Canada Will be Represented by a Full-Fledged Lord—High Honors and Emoluments.

Ottawa, June 11, via Skagway, June 18.—Hon. David Mills, minister of justice, has called for England to represent Canada and New Foundland in the reconstruction of the judicial committee of the imperial privy council. If Chamberlain's proposal in respect to colonial representation in the imperial government is accepted Canada will be represented by a full fledged lord, with a life membership in the house of lords, and holding office on the judiciary committee for a period of seven years, subject to reappointment. His salary will be thirty thousand a year. It is said this office will first be tendered to Edward Blake, now member of parliament. South Longford, Ireland. Blake was formerly a member of the liberal government.

EIGHTH DAY OF TRIAL

Ex-Constable Pennycuik Testifies of Gruesome Find on Scene of Supposed Wholesale Murder—Many Exhibits Introduced by Crown.

Ex-Constable Pennycuik was on the stand with the opening of court this (Tuesday) morning. Continuing his evidence he said Detective McGuire showed him two pools of blood on the river bank, one 15 feet, the other 40 feet back from the river; this was on the 3rd of March, 1900, witness and McGuire had three dogs with them, the yellow dog Bruce and two huskies belonging to McGuire. The defense objected to a question as to how the dogs acted as scenting the blood. The decision was reserved and the point was passed. The witness examined the pools of blood; the snow was two feet deep, all but three inches of it being on top of the blood; the blood was from the remains of the frozen to the snow; the remainder of the 29th was spent by witness and McGuire near where the blood was found; when the blood was uncovered and the sun shone on it a strong odor was emitted from it; on March 27th witness and McGuire who were still living in the Arctic Express cabin, visited the pools of blood with Inspector Scarth and Constable Dixon; they took the dog Bruce with them to the juncture of the three trails. Question as to how the dog acted was again objected to by the defense, the question being as to which way the dog went when told to go home. The question was allowed and witness said that he shouted out to the dog to go home; the dog went along the Pork trail to the juncture with the trail leading back to the tent and turned into it and started back on the trail; this was repeated and the dog did the same thing; the last time refusing to come back but going on to the tent; witness and party followed back and found the dog lying at the foot of the tree to which the ridge pole of the tent was fastened; the dog stayed there when the party left, refusing to come when called; witness returned to the point where the blood was found and shoveled all the new snow from the trail a distance of 125 yards, after which they came back to the blood 25 feet from the river and while standing there saw something in the snow which he picked up; it was a 40-82 shell they then searched around among the trees for bullet marks and after half an hour found two different trees bullet marked; one mark was about nine feet high; the tree was small and witness on bending it down found the bullet had passed through; by the angle of the marks the shots had been fired from below and possibly from the ice on the river; witness cut out the portions of the trees shot and identified them when produced in court; there were other bullet marks found on nearby willows; witness stated that when shoveling snow off the trail they found a pool of blood 52 feet 6 inches and another 25 feet 6 inches from the river bank, also small stains at intervals back several feet from the river; in all the bullet shattered branches the course of the ball was upwards; one bullet shattered branch was cut 97 feet from the river bank and 8 1/2 feet from the trail leading back from the bank; witness and McGuire shoveled the snow from the trail where the blood was down to the bank of the river along which they found marks on the old snow; at the bank were the roots of a tree on which witness found threads torn from clothing, but they were lost in handling; on the 24th witness and McGuire continued the search which, after shoveling away the snow was conducted on their hands and knees for about a month, small sticks being used with a tooth to scratch in the snow; on the 24th they found a garter 34 feet from the river bank and 2 1/2 feet from the dim trail; it was a garter such as is used by men with German socks; 50 feet back and in a clump of willows was found a receipt for $6 given by Capt. Fuesel, for meals and bunk; to L. Olsen; the receipt was identified by the witness; in the pool of blood 18 feet from the river they found splinters of bone, one of which was a piece of skull; had a sinus three inches long attached; a bullet found chip from a tree which stood 102 feet back from the river was found; it was identified by the witness; every article as found was noted and the point where found accurately measured; witness identified the garter, pieces of bone and skull; next day, March 25th, the search was continued; the first thing found being two 40-82 shells; a piece of cotton rope was found the same day 60 1/2 feet back from the bank; witness identified the shells and rope; previous to the above dates, a double blitted ax was found by the handle sticking out of the snow; both bits of the ax were very dull. On March 27th witness left for Selkirk, returning to the Arctic Express cabin on the 30th; on the 31st the camp was moved from the Arctic Express to near the scene of work, three members of the Yukon Field Force arriving that day to begin the work of cutting ice from the river in quest of further clues; on March 31st witness and McGuire found the part of a double tooth formerly in evidence; the tooth was 40 feet back from the bank and 1 1/2 feet from the trail; the same day two 41 caliber revolver shells were found 64 feet back from the bank and four feet from the trail; one black button was found where the shells were; a heavy rope knotted, with a stick through it was found 160 1/2 feet back, and near it was a medicine bottle; a piece of copper ore was found 50 feet back and eight feet from the trail; two feet further on was found a safety pin; on April 1st witness measured all the points and the same day had been near it found eyelets, rivets, buttons, buckles and particles of burnt clothing; several similar articles were found in the snow in the tent at the same time; on the same day and near the blood pools another 40-82 shell was found near where Olsen was supposed to have been murdered; wads of chewed paper as of letters or paper had been destroyed were found by the pool of blood; 40 1/2 feet back part of a second human tooth was found with a particle of lead attached to it; at the first pool of blood from the river witness scatched away leaves and grass and found fragments of bone; taking a knife and digging into the frozen ground found a 40-82 bullet an inch and a half deep; witness said bullet had been fired through the head of the victim after he was lying on the ground; this was on April 1st.

