Former Ledger Keeper of B. N. A. Bank Here Foils Gang of Six.

STRIKES UP REVOLVER

Daring Boldness of Manager Saves Cash of Bank in Aggasiz, B. C.

Mr. A. McCallum, formerly a ledgerkeeper in the Bank of British North America in this city, was the central figure in a rensational attempted hold-up of the bank's branch at Aggasiz, B. C., Wednesday. Mr. McCallum is now manager of that branch of the bank, and while he and his clerks were preparing to close the bank for the day, six masked men, heavily armed, entered through the door, and while five of them held the clerks covered with their revolvers, the leader advanced to the manager, who was standing near the door, and requested him to turn over all the cash in sight For answer Mr. McCallum stepped suddenly forward and struck the gur from the robber's hand, and, reaching out, slammed the heavy vault door closed, and turned the combination. The money was safe. The robbers, seeing their plan defeated, withdrew, and took to the hills, where a large posse of provincial and special police is now in pursuit. It is reported that they have been surrounded in the woods, and that their capture is im-

It was a funny little banking office, according to eastern notions of bank buildings-just a one-story frame building with a broad platform in front, something like a rural railroad station-at least that's the way it used to be. They may have a new building since. The town itself is very much the same as a good many other little towns in that part of the country. It is nestled down among the mountains of the coast range, and the forest encroaches on its borders on all sides. "The bank always takes precautions to have their tellers well armed, against just such emergencies, and in a little town not far from Aggasiz, where I served as teller, I always worked with a loaded revolver on the desk beside me. It was one of the rules of the bank.

BORDEN'S RECKLESS POLICY IN TWO SHORT YEARS ENDS PROSPERITY OF DOMINION When Laurier Left Office Abundance

Was in Evidence Everywhere-Conservative Rule Has Swiftly Brought Distress and Stringency All Over Canada.

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—The free food speech of Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Hamilton before the Federation of Ontario Liberal Clubs last night has made a profound impression among economic students at the capital. Again the Liberal leader is given credit for farsighted statesmanship.

The fact is being recalled that Sir Wilfrid came to office in 1896 when Canada was in the throes of her longest and most severe period of depression. Men's pockets were empty and the country was making no progress. Almost immediately a propaganda of publicity was inaugurated which brought an army of immigrants to Canada for the development of natural resources long dormant, and a flood of capital which enabled the growing population to create an era of the greatest prosperity that Canada

A SWIFT CHANGE.

Sir Wilfrid left office with abundance in evidence everywhere. Within two years the abundance has disappeared and distress and stringency have succeeded it. The cost of living has been raised to a point where existence is the great problem of the individual, and saving has become an impossibility.

The Hamilton platform, which has just been enunicated, is regarded as another stroke of statesmanship. The authorities here believe that the leader who put dollars into the empty pockets of the people in the past has the ability, if afforded opportunity, to carry out a policy which will enable the people to keep a few dollars in their pockets while living in comfort. #### Nervous Energy Is Limited

There is only so much energy in the human body. A few people have an abundance, but more have not enough. Hence the necessity of conserving vitality.

If wasted by mode of living, disease or worry there must be a reckoning, and trouble is sure to come. It may be headaches and weak, aching eyes: it may be nervous indigestion, or it may be merely lack of energy and ambition, and feelings of fatigue or helplessness. Of course. sooner or later exhaustion of the nerves leads to prostration, paralysis or locomotor ataxia, but there is no need to let the trouble develop that

By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can restore to the feeble, wasted nerve cells the energy mey have lost. It will take some effort on your part o give up worry and anxiety, but you should realize your serious condition. Rest and use this great food cure and you are bound to improve in health and vigor.

THE VOICE OF THE CHIEF.

From the voice of the Chief came a clarion call at Hamilton as he summoned Canadians to their country's service. There were no weak wailings over past reverses; these are but infor the future of Canada, whose bright prospects no reactionary forces can retard.

"I call you to fight with me, to fight the battle of public sevice, to fight the battle of your country and its citizenship," said Sir Wilfrid.

"Stand to your ideals, Stand fast, stand true. Fulfill the great duties that belong to British citizenship Keep your ideal before ou like the cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night, which guided the people of God from the tribulations of bondage to the promised land. Let my last word be this: Let us all together, old and young, join hands, gird our loins, buckle on our armor, unfurl our standard, and go forward together in service, in earnest, whole-hearted, unselfish service for Canada first, Canada last, and Canada forever.'

