The Hovas' Reply to France.

PARIS, Nov. 29 .- The Malagassy Government, in its reply to the French ultimatum, agrees that the French residents in the island shall become the mediary between Madagascar and the powers, and also agrees that France shall effect such public works in the island as the Malagassy authorities shall deem necessary. A letter dated at Tamatave, Madagascar, on Oct. 30, received at Paris, says the Hova Governor has ordered the native women and children to leave the town, and he himself and the men have retired from the fortifications, which they are repairing. The market is deserted, and the native quarters are empty. The postal service has been interrupted and communication is difficult. The natives are determined. They are preparing for the French attack generally, although the Government possibly will accept the French conditions, except the second clause, which empowers France to establish garrisons anywhere on the island. The Queen is very reluctant to yield a single point. The Nihilist Leader's Opinion.

LONDON, Nov. 29 .- Stepniak, the Russian Nibilist leader, in an interview today in regard to the Czar's popularity, said: "Of course, the Czar knows that he is perfectly safe in going about unattended. I know that a strong feeling in favor of conciliation prevails among the Russian revolutionists. The Czar has wonderfully good cards in his hands, and, if he is not quite a fool, he can make concessions which will reconcile everybody and which will make him the most popular Czar Russia has ever known. The Czar's manifesto does not indicate whether he will follow a liberal or conservative policy. The praise bestowed upon it by the English press as being a liberal move is perfectly gratuitous. There is nothing in the manifesto, however, which can be blamed. It opens the way to both courses. Beyond this there is nothing in it. We must wait and see what he will do with political offenders. This is the chief point in my mind." After the Capture.

London, Nov. 29 .- The correspondent of the Central News at Tokio telegraphs as follows: Details of the fall of Port Arthur are now beginning to arrive. The statements that there was a further slaughter of Chinese, although it would have been excusable in consequence of mutilation and tortrre of Japanese soldiers, are absolutely denied by the Japanese officers in command. During the attack upon Port Arthur large force of Chinese from Foo Chow and beyond Kin Chow attacked the latter place, but the Japanese garrison repulsed them after severe fighting with heavy loss to the Chinese. This evening the officers made a descent upon the wholesale commission house of Stolze Bros., seized their stock and books and began an investigation with the view to criminal prosecutions for selling cleomargarine without so marking it. The seizure created a great sensation.

THE BOODLE INQUIRY.

Some Peculiar Financial Transactions Ventilated.

J. F. Coleman's Interesting Statements-"Loans" and "Drafts" Disposed of Without Acknowledgment or Security -Diamond and Gold Sleeve-Links Figure in the Case.

Toronto, Nov. 29 .- At the municipal contract inquiry this merning B. Webier, the Cleveland man, who acted for the Kiely-Everett syndicate at the time of the street railway award, and who became known as the "clean skater," swore positively that during all his transactions in Toronto he never directly or indirectly made any corrupt offer to any alderman on behalf of the syndicate named. J. J. Franklin, superintendent of the old street railway, swere he met the late Geo. Kiely at the time of the street railway award, and that he had no knowledge of any corrupt promise or any offer to any alderman, but that Kiely had said to him something about some deals with aldermen. He spoke especially of a real estate deal with Ald. Pape. Mr. Franklin was not on very good terms with Kiely at the time and did not pay any attention to it.

J. F. Coleman, secretary of the Trinidad Asphalt Company, stated that at the time the permanent paving question was up in July, 1893, while he had no business dealings with H. A. Everett, of the Street Railway Company (which it will be remembered tried to form a paving syndicate), he (Coleman) made a draft on Everett through the Traders' Bank for $7,000. He did not sey what he wanted it for. He got the money in cash and at the time gave no acknowledgment for it, nor was it asked. He subsequently accounted to Mr. Everett for the money. Headmitted that his business as would have warranted his making such a over $5,000 of it to John Leys, ex-M.P.P. promised to pursue this branch of the inquiry later.) Leys gave him no acknow!edgment at the time, but subsequently he got a note from him. At that time also Coleman saw Ald. Bailey and loaned him $200. He got no acknowledgment. Bailey did not promise to pay it back, although he (Coleman) understood he might get it back in sand, in which Bailey deals. Coleman admitted he had paid this money, bu' could not say that Bailey's vote in the paving contract was meant as the return for it. It was true, though, that it was at the time doubtful how Bailey was going to vote on the Guelich contract, which Coleman was opposing. It was, in fact, said Coleman, d.fficult to say what might have been his motive in advancing the money. Again, he advanced $800 to Ald. Bailey to take up a note. He got no security for that money, and there was no entry in a bank book or elsewhere to trace the money. He had kept no books regarding his dealings with aldermen. This was at the time the permanent pavement question was up. Mr. Nesbitt here asked witness if he had ever given a man gold sleeve links. Witness admitted he had given a man diamond gold sleeve links. That man was 25 feet below. Signs of an Early Appeal to the People. that the Conservative Union has called a in 1891. He had been told by Coleman series of political meetings to be addressed that the company in which he was interby Ministers of the Crown and others has ested could get the contract if he put up again given rise to the rumor that there is $40,000 to corrupt the aldermen. Coleman to be a general election before a session of told him the other company had put up the House. The signs are certainly not $50,000. Mr. Janes said he had never wanting that such is to be the case, although made an offer to an alderman it is difficult to see how this can be done for the purchase of his vote. with the voters' lists under revision. Miss Tracey alleges that she worked for Mrs. Stevens for over a year, and that two and the opinion is that he is conferring John Leys, Coleman with Sir Charles the elder as to the coming campaign. THE BOODLE INQUIRY.

Some Peculiar Financial Transaco tions Ventilated.

J. F. Coleman's Interesting Statements-"Loans" and "Drafts" Disposed of Without Acknowledgment or Security -Diamond and Gold Sloove-Links Figure in the Case.

TORONTO. Nov. 29 .- At the municipal contract inquiry this morning B. Webier, the Cleveland man, who acted for the Kiely-Everett syndicate at the time of the street railway award, and who became known as the "clean skater," swore positively that during all his transactions in Toronto he never directly or indirectly made any corrupt offer to any alderman on behalf of the syndicate named. J. J. Franklin, superintendent of the old street railway, swore he met the late Geo. Kiely at the time of the street railway any corrupt promise or any offer to any alderman, but that Kiely had said to him something about some deals with aldermen. He spoke especially of a real estate deal with Ald. Pape. Mr. Franklin was not on very good terms with Kiely at the time and did not pay any attention to it.

J. F. Coleman, secretary of the Trinidad Asphalt Company, stated that at the time the permanent paving question was up in July, 1893, while he had no business dealings with H. A. Everett, of the Street Railway Company (which it will be remembered tried to form a paving syndicate), he (Coleman) made a draft on Everett through the Traders' Bank for $7,000. He did not say what he wanted it for. He got the money in cash and at the time gave no acknowledgment for it, nor was it asked. He subsequently accounted to Mr. Everett for the money. Headmitted that his business relations with Mr. Everett were not such as would have warranted his making such a draft. After he had got the cash he paid over $5,000 of it to John Leys, ex-M.P.P. promised to pursue this branch of the inquiry later.) Leys gave him no acknowledgment at the time, but subsequently he got a note from him. At that time also Coleman saw Ald. Bailey and loaned him $200. He got no acknowledgment. Bailey did not promise to pay it back, although he (Coleman) understood he might get it back in sand, in which Bailey deals. Coleman admitted he had paid this money, but could not say that Bailey's vote in the paving contract was meant as the return for it. It was true, though, that it was at the time doubtful how Bailey was going to vote on the Guelich contract, which Coleman was opposing. It was, in fact, said Coleman, difficult to say what might have been his motive in advancing the money. Again, he advanced $800 to Ald. Bailey to take up a note. He got no security for that money, and there was no entry in a bank book or elsewhere to trace the money He had kept no books regarding his dealings with aldermen. This was at the time the permanent pavement question was up. Mr. Nesbitt here asked witness if he had ever given a man gold sleeve links. Witness admitted he had given a man diamond gold sleeve links. That man was Thomas McIlroy, who at one time was a depository for $700 or $800 to be paid to an alderman if the Kiely-Everett syndicate got the franchise. It was to be paid over in the form of a bet, the alderman having assured McI roy it would go through.

