A CARD FROM The American Watch Company, OF WALTHAM, MASS.

THIS Company beg leave to inform the citizens of the new dominion of Canada, that they have made arrangements to introduce their celebrated Watches to their notice.

The difference between their manufacture and the European, is briefly this: European Watches are made almost entirely by hand. In them, all those mysterious and infinitesimal organs when put together create the watch, are the result of slow and toilsome manual processes, and the result is of necessity a lack of uniformity, which is indispensable to correct time-keeping.

How American Watches are Made. The American Waltham Watch is made by no such uncertain process—and by no such incompetent workmen.

The Quebec correspondent of the Montreal Witness writes as follows: Politics are running high in all quarters of the new Dominion at present, and the coming elections promise an exciting time.

A Better Article for the Money by their improved mechanical processes than can be made under the old-fashioned handicraft system.

Are Fully Warranted by a special certificate given to the purchaser of every watch by this warrant.

It was reported by the steamship Saxon, that arrived at Table Bay from the Eastern route, previous to the departure of the mail, that there was every probability of Dr. Livingstone being still alive.

From a census just taken in Toronto, it appears that the population of that city is now 49,916. In 1861 it was 44,821. In that year (1861) the number of persons in "religious, collegiate and other public institutions" was: males 958, females 954; total 1,912.

The news from the wheat growing portions of Europe, as well as from the States, is in favor of heavy crops. From the Baltic it is said that "there will be an immense surplus for exportation."

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher says of the "items column" in the newspapers, that it "is worth more than all the small fry of correspondents, with an editor thrown in to boot! Like a caravan, it stretches along its columns with packages and parcels, spices and gems, bits of fragrance or cunningly wrought metals, gathered from the Orient and from the whole world besides.

Press Association.—The greater number of the Press Association arrived at Gederich on the 6th inst. The members met at 2 o'clock p.m., the next day, and the following officers were elected: President, Mr. A. G. Campbell, of the Whitty Gazette.

More Meteors Expected.

The meteoric display promised us on the 10th, to-morrow, will be, according to the calculations of M. Leverrier, one of unusual brilliancy; in fact it is the one which delayed reaching us last November.

For the past few days the planet Saturn has not only been peculiarly brilliant, but has shown its rings to be greatly increased in size.

On the 21st of August the planet Jupiter will present the appearance of being moonless to European observers, although this sight cannot be witnessed in America, because Jupiter will be on the same plane as the horizon.

Qualification of Voters.

The following abstract of the election law has been prepared by an eminent legal authority, and will remove some doubts which have been started by several correspondents:

The qualification of Parliamentary electors is defined by the 81st section of the Municipal Act of 1866, to be as follows:

The owner or occupant of real property in cities, of $600 in towns, of 400 in villages, of 300 in townships, of 200

Besides possessing the requisite property qualification, the elector must have been entered on the last revised assessment roll, from which the voters' list is prepared. In municipalities where the assessment roll of 1867 has been revised, it is the duty of the Clerk to prepare the voter's list from this roll, and if completed by him and filed with the Clerk of the Peace one month before the date of the writ for the election, such list is the proper one to govern who are electors.

Centre Riding.

DR. PARKER'S MEETING IN ERIN VILLAGE. Dr. Parker held a meeting in the village of Erin on Tuesday evening the 6th inst. which was well attended.

Mr. H. Milloy was called to the chair, and before introducing the Doctor said that there had been a feeling in this township that he was not quite sound, that he was in fact playing into the hands of both parties, but he had reason to believe now that this was not the case.

