BLUE AND WHITE WINS!

"Biddy" Barr, Varsity's Ex-Captain, tells how old McGill was Downed Saturday Afternoon

COMMENTS ON THE GAME

Considers the Team the best Varsity has ever had. Praises Burnside's Work

To one who has not seen the Colleges play Rugby for a couple of seasons there is nothing more striking than the remarkable advancement in team work displayed in the present Intercollegiate series. The Varsity teams of two or three years ago played what was then considered good football, but their play would to-day be far behind the times. The development is, no doubt, a result of the influence of American play, for the Varsity-McGill game looked, at times, very much similar to a match between American colleges. The close work, the tandem plays and the general tactics were all similar to the American game, and the only striking difference was the addition of a trifle more open work and kicking than is seen in the States. Some people may consider that the close play is being overdone, but it is rather a natural development leading from a close study of the game, and the necessity of advancing the ball through heavy wing lines. Of course playing to signals means hard and serious work in practice, and if a team is willing and can do it, by all means let us have the play.

McGill won the toss and elected to play north, taking the advantage of the wind. Varsity rush from the kick off, and the ball is forced into touch. Hills and McKenzie go combine and take the ball by a splendid run and a dribble to within ten feet of the McGill goal. Varsity are too anxious, and the wings play off-side with the usual result. The free kick gives McGill an opportunity to work in a long punt, which McKenzie marks and gets in a high punt, and the wings stop the return. Varsity are still too eager, and an off-side gives McGill a punt into touch, 20 yards out. The signal fails to work on the throw in, and a scrimmage results, from which Biggs is sent through for 10 yards, but again McGill gets a free kick and relieve the pressure on their goal. Hills receives the kick and passes to Boyd, who kicks as he is tackled. A poor return is made, and Varsity have the ball. McKenzie tries the end, but does not get through the line. Another scrimmage and McKenzie kicks down to touch, 20 yards out. McGill get a scrimmage from the throw-in, and an off-side gives them a free kick, which Hills returns with touch at half way. McGill works their mass play for a gain, and the ball is kicked to Boyd and is returned again to Hills, who runs into touch about quarter way.

McGill get the ball from the throw-in and from the scrimmage, the centre half kicks to the dead ball line.

McGILL 1—VARSITY 0.
McKenzie takes the kick out but is not very successful and McGill rush the ball back ten yards. McGill are pushing the boys hard, but McKenzie relieves by diving through the line and gaining the ball ten yards from the line. The scrimmage are too eager and hand the ball out. This gives a free kick to McGill and the ball is sent over the line to Beal who rouses.

McGILL 2—VARSITY 0.
From the throw-in Darling gets the ball and kicks and the wings following fast prevent the return. A scrimmage follows and once more Varsity are off-side. Hills returned the kick along the line and McGill work their mass plays for short gains and finally the halves send the ball to Boyd, who returns and it is again returned to Varsity territory where Hills goes into touch twenty yards out. Fast play by McGill gain them the ball and it is soon kicked over the dead ball line.

McGILL 3—VARSITY 0.
A succession of kicks followed the kick out and the ball was finally carried into touch. Varsity were forced back and when the ball is ten yards out McGill get another penalty kick, but the kick is miserably taken and the ball goes into touch for a gain of five yards. Varsity begin to make up a little and gain on the throw-in, Darling getting the ball, but McGill get the ball in the scrimmage. The quarter makes a bad pass over the head of the centre half, and the scrimmage results from which McLea kicks well into Varsity territory, and the wings following hard force McKenzie into touch 15 yards out. From the throw out, Hills gets the ball and kicks for a short gain, and the McGill players dribble through the Varsity line almost to the goal line, where Hills stops the ball. Varsity played illegally in the scrimmage, and McGill again are awarded a kick.

From the kick off Varsity begin to rush matters and work the ball well up the field and into touch. Blackwood is sent through for ten yards, then a kick follows which Sutherland returned in touch about half way. Blackwood gets the ball and Boyd kicks splendidly. The McGill backs fumble and the ball goes into touch in their quarter.

Burnside gives Darling a chance on the throw-in and by a splendid rush a try is scored which is not converted.
VARSITY 4—MCGILL 3.

McGill kick off and work the ball down the field just as half-time is called.

2ND HALF.
McGill kicked off and made a short gain in centre field, but Varsity get a free kick and McKenzie sends the ball well down the field to Molson who returns to Hills and the big half is forced into touch. McGill get the ball on the throw-in and from the scrimmage McLea punts to Boyd who dodged several wings and then kicks into touch. Varsity work the touch-line plays and get a scrimmage. McKenzie is given an opportunity and by a long drive scores a touch in goal.

Hills returns the kick out for a short gain, and McGill are not quick enough to take advantage, and lose the ball on the quarter line. Biggs and Hills are sent through for short gains, and take the ball to within five yards of McGill goal. From the scrimmage Burnside, Boyd and Hills swash through on the left, and Burnside is shoved over the line between the posts. Hills converts an easy goal.

VARSITY 11—MCGILL 3.

With the game well in hand Varsity do not take any chances, but play steadily. McLea kicks off, and the ball is quickly returned to him. Harris misses his tackle and the ball is sent into touch. Varsity try to play through, but are stopped, and from the scrimmage Armour gets through for a short gain. McGill gain the ball in scrimmage, and McLea kicks into touch. The throw-in is called back, and McGill work a quick play, and the left half kicks to Boyd, who sends the ball over the line. Grace brings the ball out, but is quickly tackled. Varsity is off-side, and McGill get a kick five yards from their line. The ball is sent into touch on the quarter line, and from the throw in Boyd passes to Hills, who kicks to the dead ball line.

VARSITY 12—MCGILL 3.

A short kick out gave the ball to Varsity, 35 yards out. McGill are off-side, and McKenzie kicks over the line. McLea catches, and running out, kicks into touch, 20 yards out. McGill get the ball on the throw-in, but cannot do anything with it, for the Varsity boys are playing too quickly for their mass formations. Varsity get the ball at last, and McKenzie punts to the line and Grace returns into touch. Boyd makes a short gain, and from the scrimmage, 35 yards out, McKenzie kicks high over the line, Grace fumbles and is checked by Harris, while Armour and Burnside slide over the line with the ball. Hills again successfully converts the try.

VARSITY 18—MCGILL 3.

But a few minutes remain for play and the ball is gradually worked within 10 yards of McGill goal, when time is called.

A. F. Barr

NOTES.

The Varsity wing line looked lighter than their opponents, but their quickness in getting into play more than made up for the extra advantage the McGill team had in weight.

Biggs played a splendid game at quarter. His passing was excellent and he was very quick playing to the signals.

The tackling of the Varsity wings was grand. Time and again the McGill backs were stopped by hard dive tackles. One of the best tests of a team's training is the ability of the men to tackle well, and Capt. Burnside is to be congratulated at the high degree of excellence to which he has brought his men.

VARSITY RUGBY DANCE

Date of this Function has been Changed from the 22nd to the 29th Inst.

The date of the Varsity Rugby dance has been changed from the 22nd to the 29th. This change has been made in deference to the Osgoode dance and debate, which has been fixed for the former night. The "gym" will be en fete, and the hospitality of the Athletic Association will be extended especially to the different teams.

Coke, the fashionable west end barber, is still at the old stand, 464 Spadina Avenue.

CLASSICS AND MODERNS DEBATE

Representatives from the Two Departments Meet on the Platform—Classics Successful.

GOOD MUSICAL PROGRAM

Representatives Nominated and Elected for the Public Debate and Osgoode Dance.

