SEVEN KILLED IN FIGHT IN PRISON

Convicts Rush Guards with Loaded Pistols in Dash for Liberty

Judge who was Innocent
By-stander was Shot and Killed

Arms Were Smuggled Into Prison by Someone Unknown

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
MCALESTER, Okla., Jan. 20.—
Quiet prevailed to-day at the state penitentiary where last night seven persons lost their lives during a battle between guards and three convicts who attempted to escape. Bodies of three prison employes shot down while at their posts of duty and the three convicts were at the penitentiary morgue; while in the city a few miles distant the body of Judge John R. Thomas of Muskogee, a visitor at the prison, killed by a convict's bullet, awaited final preparation for shipment to relatives.

In the prison hospital, suffering from bullet wounds, were Miss Mary Foster, telephone operator at the prison, John Martin, turnkey, and C.
L. Wood, guard.

The bodies of H. H. Drover, head of the Berthillon department, Patrick Oates, assistant deputy warden, and F. E. Godfrey, a guard will be held for word from relatives as to their disposition, which was expected to come to-day.

Pistols smuggled into the prison, and reaching the hands of Charles Kooontz, China Reed and Tom Lane, the convicts who gave their lives in their dash for liberty, were the cause of the tragedy. To-day Warden W.
R. Dick continued his searching investigation to discover the means by which the weapons came within the walls. Word came from Oklahoma city that a special commission might be appointed to make an investigation of the affair.

Armed with their pistols, Rod Lane and Kooontz, when laboring for the day in the tailor shop where they were employed, made their way through a basement store room and up a dark stairway to the entry room of the main building. There stood John Martin, the turnkey, but before he realized what the presence of the men meant a shot passed through his check, knocking him down. Quickly the men took his keys. With a shout to the other prisoners to join them the three rushed forward. Oates, the assistant warden, was in their path.
Rod Lane shot him through the heart.
Near the door of the Warden's office sat Judge Thomas, who was waiting to see Warden Dick on business.

"Boys, I'm an innocent bystander, just here on private business," the Judge called just as he sprang to his feet and put up his hands. In reply came a shot from the convicts, and he fell dead. Another shot wounded Wood, a guard. Miss Foster, the telephone operator, then came in for attention from the three. With an oath, they overturned the switchboard, tripping to disconnect the wires.
By this time the greatest excitement was sweeping through the prison.
Convicts were shouting cheering words to the escaping men, and guards were shouting as they ran about to quell the outbreak.

Half cringing as the rifles of the guards cracked from various quarters the three convicts hesitated, but only for an instant. Later, however, by the hope of freedom from the three went forward toward the gate, dragging Miss Foster with them. As they neared the doorway they lifted the telephone operator and carrying

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
TORONTO, Jan. 20.—That an Indian is not liable to an action for "tort," or a wrong that is answerable in damages, was the contention set up on behalf of Jesse Cayuga, a Six Nation Indian before Mr. Justice Middleton at Osgoode Hall this morning. Judgment was reserved.

Cayuga is co-defendant with another Indian, Simon Wilson of the Brantford Reserve, in an action for damages for alleged breach of contract for the sale of pressed hay. He is assisted, J. P. Bell appointed to the

ALEXANDRA HAD SPLENDID YEAR

Increase in Church Membership—Workers at Church
Very Grateful.

The annual meeting of Alexandra
Presbyterian Church was held last night. There was a fair attendance of members and adherents. It was a meeting of happy workers looking back over a good year's work.

The report of session showed a total increase of 107 members, a net gain of 66, making the present membership 554. During the year five were removed by death.

The treasurer's report showed a balance in the bank Dec. 31st of $374.72. Total amount given to missions $1087.50. Grand total given to all purposes $10,602.94.

Reports from the W. H. M. S. and
W. F. M. S. the S. School, the Young People's Society, the Brotherhood
hood were all encouraging and showed advances all along the line. The Ladies Aid Society came in for special praise. This active organization raised during the year $1060.40. Generous applause greeted this report.

The new church building fund report showed a heavy debt, but the congregation is in good heart and facing the future unafraid.

Toward the close of the meeting
Mr. A. McFarland requested the pastor to leave the chair and retire to the vestry for a short time. In his absence Mr. T. McPhail took the chair. When Rev. Mr. McClintock
returned it was announced to him, amid applause, that his salary had been increased $100. Mr. McClintock replied in happy phrase.

This closed one of the most hope-

Of this number, 94,660 went to the

Of the 90,236 immigrants who came into the country in the same period,

Verdict Reached At The Inquiry In Bow Park Fire

The adjourned inquest into the recent Bow Park fire was held at the police station last night when numerous witnesses were examined. Much time was taken up and it was not until a late hour that the jury brought in a verdict that the fire was of incendiary or accidental origin. It was suggested by two or three officers of the company that defective wiring might have caused the fire. The witnesses examined were: Mr. Herrold, the late manager; Mr. Moffat, the present manager; Mr. Brill, the superintendent;
Mr. David Sibery, stableman at the time of the fire, and the head teamster. The inquiry was conducted by Dr. Ashton.

Constable Kerr Is Sworn In Deputy Sheriff

Whoever the party is who will hang James Taylor he will arrive in the city to-morrow evening. Arriving at such a time will leave him but one day in which to prepare for the hanging, as it will take place on Friday morning.

The condition of the condemned man is such that doubt has been expressed as to his ability to walk to the gallows. It is just possible that he will break down completely.

Owing to Sheriff Ross being on six months leave, because of illness, Hugh Constable Kerr was yesterday sworn in as Deputy Sheriff before Police Magistrate Livingston.

This morning a Dalhousie street man was called from the jail in order to get the gallows ready.

be appointed to make an investigation
of the affair.

ALEXANDRA HAD SPLENDID YEAR

Increase in Church Membership—Workers at Church
Very Grateful.

The annual meeting of Alexandra
Presbyterian Church was held last night. There was a fair attendance of members and adherents. It was a meeting of happy workers looking back over a good year's work.

The report of session showed a total increase of 107 members, a net
gain of 66, making the present membership 554. During the year five
were removed by death.

The treasurer's report showed a balance in the bank Dec. 31st of $374.72. Total amount given to missions $1087.50. Grand total given to all purposes $10,602.94.

Reports from the W. H. M. S. and
W. F. M. S. the S. School, the Young
People's Society, the Brotherhood
hood were all encouraging and showed advances all along the line. The Ladies Aid Society came in for special praise. This active organization raised during the year $1060.40. Generous applause greeted this report.

The new church building fund report showed a heavy debt, but the congregation is in good heart and
facing the future unafraid.

Toward the close of the meeting
Mr. A. McFarland requested the pastor to leave the chair and retire
to the vestry for a short time. In his absence Mr. T. McPhail took the chair. When Rev. Mr. McClintock
returned it was announced to him,
amid applause, that his salary had
been increased $100. Mr. McClintock replied in happy phrase.

This closed one of the most hopeful, happy and harmonious meetings of the church.

EMIGRATED FROM BRITAIN

the Sun from London says: According to an official statement just issued, 388,813 emigrants left Great Britain and Ireland during the year 1913.
Of this number, 94,660 went to the United States and 190,903 to Canada.
Of the 90,236 immigrants who came into the country in the same period,
25,159 were not British subjects.
Most of them were Americans.

Verdict Reached At The Inquiry In Bow Park Fire

The adjourned inquest into the recent Bow Park fire was held at the police station last night when numerous witnesses were examined. Much time was taken up and it was not until a late hour that the jury brought in a verdict that the fire was of incendiary or accidental origin. It was suggested by two or three officers of the company that defective wiring might have caused the fire. The witnesses examined were: Mr. Herrold, the late manager; Mr. Moffat, the present manager; Mr. Brill, the superintendent;
Mr. David Sibery, stableman at the time of the fire, and the head
teamster. The inquiry was conducted by Dr. Ashton.

How Government Deals with High Cost of Living Problem

Improved Methods of Production and Promotion of Co-operation

[By Special Wire to The Courier]
OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—A clean-cut declaration by the Prime Minister that the Canadian Government stand firmly by its policy of naval aid, a challenge to the Senate and a business-like explanation of what the Government is doing, and will do, in regard to the increased cost of living were the outstanding features of a splendid speech from Premier Borden in the debate on the address. The Dominion of Canada would proceed with the construction of the three ships promised a year ago, the Government being at the same time ready and willing to co-operate with the Admiralty in any movement for a reduction of armaments. If the Canadian Senate persisted in the abuse of a position such as existed in no other country, the Government would be prepared to meet and take issue with them. The high cost of living, Mr.

The skirt is of checked worsted and is slashed at one side over an inverted pleat to the hip. The cutaway coat of black worsted is lined with saffron silk and opens over a saffron brocade waistcoat edged with black satin. White embroidered silk gloves and a simple straw travelling hat complete the costume.

PLEASING EVENT AT ZION CHURCH
Galt Young People Were Entertained Here Last Night

A social evening was held in the Zion Presbyterian Church last night in honor of visitors from Galt who represented the Young People's Union of that city. Mr. Hall presided in the absence of the Rev. Woodside and much credit is due to him for the excellent manner in which the arrangements were made and carried through.

