WEST INDIES PACT CALLED GREATEST YET

CHANGE LOGAN SEES BIG BOOST FOR MARITIMES

Fifty-Year Struggle For Markets Comes To An End

AVENUE OPENED Amherst M. P. Visions New Arrangement as Only Start of Expansion

MONCTON, N. B., July 10.—"The trade agreement with the West Indies which was signed this week at Ottawa, at the close of a conference of delegates from the islands and the Dominion, is the greatest treaty, so far as the Maritime Provinces are concerned, that ever has been entered into by Canada since Confederation,"

Mr. Logan, who was the special commissioner sent by the Federal government last winter from Canada to investigate trade conditions and trade possibilities in the West India islands, said that he was highly pleased with

THE AGREEMENT BROUGHT TO AN END the 50-year-old struggle of the Maritime Provinces to compete with the manufacturers of Ontario in their home market and the markets further west. Mr. Logan said by the agreement a start was made in the West India islands, and there has been a fruitless and dissatisfying effort on the part of business men here to sell at a competing price in spite of the additional freight rates.

ONLY BEGINNING Mr. Logan also expressed the opinion that the agreement was but a start in the export trade and that with the expansion of industry to all the wants of the islands, there should be a further searching out of markets in countries similarly situated and which have not the same natural resources so easily made available here.

RUM FLEET GROWS.

The rum fleet here has grown in the last few weeks from a few ships to more than 20. Most of them are operated by Americans. 15 to 20 Per Cent. Tax Reduction Is Recommended

SERIOUS VIEWS

Need of Further Expansion and Investments Abroad Is Stressed

By HERBERT BAILEY LONDON, July 10.—"The present position of this country gives every appearance of being permanent" is the conclusion contained in the report of the Federation of British Industries which is published this morning.

The report points out that before the war Britain invested large sums of money for the development of new countries receiving in return orders for British goods. This has now almost disappeared owing to high taxation and industrial depression while the tremendous sums spent on social relief such as doles and pensions which have stimulated the home trade have militated further against export trade.

TAX CUT URGED

The federation now asks if it is not possible to reduce national taxation by 15 or 20 per cent. in order to provide more money for trade expansion and development and for investment abroad where it is hoped to create a demand for British goods. The report now published is only another indication of the pessimism which is settling over the country, particularly in the north.

NEW YORK, July 10.—In an affidavit filed today in connection with separation proceedings, Mrs. Mary M. Burke charged her husband, Edward Burke, professional basketball player, with setting fire to her bed because she refused to get up at 7 o'clock in the morning and prepare breakfast for him. EXPLAINS CREED OF ADVENTISTS

Professor M. E. Cady Lectures at Assembly of De-nomination Here

Reason for Name is Given and Main Doctrinal Points are Recounted.

Professor M. E. Cady addressed the Adventist Assembly in the Orange Hall last evening on the subject of "What Seventh-day Adventists Stand For." His remarks were summed up as follows:

"The Seventh-day Adventist programme is a three-fold programme. They believe in a gospel that saves the whole man, that purifies his body, soul and spirit. They are endeavoring to carry out an evangelical work that will present a gospel that cleanses the heart. They present a message of health that will preserve the body. They emphasize an education that will strengthen, broaden and keep unstained from degenerating teachings, the mind.

programme is not confined to America, nor to the whole civilized world. Their missionaries are in the darkest corners of the earth. Professor Cady for more than a quarter of a century has been connected with Seventh-day Adventist training schools, and in closing said: Seventh-day Adventists have set for themselves a high standard of education. Pure food for the mind is their slogan, and in their elementary schools, academies and colleges they have 50,000 young people, under the tutelage of 5,000 teachers, drawing a salary of $2,000,000, with an investment of $6,000,000 in equipment and buildings. This is the educational programme.