Ex-Constable Pennycuik had not completed his direct testimony when recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

Court reconvened at 2 o'clock when ex-Constable Pennycuik stood aside and Henry H. Darab who had just arrived from up the river took the stand. In December witness was employed by Capt. Fuesel at the Minto roadhouse; he saw Clayton, Rejls and Olsen leave for up the river about 7 o'clock Christmas morning; witness knew Olsen quite well; Olsen had showed him a piece of copper ore he carried and witness identified the piece found near the blood on the river bank as the piece witness had formerly seen; Olsen carried an ax, nipper and a sheath knife, the latter in a belt; witness and Olsen the knife. Cross-examined, witness said it was about daybreak when the three men left Minto for up the river on Christmas. Witness, desiring to go back up the river, was discharged from further attendance.

The prosecution called for the names of the witnesses which the defense proposes putting on the stand and they were refused as on the preceding day. Crown Prosecutor Wade insisted that the names be produced and asked the court to make such order.

His lordship remarked that the same rule should apply to both sides and that as the crown had given the defense the names of its witnesses the names of the witnesses for the defense should be given. For the defense, Mr. Biesker said, he had not yet subpoenaed a single witness; he further said that he has no witnesses that he intends to call. And thus the matter ended.

Ex-Constable Pennycuik resumed his testimony. On April 30th he, McGuire and the three soldiers searched the open hole in the ice and below and where the ice had been cut, but found nothing although they used a water glass; for several succeeding days they found nothing either in the water or on the trails; On April 5th they found a receipt from Anderson of the cache roadhouse to Olsen; it was in the clump of willows near where the copper ore was found; the receipt was in the form of a ball, being partly chewed up.

At this stage of the proceedings it developed that five plans or maps connected with the case had disappeared and all inquiry failed to produce them.

The witness resumed his testimony and stated that on April 8th another paper of Olsen's was found in the bushes near the pool of blood where he is supposed to have been murdered; the label from Olsen's medicine bottle was found on the 9th; on the 10th the men counted 27 trees cut down in one place; witness identified a number of the stumps in court, all showing that they had been cut with a dull ax; another stump left by the builders of the telegraph line was also put in evidence showing result of work by an experienced chopper with a sharp ax; the difference in the two stumps was apparent; the weather stain on the stump supposed to have been cut by the murderers not being deep as on the other which had been cut the preceding summer; ends of the logs in the tent frame showed they had also been cut by a dull ax and the double blitted ax in evidence showed ticks corresponding to the marks in the wood; the ticks and scores were compared by witness before the jury; on the afternoon of the 12th witness went to Selkirk, returning in the camp he John McGuire on the 15th; on the 16th they continued the search around the tent where they found a bottle bearing the name Electric Oil, one of Dr. Sandison's electric belts, part of the belt being 25 feet away from the tent.

The show is an account of today's trial up to 3 o'clock this afternoon at which time witness Pennycuik was still giving direct evidence.

REDUCE THE MINER'S LICENSE.

An earnest effort should be made to secure as early as possible a substantial reduction in the miners' license fee now charged by the federal government. That fee along with other charges made upon the people is altogether too high. The price of an annual license was fixed at $10 during the progress of the early stampede into this country, when by popular assumption the entire district was fabulously rich in gold.

Considering all the conditions which prevailed at that time, there is no particular cause for surprise that the federal authorities placed the charge for a license at the amount named. The newspapers at that time were filled with stories of wealth to be had for the mere exertion of picking it up and such a thing as an unproductive claim was not even suggested. Those early day allusions have now been dispelled. The possession of a miner's license does not guarantee the holder, ownership of a claim, nor does ownership of a claim furnish any absolute proof of its wealth.

The miners' license is practically a poll tax, levied upon every individual in the district. It costs the laborer as much money to enjoy the right to look for employment on a claim as it does the Eldorado King to qualify himself to hold his ground which may be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

It would probably be safe to say that hundreds of licenses are taken out in the camp a year which would be of no use to their owner were the license not a pre-requisite to securing employment. In other words a large portion of the present population of the district is composed of men who depend entirely upon their day's labor for their living, and who are not and do not expect to become owners of mining property.

