FIND THE GERM OF YELLOW FEVER.

Physicians in New Orleans Announce

Most Important Discovery in the Medical World in a Half a Century.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 26.—The yellow fever germ has been discovered. Careful tests during four weeks in the Emergency Hospital by Drs. P. B. Archibald, J. Blumenthal and Guthrie, and Professor J. C. Smith, a biologist, have resulted in the discovery, identification and positive proof of the germ, which, after conveyance by the steamer Yamacraw, caused yellow fever in all persons into whose blood it entered.

In nearly a dozen cases yellow fever was diagnosed on the appearance of the germ in the patient's blood, although there were no other signs of yellow fever. This is said by physicians to be one of the most radically important discoveries in the field of medicine for fifty years, or since Pasteur made his famous experiments with cholera. Any physician, it is stated, can now identify the disease in its first stages, before the well defined symptoms have appeared. It is said to furnish an absolute and indisputable test of the accuracy of the tropics, and cannot be confounded with the germs of malaria or meningitis, or any other disease. The life history of the organism which Dr. Archibald found was followed and its presence in the blood of yellow fever patients confirmed. The diagnosis was made by the microscope of the blood of every patient who came into the hospital, and since this was the first time the diagnosis has shown the symptoms of yellow fever.

FEVER FOLLOWS GERM'S APPEARANCE.

In some cases the patient when examined showed no symptoms whatever of the fever, but in every case when the microscopic diagnosis revealed the germ the patient developed the fever, and a jaundiced condition of the skin, showing a characteristic clinical picture of yellow fever.

A physician of the Marine Hospital Service said today: "The profound significance of this discovery cannot well be overestimated. It is said to be the first time that the germ has been identified, and it is great. It gives an accurate and scientific method of investigating the mild cases which occur in every country, and which physicians are reluctant to diagnose as yellow fever. Any physician with the aid of the microscope can recognize the germ even before it becomes destructive." Dr. Archibald is an official in the Orleans Medical Society.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY FEAR THE YELLOW PERIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—While the visit of M. Witte to the German Emperor is stated to be in connection with the coming peace conference at The Hague, the real object of the Russian statesman's visit to Berlin is said to be to discuss the danger of the "Yellow Peril" to the European world. The Japanese minister to Berlin, Baron Hishimoto, and Emperor of William, is to arrange, declares a Berlin despatch from Berlin, some joint plan to stem the danger of the "Yellow Peril" in the Far East. According to a "Times" dispatch from Berlin, the Tagblatt today asserts that the purpose of the recent visit of the Japanese minister to Chancellor von Bülow was to request an explanation of Emperor William's reported remarks regarding the "Yellow Peril" to the visiting American congressman. It is stated that the Japanese minister went away satisfied.

FRANCE AGREEABLE TO ANGLLO-JAP TREATY.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The Anglo-Japanese treaty is widely commented upon today. The official view is that the treaty is conformable to French interests. It is pointed out particularly that France does not seek territorial expansion in Asia, and therefore the status quo provisions of the treaty carry out French policy. The officials are equally hopeful that the treaty will prove satisfactory to Russia, but there appears to remain some doubt as to Russia's complete acquiescence, although the explanations tend to remove Russia's opposition. (See page 2.)

PEACE SOCIETY NAMED "ROOSEVELT."

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Times announces that a project is on foot in Paris for the establishment of an international organization for the purpose of promoting harmony among the nations. It has been decided to call the organization the Roosevelt Institute, as recognition of his services in securing the peace of the world.

MOROCCO TROUBLE SETTLED.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—M. Rouvier, representing the French government, and Dr. Rosen, the representative of Germany, conferred at the foreign office today arranging the final details of the Moroccan agreement. It is expected that an official announcement of the meeting will be given out today.

Col. Geo. West Jones arrived home at noon from Montreal.

MORE SEPTEMBER BRIDES AGREE TO LOVE AND OBEY.

Several Charming Maidens Were Claimed by Loving Husbands This Morning—Fashionable Wedding in St. Stephen.

DACEY-GILSON.

A very pretty wedding took place in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception this morning when Mary Louise Gilson became the bride of Wm. Dacey, chief clerk with P. M. O'Neill. The bride is a daughter of Daniel Gilson, of 67 Mill street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Meahan at six o'clock in the presence of a large number of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

The bride wore a handsome gown of cream voile with lace trimmings and a chennie picture hat and carried an ivory covered prayerbook. She was attended by her sister, Miss Lena Gilson, who wore a dress of cream serge with pointed point d'esprit trimmings and a black picture hat. The groom was supported by F. J. McInerney.

After the ceremony breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's parents and later Mr. and Mrs. Dacey left for Boston and New York by the steamer Calvin Austin.

Both the bride and groom are very popular young people and received a large number of handsome and valuable presents. P. M. O'Neill, Mr. Dacey's employer, presented him with a handsome bedroom set of cutlery and six dining chairs. The groom's gift was a watch worth $100 in gold.

After their return from their trip to New York and Mrs. Dacey will reside at No. 7 Adelaide street.

DALEY-CARTER.

At the cathedral at ten o'clock this morning Archibald Daley, an employee of the Peters tannery was married to Miss Margaret Carter, 65 St. Patrick street, by Rev. Father Meahan. The ceremony was witnessed by a number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride was attired in a fashionable gown of grey voile with white trimmings and wore a picture hat. She carried a bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by Miss Lena Gilson, who wore a pale green voile with hat to match. Harry O'Brien supported the groom. There will be a reception at this evening at the residence of the bride's mother on St. Patrick street.

ROSS-BUNNELL.

An event which has caused considerable interest in the North End is the marriage this evening of Miss Ida Bunnell, daughter of William Bunnell, 37 Brook street, and Thomas Ross, in the employ of the Portland Rolling Mill. The ceremony, which will take place at 8 o'clock, will be performed by Rev. Samuel Howard.

The bride will wear a handsome dress of light voile, and will be attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Bunnell, who will be gowned in white. The groom will be supported by his cousin, William Ross. The bride's travelling suit is of grey cloth, with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Ross will reside on Hilliard street.

The young couple received many handsome presents. A dinner set from Mr. Hartsorn, of the Rolling Mills, a handsome silver service from Mr. and Mrs. Noah, of Montreal, and a rocking chair from Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dykeman.

