FLEE WITH LIQUOR AS GUNS "SCARE" LAW

To Fight Gas Bills If Boost Isn't Retroactive

CITIZENS STATE OLD RATE NOW IN OPERATION

Declare 90-Cent Charge Became Effective When Agreement Expired May 8.

WILL NOT DISCUSS ACTION

Company Officials Await Return of Solicitor From Legislature.

Despite the fact that the City Gas Company succeeded in obtaining the sanction of the Ontario Legislature for a continuance of the $1.25 per thousand cubic feet rate early Friday morning, consumers in London will not receive their bills until next week.

Cause for the delay in billing consumers is attributed to the fact that until authority to charge $1.25 per thousand feet becomes law the company is only allowed to charge 90 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The franchise agreement permitting a charge of $1.25 expired May 8, after which date the price automatically was reduced to 90 cents, pending the action of the legislature.

Withhold Bills.

Rather than send out bills at the 90-cent rate, and thereby forfeit a possible 35 cents on every thousand feet consumed, the company early this week decided to withhold the bills, which have been made out at the rate of $1.25 per thousand feet, to be sent out when legislative sanction for this rate had been received.

Although the legislature gave a third reading to the bill for continuance of the $1.25 rate early Friday morning, the bill does not become law until signed by the lieutenant-governor.

Unless the bill permitting the company to charge the $1.25 rate is made retroactive to May 8, many Londoners assert that they will pay only 90 cents per thousand feet for gas used from May 8 until the bill is signed by the lieutenant-governor or such other time as the high rate is specified to take effect.

One such citizen is Ald. A. M. Judd, who states that he will only pay at the high rate over the period specified by the Legislature.

"They may take out my meter," he said Friday. "And I only hope they do. Then there will be some fun, because I know I am right according to law. I would not mind them having increased rates if they would refund the $65,000 which they took from the people on "readiness - to - serve" charges. They could pay it back by reductions on bills or any way that they liked, provided that they paid it back."

Refuse to Discuss Action.

Officials of the City Gas Company refuse to discuss their action in withholding the bills to consumers, declaring that Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon, who is the company's solicitor, is the only person authorized to make any statements for publication.

Magistrate Graydon has not yet returned from Toronto, where he has been acting in the interests of the City Gas Company before the legislative assembly.

However, an Advertiser reporter asked a member of the staff at the City Gas Company headquarters Friday noon if bills to consumers were being sent out.

"No," replied the employee. "We are not sending them out until the first of next week."

By that time it is expected the bill granting continuance of the $1.25 rate will have been signed by the lieutenant-governor, who usually performs such tasks over the week-end.

FEARS SPLIT IN EMPIRE IS NEAR IN IRISH CRISIS

British Member of Parliament Declares Future of Isle Was Never So Dark.

WILL SPEAK IN LONDON

Claims Many Loyalist Families Will Seek Haven in Canada.

That the future of Ireland was never in that country's history more dark than at present, and that unless Sein Fein "settles down to civilization, the country will go bankrupt and split the British empire," was the declaration of Hon. William Coote, D.L., M.P., of Tyrone, Ireland, in an exclusive interview with The Advertiser Friday afternoon.

Mr. Coote, who will address a meeting in the Masonic Temple Friday night, is a member of the British House of Commons, and also a member of the Ulster Parliament.

"I am here to explain the position of Ulster in these terrible times through which Ireland is passing," said Mr. Coote. "I will also explain the provocative attacks of the Sein Fein party on the liberties of Ulster, and the treatment meted out to the Loyalists in the south of Ireland.

"I am going to explain the position of these Loyalists as we find them now that the constabulary is removed from Southern Ireland.

Studies Conditions.

"I am also studying the conditions under which the people of Canada live, because many loyalist families who are being driven out of their homes would like to locate in some part of Canada.

"If the Sinn Fein would confine its efforts to the 26 counties that it has, all fiell and good. But they cannot function their own parliament, and are trying to ruin the country and split the empire.

"The future of Ireland cannot look darker than it is now. If the Sinn Fein go on murdering and plundering, and do not settle down to civilized life, Ireland will become bankrupt."

Concluding, Mr. Coote declared that interference of the Sinn Fein with the South of Ireland is the prime cause of all the trouble in his native land.

"GET AWAY" DAY AT QUEEN'S PARK

Entering upon the 80th day of the present session, the Ontario Legislature this morning bent its efforts toward insuring a winding up of the session's business tonight, or sometime before sunrise tomorrow.

A bulky order paper still lay before the house. Twenty-one bills now await third reading, six others must receive second reading, and yet be dealt with in committee of the whole. Sixteen notices of motion remain also to be dealt with.

"They are asked to appear at 10 o'clock on the date set, and if they do not do so they will be arrested and brought here," declared the chief.

Declares Honest Christian Businessmen Can Help Eastern Country.

"The salvation of China lies in the hands of the four-power pact at the Washington conference, which includes Japan, France, United States and Great Britain. China does not need any more exploitation; she does not need any underhand loans which have been made to her in the past, but she does need the conscientious advance of civilization such as the honest business Christian men of the western countries can give her," said Dr. Wallace Crawford, who has returned from more than eight years missionary work in China, to the members of the Kiwanis Club Friday noon, while discussing the Chinese question.

Dr. Crawford gave a brief history of China and explained how western civilization has played a prominent part in the molding of the future of China for the past two hundred years.

The Chinese, he said, wore silks and satins, had costly pottery and scrolls, beautiful homes and educational systems, while our ancestors

And So Little George Fox Quickly Began a Day of Pleasure Unalloyed With His 1,100 Companions at Separate School Picnic at Springbank, Which Happy Kiddies Claim Was All Too Short.

BY OLIVIA HOGG.

TIRED and bedraggled and dirty, the tiny pennies of weeks of thrift vanished, only the radiant buoyancy of spirit, which came as a result of a day of unalloyed pleasure, saved the eleven hundred children of the Roman Catholic separate schools in the city, who returned Thursday night from their annual picnic at Springbank, from being but a sorry contrast to the group who set out, shining with cleanliness, for that same picnic, Thursday morning.

It had been the day of all days, when examinations so perilously near, became a thing of the distant and intangible future, and for the kiddies there wasn't a care in the world, a day much too short, even if it lasted from nine in the morning to nine at night and was crammed with excitement from beginning to end.

There were games and races and the gaiety of the amusement park and the thrilling pleasure of merry-go-round and ferris wheel, and all the time there was just a touch of suspense as they watched the trees, with the leaves blowing in the wind, and showing the whiteness underneath, indicating that there was rain in the vicinity, even if it were a nice friendly rain, which sent its clouds about to shield the youngsters from some of the sun's heat, but kept its moisture until the picnic was safely over.

Not a youngster at Springbank but thought that ten months at school was worth this one hilarious day of pleasure, when care was cast to the winds and joy reigned supreme.

They watched the ball games all morning. At noon they ate as many of the good things as they could possibly tuck away, and then in the afternoon there were the exciting sports.

Of course, there were little mishaps, youngsters losing their tickets and losing their mothers and losing their lunches and losing themselves and their money, in fact, losing everything that was loose but, it

AITKEN CLOSES NO. 4 FIRE HALL

In compliance with orders issued by the city council in session Monday night, No. 4 fire station was closed Friday afternoon by Fire Chief Aitken.

"I will close the station as soon as the rain stops," said Chief Aitken early Friday afternoon. The closing order is following a policy of retrenchment adopted by the city council, six men being taken off the department in the interests of economy.

North London will now be protected by motor trucks stationed at other halls, which can proceed to that district and get to work just as quickly as the horse-drawn apparatus, which has been stationed at No. 4 hall.

DEMAND RULING ON BANDIT AUTO

Counsel For Edward McMullen To Ask Civil Courts to Settle Ownership.

Prisoner Insists Oldsmobile Was Bought From Reputable Toronto Firm.

Denying strenuously that the machine is stolen property as claimed by the provincial police, Edward A. McMullen, one of the four alleged Wyoming bank bandits now in the Lambton County jail, will move through his counsel, A. M. Judd and John M. McEvoy, K. C., in the weekly high court Saturday morning, for a distinct ruling in the question of the Oldsmobile touring car bearing license number 69-601, in which he was riding when arrested, and which he still claims as his property.

The defence will ask the court to give directions that will facilitate the issue being transferred to the civil courts to be threshed out, claiming that it is not a matter within the jurisdiction of the criminal courts.

Counsel for McMullen claim further that when the time arrives the defence will be able to produce in court a legitimate bill of sale for this

FIVE MEMBERS OF WATERLOO GANG ARRESTED

Officers Lose 193 When Prisoners' Friends Come to Rescue.

Kitchener, June 9.—One of the most sensational skirmishes that has ever occurred between officers of the law and alleged rum-runners in the county took place early this morning at David Such's farmhouse, immediately west of Waterloo.

The amazing and daring part of the whole episode was the sensational comeback of members of the gang to hold up two officers of the law at the muzzle of revolvers, and take away the greater portion of the liquor right under the officers' noses.

Firing was indulged in by the rum-runners, and Provincial Officer Watson was clubbed by the gang, it is alleged.

Five of the alleged rum-runners were rounded up by the officers and taken to the Kitchener jail, where they spent the remainder of the night.

This morning, the five men, D. L. Coplon, 617 Filisiere street, Windsor; Abe Krauss, 29 East King street, Kitchener; Dave Ross, 312 Oxford street, London; L. Raymond O'Lemick, East King street, Kitchener, and Alfred Such, of the township of Waterloo, were in court here charged with having liquor in other than a private dwelling.

None of the quintet pleaded, but they retained P. J. Haverson from Toronto to defend them. They were all remanded, bail of $1,000 each being demanded by the magistrate. This is being arranged for by friends of the accused.

The cases were adjourned until next Thursday morning, and the police expect by then to have more men in their net for the magistrate's disposal.

So many persons wanted to gain admittance to court this morning that the court door had finally to be closed.

License and provincial police officials are not talkative about the raid, but so far as could be learned the following are the main features of the cases:

Officers Gardiner and Watson of the provincial police, in company with License Inspector Sinkann and Inland Revenue Officer Feick, visited the Such farm and found a vast quantity of liquor in storage there.

They raided the place and placed the five men who appeared in court today under arrest, but one of the men in the barn got away.

Evidently the fugitive aroused friends of the men arrested or the owners of the whiskey, for while the officers were transporting their prisoners and a part of the liquor to the Kitchener jail, he came back, accompanied by several other men, and, producing a revolver, covered the remaining officers.

Then the gang got busy and loaded the remaining 193 cases of liquor on trucks and disappeared.

The local officers got 79 of the 272 cases, and these are now in the city hall here.

ASK REMAND IN DIBSDALE CASE

Counsel for Defence Absent When Prisoner Arraigned in Court.

Preliminary Hearing On Murder Charge Is Set For Tuesday.

Looking quite fresh after the long hot session of the corener's inquest in police court Thursday night, Gordon Dibsdale, charged with the murder of Christina Near, at 5:30 o'clock on the afternoon of May 30, appeared in police court Friday morning, but was not asked to answer to the charge as his counsel, W. R. Meredith, was not present.

He was remanded to jail till Tuesday when the preliminary hearing will take place in police court.

Dibsdale seemed more or less indifferent as to what was going on in the court, but when Acting Crown Attorney A. R. Douglas spoke his name there was an instant change in his demeanor and he listened intently to the conversation between Mr. Douglas and Deputy Police Magistrate P. H. Bartlett.

When his case was called, Dibsdale sprang to his feet in the prisoner's box with his injured right arm held across his breast inside his coat. An instant later he placed his hand on the edge of the rail and did not move it until he was led away to the cells.

Clad In Blue Suit.

Clad in a blue suit and a clean white shirt with soft collar, but minus a tie, Dibsdale looked anything but a criminal as he stood quietly waiting for the machinery of the law to move. His general appearance showed that he had had a good night's sleep at the county jail and appeared quite ready for anything that might happen.

"I was going to ask for a remand till Tuesday," stated Mr. Douglas, when the case was called. "Mr. Meredith is not here. I spoke to him about it last night and the remand was satisfactory to him."

"You don't want the charge read to him then?" inquired Mr. Bartlett.

"I don't think he is prepared," replied Mr. Douglas.

"Gordon Dibsdale, I have just been told by the crown counsel that your counsel is not here this morning, and on your behalf he asks a remand in your case till Tuesday next," stated Mr. Bartlett, addressing the prisoner. "On account of that fact I will not ask you to plead this morning."

Whispers Answer.

"All right," whispered Dibsdale, in a voice that could hardly be heard. He inclined his head in the direction of the bench and had barely time to sit down before he was whisked from the dock to the cells below by two constables.

Dibsdale's father, mother and sister were in court, listening anxiously to the proceedings. The Dibsdales were the last to leave the crowded court-room, Miss Dibsdale and her father supporting Mrs. Dibsdale as they slowly made their way down the stairs.

Dibsdale shot and killed his 15-year-old sweetheart following a lover's quarrel near St. James and Adelaide streets. He then turned the shotgun on himself, but only sustained slight wounds.

He was removed to Victoria Hospital for treatment and later to the county jail.

REPORTS DECREASE OF CHILDREN IN WARD 3

ALTHOUGH officials of the board of education have pointed out that there has been a marked increase in public school attendance since the adolescent school attendance act was put in force, the report of Assessment Commissioner Stephen Grant for ward three shows a decrease in the number of children between the ages of 5 and 21 years, also between the ages of 5 and 16.

Aside from the adolescent school attendance act, those who have scanned the report are asking if ward three is being threatened by race suicide. In 1921 the assessors on their rounds recorded 3,357 people between the ages of 5 and 21 years. This year they only recorded 3,179, showing a decrease of 178.

The above figures are for ward three proper, which does not include the annexed district. However, in the latter section there is also a decrease in the number between the ages of 5 and 21 years but it is only to the extent of four residents.

In ward three proper there was a decrease of 112 children between the ages of 5 and 16 years, while in the annexed district there are six children less than in 1921 between these ages.

In ward three, including the annexed district, there are 4,478 young people between the ages of 5 and 21 years, according to the assessor's report.

Despite the decrease in the number of children for the ward, there is an increase in adults noted, showing that many of those listed last year as under 21 have safely attained their majority. The total increase in population of the ward during the year is 621.

In 1921 there were 710 adults who were assessed for statute labor tax, while this year 737 are recorded, showing an increase of 27. Last year 4,966 persons were entered to vote at elections to the legislative assembly, while in 1922 there was recorded 5,619, which shows a gain of 653 voters.

There are 1,852 children between the ages of 8 and 14 years in ward three, including the annexed district. In this ward, 1,703 children are listed as attending public school, as compared to 149 separate school pupils.

The figures compiled by the assessment department show that in 1921 there were 339 owners of dogs assessed for tax. This year 526 owners must pay for the privilege of possessing a canine in ward three, which shows a net increase of 187 in the dog population.

HOLD SEPARATE SCHOOL PICNIC

Games and Races Are Features of Wonderful Day of Excitement.

Eleven hundred happy kiddies of the Roman Catholic Separate Schools tumbled gleefully into the big Springbank cars early Thursday morning, their well-filled lunch boxes tucked under their arms, their faces shining with recent attacks of soap, and glowing with exuberance of spirit, their shoes clean and their bibs and tuckers crisply fresh and spotless.

And eleven hundred still happier kiddies tumbled back into the cars Thursday night, when darkness had put an end to their sports and they were forced to reluctantly realize that the school picnic was over, and that their pleasure must now be in remembrance of this year or anticipation of next.

Tired, But Happy.

Their money was gone, the savings of weeks, and the generous gifts of those who were now too old to participate in school picnics, but hadn't forgotten what an enormous demand they made for pocket money; they were sleepy and tired, and they were about as soiled and untidy as a group of respectable civilized children could possibly be, and yet what was all that compared to the glorious pleasure the day had afforded? And it is a safe guess that many touseled little heads lived the picnic over in dreams as they slept peacefully after all the excitement the day had brought.

The pleasure of the day commenced with the ride down in the cars, the first glimpses of the water lilies just coming into bloom at the Coves, the sights along the river bank, the rapturous exclamations over the flower beds as they entered the waterworks park, and the shouts of delight as the car passed by the Zoo and the children saw the deer and buffaloes.

Then at Springbank there was the scampering to rid themselves of lunchboxes, the buying of canes and whistles, and the sports commenced with the baseball games at 10 o'clock.

Dine in Groups.

At noon the kiddies of each school sat down in separate groups to tables laden with every sort of eatables which ever made their appearance at a picnic, and they regaled themselves in the highest glee, satisfied that if the end of the day were going to be as good as the beginning, it would be the most glorious day that ever dawned. And the end was as good as the beginning.

The rain kept off, there were no serious mishaps, the prizes for the races were enormously satisfactory, and there were plenty of them, and nothing occurred which in any way marred the day's complete happiness.

Under Harry Ranahan, chairman of the picnic board, the events of the day moved successfully and without trouble to a happy close, and Father Brisson engineered the sports in a manner which brought out the fullest enjoyment possible.

For that eminently indispensable part of the picnic, the lunch, too much credit cannot be given the Mothers' Clubs of the various schools. And in the awarding of honors, a large share should go to W. J. Clarke, who provided each kiddie of the orphan's home with a quarter to spend and a ticket for the merry-go-round and the ferris wheel.

Results of Races.

The results of the races were:

Girls under 6 years—Rita Neurna, St. John's School; Margaret Ashwell, St. Marys; Eileen Lashbrook, St. Martin's; Marie McIlhargy.

Throwing ball, girls—Kathleen McDowell, St. Mary's; Mary Coles, St. Angela's; Irene Holland, Sacred Heart.

Handicap Combatants.

In the boxing contest, which proved to be an exciting feature of the afternoon's sports, the combatants were handicapped by having green bags tied over their heads. The play was fast and furious, and provided much laughter for the spectators as the boys dealt furious blows on the air or bumped back to back in their efforts to find the other. The winners were: Andrew Gillies, G. Fowler, W. Fox, J. D'Arcy, Willie O'Brien and Gordon Pierre.

In the baseball games which occupied the before luncheon period of the picnic, the girls of St. Angela's defeated the girls of Sacred Heart by a score of 20 to 3. Sacred Heart defeated St. Mary's by the score of 27 to 8. The girls of Form I. of St. Angela's against the girls of Form II., won by a score of 13 to 7. Grade VI. boys of St. Peter's defeated Grade V., with a score of 21 to 10. The boys of the first year high school class of St. Peter's defeated a team picked from the rest of the school by the score of 14 to 7.

FIND BODY OF UNIDENTIFIED MAN IN ST. CLAIR RIVER

SARNIA, June 8.—The body of an unidentified man was found floating in the St. Clair River in South Port Huron this morning by the fishermen, and the police of Sarnia and Point Edward are endeavoring to fathom the mystery. It was at first thought that the body, which is badly decomposed, might be one of the two men who remained undiscovered after the ferry Omar D. Conger sank, but his idea was refuted by relatives of the two men.

It is considered possible though unlikely that there was another victim of the Conger disaster unknown at the time. The corpse was clothed in a blue vest, a woolen shirt with pocket, blue trousers, and strangest of all, a pair of long stockings. The description is a man of average height weighing 150 or 160 pounds, with front teeth missing. No traces of violence could be found on the body.

May Insist On All Bread Being Wrapped.

Special to London Advertiser.

KITCHENER, June 8. — The question of wrapping all bread delivered in Kitchener will come before the next meeting of the board of health, according to a statement made here today by Sanitary Inspector Rau. Mr. Rau stated the board has power to enact this regulation under the statutes and that inasmuch as the selling of unwrapped bread may prove a health menace the board will go thoroughly into the whole question at the next regular meeting. Information is now being gathered from other cities on the subject.

WARNS AGAINST WASTING WATER

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, June 8.—"The citizens must stop wasting water," so commended one of the waterworks officials this morning. Unless abuse of the water regulations re watering lawns is discontinued the commissioners are contemplating installing meters in every home, illustrating as authority for the contention that such a move would remedy the abuse by using statistics from Albany, N. Y., where the city was pumping 212 gallons per capita when by metering 98 per cent of the users they cut the quota to 32 gallons per capita. In Brantford less than 40 per cent of the users are metered, and the quota is between 80 and 84 gallons per capita, necessitating the city pumping two and three-quarter million gallons during the day. The city pumping apparatus is capable of providing between seven and eight million daily. It is pointed out, however, that it is necessary to always provide for contingencies.

The railway commissioners are rapidly perfecting preliminary arrangements for the operation of one-man cars in Brantford. Already two cars of the new type have been completed. A third will be ready, it is anticipated, by the beginning of next week, when a gradual introduction on all lines of the new system will be begun. As the car crews are qualified, both as conductors and motormen, no instruction is necessary.

JUDGE JUDD FACES SPEEDING CHARGE

Appears Before County Magistrate Hunt in Elgin Police Court.

ST. THOMAS, June 8.—Declaring that he did not think it right that a judge of his majesty's court should be summoned to appear as defendant in a police court without some consideration having been given to the case before laying the charge, Judge Judd of London was this morning advised when he appeared before County Magistrate Hunt on a charge of exceeding the speed limit on a county highway west of the city, that as far as the Elgin court was concerned, a man's position mattered nothing, everyone was treated alike, and even a judge of the supreme court could expect no favors.

After hearing a mass of evidence Magistrate Hunt, however, dismissed the charge, advising Judge Judd that it was always customary to give the "prisoner" the benefit of the doubt in such cases.

The only witness for the prosecution was Chief Constable John Hopkins, and he conducted the entire case. He said that in answer to a number of complaints from residents in the vicinity he had gone to the St. George street bridge, just north of the city, and waited on Sunday evening, May 28, for passing autoists. The judge's car, bearing license number 65-257, he said, covered the distance between the end of the bridge and the northerly limit of Davies street, a small intersection, in 15 seconds. This distance, when measured, was about 575 feet.

Son Defends Judge.

A. M. Judd of London, a son of the defendant, cross-examined witnesses, and during the examination revealed the fact that the constable had stepped out to cross the road and had passed in front of the defendant's car before he reached the intersection mentioned. In spite of a stiff cross-examination Constable Hopkins insisted that the judge's car was traveling at a speed exceeding the 12½-mile limit allowed on intersections.

Judge Judd, the next witness, said that he had been visiting his brother on the night in question. He had proceeded along St. George street to the bridge at a speed of about fifteen miles per hour, slowing up on the bridge to about ten miles. After crossing the bridge, witness, who was sitting next to the driver, ordered him to "step on the gas" in order to make the hill. His son, who was driving, did so, and just at that point the speedometer indicated between seventeen and eighteen miles per hour.

Constable Hopkins—"Let your son tell about stepping on the gas."

Resents Interruption.

Judge Judd—"Your worship, I wish you would make that man keep quiet while I am giving evidence."

Witness then stated that the constable stepped out in front of the automobile, and his son applied the brakes in order to avoid hitting him. The constable at this point again interrupted, and a warm debate passed between the two, ending with this statement from the judge: "If he had not applied the brakes there would have been no county constable here today to give evidence."

Witness then said that his son brought the car down to about twelve miles per hour or less, and in a distance of a few feet had to change gears to make the hill.

Constable Hopkins—"I know when you changed gears, and it wasn't there, either; I know all about what you did."

Judge Judd—"Yes, and I know what would be done with you if you were in Middlesex County."

RAP LAYING OF EMERY ST. CURB

Paving of Thoroughfare Will Mean Near Exposure of Water Main.

Terming it apparent "bonehead" enterprise upon somebody's part, members of the public utilities commission, in regular session Thursday afternoon, criticized the city engineer's department for laying a curb and gutter on Emery street in such a manner as will compel the commissioners to direct the construction of another main, at a probable cost of $2,000 or more.

The city council has ordered that this thoroughfare be paved and seemingly the level desired by the city engineer's department will mean the near exposure of the water main.

Continued For Years.

That circumstances of this nature have been succeeding each other for years past without any apparent move to counteract them is the contention of Commissioner Philip Pocock.

"The commission's money is the people's money," the latter declared, "even as that of the city engineer's department. I have always been anxious to avoid unnecessary expenditures, but this sort of thing has been going on for years."

"Well, it is not the fault of the board," commented Commissioner Fred Mitchell.

While it was suggested that the city engineer be presented with a copy of the plan of the city water mains, it was contended by other members of the commission that this had already been done.

Commissioner Jared Vining, chairman, questioned whether the public utilities department had not been partly to blame by reason of failure to seek information. Commissioner Pocock expressed a desire to know why the engineering department had not given the commission the requested gradings of the various roads to be paved.

Chairman Vining pointed out that this had been impossible up to the present time as that department had not been furnished with a topographical map of the city. The fault was not to be credited, he held, to either department, but to the system.

Commissioner Mitchell remarked that the construction of another water main involved quite an expenditure and Commissioner Pocock reiterated his stand that such undertakings as had occurred from time to time for years past should now be avoided.

The problem was left at the disposal of Acting Manager A. O. Hunt, who will interview City Engineer Brazier to ascertain what suggestions the latter may extend on the subject with a view toward the most feasible solution.

Purchased Deep Well Pump.

The commissioners approved of the proposed purchase of another deep well pump for use by the Ohio well diggers, now sinking the new well in the southeast section of the city. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $2,100.

While Commissioner Mitchell expressed the opinion that he would much rather see water flowing from the well before further debts were incurrd, Mr. Hunt assured the members that even should the East London undertaking prove a failure, the pump could be still utilized with great effect at the Beck wells.

Tenders for two transformers were considered and the contract awarded to the Canadian General Electric Company, at a cost of $10,480 for the entire equipment. This figure proved to be below the expected purchase price. The department is now using three transformers purchased from the same company, and the manager reported that they rendered every satisfaction.

The new apparatus is being obtained to handle the increased demand for electrical current by the London and Port Stanley Railway.

The commissioners adjourned for the summer holidays, and no meetings will be held until September 1 unless at a special call from the chairman.

A GARDEN FETE will be held on St. Andrew's Church grounds Friday night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid.

And over it softly her warm ear lays.

MEMBERS OF THE county council now fear that they will be compelled to extend their session well into next week. WATCH SLAYER TO PREVENT SUICIDE Jail Officials To Put Screen On Gordon Dibsdale's Cell.

Added precautions will be taken by the Middlesex county jail authorities to insure that all possibilities of an attempted suicide by Gordon Dibsdale, who shot and killed Christina Near May 31 last, will be reduced to an appreciable minimum.

Upon the request of Governor Byron Dawson, members of the jail committee and the county council have unofficially considered the advisability of placing suitable screens to the windows of cell No. 1, in which Dibsdale is now confined, and during another visit to the jail Friday morning the councillors approved of this suggestion, directing him to proceed immediately with the contemplated improvements.

A special recommendation and report will no doubt follow at one of the future meetings of the council before that body concludes its June session.

