

LOOKS LIKE NEW RECORD FOR LONDON'S EXHIBITION; FINE ATTENDANCE TODAY

Practically Everything in Place in All Departments and Entries in Some Sections So Numerous as to Overflow, But Ample Accommodation Has Been Provided for All.

A FULL GRAND STAND PROGRAM TONIGHT

If today can be taken as any criterion then the boast of the London Fair directors that the 1913 exhibition would be the biggest and best ever, will not be an idle one. Never in the history of the Western Fair has the attendance, the completed state of the exhibits and the entry lists in the various departments been as large on opening day as it was today. Saturday's preliminary opening saw a greater paid attendance than ever before, and the records for the opening proper were shattered by long odds by the crowds that went to the fair grounds today.

Everything in Shape. Adverse weather conditions early this morning might have been a handicap, but if it was, the effect was so slight that it might have been characterized as negligible.

Not only were there more people on the grounds to see the last finishing touches to the exhibits, but the exhibits themselves were in far better shape than ever before. By noon practically everything was in place, by night every exhibit is scheduled to be completed, and every entry in its place. Even this morning there was an unusual "readiness" everywhere. There were more completed exhibits and more full entry lists in different classes than on any previous opening day.

Stock-Sheds Overflowing. With the largest horse entry list in its history, the stock-sheds are overflowing. Practically fifty horses have been stabled in outside barns, the Queen City Oil Co., T. Patterson & Co., and others opening their stables for the use of the fair directors. The fire has left the horse-sheds twenty-six stalls short. This handicap and the record-breaking entry list has sent part of the entries to the outside barns.

Big Collectors Attracted. To a smaller degree, the same is true of the rest of the live stock exhibit. The popularity of the Western among the breeders and the additional prize lists have attracted the biggest collection of swine, cattle and sheep that have ever been seen in the sheds at the local exhibition. Not only is there quantity, but the quality is also here. The breeding standard is an exceptionally high one for animals shown here, and this year has proved no exception from the general rule.

A Fine Poultry Show. Vice-President J. H. Saunders, under whose special care comes the poultry show, is one of the most enthusiastic men on the grounds. His department has a larger entry list and a better quality of birds than ever before. "It's the best ever," said the alderman-director, this morning. "We're going to have a record-breaking poultry show."

Wants Citizens Today. Secretary A. M. Hunt has issued a call for citizens to visit the grounds today. "We are putting on the full grand stand program, including fireworks to-night," said the secretary. "If the city people want to see the best of the exhibition and the largest entry list of the week they want to come out this afternoon and evening. This is really the best day and night to see the fair without the inconvenience of the crowds."

The Speed Program. The speed program before the grandstand this afternoon is: Three-year-old trot, half-mile heats; 2:22 pace, mile heats.

New Buildings an Attraction. The new buildings that replaced those destroyed in the fire of two weeks ago, are proving an attraction that vies with any on the grounds. The rapidity with which these structures were run up by the co-operation of the city, the fair directors and London contractors and builders forms a record-breaking feat. The visitors to the grounds are more than appreciative of this fact, and the structures are the largest entry list from Toronto Exhibition is the result.

Practically Filled Up. Practically every concession in the new buildings was filled this morning. The carriage and motor shows in place, while in the machinery hall the work of setting up the machinery and machinery parts that form the exhibits there, was well under way. The same condition of affairs exists in all buildings. Exhibits from the Toronto Exhibition streamed in all day yesterday and this morning. All are in shape and the largest entry list from Toronto Exhibition is the result.

No Futurists Here. Director William Abbott, of the Art Building, is bemoaning the fact that no post-impressionistic or futurist pictures were entered for the fine arts exhibit. Several futurist pictures were promised for this year's exhibition, but at the last minute the artists failed to keep their promise, and the exhibit, while classed by art lovers as "exceptionally fine," is a simon pure one. "We'll have them for next year all right," opined Director Abbott.

More than enough exhibits to cover the walls of the Art Building were received on Page Eleven.

HERE AND THERE AROUND THE GROUNDS

There are no cats at the fair this year. After two years' trial the "pussies" have been barred by the directorate.

Superintendent Charles Alford, of the city electrical department, who was in charge of the installation of the new lighting system, will be on the job throughout the fair. He is in charge of all outside electrical work during the week.

Ex-County Councillor "Jim" Murray, one of the old-time directors of the fair, was on hand as usual today. He is one of the standbys on the board of directors and one of its hardest workers.

The usual noonday luncheon for the directors start today. Speeches are handed at the London fair "eat fests." They are simply to provide a quick lunch for the busy workers.

Weather seemingly had little effect on the crowds today. Special preparation for the Kids' Days on Thursday and Friday are being made. Reduced rates for entrance and prices will be the order of those days.

The newly-erected addition to the main building was filled to overflowing. The popularity of the "Palace" is as great as ever.

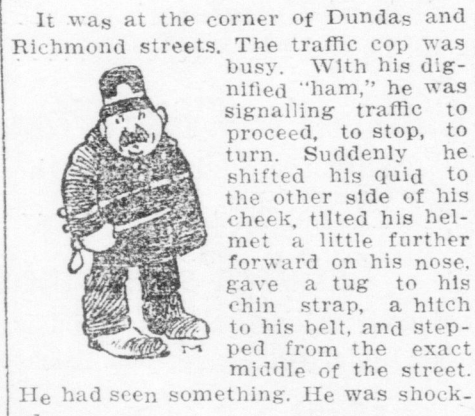

Society Row is much in evidence this year. While there are not quite as many tents as a year ago, the old stand was too small to accommodate them all, the new main building addition having cut off 60 feet.

The Seventh Fusiliers Band and the First Hussars will be the official musicians for today.

Every one of the grand stand seats, save one, was in the city this morning.

This One "Fooled" The Traffic Cop

Two Ladies in Flirtatious Situation in Auto Were Halted, and Turned Out To Be Dummies Headed for the Fair.

It was at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets. The traffic cop was busy. With his hand on his hip, he was signalling traffic to proceed, to stop, to turn. Suddenly he shifted his quick to the other side of his chest, tilted his helmet a little further forward on his nose, gave a tug to his chin strap, a hitch to his belt, and stepped from the exact middle of the street.

He had seen something. He was shocked.

Proceeding down the south side of Dundas street, an auto. In its tonneau were three female forms. They were exquisite "doll babies." Their necks were bare and gleaming in the morning sun—but horrors!—clapping the waists of two of these charming specimens of femininity were two male men.

Imagine! Such scandal in London—on the main corner, in the very zenith of the morning, in Fair time—and under a cop's nose! No wonder the lieutenant was scandalized.

Virtuously he signalled the car to stop. Then he drew nearer. At closer glance, the sight affected the officer even more. The female forms divine were—dummies. They were being taken to the Fair to be placed in one of the local store's exhibits there.

After coughing thrice and choking half a dozen times the officer gave the signal to go ahead. The little "drammer" was all over.

The last one arrived before noon. The full program was put on at 1:30 p.m.

Kent County Day tomorrow will be one of the biggest days of the exhibition, according to Secretary A. M. Hunt. The Blenheim Band will head the delegation from Kent County.

Speech attractions this year are scheduled to be better than ever. Good purses have been hung up for all events.

The aldermanic representation on the board of directors is far from a "dead one." Ald. J. H. Saunders is the main chicken man on the grounds. Without "licks" the poultry show would be a failure. Ald. W. E. Robinson on the horse section is another hard worker for the success of the fair.

Assistant Secretary "Bert" Carrothers, of the water commission, is becoming a fixture in the general offices. For the past five years he has been in Treasurer D. Mackenzie's office.

There will be plenty of music this year. In addition to the Seventh Regiment and First Hussars Bands from London, arrangements have been made for three outside bands. Tuesday the Blenheim band will be here. Wednesday there will be one from Brantford, and Thursday the local bandmen will be augmented by the Silver Band from Preston.

The canine barker from the dog show will enter into competition with the Midway ones on Tuesday. The entry list for the dog show is an exceptional heavy one. Sixty-nine classy box-wows are expected.

C. H. Burroughs, director of the Detroit Museum of Art, will be one of the judges for the art exhibits. Judge Burroughs declared that the exhibition of amateur work shown here this year is far ahead of anything shown across the line at the Michigan fairs. He further stated that the professional work was also exceptionally fine.

Souvenir stands were already in evidence this morning. The exhibits were being handed out, the exhibitors reserving their "samples" and literature for the crowds of this afternoon and the remainder of the week.

CAN THESE NERVY LADS CROSS THE ATLANTIC IN THEIR 14-FOOT SAILBOAT?

BOSTON BOYS ARE AT SEA ON MOST DARING VOYAGE EVER ATTEMPTED IN SO SMALL AND FRAIL A CRAFT.

Capt. Lawrence J. Moran (on left) and Joseph Higgins, his crew, and "The Wink," a 14-foot sloop in which they sailed from Boston, bound for Liverpool, England.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 8.—"We'll make it, don't worry!"

Laughing confidently, Captain Lawrence J. Moran and Joseph Higgins, both only boys, shouted back their assurance to the flotilla which accompanied them down harbor when they started from here this week on a cruise that the hardest Norseman might envy—3,000 miles across the turbulent Atlantic in "The Wink," a 14-foot cockle-shell sloop.

This chip of a boat in which they are sailing holds only 60 gallons of drinking water and boasts only a four-foot cockpit as a shelter from the weather.

Today they are out on the broad bosom of storm-swept water. Not a single word has been heard from them since "The Wink" left Provincetown.