The name of this alderman was not mentioned, but will come up this afternoon.

Court rose at 1:15 p.m. At the afternoon session Mr. F. J. Cole man was questioned further in regard to the alleged bet by which an alderman was to to get $700. Mcliroy, who acted as depository, had told him that the money had been paid. The alderman in question was Gowanlock.

TO DEFEAT MAYOR FLEMING. Coleman admitted that he had bought up a judgment against the then mayor, R. J. Fleming, from the Traders' Bank. He did this because he was mad at Fleming and wanted to force him into bankruptcy, and so out of running for the mayoralty. S. H. Janes swore he had been one of the OTTAWA, Nov. 30 .- The announcement tenderers for the street railway franchise himself in the evidence just given and that Being asked about the $5,000 paid to John Leys, Coleman admitted it had been paid him because of his supposed influence with aldermen. Ex-Ald. Hall, who was in the conteil in acts, and also that he had any business dealings with Ald. Hewilt. Counsel Nosbitt then showed witness letter signed by Hall and Hewitt, in which they agreed for $4,000 to secure the contracts for electrical apparatus for the Edison Company and to get for Mr. Barr, of the Edison Company, the figures of rival tenderers after the tenders were opened and before they were awarded, the money to be returned if the Edison Company did not get the contract. Hall admitted this was his signature, but explained that he was not in the council at that time. He was to get $1,800 or $2,000 of the sum named for securing the information. He had no understanding with the street railway company and could at Milan, Tenn. Consumption was the not see that there was anything wrong in the agreement in question. Ald. Gowanlock swore emphatically that he had got no money at all out of the alleged bet. He denied having made any money through any deals for his influence as an alderman. The court at this point adjourned until

WHAT THE MOST POPULAR OF THE NEWER NOVELISTS IS LIKE.

How He Drifted From the Law Into Literature-What Work He Has Now in Hand -His First Conspicuous Success-His

School Career, Mr. Stanley John Weyman, who has suddenly become one of the most noted of contemporary novelists, will be 39 in the present year, having been born at Ludlow in Shropshire, where his father was a solicitor and Coroner, in 1855. He remains a bachelor, living with his mother in the little town of his birth, and cultivates, with an amateur's moderation, several of the most characteristically English branches of sport. He rides to hounds a little, not with any extreme vigor. "I have," he says himself, "a very keen eye for gates." He is particularly fond of boating, and spent the last summer in a houseboat on the Thames. He has, moreover, seen a little traveling, having made a winter's expedition into Egypt and enjoyed a leisurely period of exploration in Spain and Southern France. Indeed, he is very fairly familiar with the Western Mediterranean, and declares, pleasantly, that to get the good of travel it is by no means necessary to be up In Continental languages. For he has no claims to being a linguist. He has seen some adventures on his journeys, too, of which more anon. 'In person Mr. Weyman is small and slight, troubled somewhat by a shortness of sight, and not much above the middle stature. He is a type of the student whose sympathies are not confined to books; who is, first and foremost, a man of letters, but has so much of the country spirit about him that he will never, in all the pressure of his engagements, decline into a dry-as-dust. He feels that to keep the brain clear the body must be given free play, and his work amply manifests the advantages of this, the surest system for success. In a word, Mr. Weyman is a typical example of the child of our English public school and university education, when that education has been allowed its perfect work, when classics have not drowned out athletics nor the claims of the running ground prevented distinction in the schools. Mr. Weyman was educated at Shrewsbury School, that sound home of learning at which, half a century ago,

STANLEY J. WEYMAN. every boy was supposed to write Greek verses with the fluency of a Kynaston. No details of his school life are known, but when he passed in due course at Christ Church, Oxford, he left a more indelible mark behind him. He was no great worker, it is true, but the men at the head of the class list are not always the best grounded for after life, and Mr. Weyman had other claims. He did nothing conspicuous upon the river or on the cricket ground, but among the men of his time he was a familiar figure on the cinder path. During the winter he ran pretty regularly with the Christ Church beagles, a pack that still continues to be the bugbear of the farmers about the Hinkseyes, and occasionally brings a too ardent sportsman under the eye of the Woodstock magistrate, with a charge of breaking fences and retarding crops! In the spring the training of the winter told, and in 1876 Mr. Weyman won the mile and two mile races at his college sports, finishing his career by carrying off the latter event a second time in the succeeding year. At the close of 1877 he took his degree with the creditable, but not brilliant record, of a second class in modern history. He had taken a third in classical moderations the year before. A large proportion of Oxford graduates, as soon as the degree is taken, turn to tutorship for the moment, while they are looking round for some more permanent employment, and Mr. Weyman followed in the common stream. For a year or more after leaving Oxford, he took a mestership at King's School, Chester, where he filled in the intervals between school hours and the games by studying for the bar. In 1881 he was called to the bar at the Inner Temple, and joined to the Oxford circuit, where he practiced for some 10 years, with varying but moderate success. "The dusty purlieus of the law" were not congenial to him; for a long while he had set his heart upon literary work. While at Oxford he sent a short story to a London magazine (Chamber's Journal); it was accepted; a cheque for £4 followed, "and," says Mr. Weyman him-self, "visions of opulence followed." Reality, however, did not come up to the dream. His first experience in journalism was a failure. He had written some skits which appear ed in the St. James Gazette, and Mr. Frederick Greenwood, who was then editing the paper, was taken by his humor and sent him down to Windsor to write an article on Prince Leopold's wedding. Mr. Weyman had a good view of the proceedings and wrote what seemed to him a good enough account, but it never issued from Greenwood's waste-paper basket "And that," said Mr. Weyman, "was the end of my writing for the press."

But in fiction he has been more success ful. Mr. James Payn is proverbial for his skill in discovering young talent; was he not the first to recognize the merits of Mr. Anstey, and one of the first to print Mr. Barry Pain? To his other discoveries Mr. Weyman must now be idded, for in 1883 a short story, "King Pepin," appeared in the Cornhill Magazines of which (as everyone, I suppose, is aware) Mr. Payn is the editor. Mr. Weyman always speaks with gratitude of that early recognition. In the same year the English illustrated printed "Bab," and "The Story of a Courtship" appeared in Longman's. In 1885 and the following year he determined upon a more ambitious flight, and set himself to write a full-length novel. But the result was unsatisfactory, and, when two publishers had refused the manuscript, M?. Weyman had the courage to destroy it. Some of the material, however, he afterwards used in "The New Rector." His first conspicuous success was (as so many successes are) the result of an accident. Spending an idle afternoon at the club in 1888, he chanced upon a copy of Baird's "Rise of the Huguenots," and was greatly interested by it. The idea of a romance upon the subject framed itself in his mind, and within a week he was off upon "The House of the Wolf." A year later the story was published in the English Illustrated. Messrs. MacMillan & Co., the publishers of the magazine, did not, however, see their way to issuing the story in book form, and several other houses were approached without success. It was reserved for 1892, however, to see the publication of Mr. Weyman's masterpiece. "A Gentleman of France," which made its first appearance in a large syndicate of American newspapers. This strange, eventful history is considered by its author the best piece of work he has ever done; and his readers will heartily agree with him. It is not often that a story attracts much attention from the critical journals during its serial issue, but "A Gentleman of France" has been widely noticed with a round of enthusiastic congratulations. It argues great things for Mr. Weyman's future, and shows him to possess, to a greater degree than any writer since Dumas, the spirit of keen, moving adventure and the art of thrilling the reader to the core.