Dr. Parker, on rising, said that the imputation cast against him was a slander; he had never since he had been in the world taken part on one side in politics. He never had the fullest confidence in Confederation as being able to do away with the sectional difficulties with which we have hitherto had to contend; he feared that we in Ontario might not get justice in the division of that portion of the public debt not assumed by the confederation. It is important, he said, in working the new constitution that the strictest economy should be observed, that no ushers' clerks should be employed, and no exorbitant salaries paid, and that no unnecessary public works should be undertaken. He was not prepared to vote one shilling for the enlargement of our canals, for he did not believe that it would cheapen in the least the conveyance of our produce to the ocean; the whole benefit would be divided by the Western States. He was opposed to any further extension of the bargain with the Bank of Montreal, for he predicted that if that bank became the only bank of issue it would have a very injurious influence on the commerce of the country by their having the power to expand or contract the circulation at pleasure, and it would become a very powerful political engine which might be used to the detriment of the interests of the country. He would meet the charge of playing into the hands of both parties by referring to his votes and speeches as being always on one side; he had as fair a record of his past course as any man in Canada. He objected to the government being composed of thirteen ministers, which number may be increased; this showed a want on the part of ministers of ordinary prudence and economy. He thought the Governor General's salary showed extravagance and a disposition to be extravagant; he blamed the ministry for it, for the $50,000 was fixed by the colonial delegates and presented in a bill to the Imperial Parliament, who passed it without adding a word. He thought the unconstitutional interference with the local government is sufficient to condemn the general government. He knew that the local government was formed under the direction of the general government and he feared that this system will tend to bring the two governments into collision; and this interference with local affairs is sufficient to condemn them, and is an insult and an outrage on the people of Upper Canada. Taking the past history of the present administration, we may conclude that, as they have been in the past so they will be in the future, and looking to their past acts for the last ten years we are justified in condemning them. Blair, Howland and McDougall were the representatives of the Reform party in the last government, and when they entered into a new arrangement without consulting their party they committed a breach of faith, and have by so doing put themselves out of the party wholly and entirely. He thought the ministry following their own precedent of former years were entitled to be voted out the first day the parliament meets, but he was not prepared to do it because he thought it was not constitutional; it was not British practice.

FRIDAY EVENING, AUGUST 9.

The True Issue.
As we expected, the Advertiser has led the contest with an attempt to falsify the issue. We put it clear plain yesterday that the question before the electors to decide was whether they would support two Conservatives who have never professed to hold other views, or two Reformers whose public conduct have always been in accordance with the principles they hold. But our contemporary in the hope of drawing a few Liberal votes to its net—in the expectation that it will go sheer over to the Conservatives as he has done, tries to convince them that they might vote for Messrs Stone and Leslie and still be true to Reform principles. We venture to say that not a single Reformer would be made to see it in this light, but a trick of the enemy to catch votes, and the real object is so clearly seen under the thin disguise, it will have no effect with a single member of the Reform party. Messrs. Stone and Leslie have been fought out by men who pride themselves in being called Conservatives—who supported John A., Galt, Cartier through all their tortuous and painful political career, and who prepared to accord the same confidence and support to them still—never, on what other ticket than Conservative one could Messrs. Stone and Leslie come out? Have not been all their lives Conservatives, and that of the strictest and extreme kind? Are they not to defend the past conduct of a Conservative member of the Legislature, and extend to them the same confidence in the future?—And yet the Advertiser extraordinary and curious part of Mr. Gow's editorial, said that this had a real meaning when he said the issue was between a Conservative and a Liberal. The Advertiser is very much mistaken that Mr. Leslie will not vote a single Liberal vote, and is consequently making frantic efforts to secure at least by raising a false issue, to bring Leslie's friends along with the Reformers. They are endeavoring to raise the anti-union issue against Messrs. Stirton and Gow. All a few simple electors that are opposed to the two Coalition members are at heart in favour of the union. They are to be ashamed of the old name of Conservative, and in its place have substituted that of Unionist. This is too transparent a device to be a single elector. No one will be deceived by such a silly argument. While they are industriously propagating the falsehood, they are at the same time asking them to vote for the will support John Sandfield and Mr. Leslie, who said at the London meeting last week, "I don't believe in Confederation;" and in the same issue pronounced Confederation a failure. But then according to our contemporary, John Sandfield is a Unionist! Then there is Cameron, who even now says "I have faith in Confederation, and Messrs. Richards, who, until he was Minister, was strongly opposed to the Union savers had better be alone, for it will do their cause no deal more harm than to say so. And before the issue is decided, it is between two Conservatives, and the issue can put it on