POWELL-DEAN.

A very quiet wedding took place this morning at the home of Mrs. Margaret Dean, Garden street, when her daughter, Margaret Howe, was united in marriage to A. Burrus Powell by Rev. Thomas Price, pastor of Zion Methodist church. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her brother, Thomas J. Dean. She was becomingly attired in a pale grey costume with white beaver hat and carried a handsome bouquet of white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Powell left by boat for a trip to Boston and New York. On returning to the city they will take up their residence at 80 Summer street.

For attorney general, District attorney Dana Malony of Greenfield seemed to have met with the greatest success, and will probably lead his three competitors, District attorney George A. Saunders of Ayer, A. P. French of Randolph and former mayor Edgar H. Champlin of Cambridge.

Today's Democratic caucuses will be held in nearly all the cities and towns, although in a number of places the caucuses were held with the Republicans yesterday. There are but few contests among the Democrats.

FUNERALS TODAY.

The funeral of the late Samuel K. Briggs took place this afternoon upon the arrival of the Boston express. The services were conducted by Rev. W. O. Raymond and interment was at Fernhill.

The funeral took place today of Margaret Edna Burns, the young daughter of Thomas M. Burns. Interment was at the New Catholic cemetery.

W. E. Stavart, of the Bank of New Brunswick, returned this morning from a trip to Upper Canadian cities.

Hon. R. J. Ritchie has returned from a trip to Boston, where he attended the funeral of Mayor Collins, and resumed his official duties in the police court this morning.

ning, also of this city. The bride, who wore cream voile and carried carnations, was attended by Miss Ida M. Dunning, the groom's sister, who wore blue silk trimmed with white. Robert Friars performed the duties of best man. Mr. and Mrs. Dunning will reside at 701 Main street. The presents were numerous and beautiful.

HUNT-MACMONAGLE.

(Special to the Star.) ST. STEPHEN, N. B., Sept. 27.—At a quarter to eight this morning, Trinity Church was the scene of a pretty wedding in which the principals were Miss Mildred MacMonagle, eldest daughter of Mr. MacMonagle, K. C., and Russell, a prominent manufacturer of Chicago, Ill.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Winfield in the presence of a large assembly, the bride being given away by her father. The church was beautifully adorned with evergreen autumn leaves, berries, sweet peas and asters. The charming young bride was attired in a travelling suit of navy blue and black shot silk with white trimmings and blue hat with white trimmings.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Bessie MacMonagle, who wore a white gown and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Frank Dunton attended the groom. At the close of the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, accompanied by many friends, drove to the Washington County Depot and embarked for a trip to Portland, Me., and other cities enroute to their new home in Chicago.

I. C. R. NEWS AGENT

ARRESTED FOR THEFT.

Crime Was Committed a Year Ago and Man Disappeared, But Officer Collins Remembered Him.

Fred. Thibodeau, a former news agent on the I. C. R. train, was reported about a year ago as being too familiar with the boxes managed by other news agents at Moncton, and as a result was arrested by Officer Collins. He was released on his own recognizance, but he has not been seen since.

RECIROCITY'S OPPONENTS WIN IN MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—That the opponents of tariff revision have won in Massachusetts is the definite conclusion that the Democratic caucuses will be held in nearly all the cities and towns, although in a number of places the caucuses were held with the Republicans yesterday. There are but few contests among the Democrats.

BAGGEGEMAN ARRESTED.

About a week ago a detective from Montreal was in the city looking for evidence against the baggage man and among other things that had been stolen from the passengers was a hand bag that had been taken from a passenger's trunk. The detective followed the man for the purchase of such an item and returned without result until this morning Detective Killen obtained a warrant which is supposed to be the one missing. The baggage man has been arrested in Quebec and is said to be a man well known in this city, and has employed here during the winter in Quebec or Montreal during the

MAY END INSURANCE INVESTIGATIONS.

Member of Investigating Committee Dying.

Jacob H. Sheff, Head of the Famous Banking Firm Will Be Placed on the Rack Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Upon the convening today of the special legislative committee investigating the life insurance companies, Chairman Armstrong announced that, owing to the serious illness of Speaker S. Fred Nixon, who was operated upon late Monday afternoon the committee met under distressing circumstances. "From information at hand," Chairman Armstrong said, "it is feared he cannot recover. We are in immediate communication with Mr. Nixon's home in Westfield and in the event of his death the committee will instantly adjourn."

It was announced prior to the opening of the investigation that Jacob H. Sheff, head of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., bankers has been subpoenaed and will take the stand either today or tomorrow.

The first witness was George C. Van Zuydam, Jr., secretary and treasurer of the Albany Trust Company, who produced a transcript of the account of Andrew Hamilton, opened Feb. 21, 1905. He stated that neither the bank nor he had knowledge of the purpose for which checks were paid in or out of that account.

Mr. Van Zuydam was excused and H. Rogers Winthrop, assistant secretary of the Southwestern Life Assurance Society, who was on the stand last Friday when the committee adjourned, resumed his testimony as to the end state transactions of his company.

CORPORATION CAN VALUE TRUST PROBLEM.

Eminent Scotchman Tells How It Was Worked in Old Country—Not Applicable in the States.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The Journal of Commerce says: Two visitors from the other side, in New York this week, are directors T. C. McNab and Commercial manager W. F. Stewart, of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society Ltd., whose head offices are in Glasgow. These gentlemen are representatives of an industry which last year placed upon the market goods to the value of $5,083,272 and which gives constant employment to 7,000 persons.

They are here primarily to look into the grain situation and for the time being are the guests of John Gleiblich, many articles were mislaid, and general representative. Later they will visit the larger grain producing centres in the United States and Canada, returning to their homes in Scotland about Dec. 1st. Discussing the purposes of his visit yesterday Mr. Stewart said: "We are here to seek additional knowledge in regard to the production and marketing of grain in the United States and Canada. The society is the owner of three flour mills with a weekly production of 10,000 sacks, of 280 pounds, and as 60 per cent. of the grain consumed is foreign it pays us to keep in touch with all markets."

During his stay here Mr. Stewart has talked with business men of all classes and also workmen and already has arrived at the definite conclusion that the co-operative trade idea as it is known in the United Kingdom, Belgium and Holland could not be worked out here with any degree of success.