In the immediate future Mr. Weyman will be more conspicuously before the public than he has ever been hitherto. He has recently published an historical romance called, "My Lady Rotha," which, like its predecessor, "A Gentleman of France, was first issued to the public through the medium of the newspapers. A series of twelve short stories, under the collective title of "From the Memoirs of a Minister," will also be published in America by the McClure syndicate during the coming 12 months. Like all his best work, these stories are based upon great historical characters or events. They affect to be extracts taken from the memoirs of the Duke of Sully, Prime Minister of Henry the Great of France, who was for 20 years a daring soldier, for the next 20 Minister of France, for 30 more living in retirement, his experiences embraced many romantic and striking episodes. Each story will be separate and complete in its incidents, but they will be connected by a common style and thread of interest.

Mr. Weyman has other schemes as well, which are not yet sufficiently advanced for publication. In the meanwhile, there will be plenty of entertainment for his admirers during the next 12 months; and it will, I think, be a matter of general surprise if Mr. Weyman does not before a great while stand a good head and shoulders taller in the literary world than he does to-day. He has done great things already; but the prospect before him is brighter still.

THE JAPANESE SOSHI.

All About this Class of Anarchists, Blackmailers, Etc. The war with China is taking away from Japan, for a time, a class of men who have materially disturbed the Government. I refer to the Soshi. These are like no other men on the face of the globe. They are a kind of cross between an Anarchist and a political striker, and though they exist in nearly every part of the Empire, I have never seen them described in letters of travel. They are a peculiar feature of the modern Japan, and are the product of the old feudal system, married to the modern civilization. Japan, you know, was twenty-five years ago much like Europe during the Middle Ages. The Daimios, or nobles of the country, owed the great er part of the land, and each had number of soldiers or Samurai about him. These Samurai were pected to support them. When the revolution came and the Daimois gave up their estates, these men were out of a job. They took up with different branches of trade. A large number went into the army. Some were employed in the new Government, and to-day the class is practically wiped out. Springing from it, however, are these bands of Soshi, who are young men, many of whom are ready to sell themselves and their swords to the highest bidder. Every politician has a number of them connected with him, and every political meeting is filled with them. They carry sword-canes, and during election the papers are full of the attacks of one band of Soshi upon another, and of statements as to how one prominent man, accompanied by his Soshi, was met by another statesman, with his Soshi, and how the two fought the matter out on the

These Soshi are numbered by thousands, and it is surprising how well they are organized. Outside of those who are attached to the politicians there are bands of societies of them who work together for their mutual benefit, and who are, in fact. bands of thugs, assassins, blackmailers and strikers. Some of them give their services for their food and clothes and for $2 | Corn Extractor has failed to perform a peror $3 a day they will do anything. I asked a number of the prominent men of Japan, including Count Ito, whence the Soshi came, and I was told that they were in most cases disaffected and unsuccessful students. The Government places are all overcrowded, and the universities have been turning out their graduates by the hundreds a year. The brightest students have been picked out by the Government and sent abroad to finish their education. The "outs" have banded together, and they have formed these organizations, which are to a certain extent insurrectionary in their tendencies. They would be a bad element in case of a revolution, and they form one of the worst features of the new FRANK G. CARPENTER.

RESUSCITATING THE DEAD.

The Odd Double Bellows the Doctor Uses in the Process.

Dr. Peter J. Gibbons, of Syracuse, who is anxious to make the attempt of resuscitating an electrocuted murderer, recently showed in New York his apparatus. The man whose discovery has attracted so much attention not only among physicians and scientists, but throughout the newspaper reading world, is on the sunny side of middle age, though his hair and short, pointed Vandyke beard are streaked

I am perfectly confident that the alternating current, as now applied in the death chamber, does not kill. Animation is suspended, of course, and the knives of the autopsy surgeon are the real executors of the law. I do not claim that this apparatus which I brought here to place in Bellevue Hospital will bring the dead to life, but I am satisfied, as the result of a long series of experience upon animals, that it will resuscitate any man who has received in his body the alternating current now applied to murderers in the State prisons, viz., 1,700 volts. As you see. the contrivance is merely a double bellows. one-half of which will send pure air into the lungs while the other half will pump

"Of course I do not say that the alter, nating current will not kill men provided enough power is applied, but at present 1,700 volts are used, and this is not deadly." Dr. Gibbons has experimented largely on dogs, rabbits, cats and even sheep and cat tle. He has applied a current of from 1,500 to 2,500 volts, and these animals have permanently recovered as full possession of their faculties as before the current was turned into their system. The periods of apparent death had varied from a few moments to several hours. Dr. Gibbons has still in his employ an assistant who re ceived 1,500 volts in Cleveland in 1885, The doctor insists that, had he not been peremptorily stopped in his operations by Warden Stout on Nov. 14, 1893, John John son, the electrocuted murderer, would have been brought back to life. - New York

Sensational Reports Contradicted - No Grounds for Alarm-Only Two Cases Have Occurred.

(Special to the ADVERTISER.) In spite of many rumors to the contrary, the number of smallpox cases in town have been confined to two. One of these, Peter McCallum, a boy of 15, has proved fatal. No other cases have been reported. The health of the townspeople, aside from the effects of vaccination is unusually good. The reports as to the prevalence of the disease in Strathroy which have appeared in some of the Toren dailies, and even as far east as Montreal, cannot be too strongly condemned. They are totally foundation. less. No one in Strathroy feels the slightest alarm. Farmers come in as usual and do their marketing every day. The Christmas number of St. Nicholas, (Century Company, New York) is a joy. Everything that ought to be in it is in it, and nothing is there that shouldn't be. There are stories and pictures for boys, girls and the babies; and it is an open question if the fathers and mothers won't enjoy the number quiet as much as the children.

The complete novel of the December issue of Lippincott's is "Mrs. Hallam's Companion," by the well-known writer, Mrs. Mary J. Holmes. It follows from America to Europe and back again the fortunes of a young lady who deserved a better position than that of a "companion"-and found it. A short story by the author of "Dodo" will attract general attention. In this case expectations will not be disappointed, for Mr. E. F. Benson has written nothing better than "A Creed of Manners." Miss Ellen Mackubin tells of "A Live Ghost." "A Western Daisy Miller," by Claude M. Girardeau, has the flavor of the prairies. The poetry of the number is by Florence Earle Coates, Susie M. Best, H. Everybody admires a locomotive that is in good order. There is power and majesty about it that thrilis even the engineer who holds the throttle and manipulates the gigantic force with the movement of a small lever. Messrs. Scott & Browne: Gentlemen.-I desire to express my sincere thanks to you for what Scott's Emulsion has done for many that have applied to this Society for aid. One year ago a woman who had been sick for nineteen months with Rheumatism, and was almost helpless, came to us for aid. I gave her a bottle of Scott's Emulsion. She began to improve. She took in all five bottles, and today is a perfectly well woman; weighs 198 pounds and has been cooking since last May (for she is a cook). I have a young lady in one of the large drygoods stores today that could not work without Scott's Emulsion. She was given up with consumption. These are was given up with consumption. A PANIC IN THE CAMP.