Once again has Sir Wilfrid urged the pressing need in Canadian political life to preserve the freedom secured for us by the labors of our pioneers, and allow neither personal interests nor misdirected sentiment to weaken the autonomy that we have gained. Canada must not degenerate into the feebleness of a contributory colony but must take her part in imperial work as a nation within the empire.

naughts to Britain is comfort to the homes of our people. The great problem of today for us to solve is the increasing cost of living, already a burden that presses heavily on the households of many Canadians-all trol of the Mexican oil fields. The in certain sections, but the average man has but little share. And when the children cry for bread a Dreadnought will not relieve their hunger. Free their food from customs taxes. and that will be of some service. Free food for the people will be one remedy that Liberalism will try to provide. Others will be sought, but this will be the first demand.

To preserve our national liberties; to make our homes comfortable; to raise the standard of moral and physical life; these are aims that Liberals and Canadians of all classes may well seek. And the voice of the Chief calls us to the work.

The successful campaign for more members on the board of trade is no doubt the inspiration of Mr. Philip, working in co-operation with a few live members. At least the method is his. Such a campaign has an exhilarating influence upon the organization that will be reflected by a more ruddy glow on the cheek of the whole community.

If the "new blood" comes up to expectations, the board of trade will become a tremendous force for industrial progress. Mr. Philip may be relied upon to classify and to carry out ideas and advanced movements that will emanate from so many business

MR. BENNET'S OUTBURST.

From that lone stronghold of western Conservatism, which he represents, and Mr. Bryan have their own way comes the voice of R. M. Bennet, M. P. for Calgary. At his annual meeting of constituents he announces that he The President is not disposed to recogwill resign his seat if the Government nize an administration founded on asdoes not build an internal storage warehouse at Calgary, as promised before 1911. He makes a serious and, in spite of any defects of moral charon the face of it, sincere attack upon acter. What seems the desire of the Bordenism.

A number of conjectures that may shed a light upon Mr. Bennet's apparently definite attitude are in order. Mr. Bennet ranks as a Conservative leader in the west, having been elected by a large majority from Calgary in the election of 1911. But his rating is not so high at Ottawa, for despite the fact that his influential friends in the west, realizing that he was possessed of a striking platform personality, resolved that he should represent Calgary in the cabinet, Premier Borden overlooked him completely. Now, Mr. Bennet is smooth in all things, and it appears that he had waited for a weak spot before striking. He was much disgruntled, naturally, when he failed to secure cabinet prominence, and it was rumored that he Company places that company in the would forsake Canadian for English same position as hydro-electric as to politics. #### NAME STYLES.

One of these days some society belle make it Hattee or Mattee or Fannee, and it will have a vogue again. Just as decorative effects for women's hats become more and more "fancy," so are their names embellished. But most men are still satisfied with a Sam or a Ben or a John, just as they are satisfied with a hard hat with no feathers on it.

THE "BIG BUSINESS" IN MEXICO. There is a feature of the Mexican muddle very seldom referred to in the United States, but which is considered of great importance in Europe. And that is the contest between English and American capitalists for the exploiting of Mexican natural resources, and especially the very extensive and valuable oil fields. Under Gen. Diaz there was little of this, for he was anxious to bring in all the foreign capital possible, and gave equal opportunities to But of more importance than Dread- all comers: But since his expulsion matters have been different. It says that: "We are convinced, as we have already stated, that neither President Taft nor his successor had any intention of interfering in an unbecoming way with Mexican affairs. It is not to the Government at Washington, but to the great private interests, and mainly those of the Standard Oil Company, and its fatal influence on the American policy, that we must lay the account."

That there may be a struggle for the nastery in Mexico between English and United States capitalists is quite possible. This history of the Standard Oil Company justifies the belief that it would not hesitate to finance a government, if it could advance its sician. own interests. The argument that short trips in a season when heavy weather is the exception are lacking in peril is too childish to be considered for a moment.

The menace of fire or collision is always at hand, particularly the latter, when during the summer months the waters are crowded with craft.

It is claimed that the legislation proposed would deprive the public of the pleasures and benefits of excursions but the average excursionist would probably prefer to be a little crowded for space if assured of adequate provision against disaster. If the truth were known, it would probably be found that the motive behind the agitation is a sordid one.

It is regrettable that so many American corporations hold human life in such absolute disregard.

TODAY'S GIRL

We knock and criticise her, We scold, apostrophize her, We wish that she were wiser, More capable and kind; Her path we're always stalking To criticise her talking, Her clothes, her way of walking, Her manner and her mind.

