given that provision will be made also for the drill of the city corps. These announcements were made by the leader of the house of commons to an important deputation which waited upon him and the minist r of militia late on Wednesday. The deputation was introduced by Major Hughes and included in its membership nearly all those who were present at the morning meeting of the D. R. A. as well as most of the military members of the house. Among those who spoke were Mr. Kenney, M. P., of Halifax and Major Markham of St. John. The deputation strongly urged that city battalions be drilled this year, and mentioned amongst the reasons therecorps found the drill pay for the purpose of providing for an annual review; also to purchasing helmets, leggings, to pay drill instructors and support regimental bands.

Hon. Mr. Foster, in reply, said: "No one sympathizes more with the active militia than I do. I have not made a deep study of military matters, but I always believed that the larger part of the money Canada could spend upon her military force should be spent upon her active militia. life, yet there was a time when he was intimately connected with the business interests of St. John, and while living here while a very young man he gav conclusive evidence that he possessed ability, energy and force of character in a high degree. It will be noticed that as long ago as 1834 he built a vessel in Nova Scotia and took her to Derry Just where his building yard was situated the writer of this is anable to say, but he remembers that it was a leng distance up the Bay of Fundy, and in the days when steamboats were a novelty and the telegraph but a dream, at a place not easily accesible. During the progress of the work of building the supply of a certain kind of iron gave out, and as the want of it would cause serious delay Captain Coppin made the best of his way to St. John to purchase more. When he got here and secured the iron he could find no vesel to take it to its destinawithout great loss of precious time. Under such circumstances most men would have accepted what seemed to be the inevitable, and waited for ething to turn up; but that was not Captain Coppin's way. He simply procured a small boat, took the iron on board, and set sail for his shipyard, where he arrived in safety, the great astonishment of all behold ers. In Captain Coppin's day iceboats were not unknown on the river; but they were crude contrivances mounte on runners, which sailed pretty well before the wind, but when hauled by the wind still slid off before it. His quick intelligence at once took in the situation, and the result was the first platform mounted on skate irons, which is the iceboat of the present day. An old resident of Fredericton relates that Capt. Coppin once took a vessel from St. John to Liverpool, discharged one cargo, shipped another, and returned to this port in such a (then) incredibly short space of time that when he first arrived it was supposed that he had met with disaster and been obliged to put back. I cannot say the exact ngth of the voyage, but it was considerably under two months, and the passage out was made in sixteen days. Capt. Coprin was educated for the medical profession, in which several members of his family had become emment, but his great love for the sea,

The Rural Corps Will be Drilled and it is Just Possible the City Corps Will Also.

Ottawa, May 9.—It is settled that the rural militia are to be drilled this year, and a partial promise has been given that provision will be made also estimated and excursion by water they had enjoyed together to the Old Head of Kinsale. For though they were then very small boys indeed the children and nurses often accompanied their parents in their yacht when making short trips to Cork and other noints of interest, where the elders went ashore to visit friends, while the children and their attendants remained on board the yacht. Much that is interesting compenning Kinsale and the soccessions.

esting concerning Kinsale and the social life of the county in those early days has been learned by the writer from those who had a part in ", 3s well as from old letters written by the friends and relations "at home" at that time to the family out here. Relatives in St. John, when visiting the north of Ireland, recall with feelings erable kindnessess and friendly welcome received by them from Captain

Coppin and his accomplished family at their home in Londonderry. The funeral of Captain Coppin took place on the morning of the 23rd ult., when the remains were removed from his late residence and interred in St. Augustine's churchyard. The cortage was very representative. At the steps leading to the city wall, opposite the Apprentice Boys' Memorial hall, the coffin, which was of polished oak and covered with beautiful wreaths, was removed from the hearse and curried into St. Augustine's church. The burial service was read by the Rev. Joseph Potter and the Rev. W. Williamson. The rector delivered an eloquent and impressive address. At the close of the first part of the service the coffin was borne to the grave, when the service was concluded. an idea that we were expending altogether too much on the permanent schools—(hear, hear)—and that we were starving the active militia of the country. (Hear, hear.) I know with what loyalty and labor these gentlemen have kept up their corps, and I had no idea that the money voted in one year went to pay for the previous year's drill. With reference to the rural militia, they are to be drilled. The government never had any other idea. A supplementary vote will be brought down to provide for that. As to the other, the city corps of course, I have to look upon the thing from the extrain chances which surround our expenditures, and I think it impossible to make the vote any larger than it is, as a general vote, but I think it possible to make some economies in the militia vote whereby a portion will be diverted to city corps, even though it is to be diverted from some other portion of the service which is not so essential. That is my own opinion, and I am sure the minister of militia will consider the question. I should like to see the rural battailons drilled every year, fold thirk out of the total vote we should be able to write the finance minister would assist him half way.

Hon. Mr. Pokeys said that he hoped the finance minister would assist him half way.

given much thought to screw propulsion for vessels, and to the amazement of many, and amidst not a little ridicule and discouragement, he resolved to build a large steamer, and proceeded at once with the erection of furnaces, and to make every arrangement incident to so serious an enterprise. The Great Northern was the result.

The following extract from the Illustrated London News, January 14th, 1843, will afford some evidence of what we say: "This extraordinary steamer, now in the East India docks, is the object of great astonishment. Her great length, breadth, and depth exceed, we believe, the dimensions of any steam vessel ever in existence. She was built at Londondrry by Captain Coppin, and is-a remarkable monument of marine architecture. She is propelled by the Archimedean screw, which works on each side of the rudder. The engine is of 360 horse power. No paddles are required, and but for the funnel which is seen amidships, she might pass for a square-rigged ship of the larger class. She has three masts, with lower and upper yards, and is rigged in every respect like a frigate or sloop of war. We were favored by one of her officers with the following dimensions: Length from the taffrail to the stern. 274 feet: breadth of beam, 37 feet; depth from the gangway to the keel, 26 feet. On her passage from Londonderry she ran upon an average, 13¼ knots. During the week many persons entered the dockyard to gaze at this wonderful object."

Captain Coppin was at one time a member of the Derry corporation, and enjoyed a position of popularity and influence to a rare degree. Many improvements in the port owe their origin to him. He was associated in a remarkable and peculiar way with the Franklin expedition, and strange to say, it was by a dream or mental vision which a daughter of his had that the place was mapped out where evidence was discovered indicating the point at which those engaged in that famouus Arctic enterprise perished. We might give a stirring story, but those are tie chief features. He was a great an

Mr. Mills made a strong presentation of his case, and the opposition hand-ful from the maritime provinces found themselves in a very humiliating position when they attempted to justify in a round-about way the disfranchisement legislation of the liberal governments of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. As a matter of fact, not one of them could muster up courage to attack the bill on its me its. Mr. McIsaac of Antigonish, who was put up to answer Mr. Mills, has probably discovered by this time that a more gracious opportunity might have been given him for making his maiden speech. He is a good stump but when it comes to making an im pression on such a critical deliberative body as the Canadian commons he is not up to the requirements of the

The best speech of the debate was that of Mr. Northrup of East Hastings, the hon. gentleman taking the ground that the resolution was cur rective in its principle rather than retaliatory, for upon the removal of the objectionable features of the provincial acts the dominion fill would cease to be operative. Mr. Milis may be well satisfied with the growth of sentiment in the house in favor of his resolution, as several of the members who were opposed to it last year are now convinced of the necessity of some such action as the representative for Annapolis suggests. Like the bill to prohibit the payment of mileage to members who travel on passes, the house generally endorses its princip! but objects to its details.

Deposed by His Bishop for Gambling, Drunkenness and Adultery

Denver, Col., May 8.-Bishop Matz has deposed Rev. Father Marian Lapore, pastor of Mount Carna church in this city, who was found guilty by an ecclesiastical court of undue familiarity with women of his parish, dishonesty in policies and other conduct unbecoming a representative of the church. At the trial affidavits from citizens of Jersey City, N. J., alleging embezzlement, adultery, gambling drunkenness and like misdemeanors of the part of the father while he was in charge of a church in that city were presented. It was shown that he had promulgated a blasphemous revision of the ten commandments, in which he exhorted his congregation to a metho with the teachings of the church. Father Lapore is a young man, who arrived in Denver about two years ago. He has never been ordained to the priesthood in America, but wa given an appointment in the church

Lapore calims that the church pro perty is in his own name, and defles the bishop's power to relieve him. He will appeal to Rome.

Washington, D. C., May 9.-Rob Stein of this city is arranging for a national petition addressed to the Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, and reading as follows

Sir-The undersigned respectfully pray that y ouentreat the government of his majesty, the Sultan of Turkey, to appoint a European governor in Armenia

In regard to this message, James member of parliament and well known as the author of a volume on the American Commonwealth, has written Mr. Gladstone a letter, of which the following is a copy: Dear Sir-I trust that the efforts which you and other public spirited men are making to call the attention of the American people to the unhappy conditions of the Christians of the east, will be saccessful. Your people are always ready to respond to the cry of suffering humanity, and no events of recent years have better eries of the ancient and once famous Armenian nation, which have recently culminated in the massacre of Sassoun. A strong expression of American feeling will strengthen the hands of those who in Europe desire to see measures of reform introduced which may eventually prevent any recurrence of similar trouble.

Albany, N. Y., May 9.—The greater New York bill, providing for the conenate today by a vote of 15 to 14. The ners. bill's defeat was brought about by Bradley (independent democrat), and Woffert and Offs (republicans), all of Brooklyn, voting with the democrats against the measure.

The debate on the bill was very live ly, Senator O'Connor, the republican leader, accusing the democrats of entering into a deal with Bradley by which the latter agreed to vote against the New York city police reorganization bill in return for votes sufficient to kill the Greater New York plan. This was warmly denied by Senator Cantor, the democratic leader, and by Mr. Bradley. The bill may be called up for reconsider three days.

Earl of Derby Cups Not Being Forther win be Purchased by the Association.

Ottawa, May 9 .- The annual meeting of the Dominion Artillery association was hald today. The governor general said he would increase his prizes by fifty dollars. Lt. Col. Mc-Donald moved a vote of thanks to the government for the continuance of their annual grant. In doing so he said the artillery had reached a point of development which he did not believe could be surpassed under present arrangements, and the time arrived when provision should be made for an increased development of the force. He trusted that the government, so much as it had done in the past, should even increase the appropriation for artillery purposes.

Hon. Mr. Dickey said it was nic to have an association to acknowledge good treatment by the government He assured them that he would do all in his power towards the development of the artillery. There was no grant that the government gave more cheerfully than that of the militia The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Lt. Col. Prior, M.P., vice-presidents, Lt. Col. Turnbull, Montreal; Lt. Col. Moore, P. E. Island; Lt. Col. Call, Newcastle; Lt. Col. Lindsay, Quebec; Lt. Col. Cole, Lt. Farley and Hugh Blake were elected life members. The council of the association met afterwards and re-elected the same officers as last year, adding Capt. MacNachton of Cobourg as a vice-president. Major A. E. Irving was elected as a member.

SALMON PROTECTION.

Written for the Sun by Edward Jack, C. E.

A great advance was made in the direction of salmon pro-tection when the use of nets for their capture in non-tidal waters was prohibited by law in Canada. In order to show the great value of the salmon fisheries of Great Britain, so that we may be able to form some idea of what that of the Canadian salmon fisheries are, or will become, it may be mentioned that Day, the greatest authority on salmon, in a work pub-lished in 1894, a copy of which can be found in the parliamentary library at Ottawa, states the annual value of these fisheries at that period to have been in England $500,000; Scotland, $1,250,000; Ireland, $2,000,000. According to the same authority the salmon have been exterminated from the Stoar, the Itchen; the Medway, says: London, May 9.—I have been given to understand that Principal Peterson of Dundee college, whose land, and we ourselves know that they land, and we ourselves know that they name was given prominence in the same connection some time ago, has of the rivers of New Brunswick. It is the prosecution of the rivers of New Brunswick. It is the prosecution of the rivers of New Brunswick of New B stated by competent authority (Blake) in the year 1874 that, due to the pollutions nearly every river in the county of Down in Ireland had been destroyed as a salmon producer. The means of capture of salmon in the British Isles are (1) such as are carried on in the open sea or along the foreshore of the ocean; (2) those in estuaries or tidal portions of rivers; and (3) those in fresh waters above the influence of the tide. As salmon swim along the coast in search of food they are caught by the stake nets or chambers of the bag nets which are placed along the shores. These contrivances are illegal in England, Wales and Ireland, but permitted in Scotland. The injury d stake nets to the fishery of the Tay has been proved by the following facts: Fixed nets were erected in the Firth of Tay in 1792 and declared illegal in 1812. The takes of the two fisheries immediately above the highest of these nets were as follow: Ten years before stake nets, annual take 10,874 salmon, 2,211 grilse. Ten years during stake nets, annual take 6,700 salmon, 2,429 grilse. Ten years after stake nets, annual take 11,316 salmon, 11,220 grilse.

Bertram, writing in 1873, says that most salmon rivers indicate their condition as truly as a thermometer indicates heat or cold. A change in their economy at once affects the supply of fish, and can at once be detected. A proof of this was afforded by the introduction of bag nets in the cstuary of the Tay. The quantity of salmon taken in the ten years when the stake nets existed at Kinfawns fisheries was diminished to 46,663, but after the removal of these nets the quantity increased to 90,101 salmon, and that of the grilse in similar pro-

It was certainly a happy change for the salmon of New Brunswick, as well as for those dwelling by the sea who dealt in them, when the fish having run the gauntlet at the mouths of the rivers and ascended to the cool clear waters of the upper streams, instead of being speared and netted as formerly, they were allowed to deposit their eggs in peace, undisturbed save by the fiy of the wandering fisherman, which the fish might take or let alone at its own will. Here was no brute force to drive them away from the places where they were depositing their spawn, only an amiable deceit practiced on the too greedy

W. E. Archer, inspector of salmo fisheries for Scotland, says in the appendix to the 12th annual report of the fishery board for Scotland that the principal object to be simed at in the public interest is to confine the commercial fisheries of the salmon as far as possible to the tidal waters, and to afford the fish every possible protection when once they have reached the fresh waters, and that by means the salmon industry would be very much developed, and would afford employment to many more persons if confined as far as posible In order to carry out the principle as mentioned above, the fishery board for Scotland on the 8th of May, 1894, drawn upon a map of Scotland across each salmon fishery district to mark the division between the upper and lower waters, and that the commerlower waters, while the upper waters should be reserved as a sanctuary for the fish, where all fishing should be prohibited except fair and legitimate angling for recreative purposes only.'

(Dartmouth, N. S., Weekly.) The many warm admirers of the Rev. P. M. Merrison will be pleased to learn that the faculty of Pine Hill Theological college has confered upon him the degree of divinity. He has well earned the distinction. For many years he has taken a part in all the affairs of the Presbyterian church and has aided with his counsel in every matter of moment. Dr. Morrison is a elergyman of ripe scholarship, clear ideas, excellent judgment, admirable executive ability, and above all he has a kindly, quiet but impressive manner which at once wins the confidence of those with whom he comes in contact. He was born at St. James, N. B., studied at St. Andrews academy and subsequently at Pine Hill. His first charge was at St. Stephen, N. B. He came to Dartmouth in 1877, and after nine and a half years of successful pastoral life was appointed agent for the eastern section of the Presbytrian church in Canada. He has filled the present position with great credit, and the college faculty, which best know of his sterling worth, have done him the honor of conferring their highest degree upon him. His friends will wish him a long life to wear his well earned title

THE COUNTY ASSESSMENT

The Finance Committee Consider the Amount of Money Required This Vear.

The finance committee of the municipal council met Thursday afternoon and considered a number of matters. The assessments were under discu sion and the boaard of health will call for $3,000 this year.

The alms house assessment will also be increased $1,000. Other estimates remain about as before.

In the parish assessments there will be considerable advance in Lancaster, where the highway, fire and police acbe a special committee meeting today to consider this matter. The estimates will be submitted at the annual meeting on Tuesday next. The finance committee will recom mend the payment of several accounts incurred by the chief of police in the prosecution of offenders in the county.

The council had passed a resolution that the accounts should be paid on the chief undertaking that no similar bills should in future be incurred without the sanction of the warden, pre-viously obtained. This, the chief alleged, would prevent him from carrying out his duty under the law and he, therefore, could not assent to any such conditions. The committee recommend that the bills be paid and a committee appointed to consider the whole

WANTED, A HUSBAND.

The following personal might have been seen all that summer on the fourth page of a prominent journal. "Wanted-A young lady residing in the provinces, pretty and distinguished, with a dot of 300,000 francs, desires to marry a gentleman of about 35 years, one in the legal or military proession preferred, who resides in Paris. es. Address Madeline T. T. box 33° this office.

Elodie Rabotteau, the party referred to, was a young lady, to be sure, and is so still, more's the pity. She also resides in the country still, for her father is a judge at St. Columbian, an obscure town in the canton of Beauce

But, first, she was not pretty; second, she was not at all distinguished; third, the above mentioned 300,000 francs are principally expectations from her uncle, a bachelor, it is true, but scarcely 40 years old and solid as

As to the "no agencies," that was a base deception. "Madeline T. T., box 333," was in reality Theodore Tarose trade is to arrange matonial bargains.

"Tardivel has written me a long letsaid Judge Rabotteau to his wife one morning of last autumn. "Here is his plan: The army manoeuvres com-mence a week from now, and St. Colombian has been designated to pro-vide quarters for a half battery of artillery. "This half battery of artillery is commanded by Captain Lecomte, and Captain Lecomte wishes to marry a ng lady who has been brought up in the country. Now, don't think of anything but making the house look its best. We must have a second girl, so that the cook will not have to wait on the table."

"Goodness," gasped Mme. Rabotteau. "what an expense "I do not deny that it is quite a considerable outlay, but do you or do you not want Elodie married? She's 26 now, and for the past eight years we have offered her to every bachelor, green or ripe, in the country round, to saw nothing of widowers. Now a chance offers itself, and we must profit by it. I shall go and fix it with the mayor so that they quarter the cap-

Rabotteau, under the spreading acacia trees, was reading The Revue des Deux Mondes. His wife, not far away, was cutting bunches of grapes from the yellowing trellis, and behind the white muslin curtain of the parlor window Elodie, warned by a preconcerted signal, burst with the energy of despair into a love song.

"Madame," he began, with a bow, "allow me to introduce myself. I

"You are known to us already, M. ecomte. We were expecting you."
The officer bowed and smiled and shock hands with Rabotteau. Then he was led to the parlor, to the great on of Elodie, who suddenly cut short her song, blushing as if she had been 100 miles from expecting an artillery captin was to set foot that day within the limits of the canton in donable insult. It is unnecessary to say that the dinner was a feast. By dessert the four persons assembled seemed to have known each other for ten years, and the captain made a conquest of them

At 10 o'clock he asked permission to "Of course, dear M. Lecomte," said Mime. Rabotteau. "After such a fat-painted on them in black. He was just in the act of knocking at the door which bore the figure when suddenly he recoiled as if he had seen a tiger crouching on the mat However, it was not a tiger he had seen. It was, by the side of a pair of ton boots still armed with spurs, a little pair of bottines, lined with rose colored silk-dainty, elegant, impertinent bottines-bottines of which one out fear of taken, "The foot of a pretty woman was in that not long ago.'

First a hand emerged-very small and very white—the hand that belonged to those bottines. Then the wrist appeared, round and slender, with a netty bracelet

Then a plump arm, which gree and longer-Rabotteau had never in his life seen such an arm as that, and if the other were like it, as all experience would indicate, this secundrel of a Lecomte was a very lucky scoundrel indeed.

However, the arm, the wrist, the hand and the bottines retreated in good order. The door was closed, and the judge stood there feeling very foclish, but there was nothing for him to do but to go back to his own house On the table the judge found this persons we are not at home." At that moment Justine returned carrying a card, on which was in-scribed, "Le Comte de Prebois, Capitaine d'Artillerie."

Beneath was written in pencil: "A thousand regrets and a thousand excuses for having missed your company last evening. Mme. Prebois came down and took me by surprise and did not wish to seem inconsiderate by increasing the trouble my presence had caused you. THE LOSS OF THE MARIE.

Crew Taken Off the Bark by Steame Albano and Landed at New York.

The Vessel Was Bound From Liverpool for Arichat With Salt and Iron.

New York, May 4.-The Union line teamer Albano, which arrived from Hamburg yesterday, brought into port Captain Anders Hansen and a crew of thirteen men from the shipwrecked Norwegian bark Marie. The men were taken off the Marie by Captain Kraeft of the Albano when the bark was about to sink in midocean and after they had suffered greatly.

The Marie left Liverpool on April 13 for Arichat, Nova Scotia, with a cargo of salt, iron and copper. The crev numbered thirteen men besides the captain, and they were rescued on Friday, April 26. Captain Hansn says the Marie encountered storms, wind and heavy seas from the beginning of her voyage On April 22 he ran into a fierce gale from the west-southwest. The rea dashed over the little bark, threaten ing every moment to swamp the craft. That night the vessel sprang a leak, and it required the work of the three pumps to keep the bark affoat. Day and night the men worked, and the vessel was tossed about as a chip. Some of the men worked in water up to their waists to keep the pumps worked in water four feet deep for twenty-four hours, trying to make renairs (in the night of April 24 a steamer's lights were seen. Rockets and signals were burned, but the ship passed on west. The next day a steamer was seen going east, and, although the frantic seamen made every effort to attract the attention of the vessel, they failed. That same night, April 25, another steamer appeared, going east. All the rockets had been used, and tar barrels were burned. flare of the light made the color of the vessel's funnels and her masts plainly visible, but she kept on her course. The crew had almost given up all hope of being saved, when the Albano came in sight the next day. In response to the signals reading "I am sinking; want to abandon," Captain Kraeft brought the Albano near the Marie. First Mate Junst of the Albano, and four men, after some difficulty, took off seven men, and the other seven got to the Albano in the Marie's boat. Captain Hansen says that the Marie probably sank in less than ten hours after he abandoned

The latitude where Captain Hansen and his unfortunate crew were picked up by Captain Kraeft was 48 degrees and 3 seconds, and the longitude was 32 degrees and 2 minutes. The bark was about half way between Liverpool and Arichat. The bark, at time of the rescue, was settling fast in the water, and the big waves were rolling clear over her. The men had collected together their few belongings, and had swung the lifeboats oose on the davits, meaning to make a last fierce battle for life. they saw that Captain Kraeft had heeded their signals they cheered lustily, and worked with renewed energy at the pumps to keep the sinking bark affoat as long as possible. The seven men who, in the Marie's boat, rowed to the Albano, had an exciting experience. The lifeboat dashed heavily against the ship, and the men came near being dumped into the ocean. Captain Hansen saved his log book and some clothing and valuables. The crew saved some of their effects. Captain Hansen said that the steamer that passed him, bound west, on the night of April 25, had a cream olored smoke-stack, with a black top and four masts. This description fits the White Star freighter Tauric, which arrived a few days ago, but an examination of the Tauric's log book showed that at that time she was six hundred miles away from the Marie. Captain Hansen spoke rather bitterly of his treatment by the steamers, although he could not believe that a steamer would purposely pass drowning men. Captain Kraeft landed the Marie's men at Ellis Island and later they went to the Scandinavian Sailors Home, in Carroll street, Brooklyn. They will be sent back to Norway by consul of that country. The Marie was of 662 tons and was built in Holland in 1863. This was the first voyage of the Albano as a ship of the Union line, and Captain Kraeft's first voyage as her mander. Captain Kraeft was formerly on the steamer Amalfi. This and distresed crew he has picked up in two months.

THE FAMOUS VIOLINIST.

Some Interesting Facts Concerning the Remarkable Life of the Late Joseph Heine.

Joseph Heine was born in London Ergland. His father was of German extraction, his mother French.

From the early age of four years the little Joseph would be found by the neighbors seated at the piano on a high chair and improvising fugues which masters pronounced correct in form and harmony. The fame of this child soon spread, and soon he was surrounded by musicians from far and near, who came to listen to this marvelous prodigy, for such he must be called, as neither his father or mother were gifted in the divine art. The house in which the little Joseph lived caught fire one night, and but for the brave efforts of a fireman he would have been consumed in the flames and the world would never have been charmed with his mystic nusic. It was supposed that all the occupants of the house had escaped. but suddenly, upon the parents missing the child, a fireman climbed up to window of the room where the little musician slept all unconscious of his impending doom. The angry flames were already creeping towards the little bed. He seized the babe and regained the ladder, and none too soon, for a moment later the floor fell in and the little cot was hurled into the burning debris below A few years after this young Hei studies began in earnest, and he was placed under such masters as Prof. Sainton, the court violinist, and one of De Beriot's most able pupils. Tolbecque, and Her Becker, a pupil of Joachim. Later he received the benefit of the instruction of Vieuxtemps and Ole Bull. The latter wished adopt him as his own son. At the age of 16 such progress had been made with his studies that he went to the Crystal Palace, London, and took with him the eighth concerto of Spohr, and the grand concerto Mendelssohn, and played them with the orchestra before an audience of five thousand persons. The youthfulness, the sublime inspired look, coupled with his affliction of blindness, so astonished the musicians that many of them forgot their parts and left off to listen to the depth of feeling and marvelous execution which he displayed in the rendition of those works.

