that the engine will not pull properly before it is thoroughly heated. The difficulty thus encountered may be overcome by the use of the choke or other adjustments of the carburetor which serve to give a richer mixture when starting. A lean mixture may be further assured by the use of some of the well tried out attachments designed to furnish auxiliary air to the engine under certain conditions.

Fifth, the carburetor should be inspected by an expert and the strainer drained frequently to prevent the accumulation of dirt which may lodge upon the float valve and cause the latter to leak when the engine is shut down.

Sixth, the engine should never be left running while the car is standing idle. If adjustments are properly made the engine will start easily, and the current from your starting battery is cheaper than gasoline. Furthermore, the engine should not be raced at random for testing purposes unless you have a definite idea as to just where the trouble lies.

Seventh, all brakes should be free so that they do not drag, bearings should be well oiled, tires inflated to the pressure recommended by the manufacturer and the whole car so free in its motion that it can be pushed by hand without difficulty on a hard level pavement.—H. W. Sisson in Leslie's.

Dynamite Whiskers. The name “whiskers” is applied to feathery crystals which gather upon the outside of the wrappings of frozen dynamite. The “whiskers” are more “irritable” than dynamite itself. A case is on record where sticks of dynamite had been thawed out in hot water and the can of hot water in which it was done left in the blacksmith's shop without being emptied of the residual sum of grease and whiskers. The first blow of the blacksmith's hammer on a nearby anvil was sufficient to set off the “whiskers” by concussion. The can was blown to pieces, but fortunately no one was hurt.

Waste From Small Leaks. The importance of mending the tiniest leak in a water pipe is shown in a circular issued by a small city in which water meters are used. This, as quoted by Popular Mechanics, states that under a pressure of forty pounds in twenty-four hours 170 gallons of water will pass through a hole a shade larger than the period at the end of this sentence. An orifice the size of a fairly large pinhead will permit 3,000 gallons to escape in the same time.

Sap of a Tree. Sap is pumped up through the wood in a tree and will even go through dead wood, but will not return by the same medium. Therefore a tree may live until the roots starve. Sap ascends on the inside and descends on the outside. Therefore the descending sap alone builds new tissue of wood and bark.

Three Legs of a Stool. Andrew Carnegie was once asked which he considered to be the most important factor in industry—labor, capital or brains? The answer he gave, with a merry twinkle in his eye, “Which is the most important leg on a three legged stool?”

Well Defined. “Dad,” said little Reginald, “what is a bucket shop?” “A bucket shop, my son,” said the father feelingly, “is a bucket shop is a modern cooperative establishment to which a man takes a barrel and brings back the bunghole.”

An Egotist. Tommy-Pop, what is an egotist? Tommy's Pop—An egotist, my son, is a man who thinks he can form an impartial opinion of himself.

Beware of the man who offers you advice at the expense of a mutual friend.

OVERHEARD IN A CAR. First Lady Passenger—“It's a terrible trouble to get good boots.”

Second Lady Passenger—“People shouldn't make such a fuss about things in these days. Let them wear old boots and be patriots!”

First Lady Passenger—“And what rubbish they mend them with. By the way how do you manage about boots?” Second Lady Passenger—“Oh, I'm all right. I've two pairs I haven't touched yet.”

A Challenge

Mr. Edison is admitted to be the world's greatest inventor.

He says that The New Edison is his favorite invention; which means his greatest invention.

The NEW EDISON

“The Phonograph with a Soul”

has been compared in public before almost a million people with the living voices of thirty great artists, including many members of the Metropolitan Opera House.

It has been proven that The New Edison's Re-Creation of the human voice cannot be detected from the actual voice itself when both are heard in direct comparison.

MAKE THIS TEST: Some artists, whose voices have been Re-Created by The New Edison, also make talking machine records. We will give you the names. Hear these at the talking machine dealer's. Then return to our store, and hear The New Edison Re-Creation of the voices of these same artists. Let your own ears be the judge.

Chamberlin and Mrs. Stewart for the assistance rendered in serving lunch. Also to all the ladies who so kindly furnished cake and supplies.

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

One day last week a train became stalled near Belledune, for want of water. The nearest water tank was at Belledune. The engine was uncoupled and proceeded to the tank, filled her tender with water, and returned to the stalled train. The engineer evidently forgot the exact location of his train as he ran into it, tender first, smashing up two or three cars of freight and blocking the line for a time.

QUEBEC SURPLUS OF POTATOES.