An Honest Conservative.
A "staunch Protestant Conservative," who has never yet given a Radical vote, has written a communication to the Globe, giving his opinions on the great struggle between parties that is now going on. He thinks that the people of Ontario have very little to do with the result of the struggle, between John A. and George B.; but that the dictation of the Central Government in local matters concerns them a great deal, as no men worthy the name of freemen will consent to a Central Government nominating the Governor, and then dictating to him who shall be his advisers. He thinks that John A. has not a large majority of the electors in his favour, that he cannot form a strong Conservative Government, that he has to resort to a contemptible Coalition, and that George Brown, with no influence but his pen, wields a greater power than John A. and his whole Government, simply because during all the time that the latter has been in power, he has sacrificed the interests and prosperity of Upper Canada to those of Lower Canada. He objects to Mr. Galt's abolishing specific duties, and adopting ad valorem duties, to prevent Toronto and Hamilton from becoming successful rivals of Montreal, which he foresees they would; thus compelling leading grocers of the former cities to close their establishments and betake themselves to the latter. He condemns in strong terms the grants made to Lower Canada for local purposes—contends forcibly that, while the Conservative leader has lost, the Reform leader has gained popularity, and thus winds up:—"I for one am determined never to be so trammelled by party that I cannot calmly look at the true interests of my country, and vote in accordance with them. I have never given other than a Conservative vote, but upon this occasion I shall vote against those who have shown for a long series of years that they prefer power and patronage to the interests of the country they claim to represent, and will be as ready in the future as they have been in the past to sacrifice the vital interests of Ontario to those of the other Provinces, and to build up a commercial centre in Montreal, even at the expense of every city and town lying to the west of it."

Speech by the Sultan.
The Grand Turk has been electrifying the people of England by a speech that he made to them. The Mayor and Corporation of London read an address to His Majesty, and then presented it in a gold basket. He replied in Arabic, and the reply was afterwards read in English by Musurus Pasha. It was short, but the last sentence was worthy of notice. Here it is:—"I have two objects in view in visiting this and other parts of Europe—one to see, in these centres of civilization, what still remains to be done in my own country to complete the work which we have begun; the other to show my desire to establish, not only among my subjects, but between my people and the other nations of Europe, that feeling of brotherhood which is the foundation of human progress and the glory of our age."

To any one not acquainted with the sanguinary disposition of the Sultan, these sentiments might be considered as magnanimous as any ever uttered by the philosopher, Marcus Aurelius, or the forbearing patriot, Gustavus Vasa. One thing must inevitably protrude itself on the Sultan's vision in "the centres of civilization," and that is, the freedom allowed to every man to worship his Maker after the dictates of his own conscience, and his exemption from persecution should his religious tenets be different from those considered orthodox by the State. He may see that Jew, Christian and Pagan have equal rights, and that the same impartial sword of justice waves over the head of each. Hence let His Imperial Majesty learn a lesson of tolerance, instead of desiring to establish all at once "a feeling of brotherhood" deeper and more extensive than that which now exists, "between his people and the other nations of Europe," let him essay a more humane task, and show himself sincere in his professions by cultivating a more friendly feeling with those of his subjects who now groan under his murderous tyranny. The Cretans, starving in mountain caverns, have more need of the exercise of this catholic spirit on the part of the Sultan than any of the nations of Europe, and it would better become lips, now breathing extermination against a brave people, to talk of establishing "feelings of brotherhood" with them, than to speak of it to those who defy his despotism.

MONTREAL ELECTION.—The Witness, speaking of election matters in that city, says:—"The Irish, with that incapacity to hold together which has always marked their efforts after ascendancy, are now apparently heaving overboard their most celebrated leader. Mr. McGee has certainly, by his eloquence, his patriotism, and his just and statesmanlike views, raised the prestige of the Irish in Canada higher than it ever stood before; and yet his hopeless intemperance and his uselessness for business unfit him to represent a respectable, sober, and industrious community."