Last Friday's session of the Lit was but another confirmation of the fact that the University College Literary and Scientific Society has this year taken on a new lease of life. Both the attendance and the programme gave evidence of marked progress. In view of the many counter-attractions, including in this category Friday bargains, which at this early stage of the academic year conspire to draw the attention of the student elsewhere, it must be very gratifying to the committee to note the marked success which is attending its efforts to furnish a programme which is at once appetizing, instructive, and calculated to promote social good fellowship. The college man is as keen as the next man in his appreciation of a good thing, and the manifest interest taken this year in this most important function of University life is a certificate to the ability and enterprise of the present executive. The meeting was called to order at 8.30 by the president, Dr. Wickett. The routine of business, which comprised the following items, first demanded the attention of the house:

Mr. Armour's motion, of which he gave notice at the last meeting, found a second in Mr. Allen, and was unanimously carried. Mr. Hamilton, one of the nominees for the first year to the executive board, withdrew from the contest, Messrs. Patterson and MacIntosh being thus elected by acclamation.

Mr. E. E. Brown then reported that in pursuance of a motion at last meeting, the executive had seen fit to appoint Messrs. Armour, Sadler, Monds, Dickson, Telford and Yeates to organize a chorus. Mr. Brown moved, seconded by Mr. Groves, that these appointments be approved. Carried.

John McKay, the vice-president, was supported by His Sereneness Count Armour in a successful request that the society would approve of the action of the executive in appointing the dinner committee, mention of which is made in another column.

Nominations for the public debate were next in order, and resulted as follows: Debaters: from fourth year, Messrs. W. F. MacKay, W. A. Sadler, T. A. Russell and W. H. McNairn; debaters from third year, Messrs. A. N. Mitchell and G. F. Kay; essayist, Messrs. A. H. R. Fairchild and W. C. Good; readers, Messrs. E. Howe and A. L. Burch. The ballot resulted as follows: Debaters, Messrs. MacKay, Russell, Kay and Mitchell; essayist, Mr. Fairchild; reader, Mr. Burch. Messrs. D. A. Ross and Murray Cohen were elected by acclamation as representatives at the Osgoode debate.

The literary and musical programme betokened a very enviable order of talent, and the proceedings must ever lack dullness so long as such resources are available. Mr. Beardmore, of the School of Science, gave a violin solo, the rendering of which was perfect. Those present must have realized that it is only "now and then" that they can hope to be favored with such a treat. In response to a very urgent call for an encore, Mr. Beardmore gave the "Intermezzo" from the "Cavaliere Rusticana," in quite as felicitous a manner. Mr. J. Gibson, of Wycliffe, appealed to the cachinnatory tendencies of the audience by a comical recitation of a "snoring wonder."

If Mr. Gibson is as successful in his hours of slumber as he was in his impersonation, we rather suspect he would hardly be the right party to invite to camp.

Mr. E. G. Robb then favored the house with a love ditty which found a warm response in the hearts of all. By way of encore, he sang the old favorite, "The Banks of the Wabash" and was enthusiastically supported in the chorus by the musical contingent. Meanwhile the orators, smelling the battle from afar, had been waxing fiercer and fiercer, so that they could hardly be restrained from making a stampee en masse to the rostrum. On the one hand were Messrs. Rea and R. M. Millman of the department of Moderns, who sacrificing insular prejudice to forensic zeal undertook to prove that recent developments have proved the superiority of Russian over British diplomacy. Arrayed against these budding Ciceros were Messrs. R. G. Hunter and C. V. Dymont, disciples of the humanities. Mr. Rea opened the argument for the affirmative by showing how Russian interests had prevailed over British in China. He alluded to the railway built by them in China, which had deprived British merchants of fabulous sums of money. Referring to a large map he showed how they had outwitted British diplomacy in the possession of Port Arthur.

Mr. Hunter, the leader of the negative, professed his intention of defending the British and classical side of the question. He divided his argument into several segments, in which he dealt with the question from the general standpoint of British diplomacy, as displayed in Persia, India and elsewhere. He maintained, in opposition to Mr. Rae, that railway interests were inconclusive proofs of the success or failure of a nation's diplomacy.

Mr. Millman followed with a very spirited speech, in which he demonstrated that British diplomacy had been unsuccessful in almost all its manifestations; whereas the Russians have both laid their plans and carried them into execution. He challenged the assembly to say who would ultimately take the cake, meaning China, the British lion or the Russian bear.

Upon the retirement of the last speaker, the classic Dymont made his way to the platform in a very cool and deliberate manner. Mr. Dymont had previously taken the auspices, and the onens being favorable, had bedecked himself with a garland of victory—a blushing rose and a miniature fernery. He proceeded in a cold-blooded manner to knock the legs from under his opponents. His sarcasm was as biting as the east wind, and pierced the joints of the enemy's armour. Mr. Dymont devoted the greater part of his attention to the refutation of the fallacies of the affirmative, besides contributing some very cogent arguments in support of his own side.

The debate at an end, Dr. Wickett, after pointing out the merits and defects of the various arguments, gave his verdict in favor of the negative.

Among the celebrities on the platform was a bevy of '98 men—Messrs. W. M. Martin, G. L. Wagar and T. A. Colclough.

CLASS '01 RECEPTION

Will be Held Friday Afternoon, the 18th Inst.—Publication of a Year Book Discussed.

The president, E. J. Kylie, presided at the meeting of the executive of class '01 on Friday last. In spite of the example of the class of '99, no mention was made of abandoning the old custom of holding the annual class reception. The committee was unanimous in a decision to hold an "At Home" on the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 18th. Sub-committees were struck to deal with finance, refreshments, music and programmes. These will report to the executive at a meeting to be held on Friday, at four o'clock in Room 2. The president suggested that the photograph of the executive should be taken at an early date. The picture will be taken on the morning of Saturday, Nov. 19th. The president and secretary were appointed a committee to make the best possible financial arrangements and notify the members of the executive of the place de combat. The question of the Year Book, and the appointment of a committee for this purpose was brought up, action, however, was deferred until the next meeting; in the meantime the executive will find out the feeling of the class, and then whatever arrangements are deemed expedient will be made.

MEMORIAL TO ALMA MATER

Proposed Plan of Class '99 of Varsity—Will have No Reception this Year.

The executive of the class of '99 met on Tuesday last, Alex. McDougal, the new president, in the chair. After some preliminary business the attention of the committee was devoted to the discussion of a project, the execution of which will place the name of this class upon the university's scroll of fame. As a result of this discussion it was decided to discontinue the custom of holding a class reception, and instead to present to their Alma Mater some memorial of their attendance at the university. The exact form which this manifestation of their loyalty to old Varsity will take, is as yet uncertain, but it will, in all probability, consist of the presentation of a bust, a painting, or something of that nature. This is an innovation for which '99 is not only deserving of the highest praise and worthy of the most zealous emulation by succeeding years, but a noble example for the guidance and stimulus of the innumerable alumni who might learn the lesson '99 is giving, and give tangible evidence of their zeal and love of Alma Mater, by contributing to the adornment of her buildings and the replenishing of her library. The sacrifice of the class reception to this laudable purpose, will be undoubtedly one that will be keenly felt by those who have enjoyed the annual "At Home" which has always been one of the most successful as well as the most pleasant functions of '99. The unanimity which rendered this idea a possible one, and which prompted those who place such store on the social event of their year, to sacrifice their inclination to it, serves but to reinforce the singular reputation for esprit de corps which has characterized this year throughout its undergraduate career.

In regard to the publication of a year book, it was considered inadvisable for the year to embark upon such an undertaking.

DEBATING UNION IS NOW FORMED

Executive Met Saturday Morning and Arranged Program for the First Term

SIX COLLEGES ARE IN IT

First Debate between Varsity and Trinity at Trinity—McMaster and Osgoode next Meet.