That there is a huge surplus of potatoes in Quebec district is shown by the prices offered to-day on all the public markets for this produce. Potatoes were selling at 35 a ton, of 90 pounds a month ago to-day they are selling at 25 and even below. The farmers admit that they accumulated huge quantities last fall, and the dealers did likewise so that now the farmers fear the loss of their crop through rotting in the cellars hence the decrease in price. Predictions are that the price will go as low as 15c.

MORE RETURNED HEROES.

Among the returned heroes who arrived in St. John last week were two Restigouche boys. Private R. Russell of Campbellton went overseas as a member of the 171st battalion and after his arrival in England he was transferred into the 18th battalion. At the battle of Vimy Ridge he was wounded twice. The first wound was slight and only necessitated his being in hospital one day. He went back into the line and was wounded for the second time. Private Arthur Arsenault of Dalhousie went overseas as a member of the 132nd battalion. He was transferred into the 42nd and was wounded at Vimy Ridge in the left arm.

News was given last Saturday to all agents of a sugar refinery to announce a further decrease of ten cents per hundred pounds on granulated sugar. It is the second cut of ten cents a hundred pounds announced within the last three weeks.

HEAVY STORM.

A heavy easterly storm, general throughout Quebec and the Maritime provinces raged here Tuesday afternoon and night. Trains were considerably behind time and the limited from Montreal was cancelled. The roads throughout the county are badly drifted.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

The week of prayer services last week were a success in every way. The meetings broke all previous records as to attendance and the interest in the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening was one of the best attended ever held in that church. The large auditorium was crowded and the gallery had to be thrown open, and it also was filled.

BEING A SPORT.

Through this is regarded in civil life as a trivial matter, in the army it is a very, very serious thing. I can quite understand you—a recruit—not realizing that, but I am obliged to punish you. However, I will be lenient with you. Seven days' C. B. And," continued the O. C. advising, "in future play the game. Be a sport, Alkali I am!"

NO GENTLEMAN.

"You are, sir," queried Tommy, apparently amazed.

CRAFTY.

"My wife bought me this swell automobile coat for Christmas."

THE WAY YOU DO IT.

One reads that Darwin never understood an equation, and the obvious fact that Isaac Newton could not have passed any examination in literary or scientific subjects with his ideas that poetry was ingenious nonsense and statistics only stone dolls. Faraday had no gift for mathematics, and it is a mooted question if Napoleon Bonaparte could have passed a college entrance examination in French. But it was their ability to do some one thing well that has turned the world upside down at various times in its forward march.

SPARROWS.

The white throated and white crowned sparrows may be told by their names. The fox sparrow is the larger, bright, rufous streaks and big spots on breast. The song sparrow is about the size of an English sparrow, but with a longer tail, streaks and large spot on breast. The clipping and field sparrows are smaller, with no spots on breast. The former has lines on head; the latter is rufous and sings very sweetly.

FABLES IN THE BIBLE.

Of the fables as distinguished from the parables there are but two examples in the Bible. The first of these is that of the trees choosing their king (Judges ix, 8-15); the second that of the cedar of Lebanon and the thistle (11 Kings xiv, 9).

FETTERS.

The use of fetters goes back to ancient times. Fetters were usually made of brass and also in pairs, the word being in the dual number. Iron was occasionally employed for the purpose.

EQUAL RIGHTS.

Witney—Henry, if you didn't smoke I could have a new hat. Hubby—And if you would live on steved prunes I could have a steam yacht.

TRUE.

"I don't see anything remarkable about that baby."

THE CHILD TRUSTS BECAUSE IT FINDS NO REASON IN ITSELF WHY IT SHOULD NOT—J. G. Holland.

ROBERTSON HOUSE BURNED.

At three o'clock Wednesday morning fire was discovered in the Robertson Hotel, Bathurst. The house was filled with guests and there was some lively scrambling to get out but a fire was the upper story and made slow progress, all escaped. The building except the sample rooms in the ell, is badly wrecked. Mr. Andy Gorman had the house leased. The loss will be heavy but is slightly covered with insurance.

MADDENING PROFESSIONS.

Your Work and Your Chances of Not Becoming a Lunatic.

In view of the great increase of insanity during recent years, it is interesting to note the various classes of employment which are, more or less, productive of madness.

A French scientist has recently been investigating this question, and his researches go to show that, apart from the terrible nerve strain of war, the military and naval professions are the very worst a man can enter if he wishes to go sane to the grave. Out of every 100,000 who enter the army and navy 190 become confirmed lunatics.

The liberal professions come in as a good second to the army and navy, the list being headed by artists, who are very close followed by lawyers and somewhat more distantly by the clergy, doctors of medicine, men of letters and civil servants. The number of people in these professions who become occupants of lunatic asylums is 177 to each 100,000.