The jail authorities felt that while this matter was seemingly of a trivial nature it was a question of vast importance and worthy of prompt consideration. The danger is always prevalent, they pointed out to the councillors, that Dibsdale might, before the date of his trial, again endeavor to end his own life, and, they add further, that his general attitude since his apprehension there, has not been particularly reassuring.

In the meantime as close a watch as is possible under the circumstances is being maintained, and proposed added precautions will lessen the danger, they say.

EVANGELIST WILL VISIT CONFERENCE

Rev. W. E. Millson, district secretary of the department of social service and evangelism of the Methodist Church, makes his official visit Saturday to the Toronto Conference. On Sunday Mr. Millson will preach at the Methodist Church of Cleinburg, speaking on the work of his department, and urging support and co-operation in this vastly important phase of church work.

At the recent sessions of the London Conference in Centennial Church Mr. Millson was highly commended for his work amongst the smaller churches of the district, and was urged by all clergy present to continue.

DELAYS ACTION REGARDING CLOSING VICTORIA PARK

Public Utilities Hesitate in Enforcing Bylaw Enacted by City Council.

Members of the Public Utilities Commission will take no further action at this moment relative to the bylaw enacted by the city councillors at their last meeting, whereby Victoria Park is to be closed to motor vehicle traffic holidays, Sundays and afternoons.

A communication, the second of its kind, has been received by the commission from City Clerk Sam Baker, notifying them of this action, but the commissioners have directed that it be filed for future reference.

Questioned as to what they intended doing about the matter, if anything, Commissioner Pocock declared: "You can't get us into a tangle with the aldermen that easy. In any event, I do not see what they ordered the park closed for. No one goes there, anyhow, except to see the flowers."

Commissioner Jared Vining expressed the opinion also that as the city council had passed the measure it would be the city council who would see that the bylaw was enforced. "Those who pass legislation," he said, "usually see to it that the legislation is adhered to."

While the commission has already placed itself on record as being opposed to the bylaw, no move of retaliation is expected, seemingly.

Youthful Vagrant Plays "Tag" With London's Stalwarts

A youngster, who ware apparently lost at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets Friday morning, led a police constable a merry chase before he was captured.

The policeman saw him dodging motor cars and spoke to him; the youngster then raced towards the Grand Trunk ticket office; captured again by the constable, he was held until another officer hove in sight, and took charge of the youthful vagrant, who immediately darted to the opposite side of the street; the officer followed, and made another capture.

This time no chances were taken, and the constable took the boy by the hand, and placed him on a Ridout street car.

SENT TO JAIL FOR BEING DISORDERLY

Ed. Davis, James Butt, Dorothy Culver and Cleda Wright were all charged in police court Friday morning with acting in a disorderly manner at 32 Dundas street late Thursday night.

Mr. Butt was allowed to proceed on his way rejoicing after Chief Birrell had spoken a few words on his behalf.

"I wasn't doin' nothin', just sleepin'," stated Mr. Butt. "I was only there an hour when the police came."

"Mr. Butt is an inoffensive fellow," recommended the chief. "I have known him for a long time."

Davis, the owner of the house, was fined $10 and costs, while the two girls with bobbed hair, who are in their early teens, were remanded to remain a week in jail.

During the evidence offered by Davis, it transpired that his wife was away taking care of a sick sister. As far as the girls were concerned, they had been merely giggling, Davis said. Cleda Wright's father had been staying at the house, but a dispute had arisen, and he had left. Cleda wanted to know if she could bring a friend to the house, and he had given permission.

Sergeant Middaugh stated that in response to a telephone call he had gone to the Davis house earlier in the evening, and found that the girls had just left for down town. Later on, they returned, and their language could be heard across the street.

On entering the house shortly after 12 o'clock, Sergeant Middaugh said the girls were together in the front room, Davis was in another room, and Butt was asleep on a couch.

ASSESSMENT OF WARD 3 INCREASED

1923 Valuation of Property Exceeds That of 1922 by $1,417,955.

Returns for Ward Three as compiled by the assessment department show a total increase in assessment for 1923 of $1,512,966, as compared with the previous year. The increased assessment on land and buildings is $1,417,955, while business assessment shows a gain of $103,160.

The only decrease noted is that of income assessment, which is $8,149 less than the 1921 assessment. However, it is pointed out that there is no actual decrease, but an increase owing to the fact that income assessment of several citizens employed in the annexed district of Ward Three was transferred to the ward in which their homes are located, so that the city could collect more revenue.

That is to say, in the annexed district a fixed rate of taxation is in vogue, and in order to tax these citizens on the general rate which is much higher, their assessment was transferred to the ward in which they reside. This action was taken by the assessment department, and hence figures for the ward show a decrease in income assessment, according to Assessment Commissioner E. Grant.

In Ward Three proper, which is the old ward with no annexed district included, there is an increase of $373,391 of land values and $902,599 on buildings. These increases in assessment are attributed to the Richter system, which was introduced for that district south of the Grand Trunk tracks this year. Last year this system was initiated for that portion of the ward north of the tracks.

Business assessment increased $101,480 for Ward Three proper, while income assessment was increased $40,103. However, the last-named item suffered a setback by a decrease of $48,252 in the annexed district, due to transferred assessment as shown above.

In the annexed district which possesses a fixed assessment in many cases, there was an increase in land values to the extent of $6,896. Buildings were increased by an assessment of $135,078 in this area, while business assessment jumped $1,680.

The total increased assessment for Ward Three proper is $1,417,564, and for the annexed district is $95,402 These figures are regarded as indicative of the progress made in building in Ward Three, although those ratepayers of Ward Three whose tax assessment was raised this year (and there are scores), are inclined to take such a statement with a grain of salt.

DIMISS AUTO CASE.

The case of James Ferguson, who was charge with driving a motor car without a license, was dismissed in police court Friday. Ferguson stated that he had just passed his examination for a license, and was returning to the garage when he was stopped by a constable.

FORMER LONDONER DIES IN VICTORIA

Edward Parnell, Mayor of Winnipeg, Passes Following Illnss of Several Months.

Edward Parnell, mayor of Winnipeg for the past eighteen months, died in Victoria, B. C., early this morning.

Mr. Parnell, who was formerly of London, Ontario, had been critically ill for the past few days. His condition for the past month was variable, one week showing slight improvement, the next week growing worse again.

Returning slightly improved in health, Mayor Parnell took up his mayoralty duties again, abandoning them only mhen threatened with a complete collapse, which ensued shortly after leaving for the western coast.

He was born in Dover, England, in 1859.

Mayor Parnell started and controlled one of the largest individual baking concerns in the Dominion, having bakeries situated in London, Toronto and Winnipeg.

After completing his education in London, he learned the baking business, and in 1880 he started in business for himself in the old St. James Park bakery.

Mayor Parnell was formerly prominent in Liberal politics in Ontario, and took an active interest in London's municipal affairs. He filled every chair except that of mayor, being defeated for that office by Sir Adam Beck.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed, but Fred and Edward Parnell, of this city, are leaving London for Winnipeg Friday evening.

PREPARATIONS FOR FAIR COMMENCED

Extensive Operations For Improvement of Grounds Now Under Way.

Extensive operations for improvement and added conveniences are under way at the Western Fair Grounds. Between the main building and the grandstand, a subway is being built which will cope with the growing amount of pedestrian traffic to and from the race track.

Of late years the one entry to the interior of the track, where cars are parked, has not been sufficient, and the new subway is being built as a means of dealing with the congestion thus caused.

New entries are also being arranged for delivery wagons, and the unloading of cattle for exhibition purposes, which have been made necessary by the continued expansion of the Western Fair.

The interior of the Horticultural Building will be rearranged this year with a view to making it better for both exhibitors and visitors.

The tables in the center will be placed crossways in the building, leaving an aisle on each side of every table. With the present prospects for a good fruit crop, this building should prove one of the most attractive on the grounds. Special interest is being taken in the display of flowers, and extra editions of the prize list in this department were issued to all prospective exhibitors through the London Horticultural Society.

The amusement of the people who attend the exhibition has been carefully considered. One of the best programs ever presented will be seen twice daily before the grandstand. Several speed events are arranged, and there will be automobile races in which the best drivers of America will take part.

Several thousand prize lists and much advertising material has been sent from the office of the secretary, A. M. Hunt. Several new features may be noticed in the live-stock department, one especially being a yearling feeding competition. Any boy or girl who is a resident of Canada, between 10 and 18 years of age, may compete with their yearlings.

G. W. V. A. TO ELECT OFFICERS TUESDAY

At a general meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association, to be held in the clubrooms Tuesday, June 13, the officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

The nominations took place a month ago, and all offices will be contested except that of president, as Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles was returned to office by acclamation.

H. Palger, secretary of the association, announced also that the half-yearly statement would be read at the meeting on Tuesday night, and he stated that he was expecting every member of the organization to turn out, as other important business had to be dealt with.

LIONS CLUB HAS "LADIES' NIGHT"

Entertains Thirty Lionesses at Enjoyable Dinner at Bungalow Inn.

Rev. R. J. Bowen Deplores Loss of Educated Canadians to U. S.

Led by Bill Moore, the official "tail twister," and Cub President Lieut.-Col. C. M. R. Graham, the Lions Club of London entertained some thirty pretty lionesses at the Bungalow Inn at Springbank Thursday night.

It was ladies' night for the Lions and their ladies certainly had a wonderful time. Starting at 7 o'clock with an excellent dinner, the party of 50 listened to some splendid speakers and entertainers, winding up with a dance.

The fifth lady's name to be drawn from the new straw hat of Wilfred Keene, was that of Mrs. Arthur Gleason, and she was presented with some cut glass.

Honors in the balloting for the best looking lion and prettiest lioness went to Bill Moore and Mrs. Haviland Nash. They were presented with looking glasses. Cub Graham wanted to know how much the "tail twister" paid for his votes, but Bill refused to tell.

A set of china, raffled off, was won by Mrs. W. Young.

Cub Herb Parsons, vice-president of the club, told the ladies just how popular they were with the Lions, while Cub Barrett responded to the toast "Our Wives" in a fitting manner.

Rev. R. J. Bowen, chaplain of the club, responded to the toast of the bachelors, because it was explained he had set so many on the safe paths of matrimony.

"Bachelors have their place," stated Mr. Bowen. "They can be called on at any hour of the day or night."

"If there is one thing the Lions Club stands for it is to place young men four-square to their obligations in life," continued the speaker.

Mr. Bowen deplored the fact that 150,000 Canadians were living south of the boundary line, and stated that 25 recent graduates in science at Toronto University had taken positions with large American firms. It cost the country $10,000 to educate each of these young men, whose knowledge naturally had been bought by their employers at no expense to them. Unless Canada could hold these valuable men it would soon be a nation of old married men and old bachelors, he said.

"The Lions have cubs. The young lusty, strong bachelor is the cub of the nation, and may God fit us for our work as the keystone of nations," concluded the chaplain.

ANNOUNCE PROGRESS IN DRILLING FOR CITY WATER

A. O. Hunt Declares Ohio Well Diggers Confident of Success of Attempt.

Remarkable and continued progress is reported by the Ohio well diggers who are sinking London's new well in the southeast section of the city.

The distance of 44 feet had been reached on Thursday afternoon, A. O. Hunt, acting general manager of the Public Utilities Commission, explains, and an average of two feet of earth each day is being removed, which is considered highly satisfactory in view of the fact that the drillers are encountering particularly hard earth to bore through.

As is it intended that the well should reach a depth of about 90 feet, it is fully expected that the drillers will have completed the same within the designated period.

Should the well measure up to expectations and yield in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 gallons of water each day, it will be necessary for the commissioners to obtain a much larger type of pump than they are now employing at any of the city wells.

The Ohio experts are just as positive as they were two months ago that sufficient water will be obtained that will warrant the undertaking and expense incurred.

Principal Institutes "Parents' Day" At Boyle Memorial Public School

Thursday was "parents' day" at the Boyle Memorial Public School, and they attended in quite appreciable numbers upon the invitation of D. J. Ferguson, principal.

There was no discontinuance of the classes during the visit, and the parents attended the various classes throughout the afternoon. In addition to the regular work of the school there was an interesting display of the work accomplished by the manual training, household science, art and general school work, the exhibition being conducted in the kindergarten department.

A special demonstration of kindergarten work was given by Miss Flora Carson, which was greatly appreciated, as were the light refreshments served during the afternoon in the domestic science department.

The parents appeared keenly interested in every phase of the school work, and seemed visibly impressed with the efforts of Principal Ferguson and his staff.

Talbot Street Public School was the scene also of a special event Thursday afternoon, the occasion being the presentation to the girls' baseball team of that institution, of the handsome cup won by the girls who captured the pennant in the Public School Girls' Baseball League.

The prize, donated by the Playgrounds Association, was presented after a brief address by Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman of the board of education, following which an excellent address on "Clean Sport" was delivered by Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer.

Suitable presentations were also made to Doris Plewes and Gertrude Bapty, coaches for the team.

MEET TO PROBE CONSTITUTION FOR IRISH STATE

British Signatories of Treaty, Headed by Premier, Convene in London.

WIRE GENEVA FOR HELP

Belfast Hospital Authorities Protest Recent Attack On Institution.

London, England, June 9. — The British signatories of the Anglo-Irish treaty met in Downing street today, Prime Minister Lloyd George presiding, to consider the proposed constitution for the Irish Free State.

Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eirean, and one of the principal Irish signatories of the pact, had a half hour interview with Winston Churchill, the colonial secretary, at the colonial office this forenoon, returning then to his hotel while Mr. Churchill proceeded to Downing street for the meeting of the British signatories. It was stated that Mr. Griffith would probably be invited to Downing street this afternoon. The British meeting was attended by the Earl of Balfour, who sat with the other conferees throughout the meeting, which lasted more than two hours. The discusion, which centered about the proposed Irish constitution, will be resumed tomorrow. The Evening News today says it understands an attempt has been made to obtain an assurance from the Republican wing of the Irish coalition that the Republicans will accept the constitution as based on the treaty. This assurance has not been forthcoming, but the Irish signatories of the pact have definitely assured the Imperial government, adds the newspaper, that they will stand by the treaty and the constitution.

Protest to Geneva.

The incident in Belfast Monday night when the Mater Hospital was fired upon, continues to agitate the Ulster capital, according to press dispatches. The hospital authorities telegraphed the International Red Cross headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, protesting against the occurrence, demanding the immediate protection of their troops and also asking the Red Cross to "come to the help of our sick and wounded."

The Geneva office replied that it was ready to take all necessary steps, and asked to whom the Red Cross communication should be addressed, to which the hospital authorities replied, "the British government."

It was not suggested that anybody within the hospital had been struck during the fusillade, the word "wounded" used in the message to Geneva referring to sufferers from previous street fighting being cared for in the hospital. The blame for the incident has not yet been placed.

The Times today prints the results of its investigation. It declares everybody concerned lost their heads and that the whole affair is symptomatic of the lamentable chaos existing in Belfast.

LOGUE GIVES DETAILS.

Dublin, June 9.—Writing to the press about his second experience at being held up by Ulster constables, Cardinal Logue, primate of Ireland, says he objected very strongly to having the letters and documents in his grip scrutinized. Describing Wednesday's affair, he writes:

The order was given to cover that man with a rifle, and immediately a rifle was thrust under my nose. I was also covered with a revolver. Believing that the young country lad who had the revolver was unaccustomed to firearms, and that anything which stirred him might cause the revolver to go off, I asked him repeatedly to keep its point turned up. But he gave no heed, and so I sat under rifle and revolver while the search proceeded.

FATHER BRISSON REASSURES CHILD

was their picnic and so somebody else did the searchings, and what couldn't be found was replaced.

EARLY in the morning, Phyllis Gruber, a young pupil at the Sacred Heart school, lost both her purse and her money, and was in a sorry way for fear her day was to be spoiled, when neither could be found. However, Father Brisson supplied the ticket, and it is almost certain that Phyllis didn't go without much of the fun at the picnic.

MARJORIE HAIG, who lives at 450 Philip street, was in a quandary when Father Brisson informed her that those who lost their tickets must spend the night on the park benches, but the busy Father finally relented and Marjorie went on her way rejoicing, her ticket home, tightly clutched in her hand.

A SAD accident, but one which the elasticity of spirit, peculiar to the small boy of not more than eight years speedily overcame, was that which befell George Kerrigan, who lives at the corner of William and Lyle streets, and is a pupil at St. Mary's school.

George lost the munificent sum of fifty cents, but the blow made no lasting impression on his young heart, and his enjoyment of the picnic was damaged little or nothing.

Pat Jones, his boon companion, who lives at the corner of York and Maitland streets, was pursuing an even tenor of enjoyment, neither losing anything nor winning anything.

A jolly treat for the children of the St. Joseph's Home was the kindly gift of W. J. Clarke, tobacconist, who provided each youngster with a quarter to spend and tickets for the merry-go-round and the ferris wheel. His generosity was responsible for a throb of pleasure in many thankful little hearts after the joyous picnic.

GEORGE Fox, of St. Michael's School, who lives at 544 Waterloo street, was just a wee bit doubtful when he opened his prize envelope and there fell out a number of American nickels.

After gazing at them a moment or two, his doubt grew with alarming rapidity, and it was in great trepidation that he clutched Father Brisson's arm and anxiously inquired, "If those were real nickels, Father?"

George's six-year-old visage, resumed its usual happy expression when he was assured that although they didn't look like the Canadian nickels they were worth just as much in terms of orangeade and popcorn.

KAY Loughlin, of Sacred Heart School, who lives at 295 Central avenue, was, to put it in childish vernacular, "out of luck" at the races. She wanted to win a prize and she did manage to come in first, but then it turned out that the race was only the first section of a longer race, and in the next spasm Kay was not quite so fortunate, so she went home happy, but without the glory of victory.

JANET Nolan, of 322 Queen's avenue, a wee girl, who clung to Father Brisson's hand to watch the sports, was moved with a great enthusiasm, so completely happy was her day. "I wish it could last a week," she exclaimed.

A PAIR of little girls, who possessed of brunette prettiness, and so much alike that they were almost indistinguishable one from the other, were the Lombardo twins, Phyliss and Josephine, who live at 195 Horton street, and who were amongst the happiest youngsters at Springbank. They are pupils at St. John's School.

ANOTHER youngster, who was having the time of his life and was not loath to exhibit the fact, was Fred Pitt of 440 Pall Mall street, of Sacred Heart School. Incidentally Fred was enormously proud of his big sister Peggy, one of the stars of the Sacred Heart girls' baseball team.

IRENE Holland is known as the Babe Ruth of Sacred Heart School. It is said and not without fact to back it up that she is good for a three-base hit every time. Irene starred for Sacred Heart at the afternoon game. The lineup was: Captain, Isabel Storey; Hilda McCabe, Mary Gardner, Grace Malino, Margaret Pitt, Irene Holland, Josephine Damore, Lenora Smoothy and Hazel Hawkins.

The first form team from St. Angela's, which encountered the team from Sacred Heart, were Margaret Moir, Margaret Kensella, Madeleine Orendorff, Agnes Walsh, Eva Murphy, Agnes Multen, Anna Kensella, Marie Garceau and Nancy Murphy.

THE team from St. Angela's, which encountered a team picked from the rest of the school, were Nancy Murphy, Margaret Kensella, Madeleine Orendorff, Agnes Walsh, Eva Murphy, Agnes Watson, Iola Smith, Inez Mitchell and Marie Garceau.

The second form team were Margaret Moir, Anna Kensella, Geraldine McIvar, Antoinette Gillies, Bertha Gillies, Mary Burns, Audrey Harding, Thelma Bardwell and Agnes Mullens.

IN the boys' games the teams were: St. Peter's school, Grade V: B. Austin, J. McCaughy, J. McCartney, J. Nolan, W. Graham, T. Storey, A. Dolan, J. Delaney and J. Dellar. Grade VI—J. Kelleher, H. Walsh, J. Lamey, J. Pitt, J. Shirlock, W. Mullins, S. Greening, A. Howard and A. Breen.

In the sanctuary games, the team for St. Mary's was made up of N. Fitzgerald, Joe Ryan, E. O'Donnell, Wilfred Kelleher, W. Morralee, Louis Darnell, G. Warburton, J. Fox and T. Burk. For St. Peter's: W. Durkin, J. Donahue, F. Myles, S. H. Nolan, Raymond Henry, Ignatius McDougall, Joe Raffaele, G. Player and G. Loughlin.

FOR the first year high school the lineup was: W. O'Brien, A. Rankin, T. Briglia, S. Nolan, E. O'Donnell, F. Myles, W. Moralee, T. Sansone and J. Donahue. For Grade VIII of St. Peter's: L. Nolan, R. Henry, M. Murtagh, W. Ellis, J. Ashwell, T. Dromgole, N. Barratta and G. Dignan.

THE thankless but nevertheless important job of umpiring the different games was taken by Rev. Father Mahoney, Rev. Father O'Donnell, Rev. Father Chisholm and Brother Gregory.

ONE tiny cloud on the blue sky of the picnic was the fact that a number of the girls of St. Angela's College were unable to attend the picnic because of the close proximity of examinations.

machine, from a reputable Toronto firm.

On Thursday a representative of the Mercantile Insurance Company, Harold R. McFern, with whom the car was said to have been insured by the Maines Motor Car Company of Flint, Mich., from whom it is alleged the machine was stolen, stated that he was confident that he would be in a position to produce the man who witnessed the actual theft in that city last March.

McMullen was arrested with William Ayers, another of the alleged Wyoming bandits, while riding in the machine, which was subsequently released to John McMullen, a brother of the former, but was later again confiscated by the police.

Tells of Y.W.C.A. Work In Land of Rising Sun

Jap Maid Seeks Help.

She was a maiden from the Land of the Cherry Blossoms, a winsome flower of young womanhood from Old Japan. Thursday evening she stood on the broad steps of the Wellington street Y. W. C. A. residence, clad in her picturesque Japanese costume of purple blue, with rose and cream obi, Japanese lanterns strung above shedding over her a soft glow, beside her a box of radiantly blooming flowers. The trees whispered softly as they silhouetted their leafy branches against a sky, blue even after nightfall, with the silver moon sailing high, facing an eager audience of London Y. W. C. A. girls, board members and others fortunate enough to be present, Nakanishi San, in perfect English and voice of sweetest music, told a parable of the cherry blossoms.

"You have heard much of the beauty of the cherry blossoms in Japan, no doubt," she said. "But the cherry blossom in itself is not so beautiful a thing, just a rather small, very pale pink flower of five petals. To appreciate the cherry blossoms, you must see how they bloom together. Our cherry trees are much larger than yours, and the blossoms come out before the leaves, completely hiding branches and limbs of the cherry trees which line our streets and form canopies above. In cherry blossom time, all you can see is the mass of bloom, then the petals drift down before they have withered at all.

Finds Friends.

"I have thought, since coming to America and Canada, that the Y. W. C. A. is very much like that. Everywhere I find the Y. W. C. A. in the cities, and because I am a Y. W. C. A. girl from Japan I find friends in the Y. W. C. A. and feel at home. Back in Japan, I have been discouraged because one little Y. W. C. A. worker could do so little, one little Y. W. C. A. of a thousand members, such as we have in Tokio, seemed so small in a city of that size. But to appreciate the value of the Y. W. C. A., you must see it in the mass, as a whole, like the cherry blossoms, Y. W. C. A.'s working all around the world, the fusion that can solve the problems which separate nations and insure the peace of the world, for which nations are working so hard."

In the course of her address of an hour or more glinting with humor, gracefully and lightly, but with astounding clearness, the young speaker explained the psychology of her own people and how it differs from that of the Occidental folk as reflected in manners and customs. With delicious drollery she told of Japanese houses, clothes, family and social life, and now the old is struggling with the new, the east with the west, in the Land of the Rising Sun. One moment she was telling how indispensable are closets in Japanese houses, where the people sit on cushions instead of chairs, and where there is just one place to put a picture, vase or other object of art in a corner of the guestroom.

"But you must not think we have only one picture, only one vase," she said amid peals of laughter. "We have many pictures, many vases, but we keep them in closets, taking out only one at a time. We take out pictures as they suit the seasons, a winter picture for winter, a spring picture for spring. We choose the vase that is best suited to the flower we want to put in it for decoration.

Put Bed in Closet.

"In Japan we do many things opposite to what you do here. "You make up your bed in the morning. We make up ours at night, and in the daytime we roll it up and put it away in the closet. It is a great advantage. We do not need any special bedrooms. A dining-room, children's room, library, will do just as well."

Then she turned to what she termed "the fundamental problems of Japan of the present, arising from the rapidly-changing conditions of the past 50 years."

"The situation is very mixed up and very interesting, also very difficult at present," she said.

Formerly, the family idea was the great thing. The effort was to make family life as perfect and peaceful as possible. The individual sacrificed to the family. Now there has come about a new emphasis on the individual, and thoughts are turning outwards from the homes to social problems, to the needs of those less fortunately placed in life.

"Obedience has been one of our great virtues, the obedience of children to parents. But the feeling is growing up that the individual must find self-expression, even independently of parents.

"In western countries, people are largely objective. In Japan, our people have been subjective in their poetry, their art, their love of nature, in all in which they express themselves. The reason our pictures are not attempts to reproduce actual scenes is because the painter looks at a view, then goes home and makes his impressions. There is no such thing as similiarity of proportion. Our people love nature. They will look for hours at the moon, at cherry blossoms, at a beautiful view. But they are not scientists, because the scientific strives to discover the meaning.

Need Help.

"Between the old and the new, our young people find themselves in a difficult position. They want to do right. They do not know what is right. They want guidance. The best guidance that can be given them is not from without, but to give them a guide in their own hearts. Their real salvation must come from within and not from without. They need fundamental help for their problems, and that is what religion can do for them. The fundamental thing our young people of Japan need is not a change of conditions, but a change of person. We have had many religions in Japan which have helped in the past. We are grateful for the missionaries who have brought to us the Christian religion. The missionaries who have found strength and power to such an extent that they are willing to cross continent and ocean to bring Christianity must have strong belief and inspiration and cannot fail to influence our young people a great deal."

A brief review in conclusion was given of Y. W. C. A. work in Japan, organized by Miss Caroline Macdonald, B.A., daughter of Dr. Peter Macdonald of this city, fifteen years ago in Tokio.

"We now have over a thousand members in Tokio Y. W. C. A.," she said, "associations in four cities outside of Tokio, and forty student Y. W. C. A.'s. But the work and its influence cannot be measured by reports, records and statistics. It is the spiritual value that counts, the something that cannot be put into words."

Moves Vote of Thanks.

Mrs. C. B. King presided, and a vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Mrs. A. E. Miller, who declared she had never enjoyed a lecture more. Mrs. Jeffrey Hale seconding the motion with equal cordiality. Applause for Nakanishi San was so prolonged when she stopped speaking that it developed into an ovation.