We have reliable information that Sir John Thompson and his colleagues have resolved to hold a Dominion General Election at the earliest oppor-

A panic prevails at Ottawa. The Ministers dare not face the possibilities of another session of Parliament, and they will make a dash for the country as soon as the new voters' lists, now being revised, are completed. The rushing up and down the country by Messss. Haggart, Foster, Montague and others-the sudden arranging for meetings at a season of the year when business and social engagements, rather than national political discussions, are wont to engage the attention of the people-upholds this view.

Indeed, we are not without good grounds for the assertion that indirect | that the swing of the pendulum at the of thing, which is so common under the inapproaches have been made to Lord Aberdeen to ascertain whether or not he would sanction a pro- man of special charm and ability in good names are put on at the final revision. posal to go to the country on the antiquated voters' lists upon which the election of 1801 was fought. But there need be no fear that a Governor-General of the stamp of Lord Aberdeen will consent to any such outrage, however skillfully planned.

Sir John Thompson and his associates have been urged by members of their party to hold another session on the ground of the disturbing effect which a general election would have on trade and commerce, and also for the reason that not a few Conservative members, knowing that they will not be re-elected, desire to have one more sessional allowance guaranteed to them. The appeal has been in vain.

The reason for this cowardice on the part of the men in power, we are in a position to state, and we do so with knowledge whereof we speak, lies in the fact that the deficit in the receipts of the Government, when compared with the expenditures for the current year, will be at least FIVE MILLION DOLLARS. This will necessitate an immediate imposition of extra taxation upon the already overburdened people of Canada. To avoid facing this condition of affairs, which alone should cause the defeat of the men now in power at Ottawa, the panicky rush to the country has been resolved on. But the expedient will not be successful. Canada needs and will command a change for the better.

THE LAW OF LIBEL. The Attorney-General of Quebec has introduced a bill into the Legislature that, if passed, will do justice in a direction where injustice has hitherto prevailed. It relates to the law of libel, and the proposal is to proceeding. The plaintiff must also give vide that actual and not vindictive damages shall only be collectable. If the same same offense, the damages, if any, are to be the Onterio law ?

MEMOIRS OF A GREAT DIAN LEADER.

The "Memoirs of the Rt. Hon. Sir John Alexander Macdonald, First Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada," which have just been given to the public, are from the pen of Mr. Joseph Pope, for many years private secretary to the deceased. Before he died. Sir John named his trusted confidant for the work, and he has had the sympathy of Lady Macdonald in the laborious task of examining and compiling this most interesting book. Mr. Pope has done his work exceedingly well. He has endeavored to do the amplest justice to the character and life work of the dead Conservative leader, and to mantle with charity his shortcomings. But, on the whole, the work is just such a one as we would have expected from the ready pen of a man like the author. One does not for any length of time take up the study of this book without being struck with the fact that Sir John Macdonald was a man of unique character. intellect, he possessed all the sagacity proverbially attributed to that race, he had wonderful knowledge of human nature, a remarkable ability to remember faces, and his personal magnetism was such as to win for him friends wherever he went. Not one man in a million could so deftly parry an attempt to extract from him a promise of office or of assistance of any sort, and at the same time cause the applicant to leave his presence in the best of humor. "No" from him could be accepted by the applicant for a favor with almost as great pleasure as "Yes" from other statesmen. Few statesmen in Canada have possessed, as Sir John Macdonald did, the elements of real ability with a successful and thorough knowledge of men and the art of managing them. Hon. Wilfrid Laurier does possess it, and in coming in contact with the people he undoubtedly exercises a similar personal charm over them to that which Sir Joha Macdonald knew so well how to turn to account, and which Mr. Pope, in his "Memoirs," so amply portrays. It will not be denied, of course, that Sir John Macdonald had faults that cannot be overlooked by the impartial historian. Even in this friendly work the records show that he was an adept at dissimulation, and was by no means scrupulous as to his methods when he had once determined to gain an end. This has long been known to students of the history of the Dominion. But with these shortcomings Sir John Macdonald combined those traits of personal character which enabled him to hold the friendship of many strong opponents. No man possessing the powerful energy, the magnetic personal qualities, the ability to make and hold friends, chas arisen in the Conservative party to take Sir John Macdonald's place. It would seem, indeed, present time decidedly favors the Liberals. famous franchise law, and that is by elect-While we have witnessed the passing away ors generally working to have the lists from the Conservative ranks of the only purged of all bad names, and to see that all good fortune of his great opponent, but, as | the system must first be replaced. we must respectfully submit, a far higher standard of public duty and statesmanship. HIGH TAX NOSTRUMS A FAILURE. Then the Liberals have as leader in the Dominion Parliament Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, a man of splendid parts, who makes and keeps friends wherever he goes, who is the soul of geniality, a born manager of men, a leader of tact and his friends and the respect of his opponents. These facts, combined with those so well marshaled in the two volumes now before us, compel admission, as is admitted by all Conservatives, that the loss of Sir John Macdonald as a party leader was practically irreparable. It will probably be many a long day before a man will arise in the Conservative ranks who can take Sir John Macdonald's place as a

Expert knowledge of dairying is a prerequisite to good farming in Ontario, and is paid. must continue to be so. Taking cognizance of this fact, Hon. Mr. Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, has established a dairy school in connection with the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. The school will reopen on January 14, 1895, and remain in session till March 14-two months. The buildings and equipment are now complete, and the college authorities announce that they are in a position to offer students a very broad and thorough course dairying. In addition to the ordinary appliances, the college has in its stables, close to the school, a herd of 30 cows of different breeds for observation and instrucfor dairy stock, and a cream separator. run by tread power in a room attached to make those who bring these suits against the dairy barn. In the milk-testing room there are seven or eight of the best makes of the Babcock tester, of different capacities, some run by hand and others by steam-all for the use of the students in attendance from year to year; and in the butter room there is constant practice throughout the session in churning, and in the working, printing and packing of butter according to the most approved methods. Discussions on practical dairy topics, especially the difficulties which arise in making cheese and butter, are carried on in the cheese room for an hour every afternoon. From time to time during the session this hour is devoted to the judging of cheese and butter by experts brought to the school for that purpose. The scoring of these judges is compared with that of the students and reasons given for the conclusions reached in each case. In this way students get a clear conception of the difference between poor, medium and first-clas goods. Cheese and butter factories should encourage their makers to devote a couple of months in the winter to this course. C. Rogers, in every detail regarding home dairy appliances, the handling of milk and cream, and the making of butter. Special instruction in cheese making is also given when required. Home dairy students are admitted to all lectures and discussions, including practical drill by the professor of dairying, on the points and peculiarities of dairy cows, in a live stock class-room provided for the Certificates of proficiency will be awarded at the end of the session. No entrance examination is required, and no fees for residents of the Province are collected, but payment of $5 for incidental expenses must be made and $2 as a deposit to cover possible breakage. Lady as well as gentlemen students are invited. Mr. H. H. Dean, professor of dairying, will supply full particulars on application. We do not doubt that the classes of 1895 will be even better attended than last year. Makers of butter and cheese cannot be too well equipped for their business.