A pleasant vein of humour ran through the entire proceedings and the good feeling was no doubt engendered by the splendid feast to which a large gathering did full justice. In fact several of the speakers declared that the good things served up had ruined their speeches. This, however, was not apparent. Mr. Hall introduced the first toast "The King" and after eulogising His Majesty and the Empire, glasses clinked in honor of George V., glasses which contained nothing stronger than water.

DOCTOR SAID HE HAD DIABETES
Dodd's Kidney Pills Cleared Out Every Trace of It.
That's Why Mr. David Heon, of Nicolet Co., Quebec, is Recommending the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy To His Neighbors.
ST. WENCESLAS, Nicolet Co., Que., Jan. 19 (Special).—I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills because the doctor told me I was threatened with diabetes. After taking ten boxes I was again examined by the doctor, and he told me that all traces of diabetes had disappeared.

This is the statement of Mr. David Heon, well known and highly respected here, and he is only one of many in this neighborhood who have found a new lease of life in the great Canadian Kidney remedy. It is cures such as this that have given Dodd's Kidney Pills their reputation. They are now known from the Atlantic to the Pacific as the remedy that never fails to cure kidney disease, no matter where or in what form it is found.
Dodd's Kidney Pills are no cure-all. They simply cure diseased kidneys. The reason they cure backache, dropsy, rheumatism, neuralgia, diabetes, urinary troubles and Bright's Disease is that all of these are either diseases of the kidneys or are caused by disordered kidneys failing to do their work.

particular point, but he believed it must be so. The doctor objected to being asked if he was the "old" doctor, so Mr. Wood suggested he would be pleased if people asked him if he was the baby doctor. The old gentleman smiled.
"The Ladies' was the last and most humorous toast. Frequent allusions to the suffragist tendencies of the fair sex increased the merriment. Mr. G. Hamilton, who proposed the toast appears to know the ways of the ladies well. Mr. A. Baird responded pleasantly.
An excellent programme of entertainment interspersed the toasts and the duet of the Misses Sayles was very harmonious whilst Miss Cornean gave sweetly the old Scotch song, My Ain Folk. Miss Carpenter recited, giving a light upon the future of the suffragette's husband, in splendid manner. Mr. Walter Carpenter sang honorously whilst Miss Jessie Mitchell gave a monologue entitled "The race for a bride." The Misses Nichol, Foulds and Hall gave a splendid six hands piano selection.

London and Paris are having a great battle for group honors in the western intermediate group. Peterboro have also a great team this season, and the championship looks to be between the winners of these two districts and Preston.

THE ISSUES JOINED

According to time-honored custom, the first tilt in the House of Commons has taken place between the Premier and the leader of the Opposition.

Sir Wilfrid led off. He ignored the Reciprocity hoodoo by which he wrecked his party, and instead sneered at the naval "emergency" as having disappeared, and raised the cry of hard times, making the assertion with regard to tariff reform that the Conservative plan was to "let bad enough alone."

Mr. Borden had no difficult task to face in making reply. With regard to the naval appropriation, he pointed out that it had been made after consultation with the British Admiralty, and upon their advice that it would at present be the best possible form of assistance.

As to the financial pinch, that had been world-wide, and Sir Wilfrid himself in the Speech from the Throne in 1908 had inserted the words that there was financial stringency threatened. Regarding the increased cost of living, he showed by the figures of Prof. Sheldon, an acknowledged expert, that the rise in prices had been rapid and continuous since 1896.

Continuing, he remarked: "The situation of this country with regard to its Upper Chamber is somewhat peculiar. Canada has less control over a majority in the Senate which puts itself in opposition to the popular will than any other Dominion of the Empire I know of."

That's the talk. A Senate more amenable to the people is what is needed, and not the present moribund and blindly partisan chamber, ready to wield the axe at the nod of Laurier or any other disgruntled politician.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS AND TWO MYSTERIES

The Guelph Mercury having announced that in future it will not insert any letters without also publishing the full name of the writer, the Hamilton Times says: "But we see little objection to the anonymous letter so long as it does not attack the motives, character or reputation of another person."

To the above it may be remarked that few people have any idea of the number of letters received by the average editor in which some person or institution is attacked under cover of a nom de plume. In all well-regulated offices they go into the waste-paper basket without any ceremony.

against, must be given for publicity. This rule exercises a salutary influence both ways.

We are inclined to agree with the Hamilton Times "that anonymity should be no bar with regard to suggestions or comments of a non-controversial nature. Their use, or otherwise, of course, depends upon the judgment of the man in charge."

Speaking of anonymous communications brings to mind the remarkable political series which appeared in a London newspaper, "The Public Advertiser," during the last year of the administration of the Duke of Graton, and the first two years of that of Lord North. There were forty-four of them in number, and the first was published in 1769, when George III was King.

Altogether the mystery of the author of the letters of Janius is still as much obscured as the identity of "The Man of the Iron Mask"—an individual evidently of high birth and noble presence, who was confined in the Bastille and other prisons during the reign of Louis XIV of France.

OUR NEW PUBLIC BUILDING. It is a novel experience to look into a blue book containing the report of the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa and to find Brantford figuring in the same.

During the fifteen years of a Liberal regime, from 1896 to 1911, the just needs of this city were deliberately and outrageously ignored. The warranted claims of the place with regard to a new public building were admitted, but the riding was regarded as so solidly Grät that any kind of a place, no matter how unimportant, could get recognition in Quebec or other provinces, while we were told to go hang.

With a change of government in 1911 there was something speedily doing, and in the report just issued for the year ending March 31st, 1913, there is this item, as a preliminary: "Brantford new public building, $44,846."

This, of course, refers to the purchase of the site and incidentals only. In addition the new structure now well under way, will cost some $250,000 more. The official account of it as contained in the blue book, is as follows:—

"On March 6, 1913, a contract was entered into for the construction of this building, facing Dalhousie street, having Queen street on the right and a lane on the left. The building measures 125 feet frontage by 108 feet depth, and has a courtyard in the middle of rear, 46 feet by 26 feet in depth on ground and first floors, but 73 feet depth on first and second floors. There is a cement stone-faced basement, brick on ground, first and second stories; the street elevations and the ground floor of the remainder, except in the courtyard, is faced throughout with cut stone; the remaining brick walls having stone dressing. On the right anterior angle there is six stories and basement tower. The internal construction of floors and partitions is mainly steel and concrete. The floor of the public lobby, ground floor, is laid in marble slabs with panels of marble mosaic, and the walls of the lobby has a marble dado. The floors of all toilet rooms, upstairs hall and corridors are laid in terrazzo."

The basement contains the boiler room, storage rooms, transformer room, carriers' room and toilet room (a portion is unexcavated); the ground floor, the post office, examining warehouse, weights and measures, gas inspector, mail lobby, elevator, brick vault, stairs and vestibules, the first floor, the Customs long room, Customs records room, Indian superintendent's room, Indian waiting room, eight offices, three toilet rooms, two brick vaults, corridors, three stairways and one elevator; the second floor, the Inland Revenue long room, laboratory, two toilet rooms, three stairways, five living rooms, corridors and a bath room. Heating is by hot water and lighting by electricity."

The above is one of the results of having an up-to-date administration at the Capital, and a live member like Mr. W. F. Cockshutt.

BANK OF COMMERCE

President Walker of the Bank of Commerce has rightly won for himself a very high place indeed among the financiers of this continent. Cautious and far-seeing at all times, he also knows—none better—when to take occasion by the hand, and as the outcome the Bank, under his guidance, has become one of the strongest and most influential in the Dominion.

His annual address is always anticipated as an authoritative announcement and review, and this year his deliverance has proved no exception to the previous high standard of his utterances. He analyzes the situation in all parts of the country in very great detail.

His comments, of course, deal with Canada's experience in connection with a world-wide depression. In this regard he says: "The stringent money conditions which have prevailed in Canada, as well as in other countries, effectively checked the speculation in real estate, and it is hoped that it will be a long time before we are again troubled with a condition in which outside properties are sold at inflated values."

Mr. Walker still advises caution, but thinks that the outlook is most reassuring. In Brantford, as in other centres, the Bank of Commerce deservedly possesses a strong hold.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Lloyd George and Churchill are still at each others throats. They ought to be turned over to Mrs. Pankhurst and Sylvia.

The suffragette who threw flour on the Secretary for Scotland had much better have been at home kneading said flour in the back kitchen.

They are digging out snowbound trains in France, while in this section of Canada there is hardly enough of the beautiful to hold the sleighing.

It is announced that the British Admiralty will scrap the "Class A" submarines and by the same token that will be the only scrap in which they have been engaged.

The New York Tribune announces that suffragettes are refusing to buy a new encyclopaedia because under the subject "Eve" it merely says "See Adam."

