

The Fairest

In the land are the recipients of our flowers. Festal occasions are particularly in our line and our bride's bouquets are the most beautiful made. Our designs for funerals are also in the best taste. We do not pack the flowers into impossible shapes, but allow them to stand in their natural beauty, as if they had just sprung into place.

PLEASURES OF COUNTRY LIFE.

There isn't a more popular humorist than "Dooley." The following is his account of a night he spent in the country villa of a friend:

"Well, I said me prayers and got into bed an' lay there, thinkin' iv me past life, an' wonderin' if th' house was on fire. Th' roof was near enough to me that I cud smell th' shingles, an' th' sun had been rollin' on it all day long, an' though it had gone away, it'd left a ray or two to keep th' place. I'm a survivor of th' gr-rear fire, an' I often go down to th' rollin'-mills, and besides, mind ye, I'm of that turn iv mind that whin 'tis hot I say 'tis hot, an' I've it go at that. So I whispers to meself, 'I'll dhrop off,' I says, 'like th' healthy plough-boy that I am,' says I. An' I counted as far as I knew how, an' conducted a flock iv sheep in a steepchase, an' I'd just begun fr to wonder how th' last thing I thought iv came into me head, whin a dog started to howl in th' yard. They was a friend iv this dog in th' nex' house that answered fr and they had a long chat. Some other dogs butted in to be compannyable. I heered Hogan rollin' in bed, an' then I heered him goin' out to get a drink iv water. He tripped over a chair before he lighted a match to look at th' clock. It seemed an hour before he got back to bed. By this time the dogs was tired, an' I thinkin' I'd take a nap, whin a bunch iv crickets undey me windows began fr to discourse. I've heered iv the crickets yn the hearth, Hinnissy, an' I used to think they were all th' money, but any time they get on my hearth I buy me a pound iv insect powder. I'd rather have a pianola on th' hearth any day an' Gawd save me from that! An' so 'twas dogs an' mosquitoes, an' crickets an' mosquitoes, an' a screech-owl an' mosquitoes, an' a whippoorwill an' mosquitoes, an' cocks beginnin' to crow at two in th' mornin' an' mosquitoes, so that whin the sun bounced up and punched me in the eye at four I knew what the truth is—that the countryp is the noisiest place in the wurld. Mind ye, there's a roar in th' city but in th' country th' noises beat on ye'er ear like carpet tacks bein' driven into th' dhrum. Between th' chirp iv a cricket an' the chirp iv th' hammer at th' mills, I'll take the hammer. I can go to sleep in a boiler-shop, but I spent th' rest iv that night in Hogan's, settin' in the bath tub."

NEW ARTILLERY.

Minister Wu, on behalf of the Chinese Government is negotiating with Thomas J. Lovegrove, of New Egypt, for the exclusive ownership of a terrible death dealing machine which the latter has invented. The object of the machine, as set forth by Mr. Lovegrove, is to burn up vast armies when necessary, but more particularly to scare into everlasting peace the inhabitants of the earth.

Lovegrove is a well-known mechanical engineer. Speaking of his invention he said:—"It squirts a liquid at a temperature as high as 500 degrees. The liquid can be shot one mile or tenmiles, and at the terminal of the range it can be scattered 100 or 200 feet by impact and pneumatic pressure. It can also be squirted at 180 degrees on a radius of 2,200 feet. The squirter can be made stationary or on wheels, to be moved from point to point, as is field artillery. Three of these squirters will put hors de combat 10,000 of a charging column each minute. These squirters are caloric-hydraulic and have not a particle of machinery to interfere with the result of the operation."

"I am informed on good authority," says the Brussels correspondent of the London Daily Mail, "that Mr. Kruger's visit to the United States has absolutely been decided upon. It will take place probably about the middle of September, and he will be accompanied by Messrs. Fischer, Wessels and Wolmarans."

The Saginaw Lumber Company, which has secured timber limits on the north shore of Lake Huron are preparing to move their big mill from Saginaw city to the Canadian side. The Cleveland Lumber and Sawing Company have already commenced erecting a mill. They have secured timber in the Township of Foster, on the north shore of Lake Huron. Both of these companies have been compelled to transfer their operations to the Canadian side owing to the prohibition of the exportation of sawlogs. They will give employment to about 200 men.

DEATH OF DAVID THOMPSON.

The Gananogue Reporter of Saturday contained an account of the death of Mr. David Thompson, at the residence of Mr. Andrew Powley, near Gananogue. Mr. Thompson has been a familiar figure in the townships of Crosby and Leeds and Lansdowne for over thirty years owing to his eccentricities on the subject of religion. He was of Scotch descent. He owned a farm at one time, but believing he had a mission to lead the people to a better life, he sold it and gave the proceeds to the Methodist church and spent his time in going from house to house praying and exhorting. Many people believed him of weak intellect and gave him food and shelter on that account. Last fall he began to fail in health and the people who knew him best asked for contributions for his support which was liberally responded to and every comfort was provided him. In June last he reached Mr. Powley's house in a very feeble condition and died there on July 2nd aged 82 years.

He had maintained his religious connections with Olivet church, a short distance from Seeley's Bay, and managed to pay his quarterly dues regularly, and when he died the officials of that church had him interred there. Contributions were sent in from all parts where he was known so that after paying all expenses there was a small balance over and it is now proposed to erect a plain monument to mark his last resting place. Anyone feeling interested and wishing to contribute towards that purpose may forward the amount to G. R. Hawkins, Seeley's Bay, or to Geo. Gardner, Gananogue Junction. Mr. Thompson is supposed to have a married sister living in the vicinity of Brockville and possibly other relatives who would be interested in knowing something of his life and death. For this reason his friends asked local papers in Leeds County to mention the facts and ask that they communicate with either of the gentlemen named above. He was a bachelor and had no relatives near where he died.

According to information received at the Department of Agriculture, since January of this year Ontario stockmen and horse-breeders have sold $500,000 worth of horses, cattle and sheep to Manitoba farmers and Territorial ranchers. Last year one man was sufficient to travel up with the carloads of stock going to the West, but this year the shipments were so numerous that three and four men had to be employed. The business done by Ontario breeders in the West is so important that special rates have been secured for Western breeders to visit the Provincial Winter Fair and Fat Stock Show at Guelph in December. It is expected, also, that the number of Maritime Province men visiting this fair will also be increased this year.

THE BOSS.

