The Classes will be Re-opened on Monday, August 19th, at 11 o'clock, in presence of the Directors, when his Honor Judge McConn will preside, and make on appropriate Address to the Pupils.—Parents and Guardians are invited to attend. CREDIT RATES OF PREMIUM.

THE great and decided success which has attended this Institution, has induced the Directors to REDUCE the RATES originally required in British North America, to the ordinary Assopsem Rates. The result of such Reduction is to enable parties to avail themselves of the important henefits to Life Assurance at much lower Rates of Premium than those of any other Assurance Company & assacting business in Canada.

The Directors have also resolved to extend to British North America the advantages afforded by the HALF CREDIT RATES of PREMIUM which have been so highly approved, and are so generally adopted by Policy hiolders in the United Kingdom. The most liberal conditions are likewise offered to the Assured in the limits to which they may proceed by set or land, to other parts of North America without affecting their Interest in their respective Policies.

A tail, gaunt, lil-favored woman, who was at work in the only room belonging to the cottage, offered them, by his lordship's direction, a mug of cider and a bawl of cabbage soup, which she herself drew from the fire where it was simmering with agravory odor, and when they departed, he expressed no wish to behold them again, and enjoined them to no accreay concerning the place of his retreat. Of course the story was all over Paris, almost before the train which he is the fair flowner had arrived at the terminus. In less than a week the whole of the fashionable world had been to the place where the "banished lord" had hid himself so long; but from the day of the visit of the ladies, the cottage had been at up, and although the people of the neighborhood declared that the inhabitants still remained within, and came out easy at night—yet no more was seen of Lord 6——, and after awhile the cottage was in reality shandoned, and all pursuit rendered neless once more. The arrival of two great London lawyers last week has revived the interest experienced two years ago by the discovery of his retreat—and his death, which has taken place in a hovel situated at the bottom of a cow-yard at the Battgnolles, is likely to give much, work to the sort of workmen that the English call the gentlemen of the long-robe; as it appears, he has left by will, duly signed and scaled, the whole of his wast personal property to the tall, gaunt, fill-favored woman, who for more then twelve years has been the sharier of his solitude, and who, amongst at the ingream property to the tall, gaunt, fill-favored woman, who for more then twelve years has been the sharier of his solitude, and who, amongst at the ingream neighbors, is suid to have passessed an and the given and to have passessed an and the given and the sharier of his solitude, and who, amongst at the ingream neighbors, is suid to have passessed an and the given and the sharier of his solitude, and who, amongst at the ingream neighbors, is suid to have passessed an and the sha

The antiquaries are most comfort-bit; at odds about it is an it we might it is an hundred pages of conflicting authorities without coming near anything like a corelusion. During the reign of Clas dius the Second, o e of those moneters in human form upon whom the impe it purple a mid to rest, as kleazur, in Marlowe's Lust's Dominion, desires villany to sit upon him, the vill and covering of uncurrity exime. Valentine is said to have suffered marryrdom at Reme. The deteo in sacrifice is said to have been a D. 271, and Claudius died at Sirmium in 269, shortly after defeating the Goths in a prehed battle, in which their host amounted to 220,000 mes. He was more probably one of the victims of the ainth persecution under Au clian. The era of Valentine's death w.s. also that of Z-nobia's defeat at Edessa, and the d at action by the same cap for of her wonderful captal of Palmyra. The good bishop is moreover al eged to have been put to death upon the 1 th of February. On this day the birds, it is popularly believed, make chiece of their mates for the coming year. Whe there is the practice therefore of young people on this day choosing their parts that i rends, or Valentines, is in hour of the marryred bishop, or in imitation of the birds, is a question so profound, and about which so much is to be said on both sid s, that we begleave to decline deciding at. There is a graceful legend of the saint's marryrdom in which the birds and the bishop are so closely combined that the honor of the isstival seems rather their joint property, than a matter of dispute between them. Whist Valentine was in the agonies of marryrdom Lao doves have detected in grate his lips with heir rose tipped bills, and side by side soured by sufferings, and when at last his exhausted to dy sunk under the seven y of the torture, they lighted on his hosom for a moment, hissed his lips with heir rose tipped bills, and side by side so to know that Mr. Leeming is, just now, out of town, and have no doubt but that he will, on his up with a steady and equal flight useful they were up with a steady and equal flight useful they were just among the clouds. And looking in each others' eyes the same thought came to each of them as if by inspiration. Let us imitate the messengers of heaven, and henceforth be angels of the mercy to all who suffer. And La and Emilianus went away to the catacombs and were there joined by one of the persecuted in Christian marriage, and went about their labors. This fact or legand pained rapid currency among the early Christians, and Valentine's d.y. was established as a le sto love. The Seven Hearts of Conde.—In the Church of Chantilly, under the base of a pillar which a child might cover with its hands, is the resting place of the hearts of the seven princes of the line of Conde—seven hearts whose renown once filled the wide world. The black band of Chantilly, in 1793, willing to rival the patriots of Paris, who descerated the repose of the dead in the vaults of St. Denis, tore "the seven hearts of Conde" from their place of repose, where they were each enclosed in a silver wase. The silver wase the republicans (red or black) took into their own keeping, very patriotically; but they throw the seven hearts over the wall of a gr.len which was contiguous to the Church of Chantilly. A gentlemah, the Sieur Petit, found them, surnounded by hiles and flowering shrubs, in a book under the shelter of the garden wall, where they had remained forgotten for years. So excellent them any control of the parts miles of France as a species of miracle. The Sieur Petit quely took the hearts of Conde it careful keeping until the restoration in 1815, when he brought them back to the then Prince of Conde, who had them re-enclosed in silver, and buried