"The country is too big in the first place," he said, "and, besides, there are too many discordant elements in the various communities, large and small. But in Scotland the case is different and the co-operative idea is spreading like wild fire. Already it amounts almost to a trade revolution. It is a healthy development and is an absolute guarantee against trusts or combination control of prices such as obtain in the case in the United States, according to my information."

Mr. Stewart and Mr. McNab are both firm believers in the co-operative idea and are very willing to talk of the success achieved by the Scottish society. It commenced business in 1883 and is a federation of the retail co-operative societies of Scotland.

The societies are dealers in groceries, provisions, drapery, woollens, ready-made clothing, boots, shoes, furniture, hardware, etc., and are manufacturers of flour and oatmeal, sweets, preserves, coffee, essence, pickles, cocoa, chocolate, lard, butter, tobacco, soap fruit, wine and essence boots and shoes, underclothing, corsets, waterproofs, umbrellas, furniture and saddlery. They are printers, bookbinders, stationers, tinmiths and cartwrights.

CRIMES REPORTED FROM MONCTON.

Four People Arrested on Adultery Charge.

Robbed of $33.

(Special to the Star.)

MONCTON, N. B., Sept. 27.—The police scooped four persons this morning on a charge of living in adultery. One couple are Robert Bishop and Mrs. Snarr, arrested on a charge preferred by Mrs. Snarr's husband. The other two are a man named Keith and one Jane Betha. Keith is a married man, said to belong to Pettitodica. The Betha woman is unmarried.

These parties had been living together for some time in Moncton parish, one on Salisbury Road, the other on Mountain Road. Their cases will be heard this afternoon.

A bold robbery is reported from Point du Chene, where at mid-day, on the temporary absence of the freight agent, Burns, some person entered the I. C. R. office, broke open the cash till and stole the contents, amounting to $32. The railway police are working on the case, but have no clue as yet.

WOULD CONVERT ENGLAND TO ISLAM FAITH.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 26.—There are at present in Liverpool two Afghan missionaries and visionaries—Cholam Aia and Baba Ibrahim—who hope to win Paradise by converting England to the faith of Islam.

With this object in view they tramped from Kandahar to the coast and took ship to England.

Their inability to speak a word of the English language did not strike them as likely to interfere with their mission, but they find now that it would be advantageous to learn the language, and they have declared their intention of doing so. They are willing to work in the docks for a livelihood while they are learning.

They say they have the assurance that if they even return home with their mission unfilled their journey will have won them a Paradise of a certain kind. But this is not enough for them. They wish to deserve admission to the quintessence of heaven, and in spite of persuasion they refuse to be sent back to Afghanistan. They say that they will at least try to accomplish their object, and that they are confident that they will ultimately turn all England to the faith of Islam.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE IN SWEDEN.

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Sept. 27.—A severe earthquake was felt at 1.30 p. m. yesterday at Lusenby, Hisingen Island. It cracked the walls of houses and fissured the surface of the ground. Subterranean rumblings were quickly followed by the violent rocking of houses and the splitting of inner and outer walls driving the inmates to seek safety in the open air.

In many places fissures a foot wide were opened up, while the level of the ground in the eastern part of the island sank appreciably. The disturbance lasted a minute.

USES HIS INVENTION

TO KILL HIMSELF.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 26—John A. Norton, an inventor in the employ of the American Graphophone Company here, used his last invention to kill himself last night. He was found dead in his bed this morning.

Norton wired to his bed a tube, one end of which he placed in his mouth and the other end he attached to the gas fixture in such a way that even as he lay down the gas would flow into his lungs. By a small check valve, which he placed in his mouth, the contents of his lungs were exhausted into the room, but nothing but gas could be inhaled.

He then wrapped his head in a blanket as he had opened both windows of his room, evidently fearing that if the gas escaped into the house it would alarm the family.

Norton was about forty years old, and was once a candidate for Governor of Connecticut on the endorser ticket. He separated from his wife about a year ago.

Augustus Saint-Gaudens, the sculptor, has completed his plans and is now working on the clay model of his statue of Mark Hanna, which is to be erected in Cleveland.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., SEPT. 27, 1905.

A GUARANTEE OF PEACE.

Never was a treaty framed between nations so strongly in the interests of the world's peace as that, commencing the new Anglo-Japanese alliance, the terms of which are published on another page of the Star.

Japan and England have for some time been parties to an agreement which compelled one nation to aid the other should either become involved in war with more than one nation. By the new treaty any war contracted by either nation "in defense of its territorial rights or special interests" in Eastern Asia and India must be waged in common. Any power encroaching on Japan's interests must also meet the resistance of Britain and none may strike at Britain without incurring the vengeance of Japan.

The new alliance dissipates entirely the familiar war cloud over the Far East, frees Britain from her old nightmare of Russian aggression on the Indian border and practically guarantees that no war shall take place between European nations during the next ten years. For there are few disputes among nations today with the germ of war in them that are not concerned in some way with the "rights and interests" protected by this document, and there is no nation nor any probable combine of nations strong enough to test the united strength of the two island empires.

For ten years at least Japan may press forward on her career of expansion in absolute security and the British government, freed from its old and only fear may devote its attention to a solution of growing internal difficulties. And who knows what may happen in ten years? The cause of international arbitration advancing rapidly; it may be that the time when war shall be no more has at last begun.

RECIPROCITY.

A luminous article on the present situation of the reciprocity policy is contributed by Hon. Geo. E. Foster to the London Standard, expressing the opinion that reciprocity with the United States in any form is not desired by Canada.

After tracing the history of the reciprocity movement, Mr. Foster proceeds: "From the experiences of the last forty years we have in Canada arrived at the pretty well established conclusion, first, that it has been, and is, a wasted time and effort to seek for fair and candid trade treatment by the United States; second, that under changed conditions we are wiser to develop our trade along other independent lines. The United States has systematically and unctuously wounded our susceptibilities and amour propre. There has been a constant prominent intimation that there was no room for an independent British colony in the North American continent; that our destiny was to fall ultimately, as a ripe apple, into the lap of Uncle Sam; that if we really desired her trade advantages we had better come under her roof. Canada's loyalty to the crown was in itself strong enough to prevent that, but, joined to this sentiment, was the conviction of superiority of our constitutional system, and methods of our governmental institutions, that prophetic vision at one time clouded, but, ever-growing clearer, which discerned the distant star of nationality and tempered all our early struggles and disappointments with the fine light of hopefulness. Such things as the Bering Sea and Alaska questions have not predisposed Canada towards closer affiliation."