We say, "Oh, highty-tighty! She's frivolous and flighty And all her ways are mighty Undignified to see; She dances and she chatters, Our olden rules she shatters And laughs at serious matters With unabated glee."

We chide and we correct her, We shadow and detect her, We study and dissect her With all her smiles and tears, And find, on looking o'er her (And learning to adore her), She's just like girls before her For twenty thousand years!

with what eagerness the boys and girls look forward to Christmas, and the gifts which good St. Nicholas brings. But did you ever realize that perhaps in the humble little home around the corner there is a boy and a girl anticipating Santa Claus quite as eagerly and longingly as your own little ones. Doubtless even already they are talking of the desired doll, or trumpet, or woolly sheep, and are quite likely contemplating writing an appeal to the jovial Saint. But think of the tragedy of it if Santa's Christmas sack is empty when the reindeers reach the humble little house. Think of the disappointment, the tears, and the heartache at having to admit to the neighborhood children that "Santa forgot us again this year."

It will not require much more outlay when you are helping Santa Claus choose for your own kiddles' Christmas, to remember the little folks around the corner and fill an Advertiser Red Stocking for them. Caps Jumped Into Lead in First Quarter and Scored Easily After That.

Toronto, Nov. 27.-Capitals, of Toronto won the junior O. R. F. U. championship at Oakville yesterday, when they smoth-ered the Dundas team to the tune of 46 The winners were always ahead and after the first quarter, when the score stood 14 to 0, there was never any doubt about the Issue.

Both teams had a large number of supporters on hand, but the Caps were the only ones that were given a chance to enthuse. Dundas had nothing but a kicker, while Capitals uncorked a series of trick and running plays that had their opponents baffled, and likewise resulted in large gains. The Capitals best groundgainer was their scrimmage buck, they working this play four or five times in succession for big gains.

The game was a very clean one, only one player on each side being penalized. Norton, the star half for Dundas, was forced to retire in the second half, with the score 14 to 0 against his team, his injury being a sprained ankle. Local Group the Strongest.

There is little doubt that the local O. R. F. U. junior group is the strong-est in this division of the union. Last year the Petrolea team was a weak one, and it did not go far after winning the local district on points Next year, if the makeup of this year's teams is little changed, the junior title should come to the winner of this district if Toronto and Dundas cannot produce stronger teams than the ones that figured in the finals yesterday. Sarnia lodged a protest against Captals on the impulse of the moment. The Tunnel Town club was so sore that it had been beaten by a team which would have been a lunch for it had it played in its true form, that it was blind to its ridiculous charges the claims was apparent, and the prodon played against Sarnia, as it did test was withdrawn. #### BERT DANIELS HOLDS UNIQUE RECORD IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

The Former Canadian League Player Was Hit by Pitched Balls Seventeen Times During the Season-Larry Lajoie Was Second With Fifteen Dents.

New York, Nov. 26.—When Frank Farrell sent Bert Daniels to Baltimore as part payment for Fritz Maisel he removed from the American League the player who was cleverest at reaching first base by being hit by pitched balls. The former Yankee drew seventeen casulty passes last season, being winged three times in one game played with the Senators. On this occasion Daniels probably set a major league record, for while it has happened before that a player has been hit three times in a game, no one remembers when a player was hit three times in a game by three different pitchers, as was Daniels. The men who winged him were Gallia, Engel and Hughes.

CONSERVATIVES RALLY TO LAIDLAW'S BANNER

Turn Out in Large Numbers to Temperance Rally at Maple Grove.

Maple Grove schoolhouse was the scene of an enthusiastic temperance meeting Wednesday evening, in the interests of the temperance candidate, Mr. John W. Laidlaw. A significant feature of the gathering was that in the audience of about 50 electors, Conservatives largely predominated. Mr. George Stewart, a leading Conservative in that district, occupied the

THE TRIAL DESCRIBED

Correspondent Who Attended Sessions of the Court Draws Pictures of Accused

Man.

London, Nov. 28 .- The strange contrast of mediaevalism in a modern city afforded by the recent ritual murder case in Kieff is well brought out in an article written by the special cor-respondent of the Times. His description of the modern city of Kieff will probably come as a surprise to many

"I have seen many famous cities in Europe, Asia and Africa," he writes. " forget neither Constantinople, Venice and Salzburg in Europe, nor Shiraz, Delhi and Agra in Asia, but out of all those memories there rises no pano-rama that for sheer breath-taking beauty can challenge the view of the Dnieper from the heights of Kieff. "Kleff's population is about as great as that of Manchester; the town is infinitely better planned; all its principal streets are at least as wide as Picca-dilly and their side pavements broader than the Burlington Arcade and better than any in St. Petersburg; its shops are as fine as those in most European capitals and its service of electric street cars is excellent. There is a fine opera, such as no provincial English town can boast, and last week for concert-goers there appeared on successive nights, Ysaye and Bakhmaninoff.