"AFTER AN OPERATION I seemed to be slow in gaining strength, lacked energy, was run-down and miserable. I decided to consult my physician again. He told me to use Fleischmann's Yeast, as constipation was at the basis of my trouble. I began at once. Clear. As to my stomach and bowels the result has been most encouraging. And instead of feeling languid I am just full of pep." (Miss Agnes Williamson, Moose Jaw, Sask.)

from constipation, skin and stomach disorders, lowered vitality—through one simple fresh food

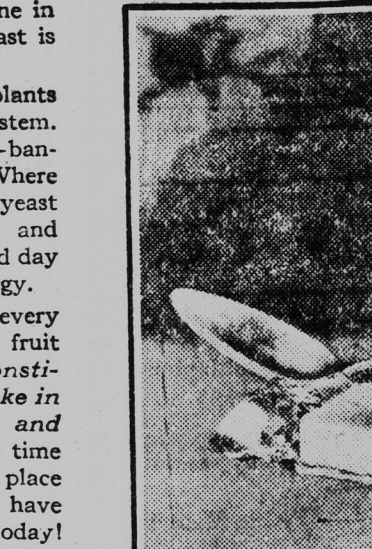

"A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN, a stomach seriously inflamed—even dilated—headed slowly, I continued to be weak, filled with nervous aching. This year I began to take Fleischmann's Yeast. The result? Within one week the pain and depression left me. I felt properly nourished. Almost forgotten currents of energy and buoyancy rose in me. Now I feel assured of normal health, joy and renewed usefulness." (Miss Kathryn Macknill, New York City)

NOT a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense—Fleischmann's Yeast is simply a remarkable fresh food. The millions of tiny active yeast plants in every cake invigorate the whole system. They aid digestion—clear the skin—banish the poisons of constipation. Where cathartics give only temporary relief, yeast strengthens the intestinal muscles and makes them healthy and active. And day by day it releases new stores of energy. Eat two or three cakes regularly every day before meals on crackers—in fruit juices or milk—or just plain. For constipation especially, dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) night and morning. Buy several cakes at a time—they will keep fresh in a cool dry place for two or three days. All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Start eating it today! And let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Health Research Dept. 433, The Fleischmann Company, 208 Simcoe St., Toronto, Ont.

"HE HAS PREACHED his last sermon." This was the general verdict as I left my home and church in search of health. Intestinal trouble had reduced me to a mere caricature of my former self. I was advised to try Fleischmann's Yeast, three cakes a day. About the second week I observed a marked change. I suffered less from nausea and gas. I began to take more interest in my work. Finally constipation no longer troubled me. That was three years ago. I am preaching more powerfully than ever. (The Rev. F. J. Evans, Green City, W. Va.)

"MY AMBITION to become an outstanding athlete was not lessened by a mediocre physique. After I entered college, I chose boxing; when training began I decided to use Fleischmann's Yeast in my diet. I ate it faithfully. Eliminations came and I won after weathering severe punishment. . . . Before, a wavering semi-weakling, I now felt confident and vigorous. A clear, rosy skin did not belie my condition. Yeast scavenged my system, toned and strengthened it." (Frank H. Storz, Boston, Pa.)

THERE ARE MANY DELICIOUS WAYS OF eating yeast—dissolved in water, fruit juices or milk, spread on crackers, or just plain. Start eating it today! FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST IS MADE IN CANADA

SAINT JOHN, N. B., JULY 10, 1925.

AN INVITATION.

The Railway Commission invites provinces, Boards of Trade, industrial organizations, firms, individuals, in fact all and sundry, to file statements with the board by August 15, containing evidence of discrimination in freight rates. There is a special reference to the Maritime Provinces in the memorandum made public by the Commission, suggesting the propriety of representations from this quarter showing in what way traffic through Canadian ports can be encouraged, and likewise presenting the grounds upon which it is claimed that the Maritimes are entitled to the restoration of the rate basis they enjoyed prior to 1919.

It is to be inferred from a previous announcement that the Railway Commission intends to make a tour of Canada to-day it is looking for the Railway Commission for a great deal more than a technical examination of the existing rate structure. It is anticipated, and hopefully, that the Commission will go a long way in the direction of a really national transportation policy. The country and the Commission are confronted by the fact that an immense proportion of the traffic originated by Canadians, instead of being carried by our own railways and our own ports, is now diverted to American channels, and that a very grave economic loss results. The Commission, beyond question, will give thought to the reduction of that leakage. Success in that direction would not only serve the railways and ports, but would increase very considerably the distribution of money in the other hand. If we check this leakage and tend to increase our traffic and the rest of his help.