The formation this year of an Inter-College Debating Union, undoubtedly stamps the movement as a renaissance of the art of debating. The representatives appointed by the various colleges of the city met last Saturday morning for the purpose of organization. It was decided to call the association the "Inter-College Debating Union of Toronto," the officers of which are: Honorary Vice-President, Hon. G. W. Ross; Honorary President, Dr. G. R. Parkin; President, Dr. Wickett of Varsity; Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. H. S. Mucklestone of Trinity. Among the colleges which have entered the Union are: University College, Trinity, Osgoode Hall, Knox, Victoria and McMaster. Provision has been made for the entrance of other colleges upon application to the Executive of the Union. The Executive is composed of the following representatives: Dr. Wickett, from Varsity, Mr. H. S. Mucklestone, from Trinity, Mr. J. G. Stuart Stanbury, B.A., from Osgoode, Mr. T. Eakin, M.A., from Knox, Mr. J. Osterhaut, from Victoria and Mr. R. McDonald from McMaster. This Executive will hold another meeting next Wednesday evening when the constitution which Messrs. Stanbury and Mucklestone have in hand will be passed upon. The schedule of the first round of debates has been arranged for the following dates: Varsity vs. Trinity, at Trinity, December 2nd; McMaster vs. Osgoode, at Osgoode, December 3rd; Knox vs. Victoria, at Victoria, December 9th. The subjects of the above debates will be chosen by the Executive and announced later. The Committee hopes to secure as judges some of the most representative men of the City. Among those who will be asked to act in this capacity are: Hon. G. W. Ross, Dr. G. R. Parkin, Provost Welch, Prof. McKay of McMaster, Prof. Badgley of Victoria, Professor McFadyen of Knox, Prof. Baker of Varsity, Principal Hoyles of Osgoode; Messrs. D. R. Wilkie, Byron E. Walker, W. R. Riddell, and J. E. Willison, of the Globe. At every debate three of these gentlemen will be present to decide the award of victory. The final debate will be held in a public hall, under the auspices of the Union, at which meeting the executive hopes to arrange for the presentation of a trophy to the successful society.

The energy which has characterized the work of the executive in these its preliminary arrangements foreshadows a most successful and vigorous life to the Inter-College Debating Union. The advantages which will accrue from this organization must be patent to everyone. Its effect as a stimulus to debate will be far-reaching. Toronto as the educational centre of this Province extends its influence to all the institutions of learning throughout its area. Debating, which seems of late to have exhibited marked tendencies towards becoming a lost art, will receive the share of attention which its importance as an instrument of thought demands. The High School student will be stimulated to prepare himself for entrance into the lists at College, and the result will be that throughout the whole Province there will be an infinitely larger proportion of men who can express themselves clearly and intelligibly upon subjects of thought and national interest—qualifications which it is the duty of every citizen to endeavor to acquire.

Moreover, the interchange of courtesies between the different colleges is bound to operate in favor of a closer bond of friendship and sympathy between them. Dr. Wickett has received a letter from the Hon. G. W. Ross, in which the Minister of Education signifies his acceptance of the office of Honorary President of the Inter-collegiate Union, and his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him by the Toronto student body through its executive. Dr. Ross thinks that the Union has a great future before it in furnishing a field for the exercise of public speaking, and giving to the country a higher order of debaters.

The Knox College "At Home" this year will be held on the 16th of December. A mass-meeting of the students was held last week and the date decided upon. The committee will soon begin work and there is no doubt that old Knox will retain its old-time fame for hospitality this year.

Last Friday evening Prof. McFadyen right royally entertained several of the Theologs. They say he's a jolly good fellow.

Among the pedagogues who came down with the Tigers were W. J. Elder, G. M. Murray, H. W. Gundy, and Nicholas E. Hinch.

W. H. Standish, '99, who was reported dead some time ago, is in the enjoyment of perfect health, and is dispensing drugs at Bay Mills, a lumbering town in the wilds of Michigan.

Miss J. M. Pearce, B.A., '98, is another of last year's graduates who has deserted Canada. She is teaching Moderns in a boys' school near New York. Miss F. E. Forbes, B.A., '97, is also teaching in the States.

Tommy Russell '99, Arts, and Alex. McKenzie, will wear their kilts to the sham battle Thanksgiving Day. Both these heroes and their friends are patiently awaiting the rewards of their prowess at the shooting ranges.

On Hallowe'en, Miss F. E. Kirkwood, B.A., and Miss C. C. Crane, B.A., gave a delightful fancy dress "something" to their classmates in Hamilton, the girls of '98. What that "something" was is still a mystery, but everybody reports an exceptionally good time.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Mavor, of 8 University Crescent, for a dance on Thursday evening, the 17th inst., from seven to twelve. Among those invited are the lady undergraduates registered in Professor Mavor's class, as well as those on the different committees.

Miss E. E. Preston, '99 Arts, and Miss Daisy Howlett, '01, are conspicuous by their absence this term. Miss Preston has accepted a position in the Parliamentary Library, and still takes an active interest in her Alma Mater; it is hoped that Toronto will soon see Miss Howlett again.

A number of lady undergrads made a fruitless journey to the Students' Union last Saturday night, under the impression that they were going to spend a cosy evening at their Lit. Too late did it occur to them that the second and fourth Saturdays of each calendar month are the appointed times of their meeting.

The Y.W.C.A.'s annual reception to the new members was very enjoyable. Refreshments were served about half-past five, the society previously delighting in an excellent address upon "Knowledge," delivered by Miss Prentiss, a graduate of Baltimore College, and also the travelling Secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement.

The Varsity Ladies' Fencing Club is again in working order, classes meeting every day with Prof. Williams as Instructor. Tournaments with other City clubs are already under consideration. Two freshettes, upon being asked to join the Club, promised to write home and ask their mothers. It is rumored that the Committee are anxiously awaiting the answers.

This term's first missionary meeting of the Y.W.C.A. was held on Tuesday last at 5 o'clock, Miss Harrison, convener of the Missionary Committee, presiding. Dr. Harley Smith spoke upon the Canadian College Mission. It has been decided to adopt the partial support of Mr. Campbell White, M.A., in his work among the 10,000 students of Calcutta.

The Osgoode debate and dance, which is always one of the most popular social events of the season, will be held on the evening of the 22nd at the Hall. Messrs. O'Donoghue and Makins will represent Osgoode in the debate, while Messrs. D. A. Ross, B.A., and Murray Cohen, '99, will uphold Varsity. Among the pleasing numbers of the concert program will be solos by Miss Craig and Mr. Drummond.

Another rival to the afternoon lectures has sprung up in the University Golf Club, which is now well under way. The grounds selected are fairly good, extending from north of Wycliffe College, through the ravine, then crossing North Park Drive along the field bordering upon Czar st. Play has already begun, and the membership is rapidly increasing. Several of the ladies have joined, and hope to become proficient in the art.

"Bill" Martin displayed his old time energy during his recent visit to the city. On Friday evening he held an impromptu reception before the Lit, occupied the seats of the mighty during the sederunt thereof, and at the close gave the fellows a nice little jolly. Saturday a.m. he acted as arbiter of the destinies of a game of association football, in the afternoon took in the Rugby game, and devoted the remainder of his time to calls upon his numerous Varsity friends.

The text of Dr. Wickett's inaugural address at the first open meeting of the Varsity Lit, Nov. 16th, will be "Bismarck considered from the point of view of national sentiment." The president has been very happy in his choice of a subject, which appeals so much to the predilections of the undergraduates, for whom the study of character and biography have a peculiar charm. The recent death of Bismarck and the resulting interest in his life and work, have made this subject a most appropriate one.

The girls at Varsity had a good laugh last week over a mistake made by one of the Residence men. A certain letter, addressed in a well known handwriting, to one of the fair sex in Hamilton, came by chance into the box upstairs. A discussion arose as to whether a collection should be taken up to supply the necessary stamp. Finally it was decided to give Mr. — a chance to add a postscript to his letter, explaining the unavoidable delay—so the important missive was entrusted to the Janitor, with directions to deliver it to the writer.

The musical public, who have annually looked forward to the concerts given by the University of Toronto Glee Club, have heard with regret of their temporary abandonment. The rumors of a concert to be given after Christmas by the Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club have, however, taken definite form. The concert will take place during the last week in January. The club will be assisted by the College of Music Ladies' Club, and by a prominent lady vocalist. Mr. Grenville P. Kleiser has been secured to assist in the program, and others who will take part are: the Toronto Male Quartette (Mr. A. L. C. Davis, conductor), Miss Mae Dickenson and Mr. Paul Hahn, with Miss Henrietta Shipe, accompanist. The concert will be given under the direction of Mr. George F. Smedley. A feature of the program will be combined numbers in which several of Mr. Smedley's advanced pupils will assist. It is expected that at least sixty instrumental performers will take part.