Trial Was Fair and Free. "Such is the setting. And out of this busy, modern but beautiful city of 'skyscrapers,' telephones and vast this busy, modern but beautiful city of 'skyscrapers,' telephones and vast hotels one turns daily into a criminal court where a Jewish prisoner is being tried for murdering a Christian boy in order to obtain his blood for the purposes of a secret and shameful ritual which it is alleged has existed from time immemorial among the Jews and the purposes of the cult, is on trial for sending alleged objectionable literature of the cult by express.

The writer declares that "the trial has at least been full, fair and free" and the president of the court "the impersonation of impartial courtesy."

In explanation of the fact that the trial was held at the instance of the public prosecutor and that such wellknown men as M. Zemislovsky and M. known men as M. Zemislovsky and M. Shinakoff appeared against Beilis as counsel, the correspondent says that the "tradition of ritual murder by Jews which was alive throughout Europe in the middle ages, has never died in Russia and shows every sign of fierce vitality. There are thousands of Russians who burn with indignation at this trial and would be horrified at a verdict of guilty because they believe that there is not a tittle of evidence against Beilis, but who, nevertheless are as firmly convinced that Jews commit ritual murder as they are of the

"Of the 'intelligentsia' it might be said with truth that some of them be- for the trip, but just as the boat was lieve in the existence of the practice more firmly than they believe in God. Most Baffling Modern Trial. But even granting all this, few will disagree with the correspondent when he claims that this remains indicable RADIUM NOW WORTH he claims that this remains judicially, politically and psychologically the most baffling of all great modern trials. An interesting picture ofthe prisoner's personality is given.

"A forlorn enough figure he has been, sitting day by day, from morn to night, with three prison policemen standing at attention with drawn swords behind him, listening often to tedious tales and to evidence in which his own name has not been mentioned for days together. Sometimes he sobbed and sometimes he smiled, but more often he stared vacantly and seemed only roused from torpor by the rising of the court and the smart movement of his guard as it wheeled left about when the moment came for him to

"But, be it said, to contradict some tales in circulation, that he had not the residues, and these two or three grams air of an ill-used prisoner. International War at G.T.R. Station

A lively bit of international war was witnessed in the Grand Trunk waiting-room about 11 o'clock Wednesday night. A diminutive-looking American, who, from his loquacious manner appeared to have drunk "not wisely, out too well," of some strong Canadian brew, somehow aroused the ire of an Englishman of wiry build, who in direct violation of the protective tariff proceeded to paint the floor with Yankee paint, meaning the red lifeblood from his opponent's nose. Presently a big American traveller came on the scene and hostilities for a time promised to be renewed. But this time the Englisher had met a bigger man, and so contented himself with crying abusive names after the traveller's retreating figure after allowing him a reasonable time to get out of earshot. No arrests were made, the police and station officers deciding that the indisposed man had been to blame.

WAS DEPORTED

Bert Harrold Held For Stealing 9 Friend's Gold Watch.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, Nov. 27.—Bert Harrold, a ben hop, from Toronto, was arrested in Port Huron yesterday on a charge of FOUR larceny. The young man, who is about 20 years, stole, it is alleged, a gold watch from a friend at the P. M. roundhouse. He was arrested by the police and locked up. The watch was found and returned to its owner. Harrold was tried at police court in the American city, and it was decided to deport him back to Canada. STRIKER MAY DIE

Conservative Policy an Absurdity.
Such a policy, said Mr. Spence, in view of the present situation in the province was an absurdity, and yet Mr. McFarlane said he was "behind the Government." The Whitney Government was away behind the temperance sentiment of the people as ex-pressed by the votes of the people of East Middlesex. Surely tomorrow, no temperance man would be found trail-ing behind Mr. McFarlan. In closing, Mr. Spence appealed to the electors to lay aside party prejudices and make principles their politics. The eyes of Ontario were on East Middlesex. Temperance workers throughout Ontario were looking to East Middlesex to take the lead. "We can but appeal to you," said Mr. Spence. "We have not the power now to express ourselves at the polls. Their Wish Fulfilled-Another To Open.