SOUTH RIDING OF WELLINGTON
To the Electors of the South Riding of Wellington.
GENTLEMEN—In compliance with the unanimous request of the delegates of the Reform Convention of the South Riding of Wellington, I am a candidate for the representation of this Riding in the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario.
My residence amongst you extends to nearly a quarter of a century; and having for the greater portion of that time taken an active part both in municipal and political matters, my antecedents are consequently well known to most of you. I need, therefore, only briefly state that, in the future as in the past, I will give a hearty support to the liberal party, to whose long, consistent and faithful advocacy of their principles we are chiefly indebted for the great constitutional changes we are now about to enjoy—believing that their principles and policy are the best adapted to promote the general interest and prosperity of the country.
I have been an earnest and zealous advocate for the Confederation of the Provinces, and have heartily rejoiced at its final consummation. I feel deeply grateful to our beloved Sovereign the Queen, and the British Parliament, for so cheerfully concurring in the new Constitution for the Government of the Dominion of Canada.
I rejoice in our new Constitution, because it gives us entire control of our local affairs, recognizes the just principle of Representation by Population, and consolidates those hitherto isolated Provinces into a nation—strengthens the ties between us and the mother country, and increases our power of defence against invasion.
Holding these views, I shall ever be ready whether in or out of Parliament, to heartily cooperate with all true lovers of our country in advancing such measures as are calculated to perpetuate and extend the benefits of the new Constitution of British North America, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, shall have been joined in one grand confederation.
Regarding the working of our new Constitution, I am decidedly in favor of a pure party government as being, in my estimation, best adapted for the proper carrying out of the British system of Responsible Government.
I am opposed to Coalition Governments for ordinary administrative purposes, as being more reckless and extravagant, and more prone to venal and corrupt practices, as their history both in Great Britain and Canada abundantly testifies. But while sincerely holding these views, I wish it distinctly to be understood that I shall discountenance anything like faction, and shall resolutely oppose everything having a tendency to produce a narrow, virulent state of party feeling in the political arena of our new Dominion.
The new Constitution provides that the Legislature of the Province of Ontario shall consist of the Lieutenant Governor and one House, styled the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, composed of eighty-two members, five of whom shall form the Executive Council. Thus the Assembly shall have exclusive powers to legislate on the following subjects, namely: The raising of revenue by direct taxation, the establishment and tenure of Provincial Offices, the management and sale of the Public Lands, the establishment and maintenance of Prisons, Asylums, Hospitals, &c., the Municipal Institutions of the Province, the management of all local Public Works, Incorporation of Companies with Provincial objects, all matters relating to property and civil rights, the administration of justice both of civil and criminal jurisdiction, and all other matters of a purely local or Provincial character. These subjects have a wide range, including as they do the whole of our internal government; and just in proportion as they are well or ill administered, so shall we have contentment and prosperity as a people.
I regard the immediate settlement of our Wild Lands as a subject of paramount importance, and one that has been too long neglected. I shall give a hearty support to any liberal, well-digested measure that has this object in view, and the encouragement of immigration to the Province.
Our new Municipal and Assessment Acts, although in many respects improvements on previous legislation, are still defective in several points. I shall give these matters my careful consideration, so that I may be prepared to aid in their improvement.
To the many other subjects that will engage the attention of the first House of Assembly of Ontario, and the various questions that, of necessity, from time to time arise, I shall be prepared to give a careful and dispassionate consideration, and decide all cases to the best of my judgment, ever keeping in view the general interests and prosperity of the Province at large.
I will advocate the most rigid economy in all the departments of the Government, consistent with the efficient administration of the public service, and shall oppose every unnecessary expenditure of the public funds.
The question of Defence belongs exclusively to the General Government, but I will heartily cooperate with your representative in the Commons to promote every prudent measure for the proper defence of the Dominion.
Gentlemen, should you honor me with your confidence, I shall endeavor to discharge the responsible duties devolving upon me as your representative faithfully and honorably to the utmost of my ability.
I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,
Your most obedient servant,
PETER GOW

