The two passed as brother and sister; under the names of Harry and Lily

Such is the information given by the Toronto police authorities to the Hamilton police last night, by telephone. This morning Detective Campbell went to Toronto to bring Howarth to this city to answer to a charge of abduction. There is quite a romance in the case

The discovery of Howarth and the girl was due to a clue afforded by a big St Bernard dog. The police found the dog and had no difficulty in locating the pair after that.

On August 18 Ethel Manning came Swan. She was described as a rather de-licate but refined girl, past 13 years, but with the appearance of a young woman of 17 or 18. From Paris came her pas-(Continued on Page 5.)

Happy and light of heart in their love they came to England. A surprise was in store for them there that was another jewel in store for them there that was another jewel in their casket of joys.

"And now for some news," said the squire, looking from one to the other of his children, as he called them, from his place at the head of the table.

Edinburgh, Sept. 6.—The Scotsman says as regards internal affairs of the Hydro-Electric Co., it is undeniable that many Canadain power companies have incurred the displeasure of certain important financial interests in this country owing to the paucity of information contained in their annual accounts where entries are made in such a way as to convey very little meaning to the average shareholder.

O Scotia: O Scotia:
What pen could overpraise,
Thy bonnis blue-eyed maidens,
Wife all their winning ways?
Thy witching Annie Lauries
Have vanquished many a heart!
Tender, and true, and loving, too,
And void of guile or art,
Thy daughters, dear old Scotland
Are sweet beyond compare!
I say it, for I know it true,
Though I was never there.

HARRIMAN.

Dr. Lyle Says He is Suffering From "Acute Indigestion."

Newspaper Men Again Flocking to the Neighborhood.

Arden, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The alarming rumors regarding the condition of Edward H. Harriman have been revived following his relapse of Sunday night. From the best information obtainable to-day, however, it is believed that the attack that caused a hurry call for a New York nurse and probably two nurses, one for day and one for night, was a temporary sickness, caused a sudden change of temperature or an indisden change of temperature or an indis-cretion in diet which the sick man in his weakened condition was unable to throw off. Dr. W. G. Lyle, Mr. Harrithrow off. Dr. W. G. Lyle, Mr. Harriman's private physician, calls the attack "acute indigestion."

In his statement last night he said his patient was better. One result of the news has been a swift reassembling of the newspaper representatives whose presence a week ago at every avenue leading to the Harriman house finally caused the sick man himself to issue a statement regarding his condition, and statement regarding his condition, and statement regarding his condition, and promise that if the press of the country would withdraw its representatives he would see that it was informed of any subsequent crisis in his condition. For this reason an effort is being made to secure daily bulletins from Dr. Lyle.

While Mr.Harriman's last attack in itself may not be serious, there may be grave consequences in the case of a man as weak as Mr. Harriman.

Talk of an operation has been revived, but there is nothing definite to support such a rumor. It has been pretty definitely established that for a week prior to this last attack Mr. Harriman's condition was reassuring. It was learned tohe work about his place, and in his trot ting horses. Van Renssalaer Weston, who looks aft last visit occurred on Sunday, and upon leaving he told several persons that Mr. Harriman seemed better. This was before the ill-turn of Sunday night. This came about midnight. The sudden flashcame about midnight. The sudden flashing of lights on the tower hill told the people in the valley of the activitly that reigned on the hill. Men were sent to turn on the electricity at the plant at the foot of the incline railway. The telephone operator at Arden was called out of bed and messages were sent to New York for nurses and doctors who were brought to Arden in a hurry in the morning.

FATHER DIED FROM SHOCK.

Trace of Poison to Cause Willoughby's Death. Peterboro, Sept. 7.—The jury in the Willoughby inquest at Norwood to-day brought in a verdict of accidental shooting in connection with the death of Stella Willoughby. In the opinion of the jury her father, Thomas Willoughby, died as a result of the shock caused by the shooting of his daughter. Professor Ellis, the Provincial analyst, reported no trace of poison in any of the organs.

FOREST RESERVES.

Paper Read Before Capadian Forestry Association at Regina.

Prof. A. H. D. Ross, M. A., M. F., of he University of Toronto, in his paper dealt with the Dominion forest reserves of Canada established 21 forest reserves Six are in Manitoba, four in Saskatchewan, three in Alberta and eight in the strip forty miles wide in British Columbia, known as the railway belt. These areas were set aside (1) To provide lumber, fuel, ties, poles and other forest products required for the settlement of the country and the development of its resources; (2) To protect the headwaters of streams and regulate the flow of water in them for irrigation, transportation and industrial purposes; (3) To afford a natural shelter for the various kinds of birds, fish and game.

