The Other Shore.

In the grand old woods, where the shadows sleep,
Or in the churchyard on the hill,
Or along by the river calm and deep,
Where summer hours are sweet and still—

I love to wander; for my dreaming ear
Can hear strange voices everywhere—
Voices of dear ones gone before—
Yes, and I almost see them, as I hear,
Waiting on the other shore.

bar you want, I reckon you mean the mouse gnawed and the bag cast—invalid out yonder in the back lot."

Steve got up, and through the force of custom acquired in earlier life dusted the seat of his trousers. The mountain man again had gathered his hickory for a decisive blow at his main, but a hearse commencing from old Steve—a command unobtainable as to words, but full of meaning nevertheless—expressed his intention. Steve, mastering his anger and attempting to speak in a quiet way, said, "I have been living here a good while and have learned how to be smooth in my manners, but when a man that ain't never postured in no way comes along here and willfully insults a member of my family, why, it's time for me to set."

"I don't know nothing about your family and wouldn't the sheriff insult a member of it," the mountain man replied. "You said that this here b'ar is a kiten of a thing, and then I said that the b'ar over yander in the lot is bug eat, and I am willing to leave it to any jury that can be raked up in this town that I am right. I know what it is to be bug eat and I don't blame the b'ar, for I don't reckon he could help it. I had a dog once that was bug eat—as kind hearted and gentlemanly a dog as you ever seen—and I didn't hold him responsible. Say, now without any more foolishness, don't you want to buy a b'ar?"

Steve placed his hand on a post to steady himself. He looked at the mountain man with all the contempt he could throw into his watery eyes, and then, still under so strong a restraint that the baggy knees of his trousers quivered, thus delivered himself:

"I am trying to make an honest living, and I hope to join the church some day, but if you don't get away from here, I'll beat you, and I'll make a pint of hickory you might be glad to do."

"Oh, yes, I hear, and rather than have any difficulty I'll harken, but I do hope befo' the day is over, for that matter, you may change your mind about this b'ar. Get up, boy!" He swung his hickory and dealt the mule a decisive blow.

Business was dull, and Steve nodded and dreamed as he sat on the veranda. He was aroused by a noise, and looking down he saw that the mountain man had again stopped at the gate.

"Look here," Steve yelled, "now under very little restraint, 'though I told you to get on away from here."

"You did tell me, and I did go away, but that didn't keep me from coming back again. I have been to nearly every place in the town, and nobody don't seem to want a b'ar, and the fact has begun to crawl into my mind that the b'ar market down here is pretty dull. Down yonder just now the thought struck me that arter all you must want a real b'ar, and as I am willing to help you out with your wants I will let you have this here one for $10."

Steve went out to the gate. He put his elbows on a wheel of the wagon, and looking hard at the mountain man said:

"I have been very kind to you, and I haven't made this discovery, but if you have been kind to me I'm much obliged."

"I have been kind to you, and now I want to tell you what I am going to do. I'm going to haul you."

And he did haul him. He attached the mountain man out of the wagon and walloped him in the road. And during the performance the bear sat in the wagon and looked on with an indifference complete in every detail. The mountain man climbed back to his seat as soon as Steve granted him that privilege, and gathering up his hickory said:

"After all, I reckon you know your own mind best—don't reckon you really do want to buy a b'ar. Goodbye, ash!"

Evening came, and strangers who had heard that a desperate man would wrestle with a ferocious bear gathered at the place of encounter.

"Now, gentlemen," said Steve, "the time has come for to show you what a white man can do. All my folks were b'ar fighters, and so far as heard from not one of them was ever whipped. Some hunters have just brought in a monstrous b'ar from down in the botoms and all that want to see me fight him just pay 25 cents and come ahead."

A number of men paid their money and followed him into the back lot. Those who were acquainted with the indolent habit of the bear said nothing, partly through fear of incurring the animosity of old Steve, but mainly to foster a laugh at the expense of the gullible "tenderfeet."

Steve conducted the spectators to the tree where the bear was chained. The brow of evening, making a mystery of the huge black mass of animal life and hiding the patches on his coat, proclaimed him a savage monster.

"Gentlemen," said Steve, "befo' I go into this here fight I want to tell you that I don't deserve no sympathy, for I've brought it on myself. Here goes!"

