RUSSIAN TROOPS

Gain Several Victories on the Chinese Frontier.

CHINESE ARE ACTIVE AROUND KHARBIN

Minister Gier Will Leave Peking With a Chinese Escort.

STRATEGIC POINTS SECURED

In the Vicinity of Tientsin—More Chinese Expected From Peking—Uncle Sam Memorialized.

From Saturday's Daily.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 13, via Skagway, Aug. 18.—Official dispatches report Russian successes on the frontier. The Chinese are in possession of the country around Kharbin extending as far as Sinehemp. The capture of the former place was very timely as there was serious danger of the Russian ammunition being exhausted.

Czar Approves.

London, Aug. 13, via Skagway, Aug. 18.—The czar has expressed his approval of Minister Gier's intention of leaving Peking under Chinese escort. This action on the part of the Russian monarch has caused considerable comment from the European press. Minister Gier is all ready to start for Tientsin with his entire staff, accompanied by an escort of marines.

Not Marching to Peking.

London, Aug. 13, via Skagway, Aug. 18.—The belief still prevails that the allied forces have not undertaken to make an advance upon Peking. It is now given out that recent engagements were intended merely to gain possession of certain strategic points in order to make continued tenure of Tientsin absolutely certain. Further accession to the Chinese forces are daily anticipated.

Uncle Sam Memorialized.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13, via Skagway, Aug. 18.—The United States government has been memorialized by several viceroys of the southern Chinese provinces requesting the influence of the government against the landing of British troops. The state department has replied that it is entirely out of the province of the American government to interfere with the British program in Southern China.

BRIEF MENTION.

C. E. Cole is down from 30 below on Bonanza today.

John Ross is down from Chechako hill on a short visit.

There is a lively demand for comfortable cabins in Dawson at present.

A wage case against the steamer Bonanza King is being heard in police court this afternoon.

An even bet was taken this morning that there will be frost here before the close of the present month.

Misses Millicent and Marsia Latimer, of Chechako Hill, have been visiting in the city for the past two days.

A. E. Jory has arrived from Skagway on a visit to his wife who is interested in the management of the villa de Lion in West Dawson.

The Garret family which resided on the sidehill near the head of Fifth street, has gone to Minook. Mr. Garret having left on the Susie and his wife and daughter on the Gustin today.

After spending a week in Dawson during which time he has sold a large amount of hardware, D. C. Brownell will leave tomorrow for his home in Skagway. He is much pleased with Dawson and may possibly return and spend the winter here.

N. W. P. Takes a Holiday.

The observant Dawsonite will notice the absence of the police today from their usual rounds. Today has been declared a holiday for the boys of the yellow stripes, Capt. Starnes posting a notice to that effect yesterday. All except those required on special details being allowed a day off in recognition of their excellent service during the visit of the vice-regal party.

Two Policemen Drowned.

Word has been received here by the police of the drowning of two members of the force from Tagish post in the Sixmile river a few nights ago. The unfortunate men were Corporal Johnson and Constable O'Brien, the former having been a member of the police force for 10 years. The first evidence of the disappearance of the men was when their hats were found floating in the water at the upper end of Marsh lake, and later their canoe in which they were known to be out was found nearby and upset. The bodies have not yet been reported found.

M'GOVERN LOST HIS BOOTS.

Discord Hovers Over Artaud Family Until the Wife Rebels—Husband Now Manufactures Fuel.

In Magistrate McDonell's court this morning there was evidence of the slumber brand of hooch which, so far as evidence was concerned, is now the only brand in Dawson, as the only two drunks in court had both been asleep on the sidewalk. The two victims were named Gold and Wheeler. The former had been picked up on First avenue and on being awakened had become noisy and disorderly. He had reached the city on the steamer Gustin on which he is employed as fireman. He was fined $5 and costs, which he paid.

Wheeler was likewise fined $5 and costs, but not being possessed of the cash, he will, for the next ten days, manipulate a saw in the wood yard.

The prisoners' box was about as full as it has ever been when Miss Lilly Charpentier entered it this morning.

Miss Lilly is the female who, in the exuberance incident to the advent of the Fourth of July, began to shoot holes in the climate and by mistake punctured the anatomy of a man who was quietly pursuing the even tenor of his way some yards distant. The present cool evening breezes, heralders of the chilly blasts of Boreas, evidently are not felt by Lilly, against whom there was two charges this morning, one of conducting a house of ill-fame and another for being on the sidewalk arrayed in very scant clothing. To the first charge she plead guilty, but denied the latter. To prove her position she began to strip down right in the prisoner's box in order that the court might be convinced that the charge against her was not well founded. She was disrobed from her intentions, which for a moment looked as though they would prove very embarrassing to several beardless youths present, and as she said she could bring witnesses to prove that she had been becomingly clad at the time when the officer testified she was most decidedly décolleté, the case was constituted until Monday morning.

J. R. McGovern was the prosecuting witness in a case in which Ben Shaw was charged with the theft of four pairs of gum boots of the value of $52. The trial did not progress far until Attorney Pattullo, who appeared for the defence, made it plain that there was no ground for the charge of theft, and that civil action for an accounting should have been instituted; it was accordingly dismissed.

Further hearing in the case against Capt. Ernest Jordan, of steamer Florence S. fame, was continued until Tuesday morning.

Two years have flown since the white winged angel of peace and domestic felicity has hovered o'er the Artaud family, the members of which first saw the light in France or in a French community. Since they decided to separate and each carve out his and her individual fortune, the female member of the family appears to have prospered, while the erstwhile liege lord and master appears to have spent much of his time astride the barbed wire fence of adversity. Mrs. Artaud has a good position as cook and housekeeper on Dominion and, being a frugal woman, saves her money, with the result that when she comes to town she can afford to stop at the Hotel McDonald. Mrs. Artaud came in from Dominion yesterday and at an early hour this morning was called upon in her room at the hotel by the man she had once promised to love, honor and, possibly, obey, who asked her for money. His request was not granted which caused Artaud to become enraged and began to abuse her. She said he struck her, at which Artaud hissed from the prisoner's box "You lie!" Witnesses confirmed the story of the woman whose only desire was that her husband should be restrained from molesting her. The court decreed that he give a bond to not molest his wife for a period of six months, and that for assaulting her this morning he pay a fine of $5 and costs or perform hard labor for a period of ten days. Not having the money he was put to work and up to this afternoon the woman, as is the habit of her sex, had not paid his fine and taken him out of the clutches of the law.

An Innovation in Storage.

Leighty & Barton, proprietors of the Klondike Market, are trying an experiment which if successful will be of great benefit not only to themselves financially, but to the public generally. They are erecting a new building on the corner of Fifth avenue and Third streets, and prior to its erection have excavated a large cellar on the site; this is to be used in summer for cold storage, and in winter for warm storage purposes.

The cellar is 18x32 feet and 6 feet in depth, 4 1/2 feet of which is dug in the frozen ground. This, after the erection of the building, will practically make a huge ice box in which meats can be kept frozen an indefinite time. By putting in a small heater in winter it is expected that the temperature can be kept at the right degree of heat, particularly as the building over the cellar protrudes some four feet all around, making an air-tight lid for the excavation.

Mr. Leighty says he sees no reason why cellars are not generally used here, as the conditions are ideal for the preservation of goods below the ground, owing to the perpetual frost which is found at an average of two feet below the surface.

Gold Run Notes.

A representative of this paper recently made a tour of Gold Run creek upon which a large amount of summer work is being done and big preparations are on foot for next winter.

Active work at the present time begins at No. 42, where Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Robinson are located. They are now making preparations for next winter's work and before placing a big steam plant on the ground.

On 33 Swan and Lindsten are working a gang of men and operating two thawing machines. Results are reported to be satisfactory.

Messrs. Hensing and Warner, owners of No. 32, are located on that claim.

Chas. Robinson has been working on the upper part of 31. He was compelled to quit work on account of water.

On the lower half of the same claim Stone and Larsen are operating a steam thawer successfully.

On 30a Frank Ason is working a gang of men. He has a fine steam plant in operation.

Claim No. 24 has the distinction of possessing the only two-story frame house on the creek. It belongs to John Corbi, who believes in taking some comfort out of life even while working a claim in the Klondike.

Pete Iverson is hard at work on 23. He is working a big gang of men and is well satisfied with the dirt he is now taking out.

Sal, the owner of 24 fraction, is working his ground.

On 19 Frank Swanson has his big plant which he moved over from Dominion. He has one of the richest claims on the creek and is working a large force of men.

Twelve and thirteen are also being worked extensively.

Representation work only is being done on the claims above 45. The entire creek from the latter number down will be worked during the coming winter.

J. H. Rogers, who was shot by Nelson A. Soggs, is now on 34, upon which claim he will remain all winter.

Mrs. C. Noble is spending a few days with Mrs. Robinson on 42.

GOES TO EAGLE ON STR. GUSTIN.

Will Begin Constructing Alaskan Line at Once.

SYSTEM WILL BE COMPLETE.

Will Connect at Forty-Mile With Government Wire From Dawson—Embraces 1800 Miles.

Gen. A. W. Greely arrived this morning on the Tyrrell from the outside and took the steamer Gustin for Fort Egbert this afternoon. Gen. Greely is the chief signal service officer of the United States army, his duty calling him to all parts of the world, where the army of the U. S. is in operation. He has just returned from China and the Philippines and was ordered by the Yukon district with instructions by the government to immediately commence the building of a telegraph line to connect from Eagle City with the line now being built by the Dominion government from Dawson to the boundary.

The material is now at Eagle and work will be rushed through in the most expeditious manner immediately upon the arrival of the general and will be completed before the close of navigation. He furnishes the interesting information that a cable will be laid between St. Michael and Nome at the earliest practical moment and a line continued from the latter point up the river connecting with Eagle City, thus completing, with the Dominion line, communication direct with the world.

A line will tap the Yukon river from Valde, 50 miles of which is already constructed, and the continuation of which is being pushed with all possible rapidity.

J. J. Rutledge Back.

J. J. Rutledge, well known as one of Dawson's pioneers is a recent arrival back from Nome. Mr. Rutledge stated to a Nugget representative that in his opinion Nome will be a better camp next year than it is at the present time.

"There are altogether too many people there now," said Mr. Rutledge, "and in addition the country is almost entirely tied up with litigation. By next summer this difficulty should be pretty well overcome and an opportunity given to open up the country. Thousands of people are there now who must eventually get out of the country as there is nothing for them to do this year."

Mr. Rutledge will remain in Dawson during the coming winter and devote himself to the development of his Gold Run properties which are among the most valuable claims on that creek.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 19, 1900

TO BE CONGRATULATED.

The citizens' committee has acquitted itself during the visit of the governor general in a manner that reflects much credit not only upon the body as a whole but upon the individual members as well.

It must be said that the committee was placed in a delicate position, which required the exercise of much tact and caution in order to be maintained successfully.

There was determined opposition to the plan of presenting any memorial of grievances to the governor general and that opposition had to be overcome.

The language of the memorial was a matter of extreme importance in that it had to be couched in such terms as would convey all that the committee desired and at the same time be so worded as not to offend. In this particular the committee succeeded admirably.

The presentation of a quantity of Klondike native gold to Lady Minto took place at the vice regal quarters at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

At the request of Col. MacGregor, chairman of the reception committee, who was intrusted with the management of the affair, Alex McDonald officiated and presented her excellency with a gold bucket filled with gold dust and nuggets on behalf of miners, stating that it was in token of good will to their distinguished guest.

