CHAPTER XVIII. FASHIONING THE WEB.

She snatched her hand away impatiently, and drawing her handkerchief over the spot his lips had touched, said:

"You appear conspicuously cheerful, to-night. May one enquire the reason? Don't trouble to tell me if you are not sure it will be interesting. I am quite bored enough already," and she moved her fan with a weary gesture.

"Bored, dear lady?" he murmured, smoothing his long, yellow hair from his forehead. "Now, really! And I am never bored! But then I am always busy; I never permit my mind to be unoccupied. Surely one can always find some pleasant and congenial task to lighten the lengthy hours—"

She flashed a scornful look at him from her keen eyes.

"Please don't treat me as if I were the audience at a charity meeting."

"Alas!" he murmured, softly. "Charity meeting ladies do not wear such charming toilettes as this. Would that they did!" And he beamed down admiringly at the magnificent evening-dress.

"What a pity it is that it should be wasted—no, I will not say that—but it is a pity there are not younger eyes to see and admire it than mine and the dear marquis's. Now, if Cecil were here—he has so keen an appreciation for all that is beautiful!" She looked up at him sharply.

"What do you want to tell me about him?" she demanded, quickly, a faint colour coming into her face. "Is he coming back?"

"Is Cecil coming back, dear marquis?" he asked, turning as the door opened and the marquis entered.

The marquis stooped and looked from one to the other under his brows.

"You should know best. The person who sent him to Ireland probably knows when he can come back," he said, with cold contempt.

"Now, now, really I must protest!"

said Spenser Churchill, wagging his forefinger playfully. "I know nothing about it, nothing whatever. It was on your business he went, dear lord, not mine. No, come now, really!"

The marquis smiled grimly.

"Don't be alarmed," he said. "She"—and he indicated Lady Grace with a slight motion of his hand—"knows, or guesses, all about it. We neither of us have any desire to rob you of the credit of the plot—eh, Grace?"

She shrugged her snowy shoulders with an air of indifference; but she could not keep her eagerness from flashing in her eyes, which were fixed on Spenser Churchill's smooth smiling face.

"Well, if you ask my advice, I should say dear Cecil might as well come back; not quite directly, but say—yes—say in a week."

The marquis raised his eyebrows with haughty indifference.

"When you like! There is a letter from him to-night," and he flung it on the table. "He seems to have unmasked the agent, and made himself quite popular with his dear friends, the great unwashed. I suppose—with a sneer—"he will want to go into Parliament next, on the Radical side, no doubt."

"Yes—es," murmured Spenser Churchill, as he read the letter. "I always said Cecil was clever."

"Really?" said the marquis, in a tone of calm and indifferent surprise.

"The problem with me has always been whether he was a greater fool than he looked, or looked a greater fool than he is."

Mr. Spenser Churchill chuckled oilyly; but Lady Grace half rose and shut her fan with a snap.

"He who buys Cecil for a fool will lose his money," she said.

The marquis made her an elaborate bow, and Spenser Churchill clapped his fat hands softly.

"Good—very good, dear lady! I must remember that. I must, indeed! So truly witty."

"So truly vulgar, you mean," she said; "but I was following the marquis's suit."

The marquis made her another bow.

"This is quite refreshing," he said, his thin upper lip curling scornfully.

"And now that we have exchanged civilities, perhaps Churchill will tell us what is to happen. Is Cecil to come back and marry this pure and innocent ballet-girl?"

"Actress, actress, dear marquis," cooed Spenser Churchill, foiding his hands and smiling, with his head on one side. "If you appeal to me, I am afraid I must be the bearer of bad news."

"Bad news! He is married already!" exclaimed Lady Grace, raising and confronting him with white face and furious eyes.

Spenser Churchill chuckled at her alarm, then, with his head a little more on one side, murmured:

"No, no! I am sorry to say there is a little hitch—ahem!—the fact is the engagement is broken off."

"Broken off?" exclaimed Lady Grace, and her face crimsoned as she leant forward, with scarcely repressed eagerness.

The marquis toyed with the diamond stud at his wrist, and maintained his accustomed air of cold and haughty indifference; but Spenser Churchill's keen eyes detected a slight tremor of the thin, white fingers.

"Y—es! It is very sad, and my heart bleeds for poor Cecil—"

Lady Grace tapped her hand with her fan with impatience, and seeing and recognising it, he went on with still more exasperating slowness.

"Only they who have suffered as he will and must suffer can sympathise with him. To have one's tenderest affections nipped in the bud, to find that one's true and devoted love has been misplaced, and—er—betrayed; ah, how cruel and sharp a torture it is! Poor Cecil! Poor Cecil!"

The fan snapped loudly, its delicate ivory leaves broken on the restless, impatient fingers.

"Can you not tell us what has occurred—the truth, without this—this sermon?" she exclaimed, almost fiercely.

"Yes, pray spare us if you can, Spenser," said the marquis, with a cold smile. "I gather from what you say, that this miserable business has come to an end. Is that so?"

"Yes, is that so?" demanded Lady Grace.

Spenser Churchill heaved a deep sigh, but a faint smile of satisfaction lurked in his half-closed eyes.

"I regret to say that it is," he said. "Poor Cecil's affections have been wasted! The tenderest emotions of his heart betrayed! The young lady has—discarded him!"

The marquis raised his eyebrows and shrugged his shoulders; but Lady Grace rose and laid her hand—with no gentle grasp—on Spenser Churchill's arm.

"Is this true?" she asked, almost in a whisper.

"Yes," he said; "I have his dismissal in my hand," and he held up Doris's note.

Lady Grace drew a long breath.

"You—you are very clever!" she said.

He looked at her with an affectation of surprise.

"I—I" he murmured. "I know nothing about it! I happen to know the young lady slightly, and she, not knowing Lord Cecil's address—"

"He must have written to her," broke in Lady Grace.

"Has he, do you think?" responded Spenser Churchill, opening his eyes with a child-like innocence.

Lady Grace smiled.

"I see! I see! You intercepted the letters?"

"I beg your pardon! What did you say? Not knowing Lord Cecil's address, Miss Marlowe committed this letter to my care. Now the question is, shall we send it on to him or wait till he comes back? I think you said he would be back in a week, dear marquis?"

"You said so," said the marquis, coldly.

"Well, in that case, don't you think it would be better to wait until he comes back? Letters do miscarry so, don't they?"

The marquis smiled sardonically.

"I agree with Lady Grace," he said. "You are a clever fellow, Spenser."

"They do miscarry so often," continued Spenser Churchill. "So I think, if you ask me, it will be better to keep it till he returns. That is my humble advice."

The marquis nodded.

"And my humble advice is that you are not here when it is delivered," he said, with a grim smile. "I have no doubt you have taken every precaution; but if Cecil should get an inkling—"

He stopped, and smiled again significantly.

"Dear Cecil!" murmured Spenser Churchill. "I should so like to have stayed till he came back, and attempted to soothe and comfort him—marquis smiled more sardonically than before—"but," continued Spenser Churchill, "I am sorry to say important business compels me to return to London to-morrow, so I must leave the letter in your charge. You will take every care of it? Poor Cecil! And you must be very kind and gentle with him, dear Lady Grace."

"We will take every care of it, and Lady Grace will be very kind and gentle, no doubt," restarted the marquis, with a sneer.

CHAPTER XIX. IN STRANGE SURROUNDINGS.

Feeling as if the world were quite a new and different one, and she equally new and strange, Doris left Barton the following morning, Mrs. Jeff driving her to the station in a little pony-car, and obviously weeping as the train left the station.

It was not a particularly long journey, and the time passed very quickly, as it seemed to Doris—for she was thinking all the time, dwelling on the past and considering what the future would be like—and when they reached Waterloo she was about to ask a porter for a cab, when a footman came up to the carriage, and, touching his hat, enquired if she were Miss Marlowe.

"The carriage is quite close, miss," he said, with evident respect, after a glance at the slim, graceful, black-clad figure and delicately refined face. "She's a lady, anyhow," was his mental comment.

The carriage was an admirably appointed one, the horses evidently as good as money could buy, and the get-up of the equipage quiet and reserved, corresponding with the dark liveries of the coachman and footman.

They went, at a smart, business-like pace, through the crowded Strand, and, entering the sacred regions of the upper ten, pulled up at one of the largest houses in Chester Gardens.

DISEASED GUMS AND TEETH.

Of all the poison taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by the diseased gums and teeth are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and it allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.