A mechanic who worked in one of the city's large machine shops hadn't been feeling very well and the boss told him to knock off and take a holiday. "What's up, Jim?" asked his wife as he pushed open the door of his home on McGill street.

"I ain't well, and the boss said to take a little rest." The physician said it was typhoid but Jim refused to go to the hospital.

One day a ring called his wife to the door. "The boss sent me up to stay with Jim," and the fellow-workman stepped in as he spoke.

That night a ring called the tired little woman to the door. "The boss sent me up to set up with Jim," and another comrade stepped in to relieve the watcher by day. For weeks they watched, and for weeks the wife nursed as only a wife can. Through fever and delirium, through hope and disappointment, they kept looking forward to the day when Jim would answer the seven o'clock whistle the same as he had always done. But Jim's binder pail had been filled for the last time, and he had put in check for the last nine hours.

Again there was a knock, this time a soft one for a pall hung from the door. It was a letter from the boss enclosing $50.

"For Jim was a good workman," the note said. Jim was buried yesterday. The watchers were paid, and paid for a week's rest afterward, and Jim never lost any time for his pay kept on till he stepped into Eternity.

There are no strikes in this factory and the boys would pawn their shirts for the boss.

Up on a Roof, OR AN Unexpected Husband.

This is the terrible tale of a Roof, or the Unexpected Husband. It concerns William S. Clifford, known to the patrons of the vaudeville...

Perhaps it is unnecessary to say that the matrimonial bark of the blithesome Clifford is adrift. The partner of his joys and board bills, Miss Maud Huth, has cut the...

"It is not good for me to be alone," thought Clifford between the hours of 4 and 6 on Monday morning. But why anticipate?

Thought Her a Prize. Casting about for some talented young woman to assist him in his lonely "turn," the big vaudeville...

An Improvement Suggested. "Ah," said Billy, who is a diamond fancier, "a lovely bit of genre landscape, but that line it would look prettier if you wore a locket which I have in my collection."

He brought it out from his strong box. It was a splendid affair, with forty diamonds in the foreground and—but he did not mention it at the time—a picture of his wife, Miss Huth, within. It glittered gloriously upon the bosom of the woman, who proved no more averse than others of her sex to wearing baubles of the sort.

The performance was an entire success. After it came the friendly little supper at Shanley's, with the usual concomitants when start treats his supper, and then Clifford offered to accompany the diamond woman to her home in the Ashland apartment, East Ninety-fourth street. It was quite the gentlemanly thing to do.

Wanted the Locket Returned. At the door of his apartment he suddenly remembered the diamond locket and asked the lady to remove it. "Ah, Mr. Clifford," she said, coyly, "let me wear it over night. I will give it to you in the morning. It is very pleasant. Besides, I would like to show it to my friends."

"My dear Mrs. Atwood," said Clifford, "dearly as I would like to accommodate so sweet and gentle a young person as you, I really could not let you wear that locket any longer. This is not the diamond that troubles me, but alas! the picture of my dear wife, from whom I am estranged, most unhappily to myself, behind the diamonds."

Tears fell from the eyes of the comedian. They touched the innocent soul of the young woman. She said it would be rather inconvenient for her to get at the locket in the street, but if he would accompany her to her apartment on the top floor she would get it for him. Always obliging Clifford consented. She invited him to enter.

It Was Very Cozy Inside. "Well, just for a moment—while you get the locket," he said. It was very cozy inside, and as neither was deep, Clifford threw off his hat and coat, lighted a cigarette, and sat down for a chat.

It was 4 a. m. when the bell rang vigorously. Miss Atwood went to the tube and called down, asking who was there. "My goodness!" she cried, turning around in a fright. "It's Henry, my husband! He went to Boston for a week. I did not expect to see him back to-night. Fly! The roof! Your ladder will take you to it."

"What sort of a game is this?" asked Clifford between affright and anger. "You did not tell me that you had an encumbrance. Husband—fly! He's coming! He'll be terribly angry. Get up on the roof. I will let you out as soon as Henry is asleep."

"My locket!" said the vaudeville man. But she pushed him up the ladder and put on the cold, cold roof, and fastened the scuttle after him. He found on investigation that he had his high hat and top coat and a box of cigarettes, but never a match to light them.

How to Care For the Babies.

During the first year the child should, if possible, be nursed by the mother, but it should not be nursed every time it cries; never oftener than once in two hours in the day, and once in four hours at night...

If the amount of milk is not sufficient to nourish the child, then resort to bottle feeding, but remember that bad bottle feeding leads to more deaths among the babies during summer than all other causes combined.

Cold water should be given freely between meals in hot weather to first and second year babies. It should be boiled and kept in a cool place. Iced water should never be given.

Give Them Water. Cold water should be given freely between meals in hot weather to first and second year babies. It should be boiled and kept in a cool place.

Heat Milk, Then C. of it. In hot weather the milk should be heated, then cooled gradually, on ice or in a cool place until ready for use.

Thick barley and oatmeal gruel is a safe and nutritious drink. Mixed with boiled milk and strained through muslin, it makes a splendid food.

Keep the Bottle Clean. Bottles should be rinsed as soon as emptied and scalded for 20 minutes before they are filled.

Hints For Bathers. The following hints about sea bathing have been issued to English bathers by the Royal Humane Society.

Ought to Know. "Lady—Where is the agent for these flats?" "Ma at the Door—I can rent the flats, mum."

As Good as a Corkscrew. No doubt you have found yourself in the predicament of having forgotten the cork screw, and you are out in the fields trying to get a draught from a cold bottle.

Pop Knew. "Say, pop, I've got to write a composition on Hope. What is hope, any way?" "Hope, my boy, is the joyous expectation of being able to dodge our just deserts."

News of Another Success on the Part of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

An Alberta Man Reports His Entire Satisfaction With the World Famous Remedy—Blood Purifier—Cause of His Trouble—Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Removed It and He is Thankful.

Blairmore, Alberta, July 22.—(Special)—Dodd's Kidney Pills are just as well thought of in the great Northwest as they are any place else in the world.

For instance every one knows Bright's Disease at one time meant the sentence of death. Does it now? Ask Arthur Coley of Somerset, Man.

Walter H. A. Noble, of Blairmore, Alberta, writes in this connection: "I had been troubled with Pimples all over my face, and Backache. I tried everything to cure it, all kinds of medicine, but failed."

The World's most Wonderful Dams. The British Government has undertaken to restore the ancient order of things by storing the flood waters of the Nile, so that, by irrigating, energy and the deserts of Egypt will be in a condition to supply cotton, cereals and other products.