Brantford, among its other claims seems to be a good training ground for bankers. Mr. H. B. Mackenzie, son of Archdeacon Mackenzie, and now General Manager of the British Bank, secured his first experience here, and now Mr. J. P. Bell, who made his most striking success in this city, has become General Manager of the Bank of Hamilton. Inventors, Bell and Automatic, Authors—the Duncans boys, Authoritesses—Mrs. Coates and the late E. Pauline Johnson. Members of Cabinets—Wood, Hardy, Paterson, G. M.—Mackenzie and Bell; this good burg can turn them out without even so much as a blink.

The late Sir Richard Cartwright used to be the "Blue Rain" croaker. Now his mantle has fallen on the shoulders of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has added a deep border of crepe in order to increase the gloom.

Laurier having complained that Hon. George Foster was not in the House, Borden allayed his sorrow by stating that he was now on the ocean and would take his seat probably on Monday next. Then Sir Wilfrid's sunny smile took on that wan and faded look.

The deep desire of Sir James when he lay at death's door in New York was to be brought back to Canada. He said on one occasion that much as he admired the United States he wished to be back among friends where the British flag floated. He is home now—God rest him.

The Expositor says: "Miss Brantford appeared on Saturday night in her 'Hydro' millinery, and certainly cut quite a dash." The organ adds that the result was "pleasing." And this he remembered is the system which said Expositor worked tooth and nail to keep out of the city. It preferred, and worked hard for, the continuance of a private monopoly instead at the expense of the citizens.

AFTER THE HOLIDAYS

Am I the same good natured jay who beamed so much on Christmas day, who said with fervor in my cry, "The Christmas spirit should not die?" Am I the same old jay who smiled on every grown-up, every child, and radiated peace on earth, good will to men and sterling worth? I have to wonder when I note that I'm as surly as a goat. I come home from the beastly grind with business cares upon my mind; have a dark and brooding brow and wear my grudge out on the frau, growl and snort and fuss around because my slippers can't be found; I cuss because the dinner's late; because the clinkers choke the grate; because the kids with Christmas toys, are kicking up a beastly noise. And when I'm done with snorts and sneers I have the whole blamed bunch in tears. And when to root I go at last, and study o'er the recent past, I wonder if I am the same old scout who played the Christmas game, with beaming smile and beck and nod, with softened heart and loosened wad. The fairies must have come along when I wound up my Christmas song, and then, to their and my disgrace, put some cheap fakir in my place.

To The Editor

The following has been sent to the Editor of The Expositor: "Sir—I cannot quite reconcile your vaunted claim 'first' in courtesy and veracity with your treatment of myself in the Taylor case. Some two weeks ago your reporter with great consideration called me twice from my meals in my own house and asked me if I had the appointment of the executioner, and told him positively that it was not the case, that I was not filling the position of Deputy Sheriff and would not do so. In spite of this information you were kind enough to publish in that night's issue that I had the appointment of the executioner and sent the information broad cast through the Associated-Press despatch.

Again last night you stated that as Acting Sheriff I am to be present at the execution. This statement is absolutely without foundation. When the Sheriff last summer came to me and stated that on account of his continued ill health he thought he would have to resign his position as Sheriff I offered, if he would put a clerk in his office to do the work, to allow such clerk to come to me for advice in any matters that he might not understand.

When the Sheriff found this winter that he was unable to come to his office through ill-health I was asked to assume the position of Deputy Sheriff. I point blank refused on account of the Taylor case, but offered to advise any person placed in charge for the Sheriff. This I have done. In all questions referring to Taylor the matter has been dealt with either by the Department or the sheriff and everything has been conducted as far as possible so as not to cater to the taste of readers who desire to peruse what is known as "yellow press articles," but apparently some editors delight in satisfying this class. I regret in writing this letter I will without doubt meet the wishes of the class of readers above referred to.

SEVEN KILLED.

her as a shield, the three huddled behind her as they rushed from the building. Godfrey, one of the guards, attempted to halt them. Promptly he was shot to death. A bullet that went wild, passed through the office door of Drover and killed that official.

Out of the building, Reed, Koontz and Lane made their way on a trot to the gate.

None of the guards dared to shoot because of the human shield, the telephone girl, carried by the desperate men. A shot finally was fired and it hit Miss Foster in the leg. Reaching the gate the three men dropped their burden, after unlocking the last bar to freedom and sprang into a buggy. Lashing the horse, the convicts sped down the road.

The dash for liberty was short, however. Guards on horses quickly came within shooting distance and a running fight began. The convicts made a desperate fight as the buggy lurched along; but it was soon over. Bullets after bullets from the guns of the guards found its mark, and when the horse at last fell from a shot and the guards came up, the three convicts lay dead in the buggy.

Within the prison, guards worked heroically, driving the convicts to their cells and holding at bay those who threatened to overpower them. Order was soon restored and none of the other prisoners went beyond the walls.

FOUR WINTERS OF RHEUMATISM

Cured of Sciatica And Muscular Rheumatism By "Fruit-a-lives"

RIDGETOWN, ONT., May 21st. 1913. "Fruit-a-lives" cured me of Rheumatism. It was the only medicine that made any impression on me. I was a terrible sufferer from Rheumatism. I was laid up for four winters with Sciatica and Muscular Rheumatism, and was completely crippled.

Some neighbor of mine told me that "Fruit-a-lives" helped him, and I started in to take them. I used "Fruit-a-lives" faithfully for two years, taking them every day as I saw they were doing me good, and the results were marvellous. For over two years, I have been completely free from any Rheumatic Pains whatever, and I give "Fruit-a-lives" the credit." W. H. RACIER, 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

CANADIAN BIRTHDAYS

TUESDAY, JANUARY TWENTIETH

John Hendry, the millionaire British Columbia lumberman and former president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who observes his seventy-first birthday to-day, has had a most adventurous career. He carried his pack into the western province in the seventies and worked there for some time as a lumber jack. But he had foresight and early got his hand on extensive timber limits. It is said that he squatted on the site of the Hastings Mill in Vancouver, property which is worth over a million dollars at the present time, and actually got this valuable land for nothing, the deeds having only recently been handed over to him by the Dominion Government. He is to-day one of the biggest men on the Pacific Coast.

TUESDAY, JANUARY TWENTIETH

John Hendry, the millionaire British Columbia lumberman and former president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who observes his seventy-first birthday today, has had a most adventurous career. He carried his pack into the western provinces in the seventies and worked there for some time as a lumber jack. But he had foresight and early got his hand on extensive timber limits. It is said that he squandered on the site of the Hastings Mill in Vancouver, property which is worth over a million dollars at the present time, and actually got this valuable land for nothing, the deeds having only recently been handed over to him by the Dominion Government. He is to-day one of the biggest men on the Pacific Coast.

Mrs. H. E. Brown of Skelrick, is the guest of Mrs. W. R. Wood, Dalhousie street.

Wood's Phosphoric, The Great English Remedy, Tones and invigorates the whole nervous system, makes new blood in old veins, cures nervous debility, mental and brain worry, depression, loss of energy, exhaustion of the heart, failing memory. Meeting Held

At a meeting of the members of the Brant County Medical Association, called to consider the Taylor case, there were present Drs. Robinson, Wiley, Secord, Simson, Bier and Fissette. On motion of Dr. Secord, seconded by Dr. Bier, a resolution was passed asking for a stay of execution until the accused could be examined by experts as to his sanity.

Hydro Was Off

Owing to experimenting being in progress, the hydro-ornamental lights were not burning last night. They will be on to-night. It was probably noticed that a few of the lights were not steady. This was due to the current not having been properly regulated. The proper adjustments are being made. Relay switches for the control of the street lighting system have arrived and installation is in progress.

Relief Work Plans

A joint meeting of the committees which have undertaken the work of dispensing charity until such time as an Associated Charity is organized met yesterday afternoon and completed plans for the carrying on of the work. The Y. W. C. A. has kindly given the use of a basement room for supplies. Donations may be left at the association. The ladies' committee have already commenced the work of investigating. All that is needed now is funds and these will be forthcoming as soon as the necessity is thoroughly well known. The central office of the committee is 42 Colborne street.

Grandview Association

Believing that some definite steps should be taken to promote the interests of Grandview, a meeting of the residents has been called for Thursday night at the new school. Although plans of a definite nature have not been mapped out, the result of the meeting will likely be the formation of an improvement association, similar to the association already in existence in Echo Place. These associations are common throughout the province and are of much benefit to the locality and surrounding communities. They create a progressive spirit and are the means of keeping things up to date.

MONTREAL CITY HAS A TRAGEDY

Rows in Foreign Colony Cause the Death of Two People.

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—Tony La-faire, aged 26, and Porda Cinuta are lying dead in the morgue as the result of affrays in the foreign colony of the city.

The Italian victim who lived at 84 St. Lawrence street, is thought to have been killed in an Italian restaurant kept at 13 East Vitre street by Rafael Molini and a man named J. Lovery, manager of this place is held.

Shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday night two men named Norman Adams and Stewart Acres, who were passing along Vitre street, heard four shots fired, and a minute later La-faire came rushing along. Just as he reached them he wheeled and fell, crying "I am a dead man."