Lady Minto was most happy in her reply. The considerate and kindly treatment, she said, extended to herself and Lord Minto by the people of the Yukon, they would never forget. The following are names of some who contributed:

N. A. T. & T. Co., A. E. Co., Mr. Henry Berry, Antone Standar, James Tweed, Skiff Mitchell, Dan McGillivray, McGillivray and McKay, Alex McDonald, W. Chappell, Senator Lynch, Mrs. Alex McDonald.

Before leaving Dawson Lady Minto directed the following note to Commissioner Ogilvie in acknowledgement of the pleasant remembrance from the miners of the Yukon:

Dawson, Aug. 17, 1900.
Dear Mr. Ogilvie: I am writing to beg you will be good enough to express my warmest thanks to the many miners who have joined in presenting me this afternoon with such a beautiful collection of nuggets in so finely designed a basket. The great pleasure that I have felt in receiving so magnificent a gift from the miners of this district is only equalled by my gratification at knowing what kindly feelings have prompted them to make me the recipient of so charming a souvenir. It is with the greatest interest that I availed myself of the opportunity afforded me to view the workings of the gold mines, and I can only regret that the shortness of our stay has prevented me from making more extended visits. On my return to Ottawa I shall be taking with me, not only a memento of the kindness and generosity of the miners of the Klondike, but also the happiest memories of my short but very delightful visit to Dawson.

Believe me, yours sincerely,

has made the anarchist question a very serious one. Unless they are suppressed in the future more successfully than has been the case in the past, the time will come when thrones will go a begging for lack of occupants who are willing to risk their lives for the sake of enjoying regal honors.

The governor general of Canada is more democratic in his actions than many an insignificant officeholder whose rise from obscurity has been purely and simply a matter of accident. Nevertheless we were gravely assured by gentlemen who certainly ought to have known whereof they spoke, that the idea of presenting him with a memorial was something absolutely unheard of, and would not be countenanced for a moment. It is too bad that the idea was so distasteful to these gentlemen, but we imagine the committee will be able to survive their disapproval in view of the fact that his excellency entered so heartily into the project.

Had Lord Minto seen fit to resign his present position and stand for a seat in the Yukon council we have an idea he would take a lead from the start and win out hands down. Such a suggestion would probably have been made to his excellency were it not for the fact that nearly every man who gained access to the vice-regal ear happens to be a candidate for the council himself.

If Minister Sifton does not hear about the memorial presented to the governor general by the citizens' committee it will be only for the reason that he has suddenly become deaf in both ears instead of in one only.

STROLLER'S COLUMN

Probably there is nothing more unpleasant or disagreeable than the results of insomnia. The person who wants to sleep and can't, even when all the prerequisites to slumber are at hand, is a subject for pity and commiseration; yet had it not been for insomnia the Stroller might never have found a certain slip of paper which he picked up from the street in the dead hour of night lately while out endeavoring to woo the requirements of slumber by exercising in the very late hours of the day before. The paper referred to looked quite small, but, when opened, was seen to contain a long list of titled names. Inspection proved it to be a list of local notables each one of whom had, since the visit of his excellency, been furnished with a title in addition to his old name.

The list read as follows:
Sir William Ogilvie, first lord of the manor and poobah of the Yukon.
Right Honorable F. C. Wade, knight of hospital hill.
Baton Col. MacGregor, lord of the chair and past grand knight of the gavel.

Sir Joseph Clark, serial purveyor of resolutions to his highness the poobah.
Lord Chief Justice Woodworth, master of Blackstone.
Baron Barney Sugrue from County Antrim.
Oh Lord W. H. P. Clement.
Count Councilman Gironard.
Earl of Sulphur Alex McDonald.
Lord High Executioner Eijbeck.
Sir Knight of the Treasury Thos. McMullen.

Royal Pharmacist and Scribe to Parliament, Catto.
Viscount Auguste Noel, associate lord chief justice.
Sir John Smith.

A man himself in every sense of the word, he honors manly principles whenever met; and for the tongue that for two long years has cried aloud to heaven for redress of grievances to have been stilled during the visit of his excellency would have been cowardice on the one hand and a wrong and an injustice to his lordship, who came here not to be fondled, dined and wine-d, but to see things and conditions as they are. He came, saw and has departed, not to forget in a fortnight his visit to the Yukon, but to fulfill his promises made here, promises made as man to man, that his distinguished influence and exertions will be used for the good of the people of the Klondike. It is safe to assert that from now on any government official who may visit the Yukon in the future and who may be so inflated with a sense of his own importance as to hold himself aloof from and above the people will be hissed and hooted. The greatest man in the Dominion came and set the pace which others must follow or be repudiated.

The identity of the man who gave tickets of admission to the dock on the arrival of the vice-regal party, to the "scarlet" women has been revealed and, like the Georgia statesman, he is wondering "Where am I at?" It is reported that he will join the Moosehides.

"By the way," said a business man to the Stroller yesterday, "I think it would be a good idea to allow the arches on the streets to stand for the next three or four weeks and until snow falls. They are a treat to the eye and will assuredly be admired by visitors and strangers."

And the Stroller agreed with him that there should be no haste in the matter of their removal.

HAPPENED IN PHILADELPHIA

When the National Republican Convention Was Held.

It Was Not on the Reception Committee's Program, but Was the Work of One Small Boy.

(From Friday's Daily.)

"I saw one small boy 'get his,' as the saying goes, over in Philadelphia last week," said a Washington man, who happened to be in the big sleepy town during the Republican convention. "This small boy was probably a Bryanite. At any rate he appeared to have so little respect for the delegates that he set out with a determination to have fun with them. His method was an old one, but it worked splendidly. The boy got hold of a huge imitation cannon firecracker. It looked just like one of the real things, but it was hollow. Then the boy bought himself a goodly stock of tuses, such as usually stick out of the one end of the real cannon cracker, and started in to do business with the delegates to the Republican national convention.

The business that he did may not be classed as strictly legitimate, and it was certainly not timely, nor on the program of the Philadelphia reception committee. It was not timely because it arrived—much of either April 1 or July 4, and the one was long since past and the other had not arrived. That it was not on the reception committee's program was evident from the fact that the City of Brotherly Love gave the delegates nothing to complain of so far as the official features of the program were concerned. But whatever was the cause of it, it is certain that at least one small boy had his share of fun out of the convention—and paid for it, and that two delegates carried home with them pleasant recollections of their stay in Philadelphia.

He chose as his field those hotels along Filbert and Walnut and Arch and Sanson streets, in front of which the delegates went to sit picking their teeth after dinner. The boy would stick a fuse into his property cracker, furtively light the fuse, place the cracker beneath the chair of one of the visitors and then run and yell. His yelling would attract the attention of all hands, and then the sizzling of the fuse would catch the ear of one of the strangers, who would shout a warning and then the whole bunch would bound from their chairs as if the ground was about to open up beneath them and start to run from the scene like quarter horses, in a momentary expectation of hearing an explosion that would injure the drums of their ears, and smash all of the front windows of the hotel to splinters.

The explosion, of course, never followed, but in the absence of all hands the boy would sneak back and pick up his property cracker and then cock off with derisive yells. It was a great scheme, that, and it caused more frequent heart disease and general discomfort among the brigade of fat delegates who were victims of it, and no doubt injected more deep, heartfelt joy into the bosom of the small boy who worked it than a few.

"One of the men who got bit by the performance, and who came near bursting numerous blood vessels in order to get away from the explosion that never came, was a ponderous delegate from Minnesota whom I happened to know, and with whom I flocked a good deal during the convention. He was sitting in front of his hotel on Filbert street, not far from Thirteenth, when the small boy showed up with his little contraption, and he ran about half a block before the laugh behind him put him wise to the fact that he'd been buncoed. He mopped his forehead and thought about it for awhile, and then something struck him. He saw the small boy making down the street, and he took up a good pace after the boy and pretended to be greatly amused as he walked up behind the shaver.

"Let's see the thing, bub," said the Minnesota man, laughingly, to the kid, and the boy, seeing that the stout man was good-natured about it, handed over the imitation cracker. The delegate laughed immoderately over the thing, and he did a little mental measuring that the boy didn't notice. Then he handed the cracker back to the youngster, saying: 'You certainly are an ingenious little cuss for fair,' and went his way. His way took him to a big fireworks store, where he bought a genuine cracker of the exact size, as near as he could remember the measurements, of the imitation affair the small boy was having so much fun with. Then he strolled over to Walnut street, where he figured he might find the kid continuing to divert himself.

"He figured correctly. The small boy was doing his little stunt with tremendous effect and great glee in front of the hotels along that thoroughfare. The Minnesota man got up just after the boy had turned the trick with vast success, and he was again laughing with great good nature as he asked the boy to let him look at the imitation cracker again. The boy had it all fixed up by that time for another scare. The boy handed it over with a grin, and then his attention was momentarily attracted by a scrap between some vagrant dogs across the way. The delegate took advantage of this to 'switch the dice,' as it were, upon the boy, who walked off with the real thing in the way of a cannon cracker in his pocket. The Minnesota delegate followed the kid up to see what was going to happen.

"The boy walked a couple of blocks down Walnut street until he came to another hotel, in front of which a number of delegates were sitting, and then he edged up, put his cannon cracker beneath the chair of one of them, yelled in the same old way and ran. Every man holding down a chair jumped up and ran—except the boy under whose chair the cracker was sizzling. This man only grinned in a complaisant manner and yelled after the chaps who were in full flight.

"What are you running for? It ain't loaded. I was fooled by that kid yesterday afternoon. It's only a dummy. It's got nothing inside of it but—"

"Bang! The thing went off with a report like that of an eight-inch rifle on a man-o'-war, and the complaisant man was lifted about two feet in his chair, but not otherwise damaged except as to temper. I don't think I ever saw such a surprised expression on a man's face as he wore, but the expression of surprise on the flecked face of the kid as he ran with all his might down the street was a good second. The Minnesota man was leaning up against the rail of an area holding his sides when the complaisant man who'd been victimized whizzed by him in chase of the small boy. He was a big man, but he could run like sixty and he got the boy, and the neat manner with which he proceeded to polish off that boy's knickerbockers at the fullness thereof caused my Minnesota friend to actually gurgle with ecstatic rapture. When the small boy was finally returned to a standing posture by the infuriated delegate the Minnesota man extended the imitation cracker to the weeping kid, but the boy wouldn't take it. He probably knew when he had enough. But he backed away, digging at his drenched eyes, and he bawled at the Minnesota man and the man who had just warmed his knickerbockers:

The Girls Won.

While, strictly speaking, it was none of Dawson's business, yet there was considerable interest felt here in the Seattle telephone strike and general sympathy appeared to be with the strikers, nearly 100 young women, who, tiring of the galling yoke of oppression, and refusing to longer submit to increasing injustice, made bold to strike and strike they did.

Soon all Seattle was drawn into the affair, but the girls held the sympathy. Business men stood by them with the result that several hundred telephones were ordered out and the system was very materially crippled.

Finally the company "squealed" and came to time, giving in to the demands of the girls in every respect and taking them all back to work on their own terms. The following is from the P.-I. of the 5th instant:

All is again harmony in the Seattle office of the Sunset Telephone and Telegraph Company. Twenty five of the striking telephone girls returned to work yesterday, and others will be taken back by the company as soon as vacancies occur. The service yesterday was greatly improved in consequence of the increase in the number of skilled operators, and the local officers of the company promise that the standard of efficiency will not only be fully maintained but raised in the near future.