London, Nov. 27 .- With the opening of one new all-night club this week and another to be opened next week, the latest and most elaborate additions to the dancing clubs of London, Londoners who object to going home at a fixed hour every evening will have some place to go to after the theatre. Many Londonto the idea of leaving a restaurant at 12:30 five nights a week and 11 o'clock and midnight on the other nights.

One club, called Murray's, opened on Thursday in the building where Blanchard's famous restaurant was situated in Beak street, off Regent street. The S Nebraska and Michigan day next opposite the famous Garrick Both are well appointed. Murof the other, the Lotus, are in the Adam style, designed by Percy Macquoid, the eading decorative artist of London.

The character of the new clubs in regard to membership is somewhat mixed. with a sprinkling of duke's and other the throne. nobles among the men of bohemian tastes. These two institutions mark a new step in the development of the continental side of London. The enormous prosperity of the somewhat shady and disreputable night clubs of London in the last few years has led to the idea that there is money to be made in something operated on higher lines. It is hoped to operated on higher lines. It is noped to manage the new clubs in such fashion Refuses to Say Anything to that, although they are avowedly bo hemian all night establishments, it will be possible for them to be frequented by women of the class who cannot possibly go to the night clubs, which have been fully described in the press.

There have been a few attempts to run such a club in London, but they always failed. There is a chance that the present dancing craze may help to make the new ventures a success on respectable lines, at any rate for a time, but the genius of the English people does not lie in this direction. The purity campaign of the London bishops and clergy which, as was noted last week, has begun in clubs as well as others which may be

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or sore, such injury is insured against blood poison! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kilf!

Then again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they names of the alleged murder victims know is that Zam-Buk stops their in that ever since, and was arrested > Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surare so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from pelow is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent. Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier avenue, Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Company and told them that for over 25 years he had been amartyr to eczema. His three years after his cure of a dishe had for 25 years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

hair has stopped falling.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET QUIET ONE WITH PRICES FIRM

Live Hog Market Unsettled-Dairy Produce Steady -Hay Slow,

Since morning the local market has shown no tendency to assume its usual Thursday activity. The offerings in all lines are small, with trading slow. Prices are in consequence firm as during the past week.
Since the brisk offering of hay yesterday the offering of this commodity has been an average one, and will probably not exceed the normal until Friday. Prices obtained are $14

The live hog market is very unsettled locally because of the weakness of Chicago and Buffalo markets. These markets have shown a fall of 25c during the week, and local conditions hinge on these changes. The price urtil Saturday will probably be $8.25.

No change was experienced in the price of wheat. It is selling for 85c to 86c per bu, and has every indication of remaining steady. Oats are firm at $1 03 maining steady. Oats are firm at $1 03

DRAGGING BAY FOR BOD' OF PROFESSOR LAVELLE

Wife's Pathetic Search for Her Husband Has Aroused All Hamilton.

[Canadian Press.] Hamilton, Nov. 27.—Although up to o'clock this afternoon, relatives had failed to get any trace of Cecil F. Lavelle, the missing Columbus College professor, who disappeared after going for a row on the bay on Monday afternoon, reporters gathered informa-tion which would indicate that the man is wandering around Hamilton. Two street car conductors tell of having seen a man on Tuesday on the street cars answered Lavelle's description, and who was acting strangely. Lavelle had no overcost, and shed the other coat and hat on the north shore. On Tuesday afternoon a man answering his description, without a coat, and with his sleeves rolled up, went to a James street pawnshop and inquired about the purchase of an overcoat. He left without buying.

Later a man, believed to be Lavelle, was seen on James street, south of Cannon, waving his arms, as though addressing an audience. He wore an old coat and hat, but otherwise was

A pathetic feature of the case is the frantic search of Mrs. Lavelle, who arrived here today from her mother's pedside, at Toronto, is making for her husband. Armed with his photos, he walked the principal streets today, stopping people and trying to get them to identify the picture.

Dr. Pierson, of Toronto, a relative of Lavelle's, is also here. Dragging operations were continued today on the north shore of the bay.

AMATEUR ACTORS IN A CLEVER DRAMA

'Our Wives" Presented by St. Mary's Dramatic Society Before Large Audience.

St. Mary's Hall was crowded to capacity Wednesday night to witness the production of "Our Wives," a farcecomedy, put on by the St. Marys Dramatic Society.

The story of the play is of two young men who are financing a drama without letting their wives in on the secret, and as a result they meet with many funny adventures. The play was mirth-provoking in the extreme and it was well handled by a capable cast. Miss Gertrude Flood as Gilda Dewas well balanced, and the absence of they handled their parts reflects great Mr. Justin Hoy, under whose direc-

PRISONER'S APPEARANCE SAVED POLICE WORK

Officer Was Looking for Ed. Fountain When He Was Gathered In.