WHAT HAPPENED TO SMITH

"Freddie" Smith has his troubles like the rest of us. Taking advantage of the shooting season last Saturday Freddie turned Nimrod and struck out on the trail to Ashbridge's Bay. Ducks were trump. Having embarked upon the treacherous waves he steered his bark to a likely spot. While en voyage he shipped a few seas, but managed to weather the gale. Presently his eye lighted up at the sight of a fine covey. Bringing his persuader to bear upon them, he found to his infinite disgust that his cartridges were—wet. All hope of ducks being gone he cruised shoreward and proceeded to explore the mainland. It was not long before he discovered a hut, the probable haunt of some luckless De Rougemont. By this time his curiosity was thoroughly aroused, as he discovered therein a paper covered with cabalistic signs, which, with infinite patience, he made out to be a pedro rose. He concluded, being in his way a Sherlock Holmes, that there must be a "deck" somewhere. This he presently unearthed and proceeded therewith to play solitaire for several hours. The pangs of hunger soon began to assert themselves, however, and Freddie, who was breakfastless, set his course due north to the residence mess room, where he took a cargo aboard, and tacking, under full sail, to his bungalow, he paid his court to the somnolent god. He is still in hibernis castris.

DENTAL COLLEGE

A hand-ball club was organized last week, and the following officers were elected: Honorary President, Dr. J. B. Willmott; President, G. E. Holmes; Vice-President, W. F. Elliott; Secretary-Treasurer, C. A. Fitzpatrick; Committee, J. Hoggan, '01.

The Rugby Club has reorganized for the season with the following officers: President, R. T. McDonald; Vice-President, J. J. McMillan; Secretary-Treasurer, A. Mason; Captain, J. Sanderson.

The first meeting of the Royal College Dental Society was held on Oct. 26th, when the following officers were elected: Honorary President, Dr. Webster; President, Geo. Gow, D.D.S.; Vice-President, K. C. Campbell; Secretary, E. Henderson; Treasurer, R. H. Cowen; Committee, R. Sprott, Junior, H. G. Campbell, Freshman. It is the intention to hold meetings every two weeks, when papers on Dental subjects will be read and discussed.

The Dentals, by defeating the Toronto Meds on Thursday, by a score of 2 to nil, are entitled to enter the finals. The game was, without a doubt, one of the cleverest and most exciting played on the campus this year. The teams were almost equally balanced, the playing being a little rough at times, but this was overlooked by the brilliant passing and kicking. Our team are to be congratulated on their success so far, and we hope their finish will be as successful.

ANOTHER YEAR BOOK

Class '00 of Varsity will Probably Publish One this Year—Different than '98's.

On Tuesday last this year's executive of the Class of '00 Arts met for the first time, the president, A. N. W. Clare, in the chair. Arrangements were made for holding an "At Home" on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 3. The question of the publication of a Year Book was brought up, and the following sub-committee was appointed to report on its advisability: Messrs. Gibson, Mitchell, Telford, Cooper, Fairchild, and Clare, and Misses Grant and Wright. The prevailing opinion among members of the class is that a Year Book should be issued if it can be done in good style, and at a reasonable price. Nevertheless there is some hesitancy in definitely launching out upon the project, on account of the non-success of the Year Book published by the Class of '98. The committee will ascertain what support they can expect to receive, what price will be acceptable to the majority of the Class, and what is the general opinion as to the scope and character of the book. Separate biographical sketches of each member of the class will probably be dispensed with. Instead a full and comprehensive class history will be written, which will include the interesting events of class and university history during the four years of their course, the connection of the members of the class with the different societies, clubs and social organizations of the university. The form of the '98 Year Book, it will be smaller in size, however, and about half the price of the latter. It will take the form of a literary souvenir of the class life. Cuts of the building and other places of interest to undergraduates will also be included. The report of the committee will create a discussion which will give definite shape to the plans of publication.

GRECIAN FOOTBALL GAME

Played on the Varsity Ground on Thursday Last —Tale of the Conflict.

Few who marked the happy visage of Leonidas Arcesilaus Dymont on Thursday morning last, could have doubted that the blood-red god Ares had whispered in his ear tidings of battle soon to be fought on long-historic (football) grounds; and any who were so bold as to doubt at first, felt their doubts melt away into horrible certainty when they beheld the famed Strategus gathering his horrid hosts unto the fray. Inspire we muse to tell the heroes called into the field by Dymont, leader of men. First sportive Jones (Ionian as his name doth signify) who swore to guard the breach right manfully, then Ferguson, whose surname is the clarion cry "Victoria." Next did he call on Russell, who dwells in grassy Pedasus by Satniois' stream, a bulwark of Achaeans, then eke on the Hunter who ranges the hills with tireless foot, and on Macdougall, whose face is very terrible in battle. There came besides at his behest Lesueur, the same who weekly writes Athenian doings in mighty scroll, and Cunningham, whose wiles turned Ulysses green with jealousy. Alexander the Macedonian, in the enveloping folds of a sweater that has seen better days sighing for more worlds to conquer. Trumpour, surnamed Podasokus, whose feet are like the Thracian wind in speed, and lastly thou too, valiant Morrison in ancestral armor and bearing thyself a true-born Greek.

To sing the tale of the barbarian horde, 'gainst whom they strove, 'twere all in vain for me though a hundred tongues and a brazen throat were mine. Yet still methinks I did decry the forms of Rowland, all too young and fair for such a field, and Kylie, rudely torn from his books and parchments to shed his kindly claret on the soil. Hackney Georges eke did I see, and his voice I heard as of the hoarse steam-whistle when the time for loosing the oxen has come. Amy, beloved of Oudemira, strode proudly to the fight, and of truth his stride is as the stride of twice six mortal men, and to his legs there is no end. Taylor mine eyes rested on, son of swarthy India's clime, and eke on Martin, eager to win such laurels as his brother erstwhile won on other fields of war. Barbarians the others were without name and number. I reck not of them.

But, oh ye gods and little fishes! What a man ennobling strife it was! Time fails to tell of all the thunderous collisions of that fatal day, of how Leonidas Dymont and Miltiades Russell rallied once and again their faltering minions to the onset of spears, and raised the far-heard battle cry. Yet of a truth tell I must of how the barbarians first pierced the Grecian line and of the great woe that fell on every Greek. But only for a time were their countenances darkened; the noble gaze of brave Leonidas, the echoing shouts of fellow Greeks ranged on the touch-line round, nerved up their flagging souls, and Alexander the fierce Macedonian first pierced the barbaric phalanx and brought the light of hope to his companions dear. Nor was Emulous Trumpour Podasokus far behind; he, too, with undaunted mien and gleaming with the love of battle, brake through the breach and wedded all the Greeks to victory.

The barbarians broke and fled, while every pious Greek crowded upon the hard-fought field and sent up grateful prayers to heaven. Conspicuous among them all Leonidas poured out libations to Zens Soter Kai Nike, and vowed the sacrifice of hecatombs. And then the shades of even gathered and swooped down, while with triumphal song and exultant shout the victorious Hellenes wended their festive way to the gymnasium of the Greeks, where they made merry even as the Olympian gods.

Such was the fight at Thermopylae in the year when Wickett and MacKay were archons.

WYCLIFFE COLLEGE.

At a special meeting of the Students' Missionary Society last Friday Messrs. G. H. Wilson, H. L. Roy, B.A., and R. J. M. Perkins, B.A., were elected as delegates to the Intercollegiate Missionary Convention to be held in Queen's University, Kingston, Nov. 10-13, 1898.

The Rev. Wilson McCann, B.A., B.D., was visiting in the College last week.

The Rev. Prof. Cody is at present preaching a series of sermons in St. Paul's church on Sunday evenings on the Lord's Prayer.

The regular meeting of the Wycliffe branch of the Gleaner's Union was held in the chapel last Monday evening. An address was given by the Rev. Prof. Hague.

The weekly meeting of the Student Volunteer Band was held last Wednesday morning in the library. The study of the members for this term will be "Missions in China."