It is of interest to know that 25,000 natives and Italians are now at work in shifts of 12,500 each by night and day in any completion of the erection of dams across the channel of the Nile.

Do not bathe when fatigued. Avoid bathing when the body is cooling after perspiration. Do not invite children remaining on the beach or in the boat in the wet bathing costume.

SOME INSECTS USEFUL TO MAN

"It is," says Prof. Lockhead, in a letter to the Gaeiph Mercury, "a regrettable fact that many of our fruit-growers and gardeners are unacquainted with the beneficial insects. Several times of late grubs of ladybeetles have been sent in with the request for information as to the best means of getting rid of these grubs which are destroying our crops."

Ladybeetles and ladybeetle grubs are very active this season on account of the immense number of ladybeetles and ladybeetle grubs. Both the larvae and adults eat these injurious forms very greedily and destroy immense numbers of them.

After the large black ground beetles are also very active this season. These may be seen under stones, boards, or dead leaves during the day time.

Walter H. A. Noble, of Blairmore, Alberta, writes in this connection: "I had been troubled with Pimples all over my face, and Backache. I tried everything to cure it, all kinds of medicine, but failed."

Why She Was Mad. One morning, in kindergarten, a wee mite of womanhood had been trying to attract the teacher by every resource of which she was capable, without directly saying anything to her.

WHISKERS IN HIS WHEEL.

William Cranfall, of Smoky Hill, had to get shaved yesterday, and under painful and distressing circumstances. It was his first shave in 20 years, and the operation was a set of whiskers that was the pride and joy of the whole region.

The colonel had his whiskers tied up out of the way, but while descending a steep hill that was part of the course, a sudden gust of wind blew them loose. The whiskers caught in the front wheel, and in an instant the colonel, the whiskers and the bicycle were mixed up in almost inextricable confusion.

Talmage Scatters Them and Pronounces Sin Wrong Whether in High or Low Place

Washington, report— In this discourse Dr. Talmage shows that there is a tendency to excuse brilliant faults because they are brilliant, when the same law of right and wrong ought to be applied to high places and low.

THIS ARTICLE REMOVED

Now, I estimate thank God when I find an estate like that go to smash. It is plague struck, and it blasts the nation. I thank God when I go to such a wreck it can never be gathered up again. I want it to be so loathsome and such an infernal stench that honest young men will not touch it. If God should let it into money or its representative capacity to go to its lawful owner, ere would not be a bank or a safe-deposit in the United States whose vaults would not be blown out and its contents would rip and parchments would rend and gold would shoot and silver would get on horseback and kick gamblers would go to the almshouse.

How many dishonesties in the making of the communion tables and in placing of false labels and in the thing of customers of rival houses and in the making and breaking of contracts! Young men are indoctrinated in the idea that the sooner they get money the better, and the longer it on a larger scale only moves to them their greater ingenuity. There is a glitter thrown around about all these things. Young men have got to get money. It looks upon sin in a very different light.

And remember that the man who gets his gain by iniquity will soon lose it all. One moment after his departure from life he will not own an opera house, he will not own a certificate of stock, he will not own one dollar of government securities, and the poorest boy that stands on a street with a penny in his pocket, looking at the funeral procession of the dead cheat as it goes by will have more money than that man who one week previous boasted that he controlled the money market.

Oh, there is such a fearful fascination in this day about the use of trust funds. It has got to be popular to take the funds of others and speculate with them. There are many who are practicing that iniquity. Almost every man in the American church has the property of others put in his care. He has administered, perhaps for a dead friend; he is an attorney, and money passes from debtor to creditor through his hands; or he is in a commercial establishment and gets a salary for the discharge of his responsibilities; or he is treasurer of a philanthropic institution, and money for the suffering goes through his hands; or he has some office in city or state or nation, and taxes and subsidies and supplies and salaries are in his hands. Now, that is a trust. That is as sacred a trust as God can give a man. It is the concentration of confidence. Now, when that man takes that money, when the money of others, and goes to speculating with it for his own purposes, he is guilty of theft, falsehood and perjury and in the most intense sense of the word is a miscreant.

There are families to-day—widows and orphans—with nothing between them and starvation but a sewing machine, or kept out of the vortex by the thread of a needle red with the blood of their hearts, where he by father or husband left a competency. You read the story in the newspaper of those who have lost by a line, the name of a woman you never heard of, and just one or two figures heard of the amount of stock she had, the number of shares. It is a very short line in a newspaper, but it is a line of agony long as time; it is a story long as eternity.

Now, do not come under the fascination which induces men to employ trust funds for purposes of their own speculation. Cultivate old-fashioned honesty. Remember the example of Wellington, who, when he was leader of the British army over the French frontier and his army was very hungry and there was plenty of plunder on the French frontier and some of the men wanted to take it, said: "Soldiers, do not touch that. God will take care of us. He will take care of the English army. Plenty of plunder, I know, all around, but do not take it." He told the story afterward himself, how that the French people brought to him their valuables to keep—he supposed to be their enemy—brought him their valuables to keep, and then he said, at a time when the creditors of the army were calling for money and for pay all the time and they had so much all around about, he did not feel it right for him to take it or for the army to take it. An author beautifully wrote in regard to it: "Nothing can be grander or more noble and original than this admission. This old soldier, after thirty years of service, this iron man and victorious general, established in an enemy's country, at the head of an immense army, is afraid of his creditors. This is a kind of fear that has seldom troubled conquerors and victors, and I doubt if the annals of war present anything comparable to this sublime simplicity."

Oh, that God would scatter these fascinations about fraud and let us all understand that if I steal from you $1 I am a thief, and if I steal from you $500,000 I am 500,000 times more of a thief. There is a great deal of fascination thrown around libertinism. Society is very severe upon the impurity that lurks around the alleys and low haunts of the town. The law pursues it, smites it, incarcerates it, tries to destroy it. You know as well as I that society becomes lenient in proportion as impurity becomes eminent or is in elevated circles, and finally society is silent or disposed to palliate. Where is the judge, the jury, the police officer that dare arraign the wealthy libertine? He walks the streets, he rides the parks, he flaunts his iniquity in the eyes of the pure. The hag of conscience looks out of the tapestried window. There is the law that dares take the brazen wretches and put their faces in an iron frame of a state prison window?