The professional men are run very close by domestic servants and day laborers, of whom 150 out of each 100,000 are sent to the asylum. There is a big falling off before we arrive at the next group, which is that of mechanics, only 90 of whom go mad in each 100,000.

And curious to relate and contrary to all general belief, the group which is most highly favorable to sanity is that of commercial men, which sends only 42 per 100,000, or one in every 2,350, of its ranks to confinement.

A COMPETENT WITNESS.

In This Case Action Was Much More Eloquent Than Words.

Judge Pollard of St. Louis, originator of a widely known probation system, is the subject of a story illustrating his novel method of dealing with trouble some cases. A driver had been brought before Judge Pollard charged with cruelty to animals. He had been driving a horse, but he had an expert witness in a veterinarian, who testified that the sore on the mule's back did not pain the animal in the least.

NO GENTLEMAN.

"What's the new lodger like, Mary Ann?"

SHOP TALK.

Isaberg, a tailor by trade had just taken out an insurance policy. Three hours later, by a curious coincidence, a fire broke out, consumed his shop and its contents, says an exchange.

SOUR ACID STOMACHS.

"Pape's Diapiesin" neutralizes excessive acid in stomach, relieving dyspepsia, heartburn and distress at once.

Time it!

THE WHITE THROATED AND WHITE CROWNED SPARROWS MAY BE TOLD BY THEIR NAMES.

The fox sparrow is the larger, bright, rufous streaks and big spots on breast. The song sparrow is about the size of an English sparrow, but with a longer tail, streaks and large spot on breast. The clipping and field sparrows are smaller, with no spots on breast. The former has lines on head; the latter is rufous and sings very sweetly.

FABLES IN THE BIBLE.

Of the fables as distinguished from the parables there are but two examples in the Bible. The first of these is that of the trees choosing their king (Judges ix, 8-15); the second that of the cedar of Lebanon and the thistle (11 Kings xiv, 9).

FETTERS.

The use of fetters goes back to ancient times. Fetters were usually made of brass and also in pairs, the word being in the dual number. Iron was occasionally employed for the purpose.

ROBERTSON HOUSE BURNED.

At three o'clock Wednesday morning fire was discovered in the Robertson Hotel, Bathurst. The house was filled with guests and there was some lively scrambling to get out but a fire was the upper story and made slow progress, all escaped. The building except the sample rooms in the ell, is badly wrecked. Mr. Andy Gorman had the house leased. The loss will be heavy but is slightly covered with insurance.

IRISH LASS LOST HER LEG.

BUT NOT HER WIT.

"Irish wit cannot be quenched even by misfortune," said Co. William Crawford Gorgas, assistant surgeon general of the United States army.

"And a case that particular," impressed me is the following:

"One morning at the hospital I took off an Irish lassie's leg above the knee. She had been in a street car accident. It was of course, a very great loss to her, for she was a factory girl and it meant that she would be laid up for a long time, and a crutch for all time.

"After she came out of the ether and was herself, she asked what had been done to her. The young nurse turned and looked at me, waiting for me to tell the girl. I broke the news as gently as I could, and added:

"You're all right, only there won't be any more dancing for you, my girl."

OH, LAW!

Mr. Snap of Messrs. Snap & Snatch, solicitors—"I congratulate you, sir, on winning your case with such heavy damages. After paying our costs, the costs of app'l, and—er—sundry charges, here's a shilling for you."

THE SUCCESSFUL LITIGANT.

"What's the matter with it—is it bad?"

In manufacturing output, Nova Scotia holds fifth place, with an annual output of nearly $55,000,000 paying over 10,000,000 in salaries to some 28,000 employees, in over 1,400 factories and shops.

NO GENTLEMAN.

SHOP TALK.

Isaberg, a tailor by trade had just taken out an insurance policy. Three hours later, by a curious coincidence, a fire broke out, consumed his shop and its contents, says an exchange.

PRAYER.
The old year closed amidst war clouds, and smoke of battle and the slaughter of brave men, bringing sorrow to thousands of homes. The new year begins under the same conditions, victory is not yet, and the war cloud still hangs over us, but the spirit of our people, of our army and navy, of our King and his ministers, is optimistic and courageous. It has been such a year of war that has tested us as a nation and a people tested us as gold is tested. "Tried by fire," by the fiercest fire we have ever endured. And it is serving its mission burning out the dross and bringing out the pure gold. Amidst all the suffering and sorrow we are finding many causes for thankfulness and exultation. Our people will come out of this stronger, braver, truer, and more loyal than ever. The call of the New Year as the call of the

NEW RICHMOND.