An information was sworn out against Edward Fountain Wednesday charged him with stealing a pastebrush. The complainant wanted to have a warrant sworn out, but the court, on account of Edward's good behavior during the past few months, decided that he would send a summons to the defendant to appear in court on Saturday morning.

While the officer was out looking for Edward the latter unknowingly was preparing himself for deliverance. When he finished the job of preparation an officer arrested him on a charge of being drunk. The magistrate was rather surprised to see Fountain in the prisoner's cage this morning, and when he learned that a charge of being drunk was registered against him as well as the charge of theft, the court remarked something about Edward delivering himself into the arms of the law, and remanded him until Saturday for trial.

6,805 BORN AT SEA

London Statistics Reveal Other Facts of Interest.

London, Nov. 27.-Volume IX. of the report on the census of 1911 contains some remarkable figures showing how English people migrate from where they were born. The five metropolitan counties, Es-

Members of the Barber family were away on a visit when the fire broke out, and for this reason the blaze had made good headway before it was noticed by occupants of adjoining apartments. The Barber apartments are on the third floor of the building, and when the firemen had reached the house great clouds of smoke were pouring from the windows, and there seemed a serious fire to fight. By good work, however, they confined the damage to the rooms in which it originated, although adjoining apartments will suffer slightly from smoke London.

JANITOR'S SACRIFICE

Gave His Thanksgiving Tip to Help Along Young People's Work

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Nov. 27. - Thanksgivingfeasting began in New York as early as 1 o'clock this morning with the opening of the Bowery Mission's bread line with food enough on hand to satisfy the needs of 3,000 hungry vagrants. The work of the various organizations continued throughout the day very close to the program carried out in previous years, notwithstanding that high prices for foodstuffs made the work more expensive than ever. At least half a dozen dinners, at each of which from to 3,000 persons were to be served, were provided, and in addition to this work of the regular philanthropic organizations it appeared that an unusually large number of private benefactors had arranged to help the unfortunate in some way or another.

Turkey Was Scarce. In many ordinary households the dread sceptre of the high cost of living dethroned the traditional turkey, the retail price of which had risen on the eve of Thanksgiving to 45 cents a pound for the best grades, and from 25 to 30 cents a pound for cold storage fowl. Although it had been predicted that the arrivals of poultry, which were larger than for several years, would show that the turkey was holding its own, the total receipts are said to show about twenty-five tons less in turkey arrivals than in other years. According to retail dealers, the shortage is due to the fact that storage warehouses are holding the birds already killed for the Christmas and New Year trade, and the farmers are keeping their stock for another month so that the turkeys will be fatter and command higher prices.

RATHER THAN POLITICAL

Beyond Pale of Party Fight, Says Speaker.

A good attendance of electors greeted the speakers at the Fanshawe meet-ing Wednesday night in the interests of the fusion candidate, Mr. J. W.

The chairman, Mr. Gough, after de-claring himself a life-long advocate of temperance, called on Mr. W. Mossop, of London, to address the gathering. In a spirited address, Mr. Mossop told his audience what a fine temperance candidate they had in Mr. Laidlaw. He appealed for the womanhood of our country, against whom the liquor traffic is waging a relentless and unchiv-alrous warfare. Rev. A. D. Whaley, after declaring his deeply-rooted temperance principles, declared it to be his firm conviction that this campaign was a moral rather than a political one. In clear, convincing arguments he brought home o each one their moral responsibility, and expressed the hope that the electors of East Middlesex would rise to their great opportunity by electing the temperance candidate.

Traveller's Experience. Mr. Gordon Wright told of his long career as a traveller, and the oppor-tunities he had of seeing the evils of the drink traffic.

Referring to the fact that he had never voted Reform in his life, he told of the failure of the Government to keep pace with the temperance sentiment of the country, and that for this very reason he was taking part in this campaign, and doing what he could do to elect Mr. Laidlaw. He called attention to the fact that the Government representatives in this campaign were doing everything in their power to divert the attention of the electors from the one issue of this campaign

-the temperance issue. Comparison With Kansas. He compared the splendid conditions that prevailed in Kansas, where prohibition had been in force for 40 years, with the conditions in Ontario, showing what might be expected here under intelligent legislation in regard to the

Mr. J. Bailey followed with a forceful address, in which he showed the great opportunity that was before the electors of East Middlesex to strike a death blow to the liquor interests. He reviewed the many advantages, financially, morally and from the public health standpoint that would accrue from prohibition. He told of the ef-forts that had been made in the past to secure legislation that would wipe out the traffic, and how the temperance people had been handicapped by the imposition of the three-fifths clause.

troubles at the shipyard, so that the new vessel is not of such modern type as some of the ships already launched. She was laid down on May 31, 1912. The British admiralty today departed from its recent custom and invited the naval attaches of the foreign embassies in London to be present at the launching, its reason for doing this being probably because the details concerning the new battleship were already known.