These reserves embrace areas as follows: Manitoba, 3,575, square miles; Saskatchewan, 740; Alberta, 185; British Columbia, 890. Total 5,391 square miles. It would require a special act of Parliament to withdraw any of the land from these reserves for settlement or other purposes, so that here is a great opportunity for the Government to protect and improve this property. Six are in Manitoba, four in Saskatche

In the three prairie Provinces the reserves are intended to supply homesteaders with building material, fencing and to so manage the reserves as to se-continuous crops of timber from a. Other nations have been able to and to so manage the reserves as to secure continuous crops of timber from them. Other nations have been able to not only secure but actually to improve both the quantity and quality of the crop—so why not Canada? So far the great difficulty has been to secure men with the fuecessary technical training and administrative ability—to take charge of the work. In the United States the technically trained men are snapsed up by the federal and State Governments and the lumber and pulp companies as soon as they graduate. With the recently established forest schools at the University of Toronto and the University of New Brunswick, it is hoped that men will soon be stallable for this work.

Upon Mr. R. H. Campbell, superintendent of forestry, Ottawa, falls the heavy responsibility of administering the Dominion forest reserves. Each summer he spends considerable time in the field, studying the needs of the localities in which each preserve is situated, familiarizing himself with the actual condition of the reserve itself and studying low best to protect and improve it. In this work he is ably assisted by Inspector Knetchel and assistant inspectors Dickson and MacMillan, graduates of the Cornell, Michigan and Yale Forest Schools respectively.

Mr. Ross then took up in detail the different reserves in the three provinces, showing the location, size and baracter of each, and mentioning the a million dollars for twenty townships. Would it not be better to reserve the timber land now existing and spend the money in increasing the planting which nature has done?

Mr. Ross calls attention to the watershed known as the Eastern Slope of the Rockies. This contains 8,244 square miles, most of which is wholly unsuited for agriculture. He quoted from a report of Inspector MacMillan, who asks if common lumber costs $22 per M. in the prairies now with a million population, what will it cost when there is a population of ten million, when most of the forest land will have been cut and burned over? The coal mining industry of Alberta will require forty-five billion feet of mine props, the product of nine million acres for sixty years. This sownothing of railways, settlers and other requirements. These facts along with the need of irrigation shows the need for turning the Eastern Slope into a forcest reserve before it was too late. for turning the Eastern Slope into a forest reserve before it was too late.

WHITNEY'S COERCION

How He Buncoed the Power Municipalities.

(Seaforth Expositor.)

This commission formed a circuit in which they agreed to furnish certain municipalities with electrical power, serves are intended to supply homesteaders with building material, fencing and fuel, rather than to furnish wood for the lumber trade. In these three Provinces there is now a population of almost a million, and it will not be many years before it reaches ten millions. In the meantime the consumption of wood for building and industrial purposes will be enormous, and will require all the lumber now growing on the reserves between Lake Winnipeg and the Rockies. There is not nearly enough timber land reserved to supply the needs of this great region. The obvious thing to do is to create more reserves and project not merely the mature timber but also more merely the mature timber but also more recovered with dollar bills, he would be judged insane who would let a fire get started amongst them, yet this is the very kind of thing that is going on in the case of young tree growth. In Europe they say, 'It is only Turks and Americans (including Canadians) who burn the forest,' In the case of the Dominion forest reserves, however, it is the policy of the forestry branch of the Department of the Interior to do everything in its power to protect the timber from fire, to lessen the amount of waste incident to lumbering operations, to stop timber theiring, and to so manage the reserves as to send the amount of waste incident to lumbering operations, to stop timber theiring, and to so manage the reserves as to send the money for the proposed by based upon the by-laws in accordance with the amended agreement sould be submitted for the votes of the reaches of the Dominion forest reserves, however, it is to the policy of the forestry branch of the Department of the Interior to do everything in its power to protect the timber from fire, to lessen the amount of waste incident to lumbering operations, to stop timber theiring, and to so manage the reserves as to send the money of the whole the money of the propose of the whole the money of power at a fixed price involving the municipalities were asked to sign the municipalities to ta providing the Councils should have by step in the dark and bind themselves to step in the dark and bind themselves to take specified quantities of power at such prices as the commission might see fit to impose. By this agreement the municipalities were assuming responsibility of the whole burden, sand the commission or Government— while having all the say—assumed none of the responsibility. Moreover, it was also ascertained that as the law stood that are did the numicipal convoits would not be legal or binding unless sanctioned by the ratepayers by means of another by-law. The commission, therefore, had this difficulty before them: They must have amended by-laws submitted to and carried by the ratepayers of the municipalities interacted or they must seeme largeleting.

PEACEFUL PROGRESS.

Few observant persons can have fail ed to be struck with the eagerness displayed in some quarters to represent progress in aerial navigation as a solely military gain. The effort has been great to exclude all peaceful profit from the consideration of the achieve-ments of the Wrights, Beriot, Zeppelin and the rest of the so-called "aviators." Perhaps it was because of the temporary success of the war alarmists who had for the moment worked timorous Britons into a panic of lear of invasion. Perhaps the same interests sought to utilize the "aviation" achievements to the same end. Whatever the object, it will fail. The airship will probably be utilized in war; that was to be expected; but greater by far will be its peaceful use, if it becomes successful.