Mr. H. A. Kender has received the appointment of assistant librarian. On account of his genial style and obliging manner he fills the position in a way which is acceptable to all.

The monthly prayer meeting in connection with the College was held in the chapel on Monday evening of last week. There was a goodly number present, and the Rev. F. H. Duvernet, B.D., gave a very suitable address.

A somewhat unusual function took place in Wycliffe College last Thursday evening, when the Rev. G. A. Rix and Mr. E. A. Langfeldt entertained the students to a high tea. After the guests had done justice to the sumptuous repast, Mr. G. W. Howland, B.A., took the position of toast-master, and called upon the following gentlemen to reply to the toasts proposed: Our Home, Mr. R. H. A. Haslam; Our Friends, Mr. G. H. Wilson; The Past, Rev. Wilson McCann, B.A., B.D.; The Present, Rev. R. L. Paddock; The Future, Mr. R. B. Patterson; The Ladies, Mr. R. J. M. Perkins, B.A. The gratefulness of those present to the generous hosts was very noticeable, and the consensus of opinion seemed to be that such events should occur more frequently.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE

Rev. J. J. McEntee, of Leslieville, dined at the college last week.

St. Michael's Lit held a very spirited meeting Sunday evening, in their usual quarters.

St. Michael's and Trinity Rugby teams will play on the latter's grounds next Saturday.

The Association football team will play the Normals on college campus Saturday.

Joe Noonan is rapidly recovering from a painful inflection, known as the water knee.

Bernard Tighe and Alix. Taschereau entered the infirmary last week.

There is on the part of our University educationists a strenuous and laudable endeavor to bring, by what are called University Extension Lectures, many of the subjects on their curriculum within the reach of those who, however desirous they may be, cannot make a regular University course. We feel that we should not be behind in such an undertaking. This is the more imperative upon us because our young professional Catholics have had very little chance to be trained along the lines of Catholic Philosophy. The consequence is that the great foundations underlying the psychological and other principles of our religion are entirely wanting, or are too often replaced by the shifting sand of false material and sceptical philosophy. In this intellectual centre of Toronto, we hope to gather around us a certain number, be it small or great, of Catholic young men, who, by the study of Catholic principles, will be able to render a reason of the faith within them. As an attempt and a beginning we have mapped out a program of twenty-four lectures upon Logic, Psychology, Metaphysics and Ethics. If we are encouraged we hope to add other subjects. A fee of five dollars is the charge for the full course. The lectures will be delivered in the basement of St. Basil's church. For further information apply to Rev. J. R. Tefsy, L.L.D., St. Michael's College, Toronto.

McMASTER HALL.

Hallowe'en was celebrated here with all due solemnity. Everyone seemed anxious in their efforts to increase the gravity of the occasion, and a few were successful. A march was organized, and kindly visits made to several of the professors' homes, and also to those mystic abodes of learning, behind whose sombre walls dwell the gentle maidens. A great number of people were charmed by the harmony of the chorus which swelled from numerous throats, and even the birds flapped their wings to the echo of "Caw, caw, caw." Many a deed of valour slumbered in the breasts of the boys as they sang their little song, like so many Romeos beneath the window of their Julietts, but these emotions were quite successfully quenched by the appearance of a few six-footers—and so with a sigh and a yell they rolled merrily along "on the tear." The march resulted in nothing serious, the worst being a number of hoarse throats.

An enterprising photographer came up last week and took the photos of the several years. The first day he went away without taking the Freshies' picture, not wishing to incur the risk. He came back the next day, however, well prepared and took their photo.

The Camelot Club met on Thursday last and organized. The society is composed of all students pursuing special work in English, and the object is to promote the study of English. These officers for the following year were elected: Hon. president, Dr. T. H. Rand; president, D. V. Harkness, '99; vice president, G. L. Sprague, '00; secretary-treasurer, A. E. Stewart, '01; councillors, W. E. Parsons, '99, Miss McKay, '00, Miss Clemens, '01.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

Met on Thursday evening, when Dr. Ten Broeke continued his series of lectures on McKenzie's "Introduction to Social Philosophy." The Social Problem was to raise up the humble and to teach the victorious how to use their power and position, to teach people to consider the common good instead of the individual good. It is not that of leaving everyone to help himself, nor to help everyone, but rather to help everyone to help himself. There have been three periods of Social Development. The first a period of Subjugation when "the masses were food for powder," when the Roman Empire, the Church, communism, craft guilds and the feudal system were the great centralizing forces compelling order. Then followed a time of liberation, a struggle for freedom, begun at Renaissance and culminating with the French Revolution, a period of the freeing of thought represented by Descartes, of political freedom with Rousseau as its leading light, of the reformation of religion, and the freeing of industry. Since then there has been a time of organization when many efforts have been made towards reconstruction.

After the lecture Mr. Wright introduced a question for discussion, whether Aristotle was justified in stating that "a young man was not a fit subject for the study of social science." Messrs. Campbell, Rukie, Parsons, Pady and McLachland took part in the discussion, and the general conclusion reached by these philosophers was that Aristotle was mistaken.

Dr. Ten Broeke will deliver the next lecture on the Social Problem, in regard to the "Hope of its Solution," and the difficulties of such solution, two weeks hence.

The Literary and Scientific Society met on Friday evening and presented an interesting programme, satisfactory to the facetious taste of the senior, and quite intelligible to the freshmen. A series of inter-year debates has been arranged between the years in Arts, and consequently the first debate of the series aroused great enthusiasm and class patriotism. The first item on the programme was a vocal solo by Miss Lick, '01. Her selection of "The Holy City" was creditably rendered, and merited the encore which she received.

Then followed the debate of the evening between representatives from '99 and '01. The question for debate was the Czar's proposal for disarmament—"Resolved that the Czar's proposal for disarmament is impracticable." Messrs. M. D. Colman, '01, and R. E. Sayles, '01, upheld the affirmative, and Messrs. J. F. Jones, '99, and R. B. Simpson, '99, supported the negative.

The affirmative traversed the whole realm of diplomacy in their arguments. The Czar's present and past policy was cited as an instance of the farcical nature of his proposal, and the difficulties in the working of an international council, which would have to be substituted, were clearly defined. It was shown that it was necessary to remove the cause of present hostilities before disarmament could be thought of, that for Great Britain as a world power, it was necessary for the promotion of civilization, to hold in check semi-barbarous peoples as the Turks and Arabs, to maintain an armament military and naval. That it would also put a premium upon weak powers, who would then be able to infringe on the right of other nations.

The negative made a strong argument, and aided by ethical and philosophical deductions set forth some plausible reasons why the proposed disarmament was practicable. It was stated that with the advance of civilization the tendency was to abolish the present suicidal method of settling international disputes and to resort to the more rational method of arbitration, and that the principle which necessitated armament was the doctrine that "might is right."

The negative further maintained that the proposal was practicable because there was room for further advancement in civilization and the predominance of justice and right shown in a more humane method of arranging international disputes. They also showed that arbitration was the ultimate means of settling disputes as was proven by the fact that Spain and the United States, after the battle, were now arranging their differences in a peace conference, and that since arbitration is the last resort, it should be the only method, that it should be utilized in the first instance and thus disarmament would be practicable.

Misses Cohoon and McLay then entertained the audience with an instrumental duet, after which Dr. Starr gave the judge's decision in favor of the affirmative.

The next debate will take place on Friday night, between representatives of '00 and '02. "Resolved that the present unhappy condition of the working classes is due, rather to the employer, and not to the employee."

McMaster has definitely decided to enter the Intercollegiate Debating League, and will debate with Osgoode on December 3rd.

TORONTO MEDS

Last Thursday the Meds and Dents played off a schedule game in Association League Series, and it resulted in a win for the Dents by 2-0. The defence of both teams was good, but the forwards seemed to lack a sure combination, and the two goals scored by the winners seemed to be flukes of the most pronounced type. In the first half the Dents had slightly the best of the play, but in the second, the Meds certainly outplayed their opponents, and it was more hard luck than poor play on their part that they did not win. Cook, Turnbull and Kelly were the stars of the Meds team.