Assistant Superintendent Millard, who, prior to the strike, had charge of the operating room, has severed his connection with that department, and now has only general oversight of its workings. Service Manager Lehigh, late of San Francisco, assuming direct control of the operators. C. B. Hopkins, of Spokane, who has been here for a week or more assisting in the adjustment of the difficulty between his company and the operators, states that the position of service manager is a new one, and was created for the special purpose of maintaining the highest quality of service.

The following notice was posted on the bulletin board at the office of the telephone company yesterday:

"San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 4, 1900. Now that the differences between the telephone company and some of the operators have been adjusted, the undersigned desires to especially thank, individually and collectively, all who have worked so hard in the interests of the company for the last four weeks, and wishes to say to all, including the operators who are returning to duty today, and those who may come in hereafter, that we desire to give the best possible service and deal liberally and justly with those who assist us in giving said service.

"I am satisfied that our patrons in Seattle will be more inclined in the future to recognize the difficulties of a telephone operator's duties, and I ask you to do your very best for them.

"I will consider it a personal favor if you will all agree among yourselves to let bygones be bygones, and we will try and work together in harmony; that is, the subscribers, the operators and the management.

"I recommend Mr. Lehigh to you, who, while he will always treat you with due consideration, will insist upon every one furnishing to our subscribers the class of service to which they are entitled.

"JNO. I. SABIN, President."

Trying on a Bonnet.

"I would rather wait upon a dozen men than upon one woman," exclaimed a young lady clerk in a downtown store the other day. "It is almost impossible to please a woman, especially if she wants to buy a hat. They find defects in a faultlessly made article that even the most expert milliner could not discover, and use all sort of devices to beat us down in prices."

"The complaint is well taken," said a well known milliner upon being informed of the clerk's remark, "and that is not the worst phase of the matter. There are women—and you would be surprised if I should mention their names—who come into my shop each season and try on all the hats I have in stock. After occupying a great deal of my time they will perhaps order one of two hats sent to their homes on approval, and the next day or a day or two later send them back with pinholes in them, and with a note saying that Mr. Blank didn't care for either, but that they'll call later—which they never, by any chance, do.

"Then, a week or two after, I'll see them with a home made copy of my French model on their heads, and you can guess at the rage I feel. Well, the other day one such feminine schemer came into our room. We all knew her, and so one of the clerks attended to her rather reluctantly and gave a very significant shrug of her shoulders when she ordered a $25 hat sent up on approval. I was amused also, of course, but I said nothing, and the bit of headgear was carefully packed and sent to her that afternoon. That night I went to the theater and, sitting right in front of me, was my customer of the morning, wearing the hat she had on approval. I took care that she should see me; indeed, as we passed out, side by side, whispered that I thought she had never looked better. Her face was really a study, but the next day we got a check for $25, and so for once her ladyship was bested. We are well rid of her now, I know, for it's quite certain she'll never come to our shop again. The feminine schemer dislikes very much to be made to buy anything."—Chicago Chronicle.

Nothing Yet Heard.

London, Aug. 3.—No word comes this morning regarding the fortunes of the comparatively small body of troops believed to be forging their way toward Peking. The silence is probably due to diligent censorship, rather than to any lack of developments.

A Shanghai special announces the receipt of an official telegram from the taung li yamen, asserting that the ministers were well on July 30, and that vegetables, fruits and other supplies had been sent to the legations on several occasions.

"Friendly intercourse," the official telegram says, "is now being carried on between the ministers and the imperial government."

According to the Daily Express, however, cablegrams from Chrefo announce that the imperial troops, advancing to oppose the relief force, have completely wiped out a Christian town near Peking, killing five foreign priests and 10,000 native Christians.

Gen. Gaselee, says this correspondent, was strongly opposed to an immediate advance, but he was overruled by the other commanders and influenced by Washington's orders to Gen. Chaffee to "proceed without an instant's delay."

From Shanghai the Daily Express has received confirmation of the reported murder of 30 missionaries in the province of Shansi, with the additional information that eight English women were dragged out of the mission buildings by a Chinese mob, who beheaded them in the streets of Chuchon.

WHY HE IS HONORED.

In its issue of yesterday the government organ delivered itself of a column of the most ridiculous slush that it has ever been our misfortune to see in print. Under the title "Welcome to Earl Minto" the organ exerts itself to assume a grovelling attitude in a manner that would do credit to an expert contortionist.

The whole thing is an exhibition of weak-minded adulation so manifest as to call rather for pity than for any other sentiment. It is a serious question, however, as to where one's sympathy should be the strongest—with the author of the article referred to or the one to whom it is addressed.

The Earl of Minto is honored and respected by the people of this territory, not because he is possessed of many titles, nor for the reason that chief among these titles is that of governor general of Canada, but for the reason that over and above and beyond these things he has demonstrated by his public actions and utterances that he is, first of all, a man possessed of those sterling qualities of manhood which require admiration without loss of self-respect.

It is on this account that his excellency has been a genuinely welcome guest during his stay in the Yukon. Our people are delighted and Yukon will be delighted to honor such a man, but there is no hypocritical servility in their attitude. It is the spontaneous tribute which many men will always pay to genuine manhood, and in that is the sum and substance of the whole matter.

This visit of the governor general to the Yukon territory will always remain as one of the happy events in our history. From it, we are prone to believe, an era of better times will date. The interest which his excellency has manifested in the affairs of the territory indicate more than a mere desire for personal information. On many things his excellency has gone into minutest details and when he returns to Ottawa he will carry with him a fund of knowledge which most certainly will inure to our future benefit. There is a world of meaning in the few words spoken on the platform during the reception on Tuesday and we have no doubt that those words were uttered with the expectation that they would be given a literal construction. We fully believe that when the governor general returns to Ottawa the Yukon will no longer petition in vain for redress from grievances. In fact it would not be surprising should any day bring news that long sought changes have actually taken place.

There is no escape from the fact that war with China is on in earnest. The news that the ministers are safe in Peking, but in imminent danger, has called for prompt action on the part of all the powers now acting in concert. The feeling of relief expressed all over the United States when it was definitely learned that Minister Conger is safe, was succeeded by a unanimous call upon the government for an immediate advance upon the Chinese capital. That call has been listened to and the combined forces of the allies are now making their way with all possible expedition toward Peking. Unless unlooked for disagreements between the allies arise the march to Peking will not require any considerable time. If then a general conquest of China is determined upon, a war will be begun such as the world has never yet witnessed.

The national campaign in the States does not appear to be arousing any considerable enthusiasm on either side. In fact it seems to be generally taken for granted that McKinley will be re-elected and that there is no use expending too much energy on a matter which has long been practically a foregone conclusion. Along toward the latter part of the campaign there will, in all probability be a general awakening, but Republicans and Democrats alike seem well content to allow the hot weather to slip along without over-exertion on the part of either.

According to reports of returned Nomads application has been made in many instances to the representatives of the American government for transportation back to the States. Such is the history of every mining excitement. It is the old story of many being called and few being chosen. We apprehend, however, that the number of disappointed stampedees will be proportionately greater at Nome than in any other similar rush of modern times. The total losses involved will be something terrific.

We are inclined to think that the hand of providence was manifest in the accident which resulted in a portion of our local rulers being compelled to walk a good part of the way up to Mr. McGillivray's claim. We would be willing to place a small wager that Messrs. Gov. Ogilvie and Crown Prosecutor Wade will hereafter favor a system of macadamized roads all over the country.

There should be no lack of fresh beef in Dawson during the coming winter. Large quantities of meat of all kinds are being brought in and before the close of navigation the market will be supplied with all that will be required until the recurrence of the open season.

Democratic Madness.

Very few sane persons in the United States supposed that the Democratic party would have the madness to come out squarely and specifically in 1900 in favor of the repudiation infamy which buried that party under an avalanche of votes in 1896. Nevertheless the Kansas City convention has done this very thing. After declaring that "we reaffirm and endorse the principles of the national Democratic platform adopted at Chicago in 1896," it demands "the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation." This is a repetition of the insanity of 1896 which split the Democratic party wide nearly in the middle than any other issue since the slavery madness wrecked that organization in the Charleston convention of 1860. The adoption of the silver folly has been denounced as vehemently by conservative Democrats at and previous to the Kansas City convention as the slavery extension madness was at the convention at Charleston. The consequences of the latter lunacy promise to be as disastrous to the Democracy as was the earlier folly. It will, as in 1896, send hundreds of thousands of Democrats to a third party or to the Republicans. It will give the Republicans a larger majority in the electoral college in 1900 than was rolled up four years ago. It promises to arouse an antagonism to the Democracy all over the country which will keep that party in the minority for as many years as the slavery barbarity did which culminated in secession and civil war.

In all human probability every state that rejected free coinage four years ago will do it again in November and there are states that supported it before that regard it as a lost and deservedly beaten cause. All the arguments upon which it was urged four years ago have been disproved. The gold standard is an accomplished fact based upon a splendid prosperity. In every continent the drift has been away from silver as a financial standard. The world has ceased to think of it. But the Democratic party is chained to it anew against its better judgments. The false step of four years ago has led to another that is worse and which from the standpoint of sober reason must be regarded as suicidal. As for the rest of the platform the convention gave it little attention, and it is worth little. The talk about imperialism is cant. None exists except in the imagination of demagogues. The plank on trusts is inferior to that in the Republican platform and the latter means something practical. Hundreds of thousands of Democratic voters will repudiate the work of the Kansas City convention. Bryan turned a face of stone to their overtures and they will be as obdurate in November as he in July.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

ROBERTS SCORES WARREN.

Latter Will Come Home—Canada Wins Paris Exposition Prize for Butter, Eggs and Cheese.

From Thursday's Daily.
London, Aug. 11, via Skagway, Aug. 16.—Half of the bonds for the war loan of £10,000,000 have been taken in America. In high financial circles here the negotiation is regarded as a good one, considering the present condition of English banks. The Bank of England advised the acceptance of America's offer, which was made through the Morgan Company and Barings.

The Queen's Speech.
London, Aug. 11, via Skagway, Aug. 16.—In a short speech made by the queen, she referred to the high military qualities and heroism of her soldiers in Africa, and authorized the annexation of Free States as the first step towards the union of the races and the securing by them of their rights and privileges.

Referring to China and in how far the Chinese authorities are accomplices to the atrocious crimes lately committed there, the queen said:

"Whether or not the British minister and his family are among the victims is yet a matter of uncertainty. The utmost efforts of myself and allies will be to visit punishment on the authors of these unexampled crimes."

Settling an Old Score.
London, Aug. 11, via Skagway, Aug. 16.—Ambassador Choate has been appointed arbiter between the British and Chinese governments in the matter of the sinking of the British dispatch boat Kowshing during the China-Japanese war.

Roberts Scores Warren.
London, Aug. 11, via Skagway, Aug. 16.—Lieutenant General Sir Charles Warren has been most severely criticised by Roberts and has retired from the administration of Buchananaland and is coming home. He will probably be succeeded by Forrester Walker.

Roberts wires his fears that the Eland river garrison has been captured by the Boers after 10 days' resistance.

China News Scarce.
London, Aug. 11, via Skagway, Aug. 16.—No direct information of importance has been received from China since last reports. All cablegrams are mere conjectures.

The appointment of Waldersee as commander general meets universal approval.

Canada Wins Prize.
Paris, Aug. 11, via Skagway, Aug. 16.—At the exposition Canada has been awarded the grand prize for butter, eggs, cheese and other cold storage articles.