In tracing out the history, Mr. Foster explains the revolution of feeling during the last 25 years. Coming to the question of reciprocity, Mr. Foster says, "to harness our trade activities to a chariot so grasping and with a driver who might take it into his head to unloose the tackling just when we were negotiating the hardest portion of the hill, might be fraught with great peril. Of such a contingency we should have an ever-abiding dread."

BOTH SIDES READY.

President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers finished yesterday a campaign through the anthracite region of Pennsylvania, undertaken with the idea of getting the men in line and enthusiastic preparatory to demands for increase in pay and decrease in working hours soon to be made upon the operators. Reports from the district over which he has travelled indicate that the unions are determined to strike unless the concessions are granted and are better equipped for a fight than ever in the history of the organization.

According to Mr. Mitchell the national treasury has an income of about a million dollars a year and has an income fund stored up. The majority of the local unions have also large surpluses on hand. In the 1902 strike when the organization was not nearly so well equipped the national treasury forwarded $2,400,000 to the strikers and will be able to do much better this time.

At the railroads and coal wholesalers generally have larger stocks of coal on hand than ever before it is certain that if the strike does come it will be the most momentous struggle in the history of unionism.

The esteemed but rather childish Times devoted nearly two columns and a half of space yesterday to a discussion of the enterprise and energy of this popular and widely circulated but modest newspaper. There were six different articles filling altogether about fifty inches of good space, over fourteen inches of which were occupied by headlines. At the Star's rates for such advertising, this was worth about one hundred and forty dollars. Were the Star the only recipient of this free publicity it would be extravagantly grateful. But the knowledge that the majority of the advertisements which fill the pages of that journal are published upon similar terms naturally tends to moderate our gratitude for our contemporary's generosity.

AND SUMMER SIGHS GOODY.

A colder, grayer sky—
And summer, with a sigh,
Is tellin' all the green world a faint and sweet "Goodbye!"

"Goodbye to hill and plain,
And roses rinsed with rain!
But when the winter's over we'll meet and kiss again!"

But winter-joys are sweet,
Where at friends we meet,
And tell the old-time stories, while the old love-songs repeat!

So, winter, come along!
No more the lilacs throng;
But Love can make of winter a summer-time of song!
—Frank L. Stanton.

WITH THESE EXCEPTIONS.

Landlord: "Well, has everything been all right since you've been with us?"

Departing Guest: "Yes; only you know that when we came and found no cupboard in our room you promised us you'd put up some books, but you didn't."

"Oh, yes; I forgot—"
"And you told us you'd give us a table to ourselves, but you didn't."

"Well, but look here—"
"And you said your 'bus met the train, but I explained—"
"And you said you'd give us a room where we'd get a new breeze, while, in fact, you gave us one opening against the weather-board of another house and facing directly away from the beach."

"Oh, well, you—"
"And you said the hotel was on the ocean end of the parade, while as a matter of fact it is half a mile from the sea."

"But they all agree—"
"You said the place was orderly and that the table was good, yet we haven't been able to sleep all night and now ever we wanted a decent bite to eat we had to go out after it."

"Why, my dear fellow, I can't tell you with the few exceptions named everything has been perfectly satisfactory, and we shall take great pleasure in telling our friends so."

WAS TOO OLD FOR THAT.

A young lawyer, whose love of flowers and all things green and growing compelled him to establish his home in one of the suburban towns, invited his old chum, Brown, also of the Bar, to spend Sunday on the farm.

Brown was received with appropriate honors, and all the attractions were duly displayed to his polite but not over-keen gaze, for he was somewhat deficient in that primal passion for a garden which has come down through the generations from Adam.

At each meal he listened courteously to eulogies of "our own make" viands. He bore patiently "our own milk," "lettuce from the frame you saw," "peas off the vine," and so on. But at last it got to this—

"Hurry, I can recommend this chicken especially. I raised it myself." Then the worm turned—after the first mouthful of chicken—and with a smile he remarked:

"No, Will, I can't believe that. You've only been here a little over two years."

APTLY NAMED.

"What did you think of that cigar I gave you? It was an Admiral, you know?"

"Well, well, how appropriate! There's something about that cigar that's suggestive of an admiral."

"It's rank," and he might have added that it made him seasick—New Yorker.

WON'T GO TO PETAWAWA.

It is now definitely decided that the St. John Mulberry will not go to camp at Petawawa this year as mentioned exclusively in the Star day before yesterday. An injunction has been issued by some of the farmers in the neighborhood to prevent the shooting. This will mean quite a disappointment and some inconvenience to about seventy or eighty of the local men who expected to take part.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Union depot was the scene of unusual activity on the arrival of the six o'clock train yesterday. A large number of passengers had intended to transfer to the American boat, completing the rest of their journey to the States by water. It was announced on Monday, however, that the Eastern Line people had cancelled the Tuesday night trip of the Calvin Austin owing to a defect in the machinery of the Penobscot, which had to be laid up. Most of the passengers at the depot had not noticed these announcements and the result was that there was considerable confusion and the officials were given a busy hour. Many passengers went through by train.

Miss Harriet Donnet, aged seventy-eight, died last night at the Home for Incurables, where she had been for the past five years. Miss Bennett was a native of St. John, had made her home at Waterville, Albert county, and her body will be taken there for burial.

The bales for the Northwest, which the women's aid society of St. Paul's Church are sending, is to be packed early next week. The president requests that all those interested will kindly send their contributions to Mrs. Dickor at the rectory during the present week.

Daniel McLean of Merigomish, N. S., arrived in the city yesterday to meet his fiancée, Miss Lena Cameron, who came in from Boston on the Calvin Austin. The couple were married at 10 o'clock by Rev. Dr. Fetheringham at the preacher's residence. They registered at the Park, and will leave this morning for Merigomish, where they will make their home.

A meeting is called in the Y. M. C. A. room on Friday at 4 p. m. of the teams in the junior league to consider further applications for entrance to the league.

WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER

On The Love Story of Charles Brandon and Mary Tudor, the King's Sister, and Happening in the Reign of His August Majesty King Henry the Eighth

By EDWIN CASKODEN [CHARLES MAJOR]

Copyright, 1898 and 1901, by the Dutton-Merrill Company

"I care nothing for your suit, for low, but out of consideration for the feelings which your fancied injuries have put into your heart, I tell you that I did what I could to liberate you and rescued from the keeper a promise that you should be allowed to escape. After that a certain letter addressed to you was discovered and fell into the hands of the king, a matter in which I had no part. As to your confinement and noncommunication with your friends, that was at his majesty's command after he had seen the letter, as I say this for my own sake, not that I care what you may say or think."

This offer of confirmation by the king made all seem like the truth, so much will even a little truth leave a great lie, and part of Brandon's sails came down against the mast. The whole statement surprised him, and most of all the intercepted letter. What letter could it have been? It was puzzling, and yet he dared not ask.

"As the duke was about to walk away Brandon stopped him. "One moment, your grace; I am willing to admit what you have said, for I am not now prepared to contradict it, but there is yet another matter we have to settle. You attacked me on horseback and tried to murder me in order to abduct two ladies that night over in Billingsgate. That you cannot deny. I watched you follow the ladies from Bridewell to Grouche's, and saw your face when your mask fell off during the melee as plainly as I see it now. If other proof is wanting, there is that spained knee upon which your horse fell, causing you to limp even yet. I am sure now that my lord will meet me like a man, or would he prefer that I should go to the king and tell him and the world the whole shameful story? I have cancelled it heretofore thinking it my personal right and privilege to settle with you."

Buckingham turned a pale shade as he replied, "I do not meet such as you on the field of honor, and have no fear of your slander injuring me."

He felt secure in the thought that the girls did not know who had attacked them, and could not corroborate Brandon in his accusations, or Mary, surely, never would have appealed to him for help.

"I was with Brandon—at a little distance, that is—when this occurred, and after Buckingham had left we went to find the girls in the forest. We knew they would be looking for us, although they would pretend surprise when they saw us. We soon met them, and the very leaves of the trees gave a soft, contented rustle in response to Mary's low, mellow laugh of joy.

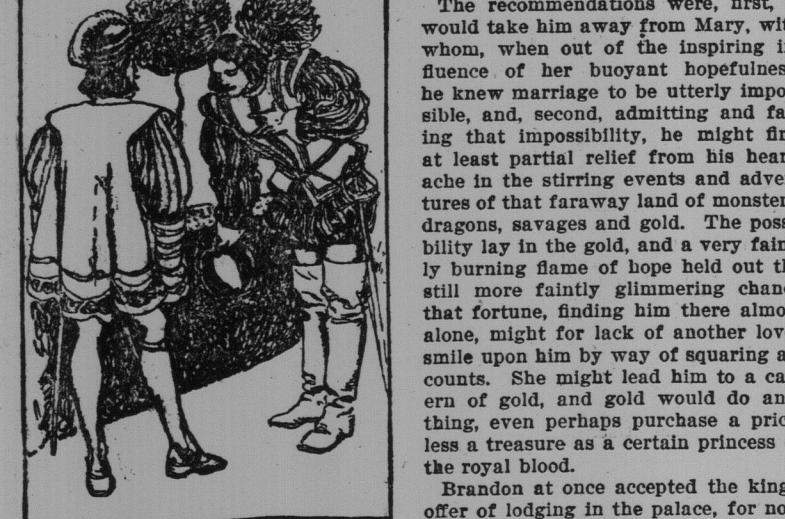

After perhaps half an hour we encountered Buckingham with his lawyer-knight, Johnson. They had evi-

"Kindly tell me where my friend can wait upon a friend of his name," Brandon walked out to this quiet path to consult, Mary spoke to the duke with a violent sparkle in her eyes.

"But the duke, who was so kind to me, when you are on the scaffold, just when your neck fits into the noose of the block."

He stopped, with an evident desire to explain, but Mary pointed down the path and said: "Go, or I will have the duke's head on a pike."

Two to one would be easy odds compared with the duke's odds being against him in Billingsgate. Go! And the battle was over, the foe never having struck a blow. It hurt me that Mary should speak of the odds being two to one against Brandon when I was at hand. It is true I was not very large, but I could have taken care of a lawyer.

New it was that the lawyer-knight earned his bread by his wit, for it was he, I know, who instigated the next one which proved a checkmate to us. It was this: The duke went at once to the king and in a tone of injured innocence told him of the charge made by Brandon, with Mary's evident approval, and demanded redress for the slander. Thus it seemed that the strength of our position was about to be turned against us. Brandon was at once summoned and promptly appeared before the king, only too anxious to confront the duke. As to the confinement of Brandon and his secret trial, the king did not care to hear. That was a matter of no consequence to him. The important question was, Did Buckingham attack the princess?

Brandon told the whole straight story exactly as it was, which Buckingham as promptly denied and offered to prove by his almsman that he was at his devotions on the night and at the hour of the attack. So here was a conflict of evidence which called for new plots, and she found in it a joy far exceeding that of any victory or triumph she could imagine.

The trouble began in earnest with the discovery of our meetings in Lady Mary's parlor. There was nothing at all unusual in the fact that small companies of young folk frequently spent their evenings with her, but we knew well enough that the unusual element in our parties was their exceeding smallness. A company of eight or ten young persons was well enough, although it of course created jealousy on the part of those who were left out, but four—two of each sex—made a difference in kind, however much we might insist it was only in degree, and this, we soon learned, was the king's opinion.

One day the queen summoned Jane and put her to the question. Now Jane thought the truth was made only to be told, a fallacy into which many good people have fallen, to their utter destruction, since the truth, like every other good thing, may be abused.

Jane told it all in a moment, and Catherine was so horrified that she was like to faint. She went with her hair-lifting horror to the king and poured into his ears a tale of imprudence and debauchery well calculated to start his righteous, virtue-promoted indignation into a threatening flame.