Constable Day, who also heard the shots, came up at this moment with Constable Cody and Constable Gravel. In the meantime the lights in the restaurant were extinguished, and Lovery left the place. He reappeared before the ambulance had taken the wounded man away, but when he was questioned by the police, said that he knew nothing of the shooting. An examination of the restaurant, however revealed the presence of a 32 calibre revolver hidden behind a stack of boxes. Four of the cartridges had been discharged. In the door posts of the restaurant one of the bullets was found imbedded and stains on a table cloth on one of the tables are thought to be blood stains. Lovery was immediately placed under arrest.

An attempt was made to confront him with the wounded man, but La-

Mock Trial Held At Sydenham St. Church

Plaintiff Sues for a Broken Heart Which Requires $9.78 for Fixing. Some Clever Things Were Pulled Off

The Mock Trial in Sydenham Street Methodist church last evening was a splendid success. The church was packed and unfortunately a number had to stand throughout the "case." The Trial was distinctly amusing and the evidence, of course, most contradictory but nevertheless interesting. There were just enough local hits given at opportune times to enable the audience to have a hearty laugh. As explained by the president in opening, the trial was distinctly original and had been in course of preparation for some weeks. That the efforts of the young people were successful goes without saying.

The officers of the court were as follows: Judge (Chief Justice Alverstone), Mr. A. Butchart, Court Clerk, Mr. Ernest Alderson, Policeman (Pat. Holligan), Mr. Elmer Bailey, Crown Attorney, W. Travers Jerome, Mr. J. D. Scruton; Counsel for the defence (H. T. Blackstock), Mr. John Laing.

Witnesses for the Prosecution: Miss Hazel K. Huffman, Mrs. Ebenezer Sprightly, her mother, Mrs. Ernest Alderson; Miss Jane Ann Spriggins, Miss Evelyn Harwood; Percy Smythbrook; Mr. Leonard Davidson; Mr. Larry O'Toole, detective, Mr. Wesley Shower.

Witnesses for the defence: Mr. Sammy Handover, defendant, Mr. Frank Alderson; Mrs. Handover, his mother, Mrs. Albert McWebb; Miss Matilda Lovejoy, Miss Jennie Bayless; Priscilla Dolittle, Mr. Jack McWebb; Hans Schmidt, Mr. A. R. Knott.

The costumes of several of the witnesses were certainly original and each and all conducted themselves in a manner that brought great credit on themselves.

The empanelling of the jury caused no little amusement, and "Mayor Spence" Harry Stone was fined for not answering promptly to his name and coming forward when called; several candidates for the jury were challenged. The jury was composed as follows: Hon. R. L. Borden, Mr. I. Hewison, (foreman); Sir Wilfrid Laurier, (E. W. Jones); W. F. Cockburn, (George Jubber); John H. Fisher (Grant Kinzie); W. S. Brewster, (Mr. Currie); John Westbrook, (George Alderson); Mayor Spence (Harry Stone); Sheriff Ross Ald. (Gordon Showler); Rev. Mr. Chapman (Frank Crawford); Chief Stelmis (Fred Harp); Reeve Jennings (Elmer Harris).

Mr. Alex. Butchart, late Financial Commissioner of Edmonton, who is at present living in the city, acted as judge. Many were the complimentary references made concerning the dignity and tactfulness with which he conducted the case.

The case was one of breach of promise. The plaintiff sued for $9.78 for a wounded and broken heart; her life having been made desolate.

The prosecution endeavored to prove that the plaintiff had been faithful to the defendant during the entire course of their engagement. The defendant had been constantly in the company of Matilda Lovejoy, while the plaintiff was out of the city, and she loved Handover, and had stolen his heart away from the plaintiff, Miss H. Sprightly.

An effort was made to show that after his engagement the defendant had become involved in his business affairs and at the same time began to show a coldness to the plaintiff. It was shown that the plaintiff had developed into a professional palmist; that this avocation had made her an undesirable partner for so wealthy a young man, who had come from so good a family. It was averred that she was too fond of Sunnybrook and had promised to marry him in case she was successful in her suit for damage.

The address of the counsel and the judge were particularly good and the jurors heard both arguments, common-sense, oratory and humor from these three gentlemen.

While the jury were out-arriving at a verdict a short programme was rendered. Priscilla Dolittle, who proved to be Mr. Jack McWebb, gave a delightful whistling solo, and had to respond to an encore. Mr. Robert Cook gave a recitation in capital manner and Miss Doris Arnold rendered an instrumental solo in a finished and artistic fashion.

On the return of the jury, the foreman Mr. Hewison, made a distinctly humorous speech. He said that the jury were unanimously in favor of the plaintiff with the exception of one of the ministers, who thought the breach could be healed and that he might get the fee for marrying them. Damages were assessed for the full amount $9.78, plus ten cents for the treat the defendant should have bought the plaintiff on a particular night mentioned in the trial.

The affair was a distinct success and the large audience seemed to be highly pleased with the affair.

Locals Won First Last Night Crowd

Last evening was a night, especially to hockey in this burg, when the St. Thomas team, defeated by the local key team, before a full house.

The score just about played, as the locals ponents in almost every game. One thing about the locals' bination playing, which played it before, with them a different standard in the O.H.A. class. The defence did, especially Jones.

Wally Heri ran after 8, and with a few plays the game was out with fast end-to-end both goal-tenders had from being scored on.

The goal post and bounce, which Wicks' neat goal umpire was about and had his hand up, easily seen that it was Brantford started to bination, which they kept to the game.

On a three-man run Johnson and Watson the first goal of the minutes of play. Wicks ed upon to stop many did with apparent ease.

There was no more this half, and when the scorer's record, Brantford was one goal to the Saints' blank sheet.

Brantford Wins Its First O.H.A. Game—Score 6-3

Locals Won Fast Game From Strong St. Thomas Last Night—Many Thrilling Plays Kept Big Crowd on Edge Through Entire Game.

Last evening was indeed a great night, especially to the followers of hockey in this burg. The scene of the action was the Alfred street rink, where the St. Thomas team was defeated by the local intermediate hockey team, before a fair-sized crowd, by the magnificent score of 6 to 3. The score just about indicates the play, as the locals had it on their opponents in almost every department of the game. One thing that was evident about the locals was their combination playing, which, if they had played it before, might have given them a different standing in Group No. 8 in the O.H.A. intermediate class. The defence also played splendidly, especially Jones.

Wally Hern rang the bell shortly after 8, and with a few words to the players the game was on. It started out with fast end-to-end rushes, and both goal-tenders had narrow escapes from being scored on. On a rush by the Saints forward line a shot struck the goal post and bounded back to the ice, which Wicks neatly cleared. The goal-keeper was about to call it a goal and had his hand up, but it could be easily seen that it was not a score. Brantford started to play their combination, which they kept up throughout the game. On a three-man rush by Marlatt, Johnson and Watson the latter scored the first goal of the evening, after 10 minutes of play. Wicks was then called upon to stop many shots, which he did with apparent ease. There was no more scoring during this half, and when the going sounded the scorer's record showed that Brantford was one goal to the good to the Saints' blank space.

Second Half.
 After having the usual rest both teams came back much refreshed, and at once demonstrated that they were going to make the second half a much faster brand of hockey than in the preceding period. Brantford still continued their real classical combination plays, as the ice last score of the game, and the locals were quite satisfied. A St. Thomas man received a slight crack on the head and had a nap on the ice beside their own goal during the last half minute.

It was not a dirty game, by any means, but there were a few penalties handed out, practically all being minor ones. There was no particular star in the game, each man playing well. Wicks in goal in the first half certainly had his globes shining brightly, as nothing escaped his notice. For the St. Thomas team McLean was the best at right wing, scoring the majority of his team's goals. Hamilton also shone very brightly.

The St. Thomas first goal looked like a fluke, as Wicks had his eye on it all the time, but when he put his skate out to stop it, it glanced into the corner of the net. But for this they would probably have blanked the St. Thomas boys.

The Line-up.
 St. Thomas—Goal, Hamilton; right defence, Shepherd; right defence, Jackson; rover, Stoner; centre, Baker; right wing, McLean; left wing, McDonald.

Goal Umpires—Stephens, St. Thomas; Alf Dowling, Brantford; Referee—Wally Hern, Stratford. Penalty Keepers—McDonald, Brantford; Gladby, St. Thomas. Timekeepers—Tuck, Brantford; McGuire, St. Thomas.

The penalties handed out were as follows:
 McDonald, 4 min.; Klercy, 3 min.; Johnson, 4 min.; Knight, 3 min.; McLean, 2 min.; Marlatt, 4 min.; Jones, 1 min.; Watson, 1 min.; Shepherd, 2 min.