Louis D'Egville,, the grandson of the Baron D'Egville, was one of Heine's most intimate friends, and soon after his appearance at the Crystal Palace presented him with the giant Heironimus Amati violin, nearly three hundred years old, which he has used constantly ever since. This celebrated violin was made in the year 1608, in Cremona, Italy, by Heironimus Amati, whose celebrated family Stradivarius took his first instruction in the art of violin making. Of these celebrated instruments only welve were made, but at the present time this one and the one which be longed to the late King of Hanover are the only two in existence which can be authenticated. In 1856 this instrument was repaired by Hart, the great professional violin connoiseur of Europe. The tone of this grand old Amati surpasses almost all others in its wonderful richness and purity of tone. It can only be compared to a grand human voice, being entirely destitute of that sensation of wood found in almost all violins. From this time Heine's reputation ways crowded to the doors, and of the nobility, and Mr. Mitchell of the Queen at Windsor Castle on the anniversary of Prince Albert's birthday He played as one of his numbers De Beriot's No. 6 Sair Varie, which was a favorite of the prince, who was himself a fine violinist. His accom paniments were played by Miss Ada Thomson, who afterwards became his wife, Madame Ada Heine. There is quite a pretty romance which surrounded the meeting of these musicians, which might be interesting to read if time and space permitted.

After remaining some time in England Heine and his wife left their rative land and made a tour of the Australian colonies and New Zealand, starting from Liverpool on board the magnificent (for those days) sailing vessel the Morning Light, under the command of Capt. Gillis. They were three months on the watery deep before reaching Melbourne. The ship caught fire, which caused a fearful panic among the six hundred souls on board, which would have had very serious results but for the presence of mind, firmnes and courage of the captain, officers and crew. After leaving the colonies they visited the west coast of South America, playing at all the principal ports. From Santiago they crossed over the country to Brazil, where they stayed some months and gave many concerts under the patronage and presence of the late emperor, Dom Pedro, who was himself a musician, and manifested the greatest friendship, attending ımbrella. The gentleman who took it all their public entertainments in state.

After leaving Brazil they came to the United States, where they travelled until Decembr, 1893, when they left New Orleans for a tour of the West Indies and South America, from which they returned via Bermuda to Halifax about eight months ago.

Heine had another daughter be sides the one who lives to mourn. She was almost as great a genius as her father, and, like him, bereft of sight. Educated at the Institute for the Blind. St. Kilda, a suburb of Melbourne, Australia, she had for the finishing of her musical education the knowledge and experience besides the advantage of the Perkins Institute for the Blind, Boston, where she became a teacher for a short time. She was laid to rest six years ago at Union,

Ill., sixty miles from Chicago. It was not alone as a violinist that Heine was great, playing on almost any instrument. At one time he played the cornet, but of late years has only used the common tin whistle, of which he was the master. But his great delight was the pipe organ When seated at one of those grand instruments his whole soul seemed to

A Lady in Lunenburg, N. S., Tells How She Was Relieved From a Distressing Malady

(The Argus, Lunenburg, N. S.) Among the residents of our quiet 1:ttle town none is more highly esteemed among her circle of acquaintainces than is Mrs. C. Albert Smith. Our attention was some time ago called to the fact that Mrs. Smith was one of little finger should reach to the last those who could bear witness to the joint of the third finger. Now, in insterling worth of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and feeling interested, knowing what good results had been derived from the use of the medicine in other cases, we were led to investigate the matter with the most gratifying results. Mrs. Smith stated that she had been a sufferer for years from the most distressing of maladies-asthma. This was further aggravated by a bad cough. The result was that she became very weak, and could not walk but short distance without having to sit down and rest. Many medicines recomnded as cures were tried, but none helped her, and what was apparently a last ray of hope was the urgent advice of a friend to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, "The first box was hardly gone," said Mrs. Smith, "when I felt an improvemnt, and continuing until I had used some six boxes l found myself feeling better than I had in years, cured in fact. You may rest assured that if there is anything r can do or say to make known the marvellous healing powers of Dr. Williams Pink Pills I will cheerfully do it. If others will only follow my example and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial I feel assured that under Providence they will find themselves restored to health and strength.

ese pills are a positive cure for all troubles arising from a vitiated condition of the blood or a shattered neryous system. Sold by all dealers or by mail, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50. There are numerous imitations and substitutes against which the public is cautioned.

TRACTS FOR THE INDIANS.

Type for Printing Them Has Recently Been Made at Winnipeg.

During the past winter there has been in course of preparation by a type foundry an odd-looking face of type. having the appearance of a lot of Greek and Roman capitals holding a conversation among themselves. The Greek delta occurs frequently, as do also the Roman V, L and P, all turned about in a most extraordinary fashion says the Wirnipeg Tribune.. The type is a variety of the syllabic alphabet adapted to suit the languages of the Cree, Beaver and Chippewa Indians dwelling in Arthabaska, along the Peace River. The inventor of the system as applied to northern tongues was Rev. J. Evans, a Methodist missionary at Norway House. It has since been adapted to fit nearly every Indian language in the north.

The alphabet is a syllabic one-that is to say, it has a sign for each syllable. The Indian languages, while they contain long words, have com-paratively but few syllables, and these are constantly repeated. In the syllabarium in use among the Crees there glyphic and demotic documents as are thirty-six principal characters. In adapting it for use among the Chipewayans and Beavers it has been necessity as 1852. But now for the first time we have Eupator (vi.) and the Phillipator (xii.) set down in plain sary to invent or use about sixteen additional characters. These represent all the root syllables. The method has proved wonderfully adapted to Indian tongue and Indian The Roman letters drive an Indian almost to distraction, and he rapidly forgets what he learns with so much trouble. The syllabarium he learns frequently in one day, and once learned he never forgets it. The use of this system can be readily seen among nations of hunters such as we have in the north. The circumstances of the chase prevent more than two families living together for any length of time, and the missionary goes from camp to carrp, spending a few days at each, and utilizes seasons when the Indians gather at the Hudson Bay Company forts at trading time. To teach them more than the rudim of Christianity at such visits is impossible, and the flame would go out f it were not for the fact that the missionary teaches the Indian how to read in the syllabic and leaves him portion of the scriptures and other books in his own tongue. Besides the Book of Common Prayer and Hymnal, other works such as Bunyan's Pil grim's Progress have been translated into syllabic The boon that this alphabet has been is incalculable. Th type in this present case is being made for Dr. Young, the well known Church of England Bishop of Arthabasca, who has been living in Winnipeg the past winter, engaged in correspon ditional and other work for the benefit of his vast diocese on the banks of the Peace River. Bishop Young will take this type and a suitable printing press with him when he goes north this spring, and from this press will go forth a steady stream of Christian literature to lighten up the dark places of the northern wilds.

THE EXPRESSIVE HUMAN HAND. Strength of the Fingers Is an Index to Mental Balance.

Much has been written about the hand. Artists have depicted its perfection, physiognomists have interpret ed its shape and expression, chirologists and the gypsy queens have tried to prophesy from its markings. But a study of its peculiarities by the inductive method takes one into entirely new fields and shows that to interpret the significance of the hand one must start on quite new lines. There is something perhaps in the fact that the artistic hand has somewhat tapering fingers, but beyond this one deals with uncertainties, and I recollect an on Saturday evening. She is about 50 idiot youth whose extremities had the tons and will be used in the shore of a genius or a Trilby.

If one examines the hands of a large number of persons with a nervous en dowment, he will find curious defects in the length and relative proportion of the fingers. The length of the finger is determined by that of the middle one. If the index and medius are closed upon the palm, the ring and little finger being left extended, the middle finger will reach close to the place where the so called life line runs down, between the ball of the thumb After Many Efforts to Find a Cure Had and that of the little finger. It will touch the palm just below the highest part of the ball of the thumb. The middle finger is taken as the standard length by which to gauge that of the others. In a normal hand the forefinger reaches just to the root of the middle finger, the ring finger is longer and should reach nearly to the middle of the nail of the medius, while the ebriates, epileptics, neurotics and the degenerative generally these propor tions are often not observed. The mos common defect is shortness, especially of the third and little fingers, though sometimes a disproportionate length occurs. Sometimes these fingers are unnaturally slender, or the little finge is slightly bent. The most common ab ormality of the thumb is excessive shortness, with a defective mobility These peculiarities, well accentuated, form what we may call the "decader hand"-the hand that writes our sen suous novels, the Hauptmann drama paints symbolic pictures and exploits pure atheism. Such hands may be well formed to the ordinary eye and may be attached to slender and graceful limbs, but this kind of beautiful hand and arm is found quite as often among those highly cultivated families which have become degenerated by vicious vices and vicious crossing.

> UNEARTHED IN EGYPT. Bodies Discovered That Were Systematically Mutilated.

Medical Record.

The following information, which I have just received, will interest Eng-Prof. Mahahey. Digging at Nagadah, in upper Egypt, Mr. Petrie has come. upon a very curious cemetery, which seems to be about the age of the twelfth dynasty. But the people buried there are not Egyptians, or of Egyptian habits, for the bodies have be systematically mutilated. The heads are taken off and apparently buried after the body. Moreover, the principal bones of each body are "broken off at the marrow end and gnawed," so much so that the first idea of the finders was to account for it by cannibalism.

But almost any other explanation will be accepted, for the articles found in the tombs, as far as I know, are of the latter or most advanced stone age, and are not like the tools of cannibals. There are stone and alabaster bases, beads, superb worked flints, ivory and bone hairpins and combs, and an enornous variety of pots, many decorated. No iron or bronze is mentioned. Of ourse, we know that many mummies were attacked by wolves in later days. No year now passes without surprises from Egypt, and this seems to be one of the most striking. We thus have indications of how long a time may have been required to reduce the whole valley of Egypt under one domination and one culture.

Mr. Grenfell has also sent me copies of some papyri he has found, in one of which we have for the first time the complete list of the first ten Ptolemies, in Greek. Lepsius has determined the list correctly from hiero-Greek. To those who are still skeptical concerning the accuracy of de motic decipherment this will be welcome, especially a the latter appears as Eupator on a Cyrian coin.—Athen-

RESTIGOUCHE CHEESE MAKERS.

The Dalhousie correspondent of the Northern Enterprise says: A few weeks ago the leading inhabitants of Petit Rocher, headed by Dr. Langis undertook the construction of a large building to be used for a cheese factory. The work was done and material furnished in a voluntary manner. A strict account was kept of what was done and furnished by each person, in the event of a sal being made in the future to any person or company. Our enterprising neighbors have leased their building for a period of three years to G. A. Proulx of Arthabaska Co., P. Q. Mr. Proulx, with 90 farmers at his back who can only furnish the milk of 20 cows, expects to make his cheese fac tory a success in Beresford. Your correspondent has been informed that Proulx intends extending his work into the parish of Durham, Restigouche Co. He will use one of the vacant buildings situated in the vicinity of Jacquet river bridge, and hopes to make a large quantity of chees there. The inauguration of the Petit Rocher factory took place a few days ago. A number of farmers held a meeting in Durham this week to consider the establishment of the cheese factory. Warden Hayes is in correspondence with the county building committee towards obtaining the use of the parish hall at Jacquet river for three years to manufacture chees

THE GRAND TRUNK.

Annual Meeting of the Company Held in London Yesterday.

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson and His Associates Elected Directors.

The Salaries Increased-Sir Henry Knecked Out by the Bad Times.

Montreal, May 7.—The Star cable says: London, May 7.—The regular yearly meeting of the Grand Trunk railway was convened today amid the suppressed excitement of those present. Yesterday the dissatisfied shareholders' committee announced the nomination of the following board of directors: Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, (chairman); Lord Welby, Sir William L. Young, Col. F. Firebrace, Joseph Price, G. Von Chauvin, Alexander Hubbard, Sir Henry Mather Jackson, J. A. Clutton Brock and George Allen. The meeting today completed the reorganization of the board by electing the gentlemen named above. Henry Tyler presided today and called the meeting to order.

Mr. Whinney, an auditor, speaking for the London auditors, made a long

statement denying that the retiring board had practised the system of the concealment with reference the accounts. He suggested that the among the children of alcoholics and capital accounts be kept in London entirely and the working account be kept in Canada. Auditor Whinney then made a further statement on behalf of himself and his fellow auditors. He said that Mr. Barker's report was in substance correct, but he disagreed in certain deductions made therefrom especially in the matter of the amount due by the Chicago and Grand Trunk railway. To this end, therefore, he would suggest that if the capital account were kept in London and the working account kept in Canada, and the latter sent to London for the purpose of making a balance sheet, the officers of the company in Canada would be made to realize that they nust render their accounts to London This report and the half year's accounts were then adopted by a vote of three to two amid laughter. After the half yearly accounts as presented were adopted, Sir Henry said: "Now I take my leave, and hope that my successor will work as hard and faithfully as I have done." vious to this Shareholder Baker aros and amid a great tumult asked whether the advances to the Chicago and Grand Trunk were fully secured. The vacant chair was taken by Mr. Allen, who moved that the other gentlemen named as directors be elected. The motion, including Mr. Allen's name, was carried unanimously amid great applause.

Mr. Allen is one of the old directors of the company. There are four of the membrs of the old board, Hubbard, Brock, Jackson and Allen, reelected, and five new members, namely, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, Lord Welby, the latter permanent tary of the British treasury; Col. Firedian Peninsula railway; Joseph Prince of the old Great Western of Canada, and George Von Chauvin of the committee of dissatisfied shareholders.

Mr. Allen moved a resolution that the board be empowered to raise the debenture funds when it should be should be necessary.

Mr. Girdlestone seconded the motion, and it was carried unanimously. Thus the new directors were instructed to issue debentures as authorized when found necessary. There are still £1,-100,000 worth of debentures still unssued, bearing interest of £41,000.

The next resolution was to increase the total of the directors' salaries from £6,000 to £7,500 a year. This roused a long howl of dissent from the stock-It was explained that Sir Charles Rivers Wilson alone demanded £4,000. Mr. Girdlestone, who moved to increase the sum for remuneration of the directors from £6,000 to £7,500 a year, said: "We purpose to give Sir Charles Rivers Wilson £4,000 a year, as he is good man." (Cries of dissent, Let's see him work.")

Mr. Girdlestone proceeded to say that underpaid men were not an advan-Mr Hevgate explained that the old irectors, though entitled to £6,000, received only £4,000. (Cheers.) Mr. Allan, chairman, explained that the increase was solely in the salary of Sir Charles Rivers Wilson. The remuneration of the other directors was not increased. The motion was then approved and carried. Messrs. Newton and Ramsay of Mon real were elected auditors.

At this stage Mr. Girdlestone made long speech. He warned the meeting and the new board that it would have a long and arduous task. The shareholders could not expect an im mediate advance in prices, but the board would always tell the shareholders the worst and give them clear and honest accounts.

J. A. Clutton Brock, as a member of the old and new boards, said that he went into the old board with a feeling af prejudice against Sir Henry Tyler, but that feeling had been turned into one of admiration of his en ergy. Sir Henry, he said, had been ousted by the bad times. He, him self, would not split on the old boards

IN THE BRITISH COMMONS.

O'Donovan Rossa Creates Some Excitement From the Strangers' Gallery.

London, May 8.—There was an exciting scene in the house of commons today when O'Donovan Rossa rose in the gallery after John Morley's speech on the bill of Edmund F. Knox, the Parnellite, to repeal the Crimes Act, and attempted to speak and was ejected from the house. Rossa got his seat in the strangers' gallery through Edward Barry, member for the South Division of Cork. As Rossa passed through the members' lobby, he met John William McClure, a merchant of Manchester, member of parliament for the Stratford division of Lancashire. Rossa chatted with him for a few minutes and then took his seat in the gallery. He soon began a nervous shuffling, and produced a document purporting to be a letter written by Henry Labouchere, warning somebody in America against Rossa. With this letter in his hand Rossa suddenly arose. In regard to the letter which he is said to have had, it is stated that Mr. St. Clure of New York wrote to Mr. Labouchere asking if it was true that he had asserted that O'Donovan Rossa had got money from the British government. O'Donovan Rosse says that if he had been allowed to continue his speech he would have read this letter and challenged the government to say that he ever received money from them.

THE MONEY RAISED.

Nicaragua Has Got the Fifteen Thousand Pounds for Great Britain.

(Copyrighted, 1895, by the Associated Press.)

Managua, Nicaragua, via Galveston, May 8.—There is no longer any doubt that Great Britain will receive her money on time. The £15,000 sterling to be paid by Nicaragua to Great Britain has been raised by popular donations. Three German mercantile firms have given about £2,000, and the whole amount will be ready to be paid in London in a few days. The raising of the money has increased the popular feeling in Nicaragua against Great Britain, and the feeling is now very bitter indeed. The government opinion seems to be that the Central American republics will form a combination, pos sibly secret, against Great Britain. and that everything possible will be done to exclude British goods from

A Sun reporter had a chat with Mr Ross Wednesday night with regard to the proposed extension of the railway Mr. Ross said nothing was done at th meeting except the formal carrying out of the transfer. The extension to Fairville depended entirely on whether the local government would grant the company permission to cross the Suspension bride. The people of Fairville had asked that the extension be made in fact they had petitioned the govern ment with regard to the use of th bridge. When the company are given that privilege, said Mr. Ross, they make this extension. Of course other lines in that direction depend entirely on the decision of the local government. Mr. Ross said he understoo something was going to be done ver soon in the way of opening a park.
When the council showed that they were ready to spend some money in the beautifying of the city in this particular, the company would be found ready to extend their line out to Lily Lake. On the commencement of that line depended the extension out to the cemetery. Mr. Ross told the re porter that he had nothing more to communicate, although he be only too glad to give scribe some further information if it were in his power to do so.

SPRINGHILL

impressive Funeral Ceremony at the Mining Town and in Dorchester.

Springhill, May 7.-Work was sus ended at the mines today and the whole population assembled en mass to attend the funeral of the late lamented and most highly respected Dr J. A. Byers. The Oddfellows of the town took charge of the funeral arrangements and the solemnity and generosity of the whole affair reflect credit upon and add much prestige t Eureka lodge. Flags floated at half mast from many buildings. At a quarter past ten, a very large procession o Oddfellows, headed by the Militia band, escorted the remains to All Saints parish church. The procession was met at the door by the rector, the Rev. W. Chas. Wilson, J. A. Stansfield and a surpliced choir, which completely filled the large chancel, and was supplemented by an additional choir composed of the other denominations in town. The large building was densely crowded, and a number of persons who thronged the entrance to the church were unable to gain admit tance. The service was fully choral, splendidly rendered, and supported a large orchestra. The rector spoke feel lingly of the loss which the profession the city, and manhood had sustained by the death of Dr. Byers, and said that the testimony of the unparalleled public honor naid at the funeral was more eloquent than the most brillian oratory of any preacher. The church was fittingly draped in black festoons. The procession from the church to the railway station filled the whole of Main street. The greatest kindne was shown by Manager Cowans, who placed his carriage and a special car at the disposal of the friends. The remains were taken to Dorchester, accompanied by the band and the Oddfellows. A short service was held at the parish church, and then the body was laid in its final resting place in the family lot in the Dorchester cemetery. Rural Dean Rev. J. Roy Campbell officiated at the parish church. The Rev. W. Chas. Wilson took the service at the grave, and the Rev Mr. England officiated for the Oddfellows at the grave. Among the mourn ers were J. Byers and daughter of St. John, Geoff Morrow of Halifax, W. F. Jennison and Mrs. Jennison of Walton, Mrs. T. Byers and son of Moncton, Alex. Dick of Joggins, Miss Croasdale, Arthur Wiley and J. A. Cochran, Miss Cochran and Mrs. Douglas of Maitland, Mrs. Wilson and sons of Springhill. A large number of costly floral tributes of affection was sent from friends in all directions and were borne on a splendidly constructed pyramid carried by four Oddfellows. The Springhill people and mourners who accompanied the remains to Dor-chester were deeply touched by the boundless sympathy and hospitality of the Dorchester friends, who placed a large number of private teams at their disposal, and sympathetically and hospitably entertained the funeral party. Allen Chapman had charge of the funeral arrangements at Dorchester. The death of Dr. Byers was the result of sheer physical exhaustion weakened system, which had gradually been losing strength for months past. The Rev. W. Chas. Wilson was hurriedly summoned home from Philadelphia to attend the funeral and arrived last evening.

NATURAL HISTORY SOCIETY. Donations Received-Volcanic Rocks in the Maritime Provinces.

At the monthly meeting of the Nat ural History society on the 7th the president, Dr. Geo. F. Matthew, occupied the chair. A splendid specimer of the white-headed eagle was pre sented by James Kelly. Mrs. Wm. Davidson presented two tropical fish Dr. John Baxter of Chatham presented a large piece of whalebone cut from the mouth of the dead whale at Neguac, and Geo. D. Bain presented some tropical fruits from Florida. Donaons were also received from W. M McLean, Fred Dorman, P. Cox and

f. S. Maclaren. The paper of the evening, on The Volcanic Rocks of the Maritime Provnces, by W. D. Matthew, was then read for the author by the president In the introduction it was stated that the maritime provinces was a good field in which to study the volcanic rocks of the Atlantic coast, because they occur in great abundance, have been recognized as such for many years, are very little altered, and in most cases their age is well known The general geological structure of New Brunswick was then explained in brief as consisting of three areas of very different geologic features. In the south a rugged, hilly region complicated geology, consisting of ridges of metamorphic rocks; to the north of this lies a triangular area of carboniferous rocks, flat-lying, seldom over 30 feet high, fronting the Julf of St. Lawrence; northwest of this lies the great silurian area, mostly high, rolling country, underlain by slates. The formations represented range from pre-cambrian to triassic. As early as 1838 Dr. Gesner recognized s of volcanic rocks in this province, but erred in supposing them to be of recent origin. From the pre-cambrian down to the riassic age New Brunswick must have been the seat of great, though intermittent, volcanic activity. known to be eruptive cover a considerable part of the province, and their thickn ess is locally enormous. The oldest rocks in the province are

THE WOOD FROLIC. Charles G. D. Roberts.

The morning star was bitter bright, the morning sky was grey;
And we hitched our teams and started for the woods at break of day.
Oh, the frost is on the forest, and the snow piles high!

Along the white and winding road the sled-bells jangled keen, Between the buried fences the billowy drifts between. Oh, merry swing the axes, and the bright chips fly!

So crisp rang the runners, and so swift the horses sped,
That the woods were all about us ere the sky grew red.
Oh, the frost is on the forest, and the snow piles high!

The bark hung ragged on the birch, the lichen on the fir.

The lungwort fringed the maple, the grey moss the juniper.

So still the air and chill the air the branches seemed asleep. But we woke their ancient visions as the axe bit deep.
Oh, the frost is on the forest, and the show piles high!

With the shouts of the choppers, and the barking for their blades, How rang the startled valleys and the rabbitt-haunted glades. Oh, merry swing the axes, and the bright chips fly!

The hard wood and the soft wood, we felled them for our use: And chiefly for its scented gum, we loved the oh, the frost is on the forest, and the snow piles high!

And here and there, with solemn roar, some hoary tree came down,
And we heard the rolling of the years in the thunder of its crown.
Oh, merry swing the axes, and the bright chips fly!

And soon again the winter world was voice-less as of old, Alone with all the wheeling stars and the great white cold. Oh, the frost is on the forest, and the snow piles high!

A SINGULAR CASE.

The acquittal of Clara Ford, charged at Toronto with the murder of young Westwood, is a rather remarkable cir cumstance. The lad was shot in the hall of his father's house by some one who had rung the bell and brought him to the door late in the evening. Clara Ford, who is a colored voman confessed the crime, explaining how she disguised herself, where she en tered the premises, and how she escaped, giving as a motive the fact that the young man had insulted her. Afterwards she retracted her confession, declaring that the detectives induced her by promises and threats to make it. Though she was prosecuted by Mr. Osler, the ablest criminal lawyer in Ontario, who claimed to have proof that the bullets found to the body of Westwood had been shot from the revolver carried by her, the jury agreed that the accused was not guilty. The verdict is a severe condemnation of the detec tive who obtained the confession. If the testimony of the accused in respect to him is accepted-and the jury seems to have believed it-he is himself almost guilty of murder.

A correspondent takes issue with Father Bourgeois respecting the New England expedition under Pepperell Doubtless the truth as to the compo sition of the Torce lies somewhere be tween the contention of "C" and the statements of the Acadian priest. It is certain that Shirley, who ordered the expedition, was no Puritan, at least of the old stock, as he was born in England. Pepperell was the son of an Englishman or a Welshman, Many of the volunteers were not troubled much about religion, but this was true of a large number of the descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers. On the other hand there were a goodly number of Puritans of the old stock in the New England army, and Parson Moody, the chief chaplain, was a preacher after their own heart, especially in his hatred of the pope. It is well known that some of these volun teers lived to fight for the king at the time of the revolution and that others, including some of the officers, were part of the continental army. Our correspondent is in error about Whitefield. It is true that the evangelist left America for the second time in 1741, but he returned in August, 1744, and remained some years. He was the guest of Pepperell after the latter had been offered the command of the expedition to Louisburg. It is said that Whitefield had doubts whether the attempt to capture the fort was wise, or could succeed, but that he so far favored the experiment as to furnish the motto "Nil desperandum Christo

NEWFOUNDLAND AND CANADIAN TAXES.