Mrs. King read a letter from Miss Marjory Ford, general secretary for Canada, asking for assistance from the various girls' clubs and organizations in the London "Y" in sending back to Japan for Y. W. C. A. work Miss Florence Paterson, a London girl, who was in Tokio for some time, a daughter of Prof. Paterson of Western University.

Commenting on this, the Japanese visitor said: "I do not like to ask for things for ouselves, but we do like the Canadians so much in Japan and feel we can learn so much from them. We have only one Canadian "Y" secretary now, while there are many American. Of course, I am not making comparison."

Light refreshments were served by the members of the house committee of the Wellington street residence, of which Mrs. A. G. Calder is convener, many who were present enjoying the privilege of shaking hands with Nakanishi San and chatting with her personally.

ROTARIAN ASKS OPEN DIPLOMACY

Canadian Delegate Addresses Convention of Rotary Clubs.

Says Public Should Be Informed of All Intentional Agreements.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 9.—By the Canadian Press.—International goodwill depends upon better understanding between peoples and nations and important means to this end are sport, friendliness, support of public men and the education of the public, it was declared here today before the thirteenth annual international convention of Rotary Clubs by Lieut.-Col. James Layton Ralston, noted barrister of Halifax, N. S., twice member of the Nova Scotia legislature, decorated for distinguished services in the Canadian forces during the war. Mr. Ralston is well-known throughout Canada and the United States.

He declared that world peace is dependent upon the wiping out of public ignorance regarding international affairs. He spoke on the topic of international goodwill. Reviewing international relations before the war he stated that the nations had thought they were on their way slowly toward international understanding, but the crisis found "the distinguishing badge of anarchy rather than order was recognized as the ultimate appeal."

"The world war crisis," he said, "found the people of the nations concerned wholly ignorant of the means for adjustment, and consequently thinking and preparing for war.

"As a matter of fact, at the moment war was declared there stood ready and waiting a duly constituted tribunal for international arbitration which had solved no less than fifteen disputes of varying degrees of seriousness. The trouble is that our people do not know just what progress has been made. This is known only by officialdom—by those whose business it is to know.

"We are doing better about our internal affairs—but when it comes to foreign affairs—the motto seems to be let George do it, and we do not even trouble to inform ourselves just what George had done.

"I am saying that it is our duty as plain ordinary citizens to know what machinery is available should a crisis come—that further, it is our duty to see that our neighbor has this information."

SHOW HATE AT SOCIALIST TRIAL

Russian Moderates Show Intense Feeling at Proceedings Towards Communists.

Moscow, June 9.—The hatred of Europe's moderate Socialists for the Russian communists and the latter's reciprocal feeling towards the moderates crystallized at the opening yesterday of the trial here of 34 members of the Social Revolutionist party.

Leaders of the second internationale and other European socialist organizations appeared as counsel for the defendants, who are divided into three groups and are accused, among other things of betraying the Russian revolution, of assisting Kolchak and Denikine, and of engineering plots to assassinate Lenine, Trotzky and other Bolshevik leaders.

Each group has a separate defence organization. At the opening of the trial the defendants raised the objection that as all three of the judges were communists, it was improper for them to sit in judgment upon their political opponents. The objection was overruled after a forensic battle in which internationally famous socialists of all shades of red and pink took part. Some of the prisoners also entered the fray, hurling objections and interjections in Russian, French and German.

From the red decorated stage, the counsel, prisoners and court looked out upon an audience packing every inch of the floor and balconies of the marble pillared, massive chandeliered ballroom in which the trial is being held. The crowd was studded with the bayonets of soldier guards, many of whom were women.

Only the incessant warnings of the court prevented an oratorical repetition of the Russian revolution, and it was ordered that the arguments be confined to the facts in the case. M. Piatskoff, the presiding judge, in overruling the defendants' objections, said: "Of course we are not impartial, but our partiality is in the interests of the revolution. But at the same time we are not a party to the court. Our business is to listen to the facts."

TO SETTLE QUESTION OF RENTING SCHOOL AUDITORIA

City Clerk Baker Informs Board of Education That Charge Is Illegal.

Members of No. 2 and No. 3 committees of the board of education expect that at their next regular meetings they will be able to settle for all time to come one of the burning questions that confronts them from time to time.

Scarcely a meeting passes but that one request at least is received for the use of the various school auditoria for concerts and the like.

The trustees are now in receipt of an official communication from City Clerk Sam Baker, advising them that it is strictly illegal to rent school buildings or rooms for any event at which an admission fee is charged, unless a provincial license is first procured.

From the London Drama League, however, comes the request that charges imposed for the use of the collegiate institute auditorium be forthwith cancelled. The league claims that while the admission is limited their work is purely of an educational nature.

It is fully expected that these communications will precipitate another lively discussion, although the trustees hope that they will be able to formulate a definite policy for all future requests.

ALFRED SANDALL ENTERS ACTION TO RECOVER $340

Plaintiff Charges Arizona Simmons With Breach of Covenant in Land Sale.

Through his attorney, T. W. Scandrett, Alfred Sandall has entered action in the civil courts against Arizona Simmons, in an effort to recover the sum of $340. The plaintiff alleges a breach of covenant against encumbrances on a certain deed executed by the defendant to him of lands in the township of East Nissouri, Oxford County.

Sandall claims that the lands in question were fraudulently represented to have been free from taxes at the time the deed was prepared.

In the same court, James L. Foster has entered action through T. W. Scandrett against George Racey, asking the recovery of unstated damages to his automobile by reason of a collision between that car and the one driven by the defendant. He charges neligence on the part of the latter.

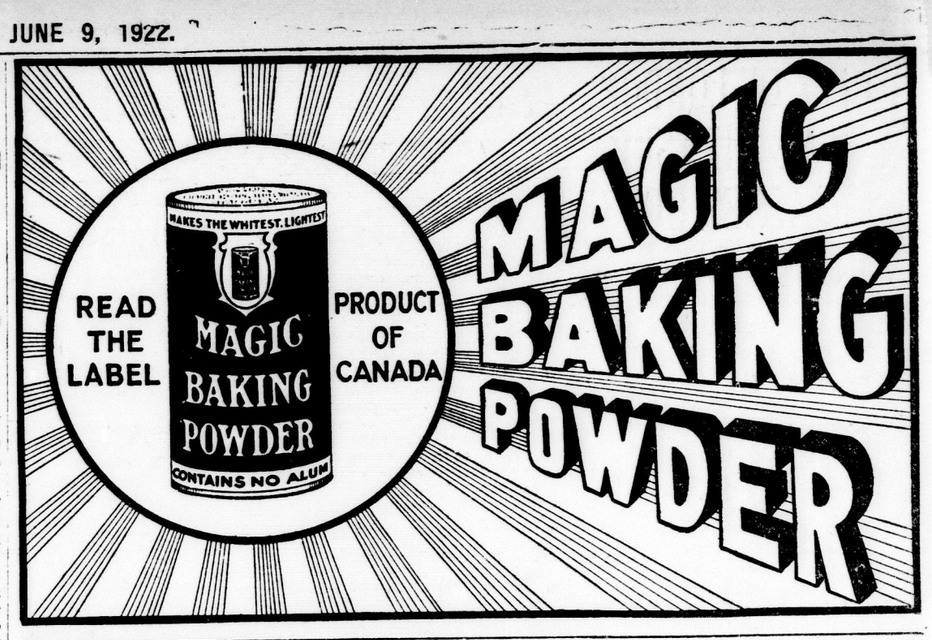
REPORTS REALTY BUSINESS GOOD

Real estate business in the city is exceptionally good this week considering the time of the year, Bert Weir local real estate dealer, announced this morning.

He pointed out that the months of June, July and August were usually the slowest months of the year in the real estate business, as the fall and the spring were the "moving" months.

Not many people were renting houses these days, Mr. Weir stated to The Advertiser. He attributed this to the fact that citizens as a whole are beginning to realize that in the long run it is far chapear to buy than to rent.



MACBETH TO TAKE SUPREME COURT

Will Hear Cases Monday Not Disposed Of During Recent Session.

Judge Talbot Macbeth will preside at a special session of the supreme court of Ontario at the Middlesex county court, Monday next at 10 a.m.

Two cases that were not disposed of during the recent session, at which Justice Middleton of Toronto, presided, will be heard. The first on the list is Scheitzer vs. Granger, with McPherson & Perrin acting for the plaintiffs, and Meredith & Meredith for the defendants.

A second case, Vulcan vs. Reason, will also be disposed of. Frank Curran appears for the complainant, with John M. McEvoy, K.C., handling the defendant's case.

One case, involving the payment of alimony, Jenkins vs. Jenkins, will be heard in a court outside the city.

With the completion of the criminal docket the Middlesex county court, adjournment has been made until Tuesday next when Judge Macbeth will consider several civil actions that yet remain on the docket.

Amendment to corporation tax act in order to circumvent any attempt to evade tax on race track wagers, given second reading and passed by house in committee.

Hon. D. Carmichael's hydro distribution bill given approval. W. H. Casselman, U. F. O. member for Dundas, criticised the government during debate on this bill, claiming it was doing very little for farmers.

Y. M C. A. TO HOLD PICNIC IN HONOR OF NEW DIRECTOR

Gathering To Be Held at Sage's Farm on Saturday Afternoon.

In honor of the new physical director of the London Y. M. C. A., George R. Sinclair of Moncton, N. B., the members council have arranged a picnic to be held at Sage's farm on the north branch of the Thames Saturday afternoon.

The committee in charge of the program— Dr. Detwiler, president of the members council; Neil McCrimmon and I. S. Dickson—have arranged for the picnickers to be transported to the farm in automobiles.

The gathering will consist largely of the active members and committeemen of the "Y," and will be for grownups only. Edward Jenkins, general secretary, stated. Arrangements are being made to accommodate more than 60 visitors.

The afternoon will be spent in playing baseball, volleyball and many novelty games under the able direction of Bob Liddle, men's secretary, who is a well-known specialist in thinking out novel stunts.

Mr. Sinclair has not yet adopted any particular athletic program for the summer months, but he intimated that he will make an announcement of his plans for the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. very shortly.

CENSUS REVEALS 13,000 GO TO SCHOOL IN LONDON

Board To Classify Data For Use In Enforcing Adolescent Act.

The education census of public and separate schools completed Friday afternoon reveals the fact that there are in the neighborhood of 13,000 children in London 16 years old and under.

Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer and G. A. Wheable, supervisor of principals, have been extremely busy the past week compiling the returns from the 77 sub-divisions throughout the city, and the last figures reached their office Friday afternoon.

The task of classifying the data according to ages will now proceed, and then be filed away for use when the trustees will move to provide further accommodation when the new provisions of the adolescent school attendance act comes into effect Sept. 1 next.

The trustees have decided to remunerate the principals and the teachers who conducted the census at a rate of three cents a word. It is not expected that the entire cost of the undertaking will exceed the $500 set aside for that purpose in the regular public school estimates. The separate school board will shoulder their proportion of the cost.

ARREST NUMBER FISHING WITH NETS NEAR PORT

Fisheries Department Officers Take Matter to St. Thomas Court.

Officers of the department of game and fisheries, while on patrol duty at Kettle Creek, near Port Stanley, discovered that nets were being used by certain persons contrary to the fish and game laws.

The London branch of the department announced that the parties had been apprehended and all nets seized. The boat that was used by the culprits was also taken into custody.

The persons who were guilty of this infraction of the fish and game laws will appear before Magistrate Hunt of St. Thomas, Wednesday, May 14, to answer to the charge of operating a net without the necessary license. This is the first time this year, it is said, that an arrest has been made on Kettle Creek although there were several in 1921.

Kettle Creek abounds in catfish and there is always a ready sale for this variety of fish among certain classes of people.

It was pointed out by the London officials that any appliances, such as boats, nets, or tackle used in violating the fish and game law automatically becomes the property of the crown upon the arrest of the violator.

GEER HAS HUNGER STRIKE SYSTEM ALL HIS OWN

Somewhat unique is the hunger strike still being maintained by Harry Geer, county jail prisoner, who is awaiting deportation proceedings.

Geer still continues his strike, commenced Wednesday night, although he eats occasionally just to prevent himself from getting too hungry. Breaking a 24-hour fast the prisoner enjoyed a light lunch at the tea-hour Thursday, but Friday morning he again refused to eat, reiterating his determination "not to eat alone."

Geer is thought by the local authorities to be mentally unbalanced and documents are expected at any moment from Ottawa to provide for his removal to the United States, from whence he came. To date none of his companions at the jail have considered instituting a sympathetic strike along the same lines.

PRAISES WORK OF CHURCH JANITOR

A somewhat silent, but nevertheless important, cog in the great machinery of the London Methodist Conference, held last week in the Centennial Methodist Church, was the janitor, William Weaver, 341 Woodward avenue.

Without assistance, Mr. Weaver attended to all the work of the church, aided the ladies of the church in preparing meals, and did the thousand and one jobs which had to be done in order that everything might be carried out efficiently. And although it is only three days since the last session of conference was held, Mr. Weaver has completed all the work of cleaning up, and the church is in ship-shape order once more. "He was a general Jack on the job," was Rev. A. E. M. Thompson's summing up of the case.

THINK SUMMERS NOT IN ROBBERY

Although Josuah Summers, arrested a few days ago at Pottersberg, remains at the county jail upon a drunk and disorderly charge, the provincial police stated definitely Friday morning that they did not believe that he was implicated with two other men in the Dorchester hold-up Sunday night last.

Summers, the police state, is a "floater" and without funds, and they consider that it would do him no harm to rest a few days at the jail while they completed their investigations. They are now confident that he had nothing to do with the robbery.

The police will continue their investigations, they say, with respect to the latter.

CITY OF LONDON GAS MEASURE PASSES HOUSE

Bill Restored To Order Paper Quickly Piloted Through Legislature.

MAY AMEND RADIAL BILL

Drury Submits Suggestions To Facilitate Voting On Scheme.

TORONTO, June 9.—The City of London gas bill, restored to the order paper in the Legislature, got a second reading and passed through committee and was given third reading early this morning.

Premier Drury introduced amendments to the hydro radial bill which, according to previous contentions, remove the obstacles in the way of consummation of the clean-up deal. The most important amendment does away with the necessity of a revote on the hydro radial bylaws between Toronto and St. Catharines, unless there is a demand from fifteen per cent of the electors.

"The provision is," said the premier, in explaining the amendment, "that the council of the municipality may ratify the agreement. If it does, the agreement stands. Council may on or before the 15th of October, 1922, pass a resolution to proceed with the construction and operation of the railway. If the council neglects or refuses to pass such resolution before that date, or except in the cases of Toronto and Hamilton, if fifteen per cent of the electors before Oct. 15 petition a council, whether or not council has passed such resolutions, to submit an agreement to the electors, then it shall be the duty to submit it at the next annual voting day. Electors shall mean persons qualified to vote on money bylaws."

Makes Vital Concession.

Another section makes it plain that the burden of railway falls not on the whole municipality, but on the zone where is a vote, and that the deficit, if there is any, shall be met not by the sale of bonds, but must be met by direct taxation on the people of the area interested.

A very important concession was made also in striking out the clauses of the bill, which ordered the recalling of all municipal debentures and hydro bonds issued in connection with hydro radial construction.

Attorney-General W. E. Raney's "further amendment to the corporation tax act" was given second reading and committee approval in the Legislature today. The measure provides for the payment of the 5 per cent wagerings tax by "assignees" as well as racing association, and is intended to head off a supposed manoeuvre by the Metropolitan Racing Association to escape the provisions of the act.

The amendment of the tax act to secure the 5 per cent levy on winning wagers of race track bettors through the sale of stamps, if necessary, is incorporated in the bill.

Under the amendment to the act the provincial government may place its representatives on race courses to sell the tax stamps.

"This is a safeguard and a last resort. Surely the government does not purpose selling stamps on race courses," said Mr. Hay.

Opposes Bonus Extension.

Hon. Mr. Raney acknowledged that this was the intention of the amendment.

Hon. D. Carmichael's rural hydro distribution bill was finally given committee approval after further lengthy discussion and further protest by Mr. Casselman over what he considered to be the failure of the government to carry out its obligations to the rural people of the province to benefit them by hydro distribution.

Hon. D. Carmichael gave the promise that next session a measure would be brought in which would give associations the privileges of bonus, and he intimated that it would be retroactive to cover the case of those inaugurating power distribution systems now.

Premier Drury, however, opposed any extension of bonus to private interests.

GODERICH HARBOR WILL BE DREDGED

Special to London Advertiser.

GODERICH, June 8.—Through the efforts of J. W. King, M.P., assisted by William Black, M.P., and the recent delegation headed by President J. I. A. Hunt of the elevator company, and Charles Garrow, K.C., the government has authorized the expenditure of $80,000 for dredging along the elevator frontage in Goderich harbor, the work to begin almost immediately. Goderich is really to be congratulated on securing such an appropriation, as strong opposition was met by those who were interested in securing the sum. Too much credit, therefore, cannot be given to those who made representations to the government.

Two motorists appeared in Magistrates Reid's police court today on a charge of reckless driving of their cars in Goderich. Russell Gidley of Blyth was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $11, while William Grieve of Winthrop was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $14.50.

At the session of the county council James Reynolds, who has been in charge of the house of refuge at Clinton, resigned his position, and the new manager, Mr. Robertson of Clinton, was appointed. He will receive $600, and his wife $400, making the salary in all $1,000.

Lies in Casket In Bridal Robes On Eve of Day She Was to Wed

DETROIT, Mich., June 8.—Clothed in the bridal robes in which she was to have been married today, with the bouquet in her arms and the wedding ring on her finger, Miss Sadie Solomon is lying tonight in her casket at the residence of her father, Joseph Solomon, 2180 Fischer avenue.

Down in the aisle of the Church of the Annunciation, which she would have walked today as the bride of John Mulzey, 2164 Fischer avenue, she will be carried for the last time, Friday.

Plans were completed for the wedding of Miss Solomon and Mr. Mulzey which would have taken place at 9 a.m. today. Miss Solomon died Monday night.

Miss Solomon and Mr. Mulzey had planned to have a large church wedding because of the many friends the bride wished to include among the guests.

Miss Solomon was taken suddenly ill with appendicitis ten days ago. After three days' illness in her home, she was rushed to St. Mary's Hospital, where an operation was performed. Only a week after the operation, from which she was believed to be recovering, her death occurred.

ADDRESSES LISTOWEL WOMEN'S MISSION SOCIETY

Mrs. John Griffith, Honan, China, Gives Interesting Talk.

Special to London Advertiser.

LISTOWEL, June 8.—Mrs. John Griffith of Honan, China, addressed the W. M. S. of Knox Church, Wednesday afternoon, describing a trip into new territory by the missionary and his helpers.

Mrs. Griffith stated that the roads in China were very poor, and made traveling a hardship except in such localities where famine money had been expended in paying laborers to improve the roads. Journeys are made in carts, or in mountainous parts, on mule litters. Self-support is emphasized by the missionaries, and the Christian Chinese are taught to bear the expenses of their churches.

A curious custom in China, said Mrs. Griffith, is that of having the coffin in readiness long before death makes it a necessity, and it is considered very dutiful of a son to present his father with a coffin.

William Lloyd Coulter of Moorefield, and Clara A. Willoughby of Elma Township, were quietly married this afternoon by Rev. J. M. Nicol of Knox Church. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nutt of Atwood. Mr. and Mrs. Coulter will reside at their farm, 3rd Maryborough Township.

INDORSES PLEA FOR UNEMPLOYED

OTTAWA, June 8.—(By Canadian Press.)—"The demand of Mr. MacNeil is entirely in harmony with the oft-repeated requests of organized labor," declared Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Council of Canada, this morning, in reference to the letter of C. G. MacNeil, secretary of the G. W. V. A., to the premier, urging appointment of a special parliamentary committee to investigate the unemployment situation.

FIRE DESTROYS CATTLE YARDS

MONTREAL, June 8.—Fire broke out at the cattle yards of the Grand Trunk Railway at Point St. Charles this afternoon, to which the whole force of the fire department of the city was summoned. The flames spread with great rapidity, and in a few minutes two blocks of wooden sheds containing cattle were ablaze.

The fire was gotten under control after the livestock had been removed. Hundreds of pigs, squealing lustily, were saved.

OVERHEATED OVEN CAUSES FIRE.

Fire, caused through an overheated oven at Gorman & Eckert's, Rectory street, gave the fire department a run at 11:40 o'clock Thursday night. The damage was slight.

WOODSTOCK, June 8.—Non-producing hens throughout the country are to be culled out, today Professor Fraser of the O. A. C. poultry department assisted by local officials, commenced work.

Several of the finest flocks in the county were gone thoroughly through in each case. The non-layers are ticketed for the market and none but the egg producers are allowed to stay with the flock.

LAUNCH BUILDING PROGRAM IN GALT

Brantford Contracting Firm To Erect Number of Dwelling Houses.

GALT, June 8.—It is reported that a firm of Brantford building contractors who have been looking over the situation here as to the need of more dwellings, intend to launch an extensive house building program, and already plan to erect three on one survey. They are building a type of bungalow that has proved popular in Brantford, one member of the firm having erected 66 there in the past couple of years. If arrangements can be made they will start work next week.

The Horticultural Society will hold a peony show Saturday afternoon next in the market building.

Commissioners Boyce, McLean and Lawrence of the Dominion Railway Board and Chief Engineer Mountain, here yesterday, inspected the G. T. R. right of way on which the Grand River Railway tracks run for a distance in regard to a complaint of the former company over two poles to hold the overhead construction of the latter. It was claimed the poles interfere with view of the trainmen. A decision will be given in a day or two. The commissioners also made an inspection of a number of level crossings.

Oliver Hammond, in his 78th year, a native of Norfolk County, passed away early this morning at the residence of his son, Joseph, in this city. He came here a year ago. Three sons and one daughter, Robert of Paris, Edward of Dundas, Joseph of Galt and Mrs. Rice of Villanoba, Norfolk County. The funeral takes place at Waterford on Friday.

The Ford car stolen from Hespeler on Saturday evening last was located, standing on a street in Kitchener, where the thieves had deserted it.

Thieves broke into the residence of Bert Doer of Hespeler in the absence of the family and took a number of small articles.

BUREAU PROMISES COOLER WEATHER

TORONTO, June 8.—A change to cooler weather by tomorrow is the encouraging report coming from the local observatory this afternoon.

Asked if the figure of 91, the maximum point registered in Toronto yesterday, would be reached today, the weatherman stated that the thermometer reading at noon was 84, and that there was little likelihood of the mercury passing yesterday's altitude record.

During the past fifteen years the mercury has reached 90 no less than eight times during June, but never as early as this year. In 1914 the temperature reached 95 on June 16; in 1920 on June 10 it reached 94. The warmest day in June last year was on the 23rd, when 90 was registered. The highest temperature that was reported to the local observatory was 92 at London.

The warm area yesterday extended from White River, with 90, to Quebec, with its 84, although Kingston recorded only 74.

Budget and Politics.

WHEN a speaker takes it upon himself to discuss the budget, it seems reasonable that there should be something that would force him to discuss the budget, and nothing else.

The debate, just closing, has given the country an evidence of floods of oratory, with a multitude of tangents. The members that started out to talk tariff and stayed with it right through are not numerous.

Going through one that was put on fifteen pages of Hansard a few days ago, it is interesting to note the variety of things that were considered necessary in order to get properly at the discussion of the budget brought down by the finance minister.

At the start the speaker avowed his belief that time spent on the discussion of the budget was well invested. Following this came a brief resume of war conditions and world affairs, followed by a reference of some length to MR. FIELDING having brought down 16 budgets. After this there is a comparison of the amendment offered by MR. CRERAR and the one standing in the name of MR. DRAYTON. Then comes the reading of an extract from a speech by HON. GEORGE BROWN, and another one by the premier in 1921, followed by an interview which the premier gave to THE ADVERTISER in 1920. Then come more extracts from speeches by MR. MEIGHEN and MR. FIELDING, and a quotation from the late HON. WM. PATERSON.

All through this, apart from political advantage, there is nothing that is of practical value to the people of the Dominion in this present year. The budget is a business proposition, not a political plaything.

For some two pages of Hansard following all this, the speaker got down to business and spoke of affairs as they were in his own riding, and how the tariff was likely to affect them.

Shortly after that he became involved in an argument with some of the Progressives, over the position of HON. MR. CRERAR in the Grain Growers' business, this taking up the best part of two pages. Following this, the speaker turns to the matter of railroads, and recounts the building of the Transcontinental lines, and the estimates that were given at that time of the probable costs. In these there are long extracts from speeches by men of that day, HON. A. G. BLAIR, SIR WILFRID, and others.

In all this speech there must be between 1,500 and 2,000 words taken from the pages of Hansard and put back there. By that we mean that that amount of time and space is taken up with reviewing what men have said there on former occasions.

There were some very excellent points made in the address, but they all had reference to the conditions of today, and how the new tariff would bear upon them. The speech would have been strengthened, and the members of the house would have listened to it with greater eagerness had it been stripped of its political trappings and made to bear directly upon the problems of 1922, rather than the views and hopes and statements of other days.

It cannot be denied that there has been too much extraneous matter brought in with the idea of embarrassing the government. SIR HENRY DRAYTON and HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN, in the amendment they moved at the outset, gave the "small politics" attitude to the debate, and many of their speakers have made the mistake of trying to ape their leaders.

55 Years a Teacher.

ALEX. MCQUEEN started to teach school in January of 1867. He will cease in June of 1922. What a length of service this veteran principal of Ryerson School, London, has given to the community, and what an influence for good he has been on the hundreds and hundreds of boys and girls with whom he has come in contact.

Fifty-five years in the teaching profession! What a tonic to hear of such a thing in these days of changes overnight, of get-rich-quick schemes.

Fifty-five years spent in daily contact with the boys and the girls who have become the men and women of today.

It is seldom that a teacher has a good chance to see the work that is being done. The contact is too close. The pupil never thinks of it at the time. He chafes under restraint, never realizing that he is being strengthened in character and enriched in intellect. He grows up, passes on out into the world of industry, science and labor. He is well equipped to take his place. He can stand up to any task that comes before him. Result—he wins. And why? Ten chances to one because some patient and faithful school teacher could see fifteen years ago what the boy couldn't or wouldn't see or realize at that time. The teacher could see possibilities that needed development, tendencies that needed restraint. And in his quiet way he bent his energies to having that boy turn out well.

After all, the boys and girls that do turn out well are the greatest reward the teacher can hope for. The salary that is paid a teacher will never allow retirement—even if it did, salary cannot take the place of a sense of accomplishment and a knowledge of work well done.

MR. MCQUEEN has had a long and an honorable record in a worthy profession. He can retire, knowing full well that his work has been well done, and with a sense of accomplishment, which is undoubtedly the greatest wealth any man can possess.

A Difficult Task.