Sir William's Hot Speech.
New York, Aug. 2.—A dispatch from London to the Tribune says: The war in South Africa is clearly approaching an end. Hunter has reported that he will have fully 4000 prisoners among the hills south of Bethlehem, and that Oliver alone has succeeded in breaking away toward Harrismith with a thousand men.

Forty thousand British troops ought to be able to catch that commando with its five guns. The Free State forces now consist of two columns of 1000 men each, under Dewet and Oliver, several hundred miles apart and enveloped with British troops, and when these surrender the Transvaal Boers will not have any justification for holding out, especially when the campaign has become one of intolerable suffering on both sides. The Boers are fighting in rags and barefoot, and are suffering from hunger, cold and every conceivable privation. The British troops are badly clothed and fed, owing to the wretched work of the transport service.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt made a speech against the government yesterday in the house of commons, and displayed a semblance of his old time fighting form. He referred to the estimate of $15,000,000 for operating in China and intimated that the ultimate cost of British operations in that quarter might exceed that in South Africa. He also assumed that the war in South Africa would cost fully $400,000,000 and commented on the fact that consols, which used to stand at 115 had gone below par. He even ventured to predict that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, if he were borrowing, would emulate Mr. Goschen's achievement in sending them down to 95.

This speech was the most effective attack which has yet been made on the government. The war has not been well financed. A tax of a penny a pound on sugar would have yielded more revenue than the new schedule of increased taxes imposed by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach at the expense of payers of income taxes and other direct taxes.

Tragic Ending.

Hermann Bloomingdale, one of the best known of Victoria citizens, was found dead in one of the bathrooms of the Driard hotel this morning with a bullet in his brain and a revolver lying at his side.

Deceased has been ailing for some time past, and so severe had his malady, neuralgia of the heart, became that his life was one of almost continued suffering. Recently this became more intense and to numerous acquaintances he intimated that he had almost reached the limit of endurance.

Yesterday he was about as usual, and retired last night about the regular time. This morning Mrs. Seelig, his niece, found a note from him saying that he would be found in the bathroom and a Chinaman was dispatched to search the rooms.

On the second floor at the back of the building the deceased was found sitting as though asleep on the edge of the bath. A small pool of blood was on the floor as well as a new Ivey-Johnson revolver, containing one empty shell and two cartridges. A hole in the cranium, back of and above the right ear, showed unmistakably the cause of death.

Mr. Bloomingdale was dressed merely in underclothing, and had evidently got out of his bed when suffering became acute, and gone to the bathroom to perform the fatal act.

The pistol had been held close to the head and death must have been instantaneous.

Hermann Bloomingdale was at one time a prominent figure in business circles on the Pacific coast. He was formerly in business in San Francisco with his brother, and afterwards represented Strauss & Co. in London. He was, until a short time ago, the local manager for the last mentioned firm, and had the respect and confidence of his contemporaries in the commercial world.

A short time ago he went to California in the hope that the change would benefit him, but it failed to do so, and he returned to Victoria, the climate of which seemed to be more suitable for him.

He was about 60 years of age and unmarried. He was of the Jewish faith.—Victoria Times, Aug. 1.

FREIGHT FOR A. E. CO.

Two of Her Steamers With Barges Arrive From St. Michael

WITH PASSENGERS AND BIG CARGOES.

Power of Attorney Everett Created Market for His Services.

FLORA DUE FROM STEWART.

Sybil Sails Tomorrow—Bonanza King Due This Evening—Other River News.

The steamer P. K. Gustin, with barge Bear, and the Linda, with barge Fox, heavily loaded with freight and passengers from the lower river arrived yesterday evening. The Gustin left St. Michael the 21st of July, the Linda preceding by two days. The freight carried by both boats and barges amount to nearly 2500 tons, all consigned to the A. E. Co. The company operating the boats anticipate that another round trip will be made by these boats, and possibly the Arnold which is following up stream with the cargo of the Mary Graff, that boat being disabled near the mouth of the river.

The Linda, while making the trip without any particular mishap was unfortunate in having aboard a "Dr." Everett, of power of attorney fame here last fall, who stamped the boat by declaring every ailment which was experienced by any of the passengers to be of the most startling character, including smallpox, yellow fever, varioloid and other contagious diseases. He did a thriving trade for awhile inoculating the passengers with virus which he obtained at the quarantine station near St. Michael. The passengers, however, soon caught on to the wily Everett and gave him a wide berth.

News of an alarming character was circulated in Dawson yesterday in reference to the health of the boat and quarantine officers were sent down the river to intercept her. After examination it was found that the passengers were all in good health without a trace of any disease of a contagious nature and a clean bill of health was given, the passengers being allowed to land soon after the boat tied to the dock.

The following passengers arrived on the Gustin: L. G. Coater, Capt. A. E. Graves, C. F. J. Baumgarten, J. S. Rutledge, Mrs. Rutledge, N. L. Demar, Mrs. Kublan, A. McDaniel, Chas. Bayan, E. L. Dion, Wm. Carver, Louis Lager, Dave Thomas, M. Martin, Chas. Carver, Sam Means, J. James, Chas. Austin, Louis Armstead, O. Vege, Thomas Manning, J. M. Moev, S. Sternberg, A. Murray, O. H. Berg, J. The Flora is due to arrive from the Stewart river tomorrow.

The steamer Sybil with the vice-regal party is billed to sail tomorrow at 5 o'clock p. m.

The Bonanza King was reported coming down this morning at 4:30 at Selkirk.

Five fingers reported the Zealandian going up at 3:30 a. m. and the Gold Star coming down at 7 this morning.

The Lightning passed Hootalingua going up at 7:30 this morning. The Canadian also was heard from at that point going up at 8 p. m. yesterday.

The steamer Tyrrell passed lower Lebarge at 10 o'clock last night.

In Bad Condition.

The very few roads of which the Klondike boasts are now, in many places, practically impassable for freight wagons, the recent heavy rains having had on them a most disastrous effect. The moving of freight now is entailed with such enormous expense that but little more will be handled until snow falls. It is said that, except for foot passengers who wear gum boots, Hunker is practically shut off from the world as the trails to and on that creek are said to be in a frightful condition.

They Keep Posted.

A late issue of the Salem, Oregon, Statesman contains a thrilling account of the breaking up and going out of the ice from the river "in front of Dawson." While the paper does not say so, it infers that the event was of recent date, about the Fourth of July or thereabouts. If the people of Salem will attend to the harvesting of the luxuriant crop of weeds that makes the capital grounds a wilderness in the summer season, Dawson will take care of her own ice.

They Felt Honored.

When the Susie arrived from St. Michael yesterday with several dozen passengers from Nome, many of whom left here in June and were coming back wiser but sadder by several hundred dollars, they alighted from the steamer and reached First avenue before they noticed the present holiday attire of the city, when one of them was heard to exclaim: "By Jove, this is a royal welcome we are getting. Really I am sorry that the people have gone to all this expense in our honor, but it shows that they anticipated our return and have prepared for us. I hope I will not have any trouble in borrowing a few 'backs' until I can get a job at boosting."

Quiet at Tanana.

A. L. Agee, proprietor of the Colorado barber shop and a colored man of rare intelligence, returned yesterday on the Susie from Circle City at which place he was in direct communication with the Tanana, where he has three men engaged in the work of prospecting. Agee says there will be but little more prospecting this fall as the country is quite wet and muddy from the frequent rains. Owing to the excessive charges on freight from Circle to the mining field comparatively little freight has gone into the country, but when snow falls it is probable more will be moved. When Agee went to Circle 40 days ago almost any plug of a horse would sell for $300 or more, but before he left he says the same plugs could be bought and were readily selling at from $30 to $50. There is, he says, plenty of feed for animals in that country, and the reason horses can be had so cheaply is that there is nothing for them to do.

Agee is of the opinion that the Tanana will be a good country by another year, although he says it has as yet been but partially prospected.

Renewed Zeal.

The impetus which the dogcatcher has lately given to his business is worthy of emulation in more elevated pursuits of life. Of late, in fact since the successful auction of dogs on last Saturday, the dogcatcher is abroad at all hours of the day and night and the pound is again rapidly filling up. In the language of the poet, Romulus and Remus, "Lay on McDuff." Its what you are there for; but don't overlook curs and mongrels in your zeal to capture thoroughbred malamutes and full dress huskies.

ATE ON KING SOLOMON'S HILL.

Where Mr. McGillivray Received the Party Royally and Showed Them a Cleanup.

Yesterday forenoon the governor general accompanied by his lady and about 20 officials and citizens started on a visit to the McGillivray claim on King Solomon's Hill.

The governor general and Lady Minto went on horseback, as did a large number of others, and some of those who rode in wagons wished they also had taken the other means of traveling. When the party had proceeded some two or three miles upon its way, the wagon in which were Messrs. Wade, Ogilvie and Girouard, broke down and the three unfortunates had to walk the rest of the way. Other members of the party who rode in the wagons also walked a considerable part of the distance, finding it easier to walk than to withstand the jolting of the wagons over the roads, which, though generally accounted good, are not calculated to please excursion parties, or for the use of light rigs.

The party on arrival at the base of the hill dismounted and climbed to the McGillivray claim, where a very pleasant hour was spent in the discussion of a tasteful luncheon, provided for the occasion. Twenty-six people were at table, and after the good things of the table had been disposed of a Klondike cleanup was witnessed, which was very interesting and instructive to those of the party who had never before seen the process of separating the yellow metal from the gravel. About 150 ounces were taken from the boxes.

After the cleanup had been made the party was shown the mine and its workings, the entire party being conducted through the various cuts and drifts, including the present scene of operations, where, against the face of the bank, a pan of gravel was taken out and washed. It contained about $2.50.

After this the visitors returned to town, where they arrived, tired but not regretting their trip, about 6:30.

Only one incident occurred on the homeward ride to mar the pleasure of the trip. When still some distance from town a party who had been going the other way was met, who had met with a very unpleasant experience. They were driving a fine large horse, which in stepping into a mudhole had stepped upon one end of a pointed stick in such a way as to drive one end of it into his body, bleeding to death as a result. When the governor general's party arrived on the scene the animal was just being removed from the road.

Those who accompanied Lord and Lady Minto yesterday were: Aide de Camp Capt. Graham, Private Secretary Sladen, Commissioner Ogilvie, Crown Prosecutor Wade, Registrar Girouard, Col. MacGregor, C. M. Woodworth, Mr. Proudhomme, Barney Sugrue, Dr. Yemas, Mrs. Wade, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McDonald.

Today another excursion was undertaken, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. This time the party went over the ridge road. In all probability the party will not go out anywhere tomorrow, as the time of departure is fixed for 5 p. m.

So far Governor General and Lady Minto have expressed themselves as highly pleased with their visit to Dawson and the efforts that have been made to entertain them.

HER IDEAS FORMED OF NOME

Miss Robins of London Tells What She Saw on the Beach.

She Represents the Review of Reviews and Will Write Her Experiences for the Magazine.

(From Thursday's Daily.)
Miss Elizabeth Robins, a traveling representative of the Review of Reviews of London, England, was one of the passengers to arrive by the steamer Susie Tuesday night.