CENTRE RIDING OF WELLINGTON.
To the Electors of the Centre Riding of Wellington.
GENTLEMEN—Having received a requisition signed by 416 of the most influential electors from different parts of the Riding, requesting me to allow myself to be put in nomination for the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, in compliance with the said requisition, I now offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages for the representation of your constituency.
My address has been circulated throughout the Riding. To it I would refer you for my views on the political topics that are now agitating the country, also for my views on the powers conferred on the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, and for my views on the duties of your representative under the new set of things inaugurated under the Confederation Bill.
I shall endeavor to see as many of the electors as time and circumstances will permit at the meetings that I intend holding before the election comes on, when I shall explain myself more fully on the political questions of the day.
I am, Gentlemen,
Your most obedient servant,
JAMES LOGHRIN.

THE RUSSELL WATCH!
A FEW REASONS THAT MAKE IT SUPERIOR TO ALL COMERS.

1st—It proves itself a reliable time-keeper beyond all question.
2nd—The RUSSELL WATCH being made on correct and scientific principles, it must follow as a natural consequence that it will keep time.
3rd—Each part of which the RUSSELL WATCH is composed is a reflex of the perfect machine by which, under skillful direction, it is produced.
4th—Truth is the essential of each part.
5th—Uniformity and conformity must therefore characterize the several parts in fulfilling the purpose for which they are made and brought together.
6th—Reproduction, as regards watch work, is simply an application of the principle that "things which are equal to the same things are equal to one another," and if there is any merit, the RUSSELL WATCH possesses that merit to a demonstration.
7th—The greatest variety of price, quality and size, that confidence and perfection will admit, which, under skillful direction, it is produced.
8th—The RUSSELL WATCH stands pre-eminently above all competitors for public favor and patronage.
9th—Proofs of the foregoing—the universal testimony of all Watch-makers who have sold, and the positive statements of the thousands in Europe, the United States and Canada, who have worn the RUSSELL WATCH.

TESTIMONIAL.
To Robert Cuthbert, Watchmaker, Wyndham Street, Guelph.
If Society was as perfect in its organization, and was as obedient to the dictates of truth as the RUSSELL WATCH I bought from you is in indicating time, evil would be swallowed up in good, and happiness would become monotonous.
G. RENNIE, Guelph.

FRIDAY EVENING, AUGUST 9.

NORAH CUSHALEEN OR THE HAUNTED CASTLE.

The scene was sacred to deep affection and holy emotion, and being so we shall draw a veil over it.

To describe Terry's rapture, and the old man's delight and surprise is not necessary. We prefer leaving the reader to imagine these. Neither shall we speak of Michael's amazement and deep joy when he learned that Norah was still alive, and had not brought shame on herself or them, though she had been made the victim of a heartless villain.

His heart smote him for his cruelty to her, but he was comforted by being assured that they would take him to the ruined castle the next night, when he would embrace her and see his grandchild.

Terry did not allow his father to spend another night in the miserable mud cabin, which for many months had been his solitary and cheerless abode. The youth had twenty pounds in his pocket, and he went at once and took an empty house in the village, and got it comfortably furnished.

He also engaged an old decent woman for house-keeper. All this he did in his father's name, and then he led the old man to his new home, and told him it was his.

There being a spare room in the cottage, Hargreave proposed that he should be a lodger with them for the present, and this was an arrangement which pleased Terry highly.

That night there was not two happier hearts in Ireland than Michael Cusaleen and his son. The cloud of misfortune seemed to have passed from the family, and the sun of prosperity had come out in great splendour.

Ah! but there is such a thing as the cloud returning again to cover the sun. The light of restored happiness may be eclipsed by new sorrow.

CHAPTER VII.—BAD NEWS FOR TERRY.—VISIT OF JACOB O'BRADY.—MICHAEL RESCUED FROM HIS DILEMMA BY HARGREAVE.

On the third day after Terry's arrival at Dundarra, the wagon of Barney Magee, who carried goods from Youghal to the towns and villages in the district, was seen entering by the upper end of the long straggling street. Its progress towards the house of Michael Cusaleen was slow and fiftful, for it was stopped now and then by Barney himself, not that he might get off and deliver packages, but to have a little gossip with an acquaintance. It appeared to be something very interesting and exciting which Barney had to tell to his various friends, for the effect produced was in every case of a peculiar marked character.