THE INTERNATIONAL CONTEST. NEW YORK, Nov. 29 .- The third day of the international bicycle tournament proved

e afternoon events, and an immense performance. The principal interest in he afternoon centered in the class B and professional events, Charlie Murphy and Nat Butler dividing the honors in the former series, while little Tom Butler took | week ended Nov. 24, show a decrease of everything in sight for the pure amateurs.

There was a surprise in one of the professional trials when Colembo, the Italian champion, beat Zimmerman out for qualification and there was excitement to spare in the two-mile professional event when Verheyen, the German, beat Harry Wheeler, Edwards and Colombo by the use of suspicious tactics against which he had been previously cautioned. Referee F. P. Priall disqualified Verheyen, but a great tumult of disapproval arose from the crowd. No explanation would silence the loud protests of the multitude, and the remainder of the afternoon's races were run to an accompaniment of cries and cat calls. Verheyen got first money by Wheeler's

In the class B, two-mile scratch. Chas. Murphy lowed the two-mile record from 5:19 to 4:58 4-5.

The evening session was stimulated by the most enthusiastic audience of the meet and the largest. A. J. Hagen, of New York, took a bad tumble in a trial for the class A handicar, and retired with C. K. Granger of New York, who was seriously burt in the afternoon. In his trial heat for the mile professional race Martin rode into Verheyen with evident malice, but was brown himself, while the German escaped nd finished. Martin was allowed to ride in the final.

Zimmerman took the two mile professional. Martin ran just ahead of Wheeler for second place, with Edwards and Verheyan far in the rear.

The 25 mile professional event had for starters Wheeler, Berlo, Starbuck, Colombo, Verheyen, Albert, Van Emburg, Appel, Ashinger, Martin, Crebs, DeLisio and Partridge. The last three dropped out early in the race and Berlo retired at eight miles. The race was colorless up to the twenty mile mark, when the sprint began, in which everyone took part. Martin won in a terrific rush at the very end in I hour, 3 minutes, 31 seconds-a new world's

TRADE IN CANADA

As Indicated by Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review.

Better Business in Sorra Lines, But Trade Generally Not What It Should Be-Warning to Apple Exporters. TORONTO, Nov. 29 .- R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade in Canada for the past

A better trade is reported at Toronto in winter goods this week. The more seasonable weather is probably the reason for the increased demand, but generally trade is not so satisfactory as merchants could wish. A great deal of caution is displayed and purchases are made only from hand to mouth.

Dealers in holiday goods report an increasing demand. Stocks of this class of goods are large and the assortments varied. In groceries the trade of the week has been light. Sugar rather dull, but sales of dried fruits and nuts have improved.

The exporters of apples have suffered heavy losses of late, sales in Liverpool being made at ruinous prices. Proper care in packing is the real cause. The stock deteriorated greatly en route.

Latest returns are more favorable to Canadian railways, and the net increase in the October earnings of the C. P. R. is a surprise to many holders of the stock. The gross earnings for that month were $2,190,to be the most interesting of the series thus | 968, and the net $1,010,248, or an increase far. A fair attendance greeted the novice of $63,821 as compared with net earnings races in the morning. Still more viewed of October, 1893. For the past ten months the net earning are $5,019,208, or a deowd waxed enthusiastic over the evening | crease of $1,223,998. POLITICAL MATTERS.

Banquet to Mr. Cockburn - Bonaventure's Liberal Candidate- upper's Trip. Mr. A. P. Cockburn, ex.M. P. for North Ontario, will be banqueted at Gravenhurst on Dec. 7. The Detroit News says Dr. King will refuse to retire from the candidature of the Conservative party for the Commons for South Essex. Mr. F. X. Lemieux, Q.C., the well known Montreal lawyer, has agreed to accept the Liberal nomination for Bonaventure county, and Mr. J. I. Tarte is confident he will be elected. An Ottawa Press dispatch says: "Sir Charles Tupper does not take a trip to the Pacific coast at this season of the year for purely non-parliamentary purposes. With the present condition of the voters' lists, owing to revision, it is difficult to see how an election can be depended upon. It will take until May before the lists are all printed and placed in the hands of the returning officer." PETITION AGAINST MR. CHARLTON FAILS. TORONTO, Nov. 29 .- In the South Norfolk Provincial election petition, Cruise vs. Charlton, today, Mr. Justice Osler gave judgment on motion by petitioner for leave to withdraw the petition, which alleged the respondent's disqualification by reason of his holding the office of postmaster at Lynedoch, Norfolk county. Order made as asked, without costs.

FICKLE WIDOWER.

His Jilted Fiance Goes Crazy-Her Mother Dies of Grief.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 29 .- While the marriage ceremony of H. Poirrier, of this city, and Miss Taylor, of Polycarpe, was being celebrated in the village church of St. Polycarpe, the bell began to toil for the death of Mrs. Lalonde, whose death was caused by grief for the wrongs sustained by her daughter, Georgina Lalonde, at the hands of the bridegooom.

Poirrier was engaged to Miss Lalonde, who for some time past had taken charge of his two motherless children. During one of his numerous visits to his affianced, Poirrier met Miss Taylor, who was a friend of Miss Lalonde. Poirrier transferred his affections, and soon after broke off the engagement and took away his children. Miss Lalonde was terribly upset, and her aged mother, who had been ailing for some time, seeing her daughter's grief, became

The Assessment Rolls Still Further Carved.

City Gas Company Gets a Reduction of $20,000,

But May Ask for More-Insurance Companies' Appeals Settled- London Life Gets a Reduction o: $10,000.

The assessment court of revision last night finished up all appeals which were entered and prosecuted. Many of the more important cases, including that of the gas company, were dealt with, and the amount which will be scored off, exclusive of that of Tuesday night, will exceed $50,000. The appeals were not very numerous, but in most cases large amounts were involved. The members of the board in attendance were Ald. Judd (chairman), J. W. Jones, John Heaman, James Fitzgerald, Assessment Commissioner Grant, Assessors Irwin and Toll and the city clerk. $20,000 IN ONE BLOW.

The appeal against the London Gas Company's assessment of $100,000 was again brought up, and Mr. Cowan appeared for the appellants. He understood that the separate items were: Income, $20,000; plant and land, $30,000, and mains, $50,-000. This was an increase of $50,000 over last year.

Mr. Grant-No, I dropped the income this year and made the mains $70,000. "Well," said Mr. Cowan, "if that includes income, I would like to say that the income was all expended on extensions. Fiffy thousand would cover all mains." It was further held that the mains were not assessable. This was the ruling of many county court judges.

The chairman—Yes, but many judges have ruled contrary to that.

Mr. Cowan said there had been no dividends for over a year. It was consumed in mains. He wanted the $30,000 put on plant and $50,000 on mains, with the condition that the company may attack the right to assess mains, and if the company was victorious the taxes would be refunded. The gas people owed $16,000 for improvements made in 1893 and 1894. They could not make any profits for some time to come as more extensions would be made.