Mary, Jane, Brandon and myself were at once summoned to the presence of both their majesties and soundly reprimanded. Three of us were ordered to the court before we could speak a word in self defense, and Jane had enough of her favorite truth for once. Mary, however, came to our rescue with her coaxing eloquence and potent feminine logic and soon convinced Henry that the queen, who really counted for little with him, had made a mountain out of a very small molehill. Thus the royal wrath was appeased to such an extent that the order of expulsion was modified to a command that there be no more quiet gatherings in Princess Mary's parlor. This leniency was more easy for the princess to bring about by reason of the fact that she had not spoken to her brother since the day she went to see him after Wolsey's visit and had been roughly driven off. At first, upon her refusal to speak to him after the Wolsey visit, Henry was angry on account of what he called her insolence, but as she did not seem to care for that and as his anger did nothing to ward off her lips he proceeded to indifference. Still the same stubborn silence was maintained. This soon began to amuse the king, and of his he began trying to be on friendly terms again with his sister through a series of elephantine antics and beaklike pleasantries, which were the most deplorable failures that he in the way of bringing about a reconciliation. They were more successful from a comical point of view than they were from a friendly one, for something that would loosen the tongue usually so lively, and for an opportunity to gratify his sister, from the Holy Trinity church Sunday was when the rector, Rev. Alfred Barham, preached his farewell sermon after a pastorate extending over seven years and one month to a large audience.

Mr. Barham took for his text Luke 10 chapter and 20th verse. At the close he reviewed his work and life among the people here, speaking tenderly of his regard and high esteem for them, noting that during his pastorate he had seen changes in the pastorate of the other churches in the village. Many shed tears of regret for the loss of the services of a friend and worker in the temperance cause. Indeed, in any way that tended to the welfare of the community his help and advice could be relied upon. He left Monday morning by train for Montreal, where Mrs. Barham is at present in a hospital undergoing treatment, and her many friends are glad to know that she is now in a fair way to recovery. CHAPTER XIV.
IN THE SILENT COURT.

WITH the king admiration stood for affection, a mistake frequently made by people not used to self analysis, and in a day or two a reaction set in toward Brandon which inspired a desire to make some amends for his harsh treatment. This he could not do to any great extent on Buckingham's account—at least not until the London loan was in his coffers—but that Brandon was going to New Spain soon and would be out of the way both of Mary's eyes and Mary's marriage. This he could not do to any great extent on Buckingham's account—at least not until the London loan was in his coffers—but that Brandon was going to New Spain soon and would be out of the way both of Mary's eyes and Mary's marriage.

Thus our meetings were broken up, and Brandon knew his dream was over and that any effort to see the princess would probably result in disaster for them both; for him certainly.

The king upon that same day told Mary of the intercepted letter sent by her to Brandon at Newgate and accused her of what he was pleased to term an improper feeling for a low-born fellow.

Mary at once sent a full account of the communication in a letter to Brandon, who read it with no small degree of ill comfort as the harbinger of trouble.

He had better leave here soon or I may go without my head," he remarked. "When that thought gets to working in the king's brain, he will strike, and I shall fall."

Letters began to come to our rooms from Mary, at first begging Brandon to come to her and then upbraiding him because of his coldness and cowardice and telling him that if he cared for her as she did for him he would see her though he had to wade through fire and blood. That was exactly where the trouble lay. It was not fire and blood through which he would have to pass; they were small matters—mere nothing that would really have added rest and interest to the achievement. But the frowning frown of the tyrant, who could bind him hand and foot, and a vivid remembrance of the Newgate dungeon, with a dangling noose or a hallooed out block in the near background, were matters that would have taken the adventurous tendency out of even the cracked brain of chivalry itself. Brandon cared only to fight where there was no possibility of victory or ransom, or a prospect of some sort at least of achieving success.

READY TO BEGIN WORK ON PARADISE ROW.

The Street Railway officials confidently expect that the special committee appointed yesterday to deal with the Paradise row double tracking proposal will report to the Common Council on Monday, and that the permission desired by the company will be granted. Col. McLean told the Sun last evening that the minute permission is obtained, work on the new line will be begun. The company propose laying a second track the whole length of Paradise row, and along that portion of City road and Haymarket street from Stanley street to the foot of Brussels street. This would give a complete double track all over the city, with the single exception of one block on Charlotte street, from the head of King to Princess street.

With this new Paradise row line, Douglas avenue cars would be run from the bridge, over it, to the head of King, and return by way of Dock and Mill streets, instead of going all around the city as they have done during the past season.

Col. McLean says there are plenty of rails and poles on hand for this new line, and a survey for the location of the track can be made at once. The line would be in operation before the snow comes. Speaking of the earnings of the road for the summer months, he added that in May, June, July and August there had been a decrease in receipts, while the operating expenses were much greater, a total loss of four thousand dollars being shown.

SCHOONER STRUCK NEAR POLLOCK RIP.

CHATHAM, Mass., Sept. 26.—During the fresh northerly wind early today the three-masted Fall River schooner Ralph M. Hayward struck heavily on a shoal just west of Pollock Rip lightship, at low water, but floated with the rising tide later in the day and proceeded to her destination, leaking 150 strokes to the minute. The Hayward was bound from Portland for New York with a cargo of iron clinders. At daybreak the patrol at the Monomoy life saving station saw the schooner pounding the heavy sea on a shoal some distance off shore, with signals of distress set. Capt. Kelly at once started for the stranded craft, but it was a long, hard pull, and before his crew could reach the vessel she had floated on the high water. Continuing his course, however, Capt. Kelly and his men boarded the Hayward to learn how seriously she was damaged, and to render any assistance needed. They found that the vessel had started several seams below the water line from the pounding in the turbulent sea, and that she was leaking 150 strokes to the minute. The crew was against the wind and sea, and it was feared that the vessel would be lost. They were nearly exhausted when they reached land late in the afternoon. The Ralph M. Hayward was a schooner, built at Portland, Me., and carried a crew of seven men.

ST. MARTIN'S RECTOR SAYS FAREWELL.

ST. MARTIN'S, Sept. 26.—The service in Holy Trinity church Sunday was when the rector, Rev. Alfred Barham, preached his farewell sermon after a pastorate extending over seven years and one month to a large audience. Mr. Barham took for his text Luke 10 chapter and 20th verse. At the close he reviewed his work and life among the people here, speaking tenderly of his regard and high esteem for them, noting that during his pastorate he had seen changes in the pastorate of the other churches in the village. TEMPERANCE WORKERS ON A NEW TRACK.