OTTAWA WANTS SEVEN MAN GAME

Secretary Rosenthal Will Bring Matter Before N.H.A. Meeting

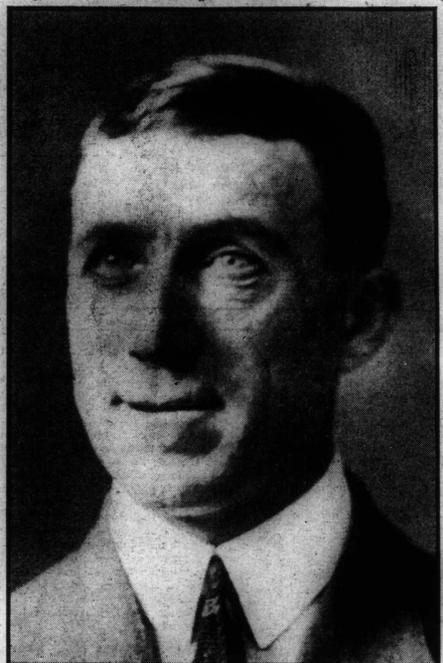

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—The question of reverting to seven-man hockey will be revived at the next meeting of the National Hockey Association. Secretary Rosenthal of the Ottawa states that he is more than ever dissatisfied with the present system. He argues that the officials do not draw the line tight enough in the matter of major fouls, and that the majority of the players are allowed to escape with warnings after committing deliberate attacks on players. Mr. Rosenthal adds that the Ottawa Club has not abandoned hope of seeing the seven-man game in vogue again, and will take the matter up before the executive of the N. H. A. He contends that the only way to eliminate the rough work is to impose heavy penalties and abolish the fines, thus putting it up to the clubs themselves to punish the players who handicap chances through being banished.

Percy Lesueur favors a continuation of the six-man hockey, but would go back to the old penalty system. He would cut out the minor fouls and send all of the offenders off the ice for periods of five and ten minutes, forcing the teams to play with men shy. Lesueur says that the present rules are so complicated it is impossible for the officials to please the spectators who do not understand the rules. Ronan and Darragh favors Lesueur's idea. The Ottawas will likely have to go into the Canadian game next Wednesday minus the services of Lesueur, who has a badly strained back. It was fortunate that the Ottawians did not sign Benedict, as he is the only man in sight He has done well in his two games to date, but is not in a class with the Ottawa captain. Lesueur will be rested up for the match against the Toronto next Saturday night. It is likely that the largest crowd of the year will see the Ottawas and the Torontos play. An invitation has been extended to the Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught and the vice-regal party.

FEDERALS AFTER A STAR BATTERY

Ford and Sweeney, of the Highlanders, Dickering With Outlaws.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Russell Ford and Ed. Sweeney, the star battery of the New York Highlanders, were in conference with President Weeghman and Manager Tinker, of Chicago Federal League baseball team, last several hours yesterday and there was a strong rumor afloat around the Federal League headquarters that the two big leaguers had signed contracts with the Chicago club. Howard Gammitz, formerly with the Pittsburgh Nationals, and traded last year to the Philadelphia team of the same league, was also at the club headquarters closeted with Manager Tinker and Doc Gessler, the latter the manager of the Pittsburgh Federal League team. McCarthy of Pittsburgh is also here.

"Bill" Brennan, National League umpire, was behind closed doors with President Gilmore, of the league. "Brock" Owens, another big league umpire at one time, wired President Gilmore that he would be in Chicago to-morrow. R. H. White, for several years trainer for the Cleveland Naps, was yesterday signed by Manager Tinker as the trainer of the Chicago Federals. Mike Murphy, groundkeeper at Detroit for several years and who has been working around baseball parks for twenty years or more, was engaged by President Weeghman as the groundkeeper of the Chicago club. R. T. Carroll, representing the Buffalo club, in person and the Toronto team by proxy, announced that he had signed four big league players for Toronto since Saturday and also several for himself. "Bill" Phillips, manager of the Indianapolis club, was at the league headquarters in the Old Colony building and admitted that he had signed several players since Saturday. Harry Gessler, who signed to manage the Pittsburgh club of the Federal League, confessed to having placed several players on his payroll since the big meeting of Saturday.

Sarnia Player Refuses to Sign

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—Louis Imbleau, the ex-Ottawa valley player sought by the Canadians, is not likely to join the French team this year. Jimmy Gardner, playing-manager of the Canadian team, went up to Sarnia to look over Imbleau, but could not induce him to leave. Imbleau would rather remain an amateur than take a shy at the pro game, lose his standing, and perhaps not make good. Gardner was also impressed with the work of Prout, a Sarnia goal tender.

CANADIAN LEAGUE WILL BOOM AS BIG CLASS 'B' ORGANIZATION

Special Meeting of Club Owners Held Yesterday in Toronto Results in Placing of Franchises in Toronto and Erie, Pa., Instead of Berlin and Guelph—Population of Eight Cities Now in the Circuit Nearly Up to Million Mark.

TORONTO, Jan. 20.—A meeting of the Canadian Baseball League Baseball League directors was held in this city yesterday, beginning to a point of developments which have been pending, with the result that the 1914 season will embark a class B organization, including eight cities on the circuit, whose total population comes almost within the million mark. The action of the league in launching forth as a class B organization, which is second to none in organized ball, at the present time marks an epoch in minor baseball history. To have arisen from a class D organization after three successful seasons to the present league, with the high standing the Canadian enjoys now, is no small feature.

Toronto and Erie In.
 The league will be composed of the same cities as last year, with the exception that Toronto takes the place of Berlin and Erie that of Guelph.

The atmosphere at this special meeting savored of much more harmonious feeling among owners of the circuit, and never in the history of the league has there been more important measures disposed of with less friction and in less time.

The Officers.
 President J. P. Fitzgerald presided over the gathering, with the following franchises represented: Toronto—E. McCafferty and P. Kerwin. Erie, Pa.—George H. O'Neill. London—S. Stevely. St. Thomas—C. O. Stanley. Hamilton—J. Burns, George Lee, M. M. Robinson. Brantford—T. J. Nelson, Roy Brown. Peterboro—W. H. Denham, C. Carr. Ottawa—F. Shaughnessy.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Several amendments to the constitution were made, and, along with further information, will be forwarded to the clubs in a printed bulletin to keep the constitution up-to-the-minute.

Refuse Erie's Scheme.
 The question of the transfer of the Guelph Club franchise, including the players, was next taken up. The proposition made by the Erie people, requesting that the league purchase a franchise and present them with it was not considered. The league sanctions the transfer of the club if present owner O'Neill secures the grounds and receives co-operation with the Erie people. It is thought that these requests will be greeted with welcome when the new city on the circuit learns of the stability of the organization of which it becomes a part.

Fans all over Brantford will argue long and hard as to whether Brantford or London got the best of the deal when Chubby Coose was traded for Rube Deneau. One thing is sure, Brantford had to have a manager, a boss of the job and had to get him quick. Players must be secured for the season right off. However everybody will miss Coose. Chubby could win games in the box, but he never looked just right as a pitcher. He certainly wasn't a good outfielder, but he had played many a good game in the infield. It is our humble opinion that Coose would become a star first baseman. He has a natural "noid for the position" and is as well a mighty hard hitter. Well, good-bye, Chubby; fare thee well.

Canadians have had full houses for all their games to date. They always manage to get the money for Manager George Kennedy.

Hamilton Reconstructed.
 Another link in the big chain of clubs was strengthened by the announcement of the Hamilton Club owners that an option was given yesterday to an influential Hamilton citizen on the Hamilton franchise; which means that the old trouble in OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 20.—The Connaught Park Jockey Club met last night and decided to add a big stake to their Spring meeting. It will be known as the Merchants' Stake, and will be run on Saturday, June 20. The amount was $3,000, to which will be added the subscription fees and entries, bringing the total to the winners up to about $5000. It is likely that it will attract many of the horses who go to the wire in the Dorval Derby at Montreal. Manager Al Rohrbach will go to Juarez, Charleston and other places next month to secure subscriptions to the Spring stakes. Mr. Joe McLennan was appointed to succeed Mr. Allie Louden as racing secretary for 1914. The Spring dates, June 16 to 23 were accepted, but an application has been made to the Canadian Association for a revision of the Fall dates, as Labor Day was not included. Darragh and Walker are having a pretty race for scoring honors. Neither man is at all selfish.

Great Britain's Navy Is Said To Be Short Of Her Needs

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Ministerial press is busy attempting to explain away Mr. Lloyd George's denunciation of increased armaments. The Westminster Gazette says the Government policy is to keep England's naval lead, not increase it. The Daily Mail says that no reasonable Englishman wishes to pile up armaments or provoke other countries, but that the unquestioned sea supremacy of Great Britain must be maintained, and that the greatest provocation Great Britain can offer is to let her sea power fall below a point sufficient to fulfil her world-wide obligations of Empire.

The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail asked the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, who is in the French capital, for an interview on the question of armaments about which the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Lloyd George, spoke freely several days ago, when he made it plain that he looks on an increase in armaments as folly.

Mr. Churchill replied: "I have made it a rule not to give interviews on important questions of this character, while they are being considered by the Cabinet."

In printing this despatch the Daily Mail heads it: "Polite hint to Lloyd George."

The newspaper adds that it certainly emphasizes the points on man fleet and by the coincident reduction of the British intended naval strength from the two-power standard to that of a 10 per cent. standard.