DISCUSSING the causes of depression in agriculture and industry, EDGAR CRAMMOND, an English writer, claims that the productive ability of Britain was 50 per cent greater in 1921 than in 1914. In other words, due to the stimulation of invention and the increase in productive efficiency during the war, the British people ought to be in better shape than ever before to go ahead and compete with the world in manufacture.

One reason why this statement will not walk on all fours is that this increased efficiency was mostly in the manufacture of commodities—pardon the word—that were used in the war.

Canadian shops in many cases had the same experience. By the time they received orders to cease making shells and fuses, they were at a point of efficiency that would not have seemed possible when they first started in the undertaking, armed with a shop full of green work people.

The trouble has been that firms have not been able to turn this wartime efficiency to peace time lines. In many cases it has been attempted in all good faith. Where large organizations had been brought together, and where there were good working organizations, it was figured that it should be possible, with some changes in mechanical equipment, to turn the whole thing over to some new line that would be marketable in the post-war period.

In some cases it was successful; in many cases it was a failure, because the market for the new line was either over-estimated or non-existent. It has been a difficult matter to turn war-shop experience to present-day conditions.

LITTLE 'TISERS

As the days get warmer Hansard gets fatter.

Say, what under the sun do you do when you discover that some one has put a foot through last year's screen door?

It's one awful job to find some person big enough to rise up and declare that the rhubarb sauce season has been officially closed.

When the rumor is passed around now that there are burglars in the community most of the men run home to see if the cellar windows are bolted.

Changes are being made in the color schemes of postage stamps. They will be carried around in the vest pocket as usual, though, and pried apart with a jackknife in hot weather.

Attention is drawn to the fact that while the coal operators and miners of Canada squabble over wages and conditions of work, coal from United States is coming in and taking possession of the market which belongs to the Canadian coal trade.

Stock market reports are being hurled through the air around here almost any hour of the day, and it's a lucky thing for some of our shrewd investors that they haven't got the apparatus to pick them up. They might as well be happy as long as possible.

Vancouver Province. — "HENRY FORD probably never expected to live to see the day when one of his inventions dedicated to peace and industry should figure on a gory field. Tractors instead of mules are being used to haul dead bulls from the arena in a Mexican city."

There's a new idea being brought out to deal with speeders, that is to assess them a dollar a mile for every mile they travel in excess of a speed limit. If a man drove at 40 miles and the speed limit was 20, he pays $20. They will run the police court on a chart just like the man who sells you a pane of glass now.

"June is the month when one must make the great decision whether to give the blushing bride a berry spoon, a pie knife or a pickle fork."—Vancouver Province.

Quite right, sonny, but what's become of the spoon-holder? That thing always stood ace-high at a wedding in previous years.

Canadians who point to United States as a high tariff land, and as an example to us, should tell the whole story. SENATOR SIMMONS of North Carolina terms the emergency tariff as an awful example of protectionism run mad. SENATOR UNDERWOOD wants the freest possible trade with Canada, stating: "Canadians are our brothers in kin. Only recently they have been our brothers in arms. No country on this globe made greater sacrifice for the cause of the Allies than did the Canadian soldiers."

BE'ER MCDONALD of the Chesley Enterprise announces that he is off to the Weekly Press Association meeting at Ottawa, and on that trip he is going to buy more equipment, including a font of 12-point for his machine. Now, to the lay reader 12-point is a powerful big type, about half as big again as the average run of the paper. The Chesley man says he is going to use it on ads and job work. We doubt it. That 12-point will be used when the editor from the north wants to take the hide right off some of the offending politicians who are not playing the game with nine men on each side.

NOAH'S POETRY

MOSQUITOES.

The other night I went upstairs to seek repose in slumber there. I parked my boots upon the rug and hung my trousers on a chair.

My shirt upon the bedpost perched, my tie it fell upon the floor—my vest I stuck with tender care upon the knob what works the door.

Ah, I was weary in my soul—my carcass from my toil was sore, I longed above all else just then to lie upon my back and snore.

I closed my eyes and counted sheep, and beckoned to 'em to come near, the only thing that answered was mosquitoes camped upon my ear.

Once more I sought to get a spot where I could snore in sweet repose, and when I found the place, by heck, mosquitoes tripped upon my nose.

I beat 'em into pulp, I thought, and butchered every one I saw, I closed my weary face again when skeeters romped upon my jaw.

They say there be some folks who know just what to do for this here thing, just how to fool mosquito bites when summer's crowdin' out the spring. If such there be, go bring him here, oh, make him speed it on the run, and let him open up his face and tell us how the thing is done. —NOAH.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

NO. 236—THE CUSTOMER WHO WRITES EVENLY.

Consider for a moment that you are a merchant, or the employee of a big store who has that responsible job of shopping for mail customers.

You have just received a letter from a woman who writes a small, even, careful, neat hand. She has asked you to tell her something about different styles of blouses you have to offer at a certain price. She's relying largely upon your judgment because, let's say, she is the wife of a farmer and hasn't had a chance to get to the city to look around recently.

You have a wide range of styles and patterns to offer her. What are you going to do about it? Are you going to describe all of them to her and thus confuse her? Or are you going to speak just a few of the kind that will appeal to her? How do you know what will appeal to her if she hadn't outlined her tastes to you in her letter?

You know from her writing. You know that she is a person of neat, modest, refined nature and that she is rather conservative. That is just what the foregoing type of writing indicates. It's easy. You simply eliminate all the more flashy styles and write her about several which are conservative, modest and refined in cut, color and finish.

HERE WE HAVE ITEMS OF LOCAL AND DISTRICT INTEREST AS RECORDED IN THE ADVERTISER OF 1897.

JUNE 9, 1897.

The results of the examinations of Toronto University are published this morning, and show London pupils to have sustained their brilliant record. Apparently not one of them has been plucked, and they have won three scholarships. The following have passed their fourth years, and are elegible to write B. A. after their names: Miss Mabel Bapty, Fred H. Barron, Miss M. Hills, H. M. Little, H. B. Mills and J. M. Nicol.

The other successful candidates are:

Third year—C. M. Carson, Miss A. J. C. Dawson, Burris Gahan, J. M. Gunn, Miss M. A. Harvey, J. W. Hobbs and W. E. Slaight.

Second year—J. R. Bone, Miss T. G. Davidson, W. E. Hendrie and Miss E. J. Taylor.

Senior matriculation—C. Garvey.

In the third year, Charles Carson, son of School Inspector Carson, captures the Daniel Wilson scholarship for physics and chemistry. In the second year, J. R. Bone wins the Edward Blake scholarship in chemistry and mineralogy. If the regulations do not permit Mr. Bone to hold two scholarships the latter one goes to F. J. Burchard. With the exception of Fred Barron, all of the successful candidates are graduates of the London Collegiate Institute. The results must be a matter of pride to Principal Merchant and his able staff.

The arduous task of the stationing committee of the Methodist Conference was not complete when the afternoon session was opened, and other business than the reception of their report was proceeded with.

The final draft of the stationing committee was awaited with a great deal of interest until 4 o'clock, when the ultimate decisions were reached and Secretary Smythe was able to make them known. Following are the changes that have been made in the stations since the first draft:

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE.

SUPERSTITIONS

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

THE ancients had many deeply-rooted superstitions concerning illness. Most of them have been proved to be well grounded on scientific facts.

Away back in the beginning of medicine, it was known that a single attack of an infectious disease rendered the survivor, probably, and in most cases absolutely, immune to further attacks.

Today scientists use antivenins, substances extracted from snakes, for the same purpose that Galen, Nero's doctor, gave viper blood and viper flesh to his patients.

History states that the great Persian king, Michridates, always fearing poisoning, tried all the possible antidotes known to his time, experimenting in sizes of doses on condemned prisoners.

Medieval doctors advised those bitten by mad dogs to eat the liver and drink the blood of the guilty dogs—"a hair of the dog that bit you." The modern Pasteur treatment for hydrophobia is a more refined use of this same idea.

About 1780 Jenner discovered that dairy folk infected by udder sores of cows (cowpox) became immune to smallpox. Thus was vaccine discovered, and countless millions of lives made safer.

Pasteur developed Jenner's discovery into a scientific working principle. The horse is actively immunized against diphtheria when the poison of that disease is injected into it. Then we take the serum from his blood and use it to confer passive immunity on human beings.

Besides the diseases named, we have antitoxins against lockjaw, meningitis, typhoid fever, typhus fever, cholera and others.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is PERENNIAL.

It's pronounced — per-en-i-al, with accent on the second syllable.

It means—lasting or continuing through the year, perpetual, unceasing, uninterrupted.

It comes from—Latin "per," through, and "annus," year.

It's used like this—"Prohibition enforcement officers say they have some hope of minimizing liquor smuggling, but that the supply of domestic moonshine promises to be perennial."

The BOOKSHELF

EDITED BY CABR

THE SIN OF MONSIEUR PETTIPON, AND OTHER HUMOROUS TALES. By Richard Connell. The George H. Doran Company, Publishers, New York. $1.75.

THE business of writing short stories has reached a mechanical perfection never before approached. Whether in the early years of the present century Mr. Connell apprenticed himself out or not to Miss Blanche Colton Williams does not appear. In his dedication he shares the responsibility almost equally with his wife, of whom he declares that she "helped me with these stories."

Mr. Connell undoubtedly writes according to formula, but, then, what short story writer doesn't? By a consensus of opinion among the highest authorities, the formula is now fixed for all time. Two characters are enough, and even at that the interest must be around only one character. There must be an opening, an approach, what is called a denouement, a climax and a dismissal.

Some day, however, a short story writer is going to surprise us by writing a story that violates all the rules and which will still be interesting.

Mr. Connell's faults are mechanical, and his characters of necessity are artificial. He makes them fit into his idea willy nilly, but it must be confessed that he does it with great cleverness. He impresses us with the conviction that he knows what he is about: and making allowances for the defects that have been noted, it is undeniable that his stories are laughable and extremely interesting. "Mr. Pottle and Pageantry" is particularly good.

SOULS FOR SALE. By Rupert Hughes. Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., Publishers, 265 Adelaide Street West, Toronto. $2.

WHILE Rupert Hughes's "Souls for Sale" is by no means this author's debut as a champion of the "movies," it is the first time he has ever devoted an entire and extremely lengthy novel to their defense.

He is no half-hearted or compromising upholder of the claims of the cinema. No small amount of his space is devoted to expressing vigorous objections to the censorship of the screen.

As for the story, the characters are so many marionettes jerked about for the purpose of illustrating the author's championship of motion pictures.

Many details, some of them entertaining, are given of the methods used in taking pictures; and the life of the studio and of the motion-picture colony in Hollywood is described with some minuteness.

As a novel, the book suffers from verbiage, and is, at its best mediocre; but as a defense of the motion-picture industry it is timely and not without interest.

SUNNY-SAN. By Onoto Watanna. McClelland & Stewart, Publishers, Toronto. $1.75.

PLODDING onward like Christian in "Pilgrim's Progress," with his load growing lighter, the reviewer comes to "Sunny-San," by Onoto Watana, and stops his carping long enough to assert that it is an innocuous and mildly amusing little tale of the summer fiction type.

It is the tale of Sunny, the only daughter of Mme. Many Smiles, a famous geisha.

Anyone imagining that it remotely resembles "Kimono" will be doomed to disappointment.

It is the sixteenth novel from the pen of "Onoto Watanna," and her literary output includes also hundreds of short stories and scenarios.

The loss of her youngest son by an accident cast a shadow upon the author's life, and for seven years she ceased to write at all. To get away from the scene of her trouble she went West.

About a year ago she broke away from the claims of a ranch in the West, where, with the exception of a winter in New York City, she had lived continuously for the past five years, and came to Calgary, shut herself into a room, and wrote her new novel, "Sunny San."

CAMPBELL CLAN HOLDS ANNUAL REUNION AT POPLAR HILL PARK

Representatives of Famous Scottish Family Present From All Parts of Western Ontario—Fun and Frolic Is Order of Day—Sports Program Is Keenly Contested—Pipers Furnish Music.

Special to London Advertiser.

POPLAR HILL, June 7.—All roads led to Poplar Hill Thursday, when members of the Campbell clan, numbering almost 1,000, gathered in Memorial Park for their annual reunion.

There were Campbells from Fernhill, London, Lobo, Kerwood, Komoka, Glencoe, Walkers, Michigan, St. Thomas, Ilderton, Wilburn, Denfield, Mosa, Brooke, Tilbury, Alvinston, Kilmartin, Mount Brydges, Port Elgin, Crediton, Parkhill, Petrolea, and many other centres in Western Ontario.

Fun was the order of the day, and from 10 o'clock in the morning until the last of the scores of autos loaded up for home at dusk, every member of the clan made merry. There was ice cream galore for the kiddies, while the older folks indulged in soft drinks to their heart's content.

The program began by a bumper open air dinner, with the entire clan seated together at picnic tables, and was concluded by a baseball game between teams representing Crediton and Lobo. Much credit is due the capable committees under President J. D. Campbell, reeve of Lobo, for their efforts in making the annual outing such a success.

Ideal weather prevailed, and the recently-constructed grandstand in the park was filled by the clan, anxious to hear the message of leading representatives of the Campbells. A picnic of the Campbell clan would be incomplete without the touch of Old Scotia, in the form of a pipe band, and, realizing this fact, arrangements were made for the Western Ontario Regiment Highland Band to be present, under Pipe Major P. Russell.

Pipers Delight Picnickers.

These musicians delighted the merrymakers with their rendition of familiar Scottish airs, while Dorothy Hart and Jean McLean of London entertained with Scottish dances. Others taking part in the program included Marion and Lillian Campbell of Glencoe, whose singing was much appreciated.

A feature of the open air dinner was the big family cake, seven stories in height, baked for the occasion by John McGugan and John Campbell of Lobo, which was cut during the meal, each person present receiving a portion. As an aid to identification every representative of the clan wore a card with name inscribed thereon, surmounted by the Campbell tartan.

Many reminiscences were related during the day by old friends and relatives who seldom meet, all of which added to the success of the reunion. When the picnickers were seated at dinner J. D. Campbell, president of the clan, delivered an address of welcome, and then appointed Dan Campbell of Ivan toastmaster.

After the toast to the king every person present joined in singing the National Anthem. The toast to Canada was responded to by Archie Fraser of Lobo, and was proposed by Rev. William Leitch of Kintore.

As the toast to the clan was announced the music of the pipers was heard down near the orchard, and as the band approached their selection was recognized as "The Campbells Are Coming." This concluded the dinner program, after which the crowd adjourned to the grandstand to hear the speeches.

Presents to Old Members.

John D. Campbell of Lobo, aged 90 years, and Mrs. Margaret Campbell of Brooke, 78 years old, were then called to the platform as the oldest Campbells on the grounds. To Mr. Campbell a cane was presented as a token of the esteem in which his fellow-members of the clan hold him, and Mrs. Campbell was made the recipient of an umbrella as a similar token.

Greetings from Mrs. Sammis, now in the Canadian West, were read, after which Prof. Archie Campbell of Montreal gave a historical sketch of the Campbell family tree. His explanation proved most interesting, as it traced the early history from Argyleshire, Scotland, to the first settlement in Ontario by sturdy forefathers of those present at the picnic Thursday.

A short address on the history of the different branches of the Campbell family was given by Peter Campbell of St. Thomas, John Edward Campbell of Lobo, Rev. William Leitch of Kintore, and John McGugan of Lobo, secretary of the clan. Each one traced out one branch of the family, Mr. McGugan pointing out that five generations emanated from John Campbell.

Of his four sons, Duncan, John, Peter and Donald, the first three emigrated to Canada, while Donald remained in his native land. Those gathered in Memorial Park Thursday are the descendants of these Canadian pioneers.

The concluding feature of the platform program was the baby show. After considerable difficulty the judges announced that Donald McKinley of Alvinston had captured premier honors, with Janet Gillies of Glencoe winning second prize. Lorne McLaughlin of Alvinston was judged third best baby, while Billy Campbell of Ilderton was awarded fourth prize.

Sports Keenly Contested.

The entire clan then posed for a panoramic picture, and the sports of the day were initiated. All the events on this portion of the program were keenly contested. Supper was served in the open air at 6 p.m., and there was an abundance of those delicacies dear to the Campbell heart.

After supper the Lobo baseball team battled with Crediton in a league fixture, and went down to defeat by the score of 2 to 0. A large crowd witnessed the visitors shut out the home team in a fast game.

Following are the winners of the various events on the sports program:

Throwing baseball, for girls—Lily Campbell, Kerwood.

Local World War Veteran Praises Andes

Injured by Shell, Suffered Constantly With Backache, Hemorrhages From Kidneys, Lost Flesh and Was Unable to Work.

I am not seeking any publicity, says Mr. J. P. Lavender of Route No. 2, this city. A well-known truck farmer and veteran of the world war; but when a medicine has such wonderful reconstructive power as this Andes, and a person finds it out, it is not justice to humanity for them to not let it be known.

I called at Strong's Drug Store on May 27, walking with the assistance of a cane, and purchased one bottle of Andes; had been unable to do any work for two weeks and was losing flesh daily. I was struck with a piece of shell six years ago, and my back has given me trouble ever since. For the past four months was almost impossible to get around. Every time passed urine would burn like fire, and the pain was intense. From one to two teaspoonfuls of blood would pass also; was advised had stones in kidneys and must undergo an operation, but kept putting it off hoping that something would give me relief. Well, this first bottle of Andes gave the relief that I had prayed for. Never in my life have I had anything to do me so much good in such a short time.

The first four doses stopped the awful pain and burning, and by time had used half the bottle the blood did not appear any more. I had gained in weight and all my friends marvel how much better I look, and to think it required only one bottle of Andes. I am delighted and feel that I cannot praise this new medicine too highly.

Men and women in London and vicinity who suffered for years with constipation say they are free from this affliction. Those who suffer from sluggish liver claim Andes has purged them of excess bile and never have a headache or dizzy spell to bother them. Others claim restoration from weak kidneys, stomach disorders, and tell of how digestion has improved greatly.

Talk with the Andes expert at Strong's Drug Store. He will explain this new medicine and tell just how it gives good results to those that use it.—Advt.

NEWS FROM THE OTHER SIDE

Interesting Letter From Woman in South Africa

Johannesburg, South Africa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and because I felt run down. I tried a lot of medicines before I tried yours. One day I was standing on my stoop when a boy came up to me and handed me one of your little books. I read the book and the next day my husband went to the chemist's and bought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel quite strong and well now as I am on the sixth bottle. I have written to my sister and told her all about the wonders it has done for me, and I am quite willing for you to use my name as I can not thank you enough for what it has done for me."—Mrs. W. F. Rush, 128 6th Ave., Mayfair, Fordesburg, Johannesburg, South Africa.

It is this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by letter or verbally, one woman to another, that ought to commend this splendid medicine to you.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women's ailments (in use nearly fifty years), and the fact that it has helped thousands of other women, should cause you to give it a trial now. It can be safely taken by any woman—young or old.

SEES MENACE IN SEX DEIFICATION

KITCHENER, June 8.—The 57th commencement of St. Jerome's College was held this morning in the college auditorium, followed by a banquet in the college refractory.

The exercises were attended by Catholic clergy representing churches in various parts of Western Ontario, alumni of the institution, and also a number of Catholic priests from points in the United States.

Rev. Magnus Schumacher, M.A., of the Diocese of Rockford, Ill., delivered the address to the graduates, and in his remarks referred particularly to the problem against which the graduates will have to pit themselves. One of the greatest temptations which they will meet with will be the influence of the present day tendency to deify sex.

He declared that society today is rapidly degenerating to a point where sex is being set up as a god, and the world, he stated, is descending to old pagan practices under new forms.

The "flapper," he stated, is but one of the modern expressions of the deification of sex.

Urges High Standards.

In concluding his remarks, he expressed the hope that the young men who had partaken of an education which held strictly to Christian standards would be a compelling force in bringing society back to a respect for charity and chaste living.

The graduates were: William Canary, Hamilton; Craig Furlong, Killaloe; William Gleason, Ridgefield Park, N. J.; Alphonse Harrington, Killaloe; Thomas Holly, Killaloe; William Morrison, Ingersoll; Thomas Foran, Killaloe; Gregory McGuire, Eganville; Timothy Ryan, Killaloe, and Thomas Wingle, Ruby.

No further developments have been noted in the escape from the police cells Monday night of Walter Hinesman, who was arrested in Hamilton on a charge of burglary and forgery.

After hearing evidence all day yesterday behind closed doors, in connection with the escape, the police commission did not issue a statement until this morning. The statements declare that after hearing the evidence of the various members of the police force and Percy Reuben, charged with assisting the prisoner, they believe that Reuben is not guilty.

Think Friend Assisted.

They conclude that the most likely explanation of the mystery of his escape is that some friend of his entered from the rear door of the headquarters, and going into the cell room released the prisoner. Another theory is that the prisoner had a key concealed on his person with which he let himself out of the cell.

As a result of the increased work in connection with the Children's Aid Society it was decided at a meeting of the society here today to appoint a committee which would take up the matter of appointing an assistant for Inspector Pullem.

Declines To "Scrap" Crow's Nest Pact For Indefinite C. P. R. Shadow

OTTAWA, June 8.—Among the proponents of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement there is considerable skepticism regarding the counter-proposals submitted to the transportation costs committee by W. B. Lanigan for the Canadian Pacific Railway yesterday.

Mr. Lanigan's proposals were somewhat indefinite. In brief he suggested that the Crow's Nest Pass agreement should be scrapped; that all changes in rates should be in the hands of the railway commission, and that reductions should be made throughout the whole Dominion in the rates on a specified list of basic commodities.

Members of the committee are naturally reticent about giving opinions at the present time. But the general feeling is that the committee must first know the extent of the reductions suggested, and that whatever they are they be embodied in a statute to take the place of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement.

"In the first place," said one member, "we want to see a definite proposition, and we want to have it in the statutes. We do not want to give up what we have by law for something of which we have no idea, and which can be changed at any time. Until we can get something as good or better we want to stick with the agreement. The Canadian Pacific says that it will have to dig into its reserves to pay dividends if the agreement comes into force. We have had to dig into our reserves; why shouldn't the C. P. R.?"

FINES DOCTOR FOR SELLING LIQUOR

INGERSOLL, June 8.—Pleading guilty to a charge of selling liquor in contravention of the O. T. A., Dr. Adams of Embro, was today fined $200 and costs by Magistrate Patterson. The information was sworn out by Inspector James S. Jones of Toronto, and June 6 was specified as the date on which the offence was committed.

Dr. Adams told the magistrate he is 85 years of age. He is probably the oldest practitioner in Oxford County. For some time, it is understood, there have been complaints from the Embro district in connection with the sale of liquor. The fine was promptly paid.

DENIES DISCHARGE OF BANKRUPTCY

TORONTO, June 8.—Because J. W. Burgess of Brantford omitted to keep such books of account as would disclose his business transactions within three years preceding his assignment, Justice Orde has directed that he must wait for two years before securing his discharge from bankruptcy.

Burgess went into bankruptcy with assets of $5,712.54 and liabilities of $10,633.54. He had no knowledge of bookkeeping, and felt with his small business he would not be justified in going to the expense of employing a bookkeeper.

His motion for discharge from bankruptcy was opposed by a creditor on the ground that he had not paid fifty cents on the dollar and had not kept the requisite books of account.

Says Girls Bob Hair in Japan; Fears Jazz Dance May Invade

Shina Nakanishi San, Charming Japanese University Student and Y. W. C. A. Worker, Tells of Rapid Changes in Her Home Land, Including Introduction of Social Dances in Past Year.

A heart-warming, friendly smile which brightened her whole winsome face, dark, almond-shaped eyes, a mass of dusky hair dressed low and showing in rolls at the back beneath her smart navy hat with touches of tomato red, and a slender, taller-than-had-been-expected figure in a navy blue silk frock—this was Shina Nakanishi San of Tokio, in old Japan, as she stepped from the Windsor train to the hot, hot, London platform on Thursday afternoon. It was a very modern maiden, indeed, who responded to the greetings of hostess and interviewer, a 1922 young woman, who combined the alertness of Miss Modernity in America, however, with the gracious courtesy of her own country.

She had come as a Japanese Y. W. C. A. worker, who is going back to the Orient for more efficient service after special training, to address the girls of the London Y. W. C. A. on Thursday evening, and also to be the guest of honor of the Women's Canadian Club June fete in the Western University grounds on Friday afternoon.

As she chatted over a cup of tea half an hour later in the home of Dr. Peter Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald, where she is a guest, inquiries evoked an interesting story of Japan as it is today, a striking contrast to the popular conception in this country of the Land of the Rising Sun.

"I have been away two years," she said, "and I expect to see great changes when I go back. Things move quickly in the Orient in this age, as well as in America and Canada, and I hear Japanese girls have taken to bobbing their hair, and that the social dances have been introduced within the past year. The jazz dances and music? Possibly I will get a shock at finding them, too, when I go back home.

"Such a thing as social dancing for men and women together was unknown when I came away. In the girls' college, we learned these dances, the girls dancing together the waltz, the two-step and such of your dances. But when we left school there was an end to that. Japan has adopted a great deal from western countries, music, musical instruments with other things, so even it may know the jazz invasion. Our own dances I think very graceful."

All the time as she talked the eyes of the speaker twinkled with mirth.

Glancing out of the window, she expressed her admiration of the trees in Victoria Park, across the way.

"Your trees are much smaller in Japan, are they not?" she was asked by The Advertiser.

"That is an impression which seems to be prevalent here," she said, "and yet it is a mistaken one. As I came through on the train today I was thinking how much larger our trees are at home. In Nikko, up in the mountains, the most beautiful spot in Japan, we have enormous trees, bigger than any I have seen on this continent, even in California."

"And you," said a member of the little group gathered around Shina Nakanishi San. "You are taller than I expected. I had always thought the Japanese women were very tiny."

"I am five feet three, or a little more," was the answer. I, perhaps, belong to a large group of girls, though in my country, I am not unusually tall."

Looking about the drawing-room in a lull in the conversation, the charming visitor from away overseas exclaimed: "And this is the home of Miss Caroline Macdonald! It is such a wonderful work she is doing, especially visiting the prisoners in Tokio. It was the first time it had been done when she took it up." The story followed of how Miss Caroline Macdonald, graduate of the London Collegiate and Toronto University, left Y. W. C. A. work in Japan some years ago for still broader social service activities, including the prison work. Just off the press is a book which she has translated, the story of the life of a Japanese prisoner, written by himself, after his conversion in prison. A few copies have found their way to London.

The acquaintance of Nakanishi San with Miss Macdonald began when she was a pupil in a girls' college in Tokio, where the clever Canadian young woman was teaching. Warm tribute was also paid to Miss Emma Kaufmann, the Canadian Y. W. C. A. secretary, with whom she is going to work when she returns there a few months hence.