The annual match with Trinity will probably be played this week and a strong brace must be taken if our old renown with the round football is to be kept up.

Since Hallowe'en things have been very quiet around the school, the boys having exhausted all their stored up energy on that occasion. However, some important games in the Hand-ball Tournament have been played and the finals are already in sight. Indeed Tatham is authority for the statement that at the present rate of progress, the end will be seen on the 17th of March next. Some others, whose word is just as mighty, think that this judgment is hardly justifiable and can only promise the finals for May or even June. The interest in the game is as keen as ever and the Toronto and Windsor Clubs can scarcely take in the money at 3-2 on Fletcher and Hargreaves. The good thing for the Junior Year Championship is supposed to be Carder and MacDougall, but there is a pair of dark horses, whose "work outs" in the early morning hours have pleased the Touts who line the shed, and as their price is a long one in the books a big coup is in sight for the knowing ones. The Windsor Club Messrs. Brethour and Connolly it is said, quote these good things at 1,000-1, but the sports who will back them do not intend putting their money on until the day of the game. Blanchard and Flath rank like dogs in their last contest and of course were beaten miles in the stretch. Blanchard sought consolation in a new pipe and has found it (not the pipe). Some interesting games are on the books for this week and Bob Parry says he has our alley but we guess yes—nit.

Dittrick—Two is company, three is none. Friday, Princess.

Dr. Roberts spent a few seconds in town last week.

McLennen took the eye of one of the ladies at the Asylum last Saturday, and she asked him what he would do if his best girl kissed him. Her perspicacity is truly wonderful.

Messrs. Brethour, Radcliffe and Young, and Hutchison, Snyder and Anderson, were elected by the Senior and Junior years respectively as representatives on the dinner committee.

Now that the election of officials for the annual dinner and representatives to sister medical schools, and the hallowe'en celebration are over, the Meds are preparing to look to their laurels in the Mulock Cup Series. It is agreed that a medical team will win, either the senior years, who hold the cup at present, or the primary years. These two teams are usually pitted against each other at the first of the contest. Last year the seniors won after a hard game, but this year the West End contingent is out to win. R. D. Sproat, '01, has been chosen captain, and with Jack McCollum of Varsity II. and Dug. McAlwraith of Varsity III. as assistant coaches, the chances are a good team will represent the primary Meds. They fully realize that their work is cut out for them. It is unfortunate that the arrangement of the matches divides the medical men, but they will be found as a unit, backing the victorious team in any other games. One of our professors in jollyingly a tardy student remarked, "There never was a smart man, but there was a smarter; there never was a last man, but there was a laster." Neither of the Medical teams propose to be "lasters" in the race for the cup, but their opponents, we hope, will find them stayers.

It is time the association game with Trinity Medicals was on. We hope for better success than in the baseball match. But in this game, as in the baseball, we will play a strictly college team, win or lose. In time Trinity will also see that this is the true sportsman's spirit and will act accordingly.

The senior Meds continue to have a warm time with their apparently never-ending handball tournament. The spirit of emulation in the juniors is finding vent at present in a "copper-matching" contest. Some of the losers think there is considerable sleight-of-hand in this game also. It is said some of the contestants looked with covetous eyes at the display of coppers on the collection plates last Sunday. However, there is one man almost certain to be in the finals on account of his "riches." The "bookies" Smith and McDougall, had better open up shop at the Biological.

Last Thursday the second and third years elected their dinner committee representatives. The results were as follows: Class '01, Messrs. Riches, Kerr and Dixon; Class '02, Messrs. Davey, Wright, Godfrey and Hoag. The first year also chose as their councillors on the Medical Society, Messrs. Welsh, Withrow, and Montgomery.

This year's Freshman Class is one of the largest in the school's history, about 70 being enrolled. Friday morning they might all have been seen on the side of the gully back of the Biological building, doing their best to "look pleasant," while one of their number took a photograph. The second-year men who were passing at the time were thoughtless enough to pass distracting remarks. The picture will serve to remind the Freshmen of their "Salad days when they were green in judgment."

It is very evident that "the Campbells are coming" to Toronto medical, there being five of the clan in the primary years.

PHARMACY NOTES.

Bobby Greenfield, Ottawa, has left Pharmacy, and gone to Chicago. Dave Garrow will now look after the interests of the baseball team.

Tyson, our star centre half-back on the football team is playing a very strong game. He makes his opponents know "who is who." Pringle and Spears as full-backs are simply invincible.

Herb Sanderson, Whitby, the hustling chairman of O. C. P. committee, was home last Sunday.

Mr. Chas. Bartlett, London, called on Jimmie Crouch last Thursday. He says the girls all miss Jimmie's absence from London very much.

Collier, with assistant Ebbels, is now holding quizz classes in botany.

Joe Kelly has got a ghost down at his boarding house. He says it coughs in his room every night between two and three o'clock.

Our football team is still young. So is the Captain. Kindly post notices of all matches in the future.—Briggam by Jove.

Robinson, our Athlete, had the rubber taken out of his neck by the vigorous application of a policeman's baton on Hallowe'en. Tweedale is fast recovering from the fairy touch of the officer's wand that hit him on the pate.

Ab. Waldon was visiting his parents in Newcastle over Sunday.

"I insist upon order."—Prof. Scott.

"High life in Toronto."—Thomas and Brooks.

Whose cheering beat St. Michael's at football?—The Dean's.

Strong in anyway.—Valade.

Most popular man in school.—Newton.

Hard to digest.—Chemical Equations.

TRINITY MED DINNER

Will be Held in the Rossin House on the 30th
—Names of Committee.

The Dinner Committee appointed by the Trinity Meds is composed of the following gentlemen: President, Mr. G. C. McGibbon; 1st vice, Mr. Davey; 2nd vice, Mr. Braun; 3rd vice, Mr. Parker; toaster, "Norm" Wright; committee, Messrs. Johnston and Hutchison, of the final year; Messrs. Jamieson and Walker, of the junior year; Messrs. Allen and Levy, of the sophomore year, and Messrs. Imrie and Brandon, of the freshman year. President McGibbon, who is ably supported by his subalterns, is working energetically to make the dinner of this year one of the most successful in the history of the college. The Rossin House will be the scene of the festivities, and the preparations which are being made are on an elaborate scale. There will be very little departure from the custom and methods of past years. The date of the dinner has been fixed for Nov. 30th.

Comment and Criticism

The conduct of the city police force on Halloween was as usual pitiful in the extreme, and, what is more, useless. I quite sympathize with the ordinary citizen in his rooted dislike to the wanton destruction of property, but I think that even he will agree with me that there is not much to be gained from the unprovoked assault of a big bully of a constable on an offending freshman whose only offence consisted in having the audacity to exist at all. The policeman who lays round him indiscriminately with his baton and breaks open innocent heads is a fit subject for some of the corrective influences of the Central Prison, whither he so often consigns others.

Father Hallam has learned the bitter lesson that the proudest memorials of human greatness are after all but evanescent, and may easily enough be converted into dust and ashes. Sic transit gloria mundi! Could he have only seen the dozen policemen standing on the corner of Yonge and College while the work of destruction was fast going on, then, methinks, his cup of bitterness would have overflowed.

The students are to be congratulated on the excellent taste which they display in removing the hideous eyesores from our beautiful park, and I think that your University Senate would thank them by public resolution, were such a step not too anarchical.

The tremendous interest round Varsity in athletics these days is continually becoming more and more the subject of universal comment. While much of the credit for this is due to those gentlemen who are officially connected with the various clubs, it is evident that the movement as a whole is due to the volcanic outburst of genuine athletic spirit in the undergraduate body, which is beginning to realize that a well-equipped mind is not by itself a thorough equipment for the battle of life. Gymnastics and music were the Platonic education of youths, and a return to this ideal would not be amiss.

The last direction which this passion for action has taken is the formation of a University Golf Club. This is a game which is, of course, owing to its cost primarily, and to other reasons besides, of an exclusive nature, but we welcome its advent among us, because the professors will probably hereafter have more sympathy with the "sports" who have hitherto been their unhappy victims.