Near East Still a Tinderbox

"This reduction, although the basis for the estimated percentage is the German navy only, is of itself a withdrawal from the advanced position which is regarded as no longer tenable. Whether it is proper and necessary is a matter too intricate for the pronouncement of a foreigner."

"The avowed and executed purpose of Germany to force her navy, and the rivalry between Italy and Austria, insuring a similar, if smaller development in the eastern Mediterranean, constitute the main elements of the contemporary naval situation as adverse to Great Britain."

"The near East will continue for a generation to be a tinderbox which it has been for the half century past is more than ever likely from the events of the last twelve months."

"If a general war should grow out of the present critical situation, how certain can the British navy be of its power to guarantee the security of Egypt and Suez? Such security, it is maintained, would imply almost inevitably the power to act offensively also in the neighboring waters."

"The British Empire needs the whole sea for the Imperial movement of commerce and for its Imperial naval effectiveness, dependent upon the Government of those fleets essential to the existence of the Empire."

Unlikely to Oppose Navy

LONDON.—The idea which some ardent Unionists are fostering, that Mr. Lloyd George is about to put himself at the head of the Little Navyites in open opposition to Mr. Churchill and the Admiralty, gives Mr. Lloyd George little credit for political astuteness.

"He knows a 'Little Navy' policy would win little public support in face of the Unionist demand for complete naval security. Moreover, while wrecking the Ministry, he would be driving into cohesion the whole Unionist party, which is still suffering internal qualms over tariff differences."

Even in the extraordinary Parliament of 1906, the "Little Navyites" never mustered more than 144, out of 343 Radicals and Laborites, and most of those 144 would refuse to abandon Premier Asquith for Mr. Lloyd George or anyone else.

The Cabinet has not yet passed the Navy estimates in final form. There are many surmises regarding Mr. Lloyd George's exact purpose, but he certainly cannot desire to destroy the ministry at the present juncture.

The Sydney Morning Herald, which speaks authoritatively on Australian policy says: "Having regard to the still anxious international outlook, any attempt to restrict what must be regarded as a necessary and moderate provision in the interests of the Empire against outside aggression will be received with considerable apprehension in the Dominions."

Stands Behind Churchill's Program

LONDON.—While the news papers are still engaged in the debate Mr. Lloyd George's disarmament proposals, sober opinion and a review of all the circumstances leads to the belief that there will be no change in the government's naval programme for this year.

Several bodies in the North of England have recently passed resolutions condemning the constant growth in expenditure on armaments, but, on the other hand, preparations are proceeding in London for a meeting in favor of a strong navy and to show that the huge tax-paying community comprised in the city of London realizes the vital necessity of a big navy for the protection of Britain, six months ago, a deputation from the London Chamber of Commerce waited upon Mr. Churchill to assure him of the support of the city in carrying out his policy of naval supremacy.

"This reduction, although the basis for the estimated percentage is the German navy only, is of itself a withdrawal from the advanced position which is regarded as no longer tenable. Whether it is proper and necessary is a matter too intricate for the pronouncement of a foreigner."

"The avowed and executed purpose of Germany to force her navy, and the rivalry between Italy and Austria, insuring a similar, if smaller development in the eastern Mediterranean, constitute the main elements of the contemporary naval situation as adverse to Great Britain."

Annual Address Of President of W.H.A.

The following is the annual report of Mrs. J. E. Waterous, on the work of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary in this city.

In connection with our annual reports for 1914, it has been suggested that it might be interesting to many who have become members of the Women's Hospital Aid during the last few years, and are not familiar with the early history of our society, if we could include a brief sketch of the organization and pioneer work which laid the foundation of what is now the largest hospital auxiliary in Canada, and whose connection with our hospital is of longer duration than that of any of the present board of governors, or hospital staff.

To Mrs. T. H. Preston, belongs the credit of calling the first meeting of ladies to discuss the advisability of forming an auxiliary in connection with the then John H. Stratford hospital. This meeting was held in February, 1903, and after some correspondence, in which the Board of Governors gratefully accepted the ladies' offer of assistance concurring in the line of work suggested, an auxiliary was formed with Mrs. Frank Cocksbutt as president, to whom, with her executive, fell the task of commencing work on untried ground, and so successful were they in their organization and in their work, that at the end of two years an ambulance for the isolation hospital, a well equipped laundry building, a furnished sitting room for the nurses, and many other comforts in the way of linen and furnishings gave evidence of the good work they had accomplished.

Mrs. Preston succeeded Mrs. Cocksbutt and during her eighteen months' term of office, an elevator was installed in the hospital (for which the city paid half), a further supply of linen purchased, and through the success of a poster show, nearly $4,000 was laid aside as a foundation for the nurses' home, which for the succeeding seven years has occupied such a large place in the thoughts of every member of the W. H. A., and which we have seen completed this year.

It is quite unnecessary and also impossible, to give a detailed account of the innumerable smaller comforts which have been provided during the eleven years that the W. H. A. has been in existence, but that we have endeavored to faithfully carry on the work that has been entrusted to us, I think will be conceded.

The year just closed has been full of interest and of unceasing work. At our last annual meeting it was decided to undertake the furnishing of the nurses' home to the extent of twenty-five nurses, in addition to the $20,000 pledged towards the building, and with this in view our members prepared themselves for a strenuous year's work. January was taken up with the printing and distribution of our annual reports, and our fees collectors began their rounds. February again brought together a very large number of our members in city and county, in a social gathering, on which occasion the well deserved honor of life membership cards, accompanied by flowers, were presented to our esteemed secretary and treasurer, as a slight mark of appreciation of their faithful services. At Easter, patients and nurses at the hospital were remembered in the usual way, and in June a most successful flag day was held, which enabled us to make still further progress towards the nurses' home, and under the leadership of Mrs. Cocksbutt and Mrs. Revell, the necessary arrangements were made for the purchase of the building, and the necessary furniture and electrical fixtures for the entire nurses' home. With window blinds and curtains all supplied for every window, very little in the way of furnishing remains to be done when the nursing staff is increased to its limit. At the succeeding meeting, four additional life members were added to the society, our first president, Mrs. Frank Cocksbutt, and three of our present officers and executive, Mrs. Livingston, Mrs. Revell, and Mrs. W. F. Cocksbutt, all of whom had earned their laurels. The summer months brought no holidays to our executive this year and when the building was ready for occupancy, we were ready for it. The formal opening in September is too fresh in the minds of all to call for any extended reference in this report, but I do want once again to thank all the splendid women in the city and county, who labored so successfully in bringing to a completion this huge undertaking.

In October several of our members attended the meeting of the United Hospital Aids in Stratford, where Brantford again carried off the honors for work accomplished. The usual Thanksgiving dinner was provided at the hospital, and in November our Annual Rummage Sale was held, attended by most gratifying results.

At Christmas every patient in both private and public wards at the hospital, as well as the staff, were remembered with gifts, the children's branch also sending presents to the children in both hospitals and the Junior Auxiliary contributing generously.

The weekly visiting has been kept up except when at the request of the Superintendent it has been discontinued, during times of unusual sickness, and our visitors have reported great appreciation of the reading matter, jellies, fruit, etc. that they have always carried with them to the public ward patients. Miss Carson and the staff of nurses have always been most kind in their treatment of our visitors, doing their share towards making the self-imposed task a pleasure.

The Auxiliary is now free to undertake more general work, and no doubt will find in the new and enlarged buildings, many ways in which it can be of service. Through the courtesy of the Board of Governors, the privileges granted to us by their predecessors in regard to the hospital have been extended to the Nurses' Home—privileges which we hope to respect in the future as we have in the past—and we also wish to acknowledge with thanks their generous gift of a bronze tablet in the Nurses' Home commemorating the work of the W. H. A. Our representative on the Board of Governors is entitled to our especial gratitude this year for his untiring efforts on our behalf, and for the responsibility assumed during the building of the Nurses' Home, relieving our Executive of much anxiety and care.

We wish to place on record the regret of the Women's Hospital Aid at the passing away of two former Governors during the year, and shall always remember the kindness shown us by Mr. Joseph Stratford and Mr. W. W. Wood.

The Junior Auxiliary and Children's Branches are growing and doing excellent work, while the large membership of the older Society is maintained, thanks to our faithful collectors. One district reports—through removal of other parts, and through death—loss of 40 members but these vacancies have been filled by new comers.

A handsome brass jardiniere from Mrs. Stenford of Havelock, N.S., and beautiful desk set in brass from Mrs. Wade have been placed in the Nurses' Home through the W. H. A. since the opening and other additions have been promised.

The seamstress, Mrs. Whately, engaged by our Auxiliary for one day each week at the hospital, has been most satisfactory, and we have appreciated very much her donation of one day each month for a year, free of charge.

To the newspapers for their support, to Mr. Henwood for making us so comfortable at the Library and to all who have helped us in any way we tender our grateful thanks.

May I add a personal note and say how deeply I have been touched by the many kindnesses shown to me as your president, and bespeak for the incoming president, Mrs. Whately, co-operation and support that has characterized our years of work together. There must be unity to be successful, and if we stand firmly together, guided by an Executive in whom we have confidence, there is no limit to what we may accomplish.