While the anti-confederate agitators in Newfoundland have been engaged in an attempt to frighten the people into thinking that union with Canada will cause grievous taxation, the St. Johns Telegram has been preparing a comparative table of New foundland and Canadian duties. The list includes all articles now imported into Newfoundland. It appears that no articles taxed in Canada are free in Newfoundland, and that thirty-six articles, or classes of goods admitted

The Cartwright are useful anti-confederate of the prisoners the News says: Campaign material in the colony, where the people do not know the Canadian knight and are liable to believe that most Canadians are paupers. The confiding nature of the island folk may be gathered from the fact that they were a day or two ago made to believe that the Bank of Montreal was not able to redeem its paper. The run on the Newfoundland branch was a vigorous one, and must have been due to the arrival of a bundle of Canadian grit literature.

MR. GREENWAY'S DELAY.

The adjournment of the Manitoba legislature gives the ministers and legislators of that province five or six weeks for further consideration of the schools question. The course of Mr. Greenway in asking for additional time to consider the case shows that the government is not disposed to meet the remedial order or suggestion with a peremptory refusal. Pending further deliverance, we may assume that the provincial government is not without the hope of such a fair and honorable adjustment as will best serve the efficiency of the schools and commend itself to the sentiment and conscience of the Roman Catholic minority. If Mr. Ewart in his recent address in the Congregational church at Winnipeg correctly represented the position of his clients, such an adjustment should be easily possible. On the part of the dominion government there was the greatest possible reluctance to intervene. Most mem bers of the parliament of Canada will be only too glad to have the matter taken out of federal politics. It is not and cannot properly be made a question between Canadian parties, as Mr. Foster showed in his neat retort to Mr. Martin yesterday. But it can be made a means of stirring un a strife of races and religions, in which only mischievous persons take delight. The Greenway government may be trying to keep their answer back until the Canadian parliament is prorogued. Even if it should do this the matter would only be delayed a year at the most, and a year is not long in the history of a nation.

THE ROYAL SOCIETY

The coming meeting of the Royal Society of Canada will be of great interest. Among the new features is an evening session devoted exclusively ta Canadian poets. It is understood Mr. W. W. Campbell, the poet of the Canadian lakes, suggested this meeting, at which Professor Clarke of Trinity will preside. The address of President Lemoine will deal with the manuscript sources of Canadian history. In the English literature section the following are among the papers on the programme: A Plan for a General History of the Province of New Brunswick, by Mr. W. F. Ganong M. A., Ph. WHAT IT COSTS.

The Halifax Chronicle thinks that an average of $460 travelling expenses and cab hire for dominion ministers is high. The dominion ministers control the administration of a country some four thousand miles from one coast to the other. Now the Moncton Times points out that it costs New Brunswick $697 each in moving expenses for the members of the Blair government. The longest distance across the province is only two cr three hundred miles. There is no doubt that the New Brunswick minis ters collect from ten to twenty times as much for every mile travelled as the members of the Canadian cabinet, They evidently think that the national policy has made New Brunswick rich.

Dr. Briggs, it is said, communes with the Protestant Episcopal church while continuing to perform his duties as a teacher of Presbyterian students of divinity.

Manitoba Legislature Further Adjourned to June 15.

Premier Greenway Makes a Statement and Mr. Martin Replies.

The Lash Applied in Portage La Prairie Jail For the First Time Thursday.

Winnipeg, May 9 .- When the Manitoba legislature resumed for business this afternoon Premier Greenway made the following statement: Before proceeding to the orders of the day I desire to say that when asking the house to adjourn until the present date it will be within the recollection of the members I stated that in view of the gravity of the question involved in the consideration of the schools' reorder, communicated in his honor's message of the 25th of March last, we would require sufficient time to consider the same. I am now about ask the house to order a further adjournment to the 13th of June next, order that further consideration may be had. I am aware, Mr. Speaker, in making the motion that the house do now adjourn, I am asking the indulgence of the house, because in making the motion it would require, if my honorable friends opposite in-sisted, that I should give notice, as it is not the intention of the government to proceed to other business until this matter is disposed of. I desire to move now, if there is no objection, that the house do now adjourn to the mentioned.

A. F. Martin, member for Morris, protested against further postponement, especially as the governmen gave no particular reason therefor. He claimed, as one of the Roman Catholic minority, that some statement should be made of their intentions. Mr. Martin continued speaking intil six o'clock, reading copious extracts from and ridiculing the attorney general's speeches during the Haldimand campaign.

At the evening session Mr. Martin continued his speech, and was fol-lowed by Mr. Prendergast, who regretted the government had found it necessary to take a further adjourn-

Attorney General Sifton said the remedial order as submitted by the government involved a return to the old school system, and this they did not propose to do. There were also a great many other phases of the ques tion, and further time must be taken for consideration.

The question was then put "Shall the rules be suspended?" There was no dissenting voice, and the legislature was declared adjourned till June Many rumors are afloat as to the LATE REV. JOHN ARMSTRONG.

Apent the recent Nicaragua and Mosquito coast difficulty, a reporter of the Sun has been shown an item of interest in the diary of the late Rev John Armstrong, who will be rememhered by many of the older citizen as being the first rector of St. James church in this city and afterward the first rector of St. Jude's church, Carleton, where he died on the 24th May, 1865, aged 78 years. Mr. Armstrong was appointed to the chaplaincy of Honduras in 1812, being then 25 years of age. At that time and since 1655 the Mosquito Reserve enjoyed a semi-independent position under the nominal protection of Great Britain. In 1814 a new king or chief succeeded as the head of the Mosquitos, and on the 18th January, 1815, Rev. Mr. Armstrong, acting under instructions from the home governmen being probably the nearest clergyman of the established church, performed, according to the entry referred 19, the ceremony of crowning the new king. By the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850, England resigned all claim to the Mosquito coast, and by the treaty of Managua, 1860, ceded the protectorate to Nicaragua. The local chief was induced to accept this arrange ment on the condition of retaining his administrative functions and receiving a yearly subvention of £1,000 from the suzerain state for the ten years ending 1870. But he died in 1864, and Nicaragua has never recognized his uccessor. The Mosquitos, however, still claim to have the right to a local chief and to have some sort of a separate government, though now forming part of the Nicaragua republic.

After the second act, by which time the house had warmed up under the influence of war-play, the leader raised his baton and the orchestra began the lively Washington Post March. The crowd recognized it at once and applauded. Then a boy in the gallery began to whistle a shrill accompaniment. Another boy, who could whistle through his teeth, joined in the accompaniment, and in a few minutes the whole gallery was at it. The whistling grew louder and more penetrating, but the boys kept good time, and on the long notes simply tried to see how much noise they could make. All the people downstairs were laughing and tapping to keep time. When the orchestra finished with a crash there was a roar of applause and cheering such as had never before been heard in the playhouse. Every one clapped hands and shouted, while the gallery actually exploded. The members of the orchestra were badly "broken up" and laughing, but the leader pulled them together and while the thunderous noise continued they began playing the march once more. AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

The principal novelty at the world's fair in Paris in 1900, if present ideas are carried out, will be a descent into the depths of the earth. Monsieur Grousset has ubmitted a plan for testing the question whether there is a central fire beneath the earth's crust. In mines the temperature down to a certain depth is the average temperature above ground. Beyond that point the thermometer rises one and onehalf degrees in every hundred feet. M. Grousset proposes to test this at much greater depth than has yet been reached. If the theory is correct the boiling point would be about 9,000 feet below the surface, and the 666 degree point, at which nearly all bodies are would be some in a state of fusion, twelve miles down. His plan contemplates a central shaft of 6,000 feet, with galleries to be illuminated with electricity. The estimated cost is $2 .-

St. Johns. Nfid., May 9 .- As anticipated, the legislature today adjourned for a week. Prime Minister White-way announced in the house that no answer had been received from the Canadian government regarding confederation, and that therefore the Newfoundland delegation to Ottawa were ot ready to present their final terms He urged a week's adjournment in order to enable the terms to be ceived. Hartland, May 6.-The accident to the ferry on Tuesday last was only the first of a series of mishaps. Just after raising the fallen derrick the wire broke on the west side of the river. This break was spliced the following day, but while raising the wire the derrick again gave way, leaving the wire hanging in the water, and the next day a big jam of logs caught the wire and snapped it asunder, and thus again we are left with no neans of crossing the river. The owners of the ferry are doing their utmost to get it running again, but at the best it will take several weeks to get the affair patched up. Efforts are being made to seours the steam ferry boat that plied at Woodstock last year, but as that is 'aid uj for repairs it is doubtful if it can be had. Keith, on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretences and conspiracy, was taken up. Mr. Ayer lid not appear, and consequently his bail was escheated. Keith pleaded guilty. The trial against Somers was proceede with. This is the Moncton harness case. Several witnesses were examined on behalf of the crown, among whom were G. Lewis Sangster, Soll-mon Trites and Chas. S. Keith.

The evidence was much the same as given at the preliminary examination held in Moncton, but rather stronger. Early in the afternoon the defence opened their case, which occupied some three hours. Mr. Neales, counsel for Somers, immediately addressed the jury on behalf of his client, which was an able and exhaustive address. His honor then adjourned the court until ight o'clock this evening.

On the opening of the evening ses-tion, W. B. Chandler, crown attorney addressed the jury, Mr. Chandler in an able manner outlined the parts of the case upon which the crown rested. After Mr. Chandler had concluded, it appeared that Somers was not in court, having gone out while Mr. Chandler was addressing the jury. His honor immediately instructed the court officers to bring him forward. Search was made all over the town. but Somers could not be found. Mr Neales, on behalf of Somers, stated to his honor that he would undertake that no advantages would be taken of the court if his honor proceeded to charge the jury in the absence of the accused. His honor, however, de-clined to assent to such a proposal. The accused not being found at ten o'clock tonight, the court was adjourned until tomorrow morning. Father O'Leary of Grand Falls against Margaret Delaney and the Bank of B.N.A., heard here today before Judge Barker, a settlement was arrivel at. The suit was brought to recover a deposit receipt which Miss Delaney held for $6,000 in the bank. This lady had been housekeeper for Pather O'Leary for some twenty-four years. In March, 1892, Father O'Leary tool sick and died early in June of that year. Just prior to his death, which occurred in Montreal, and on the morning of his leaving for that place, he gave Miss Delaney, without dorsing it over to her, the deposit receipt, stating its was hers in the event never received any wages, and that The body was immediately removed to Father Delaney, whenever he went to St. John to deposit money, always told her half of it was hers. Her counsel contended that this was a lonation nortis causa. On a letter being produced from Father O'Leary to Mis Delaney, which was to the effect that by Urica Lodge and a large number the money was hers, counsel entered into negotiations for settlement. The result is Miss Delaney gets $2,750, practically what she contended for. Gregory, Q C., and J. H. Barry for plaintiff; Hon. Mr. Pugsley, Q. A summary of the general business transacted at the morning session was kindly given to the Sun man later in the day by Judge Forbes, as follows:

Mitchell, from Rolling Dam. asked to be heard in favor of a continuance of the present arrangement of the stations at Rolling Dam, Lynnfield, DeWolfe and Baillie in Charlotte

After full discussion the whole matter was referred to the home mission committee, who were requested to meet at 2 p. m.

On motion of Judge Forbes, Rev. D. M. Gordon was nominated for next moderator of general assembly. Rev. Mr. Sutherland, convener of committee to answer the reasons submitted by the Rev. Mr. Mullan against the action of the presbytery, presented the report. After a lengthy discussion the answers were declared relevant and ordered to be transmitted to the general assembly; and Rev. Messrs. Sutherland and Ross and Judge Forbes were appointed a committee to prosecute their case before that body.

Judge Stevens laid on the table a call to the Rev. A. H. Mahon from Greenock church, St. Andrews, with a guarantee of stipend of $800. The call was sustained and Mr. Mahon having intimated his acceptance, his induction was appointed to take place on Wednesday, May 22nd, Rev. Mr. McKenzle to preside and preach, Rev. Mr. McLean to address the congrega-tion, and Rev. Mr. Hawley to address the minister.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session was open to the press. The matter regarding the re-arrangement of the fields in Charlotte Co. was first taken up. committee appointed had not been able to reach any decision.

Mr. Mitchell was again called on to speak. He said it seemed that the presbytery or some members of it had been ready to listen to all unfavorable reports about Rev. Mr. Calder, but were not willing to hear anything in

The moderator and Rev. Messrs. and Hawley took exception to this statement. Rev. Mr. Hawley also suggested that enough places be grouped together to make a self-sus-taining church that could call a minister, and let, the presbytery look after the weaker portions.

Mr. Mitchell said he had meant nothing offensive in his remarks, but people at Rolling Dam and Tower Hill had felt that their representations had not been as well received

Rev. Dr. Bruce said that Mr. Mitchell's appearance before the committee had placed the matter in a new The problem of re-arranging those fields was certainly a difficult

Judge Stevens had nothing to say about Mr. Calder and his intercourse with the people, but he thought the re-arrangement as proposed by the presbytery was the best thing to be done. He was familiar with the disricts affected.

Dr. Macrae was impressed with Mr Mitchell's view. He had also been deeply moved by the statement regarding Mr. Calder's poverty as revealed in a letter to himself.

Rev. Willard Macdonald said if there was any member of presbytery in such straits as Mr. Calder was represented to be the presbytery should help him out. But he could not believe it. It looked like a subterfuge. If it were true, Mr. Calder should come before presbytery and say so.

had been discussed enough, and they should now take action one way or

After some sharp discussion the motion was lost by a vote of 7 to 4. On motion, the home mission board was recommended to pay Mr. Calden his salary for April.

The committee appointed to look into the arrears of presbytery fund, Rev. Mr. Rainnie convener, reported that the most of the churches were in arrears. They recommended (1) that all arrears due by augmented and mis sion stations be cancelled up to July 1st, 1895. (2) That new assessment made on the basis of one per cent, on the salary actually paid to ministers, but that on mission stations the levy be $2. (3) Ministers over settled charges be requested to see that the assessment levied on their congregais paid, and that missionaries and catechists in misson fields be held responsible in their fields, and be enjoined to report the effort they have made and its result to the superintendent. (4) That presbytery's financial year be changed from starting on July 1st to beginning from January ist in every year.

The arrears reported ran all the way from $4 to over $60.

Several members said they had not received any notification of any arrears to this fund. There was some misunderstanding about it.

Rev. Mr. Burgess moved by way of variety that hereafter no money be paid out of the presbytery fund except on recommendation of presbytery. This rule had been violated in numbers of instances. It was very easy to be charitable at the expense of presbytery.

The motion was not seconded and the recommendations of the committee were taken up section by section and adopted. Rev. Dr. Bruce moved that the committee be empowered to consider all cases, and remit the arrears except for one year in all cases where they deemed it right.-Adopted. Rev. Mr. Burgess's motion that no money be paid out of the presbytery fund except on recommendation of the presbytery was again moved. It was seconded by Judge Forbes and adopt-which was also endorsed by Rev. Dr. Bruce and unanimously adopted. Rev. Mr. Sutherland asked for eight or ten weeks' leave of absence. He had made arrangements for filling his pulpit for most of the time.-Granted. The home mission report was read by the superintendent, Rev. J. Ross, showing that he had been very busy since last meeting of presbytery. Of Fairville he said: "A congregational meeting was held in Fairville and I am happy to say that steps have been taken to prepare for building a church. Our cause here is in a most promising condition; fifty families are reported by the catechist; a flourishing Sabbath school is in operation, and although the draft on the board is large the people have promised to contribute more liberally for the summer He also reported that the H. M. B. had granted $50 to Riley's Brook. The report noted collections of $26.63: expenses, $19.35. The contributions reported were: St. Stephen, $3: St. Ste phen S. C. E., $5; St. Stephen W. F. McDonald from Princeton; that Alex. Craise from Pine Hill be licensed; that S. J. McArthur be appointed to Riverside for six months; that Rev. A. Gunn be appointed to Buctouche for four Sabbaths; that J. D. McKay be appointed at Dorcheste for the summer, J. H. Campbell at Waterford, W. R. McKay at Norton, J. A. Crawford at Salina, W. R. Foote at Buctouche, G. S. Milligan at St. Martins, C. I. McIntosh at Nerepis, A. D. Archibald at Andover, Adams Archibald at Three Brooks, R. G. Strathie at Fort Kent, E. W. Johnson at Brockway; that presbytery take steps to increase the salary of the superintendent of missions; that presbytery overture the general ass to take action to secure representation to every presbytery in the synod upon the executive of the home mission board, eastern division. They also reported that Dr. Macrae, W. W. Rainnie and the convener had been appointed a committee to review the constitution of the W. H. M. S. and to furnish such information to presbytery as shall define clearly the relation

which the above mentioned society

Mr. Robertson of Lynnfield having Rev. Mr. Calder. He would suggest that the presbytery take steps to see how much money could be raised for Mr. Calder down there before they reappointed him. They had better test his popularity before taking any action. Mr. Robertson said he had been asked to say this to the presbytery for the people of Baillie and vicinity. It was explained that the matter had been settled and Mr. Calder would be removed from that field.

On the question of the salary of the uperintendent of missions, Rev. Dr. Macrae said Rev. Mr. Ross should have a salary of $1,200, or $1,000 and house rent. His labors had already resulted in a saving to the home missi and that body should assist. Dr. Macrae moved that the salary be $1,-000 besides house rent and the travelling expenses. He paid a high tri-bute to the ability and zeal of Mr. Ross in the mission work. The motion was unanimously adopted.

The following resolution was offered by the home mission committee: That the presbytery recommend the W. F. M. society of the conference to foster an interest in home missions in all congregations and mission stations outside the city of St. John, and remit all home mission contributions to the treasurer of the presbytery.

Woman's The constitution of the Home Missionary society of St. John, it was explained, was not approved by the auxiliaries, but the former society was averse to change, and the home mission committee put forward this resolution as the best they could do in the matter.

Rev. Dr. Bruce paid a glowing tribute to the work of the Woman's Home Missionary society of St. John, which he said presbytery should make formal acknowledgement.

Rev. Mr. Ross agreed with Dr. Bruce as to the city society, but said that under the circumstances there was nothing to be done but leave the work of the city and the outside societies to be carried along on separate lines. Dr. Bruce strongly urged that the matter be held over till it had been brought before the St. John Woman's

This was opposed and the original esolution was adopted. Dr. Macrae then moved that Dr. Bruce, Rev. J. Ross and the clerk be a committee to draw up and present a memorial expressing the presby-tery's high appreciation of the work of the Woman's Home Mission society Judge Forbes seconded it.

Rev. Dr. Bruce declined to act. Rev. Mr. Ross said the motion was in line with Dr. Bruce's suggestion, and if the latter declined to act he (Ross) would also. Well, quoth Rev. Mr. Rainnie, I'm not going there alone (laughter.) The matter dropped, with a little cross-fire between Dr. Bruce and Mr. the former fearing grave results from the action of presbytery, the latter stoutly maintaining that the action taken was necessary. Rev. Mr. Mullan was by resolution formally requested to produce all the records of Nashwaak and Stanley, churches within ten days.

Rev. Dr. Bruce submitted a statement on behalf of the augmentation committee, which was filed, and the presbytery adjourned.

Exports for April, 1894.....$197,259 THE CAPTORS OF LOUISBURG WERE NOT PURITANS.

To the Editor of The Sun: Sir-Father Bourgeois labors under a misapprehension if he thinks that Pepperell's volunteers were Puritans. Some of them were Presbytrians, while the majority were nominally of all the other denominations; in reality were anti-Puritan. He is equally in error when he says they "were the same which soon revolted from England." A large number of Pepperell's men went back to New England, as their descendants now scattered broadcast over the maritime provinces can tell him, and those who returned to homes left them afterwards either as refugees or loyalists, and their descendants became in the provinces the most loyal subjects of the British crown. Father Bourgeois is right in his supposition that the descendants of the Pilgrims and Puritans were those who revolted from England, but inquiry into history would have instructed him that after the Puritans lewed to America by others in no way connected with them and in their creeds hostile to them. These were English, Irish and Scotch, many of them Roman Catholics. They were a men who had in Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire been trained in the Indian wars. Some of Pepperell's men may have remained in the New England states, but there descendants there are few and far apart, while in the maritime provinces thre is scarcely a person who has not their blood in his or her

We descendants of the men who fought and conquered at Louisburg, Annapolis and Beau se Jour are not willing to have our ancestors deprived of the honors their bravery entitled them to by having their victories attributed to the Puritans. The Yankees ere too prone to claim the tribute for victories they never achieved. Whitefield was not in any way co with the Puritans. He was the father of the Calvinistic Methodist. He first visited America in 1738 and again in 1839, returning to England n 1741. As taking of Louisburg was not thought of until 1744 he could. I should think, had but very little to do with "furnishing the motto for the expedition."

A. C. M. Lawson writes to the Sun from Hopewell Hill that in September last a man giving the name of Mur-ray Keith and claiming to be a mem-ber of Willow Lodge, I. O. G. T., located at Lower Butternut Ridge, Kings Co., passed throug here soliciting orders for a temper monthly journal called the d Stawhich was printed in the tes. The prices was only 25 sents, and the sample copy being a good one, many in Albert county were induced to subscribe. The man informed the subscribers that they could expect the first copy in about a month, but the first never came, nor any subsequent issues. Mr. Lawson remarks that he saw last winter in the Sun in the notes from Cumberland Bay where the same man had been there and had received orders for the paper, but no copies ever turned up. He adds that great indignation is felt regarding the action of the alleged agent referred to.

HELPLESS FOR MONTHS.

An Attack of La Grippe Followed by Partial Paralysis.

Such was the Experience of Frank Menger. of Fergus-The Details of His Recovery Related.

(From the Fergus News-Record.) The many friends of Mr. Frank Menger, son of Mr. Geo. Menger, of the Dominion hotel, know that for ever six months he was all but helpless from an attack of paralysis and that he has again recovered the entire use of the affected. Mr. Menger was questioned by a reporter of the News-Record regarding his recovery, and while not anxious for notoriety, caudidly almitted that Dr. Williams' Pink Plus was the first medicine to start him on the road to renewed health. "Thice years ago," said Mr. Menger, "I was a telegraph operator at St. Joseph's, in Waterloo county. I was taken down with an attack of la grippe, and became so enfeebled that I was forced to quit work and return to my hom?, at that time in Alma. I was then stricken with partial paralysis and was unable to move my limbs. I remained in this trying condition for over six months, and was well nigh ving up in despair, when my father brought home Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I began taking, and soon felt an improvement. I continued the use of Pink Pills until I had taken : wei.ty boxes and daily found life and strength being restored to my limbs. Only those who have been attacked as I was can understand the feelings of joy occasior ed by a renewed lease of health and activity, and you can rest assured that shall always speak in warm terms of Dr. Wiliams' Pink Pills." The News-Record can add that Mr. Menger is a thoroughly reliable young man, and a total abstainer, both as regards stimulants and the use of tobacco.

MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Sun

Sir-The above question is one in which the people of this country are very much interested at the present time. I do not claim to have fully grasped the question in all its hear ags and relations, but I have given it some thought and have endeavored to get what light I could in regard to it, and with your permission I will give briefly my understanding of the matter. I read with much interest your very excellent editorial in this morning's issue of the Sun. I will not be dogmatical, not being very sure of my grounds at some points, but I doubt whether it is quite fair to cite the privileges enjoyed by the minority in Quebec as a justification for granting the demand of the minority in Mani-

The school arrangement in Ontario and Quebec is a matter of mutual agreement (as I understand it) beween those two provinces, the percentage of Protestants in Quebec being about equal to the percentage of Catholics in Ortario. It is one thing for neighbors to make an arrangement that is for their mutual advantage, but quite a different thing for a big neighbor to go to a smaller one and command the little fellow to do what he does not wish to do. That seems to me about the difference infvolved should the dominion government interfere with school legislation in Manitoba. There is another very interesting question about which nothleft the British Isles they were fol- as I know of, i. e., whether or not the Roman Catholic parents in Manitoba really desire any change in the present school system of that province. It seems to me very clear that some, at least, of the Catholic minority are opbrave, adventurous, daring class of posed to any change, or else how can one account for the following language of the Archbishop of Winnipeg, who is reported to have spoken as follows:

"The hierarchy of the Catholic church has spoken, and all those who do not follow the hierarchy are Catholics. When the hierarchy decides there is no use for any Catholic to say the contrary, for if he does he is no longer a Catholic. Such a man may carry the title, but I declare this as an archbishop; I say-and say it with plain authority-a Catholic who does not follow the hierarchy on the school question is no more a Catholic. And who will be the one to entitle such a one to the name of Catholic. Where is the society which will give him authority to call himself a Catholic, when I in my authority as a Catholic bishop declare that such a man has no right to the name."