Ald. Jones suggested that the assessment be struck at $80,000-$30,000 on plant, $50,000 on mains and no income. The figures were finally placed at $30,000 on real estate, $20,000 on income and $30,000 on mains. Mr. Ironsides, the ward foreman, made a valuation of the company's property, and the figures he gave were:

Land$ Two gasometers$
Four purifiers and building Storehouse	2,000 200
Tar tank	100 500
Building, four cupolas and connections.
Work shop Office on Horton street	1,000
Thirty-five miles piping at $1,600 per mile.
Service pipes	1,000 8, 000
THE INSURANCE CASES.

The cases of the many insurance companies were disposed of, and several of the assessments were confirmed on the ground that the head offices of the institutions were not situated in the Province. It is expected that some will be taken before the county judge on appeal. "It is a regular hardship," said City Clerk Kingston, "that insurance companies can carry on a business in a place and run off with large amounts of the people's money without paying a cent of taxes. Steps should be taken to remedy this evil." There was a general nod of assent, but that was the ast said of the matter. The statements of the companies' representatives were read, and the appeals were disposed of thus. Sun Life-Net profits for the year, $130; assessed for $5,000. Confirmed. London and Lancashire Life-Net profits, $395; assessed for $2,500. Confirmed. Northern Fire-Net profits, $353 59; assessed for $2,000. Reduced to $350. Standard Life-Net profits, $1,868 63; assessed for $5,000. Confirmed. United Fire-Taxable income, $500. Reduced to $350.

London Life - Profits of company, $7,138 44, not including over $2,000 carried forward; assessed for $20,000. Reduced one-half. Agricultural Insurance Company -

Assessed for $2,000. Struck off. Steam Boiler and Plate Glass Company -Assessed for $2,000. Struck off. The Phœnix Fire Company and the Liverpool, London and Globe withdrew their objections. The former was marked for $500 and the latter for $1,000. OTHER APPEALS.

Mr. J. E. Keenleyside objected to a $2,000 assessment on personal property. He had sold out his share in the business of Hourd & Keenleyside over a year ago.

"How did the assessor get the figures? "I guess he walked into the place when no person was around," said Mr. Keenley-

"And took it for Grant-ed," said the chairman. Struck off.

Mr. A. B. Cox appeared in reference to the reserved decision on Sir John Carling's old Pall Mall street residence-"Cedar Grove." It was now leased, and had been for a year, to the Dominion Government as a military stores. Part of the place was occupied for stores and part as a residence for Col. Dawson. Under these conditions Mr. Cox considered that the premises were exempt from the assessment of $12,000. The appeal was allowed.

Mrs. Sturgeon owns two houses on Welington road. They were assessed for $900, which was $200 too much. The total assessment was reduced to $750. The Geo. B. Burland (Montreal) property on the west side of Rectory, 42 acres, was assessed at $3,000, and $500 were knocked Ten acres on the east side of the same street and belonging to the same gentleman were set down at $5,000. This was reduced $1,125. DISMISSED Of the 65 appeals entered seven were not prosecuted, and the only course open to the court was to strike them out and allow the assessments to stand. They were entered by R. Lloyd, R. Dulmage, Jas. Slater, F. S. Onn, John Dufton, J. H. Flood and M. F. Daly.

G. T. R. Brakeman Crushed. RICHMOND, Mich., Nov. 29 .- Ray Acker-

on, of Owosso, brakeman on the Grand Trunk, met with a peculiar accident at Lenox this morning. He was on a regular freight train. Another train was on a siding. A FRENCHMAN'S VIEWS.

Max O'Rell's Witty Analysis of CLOCK John, Sandy and Pat.

Their Little Foibles-Righly Flattering Opinions of the Whole Three-An Appreciative Audience.

Max O'Rell (Paul Blouet), the famous French wit, writer, traveler and raconteur, entertained an audience last night in the Grand Opera House, which was fair in size, critical in character and generous in appreciation. O'Rell, whose reputation is world-wide, is, for a Frenchman, a tall man, well proportioned and strongly built, graceful in action and suave in manner. He has a keen mobile face, which he uses with admirable effect in pointing a moral or adorning a tale. His English is perfect and his accent hardly noticeable. He talks in an easy collequial way. His subject last night was "The Little Foibles of John Bull, Sandy and Pat," and his conclusions were decidedly flattering to all of them-a safe dish to set before Canadian people, descended from or composed of all three. The lecturer dealt largely in witty eulogiums, and even his sly thrusts at British foibles were robbed of any sting by his good humor. He sugarcoated the pills.

After depicting the immensity of John Bull's domains he pointed out that they had been secured with little bloodshed. He got most of them as gifts from the French. He kept a smaller standing army than any of the great powers, and yet none of his colonies were in danger. "Such is the security of John Bull that his volunteers can insure their lives without being charged additional premium." (Laughter.)

Here are a few of Mr. O'Rell's scintillations anent John Bull: "The French fight for glory, the Ger mans for a living, the Russians to divert the attention of the people from home affairs. John Bull, reflective and moral fights to promote trade, to maintain peace and order on the face of the earth and for the good of mankind in general. (Laughter.) He conquers a nation to

A few years ago in London I received the following letter: My Dear Sir, -As I am about to start a library and am an ardent admirer of your works, I would consider it a great favor if you would supply me with a copy of each and your autograph. Hoping I am not presuming on your good nature, I am, your sincere friend, An Admirer.' There was no further inclosure." (Laughter.)

"Within the church John Bull cries at the top of his voice that he is 'a miserable sinner,' but outside, if anyone takes him at his word, he will knock him down."

"He is noted for tenacity, coolness of mind and thickness of skin. He may be well described as a combination of the lion, mule and porpoise. Bold conceit he possesses to a large degree. He is not like the who frantically shouts that France is the light of the world.' John Bull is so absolutely certain of his extreme superiority that he does not consider it necessary to assert it. That's what makes him so provoking."

Kingdom of Heaven he looks upon as a British possession." "Everybody does everything for him.

"In France no two political enemies are friends in private life. In England they dine together and eare perfectly friendly; they know it's all humbug." The lecturer then proceeded to analyze Sandy. He was a sort of Englishman dressed in a peculiar fashion, considering the cold and damp climate. He was a man of bone and muscle; had a large, powerful head, well set on broad shoulders; his eyes small and keen; his feet large and flat, feeling the ground and advancing cautiously. Take him for an Englishman and he will beg to be excused.

The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from

A Tidal Wave Sweeps the Front of Tacoma City,

And Carries a Big Chunk of It Into the Water.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 29 .- Amid the roar of an immense tidal wave beating against the shores of Puget Sound, 600 feet of Tacoma's ocean docks plunged into Commencement Bay at 11 o'clock last night. Half a dozen steamers were tossed about like chips and two were disabled. At 1:30 a.m. the filling-in portion of the docks was still settling, and the accident under the threatening conditions beginning to assume the form of a calamity to the city. H. H. Allner's boat house, containing himselt, wife and six children, was turned upside down, spilling the children out of their bunks into the icy water, and it is feared that one of his daughters has been John Hanson, a watchman at the Northern Pacific hydraulic pump, went down in the debris and cannot be found. He was roasted to death or drowned, in the opinion of steamboat men. The fire department was called out and 500 more people gathered at the wharf. For a distance of 1,500 feet the ccean dock settled, and it was feared the wheat elevators and coal bunkeas would pitch into the bay. Several times when the ground settled from six inches to a foot a panic resulted and there was a wild rush for places of

All the cattle pens of the Northern Pacific, together with the office and that company's 400 foot freight house went down to the ground, and fire at once broke out and the pump station soon disappeared in the debris. Nearly all of the dock which fell into the bay is that portion of the water front which the city of Tacoma has been endeavoring to secure from the railroad and the Tacoma Land Company. Already the damage is estimated at $50,000.