Then look at the fascinations thrown around assassination. There are in all communities men who have taken the lives of others unlawfully, not as executioners of the law, and they go scot free. You say they had their provocations. God gave life, and He alone has a right to take it, and He may take it by visitation of Providence or by an executioner of the law who is His messenger. But when a man assumes that divine prerogative he touches the lowest depth of crime.

Society is alert for certain kinds of murder. If a citizen goes along the road at night in waylaid and slain by a robber, we all want the villain arrested and executed. For all-garrotting, for all beating out of life by a club or an ax or a slung-shot, the law has quick spring and heavy stroke; but you know that when men get affluent and high position and they arrange their wrongs by taking the lives of others, great sympathy is excited, lawyers plead, ladies weep, judge halts, jury is bribed and the man goes free. If the verdict happens to be against him, a new trial is called on through some technicality, and they adjourn for witnesses that never come, and adjourn and adjourn until the community has forgotten all about it, and then the prison door opens and the murderer goes free.

Now, if capital punishment is right, I say let the life of the polished murderer go with the life of the vulgar assassin; let us have no partiality of gallows, no aristocracy of electrocution chair. Do not let us float back to barbarism, when every man was his own judge, jury and executioner, and that man had the sharpest knife and the strongest arm and the quickest step and the stealthiest revenge. He who wilfully and in hatred takes the life of another is a murderer. I care not what the provocation or the circumstances are. He may be cheered by an enthusiastic crowd, room, he may be sent by the government of the United States as minister to some foreign court, or modern literature may polish the crime line of his heroism; but in the sight of God murder is murder, and the judgment day will so reveal it.

There are hundreds of young men who have good blood. Shall I ask three or four plain questions? Are your habits as good as when you left your father's house? Have you a pool ticket in your pocket? Have you been going astray? Come back. Have you ventured out too far? As I stand in pulpits looking over audiences sometimes my heart falls me. There are so many tragedies present, so many who have sacrificed their integrity, so many far away from God. Why, my brother, there have been so many prayers offered for you to have you go overboard. And there are those venturing down into sin, and my heart aches to call them back.

'Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.' Though you have been polluted with the worst of crimes, though you have been smitten with the worst of leprosy, though you have been fired with all evil passions, this moment on your brow, not with iniquitous indulgence, may be set the flashing coronet of a Saviour's forgiveness."

SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. VI. AUGUST 11, 1901.

God's Promise to Abraham.—Gen. 15:1-18. Commentary.—1. After these things—The fact that immediately after the battle with the kings there came another vision from God to Abram leads us to think that he may have been passing through a testing time, and perhaps he was tempted to discouragement. In a vision—Which supposes Abram awake, and some visible appearance, or sensible token of the presence of the divine glory.—Henry. Fear not—Fear not thy enemies, neither fear lest my promises shall fall thee. I am thy shield.—God was Abram's portion, and He is the portion of every righteous soul. Great reward.—Thy reward shall be exceeding great.—There is surely a reference here to the battle and the victory. I shielded thee in the battle and rewarded thee in the victory.—Candlish. When God is ours we have all that is sufficient for defence and reward; this promise involves eternal life.—Murphy.

2. I go childless.—Seeing I am going childless; that is, I am going out of the world in this condition.—How Com. Abram desired a son, for he knew upon divine authority that his seed should inherit the land. Sonship and heirship are inseparably connected in the thoughts of God.—C. H. M. Steward of my house.—The heir into whose hands Abram's possessions must descend in consequence of his childless condition.—Leake. Is this Eliezer.—How could the promise be fulfilled when a 'stranger' is likely to be his heir?

3. Given no seed.—Though we should never complain of God, yet we may complain to Him, and tell Him all our grievances.—One born in my bosom.—That is, one attached to, or a dependent of his house.—There is 4. Shall not be thine heir.—There is

13. Shall afflict them—From the time God called Abram at Haran it was 430 years before Abram's descendants came into possession of their own land; but the Children of Israel were actually in Egypt only half that time, or 215 years. 14. That nation—The Egyptian nation. Will I judge—God brought plagues and destruction upon the Egyptians. Come out—Israel was redeemed from bondage and came out of Egypt with great wealth. This promise was literally fulfilled, but there was a long time of waiting. 15. In peace.—This verse strongly implies the immortality of the soul. 16. Amorites—This was the general name for the Canaanitish tribes.—Rom. Com. Iniquity—Not yet fulfilled.—From these words to learn that there is a certain pitch of iniquity to which nations may arrive before they are destroyed, and beyond which God will not permit them to pass. 17. A smoking furnace—This signified the affliction of the children of Israel, cooking parties, each of which is bound to fulfill certain engagements to the other. In Holy Scripture it is used mostly to denote certain defined relations between God and man. River of Egypt—Probably the River Nile. Thoughts—Incidental features of the covenant: 1. It was of God's free choice. 2. It was an established covenant. 3. It was an everlasting covenant. 4. It was an everlasting covenant. From everlasting the counsels of it and to everlasting in the consequences of it.—A. W. Parry.

THE MARKETS

Table with columns for various commodities like Wheat, Corn, and other market goods, listing prices and market status.

Aug. 3.—The street market here resumed its normal quietness to-day, and the delivery of produce fell off. About 900 bushels of grain were received, and hay and straw were fairly plentiful. Other lines were quiet and there was little demand. Prices are generally steady and unaltered. Wheat—One load of white sold 1-2c higher at 70c and 150 bushels of roose 1-2 to 1c higher at 68 1-2 to 69c. Oats—Seven hundred bushels sold 1-2c lower at 40c. Hay and Straw—Hay was offered freely and prices were unchanged; 25 loads sold at $12 to $13 per ton for old and $8 to $9 for new. Straw was easier, five loads selling 50c lower at $9 to $10 per ton.

Vegetables—New potatoes are still very scarce and few loads are offered. Large lots sell at $1 to $1.15 per bushel, and at retail they sell at 35 to 40c per peck. Old are practically done. Dressed Hogs—Market quiet and prices unchanged at $9.25 to $9.75 per cwt.

Toronto Fruit Market.—The local market continues active, with a good demand and heavy supplies. To-day's offerings were about 6,000 packages, and they were soon sold. Apples were scarce and prices were firmer; sold at 7 1/2 to 10c and black at 9c to 10c. Lawton berries were scarce at 10c to 12c. Tomatoes were easier, selling at 40 to 50c, while huckleberries were firmer at 90c to $1. Other fruits were quiet and steady. We quote: Bananas, per bunch, $1.50 to $2; cherries, per basket, 90c to $1.25; currants, black, per basket, $1 to $1.25; currants, red, per basket, 40c to 60c; huckleberries, per basket, 90c to $1.10.