"My time is very limited here," said Miss Robins this morning, "and I regret it very much, too, because I wanted to divide my time as equally as possible between the places of principal interest between St. Michael and Skagway. The quarantine at Nome, however, kept me three weeks after I was ready to leave for here. Personally I do not regret the time spent there, because it was all very interesting and instructive. I don't think anyone can say yet, what Nome's future is apt to be, because the conditions have been so unfavorable. What little I could learn of the country before leaving London was to the effect that when the country was not ice bound it was being deluged with rain. My experience was that it rained about two hours in forty-two days. That, of course, made it very pleasant for those who were there as tourists, but for the miner it was the chief of many drawbacks, because it made a shortage in the water necessary for mining purposes. I know of claims where water has been carried in buckets by hand for a distance of half a mile, and others where $3 per barrel was paid for water for rockling."

Speaking of the thousands of people who rushed to Nome this spring Miss Robins said: "There are thousands of people in Nome who had nothing when they went there, and landed on the beach without the slightest notion of what they were going to do. I have seen men come ashore from the barges and set their satchels down the minute they landed, to pick up a handful of sand to examine it. They would let it run through their fingers slowly while they looked for gold, and when they found none they at once pronounced the whole country a fake."

"Just as I was ready to leave Nome got the smallpox scare and were held in quarantine for three weeks. There was nothing of interest in the quarantine so far as Nome was concerned, beyond the natural inconveniences arising from the conditions."

Miss Robins is a very pleasing young lady who shows by her conversation regarding her Alaskan experiences that she is a close observer and has stored her mind with matter that will eventually be of great interest to the readers of the magazine she represents.

Bad Report of Tanana.

Charles Sheik is an arrival on the steamer Susie who has spent considerable time in the Tanana country, visiting the different creeks and making a critical examination of the diggings. He left Dawson last June on the steamer Barr and had packed in for him from Circle City to the diggings about 100 pounds of grub, for which the price of packing was $1 per pound. He reports that the creeks in that district, Faith, Hope and Homestake, are all very shallow summer diggings, the gravel not carrying any gold to pay for working, and such as is found is taken from bedrock and that in small quantities.

On 7 below on Faith creek he panned on bedrock and got but two colors in four pans, although it was claimed that from that claim the pans on bedrock showed $1 to the pan. This he claims was got by scraping the bedrock a distance of six feet square. At No. 2 on Homestake Pat Connelly had just started shoveling in the sluice boxes and had made a cleanup when he was there, but the result could not be ascertained, as both Connelly and his partners, Wheeler and Loper, refuse to give any information on the subject.

No. 1 Homestake was let out on a lay by the owner, Pat Lynch, but he sold a half interest later for $1000.

directions and a party is in there with five horses who do nothing but stake the creeks, being followed by pack animals with provisions.

It is said that some good quartz ledges have been uncovered on several of the creeks and the impression seems to be that the district will turn out to be rich in gold bearing rock, but as a placer camp the prospector thinks it does not amount to much. The opinions expressed by Mr. Sheik will carry considerable weight as he is a conservative man and an experienced miner.

A large number of people returned from that district on the recent boats, particularly on the Gustin, which had some forty men from the Tanana, all satisfied to take another chance in the Klondike.

Cost of City Lots.

The amazement of the bucolic mind at the extraordinary prices paid for a city lot in cities as populous as Chicago or New York is brought out by this yarn, told in the Chicago Times-Herald:

Tom Nicholl, the artist, was talking to an old negro down in Georgia a few days ago, whom he had told that he lived in Chicago.

"Whar is dis yer Chercargo?" the ancient darky asked. "Ees dat b'yant de sea?"

"No, it's up north above here, 1400 or 1500 miles."

"Tch, O! Dat's too fur fur tur me. Kin you ride-all de way on de kyars?"

"Oh, yes, and much farther."

"I s'pose you got a big fahm up dar in dat Chercargo, what you call hit?"

"No, I don't own a foot of ground there."

"Wharfo dis?"

"Costs too much."

"Bout how much, sub?"

"Well, if you just wanted a place to put a home, you could probably get it for $250 or $350 a foot."

The old fellow leaned over and looked incredulously into the artist's face.

"Huh?" he asked. "Is yo' talkin' sense to me, white man?"

"Certainly, and if you wanted a place to put a store or something like that, it would cost $4000 or $5000 a foot front."

The negro was paralyzed. He could not even comprehend the cost of a toot of Chicago.

"Listen it dis, ole 'oman," he said to the dusky mammy who was broiling a young chicken and fixing the artist a savory meal, "litsen it dis! Dar's nig-gabs gwinter come back heah if dey's got sense ernuff to grease er gimlet. Whar dey gwinter git groun' ernuff to raise wottermillyuns, much lessen place fur taters en cabbages en mustud greens en goobahs? 'Scuse me, is you makin' a meal?"

Something New in Surgery.

"I see," said the old man Pimpernel the other evening, relates the Cleveland Plain Dealer, "that they've mended another broken neck for a feller. He had a fall somewhere out in the country, an' when they got him to th' hospital th' doctors found that his upper spinal column was cracked clean across. Feller couldn't hold his head up, an' his voice was clean gone."

"How did they patch him up?" inquired John Bowman.

"You'll be s'prised when I tell you," replied the old man. "It was so dead easy. Fust, they crowded 'over th' left phalanx till it lapped the right verticrle, an' then they stuck th' two ends together with anty toxum glue. That's ter blood pisenin, you know. Then they got the broken ends of the medulla together an' fastened 'em in place with strips of adhesin' plaster. After that they nailed narrow rods of zinc up and down his back bone and clinched 'em together with rivits. When this was all fixed the surgeon sent out an' got an old fashioned boot-jack, an' they tied it on his chest so that the operin' at the top would just catch under his chin—an' hold it until the glue hardens. An' as soon as it does harden the young feller'll be just as sound as ever, with a few rivits thrown in."

"Thunder!" cried Josh Bowman.

"Ain't it wonderful!"

"You jest bet it is," said the old man.

New Transportation Co.

The contract for carrying the United States mails down the Yukon to the American cities along the river to Nome has been awarded to the Yukon Transportation Company. This is an American company organized for this purpose by Leon Brock, of Dawson, who introduced fire insurance into the Klondike capital.

Mr. Brock got away on the City of Seattle for Washington City and other eastern cities. At the national capital he will confer with the postmaster general and complete arrangements for his company.

"I will bring back with me," he said yesterday at the Dewey hotel, "200 horses which will be used by us this winter in connection with the through service to Dawson. These horses will be distributed along the Yukon and we will make relay trips all winter. In addition to the mail we will carry express and passengers.

Our operations extend from Whitehorse to Nulato on the Yukon, and across from there to Nome. We believe that we have solved the problem of rapid and convenient winter express and passenger service for the interior. Our methods for this branch of our contemplated work are in such shape that I am now at liberty to mention them, but I will say that this is one of the principal objects of my eastern trip. Our scheme is one of the biggest ever conceived with respect to northern development and I confidently believe in its ultimate success."

Mr. Brock expects to be back in Skagway with his horses and accoutrements early in September.—Alaskan.

Bank Notes Stolen.

An investigation is in progress by the secret service officials of the treasury in an effort to unravel a mysterious theft of two sheets of national bank notes from the bureau of engraving and printing. The theft was undoubtedly committed by an employe of that department about three weeks ago, and was discovered by one of the counters in going over the sheets of notes. When the loss was first detected an immediate search was begun for the two sheets, believing they were simply mislaid and that being incomplete no one would take them. They were not numbered or signed, and did not contain the great seal.

Despite all this the notes were passed in the city and made their way back to the treasury, where they were refused on the ground that they were not currency of the country. None of the banks of the city, through which the notes passed, are in any way able to assist in the identification of the person who passed them. The notes were of the ten-dollar denomination, and there were four notes on each sheet, making the amount of the theft $80. The loss does not fall upon the government, but upon those who accepted the notes.

Every effort is being made to capture the thief, who, the officials say, is one of the 160 clerks—most of them girls—working in the counting room. The bureau has been in existence since the war, and this is said to be the second theft that has occurred.

Queen Victoria's Long Reign.

As illustrating the wonderful long reign of Queen Victoria it may be stated that her majesty has seen 11 lord chancellors, 10 prime ministers, 6 speakers of the house of commons, at least 3 bishops of every see and 5 or 6 of many sees, 5 archbishops of Canterbury and 6 archbishops of York and 5 commanders-in-chief. She has seen 5 Dukes of Norfolk succeed each other as earl marshal and has outlived every duke and duchess and every marquis and marchioness who bore that rank in 1837. She has outlived every member of the Jockey club and every master of the hounds who flourished in 1837. She has seen 17 presidents of the United States, 10 viceroys of India, and France successively ruled by one king, one emperor and seven presidents of a republic.

Colony in Nicaragua.

Dr. Carlos Bovallius has purchased from the Nicaraguan government 52,000 acres of public land for colonization purposes. These lands are at the head of Tenaguasupe river, in the department of Chontales, and about six leagues from the town of San Miguelito, on the eastern shore of Lake Nicaragua. Dr. Bovallius agrees to colonize not less than 100 inhabitants of northern Europe, the first year bringing not less than ten families who have a knowledge of agriculture and stock raising, and four years being given to complete the total number of 100 colonists.

In addition, there must be established within the limits of such land schools of agriculture and stock raising, in which the cultivation of coffee, cocoa, vanilla and other products tending to the enrichment of the country shall be taught.

For the stock raising branch Holstein and Durham cattle must be imported for the purpose of improving the breed of the cattle of the country. There must also be established the Swiss or Danish system of making cheese and butter.

Twenty boys of the country who can read and write are to be taught, tuition free, in these schools, and boys who render practical assistance are to be maintained for five years gratis.

The colonists are exempt from all military or public services for the period of 15 years and from all direct taxation during services at school. The government admits free of importation duties all agricultural implements necessary for use in the schools and for the manufacture of cheese, also the cattle referred to, and the baggage and furniture for the use of the colonists.

The faithful performance of the contract shall be considered violated if the contractor does not bring 100 immigrants within the term stipulated, if the schools are not established within the specified time, if fewer than 10,000 rubber and 10,000 vanilla trees are cultivated within the first five years, and if the cattle are not imported during the first year. For each infraction a fine of $2170 will be imposed and collected by the government from the amount deposited, and, in default of compliance with all of the conditions of the contract within the period of five years, the lands shall revert to the government.

A Printer's View of Nome.

Mr. Allan X. Grant, a former typo in the Nugget office who left in June for Nome, writes back to his friends in the office a long and interesting letter, to which he appends the following note:

"In looking over the foregoing I realize that I have omitted saying anything about Nome, which perhaps you would be more interested in than anything I have said. I shall never forget how Dawson appeared to me when I first saw it in August of 1898—tents, tents, tents. That was as we came around the bend at Klondike City. It was the same old scene when I first viewed Nome, several miles from shore, the only difference being that the area of tents seemed so much larger, owing to so many being camped along the beach. When we arrived at St. Michael we heard all kinds of stories about Nome. In the first place, a large portion of the population had the smallpox; then the beach diggings were positively no good, and nobody believed that any of the creeks would amount to anything. In fact, it was believed to be another big company fake, so everybody told us.

Well, when we got into Nome, as a matter of fact, there were about a dozen cases of smallpox. So far as the beach is concerned, hundreds are working upon it, but it has been worked over several times, and has ceased to be a paying proposition, generally considered. Some report an average as low as 50 cents, while others claim to be making something like $4 a day, although I know of some individual cases in which more than $10 a day are made, in which latter cases the individuals understand the method of saving the gold. There are hundreds—yes, thousands—of disgusted, discouraged people here—altee sance Klondike, 1898. Many of those having the means have already gone or will go, while others 'lacking the iron dollars are scheming for their salvation the best they know how. Conditions are largely a repetition of those existing in Dawson in 1898, so far as the howling and kicking go. The crowd will have to get out before winter comes, and the quicker and faster they go the better it will be for the camp, for, like Dawson of '98, there are many thousand more here than the prospects of the country warrant at the present time. For my own part, I believe the country is all right, and I think it will be a better camp next year than it is this—that is, for actual results."