With the ice in excellent condition with a large crowd in attendance the Ladies Hockey Club on New Year's afternoon played for the second time their opening match at the New Richmond rink.

This match was first played on Christmas afternoon and ended with the Comatiks' one goal ahead, the score being 4 to 3. But as the Ognalik's contested one goal the Club decided to have the game played over, the second game ending in a score of two to one in favor of the Comatiks.

The game was played in two twenty minute periods and was fast and furious all the way through owing to the dispute over the final goal. Both teams being determined by their deeds to prove their rights to the first match.

Lawrence Lynd and Scott Robertson handled the match being kept busy specially in the second half when the ladies seemed a little inclined to rough it.

Very few offside were made both teams playing a good game. The line-up of the teams was the same as Christmas day with the exception that May Robertson played in place of Ray Steele on the Ognalik defense, Miss Steele being absent at the second game.

Th line-up was as follows:—

SEVEN YEARS TORTURE

Nothing Helped Him Until He Took "FRUIT-A-LIVES"

ALBERT VANNER

Buckingham, Que., May 3rd, 1915. For seven years, I suffered terribly from Severe Headaches and Indigestion. That being the case from the stomach, bitter stuff would come up into my mouth after eating, while at times I had nausea and vomiting, and had chronic Constipation. I went to several doctors and wrote to a specialist in Boston but without benefit. I tried many remedies but nothing did me good. Finally, a friend advised "Fruit-a-lives". I took this grand fruit medicine and it made me well. I am grateful to "Fruit-a-lives", and to everyone who has miserable health with Constipation and Indigestion and Bad Stomach. I say take "Fruit-a-lives", and you will get well!"

Old Year. The call to service, a sacrifice of time, talents, even life itself if need be. It is a call also to more patience, faith, hope, and courage. The victory is yet to all appearances afar off. But of the ultimate end we have no fear. A righteous cause must triumph.

In the meantime who stand and wait, need to possess our souls in patience, to the strong and of a good courage, hoping for the best and unceasingly imploring the mercy seat. Never was there a time in the history of our nation when the need for prayer was so felt as now. There are many problems to be solved and met by the aid of the divine wisdom. And so at the beginning of this New Year we would humble ourselves beneath the mighty hand of God, and plead for the outpouring of His Holy Spirit that we may be fitted to take our places in the battle front and do our duty as good as soldiers of Jesus Christ.

What is prayer anyway? Our Presbyterian Catechism tells us. "It is the offering up of our desires unto God for things agreeable to His will in the name of Christ, with confession of sin, and thankful acknowledgement of all His mercies." The whole bible and especially the New Testament is very rich in suggestions and illustrations on the subject of prayer. From the prophets, psalmists, and saints as examples of how largely prayer entered into the life of faith. The Israelites were praying nation. Like Cromwell's Ironsides on many a field of battle they knelt to pray, and rose to conquer. Moses the great leader and law giver of Israel would not undertake the stuporous task of emancipating a nation of slaves and conducting them to the promised land without the assurance of God's presence and help. "If Thy presence go not with us, carry us not hence," he said. In the New Testament our Lord is the great example of prayer, as also in all other things He was a life of continuous and uninterrupted fellowship with His Heavenly Father, and if He the divine Son of God needed to spend whole nights in prayer to God what about us? Do we feel the need of answering to this call to prayer issued by our King? To me an even greater calamity than war would be an England or Canada unmoved by God's call in this war. Never has He spoken so loudly. A Toronto Daily paper had a leading editorial recently entitled, "A Remarkable Document." This document referred to was a religious one signed by nine English bishops; 4 moderators of Presbyterian churches, a Field Marshal, an Admiral, representatives of the Free Churches and Missionary Societies in England and many others. The circular was named, "A Call to United Prayer, for the Greater Realization of the Presence of God in this War."

There is a tradition of the Jewish rabbis which recalls the history of a wonderful stone prepared as they say for use in the building of Solomon's temple. Each block of that matchless edifice was shaped and fitted for its particular place and came away from the quarry marked for the masons. But this one was so different from the others, that no one knew what to do with it. Beautiful indeed it was carved with exquisite loveliness and grace, but it had no fellow, it filled no sphere, and finally was thrown aside to be soon lost sight of under the rubbish. There came the day of dedication. The wondering multitudes came to gaze upon the wonderful structure but to the eye of the artist something was lacking in one or the other. King Solomon appeared. He noticed the defect at once and immediately asked for the missing stone. The stone had been especially prepared for the finishing of the tower. Then suddenly the frightened workmen brought themselves of the rejected stone. It was sought and found and swung into place, and found it was indeed the top stone fitted so as to give the last grace to the whole.