He made a lunge at the bear. The monster threw himself in an upright position against the tree and caught Steve in his arms. For a moment there was silence, and then a loud yell split the stillness of the deepening twilight.

The bear boxed Steve, he hugged him time and time again and then appeared to be biting him.

"Take him away! He's killing me!" the gladiator cried. Two men seized Steve's legs and drew him beyond the bear's reach, and the monster—and indeed he was one now—stretched his chain in the effort to renew the engagement. Steve was taken into the house. He was covered with blood, and it was evident that a number of ribs were broken.

"Have you anything to say?" some one asked. "It may be probable that you can't talk after awhile."

"All I've got to say is this," Steve groaned. "I wish I hadn't got so intimate with that blamed b'ar."

Several men went out with a lantern to look at the victor. They found nothing but a chain under the tree, but down farther, in a fence corner, they found a worn and flea bitten bear asleep. However, they continued their search, and they might have found down the road a mountain man helping his bear into a wagon, and they might possibly have learned that the mountain man, for purposes peculiarly his own, had liberated the lazy b'ar and had temporarily chained his own bear to the tree.—Exchange.

Scraps of Knowledge.

Paste may be kept several months without getting mouldy if a little pulverized blue stone is added while hot.

When dampening clothes for ironing use water as hot as the hand can bear; sprinkle the linen, fold smoothly, roll up tight, and they will iron much easier. The hot water penetrates more rapidly and it is not necessary to dampen so much as when using cold water.

A clean white broom, kept for this purpose only forms a handy implement for scrubbing.

The most delicate way to boil an egg is to pour boiling water over it and allow it to remain, without boiling, for ten minutes. It will be found to be perfectly cooked.

A cooling, wholesome drink is made by mixing two tablespoonfuls of pearl barley with a quarter of a pound of lump sugar. Pour on it rather more than two quarts of boiling water. Add the peel of a fresh lemon. Let it stand all night, then strain, and it is ready for use.

If the extension table does not slip easily, when adding or taking out leaves, rub a little paraffine on the joints and see how it will be improved.

A piece of chamois skin cut to fit the inside of the shoe will not only prove very comfortable in cold weather and to tender feet, but it will save the stockings from wear.

A good way to amuse a sick child who cannot sit up or entertain itself in ways ordinarily dear to the infantile soul is to arrange a mirror on an easel in such a way as to reflect the objects to be seen from the window. If no easel is procurable an upright stick fastened to the back of a chair will answer the purpose, and the mirror can be tilted at various angles and moved backward and forward to bring different portions of the outdoor scene into view. If the child is too weary to care for the moving panorama of the street the glass can be made to reflect itself, and thus the child will be amused.

The Worth of British Connection.

The growth of the British Empire is one of the marvels of the world. The Empire has been built up by great Imperial and Colonial statesmen, great explorers, great generals, great admirals, great merchants, great captains of manufacturing industry, a great commercial marine, backed up by a daring, adventurous and gallant people and patriotic Parliament and press. If British troops have fought on every soil in every quarter of the globe, British mariners have explored every coast and ocean and fly their flag on every water. British capital and enterprise are developing the resources and trade of every nation. British pluck and wealth have made habitable the waste places of the earth, whether in India, in Africa, in Australia, in America, in Oceania. The Mediterranean is practically a British sea, the Suez Canal a British waterway. All the great harbors of refuge for ocean shipping—the central ocean stations for commerce in the Southern Seas—all the great cooling ports in the Pacific and Australian waters—fly the British colors. The British traveller can make the tour of the world by the great steamship and railway routes without being out of sight of his country's flag or treading any other than a British deck or riding on other than a British railway.

Looking at the greatness of this vast Empire, with its 320,000,000 of people, its incalculable resources, natural and monetary, its unsurpassed natural credit, its splendid past and present, leading up to a still more splendid future, the magnificent field of action which it offers to every British subject, who has a spark of love of country? In his breast would desire to see Canada's connection with the glorious old Empire severed?