I will not comment on these remarkable words of the Archbishop, further than to say that they seem to make clear the fact that his lordship is aware that some of his flock do not sympathize with his view on the school question, for if it were not so there would be no point in or call for such an arrogant assertion of authority. If the dominion government could pos-sibly be justified in interfering with this matter under any circumstances it would certainly be only because the minority in Manitoba earnestly desired such interference. It seems to me, at least, that before issuing any order to the Manitoba government the dominion government should have ascertained whether they were taking this action at the earnest request of the minority in Manitoba, or at the dicta-tion of the Roman Catholic hierarchy Most Canadian citizens will have nothing but feelings of respect for the conscientious convictions of the minority in Manitoba, and would be willing, no doubt, to make any reasonable concessions to relieve them of any grievance they may have, but most of us do not have very tender sympa-thies for the Roman hierarchy, and Protestants generally will not be disposed to submit to her arrogant dictation; and hence the importance of the dominion government taking so steps to find out just what are the wishes of the minority in Manitoba in regard to this matter.

There is another point about which some writers do not seem to very clear i. e., as to just what was the question submitted, first to the supreme cour of Canada, and on appeal to the judicial committee of the privy council. I gather from what I have read in the press that most writers on the question are under the impression that the decision of the privy council makes it incumbent on the dominion government to take some action in the matter in the event of the Manitoba government failing to grant the relief ask-ed for. Is that the fact? I do not so understand it. The question submitted to the privy council was, whether or not the dominion government had jurisdiction in the case, and not the question as to whether or not an injustice had been done the minority in Manitoba. The question was not, Ought the dominion government to interfere? but has the governor general in council the power to make remedial orders? This seems to me a fair, if not the only interpretation of the following question, which is the one that was before the committee of the privy council: "Has his excelleny the governor general power to make the declarations or remedial orders which are asked for in the said memorials and petitions, as suming the material facts to be as stated therein, or has his excellency the governor general in council any other jurisdiction in the premises That was the main question before the privy council, and the one on which everything hinged, and it was answered in the affirmative, but surely that does not mean, as so many have contended, that this makes it incumbent upon the dominion government to issue remedial orders. If any one thinks so the following words of Lord Watson, a member of the judicial committee of the privy council, will show the contrary. Lord Watson said while the question was before the committee: "I apprehend the appeal to the governor is an appeal to the governor's discretion. It is a political administrative appeal, and not a judicial appeal in any proper sense of the term, and in the same way, after he has decided, the same latitude of discretion is given to the dominion parliament. They may legislate or not as they think fit." Now :f Lord Watson in the above remark expressed the view of all the members of the judicial committee of the council-and none of them seem to have dissented from that opinionit is very clear that that body did not think the dominion parliament under any constitutional necessity of interfering in any measure whatever with the school question in Manitoba, What the privy council has decided so far as I am able to understand the matter, is simply that the minority had the right to appeal to the governor general in council, and that the governor general in council had jurisdiction in the premises, and might make a remedial order if he thought best. but that it is purely discretionary with the dominion parliament whether they interfere or not. I must not here enter at all into the merits of the case, which at the core is the moral question, as to whether or not the people living in Manitoba twenty-five or thirty years ago had the right to make laws in regard to education that should be binding upon the people of that province for all time to come. If they had not the right to do so then it seems very clear that the minority in Manitoba cannot now demand a change in the school system on the ground that they have a legal right to such a change. The fact that the educational boards of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have taken upon themselves to modify the free school laws of those provinces, so as to meet the demands of the Roman Catholics in certain sections seems to me no reason why Manitoba should do the same thing. It has always seemed to me that the mistake in regard to our public schools is in having the Bible in them at all. Let the schools be purely secular, withing has been said in the press, so far out any religious exercises whatever, let each denomination of Christians be responsible for the religious training of its young people. This, it seems to me, would be the simple remedy for all the contentions in regard to the school When the state insists that system. the Bible should be read in the schools it is going, in my humble opinion, beyond its province.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

The Bill to Amend the Fisheries Act Dealing With Sawdust.

Sir Richard Cartwright Continues His Speech in the Budget Debate.

Mr. Chesley's Donation to the St. John Y. M. C. A.-Dominion Archivist Dead.

(From a member of the Sun staff.) Ottawa, May 7.—After routine this afternoon Mr. Casey introduced his bill to amend the railway act in the direc tion of providing greater security for passengers and employes.

Sir C. H. Tupper, in introducing the government bill to amend the Penitentiaries act, explained that its chief feature was to provide for placing insane prisoners in provincial lunation asylums and for their return to the penitentiary in cases of recovery. Hon. Mr. Costigan explained the provisions of the government fell to amend the Fisheries act in respect to the sawdust question. He said it was a temporary measure, not to extend over two years, its object being to protect exemptions granted before the act of last year, in good faith to mill

Hon. Mr. Foster, in reply 'o Sir Richard Cartwright, said the supplementary estimates for the present year were in the printer's hands and would be brought down tomorrow it the

Mr. Laurier, in response to Hon. Mr. Foster's enquiry if the opposition were willing to go on with the budget debate from day to day till it was finished, suggested that as there were a good many motions on the order paper in which not much progress had yet been made, it would be better to pursue the regular order of business until Friday, when the debate might be taken up in the manner proposed by the finance minister.

Hon. Mr. Foster, before the orders of the day were called, supplemented his budget speech by a few explanations in regard to the obligations of Canada, which information had been on his notes, but was overlooked by him at the time. It was 3.45 o'clock when Sir Richard Cartwright resumed the budget debate. The opposition financial critic was in better form than on Friday, and hurled defiance at the government with all his old time abandon.

Sir Richard criticized the industrial returns of the census on the estabished liberal lines, and warned the finance mnister he had gone very near the line where smuggling was largely stimulated. The sugar duties would take two cents a pound out of the pockets of the consumers, while some industries making articles in which sugar largely entered were excessively protected. He read a despatch from Halifax to the effect that the new duty was a bonanza to the Acadia Refining Co. in the sum of $335,000, and contrasted their treatment of the sugar men with that of the iron workers under the tariff.

Sir Richard Cartwright male a strong bid for the vote of the farmers, who were again unjustly taxed to the benefit of a few protected manufac turers. He next attacked the free list of 296 items, saving only three were for the benefit of the public at large, the others being for the manufacturers. Hon. Mr. Foster had proved himself the faithful friend of the Wanuacturers' as nd of the com binesters. He charged that the gov-ernment's policy drove away trade, and repeated his statement that ac try in the world was so unfitted for protection as Canada. He charged the government with reckless and feelish expenditures of all kinds, the Behring Sea arbitration, the militia grant, the Intercolonial railway and the projected railways in the North-west being included in the list, and advised the government to learn prudence and economy, to dispense with the fast Atlantic service and Family cables, and not to hunger after more territory, and to make friends with the United States. It was not possible to blot out the dishonor on Canada's shield, but it was possible to light'n the burden of the people. The liberals had no ill-will to the manufacturers as a class, but their policy was to do justice to all classes. A large customs tariff would be necessary for some time to come. Before sitting down he meved a long resolution as an amendment to the motion to go into supply, the burden of which was that for the present tariff there be one substituted for revenue only. It being six o'clock the speaker left the chair. At eight o'clock Hon. Mr. Haggart took the floor to reply to Sir Richard Cartwright's criticisms of Hon, Mr. Foster's speech. Hon, Mr. Haggart, who was well armed with statistics, replied effectively to Sir Richard's attacks on the census figures in their relation to the material growth of the country. He quoted Mowat's statistican against Sir Richard Cartwright, who called out across the floor, "He is no more reliable that the dominion

THE D. R. A. MEETING.

Col. Gibson Urges the Necessity of a New Rifle Range.

Lord Aberdeen and Hon. Mr. Dickey Speak-The Election of Officers.

Ottawa, May 8.-The annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle association was held this morning in the parliamentary railway committee room, Col. Gibson presiding. The attendance was large. Lord Aberdeen and Hon, Mr. Dickey, the new minister of militia, vere present. The latter was given rousing reception on his entrance ova Scotia was represented by Col McDonald, P. E. Island by Mr. Davies, M. P., and New Brunswick by Col. lilton, Major Perley, Major Markham, Capt. J. T. Hartt and Mr. Hazen,

In putting the resolution for the adoption of the annual report, Col. Gibson referred to the necessity of closing with the land owners who had offered a site for new rifle ranges at Ottawa, and to the fine record of last year's Bisley team.

Lord Aberdeen, replying to a reso-ution thanking him for his presence and for his contribution of five hundred dollars to last year's prize fund. orous, healthy rifle association, and omplimented the association on its determination to keep its work up to a high standard

The usual votes of thanks were passed, also a resolution congratulating Hon. Mr. Dickey on his appointment as minister of militia. Hon. Mr. Dickey, who replied in a neat speech, said he would not make any promises just now, but would strive to emulate Hon. Mr. Patterson's example. As a Canadian, he felt its militia represented the patriotism of the country. He came to the office without prejudice of any kind, and was free to work with untied hands He admitted the necessity of a new range at Ottawa, and intimated his personal preference on business grounds for at once closing with the offer that had been made of a good Referring to the Bisley team, ing the franchise to women. He asked the mempers of the D. R. A. for their individual assistance and advice in the dis charge of his duties. (Applause.)

The election of officers resulted as collows: President, Col. Gibson; vicepresidents, Major Hughes for Ontario Robt. Hamilton for Quebec. Major Garrison for Nova Scotia, Lt. Col. Been for New Brunswick, W. B. Scarth for Manitoba, Lt. Col. Prior for British Columbia, Hon. A. A. McDonald for P. E. Island. Capt. J. T. Hartt, Mr. Hazen, M. P., and Captain McRobbie were elected members of the council from New Brunswick, and Major Weston was elected as one of the Nova Scotia representatives The other two chosen were Major Bishop and Major Barnhill. Lt. Col. Smith and Major Sherwood were re-elected from P. E. Island.

Among the resolutions passed wa one expressing appreciation of the late minister's services, and the hope that he would soon be restored to perfect health. Col. Gibson announced that Hon. Mr. Patterson would offer another cup for competition this year.

CROSSING THE ATLANTIC.

A Passenger's Account of a Trip on the Parisian.

The Voyage Was Shared by Three Bishops, Commandant and Other Notables.

(Correspondence of the Sun.) Liverpool, England, April 23.-Thinking a report of a trip across the At-lantic, from a steerage passenger's point of view, would be of some in-terest to many of the readers of the Sun, is my apology for writing. Sat-urday, 13th April inst., the writer arrived at Halifax by the mail train from Montreal, having joined it at loncton. The train was run do the Cunard wharf, at which the Allan line steamer Parisian was moored with steam up, ready to sail. In a short time the mails and passengers were transferred, the lines cast off, and we were off, eastward bound As the steamer sailed down the harbor shots from a cannon on the wharf were discharged as a salute, this be ng the last departure of the ship from Halifax for the present season. In short time the good ship left in its wake the good old city, with its forts, its famous citadel,, its frowning guns and earthworks, which remind one of the glorious empire of old England, whose flag floats on every sea, drum-beat encircling the world." long we saw the shores and hills of our fair Canadian dominion falde away in the distance. On going down to the steerage, we found the steerage steward engaged allotting berths to and supplying each passenger with blankets, a pewter plate, cup, knife and fork and spoon, for use on the passage. Supper was then served, consisting of good bread, butter, marnalade and tea in abundance, and in due time thereafter all hands retired to rest, if not to sleep.

Sunday at noon the good ship had covered 256 miles. The weather fine though cool. After breakfast. Irish stew, piping hot, with bread. butter and coffee, the passengers not victims of mal de mer were on deck enjoying the spacious promenade and naking each others' acquaintance The passenger list was not a large resentatives from widely different sections of Ontario, farmers, artizans a medical doctor with his wife and family. There were only three or There were also a party of Icelander from Winnipeg, bound for their Ice landic home. Some of the passengers had shaken the dust of Canada off their feet, determined not to return there. Most of them, however, were going to the old country on pleasur bent, and a visit to the scenes of early days and the homes of their childhood. When any of the disgruntled ones attempted to make disparaging remarks in reference to Canada and its institutions they were speedily sat variably avowed themselves grits, were met in argument, and silenced by the testimony of the majority, who stood up manfully for the land of, in some ses, their birth, but in most cases of their adoption.

All parts of the United Kingdom were represented in the steerage Englishmen from Norfolk, Gloucestershire. Cheshire. Devonshire. Dorset shire, London, etc.; a few of Scottish birth, men from the principality of wales and a very small number of Wales, and a very small number of natives of the Emerald Isle. At 10,30 a. m. Sunday the ship's bell was rung for divine service, to which all the passengers were invited. It was held in the main saloon. The Church of the steady prices.

England service was read by the surgeon of the ship, Dr. Griffiths, Sing-from Norwe ing by the congregation was accom-panied on the piano, played by Mrs. Archibald of Nova Scotia. Later in the day a vocal concert took place in the steerage, at which selections from Moody and Sankey were sung.

Amongst the saloon passengers were the Rt. Rev. John Sweeny, R. C.
Bishop of St. John; Rt. Rev. J. C. McDonald, Bishop of Charlottetown; Rt. Rev. John Cameron, Bishop of Antigonish; Major Gen. Montgomery Moore, the Hon. Mrs. Moore, Hon. Capt. J. G. U. R. Colborne, A. D. C., Hon. Miss F. Colborne, Mrs. Charles Archibald, and others, numbering in all thirty-two. Amongst the twenty odd intermediate passengers was J. Rhea of St. John.

In the steerage was W. H. Warmer, a resident of York county, N. B., who came there with the 22nd regiment some years ago. He is going to England after a legacy, which he states has recently been left to him by his father. The Parisian is a very steady ship. The log for the trip up to noon on Sunday 256 miles; Monday, 310; Tuesday, 315; Wednesday, 316; Thursday, 315; Friday and Saturday, 320 each, ar riving at Moville Sunday afternoon at three o'clock and at Liverpool Monday morning, 22nd inst., at six o'clock.

On Saturday evening, 20th inst., ar entertainment was given in the steer age, which was draped with flags. The programme included songs, recitations, quartettes, concluding with a Canadian patriotic song, The Maple Leaf and God Save the Queen, after which three rousing cheers were given for the Queen and for the dominion of

BRITISH LUMBER MARKETS.

(Timber News, April 27th.) Liverpool-The state of trade here remains unaltered; little business has een transacted during the past week, and there is nothing fresh to report The quays present a busy appearance clearly pointed out when we notice the eargo of redwood being yarded by the brokers, Messrs. Farnworth & Jardine and also merchants yarding portions of their cargoes of flooring boards at such an early period of the year. The future state of the market is being freely discussed, and many arguments are brought forward to substantiate the various ideas; but when we look at the low rates of freight now prevailing and actual cost price (the latter, we must bear in mind, is about at its lowest, owing to the keen competition), we fail to see how the market can very well decline; if it does we

BRITISH HORSE MARKET.

At the opening sale by auction this season in Glasgow of United States and Canadian horses over 100 animals were disposed of. They consisted principally of work and harness horses. The animals were all of good ages, varying from 5 to 7 years old, and ranged from 15 to 16.8 hands high. As an established trade in American horses has sprung up within the past year or two, the sale in consequence attracted a large attendance of purchasers, dealers being present from all the important centres in Scotland, while English buyers were also well represented. There having been a considerable demand for these horses since the close of the auctions last year with a supply scarcely equalling the requirements of inquirers, a highly satisfactory trade resulted, good prices being realized. Harness cart horses sold from 20 guineas to 45 guineas, while carriage and driving horses realized from 30 to 48

REV. DR. TALMAGE'S ELOQUENT SER-MON ON THE CONSCIENCE.

Christ Before Pilate-The Power of the "Still, Small Voice"-The True Conversion-A Wash In the Glorious Gospel

NEW YORK, May 5.—Rarely does any discourse hold an audience with such intense interest as did that which Rev. Dr. Talmage delivered this afternoon in the Academy of Music. He chose for his subject "Conscience," the text selected being Matthew xxvii, 24: "He took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying: I am innocent of the blood of this just person. See ye

At about 7 o'clock in the ming, up the marble stairs of a palace, and across the marble stairs of a palace, and across the floors of richest mosaic, and under ceilings dyed with all the splendors of color, and between snowbanks of white and glistening sculpture, passes a poor, pale, sick young man of 33, already condemned to death, on his way to be condemned again. Jesus of Nazareth is his name Coming out to meet him on this tessellated pavement is an unscrupulous, compromising, timeserving, cowardly man, with a few traces of sympathy and fair dealing left in his composition—Governor Pontius Pilate. Did ever such opposites meet? Luxury and pain, selfishness and generosity, arrogance and humility, sin and holiness, midnight and humility, sin and holiness, midnight and midneon.

The bloated lipped governor takes the cushioned seat, but the prisoner stands, his wrists manacled. In a semicircle around the prisoner are the sanhedrists, with flashing eyes and brandished fists, prosecuting this case in the name of religion, for the bitterest persecutions, and when satan takes hold of a good man he makes up by intensity for brevity of occupation. If you have never seen an ecclesiastical court trying a man, then you have no idea of the foaming infernalism of these old religious sanhedrists. Governor Pilate cross questions the prisoner and finds cross questions the prisoner and finds right away he is innocent and wants to him go. His caution is also increased by some one who comes to the governor and whispers in his ear. The governor puts his hand behind his ear, so as to catch the words almost inaudible. It is a message from Claudia Procula, his wife, who has had a dream about the doors of accounting him and che the danger of executing him, and she awakens from this morning dream in time to send the message to her husband, then on the judicial bench. And what with the protest of his wife, and the voice of his own conscience, and the entire failure of the sanhedrists to make out their case, Governor Pilate re-solves to discharge the prisoner from

But the intimation of such a thing But the intimation of such a thing brings upon the governor an equinoctial storm of indignation. They will report him to the emperor at Rome. They will have him recalled. They will send him up home, and he will be hung for treason, for the emperor at Rome has already a suspicion in regard to Pilate, and that suspicion does not cease until Pilate is banished and commits suicide. So Governor Pontius Pilate compromises the matter and proposes that Christ be whipped instead of assassinated. So the prisoner is fastened to a low pillar whipped instead of assassinated. So the prisoner is fastened to a low pillar, and on his bent and bared back come the thongs of leather, with pieces of lead and bone intertwisted, so that every stroke shall be the more awful. Christ lifts himself from the scourging, with flushed cheek and torn and quivering and mangled flesh, presenting a spectacle of suffering in which Rubens, the painter, found the theme for his greatest masterpiece.

But the sauhedrists are not yet satisfised. They have had some of his fised. They have had some of his nerves lacerated; they want them all lacerated. They have had some of his blood; they want all of it down to the last corpuscle. So Governor Pontius Pilate, after all this merciful hesitation, surrenders to the demoniacal cry of "Crucify him!" But the governor send for something. He sends out a slave out to get something. Although the constables are in haste to take the prisoner to execution and the mob outside are impatient to glare upon their victim a pause is necessitated. Yonder it comes, a wash basin. Some pure, bright water is poured into it and then ernor Pilate puts his white, delicate ds into the water and rubs them toether and then lifts them, drippin girdle, while he practically says: "I wash my hands of this whole homicidal transaction. I wash my hands of this entire responsibility. You will have to bear it." That is the meaning of my text when it says: "He took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying; I am innocent of the blood of this just person. See ye to Behold in this that ceremony amounts to nothing, if there are not in it correspondencies of heart and life. It is a od thing to wash the hands. God created three-quarters of the world water, and in that commanded cleanliwater, and in that commanded cleanliness, and when the ancients did not take the hint he plunged the whole world under water and kept it there for some time. Hand washing was a religious ceremony among the Jews. The Jewish Mishna gave particular direction have that the hands must be thrust three. how that the hands must be thrust three times up to the wrists in water, and the alm of the hand must be rubbed with palm of the nand must be rubbed with the closed fist of the other. All that well enough for a symbol, but here in the text is a man who proposes to wash away the guilt of a sin which he does not quit and of which he does not make any repentance. Pilate's wash basin was a dead failure.

Ceremonies, however beautiful and appropriate, may be no more than this hypocritical ablution. In infancy we sprinkled from the baptismal font, and in manhood we may wade into deep immersions and yet never come to moral purification. We may kneel without prayer, and bow without reverence, and sing without any acceptance. All your creeds and liturgies and sacra-All your creeds and liturgies and sacraments and genufications and religious convocations amount to nothing unless your heart life go into them. When that bronzed slave took from the presence of Pilate that wash basin, he carried away none of Pilate's cruelty, or Pilate's wickedness, or Pilate's guilt.

Nothing against creeds; we all have them, either written or implied. Nothing against creemonies; they are of them, either written or implied. No-thing against ceremonies; they are of infinite importance. Nothing against sacraments; they are divin ly com-manded Nothing against a reserv, if there be as many heartfelt prayers as beads counted. Nothing against incense floating up from censor amid Gothic arches, if the prayers be as genuine as the aroma is sweet. Nothing against Epiphany or Lent or Ash Wednesday or Easter or Good Friday or Whitsuntide or Palm Sunday, if these symbols have behind them genuine repentance and holy reminiscence and Christian consecration. But ceremony is only the sheath to the sward it is only only the sheath to the sword, it is only lamp to the flame, it is only the be the spirit. The outward must be symbolical of the inward. Wash the hands all means, but more than that, wash the heart.

Behold, also, as you see Governor Pontius Pilate thrust his hands into this wash basin the power of conscience. He had an idea that there was blood on his hands—the blood of an innocent person, whom he might have acquitted if he only had the courage. Poor Pilate! His conscience was after him, and he knew the stain would never be washed from the right hand or the left hand, and until the day of his death, though he might wash in all the lavers of the Roman empire, there would be still eight fingers and two thumbs red at the

Oh, the power of conscience when it it is fully aroused! With whip of scorpions over a bed of spikes in pitch of midnight it chases guilt. Are there ghosts? Yes, not of the graveyard, but of one's mind not at rest. And thus, Brutus, amid his slumbering host, Startled with Cæsar's stalwart ghost.

Macbeth looked at his hand after the midnight assassination, and he says: Will all great Nepture's ocean wash this blood Clean from my hand? No; this my hand will rather The multitudinous seas incarnadine, Making the green one red.

For every sin, great or small, conscience, which is the voice of God, has a reproof, more or less emphatic. Charles IX, responsible for St. Bartholomew massacre, was chased by the bitter memories, and in his dying moment said to his doctor, Ambrose Perry: "Doctor, I don't know, what's the metter with I don't know what's the matter with me; I am in in a fever of body and mind and have been for a long while. Oh, if I had only spared the innocent, and the imbecile, and the cripple!" Rousseau declared in old age that a sin he committed is his routh till gray him slagnless. ted in his youth still gave him sleepless nights. Charless II. of Spain could not sleep unless he had in the room a con-fessor and two friars. Catiline had such bitter memories he was startled at the least sound. Cardinal Beaufort, having slain the Duke of Gloucester, often in the night would say: "Away, away! Why do you look at me?" Richard Why do you look at me?" Richard III., having slain his two nephews, would sometimes in the night shout from his couch and clutch his aword, fighting apparitions. Dr. Webster, having slain Parkman in Boston, and while waiting for his doom, complained to the jailer that the prisoners on the other side of the wall all night long kept charging him with his crime, when there were no prisoners on the other side of the wall. It was the voice of his own conscience.

From what did Adam and Eve try to hide when they had all the world to themselves? From their own conthemselves? From their own conscience. What made Cain's punishment greater than he could bear? His conscience. What made Ahab cry out to the prophet, "Hast thou found me, O mine enemy?" What made Felix trembly before the little missionary? Consc. What made Belshazzar's teeth charter with a chill when he saw afforcement of the black sleeve of a finger come out of the black sleeve of the midnight and write on the plastering? Conscience, conscience!
Why is it that that man in this audience, with all the marks of worldly prosperity upon him, is agitated while I speak and is now flushed and is now pale, and then the breath is uneven, and then beads of perspiration on the fore-head, and then the look of unrest comes to look of horror and despair? I know not. But he knows, and God knows. It may be that he despoiled a fair young life and turned innocence into and the smile of hope into the brazen laughter of despair. Or it may be that he has in his possession the property of others, and by some strategem he keeps it according to law, and yet he knows it it according to law, and yet he knows it is not his own, and that if his heart should stop beating this moment he would be in hell forever. Or it may be he is responsible for the great mystery, the disappearance of some one who was never heard of, and the detectives were baffled, and the tracks were all covered up, and the swift horse on the rail train took him out of reach, and there are only took him out of reach, and there are only two persons in the universe who know of it—God and himself. God present at the time of the tragedy and present at the retrospection and conscience—conscience with strings, conscience with pinchers, conscience with flails, conscience with furnaces—is upon him, and until a furnaces—is upon him, and until a man's conscience arouses him he does not repent. What made that farmer converted to God go to his infidel neighbor and say: "Neighbor, I have four of your sheep. They came over into my fold six years ago. They had your mark upon them and I changed it to my mark. I want you to have those sheep and I want you to have the increase of the fold. If you want to send me to prison, I shall make no com-plaint?" The infidel heard of the man's plaint?" The infidel heard of the man's conversion, and he said: "Now, now, if you have got them sheep, you are welcome to them. I don't want nothing of those things at all. You just go away from me. Something has got hold of you that I don't understand. I heard you were down at these religious most you were down at those religious meetings." But the converted man would not allow things to stand in that way, and so the infidel said: "Well, now, you can pay me the value of the sheep, and 6 per cent. interest from that time to this and I shan't say anything more about it. Just go away from me." What was the matter with the two farmers? In the one case a convicted conscience leading him to honesty and in the other case a convicted conscience warning against infidelity. Thomas Oliver was one of John Wes-ley's preachers. The early part of his life had been full of recklessness, and he had made debts wherever he could he had made debts wherever he could borrow. He was converted to God, and then he went forth to preach and pay his debts. He had a small amount of property left him and immediately set out to pay his debts, and everybody knew he was in earnest, and to con-summate the last payment he had to sell his horse and saddle and bridle. That was conscience. That is convert-That was conscience. That is converted conscience. That is religion. Frank Tiebout, a converted rumseller, had a large amount of liquor on hand at the time of his conversion, and he put all the kegs and barrels and demijohns in a wagon and took them down in front of the old church where he had been converted and had everything emptied into the street. That is religion. Why the thousands of dollars sent every year to the United States treasury at Washing ton as "conscience money?" Why, i simply means there are postmasters, and there are attorneys, and there are officials who sometimes retain that which does not belong to them, and these men are copy rted or under powerful pressure of conscience and make restitution. If all the moneys out of which the state and the United States treasuries have been defrauded should come back to their rightful . xchequers, there would be money enough to pay all the state debts and all the United States debt by day after to-morrow.