Whatever one's political tinge, I think no right thinking man will deny that the Lit meetings are looking up. The debates have so far dealt with interesting subjects of the day, and have been argued with no inconsiderable vim and ability, and recitations figure once more on the programmes, while the music is excellent.

Especially fortunate were those who turned out to last Friday's meeting and heard Mr. Beardmore, whose rendering of the "Intermezzo" from the "Cavallera Rusticana," was especially happy. It is seldom that any single piece of music commands such attention from a body of students, and if enthusiastic encores are any criterion, Mr. Beardmore has won his way speedily to the hearts of the boys. His excellent technique, the sustained purity of his individual notes, whatever their range, and the truly artistic way in which he enters into the spirit of his playing, lead us to hope that the committee will induce him to appear again at no very distant date.

The move already made to secure chorus-work at the Lit is a very valuable one, especially in view of the fact that the Glee Club has been buried in the Potter's Field, with the University Council as chief mourner.

The captain of a certain Rugby team not unknown to ourselves is reported in one of our dailies as having said, "We have twice been defeated by inferior teams." Since then he has been again defeated, by a team, no doubt "inferior," which is all very hard luck, no doubt. But my dear captain, do take a lesson in the ethics of good sport, lend an ear to Oliver Wendell Holmes, when he advises defeated sports to "Own up, pay up, and shut up." When you have mastered the truth of that maxim, bend your faculties to comprehending this:

"Silence is golden, says the Greek,
The wisest man is last to speak!"

SPECTATOR.

VETERINARY COLLEGE

On Friday evening the Ontario Medical Society met, and the meeting was called to order by Prof. Sweetapple at 7 p.m. The minutes of the previous meeting being read and approved, Prof. Smith took the chair for the balance of the meeting. The following program was then offered:

E-say.—Feeding and watering the horse, Andre. Chloral hydrate, McFarriidge.

A Student's

opinion on a FOUNTAIN PEN can be taken without the proverbial grain of salt, as it is generally reliable. . . . The Pens we offer will stand the test. Price, $1.50.

Many Students have proved that our ability to repair and clean a Watch is also reliable. Over 30 years experience. Give us a trial. It is our pleasure to give you satisfaction. . . .

J. ROWLEY & CO.

Cor. Oxford and Spadina Ave.

Punctured wounds of foot, Shorrey. Communications.—Orariotomy in man, Wentzelle. Neurectomy, Ramsey.

The above papers were heavily discussed, and the meeting lasted fully two hours, after which Prof. Smith took the stand and made a few remarks in regard to the papers, and then closed the meeting.

Dr. J. S. McIntyre, graduate of the O.V.C., of '98 class, has taken the place vacated by Dr. J. M. Farquar. The boys wish him all the good luck and success which this world has in store for him. There is a good field, more or less, anywhere for a good man, and he who takes an interest in his profession is bound to succeed.

UPPER CANADA COLLEGE

Three matches made Saturday morning notable in this year's football record. To begin with, College IV. defeated Hamilton IV. by a score of 10 to 0. The little fellows displayed good judgment and fine combination, thanks, principally, to Mr. Playfair's careful coaching. Next came a game between College II. and the Harbord Collegiate team. It was a closely contested game with a great deal of scrimmage and mass play. Harbord won by 8 to 2. Lastly came the annual game with Ridley College, the chief event of the day and also of the season. Last year the school across the lake defeated Upper Canada. The latter was determined to do its utmost to retrieve that defeat, and, in consequence, the boys have been practising assiduously every day since the opening of the College. Under the guidance of Mr. Grant, son of Principal Grant of Queen's, they have shown wonderful improvement, and felt that if success did not crown their efforts it would not be for lack of conscientious work. The Ridley boys on the other hand have been carefully coached by "Biddy" Barr, Varsity's ex-captain, and were confident of their ability to duplicate last year's victory.

In spite of the rather threatening aspect of the weather, a large crowd of present boys and old boys, with their sisters and their cousins and their aunts, were on hand to watch the game. A light wind was blowing across the field, but was of no advantage to either team. The game started on the U.C.C. end of the grounds, but the play gradually worked down to the Ridley end, and U.C.C. scored a touch-in-goal on a long punt by Waldie over the dead-ball line. Shortly afterwards, on another long punt, the college forwards managed to catch the ball behind the goal line, but fumbling it, Trimmer, Ridley's full back, fell on it for a rouge. This ended the scoring. The teams were so very evenly matched that the play remained about the middle of the field for the rest of the game. U.C.C. was the heavier team, and in a game so remarkably lacking in open play, weight was one of the deciding factors.

The teams were as follows: U.C.C. (2)—Back, Morrison; halves, Wallace, Waldie, Jackson; quarter, Proctor; scrimmage, Prounce, Billings, Boyd; wings, Fraser, Britton, Rutter, Stitt, Leacock, Cochrane, Martin. Ridley (0)—Back, Trimmer; halves, Baldwin, Gander, Pierce; quarter, Hoyles; scrimmage, Charles, Duggan, Young; wings, Sewell, Dalton, Nicholas, Duggan, Alexander, Ray.

NOTES

Ernie Proctor played a plucky game at quarter. Although knocked out by an accidental kick on the head, he bravely stayed in the game to the end.

Baldwin was conspicuous for excellent play among the Ridley boys.

Britton, who is one of the most promising men on the first team, is a cousin of Reg. Parmenter; he intends to go to R.M.C.

Billings will be at Varsity next year; a good fellow and fine centre scrimmage man, he will be a great acquisition to football circles.

Jack Cochrane will enter medicine at Varsity next year.

Pattison of the IV. team had his wrist very badly sprained and will be laid up for some time.

Mr. Peacock, the president of the Football Club, has devoted a great deal of attention to its training.

Ned Boyd, brother of Varsity's centre half-back, played a good game at right scrimmage.

"Bussy" Grey will develop into a splendid quarter-back.

Weir of Dundas, was first spare on Saturday. He is a good player and could have easily filled any gap that might have occurred.

Shorty Stitt, "tear his shirt" as the boys call him, played to win and his mark was unable to do anything.

Stinson and Southam (brother of Harry Southam of Ottawa City), both members of the IV. team, play the game like veterans, passing, tackling and kicking with excellent judgment. They are two most promising corners.

The struggle for head boy this year will be between Sait, H. M. Darling, Robertson, Billy Jackson and Harry Wallace.

There are four of last year's hockey team back. There was some talk of entering the team in the Intermediate O.H.A. series, but the prospect at present is that it will remain in the Junior. Morley, of Waterloo II.; Britton, of the Gananoque team; Billings, of Hamilton Thistles (in the Intermediate series), and Henderson, of Paris, are notable additions to the hockey talent of the College. Bert Morrison will be captain of the team.

TORONTO MEDS' DINNER

Will be Held on the Evening of Dec. 8th—Scene of the Festivities not yet Decided Upon.

The Toronto Meds will again unite in convivial fellowship on the occasion of their annual College dinner, which will be held Thursday evening, Dec. 8th. It is not yet decided just where this all important event will be consummated, but it is expected that the committee will reach a decision during the course of the present week. The following gentlemen have been appointed to supervise the dinner arrangements: Hotel committee, Messrs. Young, Ritchies, Anderson and Snyder; invitation, Messrs. Young, Wright, Kerr and Snyder; printing, Messrs. Brethour, Godfrey, Dixon and Kerr; menu-toast, Messrs. Brethour, Hutcheson, Doherty and Hoag; finance, Messrs. Radcliffe, Doherty, Holmes and O'Brien; music, Messrs. Radcliffe, Wright, Hutcheson and Ritchies; decoration, Messrs. O'Brien, Doherty, Godfrey and Dixon.

TRINITY MEDS.