Never before has any one been known to attempt such a feat of navigation. Jack London's cruise on the "Snark" and Tom Dey's frequent jaunts on the "Seabird" are not comparable to this apparently impossible voyage.

ADVENTURE—in capitals—should be theirs.

Fourteen feet!

"It can't be done!" announce experts. Nobody expects the youthful voyagers to return—except the modern Vikings themselves.

The boys, before leaving, declared they would follow the path of the trans-Atlantic liners and expect to secure provisions and water from them if necessary.

Liverpool is their destination. They expect to make the trip in about four months.

In this 14-foot over all sloop the cockpit has been so arranged that a shakedown can be put on either side of the cockpit board for sleeping quarters. A sea anchor, two sets of oilskins and four life belts complete the equipment. The sloop carries two jibs, a mainsail with three reefing points and a leg-o-mutton storm jib. Moran is the pilot of this "littlest trans-Atlantic craft." Both boys are expert swimmers and sailors.

POLICE LOCATE BLACK BOOKS OF SMUGGLING GANG

DETROIT IS A CENTRE

Underground System for Bringing in Chinese at Detroit From Canada.

[Canadian Press.] Chicago, Sept. 8.—The discovery of an "underground railway" for smuggling away of Chinese fugitives from justice and to aid entrance of Orientals into this country was reported today by detectives who were on the trail of Charles Sing, a Chinese merchant.

The alleged conspiracy extends from British Columbia to Hong Kong, and has branches in many cities of this country and at least one in Mexico.

Secrets of the underground were discovered in a raid on rooms at the rear of a chop suey restaurant in North Clark street.

Found Black Book. The principal find was what the police call the "black book" of the gang, from which the alleged schemes in aid of the fugitives were planned. It was a list of the names of the agents of the organization in the various cities, the names of some of the most notorious criminals in the country, the police say, and instructions written in Chinese characters. The police also found scores of letters from white women.

Among the cities listed in the "black book" as stations on the "underground" are San Francisco, Seattle, Vancouver (B.C.), Ann Arbor and Detroit (Mich.), Boston and Cambridge (Mass.), and Ensenada (Mexico).

KNOWN IN DETROIT. Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6.—The existence of an underground railway in Detroit for the purpose of smuggling Chinese into the United States is well known to the local authorities, according to Immigration Inspector Frick.

"There are four underground systems here," said he, "and we are continually making arrests. While we have been able to arrest many of the Orientals we have not been able to get all of the operators. Until we get the latter we can't abolish the system. The Chinese are in part in Detroit from Canada by the 'underground railway' and then shipped to Ann Arbor, generally in automobiles. When they arrive there they are kept in 'stalls' for three or four days and then shipped to different parts of the country."

POLICE UNABLE TO QUELL RIOTS IN ROME STREETS

Belgian Athletes Appearing Before the Pope Were Mobbed and Many Hurt.

Soldiers Had To Be Called Out To Stop the Attacks.

Rome, Sept. 7.—Notwithstanding the precautions of the police and the prohibition of meetings of visiting Catholic gymnasts and anti-clericals, there were serious disturbances today on the occasion of an exhibition by the athletes before the Pope. As originally planned the Catholic societies were to meet in the square of St. John of Lateran, and march with banners and bands to the Vatican. The Socialists and anti-clericals, headed by the noted Giordano Bruno Association, arranged an anti-clerical meeting on the Piazza Scossa Cavalli, in front of the Vatican, for the same purpose. The police issued an order prohibiting the meetings, but allowed the gymnasts to march to the Vatican in small groups throughout the side streets without any embarras.

Great Excitement. There was general excitement as the hour for the assembly of the gymnasts arrived, and disorders began almost immediately after they had started on their way to the Vatican. The chief disorder was in the Piazza Trastevere, at the entrance to St. Peter's Square. The Austrian contingent of athletes arrived in trams, as they had been warned that owing to the existing anti-clerical feeling it would be dangerous for them to parade. The Belgian group arrived on foot, and they were mistaken for the Austrians. The Belgians were attacked by the anti-clericals, and were spouting by fighting back. The anti-clericals tried repeatedly to rush St. Peter's Square, and the soldiers had to help the police to repel their dashes. The leaders were arrested.

Must Have Patience. An aged follower of Garibaldi and the contingents from Catania awakened the enthusiasm of the crowd, their banner being the Italian flag. This was unfurled in the square and carried in the basilica. It was the first time that the Italian tricolor has waved on the altar of St. Peter, a fact which the afternoon papers announced with headlines an inch long. After mass in St. Peter's the gymnasts marched with bands and colors to the Court of St. Damasus, where the Pope, carrying a big silk umbrella, and surrounded by his court, blessed them from the balcony. The ladies cheered and sang the Papal hymn. When the Pope learned of the disorders which had occurred outside the Vatican he said: "We must have patience. There must be no hot blood."

FAREWELL TEA WAS TENDERED TO MRS. C. W. BELTON

Retiring Secretary of Women's Canadian Club Honored on Friday.

DEPARTURE REGRETTED

Report of Miss Blackburn, Delegate to Recent Convention.

A largely-attended meeting of the Women's Canadian Club was held on Friday afternoon in the Normal School in honor of the retiring secretary, Mrs. C. W. Belton, who leaves London shortly with her husband, Colonel Belton, to reside in Fredericton, N. B.

Heartily Regret Expressed. Mrs. Donald MacLean, first vice-president of the club, presided in the absence of Mrs. F. P. Belton, and in a few remarks voiced the hearty regret of the club members at losing Mrs. Belton, whose work as secretary had been constant and untiring. Mrs. H. Bagg then presented the retiring officer with a handsome bouquet of roses. Mrs. Belton, in reply, stated that she had felt honored to be the club's secretary, and enjoyed the work, and the association with members of the club and of the executive. She believed the Women's Canadian Club in London, and in Canada, were doing a great educational work, and that a highly successful future was before it.

Miss Blackburn's Report. An interesting feature of the meeting was a report given by Miss Blackburn, of the convention of Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs, recently held in Hamilton. Miss Blackburn said that one of the things which impressed her most was the skillful way in which those in charge sketched over the less important matters in order to devote more time to the essentials of the convention. The citizens of Hamilton did all in their power to make their stay pleasant for the visiting delegates, the entertainment including a trip to Niagara Falls. Besides the routine business of the sessions addresses were given by such worthy speakers as Canon Cody, Mr. Sanford-Evans, Sir Edmund Walker and others.

"I found that no club had made greater or better progress than the Women's Canadian Club," said Miss Blackburn. "And none showed more earnest work or more enthusiasm on the part of its members. This is saying a good deal, when one considers that the Women's Canadian Clubs in Canada, with a membership of some 25,000 members."

At the close of the business session members of the club adjourned to the tea-room of the Normal School, where light refreshments were served. The entire atmosphere of the meeting was one of regret at Mrs. Belton's departure. Mrs. A. T. Edwards is acting secretary pro tem.

Dublin Strikers Ask Police Probe

Dublin, Sept. 7.—The police did not interfere with the meeting of the Transport Workers' Union, which was held on Sackville street today. The meeting, which was on a very large scale, was orderly and enthusiastic. Addresses were made by several labor members of parliament and leaders of the present strike of the street car men, and resolutions were passed declaring in favor of free speech and the right to hold public meetings.

A resolution was also adopted demanding an independent inquiry into the country roads leading in all directions from Cornish. They ride in the electric automobile on trips, and on others are seen together in a little parasol rig. Miss Wilson is fast recovering from her recent accident caused by falling from a horse.

New Power Dam Open at Walkerton

[Special to The Advertiser.] Walkerton, Sept. 6.—After a large procession, headed by the band, board of trade, town council and prominent citizens in autos and carriages had paraded the entire town, a monster meeting was addressed at the post-office corner to celebrate the opening of the new power dam tonight.

The illuminations of Durham street with colored lights were almost extravagant in brilliancy. Mayor Henderson gave an address, followed by R. E. Bisset, president of the board of trade; H. M. Lay, Col. Scott, Dr. Sinclair, and other prominent citizens. A few weeks ago the power was turned on, but an accident occurred which has only just been repaired. The company is offering current for manufacturing and domestic purposes at prices which will, it is expected, bring many more industries here.

LONDON, MONDAY, SEPT. 8.

IS THAT SO?

A constituency in Alberta has elected a Conservative to the local Legislature. In its astonishment at such a marvelous proceeding the Toronto News sees a clear indication of a Conservative triumph at the next Dominion election. It had evidently been having some doubts. But the result up in the Peace River, even though the questions at issue there were purely local, has cheered our contemporary's spirit. Mr. Borden may now consider himself certain of at least half of Alberta and Saskatchewan, all of British Columbia, and a big share of Manitoba. Then in Quebec both Laurier and the Nationalists have been eliminated, and in that province there will be an almost solid French-Canadian vote for the Government—which is a good thing when it is cast for the Conservatives, but very bad if it goes Liberal. There will be substantial gains in the Maritime Provinces, of course. Nothing is said about what Ontario will do; but we presume it is because they feel so sure of Ontario that it is not worth mentioning.

It is all very well for the News to feel so jubilant, but does Mr. Borden feel the same way? Does he really think a general election would send him back with the same majority he has now—to say nothing of adding 50 per cent to it? If he did there would not be much delay in bringing on an election. It would insure place and power for at least five years more. But he would have a higher motive than that. According to the professions of the Government, the Empire is in danger and needs Canada's help in its emergency. And the face of the fair Dominion is suffused with the blush of shame, because she has been humiliated before the whole world by the action of her disloyal sons, who will not let her fly to the defence of the weary Titan in his hour of need. A general election would not only consolidate Mr. Borden's power for the next five years; it would insure the passing of the naval bill; it would restore Canada's self-respect; it would save the Empire. And if Mr. Borden believed what the News says, he would be less than human as a politician, and he would be untrue to the interests of Canada and the Empire, if he did not act promptly, and secure this almost unanimous indorsement.