What Canadian, fully informed of his nation's history, would exchange his Imperial status for any other allegiance on earth? What Canadian school boy can read the military or naval battles, the consummate diplomacy, the improvements in government, the elevation of the masses, the wide extension of civil and religious liberty, by which this Empire has been reared and cemented, without feeling his pulse bound and his patriotic quicken? To inculcate these patriotic lessons in the youth of Canada, to reveal to them all the advantages of British connection, to point them to the grand field, within the Empire, for the exercise of all their moral and intellectual acquirements is a proper, an imperative duty on the part of our public teachers—a duty too long neglected and which cannot be taken in hand too quickly.

When we consider what Canada owes to British connection, its political constitution, much of its best legislation, the protecting arm which surrounds us in Britain's fleets and armies, whose maintenance costs us nothing, the normal influence which the Empire wields among the nations, and which to us is a greater protection than even armies and fleets, the British capital that has been employed in developing our resources, the large amount of liberty which is permitted to us within the Empire, and which represents as perfect self government as is enjoyed by any people on earth—it is not surprising that ninety-nine out of every hundred of thoughtful Canadians desire to maintain the connection with the Empire, although many of them may not have fully estimated all the benefits that result.

Shakespeare not so Smart.

When we come to think of it, Shakespeare could not have known much, not even how it feels to wear a set of artificial teeth. He never even saw a touzer match or a Steele pen, and his ignorance of the art of photography was only equalled by the lack of knowledge he possessed about the type writer. If he went to a fire, it was probably only to stand in a line and pass buckets of water, the fire engine being something he was entirely unacquainted with.

He never held his ear to a telephone and listened to his wife while she read out a list of Little articles she wished him to bring home; he never received a telegram; he never rode in a train car or in a railway train, and as for an electric railway, why, he never heard of such a thing. He never knew the feelings which a boy experiences when wearing long trousers for the first time, because he never wore such things in his life.

He never tried to ride a bicycle, never used roller skates, never saw a stove, knew nothing about such well known things as steam ploughs and reaping machines. He never knew what it was to swallow a postage stamp by mistake while moistening it (not because he could not swallow, but because he had never seen a postage stamp), and we have yet to learn that he could roll the difference between an eighty-one-ton gun and a repeating rifle. The question is, what did he know?

Coronets.

English noblemen are the only ones in Europe who ever wear coronets on their heads, and the sole occasion when they do is at the coronation of the sovereign. They hold them in their hands through the ceremony, and at the moment when the Archbishop of Canterbury places the crown upon the monarch's head every peer and peeress present dons his or her coronet.

Inasmuch as nearly half of the House of Lords is composed of peers created by Queen Victoria, it is probable that none of them has taken the trouble to provide himself with the silver coronet, lined with crimson velvet, of his rank, and were the Queen to die and the Prince of Wales to ascend the throne, there would doubtless be a run on the court silversmiths for baubles of this character.

The baron's coronet, worn by the poet Lord Byron, at the coronation of George IV., and which was manufactured for the occasion, and is now in this country and was in the possession of the late proprietor of the Philadelphia Ledger, who converted it into a chafing dish for the humble vegetable known as the potato, having removed the velvet cap from the inside and turned it upside down, so that the four silver balls constitute the support of the chafing dish.

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., APRIL 6, 1894.

What do the People Say.

Wolfville is noted for its progressive-ness. Within a few years the town has supplied itself with a good water system, and more recently with the electric light. The telephone, is here also, and very generously patronized. The public school building, the other educational buildings and the churches are such as would do credit to any town. The streets are fairly well cared for. Many private residences are models of neatness and good taste. The dry goods and grocery stores are in keeping with modern movements. But when we come to the central, most frequented and most public building of the town—the Post Office what can we say? There we find no change. As it was in the beginning, now it is, and such shall it always be! What say the people of the progressive town of Wolfville? Are you satisfied to have improvements stop before this building is reached. Probably there is not another Post Office in the Dominion that handles as much mail and has as many accommodations. If agitation and petition will secure something better, let us agitate and petition.

Acadia Dairy Company (Limited).