There was a holding up of hands, a suspension of the breath for some moments, then a few eager questions, replied to by Barney in a way which increased the excitement of the listener, then Barney passed on, leaving the latter either standing quite still gazing after him, or telling the news with much gesticulation to a neighbour who had not been so fortunate as to meet Barney on the way.

At length he came nigh to the new abode of the Cusaleens. Terry, who had been on the look-out for him, was at the door, and old Michael behind him, ready to help his son to carry in his valuable boxes, which, as Hargreave had advised, were to be despatched to Dublin to be there converted into coined gold.

'God be with you, Barney Magee?' exclaimed Terry, in a warm, hearty tone. 'Sure and his glad I am to see you looking so hale and strong.'

'And it's the same I should be to see you Terry agra, and bid ye a friendly welcome back to ould Ireland; but I have the heavy news for ye this day, and my tongue is that dry it can hardly speak them.'

'What's the matter?' asked Terry, fixing his eyes in astonishment on Barney's doleful countenance. 'Have ye come away from Youghal without my boxes? Don't vex yourself about that; they can wait until the next time, and—' 'Ochone, ochone!' an 'I wish with all my soul I had forgot them,' groaned Barney.

'Man alive, what is it? Out with it at once,' said Terry, now thoroughly alarmed.

'Sure, then, Terry dear, it's myself that feels sore in heart to have to tell ye that last night, after it was dark, when I was at the Gap of Coil, three thiev' blackguards, with white shirts and black faces, knocked me down and tied me hands and me feet, and kept me lying lying there till they lighted a torch and tuk everything out of me wagon till they came to your boxes. All the other things they put on again, but the boxes they carried away wid them.'

The news of the calamity utterly shocked Terry. His wealth—that which he had gone so far to obtain—was gone, and he was again as poor a man as when he left Ireland six years ago. It was a bit experience, and pale and dumb he lay against the lintel of the door, more like a corpse than a living man.

'Oh, may Heaven help us,' said Michael, trying to support him. 'Don't break your heart, Terry dear, sure the gold is not so good as life.'

'This is a dreadful business,' said Hargreave, who at this juncture came from his room, the window of which was open, so that he had heard the conversation with Barney.

'Did you make no effort to follow the robbers and recover the boxes?' he asked.

'Sure and I couldn't, yer honour,' answered Barney, 'for wasn't I tied upon the top of the wagon, and wasn't it daylight afore I came to a house, and what would ha' been the use o' gcin' after them then?'

'Well, but didn't you go to the police and get them on their track? They can't have gone far with such heavy booty.'

Barney only shook his head, and so did Michael.

'The blackguards are out o' reach among the mountains,' observed the latter.

'Bah! what of that?' returned the youth, impatiently. 'Such a robbery would be frustrated in two days in Scotland. Cheer up, Terry, your property will be recovered. I will see that the proper means are at once taken.

'It's no use, yer honour,' gasped Terry. 'You don't know Ireland as we do. Them that have taken the boxes know how to keep them. Ochone, it's ruined we are entirely, and I must leave the country again.'

'No, no,' exclaimed Michael, pleadingly, 'you'll not leave your poor ould father any more.'

'Certainly not,' said Hargreave, in a tone of decision. 'If it should be that the boxes are not recovered, you may be able to find remunerative labour at home.'

'I couldn't, yer honour,' said Terry. 'That blackguard O'Brady would mock and triumph over me, and I couldn't stand that.'

'Well, well,' said Hargreave. 'Do nothing rashly, and perhaps things may turn out better than you expect. Come to my room and let us talk matters calmer.'

SOUTH RIDING OF WELLINGTON.

To the Electors of the South Riding of Wellington:

GENTLEMEN,—I am a candidate for the representation of South Wellington in the House of Commons. I have become so at the request of a Convention of Reform Delegates, lately held in the Town of Guelph, and also at the request of many of my political friends throughout the Riding, who, while approving of my public career in the past, have been kind enough to express a willingness to still further extend the confidence reposed in me at the three last general elections.