S. AFRICAN STATESMEN SPEAK.

LONDON, Aug. 6. (Reuter's)—Premier Botha of South Africa and Lieut. Gen. Smuts were entertained at a luncheon to-day, at which a company of over four hundred were present, including many prominent public men. Premier Botha took the theme of his speech conciliation and development. Emphasizing that South Africa's great need was ships, he suggested that the time had come for a conference of representatives of the dominions regarding the establishment of a dominion shipping line. Three German prize ships, he announced, had been allocated to South Africa. These ships which were cargo boats would be utilized for the conveyance of coal from South Africa. He expressed the hope that the Imperial Government would allow South Africa to retain the thirteen prize ships taken in South African waters. Referring optimistically to the future development of South Africa, he appealed to the captains of industry who had made money in the country to spend it in South Africa. Premier Botha in this connection warmly commended the recent example of Jagger and Garlick in donating thirty thousand pounds sterling and twenty thousand pounds respectively for extension work in connection with the University of Cape Town. Lieut. Gen. Smuts laid stress upon three outstanding impressions of the Paris conference: First was the immense preponderance of the British Empire in the world. Those who in days gone by had felt its mighty hand always had respect for the British Empire, but the conference brought out most clearly not only the material but the political and moral preponderance of the Empire which was the most potent instrument for good or evil which existed in the world. When thrashing out the League of Nations it was the precedents of the British constitution which gave the best guidance. His second impression was the rising power of America which was the only great power to emerge from the war unscathed and even with resources vastly increased. The third impression was the decline of old Europe, not only relatively but intrinsically, owing to a war of exhaustion. The day of young people had arrived, and none had better prospects, he concluded, than South Africa. ROMANIANS SEND ULTIMATUM TO HUNGARIANS. PARIS, Aug. 5. The Romanians have served an ultimatum on the Hungarian government, according to messages reaching the Peace Conference. The ultimatum, it is stated, makes demands far in excess of the armistice and gives the Hungarians until eight p.m. to-day to comply with them. It is greatly feared in conference circles that the Romanian action will result in the overthrow of the Hungarian government. French circles state that the Romanian army is not under command of Marshal Foch, the Allied commander-in-chief. Romanian generals refuse to accept orders from the French. In the ultimatum the Romanians demand reduction of Hungarian army to 15,000 and surrender of fifty per cent. of harvest animals and farm machinery and fifty per cent. of railway supplies. GREAT BRITAIN 'INQUIRING INTO COST OF LIVING. LONDON, Aug. 6. Great Britain proposes establishing a general authority to deal with profiteering. It was announced by Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister of Reconstruction, at the resumption to-day of the hearings by the House of Commons sitting as a select committee to inquire into the high cost of living and profiteering. HONOURING LLOYD GEORGE. LONDON, Aug. 6. King George to-day conferred upon Premier David Lloyd George the Order of Merit as a sign of his appreciation of Mr. Lloyd George's war services. (The Order of Merit, O.M.) was created by King Edward VII. on June 26th, 1902, and was designed to include British subjects who won conspicuous distinction in the naval and military services, or in letters, art and science. It carries with it no special title or order of precedence. The badge of the order consists of a cross of red and blue enamel, of eight points, having the words "For Merit," in gold letters, within a laurel wreath, on a blue enamel centre. The reverse of the badge shows the Kings Royal and Imperial Cypher in gold, and the whole is surmounted by the Imperial Crown, enamelled in color, and suspended by a ribbon of garter blue and crimson.) GERMANY TO REGULATE ILLICIT TRADE. BERLIN, Aug. 5. (By the A.P.)—Profiteer regulation bureaus are to be established throughout Prussia, according to a plan in an attempt to regulate illicit trade. CHARGES OIL REGULATE INCITING WAR. NEW YORK, Aug. 6. American oil interests are charged with manufacturing propaganda to force the United States into war with Mexico in a report on the Mexican Situation made public here to-day by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. The report was prepared by Samuel Inman, Executive Secretary of the American section of the committee on co-operation in Latin America representing the American and Canadian Mission Boards. SETTLEMENT BULGARIAN QUESTION. PARIS, Aug. 6. Negotiations between Allied Powers and Bulgaria probably will be concluded within the next eight days according to the Echo de Paris. STRIKE IN GERMANY POTASH MINES. MADGEBERG, GERMANY, Aug. 4. (By the A.P.)—A general strike has been begun in the potash mines through Strassfurt district because of terrorization by a few of the Radical elements who threatened to cut off needed electrical current. The strike is almost as important as the striking in the coal regions for potash is one of Germany's remaining raw products which is urgently needed for export and fertilizing purposes. DAMAGE TO CROPS. CLEVELAND, OHIO, Aug. 5. Damages estimated at nearly $2,000,000 to crops and property resulted from rain and electrical storms, which almost reached cloudburst proportions, that swept northern Ohio late to-day and to-night. EARLDOMS FOR WAR SERVICES. LONDON, Aug. 5. Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig and Admiral Sir David Beatty will be created earls in recognition of war services; General Allenby will be made a viscount; while Generals Sir Herbert Plumer, Sir Henry S. Rawlinson, Sir Julian Byng and General Henry S. Horne will be given baronetcies. Digging for Treasure. It seems as if the Shoal Bay Treasure is not to be forgotten and allowed to lie undisturbed. On Monday and Tuesday a number of the men of that place were engaged in digging for the famous treasure, and were considerably cheered, eventually, by unearthing a small quantity of human hair. It will be remembered that many former attempts at finding the Shoal Bay Treasure have been made, and although much money has been expended in these various attempts, success has never yet attended those who sought. However, they say that perseverance conquers all things, and let us hope that the rule will prove true in this particular case. Shipping News. The schr. Jean Dundonald Duff left here yesterday for North Sydney to load coal for Balms Johnston & Co. The schr. Imprimus has cleared for Pernambuco with a cargo of codfish from A. E. Hickman & Co. The schr. Agnes P. Duff is now at Pugwash, N.S., loading lumber for England. The schr. Catherine M. Moulton has cleared for Oporto with a cargo of codfish from Rose Blanche. The schr. Governor Foss has cleared from Burgeo with a cargo of codfish for Oporto. REGATTA NOTES.—Interest in the forthcoming Regatta is at fever heat, and some hundreds of enthusiasts visit the Lakeside daily. The crews have put in some good practice, and many exciting races should result. 15 per cent. reduction of all Suits of Clothes will be given by WYLAN BROS., 314 Water St., for the rest of this week. A chance for a real bargain, men. Don't overlook it.—aug7,31

MANY PROMINENT MEN COME OUT FOR TAILAC

Former Mayor of Birmingham Recommends It

Says He Now Weighs More That Ever Before in His Life.

One of the latest additions to the large and rapidly growing list of prominent men who have publicly endorsed Tailac for the good it has done them is the name of Hon. Frank V. Evans, formerly mayor of Birmingham. Mr. Evans is one of the best known men in public life in Alabama to-day, being at one time editor of one of the South's greatest newspapers, the Birmingham Age-Herald. He was also examiner of public accounts in Alabama. In telling of the benefits he had derived from Tailac Mr. Evans said: "For years I suffered with gastritis and indigestion in the worst form. I was habitually constipated and had pains in my shoulders and headache continually. My appetite left me almost entirely and everything I would eat hurt me. Finally I got to having awful attacks of acute indigestion, palpitation of the heart and smothering spells. For a long time I would have one or more of these spells every night and I would wake out of my restless sleep gasping for breath. I bought a bottle of Tailac and to my surprise and gratification, I began to feel relief after the first few doses. I kept taking the medicine and now weigh more than ever before, and my recovery is simply the talk of Birmingham."

Mayors, Judges, State and County Officials, Bankers, Lawyers, Doctors, Editors, and Ministers Endorse it.

It is seldom, indeed, that men of prominence, especially men holding high office, willingly express their indebtedness publicly to a proprietary medicine. Many prominent men, however, including Supreme Court judges, mayors of our leading cities, prominent state and county officials, bankers, lawyers, doctors, editors, leading educators, government officials and even ministers of the gospel have deemed it their duty to come forward and tell the people what Tailac has done for them. These well-known men of affairs have recognized in this medicine a new discovery and a scientific triumph in the medical world; it is a well-known fact that these splendid endorsements have been given Tailac time and time again, and they will continue to be given as enthusiastically as new tests of its powers are made, and it also explains why numbers of the big drug firms of the country are ordering it exclusively in carload lots. *Appearing below are a few endorsements from the large numbers that are continually being given to the public.

High Sheriffs Now Convinced

From Many Widely Separated States Comes Praise for Tailac.

From four of the best-known sheriffs in the South, in widely separated States, come the following endorsements as to the merits of Tailac.

"Tailac has certainly helped me, and I needed it for the good it has done in my case," said Hon. C. W. Mangum, ex-sheriff of Fulton County, Georgia, who resides in Atlanta, and who has been one of the most popular officials in the state, having served three terms as sheriff.

"Tailac seemed to be just what I needed to put my system in shape, and it has toned me right up. Naturally, I would recommend it to my friends, and I know of fifteen or twenty families that are taking it now on my say-so."

Arkansas Official Testifies.

Hon. Charles L. Lewis, ex-sheriff of Crittenden County, a merchant and a large plantation owner of Marion, Ark., said: "I am convinced from the benefits that my wife and myself and many of our friends have received from Tailac that it is without an equal."

Ex-Sheriff Anderson's Statement.

"Money couldn't buy the good Tailac has done me, and I gladly recommend it to others for what it has done in my case," said Hon. Archie R. Anderson, ex-sheriff of Harris County, Texas, who was re-elected to this high office seven times and served the people of his county for fifteen years as sheriff. Mr. Anderson was chief of police of the city of Houston, where he resided for several years, and there is not a better known man in Harris County.

Texas Sheriff's Endorsement.

"I needed a general, all-around building up for the past seven months, and Tailac has done that very thing for me," said Hon. S. A. Kelly, who resides at Odessa, Texas, and who is one of the most popular officials in that section of the state.

PRESIDENT OF COTTON OIL MILL PRAISES IT.

Mr. C. C. Cooper, president of the Georgia Home Cotton Oil Company of Lawrenceville, Ga., and one of the big business men of Atlanta, said: "I suffered for seven or eight years. Not until I began taking Tailac have I been able to notice the slightest improvement in my condition. I am greatly improved and Tailac is unquestionably the best thing of the kind I ever tried."

PRESIDENT OF COTTON OIL MILL PRAISES IT.

Among the prominent manufacturers and business men who have endorsed Tailac are John F. Carroll, cotton mill superintendent, and leading citizen of Chattahoochee and Atlanta; N. M. Yancey, manager of contract department, Atlanta Telephone and Telegraph Company.

PASTOR OF WESLEY MEMORIAL TESTIFIES.

The Rev. C. W. Norton, pastor of the Wesley Memorial Church, 523 Estell street, Jacksonville, Fla., which large charge he has held for many years, is not only a leader in his church, but is exceedingly popular and widely recognized as a leading citizen, and a man of thought and action. The Rev. Mr. Norton said: "I suffered from chronic indigestion for eight or ten years. The benefits I derived from this medicine are nothing short of wonderful, for I really feel as well now as I ever felt in my life. In short, Tailac has simply restored my health and I feel it my duty to recommend it."

Among other well-known ministers of the gospel who have endorsed Tailac are the Rev. John M. Simms, Baptist minister, and the Rev. A. L. Tull, Methodist, both of Atlanta; the Rev. J. A. Wells, pastor of Oak Ridge Methodist Church, Oak Ridge, Miss.; the Rev. A. J. Valley, Memphis, Tenn., and many others. —adv.

Bankers of the South Praise It to the Public

Officials of Two Well-Known Financial Institutions Testify.

Two of the best-known bankers in the Southern States recently on the same day in personal letters told of their remarkable experience with the use of Tailac. Their letters follow exactly as written. The first letter quoted comes through Ell W. Goode, druggist and local agent for Tailac at Hawkinsville, Ga., containing the statement of E. J. Henry, president of the Hawkinsville Bank and Trust Company, which is one of the best-known financial institutions in that part of the state. His letter follows, just as it was written: "Hawkinsville, Ga., March 5, 1917. "Mr. G. F. Willis, Atlanta, Ga.: "Dear Sir,—Mr. E. J. Henry, president of the Hawkinsville Bank and Trust Company, came into my store a few days ago and said, 'Bill, sell me another bottle of Tailac.' "I said, 'Mr. Henry, what do you really think of Tailac?' His reply was so commendable to the virtues of the medicine that I asked him if he would give me a signed statement about it. He said: 'Yes, of course, I will, and this is his statement: "Last spring I was all wrong some way or other, and couldn't get right. I came to you and bought a bottle of Tailac and began to improve. Two more bottles put me all right and I felt perfectly well. A few weeks and I had the grippe and was beginning to get down and out again, and about a week ago I bought another bottle and have taken it and am perfectly well again. "I unhesitatingly recommended Tailac to anyone who is sick and worn out, as I believe that if anybody will take Tailac when they first begin to feel badly it will prevent and keep off sickness. It certainly is a great remedy." (Signed) "E. J. HENRY, President. "Hawkinsville Bank & Trust Co."