A very enthusiastic adjourned meeting of the Acadia Dairy Company (Limited) was held on Wednesday afternoon last in Witter's Hall, a large attendance of the farmers of the surrounding district being present. Dr. Chipman, Grand Pres, was called to the chair and stated that this meeting was called for the purpose of putting the company on a permanent footing and for the election of a board of directors. The provisional board of directors reported having taken the necessary steps to incorporate the company in accordance with the law, and also that there were about 245 shares subscribed for. The names of the subscribers were: E. L. Gould, J. A. Fisher, A. G. Goodacre, James Simons, R. F. Reid, C. R. H. Starr, P. C. Johnson, Oscar Chase and J. Rufus Starr. An interesting discussion followed relative to the management and requirements of the company, when the meeting adjourned. Subsequently, at a meeting of the directors, C. R. H. Starr was elected President and Dr. J. N. Fuller Vice-President. The directors decided to proceed with the erection and equipment of the factory building forthwith, and appointed several committees to forward the work with a view to being ready for work early in June.

Willow Bank Cemetery.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the trustees and holders of the Willow Bank Cemetery was held on Wednesday afternoon in the rooms of the Wolfville Fire Co. The attendance, as usual, was quite small. It is much to be regretted that so little interest is manifested in the affairs of our cemetery. The managing committee reported that no work had been done on the grounds during the year. The trustees reported the sale of 82 lots, in all—two of which were disposed of during the past year. During the year there were twenty-two interments—making the total number now on hand $65, and $279.77 now due the trustees. The secretary was instructed to proceed at once to collect this amount, either in cash or notes of hand; if necessary by suit in the town court. The retiring trustees, D. B. Shaw, J. W. Colwell and J. W. Walker, were re-elected, as were also the following officers: President—J. W. Colwell. Vice-President—G. V. Rand. Secretary—A. J. Woodman. Treasurer—C. H. Burden. No committee of management was appointed for this year. The committee on the old cemetery was re-appointed and authorized to proceed to sell the old iron fence for the best price they may obtain and from proceeds of same and other funds as they may be able to obtain to replace it by a neat and suitable fence of wood; also to straighten up the stones, and put them in line and make roads and walks as far as practicable. The committee was also instructed to confer with the Town Council as to the advisability of the cemetery being transferred from the control of the trustees of the Willow Bank Cemetery to the control of the council.

Town Council.

The regular monthly meeting of the Town Council was held on Tuesday evening, April 3d. Present, the Mayor, and all the Councillors, with the Recorder. For Dairymen.

DEAR ACADIAN.—The following extract from "The North British Agriculturist," of February last, contains valuable information for Dairymen. It is taken from the report of a lecture delivered by Mr. Alex. Pottie, M. R. C. V. S. I regret that the length of the lecture prevents its being re-published in your paper. "This question" (the perfect temperature) "could not be solved without the thermometer and thus he tested for two winters not constantly but occasionally, and tried the experiments over and over again, beginning with the byre of nineteen cattle at 57 degrees, and working upwards until they came to the largest milking of all, watching that all the cattle were in health, and observing every particular until he arrived at the 63 degrees and that he held was the perfect temperature for a byre in winter. From 63 to 67 or 68 there was no perceptible difference in the quantity of milk, but about 69 degrees it begins to decline. At this higher temperature cattle sweated and the workers in the byres complained of it being too hot; but at 63 degrees he had found few complaints and that degree seemed to him the perfect one. Not only did the cows give the most milk, but she seems to improve rapidly in condition, and this was most conspicuously observed by strangers when the thermometer was in the byre; so that he was quite of opinion this was the point of perfection for fattening as well as milking. It might be said, Can you give us any proof that you have produced any good effect from your knowledge of the point? He nonchalantly said yes and from the following they might form an idea of the value of many of them were sustaining at the present time." One of the instances given by Mr. Pottie was— "The next example was one where the exact quantity of money was stated to a penny in the test. This is a model byre with all the latest improvements, but the standing of the lot taken off for 3 or 4 feet above the cattle in order to give plenty of air space. There were twenty nine cattle in the byre, and the owner in every respect was a model man for a test of this kind. He was scrupulously exact in all his dealings. He had complained to the inspector in the month of November that his cattle were not milking as he thought they should do. The inspector paid several visits and always maintained that the byre was correct and that there must be something amiss with the cattle. He (Mr. Pottie) visited the byre, and found the cattle healthy and in very fair condition. He however, at once said the temperature, in his opinion, was at fault, and if he provided a thermometer he would call and tell him about the amount of money he was losing in the week. He found the temperature varying from 52 to 54 degrees and was told it was easily moved down. He saw at once his loss must be £2 per week if not more, and 63 degrees was the heat at which to keep the byre. He told the farmer to take the exact amount of milk he had been getting, or the money obtained from the milk over an average of three weeks and keep it to a penny. He did so, and after the byre was brought to 63 degrees and kept for ten days near that temperature they tested and found the net profit to be £2 19s. 4d. the next week came to £3 4s. 1d. and continued to vary from £2 18s. 2d. the lowest, to £3 5s. 9d. the highest. Mr. Pottie after referring to other cases said, "All sorts of reasons would be advanced in order to make all the statements erroneous. Recollecting this, he had handed to the secretary letters from those parties whose cases he had cited, in order to place them beyond doubt, and went further and stated that he had never found one individual who put in practice what he had stated but told him he found a wonderful improvement in the supply of milk and condition and health of the cattle in winter. The discussion by the farmers at the close of the lecture confirmed all Mr. Pottie had stated. GEO. THOMSON, Wolfville, Mar. 24th.