In Canada. On the recent in railway effective measures throughout the age are found, it will railways would be in the West together, and that the country would become independent of foreign transportation agencies so far as traffic of Canadian origin is concerned.
The Maritime Provinces should join with Winnipeg and Quebec in asking the Railway Commission to investigate the failure to utilize the National Transcontinental to a far greater extent than at present. We have a very direct interest in the assurances made frequently in Quebec City, and repeated of late with growing force by the Manitoba Free Press and other western newspapers, that the Transcontinental route, particularly on grain and cattle, are much higher than they should be, that consequently the volume of traffic that railway carries is far below the right level, and that, in view of its light grades and its capacity for hauling heavy trains economically, the increase in rates in 1916, which has since been maintained, was without real justification.

A few years ago the Railway Commission, under another chairman, practically ruled against a reduction of the Transcontinental rates of the ground that a downward revision would be damaging to other railways and would injuriously disturb the whole transportation situation. The soundness of that view was deliberately challenged by Hon. Mr. Lapointe in the House of Commons last session, when the loan to the Quebec Harbor Commission was under consideration. The statements made by him and others during that debate in themselves constitute reasons why the Railway Commission should delve into the matter. It bears very directly upon the question of moving more of Canada's traffic through its own ports.

A CONSTRUCTIVE CONFERENCE.
Publication of an outline of the programme of questions for consideration at next week's Maritime conference in Moncton is welcome proof of a determination to make that meeting constructive in spirit and in action. What is said and done there will be scanned carefully by Canadians in other provinces, and the utility of this conference in preparing for a national economic meeting to be held in the autumn will be all the greater because of the evidence it will doubtless afford that the Maritime Provinces, in considering plans for their own advancement, are not thinking of this part of Canada alone. The Maritime conference will be forward-looking. It will show no failure to appreciate the resources of the provinces by the sea or of the courageous, enterprising and industrious character of our people. It will recognize, as a matter of necessity, the fact that progress with us has not been as rapid as it should have been, but it will also demonstrate to the rest of the country our desire to promote policies next in order, and reports indicate that it likewise will be able to place a strong ticket in the field.

Odds and Ends

"You never know what you'll find among the odds and ends."—From "Notes by a Wayfarer."
Turner, V. C.
(Toronto Globe).

It is altogether fitting that the new President of the Great War Veterans' Association, at this time of division and complication, should be a man of the mettle and capacity of Sir Richard Turner, V. C. If ever the veterans' organization needed leadership, it is now, and the new start with General Turner in the chair, and the blessing of Earl Haig at the Ottawa meeting, should mean a new era for the men whose supreme means to nation.
It was Turner who saved the guns at Komati River in the Boer War, thereby earning the Victoria cross, and it was Turner who commanded the Canadians on that fateful day at Ypres, in the spring of 1915, when warfare was suddenly revolutionized by the Germans sending poison gas toward their foe for the first time. The official report for the day said that the Canadians "saved the situation," and it was the resourcefulness of Turner in this great emergency that averted disaster. He shortened his line and made a counter-attack, thus preventing the Germans getting bombing where they might have wiped out the Canadians.

The Channel ports were saved, and the history of the war for that fateful hour was not that the grey invaders of Belgium expected. It was in his service on the west front was in keeping with the day at Ypres, through the dreary struggle of the Somme. His service in recognizing the Canadian forces in England was the real beginning, but it called for tact and courage, in preserving morale, as the drafts were made up and officers were killed. There were, doubtless, numerous heartburnings; but the man who was a whole-sale price in his home city of Quebec, was every inch a soldier in service, and he earned and kept the respect and affection of his followers.
"Ernie" Turner's father was a prominent merchant and Legislative Councillor in the old Cape of French Canada, and, except for the ever-present peril of the permanent force, and the coming and going of the British Club, a military life for the young merchant was not quite expected. When the Boer War came he pleaded for a chance to serve, but weak eyes held him back for a time. After his exploits at Komati River, he is reported to see him as he lay recovering from his double wounding and offered him a place and promotion in the British Army. Turner chose to return to his desk in Quebec, and there he stayed until the new call to duty.