Tuesday afternoon was everything that football men could desire. Hence there was a large crowd of spectators assembled to witness the match between Trinity Meds and the Theologs of Knox. Trinity turned out almost to a man, and gave moral and physical support to their team. The game was lively from the start, and held one's interest throughout. Our boys showed of what stuff they are made, and kept the ball well to the other end of the field. Charge after charge was made by Knox forwards, but they could not break through our defence, which consisted almost entirely of brawny freshmen. It was only late in the second half that a score was made, and that by our fellows. This proved to be the only one, and so the game ended 1-0, favor of Trinity. After the match the Meds lined up and marched from the field of victory amid the braying of fog horns and the cries of Rah! Rah! Sawbones, etc.

The next match in which we were personally interested as a college, was that with Varsity on Friday, the 28th ult. Scarcely anyone looked for success, as Varsity has every advantage over us in the way of facilities for practice. It was late in the day before our opponents lined up. Both teams went at it with a will, and made the game a lively one. Not once, but scores of times, excellent playing called forth "the soul-stirring strains" of Trinity's fog horns and their well-known college yell. But just before half-time Varsity made a rush and scored one. It was impossible to play much longer on account of the darkness, so that the game was left unfinished.

THE ELECTIONS.

The election of the dinner committee and representatives to sister colleges occupied the afternoon of Thursday of last week. A marked feature of the occasion was the speeches of the candidates. It is a question if ever the walls of the primary room resounded with such floods of eloquence or re-echoed such profound applause as on that day. The speakers, one after another, ascended the rostrum and presented, in rolling periods, their platforms to the constituents. The speeches were elaborated and embellished with quotations from the great writers, not omitting Confucius and Plato; and points were illustrated and brought home by stories of the Irish peasantry. As a matter of course, the occupants of the benches were enraptured and spell-bound by the honeyed words of these silver-tongued orators. And we have not the slightest doubt but that the honor and dignity of Old Trinity will be upheld by the worthy gentlemen who carried the election. The contest in many cases was very keen; that for Queen's demanding three ballots.

The following is the result of the voting:—Dinner Committee: President, McGibbon; 1st Vice, Davey; 2nd Vice, Brown; 3rd, Parker; Toaster, Norm. Wright (accl.). Committee: 4th year, Johnston and Hutcheson; 3rd year, Jamieson and Walker (accl.); 2nd year, Allen and Levy; 1st year, Imrie and Brandon. Representatives: McGill, McRobbie; Queen's, Curts; Bishop's, Scully; London, Campbell; Toronto, H. Smith (accl.); Osgoode, Purvis (accl.); Trinity University, MacMahon (accl.); Dental College, Wilson (accl.); Pharmacy, Schmidt (accl.); Victoria, Service; Knox, McLaren.

Thursday evening, Nov. 3rd, the initial meeting of the Medical Society was held. The new committee deserve the thanks of the students for the interesting and profitable programme prepared. The president, Mr. S. Eagleson, opened proceedings with a bright, pointed speech. Dr. H. B. Anderson then gave a most instructive talk on "The Enlargement of the Middle Lobe of Thyroid gland," citing and describing two cases of this rarity which had lately come under his observation. Messrs. Schmidt, '99, and Marshall, '01, contributed an instrumental duet, and the evening closed with an exhaustive paper on Cabot's operation, by Dr. Earnest Ashton. The paper was intensely interesting, and was listened to by the boys with the greatest attention. The whole subject was handled in a masterly way, indeed. The boys can't afford to miss these meetings. The committee are determined to make them most instructive, and if this one was a sample of those to follow they are succeeding admirably. Come out, boys, and encourage them all you can.

NOTES.

Two of our Professors are shooting deer, so are many of the boys—with bow and arrow. Good luck, all!

The 3rd year are hustling along their class picture. Park Bros. Co. will do the work. Committee: Messrs. Ryerson, Ross and Trebilcock.

Cash or Credit

Coming on Fall term you will need an easy chair for study. We have them in all colors for $3.75 upwards. Morris chairs nicely finished in cretonne and corduroy covering for $5.50. These chairs ought to be seen.

Dr. Shoemaker, gold medallist, '98, has obtained first-class honors at the New York State Council exam. He is now supplying for Dr. N. A. Powell. We wish him the same success throughout the journey.

On Friday morning, Nov. 4th, the boys were regaled with music by a German band. The concert was held in the Primary room, and was largely attended. Proceeds to pay for city hall.

Messrs. Softley and Macdonald of '00 are back from a long stay in the western territories. They are telling even more extraordinary stories than usual.

ECHOES OF HALLOWE'EN.

"Beats girling all hollow-eeen!"—Freshie.

"Is this Trinity? I'll stay with Trinity till I die!"—Pharmacy man.

"It's a good thing, rush it along!"—Everybody.

We are pleased to report that Mr. Stanier, '01, who has been in the General for several weeks with typhoid, has almost completely recovered.

Mr. Edwards returned in time for the Halloween celebration, and took a lively interest in it. A great change has come over him since the spring—his whiskers are no longer in evidence.

It was announced on Friday that the "sups" which were to come off on the 15th have been postponed till the 12th, so that candidates in the primary year, who are no doubt prepared to explain how nature has provided for the scattering of seeds and other questions of vital importance, will have to wait another week.

MacLaren and Davey among others went to South Ontario on Tuesday, and helped to win the election.

DENTALS WILL RECEIVE

Annual College Function to be held Dec. 10th—Committee which has the affair in charge.

The Dental College will present a gay appearance on the evening of the 10th of December, when the students give their annual "At Home" in Dental Hall. This function, which has always been one of the most pleasant of college life in the City, is looked forward to with much interest, not only by the Dents themselves, but also by their numerous friends in their sister institutions. As the date approaches, the Committee becomes more and more active, and if rumor is true the "At Home" this year will even surpass those of the past. The following Committee will have the affair in charge: C. A. Kennedy, Chairman; J. W. Gray, Vice-Chairman; J. Purdy, 2nd Vice; C. Brown, Secretary; Miss Ruth Auburn, Treasurer; Dr. Walter Willmott, representative from the faculty; P. P. Winn, E. Henderson, W. Bentley, R. McDonald, J. Cerswell; Programme Committee: R. McDonald, J. Cerswell, C. Brown, Miss Ruth Auburn; Decoration: P. P. Winn, R. C. Bain, A. Monro, W. McKay, S. Gowan and J. McGregor; Refreshment: W. Bentley and J. Purdy; Printing: E. Henderson and J. Gray.

UNIVERSITY DINNER

The University Dinner is looming big on the undergraduate horizon, and the discussion of it is one of the most momentous items on the docket of the Literary Society, under whose auspices this great function is to be held. The history of the University Dinner has been one of consolidation. Class dinners constituted the recognized convivial events of the year, until the bulging brains of John Grampian Inkster, the father of "The Dinner," convinced us of the error of our ways and showed us that a dinner in which the whole undergraduate body might participate was indeed a possibility. Last year although the question was mooted and the student body canvassed, no dinner was held.

It is the feeling of the Literary Society that such an event is a very necessary student function, and that moreover, it can be realized in a manner which will place it within the reach of every student. The policy which the Society proposes to follow will differ from that of former years, in endeavoring to make the dinner essentially a students' event. With this purpose in view, the intention is to reduce the price of the tickets to such a figure as will at once make the dinner a good one from the point of view of the epicure, and a successful financial venture. It is believed that the executive of the "Lit" is in a better position to manage such an affair than when, as formerly the management was entrusted to a committee of the whole student body. The preliminary steps were taken at the last meeting of the Lit, when the following gentlemen were appointed by the society as Dinner Committee; Messrs. W. H. Alexander, S. A. Dickson, A. MacDougall, H. W. McLean, J. T. Richardson and G. W. Ross, from the Final Year; Messrs. J. J. Gibson, H. D. Graham, D. E. Kilgour and A. N. Mitchell, from the Junior Year; Messrs. F. E. Brown, Campbell and Irwin, from the Sophomore Year; Messrs. Biggs and Cunningham, from the Freshman Year; and Messrs. Allen, Boyd and D. A. Ross, from the S.P.S.

The probable date of the dinner, so far as is at present ascertainable, will be December 16. It is hoped that the men will be prompt in putting their names to the subscription list which will soon make its appearance, and thereby facilitate the work of the committee.