New Brunswick HONORED DISSENTIONS IN THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT.

EXTRACT FROM OFFICIAL REPORT IN THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY. (Official Report.) FREDERICTON, March 20.—Dr. Stocton said that as Hon. Mr. Mitchell had referred to rumored resignations, he (Stocton) would ask if there was any truth in the rumor that Hon. Messrs. Treedie and White had resigned. Hon. Mr. Blair assured his friends regarding the vacancies would have to remain un-realized for the present at least. (Laughter.) He would be glad to see all candidates that no vacancies existed for their acceptance. (Laughter.) Hon. Mr. Treedie said he had nothing to add to the statement made by the attorney general. He wished, however, to read the following letter, which he had received, and which to some extent explained the anxiety of some honorable gentlemen opposite. From Silas Alward, Esq., Q. C., D. C. L., M. P. P., St. John, N. B.: I take pleasure in stating that I have received much benefit from the use of Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic, and I consider it a great nerve invigorator. I can conscientiously recommend it to my friends. (Great laughter.) Continuing, Hon. Mr. Treedie said: "In view of this recommendation, whenever I feel a little blue or out of sorts with my friends in the government, I will take Hawker's nerve tonic. (Renewed laughter.) (Official Report.) FREDERICTON, March 21.—Dr. Stewart in rising to a question of privilege stated it would be remembered that he surveyed several yesterday afternoon had facetiously referred to the certificate given by the member from the city of St. John praising the excellent qualities of Hawker's medicine. He thought, however, that the government were not free from censure. In the educational report we find that the superintendent of an institution supported by the government makes special acknowledgment of Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic and Hawker's Tonic. We are not adverse to the government prescribing our medicine in a political sense, but we should utter a protest, against their endorsing advocacy of a medicine for our bodily ailments. He understood, however, that two prominent members of the opposition and one member of the government held stock in the Hawker Medicine Co., and there was, therefore, evidently a deal between some members of the government and the opposition to advertise this company, which is confirmed by the fact that this afternoon every member has a package of this medicine on his desk, which has been gratuitously supplied. Horton Landing Items. All will be pleased to know that we are to have another opportunity of hearing Mrs. Harrison of Sackville, N. B., sing, and no one should miss hearing her this time. Mrs. Harrison has been pronounced by competent persons to be by far the best soprano singer in the Maritime Provinces, while some claim there is none superior in all Canada. She never fails to please. She has spent the winter in New York under one of the best vocal teachers there, so will be able to rejoice and delight more than ever. She will sing in Adams Villa Hall, Friday evening, the 13th inst., and we hope will be greeted with a bumper house. We seldom have a chance of hearing such a celebrated singer as she, so let us show our appreciation of the opportunity by turning out en masse that evening. Mr. A. B. Tait teacher of elocution at the school will give several readings and some instrumental music will also be furnished. No doubt a rich musical treat is in store for us. The accustomed run of spring auctions is now on, and the usual interest is taken in them. There is nothing like an auction to make people buy articles they do not need even if nearly full value is paid. There were two last week and W. C. Hamilton has one advertised for the 10th inst., at the residence of Wm. Tait's. Mr. Harry Curry is now assistant telegraph operator at Wolfville. Mrs. A. McN. Patterson entertained a few of her friends at the Cottage Tuesday evening. Mrs. Capt. Morrison and son, who have spent the winter at Mr. McDonald's left last week for their home in Milton, Queens Co. Mrs. A. B. Curry is visiting in Kentville. Coming to Wolfville. We are indeed pleased to learn that the celebrated Walther musicians are to give a grand concert in College Hall on or near April 20th. Herr and Madame Walther will be assisted by Mr. C. E. W. Dudwell, of Halifax, who is probably the best baritone singer in the maritime provinces; Miss Bertha Harvey, pianist; and other artists of repute. No one can afford to miss hearing these people, who have called forth higher encomiums of praise from both the press and the public, than any other artists who ever came to this country. K. D. C. Pile tone and regulate the bowels. Married. LYMAN—WHEATON.—At Hantsport, Mar. 21st, by Rev. P. S. MacGregor, Ezra Oll Lyman, of Gasperus, to Evangeline Wheaton, of Hantsport.