Speaking of this matter the Wall Street Journal says: "The Dreadnought hysteria is dying down. It was never so serious a matter as the deeply interested military caste would have us believe. It is true that Dreadnoughts are being built, but it is also true that the world is taking a deeper and wider interest in the new possibilities opened up by the Lusitania or the Mauretania.' Of these great steamers it says: Here are two vessels which can sail rings round any battleship constructed in the history of navies, and they exist for the single peaceful purpose of drawing civilized nations closer together. In the same way the absurdly exaggerated stories of the airship scare in Great Britain have ceased to amuse or interest the public. There was never any panic outside of certain newspaper columns. When the channel was finally crossed in a flymachine, the Frenchman who achiev ed that notable feat was received with generous enthusiasm by the crowds in the London streets; while the most per tinent comment was Punch's graceful alighting on the white cliffs of Albion. The military party in Germany, being incapable of learning, is regarding the Zeppelin dirigible balloon merely from the point of view of a weapon of war. The better and more sober Germany, however, is taking the truer view of the airship's peaceful possibilities. The first soldiers, but to convey peaceful tourists from one point to another. It is a very hopeful sign, and reassures one's faith in human nature at a time when the loud-voiced bragging of the mischiefmaker tends to drown the counsels of those who are really doing something to help the world along. The good sense over those whose idea of glory is the sacrificing of their fellow men to the Il-will or ambition of braggart war

CIVIL RIGHTS ATTACKED.

The Montreal Gazette, which has in question adopted a very commendable to be just and to show proper consideration for those who have, depending upon the good faith of the Government, made investments for the service of the people, reviews at some length the situation in Ontario as it is affected by Whitney's departures. It very truly has been difficult to get the case fairly stated to the public of that imported aeroplanes must pay disallow the legislation in question. This establish aerial Custom houses? difficulty has been due to something like a conspiracy on the part of the Toronto press and those papers in other tain influences. These facts account for the presentation of the matter in a pamphlet entitled "Provincial Powers," his own and the speculator's share of the being a reprint of articles appearing in using public money, the proceeds of terprises of a legitimate character, with the deliberate purpose of ruining them. charge of her friends. Our contemporary says:

In practically every city and town in which the Ontario, Hydro-Electric Commission proposes to operate, men of enterprise had established electric power enterprise had established electric power and light plants. The situation was peculiar. In Great Britain, when it was decided that the telegraphs should be made a state service, Parliament did not destroy the value of existing lines be creating a new system; it bought at a fair price the property which represented the energy and capital of a number of private individuals. The provinces of Manitala, Saksatchewan and Alberta. of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, when they resolved to take over the when they resolved to take over the telephone lines within their bounds, acted in like manner. The Ontario Legislature created a commission, gave it the use of the credit of the province for the purpose of building transmission lines over ground already occupied and authorized the municipalities to become purchasers and vendors as well as users of power, in many cases in fields too limited for more than one service to maintain itself. The thing amounted in fact to the destruction of the earning fact to the destruction of the earning power, and, therefore, of the value, of legally invested private capital. This is the narrow phase of the case conis the narrow phase of the case con-cerning the province and its own neople, and for which, as far as it injured either private or public credit, the pro-vince would suffer alone.

The Dominion interest is affected.

however, by the breach of faith toward British and foreign investors in this country of which Whitney was guilty when he closed the courts against actions brought to obtain justice. To quote the Gazette:

lishes a precedent which strikes at the very foundation of the rights of the person. It substitutes for the judgment of the courts constituted for dealing with issues between man and man under the law, the idea of the majority of the Legislature as to what these rights are or should be, or what it is convenient or politically profitable to assert they should be. Such enactment, by its very terms, may open the way to that denial of justice which was supposed to be made forever impossible in the British realm by the contract of the Great Charter. It could be readily extended to deprive a man of his property otherwise than by due process of law. It is not a justification of such law-making to say that it is within the power of the organization which enacted it. It is a presumption that in the exercise of their functions public and representative law-making and administrative bodies shall exercise their authority with regard for the great principles that protect the citizen in his person and his property. * If there had been a right public opinion in Ontario an act contravening a great principle of law, quite as much as did the abandoned Lloyd-George proposals. principle of law, quite as much as di-the abandoned Lloyd-George proposals would never have gone on the statut

The Gazette at some length reviews the course of past Governments on dis allowance, pointing out that had Whit ney's act come under review of Conser vative Administrations in the Dominion would probably have been speedily dealt with. It entertains some doubts as to the present Government invoking the power of disallowance to protect the private citizen against Whitney' outrage. fect of Whitney's denial of privat rights, and its effect upon the public redit of the Dominion, will be the decid ing influence in determining the Government to act. However, the Gazette con cludes that there is no question "that the discussion of the issues raised, narrow as it has been, has been productive of good, and that if again a Legislature is invited to disregard the great prin iples of English law and take away the main defence of personal liberty and property rights-the appeal to the ourts-there will be strong and general bjection and that resort to reactionary methods will meet a check." legislation will remain on the Ontario picture of France as a winged victory, statute books as a blasting disgrace to