The other letter referred to comes from the cashier of the Hornbeck branch of the West Louisiana Bank at Hornbeck, La., and is as follows: "Hornbeck, La., March 5, 1917. "Mr. G. F. Willis, Atlanta, Ga.: "Dear Sir,—I wish to say that I have taken five (5) bottles of Tailac and have gained fifteen (15) pounds in three weeks. I think it is a great medicine." (Signed) "W. C. McELVERN, Cashier. "Bank of Hornbeck, Hornbeck, La."

Dr. J. T. Edwards Prescribes It

Declares Has Never in His Life Seen Anything to Equal Tailac.

Dr. J. T. Edwards, of Fayetteville, Ga., one of the best-known members of the medical profession in the state of Georgia, makes a statement that will undoubtedly produce a profound impression throughout the country. "In my thirty years of active practice as a licensed physician in the State of Georgia," says Dr. Edwards, "I have never seen anything to equal Tailac as a medicine to produce results. I hear people on all sides telling of the benefits they have derived from its use. "Tailac is simply the talk of the town. I have no hesitancy in recommending the medicine, and as a matter of fact, I am prescribing it for my patients almost every day. "Only a few days ago a well-known woman of Fayetteville came to me and told me about the remarkable relief her daughter had gained from the use of this medicine. She said her daughter had been confined to her bed for three years with what had been pronounced pellagra, and that after using Tailac for a short time she was able to be about and was on the road to recovery. "But this is only one instance. People in all walks of life in and around our little city are giving similar endorsements to the medicine. Seldom a day passes that someone does not come to me and say something about the good results they are getting from the use of Tailac."

Rev. A. H. Sykes is Much Gratiified

Tells of Remarkable Change in Wife's Condition. Praises Tailac.

The Rev. A. H. Sykes, pastor of the "Watkins Park" Presbyterian Church, Nashville, Tenn., prominent not only as a minister of the gospel, but popular as a man and citizen who has been true to his friends and every trust ever reposed in him, said recently: "For the last ten months, Mrs. Sykes has been suffering from health suffering from her stomach and kidney troubles, which gradually developed into a general nervous breakdown. At times her condition became alarming and I frequently sought medical advice, but nothing we could do for her seemed to bring relief. "In fact, she suffered so long and so much that I felt it my duty to let everyone know what this medicine has done for her. For several months her condition was such that she had to remain in bed, and as a last resort I decided to let her try Tailac. "I am a conservative man and have always been skeptical regarding the use of proprietary medicines, but this case has certainly proven an exception to my rule. I am now convinced that Tailac is a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. I do not think I have ever seen anything that gives such prompt results. Mrs. Sykes had only taken two-thirds of a bottle of this medicine when we began to notice a marked improvement in her condition. Before she began taking Tailac she had fearful pains in her side and suffered constantly from sour stomach and indigestion and was intensely nervous. These distressing symptoms, I am thankful to say, have entirely disappeared, and her appetite has returned and she seems to be fully restored to her normal state. She sleeps better and is gaining strength and flesh rapidly. I think it only a question of a short time until her health is fully restored. "Tailac has certainly proven a remarkable remedy in her case, and will do all you claim for it. I cheerfully recommend it to my friends."

JUDGE G. W. KYSER MAKES INTERESTING STATEMENT.

Judge G. W. Kyser, 1204 West Ninth street, Austin, Tex., in a recent interview, made the following statement: "Tailac is rapidly making me over into a new man, and I will always speak a good word for it when I have the opportunity. "Judge Kyser served in the Civil War with the 32nd Texas Cavalry under Col. Woods, and occupied the bench in Caldwell County for twenty years, and resigned this office to accept the appointment as commissioner of pensions under Gov. Colequit. After eighteen months in this high office he was compelled, on account of failing health, to retire from active life. He is not only one of Austin's most highly respected citizens, but is prominently known throughout the state. "I have suffered from constipation for years," continued Judge Kyser. "I had rheumatic pains all over my body, was restless and couldn't sleep at all well. I had no energy and suffered frequently from headaches—and to be frank about it, I was just about played out. "But I'm feeling like a different man now, thanks to Tailac. In fact, I'm feeling fine now and nothing has helped me but Tailac. I am recommending it to my friends as the best medicine I have ever found to build up a weak-run-over system and to restore health and vigor." —adv.

H.M.S. "Renown."

One of the Navy's War Mysteries.

The fact that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will make his official visit to the North American Continent on board H.M.S. Renown, gives an added interest to the following descriptive article, on this ship and her sister battle cruiser, Repulse, reprinted from "The New Navy" series in "The Marine Engineer and Architect" for June. We acknowledge the courtesy of Mr. C. Archer Ellis in allowing the Telegram to use his copy of the magazine.

THE HUSH SHIPS.

When war broke out the Renown and Repulse were already in an early stage of construction at Clydebank and Fairfield, being then slightly modified "Royal Sovereigns," i.e., 25,000 ton battleships carrying eight 15 in. guns and designed to steam 21 knots. The great success of the battle cruisers at Heligoland Bight, Dogger Bank and the Falklands, however, had demonstrated the necessity for adding to our somewhat inadequate squadrons of these ships as quickly as possible in view of the fact that the Germans had the Derfflinger, Lutzow, and Hindenburg variously advanced towards completion, while no further battle cruisers beyond the Tiger had been provided for in our own estimates.

On the initiative of Lord Fisher, therefore, the construction of the "Renowns" as battleships was stopped and the D.N.C. was instructed to prepare designs for them to be transformed into battle cruisers. This was at Christmas, 1914. In ten days the general design had been drafted and approved, and by the 21st of January, 1915, the builders were provided with the necessary drawings to enable them to get under weigh with the hulls and both ships were laid down on the 25th. The new design provided for ships 170 ft. longer than the keels already on the stocks (794 ft. against 624 ft.), and with an armament of six 15 in. guns instead of eight 15 in., the speed being raised from 21 to 32 knots. By April the final drawings and specifications were completed and as Lord Fisher had specified that the ships were to be completed in 15 months from the date of laying down, their construction was expedited to the utmost capacity of the firms contracting. As, however, it took 15 months to build the Dreadnought even with complete designs and specifications ready, and a good deal of her material assembled before the actual work on the hull was commenced, it can be easily realised how the completion of ships 8,500 tons heavier in three months longer was regarded as an impossibility. As a matter of fact the Renown was not launched until January, 1916, and the Repulse followed her into the water in April, both being completed between August and September of the same year, a record which no shipbuilders in this country or abroad had ever approached, and are never likely to be beat for many years, reflecting the very greatest credit upon the builders, the naval construction staff, and all concerned.

In appearance the "Renowns" were unique. Their length—they are 90 feet longer than the Tiger—dwarfed all existing war ships, and with a sea speed of 32 knots (Renown made 32.6 on trials) they were able to over-haul any enemy cruiser or destroyer while the six 15 in. guns gave them a superiority in offence over all the German battle cruisers, none of which carried weapons of more than 12 in. calibre.

The hull dimensions are 794 ft. by 90 ft. by 25½ ft. (mean load draught), and the fore-castle shows a marked sheer with plough bow of the Japanese variety. There is a pronounced flare almost as far as the foremost turret which gives the impression that the fore part of the ship is not water borne, and modified "bilsters" filled with oil fuel instead of water, with an air space between them and the boiler and engine rooms, give her additional protection from torpedoes without greatly adding to her beam; they project about 3 ft. beyond the hull-side perpendicular at the water line.

The main armament is mounted in three turrets, 11-7 ins. in thickness, with 10 in. barbette. These have an elevation of 20 degrees, and an arc of training of about 60 degrees about the centre line in the case of the forward guns, and forward for those aft. The secondary armament shows reversion to the smaller calibre which had been discarded in the Iron Duke and Tiger, 4 in. guns being mounted instead of 6 in. These are disposed in an entirely original fashion, fifteen of the seventeen being grouped in triple mountings and two disposed singly. These latter are situated on the forward shelter deck, one on each side of the conning tower, the magazines being immediately abaft the A and B 15 in. magazines. On the flying deck abaft the bridge are a pair of triple positions, the guns being carried on wings projecting well out over the deck, the hoist forming a cylindrical base. The three remaining groups are disposed along the centre line, one just forward of the mainmast, and two on different levels superimposed aft. Viewed from the stern, the ships have a most formidable appearance, the tiers of 15 in. and two sets of 4 in. guns being surmounted by the bulk of the after control positions and huge funnels. The masts are stepped on to the upper deck and are both tripods. That forward carries an upper spotting top with the 15 in. and 4 in. guns director towers below, the forebridge being of the usual heavy battle cruiser pattern with searchlights at the wings. The mainmast carries a 4 in. director tower, and a complicated erection of spotting and control positions.

As first completed searchlights were mounted on platforms projecting from the funnels, the forward ones being on a level with the upper bridge and those on the after funnel staged at different levels to avoid interference. In 1918 all these were regrouped and mounted on the new pattern towers around the second funnel. Incidentally, both funnels were originally the same height, but the foremost was raised some 6 feet, to clear the bridge level after the trials had been run.

The big shelter deck ends at the fore funnel, and amidships there is a light continuation carrying the four inch guns, alongside which the boats are stowed. Aft the mainmast is a light 3 in. conning tower and shelter decks. The forward C.T. is 10 in. thick, with a 6 in. revolving hood for the range finder, and a 3-2 in. base down to the main deck.

Two 21 inch torpedo tubes are carried just forward of the A turret, and two 3 in. E.A., and four 3 pounders are disposed around the funnels. The propelling machinery consists of Brown Curtis turbines driving four screws and similar to that installed in the Tiger, but additional boilers were provided to increase the H.P. from 100,000 to the 120,000 developed on trials.

The fuel consists of oil only, of which some 4,250 tons are carried in the double bottom and "bilsters." As regards sea keeping qualities, the ships have been very successful, being able to maintain and exceed 32 knots and none of the structural weaknesses which characterized the Courageous class were developed. Although not completed in time for Jutland, they were employed to back up the light cruisers during sweeps of the German littoral and rendered timely assistance on more than one occasion.

The Repulse and Renown present many features which will probably never again be introduced into H.M. ships. The triple mounting has been abolished in the Hood—an enlarged and armoured edition of them—and 5.5 in. guns replace the 4 in. The absence of side armor has not been justified by war experience, and in future a strong offence cannot be reckoned as the best defence—thick decks and all the armour that can be worked in even at the expense of increased displacement and diminished gun power must be a postulate for the survival after a hitting in the next naval action and the ideal seems a happy combination of the U.S. "All or Nothing"—i.e., thick belts, bulkheads and turrets with heavier decks and magazine protection, plus our own system of fitting that medium thickness of plate on hull side over belt which can be allowed, and the development of the "bilsters."