The Kent-Northumberland District Division meeting at Newcastle on the 21st inst. passed the following resolution which, will tend to stir up temperance circles somewhat more than the usual resolutions.

Whereas, The present system of vendership under the Canada Temperance Act is a source of much evil and one that leads to gross violation of law; and whereas, We believe that government ownership of all liquors in Scotland and counties, with salaried officers to dispense same, thus doing away with the temptation to make profit out of the business, would greatly alleviate said evil and lead to better observance of law;

Therefore, resolved, That we, the members of this District Division, commend that such steps be taken by our Grand Division as may be deemed necessary to bring the matter to the attention of the government, praying that such legislation may be enacted as will place a law on our statute books to bring this system into effect.

STRIVING HARD FOR SENATE APPOINTMENT.

O. J. Leblanc Confident, but Does Not Stand in Mr. Emmerson's Good Graces.

MONCTON, Sept. 26.—There is likely to be a big fight for one of the senate vacancies in this province, which since Hon. John Costigan has been otherwise provided for is likely to be given to a French Canadian. O. J. Leblanc, member for Kent, was in town today and said his friends were pressing him to accept the appointment. Mr. Leblanc did not see what claims Dr. Gaudet could have, and as he had influential supporters of the government working for him he felt quite confident he would get the appointment in the end.

HANDSOME NEW CHURCH AT JEMSEG.

JEMSEG, N. B., Sept. 26.—During the last three months the people of this place have been repairing the Baptist Church. Metal walls have been put in and handsomely painted, new lights and carpets have also been added. The outside of the building has been painted white. The first service was held yesterday at 11 a. m., at which, the Rev. Dr. McLeod preached, taking for his text: Eph. 5: 32.

The afternoon service was devoted to Sunday school work, being called to order by the superintendent, J. D. Colwell. Addresses were given by Rev. Dr. McLeod, Rev. H. D. Worden, Rev. C. L. Slipp, Bro. C. D. Dykeman and J. D. Colwell.

The evening service was held at 7 o'clock, at which Dr. McLeod again preached, taking for his text: Gal. 3: 2. The house was filled to overflowing both morning and evening. The collections for the day amounted to about $35.

Mah-Pu Mineral Water.

What a Montreal Analytical and leading Chemist says of it: "This water, which is of the saline mineral class, comprises most favorably with other well-known Springs. The marked proportion of the rare compound, lithium chloride, present, together with the bicarbonates of iron, magnesium, lime and soda, and phosphate of soda, render the new water of decided medicinal value. The water is clear, odorless and of very pleasant taste. It aerated with Carbonic Acid Gas is rendered still more valuable and palatable. Apart from its medicinal features it would be a most agreeable beverage whether used in its natural condition or aerated."

Simple Designs for Embroidered Belts

The Summer Work of Making Lingerie

PERHAPS the most popular kind of summer fancywork is the making of exquisite bits of lingerie. Done, of course, entirely by hand. Some of the pieces American girls turn out rival the most beautiful of those brought from the city most famous for their manufacture—Paris.

After, covetous little of linen—fine enough to make a handkerchief of—have their edges dainty ruffled and whipped, with almost invisible stitches, to the rolled edges of embroidery, or to the strong little threads which border lace insertion.

Fashions follow, dress fashions—though remotely. German Valenciennes lace, used so freely for blouses and summer dresses, is used in preference to the lighter, finer French mesh even for lingerie this year. And, Broderie Anglaise, which has wandered over every sort of thing, from sheer blouse to broadcloth evening coat, is lavishly used.

Hand embroidery—the sort that shows off a single false stitch—is best liked for these bits of daintiness. But some machine-made embroideries are to be had, almost as delicately executed, if without the stamp of individuality that hand-work always bears.

Motifs of embroidery framed in bits of EMBROIDERY, in one form or another, from the English and Danish and Norwegian cut work, which has taken the world of art needlewomen by storm, to the crude designs and crude colorings of Eastern races, has found its way into almost every article of dress this season.

Most of the new blouses have collars attached, so that the fever for separate collars, which has raged fiercely for several years, has abated. Their sequel is the new embroidered belt, got up in a hundred ways.

Hand-drawn materials—hardanger work, too—make the foundations of fully half of them: linen, of all weights and colors, the rest. And the kinds of work they are embellished with include every popular style of embroidery.

Heavy cotton braid, with a mesh something like canvas, is treated with hardanger work, in motif-like designs; or in embroidery, in dull blue and green and reds—Bulgarian fashion; or, perhaps, in simple attached to a buckle and worn plain.

The three designs pictured are easily worked and extremely effective. The single motif—the design at the top—is applied three times across the back of the belt, one motif exactly in the middle and one on each side. It should be heavily outlined in old rich shades of several colors, except for the dots in the centre, which should be embroidered solid and then outlined in a contrasting color.

The second design, blocks laid on each other, is outlined in three shades of a color, the lightest being used for the upper squares and for the ones nearest the front. The motif directly in back and one side of the belt are shown.

The third design is worked in outline stitch, except for the dots—like the top motif. The design shown is complete for the back and one side.

As this design is the exact size for reproduction, it is only necessary to trace off the pattern, reversing the tracing when applying the design to complete the belt.

HEAVY THREAD BELT

Be sure to use wash embroidery silks or cottons, as the material used in the belt washes splendidly. And use a rather heavy thread. It should stand out a little, instead of sinking into the braid, as the finer threads do.

Broderie Anglaise makes some of the prettiest belts, either a conventional bringing together of round and long eyelets into effective designs, or in flower designs, with petals made of eyelets.

An occasional broader Anglaise belt is made up over a pale color, which shows through the eyelets—something in the way the white kid belts are studded

Don't Have All Your Skirts Short

WITH short skirts invading the ranks of almost every style of dress, a mistake often committed is that of having every skirt in your wardrobe short, instead of having an occasional long one for high days and holidays.

Other mistake even more often encountered is the wearing of several tailored skirts with exquisitely embroidered blouses, the excuse being that they are both white and so should be all right.

They're not all right, by a great deal. Short skirts belong, by the very nature of things, to the less formal side of things; and embroidered blouses—this, of course, refers to the more elaborate blouses, not the simple little ones that belong, by rights, to morning and walking suits—a rather more formal side.