The Dooms of the Wild Horses.
(Duluth Herald).
Against the protest of the nature-loving pioneers, the last legislature of the state of Montana passed a law intended to destroy the herds of wild horses that for generations have lived in the mountains of that state. The reason is that those free herds sometimes come out of their fastnesses and destroy crops.

It is said to see that even the wild horse of the west are fast becoming the needs of man, but so must it be. The herds of wild horses lived in their Montana mountains generations before Lewis and Clark made their way to the Pacific, and these trailblazers found them useful though unwilling aids in their journeys. It seems that these animals, which are variously named cayuses, mustangs or bronchos, are not to be exterminated. They are descendants of the Arabian horse, a steed famed in poetry. The Spanish discoverers brought this stock to Central America four hundred years ago. The Indians came in possession of some of them by theft or by purchase from the Spaniards. They were mothered by the deserts and steps. They multiplied. In the course of years bands of these progressive conquerors of the wilderness.

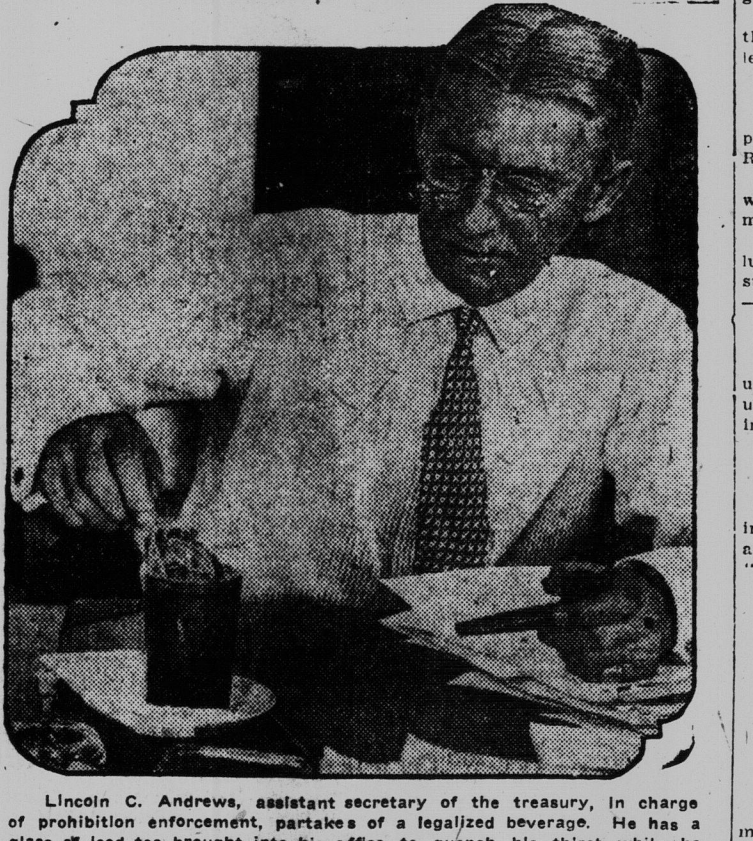

They became wild. They hatted steel and leather and feared mankind. Their history is remarkable. It may be traced from the plains of Arabia through the sands of North Africa, through the valleys of Spain, across the Atlantic and along the mountains of the south to those of the North. They have known the Arab, the Moroccan, the Spaniard, the Indian and the American.
And now their doom sounds. The best of them, when rounded up, are taken for export here as dog meat. A sorry end to the descendants of the pride of Arab chiefs. But the law of the survival of the fittest—or most adjustable—applies to them, and sympathetic humanity must see them disappear.

WILL DISCUSS FUTURE OF AID

Children's Aid Society Asks for Conference With Municipalities Committee.