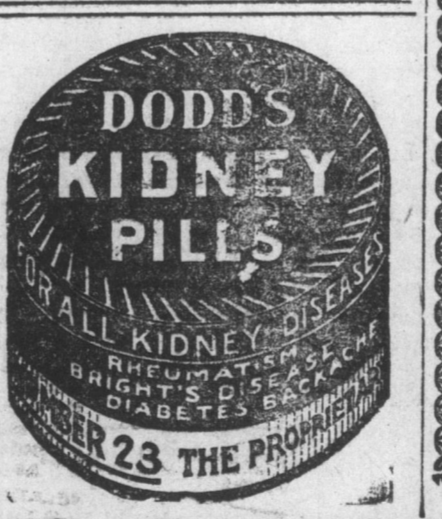

They are probably the last battle-cruisers we shall build. In future the battleship must combine all the functions of both types and progress will be along the lines of the Hood with regard to big ships. Jutland showed that while the German battle cruisers could stand a hammering which would have placed our ships hors de combat, their armament was on the light side, while if the British ships had the best of it in the matter of gun power they lacked the thick armour where it was wanted; and so, as it is obvious that we cannot have both speed and thick armour in conjunction with big guns and expect to keep displacement around the 27,000 ton mark, then the gun power must be reduced in quantity, but not calibre, and displacements soar up to 40,000 tons and more.

From a hygienic point of view the big ship is far away ahead of the "Pre-Dreadnoughts" and the "Renowns" are the most comfortable and healthy vessels in the Service. The days when the ship battened down was sick with stale air and the hammock flats were a breeding ground for tubercle, have gone; in future more space will be available for proper sleeping accommodation and living quarters for the men, while the old methods of ventilation must be relegated to the limbo of things half appreciated and half neglected.

Not Alarmed.

The English sovereign, nominally worth $4.86, was quoted in New York at $4.25 the other day. It is a new low level in foreign exchange. However, the "tight little isle," as the New York "Herald" so well says, does not consider this high premium on exchange an unmix'd evil, for 't tends to check imports and force her own machinery, add to the world's stock of products and employ her labor, thus steadying economic conditions. In that way England figures she can gradually produce goods, add to her wealth and the wealth of the world and help restore the purchasing power not only of the English sovereign but the American dollar. Both countries need more products to reduce the high cost of living.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE ARTIST HELPS THE SQUIRREL.

"How ever is that story coming out?" said I, as I regretfully laid down the magazine in which I had been devouring the latest installment of the continued story we were all following, as eagerly as if our own future happiness depended upon the way it came out.

"I really don't see unless the author puts poison in that woman's tea," said the authorman.

That was some months ago and the author of the story, being a most skillful artisan, did manage to solve this situation differently. But how often a less skillful artist does figuratively put poison in some character's tea!

Involved in the Eternal Triangle.

For instance, an author will cleverly work up a situation in which a heroine is involved in an unhappy love tangle. She is pictured as not to blame for the situation in which she finds herself—your sympathy is all with her, you want her to get rid of the selfish, ungenerous, thoroughly undesirable husband whom circumstances have foisted upon her, and to marry the unselfish noble-minded lover who, you are sure, could make her happy for life if he only had the chance.

The author wakes up to the point where it is up to him either to admit that he thinks divorce and remarriage allowable when a pair are utterly ungenerous, or to imply that he thinks divorce is wrong, and leave them with their minds made up to endure in the best way possible. (One wonders if characters left in such position on the last page do not sometimes change their minds afterwards.)

But when he has reached that point, he hasn't the courage to do either and so he puts poison in the tea of the husband—in the shape, most likely, of an automobile accident—and ends the book by implying that after a decent interval his heroine became happy for ever after.

Just Folks

TO AN OLD FRIEND.

When we have lived our little lives and wandered all their byways through. When we've seen all that we shall see, and finished all that we must do. When we shall take one backward look off yonder where our journey ends, I pray that you shall be as glad as I shall be that we were friends.

Time was we started out to find the treasures and the joys of life. We sought them in the land of gold through many days of bitter strife. When we were young we yearned for fame, in search of joy we went afar. Only to learn how very cold and distant all the strangers are.

When we have met all we shall meet and know what destiny has planned, I shall rejoice in that last hour that I have known your friendly hand. I shall go singing down the way off yonder as my sun descends. As one who's had a happy life, made glorious by the best of friends.

TIMELY THEMES.

The day is hot as melted lead; I place some ice upon my head, and seek the shade outdoors; and there I read a some cooling book—the v o y-ages of Dr. Cook along the arctic shores. The doc is held to be a fake, but in his writings he can make a man forget the heat; with him I walk where blizzard's roll, discovering a pipe dream pole among the framed up sleet. My reading takes me farther back; I follow Sir John Franklin's track, to where it has an end; he vanished in the storm and rack, and never sent a message back to any mortal friend. Somewhere the polar night wind moans above Sir John's heroic bones, all buried deep in snow, the bones of others by their side, but how the heroes wrought and died we never shall know. I read of Greely's hunger camp, and feel a tear in either lamp, for that's a frightful tale; and as I read I seem to hear the ice floes crashing far and near, and feel the bitter gale. A neighbour comes along and cries, "Gee whiz! Our Augusts and Julys are getting worse and worse; this heat, if longer it persist, will get my goat. I wot and wist, and put me in a hearse." I hear the words in mild surprise; I've been abroad 'neath arctic skies, among the endless snows; and I am feeling just as if my ears and nose were frozen stiff, and I had Chilled toes.

War Weddings Failures.

The court year which closed at Chicago recently will go down on court records as the greatest divorce year. Divorce decrees number 6,220, which is almost 15 per cent. of the marriage licenses issued. "The war, which promoted hasty marriages, has greatly increased the number of domestic tragedies," asserted Judge Hopkins. "War weddings in seven cases out of ten proved failures. The young brides were afraid of those strange men they married two years ago. A great cause of unhappiness in married life is liquor. The next few months will see a great decrease in divorces."

كتاب متنوع للاسائيب New Relief For Constipation, "LES FRUITS"

Physicians agree that with the modern habits of living, constipation is likely to be always with us. They also agree that the constant use of any drug for the relief of constipation is exceedingly unwise—unwise for two reasons. First, a drug constantly used loses its effect and requires a constantly increased dose. Second, because the constant use of any drug is bad anyway.

So the cry is constantly going up from the constipated, "What can we do?" It will be interesting to a great many to know that an answer has been found in the re-discovery of a method which was used with great success by our Forefathers, and in Arabia far back in the twelfth century. The food is called "Les Fruits" because it is composed entirely of figs, dates, prunes, raisins and the leaves of each with the substitution of the Alexandra leaf for the raisin leaf. The taste is pleasant, if not to say delicious, and the effect is exceedingly satisfactory. Try it and be convinced.

THURSDAY, August 7, 1919.

The Prince's Visit.

With the excitement consequent upon the Peace celebrations, subsided, every person being satisfied with the result of the great pageant, the next demonstration to be considered is that in connection with the visit of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, which if naval schedules are to be relied upon, and so far there has been no reason to question their accuracy, will be made on Tuesday next, August 12th, and continued till noon of the following day, when our distinguished royal guest will take ship for that one time famous naval station, Halifax, Nova Scotia, the present Atlantic gateway of the Dominion of Canada, a port rich in numerous associations with imperial history, and made famous by the soldiers' poet in the following magnificent lines:

"Into the mist my guardian prowls port forth, Behind the mist my virgin ramparts lie, The warden of the honor of the North, Sleepless and veiled am I!"

But we doubt if even the warmth of the welcome of the fair city of Nova Scotia's fair province will equal in its sincerity and enthusiasm the measure of the reception which old St. John's will accord to the future heir to that crown, which is the symbol and authority of Britain's Imperial might, and in this connection we would acquiesce with the suggestion of our evening contemporary the Herald, that the procession of Tuesday, in so far as it can be assembled, should be repeated, in order to show the Prince that Newfoundland's celebration in his honor will bear comparison with any that it will be his pleasure to witness during his tour of our big sister dominion of the West.

One thing, it is to be hoped, will be avoided, during the stay of His Royal Highness, and that is any squabble or scramble for individual recognition. Already we hear of petty rivalries and general frictions about trivial matters, occurring early in some of the Canadian cities, these cropping up amongst some of the citizens who are having to do with the preparations now being made for the royal visitor, and there is many an unseemly wrangle for a high place in the public receptions to be accorded, the object of which is not self-glorification, but honor to the son of the King-Emperor, who is visiting the domains over which he will some day wield the sceptre of his father. The Prince is one of ourselves, in a sense. His experiences gained on the battlefields of France and Flanders, have learned him not to take shelter behind his royal privileges, and he comes to us as one of the men who fought. The dignity of our reception of this son of a royal democrat will be best maintained by receiving him as the popular heir of a popular monarch, and if the watchword of all our people is the Sursum Corda of the Psalmist, then the success of all the celebrations will be assured, and the first coming of our future King will remain to all, not merely as a memory to be treasured, but as a concrete fact of which we shall ever be proud. In doing that, if we one and all remember his princely motto "I serve," there will be no jealousies, bickerings or annoyances to irritate or disappoint.

Methodist Outport Educational Campaign.

CARBONEAR ORGANIZED. Carbonear August 1st—Rev. T. B. Darby and Mr. B. C. Morris have been paying a visit to the town in connection with the Methodist Educational Campaign. The work done was purely of a preliminary and preparatory nature, but its effect should be felt throughout the work of organization and also during the drive which will take place on August 29, 30, 31 and September 1. Carbonear Methodists should remember these dates and be ready to help make the scheme a huge success.

A strong committee has been formed to take charge of the work in the town. Magistrate Penney is chairman for the whole District and Mr. Joseph Maddock occupies a similar position in the town. These committees with Messrs. J. P. Powell, T. C. Badcock, John Rorke and Mrs. John Maddock form the Executive Committee at present. Revs. A. Y. Rust and A. Johnson, are also members of the committee, the latter at the last meeting being elected secretary. Already much has been done to arouse interest in the campaign, and during the next month the committee hope to arouse local enthusiasm to the same heat as that which was shown in St. John's. Many Carbonear parents avail themselves of the splendid educational facilities offered to their children in the College and in most cases the children take advantage of the benefits derived from that residence. It is felt, therefore, that Carbonear people should leave no stone unturned in their efforts to aid the fund which is being raised to more thoroughly equip this splendid institution. Carbonear must be true to her own sons and daughters and her loyalty can best be evidenced by a stirring response to the call which is issued in this campaign. A public meeting is being arranged for Monday, August 25th, when it is hoped to secure some of the best authorities on this subject to address the people of this community.