"The Canadian people seem very near to me," said Nakanishi San. "I knew Miss Macdonald and Miss Kaufmann so well in Japan, then, when I came over two years ago I visited Miss Kaufmann's home in Kitchener for a month before going to New York for a year's course in the Y. W. C. A. Training School. This past year, when I have been taking a special course in the Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., I have been staying in the home of a professor, who, with his wife, is a Canadian."

Miss Kaufmann, states Nakanishi San, is not only paying her own way while doing the work of Canadian secretary, but has made the gift of a summer home for the "Y" secretaries of Tokio up in the mountains. Visiting Tokio and their daughter five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Kaufmann of Kitchener, purchased and equipped a residence for the secretaries in the city.

Nakanishi San remains in town till Saturday evening, when she goes to Woodstock, where she speaks on Sunday.

Honor Memory

In memory of the late Mrs. John Callard, who was regent of the Trafalgar Chapter, I.O.D.E., from its inception in 1901, the members of the chapter have decided to endow a room in the War Memorial Children's Hospital. The step was unanimously agreed upon at the June meeting held at the summer home of Mrs. John Laughton, Port Stanley.

Mrs. M. J. Atkins, a former regent, who has been in Florida for several months, was warmly welcomed back. Merriment was created by drawing for a handsome carved bookrest, the gift to the chapter of A. H. Smith. Mrs. W. Bendle held the lucky number. In a second drawing contest the prize, a dainty apron, was won by Mrs. Nightingale.

The hostess served high tea at a prettily-decorated table, Mrs. W. McLeod, Mrs. J. Harding and Mrs. W. Logan assisting.

Says Schools, Churches, Hospitals Biggest Factors in Canadianizing

"The chief factors in making the foreign-born good Canadian citizens are the church, the schools and the hospitals," was the declaration of Mrs. Andrew McWilliams of Calgary, Alberta, in the course of an inspiring and enlightening address delivered on Thursday afternoon at the June meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Executives of other Presbyterian W. M. S. auxiliaries of the city were specially invited to be present for the occasion and to be, with the speaker, guests of honor of the annual June tea, held at the close of the program.

Mrs. McWilliams, who came to the city to visit in her former home, after attending the meeting of the general council of the Presbyterian W. M. S. in Galt, dealt especially with the new Canadian problem as she has come to know it through a long residence in the West, touching also upon questions of outstanding importance discussed at the recent council meeting.

Tribute was paid to the work the school homes are doing, institutions in which the children live and get an insight into the meaning of a Christian Canadian home. Taught the ways of Canadian home-making, the girls go back to their homes to set new and higher standards for these in the new land. The hospitals and hospital units, through which the ministry to the sick is accompanied by teaching of sanitation, home hygiene, etc., with evangelistic teaching. Mrs. McWilliams stated, are getting very close to the lives of the stranger settlers, and bringing them in touch with Canadian ideals.

Emphasizing the supreme importance to Canada's present as well as future of dealing satisfactorily with the new Canadian problem, the speaker recalled the history of immigration in the years immediately preceding the war, a period in which settlers, the majority of them from mid-European countries, swept into the western provinces until 400,000 arived in a few years. To complicate the situation, the newcomers were permitted by the government to settle in the national groups, thus rendering more difficult the task of assimilation into the national life, and as a matter of course retaining the old-world language, standards and mode of living. As an illustration of the contribution the settlers from other lands may make to the Canadian national life, Mrs. McWilliams mentioned Ukranians, who have taken a prominent place in the schools and colleges of the west, and who, with others of their nationality, are proving a credit to the land of their adoption.

In conclusion, Mrs. McWilliams made an earnest appeal to the mothers, particularly of the W. M. S., to see that Ontario and Eastern Canada do for the younger Western provinces what was done for the "old settled parts" by the Church of Scotland in generations gone by.

Mrs. George Wood presided. Miss Cannell giving a Bible reading and Miss Gladys McEvoy singing a solo.

A novel method of "showering" a bride-elect was adopted by the members of the Library Club on Wednesday afternoon, when they held a garden tea in honor of Miss Peggy Gemmell at the country home of Miss Loveless of the children's department at Kilworth. Following the merry picnic tea on the lawns, Miss Gemmell was asked to light the Japanese lanterns strung about among the trees and shrubs. Instead of a candle in each, she discovered a dainty gift. McWilliams of Calgary, Thursday afternoon, proved, as always, a most happy event. Numbers of guests were present from other Presbyterian churches of the city, mmbers of the executive of W. M. S. auxiliaries of these, as well as a large representation of the women of St. Andrew's. Mrs. Morley Adams, convener of the social committee, was in charge of the tea arrangements, Mesdames W. J. The living-room, done in taupe, mulberry and gold, with touches of black, with an artistic arrangement of Columbia roses and marigolds, made a charming setting for the hostess, who wore a handsome gown of black panne velvet, with a blouse of cream canton crepe, trimmed with jet, and her guest, Mrs. W. D. Bradford of Granby, Que., wearing a graceful gown of gray crepe de chine, embroidered in steel beads, and wearing a corsage of Columbia roses. The sun-room and dining-room were also decorated with fragrant flowers, and adorning the tea table were Ophelia roses, held in a silver basket resting on a cluny cloth. Mrs. William E. Greene, gowned in white crepe knit, with a white hat, and Mrs. C. H. Firth, wearing a gown of orchid, with a smart black hat, ushered to the tea room, where Mrs. A. A. Langford and Mrs. S. M. On Wings of Wireless

by ARTHUR B. REEVE

START HERE.

Dance palaces have given a new twist to crime, making it easy for crooks to gain acquaintanceship with girls from fashionable homes. Radio, too, is an aid to criminals. This is the theory on which Guy Garrick and Dick Defoe, young wireless inventor, are working in solving the mystery of a $100,000 holdup at a radio dance. They fear the rich and beautiful Ruth Walden has innocently been snared by crooks. Their search leads them to the "Sea Vamp" boathouse of the suspected fast set, which they find is equipped with complete wireless installation. There they find a roll of undeveloped films and a bag used by the robbers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III.

THE MYSTERY CRAFT.

DICK rejoined Garrick late in the afternoon in his rooms at the Nonowantuc Country Club. Garrick had been developing the roll of films.

"What do you see there?" he asked Dick, holding up the strip.

Dick turned toward the light and looked carefully. "A boat. Looks like one of those scout cruisers built for the government during the war."

"It's autographic, you see. The name, 'The Bacchante' is written under it, and the date."

"Oh, yes. But by whom? Whose writing is that?"

"Never mind that now. What is that shore line? Do you recognize it? Take my glass."

Dick studied it intently and minutely for some minutes. "I think . . . it looks like the Greenport Harbor."

"That was what I thought. I wanted your opinion. Now look at the next one."

"Here's another of a party—Glenn, Ruth, Vira—"

"And that other girl is Rae Larue. That fellow in back is Jack Curtis."

Garrick stowed the girl's hit and the films away in a chest.

"Well, what's next?" asked Dick. "I suppose they'll all be at the club tonight at that subscription dance—"

Garrick nodded silence. He was calling Greenport, where he had a friend, a boat-builder.

"Seem's that she's a mystery ship—on mystery cruises," he frowned as he turned to Dick from the telephone. They know her out there, all right. But no one out there seems to know who owns her. She slips out on these mysterious cruises, then back just as unexpectedly—then away again. From the description, I'd say that Brock often handles her as captain. There's nearly always some of that crowd of young folks on her, too; sometimes a party. My friends says he will telephone if the Bacchante comes in. She went out yesterday."

It was after dinner, and a little absent-minded knocking about of the billiard balls alone, that Garrick was recalled to the matter in hand by the penetrating tuning up of the orchestra in the ballroom.

He sauntered out on the wide club porch that faced the harbor and looked out straight ahead through the wide opening of the two headlands into the sound. It was a beautiful starry night, with no moon. Far out in the sound could be seen one of the big New England steamers, a majestic mass of lights. Here and there knots of young people had begun to gather.

He was endeavoring to select a quiet corner where he could watch, when three girls, arm in arm, in light shimmery summer frocks sauntered across the lawn and up the steps.

"Oh, Guy." He turned. It was Ruth, nearest, with Vira on the other end and a piquant little, bobbed-haired, snappy-eyes, lithe, animated girl between them. "We've been talking about you—and Rae wants so much to meet you." Ruth presented Garrick to Rae Larue. Garrick was an adept with police persiflage. He needed to be, to cover up the eagerness with which he studied this interesting your person.

"I've heard so much about you, Mr. . . . Garrick," she explained keenly, with a come-on smile and a hesitation after the "Mr." that hinted at the irksomeness of formality. "You live at the Club, don't you? I'm staying with Beth Page; you must know the Pages? I'd seen you around when we've been over here and I thought I knew you were—you!"

Rae had that sometimes fatal gift of flattery, a way of leading a man on to talk about himself and of appearing to be exclusively interested in his tastes and pastimes. Guy studied her as she devoted her entire attention to him to the exclusion of her companions. Was she attractive because she was so young; or was it because she had had so much experience in being young? From his life at the Club they were soon far a-field leaping lightly to the visit of the "Sea Vamp," then ever westward, like an explorer, to the city, the shows, the hotels, the night life. Was she questing to see just how far the gaiety of this debonaire, sophisticated club-man took him? For his purposes Garrick conveyed the impression that the only limits known to him were the sky and the horizon. Somehow, however, he had a feeling that this girl was learning pretty much what she wanted to know; thought for the life of him he hadn't quite figured out yet what that was.

Far down the porch Vira caught sight of Glenn and had no intention of playing the lay figure longer. Girls and fellows were passing, and with a nudge at Ruth, Vira broke up the party and the three continued down toward the ball room, leaving Garrick to figure it all out, especially Ruth, who, the moment they were gone, seemed to resume leadership.

Dick had been sauntering alone about the Club, speaking a few words to friends lolling in wicker chairs, nodding to others, when he heard the noisy entrance of a group of young people.

Dick Defoe was the quieter type of man, undoubtedly destined to make any reasonably normal girl happy. A gracious, if reserved, manner seemed to announce to the world his reserve strength of character, if trouble brewed.

He quickened his pace as he saw Ruth. His face lighted up with one of his charming smiles. Ruth was talking vivaciously to the girls when she suddenly caught Dick's smile and answered it.

"Ruth," he said as he drew her aside with eager deference, "may I have all the waltzes this evening?"

She hesitated, looked at him a bit shyly, shrugged one beautiful shoulder as if debating whether to say yes, then smiled: "Dick—you're a fast worker! I believe you bribed the musicians. They're playing a waltz this minute! Wait . . . till I put my wrap up. I'll be with you in a second."

Dick watched her go, glowing all over. He was going to hold her close to him, he was going to breathe the perfume of her golden hair, he was going to waltz, a dreamy and enticing waltz, with the girl over whom he was frantic.

Then he heard someone call Ruth. It was Jack Curtis. "Ruth . . . this is mine! . . . When I want a dance with a girl I just put my arm about her . . . like this . . . and we're off!"

Ruth laughed merrily, flashed back a look at Dick. "And when I don't want to dance with a freshie I do this . . . and we're not off!" Jack had tangled himself with his own legs or else it was an added pressure as in Greek wrestling. He was on the floor while the other fellows were laughing and Ruth, smiling, hauled him up.

"Did I keep you waiting long, Dick? I love this one." Dick tingled with joy as he waltzed off in the dreamy strains.

It was half over when Dick felt himself pushed aside and heard Jack's voice, ingratiating, "May I cut in on this? We all do that now!" Dick swallowed: "I'll leave it to Ruth." Ruth's only answer was a gentle pressure of his arm, a negative nod in Jack's direction—and she was dreaming again. There was something so comfortable being held closely by Dick.

There was one waltz when he could not find Ruth. He hunted all over. She was not dancing; nor on the veranda. Nor did he see Jack Curtis, Rae, Vira or Glenn.

"WHEN I DON'T WANT TO DANCE," SAID RUTH, "I DO THIS."

"Fire!"

The orchestra hesitated at the sharp alarm of the club steward, then decided it was not like a theatre, that there was no panic danger, dropped its fiddles and saxophones and snare drums and ran. A moment later the shrill siren whistle on the village power house split the ether. Dick joined in the jostling mob in evening clothes.

"Guess we'll make a de luxe bucket brigade!" panted Tony Bleecker. "It's the East Wing!"

Up the corner of the Lodge back of the Club casino, where were the living rooms, licked a hungry red shaft of flame. Dick looked in dismay. On the third floor were Garrick's rooms.

A moment later he was bounding up the stairs and had flung his shoulder against the door. It did not yield—until he turned the knob. It was unlocked. Through the stifle of smoke he fought his way to the chest and flung it open. The hat and the films were gone!

The suffocating fumes of chemical extinguishers sent him blindly struggling, groping, gasping, back. Outside he could hear the bells and the shouts of the local fire fighters. Handkerchief crushed over his nose and eyes he stumbled in the hallway . . .

"Don't get up, Dick. You'll stay here with me tonight." In a daze Dick felt sheets under him and over him. "They've given me rooms in the West Wing until repairs are made," explained Garrick.

Dick blinked around, his eyes still stinging and his head in a whirl. "Wh-who did it?" he gasped. "Who got—the things?"

Garrick smiled quietly. "I don't know who got the prints I made. The film itself and the hat were in the Club safe half an hour after you left this afternoon.

Early in the morning came a call from Greenport. The "Bacchante" had dropped anchor during the night. With an early breakfast Garrick and Dick were speeding eastward, Garrick deeply affected by the impulsive devotion of his friend the night before, Dick still living over the dance.

"She rides on an even keel—for a boat with such a name!" exclaimed Garrick, as they stood on a dock in his friend's shipyard, observing the "Bacchante."

"Splendid lines!" enthused Dick.

"What I'm most interested in is what I believe must be a very efficient wireless on her," muttered Garrick.

A small boat had put out from her and was rowing toward the shipyard. The shipbuilder himself joined them.

"Take that former submarine patrol boat," winked Garrick to him. "That's a fast craft, capable of going anywhere. What might a boat like that cost, if you could pick one up?"

The builder caught the cue. They were deep in designs and prices when Dick suddenly interrupted at the approach of two men from the street to the town. "Professor Vario . . and, by Jove, Jack!"

The four stood talking boats as the skiff with a sailor neared them. Vario was a thick-set man with a shock of hair and bushy eyebrows. His manner was the manner of a scientist but his sun-bronzed skin showed intimate acquaintance with the outdoors.

Dick, who had known him quite well, soon discovered that he was on a little vacation, his family having taken a cottage over on Shelter Island.

"He's the best radio trouble finder in the world," put in Curtis. "There's a friend of mine down east owns this boat. He had 'em put in and pick me up. But they told me their wireless was on the blink. So I thought of the Professor here and he agreed to come over and look it over. If there's anything wrong, he'll get it right."

The skiff had come alongside by this time. "Say, partner," inquired the builder of Curtis. "You seem to know my customers, here. If I row them out would you mind if they took a look at the boat?" Then, aside, "I think I can make a sale—maybe get an order to build."

Dick nodded ungraciously and the two skiffs set out.

It was perhaps an hour, or even more, that Vario buried himself in the cabin, going over everything from aerial to headgear, testing vacuum tubes, getting a fine adjustment on the variable condenser. The air fairly reeked with talk of tuning coils, transformers, variocouplers and variometers, rheostats and regenerative sets, the merits and demerits of nearly every controversial piece of apparatus known to radio. It was to be expected, thought Garrick, with a practical man like Vario meeting up with Dick of the inventive mind. In fact, he was pleased.

The second hour was lengthening when Vario had the apparatus working properly. Curtis, who had spent most of the time in the little pilot house going over some charts with the navigator, rejoined them.

"Suppose you're going back to your cottage, Professor, not to Rock Ledge yet?" he asked, then turned, unbending a bit, to Garrick and Dick. "Like to take a little run over to Shelter Island with us and back while we take the Professor home?"

The shipbuilder excused himself and dropped down into his skiff and the "Bacchante" was cutting across soon at a great clip, as if proud to show her paces.

At Manhaset Curtis decided to land with Professor Vario, to be picked up later, and the scout boat swung about to land Garrick and Dick back to Greenport.

It did not take Garrick long to find an excuse for one of his hasty surveys of the cabin. As usual, as if by instinct, he put his finger on the spot. It was a slip of paper tucked in what passed for a log book. He passed it to Dick:

Garrick did not even answer. His forefinger was traveling down a list of calls pasted in the front of the book:

"CKGGG The Inner Circle. W. 49th St."

"E-yah!" growled a thickly Norwegian voice, as the navigator poked his head in. "Snooping—eh! I show!" He blew sharply on a whistle from his pocket.

Instantly it seemed as if the crew swarmed from every direction. It was a glorious, if ignoble, fight. In about the time that it might have taken to tell it Garrick and Dick found themselves flung overboard in the open of Greenport Harbor with the tide running strong out of Peconic Bay into Gardiner's Bay.

Only a couple of athletes would ever have found themselves again on shore, wet and dripping, stripping off what was left of their clothes and hanging them on the ribs of an old wreck to dry in the blazing sun after the tough battle in the water.

"Well," chortled Garrick as they sat on the deserted sand naked and exhausted, "we had nothing on when we came into this world . . . but they've got something on us now!"

Dick laughed and looked over at Guy. Garrick was a man after his own heart.

Garrick rolled over on his back and stretched as the sun boiled out salt water that had puckered his skin.

"Squaring the 'Inner Circle'!" he replied tersely, as if it were all in the day's work.

Bloomer Dresses of Organdy

The dress is transparent, of course, and so the bloomers are made very full and trimmed with little applique flowers just as the dress is.

The skirt is made quite short and the boilers quite long. Because organdy is so stiff and the bloomers are so full the effect is one of billowing hoopskirts.

This is only an elaborate variation, though, of the same bloomer dress the busy mother long has found so satisfactory. They are shown in sizes for girls from 3 to 8 years, and may be bought of all manner of materials.

The most popular trimmings are cross-stitch smocking and applique. There are no restrictions as to color.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

SAUSAGES FOR SUMMER MENUS

WHILE the use of pork during hot months is more or less taboo, sausage is very acceptable, from frankfurters to the delicately-seasoned imported sausages. These sausages are delicious sandwich fillings or can be served sliced with salad as cold meat or lightly broiled and served with mayonnaise and lettuce on toast as a hot open sandwich.

Luncheon Sausage.

Put the small link sausage in frying pan. Pour over boiling water to half cover. Cover closely and simmer until water evaporates. Prick each sausage with a fork and fry to a delicate brown on all sides.

Drain on heavy paper. In meantime prepare fresh pineapple in fan-shaped slices. The slices should be not more than three-eighths of an inch thick.

Put the pineapple in the pan the sausage was cooked in, sprinkle with sugar and simmer over a slow fire till the fruit is tender. It will take 15 minutes.

If the sausage was not very fat add a little butter. The sugar melts with the butter or sausage fat and caramelizes. Return sausage to the pan for the last five minutes of cooking to insure blending of the juices and perfect hotness.

Arrange sausage and pineapple on a hot platter and garnish with watercress. Allow one piece of pineapple for each sausage. Canned pineapple may be used.

CLUB NEWS

ASKIN STREET CIRCLE LEADS.

Congratulations are forthcoming to the Askin Street Mission Circle for having raised $264 more than any other circle in the London branch during the past year. This splendid news was announced by Mrs. Herbert Childs, the president, who attended the branch meeting in Windsor, at the meeting of the circle held at the home of Miss May Thomas, Byron avenue. Acting upon the request that the circles increase their offerings 10 per cent, the Askin Street Circle decided to do so.

Miss McCormick was appointed treasurer of the Askin Street donation to the Mrs. Robert Fowler memorial fund. Miss Lillian Robinson took the study chapter, Mrs. Westcott giving a short talk on "Christian Stewardship," and Mrs. S. Thomas an interesting Bible reading, which concluded the program. A dainty supper was served by the hostess, assisted by the members.

KOMOKA W. I.

The monthly meeting of the Komoka W. I. will be held at the home of Mrs. Blanchard, June 21.

WOMEN'S PARTY ASSISTS.

As their share in entertaining Thomas Richardson of Vancouver, ex-M.P. of the British House of Commons, who addresses public meetings in London this week-end, under labor auspices, the members of the Women's Labor Party decided at their meeting on Wednesday evening to arrange a social hour at the close of Saturday evening's public meeting, and serve refreshments. Much interest was manifested in the approaching visit. The members of the executive, Mrs. F. White, president; Mrs. W. Burnard, vice-president; Mrs. E. Palmby, secretary, and Mrs. L. Finney, treasurer, conferred with the men's executive with regard to arrangements earlier in the evening.

LOCAL UNION KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. Chauncey Smith was named president of the Local King's Daughters' Union, to succeed Miss Ella Davis at the annual meeting held this week in Christ Church. The new executive also includes Mesdames James Orr and Whetter, and Miss Wright, vice-president; Miss Margaret Brown, corresponding secretary; Miss S. F. Sims, recording secretary; Miss E. French, treasurer. The name of Miss Davis is added to the list of honorary presidents, Mrs. G. B. Sage and Mrs. Frank Lawson. An address by Mrs. D. L. McCrae was an outstanding feature of the evening. Christ Church Willing Workers' Circle entertained at supper, under the convenership of Mrs. Ursula Tucker.

A deputation of the members called at the home of Miss Davis Wednesday afternoon and presented her with a handsome vase filled with flowers, accompanied by a brief address of affectionate appreciation.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Comet-Legs, With His Evil Pals, Starts Mischief

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

"It was Wasp Weasel and I was glad to get away with my life."

FOR a week folks on the earth must have thought Mr. Peerabout, the Man-in-the-Moon, had gone crazy.

Such weather! And the moon acted as if it had lost its senses. One night the moon was dreadful. It came up as clear as a bell and round as a ball. The next minute it wasn't there at all. After five minutes there it was again, but with freckles all over it.

Then it went away and stayed for an hour. And the next time it came out it had moved over three house lengths and was so dim you could scarcely see it. After a while it cleared up a bit, but was wearing three collars!

Mr. Peerabout was distracted.

His telephone kept ringing and ringing, and letters! Well, you should have seen 'em. Complaints by the dozen.

Oscar Owl was dreadfully snappish.

"My goodness! What's wrong?" he demanded. "Last night I flew down into the corn field, where I was sure I saw Flop Field-Mouse sneaking along with Muff Mole. The moon was dark and I couldn't see so very well.

"I was just about to take two nice bites, when something flew at me like fury. It was Wasp Weasel, and I was glad to get away with my life."

"It's not my fault," declared the Moon-Man. "It's Comet-Legs. He and his friends, the Nuisance Fairies, are playing hob with my plans.

"Here it is late spring and everything should be lovely, but between Jack Frost, Howly Thunder, Jumpy Lightning and Old Man Storm, and all the rest, the whole season is ruined.

"But never mind! There's a good time coming. I've got two helpers, Nancy and Nick! I expect them to catch old Comet-Legs any minute now."

"Well, I hope so," growled Oscar.

Has Western Ontario Any Perfect Ladies?

WHAT IS ONE?

WHILE considering the question, "is there such a being as the perfect lady?" one may go far afield in discussion and opinion.

Unlike the male, the question of dress evidently must claim a large share of the consideration, to say nothing of the use of face powder, lip sticks and similar things that may be encountered on "my lady's dressing table."

An important issue has been raised. Under the powder and so-called "make-up," subject to such common usage nowadays, do we find the perfect lady, even as historians record, existed in the "good old days."

Do you uphold the views of those who adhere rigidly to the contention that the dress and appearance of the fair sex of this day indicate that the bulk of them fail to measure up to the old standard or at least to that standard sought by the modern male who desires to "take unto himself a wife?"

Or perhaps on the other hand you think as does the other section of the populace that should you follow these same girls to their homes where their true selves are more apt to be revealed (minus the "powder and paint") you will find that they are every bit as "sweet and lady-like" as their mothers and grandmothers were said to be.

The Advertiser is offering a prize of $5 for the best answer with five additional prizes of one dollar each for the next best answers.

HAS NATURE'S GIFTS.

My idea of a perfect lady is one that has all the qualities that nature bestows—education, culture, deportment—everything inbred.

One that has sympathy for her fellow-women in all spheres of life, and helps them.

One that makes you feel that she is different from others; one that carries herself with ease and grace. One that dresses as a lady should; her manner and speech; her real taste for all that makes this world lovely.

In short, one that has all the qualities of a woman in good standing. One that does not think too highly of herself. Western Ontario has perfect ladies.

Queen Victoria was a perfect lady.

H. M. S. KOHINOOR.

Highgate, Ont.

ONE WHO IS KIND.

My opinion of a lady is:

One who is kind and considerate of others, and who would not say or hurt another's feelings, one that says what she means and means what she says; one that speaks good, plain English, minus any slang; one who is honest and upright in her home or in the business world, and that tries to make the best of life's opportunities, also modesty in dress.

MRS. JAMES BIGAM.

16 Chalmers street, Galt, Ont.

WESTERN LADIES.

You can recognize the Western Ontario ladies by their stately appearance, their gentleness, taste, culture, their repose of manner, self-possession, their entire absence of all snobbishness.

An exquisite creature in her quiet elegance in dress, possessing a quality of personal magnetism, and a dash of brilliancy.

Some ladies have exceptional advantages—carefully educated, reared amongst those of distinguished ability and members of exclusive circles, cultivated, enlightened and traveled.

Possessing all these advantages she might still be lacking in all the necessary qualities that go to the making of a lady in every sense of the word.

Her personal beauty, her gentleness of deportment, she exercises an inward sense of justice, knowing all the various vicissitudes of life, so humbly conscious of her social inferiority more than compensated for illiteracy and humble origin.

If a girl is fired with an ambitious zeal for culture and improvement, she can fit herself for any circle in life. She can cultivate an inward sense of good morals, virtues, "do unto others, etc," obey the rules of etiquette.

Radio Radiations

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

The biggest surprise that awaits the performer before the radiophone is radio stage fright.

Even the most experienced stage artists have fallen victims to this affliction. And yet, the most fascinating thing in connection with radio—and I have run the gamut of them all—is the opportunity to address thousands of unseen listeners.

Next to this comes the fascination of using the Morse code and operating your own telegraph transmitter. Just think of being able to reach out through the air and getting in touch with innumerable friends throughout the country, continent and even across the ocean!

Radio Wonders.

Do you know that if you are the owner of a vacuum tube receiver you have right in your hands the necessary equipment to enable you to do just this? Do you know that one of the small vacuum tubes which is used in connection with your receiver will enable you to throw into the air enough energy to cover distances of several hundreds of miles under favorable circumstances?

An amateur in Newfoundland using but four of these little vacuum lamps was able to get his tiny signals to me as I listened on the coast of Scotland last December.