If people have not kings and queens and that sort of thing they will find some sort of man to worship and chronicle. Judging by the amount of space devoted in the press of the United States to Mr. E. H. Harriman's health and movements, that gentleman's personality is as important to the republic as that of any European potentate to the nation over which he reigns. He has been away consulting remowned He has been away consulting renowned physicians in Vienna and on his return physicians in Vienna and on its return a few days ago was pronounced a sick man by the reporters who thronged nim. His story is easily told and its moral is obvious. Beginning life in poverty, he gradually rose to be not one of the greatest but the greatest power in the railway and coast transportation business in the United States. Endowed with masterful cenius for organization, worked on a basis of capital amountin to many billions. His success was far beyond the wildest dreams of romance. When asked if he was going to Europe to raise $100,000,000, he repaied: "Why should I? I could get that amount, if I wanted it, in five minutes, right, here in New York." In building up his huge system, Mr. Harriman neglected the most important of its parts Possessed of a magnificent physical constitution, he never spared himself. Fattigue was unknown to him. Every fibre of his being was exerted to the utmost, and, so absorbed was he in the gigantic operations he was carrying on, that he paid small attention to his own health. But the human body has limits to its endurance, and, like one of his own locomotives, time, wear and tear at last began to tell upon him. One day the conviction was forced upon him that he had overworked himself and would either have to let up and seek rest, or suffer a breakdown. In piling up capital, adding railways to railways, supplementing these with steamships, and projecting still grander extensions of his system, he dissipated largely the capital of his abnormally strong physical constitution. Hence his trip to Vienna, where he was told by the famous specialists that he must cither cease active participation in business affairs or suffer a complete physical collapse. Other conditions were to take naked sunbaths and chumpagne baths, cat nourishing food every two hours and rest continually. The last prescription was the most difficult of all to a man whose habits were fixed, and whose brain refused to keep quiet. And so he returns home a sick man, to ponder, if the second of the conditions were to take maked sunbaths as decented and whose brain refused to keep quiet. The successful application of this mover to the smelting of ore would be of industrial importance to a great many countries. The practicability of smelting iron by electricity was escablished by experiments carried on under Mr. Haanel's direction at Sault Ste. Magie in 1905-6. The ores used were magnetic, comparatively high in sulphur, but free from manganese, and charroll swas used as the reducing agent. The interess in the result was scientific, perhaps, were than commercial. ELECTRIC SMELTING FOR IRON. (Montreal Gazette.) The Department of Mines at Ottawa has issued a report by Mr. Eugen Haanel, the director, into the construc-tion and working of the electric shaffurnace for smelting iron at Domnar vet, Sweden. Sweden, like a good man parts of Canada, has much water powe form. Professor Von Odelstierna, of Stockholm, made a comparison of the cost of producing pig iron in the charcoal blast furmace and the electric shaft furmace, under conditions as they exist in Sweden, using ore containing about 60 per cent, of metallic iron and charcoal containing 83 per cent, or carbon. A charcoal blast furnace in Sweden produces from 8,000 to 10,000 short, tons of pig iron a year. The advantage was $1.54 a ton in favor of the electric furnace, the figures being $10.10 for the charcoal blast and $8.56 for the electric. The saving was all in the amount of clarcoal used, the quantity being 0,95 of a ton in the one case and 0.27 of a ton in the other. The situation as thus indicated is at least encouraging for the electric furnace, and the results of its further working may be awaited in the expectation that the efforts of the inventors will further justify their claims. The recent reports on the iron deposits of eastern Canada indicate that there are districts where the establishment of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumerical vaccticability and the convention of the enumerical vaccticability and the convention of the enumerical vaccticability of electric than the convention of the enumeric

OLD HAMILTON BOY

The young man referred to in the following clipping from to-day's Toronto as making his way in the west is Mr. Alex. Aiken, formerly of this city. He is editor and proprietor of the Saskatoon Phoenix. His Hamilton friends will be glad to hear of his success.

These young journalists of the West have a place in their communities that they may well be proud of, and that they should strive by the most faithful they should strive by the most faithful service to maintain. To the newspaper man in the East who in the process of years-climbs slowly-and painfully up to a salary of two or three thousand dollars their careers seem meteoric. Here are two by way of example. Four years ago a reporter of the Globe, with a very modest salary, went West to write some corn letters, saw a change to secure as well and the second of the sketch as a comedy hit. Silbons ago a reporter of the Globe, with a very modest salary, went West to write some corn letters, saw a change to secure as modest salary, went West to write some dren for the balance of the week. It is crop letters, saw a chance to secure a little weekly in a Saskatchewan town little weekly in a Saskatchewan town, and grasped at it. He was practically without capital other than brains and pluck. To-day he controls a fine daily, with an up-to-date office plant, has influence in a fast-growing district, a beautiful house, and, to crown all, a charming wife and a healthy baby. It is possible that the last two items might have been his in Toronto, but before he could have secured the others his face would have been care-lined and his hair gree.