If the News believes in its own ravings, it might try a little harder to make Mr. Borden believe.

MORE TALK THAN SENSE.

Considerable talk has emanated from certain papers on account of the denunciation of military mania by the President of the Association of Canadian Clubs the other day. To listen to some of them one would think that the speaker was a rebel, an annexationist, and everything that was disloyal. The fact is, he said nothing more than the great mass of Canadians think. He doubtless believes that a certain reasonable expenditure for the militia department is quite proper. He assuredly said nothing against it. But he did lift up his voice against the tendency of a few people in this country to advocate large expenditures and extensive military preparations for a war that is not likely ever to come, and in the encouragement of a spirit of truculent vain-glory.

A people who desire peace will never magnify the military profession. War is an evil, and everything that tends to promote it is evil. Robbery and violence are evils, and we make preparations to counteract them. But we do not brag about it. We do not spend any more money on our police forces than is necessary, and we do not go into hysterics over it. Certain things are necessary, and we go about them soberly, almost regretfully. We know they are necessary for the public safety, and we try to make provision for the needs of the community. And we do it without exaggeration or bombast.

Our military operations should be conducted in a spirit much similar. Certain things may be advisable, and we proceed with them quietly—with only the enthusiasm and energy necessary for their efficient performance. But with a Minister of Militia inclined to magnify his office unduly, with an expenditure of $2 per capita of her population for military purposes, with armories cropping up in every little town, with an effective militia muster of all male Canadians proposed, and compulsory service broadly hinted, there is no harm in emphasizing the fact that we are not going to turn into a nation of soldiers any more than of policemen. The militia department will soon be the greatest spending department of the Dominion at the rate pursued by the authorities at present. Better not go too fast. And an occasional utterance like that of the Canadian Clubs' president is not out of place.

LORD HALDANE ON NAVAL AID.

The Lord Chancellor of Britain, being interviewed as to his opinions on the naval question, answered calmly and judiciously, as might have been expected. He did not claim that there was an emergency which must be promptly met if the country was to be saved from disaster. Nor did he say that Canada should send a money contribution to the British admiralty in order to build more Dreadnoughts. He did say that the burden involved in maintaining Britain's naval supremacy was a very heavy one, but one which they were prepared to bear in the British Isles as long as was necessary. And he did say that they would be quite pleased to have Canada help. But how that aid should be given he did not attempt to decide. That is for our people alone.

And Canadians, we believe, are ready to bear their share of the burden. The Liberals are just as ready to give aid as are the Conservatives. Perhaps more so, because a section of the latter party, and a very powerful section at that, cannot be depended on for anything more than resolutions in Parliament that they say are to be taken simply as marks of good will, and of promises which are not to be implemented by payments.

That the Mail and Empire should attempt to make political capital out of Lord Haldane's remarks is, of course, quite natural. When it talks about "the Laurier blockers of naval aid to the Empire," and accuses Liberals of "denying Canadian aid to Britain," it only repeats the old story, which has been made to do duty for the party ever since the Liberals voted against the contribution policy of the Government. But its diatribes are but misrepresentations and misstatements now as they have ever been. The Liberals have never, since the question was first broached, refused aid to Britain. It was a Liberal Government that first spent Canadian money to strengthen the naval forces of the Empire. The Conservatives belittled the Liberal expenditure. It was not enough, they said. But we are willing to spend more, if the first appropriations were not sufficient. The Liberal Opposition in Parliament placed itself on record as being willing to vote for the Government's outlay of $35,000,000. But they were not willing to turn that amount over to an irresponsible authority in England. They wanted it spent under Canadian control, and as far as possible for the benefit of Canadians, in the construction of a Canadian navy which should defend the Empire in connection with British ships. That was not "blocking naval aid to Britain."

It is true the Liberals tried to block the Government tribute policy. And in so doing they did what they thought was in the best interests of the Empire. And when they failed in the House of Commons they asked in the Senate that the people should have an opportunity to decide. But the Government has refused to give the people of Canada a voice in the settlement of their naval policy or the expenditure of their own money. "We are the masters," said the Minister of Marine, the other day, and he voiced the policy of the cabinet. We will wait till enough Liberal senators are dead, and we will fill their places with men who will vote as we wish, and then we will do what we want to do. If they felt that the people were with them, the Government would have carried out the Premier's pledge, and have referred the whole matter to the people. But they are afraid to do it, for they know they would meet defeat. It is the Borden Government that "blocks naval aid to Britain," for instead of giving the people of Canada an opportunity to speak their mind, it simply marks time, and defers action. It talks, and waits, and does nothing else.

Thaw has materially helped the hotel business in Cottage Lake and Sherbrooke. Now the Montreal people are likely to have the pecuniary benefits of his presence. The tourists also expect an increased revenue.

An English evangelist, preaching in New York, says that women's dress in these days is an invention of Satan, and that no wearer of a slit skirt can enter heaven. A man's intentions may be good; but that does not hinder him from making a fool of himself.

The Hon. G. E. Foster has had a very pleasant oriental trip. His report of all he saw, said, and did, will duly appear in a blue book in about two years. From all appearances that will be the net result of the trip, so far as Canada is concerned. But it was doubtless an interesting experience for Mr. Foster.

That proposition to have the British Government create a Duke of Canada seems to have fallen rather flat. It was too much even for the truly loyal imperialists. Perhaps if the scheme had been one to provide titles for a hundred people instead of only one, it might have been more satisfactory. Try again.

The Halifax Herald has been casting up the accounts between Nova Scotia and the Dominion since confederation, and estimates the sum due its province at $170,000,000. If it would do any good we could easily figure out on behalf of Ontario a bill of ten times that amount. But we would never get the money. Neither will Nova Scotia.

In view of statements made by certain hygienists that kissing is unhealthy, the Chicago Health Commissioner comes to the relief of an alarmed public with the announcement that it is perfectly safe within reasonable bounds. We always thought so. But what are the bounds? Opinions differ as to this. Therefore every one should experiment until he or she finds the danger limit. That is the only way to be certain.

REAR LEVITS NATIONAL

The LOVER

by Berton Braley

A foolish person is the Snob.

With silly notions in his knob.

To those who rightly rate him;

He goes and walls himself about

To keep all "common persons" out

Lest they contaminate him,

And on a high and lonesome shelf

He proudly immolates himself.

And so, because he will not meet

The common people in the street.

Like Tom and Dick and Harry,

He misses all the joy and fun

Of learning how the world is run

And how life's chances vary.

The folks whom he considers "low"

Could teach him much he needs to know.

The common folk don't care at all

How much he hides behind his wall

Nor what retreat he chooses.

If he won't join their work and play

They go serenely on their way

And HE'S the one who loses.

The wise man mixes with the mob

It takes a fool to be a snob.

Modern Women's Fashions

Find a Defender

[Bartor in the Manchester Guardian.]

If one walked in Hyde Park in the height of this season one was struck by the number of beautiful women in the world. On all sides people were remarking that they had no idea that

English girls could be so pretty and graceful. It was the same at the opera; framed in the boxes or strolling in the foyer or the stalls, everywhere one was impressed by the beauty of young girlhood. The reason is that gradually and by degrees, with no doubt many a shock and overcoming of obstacles, the human form has come into its own. Instead of inventing a new shape for our bodies we are now content to dress the figures nature has given us. Of course,

Mrs. Grundy, the high priestess of all that is ugly in thought and form, says that it is disgusting. Frankness and beauty are anathema to her. In the old days of a fabulous multiplicity of garments the exposure of a "limb" was a matter of scandal and innuendo; a crinolene entering a hansom cab, a stile to climb, a wet day or a high wind—all these became subjects for music-hall songs and vulgar drawings. Nowadays, when everyone recognizes that the possession of neither limbs is not in itself anything to be ashamed of or scared about, all the silly talk, the nods and winks and vulgar suggestions are spared.

A little Japanese lady once complained that European women looked as if they had a piece bitten out on each side. And it was true at the time. The silhouette of the sixties shocks us now with its impropriety. The painful prominence given to some portions as a result of the still more painful compression of other parts merely makes the modern woman feel uncomfortable. The very origin of the crinolene is itself its condemnation. Every period has its own attractions, of course, but 1913 will be remembered as the time when beauty of form was recognized.

Hand in hand with the discovery of form has come the appreciation of materials. Milliners and dressmakers have learned from the post-impres-fact, to be really well dressed you must be not only in the movement but a little before it. To do this you must either have a genius for dress yourself or employ a genius to dress you. The only way to dress well without spending a fortune on your clothes is to make your own. And certainly at no time could a woman have a greater opportunity for satisfying her need for aesthetic expression through the medium of dress than now. SARTOR.

Life Story of
Charlotte Bronte

Charlotte Bronte was the daughter of Patrick Prunty, of Anahoe, County Down. He changed his name to Bronte, and when a curate at Harrogate married Maria, daughter of Thos. Branwell, of Penzance. The father published two volumes of verse, "Cottage Poems" (1811) and "The Rural Minstrel" (1813). These were issued at Halifax. He became "perpetual curate" of Thornton, near Bradford. It was here that Charlotte was born, April 21, 1816. In 1829, the family moved to Haworth.