Sketch of the Great British Soldier Shows Him in New and More Human Guise.

Even if he was put into one of those short beds that in the past cramped the legs of a long Minister in Attendance, Lord Kitchener relished his recent visit to Balmoral. It is true he stands-and lies-well over six feet; it is true that there was a time when he would have obeyed the royal comtoo silent a man to feel that he made comfortable guest at the dinner-table or in a house party. His silence was competent and domineering, the sort of silence that prods other people into speech and action; but for all that, it was a habit, not to be shaken off at will for a week-end. But the Lord Kitchener of today is garrulous compared with the Lord Kitchener of yes-lieutenant; and, since he has no longer to enforce lience in others, he does not enforce it in himself. Perhaps he will never be eloquent. "I can't speak, and so I won't," he once said in apolo gy at a dinner in New York; "It's better to say nothing than to send you to sleep." There were some famous afterdinner humorists present, and K. chose the wiser course. Egypt, on the other hand, the Sphinx must necessarily outdo him in silence; so there, too, he has chosen well. He has now as much conversation as his predecessor, Lord Cromer.

A Matter of Looks. The Kitchener of the special reporter "stands straight as a lance, and looks out imperiously above most men's heads; his motions are de-HOBBY liberate and strong, he seems built for tireless, steel-wire endurance; steady passionless eyes, shaded by decisive brows, a long moustache under which you divine an immovable mouth; 'his tace is narsa and neither appeals for affection nor stirs dislike." class of observer he "seems to have no age but the prime of life." But meet him by chance upon a station platwhen he is traveling casually, form, for his own pleasure; watch him in the refreshment room and at the bookstall, and your pen, if it is honest, will make a much less conventionally stern picture. His well-worn tweed suit suf-ficiently disguises the lance-like times have changed. For years he was too silent to man to feel that he made gest that an orderly, instead of getting solid food, and I had to feed him on to his brushes, sometimes over-sleeps himself; the Kitchener you see forgets that he is supposed to look out imperiously over other men's heads; and the tanned face, after a few weeks in Europe, shows more natural red than martial brown.

But one feature dear to the special reporter remains. "His strength lies n his eyebrows," said a woman who had seen enough of him to distrust the legend that he is made only of iron and steel, and whips and wire. One may distrust, too, the legend that he has cared only for one woman in his lifethe nurse of his infancy. "Mrs. Colonel" admittedly, he has snubbed. Chinese have one great qualification for being good soldiers," he once said in talk; "their wives are nonentities; they are free from the colonel's lady who runs not only the colonel but the garrison as well." It is in saying such things that Lord Kitchener conforms to the special reporter's picture of him; it is then that one is terribly conscious of the fierceness of his lowered brows, an ambush bristling with bayonets. (For his eyes are really steel

English Scientists Are Greatly Puzzled by Franz, the Tiny Bushman From Australian Wilds.

Is a Finished Step Dancer With Perfect Ear for Rhythm If Not For Tune.

London, Nov. 26.-Cambridge University had an unusual visitor at the close of last week in the person of "Franz," the mysterious cafe-au-lait colored Burhman, whose dancing caused quite a sensation in Paris recently, and who is now touring the halls in the West of England.

"Franz" lunched at Jesus College with Dr. Duckworth, the distinguished professor of anthropology, and later drank afternoon tea with the ladies.

"He behaved with the utmost decorum," Dr. Duckworth testified Saturday, "but at lunch he refused all coup. At tea time we managed to get him to eat a piece of cake, which he seemed to enjoy. He has a most winning smile, and during the four hours he was with us I saw no sign of 'tantrums,' or any sort of savagery.' It was in view of the fascinating

DEAD MAN'S STOMACH

An Inquest Opened Today Into the Death of Percy McRoberts.