SENKLER WAS REVERSED

When the Case Was Carried To and Heard at Ottawa.

Original Locator Werbus Awarded Hillside Claim on Lower Bonanza as Against Joe Vincent.

The decision of Gold Commissioner Senkler rendered last March in the case entitled Werbus vs. Vincent has been reversed by the higher court at Ottawa.

The case was one involving the ownership of a hillside property opposite the upper half of 78 lower Bonanza, which was bought by Joe Vincent from Fred Parker, the original locator. After his purchase Mr. Vincent expended a sum nearly approaching $10,000 on the development of the ground, after which his title was assailed by Mr. Werbus who said he was the original locator of the ground in question.

After hearing the evidence in the case Mr. Senkler decided that while Werbus had staked the ground in question and applied for a title under a different description to that of Parker, the latter had procured his title first and disposed of the property, and all this without any objection having been raised by Werbus, till after the purchaser had expended a large amount of money and located the pay streak. For these reasons the decision was given in favor of Vincent.

What grounds the higher court bases the present decision upon are so far unknown, as news of it is very brief, having been received in a telegram this morning.

Anarchists Not Sorry.

New York, Aug. 2.—Several hundred anarchists held a meeting in Bartholdi hall, at Paterson, N. J., tonight for the purpose of discussing the situation in Italy. There were many Frenchmen, a number of Spaniards and a few Austrians in the assemblage, which consisted for the most part of Italians.

Pasquale Frank presided. At the opening he denounced the newspapers in general and claimed that they were misrepresenting the anarchists. He said the papers made anarchists out as bad men and pictured them as revolting in actions. He said this was untrue and that anarchists were the same as other people.

Pedro Esteve, the Spanish leader and editor of a Paterson anarchist publication, was the principal speaker. He discussed the situation in Italy from his standpoint, claiming the country was bad to the core. He said the poor people of the nation were oppressed and overburdened by taxes and because of the latter the poor people could not stay in the country. He reviewed the work of the socialists in Italy and claimed their propaganda had done no good; their intentions might be good, but their methods were not productive of results. He said Italy's only hope was in the anarchists. They had no secrets, he said, and took no part in plots.

They did not select by lot or otherwise to kill. Bressi, he said, had not been sent to kill the king; he did the act of his own accord. An anarchist was free to do as he pleased. An anarchist, he said, might decide to kill a king and know when he had done it that he would have to give his life for it, but he would give his life gladly. Bressi, he said, had killed the king, and he was glad, although he knew he would have to suffer for his act. Esteve said that he was not sorry. He asked if anyone present was sorry. This was greeted with laughter and applause.

Resolutions were adopted as follows: "We, here assembled, intend to state that Bressi's deed was the result of a present serious state of affairs, and therefore we are trying to establish one where violence would not be possible."

"We deplore as foolish the idea that there could have been or existed a plot in this city (Paterson) and protest against those who attributed it to and are trying to make the Italian colony of Paterson responsible for Bressi's deed."

VICTOR FITZ

WAS HARDEST FIGHT EVER WITNESSED.

Ruhlin Rushed by His Antagonist From Beginning.

BOTH MEN BADLY PUNISHED.

Chicago Sports Won Heavily on Fitz Whose Victory Was Followed by Great Demonstration.

(From Friday's Daily.)
New York, Aug. 11, via Skagway, Aug. 17. — The fastest, hardest and bloodiest fight ever witnessed in the annals of modern prize ring pugilism took place here tonight, when Ruhlin was put out by Fitzsimmons in the sixth round.

When Ruhlin entered the ring and stripped he was greeted with deafening applause; but when Fitzsimmons entered a moment later and threw aside his bathrobe, he also was greeted with thundering applause, as the ex-champion never appeared to better advantage in his life.

The betting was about even, Chicago sports backing Fitz heavily. The fight was hard and fast, Fitz rushing it from start to finish.

First round—Ruhlin rushed at Fitz, but the latter adroitly warded off his blows by dodging and skipping around until near the close, when Fitz landed heavily on Ruhlin's neck, sending him to the floor.

Second round—The only blow landed was one by Ruhlin, who caught Fitz a terrible smash in the face, causing blood to flow freely, but not knocking him down.

Third round—Gus was slow in coming out; they exchanged light lefts and clinched; at the breakaway Gus landed heavily on Bob's chin, and the latter countered on Gus' eye, raising a big lump.

Fourth round—Bob chased Gus around the ring, both men being apparently nearly winded. During this round betting turned in Fitz's favor in proportion of 100 to 90.

Fifth round—Fitz came up fresh but Ruhlin appeared tired and renewed his ground-breaking tactics. The round ended by Fitz landing a terrific smash on Ruhlin's neck which, while not putting him down, staggered and confused him.

Sixth round—Ruhlin staved off Fitz with a straight left. Fitz sent a swinging right to Gus' body which caused him to clinch at the ropes. Later Gus clinched with Fitz to avoid more punishment. On the breakaway Fitz beat his man down to the floor by sledgehammer blows on his face, head and neck. Ruhlin stayed down until the count of eight, when he arose unsteady and groggy. Fitz had him going and with a heavy right swing on the jaw Ruhlin went down and out; time, 2 minutes and 10 seconds.

Fitzsimmons' victory was followed by the wildest demonstration ever witnessed at a ring side.

Gives Up all Its Dead.

The recovery of the body of Miss Stewart, the 14-year-old girl, who, with her mother and Walter Monates, was drowned in the Florence S. disaster in the Klondike river on July 21st, which body was found a few days ago above Hootalinqua near where the others were recovered, and brought on to Dawson on the steamer Clifford Sifton, makes the sixth body which the Yukon and its tributary, Thirtymile, have given up within less than a period of three months, that space of time not having elapsed since the recovery of the body of Fred Clayton, the first found of the three victims of the Christmas day tragedy.

The victims of the Florence S. wreck were all found within three weeks of the sad occurrence.

If there is any truth in the theory that two men were implicated in the crime of Christmas day, and that one of them was either killed by the assaulted party or later by his partner, and his body consigned along with those of his victims to the water of the Yukon, then is there yet one body unrecovered. But so far as actually known, all bodies claimed by and consigned to the river since last fall have been yielded up by the waters, recovered and identified, the body which was believed to have been that of Lineman Olsen, but about which there was a trace of doubt at the time of the inquest, having later been positively identified by one of his former associates and employees in the service of the government telegraph at Five Fingers.

The recovery of all the bodies above mentioned is due in a large measure to the efficiency and thorough work of the members of the N. W. M. P., who never fail in their duty or betray a trust reposed in them.

Debbs' Letter of Acceptance.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 4.—Eugene V. Debbs, presidential nominee of the Social Democratic party, has sent his letter of acceptance to William Butcher, national secretary of the party in this city. Mr. Debbs says: "I am deeply sensible of the responsibilities which rest upon me as a Socialistic candidate for the office of president of the United States. Fully imbued with the philosophy of Socialism, I seek no personal preferment, and I claim consideration only as a representative of the principles of Socialism. In that capacity, and that alone, I appeal to the working class and my countrymen for their support. The confidence implied by the unanimous action of my comrades moves me to regret my limitations and to wish myself a worthier representative of the principles so sacred to them, being fraught with grave import to the countless victims struggling in the grasp of economic bondage.

"But all the strength and ability I have are at their service. Long since I consecrated myself to the cause and all I have is laid with joy on the altar of Socialism. As we look around we behold the steady and stately march of transformation. Capitalism, which has written its records in the tears and blood of the human race is staggering to its doom, while Socialism, herald of right and freedom, quickened by the spirit of the new resolution, is sweeping over all the world.

"Here in the United States of America, we are on the eve of our first great battle. Let us gird our armor and press forward to meet the enemies of freedom, the oppressors of the people, the exploiters of the working class and the foes of all humanity. Let us dismiss all minor considerations and unite in every state and territory from end to end of the land, in one mighty effort to hasten the end of capitalism and the inauguration of the co-operative commonwealth."

Travel is Still Heavy.

When the steamer Columbian left last night for Whitehorse she had all her stateroom accommodations filled with passengers who are bound for the outside. There is now but little time to spare if the round trip to the outside is to be made and Dawson again reached before the close of navigation, unless the travelers spend but a very short time in visiting or in the transaction of business while absent. From now on the majority of those going outside will not return this fall. There will probably be a heavy travel this way from now until the close of navigation as there are hundreds of Dawsonites on the outside who intend wintering here again.

Cannot Be Accommodated.

Owing to the lateness of the season it is not likely there will be upwards of half a dozen more steamers up the river from St. Michael this year. Such being the case it will not be possible for the many thousand people at Nome who would prefer to come here in preference to going back to the Sound and lower coast to get here. It is not likely that more than 1000 people will be brought up the river between now and the close of navigation, and such being the case, Dawson will be loser on the lower river route for the season fully 2000 people.

APPROVED BY ALL.

Memorial of Citizens' Committee Receives General Indorsement.

CITIZENS SPEAK FOR PUBLICATION.

No Dissenting Voices in Approving Work of the Committee.

SUGGESTIONS BECOME LAWS.

Such is the View Taken by Dawson's Leading Business and Professional Men—They Are of One Voice.

The memorial presented to his excellency the governor general by the citizens' committee has been the subject of a great deal of discussion and comment in Dawson.

The fact that the presentation of the memorial was strenuously opposed in certain quarters has served to bring forward very strong support to the committee from representative men who ordinarily would not care to express an opinion.

A Nugget representative interviewed a number of prominent citizens this morning with respect to the memorial and without exception they are unanimous in sustaining the position taken by the citizens' committee and in commending the terms in which the various grievances of the country were set forth in the memorial.

The following were the gentlemen interviewed and the opinions expressed by them:

Tom Kirkpatrick—The memorial was O. K. and expressed my views exactly.

John Gilson—The memorial presented by the citizens' committee receives my hearty approval.

Judge Davis—In the main I consider it a good strong document, which puts forth the conditions accurately.

Emil Stauff—A correct statement of existing conditions.

Walter Watrous—A strong document and right to the point.

E. B. Condon—I think the report of the citizens' committee is forceful, logical and truthful. It bears evidence of the sincerity and honesty of purpose of its authors in every line. It has my unqualified endorsement.

Leroy Tozier—A first-class document. It sets forth the needs of the community in the best form of any memorial yet presented to the government. It has my hearty endorsement.

O. W. Hobbs—I consider the memorial a splendid document and the recommendations O. K.

William McIntosh—A moderate document and the points well covered.

Attorney H. A. Robertson—I consider the memorial a splendid one and the points taken all good ones. It has my endorsement.

Attorney J. B. Pattullo—The grievances of the country were excellently set forth. The memorial has nothing objectionable in it.

Thos. McGowan—Needs of the country well presented. If the suggestions in the memorial were made into laws we should have little more to ask.

C. G. K. Nourse—I am in accord with the suggestions made in the memorial.

L. R. Radcliffe—I am glad to see that so much interest is manifested in the general welfare of the country. I agree with the principles set forth in the memorial.

C. I. Phillips—Memorial is O. K.

A. S. Levine—Very good.

Tom Chisholm—Not a flaw in it.