Charlotte Bronte wrote copiously, between April, 1829, and August, 1830, filling twenty-two volumes of sixty to a hundred pages of a small handwriting. These were childish tales and home-made magazines. In 1831 Charlotte was sent to school at Roehead, near Leeds. In 1835 she became a teacher at this school to provide money for her brother Branwell's education as a sculptor. In 1839 Charlotte refused two offers of marriage. Both Wordsworth and Southey advised her not to attempt a literary career. So she thought of starting a school. This idea was postponed until Charlotte should have learned something of foreign languages. And to this end she went to Brussels, to a school of eighty or a hundred pupils, kept by M. Heger and his wife.

From this period sprang the novel "The Professor"; and later in "Villette" came a fuller revelation. Turning to her literary work, it was in 1846 that the three sisters published a volume of poems at their own expense under the signatures of Acton, Ellis, and Currer Bell. Then all three offered novels to publishers, without success. The very day of "The Professor's" first rejection saw Charlotte begin "Jane Eyre." Her sisters' books were both accepted before hers, but on the completion of "Jane Eyre" Mr. W. S. Williams advised Messrs. Smith, El-

After the early death of Branwell and her two sisters, who died of consumption, Charlotte continued at Haworth, living alone with her father. Nursing and household cares, coupled with ill-health and worry, limited and colored her work. She seems to have lacked humor, but her personal attractions and fame brought her two more suitors, a businessman and her father's curate, Rev. A. B. Nicholls. In June, 1854, she married him, but in the following March died at Haworth.

LOOKED, BUT SAW NOT.

The magistrate had the misfortune to be cross-eyed, the result of which at times was rather amusing. One day he had three prisoners before him. "What's your name?" he inquired of one to the left.

"James Paterson," promptly replied the man on the right.

The man on the bench turned round quickly. "I was not addressing you, sir," he snapped.

At this the one in the centre, quaking and trembling with fear, stammered: "I—I—I never opened my mouth, sir!"

Mid-Season Hats That Add a Chic Style to the Early Falls Suits

The centre hat shown is, perhaps, the most popular shape at present. It is of black velvet, bound about the rim with white ribbon. About the crown the ribbon is laid in soft folds and tied in front into a small bow from which the ribbon is twisted into an upstanding pleated ornament. White or light colored velvet suit-ors, trimmed with crepe-de chine, also make a pretty head covering for the first fall months. For the high school girl there is nothing better than a soft hat in corduroy of gray or tan, trimmed with the same toned ribbon.

A gray matinee "poke" that depends from an almost square crown and has for trimming black velvet and an upstanding American Beauty rose is a splendid idea to copy if one wishes a dress hat for early fall.

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

How to Can Mushrooms.
Dear Miss Grey,—As you have helped so many others, I wish you could help me. Can you answer these queries?
1. A recipe for canning mushrooms.
2. What will take this out of butcher's linen?
Hope my letter don't find the W. P. B., as it has done twice before. I thank you very much for your kindness. I remain
AN ANXIOUS INQUIRER.

A.—I wonder if any of our readers can supply this recipe, which I do not appear to have in my possession? Here is one for mushroom catsup which our correspondent may find helpful. Put the mushrooms in layers, with salt sprinkled on each layer, and let stand four days; then wash them one, and to each quart add two-thirds of a teaspoon of black pepper and boil two hours in a crock set in boiling water; strain the liquor off without squeezing; boil until the right thickness and let stand to cool and set; then bottle and seal securely.

2. Soak the article in sour milk or buttermilk, changing as the liquid becomesinky. You might also try sprinkling with a little salt and squeezing the juice of a lemon over, but this may make the spot paler than the rest. After either method, wash through clear tepid water without soap.

Sorry that your former letters were not published. I try to be very careful not to let any go astray. Sometimes answers have appeared which the person asking the query failed to see. Is there a possibility of this being the case with you?

The Poets' Corner

THEY SAY.
Have you heard of the terrible family "They"?
And of the venomous "They say"?
Why, half the gossip under the sun, if you trace it back, you will find begun in that wretched house of "They."

A numerous family, so I am told, and its genealogical tree is old. For ever since Adam and Eve began To build up the curious race of man Has existed the house of "They."

Gossip mongers and spreaders of lies, Horrid people whom all despise! And yet the best of us, now and then, Repeat, queer tales of women and men.

And quote the house of "They."

They live like lords and never labor, A "They's" one task is to watch his neighbor, And to tell his business and private affairs.

To the world at large, they are sowers of tales—
These folks in the house of "They."

It is useless to follow a "They" With a whip or a gun, for he slips away.
And into the house, where you cannot go—
It is locked and bolted and guarded so—
This horrible house of "They."

Though you cannot get in, yet they get out,
And spread their villainous tales about, Of all the rascals under the sun Who have come to punishment, never one.

Deserved it more than "They."
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Half an Hour With the Cook

Readers of this page are requested to contribute recipes or helpful hints along culinary lines for publication in this column, the desire being to make it one of mutual benefit. Original recipes, or any found to be tried and true, will be especially appreciated.

Two excellent recipes, tried and true, are sent in by an out-of-town subscriber. We welcome them exceedingly. They are worthy a place in the cook-book of every Advertiser reader:

Green Tomato Mince-meat.
Mince one peck green tomatoes, scald and drain twice with boiling water; then put in preserving kettle with five pounds of white sugar, two tablespoons salt, two pounds seeded raisins, two cups currants, one cup chopped suet; cook all until tender and let cool, then add one cup vinegar, the juice of one or two lemons, two teaspoons of each, cloves, cinnamon and allspice, one grated nutmeg. This keeps a long time if kept in a cool place, and is all right.

Green Corn Pickle.
This is good. Twenty ears corn, one small cabbage, two green peppers, four onions, half cup salt, half cup flour, half teaspoon turmeric powder, two cups of sugar, two ounces of mustard, one teaspoon celery seed. Chop corn, cabbage, peppers and onions, put in a quart of vinegar and boil ten minutes, then put in the rest and bring to a boil, and boil 30 minutes. Put in sealers and it will keep splendid.

I have more good recipes if wanted.
FROM A FRIEND.

KATHERINE LESLIE'S HOME CHAT

THE SOCIAL CONVENTIONS AND TRUTH.

There is no doubt that a strict observance of all the conventions of polite society, quite regardless of individual characteristics and qualities, tends to turn everyone out in the same mold. The woman of marked individuality who covers herself, her true self, I mean, with the conventional mantle of courtesy, and binds herself with the straightening bands of etiquette, becomes unrecognizable from the woman of no individuality at all who conforms naturally to all the usages and customs of society. Those who live naturally in the bonds of conventionality, who use easily or naturally the set speeches and phrases and who speak glibly all the flimsy and even lies, that are considered necessary to smoothness and orderliness in social life, have difficulty in understanding the women of uncompromising truthfulness, the women who speak their minds, on all occasions and under all circumstances, and who scorn to utter a word that they do not mean. We call such women "characters" and such of us as love the humorous of not if it was like the last! The same uncompromising directness marked her answer to her second husband who used to torment himself with the thought that Aunt Sarah cherished a preference for her first. "I suppose the first thing you will do when you get to heaven," he said to her, "will be to look for Thompson?" Aunt Sarah looked severely over her glasses at Robinson. "Make no mistake on that score. When I go to heaven I wish to see neither of you. I'm going there for peace!"

Too Much Sugar Says Lilian Russell

When we realize that $1,000,000 a day is spent upon sweets we can form an idea of the amount of candy which is consumed by American men, women and children. While the population of the country is increasing, the demand for sweets is increasing more rapidly. We are eating more sweets per capita each year. Since 1880 the increase has been marked.

The quantity of sugar used yearly since 1880 has been doubled. A great deal of it goes into medicines, bakery stuffs, and many other things. Little is used on the tables as plain sugar for tea, coffee, cereals and desserts, compared with the amount of confectionery that is dished out.

It is a fact that too much candy may ruin the stomach. There is no doubt that it is sometimes the cause of some of the cases of indigestion, or at least the primary cause. Naturally, too much candy eating spoils the appetite for real substantial foods. Any liquid going into the stomach which is dished with sweet stuff causes the eyes to water and become puffed. That is the cause of the old, dissipated appearance of some young children.—Lilian Russell in Chicago Times.

TO WASH SILK STOCKINGS.
Silk stockings should be washed in cold water with white soap. Rinse them in cold water, lay them flat in a fine towel, roll the towel tightly and let them remain till dry, then rub them with a piece of dry flannel to give them a gloss. It is best to wash one pair at a time, as they must not be left in the water. Silk stockings washed in this way will always look new and never require coloring or mangle.

HAMILTON FRANCHISE FOR SALE KNOTTY LEE ANXIOUS TO SELL

Toronto International League Club May Purchase It and Appoint
Eddie Holly Manager Next Season—Lee Is Through With Canadian League Baseball.

Hamilton, Sept. 8.—Knotty Lee, who has been part of the Hamilton Canadian League baseball club for the past three years, will no longer act in that capacity. He is anxious to sell and get out of Hamilton, and if his present figure is brought down a trifle it is almost certain that the club will be purchased and a new era started with the opening of the 1914 season. Following the showing of the club this season, and the knowledge that he was not the most popular man in Hamilton, Lee stated to the Herald that he is anxious to locate in some other league, and that he would give Hamiltonians first chance to purchase the interests.

Toronto Men Want It.

Since that time he has had an offer from two Toronto men who have great confidence in Hamilton as a baseball city under different conditions. In the past three years, and he is seriously considering disposing of it at the figure offered him. However, there is one Hamilton man who would take over part of the club at a reasonable figure, and he will be given his chance before any move is made in the matter.

Several Offers Made.