G. W. V. A. Arch.

The Great War Veterans will be turning out in full strength this evening to erect their arch. Already the patients of the Military Hospital are hard at work building a miniature warship, which will be part of the decoration, and arrangements have been made to have a captured field gun placed in position. The War Veterans would like the citizens to co-operate with them by sending them any empty flour barrels they may have in their possession, as they are required for decorative purposes.

Schooners Do Well.

A number of schooners from Westville, which were fishing in the Straits on the Labrador side, have done well and are either on their home or have arrived to discharge their catches. Among those reported are: Capt. W. Winsor, 550 qts.; Capt. E. Bishop, 500 qts.; Capt. Blackwood, 450 qts.; Capt. Change, 500 qts.; Capt. Joe Winsor, all salt used; Hon. A. W. Pickett's schooner, 500 qts.; Capt. Roberts, 400 qts.

This Afternoon's Football.

A football game between a city team and an eleven from the S. S. Wapara which is at Shea's wharf leading paper for Australia, has been arranged. We understand that there are some good players on the ship and a lively exhibition is looked forward to. The game starts at 4 o'clock this afternoon at St. George's field.

Prize Winners.

The original intention in connection with the Peace Parade was to give only one prize for the best decorated float or motor truck, but as Peace, America and Britain and Her Dominions were all so deserving, the judges could not distinguish between them and therefore decided to give three prizes of $50 each. The characters on the Peace float were, Peace, Miss Mary Doyle; Fruits of the Earth, Mrs. Havermale; Art, Miss K. Fraser; Industry, Miss E. Hayward; Science, Miss Caroline Furlong; The Growing Generation, Misses Myrtis and Gertrude Collins and Little Miss Owens. America was represented by Miss Louise Orr and her attendants were: Uncle Sam, Mr. Salt; a Colonial, Mrs. Lawrence, Halifax; C. Hall, Bay of Islands; J. Young, Erdington, N.S.; B. Driscoll, Bay Bulls; O. Leach, L. Chafe, F. McKee, Harbor Grace; Mr. and Mrs. E. Spencer, Wabana.

Banker Loses Man.

The schooner Francis W. Smith, Captain Robert Gerhardt, arrived in port this morning from the Grand Banks, and reports losing a man on July 17th. The unfortunate man, whose name was Clarence Moesman, was at the wheel when last seen, and on going to relieve him, another of the crew found that Moesman had disappeared. How he met his death cannot be ascertained. He was a native of Lunenburg County, a widower, and was about 40 years old.

Police Court.

The Devereaux Prohibition case up for hearing. The defendant was fined $100 or 30 days imprisonment. A cabman was charged with a breach of the street traffic regulations. He was fined $1. A young girl was charged with the larceny of a small amount of money. Her parents were ordered to give bonds for her future good behavior. Another young girl was charged with the larceny of a small amount of clothing. She was discharged.

Personal Mention.

Miss Nellie Layman, of Fogo, is visiting friends in the city. Mr. Kennedy, of the Nfld. Clothing Company, who has been spending a short time at Salmonier, returned to the city yesterday. Major Tait, who has recovered from his recent illness, is able to be about again. His wedding, which was to have taken place on the twelfth, has been postponed for a couple of weeks. Adjutant H. A. Hurd, financial representative of the Salvation Army for the Maritime Provinces of Canada, arrived by the express on Sunday on his annual visit. The Adjutant has had a busy year. He organized seven counties for the Red Shield drive, and raised $30,000. He will conduct a special service in the No. 1 Citadel this evening at 8 o'clock, and will be glad to see all his old friends attend.

Reids' Boats.

Argyle leaving Placentia to-day on western route. Clyde arrived Lewisporte 9.30 a.m. yesterday. Dundee left Port Blandford 7 p.m. yesterday, inward. Excite left Humbermouth 9 p.m. yesterday, going North. Glencoe not reported. Home left Nipper's Hr 9 a.m. yesterday, going North. Kyle left Port aux Basques 8.50 p.m. yesterday. McMurdo's Store News.

THURSDAY, Aug. 7, 1919. Now is the time, when eggs are comparatively plentiful, to see about putting away some for the winter. The best means of preserving eggs is undoubtedly by immersing them when fresh in a solution of silicate of soda, or as it is commonly called, "Water Glass." One gallon of this solution (and a twenty-five cent tin of Water Glass will make a gallon) is sufficient to preserve 6 or 8 dozen eggs, for an indefinite period, if directions on the tin are followed carefully. Besides the twenty-five cent size there is a large size which sells for sixty-five cents, which will put away correspondingly larger quantity of eggs.

NOTICE!

NEWFOUNDLAND GOVT. COASTAL MAIL SERVICE. In order to facilitate shippers of freight, the S.S. Prospero's sailing has been postponed until Saturday, August 9th at 10 a.m. Freight now being received. JOHN C. CROSBIE, Minister of Shipping.

To-day's Messages.

PARLIAMENTARY EXPLANATION. LONDON, Aug. 6. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Replying to a question in the Commons, Cecil Harmsworth, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, referring to the alleged Peace negotiations of August of Wales is on his way to visit this East rich region of the Empire, which the war has drawn together in fresh bonds. Once it was a Colony from which it evolved into an Dominion, and now it has grown to the full stature of nationhood. With this newly found dignity, it will extend a welcome to the Prince of deeper significance, though it could not be more cordial than that offered to his father and grandfather. Canadians are happy in being the first of the overseas peoples to say that the Prince of Wales, but it may be assumed that in due course, as opportunity offers, His Royal Highness will visit the other Dominions, and thus accomplish what may come to be regarded as his education as the future Sovereign of the British Empire.

CANADA A NATION.

LONDON, Aug. 6. The Daily Telegraph says Canada has become a nation in the very deepest meaning of the word, since the late King Edward visited it 59 years ago. Now in the hour of victory, the Prince of Wales is on his way to visit this East rich region of the Empire, which the war has drawn together in fresh bonds. Once it was a Colony from which it evolved into an Dominion, and now it has grown to the full stature of nationhood. With this newly found dignity, it will extend a welcome to the Prince of deeper significance, though it could not be more cordial than that offered to his father and grandfather. Canadians are happy in being the first of the overseas peoples to say that the Prince of Wales, but it may be assumed that in due course, as opportunity offers, His Royal Highness will visit the other Dominions, and thus accomplish what may come to be regarded as his education as the future Sovereign of the British Empire.

AFTER THE PROFITEERS.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 6. Warrants were issued this afternoon for the arrest of three officers of the Great Canadian Sugar Company, charged with profiteering.

AGAINST CHEAP FLOUR.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6. An official statement, issued to-day, says Sir Robert Borden is in receipt of many telegrams from Western Canada protesting against the fixing of a minimum price for this year's wheat crop, and urging that the farmers of the West are entitled to the full benefit of the best price in the world's markets.

The Majestic.

The patrons of the Majestic Theatre had a rare treat last evening, when Mr. David Swedlin, violinist of that Hall, favored them with a violin solo. To say that the music was splendid is to say it mildly, and the applause that greeted Mr. Swedlin was possibly the most spontaneous ever heard within the Majestic Theatre. He was encored and had to oblige with a second rendition. The show, last evening, also, was high class, and evoked considerable commendation.

The New Rhodes Scholar

Mr. William James Browne, of St. Bon's College, this city, and a graduate of Toronto University, was elected Newfoundland Rhodes Scholar at Government House, this morning by the trustees of the Scholarship Commission for Newfoundland. Congratulations.

Wedding Bells.

GARLAND—SCÉVIOUR. A happy event took place at Port Saunders on July 15th, 1919, when the Rev. J. N. Scéviour was married to Miss Winnifred, daughter of William Garland, Customs officer at that place. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Morris, of Curling, in the home of the bride's father. The bride, in a dress of grey silk trimmed with white fur (a present brought from Italy by her brother) was led to the altar by her father, while the groom was supported by his brother from Exploits. Miss Myrtle Garland played the wedding march. Miss Stella Garland and Miss Dulcie Scéviour acted as bridesmaids. The happy couple received many valuable and present gifts from numerous friends. After the ceremony was performed a large number of guests sat down to dinner. Toasts were proposed to bride and groom and to the parents of the bride. The groom and Mr. Garland responded. This was followed by singing and games of various kinds, till a late hour. The wedded couple left by the s.s. Ethie on Sunday, carrying with them the good wishes of the community. A large number gathered on the wharf to wave a fond farewell. In their new home at Rockhaven, Saskatchewan, where they will reside, we wish them every success.

DAY—NICHOLLAS.

At St. Thomas's Church last evening at eight o'clock, with Rev. (Capt.) Clayton officiating, Miss Minnie Day, of this city, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. W. J. Nichollas, of Plymouth, England. Miss Gladys Wiseman was the bridesmaid, while the brother of the bride, Mr. Kenneth, gave her away. Mr. R. Newell, of Spencer Street, acted as best man. After the ceremony had been performed, the bridal party drove to the residence of Mr. Newell, where a supper was partaken of. The young couple will leave for England, where they will in future reside, after they spend a short time in Newfoundland. The Telegram joins with their many friends in wishing them every success and happiness in their married life.

MOAKLER—PURCELL.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated at St. Patrick's Church on Monday morning, when Miss Alice M. Purcell, of Paisley, Scotland, was led to the altar by ex-Sergt. J. P. Moakler, of the Royal Nfld. Regt. The ceremony was performed by the Rector, the Very Rev. H. T. Renouf. The bride was attired in a fawn travelling costume with hat to match. She was followed by Miss Annie Moakler, sister of the groom. Ex-Corporal H. Raynes, D.C.M., C. de G. supported the groom. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the groom where breakfast was partaken of. After the customary toast lists had been gone through the happy couple left for the Gouids where the honeymoon will be spent. The presents received were many and varied, both from home and abroad.

HUSSEY—PIKE.

The Church of England Cathedral was the scene of a very pretty wedding on August 4th, when ex-Staff Sergt. Thomas M. Hussey, of South River, C.B., led to the altar Miss Nellie Pike eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Pike, of L'Anse-au-Loup. The bride, who entered the Cathedral leaning on the arm of her brother Staff Sergt. Pike, was prettily gowned in white silk and Georgette, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair fern. The bridegroom was supported by Lieut. C. C. Oke. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. K. Gilbert, of Bay-de-Verde. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. Geo. Payne, Bonclody Street, after which the party motored to Donovon's Station and entertained for South River, where the honeymoon will be spent. The groom's present to the bride was a gold bracelet watch, to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet set in sapphire stones, and to the best man a silver mounted watch. The bride was the recipient of many useful presents. Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

Dancing at Seventy-five. Collided With Iceberg. Those who were in Banerman Park on Monday and last Tuesday evenings had the privilege of seeing what, perhaps, has never been seen in that Park before. An old, gray-haired man of seventy-five got out on one of the platforms and danced a jig and a two-step, keeping it up for several minutes without pause. The many who had assembled around him were loud in their applause, cheering and clapping the hearty old man with great enthusiasm. Big Peace Demonstration.