OOM PAUL A BAD PROPHET.

Oom Paul is out with a manifesto to the effect that he does not countenance anything in the nature of peace negotiations. It is barely possible that Kruger no longer carries the weight with his people that he formerly possessed. The time was in the Transvaal when Kruger was considered almost with the veneration due an inspired prophet. His public utterances were looked upon as being of divine origin and while nominally he was the president of a republic, his rule was unquestioned as though he had been an absolute monarch. Now Kruger is a wanderer upon the face of the earth and at most of the courts where he has sought a hearing, he has been received with scant courtesy.

His prophecies as to the outcome of the war have not been fulfilled, and instead of becoming the dominant power in South Africa, as Kruger so freely predicted, the Boers have lost entirely their national existence.

Under these circumstances it is not to be accepted that when Kruger says he declines to talk of peace that he represents the views of his people. The more enlightened of the Boers are desirous of seeing the war come to an end, and wish to begin the work of restoring their devastated homes and cities. It is their interest which will be represented at The Hague conference which will probably result in accomplishing their desires.

Rx-Commissioner Ogilvie will be tendered a grand farwell banquet this evening. Mr. Ogilvie has given long years of service to the Yukon territory the value of which cannot as yet be fully estimated. The various tributes of respect which have been paid him upon the occasion of his retirement from the office of chief executive of the territory have all been thoroughly merited and the banquet to occur this evening will only add one more to the list of well deserved honors, which he has received.

Dawson is experiencing a slight touch of the warm weather for which so many people have anxiously waited. There can be no escape from the fact that summer has actually arrived.

U. S. Government Reports.

Mr. F. W. Clayton, secretary of the Dawson Board of Trade, received from the department of the interior of the United States by the last mail the latest geological and topographical reports of the various expeditions sent out by the department to Alaska. The latest report is that of the sub expedition in charge of Mr. Kohm in 1899 for the purpose of exploring the unknown area south and east of the Wrangell mountains. The area covered by this report is attracting attention on account of the fact that it affords an opportunity for reaching the interior of Alaska from a good port by a route entirely on American soil and because it also gives promise of containing mineral wealth.

The reports also include the expeditions of George H. Eldridge in the Sushitna basin and adjacent territory in 1898; Josiah Spurr in Southwestern Alaska in 1898; W. C. Mendenhall from Resurrection bay to the Tanana river in 1898; F. C. Schrader, port of Prince William sound and the Copper River district in 1898; and Alfred Hulse Brooks reconnaissance in the White and Tanana rivers in 1898.

The reports are very exhaustive, giving all the latest information, maps and routes in the territory of Alaska.

Rapid Name Signaling.
The record in the United States and probably in the world of the rapid signing of the name consecutively many times is probably held in this city, and the distinction belongs to Colonel J. G. Berret, formerly mayor of this city and an old and respected resident of the capital.

During President Taft's administration Colonel Berret was connected with the treasury department. Bonds to the amount of $13,000,000 were issued, and it was necessary for either the secretary of the treasury, R. J. Walker, to sign them or for some one in his stead. He delegated Colonel Berret to affix his signature to each one of the 40 coupons on each bond, 120,000 coupons in all. Colonel Berret signed his name 4,000 times the first day of the work and kept this average up every day, completing his task in 90 days.—Washington Exchange.

Belgium's Population.
Belgium's census was taken on the last day of last year, and the general results as regards population have just been made public. The population of the kingdom is 6,744,532, consisting of 3,363,436 males and 3,381,096 females. For the provinces it is as follows: Antwerp, 825,156; Brabant, 1,280,909; West Flanders, 810,448; East Flanders, 1,035,081; Hainaut, 1,133,672; Liege, 843,391; Limburg, 242,434; Luxembourg, 221,220; Namur, 352,271. Officially Antwerp is the most populous town, with 282,018 inhabitants. Brussels follows, with 210,085. But if the eight contiguous suburbs are counted, which practically are a part of Brussels, the population rises to 570,884. The population of the other principal towns is: Liege, 171,031; Ghent, 163,080; Bruges, 58,050; Namur, 82,110, and Mons, 25,590.

Golf Balls on Ice.
From Singapore comes the story that the game of golf has infected every European living in the city. There are two golf clubs, and the members are very enthusiastic. It is near the equator, and the climate is so hot that it is almost impossible to keep the golf balls in condition. So they keep them on ice, like champagne and beer. Your Chinese caddy, when he goes out with you, carries a small bag of ice, in which the balls are kept. Otherwise you would knock them egg shape every time you hit them.