Ontario-Grown Wheat. Economic Value of Different Varieties Determined. The Ontario Department of Agriculture has issued a bulletin upon the comparative value of Ontario wheats for bread-making purposes, with notes on varieties of winter wheats. The bulletin embodies the result of the labors of Prof. R. Harcourt, B. S. A., associate professor of chemistry, and Mr. C. A. Zavitz, B. S., experimentalist of the college. A series of extensive experiments have been conducted by Prof. Harcourt to ascertain the economic values of the different varieties of wheat in the production of bread. These experiments were undertaken because of the many complaints from both farmers and millers regarding the poor quality of the flour made from Ontario-grown wheat, which resulted in the flour being a drug on the market, which could only be sold at a low price. After making tests from flour grown on the college farm it was determined to broaden the scope of investigation, and six or seven ten-bushel samples, consisting of ten varieties of winter wheat and five of spring wheat grown in Ontario, were collected from various points in the Province, and subjected to the test. One sample of Turkey Red was also imported from Kansas, two sample lots of the same variety having also been obtained from Waterloo. The grain was grown on the flour tested for gluten, percentage of water absorption, etc., and ten and fifteen pound lots of flour of the different varieties were made into bread and baked independently by two of the most experienced bakers in Guelph to determine the yield of bread. When their results did not agree closely a third trial was made, and the bread was then scored on the basis of 100 pounds for ideal bread. The results indicate generally that the heavier the wheat per measured bushel the better the quality of the flour, but soil and season undoubtedly have a very marked influence on the weight per bushel, and also on the quality of flour. Gluten, it is found varies in quality, that which is firm and hard absorbing more water and giving a larger yield of bread than that which is soft and sticky. The gluten of the Turkey Red wheat is reported of a better quality than that of the Michigan Amber, and Dawson's Golden Chaff than that of the Early Red Clawson. The final test of the quality of the different flours in the field and quality of bread produced gave the following results:

HELP WANTED. Two years ago Manitoba and the Territories had a heavy wheat crop. The members of the Canadian Press Association were at Portage, in Prairie and Brandon on Aug. 13th and at Regina on Aug. 14th, and when driving about the country adjacent to those points they were told that, weather conditions remaining favorable, the cutting of the wheat would begin one or two weeks later. This year wheat cutting has begun before the end of July, and a Winnipeg despatch says that harvesting will be general by the end of this week, Aug. 3rd. But the Northwest needs 20,000 harvest hands to save the crop, and it is feared they cannot be got, although advertisements have been sent to Britain and the United States, in addition to the usual call upon Ontario and Quebec. The demand for labor in old Canada, and especially in new Ontario, is unusually brisk just now, hence the difficulty of drawing men away to Manitoba. But it would be an awful pity to see any of the good wheat wasted because, as the hymn-book says, "the harvest is great and the laborers few." The condition seems to indicate that it will not be safe to depend upon the aid of an unemployed, floating population to take care of the Northwest harvest. There must be a larger, permanent population, or the farmers must go in for some kind of farming that is not all wheat. Men in the older Provinces who have steady jobs cannot afford to drop them for a few weeks to earn good wages in Manitoba and help the farmers of that Province out of a hole. In hard times, the supply of labor may be ample, but the big Manitoba harvest is one of the things that keeps hard times away. More of the despised Galicians and Doukiohobers would be very welcome in Manitoba and the Territories just now.

THE BACON ROUTE. Fast Steamers Take Canadian Pork to Southampton. Matthew's Pork Packing Co., of Ottawa, one of the largest in Canada, say that practically all the freight carried by the fast American line steamers from New York to Southampton consists of Canadian bacon. This is not, however, due to the superior speed of American vessels, but to the superior dock arrangements at Southampton, by which Canadian bacon, which is cured lightly and has to be placed on the market without delay, is rapidly handled. Delays occur at both London and Liverpool in the unloading.

Coughing

"I was given up to die with quick consumption. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I improved at once, and am now in perfect health."—Chas. E. Hartman, Gibbstown, N. Y.

It's too risky, playing with your cough. The first thing you know it will be down deep in your lungs and the cough will be over. Begin early with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and stop the cough.

Three sizes: 25c, enough for an ordinary cold; 50c, just right for bronchitis, hoarseness, hard colds, etc.; $1, most economical for chronic cases and for use on hand.

CURRENT TOPICS

THE NORTH-WEST.

The climatic and other features have been very favorable to the immense wheat fields of the North-West and just now thousands of acres are assuming the golden tinge that betokens full maturity. This season's crop is a record breaker and should no witch occur the returns will gladden the hearts and enrich the coffers of our western brothers.

THE WAR.

Lord Robert's pay day came a few days ago when the house of Commons voted him £100,000 sterling for services in South Africa. The wage is a handsome one but there is no doubt that the gallant "Bobs" was worth it.

The popularity of Lord Roberts has been waning due to the belief in some quarters that he left his task unfinished, questioned no doubt by the continued guerilla warfare that is being carried on by the Boers with apparent success.

The census bulletin will it is understood be issued about the 15th of this month.

It is said the government is likely to protest against the utilization of Imperial funds for the purpose of inducing immigration from the British Isles to South Africa.

AN ARTISTIC HOUSE.

Fine San Francisco Home of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson.

Looking out toward the beautiful bay of San Francisco, the city that he loved next to the ancient town that gave him birth, stands the new home of the widow of that gentlest of romancers, Robert Louis Stevenson.

The Stevenson house that has just been completed are the books of the dead man which he loved so well and other relics. The house is a low, curious looking structure, built on a slope of what is known locally as Russian hill.

FIREPLACE IN MRS. STEVENSON'S NEW HOME

Two of the most interesting rooms in the Stevenson house are the living room and the library, although the entire house is filled with reminiscences of the dead master.

In the living room the object that the eye instinctively rests upon is the fireplace, for over it is placed a medallion of Stevenson, executed by the famous sculptor, St. Gaudens.

One of the most popular books of the present season is "The Visits of Elizabeth," by Elinor Glyn, more than 50,000 copies of which have already been sold in the United States.

MRS. ELINOR GLYN.

"The author of 'The Visits of Elizabeth' is a young English woman, a daughter of a prominent family of the county of Essex.