Have we not seen guilty of the same great carelessness and indifference. That which would have crowned us as a people has been neglected and left out of our plans. Let us here and now resolve that in all our ways we will acknowledge Him, and he will direct our paths.

QUEBEC IN GOOD FINANCIAL SHAPE

Provincial Treasurer Tells Leaders of Opposition it Will Not Have to Borrow.

Quebec, Jan. 9.—Asking questions on the floor of Parliament is a science to some parliamentarians and Mr. Arthur Sauve, the leader of the Opposition is assiduously practicing the art of questioning in the Legislative Assembly.

Sometimes questions are framed not only to get information, but also caused no embarrassment with the answer them. Mr. Sauve, however, caused no embarrassment with the series of seven questions presented by him at yesterday's afternoon's sitting of the Legislative Assembly, although one question, following several others regarding finance, was expected by some Opposition members to be a stunner.

"Is it true that the Government intend to borrow again this year?" asked Mr. Sauve, who, relying upon the experience of several other provinces this year, had reason to expect, an affirmative reply. Much to his surprise however, the Hon. W. G. Mitchell, Provincial Treasurer, replied in the monosyllable, "No."

"As one member put it after the House adjourned: 'The object of the question was to show that the Government would have to borrow this year, but it showed, in the contrary, that the finances of Quebec are in such shape that it will not be necessary to borrow.'"

The Provincial Treasurer gave Mr. Sauve some information on the financial situation of the provinces at question time. The funded debt on October 31st, 1916 was $38,846,128, less $1,507,842 of sinking fund. During 1916 loans issued were for $4,000,000 ten years at 9.20, interest 5 per cent, payable half-yearly, and one of $740,000 for 30 years at per interest, 4 1/2 per cent, payable half-yearly. This latter loan is for the St. Maurice River water storage.

During the past year the city of Montreal paid the province $39,000, and the balance of the municipalities in the province paid $202,624.

These amounts are for the municipalities' share of the care of the asylums and other such matters.

Hon. Mr. Mitchell also told Mr. Sauve, among other things, that of the one million dollars that have been subscribed by the provinces towards the Victory Loan, $567,500 had come out of revenue fund and $432,500 out of sinking fund.

ce and Power of the Christian Unity and for Spiritual Revival."

This unique appeal to Christians is nothing else than a call to prepare our hearts for the new world that is before us after the war. This Canada of ours will not be the same. The war plainly shows us that we must prepare to give new welcome to Christ as the highest hope for our country and for all men. See to it that we as individuals do "our bit" by getting right with God ourselves, then letting our influence tell for good on our fellow countrymen. Thus and thus alone can we help in making this Canada of ours the noble heritage God meant it to be.

There is a tradition of the Jewish rabbis which recalls the history of a wonderful stone prepared as they say for use in the building of Solomon's temple. Each block of that matchless edifice was shaped and fitted for its particular place and came away from the quarry marked for the masons. EIGHT GERMANS FELL BEFORE ONE MAN

Little Daughter Had Been Injured When England Was Bombed.

The full story of the heroism of a British captain who was so moved with hatred of the Germans for crippling his child with a bomb that he attacked and killed eight of them with a club, and withstood a sudden German onslaught by his inspiring leadership, has just been received. The tale has made the captain's name a byword of gallantry and bravery in the British camp. Here are the facts:

When the Germans delivered their tremendous assault against Masnières and Maroing during their general offensive on November 30th those two towns and the territory about them were being held by a division of English troops. On the staff of the commanding general there was a dashing captain who may be designated as Captain Black for purposes of this narrative.

Black was a man of long service and much beloved by all the troops. He had been a jovial companion until recently, when during a German air raid over England his baby girl, Black had become bitter against the Germans and had sworn that he would exact full penalty for the airman's deed.

Opportunity Arrives.
The captain little knew when he turned in on the night of the twentieth of November how soon he would be able to get his revenge. Next morning the Germans attacked Masnières in force and the brigade to the right of the troops holding the town was forced to fall back. The brigade in the town, however, stood firm and fought the enemy off. Meanwhile waves of Germans had swept by to the south of the town and were swarming westward.

Captain Black came out of his headquarters south of Maroing to find five Germans already in possession of a great dump nearby. So quickly had the enemy advanced that they were the first intimation that they were nearby. Black had in his hand a heavy walking stick, which was his only weapon. Without a moment's hesitation he charged the dump alone and beat about him so fiercely that he brained all five opponents before they recovered from the surprise. He had made good his vow, but his work was not finished.