Mulligan and Linton Arrive.
Among the passengers of the steamer Whitehorse were the well known song dough vaudeville artists Mulligan and Linton who have returned to Dawson after a year's absence. Mulligan was saying this morning as he stepped from the boat that it is a funny coincidence that they should arrive in Dawson the same day just one year after they left.

STROLLER'S COLUMN.

"In the world's broad field of battle,
In the bivouac of life,
Be not like dumb driven cattle,
Be a hero in the strife."

With apologies to Mr. McGuffey's eclectic fourth reader the Stroller uses the above. If the Stroller was writing poetry he would not make references to beef. Such poetry has the flavor of stockyards and growing veal.

But for aught the Stroller knows it was the above verse that inspired Colonel Charles Reichenbach to unsheathe his sword and wave it defiantly in the atmosphere as he descended the gang plank from an incoming steamer from up the river on his arrival a few days since. As the hero of many an unfought battle "der gornel" is probably entitled to carry a sword and not only carry but carve atmosphere and climate with it; but, like chewing up good tobacco and spitting away all the juice, "vat's der use?"

Stick a pin after the three words "vat's der use."

The Stroller wants to know why "der gornel" should land in Dawson with a drawn sword—a sort of defiant and menacing attitude? Was it because his pathway through life has been carved with the sword and painted with blood and he still had a grip on his ever ready and trusty weapon ("ever ready and trusty weapon" is "copped" by the Stroller from a Nickle Library book entitled "Cast Iron Bill" or "Nineteen Barrels of Blood") or was it because he wished to impress on the people of Dawson that he came prepared to carve his way through all opposition to fortune and fame right here in our midst? If the latter, "der gornel" should apologize to the women and children of Dawson (no one else was scared) for the threatening attitude in which he came in our midst.

The Stroller inclines to the belief that it was the latter motive that caused "der gornel" to come armed; otherwise, and it is for merely a grandstand play, "der gornel" would have come arrayed in full regiments—scalps from Bull Run, Lookout Mountain, Gettysburg, Missionary Ridge, and Cluifly, "Pomson Hollow and other places never seen by "der gornel" and the Stroller.

The sword could not have been waved by "der gornel" on account of membership in old Governor Perry's staff, for the honor attached thereto would not justify such a display. "Well, I should think not."

In the meantime it is up to "der gornel" to stand up and explain his threatening attitude on his arrival. He owes it to the government, he owes it to the people, and especially does he owe it to the widows and children—very young children. "Dond id?"

A story is told on a well-known late fero dealer. A few days after the games closed he walked out on the river bank and thus soliloquized:

"Here I stand; the open Yukon before me, the Northwest Mounted Police behind me and no money in my pocket. If the river was frozen I could walk out of the country; but it seems now that since everything else is closed, the river is the only thing running wide open."

The report that the fellow tried to play the bank-of-the-river, is disputed by his friends, although it is said he went back the next day and tried to shave—with the water's edge.

A story is told on an Englishman who lately arrived in Dawson with his wife and little daughter. At home the family was "polite" with the result that the child was never permitted to eat at the table with its parents and as a consequence the father has been greatly annoyed here by the child eating at the same board with himself. One morning lately the father was greatly annoyed by the little one at breakfast and when he could bear it no longer said: "By jove, I will be glad when we get back to old England, for then that bloomin' child will not eat at the same table with me, doncher know?"

And the precious youngster said: "I'll be glad, too, papa, for when we get back to England mamma and me will make you eat in the kitchen."

The fact that every incoming steamer brings a cargo of ladies to join their husbands in Dawson has revived a custom here that was extensively practiced in Skagway the summer of '98 when hundreds of wives arrived to join their husbands who had been there since the preceding fall. A steamer would whistle and 50 or 100 married men would start for the wharf, usually arriving before the steamer would tie up. If a man saw his wife aboard and heard juvenile voices exclaim "There's papa" he invariably made a sneak behind the warehouse where he would yank off his coat and look carefully over it for any lingering hairs that might be visible. That year when the Stroller dodged behind the warehouse to examine his coat he came on to 14 others doing the same thing.

FOR CATHOLICS.
(Published by request.)
Conditions for gaining the indulgence of the grand jubilee:
1.—Confession.
2.—Communion.
3.—Visits. Sixty visits to this church (not more than four visits a day) during the time of the jubilee (from June 16th to December 16th) and recitation of five "Our Father" and "Hail Mary" according to the intention of Pope, during each visit; or in place of these visits—
(a)—Attend mass six times, on six different days.
(b)—Recite sixty times during each mass, "Our Father" and "Hail Mary" according to the intention of the Pope.
(c)—N. B.—(a)—A state of grace is necessary at least when the final act of piety is performed.
(b)—The acts of piety must be performed in person and with the intention of gaining the jubilee.
(c)—No aims and no fast are required.