Corner Dr. A. V. Becher this morning opened an inquest into the death of Percy McRoberts, an employee of the hydroelectric commission, who died suddenly at the residence of Mr. Samuel Clarke, 252 Wellington street, Wednesday morning.
McRoberts went into Mr. Clarke's residence on Tuesday evening, having been taken sick on the way home, and a friend of his who lived there put him to bed. In the morning it was found that he was seriously ill, and Dr. Jepson was summoned, but the man died before his arrival. It was at first decided that an inquest was unnecessary, but after consultation with Crown Attorney McKillop, Dr. Becher decided that, owing to the fact that the man died away from home, and evidently from the effects of something he had taken into his stomach, an inquest would be desirable to clear up the actual cause of death.

The stomach of the dead man has been sent to Toronto for analysis.

GROCERS' DINNER

Annual Banquet Finds Them

CO-OPERATION IS URGED

Out of Town Grocers Offer Congratulations to Local Organization.

At an enthusiastic banquet held last evening by the London Retail Grocers' Association in the City Hotel the speakers were unanimous with the as-sertion that the early-closing move-ment would in future have their undivided support until conditions which at present cause the grocer and his helpers to labor through half of the night would be rectified.

Vigorous applause followed each emphatic assertion in favor of the popular movement. The general feeling was that the citizens were quite willing to co-operate with the grocers, and that only the efforts of the latter were required to carry the movement

Toastmaster of Grocers' Banquet Wednesday Night

HARRY RANAHAN.

At least 150 guests sat down to the tasty spread, and altogether it was without doubt the most successful ever held since the inaugural banquet six years ago, at which a record attendance marked the inception of a move ment that has since become city-wide in its popularity. The menu was all that might be desired, and was in keeping with the usual excellent functions of the retail

Interesting and Instructive Lectures, However, Featured Convention

The Lucan stock and seed judging convention held at Lucan Monday and Tuesday, and arranged for by the Farmers' Institute and the district representative, I. B. Whale, B. S. A., was ather poorly attended, due largely to he farmers being anxious to complete the fall work and a sale of stock held the afternoon of Tuesday kept many from attending. On Monday afternoon Mr. John Gardhouse gave a very interesting and instructive talk on breed, type and conformation, demonstrating he points by animals in the tent. Mr. John Gibson, of Denfield, the noted shorthorn breeder, and Mr. McLean of Lucan, supplied the cattle. The evening meeting, addressed by Mr. Gardhouse and Mrs. Dawson, was well attended, both delivering interesting and instructive addresses. The music by Mr. O'Shea was much appreciated. Tuesday morning the seed question vas taken up. While the audience as not large the discussions were ineresting. Mr. J. W. Noble, of the ounty Department of Agriculture, explained the seed control act, and out-lined methods of eradicating the most troublesome weeds.

In the afternoon sheep and horses were up for discussion. Mr. Gibson supplied some fine Lincoln ewes for the judging. The horses were supplied by Mr. K. Hodgins and Mr. Jas.

OUTLINES DUTIES OF CONSULAR SERVICE

Boyce-Broderick Tells the Women's Canadian Club of Objects of Consul's Life.

Some of the duties connected with the consular service, and how a consul may be of service in promoting international commerce, formed the basis sured that the petition was being of an excellent address given by Mr. J. largely signed, and was meeting with Joyce-Broderick, of the British conunanimous favor with the exception of sular service, before members of the a few of the smaller grocers in the Women's Canadian Club yesterday af-

Mr. Joyce-Broderick traced the appointing of consuls from an early period in the world's history. The ancient Greeks and Egyptians, he said, had pointing him was still preserved in the archives of the foreign office. One interesting phrase contained in the appointment was that which entitled the consul to a commission on all com-mercial transactions which he furthered for the benefit of Britain. Unfortunately for the consul this commission has long been done away with. Mr. Joyce-Broderick said, smilingly. There were, however, some compensations. A consul was exempt from paying taxes; was not required to enter military service; did not have in appear as a witness, and could not be arrested.

Protection for Girls.

Describing some of the many duties which the consular service involves. Mr. Joyce-Broderick said that one thing all British consuls were glad to do was to look after foreign girls coming into a country without assurance of employment, or without knowing whether promised employment was quite legitimate. During his term as consul in New York Mr Joyce-Broderick said he had had some experience along this line, and in one case in particular, which he described, was able to save a girl from falling into the hands of undesirable characters.

"A consul is keenly alert to find new outlets, and a market for the surplus products of the country he represents. When Canada has to take her place beside other countries, long established in trading and commerce. it would be of great advantage to her if a British consular service was established in the Dominion," said the speaker. He predicted a great future for Canada. "Canada is the nation of Grape-Nuts. I am over sixty and weigh 155 pounds. My son and husband seeing how I had improved are now using Grape-Nuts. deeds of men.