Conversion amounts to nothing unles the heart is converted, and the pocket-book is converted, and the cash drawer is converted, and the ledger is converted, and the fireproof safe is converted, and the pigeonhole containing the correspondence is converted, and his improvem nt is noticed even by the canary oird that sings in the parlor, and th cat that licks the platter after the meal. and the dog that comes bounding from the kennel to greet him. A man half converted, or quarter converted, or a thousandth part conversed, is not converted at all. What will be the great book in the day of judgment? science. Conscience recalling mis-improved opportunities. Conscience recalling unforgiven sins. Conscience bringing up all the past. Alas, for this governor, Pontius Pilate! That night after the court had adjourned and the sauhedrists had gone home and nothing was heard outside the room but the step was heard outside the room but the step of the sentinel, I see Poutius Pilate arise from his tapestried and sleepless couch and go to the laver and begin to wash his hands, crying: "Out, out, crimson spot! Tellest thou to me and to God and to the night, my crime? Is there no alkali to remove these dreadful stains? Is there no chemistry to disselve this carnaga? Must. I to the day solve this carnage? Must I to the day of my death carry the blood of this out, thou crimson spot!" The worst thing a man can have is an evil conscience and the best thing a man can nave is what Paul calls a good conpurification? It a man is a sinner once, must he always be a sinner and an un-forgiven sinner? We have all had conscience after us. Or do you tell me that all the words of your life have been just right and all the thoughts of your have been just right and all the actions of your life just right? Then you do not dust and grime of the dirty city, know yourself and I take the responsi-strolled through the street where Nelbility of saying you are a Pharisee, you are a hypocrite, you are a Pontius Pilate and do not know it. You commit the very same sin that Pilate committed. You have crucified the Lord of Glory. But if nine-tenths of this audience are made up of thoughtful The tones were wondrously sweet and and earnest people, then nine-tenths of clear, and they swelled above this audience are saying within them-selves, "Is there no such thing as moral ourification? Is there no laver in which purification? Is there no laver in which the soul may wash and be clean?" Yes, yes, yes. Tell it in song, tell it in sermon, tell it in prayer, tell it to the hemispheres. That is what David cried out for when he said, "Wash me thoroughly from sin, and clease me from mine iniquities." And that is what in another place he cried out for when he said. "Wash me and I shall be whiter said, "Wash me and I shall be whiter than snow." Behold the laver of the gospel. filled with living fountains. Did you ever see the picture of the laver in the ancient tabernacle or in the ancient temple? The laver in the ancient tabernacle was made out of the women's metallic looking glasses. It was a great basin, standing on a beautiful pedestal, but when the temple was built then the laver was an immen affair, called the braver see any other bows. called the brazen sea, and h, low deep were the floods there wered!

And there were ten lavers be five at the right and five at the

But is there no such things as meral

each laver had 300 gallons of water.
And the outside of these lavers was carved and chased with palm trees so delicately cut you could almost see the leaves tremble and lions so true to that you could imagine you saw the nostril throb, and the cherubim with outspread wings. That magnificent laver of the old dispensation is a feeble type of the more glorious laver of our dispensation—our sunlit dispensation.

Here is the laver holding rivers of salvation, having for its pedestal the Rock of Ages, carved with the figure of the lion of Judah's tribe and having palm branches for victory and wings suggestive of the soul's flight toward God in prayer and the soul's flight heavenward when we die. Come, ye auditory, and wash away all your sins, however aggravated, and all your sorrows, however agonizing. Come to this fountain, open for all sin and un-cleanness, the furthest, the worst. You need not carry your sins half a second. Come and wash in this glorious gospel laver. Why, that is an opportunity enough to follow up all nations. That is an opportunity that will yet stand on the Alps and beckon to Italy, and yet stand on the Pyrer.es and beckon to Spain, and it will yet stand on the Ural and becken to Russia, and it will stand at the gate of heaven and beckon to all nations. Pardon for all sin and pardon right away, through the blood of the Son of God. A little child that had been blind, but through skiltul surgery brought to sight, said: "Why, mother, why didn't you tell me the earth and sky are so beautiful? Why didn't you tell me?" "Oh," re-plied the mother, "my child, I did tell you often. I often told you how beautiful they are, but you were blind and you couldn't see!" Oh, if we could have our eves opened to see the glories in Jesus Christ, we would feel that the half had not been told us and you would go to some Christian man and say, "Why, didn't you tell me before of the glories in the Lord Jesus Christ?" and that 'riend would say, "I did tell you, but you were blind and could not see, and you were deaf and could not

History says that a great army came to capture ancient Jerusalem, and when this army got on the hills so that they saw the turrets and the towers of Jerusalem, they gave a shout that made the earth tremble, and tradition, whether true or false, says that, so great was the shout, eagles flying in the air dropoh, if we could only catch a glimpse of the towers of this gospel temple into which you are all invited to come and which you are all invited to come and wash, there would be a song jublant and wide resounding, at New Jerusalem seen, at New Jerusalem taken, the hosannas of other worlds fiving midair would fold their wings and drop into our closing doxology! Against the disappointing and insufficient layer of Pilate's vice and Pilate's cowardice and Pilate's vice and Pilate's cowardice and Pilate's sn I place the brazen sea of a Saviour's pardoning mercy.

A MOTHER AT A SALOON DOOR.

In 1874 I saw my mother kneeling in the snow to pray at a saloon door, and I crept out by a side way, stepping softly in the sawdust, ashamed of her.

That day's work cost her her life. but the saloon did not even pause, and her only child sped downward to the hell of darkness; but that snowset prayer persisted at God's throne through thirteen awful years, and for her importunity He could but always hear, and when I "would," He spoke to me, and speaks-and will speak on -and on-until on some sweet Christmas eve I find my mother's arm again, and, leaning on her great heart, celebrate the end of the crusade.-John

A WHISTLING SAVIOR.

How a Careless Bootblack Was the Means of a Girl's Reformation.

A travelling man from an overland trip up the Big Sandy Valley tells to the Musical Visitor this true story of pretty Nellie Harpster, once the belle of all that section:

"About three years ago, soon after the Norfolk and Western railroad was completed, a seemingly concerted raid was made on the rural regions about here, and many young girls were in duced to go to some of the large cities on promise of employment in factories and shops. 'The work was done in the most methodical manner, and in a number of instances the first week's wages were advanced.

"Among those who were away was Nellie Harpster, the prettiest girl in all that section. She was only sixteen, but a trifle wilful, in a short time plunged into the wildest dissipation. "Several weeks ago a bootblack. ragged and much the worse for the lie lived. He was black, and there was nothing about him to attract the eve. With shuffling steps he advanced through the short highway, then absent-mindedly began to whistle, just a homely old song, The Vacant Chair. homes of the outcasts on either side like hirdnotes in the forest. Few who heard heeded; but in one house a girl stood still, her white face toward the sky, while the torrents of tears swept the blanched cheeks as she listened to the swelling notes from the bootblack's lips. It was Nellie Harpster, and as the music rang in her there came back to her a vision of the old home up the Big Sandy. bootblack went on his way whistling his tender song, out of sight, out of hearing; but the girl, with tearstained face, was moved to turn from her dissolute life and to see her old home.

"It was just dark when home again. The old dog knew her, and there was a light in the window. She knocked-who knows the heaven she found beyond! The homely portals opened wide for her by loving hands. The neighbors talked; they always do about these Nellies coming home, and some turned away when she came byness bred by the awful drought of th summer just passed gave scant time for gossiping. There were too many little shrouds to make, too many grave to dig in the ghastly little graveyard on the clayey hillsides. "In every house where sickness set itself Nellie Harpster went. No one so tender as she, the touch of her hand was more soothing than the doctor's potions. The music of her voice as she sang to the dying in the cabins un in the narrow creek was like an angel's song. She brought back life to many a suffering one, and for those sick unto death made easy the Jordan way they trod. All over the plague-swept section, night and day, she visited the sick, until at last she herself was stricken. "She died in the late October days when all the hills were aflame with sunshine and color, and they buried her in the lonesome little churchyard near her old home. The plain came from miles around and filled the old house where she had lived, clear to the fences of the yard. They for got the days of shame, and the children filled the room with wild flowers and brilliant leaves. Tears fell like rain in the autumn afternoon as they laid her away to rest. Every log house along the Big Sandy, and the cabins in the hollow up the stream, will for time keep green the memory Nellie Harpster."

NEWS FROM JAMAICA.

The United States Cruiser Minneapolis in Port-A Free Fight.

Halifax, May 9.—Advices by mail tonight from Jamaica say that the United States cruiser Minneapolis, Captain Wadleigh, arrived there the 29th April from Port au Prince On arriving at Port Royal the cruise hoisted the English flag on her fore mast and fired a salute of twenty-one guns, which was acknowledged by the garrison. Afterward she saluted the commodore with eleven guns which was returned by H. M. S. Ur gent. The Minneapolis then proceed-ed up the harbor and anchored. The captain landed and visited the United States consul, Q. O. Reckford. The Minneapolis next day commenced to to take on board 650 tons of coal from the three masted American schooner Warren Adams, Captain Given. After oaling it was expected the Minnea polis would proceed to Cuba.

While the U. S. squadron was lying in Kingston harbor an unfortunate incident occurred, a fight between seamen of the New York and some coliers on the schooner Jennie S. Butler, which was alongside the man-of-war supplying coal. The fight started be-tween the crew of the schooner and the colliers, and the sailors from the New York joined in. Several of the colliers and the sailors were badly injured and many had to jump overhoard to escape. The case came up in the resident magistrate's court next day and several fines were inflicted.

BUSTIN'S CAR FENDER.

Robert Bustin's street car fender was given a practical test Wednesday The invention, it is claimed, will great ly lessen the number of street car accidents. The street railway companies, and especially those in large cities have long been confronted with this problem. Every day men, wome and children have either been killed outright or badly injured by the street cars, and until very recently no one has been fortunate enough to invent anything that could be utilized in lessening these accidents. Out of some two hundred and eighty patents only six have been found at all workable, and even this small number will not work with perfect satisfaction. chanics say that Mr. Bustin's patent is superior to all the others, and tha its use will reduce the number of accidents to a minimum. The test giver yesterday was satisfactory. A dummy was placed on the track and the car driven rapidly into it. The dummy fell back into the net and was carried along without any difficulty the car was brought to a standstill Several persons were on the car and all expressed themselves as well sat isfied with the test.

F W CRAM APPRECIATED

(Boston Traveller.)

One of the most conscientious railroad financiers in the Pine Tree state is F. W. Cram of Bangor, who for the past few days has been at Young's. Mr. Cram is the busy general manager of the Bangor & Aroostook railroad, which runs a distance of 200 miles through the finest sections of central Maine. The road communicates with the grandest fishing and gaming localties in all New England, and it is largely patronized by tourists. Mr. Cram, after visiting his son, Wingate F., at Andover Academy, will return to his duties at Bangor.

The nursery tricycle has appeared in London. It contains two seats, one for the mistress and one for the maidand her charge, and has two pairs of Tononto, May 8.-The wife of Rev. Louis H. Jordan, formerly of Erskine church, Montreal, and one of the leading Presbyterian minsters of the city. has just recovered from a dose of 'sleeping drops' administered to her by her servant girl. While Mr. Jordan was out of town recently, the servant girls arranged to have a tea party and to have the house to themselves. They procured a sleeping draught and gave it to Mrs. Jordan. The drug acted in such a manner that the girls became afraid, and by their own actions the matter was discovered. Rev. Mr. Jordan refused to prosecute the girls, contenting himself with dismissing them. The police knew nothing of the case.

Toronto, May 9.—The trial of Dallas T. and Harry B. Hyams for the murder of William Wells was commenced this morning, Judge Street presiding. A great crowd was struggling to get into the court room, but only those having business were admitted.

At 10.30 the prisoners were brought in. They both look well and cool. Mr. Lount, Q. C., made an eloquent appeal to the judge to allow Mr. Wellman of New York to be associated with him in defence of the prisoners, but the courtesy was refused, the judge saying he would not establish a precedent. Wellman, who along with Mr. Gooch was in court, was greatly chagrined at the refusal, and showed it, but will stay and help the defence all he can.

Ottawa, May 12.-The mercury took a drop of forty odd degrees last night and today thick underclothing and overcoats are in order.

The Manitoba school question was the all-absorbing topic of conversation around the lobbies yesterday, and it seemed to be the general opinion that if a compromise is reached it will be on the lines of the Ontario system, with state regulated curriculum, certified teachers. etc. Much significance is attached to the fact that Archbishop Langevin, who intended to leave yes terday for his western diocese, will re main here at the request of the gov-ernor general until the arrival of Premier Greenway and Attorney Genera Sifton, who have been invited to the capital by his excellency. It will now be in order for the opposition in the commons to attack Lord Aberdeen for using his best offices to secure a settlement of the school question,

Mr. McDougall of Cape Breton, who has been laid up at the Russell house for some weeks with inflammatory rheumatism, was out for the first time on Saturday. Toronto, Ont., May 12.-The trial of

Harry and Thomas Hyams for the alleged murder of Willie Wells was continued yesterday. Mrs. Harry Hyams, wife of the first named prisoner, and sister of the deceased, gave startling evidence. She had spoken to Dallas about the occurrence, and he said he went into the office of the warehouse to write a letter to his wife He heard a terrible crash, and on going down to the basement he saw there, and it made him sick That's all the explanation she got, al-though she had often asked for addit-ional facts. Neither of the brothers would ever talk of the affair, however Going back to the appearance of Harry Hyams when he first came into the house the day of the tragedy, witness said that Harry Hyams' right hand was bleeding and ne was very much agitated. She noticed that his linen was spotted with blood. There were very fine spots of blood on the front of shirt, and his cuffs were badly spotted. After this witness proceeded to detail the circumstance of her engagement and subsequent marriage to Harry Hyams, when the court room was startled by a shriek and expression "Oh, oh," and the witness fell from her seat towards the floor. had been attacked with a fit of hysterics. Victoria, B. C., May 8.-Sch Libby Capt. Hackett, arrived at four o'clock today from a sealing cruise. Captain Hackett, speaking of the wreck of the sealing schooner Walter A. Earle, said: There is no doubt of it the schooner is lost. The poor fellows have gone down. It was an awful sight I had a big fight. I was twenty-five miles from shore and about twenty miles from the Earle. I had to put the Libby in the trough of the sea. We were together in a bunch. The worst of it is that the belief is curers may bring the news that the Earle was not the only schooner to go down. The reason for this belief is that a large amount of wreckage was picked up twenty miles from where the mainsail of the Earle was recovered, and it is thought the wreckage could not have drifted so far in so short a period. I don't like to circulate such a report, but it appears to be the general belief. The capitain and crew of the Earle numbered six white, and there were twenty-six Indian hunters and the boat boat steerers, making a total loss of life o

Anxiety as to the safety of the Methodist missionary steamer Glad Tidings was relieved, as news concerning her was brought down from the north by the steamer Danube. The Glad Tidings belong sto the Methodist Missionaries' society and plies between various missionary stations on the northern coast. She left Fort Simpson a fortnight ago with a party of missionaries to attend the Methodist conference at Victoria, and being a week overdue, much anxiety was felt for her safety, especially as weather had been experienced up the coast. Only Saturday the steamer Maud was despatched from Victoria to hunt for her. The arrival of the steamer Danube with the Glad Tidings passengers on board, however, set the fears at rest. From Rev. Mr. Crosby, head of the church, it was learned that the Glad Tidings has indeed been wrecked, but no loss of life had occur red. After leaving Namo she encountered a heavy gale and ran into Rein the city, shent this forenoon at Villa fuge Harbor for shelter. A special meeting of the alliance was held in Georgetown Thursday, April 25th. President Mason took the chair at 2.30 p. m.

An urgent request was presented to the alliance by Mrs. Tade Lavers to withdraw their action against her husband, who is charged with perjury in a Scott act case.

All having fully expressed their convictions on said request concluded the alliance had no legal jurisdiction in the case, they having passed it into the hands of a proper officer of the law. The moral relation of the alliance to the request was fully considered with the result voiced in the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: "That this alliance, after due consideration of the appeal of Mrs. Lavers to withdraw the action entered against her husband, that this body now in session strongly confirm their said action in the case."

The alliance also dealt with the assault made on Prosecutor Bears, while in the discharge of his duties a short time ago, and resolved to bring the culprits to justice as soon as possible. The same thing was determined regarding those who have made threats on certain members of the alliance who have taken a too active part for the good of offenders in bringing them to justice.

The matter of increase in Prosecutor (Charlottetown Guardian.)

The matter of increase in Prosecutor Bears' salary which was promised by Attorney General Peters more than two years ago, when the "great delegation" waited upon him was considered in connection with the resolution of other temperance bodies and the alliance, passed several months age, asking that ten per cent on all convictions secured by the prosecutor be added to his salary. Mr. Bears has done his work well and surely deserves more than $100 a year.

The call from the east end of this county to Mr. Bears to go up there and work in the place of a prosecutor who gets paid for doing nothing, brought out the conviction that Prosecutor Campbell should either do his duty or be removed. The appointment of the vendor (Saunders) for Summerside, received attention re which the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"That this alliance, realizing the hindrance of the temperance cause, which the appointment of Mr. Saunders places in its way, hereby unites with the temperance bodies of Prince county in asking his removal and in heartiest sympathy with them in their trouble."

THE FIRST SIEGE OF LOUISBURG

To the Editor of The Sun: Sir-My attention has just been called to a letter from Dorchester, N. B., which appears in today's issue of your paper.

At the outset I must confess thatin my line of work-I have neither the leisure nor the English literary attainments, nor, for that matter, any desire to engage in a discussion as to the real motives and accessory views which actuated the expedition

It will suffice me to reply in a few words (which, permit me to say, will be final) to your correspondent who, unfortunately, has either not read or not understood the import of my article Anniversaire of Monument a Louisburg.

I would, indeed, very much prefer to credit him with the merit of having, like others, walked away by side issues from the real question. In any case, not a step did he tread on the grounds covered by my article published in the Moniteur Acadien. Otherwise he would, to his astenishment, have found himself in close affinity of thought with me, as I declared in ore " my conclusions that the descendants of the old loyalists in the ower provinces would not likely be flattered by their being utterly ignored in the matter of the memorial column prepared by the society of the colonial vars in the United States.

Should he yet chance upon a faithful translation of my statements he would further learn that I never considered the first colonial expedition commanded by Pepperell as composed exclusively of Puritans, nor did I declare that "those who took part in it were "- same that revolted from Eng-

Again-a task which the Dorchester correspondent set himself to examine my object was not to show who were the man that effected the reduction of Louisburg at its first siege. Such information can be readily obtained in the History of Nova Scotia, by Beamish Murdoch, 1st, 2nd and 3rd note of appendix to the 5th chapter, II. volume, p. 67, 68, etc. Other detailed accounts of the same nature are also found in Brown's History of Cape Breton, and especially in Cape Breton and its Memorials, the masterly work of John George Bourinot, D. C. L. My contention was that the erection of a monument such as the one prepared exclusively by the Society of Colonial Wars seemed to be: 1st, a slighting of the rights and claims pos-sessed also by the descendants of the loyalists in the lower provinces; 2nd, that the project in itself did not savor much of delicacy towards the Catholics of these same provinces; and, 3rd, that the expedition conducted by Pepperell and others did not reflec such high honor on the New England colonies owing to subsequent be-havior—as to justify the placing of a monument in the vicinity of the old French harbor in Cape Breton. No doubt the religious frenzy which attended Pepperell's invasion was a perfect success; but the discipline and other achievements of the colonial troops deserved, according to the testimony of our best English historians, but a relatively small share of pub.i: applause. Immense luck and good fortune kept company on their side, but, unlike their successors at the second siege, they had neither con-certed plans nor did they achieve leeds or exploits of noteworthy im-

The French, we all admit, were ully disunited and demoralized. They offered not resistance worth mentioning, except at the Island Battery. When Pepperell, Warren and Vaugha tried to force the latter to surrender, the colonial army lost 60 men on the spot and 116 more were made prisoners. Fortunately, a reinforcement (f 11 vessels and 500 cannons which came in from Newfoundland and England turned the scale in favor of the colonies and decided the fate of the old French town. Now, leaving this aside, if we just take into consideration the great religious services which were held, only six weeks ago, at St. Paul's church, New York, on the 24th of March, in commemoraiton of the departure of Pepperell's forces for Cape Breton, we shall be inclined to think that the actual projected monument is rather a religious souvenir than a military one And, in the face of that broad stream of religious tolerance which obtains nowadays in the United States as well as in Canada, one would expect that such a convention of eminent divines and sympathizing female associations would recoil from throwing us back into the feverish atmosphere of those bygone days, when clergymen like the Rev. M. Whitfield, Thomas Prince, Abbe Leloutre and others wielded too away a few days ago and he was quite badly injured about the shoulders, arms and hands. Two days later. while he and Henry Branscombe, an old man, were driving together the team ran away and threw them out of the wagon. The elder man was rendered uniconscious for several hours. The most destructive fire that has happened in Corn Hill for years was on Saturday, May 4th, when the residence and barns, etc., of the late David Rouse were consumed by the flames. The house was occupied by his widow and family. Through some means the fire caught in the kitchen attie, and as there were no men about the flames gained rapidly. Four large barns, including one fine stage barn, were soon enveloped in flames. In one barn was fifteen tons of fine hay. All the stock and farm machinery were removed by the people who quickly gathered. The granary was also burnt to the ground. Between the kitchen and barn was ten cords of wood, and it was burnt to ashes, as was also the main portion of the house. This part was a fine flat-roofed house, handsomely furnished. All the furniture, even to the doors, and most of the windows were saved. In all eight buildings which but one and a half hours before were standing, were almost reduced to ashes. The pig house and an ell house used as a store room were saved from the flames. There was no insurance. The family have the sympathy

The Sch. Mabel a Total Loss Near Point

Lepreaux-The Crew Rescued. The following despatch was received from Point Lepreaux, yesterday: "Sch. Mabel, of Parrsboro, 80 tons register, W. Copp, master, coal laden, from the Joggins for Calais, Maine, went ashore in the fog about 1.30 this morning, on what is known as Whale Cove Point, on the northern side of Point Lepreaux. The vessel is in a bad position, and with the cargo, will probably be a total loss. The crew report being off Beaver Harbor when the fog shut in Saturday evening, and having very thick weather since that time."

Rev. M. Whitfield, Thomas Prince, Abbe Leloutre and others wielded too extravagantly their respective influences and religious eloquence for the tranquility of all parties concerned.

To sum up, it were better if the Society of the Colonial Wars left such giorification as they pursue for "the Work of etennity," as the Rev. S. Moody expressed it when he blessed the first meal taken within the French town, after formal possession was obtained. "Good Lord," said he, "we have so many things to thank Thee for, that time will be infinitely too short to do it. We must thereforc leave it for the work of eternity. Bless our food and fellowship upon this joyful occasion, for the sake of Christ, our Lord, Amen."

For we all know that the spirit which then prevailed was unmistakably evoked by the religious feelings of the times, as is shown ironically in a ballad of Longfeliow, entitled The Bailad of the French Fleet, October, 1746," relative to D'Anville's expedition.