First question: What is an indulgence?
"It is not the forgiveness of the sin itself, nor the remission of the eternal punishment, nor yet is it an exemption from the duty of penance, nor still a permit to commit sin, as many non-Catholics claim, but it is the remission of the temporal punishment for sins already forgiven."
Second question: What is the indulgence of this grand jubilee?
"Not only a plenary indulgence but a most plenary one, the most extensive of all the church can accord."
For those who are perfectly disposed, it consequently is the fullest Divine amnesty, the entire forgiveness of all punishment due to Divine justice for all the sins committed during the course of one's life.

Continuing from the account of the trial published in the Nugget of Monday, W. H. Swinhart was called to the witness stand, but before he began his testimony the matter of excluding witnesses from the courtroom was discussed. The crown asked the witness to give the names of its witnesses so they could also be excluded, and defense positively refused to do so; the crown insisted and the court sustained the request, when the defense said it had no list prepared; that none of its proposed witnesses were then in court, but a list would be furnished next morning.

Witness Swinhart runs a farm near Selkirk and on December 9th, '99, a man with a yellow dog, which witness identified in court, came to his place and told witness his name was Thompson Ross, that he had a partner and they were going prospecting. Witness was not cross examined.

Ex-Constable Pennycook was recalled to give evidence regarding having met O'Brien on the trail near the beef cache on December 11th; witness said he had previously fixed the date as the 12th, but was mistaken as it was on the 11th. Witness and prisoner were both in Anderson's roadhouse and witness asked him to turn the contents of a sack he had on the floor; O'Brien told witness it was none of his business what was in the sack and witness replied that he would make it his business; O'Brien then emptied the sack of some candles, soap and yeast cakes; O'Brien told witness he was going up Big Salmon prospecting, but would not need all his stuff, that he had no money and had to leave stuff for beef; that his partner was camped below Hellgate; returning to Selkirk witness saw a man dodge around a woodpile and as he approached the woodpile two dogs, the yellow and black ones, ran out and the man came from behind the woodpile and called the dogs; witness recognized the yellow dog in court; O'Brien's partner was camped by the woodpile and witness searched his camp; in searching the camp for stolen goods witness found flour, baking powder, beans, rice, a small amount of each, two hams, roast beef, Eagle brand of milk; the milk was inside of the stove; there was stealing going on along that part of the river and witness was searching for one in particular, but for stolen goods the stove had a telescope oven and two damper holes panned. The stove was brought into court and identified by witness; there was no tent over the camp, the beds being made against the cordwood; the witness saw him burning the cordwood and told him he had no business to burn other people's wood; witness saw O'Brien's partner at Selkirk a day, possibly two days, later when he (the partner) walked into the police detachment when witness told him it was all right about his stuff as it had been bought from the A. C. Co.; at the beef cache on the 11th O'Brien told witness his name was Miller; lots of thieving was going on along the river at that time and a man named Fortier was arrested and convicted for theft about that time; thieving did not stop on the trail after Fortier was convicted on December 14th; on the same day witness started for the above mentioned camp with a warrant for the arrest of the two men, Miller and Ross, but the warrant was not served, the men having moved on; witness next saw O'Brien when he was brought to Selkirk a prisoner. This completed the evidence as to matters before the murder and the witness was questioned about the discovery of the test a mile or more back from the river and where the murderers are supposed to have lived a few days previous to and at the time of the murder. Witness reached the place January 3d, 1900. To reach the location of the test witness took the Pork trail from the main trail and

ROUGH AND TUMBLE

Young Leedham is a Gladiator in the Ring.

There was a go last Saturday night at the Savoy theater which for uniqueness of events and unexpected results beat anything in the history of fistic encounters ever chronicled in Dawson. The contestants were Curly Carr and Young Leedham. After waiting an exasperatingly long interval after the advertised time of the meeting the men appeared in the ring. Then another wait occurred. There were no gloves. Messengers were dispatched to borrow a pair, but they came back empty handed. At last an old and heavy pair was thrown into the ring and the men were ordered to get ready. Time, to 10. When the men stripped for the fray the first surprise was handed to the assembly. Leedham showed a form like a youthful Hercules. Swinging his arms constantly in a peculiar fashion to their widest extent and bringing his hands together he advanced towards Curly who stood on the defensive. "Bang" went his left like a shot, catching Carr straight between the eyes and knocking him out of equilibrium he fell sprawling on the floor. With victory shining in his eyes Leedham then rushed Carr driving him clear over the ropes where they were separated by Referee O'Donnell. Coming to center again Leedham sawed the air. Carr scowling savagely. "Biff" went the left with sickening force and Curly's head was nearly lifted from his shoulders. The onlookers yelled for joy. Leedham rushed at his man and a clinch followed. Coming again with a mad rush, like an angry bull, he hurled Carr against the ropes with such force that he tore the ropes to the floor, Carr again going down. This stopped the round which had not consumed the regulation three minutes. The audience screamed with delight at the spectacle and yelled with joy as one of the stage hands entered the fallen ring, ax in hand, to repair damages. After the ropes were replaced time was called and Leedham rushed for his man and clinching, hugging him like a bear and whipping his arms like a flat. Breaking away he came back with a swing of his left which landed on Carr's body with a report like a pistol shot. Clinching he picked Carr up and hurled him to the floor flat. Referee warned Leedham to fight clean. Leedham swung again and landed on Carr's jaw and then again threw him to the floor. O'Donnell again warned the fighter, who by this time seemed to have gone clean mad. Time was called here. Leedham rushed at his man at call of time forcing him to the ropes, a clinch followed. Again Leedham rushed and clinched and here Carr got in the first blow, driving in a right on his opponent's body. What little sense remained to Leedham left him after that and driving a left in on Carr's jaw he jabbed his man, clinching and with a giant's strength lifted Carr in the air and dashed him flat to the boards. The referee here stopped the go and awarded the contest to Carr on a foul. Leedham hurled defiance at Carr, saying he could lick a dozen Carrs and rushed upstairs after Carr, whom he said he would smash into little bits. He was restrained, however, by his seconds.