Other Germans appeared west of Les Rues Vertes, a southern suburb of Masnières. Black collected all the signallers, cooks, orderlies and other servants available, and with two companies of regulars delivered an attack towards Rues Vertes. The Germans fell back, and fierce hand-to-hand fighting followed. Black led his little army from house to house and as often as the Germans made a stand he drove them out until finally the whole suburb had been cleared with the exception of one machine gun, whose crew of eight men kept pumping bullets into the British ranks.

Charged Machine Gun.
Black charged, this machine gun with one orderly. Four other brave ordies had been shot down beside him previously, and this one also was caught as the machine-gun was reloaded. Black then attacked the Germans with a revolver in each hand and shot down the last man of eight. This cleared Rues Vertes of the enemy and outposts were established about the place. Black had been wounded during the fight, but he held on to his command until relief came next day.

This story is not the only one to be related of that bitter day about Masnières. A regiment which had the stiffest part of the fighting in the town was made up of troops known as "die-hards" and they fought all day with rifles and bayonets at close quarters and never gave a step in the face of a great onslaught made against them. During the fighting the colonel had been wounded in one eye and so serious was his injury that his other eye became useless. His troops continued to be so hard pressed that it seemed probable they would give way.

The colonel knew they needed all the encouragement possible to enable them to bear the awful strain. He called for an orderly and, led by his servant, he started making a round of the front line to speak words of encouragement to his troops. For hours this blind man with bandaged eyes kept up his tramp among his men with his hand in that of the orderly, who was his only guide. This heroic example was the final word for the Tommies. They loved their colonel, and they stood and died for him and held their front line.

Masnières produced another thrilling incident next day. The Germans renewed their attack and came down in waves. Their assault at the crossing at the canal bank was particularly fierce, and the British, after sustaining the shock for some time, began to waver, and the general rushed to the spot. He took a stand in the midst of his troops and rallied them about him along the bank. He spoke to them with assurance and pleaded that they be calm. The Germans were sending forward another great wave of infantry.

It was then that the general unceasingly echoed words of the famous order issued by an American general at the battle of Bunker Hill, "Steady men steady do not fire until you see the whites of their eyes." The cross was held and the Germans driven back.

An American walked into a barber's shop on this side of the "herring pond" for a shave. He began to talk with the barber about the war, and to criticize British business methods and to declare that we were behind the times.

The barber, who meanwhile had been lathering his customer's face, nodded assent, but said nothing. He then left the American and sat down to enjoy his newspaper.

"Why don't you shave me?" enquired the American.

"Oh, we only shave here," coolly replied the barber. "You must go next door to be shaved."

The old gentleman had reluctantly accepted an invitation to spend Christmas with his daughter in London. It being the first time he had traveled any distance for some time like thirty years, he was a bit nervous as to the safety of himself and his luggage. At every stop he put his head out of the window and asked in an irritable voice if his luggage was safe. At the fifth stop the long-suffering guard could stand it no longer.

"Yes, it's safe," he retorted angrily. "But if you'd been born an Englishman instead of an ass, you would have had your trunk with you!"

EIGHT GERMANS FELL BEFORE ONE MAN

Little Daughter Had Been Injured When England Was Bombed.

The full story of the heroism of a British captain who was so moved with hatred of the Germans for crippling his child with a bomb that he attacked and killed eight of them with a club, and withstood a sudden German onslaught by his inspiring leadership, has just been received. The tale has made the captain's name a byword of gallantry and bravery in the British camp. Here are the facts:

When the Germans delivered their tremendous assault against Masnières and Maroing during their general offensive on November 30th those two towns and the territory about them were being held by a division of English troops. On the staff of the commanding general there was a dashing captain who may be designated as Captain Black for purposes of this narrative.

Black was a man of long service and much beloved by all the troops. He had been a jovial companion until recently, when during a German air raid over England his baby girl, Black had become bitter against the Germans and had sworn that he would exact full penalty for the airman's deed.

Opportunity Arrives.
The captain little knew when he turned in on the night of the twentieth of November how soon he would be able to get his revenge. Next morning the Germans attacked Masnières in force and the brigade to the right of the troops holding the town was forced to fall back. The brigade in the town, however, stood firm and fought the enemy off. Meanwhile waves of Germans had swept by to the south of the town and were swarming westward.