Not Enough Funds to Carry on This Year—Now 21 Children in Home.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society last evening it was decided to ask for a conference as soon as possible with a committee of the Municipal Council, relative to the future of the society. The president, A. M. Beding, reported that the society had not nearly enough funds to carry on to the end of the year and that there seemed no prospect of getting from the municipality sufficient to meet the needs of this year and next.

FUNDS LOW.

He said there seemed to be a feeling that the Children's Home was not a necessity, and that the Municipal Home might be used as a shelter, or some other arrangement made to reduce the expenditure.

As the case stood he could see nothing beyond the end of the present year, and Warden Wigmore and Mayor Foote had expressed a willingness to have the whole matter considered at a joint conference representing the society and the council. On motion of H. Ueber Miller, the society, therefore decided to ask for the conference, on the ground that it cannot carry on satisfactorily without knowledge of what is to be its fate at the end of the year.

AGENTS REPORT.

The report of the agent, Rev. George Scott, showed that one child had been adopted from the home and three others taken out by their parents. It was decided to give temporary shelter to four of the children of a man who has his, all under 14 years, their mother having died and the father having made provision for the other five for the immediate future. Five applications for children were received and will probably result in the placing of two. There are now 21 children in the home, the majority of whom are under six years of age. As already noted four more will be given temporary shelter.

HEAR OF SPRINKLERS

Fireman and Salvage Corps Members Are Addressed by T. H. Higginson.

A large gathering of members of the fire department and salvage corps companies assembled in the rooms of No. 1 Salvage Corps, Union street, last evening with Chief Vaughan presiding and listened attentively for more than an hour to T. H. Higginson, of the Automatic Sprinkler Company of Canada, who on invitation of Chief Vaughan and Captain MacRae, described the working of the system in buildings. Mr. Higginson traced the sprinkler from its start many years ago up to the present time and the information proved very interesting and instructive to the firemen.

At the conclusion of his address he answered many important questions put by different firemen and stated that in all buildings where the system has been installed there should be signs placed near the door telling where the valve is to shut off the water after the fire has been extinguished. In speaking of the West Saint John freight sheds, Mr. Higginson said that there would be a total of 10,000 sprinklers. Before the meeting adjourned a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker for the valuable information he had given to those assembled.

FOUND $400.

A few days ago a young man found a one thousand dollar bill on the street and asked Police Sergeant Scott if it was any good. The sergeant took charge of the bill and the owner was located the following day. He was happy on recovering the large amount of money and thanked the finder.

COLD WATER FOR BEAUTY

Cold water is my favorite beautifier. I start the day with a cold shower, though if the weather is around zero I begin with a tepid one and delay the icy spray for a few seconds. In the evening I always take a warm bath, but I finish with a quick cold spray. This, I believe, hardens the flesh and keeps it firmly molded. I also finish every massage that I give my neck, shoulders and arms with a cold water rinse. If I feel very tired and listless, I drink two glasses of cold water, then make a cold compress and hold it over my eyes for 10 to 15 minutes while I lie on the bed perfectly relaxed. This always brings back a spright, and I feel as revived as flowers after a summer rain. To all beauty seekers, I advise the water wagon.

RETURNS FROM MEETING.

Rev. G. B. MacDonald, pastor of Victoria street United Baptist church, returned last evening from Prince Edward Island where he represented the New Brunswick auxiliary at the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Island Auxiliary of the Bible Society, held at Borewick on Wednesday. Rev. MacDonald gave an address at the meeting when Rev. H. D. Raymond was the principal speaker.

TURKS DISCARD FEZ

Muslims May Wear Any Headgear They Wish in The Future.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 9.—At last after 2,000 years the fez of the Turk is going into the discard. Reason: Too much of a heat trap for tropical suns. Foreigners wandering the streets of Constantinople wailed in the blazing summer sun in spite of linen suits and pill helmets or panamas, have marveled at the persisting fortitude of the Turk going his way with a rimless, sweetly fez perched on top of his cranium. But all that is to be changed—and with the highest official sanction. Omer Lutfi Bey, president of the Court of Cassation in an official proclamation has just stated in effect: "Customs may henceforth wear whatever headgear they find most to their taste or most hygienic. The sacred text of the Prophet headgear is abolished."