National Slavery.

ARCHDRACON FABRIL.

How can we free a nation, which will take no trouble to free itself from its deadly incubus?

before the lion of tyranny, and we cover before the foul wolf of the drink traffic.

national conscience, we could point you to mountain loads of it in the Blue books of our Parliament to prove the intolerable and interminable curse caused by the present horrible multiplicity of temptations to drink.

ways be proportioned to the multitude of devils who tempt, and another generation of those, now young and innocent, is growing up to singe itself miserably to death in this accursed flame.

hundreds and thousands of fair human souls perish morally, socially, physically, spiritually, through drink, simply because we are too cowardly and too little Christian to overthrow the vested interests in human ruin!

Oh, when those who are most guilty of this massacre of souls stand before the judgment seat of God, will not the angels of those lost little ones "plod" trumpet-tongued against the deep damnation of their taking off?

"You 'prentice, 'forenoth, 'England free to England sober." Do you ever seek your self what you mean by that immortal nonsense? You prefer England under the shameful servitude of a destroying vice to England under the noble freedom of righteous law.

It is in the sacred name of freedom we plead. In the freedom you desire the odious liberty to singe yourself to death in every flame!

Is your freedom the freedom for the masses to steal, gamble, and cheat, and commit murder, and drink themselves to death? We ask you in God's name, is that devilish bondage the thing which you prefer to beneficent Christian laws?

We do not want mudsill and bludgeoning freedom which hangs her shield on the sign-post of gin-palaces. We want freedom for the right, which means suppression of wrong; liberty for virtue, which means prison bars for crime.

Give us this, and in ten years' time, with the drink fiend buried from the throne, England would be such a paradise that you would hardly recognize her from what she now is.

I might go on to show that this curse and shame of the whole world is destroying the hopes of Christianity, deterring the advance of Christ's kingdom, for which we pretend to cry.

If there be any sincerity in us, if there be any piety in us, if we do care to make England one whit more like Christ would have it be; if we had the least regard for all those perishing souls; if our prayer, "Thy Kingdom come," be anything but hypocrisy, let us, at least combine to drive this curse from the midst of us.

If we do not, our criminal sinfulness cannot be condoned forever, and we shall deserve, and we shall reap the wrath of an offending God.

His Mail is Heavy. Fisheries Inspector Bekwood gets letters from all over the Dominion asking for Particulars about Dodd's Kidney Pills Curing Him of Chronic Rheumatism.

Kingston, April 2.—Enquiry develops the fact that the story of J. H. Brickwood's wonderful cure of his rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills has brought him notoriety.

Mr. Brickwood daily receives letters from all quarters of Canada asking further particulars of his cure.

He invariably answers that after all other remedies failed, Dodd's Kidney Pills restored him to health.

Dodd's was the first kidney remedy in pill form ever offered the public.

Its wonderful success in curing all forms of kidney disease, has led to the introduction of numerous cheap and worthless imitations.

Purchasers, for their own safety should insist on getting Dodd's Kidney Pills. Sold in large boxes; price 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

The small boy appeared at the country school and the teacher, as a preliminary, had a talk with him.

Well, my little man, he said pleasantly, do you know why you came to school?

"Yes, sir," "Tell me why."

"Cause mother said I was in her way all the time at home, and she didn't want the bother of me."

ANOTHER MONO MIRACLE.

How a Bright Little Girl's Life Was Saved.