Captain Black came out of his headquarters south of Maroing to find five Germans already in possession of a great dump nearby. So quickly had the enemy advanced that they were the first intimation that they were nearby. Black had in his hand a heavy walking stick, which was his only weapon. Without a moment's hesitation he charged the dump alone and beat about him so fiercely that he brained all five opponents before they recovered from the surprise. He had made good his vow, but his work was not finished.

Other Germans appeared west of Les Rues Vertes, a southern suburb of Masnières. Black collected all the signallers, cooks, orderlies and other servants available, and with two companies of regulars delivered an attack towards Rues Vertes. The Germans fell back, and fierce hand-to-hand fighting followed. Black led his little army from house to house and as often as the Germans made a stand he drove them out until finally the whole suburb had been cleared with the exception of one machine gun, whose crew of eight men kept pumping bullets into the British ranks.

Charged Machine Gun.
Black charged, this machine gun with one orderly. Four other brave ordies had been shot down beside him previously, and this one also was caught as the machine-gun was reloaded. Black then attacked the Germans with a revolver in each hand and shot down the last man of eight. This cleared Rues Vertes of the enemy and outposts were established about the place. Black had been wounded during the fight, but he held on to his command until relief came next day.

This story is not the only one to be related of that bitter day about Masnières. A regiment which had the stiffest part of the fighting in the town was made up of troops known as "die-hards" and they fought all day with rifles and bayonets at close quarters and never gave a step in the face of a great onslaught made against them. During the fighting the colonel had been wounded in one eye and so serious was his injury that his other eye became useless. His troops continued to be so hard pressed that it seemed probable they would give way.

The colonel knew they needed all the encouragement possible to enable them to bear the awful strain. He called for an orderly and, led by his servant, he started making a round of the front line to speak words of encouragement to his troops. For hours this blind man with bandaged eyes kept up his tramp among his men with his hand in that of the orderly, who was his only guide. This heroic example was the final word for the Tommies. They loved their colonel, and they stood and died for him and held their front line.

Masnières produced another thrilling incident next day. The Germans renewed their attack and came down in waves. He took a stand in the midst of his troops and rallied them about him along the bank. He spoke to them with assurance and pleaded that they be calm. Billy Sunday Opens Fire in Washington on "The Kaiser and His Hot Dog Gang."

Billy Sunday began his war on sin in Washington with three meetings on Sunday. The Tabernacle, which has a seating capacity of 15,000 was filled at each meeting.

The evangelist mixed gospel and patriotism in his sermons. He fiercely attacked the Kaiser and the I. W. W. At night he laid stress on the evils of alcoholism and social wrongs.

The climax of the meeting came when Sunday dramatically declared that "we will bury the Kaiser and his hot-dog gang so deep that they will not hear the toot of Gabriel's horn on resurrection morn."

He had just finished a recital of the naval and military examples of America's never-to-die spirit, each instance related eliciting applause, when he de-

And then Thacker called a muchacho

Half an hour afterward, quick time for Buenos Tierras, Senor Urrique's awkward horses.

A tall man with a white mustache unrelieved black.

The two hastened inside and were

Senor Urrique threw back her heavy veil with a quick gesture. She was past middle age, and her hair was be-

traces of the beauty peculiar to the Basque province. But, once you had seen her eyes and comprehended the great sadness that was revealed in their deep shadows and hopeless ex-

She bent upon the young man a long look of the most agonized questioning;

then her great black eyes turned, and her gaze rested upon his left hand, and then with a sob not loud, but

"Bijo mio" and caught the Liano Kid to her heart.

A month afterward the Kid came to the consulate in response to a message sent by Thacker.

He looked the young Spanish caballero. His clothes were imported, and the wiles of the jewellers had not been spent upon him in vain. A more than respectable diamond shone on his finger as he rolled a shuck cigarette.

"What's doing?" asked Thacker.

"Nothing much," said the Kid calmly. "I eat my first iguana steak today. They're them big lizards, you sabe? I reckon, though, that iguana and bacon would do me about as well. Do you care for iguanas, Thacker?"

"No, nor for some other kinds of reptiles," said Thacker.

It was 3 in the afternoon, and in another hour he would be in his state of beatitude.

"It's time you were minding good, sonny," he went on, with an ugly look on his reddened face. "You're not playing up to me square. You've been the prodigal son for four weeks now, and you could have had your head in a noose if you'd wanted it."

Now, Mr. Kid, do you think it's right to leave me out so long on a hunk dme? What's the trouble? Don't you get your flat over on anything that looks like cash in the Casa Blanca? Don't tell me you don't. Everybody knows where old Crique keeps his stuff. I'm a United States currency, too, he don't want anything else. What's done?"

