REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE FOR 1850-51.

THAT period of the year has again come round, when the Committee of this Society, according to the practice observed by their predecessors, since its organization, make an appeal to the sympathies of a benevolent public. So frequently has the nature of this institution been explained, in former reports, that to occupy space on the present occasion with a recapitulation of the matter, might justly be deemed superfluous. Sustained in its operations by the contributions of christians generally, the Ladies' Benevolent Society has ever acted upon the broad basis of catholicity in the discharge of its functions—and to the suffering poor of all denominations, when legitimately brought under its notice has been invariably extended, so far as its resources permitted, that aid which their temporal necessities demanded. Were it necessary, for the purpose of stimulating the charitable feelings of their patrons, the Committee would attempt to describe the pleasing effects of former bounties upon the distressed circumstances of recipients—how the heart of the desolate widow has been gladdened and her wants relieved by their timely succour—how fatherless children have been protected from the severities of our inclement winters, by comfortable articles of clothing—and how families suffering from afflicting providences have been reached in the hour of need, and their destitution alleviated:—but they feel assured, from past experience, that such an effort is unnecessary, and therefore, with unlimited confidence they once more venture the interests of the Society upon the sustaining care of a christian community.

Annexed will be found a list of subscribers for the year just expired, together with the Treasurer's annual account current, shewing the receipts and disbursements for the same period: which the Committee humbly submit with the hope that they will be found in every respect satisfactory.