TWILLINGATE CELEBRATES ROYALLY.

Special to Evening Telegram. TWILLINGATE, Aug. 6. Twillingate most enthusiastically celebrated peace. August 4th was children's day. The children made a harbor bridge, saluted the flag, and the Magistrate Roberts read a message to H. M. the King. Proceeding to Ashbourne's field, over 1,000 children were served with cake, syrup and candy. In the afternoon there were motor boat races, and at night the greatest parade in our history, when a torch light procession accompanied by music of various descriptions marched through the streets, halting at the Post Office grounds where Magistrate Roberts addressed the great concourse of people, paying great tribute to the part played by the British Empire in the world war, and making special reference to the heroic work of our own Dominion. A resolution was proposed by C. White, seconded by A. Manuel, bearing on the memorial hospital to be erected in memory of our soldiers. It was unanimously and enthusiastically adopted. On August 5th cricket and football matches were played. At night there was a display of fire works, joy guns and illumination. Much of the success is due to the part played by our military men.

Another Suicide.

An aged man named Blackmore of Milley's Island committed suicide a couple of days ago by cutting his throat with a razor. For some time the unfortunate man had been acting strangely, and about two weeks ago attempted to drown himself. In this he was frustrated, and a careful watch was kept over him by his friends. Last week however he managed to get away from those who were looking after him, and going to an outhouse ended his life.

Grand Falls

Defeat Saints.

The St. Andrew's football team returned to the city yesterday, having been in Grand Falls since Sunday. Three games were played with the Paper town team, the latter winning the first and the third, thereby carrying off the championship. The Saints speak very highly of the sportsmanship of the Grand Falls boys.

Outport Peace Celebrations.

There is a general feeling that St. John's did itself grand with the exhibitions on Monday and Tuesday last. The proposal to repeat this on the arrival of the Prince of Wales is a good one, and if we are favored with bright warm weather it must prove a success. These celebrations were not confined to the city alone as all the outports had something special.

On Monday the citizens of Heart's Content had a splendid Regatta confined mostly to motor boats. The Race Course was from the Railway Pier across the Harbor and thence to the Light House and back home—very exciting races took place. The whole town was decorated and the Regatta was a grand success. The Cable office would have delighted Cyrus Field if he could have been present.

On Tuesday, the citizens of Harbor Grace held their annual Regatta on the historic Lady Lake. There was a stiff breeze from the Westward, but the spray that dashed over the row boats only kept the oarsmen cool. It was a case of the best men winning every time, but no chance for record time. Despite the breeze the air was so oamy, that the crowd gathered on the Lake Side and congratulated one another on the "old" success of their efforts. Before were there so many refreshment tents or a happier people. At Bay Roberts, sports were also held, and in the tug-of-war the town pulled the Cable Company officials all round the field.

Peace Celebration at Grand Falls.

Editor Evening Telegram. Sir—Just a word to let you know St. Andrew's football team arrived here at 8 a.m., and you should see the reception they got. A locomotive was sent down to take up the sleeper "Codyroy" kindly put at their disposal by Mr. Reid. Who are going to win has to be decided this afternoon. The Grand Falls people have an Arch built of green boughs and lit with electric bulbs, a credit to any people, and so large that two motors can pass under the arch. The word Peace is on the large centre, and the words Freedom on one pillar and Democracy on the other. At 10 o'clock there was a splendid parade of all the mill hands from the director to the boys working at the mill; then all the societies, school children, girls in white, boys in blue and all colors, each man, boy and girl carrying a flag. And you should see the motors covered with flowers and the two bands of music. To-night there is to be a grand display of fire works that it will be hard to beat. Truly Grand Falls folk are pleased that Peace has come. VISITOR. Grand Falls, Aug. 4, 1919.

Too Much Haste.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—Allow me space in your highly esteemed columns to make a few remarks on the negligence of the officers on the Labrador Mail Service Steamer. Captain Burgess, in his rush to catch Captain Parsons, and to appear big in the eyes of the public, sometimes passes ports without calling; and when he does call absolutely refuses to lower the mail-boat, forcing the mail on private fishermen, saying: "The Diana is not a mail-boat, but only takes the mail to oblige the government." He does not consider that probably mail and passengers are waiting at the Post Office. This thing has been going on for some time, and that it be stopped is the wish of yours respectfully, "LABRADOR SLOP." Labrador, July 30, 1919.

Tragic Fate of Colonel Cody.

Mr. Samuel Franklin Cody—popularly known as Colonel Cody—the American-born showman, who, persevering against tremendous odds, and in the face of ridicule, became a leading British aviator and aeroplane constructor, was killed at Aldershot on August 7, 1914. With him perished Mr. W. H. B. Evans, the well-known Oxford cricket and football "blue," who was a passenger in the ill-fated machine, arriving just in time to take the place of the aviator's son, Leon Cody, who had been married a fortnight before, and had been ready to ascend with his father. Born at Birdville, Texas, on March 1, 1861, Colonel Cody, in early life, was an actor and showman, and travelled England with a melodrama, "A Klondyke Nugget," in which members of his family gave exhibitions of their powers as rifle-shots. Early experiments with man-lifting kites brought him into prominence, and his effort to develop a power-driven kite led to his appointment in 1906 as chief instructor at the balloon factory at Farnborough. There he and Colonel Capper worked together in developing the idea of a dirigible balloon. In September, 1907, the "Nulli Secundus," the first dirigible balloon of the British Army, made its initial ascent at Farnborough, and on October 7 of that year the dirigible with Captain Capper and Colonel Cody on board, succeeded in circling St. Paul's, but was subsequently wrecked at the Crystal Palace. In the following year Mr. Cody made short flights in the first Army aeroplane, which met with many mishaps.

All troubles were eventually surmounted, and in May, 1909, Mr. Cody succeeded in flying a mile at a height of about 30 feet, a flight that was witnessed by the King and Queen. From that time the aviator never looked back. His machines were developed, his flights grew longer and longer, and in the end he triumphed, winning, with his huge biplane, the Government prize of £4,000 open to the world for aeroplanes made in any country, and £1,000 open to British subjects for machines manufactured in this country. In recognition of these victories the Royal Aero Club awarded him the gold medal. At the Aero Show at Olympia in 1913 King George greeted the famous aviator as an old friend, and asked if he remembered him as Prince of Wales, watching his experiments with kites. Then, congratulating him on his victory in the military trials, the King called him Colonel Cody. This was a good enough warrant for the successful aviator, and he claimed the title then and there.

Lost Trap.

On Monday, Mr. Jim Raymond, of Shoal Bay, became the loser of a valuable fishing trap, which broke loose from its moorings and rapidly was borne off by a swiftly moving tide. When last seen, it was drifting in the direction of Bay Bulls, and as it has many places to pass before it can become lost for good, unless, of course, it drifts to sea, there is a good chance of it being recovered. It was too rough at the time to launch a boat, and its owner had to stand and see it drift out of sight.

First British Cruiser Sunk in the War.

In the course of reconnoitering after the mine-layer, "Koenigin Luise," had been sunk on the morning of August 6, 1914, H.M.S. "Ampion" struck a mine and foundered. The fore-peak of the ship was shattered by the explosion, Paymaster George and over one hundred men being instantaneously killed. In the forepart of the ship were twenty-four German prisoners who had been taken on board when the "Koenigin Luise" was sunk. Twenty of these were killed by the explosion, the remaining four being rescued and taken to hospital, but died the same evening. The captain, sixteen officers, and one hundred and thirty-five men were taken off by the "Ampion's" own boats before she sank; four of these were badly injured and died in hospital. These, with the four German prisoners, were buried together. The "Ampion" was an unarmoured cruiser, and was built at Pembroke, launched in December, 1911, and commissioned in 1912. She had a displacement of 3,440 tons, an indicated horse-power of 18,000, and a speed of 25 knots. Her armament consisted of ten 4in. guns and two 21in. torpedo-tubes above the water-line. The ship's complement was 292. The cost of the ship, including guns, was £277,781. She was the parent-ship of the third destroyer flotilla, was of the light cruiser class, and the same type of ship as the "Fearless," "Active," "Blonde," and "Blanche." One of the ship's carpenters, David Christie by name, had been terribly injured previously in the Highland Bridge disaster, had been in hospital for months, and had only rejoined his ship shortly before the disaster; he was one of those killed by the explosion.

Mining and Other Notes.

The schr. Ethel G., which is equipped with hoist and gear for hoisting coal from the bottom, was recently loaded at Lewisporte for Little Bay Mine, this being the second cargo secured in this manner. This coal is the accumulation of nearly twenty years' unloading and loading at the Reid piers there, it being estimated that over 350,000 tons have passed over the pier during this period. Estimating the wastage to be quarter of one per cent., there should be in the neighborhood of 1,000 tons on the bottom. Mr. W. A. Mackay has made a contract with the R. N. Co. for this coal and has equipped the Ethel G. with a unique dredging apparatus, which raises quite a tonnage daily. The coal is being used at Little Bay Mine with most satisfactory results.

Work on the tunnel is proceeding expeditiously, being on three eight-hour shifts, and although exceptionally hard rock is being encountered, one hundred feet a month progress is made. Several hundred feet have yet to be driven, when the old workings will be tapped and an enormous tonnage of ore will be available without pumping or hoisting. As the mouth of the tunnel is at the head of the new loading wharf, the mine will have the unique distinction of being the most accessible in the whole world.

Copper, which declined to 14 cents per pound after the signing of the armistice, has now advanced to 25 cents per pound, and it is predicted it will go much higher, and, as one of the necessities, will remain above 25 cents for many years to come. When this famous mine closed down in 1894, the metal was selling at 65 cents in London, so that with modern methods applied, the Little Bay Mine promises to rank high as a producer; also with its unique physical condition, its costs per pound is as low as any other now in operation.

Mr. W. A. Mackay, who has been most plucky and industrious in sticking to the property, now has good promise of meeting the success which his enterprise and patience, in the face of difficulties, deserves, and we trust that his reward will be commensurate with his endeavors.

The New V.C.

Another Newfoundland V.C., this time a Naval Reservist, has been announced, in the person of Henry George Rideout, of Pilley's Island, son of Mr. Reuben Rideout and grandson of Mr. George Rideout, of Lower Head, Twillingate.

It is a proud day for the northern people to think that of the two V.C.'s both came from the north, and Twillingate can share in the honor of having a claim on the latest one, who comes from good old Twillingate stock.

We hope that Twillingate will invite Seaman Rideout to visit here and do him the honor that we feel is his. To him we offer our heartiest congratulations.—Twillingate Sun.

Cute Little Game.