"Why, sure," said the Kid, admiring his diamond. "There's plenty of money up there. I'm no judge of collateral in bunches, but I will undertake for you that I've seen the rise of $50,000 at a time in that tin grub but that my adopted father calls his safe. And he lets me carry the key sometimes just to show me that he knows I'm the real little Francisco that strayed from the herd a long time ago."

"Well, what are you waiting for?" asked Thacker angrily. "Don't you forget that I can upset your apple cart any day I want to. If old Crique knew you were an impostor, he'd sort of things would happen to you? Oh, you don't know this country, Mr. Texas Kid. The laws here have got mustard spread between them. These people here'd stretch you out like a frog that had been stepped on and give you about fifty sticks at every corner of the place. And they'd wear every stick out too. What was left of you they'd feed to alligators."

"I might as well tell you now, pardner," said the Kid, sliding down low on his steamer chair. "That things are going to stay just as they are. They're going to stay just as they are."

"What do you mean?" asked Thacker, rattling the bottom of his glass on his desk.

"The scheme's off," said the Kid. "And whenever you have the pleasure of speaking to me address me as Don Francisco Urique. I'll guarantee I'll answer to it. We'll let Colonel Urique keep his money. His little tin safe is as good as the time locker in the First National bank of Laredo as far as you and me are concerned."

"You're going to throw me down, then, are you?" said the consul.

"Sure," said the Kid cheerfully. "Throw you down. That's it. And now I'll tell you why. The first night I was up at the colonel's house they introduced me to a bedroom. No blankets on the floor—a real room, with a bed and things in it. And before I was asleep in comfort the critical mother of mine and tucks in the corners. 'Panchito,' she says, 'my little son, God has brought you back to me. I bless his name forever.' It was that or some truck like that she said. And down comes a drop or two of rain and hits me on the nose. And all that stuck by me, Mr. Thacker. And it's been that way ever since. And it's got to stay that way. Don't you think that it's for what's in it for me, either, that I say so. If you have any such ideas keep 'em to yourself. I haven't had much truck with women in my life and no mothers to speak of, but here's a lady that we've got to keep fooled. Once she stood it; twice she won't. I'm a low down wretch, and the devil may have sent me on this trail instead of God, but I'll travel it to the end. And now, don't forget that I'm Don Francisco Urique whenever you happen to mention my name."

"I'll expose you today, you—don't be so sure," stammered Thacker.

The Kid arose and without violence took Thacker by the throat with a hand of steel and showed him slowly into a corner. Then he drew from under his left arm his pearl handled, and he poked the cold muzzle of it against the consul's mouth.

"I told you why I come here," he said, with his old freezing smile. "I leave here you'll be the reason. Never forget it, pardner. Now, what is my name?"

"Don Francisco Urique!" gasped Thacker.

From outside came a sound of wheels and the shouting of some one and the sharp thwacks of a wooden whipstock upon the backs of flat horses.

The Kid put up his gun and walked toward the door. But he turned again and held up his left hand with his back toward the consul.

"There's one more reason," he said slowly. "Why things have got to stand as they are. The fellow I killed in the consul's mouth."

"There's no use talking, said the dame. There's no use talking, was her claim. There's no use talking, that's true. There's no use talking, but they do."

Laredo had one of them same pictures on his left hand.

Outside the ancient land of Don Santos Urique noticed to the door. The consulman caused his following, Santos Urique, in a voluminous gay gown of white lace and flying ribbons, leaned forward with a happy look in her great soft eyes.

"Are you within, dear son?" she called in the rippling Castilian.

"Madre mia, yo vengo (mother, I come)," answered the young Don Francisco Urique.

Justice.

Each citizen wants to live as fully as his surroundings permit. This being the desire of all, it results that all, exercising joint control, are interested in seeing that, while each does not suffer from breach of the relations between acts and ends in his own person, he shall not break those relations in the persons of others. The incorporated mass of citizens has to maintain the condition under which each may gain the fullest life compatible with the fullest lives of fellow citizens. To maintain intact the conditions under which life may be carried on is a business fundamentally distinct from the business of interfering with the carrying on of the life itself, either by helping the individual or directing him or restraining him.—Herbert Spencer.

Carelessness.

Mr. Flatbush—I see during some recent explorations at Pompeii an ancient kitchen was unearthed. In the fireplace there was a kettle on the grate, just as it was left 1,500 years ago by some cook residing in that city.

Mrs. Flatbush—Such carelessness! You can't tell me she hasn't had an opportunity to put that kettle away at all this time.