As a matter of fact the Hamilton baseball club has several offers before it from men who knew that this was Lee's last year and that he and President Jimmy Burns were anxious to get out of the city. One of these, and the one that looks best from a Hamilton standpoint, comes from Jas. J. McCallery, president of the Toronto International League club. He suggests that a stock company be formed, and that the Toronto club be purchased by it. The Toronto club would be a farm for the Toronto club, and that Eddie Holly, the Toronto shortstop, be appointed manager. This looks very nice from a local view, and it would be better for all concerned. Holly is recognized in the International League as one of the brainiest men in that company, and he would surely make an ideal manager for a Canadian League club. The fact, too, that the Hamilton club would be used as a farm for the Toronto outfit would give the Tigers a real ball team, and they would be up there fighting all the time. That's what the fans like and that's what brings them out in large numbers.

What's the Deal?

It is a well-known fact that the Hamilton club was poorly supported this season, and it was not only on account of the club's poor showing. President Macdonald, of the Guelph Leafs, and other men prominent in the Canadian League, give as the reason the fact that the scene of the games was changed from Britannia Park to the H. A. A. grounds. However, despite the fact that the club did not make a barrel of money, it did not do so bad for a sixth place aggregation, and there is little doubt that Hamilton is a good ball town when it has a ball team. Whatever becomes of the local club, or whoever has control, the fact remains that a new manager will be here and that new blood will be infused into the club that should help considerably. Knotty Lee and John Burns, two of the three owners of the local club, will be in the city next week to talk over the situation with the local man who is anxious to get part share in the club.

President Hedges later announced that he had given Stovall a vacation for the rest of the season. Whether or not he would guard the first sack during next season depends on his attitude towards the new manager.

Baseball Babble

WHAT'S THE USE?

"I am worth ten thousand dollars," said the player from the bush. But I failed to notice any signs of gladness on his mirth. "I am worth ten thousand dollars," he repeated with a sigh. And he wiped away a tear that was shining in his eye. "I am worth ten thousand dollars to the man I'm working for. But I haven't had a two-bit piece for seven days or more."

HOW FINNEY FOOLED SOME TALKATIVE PLAYERS.

Edward Finney, Coast League arbitrator, was umpiring a game in Portland some time ago, when a ball clipped a hat, sliding off struck the official on the side of the head. He became stone deaf in one ear. Recently, while umpiring in Sacramento, Cal., he was struck with another foul tip, and to his surprise found that he could hear as well as ever. The umpire didn't say anything about his recovery, but waited a few days with interesting results. It seems that the players, knowing which was his deaf ear, made it a practice to express their opinion of the umpire in low tones when out of range of his good ear. They don't do it any more.

SHOW THAT TOM BANNON ONCE WAS A SPEEDY GUY.

Tom Bannon tells a funny story on Pat Flaherty. It was in 1907, when both men were playing at Brooklyn. Flaherty was at first when Tom hit the ball to deep left. Bannon struck his head down and made for first. He looked up and was sure he could make three bases. He made third by a nice slide before the umpire yelled that he was out. Bannon immediately started an argument. "You passed a Yankee runner," said the umpire. And sure enough, Flaherty was on second. After the inning Pat told Bannon that he stepped on his foot when he was rounding second.

MURPHY'S RECRUIT WAS A MAN OF "SOME SPEED."

Chubby Charles Murphy oozed enthusiasm from every pore. "I've got a player that $50,000 can't buy," he gurgled. "Who? Eddie Stack?" asked someone innocently. "No, no, exactly," replied Murphy. "I mean Cy Williams. He bats harder, runs faster and thinks quicker than Ty Cobb or Tris Speaker. I would not trade him for either of them." "How about his failing to touch second the other day?" "That shows how fast he is," replied the Cub boss. "He's so speedy he over-looks the way stations."

THOUSANDS OF FANS ARE PULLING FOR LAJOIE.

Regardless of friendship for Philadelphia or Cleveland, there are thousands of fans in the country pulling for the Naps to win the American League pennant this year so that Napoleon Lajoie may be seen in a world's series, writes Harry Nelly in the St. Louis Times. Ty Cobb, Hans Wagner and Nap Lajoie generally are credited with being the leading athletes of the present era. Cobb, however, had his chance, and so did Cobb, but Lajoie never has appeared in the baseball classic.

AMERICAN YACHT WILL BE SEVENTY-FIVE FEET

First Report That It Was To Be Seventy-Footer Proves To Be Term of Convenience Only.

[Canadian Press.]
Bristol, R. I., Sept. 8.—The candidate for the America's Cup defence honors against Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger to be built by "Nat" Herreshoff for a New York syndicate, will be 75 feet on the water line. Mr. Herreshoff announced today. It was first said that Mr. Herreshoff would design a 70-footer, a statement which caused much surprise in England, but this, Mr. Herreshoff explained today, was merely a term of convenience.

The syndicate will be headed by former Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, of the New York Yacht Club, J. P. Morgan and Frederick G. Bourne.
Mr. Herreshoff announced that he had been given a free hand in the matter of the design. He added that he would not accept a commission for another candidate for next year's international honors.

ATLANTA'S CHAMPIONSHIP.

Mobile, Sept. 7.—The Southern League pennant was decided here this afternoon, when Mobile was beaten by New Orleans 5 to 2, giving the pennant to Atlanta by half a game, while that team remained idle. Each had won 81 games and lost 56 until today's defeat of Mobile.

FAMOUS TURMAN PASSES.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—The death was announced last night of Charles Phair, of this city, at St. Michael's Hospital, following an operation for appendicitis. The late "Charley" Phair was one of the best-known turfmen in Canada. He had been identified with breeding and racing since boyhood. He rode Amelia, owned by Mr. John White, of Milton, the winner of the Queen's Plate in 1877. From that day to the day of his death he was closely associated with the turf in various capacities and was one of the most ardent admirers of the thoroughbred in Canada.

SHAUGHNESSY FAVORS LONGER LEAGUE SEASON

Will Make an Effort at Next League Meeting To Have Season Extended Two Weeks Longer.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 5.—If Manager Shaughnessy can persuade Hamilton and other teams, the Canadian League season next year will be two weeks longer than this summer's. Shaughnessy thinks that the season could easily be prolonged for two weeks, starting a week earlier and closing a week later. He intends to bring that matter before the league at the next meeting and figures that he will get the support of at least five other clubs.

MANY LONDON FANS HAVE LOOK AT DUNLOP IN CLEVELAND UNIFORM

London Shortstop Did Not Get Chance to Appear in Games, However—Looked Good in Infeld.

Many London fans attended the games in Detroit Saturday and Sunday and saw George Dunlop in a Cleveland uniform. Dunlop did not appear in either game, but he was out working in the preliminary practice, and his infelding attracted as much attention as any of the other players. On Saturday he did not appear very much, but while he was on the diamond he gathered in a number of hard-hit ground balls and handled himself nicely. Eddie Wright, the St. Thomas player, was working out with the Tigers during the preliminary practice on both days.

IT IS DOUBTFUL IF DUNLOP WILL GET A CHANCE TO PLAY IN A GAME WITH THE NAPS UNTIL THE AMERICAN LEAGUE RACE HAS BEEN DECIDED.

The Cleveland club has a nightingale chance to beat out the Athletics at present, and Birmingham is only using his tried and trusty players. If the Athletics clinch it in the next week or so, it is likely Dunlop will be given a trial at shortstop in a big-league game.

Among the Londoners who saw Dunlop at Naps Field on Saturday were Ald. Ed. Stein, Ed. Elmer, Charlie Rush, President Stevely, of the London baseball club, F. Wheeler, Frank Hart and the sporting editor of The Advertiser. Ruben Deneau and Matty Matteson attended the Sunday game. Deneau and Matteson played with a number of Canadian Leaguers against Windsor on Saturday.

WOODBINE HOTEL COMPANY, LTD.
Geo. A. Spear, President,
102 to 110 King Street West,
TORONTO, July 22nd, 1913.

Dear Sirs,—About a month ago I had you equip my car with a set of puncture-proof tubes. When the tubes were installed your Mr. Shaw drove a nail into one of the tires six or seven times to test the self-healing qualities of the tubes for some friends of mine, who were present at the time. Since then I am pleased to state that the pressure in the tube has remained the same, and I have no trouble whatever with my tires. I now feel confident that I can go as far as I like and get back without stopping on the road to replace a punctured tube.

Wishing you every success with the new tube, I beg to remain, yours truly,
GEO. A. SPEAR.

We Will Make This Sensational Test to Fully Convince You

We have a demonstrating Simplex Puncture-proof Pneumatic Inner Tube, with more than 100 punctures, which we will place in the shoe and drive you 50 miles WITHOUT ANY APPRECIABLE LOSS OF AIR.

CHAPTER XII.

Showing how the Net Was Spread.

Either the price in whom Stenigall was interested was not of much importance, or the anarchists were discreet, because, somewhat unexpectedly, the chief found himself free to go with Clancy to Atlantic City.

"Take Pullman tickets," said the little man, as they entered the Pennsylvania station the morning before the day fixed for the adjourned inquest.

"Heather, expensive, my boy," commented Stenigall with a grin.

"We may have company that will recoup us for the additional cost."

Of course, it was a mere guess; but, like most of Clancy's surmises, it was justified. A visit to the Pullman office showed that a seat had been reserved in one of the cars in the name of Tearle. It was impossible to identify any name on the list as appertaining to Mrs. Delamar, but her associate's personality was alluring, and the detectives secured two neighboring seats which happened to be at liberty in the same car. Next to the Tearle chair was a woman, bound for some town en route, and these four chairs were at one end of the carriage. When the bureau man appeared, this woman was already in possession, so much so that baggage and parcels littered the floor; but a negro porter soon piled her hat box, suitcase and golf clubs on the rack or disposed of them elsewhere. It was patent at a glance that she belonged to the holiday-making tribe.