BENNETT'S THEATRE.

As a portrayer of Irish character it is doubtful if the vaudeville stage has a cleverer comedienne than Gracie Emmett, who is the topliner on the Bennett bill this week, in her amusing little faree, "Mrs. Murphy's Second Husband." The average theatre-goer, tired of grotesque carleatures, will find something refreshingly original and charming in the work of Miss Emmett. The role she appears in affords unlimited scope for fun-making and in her clever characterization of the determined Irish woman who invests in a second husband on business principles she extracts all the haughter possible out of the part, without overdoing it. Of course the act is for laughing purposes only, and there is little or no plot, but it bristles with bright, crisp comedy and quick action. cible detention for the white slave traffic, and accidental drowning were the three most talked of.

When it became a pretty well established fact that she had gone to Toronto the police there were given a full description, and were told about one, Harry Howarth, who some months ago had boarded with the Mannings in Paris. To find Howarth was what puzzled the Toronto detectives. They knew that when he left Paris he took with him a large St. Bernard dog. To trace the dog was to find Howarth, and they believed, the girl. It proved to be so. Howarth, who, it is believed, is well connected in England, was, until a few months ago, employed in Paris, Out., and boarded with Mrs. Manning on Elm street. The young man grew very friendly with Mrs. Manning's little daughter, and in June last matters reached such a point that he was asked to leave the house. Howarth at that time apparently made up his mind to some en that the was asked to leave the house. Howarth at that time apparently made up his mind to sconer or later take the girl away-from her home. Telling Mrs. Manning that he was going back to England he left Paris, taking with him a big St. Bernard dog of which he was particularly fond. During the next month or two letters were received from him dated and nextuarked at a city in him dated and postmarked at a city in England. As was afterwards discovered, Howarth was living in Toronto at the time these letters were sent. It was but a short time after the girl's disappearance that the relatives began to suspect Howarth. A brother of Ethel brought several photographs of him to this city and showed them to people who had seen Ethel and a man around the old crematory. They at once identified him. Last Saturday this brother went to Toronto, showed photographs of Howarth and his dog to Inspector Duncan and asked his assistance in finding either man or dog. Yesterday morning Inspector Duncan, looking over the photos of Howarth and his dog, had a bright idea, and for the next few hours one of the clerks of the depart-It was but a short time after the ment pored over the records of the li-cense office. The result was that a re-cord was found showing a license to have been issued on June 88_/to R. A. Howarth, of 11 Ann street. Detectives Guthrie and Armstrong were sent up to that address. They found that a man answering to the description of How-arth had been there, but had moved to Sherbourne street. With nothing more than this to work on the two officers started down the lanes in the rear. Some started down the lanes in the rear. Some distance down they came upon a num-ber of small boys. The people in the house say that they believed the two to be brother and sister, but one of the daughters of the landlady told Inspector Duncan that Ethel had mentioned something to her about getting married to the man and she told her that she was a little young to run away from home. They had only been at the house about a week, and as the man worked nights, they saw but little of him.

All Accept the Statement That He Reached the Pole.

Many Discredit Cook's Story-Makes Poor Showing.

Peary Captained and Crewed by Newfoundlanders.

London, Sept. 7.—Philip Gibbs sends the following to the Daily Chronicle from Copenhagen: Dr. Cook's lecture to-night before the King and a great audience proces conclusively that claim to have reached the North Pole claim to have reached the North Pole belongs to the realm of fairy tales. It was all so very quick. In his own phrase, he climbed the ladder of latitude with lightning rapidity, although on the downward journey he beat about the ice faces in a bewildered way and put up for months in winter quarters in spite of the daily risk of starvation, for his provisions—world-be exhausted months before but or convenient miracles.

Magie bears and birds appeared on the ice, and he was able to shoot them with slings. In the same way a magic boat appeared. We have never heard of that boat before. His way back was like the delirious dreams of an Arctic explorer zigzagging and returning constantly upon his own path. The great audience, anxious to hear about the North Pole, remained path. The great audience, anxious to hear about the North Pole, remained there exactly two minutes on this personally conducted tour and knew little more than what the map and the geography primers taught them as children, but they were solaced with Cook's last words that if they desired further knowledge they would be able to buy his book, which would be published shortly.

There were many awkward pauses, and Cook stumbled badly over his figures. His face was flushed, his forehead beaded with perspiration, and he had the grim look of a man determined to be believed as he drove the Big Nail home with ungonvincing, flashy phrases. "I am in a position to state that the Danish Geographical Society in limiting his lecture to them to an hour have asked Cook to dilate especially on his travels near the Pole and what the Eskimos said and did on that April day. But he did not do this to-night."