The City Elections.

Dz. Dond and John Huntzh.—The great interest excited in favor of a commutate of Dt. Dodd's sentence led to the belief, at the time, that his life had not been really sacrificed. Many plausible stories respecting the Boctor having been subsequently seen alive, were current; but the most positive evidence to the contrary exists. The strempt to resuscitate him was actually made, by a no less distinguished Surgeon than John Hunter. He seemed then to attribute the fastere to his having received the body too tate. Wonder ful effects were at that time expected from galvanism; and it would have been wonderful indeed if any restoration had taken place after more than two hour's inspended animation. John Hunter was not wont to be very communicative upon the subject, even to his most intimate friends.

We judge so from the following passage in the number of that journal for Saturday :--

"There has been some difference of opinion among the Irish Electors of these Wards, some of whom were disposed to support candidates who had been identified with Tory principles. A split among the Reformers would have been an amortinate occurrence. We are glad to learn that the differences have ceased to exist. this city to inquire into the circumstances connected with Mr. Roat's purchase of the Island of Patmes, in the Third Concession of Ameliasburg. After sitting four or five times, they were unable to agree in their verdict; and the result was, two adverse decisions. The decision exonerating Mr. Roaf, is as follows :-

TORONTO, 27th January, 1851. Toronto, 27th January, 1851.

Having been called upon to investigate certain charges preferred against the Rev. John Roaf, in a letter published in the Mostreal Courier, of date 27th Nov., 1850—ai.er a very care.ul and lengthened enquiry into the whole transactions referred to—and having heard and examined all the oral and documentary evidence on both sides, that we believe can possibly be of any value:

We, the undersigned, from a deep sense of Truth ar. Justice, hereby declare:

Frist—That on the part of Mr. Roaf, in this whole transaction, from first to last, not the slightest advantage was taken, or sought to be taken; on the courtary, all is both fair and honorable. Resolved,—That the following gentlemen be appointed a Committee, with power to add to their number, to carry the foregoing Resolutions into effect:—John Frothingham, J. H. Lambe, D. Moore. John Armour, John Burns, H. Irish, Thomas H. Bridge, A. Heward, Anthony Walsh, Patrick Malouey, James Stewart, John Loney, Thomas Workman, J. McShane, G. Hill, John Greenshields, T. Thirdly—Throughout the whole of the enquiry, Mr. Roaf has evinced the utmost readiness to answer any question; to give, or procure, or direct us where we were likely to procure, any information (documentary or otherwise) bearing upon the subject; so, also, have all those gentlemen from whom we thought it necessary to seek information.

Laughlin:

4. That "parental love," that deep and holy feeling implanted in man's sature for the protection of his offspring, should lead all enlightened heads of families to impress at the minds of their children, both by percept and example, a conscientious segard for the principles of temperance. Moved by Mr. P. LeSueur, accorded by the Rev.