B. H. Boyer—A splendid document.

M. N. Miles—Meets my approval.

J. A. Chute—Memorial is all right. Has the right ring.

Harry Edwards—The memorial is a splendid one. It has my support.

Frank Clayton—I am in hearty accord with the memorial which I consider a particularly able one.

Mr. Delaney, of the N. A. T. & T. Co., was not in town the evening the article was published, which contained a copy of the memorial of the citizens' committee; and had not read it. He had heard of it, however, as being a very timely and able document from which much good to the Yukon will accrue.

L. R. Fulda, manager of the A. R. Co. and president of the Board of Trade—I have read the article carefully and think it a good one and to the point. The fact that it was presented to such a broad gauge man as is his excellency is certain to be productive of good results. Lord Minto is an eminently sensible man and his visit to Dawson will bear fruit in a manner which will greatly benefit the district. He has made a most favorable impression on the American citizens who have been privileged to meet him. If Canada had more such men as the Earl of Minto it would be better for her subjects and resident foreigners alike. I have great faith in my belief that his excellency's visit to the Yukon will be instrumental in inaugurating an era of better government and better times than have ever been enjoyed in the history of the country.

Sailors Strike.

Long before the hour for the opening had arrived this morning the street in front of U. S. Consul McCook's office was crowded with men, the crew of the steamer Linda, which had arrived from St. Michael Wednesday night. There were over 20 men in the crowd, all waiting to be paid off on the opening of the consul's office.

If credence can be placed in the story told by the men and corroborated by a number of the passengers, Capt. Moog, of the Linda, is something of a Capt. Kidd. The crew tell that one of the hands became sick shortly before the steamer reached Weare, where he asked Capt. Moog to pay him off and allow him to go ashore; that the skipper refused to do so until landing at a wood camp 20 miles above Weare, where he paid off the man and told him to either get off there or pay $20 fare to Circle. The man, who was lying very sick on the carpenter's workbench, did not have the money, having only received $11 for his work. He told the captain his condition and others of the crew interested themselves in the man's behalf; but the captain turned a deaf ear to his pleadings and the sick man was put ashore and left at a point where there was not even a cabin to shelter him.

The men complain bitterly of the treatment accorded them on the way up.

Scheme Didn't Work.

Lewis L. Metzker, a layman, on J. B. Lewis and John A. McKay's claim on King Solomon's Hill, was eagerly sought for this morning by J. B. Lewis, as word was telephoned in that Metzker had disappeared, taking with him the poke from which numerous employees looked for disbursement of wages due. Mr. Lewis when interviewed on the subject declined to give any information relative to the matter, save that Metzker had been found and satisfactory arrangements were being made with him, presumably for the protection of the employees on the claim.

A Costly Trip.

Two families who reached Dawson late last fall from Skagway and who spent the winter on Bonanza, where the two men worked at mining and their wives conducted a bakery and laundry, left here in June for Nome. They are now back in Dawson and will spend the coming winter at the old stand on Bonanza. Their two months' jaunt reduced their ready cash $850. One of the men truthfully remarked yesterday: "Nome-ish no place for working peoples."

Has Seen the World.

Staff Sergeant T. Rogers, who is here in the service of Lord Minto, has occupied his present position under six different governors-general for the past 24 years. He has been around the world five times and traveled extensively with his commanders through the great nations of the world. The sergeant makes many friends wherever he goes and can at the right time regale his listeners with many interesting incidents of his travels.

Started an Industry.

A number of years ago and before he settled down in life L. W. Horkan, of the Dawson Standard Library, introduced peach growing for the market at Tifton in the southwestern part of Georgia, the only previous exports of that country being watermelons and cotton. The new industry proved a profitable one. Mr. Horkan's neighbors "caught on" and a Tifton paper received by him this week states that an average of four car loads of peaches is being daily shipped from there this season. The fruit cars are forwarded as express freight and are rushed through to New York and other eastern cities in from 36 to 40 hours.

Mr. Horkan, who is something of a horticulturist as well as florist, will probably be cultivating peach trees in the Yukon next season.

DEPART TODAY.

Lord and Lady Minto Leave for Whitehorse This Evening.

HAVE ENJOYED THEIR VISIT TO DAWSON

Distinguished Guests Much Pleased With What They Have Seen.

WILL ASSIST THIS TERRITORY

In Attempts for Better Legislation—Carries Away Much Information Regarding District Needs.

Yesterday afternoon Lord and Lady Minto were accompanied on a ride to a point on the mountain wagon road about 10 miles from Dawson, from which eminence an excellent view of the surrounding country, embracing nearly the whole of the Klondike mining district was had. They were accompanied on the trip by Gov. Ogilvie, Col. MacGregor and many others, including a mounted police escort. The weather, although threatening, was pleasant, and the party returned in the evening not the least fatigued. Lord and Lady Minto are experienced riders and both greatly enjoyed the outing.

This forenoon a committee from the Board of Trade called on his excellency and presented him with a memorial which is said to be along the same line as that presented by the citizens' committee. The deputation was most kindly received and thanked by Lord Minto for the interest they had manifested in providing him with information relative to the needs of the country. At 5 o'clock this evening the party will leave on the steamer Sybil on its return up the river. The visit to Dawson has been greatly enjoyed by every member of the vice-regal party; also by the citizens of Dawson, whose pleasure it has been to entertain the distinguished guests.

Still Running the Martony.

The article which appeared in yesterday's Nugget respecting the purchase by Geo. Leon of the ground upon which the Martony Cafe is located has led some parties to believe that Mr. Leon has gone into the restaurant business. Such is not the case.

Messrs. Martin and Antony, the proprietors of the Martony, have a two years' lease on the premises and still continue to do business at the old stand as heretofore. Old patrons are welcome and new ones are invited to give the Martony a call.

Lady Minto's Reception.

On Tuesday evening while Lord Minto was holding a reception for the men of Dawson, Lady Minto was holding a similar function for the ladies of the city. About 25 ladies availed themselves of the opportunity to meet with her excellency and one and all expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the gracious manner in which they were received. The affair was strictly informal, which only added to the pleasure of those who attended.

The Reason.

A communication to the Nugget is very complimentary of the manner in which the paper has given the news pertaining to the visit of his excellency the governor general to Dawson, but expresses surprise that no representatives of the press were present on the various excursions up the creeks or with the Board of Trade committee when it called upon his lordship this morning.

The only explanation that can be offered is that the committees in charge of the excursions and visits had neither the grace nor the courtesy to invite representatives of the press to accompany them.

A Pioneer Newspaper Man.

John D. Dornier, one of the pioneer newspaper men of the north, arrived in the city yesterday from Skagway on a business and pleasure trip. For the past several months he has been editor of the Skagway Budget. Mr. Dornier was a resident of Dyea during the halcyon days when all overland travel to the Yukon was by way of the Chilkoot pass.

HIS CHANGE OF OPINION.

Young Minister Says the Lord Taught Him to Love.

But the Chances Are the Girl Was Pretty and He Loved Her on General Principles.

From Saturday's Daily.
He was a minister of the Episcopal fold—an "Anglican priest," as he would have expressed it—and he believed most ardently in the wisdom and advisability of a celibate priesthood.

"The church demands and should receive absolute singleness of devotion from her priests," was the way he stated the matter to his friends.

She was an artist, firm in the belief that a real devotion to art admitted of no other loves or devotions.

"One cannot serve the gods and at a family altar," was her manner of stating the case.

They met upon the trans-Atlantic steamer coming over, and the inevitable happened.

He had been in England, studying the semi-monastic orders of the Anglican church in that country. She had been sketching in France and Germany, closing her trip with a flying visit to London and Liverpool. He was from New York; she from Chicago. Their principles were exactly alike, only they didn't know it. But it only took them ten days to discover this fact.

He was attracted to her because of a certain high pureness of face and bearing which set her far apart from the merry, charming, but decidedly flirtatious other women who sat at her table—and his. She came to the conclusion that he undoubtedly had something in him, because of the quiet reserve of his manner. A long acquaintance with art had taught her that it is the face—as the picture—which holds something in reserve that usually proves worthy of study and cultivation.

Besides, the high vest and large silver cross, which stamped him as a ritualist among ritualists, and, therefore, most likely, a believer in celibacy, made her feel perfectly, delightfully safe in enjoying his company.

Rupert Hazard—Father Hazard, as he preferred to be called—felt correspondingly safe in talking with Miss Anneson, because self-consciousness seemed to be so entirely lacking in her make-up. They began by talking about art, literature, and the deeper problems of social economics. They didn't begin to talk of love, even in the abstract, until Liverpool had been left behind for seven days. The young woman, who had made and broken two engagements in that time, led them in this direction unconsciously.

"Doesn't it seem strange that people will play and trifle with the most sacred and holy things in life?" she said, with musing tone.

Rev. Rupert Hazard came out of his reverie concerning the good work which the church was destined to accomplish among the poor in his own parish neighborhood and sighed.

"It does, it does," he returned seriously.

This was the opening wedge. From it love in the abstract to the question of love of a more ordinary and personal aspect was but a little step. (It never is.) A day later they were telling each other why love was not for them. Two days later each knew that the other had decided never to marry. Three days later the Accomplished Traveler, overbearing a fragment of their conversation, smiled sympathetically as she pronounced "no."

"Do you know," the young clergyman was saying, "that white celibacy has always seemed almost necessary for the priesthood to me (it had seemed necessary until a few days before), I fail to see how an unmarried, and perhaps lonely, existence will cause you to paint better pictures."

"Why!" and the girl's tone was earnest as it was astonished. "I don't see how you can think otherwise. Art demands all the best of one, and no second-rate or second-hand devotion, if one is really to serve and minister to the beautiful. But it has always seemed to me," she added, meditatively, "that an unmarried minister has lost a fine chance, at least, of getting close to the hearts of his people. I wonder which of us is right—or neither, or both?"

Then came the big storm, and after that all things looked different. Mirable was anything but a coward, but she couldn't help feeling a little nervous as the great ship trembled and staggered and rolled under the force of the tremendous waves. The young minister, whose faith was of the real and assertive kind, soothed and reassured her as she sat, trembling but silent, in the music room looking out at the angry waters. The girl was duly comforted and strengthened, and the pleasant feeling of half dependence and intimacy, both of his thoughtful kindness, lasted even after the sun had decided to shine again. And the young minister had also learned something while the storm was raging. It was with a really meek and humble heart that he assisted her to the upper deck, just as soon as this was possible, and stood by her side as she took mental notes of the waves and their form and color.

"Mirable," he said presently—he had learned her name some days before—"I have a confession to make to you. I have found out—the Lord has taught me—that my views upon the question of celibacy have been mistaken. I now agree with you that a clergyman is better with a wife, and I hope—I hardly dare hope, but still I long to—that you will be my wife, some day, by and by."

They were quite alone on the rocking deck. The weather was still too rough for others less interested in art—and one of its exponents—to venture out. The girl, meditating, found that she, too, had changed her opinions in regard to several matters.

"If I tell you," she said at last, as bravely, as shyly, "that I no longer believe that love and marriage lessen one's chances of becoming a great artist, you must not fancy that it is because I am ready to say yes to the question you may want to ask me, possibly, some time. But it has seemed to me, lately—"

"Dear one, let me ask that question now," the man at her side broke in, impulsively. "Will you, dear child and sweetheart, promise to become my wife?"