Taking it all together the meeting was a warm number, but Leedham should in future be compelled to fight inside of a cage with his adversary on the outside.

THE ELECTRICAL KITCHEN.

No More Overdone Roast or Underdone Puddings.

Cooking would be more of an art and less of a gamble if the heat could be put where it was wanted and nowhere else and its intensity were under the perfect control of the cook. The oven that will not come up to the right temperature of that will not bake on the bottom, the chimney that draws the wrong way when the wind is from the northwest, the dampers that refuse to do as they are bid, the kindling that burns out without lighting the coal, all tend to make cooks the most ill tempered of mortals.

The gas range is admirable in that it supplies a heat that can be tempered at will, but it foils the air. It burns up the oxygen and leaves carbonic acid gas, and if there is a gas stove connection that does not leak a little I have yet to see it. Perhaps the escaping gas may not flavor the food, but some profess themselves able to detect it from the windows. But be that as it may dwellers in city houses need more pure air rather than less of it. If we do not live as long as we might, it is because we shut out the sunlight and the air too carelessly.

The electrical kitchen is not only admirable, it is ideal in its application of heat. It does not steal oxygen. It does not foul the air. It is steady. It can be directed to the top, bottom or the sides of the thing to be cooked, for it does not depend upon the combustion of fuel or the convection of hot air, but upon the resistance of iron to the electrical current.

Instead of having to plan so that the cooking be done when the fire is in the range the electrical kitchen is ready at any hour of the day or night to bake or broil, and the apparatus to starting of the hot water run to bubbling, to brew the 5 o'clock tea or to disconcert the midnight Welsh rabbit from the fear that the alcohol bottle is empty and all the drug stores shut up, to temper the chill of the spring bed or to warm the toes under the desk, to heat the curling iron or the smoothing-iron, all these appliances being connected by a flexible wire cord to a socket in the wall whence comes the energy.

It is an exemplification of the whole-sale principle. Instead of 1,000 chimneys smoking at a tremendous sacrifice of coal there need be but one big fire whose heat is turned into motion, that into electricity and that in turn back to heat again. -Ainslie's Magazine.

The Cloud Shooter Returns.
After a long winter, Prof. Leonard, the aeronaut, returns to Dawson, bringing a story of his ramblings through Mexico, Arizona and California, and reports the outside looking very quiet. Mexico is coming to the front on account of American capital opening a great number of mines. That republic in future will be a great field for the American miner, as the natives can not be trusted with the handling of giant powder.

The Mexicans like ballooning next to fighting and old men and boys raise their hats out of respect as the aeronaut passes, but they will cut out enough of a balloon, should it land a mile from town, to make a tent and clothe a family.

Prof. Leonard has his flying machine half finished, and expects wonders from it when completed. He expects to give this city one of those splendid ascensions for which he is famous in the near future.

The Road Bad.
The government road between Dawson and the Forks is in fairly good condition, but there are still several places which are not only in a bad but dangerous condition, especially between 40 and 60 below Bonanza complaints are continually being heard from the teamsters, one freighter actually upset his load in one of these holes. Such a condition ought not to exist on a government road. These places should have been looked after before this.

All Hall Emil.
Emil Mohr, the genial merchant of this city, has arrived in Dawson after an extended journey to the Fatherland and all of continental Europe. He brings with him his same jolly and cheerful face and the glad hand of good fellowship, as well as a large consignment of the more material things of earth. He will enlarge the store now occupied by Mohr & Wilkins and buckle down to business in a few days after he has squared himself with the boys who had it that he was coming back a benighted and who had made extensive preparations to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Mohr. Such, however, it turns out, is not a fact and Emil has returned heart whole and lancy free.

AFFAIRS ON TWO CREEKS

What the People are Doing on Eldorado and Bonanza.