James Caughey:

5. That this Society commends itself to the favorable consideration of the young men, and yery specially to the countemance and co-operation.

I am of opinion that this is a case which, on every principle of moral obligation, requires restitution.

It is true that a suit against the Huffs had been pending since 1843, and this was the very ground alleged in the Courier for the interference of Hawkins, while it appeared in evidence that a petition to the College in 1844, by the Huffs, and which might have altered the case materially, was, for some reason unknown, kept, back by Hawkins, and never reached the College Council.

These is no evidence that the dealings of Hawkins with the Huffs were authorized by the College Council, or even known to them; and his own letter animitted to us, and of date January 2, 1850, contains the expressive intimation that his hand-writing must not, on any account, he seen by the College. The plan, too, submitted in that letter, for preventing the College from asking more than five or six dollars for the land, indicates to my mind a deep laid plot.

With regard to the visit of Hawkins to the Island, Mr. Roof has told us that that was undertaken at his instance, and not at the movement of the College Council. It appears to me, therefore, very desirable that the grounds and reason of his interference should be distinctly stated, so as to remove every impression of compinery in the case.

I don't see on what principle the same sum was demanded for 250 acres of banh land as was to be given in propertion for all the rest of the Island, with clearings to the extent of 480 acres, and buildings judicially estimated at the value of £1,300.

As to the two floorand dollars to be paid by Mr. Roof, I can learn authing of any such sum being apolem of till September, 1850, and the evidence of Mr. T. Bell, who conducted the transaction on the part of the Huffs, went; in my opinion, to set aside the averment of its being the attributed price for the College ordered a path the more special to make the path of the Huffs, went; in the rent, are not wasted understoned, I am pretty certain it is now (1851) worth at least double.

WEST WARD.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE WEST WARD.

CENTLEMEN,—It has afforded me much of gratification to learn that the result of the double canvass of the West Ward, which has just been made by Messrs. H. P. Jeaacson and A. B. Strward, on behalf of myself and John Fisher, Esq.—and by Messrs J. H. Isaacson and G. Smith, on behalf of myself and H. H. Whitney, Esq., is that my name has been almost unanimously placed on both tickets.

If the confidences thus so generally expressed should place me, at the approaching Municipal Election, in the Corporation as one of the Councillors for the West Ward, I beg to assure you that I shall endeavor to promote the interests of the City to the best of my ability.

I have the honor to be,

GENTLEMEN,
Your most obedient servant,
JOHN LEEMING.

Montreal, January 17, 1884.

H. H. WHITNEY, Esq.:

DEAN SIR.—I section you a requisition, memerously signed by Voters of the West Word, begging you to allow yourself, in conjunction with Mr. JOHN LEEMENG, to be named as a Candidate for the small West Ward at the next ensuing Municipal Election.

On my own part, I have to inform you, that, in connection with Mr. J. H. Islancou, I have carefully envessed the Ward, and do not nesitate to affirm, that a majority of the Voters therein have pledged themselves to support yea.

I am,

Sun,

Yours very truly,

GEO. SMITH.

MR. GEO. SMITH:
My Dean Sta.—I beg to ucknowledge the receipt of your note, and also the requisition accompanying it: In reply, I beg to state that I feel highly honored by the call made on me by us large a number of the Yoten of the West Ward, and shall be happy to comply with their request.
With many thanks for the trouble you have taken in the matter, believe me,
Dean Sta,
Yours very truly,

This sentence is constantly in the mouth of every person, in order to explain, certain complains. Those who use it often, we think, have but a faint siden of its precise messible. We will ofter an explanation, which we believe to be the opinion of a unjority of the most learned physicians. A person, for institution, has been over exerting any particular set of miscles—of the throat, from violent speaking—of the loins, by too much stooping or braining, or these or any other part of the body; these parts of muscles are, consequently, weakened and relaxed, and income a fair prey for any disente. The person who has been thus acting, accidentally or otherwise, exposes himself to the cold, which had been but just, now circularing rapidly throughout the surface of the body; is repetied invantly, and is sure to servle in these parts which have been previously wearied and relaxed. Here, then, we have an accumulation of blood, acongestion, which gives rise to all the pain and staffness attendant upon such complaint.