"Blessed is the man who will not delay" is the doctrine of the age, whereas "Blessed is the man who knows how to wait" is the attitude of God.

AN OPERATOR'S KICK.

Caused a Mine Fire That Has Burned For Forty Years.

Tamaqua's mine fire, which for the amount of valuable coal consumed rivals the celebrated "burning mine" of Summit hill, unless all signs fail, will soon be a thing of the past.

According to the information of a reliable authority the fire owes its start to a unique cause. Forty years ago the late John Richard Carter operated a colliery at the northern boundary of the town.

Efforts were at once put forth to subdue the fire, but much headway had already been gained by the flames, and nothing was accomplished.

Several years later the fire began coming closer to the Greenwood workings, and it was decided that heroic methods must be adopted to save this valuable operation from damage.

It was the Mammoth vein which was attacked, and it has been consumed from the Schuylkill river eastward about a mile and from water level upward about 150 yards.

SPRINKLING WAGONS.

The Modern Ones a Big Improvement on the Old Style.

The modern sprinkling wagon is very different from the old timer. The chief improvement is in the spray head, which enables the driver to control the flow of water much better than the old style.

The spray head on each side has its own valve rod running to the driver's seat, with a step there for the foot. The driver can operate both heads at once, or he can run only one head.

They are exported to Australia, Cuba, Porto Rico, South America, South Africa and Europe. The modern sprinkling wagon that the traveler chances to see in Paris or Berlin or Hamburg came very likely from the same factory as the one he saw here before he left home going through his own home street.

By the bushel, if only this were the land of the good old bushel basket, the newcomers are dumped into a long, narrow tank of water at one end of which is a big wheel with a tire of soft bristles.

After their bath the oranges are spread out in the sun to dry on long, slanting racks. At the lower end they roll off into boxes, to be carried away to the warehouse for their rest.

An orange needs a deal of grooming, it would seem, before it is ready for market. The washing was not enough. There must be a brushing too.

CHARLESTON LAKE

MONDAY, Aug. 5.—The social held at the residence of Mrs. Johnson on Wednesday evening was a gigantic success and was in every way creditable to those who were responsible for it. During the afternoon it looked as if the evening had been ill-chosen but Old Sol got the upper hand of the temporary down-pour. The spacious lawn was laid out with tables and benches, and the various booths were gaudily bedecked with bright colored material which retained a cheerful appearance notwithstanding the soaking it received. The weather was perfect and the full moon made the night almost as light as day. The attendance was large and represented Athens, the surrounding country and summer cottagers from around the lake. About fifty Chinese lanterns lighted the lawn up and presented a pretty appearance from a distance. The tables were surrounded early and the waiters were kept busy attending to the wishes of those who attended. The booths were well patronized and the delicacies were of the finest quality. The Lyndhurst band arrived about nine o'clock and contributed a number of splendid selections. They were liberal with their music and it was much enjoyed. The proceeds, which will be used to defray the travelling expenses of Rev. Wm. Wright, amounted to a very respectable sum.
Dr. Giles and family of Montreal, Mrs. John Karley and children of Brockville, are at Camp Lookout for their annual summer outing.
Mr. S. Y. Bullis and family and a few invited friends are spending a week or to their cottage on Cedar Park avenue.
All cottages at the lake are now occupied.
Dr. and Mrs. H. O. Bates of Chicago are expected shortly to spend a few days at the lake, the guests of the Loverin family on the Lan-o-tah.
Mr. W. G. Parish and family of Athens are occupying their attractive cottage at Brezy Point during the month of August.
Salmon fishing is NIL at Charleston these hot days, but very few having been caught during the past week. Bass fishing is good.
On Saturday morning last a party consisting of the editor of the Reporter, Levi Southworth, the proprietor of Cedar Park, Dan Blancher of Addison and Byron W. Loverin of Greenbush left the dock at Cedar Park on board the steam launch Sport, on a fishing expedition to Higley lake, lying about a mile west of the end of Slim Bay. They ran down to Crozier's and took on Billy as guide and oarsman. On reaching the landing at Slim Bay, the party gathered up their fishing tackle, two baskets of provision, a pair of oars and a big pile of minnows and started due west over the hills, through gulches, across fields of standing grain and grass until they emerged on the shore of a little rock bound sheet of water nestling in among the granite hills. Here the oarsman had an old leaky punt capable of holding three persons. The Scribe and Dan were left on the bank to prepare dinner and the others took out the punt to get fish for dinner. They were out about twenty minutes and came in with seven nice bass which Billy quickly prepared for the pan. It would astonish city epicures to see how he handled the frying pan and more so to taste the delicious morsels when prepared and it would astonish any ordinary cowboy to see the potatoes, fish and other fixings disappear into the capacious mouths of that gang of fishermen. Dinner over those that smoked enjoyed a quick pull of the weed and then started out for the afternoon fish. Dan and the Scribe gathered up the fragments of the meal and started back to where the steamer was left and took a skiff and searched the weedy bottom of Slim Bay for pike or bass without success. At a few minutes to six Lev was seen coming over the hills carrying the fishing tackle, cooking utensils and minnow pail, and the next moment Billy and Byron were in sight, reminding the Scribe of the old story of the men sent across the Jordan to fetch the fruit of the land. They had a long pole across their shoulders from which hung as fine a lot of fish as we ever saw at Charleston. The fish were strung on wythes and hung from the pole to the ground. The whole lot would average from two to four pounds each and when spread out on the grass at the Park, were the admiration of all the guests at the hotel. The fishing tackle and fish were piled on top of the canopy of the steamer and with Old Glory and the Union Jack hung out to the breeze and a start was made for home which was reached in three quarters of an hour. It is great fun to go fishing and have good luck, but when the Scribe bent his back to cleaning over 60 lb of fish, he concluded that all the fun came in during the catching.

Mr. Waltonburgh wife and son of New York arrived at Cedar Park on Thursday. Mr. Waltonburgh owns two little islands connected by a rustic bridge a short distance from Rook House Island. He is arranging to erect a genuine log cabin on his island and will set a gang of men to work at once.