During the war the operators on board nearly all the naval vessels used their vacuum tube receivers as transmitters for carrying on personal conversations with vessels of the fleet with a range of a few miles. This became so common that orders had finally to be issued by the powers that it be stopped. It frequently interfered with other duties.

Simple Sending Set.

The attached diagram is a "hook-up" of a simple radio set for transmitting messages by telegraph. When adjusted so as to produce oscillations in the circuit this arrangement will deliver to the antenna sufficient energy to cover a distance of 20 to 100 miles.

It should be borne in mind that one must know the code well enough to be able to send and receive at least 12 words a minute before he will be allowed to operate a transmitting station.

RADIO PRIMER

AUTODYNE—The "beat method" of radio receiving, formed by the difference in frequency of the incoming undamped wave and the oscillations of the receiving circuit. The difference causes a regular succession of "beats," in the reception of CW waves, by which signals are strengthened and static subdued somewhat.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.—Advt.

ASKS COLLEGES FOR DIPLOMATS

Sir Auckland Geddes Urges Need of Training For Foreign Service.

Declares Universities Must Supply Men For Nation's Big Jobs.

TORONTO, June 8.—That, mainly due to the war, there was a great scarcity of men trained and capable of assuming positions in the control of the foreign affairs of nations, and that the universities must do their share in overcoming this scarcity by placing young men in the field, was the plea made by Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, in addressing an audience in Convocation Hall tonight, on the occasion of a special convocation of the University of Toronto for the presentation of honorary degrees, to himself and several other notables, including S. Alfred Sze, Chinese ambassador to the United States.

Relations Are Frank.

At the outset of his address Sir Auckland declared that never before in the history of the world had the diplomatic relations of the United States and Great Britain been so frank, cordial and free from antipathy.

The speaker declared that within the British Empire until lately the whole responsibility of foreign affairs has lain on the government in London. Much credit was due the men of the past who had looked after these affairs. Before the war there had always been available considerable selection to fill these important posts. They were men who from their youth up were brought in contact with world conditions. During the war the casualties of such valuable men were very heavy. From this loss, and due also to the heavy taxation imposed, there was no longer an available supply from which to draw.

"We must turn to the universities for such men. We must look to the universities and they must act on a set purpose, year by year impress upon their young men, and on their young women, too, something of the principles and something more of the history of the foreign relations of their country with other countries."

Confers Degrees.

The degree of doctor of laws to Sir Auckland Geddes, Lyman Poore Duff, Sao Kee Alfred Sze, Hon. William Melvin Martin, Rev. Henry Carr, George Crofts, Edward Pease Davis, John Henderson and Charles Allen Seager.

Doctor of letters—Henry Rushton Fairclough.

Doctor of music—Ferdinand Albert Moure.

Here's Big City In a New Role Toronto Giving Trees to Farms

TORONTO, June 8.—Rural Ontario needs more trees. Rural Ontario is getting them from the last spot that any one would expect—Toronto.

It takes the province's biggest city to supply the farms with what cities are supposed to lack and farms supposed to have—woodlands.

Men have been busy gathering maple seeds in west-end streets, the little fluttery butterfly seeds that children love to play with. They have been sorting them out, rejecting the bad ones, putting the perfect ones in bags by the bushel, and away they are sent to Norfolk county.

"We are going to grow those seeds at our Norfolk nursery," said Prof. E. J. Zavitz, of the Ontario reforestation branch, today. "We are making the collection in Toronto because we have men here just now who are capable of handling that sort of work. The trees, when grown, will be sent all over Ontario, mostly to replenish farmers' woodlands."

FARMERS TO WAR ON GRASSHOPPERS

EDMONTON, Alta., June 8.—Two miles of the Battle River Valley, seven miles northeast of Hardisty, is a moving, swarming mass of millions upon millions of grasshoppers, varying in size from house flies to an inch and a half long.

This river bottom appears to be a breeding ground for the pests. Farmers of three municipalities are burning 100 loads of straw over the area today, while waiting for the arrival of poison from Edmonton. Three farms in the vicinity have already been completely cleared of every green blade and shoot.

OCCUPY BELEEK TO SAVE STRIFE

British Forces Will Not Advance Unless They Are Further Attacked.

Griffith and Churchill Discuss Plans To Avert Further Border Collisions.

LONDON, June 8.—Operations designed to clear the Pettigoe-Beleek triangle in Ulster have been completed with the occupation of Beleek by the British forces today, and unless the troops are attacked there will be no advance. Therefore, there is no reason for further fighting, according to an official communication issued by the colonial office tonight.

With the object of preventing bloodshed the forces have been out of all proportion to the resistance expected and, says the communique, the comparatively bloodless result justified the precautions.

The British government intends to withdraw the British forces within Ulster territory, it is added, as soon as it is satisfactorily assured of the unlikelihood of a repetition of the incursions and raids which have disturbed the area, and communications to this end and for the restoration of tranquility of this part of the frontier have been addressed to the provisional government.

The London negotiations are declared to be proceeding satisfactorily; technical conferences on points connected with the interpretation of the treaty continued today and in consequence of the progress made, a meeting of the British signatories to the treaty is expected tomorrow.

Arthur Griffith conversed with Mr. Churchill for an hour this afternoon for the purpose of devising more effective measures for preventing collisions on the Ulster border.

BITTERNESS AVOIDED.

DUBLIN, June 8.—While there was brief fighting along the Ulster border today the Dail Eireann opened in an atmosphere of peace; every point involving a possible controversy was avoided because of the conference at London, and the forthcoming elections in Ireland.

The old bitterness revived only for an interval, when Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, thought he saw a campaigning motive in an attempt by the supporters of de Valera to clear Erskine Childers' name of the brand of "Englishman." Controversial subjects, such as an army report containing a strong denunciation of the disturbances in the country alleged to be due to irregulars, were passed without discussion, and the remainder of the proceedings were mainly formal.

It is generally assumed that the legislative body now being elected will be the inheritor of the present Dail, and that a coalition government is a certainty. Several references were made to the solidarity of all sides in any dispute with the British ministry.

ST. JOHN'S COMMUNITY PICNIC PROVES SUCCESS

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. JOHN'S, June 8.—The St. John's Community Club, which comprises the four school sections, three churches with their pastors and congregations and two representatives from the township council, held its second annual picnic in the Baseball Park here, Wednesday afternoon.

The baseball games were keenly enjoyed, the Ballymote, Fanshawe, Hyde Park and the local teams competing.

A fine program of races, as many as twenty competing in some of the events, was held.

The greasy pig led the boys a good run before being caught by Lorne Beattie, as did the guinea hen.

The baby show had five entries and the judges, the township councillors, failed to agree and the prizes had to be divided equally among the contestants.

The grounds were beautifully lighted with gasoline lanterns.

The Medway Brass Band rendered excellent music and the picnic generally was a great success.

REPORT BUSINESS BOOMING IN YUKON

DAWSON, Y. T., June 8.—(By the Canadian Press.)—With the general opening of navigation in northern waters, business is booming in the Yukon. The steamer White Horse, the first vessel from White Horse this year, left for Dawson last night with a record load of passengers, freight and mail.

More freight was accumulated at White Horse yesterday for various Yukon points than there has been at the same period in the last ten years, and an extra heavy booking of tourists for Dawson is reported by the White Pass Railway.

GOUIN 'SCRAPS' LAST HOPE OF TORY COHORTS

Proves Liberal Government Has Kept Faith With Canadian People.

BUDGET VOTE TUESDAY

Premier King Believes Delay Advisable To Permit Fiscal Modifications.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, June 8.—Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice, and the sphinx of the Liberal party, swept into oblivion today the basis upon which the Conservative government had built their ill-famed amendment to the budget, by proving for all time that the government in all its legislation had kept faith with the Canadian people.

Deliberately and concisely Sir Lomer exposed the duplicity of the leaders of the Conservative legions in their charges against the Liberal party before and after the election.

"The people," Sir Lomer said, "were not deceived by the Liberals during the last electoral campaign. Some of the electors were bitterly disappointed at the results of the elections, but the majority were satisfied. The electors voted for the Liberal party, because they had confidence in the Liberal party, and they voted against the government because they did not want any more of the National-Liberal-Conservative regime.

"I am confident that the electors of Canada will not consider the amendment to the budget seriously any more than did the Canadian press.

"Notwithstanding what has been said, the budget is in perfect consistency with the promise made to the electors by the Liberal party during the elections.

Urges Party Faith.

"Just as we said then to the electors that they should trust the Liberal party if it came into power, to be fair and just while following sound principles, so we say now to the people of Canada, do not be misled by the statements made by my friends of the opposition, for they merely play the same game as they played in 1896."

Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, Sir Lomer continued, had proven by his eloquence, his broad-mindedness, courage, sincerity and patriotism, to be a worthy successor to his late chief, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

In anticipation of a budget vote the galleries of the house were packed during the evening session, but because there remained several members who had not spoken, and because the premier announced that the finance minister wished to make a statement, possibly of several modifications in the fiscal policy of the government, the division was postponed until Tuesday of next week.

The announcement came as a complete surprise, as everyone, even to the various whips, fully expected to vote in the morning following an all-night session.

King Asks Delay.

Before the debate was resumed in the house today Premier King said it had been hoped that the debate would conclude this evening. However, he was informed that there were yet many speakers who wished to place their views before the house.

It was not the wish of the government to take any steps to shorten the discussion, and he suggested, if it was agreeable to the house, that the debate might be continued over tomorrow.

It was not customary nor in the interests of some of the members was it desirable that the vote should be taken on Friday night or Saturday.

If the house were agreeable he would suggest continuing the debate over Friday, and then on Saturday taking up the balance of the estimates or some of the non-contentious orders which were standing, and then resume the debate on Monday, which would bring the vote on Monday night or Tuesday.

"I would like to add also," Canada's premier proceeded, "that before the debate concludes the minister of finance will doubtless wish to make a statement to the house, and in the light of the discussion here, and of representations made to him, may possibly suggest some modification in the proposals that are before the house at the present time.

Right Hon. A. Meighen then remarked that it was somewhat unusual for a government to suggest departure from its own program in regard to the budget debate.

W. F. McLean (Conservative, York) urged that the debate be closed at once, and was loudly cheered by Conservatives.

Crerar Favors Delay.

Hon. T. A. Crerar thought it would be better to go on with the debate, as an understanding might be reached. If the debate were to go over for another day, he would favor the suggestion of the premier.

Resuming then the debate Hon. H. H. Stevens (Conservative, Vancouver) felt bound to state that the utterance of the finance minister would tend to allay the alarm on the part of interests which would have been affected by radical charges, such as were proposed in the Liberal platform.

He then made a brief reference to the increase tax on checks, which he said would seriously interfere with existing business methods, the checks being used largely as a matter of keeping records than of paying money.

Mr. Stevens expressed the greatest regret that the government had decided to repeal the anti-dumping clause of last session, saying that this clause was passed merely to give a proper effect to the doctrine of the minister of finance who had originated the anti-dumping clause of 1917.

Mr. Stevens considered the proposal to repeal the depreciated currency clause as "the most fatal thing in the budget." Germany had plunged the world into war. She had been defeated and immediately after began to scheme to see how she could steal the fruits of victory from the victors.

She had actually encouraged the depreciation of her own currency. Germany was immune during the war, while France and Belgium were devastated, and the industrial life of a large section of these countries was destroyed. Since the war Germany had contributed very little to the rebuilding of France and Belgium. Germany was protesting that she could not pay the reparations demanded of her, while German capital was seeking investment in various parts of the world.

Deficits in Germany were being seized upon as reasons why that country should not be pressed for reparations. These deficits were caused by aid to industries within the German border. At the end of the year the deficits were made up by another issue of paper currency, with the result that the mark had fallen to a very low value.

Last year there were 2,000,000 unemployed in Great Britain, 5,000,000 in the United States and 200,000 or more in Canada, while in Germany the unemployed only numbered 150,000. This figure was stated by the German economists to be lower than normal.

The difficulty in determining Canada's relation with Germany in trade matters was the difference between the internal purchasing value of the mark in Germany and its international value.

The internal value was three times its international value. On Sept. 1, 1921, the relation between the internal and international value was 8 to 5; Nov. 1, 1921, 7 to 2; Jan. 1, 1922, 6 to 2½, and on May 1, 1922, 3.19 to 1.44.

Situation Appalling.

France had a budget for 1923 of four thousand million francs, equivalent to $360,000,000, in addition to which she must find stupendous sums for reconstruction, and then Germany merely said she could not meet reparations because she had a deficit. The situation was appalling, and the more he thought of it the more he was inclined to the attitude of the French authorities, who said Germany should make her obligations by making her financial arrangements compatible with those of other nations, and not be squealing like rats in a trap and asking for a billion-dollar loan.

"To whom is our duty due?" asked Mr. Stevens. Was it due to France or to Germany? He did not ask the government to show favoritism, but at least Canada could be neutral. Austria had actually prohibited many manufactured articles going within her borders.

Sir Lomer Gouin, in opening his address, said that Mr. Meighen, speaking in Sherbrooke in September, 1920, stated that opposition to the government of that day was composed largely of free traders.

Mr. Meighen interposed at once to point out that in stating that the majority of those opposed to the government of that day were free traders, he had included the Progressives.

Sir Lomer replied that he was speaking for the Liberal party, and he meant the Liberal party. It was possible that some Progressives supported the Liberal party, but he was speaking of the Liberal party, as it had existed since Confederation.

"Unjust Pretention."

He proceeded to take up the "unjust pretention" made during the campaign that the Liberal party was a free trade party. Canada had had a tariff since Confederation, and under the Mackenzie regime from 1873 to 1878 the tariff duties had been increased.

Moreover, Mr. Mackenzie had declared time after time that there was no issue between protection and free trade in Canada, while Mr. Blake, both as premier of Ontario, and later as a member of the federal cabinet, had contended that the tariff was not an issue between the two parties.

In support of his treatment, Sir Lomer quoted from the speech made by Hon. Edward Blake, at Melbourne in 1886, when he said that he fully realized it was necessary to raise revenue by import duties upon goods which were produced in Canada and that these duties would provide an ample advantage to the home manufacturer.

Even after that speech, pursued Sir Lomer, the Conservatives had charged that the Liberal party favover huge decreases in the tariff which would spell ruin to the manufacturer, and consequently Mr. Blake, in a subsequent speech, had declared that free trade was removed from the domain of practical politics, and that it was not possible to change the system of taxation so that it would not give a large advantage to the home manufacturer.

"These are the principles in the main," went on the minister of justice, "which have always inspired the Liberal party. These are the principles which Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the present minister of finance embodied in the tariff revisions of 1897 and 1907, which brought to our country the most prosperous era of our national history, a prosperity which, I believe, we shall retain under the present administration."

Cites King Stand.

The policy of the Liberal party during the recent election, said Sir Lomer, was stated by Mr. King and Mr. Fielding during the budget debate of last session. He then quoted from Mr. Fielding's declaration that there was no issue of free trade in Canada and from Mr. King that the issue was not between protection and free trade.

He quoted also a statement of Mr. King's that the main consideration of the Liberal party was not protection or free trade, but revenue.

Were not these principles, Sir Lomer asked, adhered to in the resolutions which had been submitted at the present session by the minister of finance? He repeated that both Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Blake had told the electors that absolute free trade was impossible and that the Liberal party was not a party of absolute free trade.

"Did not Mr. Blake change his views in the Durham letter when he resigned?" asked Donald Sutherland.

"He did not resign over the tariff," replied Sir Lomer, "and I do not know that he ever changed his fiscal belief."

During the debate several speakers had contended that the industrial establishments were not assisting in the development of Canada. Sir Lomer had not heard arguments to justify the contention. Industry was one of the greatest factors in the development of Canada, and while agriculture was the basic industry Canada would not have been able to reach its present degree of prosperity without the manufacturer.

Sir Lomer remembered when farmers in Quebec were practically forced to leave because they could not secure a market in which to sell their products. These people had gone to the United States to find work. The same condition was to be found in all the old provinces. In this way, Canada annually lost thousands of her best citizens.

Manufacturing in Quebec had been one of the great factors in making the farmers prosperous, as industry had provided them with a market in which to sell their products. The same was true of all the provinces where manufacturing was established. Manufacturing had created towns, where a few years before there were only a very few houses.

Fears Unemployment.

Sir Lomer asked if the Progressives believed that without manufacturing Canada would have progressed. He knew that the western farmers were passing through a difficult period, but this condition was only temporary. Would Progressives accept the responsibility of making radical reductions in the tariff, reductions which would compel industrial establishments to close and throw out on the street the 600,000 people who found their living in those industries?

What was needed was an increase in the population coupled with strict economy. Drastic economy was painful to practice, but however painful, whatever government in power would have to accept the task in order to fulfill the salvation of the country.

Turning to the amendment, Sir Lomer was confident that the people of Canada would not take it any more seriously than the press did. The Liberals had not deceived the electors during the last election.

"Some of the electors were disappointed, seriously disappointed at the result of the election," he said, and then added, amid applause from the government supporters, "but the majority were satisfied."

Provide Tent At Winnipeg To Allow Presbyterians To Woo Lady Nicotine

WINNIPEG, June 8.—Twice has the Presbyterian General Assembly been convulsed with laughter thus early in its career.

The first occasion was after Dr. Gordon, the retiring moderator, stated that he had traveled 21,000 miles over Canada during his year of office and spoke of the kindly welcome he had received at the homes of the ministers.

Immediately after this, Dr. Wylie Clark, of Saskatoon, told the assembly that after the author-moderator left his manse, his two little girls approached him with the request that he would have Gordon made moderator again next year, because he was the best sport of any parson they had met.

This, the assembly received with chastened mirth, suddenly hurried into a gale of laughter when the moderator gravely broke in on the speaker to remark that he had two daughters evidently of great intelligence.

The other waterfall in the solemn stream came when the associate-pastor of the assembly church, after reading off a list of appliances, auxiliaries, offices, secretarial aids, rooms for incantation and prayer, and all with the air of an apostle, suddenly added: "And all worshippers of the weed will find opportunity to pursue their devotions in a tent on the north side of the church," an intimation that was cheered, not only by those whose minds were thus relieved of a great load, but even by such stern abstainers as Principal Gandier and Dr. MacTavish, who would hardly know a perfecto from a stogie.

SEEKS EXTRADITION FOR REFORMATORY PRISONER

New York State Official Has Warrant For Man Confined at Guelph.

GUELPH, June 8.—B. W. Vosburgh, transfer agent of the state reformatory at Elmira, N. Y., arrived here this afternoon with papers from his institution for the purpose of placing under arrest and in an endeavor to extradite a young man, John Little, of Toronto, who is an inmate of the Ontario Reformatory, where he is serving a term of one year on a charge of shop-breaking.

Little is only 19 years of age, and three years ago he was sentenced at Buffalo to a five-year term in the state reformatory at Elmira for burglary. He was subsequently paroled, but violated his parole by coming back to Canada.

He refused to go back to Elmira without a fight, and it is just a question whether there is a law in the statute books which will compel him to go back. The matter was brought to the attention of Judge Spotton today, and Crown Attorney Kearns is also looking into the question of his extradition.

The matter will have to be dealt with by the minister of justice in any event.

SAM VANCE WINS GRAND INTERNATIONAL TRAP HONORS

TILLSONBURG SHOOTER BREAKS 94 OUT OF 100

Marr and Kerr Tie For Second Place, and Three Split Third Position—Kerr Has Consecutive Run Record.

(BY STAFF REPORTER.)

ST. THOMAS, June 8.—Sam Vance, Tillsonburg, former singles trapshooting champion of Eastern Canada for five years and amateur champion of New York State, won the international handicap championship of America at Pinafore Park, St. Thomas, Thursday by smashing 94 out of 100 pigeons. Gordon Marr, Woodstock, and Fred Kerr, Crediton, were close behind with 92 birds each. Three men were tie for third place with 91 points, R. Jordan, London, and H. Payne, Montreal.

Bart Lewis was high man in the professional ranks, scoring 482 out of 500. Mr. Lewis was fourth in the scoring of the three days' shooting. A. S. Boa of Montreal was the second pro man, knocking 480 pigeons out of possible 500.

The other professional trapshooter, J. M. Dunk, was not entered in any of Thursday's events. Neither of the two profs entered yesterday fared as well as the day before on account of the strong breeze.

The sky was clear all day, but a fairly strong wind blew up in the morning and lasted most of the afternoon, making accurate shooting difficult.

In fact, the majority of the shooters seemed affected by the breeze, very few equalling their records of the day before. Sam Vance, this year's champion, broke 197 out of 200 targets on Wednesday, but on Thursday dropped down to 191. The effects of the wind were noticed also in Fred Kerr's morning shots. He broke 95 pigeons out of 100 Thursday, but the morning before made a perfect score of 100.

Sam Vance was also high man of all the events in the shoot, including the handicaps, by breaking 485 out of 500.

Eight Trophy Prizes.

Eight trophy prizes were offered to the eight high guns in the handicap events yesterday. Sam Vance captured first prize, an Elgin watch and $50 in cash. Fred Kerr of Crediton and W. Marr of Woodstock, tied for second prize, a Prest-o-Lite battery and $30 in cash, but Fred eliminated his rival in a shoot-off of 20 birds.

Many people wondered why Bill McCance, the St. Thomas crack shot, did not fare better in the shooting, but it must be remembered that Bill had to run the meet and shoot at the same time. The responsibility was so great that he was not up to his regular form. On Thursday morning, however, he made a run of 73. J. W. Hart, Dresden, ran an almost perfect score in the morning's shooting, missing but one bird, and that in the third event.

Mrs. L. J. Vogel, the popular Detroit sportswoman, was not up to her regular mark in the three-day shoot yesterday breaking only 148 out of 200 birds. She has intimated, however, that she will return next year and try her luck again.

Eight new members were entered in the handicap, arriving in St. Thomas Wednesday night and Thursday morning. They were: R. Bell and P. Passmore, Hensall; A. B. Kimberly and C. Reynolds, Morpth; E. Bice and J. M. McCausland, London, W. H. Bradfield, Straffordville, and G. Bradley, Tillsonburg.

After the close of the handicap series the merchandise events were run off. Many valuable prizes were offered by merchants in all parts of Western Ontario, and the entries were large.

Go To Hamilton.

The majority of the trapshooters who participated in the St. Thomas gun shoot will be in Hamilton Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week for the annual state shoot, which decides the amateur champions of Eastern Canada.

This meet was held in Montreal last year, but this season the Hamilton Gun Club has succeeded in bringing the shoot to that city. Some of the championships that will be contested are the singles and doubles and the handicap.

Joe Jennings of Toronto is at present the singles and doubles champion of Eastern Canada. Sam Vance, the new international handicap champ, held the singles championship for five years in a row, losing it in 1921 to Mr. Jennings. Next week, however, he will endeavor to regain his lost laurels, and the "gunmen" at St. Thomas were of the opinion that he would win it this year.

A great deal of the credit for the success of this year's meet in the Railroad City is due to Bill McCance, the energetic president of the St. Thomas Gun Club. Before leaving all the shooters expressed their thanks at the hospitality showered upon them, and said that if it were at all possible they would return in 1923.

Wetzel's Men Take 11-Frame Battle and Hand Behan First Defeat

HALF OF 10 HITS ARE EXTRA SIZES

HAMILTON, June 8.—Petie Behan, Hamilton's pitching Ace, met with his first defeat of the season here today, when the London champions won the first game of the series by a score of 3 to 2 after eleven innings of sparkling ball. Not an error was made by either team, and several sensational plays were made on both sides. The visitors found Behan puzzling at times, as he struck out eleven of them, ten taking the count in the regular nine innings. But they made their hits count, five of the ten swats being for two bases. Behan retired the side in order in the fourth, when Clarke, Schaefer and Laabs all struck out. Behan did not walk a man during the game, while Coogins walked four, Briger intentionally in the eighth when there were two on bases.

The Cockneys got their first tally in the first inning, but they have Umps Anderson to thank for it. Watson sent a long fly to Oakes in center, and Stimpson singled. He was well off first base when Briger threw to Kuhn and had Stimpson a mile, but Anderson did not see the play, and refused to call him out. Clarke struck out, but Schaefer hit the fence in right field for two bases, scoring Stimpson.

Behan Mows Them Down.

But three men faced Behan in each of the next four innings, the side being retired in the fourth by the strike-out route. Another counter crossed the platter for the visitors in the sixth. Watson sent a two-base drive to left center, after Coogins had fanned, and scored on Clarke's double to right. Schaefer came through with his second double of the day in the eighth, and got as far as third, when Laabs sent a hot one at Petie Behan, which the latter changed the course of, and in so doing enabled Gray to throw Laabs out at first.

But three men faced Behan again in the tenth, although a sensational one-hand catch of Beecher's drive by Kuhn saved some trouble. The winning run came in the eleventh, when Clarke doubled to left after Watson had struck out, went to third on a long fly to Oakes and scored when Schaefer dropped one back of short that Carlin mishandled. Hamilton got men on in the first, second and third innings, but it was not until the fifth that a run resulted. After Hunter was out, Malmquest to Boyle, Kuhn singled to left and went to second when Calbert went out, Malmquest to Boyle. He scored when Oakes singled to left. Hunter pranced across with Hamilton's other run in the eighth, when he started the Hamilton half of the frame with a single, after Kuhn had flied out to center. Oakes' double to the right field fence did the rest. Stutz started the ninth with a single, but was slow in getting started when Gray laid down a bunt, and he was nipped at second on a close decision. The Hams went out in order in the tenth, and Stutz was the only man to get on the paths in the eleventh, a walk being handed him.

WINGHAM FAN COMES BACK.

Sporting Editor:

Dear Sir,—Goderich fan's uncalled-for attack on the Wingham baseball team in a recent Advertiser, aside from being unjustified, was based on at least one wrong impression, and was where he said the fact of Wingham being defeated on their home grounds was not reported in the local press. As the game was played Wednesday, and the local papers do not go to press until Thursday, the reports which did actually appear, were naturally a day late. FAIR-MINDED FAN.

Wingham, June 7.

"PEP" YOUNG.

PEP YOUNG'S come-back, while remarkable, gives the reason if the analysis is followed back far enough, why the Athletics as a team have been doing a wonderful come-back or at least were for the first month or two. Young's fault was his mental hazards. Connie showed he was a rare psychologist when he said to Young:

"Now, I want you to do just one thing for me and that is—throw the ball.

"You are going to play second base. You are going to play it alone. The position is yours. Nobody is going to give you any advice or interfere with you and nobody is going to criticize you. All you have to do is to go out there and play second and when you get that ball you throw it.

"Now, I don't care if you throw it 20 feet wide of first base or 20 feet over the first baseman's head. Throw it into the grandstand or throw it out of the park, but throw it and throw it every time you get it. That's all."

And it's the same with every member of the team. Connie is showing a come-back, too, as well in that leadership which made him the most talked-of man in baseball for half a decade.