Separate skirts, of tulle or handkerchief linen or of about the same weight as the materials your "best" blouses are made of, combine with those blouses into the prettiest little white dresses. And if you keep the skirt fairly plain, trimming it only with tucks, or with flowers, or perhaps with just a little Valenciennes lace of some simple, unob-

USEFUL SUGGESTIONS—MAKING A BEGINNING ON YOUR CHRISTMAS GIFTS

SOMEWHERE tucked away in the bureau of that prodigious homestead, the girl who is always ready for every occasion, are the first of her Christmas gifts, carefully laid in tissue paper, with some delicate, sweet-smelling powder as accompaniment.

It's not a bit too early to be about it, and the long, lazy summer days are all the pleasanter whiled away with dainty work and thoughts of Christmas and the friends the work is for. There's nothing in the world more appreciated than hand-work—it can't have been got in a hurry, a careless last-minute gift.

quiste in quality, but too small to have been a great Christmas gift. The chemistess could have been duplicated plenty for fifty cents, and the work has been sheer pleasure. Your true needlewoman revels in placing each perfect stitch.

The other stitch which we call "French seed stitch" and the French call "grains of sand" makes an excellent gift. In table linen, centerpieces and napkins, there are fewer people doing it, so many stitches must be placed to get the delicate effect, and so much time is apparently lost.

Chemistess and collar and cuff sets—with cuffs deeper than ever—are being buttonholing and lace stitches combined. The work is done very, but something around bits shaped like the old jeweled designs, and is cut out carefully—the opening filled in with the prettiest lace stitches, those that don't burn and close used more often than the new lace stitches that can't be used in the linen shape. Between the scallops of the scalloped lace, the scalloped lace, by casting stitches across and back and working over them for foundation, blouses are made of Hede-bro work, but it is at its prettiest for table linen.

open spaces held firm by buttonholed threads.

Lace work—what may be its last form, for lace work has had an unprecedented popularity—has, for its latest form, fringe made of lace. It is very old-lace, deep and rich in tone, and is done something like the older Renaissance lace, yet is indescribably different.

These collars and cuff sets of linen, to be made up with a shirt waist or blouse, are very popular—these pieces making all the trimming that is used on the blouse.

Hardanger work is used now mostly for table doilies and centerpieces, although an occasional wonderful application of it to a blouse is still used—one enthusiast making herself a blouse and hat to match of it.

These little things—the gifts that are hardly more than the old-time Christmas card—these little things with heads silhouetted with black water-color points on a background of colored linen, with black-headed pins stuck around the edge, make mighty useful and acceptable gifts. They are the sort of things that it pays to have a couple of extra ones of—they're sure to be needed.

The other cushions, thick and fat and filled with all sorts and colors of pins, are more important affairs, and pretty expensive if you make only one. If you make three or four, instead, the cost for each is very little—it's the getting different papers of pins to use only a few, that makes a single one costly out of all proportion.

A bureau basket is one of the collapsible cretonne-covered waste baskets in miniature. It is not more than three inches high, and both sides and base are made and lined separately and joined by narrow ribbons. The basket is left empty for the various little things, or is

The exquisite chemistess, made of a bit of linen, lifted out of the class of linen by the fairylike embroidery even applied the more delicate forms of the plain, sheer handkerchiefs, ready hemstitched, and decorated with lace.

In table linen, too, a novel form of drawnwork is very popular. The design is a series of squares, each containing a different motif, and the work is done in a way that makes the squares stand out from the background.

Becheux work for the deep cuffs and collars is very popular. It is a kind of lace work, done in a way that makes the cuffs and collars stand out from the background.

Hardanger work is used now mostly

Sevaluers—and there is a new twist to the knitting stitches—little white—and signs are made oftener than any other summer. And there's a new wool, a new kind of thread, breaking it up into little white and shadows.

And-back to embroidery for a ways has a big following, and the new pieces are especially lovely this year.

NEARLY KILLED IN DEPOT.

An old man named William deMili had a very narrow escape from death this morning in the Union Depot. The Boston train was backing into the front of the station and deMili, who is apparently quite deaf, was standing on the track. The train was nearly upon him when he started to jump instead of jumping off he started to run across. The brakes were put on and the train was stopped within a remarkably short distance. The man was spoken to by officer Collins but did not seem to be able to give a very clear account of why he was in the station and when asked by the officer what he meant by getting in front of the train, he asked "What train?"

SHIPPING MEN NOT PLEASED WITH RATES.

But They Won't Talk Much About the Action of the Board of Works Yesterday.

The rates for top and side wharfage presented at the meeting of the Board of Works yesterday afternoon, and to go into effect Nov. 1st at Sand Point, is causing no little talk among the shipping merchants and agents of steamship lines in the city. There are persons who say that the board was right in making the charge on winter port vessels, as other vessels have to pay, but then it is thought by others that perhaps the rates imposed are excessive.

The heads of the firm of Wm. Thomson & Co. are out of the city and should not be interviewed this morning relative to the situation. Other gentlemen in the office would not discuss the subject in the absence of the senior.

Howard D. Troop, of the firm of Troop & Son, told a reporter this morning that he did not wish to discuss the question at present. He believed that foreign shipping should contribute a fair amount in the way of side or top wharfage, but as regards the rates presented by the Board of Works at yesterday's meeting Mr. Troop did not care to discuss the matter at the present stage.

Schofield was seen by a reporter this morning, and said that the whole matter had not been considered yet. He said by the steamship people yet. The steamship men at the Board of Trade meetings had agreed that the city should make some charges in order to meet the expenses of building the new wharves. There would not be any new wharves, however, by November 1st. The only other justification for the charges he could think of was that the city wished to pay back to the C. P. R. its $50,000. The rates, however, were excessive for this purpose. In reference to the recommendation that side wharfage be collected from all steamers occupying city wharves at Sand Point, he said that in Boston, Montreal or any other port there was no such thing known, the only charge being on the trucks, so that the city was the first to inaugurate such a policy.

This sum was deducted from the purchase price but the matter will now come up for settlement. Mr. McKewen will take the evidence of the two parties. Col. McLean will represent the Gibson interest while Mr. Winslow, a Chatham lawyer, will look after government interests.