Now, it chanced rather fortunately that while Stenigall and Clancy were surveying the ground, Tearle and Mrs. Delamar arrived on the scene, and their hasty glances into the car's interior led them to regard the three as belonging to the same party. It was a haphazard incident, but it led to an unlocking of tongues that otherwise might have remained mute, or, at any rate, uninforming.

"Mrs. Delamar claimed the seat labelled 'Tearle' after depositing a suitcase and some magazines in it, she chatted with her escort through the open window."

"Rather a bore having to take this long journey on such a hot day," she said, when she and the other woman had exchanged critical looks, which comprised hats, costumes, gloves and shoes in one sweeping yet accurate estimate.

"I hope you are not feeling unhappy, Feena," said Tearle, caressing a long upper lip with a well-groomed hand.

"Why should I? My tailors have excelled themselves in this coat and skirt, and I fancy, and no woman can be really unhappy when she is well dressed." She named a fashionable Fifth Avenue firm.

"Yes, I suppose that it true. I must learn to look on my tailor as a refuge in distress. He often has to feel that way, whether he likes it or not."

"Tearle guffawed at his own wit, happily oblivious that Mrs. Delamar had mentioned her tailors by name in order to quell any lurking doubt in the other woman's mind as to the possibility of the coat and skirt being of a lower order of creation."

"How long will this business keep you on the coast?" he asked.

"I hope to return on Thursday."

"Going to Aberdeen?"

"No. I hate the place. Are you glad-ding off to Narragansett today?"

"I think not. Can't plunge into details now, you know; but I want to have a talk with you before I make any further move in that direction."

"Surely you don't believe what that stupid valet told you?"

"It's hard to say. He's a sure enough John Bull, and he struck me as saying what he believed."

"It is impossible, I tell you! I am only waiting till tomorrow's affair has ended before I take steps to bring about a settlement."

"Well, good luck to you! If you prosper, I do. At present, hot as the weather is, I am suffering from cold feet. I suppose you know what that means?"

"So long! Wire me when to expect you. We'll dine together that evening."

Mrs. Delamar held out a languid hand—she was by no means feeling languid, but that was the correct society pose—the door was closed, and the train started. Oddly enough, the red-faced Tearle thought that one of the men in the car, a little, wizened, dark-eyed fellow, winked at him solemnly; but, of course, the notion must have been an optical delusion in more senses than one, as he had never seen the man before that morning.

Now this scrap of conversation, the like of which might be heard any day in an important railway station, was singularly illuminative to those who could fill in blanks and supply missing names. Of course, the detectives could only guess who the "stupid valet" was, and why Tearle should label him as a sure enough John Bull; but Stenigall had in his pocket a letter from a trustworthy correspondent in the Adirondacks, in which the affray with Joe Brett was fully described, while there were no lacking horsemanship and want of skill as a motorist.

It was a moment of real triumph for Clancy when this official document spoke of "the smashing right-hand blow" that had blackened his eyes. The words supplied one of those slender threads of testimony which, entwined with others of the same consistency, might form a rope stout enough to hang a man, or keep him in jail for twenty years.

The most singular feature of the Waverston case, to Clancy's mind, was the ease with which Charles Scott had persuaded everybody, even a wife and a valet, that he was Claude Waverston. The detective had been conscious from the outset that the divorced man's remarkable change of manners and habits invited inquiry, and one day, in a dimly light, he observed when he stood with the valet on that curve of the coast road near Palm Beach, had shown him the solution of the puzzle. It did not explain reasons of course. The motives that inspired a man like Scott, a man who had voluntarily exiled himself from his native land, to change places with a fashionable rounder of the Curly Waverston, was hidden at present. Apparently no wicked thing could have been done. Such a substitution courted failure, prompt detection and condemnation. Yet it had been almost completely successful. That was a fantastic element in the antecedents of Mrs. Delamar and the cause of Kyle's death. Sometimes a scientist, searching for a new element in his field, blunders upon a more amazing and wholly unforeseen development, and even detective bureaus are favored in this way occasionally. When Clancy gave rein to his imagination in following up a grain of thought, his eyes grew introspective, and his nose blue face mirrored each phase of his mental flights. Now he sat facing Stenigall, and the detective's face was a study. He was tucked under the revolving chair; so, being short, his shoulders were nearly level with the top of the seat. His thin, nervous hand clutched a knee, and his eyes, to all outward semblance, were fixed on the newspaper he was reading. A package of papers, a square of paper, a paper package lodged securely in a corner of the luggage rack above Stenigall's head.

It looked so peculiar that the gold-fingered eye man with a good deal of quiet curiosity, and a little suspicion, turned his head to look at him. He was a searching glance before he settled down to read a newspaper.

"Stenigall, detective for want of a cigar, resolved to arouse his colleague from this day-dreaming."

"I meant to ask earlier, but something prevented me," he said, leaning forward and smiling at the disconcerted expression that crossed Clancy's face when suddenly recalled to a sense of his surroundings. "What is in that parcel? It has a look of mystery. Have you discovered some long-lost relatives in New Jersey, and are you bringing them back?"

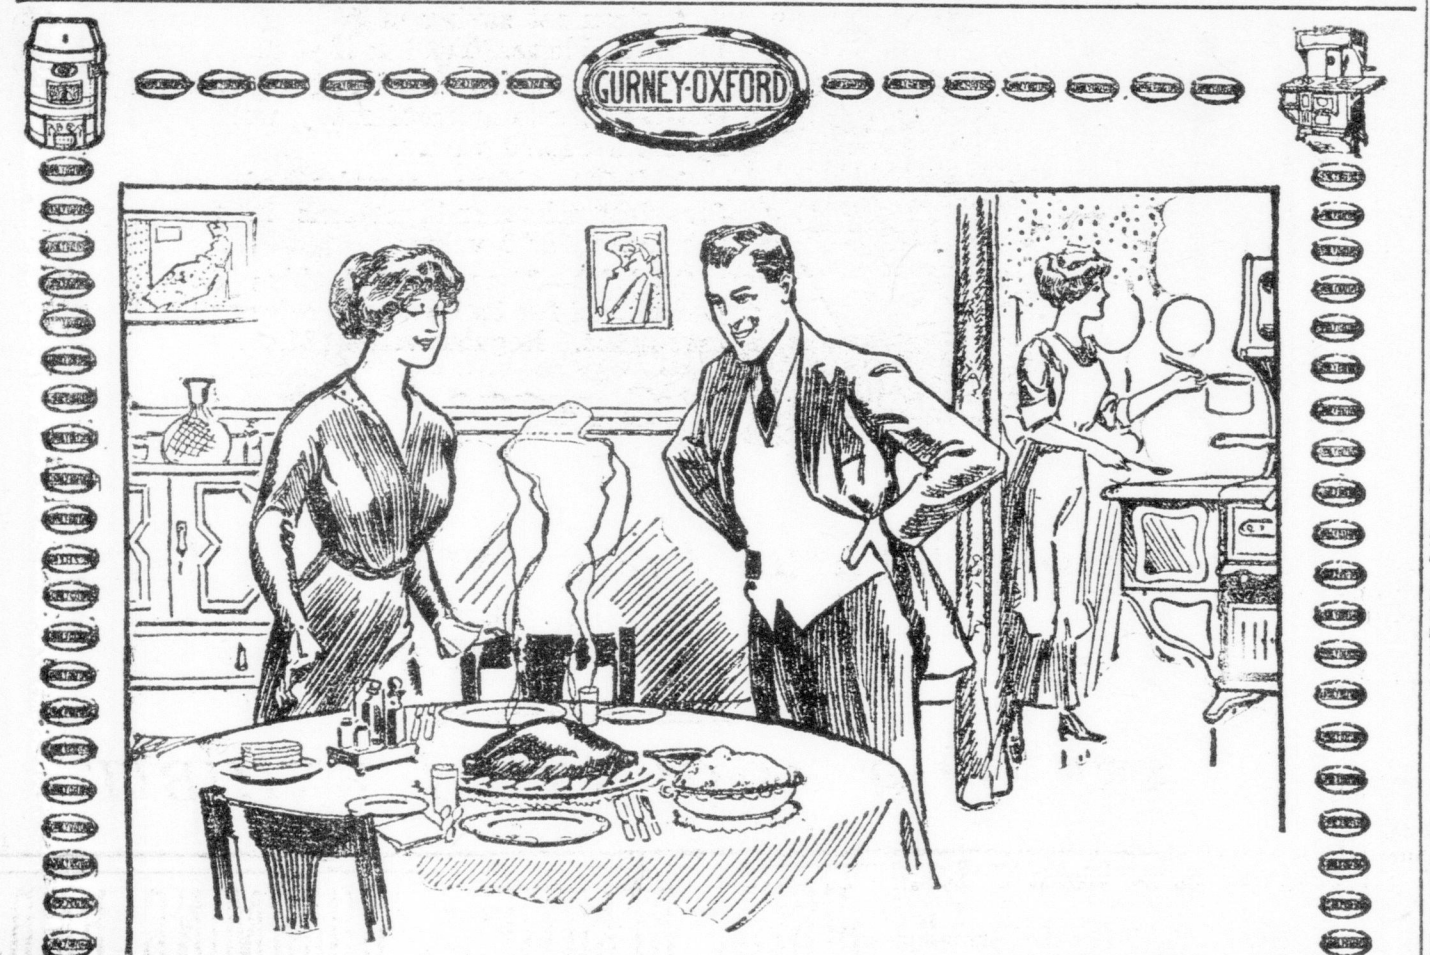

"Can't you guess—and you a noted detective?" snapped Clancy.