FROM ROYAL GEOGRAPHICAL SOCI.

New York, Sept. 7.—The Royal Geo-graphical Society of Great Britain has enbled its congratulations to Command-er Peary and to the American Geographical Society. The telegram cabled its congratulations to Commander Peary and to the American Geographical Society. The telegram was signed by the President of the Society. It expressed the Society's delight at hearing of the explorer's safe return, and extended warmest congratulations. A message was also sent to fir. Bridgeman, of the Peary Arctic Clus, inviting Commande's Peary to letture before the Royal Geographical Society. The Society awarded Commande, Peary its Royal Medal some years ago, so that the nature of the new special award has yet to be determined.

DISCREDIT DR. COOK'S STORY.
Indian Harbor, Labrador, Sept. 6.— (Via Sydney and St. John's, Nfld.)—According to Peary's crew, Commander Peary reached the Pole April 6, 1909, or five months ago, and was the first to reach there. He and his party discredit Dr. Cook's story entirely. They say he had no equipment for such an undertaking and he did not get near the Pole. They say he went west of all the recent explorers in order to secure a cection of the Arctic Ocean where his observations could not be checked by those of previous rivals.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 7.—Captain Robert Bartlett, who accompanied Commander Peary to the north, in charge of the Roosevelt, has sent a wireless message to his mother at Brigns, stating that all were well and that the expedition was successful.

Among the crew of the Roosevelt are the following Newfoundlanders:

Eagle's Island, the Peary summer estate. All day long she was the recipient of a steady stream of telegrams and letters of congratulation. Up to this evening Mrs. Peary had received no further message from her husband than that which came yesterday, in which he said his expedition has been crowned with success. She was anxiously expecting a second message in which the explorer would tell her his wishes regarding her meeting him. Mrs. Peary spent part of the day making preparations to start for Sydney, N. S., immediately on receipt of further direct advices. receipt of further direct advices.

COOK GETS A MEDAL.

COOK GETS A MEDAL.

Copenhagen, Sept. 7.—One of the most remarkable results of Commodore Peary's rivalry with Dr. Cook for the discovery of the Pole is that Dr. Cook's profits from the enterprise are likely to be largely increased. He received to-day offers for his books and lectures at twice the figures previously tendered. The King and Queen, Prince and Princess George of Greece, and many members of the Royal family, together with a large gathering of the most prominent people in Copenhagen, this evening witnessed the presentation to Dr. Cook of a gold medal by the Crown Prince, and listened to the explorer's story. SHOWERS OF CONGRATULATIONS. South Harpswell, Maine, Sept. 7.—In the absence of Commander Peary the task of bearing the honors attained by the explorer, on his quest for the Pole fell upon his wife, who has been spending the summer at Eagle's Island, the Peary summer estate. All day long she was the recipion, which was surmounted by the Stars and Stripes, Dr. Cook outlined his program and at Copenhagen showed the way the Danes appreciated his wonderful exploit. The Prince then presented to him the medal of the Geographica Society. Dr. Cook told his story coolly and without hesitation. "It is too early, said the explorer, "to give the general reasons for the expedition. If am bound to acknowledge that success would not have been possible without the less fortunate forerunners. SHIPPED BY NEW CONCERN.

An Epoch In the Grimsby District Fruit Trade.

Two Cars Sent to Winnipeg Under a New System

With Men at Each End to Look After Fruit.

Beamsville, Sept. 8.—(Special.)—A rea live epoch in the capricious history of Niagara peninsula fruit trade was made to-day, when a car of fruit was loaded at Grimsby Park for Winnipeg. In the neighborhood of 1,600 baskets were carefully stowed away, consisting of peaches pears, plums, apples and tomatoes. Another shipment goes at the same time from Port Dalhousie.

These shipments are going west under orders and directions from the newly-formed Ontario & Western Co-oper ative Company, and Mr. Berry, the organizer, who has been in the district the last two months, has left for the western metropolis to be on hand when the cars arrive next Monday. Mr. Jas. Marlowellooked after the loading of the first car at the Park, but Mr. S. A. Bomhâm will do the work hereafter and for the balance of the season.

It is the intention of the company to send along cars every week from both ends of the peninsula, and arrangements have been made with the C. P. R. by which a competent man will be sent to look after the loading.

While these are not by any means the first large shipments of fruit west, they are the first to be sent under a man-at-each-end system; who has an equal interest with the growers or shareholders in the disposal of the fruit, and which will no doubt in this way leave a good margin of profit to the shippers. Montrose, Col., Sept. 7 .- Rebreaking of the Trout Lake dam on Sunday, resulting in damage along the San Miguel River valley estimated at betyeen $500,000 and $750,000. Saw Pit, a little mining hamlet, is said to have been washed away by the 18-foot wall of water. The town of Placerville, it is feared, was seria direct line of the flood. No loss of life is reported, as, at the first signs of the dam weakening, horsemen were sent through the valley to warn the residents. Crops in the lower valley were seriously damaged.