A Terrible Sufferer from St. Vitus Dance—Could Not Feed Herself and Had to be Closely Watched—A Public Acknowledgment by Her Grateful Parents.

From the Shelburne Economist. Many of the readers of the Economist have doubtless been impressed to a certain extent by the reports of miscellaneous cures effected in various parts of the country by the intelligent use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

and yet in the minds of a few there may linger just the shadow of a doubt regarding the veracity of these reports.

To be candid, the writer of this article, can testify to have had in the past a desire to avoid the miracle column of the papers but now he admits that were the cases anything like that which came under his personal observation a few days ago, the proprietors cannot say too much concerning these pills and their curative powers in the many diseases to which flesh is heir.

One day last week the reporter waited upon Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsay at their home, Lot 31, Con. 1 E. H. S., township of Mono, and listened to the words of grateful acknowledgment which fell from their lips while describing the terrible malady from which one of their children had been suffering, and of the complete restoration to health effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

It appears that during the winter of 1891-2 the child, Fernie Ella May by name, and now aged about seven years, contracted the grippe.

One night during her illness her father heard her scream and ran to her bed. The child appeared to be in a terrible fright and for some time could not be pacified, and although she apparently recovered from the usual symptoms of the grippe, she was never the same in health and strength.

Her nervous system seemed to have become deranged, and as time passed the terrible symptoms of St. Anthony's or St. Vitus' dance were noticed by the parents.

Doctors did all they could for her, but instead of getting better she became worse, until the parents had given up all hope.

She could not feed herself, nor could she take hold of a cup when handed to her. She would frequently fall down when attempting to walk across the floor, and had to be closely watched for fear she might at some time fall on the stove.

Nor could she sit on a chair. It seemed as though she had completely lost control of her limbs. Prior to her illness she had usually assisted in dressing herself—now her parents had to hold her limbs when putting on her clothing.

She could not turn herself in bed and her parents had to turn her. She was perfectly helpless and had almost lost the power of speech.

When she did speak it was with difficulty she was understood, as her tongue was drawn to one side and she had lost control of it.

She had a strange, demented look that forbade the use of reason. The condition of the poor child was pitiable in the extreme.

One day about the end of January last the father sent the case of little Ernest Duke, who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he secured a box from Mr. Brown, druggist, of Shelburne.

They commenced the treatment by giving the child three pills a day—once after each meal—and never varied from that treatment to the end.

Before the first box had been used they noticed that the little girl's appetite was improving, and by the time three boxes were used she had improved to a marvelous extent.

In April last, the child having fully recovered, no more pills were given her. Several months have passed since then and there has been no relapse and no sign of a return of the terrible malady.

The cure seems to be complete and no further medicine has been required.

The parents state emphatically that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved the life of their little girl.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a specific for all diseases arising from an impoverished condition of the blood or a shattered condition of the nervous force, such as St. Vitus' dance, locomotor ataxia, rheumatism, paralysis, sciatica, the after effects of the grippe, loss of appetite, headache, dizziness, chronic cystitis, catarrhs, etc.

They are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to the female system, correcting irregularities, suppressions and all forms of female weakness, building anew the blood and restoring the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks.

In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of any nature. These pills are not a purgative medicine. They contain only life-giving properties, and nothing that could injure the most delicate system.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper (printed in red ink.) Bear in mind that they are never sold in bulk or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided.

Ask your dealers for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and refuse all imitations and substitutes.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

The price at which these pills are sold make a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

The Grodër Dyspepsia Cure Co.

GENTLEMEN—I am 71 years of age. Have been afflicted with sick headache most all my life, which developed into Dyspepsia of a mild type, about twenty years ago, and has continued to grow worse until during the past seven or eight years I have not been able to take a drink of cold water or milk, as they would produce severe pains and sometimes vomiting. I have been subject to severe pains in the chest, with dizziness, which have been more frequent during the past three or four years. My month was filled up in the morning accompanied with bad breath. My case was yearly growing worse.

During this long period I have tried many popular medicines, as well as prescriptions from the regular medical practitioners, but without producing any improvement.

In the fall of '92 I concluded to try a bottle or two of your medicine and such were its effects that I continued it until now I can drink cold water or milk without any inconvenience. These things which are always and my month is as sweet as a baby's. In short your medicine has cured me and I am sure that all Dyspepsias can be cured by its use.