At that word "detective," a quiver ran noticeably through the two women, and even a man higher up the car craned his neck to see what the detective was up to. He effectively to attach the wires of a galvanic battery to all of them, and then completed the circuit, he could not have given them a more pronounced shock. Stenigall was furiously angry at that regarding the detective's conduct. "Humor! You ask a question of fact, and I counter by the simple statement that the chief of the New York detective bureau should be able to answer it. The instant it occurred to him, is that low-comic?"

"It borders on French farce," retorted Stenigall, redoubling with anger, but by no manner of means could he bring himself to condone his friend's folly in thus making known the identity of the detective whom they had scrupulously avoided since the inquiry opened.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

Gurney - Oxford Baking Worthy of the Art of a Chef

The average woman abhors having to spend all her time in the kitchen striving to accomplish some new dish in baking. But when she can have a range like the Gurney-Oxford, cooking becomes a pleasure and a fascination because of its consistent assured success.

The heat of the whole range is controlled by one lever, called the Economizer, with remarkable ease and effect.

The oven is entirely surrounded by a perfectly even heat of any degree required for any kind of baking. Pans of biscuits, light rolls, or cakes, all cook evenly with a delicate, golden brown crust without having to be constantly changed around next the heat as in other ranges.

This perfect Gurney-Oxford oven encourages a woman to attempt delicious and unusual recipes of her own invention. Her reputation for being a "splendid cook" is at once established.

The Gurney-Oxford Economizer regulates the exact degree of heat which is directed through the oven by a Divided Flue Strip with perfect evenness in every corner. The fire is held low on a Special Reversible Grate which burns every coal to a white ash. The castings are smooth, and the nickle trimming can be lifted off to be polished. The Warming Closet is big enough and strong enough to hold a whole dinner service.

This Gurney-Oxford is the range for women of to-day.

CONGREGATIONAL HOLDS SACRAMENTAL SUNDAY

Yesterday Marked by Special Service at Colborne Street Methodist Church.

Sacramental Sunday was observed in the Colborne Street Methodist Church yesterday and was marked by the occupancy of the pulpit of Rev. David Rogers, pastor of Central Methodist St. Thomas, and of St. Thomas district, and by special music at both services.

Taking his text from the 24th verse of the 32nd chapter of the Book of Genesis: "And Jacob was left alone, etc.," the speaker told of Jacob's trip after leaving home in flight from the wrath of his brother, and graphically compared the flight of Jacob and his actions with the things of everyday life.

Jacob's Prayer.
"Previous to Jacob's flight, he offered up a fervent prayer, asking the Lord to deliver him from the hand of Esau," said the speaker. "To that prayer there was no answer. He then took all precaution, and dividing his following into two sections, and sent each on different ways, so that if one party were attacked the other would have an opportunity of escaping. At that time he was not on speaking terms with God because he had asked for deliverance and not for pardon for his sins. While on his way he thought of this saying himself: 'You must ask for pardon before you can expect peace with Esau.' It is the same way with us, dear brethren. We cannot expect to receive anything from God unless we become on speaking terms with him by asking him for pardon, when he will be more likely to listen to any supplication of ours. God sometimes reproves us with discipline and then rewards us with surprises. A man seeking some kind of service in the church, and God whispers to him that there is a little service he might perform. The man finds it difficult at first, but gets his reward later by finding something great in the little service he is doing. From that we learn that we should not despise anything because it may seem small; because it may be angelic. Do we often feel that our prayers are mockeries on account of the iniquities about us, but I think no one can read the story of Jacob without feeling the availability of prayer in importuning God.

David's Conversion.
Jacob's conversion to God did not occur when he reached Bethel. It was there that he was melted, but his conversion was symbolized when his name was changed to Israel because he had prevailed. Up to that night we cannot respect Jacob so much, but after the change in his name he was a new man. His whole standing before God was changed. He was no longer an alien, but a son at home.

WAS A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC
Now Finds It a Pleasure to Enjoy Meals

Here is a case which seemed as bad and as hopeless as yours can possibly be. This is the experience of Mr. H. J. Brown, 384 Bathurst St., Toronto, in his own words:

"Gentlemen—I have much pleasure in mentioning to you the benefits received from your Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets and can cheerfully recommend them. I simply had confirmed dyspepsia with all its wretched symptoms, and tried about all the advertised cures with no success. You have in Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets the best curative agent I could find. It is now such a pleasure to enjoy meals with their consequent nourishment that I want to mention this for the benefit of others."

The fact that a lot of prescriptions or so-called "cures" have failed to help you is no sign that you have got to go on suffering. Try Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets and see how quickly this sterling remedy will give you relief and start your stomach working properly. If it doesn't help you, you get your money back. So a box at your druggist's. Compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal.

SUNDAY SCHOOL FOR THE ENTIRE WORLD

Outstanding Feature of Great Convention Recently Held at Zurich.

"The outstanding feature of the convention was the foreign mission work," said Mr. T. Baty, in speaking on the "world's great Sunday school convention at Zurich," in Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. "Sunday schools for the world was the aim they had in view, and for the first or second time in the history of the convention a collection was taken up to appoint secretaries for foreign countries. $110,000 was collected in thirty minutes."

A Large Convention.
Mr. Baty, who in company with his wife was present at the convention, held in London, Eng., this summer, had a great many other interesting features to present. The convention was a large one, about 2,300 persons being present, of whom 1,400 came from North America, two hundred of that number coming from Canada. Seventy nationalities were represented. "We found that the name of Jesus was powerful among all," said Mr. Baty.

Mr. Baty gave an interesting account of the tour preceding the convention, in which he visited many European countries. He paid a glowing tribute to the deeply religious character of the Scotch. "You cannot grasp a Scotchman by the hand and look in his face, without feeling that underlying all his character is the consciousness that he is connected with those who suffered for conscience sake."

Commends Swiss.
The people of Holland and Switzerland he also found most interesting. He commended highly the form of government enjoyed by the Swiss, whereby every impending measure had to be submitted to the people. The convention itself was most inspiring. "Some of the best men in the world were there," said Mr. Baty. He particularly admired Rev. Dr. F. B. Meyer, who conducted the devotional exercises each morning. He was the most powerful man at the convention, in his opinion.

"The most doleful note of the convention was in connection with the reports from Mohammedan countries," he continued. "One of the speakers stated that for a Mohammedan to accept Christianity, was for a proud man to accept from one he despised, a religion that he hated." Admitting this to be true, several speakers following had more optimistic views. They pointed to the fact that the Mohammedan power in the world had been broken, and the religion itself will soon follow.

Next year's convention will be held in Tokyo, Japan, on the invitation of two Japanese delegates who were present.

TROPHIES OF CHRIST
DIFFERENT FROM OTHERS

Lessons From Story of Savior's Triumphant Entry Into Jerusalem.

Rev. Mr. Stuart, preaching Sunday morning in Knox Presbyterian Church on Christ's triumphant entry into Jerusalem, took for his text Mark, ii, 9. "Hitherto," said Mr. Stuart, "Christ had kept in modest retirement. Now he courts publicity and for a noble purpose."

"The change in his attitude is caused by his desire to present himself to the Jews for acceptance and to have them receive him as their king."

"The claim which he made was a stupendous one," said the pastor. "Yet he had all of the characteristics worthy of a king. It was fitting that before he made his exit from earth that he should show something of his glory."

The pastor then gave a vivid description of the triumphant scene. The waving of palms and branches, the strewing of flowers and garments in his path, the shouts of acclamation, all were manifestations of the astir throng's high esteem.

The preacher exemplified this wonderful procession of triumph by describing the relief of Ladysmith. How, when the news of the relief party's success reached this city, the whistles and bells had burst forth, together with the unanimous voice of the populace, in a grand demonstration. The old Romans, too, when celebrating their victories over a conquered people, carried peace trophies, which they conspicuously exhibited in their parades. When Caracac was brought from his island home a captive to the Roman power, he was exhibited publicly in a prominent place, where the multitudes could mock him.

"The trophies of Christ are infinitely different from these," the pastor declared. "His trophies are the blind, the deaf, the dumb, and the sick, whose powers have been restored by his gracious love."

Bishop Fallon
Back From Rome

Will Have a Message For Catholics At Cathedral Next Sunday.

His Lordship Bishop Fallon returned to London Saturday afternoon from New York, where he spent several days after arriving from Rome. At the Eternal City, with a number of priests and laymen, he had an interview with Pope Pius.

Questioned as to his trip, and if anything affecting the church in London would come of it, his lordship refused to make any statement. "I have a message to give to my people which will be given tomorrow," said he. "Until then I fear that I cannot say anything."

He was also asked about the sale of the Sacred Heart Convent, property to the Sisters of St. Joseph, but said that at present he could say nothing about that either.

Perfect Satisfaction in Buying a Heintzman & Co. Ye Olde Firme Player-Piano

The building of the Heintzman & Co. Player-Piano is an interesting piece of Piano history. Makers of the world's best Piano, we could not afford to put a Player-Piano on the market bearing our name until we had brought the work of construction in the Player-Piano up to the same point of acknowledged and unrivaled excellence as is accorded the Heintzman & Co. Piano.

So we worked diligently through the years on this Player-Piano until we could say that it was the best. And in our new model for 1914 we have further improved on the excellencies of 1913.