DELTA

MONDAY, Aug. 5.—The house owned by Mr. Omer Brown on Mathew street and occupied by Mr. Jas. Ralph and family was burned to the ground on Sunday. A general alarm was given and everybody hurried to extinguish the blaze but their efforts were of no avail. The residences of neighbors in the near vicinity of the conflagration were prevented from taking fire and the school house, which had ignited from the flying sparks was also saved. The fire is supposed to have originated in a defective chimney. Loss, about $600, insurance, $350.
Mr. Simon M. Ransom, a resident of Delta passed away on Saturday evening last after a painful illness of five months duration. Deceased was 79 years of age. The funeral takes place at 10 a. m. on Tuesday when the remains will be conveyed to the Methodist church where service will be conducted by the Rev. D. Earl. He was a member of the Methodist church and in politics a staunch Liberal. He leaves a widow and two children viz: Mr. Stems Ransom and Mrs. W. H. Donnut both of this place. To the afflicted we extend heartfelt condolence.

W. H. Tackaberry has commenced operations with his threshing machine.
Mrs. S. N. Olds has gone to Schenectady to visit friends.
Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kerr have returned from Elgin and Newboro where they have been visiting friends.
Mr. and Mrs. Murphy of Renfrew are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Tackaberry.
The farmers have nearly finished haying which is a heavy crop and have commenced to harvest grain which is an average crop.
L. B. Kerr and Mrs. Rickett are the guests of Mrs. Richard Kerr.

Our Canadian friends who settled in Algoma this spring are doing well. They have splendid crops.
Our knight of the quill in Ballycane never reports on Orchard Villa, a beautiful country residence owned by a fine young man in the person of J. Balger.
Mr. B. Burnham, postmaster at Yonge Mills met with a very serious accident last Thursday, when he and some others were raising a bent in front of a barn door at the residence of Mr. J. Avery of the same place. When the bent was being raised it fell back crushing Mr. Burnham to the ground, breaking his shoulder bone, one arm and several ribs. He is still at Mr. Avery's in a very poor condition.
Mr. E. Kehant, the Gaintown blacksmith, will erect a barn on his lot at the three fourths road on Church Avenue.
Charleston is now booming with tourists of no low order. The fishing is excellent.
Caintown Union Factory paid its patrons last month $15.50. Pretty good for Mr. Ormon Gibson, cheesemaker.

ADDISON

August 5th.—Miss May Taplin who has been on the sick list for some time, is, we are glad to say, improving.
Several farmers in this section have commenced their harvest and report very good crops.
Wm. Hall has secured a new stone crusher and will have it ready for work in this section in a few days.
William Cummings of Glen Buell is engaged as foreman with John Maille for the balance of the season.
On Wednesday evening last at the residence of the bride's father near Addison Miss Minnie Dacolon was united in marriage to Mr. George Scott, Jr., by the Rev. Mr. Lawson. After the ceremony the party partook of a sumptuous repast and amid the congratulations of guests left for a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, Buffalo and other cities. The young couple have the hearty wish of all his acquaintances for a long and happy wedded life.

The following highly original composition on the subject of water is credited to an English paper to an American boy—
"Water is found everywhere, especially when it rains as it did the other, when our cellar was half full. Jane had to wear her father's rubber boots to get onions for dinner. Onions make your eyes water, and so does horseradish when you eat too much. There are a good many kinds of water in the world—rain-water, soda-water, holy-water and brine. Water is used for a good many things. Sailors use water to go to sea on. Water is a good thing to fire at boys with a squirt gun, and to catch fishes in. My father caught a big one the other day, and when he pulled it out it was an eel. Nobody could be saved from drowning if there wasn't any water to pull them out of. Water is first-rate to put fires out with. I love to go to a fire—see the men work at the engines. This is all I can think of about water—except the flood."

Loss of Appetite

Is commonly gradual; one dish after another is set aside till few remain. These are not eaten with much relish, and often so light as not to afford much nourishment.
Loss of appetite is one of the first indications that the system is running down, and there is nothing else so good for it as Hood's Sarsaparilla—the best of all tonics.
Accept no substitute for Hood's.

Smith's Falls Great Mosquitoes.

Smith's Falls should receive some mark of distinction for breeding mosquitoes, which are as thick in the vicinity of that town as hair on a dog's back. Talk about Jersey mosquitoes! Why the Smith's Falls breed are the size of bumble bees, and they stick to you like flies in tanglefoot. If you want to see a real live place just take a row about Smith's Falls, and the big blood-suckers won't do a thing but puncture you.

WHAT MOVED HER.

By MARY FENOLLOSA in "The Smart Set."

a woman thinks of," remarked Paget, bitterly. "I'll leave you to find that out in other ways. I'm here now to plead for myself.

spasm, as if the earth had suddenly turned to a huge blanc-mange. Miss Herndon paused and looked around wonderingly. A second vibration came much stronger than the first. Paget's eyes met hers.

He turned again to the fire. "Well, at that affair—my farewell bachelor dinner—even the necessary toasts jarred. You were so much to me, so apart from other women, that it was torture to hear your name on the lips of others. I had just drunk to the dearest, sweetest, snowiest woman of God's earth, when an Isarlot at my elbow whispered—'And the boodle, old man! Don't forget the boodle! The glass was still at my lips, but I set it down, angrily, and said: 'That's a toast you will have to drink alone!'"

Miss Herndon was drawing nearer, inch by inch. Her face showed the strain of intense listening. "Most of the boys were half-gone over," he went on. "They would have drunk to the Pope or to the devil with equal readiness. The toast was proposed, and many drank, not knowing what it meant, but I—I rushed for the hall and poured ice-water on my head to keep from committing murder."

What an absurd thing it is to pass over all the valuable parts of a man and fix all our attention on his infirmities!—Addison.

SHORT STORIES OF THE DAY

A gentleman who has a Christian spirit and a horse for sale advertises as follows in a Minnesota paper: We have a good family driving horse for sale, providing you carry insurance.

We will throw in the derrick and telegraph pole combination which we use to hitch up with.

This is from the Chicago Record-Herald: "No, sir," said the old gentleman, bringing his fist down hard on the desk in front of him.

"I'm" her father answered, but you ever like a trooper, so I'll bet. Now, if there's anything I hate to have around the house it's a man that swears.

"A curious thing happened to a certain young man in Mississippi some time ago," remarked a visitor to the city yesterday.

Hoax—Poor Sandy MacPherson died of grief.

Hungry Hawkins—I once answered a want ad.

The Good One—My man, it makes me feel bad to see you coming out of a saloon.

Miss Herndon—No, I won't take those photos. They make me look like a perfect fright.

At the Summer Hotel. Belle—It's a good voice, but she doesn't seem to be able to control it.

SHOT ON PATROL:

A Touching Poem on an Incident of the Boer War.