I regard the new Constitution, so graciously conferred to us by Her Majesty and the British Parliament, as the means by which the British North American Colonies will become firmly bound together, and our connection with the British Empire established upon a firm and lasting basis, and if elected as your representative, I shall consider it my first and paramount duty to give a hearty and loyal support to the provisions of that Act.

On entering upon our new state of political existence, many important questions will necessarily engage the attention of our first Parliament, and much will depend upon the ability and integrity of the gentlemen composing it. A good and economical government is what the country most requires. Honesty of purpose, intelligence and ability are among the qualities necessary in the gentlemen at the head of our affairs, and to such I am convinced that they must be steadily working for the welfare of the Confederation—I will tender a generous support, but I will oppose any Government, or any set of men, who will attempt to betray the best interests of the country for the sake of place and power, or who will make their public duty subservient to their own personal aggrandizement.

I am in principle opposed to the form of government styled "a Coalition." I believe that the general tendency of such arrangements leads to the abrogation of public morality, to the pervading of public corruption in the management of our public affairs. But while holding those views in all sincerity, I am decidedly opposed to the introduction of anything like a factious opposition such as has too often in the past characterized our political history.

The events of the past eighteen months must have convinced the most skeptical that some more efficient system of defence is absolutely necessary for the better protection of the country. I believe the Volunteer system to be the most judicious and adapted to the genius of our people and best accordance to the wants of our country. But the Volunteer system to be kept efficient must be encouraged and supported. Officers and men serving for a number of years do so at much personal sacrifice, and have to be ready at a moment's notice to leave their homes and their business at the call of duty. If, therefore, we have men amongst us who are thus ready and willing to make such sacrifices for our protection, we should not hesitate to accord to them in return encouragement of the most generous character. If elected I will do all in my power to foster and encourage our Volunteer Militia system so far as it is compatible with the resources of the country. I am also in favour of some general scheme which will have for its object the encouragement of rifle practice amongst the young men of our country.

I am in favor of a renewal of reciprocal free trade with the United States of America, such as will be of mutual advantage, and consistent with the honour of both countries.

A general revision and equalization of our Tariff will become necessary under our new Constitution. If elected I will endeavour to secure a measure based upon equitable principles to all interests and sections of the Dominion.

I am in favor of a lower and uniform rate of postage upon letters, the total abolition of postage on newspapers, and I am also in favor of the passing of some measure which will be the means of reducing the exorbitant charges now made for the transmission of messages by telegraph.

The Currency question will doubtless engage the early attention of the Legislature. I am in favor of a uniform currency throughout the Dominion, and I will support any well digested measure for the removal of the Silver Variance which we at present labour under.

I am opposed to the re-enactment of the Usury Laws. Such, gentlemen, is a brief outline of the views which I hold on the public questions of the day, and also of the course which I am resolved to pursue, should you again confer upon me the honour of being your representative. It is, therefore, for you to say whether you approve of my principles and can trust in my integrity. To judge of a man's character it is necessary to examine his past life; you have to look at his actions and from them draw your conclusions. I have been a resident in the Riding for nearly forty years, and for half of that period a servant of the public, and to that public I now appeal whether I have ever neglected my duty, or attempted to advance my own interests at the expense of the community.

I am, Gentlemen, Your most obedient servant, D. STIRTON. Postoffice, July 9, 1867.

AT DAY'S.

Guelph, 22nd July, 1867. INDIA & CHINA TEA CO'Y.

Home Depot at London and Liverpool. Canada Depot, 23 Hospital Street, Montreal.

THE India and China Tea Company beg to call the attention of the Canadian community to their directly imported Teas, which for PURITY and EXCELLENCE will be found unequalled.

The Company have made arrangements whereby they have secured the entire produce of some of the best plantations in Assam and on the slopes of the Himalayas, and by a judicious blending of these magnificent Teas with the best varieties of China produce, they are enabled to offer to the public Tea of quality and flavour hitherto unknown to the general consumer. These Teas are in high favour in England and France, and a single trial will prove their superiority.