W. O. R's-St. Andrews Soccer Tilt Saturday Has Fans Guessing

W. O. R's and St. Andrews, both strong favorites for soccer honors, meet for the first time on Saturday afternoon at Springbank in what will probably be the best soccer tilt of the season thus far. The two teams have reached the stage now where a game between them halves the soccer following of the city into two red hot camps which can only see victory for their respective favorites.

On paper there is little to choose between the teams, even though the records give the Scots something of an edge. However, soccer has its uncertainties that go beyond either paper or figures, and the best of dopesters.

The W. O. R.'s will choose their eleven from: Fuller, Herring, Dennis, Ashton, Croots, Whitworth, Broomhead, Short, Taylor, Turner, Perkins, Ridley, Moore, Angus, Burkcombe.

St. Marys slipped a win over St. Peters last night at Sunshine Park, the verdict reading 7—4 in four frames.

St. Peters achieved 10 hits, but made two costly errors.

St. Mikes and Marconis wind up the week Friday night. The latter will be minus the services of Joe Catalano, who severely injured his knee in Wednesday's affray. The Italian boys have been playing good ball, but their errors have been costly in their three starts.

SAGINAW, June 8. — Herman Schwartje won his ninth game in 10 starts today, when he successfully squeezed Mills over with the winning run in the ninth inning, 6 to 5. BEAVERS KEEP IT UP.

KITCHENER, June 8.—The Beavers kept up their losing streak by dropping the first of the series to Brantford this evening by 6 to 2. Owing to Hindt being called to his home in Rochester, the local team was shifted around, and the fielding was as erratic as Tippett's twirling during the latter stages of the game. In addition to allowing nine hits Tippett issued six passes. Saladena pitched a steady game for the Brants, only allowing two hits during the last six innings, Manager Jack Flynn was given a fine reception when he assumed the role of pinchhitter in the ninth, but he fanned.

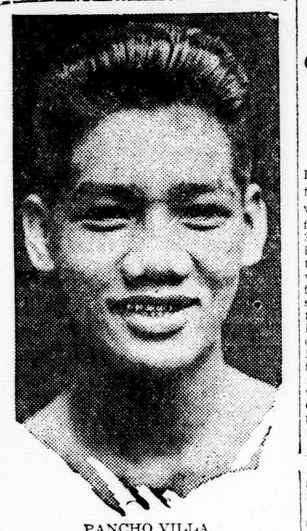
Villa But Not "Mex"



PANCHO VILLA.

WITH one Latin—Luis Firpo of Argentina—trying to break into the Anglo-Saxon fighting game among the big men, another Latin in the person of Pancho Villa of Manila—if a Filipino's a Latin—is trying to break in among the little ones.

Pancho, who appears to be no relative of the Mexican Villa, is in this country from the Orient under the management of Frank Churchill, "father of Filipino boxing." Churchill cabled to Johnny Buff last winter an offer of $20,000 and expenses to meet Villa in Manila. No answer. So Villa's here to urge the matter.

Pancho is 18, weighs 106, and in the two years he has been fighting, so Churchill says, has licked every bantam and flyweight outside of Europe and America. Other experts who have seen him in action pronounce him a wonderful two-fisted little fighter.

EXETER BOWLERS RETAIN TROPHY

SEAFORTH, June 8. — A Scotch doubles bowling tournament, open to Huron County only, was held on the green here yesterday, 32 rinks competing. Rinks from Exeter, Hensall, Clinton and Goderich were present. The principal event of the day was the competition for the Mesner trophy, which had been won the two previous seasons by Exeter rinks, and who again were successful competitors with a rink composed of Creech and Heaman. The deciding game was a very keenly-contested one, having been won by only one shot from Best and Paigh of Seaforth. This gives Exeter the trophy permanently. The second event was won by Seldon and Lemon of Exeter from Whitesides and Rennie of Hensall.

HOW TO PLAY BALL

RALPH PERKINS.

BY RALPH PERKINS,
Brilliant Backstop—Philadelphia Athletics.

I believe I am conservative when I say that 75 per cent of a catcher's value to his club depends on the actual receiving of the ball.

A catcher who is constantly dropping pitched balls is bound to upset his pitcher, also the rest of his ball club.

When a catcher fights the ball he is constantly courting injury. Wait until the ball reaches you, is one of the most important bits of advice I could offer to ambitious catchers.

A strong throwing arm is much to be desired, but not actually necessary in order to be a great catcher.

The accurate thrower is the successful catcher in the long run. Accuracy is far more essential than speed. It is very advisable to practice getting the ball away as quickly as possible. A fraction of a second lost in making the throw often spoils the play.

A pitcher can be of great assistance to the catcher, likewise the catcher to the pitcher.

The pitcher must hold the runners on. Laxity on the part of the pitcher in watching runners makes all kinds of trouble for the catcher, also the rest of the team.

Talk to your pitcher constantly. Keep offering words of encouragement. Never bawl the pitcher out on the field. Always wait until you reach the bench to argue out your disputes.

Watch the Ball.

When a runner reaches first, watch him closely. Most runners have some peculiarity they resort to when about to go down. When you learn their mannerisms it is easy to call for a pitchout and break up the steal or hit-and-run play.

Keep your eye on the batters. It is often possible to learn their sign for the hit-and-run play. That is the time to call for a pitchout and break it up.

"Big Three" Bowling League Opens With Thistles Winning 129--81

The "Big Three" Bowling League opened last night at the Thistle greens with the six home rinks scoring a 129—81 victory over the Elmwood and L. R. C. visitors.

A big gallery marked the opening night of this new bowling feature, and is a splendid augury of the increased interest it is sure to arouse among the bowlers. The club tourney style of play had begun to pall as a steady diet, and this innovation, with its club against club competition, will, it is confidently expected, prove the big bowling feature of the 1922 season.

Elmwoods draw home greens next Thursday night. Six home rinks will defend against a trio of rinks from each of the other two clubs all through the season.

The scores:

Thistles.		Elmwood.
C. K. Bluett	16	J. McAlpine	10
F. N. Allen	24	H. Hartry	12
L. R. Jones	22	W. Brazier	16

Russian Bolsheviki Rob Royal Tombs In Church of St. Peter

Paris, June 8.—The Russian Bolshe-vik, leaving no stone unturned in their work of ferreting out church treasures for confiscation, have violated the tombs of the czars and and czarines in St. Peter and Paul's Cathedral, Petrograd, says Le Journal, quoting private advices from a reliable source.

The tomb of the Czarina Anna Ivanovna, which is made of silver, was removed bodily and the coffin of Catherine the Great was broken open and a necklace and rings of great value were taken. The Bolshevik are declared to have even pried the lid from Peter the Great's coffin, but, finding the body marvellously preserved, were abashed and dared not strip it of its jewels.

The dispatch ads that news of the sacking of the tombs spread rapidly among the Russian people, who ars extremely indignant at the desecrations.

ARREST INDIANS, LIQUOR CHARGE

Sarnia, June 8.—Alex. Peters, Harrison Altman and Elliott Jackson, three Indians from Walpole Island are in jail and will appear before Magistrate Jarvis tomorrow on a charge of having liquor in other than a private place. Word was received by the police last night that a woman was ill on the island through drinking hard stuff, and County Constable Scott went down to the island and effected the arrest of the three men.

This is the first complaint of the use of liquor from the reserves for some time, though the police have had some trouble of late in connection with disturbances caused by the drinking of dandelion wine made with a kick.

ASK REMISSION OF TAXES ON CHECKS

Deputations From Canadian Municipalities Wait Upon Minister of Finance.

OTTAWA, June 8.—Claiming that the proposed stamp tax on checks would work hardship to municipalities, both rural and urban, throughout Canada, and stressing the fact that municipalities were not organized or operated for profit, a large delegation waited on the minister of finance this afternoon, and asked that municipal corporations be exempted from the effect of the tax.

The delegation, which represented the Union of Canadian Municipalities, comprising practically all municipal corporations from coast to coast, was composed largely of members of Parliament, who had been requested to join in the protest against the tax.

Mayor Plant of Ottawa, A. D. Shibley, G. V. Ross, financial commissioner for Toronto; F. Collins, city treasurer of Montreal; F. W. Shaw of West Calgary, advanced the claims of the municipalities.

Hon. W. S. Fielding replied that he had received a number of representation in writing along the lines of those made verbally today. The matter had, therefore, been thoroughly impressed on him. The suggestion that municipalities be exempted from the tax was a rather alarming one. He asked the delegates to remember that the government needed money. He would not like to do anything which would make a radical difference to the municipalities.

The representations made would have the careful consideration of the government, he said.

PORT STANLEY SCENERY LURES

Although practically every Londoner visits Port Stanley at least once during the summer season, few in their usual picnic rush pause to consider the wonderful holiday advantages possessed by this popular resort.

The scenery, for which Port Stanley is the subject of favorable comment on the part of tourists each year, is one of the resort's assets, and the view of Lake Erie from Invererie Heights has been pronounced by many as one of the most beautiful in Ontario.

Here, on the sward, in the cooling shade of the huge maples, and bathed in the refreshing breeze from Lake Erie, the tired London businessman is enabled to appreciate that life is worth living.

Aside from the natural factors which add to the attractiveness of Port Stanley, one must consider the indefatigable efforts of the merchants and concession proprietors of Port Stanley, who labor to make the sojourn of those in search of amusement most profitable and entertaining.

The visitor has no need to worry about taking food to the lakeside, as the Port Stanley merchants offer a stock as up-to-date as many larger centres, and at prices equally as moderate. As for the light refreshments, without which a summer resort is incomplete, the numerous booths lined along the boardwalk testify to the service offered.

Diversion is also provided with variety as the keynote of the fun. In addition to the amusement devices which are legion, there is the luring call of the cooling depths of Lake Erie which cannot be overcome on a sultry afternoon.

Taking Port Stanley into consideration from every angle, there are few cities in Canada so fortunately situated as to be within an hour's ride of such an attractive resort.

PRESS CONVENTION BEGINS AT OTTAWA

Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. T. A. Crerar Address Gathering.

OTTAWA, June 8.—(By Canadian Press.)—Favored by ideal weather, and probably the largest attendance on record, including journalists from all parts of the Dominion, the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association got away to a good start here today.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen made a brief speech. He said that Hon. Mr. Crerar believed even more strongly in the power of the press than he himself did. But then he had not yet got to the point of owning a newspaper or even any part of a newspaper. "And," he added, "that is the only method I know of getting even with the press."

Hon. T. A. Crerar joined in the welcome. He had not the personal acquaintanceship of Ottawa that the mayor and Mr. Meighen had, but he had lived here two years while a member of the Union government.

"I was then," he said, "a colleague of Mr. Meighen's in the Union government. I don't know whether the Union government is still revered, but I maintain it did a useful and even a great service to this country."

BILL PAID TWICE BY SCHOOL BOARD

TORONTO, June 8.—Judgment for $1,622 has been awarded Homer Ford against the Roman Catholic Separate School Board of Hamilton by Justice Logie. The sum was claimed as balance of a debt due J. H. Gould for stationery and supplies.

On September 3, Gould assigned his claim to his uncle, the plaintiff, who had financed him in his business. Notice of the assignment was sent to Rev. Father O'Brien, secretary of the board, but subsequently the secretary paid Gould the sum of $2,142.03 on the claim, which was then $2,159.76. This money, Justice Logie states, was squandered by Gould, all but $537.76, for which Mr. Ford allows the board credit. In the result the board has to pay the bill twice.

PRESBYTERIANS BACK PRESENT DIVORCE LAWS

REFUSE WOMEN LICENSE

General Assembly of Canada Not Prepared To Ordain Fair Sex To Ministry.

WINNIPEG, June 8.—(By Canadian Press).—The law of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, accepting adultery and wilful desertion as the only grounds for divorce justified by the Scripture, remains unaltered. Women have who graduated at theological colleges will not receive a license to preach.

These two important decisions were reported at this afternoon's sederunt of the general assembly. The report of the committee on church union was not ready for presentation. The gravity of the problem necessitates further consideration of the report, it was stated.

Originally presented, the report of the committee on divorce recommended that divorce should be granted in conformity with the confession of faith on this subject, which reads as follows:

"In the case of adultery after marriage, it is lawful for the innocent party to sue out a divorce, and after the divorce to marry another, as if the offending party were dead."

The report stated that the interpretation of Corinthians, 7:15, made in the confession of faith that the second ground, namely: "Such wilful desertion as can no way be remedied by the church or civil magistrate," was not regarded as absolutely certain, and did not regard this alleged second case as determining the church's action at the present day.

Backs Church Law.

In moving that the law of the church remain unaltered, Prof. John McKay of this city, declared that according to the Scriptures, marriage is just as effectively broken by wilful desertion as by adultery.

Dr. J. B. Fraser of Owen Sound, stated that the assembly was reverting to a narrow interpretation of the scriptures if it broke away from adultery as the only grounds of divorce. He also urged the institution in some parts of Ontario of a divorce court which would deal adequately with divorce cases for the relief of outraged women.

Professor McKay's amendment carried.

There is no demand for the ordination of women to the ministry through the membership of the church, it was stated in the report on that question, although it was a matter of history that a ministry of women existed both within the Apostolic Church and in the church of the immediately succeeding centuries; but there was no evidence that ordination in the full sense of the term was bestowed upon women. Therefore no precedent could be quoted.

Recognizes Services.

The assembly recognized gladly and thankfully the ministry of women in both official and non-official capacity, in much of the church's work, but was not prepared to direct that women be ordained to the office of the ministry, in view of the intimacy, the variety and the burdensome nature of the work of the ministry on one side, and in view of the limitation necessarily involved in the fact of sex on the other.

Dr. W. H. Sedgwick of Ottawa, presented the annual report of the home missions and social service committee at the opening of the evening session.

The importance of the Home Mission and Social Service Department of the Canadian Presbyterian Church is revealed in its annual report to the general assembly. With its wide ramifications and its varied points of contract, this service branch is of far-reaching significance, with a national as well as a religious value.

The outstanding statistics are proof of this. Nearly a thousand augmented charges and home mission fields alone represent an immense undertaking, over half or five hundred and ninety-one of these being in Western Canada.

The setting up and maintenance of these pioneer religious centres, many of them in the newer districts, will increasingly prove their value as the years go by. A number of mission fields are covered during the summer months only, chiefly by theological students, over three hundred of whom have been assigned to fields for the coming season.

Show Steady Increase.

The social service activities show a steady increase year by year. Seven social settlements are operating in Sydney, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. The report shows an increase in the number of families and individuals helped through these channels during the past year, with an increased demand for services that are distinctively religious.

The workers in this department have to face many difficulties, such as unemployment, ignorance, religious and racial prejudices, illicit liquor traffic, the lack of proper home life and inadequate recreative facilities.

Taking the seven settlements as a whole, no less than 3,972 families were ministered to through seventy-two group activities, while the number of individuals attending the settlements reached the surprising total of 8,970 who, in turn, represented 34 nationalities and Protestant, Catholic and Jewish religions.

The redemptive work of the church is being carried on in some places co-operatively, and in others by the Presbyterian Church alone. Nearly two hundred young women receive annually the protection and help of the church in this department, with results in many cases that warrant the cost and effort.

Results Encouraging.

The section of the report dealing with national problems, and with work among non-Anglo-Saxons, is also of far-reaching importance, especially when we are told that the mission work of this one denomination among non-Anglo-Saxons touches about one-seventh of the population of Canada, with results that, while difficult to tabulate, are, nevertheless, highly encouraging. The fact that the natural increase is four times as rapid in non-Anglo-Saxon colonies as in English-speaking communities points to a time when, in the West at least, the people of British extraction will be in the minority. Any effort, therefore, towards sympathetic assimilation is of the highest value.

Today the Presbyterian Church conducts 42 missions among nine different nationalities. One mission alone has the children of sixteen nationalities represented in its Sunday school. In addition, the church conducts 26 institutions, hospitals and school homes amongst foreigners. The 225 children attending school homes are mostly from non-Anglo-Saxon stock.

The department of the stranger tells of another type of applied Christianity, conducted by the Presbyterian Church, which aims to give a welcome to the immigrant, as well as help to the migrant. Over 12,000 were thus assisted during 1921, either at the ports of entry or at interior points, and many evidences of appreciation are recorded. A staff of chaplains are stationed at ports on both sides of the Atlantic, as well as at Toronto and Winnipeg, who render a wide range of service.

A Valuable Auxiliary.

The home mission work of the Woman's Missionary Society, with nearly 100,000 members, is a valuable auxiliary to that performed by the board of home missions, as the former organization carries on medical mission work in fifteen centers in the West and New Ontario, thirteen school homes, also in the Prairie Provinces, while 600 Indian children are ministered to in the government boarding and day schools. This work is done in close co-operation with that of the board of home missions and social service.

The report of the latter board is a revelation, as has been said, of its scope and extent, touching human lives at many points and rendering service of a most practical nature to the peoples of many alien nationalities. This contribution, in its totality to the higher life of the nation, cannot be overestimated and is worth public appreciation and ample support.

The church and manse board of the Presbyterian Church has to do, as its title implies, with the assisting, either by money grants or loans, in the erection of these buildings. The report presented at the general assembly of 1922 showed that since the organization of the board in 1883, it has aided in the erection or purchase of no less than 1,190 churches and manse buildings—thus aiding the church in a very real sense in gaining visibility throughout the Dominion.

Affiliations Increase.

As evidence of the increasing service this board is being called to render, while in 1919 there were 25 applications, and in 1920 there were 98 applications for loans and grants to aid in the erection, purchase or enlargement of churches and manses, the number had grown in 1921 to 144—88 for churches and 56 for manses, based on the gifts to the forward movement fund.

In addition, requests were made for aid to several school homes, hospitals, settlements and institutes, together with 18 sites for future churches. In nearly every case applications were granted in full or in part, thus contributing to a marked improvement in the physical equipment of the church.

In the distribution of the peace thankoffering fund, $1,487,500 was allocated to the church and manse board. Of this sum $1,333,785 had been definitely appropriated by the board for home missionary and social service equipment and extension work, as follows: Churches, $207,630; manses, $142,080; church extension work in cities, including sites, $305,859.77; social service and work among foreign-speaking, $398,057.94; the W. M. Society, for school homes and hospital units, $80,157.45.

The funds of the board exist primarily for the advantage of mission fields and augmented charges rather than self-sustaining congregations. During 1921 17 loans were repaid, leaving, as at Dec. 31, 241 loans outstanding, as against 184 the year previous.

The board now supplies model plans and specifications for both churches and manses, which are a great help to local committees.

Oxford Requires $26,500 More For Expenses.

Special to London Advertiser.

WOODSTOCK, June 8.—The amount required for county purposes this year, as passed by the Oxford County Council today, will be $233,745.10, which is $26,500 more than last year. The increase is due to the added amount necessary for construction and maintenance of provincial highways, the construction of a new house for courthouse caretaker and an increase for collegiate institutes in the county.

DIBSDALE CALM AT CORONER'S JURY VERDICT

15 WITNESSES TESTIFY

"We find that Christina Near came to her death May 31, from gunshot wounds at the hands of Gordon Dibsdale."

Such was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury at London's police station Thursday night to inquire into the cause of the death of Christina Near, who was shot and killed Wednesday afternoon last at the corner of Adelaide and St. James streets.

Witnesses to the number of fifteen, including Mrs. Elizabeth Near, the girl's mother, and Albert Dibsdale, father of the young man who fired the fatal shots, were called to the witness stand by Crown Attorney A. R. Douglas.

Fully recovered from injuries sustained when he attempted to end his own life following the death of Miss Near, the prisoner, Gordon Dibsdale, was brought into the police court and remained throughout the trial in the prisoner's docket, a trifle restless at times, but otherwise seemingly unconcerned as to what was transpiring.

Retains Composure.

Quite the pathetic figures in the courtroom were Mrs. Near and the father of the defendant, both obviously retaining their composure under the trying circumstances only with the greatest of difficulty.

Bear up, boy, bear up," was the father's tragic farewell to his son at departure. At the door of the courtroom he met Mrs. Near, who suddenly seemed to break down altogether under the strain, and throwing her arms about the old man, she kissed him, declaring: "Poor, old, Mr. Dibsdale, God bless you. You have stuck by my daughter when the others wouldn't."

On the stand Mrs. Near stated that she knew Gordon Dibsdale for a few weeks.

"We thought he was a nice friend," she testified, "until my daughter said she was disgusted with him after May 24. He was always asking her to marry him, and she knew she was too young for that. She said: 'Gordon is not what we think he is. I don't like him as well as I did.'"

Daughter's Writing.

Shown a letter found upon the prisoner, Mrs. Near expressed the opinion that the writing was that of her daughter. Cross-examined by W. R. Meredith, counsel for Dibsdale, she stated that she did not think they were engaged, She explained that her sister was acquainted with the Dibsdale family, and through them she had made their acquaintance also. She believed that Gordon had been a visitor at their house about a dozen times.

She thought that he had been acting strangely, but she had never heard the girl say anything about "going out of this life," the words used in the letter, supposedly written by her to the prisoner.

She explained that Dibsdale's mother had first broached the subject of marriage, but Chrissie had gone to her home the previous Sunday to tell him that there would be no further meetings.

"When she came back," said Mrs. Near, "she said: 'It was awful! They were all around me crying, and I told Gordon that if he loved me he would wait until doomsday.' But Gordon told her if she did not marry him he would sell his property and go away from the city."

Identifies Knife.

Albert J. E. Dibsdale, the father, called to the stand by the crown, also identified a knife as the property of his eldest son Gordon. He had kept it usually on the sideboard, although he had not seen it for three years.

Shown a belt and cartridges he explained that they looked like his. While he couldn't swear as to them he could identify the shotgun, however.

The father stated that he knew Miss Near and thought that she had been acquainted with his son for about six weeks. The witness was not cross-examined by the defence counsel who preferred to conduct his inquiry at the trial.

Police Constable Herbert Allgrove testified that he was on his beat near the scene of the tragedy that afternoon. He saw Miss Near lying dead with the prisoner lying about thirty feet distant. He searched the latter, finding a knife in his right vest pocket. He also took in charge a belt and cartridges which were produced in court and identified by the witness.

Admitted Slaying.

The latter related that during the journey to the hospital he questioned Dibsdale, who admitted that he had shot the girl, but would not explain his reason other than "you would not understand."

Police Sergeant Wash related that he found the gun lying near Dibsdale who was moaning and groaning. One barrel of the gun had been discharged. The other was loaded. He had heard the conversation between the preceding witness and the prisoner on the way to the hospital.

Cross-examined, he stated that the wounded man appeared rational except from suffering from his wound.

Dr. J. L. Huffman testified that when he reached the scene Miss Near had succumbed to her injuries. Dibsdale was resting on his back bleeding, and with his clothes on fire. Witness stated that he rendered first aid, first extinguishing the fire and removing the cartridge belt from his waist. He gave the latter a stimulant, but could not offer any opinion as to whether he was normal or otherwise.

Explains Wounds.

Dr. T. Hodgins, who conducted the post-mortem, June 1, declared death to have resulted from a hemorrhage caused by gunshot wounds through the chest and forearm, penetrating the lungs and spinal column. Cross-examined, he believed that two discharges of the gun would account for the various wounds, serious and superficial.

Fred Burke, 11 years old, stated that while he was playing about four houses distant from the tragedy he saw Dibsdale going south. He heard three shots, but after the second one he had run in that direction.

Donald Payne, who was working close by, heard a shot, he said, then a scream. He heard another shot and continued screaming. He was just in time to see the prisoner raise the gun, shoot himself and topple over.

Mrs. Foster, 857 Adelaide street, testified that she saw Miss Near just as she was falling to the ground. She witnessed Dibsdale actually shoot himself, although she wasn't close enough to him to recognize him again. Later she noticed him sitting up and apparently trying to remove his coat.

Saw Second Shot.

Edna Barnes, 14 years old, 567 St. James street, testified that she heard a shot and then a scream. She saw Dibsdale fire a second shot, but did not see her fall, as she was watching him to see what he would do next. "He then walked down the sidewalk," she said, "turned the gun upside down and shot himself."

John Dawson, 559 St. James street, stated that he had heard the first shot, and saw the man in the act of firing again. Then he seemed to stagger back a few paces and shoot himself.

Gordon Waide, 865 Adelaide street, stated that Dibsdale passed him on Adelaide street. As he turned to go to the back of the house he heard a shot and turned back. He then saw the prisoner fire again, following which he "broke" the gun and loaded twice. He did not see the third shooting, as he had turned again to persuade his folks to go back into the house, as he did not know which way the man might shoot again.

Heard Two Shots.

Mrs. John Marshall, 406 Burwell street, testified that she was driving south an Adelaide street, when she heard the first two shots. She did not see Miss Near shot, however, but noticed Dibsdale reload his gun and shoot himself while but six feet from her.

Albert W. Ardell, who conducts a business at the corner of Oxford and Adelaide streets, testified that the prisoner had come into his store and purchased a drink of cider about 5 o'clock that afternoon. He thought it strange for him to be carrying a shotgun and had meant to ask him about it.

Day's Legislative Doings at Ottawa

TODAY IN PARLIAMENT.

In the Commons.

In the Senate.

The Senate meets at 3 o'clock.

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT.

In The Commons.

Premier King suggested that the budget debate be continued over tomorrow, and the vote taken on Monday or Tuesday of next week. He also said that the minister of finance might have some modifications in the budget proposals to suggest before the debate concluded.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative member for Vancouver Center, resumed the budget debate. He expressed regret that the government intended to repeal the anti-dumping clause which was of the greatest value to British Columbia fruit growers. He was also opposed to the repeal of the marking act, and the depreciated currency clause. The latter proposal he characterized as "the most fatal thing in the budget."

Germany, after starting the war and devastating France and Belgium, was now trying to steal the fruits of victory from the allies. While seeking to evade her responsibilities in regard to reparations, German capitalists were seeking investments in foreign markets and German trade was menacing the home markets of the allied countries. Mr. Stevens proposed to vote against the budget unless it was very materially changed.

In the Senate.

Bill to incorporate Fort Erie and Buffalo Bridge Company given second reading and sent to committee.

CLAIM HOTTENTOT LEADERS SEIZED

London, England, June 9.—Canadian Press Cable.—All the fugitive ringleaders and 150 of their followers in connection with the recent revolt of the Bondelzwart Hottentots were captured and two leaders who led in the fighting before the government forces routed the insurgents were killed, according to a Reuter dispatch from Capetown, quoting from a speech made by Premier Smuts in the legislative assembly of South Africa. One of the Hottentot chiefs killed was Abraham Morris, who fought valiantly against the Germans on behalf of the Union of South Africa in the great war. Premier Smuts made a feeling reference to this.

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, June 8.—Albert L. Posliff, principal of the public school at Wingham, is prominently mentioned as next customs officer in that town, to succeed the late Harry Davis.