The following beautiful poem, by Harry's Captain then, is being recited a good deal just now at patriotic concerts in England.

"It's a Boer woman in trouble," says Harry's Captain then, "We must ride across to help her," and they went like Englishmen.

There was a chum of Harry's We often used to see, When they were quartered in London—

Five hundred yards at full gallop, And the captain's horse fell dead, Harry was back like a rocket—

When a man's a V. C. and a giant, Who would shake you out limp and blue,

"Gallop and save yourself, Johnny!" The butt of the troop stood still, Unwounded, fleet horse and bold rider.

Many a name we honor, For they've done well, every one: From young Roberts, Schofield and Congre,

Three he shot down with his carbine, And then—he met his death, Shielding his wounded comrade To his last dying breath.

One day of that African summer A Lancer patrol went out, In charge of Harry's Captain,

And then—the met his death, Shielding his wounded comrade To his last dying breath. Greater love hath no man Than this, the Scripture saith.

All at once from a farm in the distance, Waved a signal of distress;

Number of oddly named persons Georgia counties. Among the names are: Sorrowful Williams, Increase Thomas, Merciful Jenkins, A. J. Jones, Salvation White, Happiness Johnson, Parity Scott and Paradise Lee.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

f Sue—Pauline's father is quite a genius.

"Bigbrain expects to get a fortune out of his new incubator."

"Have you heard the story of the onion?" asked Watties of Pettigrew.

"We'll don't breathe it to a soul!" Mrs. Drummer—Yes, indeed; I think George is working too hard.

Photographer—Well, madam, you should have told me that you wanted me to make them flatter you.

At the Summer Hotel. Belle—It's a good voice, but she doesn't seem to be able to control it.

By using the Eureka, your stock are effectively proof against the ravages of flies and similar pests for the next 12 to 24 hours.

Boat Upside

Sunday morning between 11 and 12 o'clock the Messrs. Kincaid and Miss Porter, a young lady visiting Brockville from Gloversville, N. Y., had an exciting experience on the main head. They were sailing in "The Imp" with one of the boys sitting on the mast head. When about the channel opposite the Smart works, a squall came up and the craft went over. The weight of Mr. Kincaid on the mast head acted as a sort of lever and when the boat went over it turned completely over. All managed to throw themselves clear with the exception of Miss Potter, who was carried under in the cockpit. When the boys came to the surface, the greatest anxiety was felt for Miss Porter. She was quickly dragged from her perilous position to a place of safety on the upturned boat which remained until taken off by parties in skiffs who came to their rescue. Miss Porter behaved very pluckily throughout and never once raised an outcry.—Times.

To Be Represented.

From our special correspondent we learn that on Monday Prof. Dean, of the O. A. College, Guelph, arrived at Glen Buell, to inspect, test and select a number of Holstein cattle from the noted herd of Messrs. Gilroy & Son, to represent a portion of the fine dairy cattle of this banner county in the Pan-American exposition now in progress at Buffalo. We are glad to know that the Professor found twelve head worthy of his approbation, and we hope that Messrs. Gilroy & Son may be successful in securing some of the best awards given in connection with that great show. We understand that their celebrated Inka Sylvia cow is in fine shape for solid, heavy, practical work. We believe that every dairyman, woman and child will rejoice if she brings to Leeds County the coveted milk test prize which is open to the world.

BURGLARY AT MORTON.

J. R. Leake's Store Burglarized on Sunday night last.

The store and dwelling of John R. Leake, a prominent merchant of Morton was entered during Sunday night by burglars who effected an entrance by cutting a screen from the back window. The thieves entered Mr. Leake's bedroom and took the safe keys from his pants pocket and then went down to the store and opened the safe. They took all the money in packages but did not find $55 in silver. They got $495.

They burned a great many matches as they were found on the floor. Nothing except the money was missed, on making discovery of the loss of money, but it is likely that other articles were taken.

S. S. EXCURSION.

Monday was ideal outing weather and the Methodist Sunday School excursion to Alexandria Bay took about five hundred away from town. From early morning the people were astir and men, women and children with baskets were seen wending their way to the depot. The train was a few minutes behind time and when it drew up at the platform there was a general rush for seats. The regular coaches were supplemented by several observation cars and all were comfortably crowded. There were quite a number on board when it arrived, and the number was increased at each station so that by the time the train reached the wharf there was a good sized trainload.

The steamer Brockville was waiting at Mathen's dock and little time was lost in transferring. Then commenced the most pleasant part of the trip. There was a pretty hot sun, but there was also a nice breeze on the river and none suffered very much from the heat. The ship's course was a winding one and the trip has to be taken in order to get a fair idea of the beauty of the ever varying scenery which abounds on all sides. The islands vary in size and many of them have the summer homes of the wealthiest of our land, which fact has only to be mentioned in order to convey an idea of the beauty, the grandeur and the comfort these residences suggest.

Alexandria Bay was reached about one o'clock, where enough time was allowed for the excursionists to enjoy a brisk walk around the town and otherwise enjoy themselves. It is a pretty little place and has some very attractive features.

Although there was plenty of excitement for the children it did not deter them from developing good appetites and there was no lack of material to satisfy them if the number of baskets could be taken as an indication. Lunch was partaken of on the boat where hot water was obtainable.

Returning, the boat reached the wharf at four o'clock and the excursionists again transferred to the train and the return journey was made without incident. The outing was a very pleasant one and much credit is due those who arranged it and carried the plans out so successfully. The Sunday School cleared itself and has a nice surplus besides.

SUCCESSFUL SCHOLARS.

The report of the Board of Examiners for the Part I. junior leaving or public school leaving examination has been issued by the Department of Education and is given below. The results of the examinations at all the examination centres in any county will be found under that county. (5) indicates that the candidate has passed in the five subjects of the examination; the figure (3) indicates that the candidates who are exempted from the composition and geography have passed in the remaining three subjects of the examination, and * means honorable mention. The certificates of successful candidates will be forwarded within three weeks to the high school principals, and in the case of centres other than high schools to the public school inspectors concerned. Under no conditions will candidates obtain certificates or copies of marks at the Education Department. In order to avoid unnecessary trouble and expense unsuccessful candidates are recommended to obtain the advice of the principal after receiving their marks before making an appeal. The results of the other July examinations will be issued in about ten days:

Old Sight and Old Age.

Old age is a matter of years. Old sight is a question of glasses. If you find difficulty in reading, while for distance your sight is good, you require old sight glasses.