The Company supply two qualities only, either Black, Green or Mixed. Their Black Teas will be found to possess great briskness and flavour, combined with colour and strength, and to be entirely different to the flat and vapid article usually sold as Black Tea; while their Green Teas are altogether free from the deleterious mineral powder so commonly used for coloring the leaf.

PRICES: High full-flavoured Tea for family use a real genuine and fine article, 50 cents per lb. Finest quality procurable, one dollar per lb.

The above can be had either Black, Green or Mixed. To be had in packets of Quarter Pound Half Pound, One Pound, and upwards, or in tin canisters of 5 lbs. and upwards, from the Company's Agents in all the chief towns of Canada.—N. B. All the packages are lined with tin foil paper, and the Tea will consequently retain its flavour any length of time.

ONSAYE.—All packages have the Company's trade-mark, without which none are genuine. MR. N. HIGINBOTHAM Agent, Guelph.

DOCTOR DAVIS,
 Physician and Surgeon.

OFFICE—Merriek-st.
 between the McNab Methodist Church and the Royal Hotel, up stairs, second opposite the Market. Entrance on Merriek Street.
 Can be consulted at all hours during the day, on all Chronic Diseases, Diseases of Women and Children, and all other diseases, together with those of a private nature. He has devoted over thirty years to the treatment of the above named diseases, and the success he has had has been without a parallel, as may be seen from the numerous testimonials in his possession.
Private Diseases.
 It is well known that this branch of the medical profession has been much neglected, from the fact that it is most represented by quacks, who invariably practice under an assumed name. Dr. D. has devoted much of his time to the various forms of this disease, and by his improved remedies the worst stages are brought under subjection in from four to ten days. The many who are suffering from this habit in both sexes permanently eradicated.
No Mercury Used.
 Patients at a distance can be treated by corresponding with the Doctor, stating the symptoms of the disease, age, length of time afflicted, &c., and receive his celebrated remedies by express, or at otherwise directed, secured promptly from observation. Reasonable remittance on all such applications will be required.
Dr Davis' Celebrated Female PILLS.
 For irregularities, Suppression of the Menstrue, Leucorrhoea or Whites, and all female difficulties, have been before the public for the last ten years, and are universally admitted to be the best remedy for which they are recommended. It is now in its second edition, and has been improved in every particular of their failing to have the desired effect. Printed directions accompany each box. Sent by mail to any part of the country on receipt of one dollar.
 The doctor can be consulted at all times with the utmost secrecy, as his office is arranged, so that it is impossible to see each other, unless by consent. No charge for advice when obtained at the office, if by letter, one dollar.
 All letters must be addressed (pre-paid) to Dr. Davis, M.D., Hamilton, and to contain a postage stamp when an answer is required.

THE BRYANT, STRATTON & ODELL
Business College and Telegraph Institute.
 Express Buildings, 55 Yonge-st., TORONTO.
 Located in 46 of the largest cities of the States and Canada, under the management of J. D. ODELL, Principal.
 A SCHOLARSHIP issued from this College is good for an unlimited time, and entitles the holder to the advantage of instruction and influence in obtaining situations. Each College derives special benefit from all others, in the combined experience of numerous teachers, the collection of manuscripts and the publication of text books, beyond the ordinary means of any single school. We have the best system of Penmanship known to the public, taught by experienced, first-class Penmen, for which we were awarded First Premiums in all departments at the late Provincial Fair. Regular class instructions in Arithmetic, Commercial Law, Penmanship, Book-keeping, English Grammar, Correspondence, Composition, &c., &c., with simple black-board explanations, and special lectures to suit individual cases. Actual business is here introduced by the use of Banks, and other offices, as in business houses. The most efficient method of giving instruction in this institution is the most important feature. Students cost their thousands of dollars, buy and sell merchandise, real estate, stocks, &c., with as much interest as our first merchants, thus converting the school-room into a banking house and exchange, by introducing the actualities of business, as well as the abstract theory of Book-keeping. For further information please call at the College, or send for a College Monthly, enclosing letter stamp.