Interesting Events Which Are Occurring From Time to Time at the Diggings.

Mr. John I. White, one of the old miners of the Yukon has just returned from the States. Mr. White went out last fall to undergo a surgical operation which was successfully performed, and is now ready to get into the harness again.

Mr. Lowell of 51 below Bonanza, has sold his roadhouse to Mr. Hanrally. Much of Mr. Lowell's success was due to his indomitable energy in keeping bridges across the creek for foot passengers, which invariably brought the trade by his place.

Mr. Dan Barry who had a lay on Billy Chappel's claim, No. 7 Eldorado, has finished work and will take a trip to the outside in a few days.

Mr. Gus Wanger, who owns 13 Eldorado has finished for the season and made arrangements for future work. Mr. Wanger will go to his old home in Bertner Cal., where his family resides. Gus has great faith in the quartz of this country and says there is no question but that mountains of paying quartz exist here, and it needs but development to prove that fact. Mr. Wanger will return next spring to look after the clean up on his claim.

Messrs. Hadley & Hickman of Grand Forks have purchased the Kingsville roadhouse at Carmack's Forks. Mr. Hickman is in charge and reports business good.

Mr. W. Thibedeau, land surveyor, has just completed the survey of the new government road from Grand Forks to Carmack's Forks. It is hoped the government will proceed at once to build the same, as no wagons can be used between the above places.

Miss Esther Pire who has been attending school at Victoria, has just arrived and will remain with her mother Mrs. Francoise at 26 above Bonanza for the summer.

Mrs. G. N. Williams and daughter returned from the outside this week. Mr. Williams who owns 30 Eldorado was in Dawson to greet his family on their arrival.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Eckman of 28 Eldorado were in town several days last week visiting their numerous friends. Mr. and Mrs. Lowden of 52 below Bonanza, were visiting in Dawson last week.

The big dredger which was used on Cassiar bar last season and owned by Chicago capitalists is now being taken to 42 below Bonanza, in sections, where the company have secured a lay on Mr. Anderson's claim for the summer.

A SMALL BLAZE

Caused by a Small Boy With a Match Yesterday Afternoon.

The first fire to call out the department for some time, occurred yesterday afternoon at 5:30 at the corner of Second street, south hand Second avenue. In the building owned by M. Petland and which was burned out last fall someone had stored a couple of boxes of hay. Some small boys were playing there yesterday afternoon when one of them touched a match to the hay which was ablaze in an instant. The department reached the scene in good time and extinguished the fire before any damage other than the loss of the hay resulted.

Three Months for Stealing.

At Grand Forks yesterday before Magistrate McDonell Nathan Urau was sentenced to three months at hard labor at Dawson for stealing $8 from Sophia Selwin's a laundress at the Forks.

Settled the Duel.

Lord March (afterward the Marquis of Queensberry) was not accustomed to view a duel with unbecoming apprehension, and usually attended an affair with an air of enjoyment that often was decidedly displeasing and embarrassing to his adversary. But he was served at last with that sauce which the proverb explains is for the gander as well as for the goose. It was when he was challenged to fight an Irish sportsman.

Lord March appeared on the ground accompanied by a second, bourgeois and other witnesses. His opponent arrived soon afterward with a similar retinue, but added to by a person who staggered under the weight of a polished oak coffin, which he deposited on the ground, and up, with its lid facing Lord March and his party.

Lord March became decidedly uncomfortable when he read the inscription plate, engraved with his own name and title and the date and year of death, and peace was patched up.

Mr. J. H. Rogers of the British-Yukon Navigation Co., is giving an excursion on the new and palatial steamer Whitehorse this afternoon.

A finger ring was found on the beach yesterday by the police. Anyone losing the same can, upon proving property, claim the ring. Apply at barracks.

Mrs. James A. Causten arrived this morning from Wrangell en route to St. Michael to join her husband who was lately appointed customs collector for that port.

Mr. James Ives, a director of the Silver King mine of Park City, Utah, and Mr. J. W. Wither of Salt Lake City, are among the recent arrivals in Dawson.

A notice has been received from the postoffice stating that commencing with July 16th three south bound mails a week will be dispatched closing Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Mrs. C. G. Finger and little son arrived Sunday from Port Townsend, Wash., and will make Dawson their future home. Mr. Finger has been here for more than a year and is proprietor of the Grand hotel, corner of Third avenue and Second street.

Among the incoming passengers on the steamer Whitehorse today were Mrs. Frank Close and little daughter Francis who left Dawson nearly a year ago and who have since been at their old home in Port Townsend, Wash. Mrs. Close left their eldest daughter in school on the outside.

Mr. D. C. Jackson, general manager of the Alaska Pacific Express, was an arrival on the Whitehorse this morning. Mr. Jackson has been making one of regular trips to the various offices along the coast and interior points and has been traveling since the 17th of May.