Again the girl was silent, still thinking. She no longer believed as she had said, that an unmarried existence was necessary for the highest art, but still—she thought of the picture she was longing to paint, the wondrous thing of graces, nymphs, perhaps, even bacchantals—and wondered how it would do for a minister's wife to paint and exhibit the thing. And yet—with love in the balance—

She turned to him smiling.

"I will not promise now," she said, quietly; "it is far too early and we know far too little of each other for me to make any such promise, for one thing, and, besides, I have a picture I must paint first. It will take me well on into next summer. (All this happened last autumn.) And you must not write to me, nor ask me to write to you, until the end of June, anyway. Then, if you want to risk the trip on such slight encouragement, you may come to Chicago, and—if you care to ask me that question again—I may possibly think about it."

Last Saturday he came, and next autumn her studio will be in New York instead of Chicago, and there will be a new name upon the door.—Chicago Tribune.

Alien Locations Attacked.

A suit involving the title to mining claims estimated to be worth several millions of dollars has been instituted at Nome against Charles D. Lane, Jafet Linderberg and other large operators of the district. Alexander McKenzie, a wealthy New Yorker, was appointed a temporary receiver of the property by Judge Noyes, sitting in chambers.

This important news was brought to Seattle by the passengers of the steamer Valencia, arriving yesterday. C. F. Humphrey, a San Francisco lawyer, one of the attorneys in the case and also a party litigant, was among them. McKenzie, formerly a receiver of the Northern Pacific railroad, was appointed July 31, and a hearing to make the receivership in open court was to have been held August 3. Following his temporary appointment, McKenzie took possession of the mines, continuing their operation. The employees are to be paid from the receipts of the claims and the rest of the yield held by the receiver under instructions of the court, pending a final decision.

The action, as it relates to Lane, seeks to dispossess him of Nos. 10 and 11 above on Anvil, No. 7 Dry creek, No. 2 below discovery on Anvil, and several other more or less valuable mines in different sections of the district. Nos. 10, 11, 7 and 2 are among the richest mines in the Nome camp. They were, it is charged by the complainants, located by Laplanders not citizens of the United States. John Waterhouse and a man named Melsing claim to be the original and lawful locators. One of the actions is brought by Waterhouse.

He admits that the Laplanders found and staked the property, but his attorneys, Hubbard, Bowman & Hume, claim the locations are not valid, for the reason that they were made by aliens.

Lane purchased these and other mines involved from the original locators. A suit for the possession of claims 10 and 11 was instituted last year, and it is claimed that Lane purchased the mines subsequent to the beginning of this action. When Judge Johnson was at Nome last fall, it was sought to have him hear the case, but he declined to do so. Meanwhile, the original locators continued in possession of the property.

The actions against Linderberg are similar to the Lane suits, save that it is set forth that he was not a citizen of the United States at the time he located and acquired his mines. McKenzie is also receiver in the Linderberg actions. These involve two or three Anvil claims, and two on famous Snow gulch.

That the cases will be hard fought goes without saying in view of the magnitude of the amount involved. The application for and appointment of a receiver was made a day or two subsequent to the departure of Lane for the States. He arrived in this city several days ago on the steamer Newsboy, and reached San Francisco, his home, last night. Lafe Pence, a Colorado lawyer, accompanied him on his return. Pence is one of his attorneys, and other lawyers in the case for Lane and Linderberg are Samuel Knight, of San Francisco, and C. S. Johnson, former United States judge of the district of Alaska.

Expenses of Shooting in Scotland.

As to the sums spent on shooting in Scotland so large is the total that it is a difficult matter to arrive even at an approximate estimate. In Perthshire alone there are 465 shootings, of which about four-fifths are let to tenants and bring in about £150,000 a year, or an average of £400 a year, which seems about a fair estimate if it be borne in mind that this is an expensive county, and that 50 of its best shootings fetch £35,000, or an average of £700 a year. In the whole of Scotland there are about 4,000 shootings, and as each of them must at least employ one keeper and one gillie during the shooting season, some estimate may be formed of the money expended in wages and the number of people employed. In the deer forests and on the larger shootings there will often be from four to six men permanently engaged, and from six to eight others working for the shooting season only. In a well-known forest where I once spent many pleasant days there were three foresters, three gillies and three ponymen out each day; on the grouse ground there were three keepers, with three underkeepers, a kennel man and two carriers going to and from the nearest railway station—a total of 18 men and five horses, not to mention the ponies kept for riding into the forest and those kept to carry grouse panniers. On this property three rifles could stalk each day, while three other parties of two each could shoot grouse, or the six could combine for driving.—Chambers' Journal.

Pauline Is Dead.

Pauline, one of the women who figured in the breaking up of the vapor bath house and ladies' manicure parlors at the south end of Front street, died the other day in Skagway from the effects of too much indulgence in intoxicants. Pauline was but a young girl, but after once hitting the downward trail she got going with a rapidity which no amount of moral persuasion could check. In her girlhood days she was considered to be one of the best looking maidens on the Pacific slope and in Seattle was known to the appetitive fraternity as pretty Pauline.—Whitehorse Tribune.

The "ladies' manicure parlors" above mentioned was conducted at Whitehorse by the woman called Pauline and Corinne B. Gray, the latter being now in Dawson. The partnership broke up in a quarrel over the possession of $200. When the trouble was supposed to be settled, Pauline offered her hand as a peace token to Corinne and the latter took it, but not in her hand; she grabbed it with her teeth and a Whitehorse paper says the crunching of bones was distinctly heard until a male bystander gave Corinne a "biff in the jaw" which broke her hold.

Makes Round Trip.

G. M. Arbuckle, formerly editor of the Bennett Sun, who left Dawson some time in June for Nome, is now back in Dawson, having come down on the outside on the steamer Utopia. Mr. Arbuckle says if 25,000 people will leave there, it will be a very good camp for the few who will be left. In the meantime, "Buck" has time to let, but in experience he is rich and respected.

Questions of the Hour.

Scarcely had the Sybil, having our distinguished guests of the past few days, passed the barracks on her way up the river last night than the work of campaigning for the approaching election was on in full blast, the two all-important questions of the hour being "What will you have?" and "Will you give my candidacy your support?" There is every evidence that while many residents from the States will miss the excitement incident to the presidential campaign, they will be highly entertained by the local campaign which will precede the election of two members of the Yukon council. In the meantime, the dealers in moist goods are not committing themselves.

NOTES OF THE YELLOW RIVER

Tyrrell Arrives With Passengers and Freight Today.

Quick for Stewart River Tonight—Gold Star Makes Good Time—Gustin Goes Down River.

From Saturday's Daily. The steamer Tyrrell, of the D. & W. H. N. Co., arrived this morning with a heavy shipment of C. D. Co. freight and the following passengers:

L. P. Selback, E. W. Mayer, Chris Heinecke, J. H. Franck, W. H. Swinehart, Mrs. Chas. Twombly, A. Beaumont, L. A. Stone, Mrs. W. H. Tillman, Murtie Townsend, Ed Connors, Victor Olberg, Mrs. J. C. Whalley, Miss Vinnie E. Field, Gerald Petre, H. E. Wilson, A. J. Kingsley, L. A. Phillips, C. B. Stone.

The familiar Burpee has been metamorphosed into a handsome craft called the Quick, and is now at the S. Y. T. Co. dock loading with freight for the Stewart river. She will sail for that district tonight. Capt. Smythe and O. H. Hobbs are owners. W. H. B. Lyons and a crew of loggers are going up on the boat to look after the Ladue Mill Co.'s interests on the river.

The Gold Star sails today for Whitehorse and will make regular trips on that run for the rest of the season. Her itinerary calls for a round trip every ten days. The last trip of the Gold Star was made in eight days. The owner, Thos. Dixon, claims that his boat made the fastest time down stream this season, accomplishing the distance from Whitehorse to Dawson in 32 hours.

The Bonanza King is billed to sail tonight.

The steamer Linda of the A. E. Co., is billed to sail tomorrow at 8 a. m. for St. Michael. She is a powerful and well appointed boat.

The staff of the W. P. & Y. R. has been materially reduced by the resignation of Cashier Phillips and Walter H. Adams, the expert accountant and paymaster. Newspaper men particularly will miss Adams, he having a keen idea of news and the faculty of imparting his information in such a way as to be of service both to his company and the public.

The steamer Flora was due to arrive from the Stewart river yesterday afternoon, but as yet has not made her appearance. No apprehension need be felt for her, however, as she is guided by the most skillful steamboat men on the river. It is rumored that a well-known transportation man who is a passenger on the boat has fallen a victim to the charms of a lady passenger and that a romantic wedding has occurred on the boat. Capt. Ritchie of the C. D. Co., it is said, holds the secret as to the identity of the parties interested.

The steamer Gustin of the A. E. Co., sailed today with a number of passengers for down the river points.

An Embryo Fire. The fire department had a few minutes exercise this morning without having to go far from home to get it. An embryo fire got started, possibly from spontaneous combustion, in the coal pile of the N. A. T. T. Co., but a free use of Yukon water applied from the end of a hose soon disposed of all danger to the coal and to surrounding buildings.

Lord Minto Sails Away. At 9 o'clock last night the steamer Sybil, bearing the vice-regal party that had for three days previous been entertained by the people of Dawson, cast off its lines and to lively strains from the Orpheum band in the presence of thousands of people, all of whom wished the lord and lady a safe return to their home in the Dominion capital, sailed away for Whitehorse. A number of cannon were fired at the barracks in farewell to our distinguished guests.

Dawson feels better for the visit and both Lord and Lady Minto certainly feel the same.

Is At a Standstill. The matter of leasing mining property or letting lays is practically at a standstill all over the district, as neither owners nor those desirous of working on the share principle are anxious to close any compacts until it is seen whether or not the royalty is to be reduced, removed or kept as it is. In fact, there is practically no demand for ground on the lay system as the experiences of the past along that line, have been disastrous to those who have performed the work and who, in 75 per cent of the cases, have had nothing but worry and a stock of unpaid bills for their labor. Some radical changes must be incorporated in the lay system before many such contracts are entered into and before much of the territory of the district is made to yield its precious metal.

CREEK NOTES.

J. Eul smokes cigars nowadays, two at a time. Cricket is the game indulged in on Gold Hill after working hours these evenings.

Mr. John Wick, of 19 above Bonanza, leaves for the outside tonight to return in the spring.

Col. Treat, of 11 Victoria, is putting up a large and commodious cabin preparatory to opening up his claim on the above creek this winter.

H. C. Gunston holds the record for staying away from Dawson. Mr. Gunston is the proprietor of Chechako hotel, on 7 below Bonanza, and has not been to town since last September until yesterday when he came in to purchase goods for his new hotel on 5 below Bonanza.

Pretense as to Contents. "Judge," said Mr. Zeke Darkleigh, "I want to hab disbyere Gae Snowflake arrested. He done sol' me er kaig er beer, en day ain't nuffin in the kaig but rain watch."

"All right," replied the judge, "you want to swear out a warrant charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses."

"No, sub. I want dat niggah sent up fo' 'tainin' money unde' false contenses. Dat's what, judge."—Baltimore American.

Nothing Is Too Good

That truism is particularly adapted to the conditions prevailing in a city like Dawson, so far removed from the great business centers of the world. Merchandise shipped in here costs the same, no matter the quality, for transportation. Consequently all lines handled by us are first-class, such as Stetson's Finest Hats, Slater's Boots and Shoes, Tailor-Cut Nobby Suits of Imported Tweeds and Wool, English Debies, and the finest invoice of Gents' Furnishing Goods in the city.