However, they soon caught the child and took her out of harm's way. A remarkable instance of the affair is that but a few moments before the lion had tried to break through the heavy bars of his cage in an effort to reach another beast with which he had a quarrel.

COMING BACK TO HAMILTON.

A. M. Robson Was Honored Upon Leaving Norval.

Presentations to Himself and His Son Harold.

Will Manage the Hamilton Milling Company's Business.

Mr. A. M. Robson, a former popular Hamilton man, who for the past eleven years has been a resident of Norval, has returned to accept the position of manager of the Hamilton Milling Company A few nights ago the employees of the Norval Mill, with some friends, met at Mr. Robson's home and presented him with an easy chair and arold with a watch fob, accompanied with the following address:

To Mr. A. M. Robson and son Harold,

"Learning that you are about to leave us we, your co-laborers, have come to offer you our tokens of good-will. It is nearly a dozen years since you began your labors here. The work was not new to you, but you were new to us, and we can all truthfully say we have learned to know you in a manner we shall not soon forget. We have not all been privileged with so long a record, but we can all look back with pleasure on the time we have been associated to on the time we have been associated together, while not at the same work, still with the same end in view. Our duties have brought their difficulties and trial, but out of all these there has grown a closer affection and a warmer friendship, which will not soon be forgotten. Hárold has grown up as a boy in our midst, and to him we say God speed in his new sphere of increased labor and usefulness. We ask you to accept this chair and this watch fob. May they be a comfort and delight and may they bring you the joy of duty well done and kind remembrances of your sojourn in Norval.

Corval.

Signed on behalf of the employees,
James Fiddler,
Jacob Morgasson,
Hubert Hunter,
William Maunders.

In a brief reply Mr. Robson said: "I greatly appreciate your address and presentation, seeing that it is given by the entire staff. The eleven years of my service have been most pleasant. During those years I had been absent from duty very little. This/year is almost a blank to me on account of the severe illness which I have passed through, but I am thankful to say I am feeling better and able to continue my work daily without much fatigue. My connection with the firm has never been marred by a single unpleasant incident. We had always worked harmoniously. It is hard to sever the tie which has united us for so long, and I wish to convey to you our appreciation of your uniform interest in our welfare."

The Hamilton Milling Company, which Mr. Robson will manage, has Bennett Bros. old stand at the corner of Market and Park streets. New machinery is being installed, and Mr. Robson hopes to have the mill in active operation very shortly. He will manufacture all kinds of shorts, cereals, etc., and will put a flour on the market that will meet with popular favor. Mr. Robson is a man of wide experience, a thorough gentleman, and will make a success of the business in this city. He is a brother of Mr. E. H. Robson, of Thos. Myles' Sons. In a brief reply Mr. Robson said: "

DETROIT MYSTERY.

Body Found in Sack Identified as That of Mabel Millman.

Detroit, Sept. 7.—The identity of the weman's body found in Ecorse Creek here yesterday, with the head and legs cut off, was fixed to-day by the discovery of a bag containing the missing head and limbs at a point not far distant from where the bloody torso was found. After the remains had been made presentable at the county morgue here, they were identified as those of Miss Mabel Millman, aged twenty years, who lived in Ann Arbor, and who had come to Detroit a week ago to visit Miss Martha Henning, a close friend, residing on Cass avenue. Miss Henning could not or would not tell the police very much about the matter other than that Miss Millman admitted to her having had a quarrel with her lover, whose name she did not mention, in Ann Arbor.

The physicians in charge of the post-mortem to-day gave it as their opinion that Miss Millman had been operated upon; but that the operators, fearing failure, had suddenly decided to kill their patient while she was yet upon the operating table. While this, of course, is a purely hypothetical theory, the detectives are inclined to give it considerable credence on account of the shocking manner in which the unfortunate girl's body was mutilated when the limbs were amputated. No arrests have yet been made. The case has caused a great sensation throughout the State. Detroit, Sept. 7 .- The identity of Men of Upknown Origin Picked Up by Chinese Junk.

Vancouver, Sept. 7.—The steamer Empress of Japan brings a terrible tale of the Chinese seas. A Chinese junk picked up a dugout canoe off Saddle Islands, at the mouth of the Yangtse River, containing three men in the last stages of exhaustion, and two bodies half eaten. The junk turned over the castaways to the pilot boat, which took the Empress into Shanghai, where it was found not one spoke any language that could be understood or located. Evidently they are natives of a Pacific island. The junk had cast the canoe adrift, or else it might have been possible to tell by the wood where it came from. The men must have drifted hundreds or miles without food. The castaways were cared for at the hospital when the Empress left. Their recovery was doubtful. tale of the Chinese seas. A Chinese junk

German Plea For an Understanding With Great Britain.