Oh. Lord! we would not advise, But, if in the sea, Am tempest should arise. But, if in the sea, We should be satisfied, And Thine the glory be!

n Tuesday. Petitcodiac, May 9.-Miss Mabel Mitten, daughter of William Mitten of Graves settlement, and Ira Wright of Havelock were married last evening at the residence of the bride's father in the presence of a large company of guests. The bride wore a very becoming costume of fawn cashmere and satin with train and bridal veil caught up with orange blossoms. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A F. Brown of Petitcodiac. The bride was the recipient of a number of elegant presents, among them being a silver cake basket from Mr. and Mrs D. L. Trites; chair scarf, Dr. and Mrs. McDonald; berry set, Mr. and Mrs. Hal. Heustis; lemonade set, Mrs. Fred Steeves; fancy mirror, John Kennedy cut glass set, Mr. and Mrs. Wright; silver knives, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Keith: silver knives, Mrs. Kane: piano lamp, Harry Hughes; table linen, Mr. and Mrs. Morrow Freeze; silver nap-kin ring, Seymour Jones; teapot, Jacob Jones; butter knife, Annie Cutlar. An elegant lunch was served at midnight and the guests were serenaded with an old fashioned charivari. Springfield, May 8.—Colin blacksmith, has left the Corner and John R. Douglas, from Penobsquis, has rented the house and shop belonging to Mrs. Fairweather, and will do a general business at smith work.

The old windows have been taken out and new ones of the Gothic style have been put into Trinity church, which very much improves the appearance of that venerable building. If rain comes soon good crops or hav may be expected, as little or nonof the grass has been winter-killed. Mr. Brown, station agent at Blocafield, is building a cheese factory here which will be in readiness to begin work about the middle of this month The building is 50 feet long and 25 feet wide, with boiler house and engine room attached.

This morning James Colgan and Gilbert W. Titus wishing to examina some milk cans at the cheese factory left their teams, three young and spirited horses, standing in the road. The result was a runaway. W. B. Scovil caught Mr. Colgan's team after it had run about three-quarters of a mile only damage done was a wheel knocked off the wagon of Mr. Titus. Sussex, May 12.-A man of respectable appearance, who reported his name as Albert A. LaRivee, whose business card indicates him to be a member of a firm doing business as dealers in lumber, hay and grain at 283 Medford street, Charlestown district, Boston, died at the Queen hotel at about four o'clock this morning. As far as can be learned the deceased came here and put up at the Queen hotel Tuesday evening last, apparently in very poor health. He stated to Mr. Doherty that he was out of funds, but was in a position to draw at any time, and that he was all right. He was given a comfortable room and received under the care of Dr. found him suffering from inflammation of the lungs and possibly heart

After his death this morning Wallace Bros., undertakers, were sent for and took charge of the body. His remains were placed in a hands casket and the news of the death telegraphed to his friends in Boston. A letter found upon the person of the leceased showed that he had a wife in Charlestown. A telegram was received by Stipendiary Wallace ordering him to send the body by express to Boston, and it will go forward by the first train in the morning. Robert Conley, who has charge stream driving operations at Point Wolf, made a brief business visit to Sussex last evening and informed your correspondent that notwithstanding the very great scarcity of water in the streams in which his logs are driven he will quite unexpectedly have his five and a half million feet in the ponds of Mr. Vaughan's mills by noon today, while other lumber merchants' logs are in the stream and cannot be possibly run in until rains come to their assistance. Mr. Conley is considered to have done unusually well and to have displayed a great deal of good judgment in the use of the rains and properly overseeing the men under him. After all, the discrepancy is of a very trivial kind. The main amusing part of the tussle is the statement of the Sussex man that of resorting to physical force without success. Your Sussex correspondent will be found just as unbiased and just as reliable as your Susser man in any of the doings here. Give the above in fairness to my informant who was on hand at the time.

CHARLOTTE CO. Grand Manan, May 7 .- E. Gaskill has had placed on his lot in the cenietery at North Head a handsome grey granite monument made by Kane & Co. of St. John. It consists of a first second and third base, die, cap and plinth. The plinth is carved with a rich moulding, the die is polished and is about three feet six inches high, and seventeen inches square. It is surmounted by a richly cut cap, finished on top by a neat final. The entire monument is about nine feet, six inches high and of an elaborate design. W. Norman Earle, representing the firm set it up, and also set up a fine grey granite monument to the late Newton Green at Seal Cove, besides a number VICTORIA CO. Andover, May 11.—The store of D. Reed Bedell in this village was burglarized last night of ready-made clothing to the extent of three hundred dollars. Entrance was effected by breaking and taking out a pane of glass in front of the building. The loss of goods was discovered at six o'clock. A half mile above the store a birch bark canoe was also stolen. During the day a man employed on a drive found a large bundle of the goods six miles below floating in the river. The goods found amounted to one hun dred dollars. Suspicion rests on two German pedlars who were last seen in Perth last night, and there is a possibility of the thieves the high price of beef, which for choice article brings 9c per 1b by the carcass. This makes the choicest cuts run up to 16 and 18c per lb in a retail way. Butter is easier than a week ago, and stocks are still too large Eggs are lower, having sold in case lots at 9c last week. Strictly fresh of course bring more. Calfskins are a cent higher. Buckwheat meal is very scarce and in demand. Native rhubart is now on sale. There is also still some maple honey and sugar to b had. In other lines than those referred to there is no change since last week.

This is a great place for bicycling, and circumstances are favorable for it. The town, except the south border, which bends up on Foundry hill, is as level as an intervale, and the streets are smooth. A favorite run is around by Onslow, five or six miles, over a comparatively level and smooth road Good roads with easy grades are found for miles away, through the thickly settled districts, if anyone wants to take a long ride, either on business or for pleasure. There are no water privileges near the town in the line of boating, where a pleasant sail can be had, or offering a chance to go from place to place. All moving about has to be done on foot, wheels, or horse back, so the bike comes into place as a means of sport or locomotion, and

(Montreal Gazette, 7th.) The cattle season of 1895 is now well opened and the first week's shipments have gone forward, of which the total were 1,331 cattle and 119 sheep, as against 963 cattle and 194 sheep for the corresponding week last year. Cable advices from abroad are firm for both cattle and sheep. This time last year finest steers were quoted in Liverpool at 10c, and today they are 12 1-2c, which shows an advance of 2 1-2c per 1b. Sheep were the same last year as they are today. The nents next week from here will be heavy, as there are ten steamers advertised to sail. The tone of the markets on spot today was firm and

The Sun has received the monthly weather map for April from the meteorological office, Toronto. This map shows the mean temperature and the difference from the mean average temperature, also rainfall for the month. In British Columbia, excepting for the first part of April, the weather seems to have been favorable for vegetation. Cherries are reported in bloom on the 22nd, plums on the 24th and maple on the 29th; humming birds were reported on the 15th.

In the Northwest territories and Manitoba reports indicate that by the end of the month seeding was nearly completed, and in general the growth was excellent. In Manitoba the season is nearly three weeks earlier than Wheat is all sown, and at places is showing green in the fields.

In Ontario vegetation was about normal; in some districts fall wheat was looking well, but ploughing and seeding rather later than last year. Plums were in blossom in some districts, and nearly all trees were in bud. In other districts the fall wheat has been winter killed. Rain was badly needed. In Quebec and the maritime provinces the spring birds began to appear at most points about the middle of the month, and towards the end of the month it was reported very generally that, the trees were beginning to bud. The map is very nicely arranged and contains much valuable information to the general public. These maps have been published since the beginning of this year, and further add to the growing usefulness of the meteorological service.

The recent reports that the Prince of Wales contemplated visiting America in his yacht during the coming season have caused a considerable stir in society, although as yet nothing official has been given out on the sub-ject. Several despatches from London recently stated that there was reason to believe the prince would come across the ocean this year, and many on this side seem to place credence in the report. Boston, May 11.—This week has been one of genuine, summer weather, the thermometer having ranged every day from 80 to 90 in the shade. Two delegates from the lower provinces to the International Y. M. C. A. convention at Springfield, who were in town a day or two ago, wondered if Boston weather was so unbearable early in May, what it would be in July, when the big Christian Endeavor convention assembles. Natives of the provinces, who are usually blessed with plenty of breathing air, even in the hottest weather, hardly know what to make of the situation up here on one of those days when the Boston atomsphere goes visiting and leaves behind it the mercury at from 90 to 100. It is said that, barring New York, the atmospheric conditions in this city are more oppressive on the system than in any other city in the country. This statement is not made, however, to care the maritime delegates to the big Christian Endeavor convention, as it is taken for granted that their devotion to the society will outweigh every other consideration. The international committee on convention have considerately assigned the lower province delegates to South Boston, where their headquarters will be located. This is situated near the harbor and is

That same evening the prince witnessed a mammoth political torchlight procession, for it was only a few weeks before the memorable election by which Abraham Lincoln was made president. The next day the prince and suite visited the state house, where they were dents of the day was the presentation of Ralph Farnum, 105 years old, who had fought at the battle of Bunker Hill. In the afternoon, probably the largest and grandest military display ever held in New England took place. $1.75; No 1, $1.50.

It was reviewed by the prince on the common. But few of the participants within a year they would be sent to southern battle fields to meet the remarkable disasters that fell to the lot of northern armies during the first year school childen of the city sang an international ode to the tune of God Save the Queen, written by Oliver Wendell Holmes. In the evening a ball was given at the Boston theatre. The prince arrived a little after 10 o'clock and danced until 4 in the morning. After the ball was over there were seventeen Boston ladies who could boast of having danced with the future king of England. The third and last day of the prince's visit was devoted to visiting Harvard, Bunker Hill, Lexington, and other well known places. On the 20th the party left for Portland. During his visit to the Uni ted States the prince's official title was Baron Renfrew, but when he reached his ship, the Nero the the royal standard of Great Britain was run up, the first time it had ever been unfurled in American waters.

A large number of sportsmen are lea ving daily for Maine and New Bruns wick to begin the fishing season. The railroads began to issue excursion tickets to fishing parties the first of the month and many hastened to take Generally trade is also better, with the association prices for car lumber very well sustained. The spruce saw mills in the east are starting up again and car lumbre is very firm, Dimension lumber is slightly higher. The cargo receivers who deal strictly in cargoes from the lower provinces continue to quote the prices of the past few weeks. They expect a slight advance, however, before the month is out. Eastern pine continues quiet, with the demand about stationary Cedar shingles are in good demand with best grades firmer. Laths are steady at unchanged prices. The fol-

Mackerel are easier, although many grades are not to be had, and salt mackerel is not coming into the market at all. Fresh fish are a shade higher this week, owing to light arrivals. Sardines are rather firmer, many dealers declining to sell for less than $3. Large fresh mackerel in the market are selling for 30 cents per lb. The wholesale salt mackerel, cod and herring markets are very dull, with no change in prices. ANNAPOLIS STILL HOPEFUL.

(Spectator.)

It has been quietly rumored around during the last few days that in a short time, maybe beginning on Wed nesday next, the Monticello would in future land all freight at Annapolis as heretofore. That this is what will have to be done goes without saying, for it is impossible for the D. A. R. to make Digby a terminus. First, the cost of landing freight at Digby is considerable, and an engine has to be sent from Annapolis on boat days. The tide must be just so high, or freight cannot be landed except at nuch cost. Unless greater facilities are made, a year's trial will prove that t costs several thousand dollars more to load freight there than here. Time is also lost at Digby, for it is impos sible to rush matters there as can be done at the D. A. R. wharf at Annapolis. One well versed in railway matters informs the Spectator that the D. A. R. RUSSIA AND JAPAN. Negotiations Proceeding in a Friendly absolutely pacific manner.

Tokio, May 12.-The recent achievements of Japan have led her to turn her attention to securing a treaty with Nicaragua, by which she would secure marked privileges in the Nicaraguan canal. The subject has been under consideration at Washington between ministers representing Nicaragua and the representatives of Japan. At one time the basis of a treaty seem to have been reached. Dr. Guzman feared that the United States might have cause to object to seeing privileges accorded to Japan. This objection was met by the representatives of Japan by a proposition that Japan should receive the same privileges as other countries with which Nicaragua has treaties except the United States, it being expressly recognized that the United States is entitled to superior experiment at Digby and that the com- advantages because of her proximity to Nicaragua. Tokio, April 27.-Although loyally ignorant up to this time of what is in store, the people of Japan are about to receive a heavy blow of adverse fortune. To what extent the news of the hostile combination of Russia, Germany and France has been published in Europe and America, residents of Japan have no means of krowing it, but it remains a secret of state and may not be authoritatively disclosed for some time to come. The indignation which the Japanese government does not affect to conceal, is intensified by the tardiness with which the intentions of the three powers were revealed. Many weeks ago they were frankly notified of the general terms to be imposed upon China. They knew quite well that a part of the Shing King province would be demanded, and if they had then declared their objections, or at any time previ-ous to the signing of the treaty of Banta, the demonstrations doubtless have been received with her refusal to take in the manifestation caused great gratification, and the practicability of a coalition between Japan and Great Britain is already discussed in influential quarters. London, May 13 .- A despatch to the Times from Paris says that in the negotiations for the Chinese loan Germany has formed a powerful group which is inclined to issue the loan on receipts shall be controlled by Euro-Russia and England.

THE WEEKLY SUN.

ST. JOHN, N. B., MAY 15, 1895.

HE ADMITS IT.

Sir Richard Catrwright has shown himself willing to sacrifice the good name of his trade policy to save the record of his financial administration. Mr. Foster, discussing the late decline in revenue, pointed out that there was last year some shrinkage in trade. Sir Richard took up this explanation and maintained that it more than accounted for his own deficits. He contended that while Mr. Foster had to mourn a decline of only a trifle of ten per cent. in trade the Mackenzie government had to deal with a shrinkage of thirty to thirtyfive per cent in two years. Sir Richard's statement in his own defence is strictly true. The country has never known such a decline in trade as took place during the Mackenzie administration. The depression in other countries was less severe than that which the world has recently experienced But in Canada, as Sir Richard points out, trade suffered very much less during the late period of bad times than it did under the Cartwright tariff system. There is no doubt that Canadian industries have been passing through a time of trial. But if during the last three years they had been exposed to foreign competition, as they would have been under a strictly revenue tariff, hardly a factory or large industry, except those engaged in primery production, would have remained in existence. Even the agricultural and mining industries would have been sorely smitten by competition with the United States. This might for a brief time swell foreign trade, or rather it would substitute the importation of finished goods for raw materials. But when there is no home production importation soon ceases. This is what happened in 1877-78.

When reference has been made political discussion to the recent slight falling off in Canadian trade the Sun has occasionally made a comparison of the returns with those of the period ending in 1879. It is a pleasure to find that Sir Richard Cartwright has come to our assistance and is laboring to convince the country of a fact which all except some of his own friends have all along been ready to admit. The Cartwright regime was bad for the local industries, and in the long run almost as bad for trade. Sir Richard himself has become one of the men who give testimony in support of this proposition.

TIME TO THINK.

The journals which speak for the Manitoba government protest that Mr. Greenway has no idea of making a compromise on the school question. He will steadily set his face against a return to the old system. He is right in this. If there are people in Manitoba who desire to get back to the divided between Protestants and Catholics, each body expending its share without giving guarantees of the efficiency of schools under its control they are doomed to disappointment. Nevertheless it is not unreasonable to expect from the Manitoba legislature some modification of the present system in the direction of removing the grievances of the minority.

One difficulty in the way of the Manitoba minority is the fact that the present system, while objectionable to the Roman Catholics, is a sys tem of religious education. The law provides for the reading of portions of scripture, whereof seventy-one have been selected from the old Testament and sixty-six from the new. It provides three forms of prayer, including The Lord's Prayer. As interpreted by clergymen who have been defending the act in their pulpits the law contemplates moral training, with religious sanctions, leading up to more or less religious instruction. Rev. Mr. Grant, in a recent letter to the Sun, support ing the policy of non-interference, contended for a purely secular school system. But this is not the Manitoba view, as shown in legislation. It is not the view of the second largest Protestant denomination there, if Bishop Mackray expresses the opinion of the Episcopal church in his diocese. It is not the view of the largest Protestant body in Manitoba if Dr. Bryce of the Manitoba college understands his own people.

The views of the Bishop of Rupert's' Land have frequently been published. He is a strong advocate of religious schools. Dr. Bryce is not in favor of denominational schools, but he testifies that a large number of Presbyterians of Manitoba are opposed to secular schools. Principal King of the same college affirms his belief that the religious element "ought to have a definite place assigned to it in the life of the school," that the Bible should be read daily in whichever version the trustees may direct, and that the teacher should enforce Christian morality by the considerations which are embraced in the belief of Christians. The Roman Catholics say so too. Mr. Dalton McCarthy is of the same way of thinking and has even gone so far as to affirm that he prefers sectarian schools to purely

The great trouble is that when it is decided that Manitoba shall have religious training in the schools, there arises the natural difficulty that Roman Catholics do not like to have their children compelled to take religious instruction from Protestant teachers after a plan laid down by a Protestant Loard of education. There is no way out of the difficulty which does not involve changes in the present system. It is an eminently wise thing for Premier Greenway to take time to consider and enquire into the whole matter.

A SAMPLE INDUSTRY.

The St. Andrews Beacon says that the granite industry of Charlotte is suffering from the fact that the home market is limited. t is a truism that if the demand were larger at profitable prices the industry would prosper more than it does. But as it is the granite quarries and finishing works give employment to a large force. It seems that the Canadian market has been made somewhat less by the importation of Aberdeen granite in spite of the high protective tariff. This being so, it appears perfectly obvious that without the protective duty nearly the whole Canadian market would be supplied from Scotland. Canadian granite has now probably three-fourths of the home market. Without protection more than three-fourths of the Canadian market would be supplied from Aberdeen, and a great part of the rest from the United States. Mr. Laurier's policy has nothing to offer the granite industry but the loss of the home market, which it is complained is not now large enough for the supply. The grit policy does not offer an outside market for an additional foot of stone, rough or finished. On the contrary, by freely giving to other countries the run of the Canadian market, the policy would make it impossible to secure any outside market by way of exchange. No country will make concessions to obtain what it can get free. To the granite industry, as to all other industries. Mr. Laurier offers no market abroad and only the loss of the market at home.

THE MILLS BILL.

Mr. McIsaac, the new member for Antigonish, is said to have made a clever speech on the bill which Mr. Mills introduced relating to the disfranchisement of officials. His position was such as to require cleverness. Mr. McIsaac and his friends from Nova Scotia cannot give a reason why the bill should not pass, nor can their friends from the other provinces give one which does not condemn their party in the east. The disfranchisement of federal officials in provincial elections is defended. There is no possible argument in favor of that position, which does not support the dis franchisement of provincial employes in federal elections. Mr. McIsaac was a few years ago a candidate in An tigonish for the Nova Scotia legislature. The Intercolonial railway runs through the whole length of the county and gives employment to a large number of men. These were not permitted to vote in the local election. The other day Mr. McIsaac was a candidate for Ottawa. The whole force of provincial office holders, road commissioners and employes was brought out to vote for him. Every reason that could be given for disfranchisement in the first case is a eason for disfranchisement in the other. It is frivolous for Mr. McIsaac to say that two wrongs do not make a right, for only last year he voted in Nova Scotia against the repeal of the disfranchisement clauses. He and his colleagues then maintained that there was no wrong, and therefore he should be man enough to admit that what Mr. Mills proposes is also no wrong Mr. Laurier, who still argues in favor of provincial control of the federal franchise, may be well pleased with this one-sided arrangement, but no fair man can justify it to himself or to anybody else. The Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island governments have acted the part of party tyrants Mr. Mills has proposed the proper treatment for them. He may not succeed, but he has the Sun's best wishes.

MR BLAKE AGAIN.

About once a month comes the rumor that Mr. Blake is tired of his position in the imperial house of commons and is about to retire. Mr. Blake nevertheless, remains an Irish member in good standing. Yet it is not un reasonable to suppose that he has periods of discontent. He is subject to them. Mr. Blake became premier of Ontario and retired from the position in a few months. When his party succeeded to power at Ottawa he became a minister. In a few months he resigned. The next year he returned as minister of justice. This portfolio he also resigned, taking the sinecure position of president of the council. Before the end of the parliament he had again retired from the ministry. He was one of the liberals who were dissatisfied with Mr. Mackenzie's leadership of the opposition. He got the leadership himself in due time, but abandoned it after two de feats at the polls, Finally he left his party altogether without going into the other camp. This was followed by the abandonment of Canadian politics, when he betook himself to Ireland, becoming one of the nationalist members. There is nothing in his present associations more suited to his temperament than his Canadian sphere of activity. A proposal that he should become a member of the judicial committee of the privy council would better harmonise with his disposition and training. The position is one, moreover, which he would adorn. There are other able Canadian lawyers, but if Lord Rosebery should call his friend, Mr. Blake, to the highest court in the empire he would not lower the traditions of that tribunal.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND DEBT.

Rev. Moses Harvey, the St. Johns correspondent of the Montreal Gazette, who is regarded as the best authority on the Newfoundland situation, claims to be able to explain the hitch in the union negotiations. According to his statement the difficulty is about the debt of the colony. The debt is' now between ten and eleven millions, but the completion of the Northern; and Western railway will involve & further expenditure of five or six millions. Canada does not object to a debt of ten millions, but one of sixteen cannot be assumed by the dominion. It is therefore proposed that Great Britain, which will be relieved by the union of Newfoundland of a great deal of trouble and expense, might assume these additional five or six millions. This is the secret which Mr. Harvey gives out. As, however, he admits that the Newfoundland government has not made the facts public. It is probable that there is some measure of conjecture in his version of the case. The population of Newfoundland is over 200,000, hence the colony would be entitled to come into Canada with a net debt of $12,500,000, which is a considerably larger sum than the Gazette's correspondent suggests. The other millions required to complete the railway would probably be more than Mr. Harvey supposes, so that there would still be an item of four or five millions to be met. It would never do for the new province to start with such a debt as this. The appeal to Great Britain would of course be made by Newfoundland and not by Canada. It might be considered a bad imperial precedent to make so large a grant to a colony, but considered by itself the investment would be a good one. An imperial commission is now on the island distributing public funds for the relief of local necessities. But this will only assist to tide over the present distress. Without union the colony will go into public bankruptcy. It will not be able to meet the interest on the debt. The ten millions of Newfoundland securities will lose their value. Other English investments in the colony will likewise suffer. Then the colony is an everlasting cause of international complications. Great Britain finds it necessary to maintain a fleet there, and is continually subject to a panic lest the people of the colony do some rash thing which will be ground for offence to friendly nations. The interest of a million sterling is a small contribution for insurance against the calamities to which the somewhat impetuous Newfoundland folk expose the nation. Perhaps it is not saying too much to claim for Canada that we have not been unfortun ate in our dealings with foreign coun tries. The union of Newfoundland with

The greater New York scheme has fallen through. The people of New York, Brooklyn and most of the suburban communities voted in favor of union but the measure was defeated in the legislature by a compact be tween the Tammany branch of the democratic party and one section of the republicans. As a consequence New York remains the fifth instead of becoming the second city in the world. New York now takes rank after London, Paris, Canton and Berlin, all of which cities except Canton are growing faster than New York.

the dominion would relieve the mother country of more than a million pounds worth of anxiety.

Mr. Tarte is in danger of losing his supremacy. Another politician has dis covered that the dominion has paid $140,000 fo letter boxes that only should have cost $70,000. As the expenditure for letter boxes was apparentily some ten of twelve hundred dollars, it is clear that the man who makes the charge is entitled to a high position in his party.

The Newfoundland folk have had opportunity to compare their own institutions with those of Canada The Canadian banks with agencia 1 St. Johns easily met a run upon them and prevented a panic. We shall not be surprised if the lesson is thrown away, but it is satisfactory to know that the anti-confederate conspiracy to discredit Canadian institutions has failed.

BEHRING SEA CLAIM.

The Claim of $425,000 Still Unpaid by the United States.

United States Secretary Gresham's Proposal for a Joint Commission.

The Commission Will Meet at Washington in October Next to Settle Matters

London, May 13.-The foreign office declines to make any statement as to whether the coming visit of Sir Julien Panncefote, the British ambassador at Washington, to England is connected with the Behring sea negotiations. It is stated, however, that in any case, the fact that the United States has not settled the claims for damages on the basis suggested by the Paris tribunal of arbitration. It is further asserted that the proposal of the United States secretary of state, Walter Gresham, for a joint commission for the Behring sea, to be composed of representatives of the United Stats. Great Britain, Russia and Japan, i still under consideration.

Washington, May 13.-An arrange ment has been effected by the United States and Great Britain by which October next is set as the time for the assembling at Washington of a commission to negotiate a treaty as to the terms of sealers on account of Behring sea sealers. Delegates will come from Canada to meet the authorities here The report coming from Victoria that the British government had vacated the sealing sections because of the non-payment by the United States of $425,000 claimed for seizures is said to be due to misapprehension. In view of the fact that the commission will meet in October to consider the seizures they would be, it is stated, no present ground of complaint for nonpayment. Moreover it is learned that the report from Victoria is based on a misunderstanding of the word "sealing," which does not apply to all seal animals, but to the seals by which implements used in sealing are locked up during the close season. From authorative source the substantial feature been secured. Last year a rate was made that sealers could go to Japan or other proximate territory, where a British consul or officer would seal up the ammunition, guns, ets., used in sealing. Vessels having these arms thus sealed up were allowed to remain in Behring sea during the closed season. They were not subjected to search and seizures. But the British admiralty has claimed that this rule is impracticable.

ACROSS THE WATER.

It is Said Edward Blake Will Retire From the British Parliament.