ANNIE W. WATEROUS, President W. H. A.

WITHIN THE LAW

By MARVIN DANA FROM THE PLAY-OF BAYARD VEILLER

Copyright, 1913, by the H. K. Fry company.

"My girl," Gilder said gently—his hard voice was softened by an honest regret—"my girl, I am sorry about this."

"You should be!" came the instant answer.

"Come, come!" Gilder exclaimed testily. "That's no tone to take with me!"

"Why? What sort of tone do you expect me to take?" was the retort in the listless voice.

"I expected a decent amount of humility from one in your position."

Life quickened swiftly in the drooping form of the girl. She stood suddenly erect, and her face lost its bleakness.

"The eyes opened wide and looked straight into those of the man who had employed her."

"Would you be humble," she demanded, and now her voice was become softly musical, yet forbidding, too, with a note of passion, "would you be humble if you were going to prison for three years for something you didn't do?"

"Don't mind her, sir," Cassidy said. He meant to make his manner very reassuring. "They all say that. They are innocent of course! Yep, they all say it. It don't mean any good, but just the same they all swear they're innocent. They keep it up to the very last, no matter how right they've been got."

The voice of the girl rang clear. There was a note of insistence that Mary Turner said drearily. "Perhaps not," Gilder sternly retorted. "But the discovery and punishment of the other guilty ones will."

His manner changed to a businesslike alertness. "You sent word to me that you could tell me how to stop the thefts in the store. Well, my girl, do this and, while I can make no definite promise, I'll see what can be done about getting you out of your present difficulty."

He picked up a pencil, pulled a pad of blank paper convenient to his hand and looked at the girl expectantly, with aggressive inquiry in his gaze. "Tell me now," he concluded, "who were your pals?"

"I have no pals!" she ejaculated furiously. "I never stole anything in my life. Must I go on telling you over and over again?" Her voice rose in a wall of misery. "Oh, why won't any one believe me?"

"Unless you can control yourself, you must go," Gilder pushed away the pad of paper and tossed the pencil aside in physical expression of his displeasure. "Why did you send that message if you have nothing to say?"

He demanded, with increasing cholera. "I have something to tell you, Mr. Gilder," she cried quietly. "Only I—I sort of lost my grip on the way here, with this man by my side."

"Well?" Gilder insisted querulously, as the girl hesitated.

"When you sit in a cell for three months waiting for your trial, as I did, you think a lot. And so I got the idea that if I could talk to you I might be able to make you understand what's really wrong. And if I could do that and so help out the other girls, what has happened to me would not, after all, be quite so awful—so useless, somehow."

Her voice lowered to a quick pleading, and she bent toward the man at the desk. "Mr. Gilder," she questioned, "do you really want to stop the girls from stealing?"

"Most certainly I do," came the forcible reply.

The girl spoke with a great earnestness deliberately. "Then give them a fair chance."

carried a curious dignity of its own. The very simplicity of her statement might have had a power to convince one who listened without prejudice, although the words themselves were of the trite sort that a trying criminal might utter.

"I tell you I didn't do it!" Gilder himself felt the surge of emotion that swept through these moments, but he would not yield to it.

"What's the use of all this pretense?" he demanded sharply. "You were given a fair trial, and there's an end of it."

"Oh, no, I wasn't! Why, if the trial had been fair I shouldn't be here. Do you call it fair when the lawyer I had was a fair boy—one whom the court would take, a boy trying his first case, my case, that meant the ruin of my life? My lawyer! Why, he was just getting experience—getting it at my expense!"

There followed a few seconds of silence. Then Gilder made an effort to shake off the feeling that had so possessed him, and to a certain degree he succeeded.

"The jury found you guilty," he asserted, with an attempt to make his voice magisterial in its severity. "Yes, the jury found me guilty. Do you know why, I can tell you, Mr. Gilder. It was because they had been out for three hours without reaching a decision. The evidence didn't seem to be quite enough for some of them, after all. Well, the judge threatened to lock them up all night. The men wanted to get home. The easy thing to do was to find me guilty, and let it go at that. Was that fair, do you think? And that's not all either. Was it fair of you, Mr. Gilder? Was it fair of you to come to the court this morning and tell the judge that I should be sent to prison as a warning to others?"

"You know!" he exclaimed in momentary consternation. "I heard you in the courtroom," she said. "The dock isn't very far from the bench where you spoke to the judge about my case. Yes, I heard you. It wasn't, Did I do it? or, Didn't I do it? No. It was only that I must be made a warning to others."

Again silence fell for a tense interval. Then finally the girl spoke. "Mr. Gilder," she said simply, "as God is my judge, I am going to prison for three years for something I didn't do. Why did you ask the judge to send me to prison?"

"The thiefing that has been going on in this store for over a year has got to stop," Gilder answered emphatically, with all his usual energy of manner restored. "Sending me to prison won't stop it."

THE PROTECTOR OF FINANCE

Tales of Resilius Marvel

Guardian of Bank Treasure

By Weldon J. Cobb

OPEN FOR RATING

(Copyright, 1913, by W. G. Chapman.)

When the president of the Atlas National bank sent for Resilius Marvel he was selected as his messenger. When I returned from the office of the United Bankers' Protective association with its active head in my company I was, quite naturally, being the private secretary of the one and the closest friend of the other, motioned to remain. I sank into one of the sumptuous easy chairs which crowded the inner sanctum of the great king of finance, Mr. Robert Drew, feeling sure that I was about to listen to something new and important.

Resilius Marvel looked easy-minded and receptive. I fancied I detected a very slight smile pass over his face as his eye fell upon a heap of bonds outspread and held down by a paper weight on the desk directly before Mr. Drew. The serious, somewhat irritated face of the bank president indicated that he was ill at ease mentally, that he had sent for Marvel much as might a man who had bungled over mending a bruised finger and had been compelled to call in skilled surgical aid. He tried to be off-handed as he selected one of the bonds and passed it over for the inspection of the man whom I had seen do so many clever things, whom I had come to recognize as the grand past-master of foresight and efficiency in the bank mysteries line.

"What do you know about these bonds, Mr. Marvel?" was the question put.

"Everything," was the prompt reply, so speedily given that its enunciation and a bare careless glance at the broad black letters, "Jebel River & Great Jangeh Railroad Co., were simultaneous."

"That is good," said the president, quite gratefully, clearing his throat and looking hopeful. "This is a special matter, you understand, and confidential. I shall be sorry or glad that the bank holds over $600,000 of those securities after I have heard what you have to say."

"You will be sorry," bluntly replied Marvel. "The whole proposition is a dream, perhaps a fraud. The securities are waste paper, unless—"

"Yes—unless?" pressed Mr. Drew eagerly, almost pleadingly, with a face grown many shades paler.

"Unless I am able to locate the man who signs them as president of the road—his royal highness of Jangeh."

I was struck with the extraordinary words. Marvel had placed the bond on the desk. It was within my reach, and as unobtrusively as I could I drew this towards me. Several of the bonds of this issue had passed under my eye casually in the regular course of business of the bank during the past two months, but I had never scanned them particularly. Now I read the signatures: "Zwun Zhi, King of Jangeh, President; Napoleon Ducroix, Imperial Treasurer. Bonds were invalid in the first place; a signature is lacking. I think I can obtain it. If I do, the bondholders will not lose. As you quoted from the prospectus, the physical security behind the deed of trust is ample—provided the title is right. It is quite the reverse, but I hope to rectify it."

Marvel was done. Too many times had Mr. Drew consulted him not to know that. He drank a glass of water in feverish haste. Then he took up his check book.

"You understand—of course—" he began significantly.

"When the case is through," interrupted Marvel, "I want our friend here for a week," and he placed his hand on my arm. "I need some help."

I smiled at Marvel in deprecation. I had been so fortunate as to be his companion in several cases he had worked up. To speak of help—and from me! I laughed outright. The only suggestion I had even ventured to make to him had been based on stupid deductions.

"I don't think you understand," he said, locking his arm in mine as we left the bank. "Metaphysically I have found you a silent but willing buffer in the midst of developing ideas. I sometimes think you are valuable in catching them, and by some telepathic sense extracting their values. They percolate through your mentality and come back to me clarified. That is the real transference of thought, you know."

There was always something interesting going on at Resilius Marvel's office. On the present occasion I looked around it to catch any indication there might be of a suggestion to make to him that he was to be placed in a chair in the outer apartment. In less than a minute Loti, his handy man, servant and assistant, came from a side room. He greeted me with his usual reserved yet graceful obsequiousness. Lying on a table was a cane and a woman's handbag. I watched him as he halted where they lay, then touched them. I noticed those delicate nostrils of his quiver, contract and relax. A strange man this Loti, gifted in his peculiar sense of smell, still more remarkable in the theories he adduced from an exercise of it. I had known him to scent the germs of pestilence in a closed packet. I had heard of his analyzing ownership, by the same highly developed trait, of a roll of disputed bank bills. I argued that the cane and the handbag belonged to present visitors in the private office. The cane was such as a born dandy might carry. The handbag was crude in material and clumsy in shape. It was made of alligator hide and was ornamented with shiny, mottled scales of some gaudy tropical fish.