Grave Blunder Not to Accept Britain's Outstretched Hand.

London, Sept. 6 .- A strong appeal for naval understanding with Britain and a forecast of still heavier German naval estimates two years hence are contained in an article in to-day's Tageblatt by Dr. Johannes Leonhart, a prominent Radical member of the Reichstag. Dr. Leonhart says: "Prince Buelow

"The majority of the German Reichstag wants a fleet commensurate with Germany's position as a great power, but the German nation would joyfully greet the day when it would be possible to reduce the cost of armaments, which can hardly be borne any longer. The prince or the statesman who can attain this object will reap the richest laurels. "With the utmost difficulty the Government has just succeeded in passing a bill providing for £25,000,000 of new taxes. Our navy already next year will cost £25,000,000. ASKING FOR MONEY.

More Charges Against Montreal Aldermen.

Montreal, Sept. 7.-More graft was revealed at to-day's session Royal Commission. As the work the commission is nearing an end the tales told before it are becoming worse. Accusations of a most serious character were levelled against Ald. Emery Lesperance. Mr. Joseph Jacob, contractor, swore that Ald. Lesperance had demanded $1,000 to procure him the contract for building a stable for the incineration department. He had come down to $600, but Mr. Jacob the contract for building a stable for the incineration department. He had come down to $600, but Mr. Jacob got the contract without him. Then Mr. Jacob swore Ald. Lesperance had made trouble for him in carrying out his contract. His son, Rodolphe Jacob, testified that Lesperance had demanded $300 from him and had threatened him. Ald. Lesperance was quoted as saying: "Don't give the money to Mederic Martin. He would keep it all."

The Messrs. Jacob also swore that Ald. Lesperance demanded that they subscribe to Ald. Mederic Martin's election fund. Two hundred dollars in cash was then carried to Ald. Martin, who refused it; his wife, however, took the money.

Sir James has intimated that he is carrying out the wishes of "the people." To what people does he refer? Are not the opponents of his party a part of "the people"? Are not those municipalities which did not ask for a validating statute also composed of "people"? Are the Stock Exchange of Montreal, the Board of Trade of Torouto, all the signatories of the many petitions for the disallowance of the validating statute, are Bystander, and Professor Dicey and the editor of the Canada Law Journal, and your own able correspondent Layman — are all these absolutely negligible people? To imply that they are is not only impolitic, it is impertinent; to insinuate that they are bought is insulting. ously our Frime Minister is showing English financiers and investors of what calibre, of what temper our Provincial Legislators are made. Instead of bolstering up Canada's credit in English markets, he is demolishing it.

In England people ask simply, "Is it just or unjust?" Here, apparently, "the people" ask "Against whom is the injustice done?" And if it is done against a corporation, which has incurred "the people's abloquy, the injustice is not only condoned, it is applauded. A Prime Minister who shapes his policy according to that applause is ruining Canada's credit; for Canadian corporations rely upon English investors. And it is because Canadian corporations are safeguarded by government charters that English investors lend them money.

Pittsburg, Sept. 8.—The game between Pittsburg and Chicago was one of the most bitter ever played in Pittsburg, the home team winning 6 to 2. It was a war of words from start to finish, and Tinker, who was finally put out of the game for his abusive language, was hissed by the 8.134 spectators, and after he had gone, the crowd rose and shouted for President Heydler, of the National League, who was present, to suspend Tinker from baseball. Chance, too, was put out of the game for abusive language. A jeature of the game in favor of Pittsburg was the fact that Chance worked his two star pitchers, Reulbach and Brown, against Pittsburg, both losing out and being seem to the bench, while Higgin-botham finished the game. Fine weather accounted again for another big attendance and the different events furnished better sport than anticipated. The deceptive track, however, was responsible for the defeats of most of the favorites. The handicap at seven furlongs, in which only four started, with Lawrence P. She showed the most speed from the start, but began tiring near the end, enabling Royal Onyx to almost get up in time to take the purse. Lawrence P. The preacher was one of the first to be stung, and the pain put a stop to his exhortations. The women screamed when struck by the yellow jackets, and many of the men said things that had no churchly sound.

First Use of Iron.

First Use of Iron.

As a result of his interesting envestigations, Dr. Ridgeway conclides that the smelting of iron originated in Cantral Europe, and especially in the region known as Norieum, equivalent to modern Ausarit and Bavaria.

In Egypt it can be traced back to the minth century B. C., and in Libya to about 450 B. C. First mention of its use in China goes back to 400 B. C. while in Uganda it is said to have been in use only some five or six centuries. The above date for the first use of iron in Egypt refers to the metal obtained in smelting. The use of native iron in the form of meteorites dates back to remote antiquity. The weapons made from these were obtained, like flint implements, by chipping. And it is interesting to remember that recent investigations have shown that the fron of many meteorites is a sort of natural steel.—London Glibbe. of many meteorites is a sort of natural steel.—London Globe.