Certain Colonial Judges May Sit on the Judicial Committee—The Loan a Success.

Montreal, May 13 .- The Star's cable says: London, May 13.-I learn on good authority that it is understood in nationalist circles that Edward Blake intends to retire from the British rarliament at the end of the present session. He feels now no hope that his presence is efficacious towards healing the faction feuds of the party. Moreover, the adoption of the hom rule bill by the house of commons makes his presence no longer indispensible. Another reason is that some nationalists, notably Timothy Healy, who worked to secure Mr. Blake's pre sence, now favors his retirement. Mr. Blake himself says nothing, but friends say it is possible to retain his association with England by making him a member of the judicial committee of the privy council, before which he has become a foremost advocate. Blake still talks of Canada as his home but expresses no desire to return to Canadian politics.

In the house of commons today Sir Wm. Harcourt stated that Lord Rosebery intended to introduce into the house of lords forthwith a bill to enable certain colonial judges to sit on the judicial committee.

The Bank of British Columbia says that the British Columbia three per cent loan of £420,000, issued at 95, is an entire success and shows there is an abundance of money here waiting for safe investment in Canada

JOGGINS MINES.

Suspension of Work at No. 2 Slope-The Consulting Engineer Interviewed.

Springhill Mines, May 13.—There is some uneasiness among the miners here on account of the temporary slope. The flooding of the lower level has kept that mine idle for some days and today, for the first time, the water has been exhausted for the "mine bord" at the 2,300 feet level.

The interruption of work at No. 2 has resulted in a much larger output of coal than ever before from the new or No. 3, slope, and it is said that the company may postpone the resupmtion of work at No. 2 until they shall rearrange some portions of their system of ventilation.

One result of this would be a more rapid increase in the producing capacity of the new slope, so that with the resumption of their mining in No 2 mine the company would be in the market with a greater output than has ever been mined in that field.

H. F. Torrey, consulting engineer of the Joggins company, was seen by a Sun reporter last evening. He says that he has advised the suspension of work in No. 3 slope until toward autumn and the expansion of operations in No. 2. The present output of No. 2 is a little over 300 tons per day, but it can be increased to over 400 tons, which would nearly equal the present output for both slopes. The old No. slope is also pumped out, but the coal in that region will probably be reached by operations from the other slopes. After the extensions are carried out in No. 2, No. 3 can be opened, when the daily output may be brought up to the neighborhood of 800 tons. Mr. Torrey was present at the first service in the new Episcopal church at the Joggins on Sunday. Rev. Mr. Harris of Amherst preached the sermon. The church has not been dedicated, as there remains a debt of $300 or $400 to be paid. The cost of the building was $25,000.

TIMELY REFLECTIONS.

The case of a condemned criminal who yet hopes for a respite or the exercise of executive clemency is pitiable. One moment he is thrilled by hope, at another tortured by doubt

How like is his condition to that of the victim of a chronic form of disease, such as chronic indigestion or nervous dyspepsia, with all their dis agreeable symptoms of sleeplessness nervousness, despondency, lack energy, etc.

This person tries one remedy after another, and hope and discouragement alternate in his bosom. He longs for relief from misery. Happy indeed is he if he finds it.

And this he may do. No case of dyspepsia or nervous disease so hopeless but that it may be cured by a thorough course of Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic and Hawker's dyspepsia cure. A thorough course mark you. It would be presumptuous, nay, preposterous, to assert that any remedy would effectively cure in a day or two a disease that had held its course for months or years. But the Hawker remedies will give instant relief, and a thorough course will restore the weakened organs to their normal state of healthful activity This statement is borne out by the estimony of persons in all ranks of life, clergymen, students, mechanics, farmers and others who have been cured of chronic dyspepsia and nervous diseases through the agency fo Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic and Hawker's dyspepsia cure, used faithfully according These remedies are sold by all druggists, and are manufactured only by the Hawker Medicine Co. Today we chronicle the death of Joseph A. McDonald, assistant comoner of public lands for this prov ince. Mr. McDonald was a comparatively young man, being only in forty-sixth year. He has been in delicate health for a considerable time, and in spite of the most assiduous care and medical skill he gradually declined and yesterday his spirit passed away. The deceased was a respected citizen, and discharged his official duties in an earnest, painstaking manner. For the past fifteen years he has held a position in the land office, and during that time became acquainted with scores of people from all parts of the Island.—Charlottetown Patriot, May 7th.

The Loyalist society held its annual meeting on the 7th inst. Sir Leonard Tilley was in the chair. The following named gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year: Sir Leonard Tilley, president; Sir John C. Allan, C. W. Welden, Dr. W. Bayard, vicepresidents; Rev. W. O. Raymond, chap.; D. Looking at a wagon load of shad or South wharf, Monday, reminded a Kings Co. man of the fishing days of his youth, when the Kennebeccasis would yield up to him from 100 to 200 shad in a night. He remembered that John Wilcox and Hugh Campbell of Studholm were high line of that fishery, taking 406 fish in a net in one night. But that was years ago, and only a few dozens or less reward the fishermen of these days.

Messrs. Duncan, Marshall and Gillies are lecturing along the Millstream, Kings county, and endeavoring to organize Patrons of Industry lodges. They have already succeeded in organizing lodges at Berwick, Head of Millstream and Carsonville. The following named persons were elected office holders in the Berwick lodge: C. T. Mrs. James H. Brodrick, whose death occurred at Coldstream East, Carleton Co., was a daughter of the late Henry McAdam of St. John. Her mother was a daughter of Jasper Stymest, one of the loyalists. Mrs. Brodrick was confined to her bed two years, and was a great sufferer. She died without pain on Sunday morning, May 5th, and was buried Tuesday at Mt. Pleasant. Rev. H. S. Young preached a very impressive sermon from Isaiah 40 chapter, 2nd verse.

Wales, as Grand Master of the Unit-ed Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of England, has issued hi patent appointing Dr. Thomas Walker as representative to the craft in a few days at the home of the bride's New Brunswick of that Grand lodge. The position has been vacant since the death of the late R. T. Clinch. The appointment will be a very popular one with the fraternity in New Brunswick.-Globe.

Reports from the head of the St John are to the effect that all the drives are in safe water, and that very little if any lumber will be held up. Logs are running into the hooms rapidly. Rafting will begin at the Douglas boom this week. An unusually large amount of lumber was cut between Grand Falls and Frederic ton last winter. These logs are being delivered at Springhill in large quantities. The tug Ada G. delivered her fourth raft from Springhill yesterday. The water at Indiantown is rising and is now nearly up to high water mark.

Members of the Stone church conregation and citizens generally will be glad to know that Rev. Mr. de Soyres has declined a very flattering offer to leave St. John. The offer was for the pastorate of a large Episcopal church at Toronto and for a professorship in Wycliffe Theological college The two positions are financially better than the pastorate of the church, and the change would have given Mr. de Soyres very congenial work, but he promptly declined. Mr. de Soyres announced the fact to his vestry at the last meeting and they promptly passed a vote of thanks to him. The high regard in which Rev. Mr. de Soyres is held by his congregation and the fact that they are now projecting improvements to the church that are in line with his ideas, are understood to have led him to pro ly decline the flattering offer.-Globe.

OVER THE WHARF.

A man named McBrairty attempted to commit suicide at an early hour Sunday morning by jumping off the North wharf into the Market slip. McBrairty met Officer Gosline at the head of the wharf and the two walked down towards the end of the wharf. When near the outer end McBrairty stopped and asked the policeman how much water there was at this particular place. Gosline said he supposed there was fifteen feet at the time. Ther the two started to return to Market square. McBrairty parted company with the officer and went down the wharf again. The first thing Officer Gosline knew he heard some one call out that a man had fallen overboard. He hurried to the place and with the ssistance of another policeman and Capt. Henry Barton, the commande of one of the schooners in the slip escued the man. McBrairty was very nearly exhausted when pulled out.

Sackville, May 13 .- Some of the examinations for honors in the univer-sity have already been held. The regular examinations begin on Thursday morning next and end on the Thursday of next week. The exercises of closing week begin on that evening with a musical recital and continue until Wednesday morning. A number of visitors will doubtless arrive on the Queen's birthday for the outdoo sports and the elocution contest.

The great social gathering, the con versazione of the alumni and alumnae societies, will be held on Saturday evening, 25th inst., in the new univer sity residence.

Walter M. Black of Dorchester is to be valedictorian of the class. Three young ladies take the B. A. degree Miss M. Black of Dorchester, Miss M. Duncan of Woodstock, and Miss L. Deinstadt of Yarmouth A correspondent at Sackville writes:

A large number of those who "have music in their soul" were delighted on Saturday evening by the graduating violin recital of Raymond Archibald Last year Mr. Archibald took a teacher's diploma, and now he receives the well merited diploma of an artist. As he played on this occasion it was interesting to note the rapid strides he has made in his music. He was always a particularly sympathetic player, but he has now a breadth and fintechnique that were unusual in so young a violinist and hold great pro mise for the future. All his numbers were well rendered. The Concerto, by De Beriot, was probably most taking to the popular ear, but it was in Les Adleux, from Sarasate, that his abilities showed to best advantage. The orchestra under Mr. Chisholm opened the programme with a charmingly played tripping minuett from Mozart, and Miss Lachs kindly gave two songs, to one of which Mr. Archibald played an obligato. The rich tones of this accomplished singer and the delicate embroidery of the violin made harmony that will linger long in the memory of the audience. All the accomplishments were executed in Miss Crompton's usual pleasing manner. The music was listened to throughout with intense appreciation, and breathless hush that preceded the storm of applause was the highest compliment possible.

the measure. Hon. Mr. Costigan laid the fisheries report on the table today, and Hon. Dr. Montague introduced the government bill to make the present electoral revision do duty for next year.

Before orders of the day were reached Mr. McCarthy moved the adjournment of the house for the purpose of criticising the conduct of Governor Schultz and the dominion government in making public an opinion Gov. Schultz had obtained from Dr. Bouri-not on the Manitoba school question. He contended that while the governor of Manitoba could for his own information consult expert authority on public questions and submit such information to his constitutional advisers, he had no right to make it public without their consent, which had not been obtained in this case. Dr. Bourinot's deliverance had appeared in the Empire and Montreal Gazette, and he was informed that it had been given to these papers by the dominion premier. On this basis Mr. McCarthy charged that Gov. Schultz, wanting a second term of office, had conspired with Premier Bowell to overthrow the Greenway government, and that this was the first act in the programme.

The opinion which had been obtained from Dr. Bourinot under false pretenses he condemned as incorrect and misleading in every particular. He pronounced the course of Governor Schultz utterly unconstitutional, asserting that there was no parallel to this outrage since the days of King

Hon. Mr. Foster replied very effect tively to Mr. McCarthy. He pointed cut that the main part of the specch was based on information taken from the head lines and body of Ottawa correspondence, and that it was unworthy of a man in his position to endeavor to excite prejudice against Governor Schultz by repeating street rumors. As to the object of his recent visit to Ottawa, Hon. Mr. Poster showed that it was the right of a lieutenant governor to visit any part of the dominion, and that he might come to the capital at his own pleasure or by request of the federal government. In consulting Dr. Bourino Gov. Schultz had applied to the highest authority on constitutional ques tions in Canada, and the opinion he had obtained was absolutely non-po-The gravamen of Mr. Mc-Carthy's charge appeared to be that Gov. Schultz had not buttoned up his pockets so that reporters could not get hold of the document. If the governor had published an opinion of his own there might be cause for complaint, but no one could possibly be injured by sending broadcast Dr. Bourinot's deliverance on such a live question. He (Foster) admitted frankly that the opinion had been given to the press by Premier Bowell and ridiculed the charge that it was done to force Greenway's hand. fact that Mr. McCarthy and Mr. Mills would deprive lieutenant governors of the right to consult high constitutional authorities.

Mr. Martin seized the opportunity to make a ferocious onslaught on Gov-ernor Schultz, and became so violent as to call forth a pointed rebuke from the speaker. When Hon. Mr. Daly rose in his place and denied the truth of one of his charges, Martin excitedly replied "I don't care whether it is true or not." In the course of his remarks he said he would take Mr. Mc-Carthy's opinions on constitutional that of Dr. Bourinot, and asked Mr. Foster if the Manitoba school question was not a

It being six o'clock the speaker left the chair.

The debate was kept up till 10 o'clock, when a motion to adjourn was NOTES.

The public accounts committee had a stormy session today, and the chairman had his hands full trying to maintain order. Messrs. McMullen, Lister, Davies, Mulock and other lib erals grew so outrageous in heir attacks on the travelling expenses of ministers that Sir Richard Cartwright had to call them down. He said in his most pointed manner that he did not believe in cabinet ministers travelling in such cheap style as to discredit the country.

Sir Richard Cartwright moved for all correspondence in relation to the Fredericton bridge, and that Mr. Temple, M. P., be called before the committee to give evidence. This was adopted, as was Mr. Foster's motion that Edward Jack of Fredericton be also summoned to appear.

(From a member of the Sun staff.) Ottawa, May 10.-The resumption of the budget debate was delayed till 4.30 this afternoon by a lively discussion which arose out of the remarks with which Mr. Davies supplemented his demand that the government should instantly inform the house as to the exact state of the negotiations Newfoundland. He took for his text telegrams from Newfoundland into-day's papers, and charged that the government were trying to perpetrate the crime of getting the ancient colony into the Canadian confederacy without an appeal to the people at the polls. He further enquired if the government of Newfoundland had asked for a reply to its ultimatum and what was the nature of the ulti-

Hon. Mr. Foster met the P. E. Island literal's attack by formally refusing to place anything before parliament with respect to the negotiations until they had reached the final stage. He then proceeded to show up the tactics of the liberal leaders, who, while posing as advocates of the union of Newfoundland, were doing all in their power to prevent its consummation by assuring the people of Canada that the islanders were paupers and the people of Newfoundland that Canadians had been robbed and ruined by conservative taxation and conservative extravagance. He said he would, however, give one piece of information, namely, that the government of Canada had received many telegrams and that a reply had been sent to the last telegram received.

This pleasantry on Hon. Mr. Foser's part aroused the ire of Sir Richard Cartwright, who fumed to his feet and accused the finance minster of gross deceit, a remark that he had to retract on the call of the speaker. Sir Richard tried to make it appear that his words were only in reference to Foster's failure to produce the supplementry estimates on a given day, but the house laughed ironically at the gallant knight's explanation.

Mr. Mills of Bothwell contended that Mr. Davies stood on solid constitutional ground in demanding that parliament had the right to know the exact terms of the negotiations. He charged that the admission of Newfoundland in the way proposed would be the funeral of the conservative

Hon. Dr. Montague in a brilliant speech showed the ridiculous position which Mr. Mills had placed himself by affirming that parliament should be consulted before the completion of the negotiations, which could only take effect after the house had approved of their every detail. He said the opposition had only raised another tempest a teapot, and that no negotiations of this kind could be carried on if made public before the proper time. This was Dr. Montague's most eloquent speech so far this session, and he was repeatedly cheered by the conservative benches.

Mr. Laurier, who said Dr. Montague had evaded the real issue, backed up Mr. Davies' contention, so far as to urge that the people of Canada had as much right to know what was going on as the people of Newfoundland, He eulogized Mr. Davies' persistence in this matter, but regretted it was not equal to the inertia of the govern-

Mr. Foster in his reply carried the war into Africa in a manner that evoked cheer after cheer. He exposed the inconsistencies of the opposition on this and other questions, and tak-ing up the issue itself, demonstrated that the government were following the British practice in refusing to make public negotiations with another country before they had been concluded. After expressing regret that the opposition leaders in their zeal to attack the government and discredit it before the country had taken their stand so far from constitutional ground, the finance minister eloquently warned them they had hard work before them ere they reached the desired haven. They had to rid themselves of incapacity in the very vital parts of their policy. They had got to get a fisca! policy, something the better people could understand, something hey could understand themselves (Cheers.) He reminded them that their record was not a good one, and that not many years ago they sailed so close to treason that the people would never forget it. When the time came, whatever their policy, whatever their actics, the conservative party were prepared for them at the polls. (Great

Mr. Davies, red in the face trembling with emotion, jumped to his feet, and, pounding the desk, accused Mr. Foster of having demonstrated his utter lack of the qualities a premier should possess.

Mr. Martin, who followed him, spoke after recess till eleven o'clock. He tried to rival Sir Richard Cartwright as a financial critic and Messrs. Mc Mullen and Davies in their denunciation of the finance minister.

Mr. Taylor moved adjournment of the debate, which will be resumed on Monday and continued from day to day till concluded.

NOTES. Premier Greenway and Attorney General Sifton will be here next week, no doubt in connection with the Manitoba school question. The inland revenue for April was $748,923, against $437,670 for April, 1894.

Major Markham left this afternoon for Montreal. Mr. Perry has four notices on today's paper about the Miminigash breakwater, the collection of dues at Tignish breakwater, and the fog at North Cape. The tactics of the opposition in wasting day after day in idle and irrelevant talk lend color to the growing b lief that the session will run well through the summer. There is good reason for believing that before the Manitoba legislature meets again on June 13th a compromise on the school question will have been reached. It is said today on good authority that negotiations to that end are in progress.

Hon. Mr. Ives made a keen reply to Mr. Davies, and after Mr. McMullen had tried to tell a funny story, but miserably failed, the debate dropped. It will be some time, however, be-fore the effects of this, the hottest episode of the session, will pass away. Hon. Mr. Dickey then resumed th adjourned budget debate, and was folowed by Mr. Martin, who had the floor at six o'clock. Hon. Mr. Dickey made an excellent speech, calm, argumentative and vell delivered. The report from Winnipeg that his excellency the governor general had confidentially made certain suggestions to Premier Greenway with reference to the situation does not excite surprise here. If any such con tions were made they would be entirely of an unofficial character and therefore not likely to be published. It would be only natural on the part of those who have most to do with guiding public opinion on this subject that they should obtain the calm and unprejudiced views, free from any party bias and therefore strictly impartial, of some such important personage as his excellency. An interim copyright on The Universe, a book, has been granted Kendrick D. Lottimer, Fredericton. It is intended to at once improve the ings banks on the 30th April amounted to $17,055,044, the deposits during the month having been $261,367; drawals, $304,078.

The customs receipts during the nonth of April show a considerable increase, the figures being $2,896,500, against $2,442,538 in April last year. The expenditure on account of consolidated fund during the month was $2,375,801. During April, 1894, the expenditure was $2,183,624. The surplus of expenditure over ordinary expen diture in April was $520,699; in April. 1894, the apparent surplus was $258,914. For the ten months, however, the apparent surplus was but $1,228,806, as against $4,773,003 at the corresponding date last year. The retrenchment ac complished during the month of April is practically illustrated in the comparative statement of capital expenditure. This during April, 1894, amounted to $208,278, as compared with but $57,798 last month. If, too, the revenues have shrunk during the year the expenditure on capital account has also been kept down. To the 30th of April, 1894, the expenditure under this head was $4,060,618. At the close of the ten months of the current fiscal year it had reached but $3,330,994.

Last year the offerings were 1,200 boxes, with no sales; 10 1-4 bid; salesmen holding for more.

Peterboro, Ont, May 7.—The first meeting of the cheese board for this eason was held today in the Council chamber, with a fair attendance of buyers. The opening of the season's cheese sales west at at 7 to 7 1-4c, or 3c below the opening a year ago, suggests to the Trade Bulletin a reference to the season of 1879-80, when the price went down to 5 and 6c. But that was abnormal, and there was a reaction to 11 and 12c, and one large holder bagged a profit of $200,000. Some Montreal exporters think the price will drop as low as 6c this season, but they do not look for any 11 or 122 rate

SACKVILLE CHURCH LADIES. A Sackville correspondent of May 11th writes: The young ladies of St. Paul's church, assisted by a few of their friends, gave a very successful entertainment last evening. The programme opened with Howell's farce, The Mouse Trap, which was carried through in a very spirited manner The shrieks at the discovery of the supposed mouse were sufficiently realistic to cause numerous sympathetic shivers among the feminine portion of the audience. The leading parts were taken by Miss Emillie Willis and Fred Walker with great acceptance. tableaux were all extremely well put on and were decidedly the best yet given in the Music hall. The costumes were very artistic, the posing good and lights well managed. The series Night and Morning, and the Two Sides of Life were particularly good ropsy Turvy was executed with great zead by a number of little boys, and the amusing alternation of a row of broadly smiling faces and a medley vigorously kicking heels brought down the house. The pantomime of Bachelor perhaps showed the histrionic abilities of the young people to the Miss Laura Deacon est advantage. of the Ladies' college kindly rendered the song Happy Days, to which Miss Heartz played a charming violin obligato. Miss Deacon's fine, full soprano roice never sounded to better advantage, and she responded to an enthus iastic encore with a very taking Spanish song. Miss Susan Cogswell acco panied on the piano very acceptably, bringing out in the second song the guitar like effect of the music very distinctly. Miss Alice White, also from Mt. Allison, gave a humorous recital, Tom Sawyer Administering Pain Kil ler to His Aunt's Cat, extremely well, and answered her hearty encore with Tit For Tat, also a humorous selection. The performance closed with a tiny little girl appearing in her robe de nuit, with a lighted candle in one chirbby hand, while with the other she threw kisses to the audience and wished them "good night." In spite of the storm there was a good attendince and a neat sum was realized. Men attending the pans in salt works are never known to have cholera, smallpox, scarlet fever or influ-

What the Reports Show-John E. Irvine Appointed on the Nominating Committee.

Springfield, Mass., May 8.-The Young Men's Christian association in national convention was formally called to order at 3.30 this afternoon in the State street Baptist church. G. N. Bierce of Dayton, Ohio, the Ohio president, presided and opened with a brief address of welcome, saying that the Y. M. C. A. could look back over its past with thanksgiving and look forward to the future for better progress. The next business was the appointment of a nominating committee consisting of one member from each state, territory and province to bring in a list of officers for the convention. The following list was brought in and unanimously approved: President, Henry M. Moore of Boston; vice-presi dents, John E. Irvine of St. John, N. B.; Jas. Stoker of New York; Henry Merry of California; S. W. Woodward of Washington; J. W. Gilhully of Colerado; Prof. Dobyns of Mississippi; S. P. Fenn of Ohio; Geo. Rutherford of Ohio; secretary, Wilbur H. Dakota. Rev. William Chauncey Langdon of Providence, in speaking, said that he was present to bring words of welcome and a message from the first convention held in Cincinnati in 1855, and at which he was present. After his address the convention adjourned. The reports show an aggregate membership of 244,000, a very slight decrease since 1893, which is more than

BANG WELL Will Recommend the Adoption of the Score Card System.

Also That Winners of First Prizes Have the Option of Money or Diploma.

As announced in the Sun a few days ago, committees from the Farmers and Dairymen's association and the Exhibition association met in the office of the latter on Canterbury street Friday afternoon to discuss the adrisability of introducing the score card system for judging live stock, and lairy, agricultural and horticultural products.

The Farmers' committee was comosed of W. W. Hubbard, Major Montgomery Campbell and H. B. White. mong the members of the exhibition association present were S. S. Hall, chairman, C. A. Eeverett, J. A. S. Mott, Dr. Thos. Walker, Dr. J. T. Steeves, Dr. Frink, S. T. Golding, Ira Cornwall and Major Tucker.

W. W. Hubbard introduced the subject for discussion by presenting the reason urged by the farmers' association for adopting the system, as foltion for adopting the system, as follows:

The score card system of judging assists in establishing—

(1) A uniform standard of value for each class of exhibits: By agreement a certain standard of value is taken; for instance, the St. John market, or in the case of cheese, the English market. The cards are made out by this standard and all exhibits judged by it. Where judges are put on under the old system it has frequently happened that each judge judged entirely by his own individual taste, oftentimes without regard to the demands of the market or any other other standard.

(2) The avoidance of different standards of individual tastes by different judges, and of partiality to exhibitors. The judge has to leave the record of his judgment on each exhibit, and he has not nearly the same chance to be partial where he has to deliver his judgment in detail, and so explain it as if he had no details to bother him, and did not have to leave a record.

(3) Greater fairness and impartiality than any other system. The decision, after the adding up of the points he has given is manifestly an account of the two arguments stated above, apt to be fair and impartial; and more satisfactory to the exhibitor, because the reason of the scoring is given on the card.

(4) A greater educational value for the exand more satisfactory to the exhibitor, because the reason of the scoring is given on the card.

(4) A greater educational value for the exhibition. The score of each exhibit, as it stands on the card, in comparison with a perfect score, shows at a glance to both exhibitor and visitor in what points the exhibitor and visitor in what points the exhibitor and visitor in what points the exhibition that cannot be got without this score card. It enables the exhibitor, from seeing his defect, to so correct his practice that he may buy articles another year that will score closer to the standard, thus giving an impetus to improvement in every class. And what is better, it will be an intelligent improvement; he will know just what points he most needs to improve, and it will enable him to duplicate his best products.

(5) A greater attractiveness for the visitor. The system of nameless exhibits and unexplained awards gives the visitor no information in detail. The show can be seen, but in much the same way as a book can be sen by looking at its cover. The score card system opens the book and gives all the details of the story.