The Heintzman & Co. Player-Piano cannot be considered along with any other Player-Piano. It is a new and distinct creation, built along lines that are common to no other instrument.

The most outstanding feature of this Player-Piano is the aluminum action. By this means this instrument will withstand different climatic changes in a way that is not possible with the ordinary wood action. The swelling and shrinking of wood which takes place with climatic changes opens up minute passages, through which the air escapes, and if leakage of air takes place then the action immediately deteriorates.

Not only is the primary valve casing cast in one solid piece of aluminum, which ensures its being absolutely air-tight, but the secondary valve casing and chamber which conducts the air stream from the power pneumatic is also cast in one piece of aluminum.

Let it be known that the controlling of the air is the great consideration in all pneumatic Player-Pianos.

There are altogether some twenty interesting and distinctive features about this Player-Piano—all combining to make it the perfect instrument it is.

We place our unqualified warranty upon this Player-Piano, for we know it is more than a sweet-sounding instrument. It is good all through.

LET US HAVE THE PLEASURE OF DEMONSTRATING THIS TO YOU AT

SEVEN CARLOADS OF PEACHES MARKED HERE ON SATURDAY

One hundred and fifty tons of peaches, representing about 10,000 baskets, or seven carloads, found buyers in London Saturday. The amount might have been even greater, had it not been for a scarcity of baskets in the Grimsby district, from which point most of the fruit was shipped. It was the biggest "peach day" of the year, and local fruit men state that in spite of the large supply, they were all cleaned out by Saturday night. Prices ranged at from 25 to 60 cents a basket, the prevailing figure being 35 to 40 cents, commanded the best on the market.

Preparations are being made for another tremendous shipment on Saturday next. "The Saturday of Fair week is always a great day for peaches," said one dealer, "and it is probable that a still greater quantity will be marketed that day."

Fruit is so plentiful as to be almost a drug on the market. They were sold for 15 cents a basket Saturday, and even at that, large quantities remained unsold. This fact combined with the "basket famine" will mean that tons of them will never be shipped from the district in which they were grown.

AROUND THE CITY HALL

Want Report Discussed. While nothing but a formal meeting of the council for this evening is in prospect, it is expected that a request will be made for the submission of the Ward report on electrification of the London and Port Stanley Railway, to a committee of the council as a whole. The entire and the question is to be taken up by the council as a whole rather than by the finance committee first, as was originally intended.

Painting Is In Progress. Exterior painting of the section of the new city hall occupied by the water commission, has already been started. When the exterior of the city hall will be started is problematical. Meantime the various store fronts of the Spencer Block present a variegated color scheme—black, red and green predominating. A little yellow is thrown in for good measure.

Dagger Has Been Found. City Treasurer James S. Bell has found his trusty dagger. All is now serene in the treasury department since the long-protecing dagger has been returned to its former spot of honor, beside the treasurer's wiglet.

City Hall Committee Meets. There will be a meeting of the city hall committee of the council at 4:30 this evening. Reports received by the committee on minor alterations to the new city hall premises are the only questions scheduled to come before the aldermen.

Meat Inspection To Come Up. Meat inspection will again be brought up at the monthly meeting of the board of health Tuesday afternoon. The question was sent on to the council by the board some time ago. Other than to refer it to the fire, water and light committee, no action has been taken by the council. The committee decided to have a conference with the board to say the least, before the matter is brought up.

Building Still Good. Building prospects for September still continue excellent. Over $30,000 permits have been issued in the eight days of the month from Building Inspector A. M. Piper's office.

There will be well over $100,000 before the month ends. The fair grounds buildings—$22,000—and the $22,000 Eaton Street Baptist Church will help swell this total.

Some of the newest permits are: John Hobbs, story and a half brick veneer dwelling, Oxford street, West London, $1,500.

P. B. Richards, cement block foundation to dwelling on Wharncliffe road, $290.

James Chivas, story and a half brick veneer dwelling on Edward street, $1,500.

G. Taylor, story and a half brick veneer dwelling on Piccadilly street, $1,500.

Frank Main, story and a half brick veneer dwelling on Egerton street, $1,400.

Miss Stewart, one-story frame kitchen on Wolsey street, $520.

John Roberts, two-story brick veneer dwelling on Windsor avenue, $2,000.

men a minute and a quarter, but he broke the Canadian record, which he set himself at Hamilton some weeks ago. The time was 14:41, fourteen seconds better than the existing record. Kolehmainen finished fifth. The Finn ran the first mile in 4:45 and two miles in 9:46. His style is most peculiar. He strides like a sprinter and fairly "eats up" distance.

One of the best finishes of the day was in the 3,000-yards race in which Act Jamieson, the Indian runner from Woodstock, won the mile novice in 4:40, which is most faster than the novices usually go.

British Scientists To Discuss Ether

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 8.—From Sept. 10 to Sept. 17 the annual meetings of British Association will be held here. Hundreds prominent in various branches of science and others whose work is in the field of sociology will gather to listen to the reading of papers and to engage in discussions. These gatherings of the British Association have come to be regarded as distinct milestones for the scientific world of the United Kingdom, and on this occasion, as usual, new theories are expected to be advanced and new science discovered.

Last year Professor Sir Edward Albert Schaeffer presided over the association and launched certain suggestions regarding the origin of life that excited much controversy. Sir Oliver Lodge will take "ether" for the subject of his address, and will consider some theories of the structure and matter of the universe.

Ether has failed to respond to the subtlest efforts made to detect its objective existence, and a new school led by Professor A. Einstein, of the Uni-

University of Zurich, and Professor Max Planck, rector of the Berlin University, have come forward to frame a model of the universe without ether, known as the theory of relativity. Part of Sir Oliver Lodge's address will be a protest against this. He is expected to argue that the philosophical grounds against the assumption that what is not palpable is non-existent. One of the principal discussions will be on the cost of living.

Fire Throws 300 Men Out of Work

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Sept. 7.—Three hundred men are thrown out of work as the result of a fire in the timber mill of the J. R. Booth Industries here today at noon. Damage to the extent of $100,000 was caused by the blaze, the origin of which is a mystery. The mill destroyed was only rebuilt three years ago, new machinery being installed at the time. Splendid work by the firemen prevented the flames spreading to the other buildings owned by the same firm.

A Weak Heart

"An interesting British report suggests that science has prolonged the lives of very young city folks, but not of the middle-aged. A series of tables compiled from reports of the Registrar-General and covering seventy years shows that for males between five and ten years of age the death rate has declined sixty-four per cent, while for those between forty-five and fifty-five years of age it has declined only three per cent—and for the next decade there is an actual increase of mortality. For both men and women between the ages of forty-five and sixty-five there is no decrease in the death rate. Doctor Newsholme finds that for both men and women in this period of middle life diseases of the heart and blood-vessels were registered as the causes of about one-third of the total deaths.

"Apparently, then, for those who reach middle life in fairly good physical condition the heart is the chief source of danger. Fortunately, everybody knows that excessive use of intoxicants and tobacco and coffee weaken the heart.

"At this season, when New Year's vows are falling like leaves of autumn, we abstain from urging anybody to stop drinking or smoking or overindulgence in coffee. Go ahead—if you think your heart will stand it!"

TWO RECORDS EQUALLED; ONE LOWERED AT TORONTO

Jimmy Dellow Won Fifteen-Mile Marathon—Kolehmainen Set New Canadian Three-Mile Mark.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—Ted Meredith, of Philadelphia, an Olympic champion, equalled the world's record for the 440 on a cinder track, and Don Lippincott, the Olympic sprinter, also of Philadelphia, equalled the best man in the hundred, as the exhibition grounds Saturday.

Meredith stepped in 9:15, and Lippincott in 9:12. Needless to say the track and weather conditions were perfect.

Jimmy Dellow, the St. Marys, Ont., long-distance runner, who has won many good races this season, took the five-mile hand at an early stage of the 15-mile run and finished about 400 yards in front of Myer, of the Vermont Athletic Club, of Toronto, with Luas, of Lorain, Ohio, third. Dellow's time was 1:29:31.

Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish marv was one of the favorites of the afternoon. He didn't win the three-mile handicap, in which he conceded the limit to a minute and a quarter, but he broke the Canadian record, which he set himself at Hamilton some weeks ago. The time was 14:41, fourteen seconds better than the existing record. Kolehmainen finished fifth. The Finn ran the first mile in 4:45 and two miles in 9:46. His style is most peculiar. He strides like a sprinter and fairly "eats up" distance.

Dust Without Dust, With 3-in-One oil

Don't scatter dust and germs all over your home or office with an unsanitary feather duster or common dusting rag. Always dust with 3-in-One oil this way: Moisten cheese cloth with a little of the oil. Then just wipe off your piano, chair, parlor table, mantel-piece—any veneered surface. Every atom of dust will stick to the cloth. Not one speck can fly around to settle somewhere else.

Make Your Own Dustless Dusting Cloth for 5c.

This is the way: Take about two-thirds of a yard of cheese cloth. Sprinkle it with 3-in-One oil. Then let it stand until the oil has permeated every part. Then you have a real Dusting Cloth for 5c.

Just Like Velvet

to the Skin

So smooth and creamy is our Hazel-Rose that it feels just like velvet to the skin. One application does not leave the skin greasy or with any other disagreeable sensation. It prevents the dust from entering the pores and shields the skin from the rays of the burning sun. Take it with you on your vacation, keep it in the home.

Superior Cooked Ham

The words "Cooked Ham" do not suggest that our ham is any different from other ham. Yet our Cooked Ham has a superior flavor which makes it far more satisfying and pleasing to the taste.