Mr. Posliff was wounded overseas, where he served for four years, and his war record has won for him favorable consideration at the hands of the civil service commission, to which he has been highly recommended.

J. J. MORRISON, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, was the guest of honor at a dinner given in the parliamentary restaurant by the Progressive members from Ontario. The dinner was arranged by B. W. Fansher of East Lambton and A. L. Hodgins, member for East Middlesex.

Welcome was extended to Mr. Morrison by Hon. T. A. Crerar, who spoke to some length on new ideals in Canadian politics. Mr. Crerar urged educational campaigns rather than political campaigns to instill within Canadians a sense of personal duty and service to their country as a whole rather than to party. The salvation of Canada as a nation was dependant, he said, on an awakened public conscience.

J. J. Morrison outlined the history of the U. F. O. movement. Mr. Morrison asserted that the present system of party government was out of date, and so a new system must be evolved. This should be done in the Federal House, he believed, and so urged all members to work towards that end. He could make no suggestion for improvement, for although he had tried, he had not yet discovered a system to replace the present one that would prove in any way practical.

BECAUSE there are some doubts in the mind of Hon. W. R. Motherwell over the feasibility of the plan, it is still undecided whether the government will give aid to the farmers of Western Ontario in shipping of a carload of pure-bred cattle to Brazil.

A deputation waited upon the department several weeks ago and asked that the government bear the cost of shipping a number of cattle to Brazil as the first step towards opening a market in that country for Canadian live stock. The first carload was to be sent as an experiment, and it was believed that it would lead to the general use of Canadian stock in that country for breeding purposes.

Mr. Motherwell has doubts whether the experiment is practical enough to warrant it being carried out. He is of opinion that all of the fairs in that country at which it was proposed to exhibit the animals will be over by the time the animals would arrive.

The matter is still being considered, however. A. Hodgins of East Middlesex, who headed the deputation, is carrying on the battle on behalf of the cattle breeders.

HON. J. H. KING, minister of public works, will send an inspector to Galt to choose a suitable site for the proposed new postoffice and federal building which will be erected in that city in the near future.

A promise to this effect was given to William Elliott, member for South Waterloo, who informed the minister that the city was divided over the choice of two sites which had been recommended.

The minister stated that the government would not purchase a site at the present time, but if it could be arranged he could see no reasons why an option could not be taken on one of the proposed sites. Mr. Elliott believed that such a course would be possible, as the citizens merely wished to secure a suitable site while the property was available.

WORD was received in Ottawa yesterday that the American government had increased the duty on sugar beets coming into that country from 5 per cent to 16 per cent. The fact was immediately seized upon by the members of a deputation from Western Ontario, headed by H. Gilroy of Alvinston, secretary of the Beet Growers' Association of Ontario, which is here fighting the proposed tax on beet sugar, as an argument in favor of their contentions.

It is the claim of those opposed to the tax that if it is put into effect it will force the sugar beet factories in Ontario out of business, therefore destroying the largest market open to the beet growers of Ontario. The increased duty put into effect in the United States will shut off the American markets, therefore if the tax is imposed it is claimed the farmers in Western Ontario will be forced to discontinue growing beets, one of their best-paying crops.

Taking the Irritation out of Motoring

Most of the aggravating, irritating trials of motoring used to come from tire troubles.

Let a man be in a hurry to get somewhere—let him start off with the family for an all-day trip—let him get caught without a spare—and, "good night," it seemed to be just the time for a blow-out.

Motorists used to talk about "luck" and "lucky tires."

But when they compared notes, they found that those who used DOMINION TIRES invariably had the better mileage records and fewer tire troubles. "Luck" in tires was simply DOMINION quality.

DOMINION TIRES set the standard of service and satisfaction — and to-day, DOMINION TIRES are the tires by which all tires are judged.

Buy your tires on a business basis. Don't count your first cost only. To say that Dominion Tires give lowest cost per mile is not mere talk. It is a fact.

COUNCIL FINDS LARGE SURPLUS

Discovers $18,000 To Credit of County Instead of $31,953 of Deficit.

Hears From Grand Jury of Dungeons in House of Refuge.

When the county council resumed its session Thursday night the finance committee, which had presented a report in the morning of the estimated expenditure for the year, preparatory to striking a tax-rate, presented another report for adoption, which altered the estimates by some $40,000, and reopened the question as to whether the $91,227.34 for provincial highway construction should be raised by a higher tax rate or by the issuing of debentures over a period of ten or twenty years.

In the morning report of the committee a deficit from 1921 was shown of $31,953.34. In the altered calculations of the committee there was shown a surplus of $18,000 from county rate payments. As the estimates last stood when the council adjourned at 11 o'clock, after lengthy discussion, the county will be required to raise $264,290.20, regardless of the cost of the construction of the provincial highway.

Gives Rise To Debate.

The second report bringing to the fore the question of the debentures, as it did, was the prime cause of the most of the debate. Contention centered around the question, "Shall we raise the money by debentures or by increasing the tax rate, and, if we issue debentures, for what period shall we issue them?"

On vote the action of the morning for the issuing of the debentures on a period of twenty years, was sustained 15 to 11.

A. L. MacDougal of Caradoc was the principal contender for the raising of the taxrate. He maintained that because of the discovery of the surplus the action of the morning for the issuing of the debentures had been taken on false grounds.

He advocated that the rate allocated for the county roads, granted at the last sitting of the council, be changed from three mills to two and one-half mills.

"This morning we considered this under untrue conditions; there is practically a difference of $50,000. By lowering the road rate a rate could be struck slightly over eight mills. I, for one, am in favor of rasing the rate that amount, and not by debentures," he said.

Engineer Speaks.

The county engineer was called in to state what would happen if his rate were lowered, considering the fact that considerable of the work for which the expense was to be met by his three-mill rate was already under way. Charles Talbot, the engineer, asserted that it would lead to neglect of the roads to drop the work now, and that the users of the road would have to pay, in repairs to their vehicles, anyway, should the money not be spent.

Finally, after many had voiced their opinions on the matter and the constitutionality of reopening the questions and sustaining their own actions had been thoroughly threshed out, it was moved by W. J. Fuller of London Township that the report be carried. The vote was taken and the resolution passed.

How Estimates Stand.

Administration of justice, $20,000; grants and items, $6,000; municipal government laws costs, $19,000; school purposes, $80,000; registry offices, $1,400; jail maintenance and salaries, $15,000; printing, advertising and stationery, $3,000; county buildings, $1,000; coroner's order, $300; division courts, $400; bank interest, $15,000; house of refuge, $17,500; hospitals, $10,000; agricultural grants, $800; city, re criminal justice, $1,000; Western University, $20,000; mothers' allowances, $4,500; system of good roads and bridges, $214,006.80; county bridges, $4,000; sinking fund and interest, $25,660.54; court house expenses, $3,500; insurance, $2,520, and $4,992.87 for provincial highway maintenance.

This makes the total, inclusive of the provincial highway construction expenditure, $560,807.55. With the $18,000 discovered today the total estimated receipts and assets of the county amount to $205,290.01. The receipts subtracted from the total expenditure leaves an amount to be raised, for provincial highways and all other purposes, of $355,517.54. The council must strike a tax rate either Friday or Saturday. A tax rate will be struck, however, with the $91,227.34 for provincial highways removed from the $355,517.54, or on $264,290.20.

Grand Jury Reports.

The grand jury report was presented at the meeting by the county clerk. The jury reported that they had found three true bills in the supreme court hearings. They also reported on the conditions of the county jail, the Ontario Hospital for the Insane and the Strathroy House of Refuge.

Satisfactory conditions were found, with the exception of slight sanitary arrangements, the report stated, at the jail and the hospital. They mentioned in their report that they were doubtful of the arrangements for the combatting of fire at Ontario Hospital, and recommended that the provincial fire inspector visit the hospital together with the fire chief of London.

Find Two Dungeons.

Stronger criticism was offered of the sanitary conveniences in the Strathroy House of Refuge. In that institution they also complained of two dungeons where inmates were sometimes confined. They stated that if an inmate was confined in one of these dungeons for more than 48 hours, "there would be one less to answer the roll call next day."

It was recommended by the grand jury that the practice of giving separated milk to the inmates of the House of Refuge be discontinued. Only $30 a month was saved by the economy of giving the separated milk to the inmates. It would be better to give the people in the House of Refuge the benefit of the pure food, milk, and secrifice the economy they thought.

On their visit to Strathroy, no provision had been made, the report stated, by the council for expenses.

Are Not Liable.

John Couzens, the warden, explained at the end of the reading of the report that the council knew nothing of the proposed visit of the jury to Strathroy, and as a consequence could make no provision for their expenses, and moreover, the council was not liable for expense. The report was filed.

It was decided, after the council had heard the county engineer on the subject, to see to it that entertainment was provided for the delegation of engineers, members of the good roads association, who would in all probability visit the County of Middlesex during the summer. "I think it would be really too bad for them to visit the county and have no one to receive them or entertain them," said the warden.

Engineers from the western section of Ontario were going east, to the central and eastern part of the province, and eastern engineers were going west, the engineer reported. It had been arranged at a recent convention of the good roads association this way, he stated.

A bill of $1,200 from Byron Sanatorium for county patients, cared for at the rate of $1.50 per day, was presented and referred to the hospital trustee.

Adopt Road Report.

A second report of the board of roads directors, recommending that $2,500 be spent on Caradoc road in Strathroy, was adopted.

The council went on record as agreeable to the resolution passed by the Oxford County Council concerning the qualifications of road superintendents.

A first report of the finance committee recommending that in the case of the $75 grant for V. Trueman, magistrate of Strathroy, the money be not paid. For the bill of $3.50 for Dr. Woods for telephone calls in an inquest case, the committee recommended that no action be taken. The report was adopted.

A report of the jail committee recommending several small arrangements at the jail be made was adopted.

Re a communication from Byron Dawson, the governor of the jail, concerning the payment of $300 for janitorial supervision of the jail, the report recommended that the money be paid.

Report Referred Back.

It was moved by C. C. Henry, seconded by Byron Marsh, that the report of the board of road directors, presented Tuesday, be referred back to the board.

It was moved by C. C. Henry that a gravel deposit be purchased in East Williams for the sum of $200.

TO INSTRUCT BOYS IN SAVING OF LIFE

The lads who attend the weekly Y. M. C. A. hike for junior boys to Sage's farm Saturday afternoon are promised something new in the way of entertainment, as well as instruction, by Lloyd Houlding, boys' secretary, who will have charge of the hike.

The new feature, it was announced will be the teaching of life-saving by a prominent London swimmer. The boys will form up on the beach of the north branch for their first lesson, and if they express a willingness to learn the latest methods of saving a person's life in the water these lessons will be continued.

The keenest interest is being manifested by the "Y" youngsters in these weekly hikes, and up to the present a large number has turned out each week.

SOCIAL SERVICE COUNCIL CONTINUE IVNESTIGATION

London Branch Discusses Industrial Conditions and Decent Living Wage For All.

At a meeting of the London branch of the Ontario Social Service Council held in the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night, the committee on industrial conditions was authorized to continue its investigations and bring in a further report.

Practically all discussion entered into at the meeting dealt with industrial conditions, the necessity of seeing that each man and woman had a decent living wage, and of relieving the situation of unemployment.

Members of trade unions of the city attended the meeting, and in voicing their opinions concerning the industrial situation stressed the need of not only investigating conditions, but of taking measures to find relief. The need of satisfactory living wages for women came in for a particular share of emphasis, and the committee decided that this phase of the work should come in for a large share of attention during the forthcoming investigation.

were living in rude huts clothed in skins.

"China's civilization is shrouded in the mists of antiquity," he expounded.

"The worst liability that China has today is the lack of education. From 20 to 25 per cent of the people have an education. By that, I mean they can read and write. But in spite of this fact it is astonishing how quickly a Chinese coolie can figure out a mathematical problem mentally, far quicker than the average person could do it with pencil and paper.

Missionary Goes To China.

"One hundred and ten years ago an English missionary, Morrison, brought western civilization to China," Dr. Crawford said. "But with a civilization as old as that of China the people did not look upon the advance of the foreigner with any great favor. For thouands of years they have been a self-contained nation, have not traded with other countries, and have felt the need of nothing but what they could grow or manufacture within the bounds of their many provinces."

Dr. Crawford was of the opinion that in the end, Gen. Wu, who has entered Peking, and who commands the central provinces, will finally triumph over his most dangerous rival, Gen. Sun Yat Sen.

"China is on the eve of a brighter day, he predicted, and the belief is expressed by those who are on the inside of Chinese politics that foreign diplomats are advising General Wu, and that within a short time, he will advance north and the struggle in the east will end."

Sun Yet Sen was an idealist and unpractical, he said, while Wu was a soldier and a level-headed man.

The failure of the provinces in China to pay their taxes to the federal government, Dr. Crawford pointed out, was the reason of China, to some extent, falling under the power of Japan. At the time of the war China needed money badly and Japan was only too willing to lend her the funds. Then in 1917 Japan laid her cards on the table and made the 21 demands from China.

"If China had yielded to these 21 demands," the speaker continued, "she would have sold her soul to Japan, because her smaller neighbor would have control of her army, her navy, her police and her railways.

"In this time of trouble the Chinese looked to Great Britain and the United States for assistance. But the mother country had her whole attention drawn to the struggle with Germany, and could not aid her.

"One of the hardest things that Great Britain was ever compelled to do was to explain to China why she did not help her. And to make it worse the United States only wrote a note, instead of grasping the opportunity of making a strong ally of China.

"China needs the civilization that we can give her, our help as man to man, our brotherly uplift, and our industries," he concluded.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

EXPECT SUPPLY OF BERRIES SATURDAY

Farmers Predict Good Crop If Rain Comes Soon.

It is expected that there will be a large supply of strawberries on Saturday's local market. A few boxes of berries were offered Thursday at 25 to 30 cents a box. Farmers predict an excellent crop this season if there is rain within a few days.

Six loads of hay were offered Friday, but there were no changes in quotations.

Eggs and butter remain steady in price.

Potatoes are a little slow in demand. They are being offered at $1.65 to $1.85 a bag. There has been two or three carloads shipped into the city lately, and this, it is claimed, is cause for the drop in sales on the local market.

MONTREAL STOCKS

Montreal, June 9—12:30 p.m.—Brazilian was the feature of the local market this morning, the stock rising to 49¼, ½ point under the top reached in the preceding rise. Another active stock was Toronto Railway, which rose to 75¼, but sold all the way up from 74. This stock continues to be purchased by Toronto buyers. Mackay was less active, and the price slipped off slightly, going as low as 98. Another public utility stock to receive attention was Detroit United, and its price was firmer. Twin City sold at 57, being firm. The whole list of public utilities acted well. Atlantic Sugar was in demand and firm at 26. Lyall rose to 43. Dominion Bridge rose to a new high on the movement at 75.

WOOL

Ottawa, June 9.—(Canadian Press.)—The wool market report issued by the Dominion live stock branch says:

Country buying of wools direct from farmers continues with increased activity. American wools are reported in Western Canada competing with Canadian business. It is reported that contracting offers of 19c and 20c are being made by some of the best Alberta clips. In Ontario and Quebec the general prices offered direct to farmers are 12c for coarse, 15c for medium, and 17c for fine; about 15c being the best price quoted flat basis.

General shortage of wools in the United States is expected to cause further advances in American prices, in which case the same will in all probability reflect immediately on Canadian prices .

Chicago, June 9.—Wheat turned downward in price today during the first part of the board of trade session, with attention chiefly given to the government crop report showing a probable yield of 60,000,000 bushels more than was harvested last year. Ten big crop indicated for the territory contiguous to Chicago counted in particular as a bearish factor. On the declines, however, elevator interests here took to the buying side. The opening, which ranged from ½c to 1¼c lower, was followed by a material further drop and then by something of a rally.

Corn developed strength despite the weakness of wheat. After opening unchanged to ½c up for July at 60⅞@61c, the market scored material gains all around.

Oats were depressed by the government report pointing to a larger crop than had been generally expected. The market opened ½c to ⅝c lower for uJly at 36½c, and then sagged further before beginnig to recover.

Sales of the former were slightly more than 2,000 shares, while the latter accounted for 1,000 shares. Brazilian held steady throughout the morning, keeping within a half point range, with the close at 48¾, unchanged from last night. Toronto Railway, however, furnished a little variety, with sales as high as 75½, and the close within ⅛ of the low at 74, making a net gain of ¼ for the morning. C. P. R. was weak, closing with a 2-point loss at 138, and Mackay was also lower, the close at 97¾, being ½ under last night.

COUNTY POLICE report that they are still investigating the continued theft of chickens from Westminster Township barnyards.

QUESTIONED FRIDAY morning as they sat beneath the spreading chestnut trees in front of the county buildings, county councillors refused to be drawn into any controversy as to the recent eviction of Miss Harris by Sheriff Donald Graham and aides.

COUNTY COUNCILLORS find themselves pressed for time at the present moment, owing to their penchant for sport. They adjourned two afternoons of the week early, in order to witness the prowess of the London ball team. They now deplore their weakness.

BREVITY was the keynote of the regular meeting of the London Housing Committee, held Thursday night. A few accounts were passed and this constituted the evening's agenda. Those present were: R. Hessel, E. R. Dennis and J. W. Cunliffe.

WHILE ADMITTING that there were many suspects, provincial police stated on Friday morning that they did not now anticipate any further arrests in connection with the Wyoming bank robbery, thus dispelling all reports to that effect.

E. RISELY has taken out a building permit to erect a one-story dwelling on Barker street at an estimated cost of $2,000. B. Shapiro has taken out a building permit to erect a store, two stories in height, and of brick construction, on Dundas street, costing $12,000. Harry Hayman has the contract for this work. Building permits issued this month now total 62, and the estimated aggregate cost of the work involved is $99,360.

TWENTY-FIVE members of Bible Study Group of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held a picnic at Springbank Thursday evening, which was voted by all present as being enormously successful.

After a most delightful supper the picnickers enjoyed baseball and other games until darkness put an end to the sports.

Arrangements for the picnic were in the hands of the president, Miss Ruth Stevenson; Rev. W. F. K. Harris, supervisor of religious education of St. Andrew's Church, and Mrs. Harris, and Mr. and Mrs. Parkinson, the class teachers, were guests at the picnic.

TEMPORARY changes in the personnel of the Salvation Army staff are to be made at Toronto headquarters, to go into effect June 20. When changes are made, two officers will be placed in charge at the recently-formed No. 4 corps of the London division, and it is expected that services will be held for the first time on June 24.

No. 4 corps was organized to cope with the increasing number of Salvationists in the district of Hamilton road. According to Brigadier Crichton of headquarters here, still other corps are necessary, as there are some districts in the city where Salvationists are forced to go considerable distance to service each Sunday.

Final changes in the staff do not go into effect until the month of August.

SAYS SALARY BYLAW WILL BE EFFECTIVE THIS YEAR

City Clerk S. Baker declares that Ald. Ashton is wrong when he interprets the clause moved by him to pay $25 a month to city aldermen to mean during any year other than 1922. The clerk points out that this clause is to be incorporated in the salary bylaw effective this year, and therefore if carried would mean that the present city council would receive remuneration.

Ald. Ashton stated Thursday that no year is specified in the clause, and hence the interview with the city clerk. Ald. Ashton also warned Ald. Judd, who is opposed to such remuneration, to "let me alone as I can put one over on him every time."

When informed of this statement on Friday, Ald. Judd said: "I am glad he thinks so. Ald. Ashton can certainly put one over on me when he resorts to the methods he employed to get a city council meeting on Monday night. If he resorts to the principle of trickery he can put one over on anybody."

THOUGHT THAT FATHER OF MADDICK CHILDREN LIVES

Hamilton, June 9.—It was learned today that the father of the children Donald and Doris Maddick, who are said to have been unmercifully beaten by the woman at whose home they were placed by the Soldiers' Aid Commission, was not killed in action, as first reported. It is thought he deserted his family about eight years since, when his wife died in Toronto.

The children in this case are not entitled to a pension. A. W. Kaye of the Soldiers' Aid Commission here has been in touch with the children and their foster-home for a considerable time, and said today that they had always appeared cheerful and well-used until they came to him with the story of the beating. He thinks the woman who had charge of them was temporarily insane when she beat them, and says she is now pleading that they be returned to her. He will make a full report to the S. A. C. at Toronto, from where they were sent to the farm on which they had been living.

COMMITS CROFT IN KILLING CASE

Chatham, June 9.—Clayton Croft, accused of the murder of Gustav Noel whose body was discovered under the floor of a Charing Cross barn, was this morning committed for trial by Magistrate Arnold. His counsel, W. C. Lamarsh, intimated that evidence taken at the inquest on Tuesday last will be admitted as evidence for the preliminary hearing. Entering a plea of not guilty, Croft then waived examination.

A second charge of forging a check for $100 in the name of Noel was also preferred against Croft, to which he pleaded not guilty. Accused ass

'Tis the soles of the people, I keep in view,
For I am the doctor of boot and shoe.

Do a good job and make it last!
There is nothing snide about what I do.
Doubt not this—my work proves it's true.
I can give you a lift in this changeable life.
Not only you, but your children and wife.
A good many patients have come to my door,
Worn out, run down and feeling quite sore.
Though I don't use poultice, plaster or pill,
I cure sick soles, no matter how ill!

MISSIONARY TELLS OF FEMINIST DRIVE IN CHINA

Describes Campaign to Teach Chinese That Women Should Have Equal Rights.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. MARYS, June 8.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the town hall this afternoon and was largely attended. A very interesting item of the program was a splendid address by Mrs. (Rev.) George Sparling, returned missionary, on "The Status of Women in New China," in which she told of the way women were ignored in that country, and that a great educational campaign is now going on whereby an endeavor is being made to teach the Chinese that women should have the same rights as men.

Mrs. Sparling's address was listened to with deep interest, because of the fact that having recently returned from China she understands perfectly the conditions in that country.

Mrs. Fleming, who has for some time occupied the position of president of the local society, today tendered her resignation, which was accepted, and Mrs. Brewer was appointed in her stead.

SHARES OF NUKOL NOT RESTRICTED

TORONTO, June 8.—M. P. Van der Voort, under cross-examination by A. G. Slaght, K.C., this afternoon at the trial of Hiram H. Slater and L. J. Thompson on charges of conspiracy and theft, stated that the shares of stock acquired by Thompson in the Nukol Fuel Company, Limited, were not tied or bound by any agreement or understanding which would restrict his selling of them.

Witness incorporated the financial underwriters which secured options for selling Nukol shares. As far as he knew Thompson had nothing at all to do with financial underwriters, either as a shareholder or in regard to receipts or profits.

Schock, an engineer of good standing from the United States, had charge of the operating side of the Nukol Company's business, and subsequently was given powers as general manager.

Witness agreed that there were two camps of Nukol shareholders. When Schock attempted to read his report at a shareholders' meeting in November he was interrupted by Mr. Roebuck, a solicitor, who represented one of the factions.

"Mr. Roebuck did most of the talking?"

"He did a lot of talking."

"Roebuck was directing his batteries for the other faction against Schock's expensive operations?"

"Yes."

Witness said that considerable friction had existed between Schock and the directors for some time. The latter thought Schock should increase the company's business and cut expenses. "That was one reason his contract was not renewed."

Thompson had nothing to do with the operations of the company for which Schock was engaged, but he took an active interest in the company's welfare.

Cross-examined by Mr. McRuer, witness had no personal knowledge of any money that might have been owing by Slater to the company or vice versa.

WOMEN'S MISSION SOCIETY PRESENTS PARTING GIFT

Mrs. A. J. Langford, Methodist Church, St. Marys, Is Leaving For Peterboro.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. MARYS, June 8.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church was held on Tuesday afternoon, at which Mrs. Geo. Sparling presented her report of the London Conference Branch Convention of the W. M. S., held in Windsor recently.

In recognition of her splendid services to this society during the last three years, Mrs. A. J. Langford, wife of the pastor, was presented with a half dozen teaspoons and a sugar shell, also an address was read. Mr. and Mrs. Langford leave early in July to take up their new duties in Trinity Church, Peterboro.

Dear Mrs. Langford, — We, the members of this auxiliary, feel that we cannot let you go from our midst without a few words of appreciation. In the three years you have been laboring amongst us, we have made steady progress. Our membership has increased. We have had a splendid increase in funds, but best of all, the true missionary spirit has grown. Never in the history of our society have so many women shown so much interest or taken such active part. This we realize has been largely due to your efforts in introducing the circle system, and we also appreciate the fact that you have done it so capably and cheerfully that it has been a pleasure to have you as leader. This little gift we present to you is not offered as a reward, but we ask you to accept it as a token of the good-will we bear to you and Mr. Langford and your son. Our prayers and good wishes go with you to your new field of labor. We shall miss you very much, but we know you will not forget us, and we shall remember you as one who has given your very best for us. Signed on behalf of the M. L. Dunseith, treasurer; Minnie Graham, corresponding secretary; Ada J. Dennie, recording secretary; St. Marys, Ont., June 6, 1922.

CONSTIPATION BAD HEADACHES, FAINT, DIZZY SPELLS

A free motion of the bowels daily should be the rule of everyone, then there will be no constipation, sick or bilious spells, dizziness, heartburn, coated tongue, foul breath, sour stomach, floating specks before the eyes, jaundice, water brash, etc.

Mrs. Frank Willsey, R. R. 3, Belmont, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with constipation for nearly two years. I had bad headaches, faint and dizzy spells, and would bloat terribly. I was nearly discouraged, for I had tried so many things that gave me no relief. My mother got me a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and told me to give them a fair trial. After I had taken one vial I felt much better and continued their use. Now I have no faint and dizzy spells and am gaining nicely. I would not be without Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for the world."—Advt.

CRAZED BY DRINK TRIES TO END LIFE

SARNIA, June 8.—Crazed by the effect of drinking illicit liquor given to her by Indians on the Walpole Island Reserve, Rosie Altman, an Indian married woman, attempted to take her life by jumping from the island wharf into the St. Clair River.

An Indian named Sands seeing the act immediately took off his coat and jumped in after the woman, who was struggling in deep water. After some minutes of terrific struggle with the woman, in the powerful current of the river, he succeeded in holding to the surface until assistance was brought. The woman is now in a serious condition from the effects of the cold water exposure.

Your Little Boy and Girl ---and Mine

"My little child climbed up into my lap the other evening, and in characteristic fashion said, 'How much do you love me, Daddy?'

"'Why, I love you so much I'd never let anything harm you, as long as I live,'

"In childlike innocence, back came the response, 'Well, I hope you live as long as I do, Daddy,'

"Like a dart the reply pierced through to my heart."

The future holds no cruel fate if the "guardian angel" of life insurance is placed over your children's lives to-day. Ere to-morrow it may be too late.

Any Life Insurance representative will be pleased to advise you how a father's and mother's love can be extended to their children, guaranteeing to them a chance in life, even though death overtake the parents