(6) The means of providing a valuable record of the character and relative standing of exhibits. The press could arrange to tabulate the scoring of exhibits and present them to the public, and so provide a record of the exhibition that would not only be very valuable to the exhibitors themselves, but very interesting to all farmers.

(7) A valuable example to our local shows. And lastly from the point of view of our association it would be an illustration highly instructive to the officers of our agricultural societies and enable them to carry out the system in their local shows.

The subject was fully discussed by the gentlemen present.

The subject was fully discussed by the gentlemen present. Messrs. Hall and Cornwall stated that at the last exhibition the judging of horses and Jersey cattle, which was done by the score card, gave by all odds the most satisfaction. Major Campbell urged the value of the system from an educative stand-

After full discussion it was resolved that the conference recommend to the directors of the Exhibition association the advisability of introducing the core card system in all departments of agricultural exhibits.

Another matter was tken up, and it was also resolved to recommend the advisability of giving owners of first prizes the option of taking either money or diploma.

FOR SOUSA'S BAND.

The management of Sousa's band have arranged with the Oratorio society for the society to give two choruses each night at the two concerts to be given by them in St. Andrew's rink in this city on June 4th and 5th. The society does not expect to give a concert this spring, but will probably arrange for a grand musical festival during the exhibition week in the autumn. The society will therefore make the band concerts take the place of its usual June festival. Never in the history of the society will it be heard to better effect, for it will be accompanied by the full band of fifty ieces, and the choruses being all popular ones and selected with care as to the different works, so as to give the audience a knowledge of the different composers. The society commence regular practice on Monday night, and will soon have them perfect, as they are familiar to each member. The choruses selected are: All Men, All Things, Hymn of Praise. Mendelssohn; The Heavens are Telling, Creation, Haydn; Thanks be to God, Elijah, Mendelssohn; Hallelujah, Messiah, Handel.

B., who do not know Mr. H. H. Warman, the popular agent for agricultural machinery of Molus River. A Review representative was in conversation with Mr. Warman recently, when the subject of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was incidentally touched upon. Mr. Warman said he was a staunch believer in their curative properties, and to justify his opinion he related the cure of his sister, Miss Jessie Warman, aged 15, who, he said, had been "almost wrested from the grave by Dr. Williams' Pink ing for nearly a year with troubles incident to girlhood. She suffered from severe and almost constant headaches, dizziness, heart palpitation, and was pale and bloodless, and eventually be-came so weak and emaciated that her parents thought she was in consumption, and had all but given up hope of her recovery. Her father, Mr. Richard Warman, who is a well to do farmer, spared no expense to procure relief for the poor sufferer. available medical relief was employed, but no relief came, and although parents were almost in despair they still strove to find the neans of restoring their loved one to health. Mr. Warman, like everybody else who reads the newspapers, had read of the many marvellous cures effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but !ike some others looked upon these stories as "mere patent medicine advertise-However, as everything else had failed he determined that Pink Pills should be given a trial, with a result no less marvellous than that of many other cases related through the press. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the completely cured the young lady, it. so that in a few months, from a helpless and supposedly dying girl, she has become a picture of health and activity. The Warman family is so well known in this part of the count ry that no one would think of disputing any statement made by any of its members. Mr. H. H. Warman, on account of his business as salesman for agricultural machinery, is personally acquainted with nearly everybody in the county, and we fell assured that any inquiries made of him concerning the statements made above will be readily answered. The gratifying results following the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the case of Miss Warman prove that they are unequalled as a blood builder and nerve tonic. In the case of young girls who are pale or sallow, listless, troub-led with a fluttering or palpitation of the heart, weak and easily tired, no time should be lost in taking a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which will speedily enrich the blood and bring a rosy glow of health to the cheeks. THAT SUSSEX AFFAIR.

With reference to the paragraph in Friday's Sussex correspondence of the Sun, relative to C. H. Fairweather and Rev. H. W. Little, this paper is informed by a Sussex man that the statement was in some respects incorrect. Mr. Fairweather as church war den did not, he says, serve on the tenant in question a notice to quit, but The tendency of all the markets apthe notice simply contained a caution to Mr. Anderson that it would be advisable for him to treat with the cor poration of Trinity church as well as with Mr. Little in regard to his occu pancy of the glebe lands, as in the event of the corporation being sustained in the suit against Mr. Little he might otherwise suffer loss. It was this gentleman says, merely a matter of consideration for Mr. Anderson that Mr. Fairweather visited the place. After Mr. Andreson had read the paper, and while he and Mr. Fairweather were conversing about it , Mr. Little came out of the rectory and ordered Mr. Fairweather off the grounds. Upon the latter's replying that he would go when he was ready,

THE WISE AND THE OTHERWISE.

In one of his recent books Mr. Leslie Stephen gives it as his opinion that the knowledge attained by the wise can never be communicated to the multitude.

Ah, yes. But who are the "wise' and who belong to the "multitude?" That's about as tough a question to settle as to say who are saints and who are sinners. Things are so mixed, you know. Can we ever be sure we are wise? Is it ever absolutely safe to call another man a fool? Who-soever can decide that is a wise man -and perhaps the only one in all the Queen's dominions

Was our good friend Mr. Samuel Nicholls a wise man to permit him-self to suffer pain for eleven years? No, not perfectly so. Nobody suffers pain if he can help it. He couldn't help it, because he lacked just one bit of knowledge—how to stop it. He knows now; but, alack-a-day, who shall restore time gone? Wise people learn from the experience of others. Possibly here's a lesson for you and

We can do no more than skim the surface of it Mr. Nicholls's story; the whole of it would make a book. harvest time, 1880, he felt dull, sleepy and fagged. Both body and mind were heavy and low like the atmosphere before a thunderstorm. And for him the storm was coming. Presently pain took him in the knees, which swelled up so badly he could hardly stir. The pain in the muscles of his right arm and shoulder; not a mere grumbling ache, but pain so intense that he uses the adjective "frightful" in describing

Later on his hands became so swolen and drawn out of shape that he couldn't hold a fork or a spade (he works on a farm). "I was so stiff in the joints of my legs," he says, 'that used to stand up at the dinner table.

Take another expression, quoted literally from his own account: "On certain occasions the pain was so bad that I have hollered for eighteen hours at a time, and have fainted as I sat before the fire."

In mercy's name, try to fancy that! It makes one's heart sore with pity for him; even now, when it's all over and gone. A martyr on the rack couldn't have suffered worse. Mr. Nicholls says he got little or no sleep when he had these bad attacks, and often sat up or tried to walk about, instead of going to bed. He was never free from pain; and even when at his best-when the diseas was giving him a kind of let-up or respite-he had great difficulty in get ting about his work, and did but little at that.

We are not to suppose that our friend went through all this without an effort for relief. Quite the contrary. consulted the doctors and applied hot noultices and other things in that line. such as embrocations, rubbing bottles,

Now remember that we have merely glanced at this case. The reader's imagination must picture its full history. It covers years enough to make man old-to make him resemble ship that has stuck on the rocks and been hammered by the gales of half a score of winters. It is a wonder that he should have had anything left to build on, or any balance of courage or

Here's the conclusion in few words his own words, too: "In August, 1891," he says, "a little book happened to fall into my hands, telling about a medicine known as Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, and I read in it of a case like mine being cured by this Syrup. I got a bottle from Mr. J. F. Cook, chemist, Holbeach, and after taking it a few days some of the stiffness and pain went out of my joints. I kent on and not long afterwards I was as right as any man can be. have had no ache or pain since, nearly eighteen months. (Signed) Samue Nicholls, The Glebe Farm, Hougham, near Grantham, January 31st, 1893."

Isn't it a comfort to know that such a case can be cured? "Yes, yes," say we, all of us. It was chronic inflam Now for the golden lesson it teache Rheumatism is a result and symptom of a torpid stomach and liver—indiges tion and dyspepsia. The only way to

A HEARTLESS WIFE.

The Dying Declaration of Edward Darling Filed in New York.

A Very Damaging Statement Against Dr. Spranger.

Darling, According to His Mother, Wa Poisoned by Doctor and Wife.

New York, May 12.-The dying dec laration of Edvard Darling, music composer, has been filed in the district attorney's office in the case in which Mrs. Flora Darling, mother of Ed ward Irving Darling, accuses Dr. Spranger of having poisoned her son. Soon after the death of Darling, Dr. Spranger married his widow. They are now in California. The affidavit made by Edward Irving Darling was written partly by himself in the presence of witnesses a few hours before his death. In this he tells how in December, 1890, he met with an accident when attempting to save property for the firm by which he was employed in Detroit. He recovered rapidly and returned to business on March 1st, 1891.

Dr. Oleetz was the surgeon and Dr. Spranger the physician who attended him. He declared that the intimacy between Spranger and Mrs. Darling his wife, began during his illness. Darling said that his wife's peculiar actions began in the spring of 1892, when she became acquainted with Dr. Spranger, and up to that time his health was perfect. Early in March he had a severe attack of what was called cholera morbus. He did not seem to recover, but kept attending to business. Dr. Spranger, he said, frequently gave him medicines which seemed to afford temporary relief, but ultimately left him in a worse condition. In a few weeks his weight from 148 pounds went down to 95 pounds. He was sick without being able to find out what was the matter.

The statement continues: "June 1. 1892, Miss Clayton came to my house to write The Viking. We continued at the work until July 4, when my wife came into absolute possession of an estate yielding an income of about $12,-000 annually. We left for Washington July 5th; went to the Ebbitt house. The day after our arrival I had a most violent buoyant attack, nearly dying, We returned to Detroit July 18th. During the time we were in Washington Mrs. Darling developed an entirely new phase of character. She did not wish to see any of our friends." Dar-ling declared that his wife continued to grow vindictive and abusive with-out the slightest provocation. This treatment continued after their return to Detroit, where he grew worse.

The statement continues as follows: "The variety and quantity of drugs he (Dr. Spranger) poured into me was sufficient to justify classing me as an annex to his labratory. He gave me no prescriptions, only medicines. My mother and aunts came to me. They were not welcomed or desired by Mrs. Darling. Dr. Spranger told them that I had Bright's disease of the kidneys. They did not accept his opinion. Mr. Spranger called in two of his friends -Dr. Oleetz aind Dr. Long. They at the time did not concur with him. Dr. Spranger told me to continue taking the whiskey. I had some of the whiskey that was given me at that time analyzed and it was found to contain antimony. My mother is a witness that she saw my wife pour the contents of a small vial of yellow powder into the decanter used by me at my "bedside."

She, with the children, were to go to Washington. She did not go. Soon as I left she filed a bill for absolute divorce for 'drunkenness, non-support, cruelty and disser tion,' which she expected to obtain with money through default. On June 26 she joined me in New York, came to my rooms of her own notion, and lived with me as a devoted wife until March 12. I was at work on the Viking. The day she left I was taken violenty ill, and have failed slowly, but surely-I am dying without hope or

CRANBERRY CULTURE.

The subject of cranberry cultivation in this province is one of increasing interest: it is talked about, comes casually into business and friendly corespondence; and, as you are well aware, forms the text for not a few newspaper articles, most of which take a hopeful view of the situation, the noted communication in the Colchester Sun, and reproduced in a recent issue of this paper, being about the only ex-

The encouraging accounts from the Annapolis valley, where the cranberry meadows are reported to be giving good returns for capital and labor in vested, with the long prevailing and general impression that cranberry growing in portions of the eastern States has been the best paying business in the line of tilling the soil, have led to expectations that this industry would be more extensively prosecuted

The cranberry is regarded with special favor, almost patriotic, as roduct adapted to these northern latitudes, by the agency of which waste lands will be brought under profitable cultivation and made clear gain to the arable acre age and agricultural resources of the country. It is crop which does no displace others by taking up old cultivated ground, drawing on the stores of plant food there and scarcely on the available supply of fertilizers. In these respects it is almost self-ustaining Like the fisheries it has a realm of ts own, and employs capital and labor without crowding other occupa-

In the days of mythology it might have been promoted to a niche, now, however, it is chiefly looked upon from the nickel point of view.

The best authority on cranberry growing in the States, or who is so rated, J. J. White, does not agree with the evident meaning of one assertion made in the Colchester Sun. That is that "the proportion of failures to suc cess in crarberry growing is greater than in the cultivation of any other berry, and the loss is heavier because the expense is more;" but says, "The cranberry business is no longer looked upon as speculative. It now takes rank among those legitimate occupations which make good returns for well bestowed labor, but like any other ousiness, to be pursued profitably, it must be conducted upon right principles and with strick attention to details. The failures attending the attempts to extend cranberry growing outside of the favored Annapolis valley may have been largely due to improper management. Such it may be inferred was the case in the Prince Edward Island ven to be dead, and have since had no herries' Moisture is an essential condition eeded in the growth of cranberries, and the neglect to provide a supply of water, sufficient at least for irrigation purposes, seems to have been a remarkable oversight. In referent to the danger of overproduction, with a consequent ruinous falling off in prices, it may be mentioned that circumstances exist unfavorable to such turn of events. In the first place the business of cranberry cultivation requires considerable capital to start with, and those engaging in it should be able and willing to lay out of returns from the investment for at least years, and base three calculations for a return of the outlay and profits from the undertaking, more on following it up and selling the fruit than on selling the meadows, as buy- John's. This was the order of proers of such properties likely would be few in proportion to the number who clear up the medows and plant them. A majority of farmers seem to prefer a crop that can be gathered in a few months after planting, and to keep their money more in hand.

Judging by the history of other lines of fruit growing, extensive operations in this one promise to be left in the hands of a limited number of opera-tors, having the needed means and staying qualities. In this country of small areas of suitable ground overproduction could hardly follow. The assertion that "the home market in Nova Scotia is worthy of no eration" probably will be taken as it is liked. Yet, as this market about absorbs the whole supply, it is not doing so very badly after all. Nevertheless the market for this berry in western Canada is certainly worth looking after and holding, as the demand shows. If, as might be expected, during the late years of low prices for the bulkler farm products, considerable specula-tive attention has been drawn to cranberry growing in the Eastern States, and the business is likely to be overdone, the people of these provinces should not be unduly concerned about that matter, otherwise than 'o raise this fruit like smoke and to hold the growing market of the west against their neighbors over the border. The duty will help them to do so, and it appears to be their duty to do so. If the berries are not raised here they will be 'elsewhere. Whatever may be the future of the cranberry trade, cheapness of production offers to be the main test in selecting ground for meadows. This consideration brings to mind the Shepody marshes, one source of supply of wild cranberries, and which has been entioned in this connection before. The comparative small portions of to take any more medicine. He be- the extensive lands which grow these berries it is thought might be improv-

This variety grows on the marsh 3od, and he fact that it has taken hold , and lourished unaided proves that the soil as wholly, or in part, the proper proportions of sand, vegetable matter and other constituents needed for the growth of wild cramberries at least. So far as is generally known it may be the best cranberry ground in th world. If its capacity in this line has been tested by cultivation, or ever early varieties have been planted and left without further attention, the sults of the experiments have not been nuch talked about.

The account of such an endeavor and how it turned out would be a satisfaction to inquisitive people and form a valuable item in the statistics of fruit growng.

The hay bearing portions of thos marshes, nearly all their area, when in proper condition yield a heavy erop, which, experienced cattle feeders say makes a more nutritious fodder than is gathered from the best upland or irtervale hav fields. So the cranberries growing there are finer fruit than the native stock on the uplands, from which they prung The cranberries, too, are an in ment on those of the bogs bordering the uplands, from which they derived. So there are grounds for inferring that proper cultivation is about all that is required in order to produc cranberries on those marshes, either equal to any in the market, or else superior to the wild growth. Though a lower average summe temperature prevails along the shore of the Bay of Fundy than in many other parts of the two provinces, hav ing a more all-round genial climate, yet early fall frosts are not so prevalent in the first named region.

A Hartland, Carleton Co., correspondent writes: This community has been much interested in the circumstances surrounding the death of Oscar Thistle, who was burned so seriously in the recent fire at Victoria corner that the result, after many days of intense suffering, was fatal. The funeral took place on Wednesday last. A large number of friends gathered at the house of J. C. Yorke, where the deceased had been from the time of his burning till death ensued. A service was said there by Rev. Canon Neales, who had attended the dead man during his sufferings. The remains were brought across the river and met on the Hartland side by contingents of the Orangemen and Foresters, to each of which orders the deceased belonged. The Foresters had their rites in the station house while waiting for the train. The body was then borne to Andover. The chief mourners were Thomas, L. J., Chas. and William Thistle, sons; W. E. Thistle of Hartland, brother: Mrs. G. W. Cox, Mrs. Frank Bishop, sisters; Mrs. Wm. Thistle, mother, and Wm. Bedell, brother-in-law. The pall-bearers were J. B. Bowser, Fred Boyer, J. C. Yorke, J. F. Allbright. At Andover services were held by Rev. Scovil Neales and Canon Neales and by the order of Foresters. Last evening a special memorial service was held in the Methodist church which had been kindly lent for the purpose to Canon Neales and the church congregation. An excellent sermon was preached by Canon Neales, who dwelt on the upright life led by the deceased and the good example he had left the people. A service under the auspices of the Church of England will be held here every month henceforth. Thistle had $3,000 insurance on his life with the I. O. F. His sufferings at the last were very intense. L. J. Thistle, one son, is engaged in the lithographing business in Lowell, lark.

r. J. Walters' Case and the Charges Made Against Him.

(From a member of the Sun staff) Ottawa, May 13.-After eighteen actual days' sittings the house this afternoon passed its first bill, an act respecting the Alberta Railway and Coal company, introduced by Sir Donald Smith. The second bill to pass, a purely local Ottawa measure, was also promoted by a belted knight, Sir Jas. Grant.

Mr. Davies today introduced a hill to amend the Elections act by providing that only such ballots shall be ounted as are marked on the white disc. This legislation is intended to prevent a repetition of the ruling of the judge in the recent recount in Quebec West, who admitted enough ballots marked in the blank white space under McGreevy's name to return that gentleman.

From Cadiz, May 4, brig Livonia, Lewis, for Halifax. After routine Mr. Davies asked the leader of the house if the government had been informed that Mr. Bond had left Newfoundland for Ottawa, and did he come here by their invitation. Honi Mr. Foster replied that the government had no official informa tion on the subject. (Laughter). Mr. Davies, with astonishment-None at all?

And then the house roared at his evident discomfiture. Replying to a question, Hon. Mr. Dickey said the government had not granted any Massachusetts society permission to erect a monument at Louisburg intended to commemorate the capture of that fortress from the French in 1745.

Replying to Dr. Borden, Hon. Mr. Montague said the government were aware of the existence of the San Jose a dangerous apple pest in the United States, and would take pre-cautions to prevent its introduction into Canada should occasion arise, but their advices were that it did not infest northern climates.

Hon. Mr. Curran replied that the facts as alleged by the crown were as follows:

1. The Wabash railway case—Waters receiver from the Wabash Railway company as assistant commissioner of customs, six drafts amounting in all to the sum of $543, which, instead of depositing at once in the Bank of Montreal to the credit of the receiver general to the proper customs account, he converted it to his own use.

2. The Blackwood case—Watters had a departmental check for $750, dated 2nd Aug., 1893, made to his own order on pretence that it was all required to pay the expenses of Customs Officer Blackwood to England on official business. This check Watters deposited to his own credit. Out of this sum he paid Blackwood $500. On Blackwood's return from England he refunded Watters $153.95 out of the $500. Watters kept the $250 from the 2nd August, 1893, and the $153.95 from the 2nd August, 1893, and the $153.95 from the 20th September of the same year until 21st September, 1894, when on that day, after an interval of about fourteen months, he deposited the $403.95 to the credit of the receiver general. Halifax, NS, May 10—The Furness line str Halifax City arrived from London this morning. Capt Newton reports, April 29, passed the derelict, ship Bigitte in lat 50N, lon 16 W, from May 3 to 6. Had terrible W to SW gales, with high seas. The captain says he has not met such gales for 18 months. Had fine weather across the Banks to Halifax; passed three icebergs in lat 47.45 N, lon 48 W, but met no other ice. The steamer has a lot of shells and ammunition in her hold and the pitching broke them loose, causing considerable anxiety, but they months, he deposited the $403.95 to the credit of the receiver general.

3. The Durafort case—Watters on the 10th of August, 1894, received $214.16, money of the government, which he converted to his own use, and subsequently on the 22nd of August, 1894, he deposited an equivalent amount to the credit of the receiver general, which deposit was in part made up of checks which he had received as a departmental officer from the Wabash Railway and Maine Central railway, and which latter checks should have been deposited to their proper account.

should have been deposited to their proper account.

4 The Maine Central Railway case—Similar to the Wabash railway case. Watters received five checks of $25 each, which he converted to his own use.

5. The Grand Trunk Railway case—Watters received $80 from the Grand Trunk railway and converted it to his own use.

6. The Watson case—An advance of $25 was made by the customs department to officer J. H. Watson to meet certain travelling expenses. This amount was subsequently paid over to Watters, who, instead of depositing it to the credit of the receiver general, converted it to his own use.

As to what punishment was awarded Watters by the magistrate before Watters by the magistrate before whom he was tried Hon. Mr. Curran said: Watters having made restitution on a plea of guilty was sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the county jail without hard labor. The minister of justice, acting on the advice of counsel, had intimated through him that he considered the ends of justice would be satisfied by the punishment afterwards imposed. Hon. Mr. Ives, in reply to Mr. Davies, made the following statement of interest to the maritime provinces: The subsidy contract with Pickford & Black for the running of the steam ers Duart Castle, Taymouth Castle, Alpha, and Beta between Halifax, St. John and ports in Cuba, Jamaica and the West Indies had been modified and a new contract been enterd into with them under date of the 5th March last. The contract has been signed. The modified contract provides for the services between St. John, Halifax and Demerara via and touching at different West India islands being continued monthly as heretofore. It provides for the continuance as hertofore of the service between Halifax and Jamaica It does not provide for a continuance of the service between Halifax and Cuba as heretofore existing, but it does provide that the Jamaica service upon notice being given to the contractors shall be fortnightly instead of monthly, with monthly calls at a port or ports in Cuba. It also provides upon similar notices being given for the running of a service between Halifax and a port or ports in Hayti, with the option of calling on the homeward voyage at a port or ports in the Island of Cuba, also between Halifax and port or ports in Porto Rico, with the option of calling at ports in Cuba, or in lieu of this latter service, a monthly service between St. John, N. B., via calling at Halifax, to a port or ports in Porto Rico, with the option of calling at a port or ports in Cuba. The subsidy provided for under the new contract is for the Demerara service at the rate of $5,000 each for twelve monthly trips during the year, and a further sum of $3,000 for one extra trip each year if run. Tenders were not called before the modified contract was entered into, for the reason that contractors who are familiar with the routes and ports to be touched at, and who have their business connections established, are more likely to make the enterprise a success and of advantage to Canada than new contractors would be. The contract further provides that the payment of subsidies as stipulated is subject to its being provided by vote of parliament.

Mr. Cockburn wanted to know if the government was aware that twenty millions of dollars are being expended to open up a channel between Lake Michigan and the waters of the Mississippi at Chicago which will discharge ten million cubiq feet of water per second from Lake Michigan thus materially affecting the level of the Canadian lakes and the depth of water in Canadian harbors; that the United States secretary of war had been peti-tioned by the Cleveland chamber of commerce to investigate the matter at once, and that the cities along the lower lakes are being aroused to the danger threatening them. In view of all this he wanted to know if the government intended to take immediate steps to protect dominion interests.

Hon. Mr. Haggart replied: I have directed an enquiry to be made as to what probable effect the channel proposed to be constructed at Chicago would have upon the harbors in Canada and on the Welland and St. Lawrence canals, and the navigation of the lakes. I am awaiting a reply before any steps are taken in the mat-

NEW CANADIAN FLAG. The question of the adoption of a nore expressive national emblem than the present dominion flag has been discussed somewhat during the past year. It is felt by many that the red ensign with a single symbol to represent the dominion is much to be preferred to the present flag, which contains the arms of all the provinces grouped together in such a manner that they are not readily distinguishable on a vessel when seen from a distance. Sir Donald Smith has been devoting some attention to this subject, and the other day called together a number of members of the house of both sides of politics for the purpose of laying his views before them. The desire of those who urge a change is to symbolize the idea of federal unity by substituting a single emblem as for instance the maple leaf or the beaver in place of the present group of provincial arms. Those members of the house who have discussed the subject with Sir Donald were almost a unit in favor of the maple leaf.

Lady Aberdeen has been consulted in the matter and she warmly approves of the idea. Enquiries are now being made as to the most effective way of carrying out Sir Donald's proposal. It will be necessary first of all for our government to approve of the adoption of the flag and then to seek a fiat of the college of heraldry in Great Britain. In order that its use may be legalized on Canadian shirs the approval of the imperial government will be necessary, and a warrant must be obtained under her majesty's hand. The matter will be submitted to the Hon. Mr. Costigan in a few days. A specimen of the suggested new flag was on exhibition in one of the rooms of the house of commons today and was much admired.

NOTES. The following corps are ordered out for drill commencing June 25th: At Sussex-8th cavalry, Brighton engineers, 73rd and 74th battalions.