Byrne and wife, were registered at the Hotel Metropole yesterday.

Frank W. Pettygrave representing J. A. Folger & Co. of San Francisco, and one of the most popular "angels of commerce" on the Pacific coast, arrived in Dawson on his first visit by the steamer Whitehorse this morning and will hold services for a week or ten days. It was Mr. Pettygrave's father that named Portland, Oregon, he and another pioneer, both from the state of Maine, tossing a copper two-cent piece to see whether the little camp should be named Portland or Augusta.

Frank now carries the copper which was given him by his father more than a quarter of a century ago. Last week Harry O'Brien, manager of the Eagle City team to arrange a match for the 21st. A reply was received by wire Saturday from Lieut. Craigie, Captain of the Seventh infantry, No. 2 baseball team, stating that arrangements were completed for a game on that date. At the time the first wire was sent arrangements were being made for the trip to Circle to see the mid-night sun and plans had been made for the Gandofo team to go down with the excursion and have the game at Eagle. Since then the excursion has been called off and the boys have no means of transportation and plans are now being arranged to have the Eagle team come to Dawson for a game on the Fourth.

THE THEATRES THIS WEEK

The Public is Entertained With Solid Amusement.

Standard Stock Company Producing "Nugget Nell"—At the Orpheum, "Turkish Slave Mart."

The Standard Stock Company this week is producing J. E. Cowley and Wilson F. Bennett's four-act comedy drama entitled "Nugget Nell." The scenes in this play are laid in the prologue in New York and afterwards in the mining regions of Poker Flats, Colorado.

W. C. Bohman takes the leading part as Herbert Stanton, an escaped convict, in the prologue, and afterwards appears as Budd Dunken, a western sport. In both characters Mr. Bohman shows his ability as an actor and does full credit to the part.

Robert Lawrence as Sidney Woodward and afterwards Manuel Lopez, also does good work as the villain of the piece.

F. C. Lewis takes the part of Deacon Crawford, the insane owner of the rich mining claim. Alf T. Layne as Jack Davis, is a typical western stage driver. Julia Walcott as Ling Lang makes the best Chinese character yet seen in Dawson.

Lucy Lovell as Bella Woodward, Sidney's wife and accomplice, makes her part one of the best in the play. Vivian displays her ability as Nugget Nell pet of Poker Flats, the heroine of the play and takes her part in her usual creditable manner.

The balance of the cast contains the following well known people: Wm. Mullen as Mike Moore, Harry O'Brien as Bill Mulligan, lieutenant to Lopez, R. J. Thome as Joe Bowers, Geo. Trowell as the sheriff and Daisy D'Avara as the gushing Abigail Greenleaf.

Special gushing has been prepared for this play and sets it off to its best advantage. The scenes are laid at the following places:

Prologue—Woodward's home in New York city; the convict's return; the appointment; "treachery"; the papers are gone; "I'll scoop the trick."

Act 1.—Pilgrim's Rest hotel; Poker Flats, Colorado; a rat in the soup; the greaser's little scheme; the Arkansas hand—four aces and a pair of sixes.

Act 2.—At Poker Flat; A Chinaman on his muscles; an assassin's hand; the greaser's revenge; a dastardly deed; before one witness—"Up thar."

Act 3.—Joe Bower's home in Denver; a fashionable young lady; the visitor; turning the Table, at the end of his rope; all's well—that ends well.

Crowing Matches.

The Belgian artisan spends his leisure in a very curious manner. He keeps a special cock for crowing, and the bird which can outcrow its fellows has reached the highest pinnacle of perfection. The mode of operation is to place the cages containing the roosters in long rows, for it appears that only bird sees the other of crowing. A marker appointed by the organizers of the show is told off for each bird, his duty being to note carefully the number of crows for which it is responsible in the same fashion as the laps are recorded in a bicycle race. The customary duration of the match is one hour, the winner being the bird which scores the highest number of crows in the allotted time. A great number of these competitions have taken place in the Liege district, and in some cases heavy bets have been made on the result.

Money in Coconuts.

This coconut industry is well worth the consideration of enterprising Americans, for it has resulted in the making of tremendous fortunes. A coconut tree yields fruit within five years after planting and then bears uninterruptedly for over a century. Those engaged in shipping the copra to Europe pay $1 per year for the fruit from a single tree. The trees once started need no further consideration. Ten thousand trees cover a comparatively small space, as there are no branches. There is a good demand for the fruit, which is used for many purposes. The trees invariably grow best in what is for all other purposes the poorest soil—Malilla Cor. Leslie's Weekly.

A Great Snowfall.

The most prodigious fall of snow in the mountains recorded of late occurred at Roby, a coal camp in Gunnison county, Colo., during the winter of three years ago. In one month's time 239 inches fell, and during the winter 780.5 inches, or 65 feet, were precipitated. This latter amount means 93.21 inches of water.—Ainslie's Magazine.