When a little over a month ago the Sun stated its belief that the St. John's Daily Star was leaning toward Mr. Coaker and would likely join his party, we went closer the truth than many people believed.

The Star and the Advocate have now joined forces, and with the Star goes Mr. R. A. Squires who with Mr. Coaker will lead the Opposition. How this dual control is going to work it would be perhaps best to ask the opinion of Bond and Lloyd, who could be depended upon to give some interesting experiences—if they would.

The thing that must be very amusing to most people is to see the brothers of gutter journalism locked in a long-lost-brother embrace.

Since the 1913 election there has been nothing too bad for the Advocate to say of Hon. R. A. Squires while ever since its creation the one aim of the Star has been to kill Coaker.

And now they clasp each other's manly hands, tell the hoodwinked voters of Newfoundland that it was all a mistake and—live happy ever afterwards! We wonder the average voter sees the funny side of this bunkum, or if he is still quite satisfied to be lured by wily politicians. If he has any sense of humor he must laugh at their antics, and if he has any regard for the welfare of his country he will decline to vote.—Twillingate Sun.

Popular Move.

It is stated that the new Minister of Justice, Mr. Morine, has already, at the suggestion of the Social Service Congress, taken preliminary steps with a view to the establishment at St. John's of an Industrial home for juvenile offenders.

The Minister's action in this regard is a decidedly popular one, and certain to elicit the hearty approval of the community. It is high time, in all conscience to put a stop to the practice of sending children to the Penitentiary—a practice which has long been an outrage on public sentiment.—Trinity Enterprise.

Nfld. Girl Honored.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the A.O.H. held a very enjoyable at home in their rooms last evening at which Miss Blanche Burke, one of the retiring officers of the auxiliary was the guest of honor. An excellent programme of dances was gone through, the music in the early evening being provided by Mrs. J. C. McPhee at the piano and Mr. Abramson, violinist. During the intermission Mrs. W. E. Nash, the president of the auxiliary, read an appropriate address and presented the guest of honor with a beautiful silver vase and a bouquet of roses, to which Miss Burke responded, thanking the donors. Dancing was then resumed with Mr. Barker of the Palace orchestra at the piano and Mr. Abramson, violin, the affair concluding about midnight. On Monday evening last, Miss Burke was tendered a shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cozzolino and a pleasant evening was spent in dances and other amusements. Miss Burke, who is to be a principal in a happy event in the near future, is leaving Sunday evening for Toronto where she will visit with friends for a short time, and on her return will leave for her home in St. Jacques, Nfld., to spend a short vacation. Miss Burke has been a valued member of the business staff of The Post for the past six years.—Sydney Post.

Crushed to Death at Public Execution.

On Wednesday, August 7, 1844, a dreadful accident occurred during the public execution of a murderer at Nottingham. The crime for which capital punishment was inflicted on this occasion was of a kind that might well stir public indignation. A man, twenty-nine years of age, had murdered his wife and their three children, aged respectively seven, five, and four years, by cutting all their throats. There was a riotous rush to reach the scaffold and behold his execution, and the crowd was said to be urged on by the crowd of lawless scoundrels. But as a result, twelve persons, chiefly between the ages of fourteen and twenty, were crushed to death, and twenty-one others were conveyed to the hospital, severely and dangerously wounded. The possibility of such a catastrophe being thus caused in the British Isles was in 1868 rendered impossible,

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

Major Montgomerie, Umpire Chessman and the four managers of the city teams met at Vice President Havermale's office last night to pick the players to represent St. John's in the inter-town series against Grand Falls for the R. G. Reid trophy. Two "nines" were picked as below, and an exhibition game between them will be played at St. George's field to-night at 6.34. The contest should really be exciting and should furnish all the necessary thrills which the fans delight in, as the teams comprise the choicest players in the League. The line ups will be as follows:

BANG!

That sound you heard up near the field.

That loud and fearful sound That made the earth and buildings quake

For miles and miles around. That sound was not a bursting bomb, A mortar or a Krupp, It merely was the echo of The poor Cubs blowing up.

THE DOPE.

The Cubs—who were looked upon as having the 1919 pennant cinched—received a terrible jolt last night when the Red Lions sailed in and gave them a drubbing by a score of 12 runs to 9. Last year's champs showed last night that they can lose a game just as woefully as any other club, and the Lions showed that they can bat their way through to the silverware. The game was easily the best and most exciting for the season and the various thrilling situations and climaxes had the fans on their feet. At periods too, the umpires had rather a hard time of it, with eighteen excited players shouting and gesticulating over close play, but they both survived the ordeal well, and no raw ones were handed out. One of the humorous features of the game was when one of Walter Callahan's fast ones bounced off Clouston's bare beam without apparently making him do much more than blink, and yet a few moments afterwards he was calling Umpire Chessman a "bonehead" for a close decision at the plate. Such is life! Harvey Thomas smothered all his differences and was out on the third base line coaching for the Cubs. He blossomed forth—resplendent in a brand new uniform and purple and white stockings and looked quite nice, but his antics did not appear to worry Callahan any. His work would, we think, have been more effective were he to get on the first base line. In the fourth the Cubs went sailing skywards, and a bunch of errors assisted by a timely drive of Kielly's brought in 5 runs. The Lions repeated this performance in the seventh when they made another tally. It must be confessed that the outcome of the clash was more or less of a surprise, though the supporters of the Hills crew, and they were legion last evening) claim that the result

Aged Couple Homeless.

An aged couple, formerly of Carbonear, who recently were sent back to Newfoundland from the States, being friendless and without means of support, applied for shelter at the Police Station last night. A couple of weeks ago they reached here, but were sent over to their native town, where they said friends awaited them. But they both reached the city again last night penniless, and the police were obliged to get shelter for the woman at the S. A. Home and give the husband lodgings in the lockup for the night. The man is 74 years of age and his wife a few months younger. The authorities are enquiring into the case to-day.

Repairs Needed.

Boat House Lane at the present time is badly in need of repairs and should be attended to, as hundreds of citizens will use this thoroughfare to get to the South Side of the lake on Regatta Day, and the custom has been to clean it up for that day. The Public Works Department, no doubt, will see that the matter is attended to during the week.

MOTOR ACCIDENT.—At 2.10 p.m. to-day a motor car driven by Mr. C. Cantwell, knocked down and injured a man. He was taken to hospital.

Severe Blizzard on Labrador.

On Wednesday, July 8th, a severe snow storm raged all through the day and night, more than eight inches of snow falling during the storm. The water was frozen to the ground being covered for three days. Fishermen say that this is the latest season seen on Labrador for thirty years, with heavy ice everywhere around this vicinity. It is impossible to get traps in the water or do any fishing whatever up to date. On July 10th a few fishermen got out their salmon nets for two hours but were compelled to take them up owing to ice. The first haul of about 40 salmon was landed for the first time this season. People think that if they could get nets out they would realize a big catch, as they think the salmon was very numerous.—COR. Battle Hr., July 10, 1919.

DANCING IN PARKS.—The dancing platforms erected in the two city parks are still being used, and last night many couples spent an enjoyable time in dancing to the music of accordions and mouth organs. These platforms are to be left there until after the visit of the Prince of Wales, so that between now and then those who like to may engage in the fun.

Comrades of the Mist.

British Navy Honoured in Verse— Poems of Warm Regard.

(From the New York Times.)
Officers and enlisted men of the American dreadnoughts that served in the Grand Fleet under Admiral Sir David Beatty, as units of the Sixth Battle Squadron, are mailing to relatives and friends, both here and in England, copies of a book entitled, "Comrades of the Mist and Other Rhymes of the Grand Fleet." Just such a book was never before compiled for the reason that never before in history was there a squadron that served in the same capacity as did the squadron commanded by Admiral Hugh Rodman during the great war. This squadron was made up of the New York, which was Rodman's flagship; the Texas, Wyoming, Arkansas and Florida.

As the title indicates, the volume is a tribute to the officers and men of the British Grand Fleet under Admiral Sir David Beatty. The book contains thirty-nine poems, written by officers and bluejackets of Rodman's command. It was compiled by Lieut. Commander Eugene E. Wilson, U. S. N., and is printed and copyrighted by the New York publishing house of George Sully & Co. By their courtesy The Times is able to print some of the verses written by American officers and enlisted men who served under Rodman and Beatty in the North Sea in 1917-18.

The first copy of the book went to Admiral Rodman, the new Commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet, and the second to Admiral Beatty. Hundreds of other copies are now in the mail-bags on the way to officers and men of the British service who served side by side with the Americans in the war, while other hundreds are finding their way into civilian homes in America and in Great Britain.

The dedication of the book reads: "To our Comrades of the Mist—the officers and men of the British Grand Fleet, this volume is affectionately dedicated."
In a foreword Commander Wilson writes that "in collecting these verses the names of the authors have been ascertained and are given under the titles where possible," and he adds that "after months in the North Sea I feel capable of assuming the responsibility for the others, no matter how reckless it may seem."
"It is hoped," concludes Commander Wilson's foreword, "that these rhymes by reflecting some of the spirit of the Grand Fleet may help to bring out of its self-imposed obscurity, Britain's splendid 'Silent Service.'"

The place of honor in the book is given to the verses "Comrades of the Mist," written by a blue-jacket of the dreadnought Arkansas, the inspiration of them being Sir David Beatty's farewell message to his American comrades.

COMRADES OF THE MIST.
Where the long bridge spans the mighty Forth,
Twixt towering headlands bold,
And thin white fog drifts silently,
Dark and gray and cold,
There lean gray ships at anchor ride,
Their guns by the salt breeze kissed.
Ah, they are the flower of Britain's power,
Our Comrades of the Mist.

When the North Wind whipped the frothing sea
And drove the biting spray;
When the great fleet smashed the towering wave
And sped upon 'ts way;
When the mighty ships rolled heavily,
And driving rain squalls hissed,
How proud we were to sail the sea
With our Comrades of the Mist.

Down through the years that are to come,
When we've gone our several ways,
To the farthest corners of the earth,
That bask in the sun's warm rays,
We'll dream of the days when we were part
Of Britain's strong mailed fist—
When we kept the sea and nations free,
With our Comrades of the Mist.

There are two expressions in the British service that every man who ever served alongside them knows. One is "Cheer-O" and the other is "Right-O," and "Cheer-O" inspired one of Rodman's young gunners to write the following:

CHEER-O!
The British have a funny word—
Cheer-O!
At first it seemed a bit absurd—
Cheer-O!
They say it when we joined the fleet,
They say it when we're at sea,
Till smilingly we all repeat,
Cheer-O!
They say it when they take a drink—
Cheer-O!
They say it in their sleep, I think—
Cheer-O!
They'll say it when they meet the Hun
They'll fire it with the opening gun.
They'll sing it when the battle's won—
Cheer-O!