Steamboat men claim a tidal wave 25 feet high rushed up the sound and tore the dock away. Employes at the wharf believe that there has been a great subterranean landslide, or that a great fissure or hole has been formed in the bay, causing the dock to be swallowed.

It is not positively known whether the plunging of the docks into the bay caused the heavy sea which overturned Aliner's boat house and tore the steamers away from their fastenings, or whether it was in fact a tidal wave.

At the Police Court,

At the Police Court this morning a number of statute labor cases were dismissed, as the men who were summoned paid their dollar to the inspector. One was given a week in which to pay his dollar. The assault case, in which Edward Cole charged John Taylor (married) and John Taylor (single) with assaulting himself and wife was heard. The affair happened on the market on Saturday last and it involved a mass of contradictory evidence. The Taylors are from the country and Cole enjoyable concert in the Foresters' Hall, claims they set upon him in the Market Lane and beat him. Mrs. Cole went to his rescue and was also roughly handled. Mr Cole is janitor of the Molsons Bank building and they retreated there and got away. The defendants denied the charge, but the magistrate considered that there was evi dence enough to warrant the binding of both the Taylors over to keep the peace in bonds of $100 each. Peter Madden and Wm. Kane are the two men who are ing them. The affair happened the other night when P. C. Walter Smith End. Today both Madden and Kane were very penitent. Madden repeated his story about signing the pledge and both promised to make restitution. They claimed that they waited around with the handcuffs on, and as nobody came for them they went home and filed the bracelets off. It is a criminal offense, punishable with two years in the penitentiary, but all things considered it is doubtless if the crown will press the charge if restitution is made at once. The case was enlarged for a week to allow the men to settle. George Johnston wanted to sue Harry Brown for wages and the magistrate sent the case to the Division Court. A drunk was discharged.

A NOTED IRISHMAN.

His Tribute to Hon. Edward Blake and Manly Plea for Home Rule. TORONTO, Nov. 30 .- "Fourteen Years of the British Parliament" was announced as the subject of a lecture to be delivered last night in the Massey Hall by Mr. T. D. Sullivan, member of Parliament for the College Green division of Dublin, Ireland, and author of "God Save Ireland." The lecture, however, was an elequent plea for nome rule for Ireland, couched in very moderate language. In its course, Mr.

Sullivan paid a warm tribute to the ability of Hon. Edward Blake, member for South Longford. "We have," he said, "in Hon. Edward Blake-(loud applause)-a tower of strength to the Irish party and the Irish cause, a gentleman of experience, no prentice hand, a gentleman of years, of high attainments and noble character. No man need say that he would, at his time of life, sacrifice his home, his profession and his family and man the Atlantic and his family, and cross the Atlantic to give support to the cause of bigoted, fanatical or unwise people." This eulogy of Mr. Blake evoked tremendous applause. Hon, G. W. Ross said at the close that the lecture was of such breadth of statesmanship, toleration of thought and beauty of form as it has seldom been the privilege of a Canadian audience to hear.

Among those who supported a vote of thanks were Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. Mr. Curran, Hon. George W. Ross, Hon. Frank Smith and Dr. Burns. A letter of regret at inability to be present was read from Rev. Dr. O'Connor, Bishop of London.

"I cannot rest anywhere, Jelly. I want to know how she is. She is my only friend on this side of the wide world." "Well now, Miss Ellen, look here—you may come in and stay with her, whilst I am away; I was going to call Ann. But mind you don't talk to her."

Hastily throwing on a shawl, Jelly started for Dallory Hall. It was an inclement night, pouring with rain. And Ellen Adair took up her place in silence by the side of the dying woman, for she was dying, how-ever ignorant they might be of the fact. Apart from Ellen's natural grief for Mrs. Cumberland, thoughts of what her own situation would be, if she lost her, could but intrude on her mind, bringing all sorts of perplexity with them. It seemed to her that she would be left without home or protector in the wide world.

CHAPTER XX.

For a wonder, the dinner-table at Dallery Hall included only the family-party. Madam headed it; Mr. North was at the sne foot; Richard on one side; Matilda on the other. Scarcely a word was being spoken. Madam was in one of her imperious humors—when, indeed, was she out of them?—the sevente waited in out of them?-the servants waited in Suddenly there rang out a loud peal from the hall-bell. Richard, who was already beginning to be dis urbed by vague fears as to what his ex-workmen's hostilities might make them do, sat back in his chair absently,

"Are you expecting any one, Dick?" asked his father.
"No, sir. Unless it be a message to call it was, however, a message for Mr. North; not for Richard. Mrs. Cumberland wanted to see him. "On the instant," the servant added; for so Jelly had imperatively put

Mr. North laid down his knife and fork and looked at the man. He did not under-

"Mrs. Cumberland is at Eastsea," he

"No, sir, she just got home, and she wants to see you very particular. "It's the lady's maid who has brought the message." "Mr. North cannot go," broke forth madam to the servant. "Go and say so." But Jelly, to whom the words penetrated as she stood in the hall, had no notion of her mistress's wishes being set at nought by madam. Jelly had a great deal of calm moral and physical courage—in spite of the supernatural terrors that had recently influenced her - some persons might have said her share of calm impudence also; and he made no ceremony of putting her black bonnet inside the room.
"My mistress is dying, sir; I don't think there can be a doubt of it," she said advancing to Mr. North. "She wishes to say a few last words to you, if you'll please to come. There's no time to be lost, sir. Bless me! - poor Fanny!" cried Mr.

North, rising, his hands beginning to tremble a little. I'll come at once, Jelly." "You will not go," spoke madam, as if she were issuing an imperial edict.

*I must go," said Mr. North.

hear, madam, that she is dying?"

'I say you shall not go. "The wishes of the dying must be respected by the living," interposed Jelly, still addressing Mr. North. "Otherwise there's no telling what should might have no telling what ghost's might haunt em after. The words were somewhat obscure, but their meaning was sufficiently plain. Mr. North took a step or two towards the door; madam came quickly round and placed her-

'My will is law in this house, and out of it you do not go.' For a minute or two Mr. North looked ntterly helpless; then cast an appealing look at his son. Richard rose, laying down his table-napkin, "Leave the room for a minute," he quietly said to the servants, including Jelly. And they filed out. "My dearfather, is it your wish to see Mrs. Cumberland?"

"Oh, Dick, you know it is," spoke the poor brow-beaten man. "There's little left to me in life to care for now: but if I let her die without going to see her there will be

"Then you shall go," said Richard. Madam turned to him in furious anger. "How dare you attempt to oppose me, Richard North? I say your father shall not go forth at the beck and call of this crazy

"Madam, I say he shall," calmly spoke

'Do you defy me? Has it come to that?" "Why yes, if you force it upon me; it is not my fault. Pardon me if I speak plainly —if I set you right upon one point, madam," he added. "You have just said your will is law in the house and out of it; in future it must, on some occasions, yield to mine. This is one of them. My father will go to Mrs. Cumberland's. Say no more, madam; it will be useless; and I am about to admit the servants."

From sheer amazement madam was silent. The resolution born of conscious power to will and to execute lay in every tone and glance of Richard North. Before she could rally her energies, the door was opened to the servants, and she heard Richard's order to make ready and bring around the close carriage. Instantly.