At one side of Marvel's desk and within his shadow was a woman. I could only divine this from her apparel. Nothing of her features showed, for she was deeply veiled. I made out that she must be squat to the point of obesity. Her hands were splay, but stumpy. I wondered what the handbag and cannibals could have to do with her.

"This is my friend," spoke Marvel shortly, and did not even look up from some writing he was engaged in.

The man straightened up with an elaborate gesture of courtesy. He was a natural poseur, his manner showed.

"It is my service profound to the friend of a friend," and he kissed the tips of his fingers towards me.

"Be brief," came curtly from Marvel's lips.

The Frenchman made a slight grimace of hurt dignity and reproach. Then he reached within the fashionably modeled coat he wore and brought out a tattered and indented card case. Its dislocated hinge came loose as he extracted it. He extracted daintily and with infinite care what it contained.

This was the dirtiest card I had ever seen. He handled it as carefully as if it was some treasured heirloom. He tendered it gingerly, tiptoeing to reach me.

"If monster will read and return," he said.

The card was not illuminating. With infinite pride the Frenchman received it back from me, and then with sorrowful intonation remarked:

"Once honored, I, Lefort—in the grand days of the cantatrice, the models of Worth, of duchesses, while now—"

He embraced the squat figure in shadow, mute and ominous as some veiled sphinx, within a sweeping inclination of his hand. Then a dimming crescent of his nimble, airy fingers seemed to indicate leagues of space, something too immense to describe, and far away.

"The House," he finally resumed—"Vinc, Ropostor & Blecha. The one—the only. And Vienna—the center of metropol, of grandeur, of sublimity." He sighed deeply. His eyes grew moist.

"And I, Lefort, representative. That was nearly two years ago. Since then—again the hand wave, despairing and dismal, embracing the universe—and always the squat, veiled figure included.

"Of the House, what is there to tell? Institute W. Schlimmeling, Berlin, the credit dictator of the world, has already told. Dolls—that speak, that walk, that wait—and live! And the apotheosis of art attained when the great Sophia Voltmar model was reached!"

I understood that the House with three names were doll makers extraordinary; that he, Lefort, was their representative.

"See you, even royalty came to view, in the brilliantly illuminated show window, Sophia Voltmar. The miniature latest creation of Worth in which the doll was garbed cost $3,000 thalers. About its neck was the Damon string of pearls. It had taken coast fisherman two years to gather these, mated from the center from a hazel nut size to that of a pea, and listed at 12,000 pounds sterling."

From all this I began to understand that the racy Sophia, founder of the celebrated "Cobra" dance known over two continents, had been duplicated in doll fashion and exhibited to the Vienna world as a most artistic specimen of the exclusive handicraft of the House.

"I was deputized, honored with the commission, to convey this latest production of the House to Paris," proceeded the voluble Lefort. "When it was ready for packing the Damon string of pearls was removed. There was substituted a cheap imitation necklace. It was unfortunate that in my pride, my desire to show this marvel of the House to some friends to Marselles, I did not proceed direct to Paris where the doll was to be placed in a case before the Grand Opera House, where Sophia Voltmar was the attraction. I found my friends at the seashore city absent at a wedding. Always my precious case with me, I strolled about the harbor. It was one of those royal evenings, the air pure wine, the sky a vaulted sapphire, the lovely Mediterranean a sheet of liquid gold. I took a row boat, my case ever at my side. Just as dusk came up a yawl holding three men. They ran into me. I later guessed that these bandits must have followed me from Vienna and were after the Damon pearls, which they believed had remained on the doll. A blow, insensibility, and it was a long, dull dream of many weeks for me.

"When I came to myself again the week was nearly a month older. I had been picked up, I and my case, by a schooner in the African trade. My pockets had been ransacked. There was nothing to indicate who I was when the schooner found me. The card I showed you I later discovered in the lining of my coat. A storm had driven the schooner out of her course. They simply kept me aboard because they made few landings. There was a passenger who probably recognized that I was a gentleman of culture, possibly of means. This was one Napoleon Ducroix."

I gave the speaker an intense stare. The pen with which Marvel was writing made a splutter just here. It was purposeful, to emphasize what I naturally had discovered, that Napoleon Ducroix was the name attached to the Jebel River & Great Jangeh bonds.

"This is my friend," spoke Marvel shortly, and did not even look up from some writing he was engaged in.

the civilized world to find and detain Bernard Ralston. Beyond that he had local emissaries and outside correspondents on the trail of King Zwun Zhi.

"The king," he announced to me one evening, "is in hiding, or dead. It tells me your distinguishing marks are a pair of feet marked still from your old service in a Parisian dye factory. Shall we go any further on that score, my friend?"

"Yes, I am Ducroix," acknowledged the man, sourly. "What of it?"

"Detention, complications, perhaps a prison sentence, unless you assist in helping me clear up a situation."

"About what?"

"King Zwun Zhi. You know where he is? Then tell and you are free to pick up some new victim."

Ducroix was silent for a minute or two. He eyed Marvel in a studious way. Those unlovely eyes of his showed boldness and defiance on the surface, but there was a flicker of fear in their depths.

"The game is played out, I guess," he said finally.

"Where is the king?"

"In pawn."

This man spoke truly. He had, indeed, played the game to the limit. This bold knave had exhausted the last shred of revenue available from the monarch of Jangeh in their extraordinary jump around the world. If he had not been a spendthrift he would have been a millionaire.

At last my eyes rested on the self-exiled, butterfly-chasing, stranded king. As I first saw him he was crouching over a blazing oil stove in a small room behind the shop of a pawnbroker. If his wife's face had resembled dusky mahogany, his own was more of the hue of ebony. He was thin and wasted, a furtive, frightened look in his shrinking eyes. The desperation of the prodigal down to his last hulk was expressed in every lineament of his shrunken face.

In some way Ducroix had induced the pawnbroker to advance a small sum on his majesty. The latter had insisted on retaining personal possession of the collateral. Warm as was the weather, the thin, tropical blood of the king demanded constant heat, and in the bill which Marvel paid there was an item of "Kerosene, $4." In a corner of the room, a marred wreck, was what was left of the famous doll.

It was to the office of the United Bankers' Protective association that the king was at once conveyed. Ducroix accompanied us, and Lefort was later—again from Loti, close on the track of the ascender. The latter, hemmed in, had tried to escape over a narrow mountain road. A wrong turn sent the automobile and its driver three hundred feet below to the bottom of a rock-strewn canyon. The machine had turned turtle, shutting out from sight the frightful end of the man who had been Open for Rating.

Railroad company secured, and a new deed of trust was made out.

"If you can influence Queen Ibi Zwua to sign that," observed Marvel to Lefort, "she can come and see her husband here. If not, she will see him behind steel bars."

It was all arranged within a few hours—the possession of an absolutely valid deed covering the Jangeh property. And that meant a new proposition, and the saving to the bank of its ill-advised original investment.

The president could well afford to be liberal, and Ducroix went away with enough in his pocket to stake him till he found a decent job, if that was his inclination, which it probably was. Lefort was ecstatic over the possession of a thousand, and it was arranged to get King Zwun Zhi and his wife back to their home possessions in a respectable way.

I was with Resilius Marvel when he wound up the last strand of this remarkable case. It was at the deserted offices of Ralston & Co. We found, fallen behind one of the dust-laden desks, a man's cap, and written in red ink on the inside lining was the name: "Clinton Durham."

The big safe of the defunct promoter held nothing but useless office records, the vault in which it stood only equally valueless litter. The climax, however, arrived when a second vault was opened.

Upon its floor lay a prone figure. It was the owner of the misplaced cap, dead—dead for many days.

We could only conjecture from a crumpled document in his cold hand what it all meant. The unfortunate mercantile reporter had become suspicious, had suspended the rating of Ralston & Co., and had revisited their office for proofs to sustain his judgment of the condition of the concern.

The paper in his hand was a private balance sheet, showing the house insolvent. He must have had an opportunity to slip into the vault to secure it. He had been discovered, probably by Ralston, with the indisputable evidence of the insolvency of the concern in his possession. The door of the vault had been crashed shut, and then, within twenty-four hours, gathering up all he could lay his hands to, Bernard Ralston had vanished.

A week later Resilius Marvel showed me a telegram from Loti, dated at Los Angeles. He was on the trail of Ralston, who was aiming to get out of the country.

There was a longer wire two days later—again from Loti, close on the track of the ascender. The latter, hemmed in, had tried to escape over a narrow mountain road. A wrong turn sent the automobile and its driver three hundred feet below to the bottom of a rock-strewn canyon. The machine had turned turtle, shutting out from sight the frightful end of the man who had been Open for Rating.

I was sent to the home of the president of the bank, and brought him back with me. The institution was visited, certain documents pertaining to the Jebel River & Great Jangeh documents were secured, and a new deed of trust was made out.