In the dark days of the Spring and early Summer of 1918, when the German hordes were sweeping forward in France, and when the whole allied world was in gloom, Lieut. H. E. Crossman, U.S.N., who was of the Sixth Battle Squadron, showed his contempt for the Germans by penning these verses, which he captioned "Der Tag."

When eau de cologne comes from Limburger cheese,
When the jelly fish swallows the whale;
When kangaroo roost on gooseberry trees
And grasshoppers feed upon quail;
When the laws of gravity cease to exist
And the rivers all run up hill;
When young Americans no more enlist
To shoot at "All Highest Bill";

When humbebees whistle "Die Wacht am Rhine";
When feathers are found upon frogs;
When the mule is blessed with a voice divine,
And humming birds prey upon hogs;

When submarines swim through the air at night;
When powder won't burn in our guns,
Then maybe our allies will give up the fight
And the world will be ruled by the Hun.

Verses that have appealed with particular force to Admirals Beatty and Rodman are said by officers of the Sixth Squadron to be those that are captioned "When the Grand Fleet Goes to Sea." These were written by an enlisted man, and they tell the story of those mysterious but unsuccessful forays of the Grand Fleet in search of the German High Seas Fleet. These verses, which follow, are by many considered among the finest penned by fighting men in the course of the war.

Here follows "When the Grand Fleet Goes to Sea":
The low sea flies across the skies,
The rain beats hard on deck;
The white-caps pelt the armor belt,
The tide-rips roar in the neck.
The white mist sweeps in flying sheets
And dank is the speeding spray;
The black hulks loom in the drizzling gloom
Two cable lengths away.

There comes a rift as the fog banks lift
To the height of the turret tops;
The sirens scream, a searchlight beam
Swings dead ahead and stops.
And in its light there sweep in sight
Destroyers steaming free;
The speeding craft glide swiftly aft,
And onward out to sea.

The sun breaks through and reveals the blue
Behind the hovering gray;
The rain squalls slack, the wind shifts back,
And drives the mist away.
There on the beam come now a gleam,
As ships turn sharp about,
Swing to the tide and swiftly glide—
Light Cruisers standing out.

Off on the bow the shore line now
Gleams green in the morning light
Against gray stack and turret back
And masts and towers towering high;
The huge ships turn, and down astern
Are lost in the haze ale;
As propellers sing and rudders swing
Battle Cruisers out to sea.

The moist wind dies, the clearing skies
Shed warmth on the placid bay;
The lazy steam from off the stream
Drifts upward and away.
With hulls unsunk, but topmasts lean
Thrust out above the white,
The battleships have left their slips,
And slowly pass from sight.

The sun comes out and puts to rout
The last of the vapory screen;
And there behold, twixt headlands bold
No sail or craft is seen,
But far away on horizon gray
A myriad speck drifts on.
Till a deep smoke pall obscures it all,
And the Battle Fleet is gone.

Oh, wondrous hour! Oh, mighty power!
Oh, work of mortal man!
Your cause is just—guard well your trust,
As only real men can;
Stand fast for right throughout your fight,
To keep the ocean free;
We stand or fall, we stake our all,
When the Grand Fleet goes to sea.

On the Arkansas there served a bluejacket who expressed his utter contempt for the German submarine in these verses which he called "Sea Going Mother Goose":

Ten little submarines, all new and fine;
Depth charges got one, and then there were nine.
Nine little submarines, exponents of hate;
Sky-gun potted one and then there were eight.

Eight little submarines, floating under heaven;
Seaplane dropped a bomb and then there were seven.
Seven little submarines, up to naughtily tricks;
One fouled a cruiser's wheels and then there were six.

Six little submarines, didn't look alive
One lost its bearings and then there were five.
Five little submarines headed for the shore
One hit a big rock and then there were four.

Four little submarines in a heavy sea;
One was flooded through a hatch, then there were three.
Three little submarines, getting mighty few;

The song, "Good-Bye-e-e," has the last page of this little memorial of the Grand Fleet. It tells the story of the departure of the American ships for home and under the bluejackets of the famous Sixth Battle Squadron sing it, this is what they say:

Yankee ships are under way,
Standing out to sea—
British ships escorting them,
Colors floating free;
Signals, passing ship to ship,
Flash "Good luck and pleasant trip!"
Parting cheers on every lip,
Singing, "Good-bye-e-e-e!"

British ships are turning now,
Standing toward the shore;
Yankee ships are steaming on—
Home-bound pennants soar;
Misty eyes with sorrow gaze;
Thoughts return to happy days;
Friends are lost in distant haze—
Grand Fleet days are o'er.

Yankee thoughts now homeward fly,
Far across the sea;
Christmas in our native land
Beckons you and me.
Yet our hearts must long retain
Memories of the message plain,
"Britain wants you back again,
Good luck and Good-bye-e-e-e!"

Cured Herring.

The market continues dull and without special features. Some small sales are reported at low prices, but there is no volume of business being done and the trade is reluctant to take on supplies at this time. Many operators and importers hold a hopeful view of the future however, and in spite of the fact that there are some 5,000 barrels yet to be shipped from St. John's, it may be expected that there will be an overplus of this grade if normal demand prevails in the fall. The present inactivity is due to the inferior quality of supplies from Newfoundland as much as anything else. The trade of New York always discriminating in the matter of herring purchases has taken only such quantities as could be disposed of at once. This hard to mouth trading has of course restricted the free movement of the herring, and consumers have taken but little in comparison with other years because of the exorbitant prices being asked by retailers to a considerable extent, as has been pointed out in these columns many times during the season. While it is possible to purchase Newfoundland Scotch cured herring to-day as low as $12 @ $14 per barrel, holders of good quality stocks are asking $18 per barrel for their goods, and some are inclined to hold for $30 @ $32 per barrel for fancy herring. The stocks now held in Newfoundland are of the winter and spring catch, and these cannot be expected to command high prices, unless in cases where the quality is exceptional—N. Y. Fishing Gazette, July 26.

The Clam Bake That Didn't Come Off

Says the Shelbourne (N.S.) "Gazette":
"A number of the young people went out on an island in the harbor one evening last week to have a 'clam bake,' but in the excitement they forgot that they could not dig clams when the tide was high! So they built a bonfire and had a pleasant chat, and returned home missing the bake."

General Protestant Cemetery.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—One of the characteristics of civilized humane and cultured Christian people with a belief in immortality, is respect for the dead. A neglected cemetery, with fences falling down, and walks and graves uncared for, is an index of a community that is blinded with the materialistic spirit of the world, taking a distorted view of life, and certainly a wrong view of death and the Christian teaching, about the resurrection of the body, which in this life was a living temple of the Holy Ghost, that will after the last great day be honored and glorified for ever in Heaven. I am led into these reflections after visiting the General Protestant Cemetery in the West End, and viewing the fence both on the Topsail Road and Waterford Bridge Road. Those as dear to me as my own life are buried there, and the sight of the condition of their last resting place and its surroundings to me a silent and unspoken accusation which gives grief and pain too deep for words. I have done my very best to honor their remains by keeping their graves neat and tidy, and decorating them with flowers in season, but I realize that the work is only slight mockery, in view of the general condition of the Cemetery, especially the dilapidated condition of the fences by which it is enclosed. The four Methodist churches of the city, the Congregationalists, and the Presbyterians all have relations buried there, and it is a question that should concern them all. Lack of means cannot stand as an excuse. Why then is it that the condition of this cemetery is so bad to-day that a double pain is inflicted on those who go there to attend the interment of a relative or a friend. There is a committee representing each of the above named churches appointed to care for the cemetery and see to its upkeep. They evidently are making a great success in being impotent witnesses of its downfall without as far as I can see making an effort to improve the fence or the grounds. Maybe some of them will be good enough when this appears to publish a few lines in the paper explaining the cause of their gross dereliction of duty in this matter. I feel certain that it is not the fault of the people, and that if the committee had been active and appealed to those who have relatives buried there they would at least get sufficient funds to erect a decent enclosure around the cemetery in place of the old fence placed there 40 or 50 years ago. This is the age of drives, and it seems to be no trouble to raise a quarter of a million to half a million dollars amongst the very people, the foundation of whose prosperity was in many cases laid by those who now sleep neglected, in graves to which the cattle will soon have free ingress. "Drives" can also be made successfully for all kinds of sensational schemes, fads, and fancies, but not a dollar seems to be collectable by the Cemetery Committee to put this cemetery in decent condition. The new ground near Tor Cottage purchased a few years ago is fenced with longers and reminds one of a grazing ground for cattle. I know that one of the committee men gave as an excuse that they were waiting for the street line before they could erect a fence. This is nothing short of ridiculous. If a man wants to build a house will he wait years upon years for the street line—not at all. He will apply for it, get it and go to work at once. The whole situation suggests a deplorable lack of sentiment in respect for the dead. If the congregations are satisfied to lie under the charge of neglect implied in this belief, let them continue to allow conditions to remain as they are, and they cannot divorce themselves from the obloquy with which all right thinking people will regard their conduct. I would suggest, if they are open to appeal, that they take a leaf out of the book of those committees that manage the cemeteries to the north of the city which are a solace and a consolation to visit. Their work is a live wire connection between the life temporal and the Life eternal and evidences a practical belief in the latter. Let the committee ask the co-operation of the clergymen of the churches mentioned, and arrange for a cemetery collection one Sunday in the year, and I have no doubt that the people will respond so well that we shall be able to erect an iron rail fence around the cemetery, that will last for a century, and in addition, will, by following the same course the next year, raise money enough to clean up all the walks and beautify the graves. If the committee despair of doing this let them resign, and not be an obstacle any longer. They will then give us a chance to get live men in their places. As one who has recently laid in this ground a child who is dearer to him than his own life, I would, in conclusion, implore a reply from some one in authority, giving an explanation as to their intentions. In the absence of such reply, will it then devolve upon me to perform a private member of the community—to take up this work on behalf of our whole congregations? Yours truly,
A BEREFT FATHER.

The Newest 1919
Trench Coats!

The Trench Coats for men we are now showing arrived on the last English boat and are quite the finest Coats we have ever handled. They are the product of a first class English firm, famed for its Military Tailoring, are built of fine quality Gabardine in all shades of Khaki, well-lined with smart-patterned Twill Plaid. Pockets velvet lined. Three very special features in these Coats are: (1) Extra high and well-fitting storm collar; (2) extra wide revers, forming when fastened ample throat and chest protection; (3) an entire interlining of Oilskin, rendering them not only doubly waterproof but absolutely wind and cold proof as well; forming an ideal Coat for all weathers. All Coats are belted and strapped at wrists. All sizes.

That is remarkable in view of the heavy burdens that have fallen upon Life Insurance Companies during the past four years. It is possible only where investments are non-speculative, the management is economical and the practice is to make full provision for emergencies such as epidemics.