"Mr. North will be with your mistress as goon as you are, Jelly," said he. And Jelly curtsied as she took her departure.

But a scene ensued. Madam had called Mrs. Cumberland a crazy woman; she seemed nothing less herself. Whatever her private objection might have been to her lusband's holding an interview with Mrs. Cumberland - and there could be no doubt that she had one-Richard fairly thought she was going mad in her frenzied attempts to prevent it. She stamped, she raved, she threatened Mr. North, she violently pushed him into his chair, she ordered the servants to bar the house doors against him; she was in fact as nearly mad as a woman out of an asylum could be. Matilda cried; indifferent as that young lady remained in general to her mother's ordinary fits of temper, she was frightened now. The servants collected in dark nocks of the hall, and stood peeping; Mr. North stole into his parlor, and thence, by the window, to a bench in the garden, where he sat in the dark and the rain, trembling from head to foot. Of his own accord he had surely never dared to go, after this; but Richard was his sheet anchor. Richard alone maintained his calm equanimity, and carried matters through. The servants obeyed his slightest word; with sure instinct they saw who could be, and was, the Hall's real master; and the carriage came to the door. But all this had caused delay. And yet more might have been caused—for what will an unrestrained and determined woman not the wet gravel struck on madam's ear, her violence culminated in a species of fainting-fit. For the time at least she could not move, and Richard took the opportunity to conduct his father to the carriage, It was astonishing how confidingly the old man trusted to Richard's protection.

"Won't you come also, Dick? I hardly dare go alone. She'd be capable of coming afterness were know." after me, you know."
Richard's answer was to step in beside him.

It was eight o'clock when they reached Mrs. Cumberland's. Jelly, with a reprochful face, showed them into a sitting-room. "You can't go up now, sir; you will have to wait!" said she.
"Is she any better?" asked Richard.

"She's worse," replied Jelly; "getting weaker and weaker with every quarter-of-an-hour. Dr. Rane thinks she'll not last till morning. I don't. The clergyman's up there now. And when the time came for Mr. North to be introduced into the room, Mrs. Cumberland was almost beyond speaking to him. They were alone-for she motioned the others away. Mr. North never afterwards settled with himself what the especial point could have been that she had wished to see him upon; unless it was the request that he should take charge of Ellen Adair.

Her words were faint and few, and apparently disjointed, at times seeming to have no connection one with another. Mr. North-sitting on a chair in front of her, holding one of her hands, bending down his ear to catch what fell from her white lipsthought her mind wandered a little. asked him to protect Etten Adair-to take her home to the Hall until she should be claimed by her husband or her father. It might be only a few days, she added, before the former came, and he would probably wish the marriage to take place at once; if so, it had better be done. Then she went on to say something about Arthur Bohun, which Mr. North could not catch at all. And then she passed abruptly to the matter of the anoymous letter.

"John, you will forgive it! You will forgive it!" she implored, feebly clasping the hand in which hers lay.
"Forgive it?" returned Mr. North, not in dissent but in surprise that she should allude to the subject. "For my sake, John. We were friends and playfellows in the old days—though you were older than I. You will forgive it, John, for my sake; because I am dying, and because I ask it of you." (To be Continued.)

I was unable to use any food whatever except boiled milk and oread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy are cured. A SOUTH AMERICAN SNARL

That Entangles England and the United States.

The Case as Seen From an American Peint of View.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 .- The present condition of the Nicaraguan involvement appears to be this: The United States distietly refuses to reopen the Mosquito question at the point where negotiations were in progress a year ago, when the only law in the disputed territory emanated from Chief Clarence and the filibustering supporters he had gathered around him. The reopening of the question at this point appears to be what Great Britain desires. It is held by the United States that the new Government established a vast improvement upon the irresponsible rule of an ignorant half-breed, and that Great Britain, in common with the United States and other countries, in the interest of commerce, should now be willing to hold an organized government to account for the maintenance of order and for the protection of foreign interests in that sparsely settled country. While to some extent the negotiations which England herself invited under pressure, looking to the abrogation of the treaty of Nicaragua, involved the threshing over of much old straw, the indisputable facts remain that Great Britain has known and tacitly agreed to the new order of control which has existed at Bluefields for several months; that Great Britain has been fully aware of the approval extended by the United States to the Nicaraguan resumption of responsibility for the preservation of law and order there, and that Great Britain has refrained, until goaded by the expulsion of ex-Consul Hatch, from rehabilitating the claims of an ancient tribe of Indians whose present members consist of Jamaica negroes, halfbreeds and law-existing whites of various nationalities. Under these circumstances the United States could hardly do otherwise than firmly resist an attempt to return to the old order of things. For 40 years not the slightest progress had resulted from the continuous and exasperating negotiations growing out of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, with its voluminous correspondence, until Nicaragua secured complete control of the Mosquito territory last

With the recollection of this hopeless discussion of a question forced upon the present Administration, it is regarded as certain that the United States will not be induced to again throw open to profitless discussion the principles of the Monroe doctrine, which are now held to be firmly established beyond any possible friendly contention by a foreign power. Notwithstanding the natural desire of the naval authorities to disclaim any menace to a friendly country in the announced intention to maintain unusually large fleets on both coasts of Central America this winter it is not denied that the ships are held in readiness to proceed under telegraphic orders, nor is it regarded as probable that the fleets while cruising near Nicaragua, Panama or Venezuela will ever passively encourage any disrespect for the American flag in those waters. THE NICARAGUA CANAL SCHEME.

The condition of the Nicaraguan Canal project, which seems to figure in the pres ent embroglio to an important extent, is this: At the last session of Congress a bill was unanimously reported from the House committee on commerce providing for a United States Governmental construction and control of the Nicaragua Canal. The bill authorized an issue of bonds amounting to $70,000,000 by the Government for a term of 30 years, to bear interest at 5 per cent. It was proposed to pay to the incorporators of the Maritime Company, of which Warner Miller, of New York, is president, $3,500,000 of stock in the new company for the charter obtained by them from Nicaragua and Costa Rica, and also to reimburse them in stock for the sums expended by them in the preliminary work of building the canal. The Governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica were also to receive in stock the amount guaranteed to them by the Maritime Company, while the remainder would be held by the United States Government. The management of the canal was delegated to a board of eleven directors, eight representing the United States and the other three the Governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica and the Maritime Company respectively. The sentiment of the House seemed favorable to the measure, but Speaker Crisp objected to it, and it was not called up. It is understood that strong pressure will be brought upon him to make it a special order between now and the holiday recess.

Wonderful Cure,

Mr. and Mrs. Chute, of Aylmer, desire that we should publish their testimonial and let other sufferers know what Williams' Royal Crown Remedy (Nature's Liquid) has done for Mr. Chute. He writes: "For ten years or more I have been a suff-rer with dyspepsia, and doctored with eix of the most skilled doctors in this part of the country with but little relief and no benefit in return for the very large doctors' bilis that I paid. I tried almost every conceivable remedy but all to no purpose, until April. 1893, when I took to myself a wife, and itso happened that three years previous to our marriage she had been in poor health, and used part of a bottle of Royal Crown Remedy, and, knowing of its excellent qualities, she prevailed upon me to give it a trial. I purchased one bottle of the Remedy and Pills, and by the time I had them used my general health was much improved, and by the time I had taken three bottles I was restored to good health. and my neighbors say that I am looking better than I have done for years. I believe Royal Crown Remedy to be the best value for the money on earth, and am thankfully yours.
