TALES OF THE FOREST.

Hunters Coaxed a Moose Aboard a Boat.

When the Night Hawk Club, of Newark, N. J., an organization of sportsmen which visits Maine every spring to fish and each fall to hunt, went into camp this fall about three weeks ago, they crossed Moose Head Lake in the steamer Louise.

This craft makes a stop at Sugar Island, one of the small islands in the lake, and when she landed there on that day the Night Hawks were astonished to see a big cow moose calmly feeding upon the shores of the island. The laws of Maine make it illegal to kill a cow moose, so that the only shooting which they could do was with a camera.

After watching the moose for some minutes, the members of the Newark club thought it would be a good scheme to give the animal a sail up the lake.

They circled about her and coaxed with tempting offers of sugar and potatoes until finally the "old woman," as one of them named her, walked down to the wharf and up the gang plank aboard the steamer. She was fed and appeared quite contented. Even when the lines had been cast off and the boat started on its way across the big inland sea.

When Kinco was reached the "old woman" was the first to ashore, and after walking a short distance up the bank, she turned and bowed, so the sports say, her adieu, and dashed off into the woods.

STREET CLEANING MACHINE

That Is Doing Great Work in German Cities.

A new street cleaner is a machine which not only sprinkles streets, but also cleans and sweeps them. It is the invention of an engineer in Düsseldorf, Germany, and it works automatically.

Its component parts are a sprinkling wagon, a dump wagon and a device for raising dirt from the pavement. The driver, by moving a crank lowers the brush to the ground, and the moment the machine begins to move the brush begins to clean and the dirt is raised and thrown into a dump wagon. When the latter is filled it is uncoupled and replaced by another.

As the dirt is raised the street is sprinkled and in this way dust is avoided. Moreover various experiments have shown that not only ordinary dirt but also large stones and other weighty objects can be removed from the streets in this manner.

This useful machine will work as well in dry as in wet weather and the brush is so constructed that it will thoroughly sweep even streets which have numberless curves and impressions. Horses are now drawing machines of this kind in German cities, but in the near future they will be replaced by motors. Experts say that it costs forty per cent less to clean streets with this machine than by the ordinary methods.

WHAT THEY WEAR.

Across the border, in the land of Uncle Sam, light colors are to be the prevailing fashion, more especially those tints of blue, grey and rose-pink are considered the most up-to-date. A few years ago in winter such light colors would have been considered "impossible," but now they are the tip of the fashion. But in spite of the coming in of light shades, black costumes hold their own. There is a quiet elegance about a black gown that makes it always a favorite. There is an old saying, ask a man what colors he admires most in a woman's gown and he invariably answers, grey or black. Short coats are as fashionable as the long ones, and nearly all of them have tails at the back and the straight front is as fashionable as ever. It is not quite so exaggerated as it was. As a matter of fact, it looks very much as if you could almost put on anything you liked and still be "a la mode."

A LONG FELT WANT.

"I have here," said the long haired theorist as he was ushered into the presence of the railway magnate, "plans for a device that will warn the engineer when any one is crossing the track."

"Can't use it," replied the busy official. "What we want is something that will warn the person who is crossing the track when the engineer happens along that way."—Chicago News.

"Yes, he achieved success so suddenly that we're in trouble. You see, he's a distinguished lawyer, and he's been put on the governor's staff and made honorary head of a yacht club. No one knows whether to call him Judge, general or commodore."—Chicago Post.

FIVE THOUSAND

Killed by the Recent Volcano in Guatemala.

Plantations Worth Millions of Dollars Have Been Utterly Destroyed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 21.—W. J. Campbell, who has just arrived from Guatemala, brings additional details of the damage caused by the recent volcanic disturbance.

"There is no clear idea yet of the loss of life resulting from the eruption of Santa Maria, but I believe five thousand have been killed. There was some talk at San Jose, too, of some refugees having been waylaid by robbers, but I saw no instance of this. I took the first means of getting back to this country, having been impoverished. At San Jose it was said President Cabrera was trying to suppress the news, but evidence of ruin was apparent to everybody.

"Some of the coffee-finca's that have been nearly ruined were worth more than $1,000,000. The plantation of Albert James, which was wiped out, had machinery upon it worth $300,000, all of which is destroyed. Some months ago James refused an offer of $1,500,000. Adolfo Meyer's finca, worth $75,000 in gold, was ruined. Both of these places lay from 20 to 40 miles west of the volcano."

Albert Bardwell, six years old, one of five Guatemala volcano refugees who arrived here on Wednesday, has been run over and killed by an electric car.

TROUBLED SPAIN.

The New Ministry is in Hot Water Already.

MADRID, Nov. 21.—As the uproar in the chamber of deputies yesterday evening, caused by the attack of Senator Romero Robledo on Premier Sagasta continued, the premier withdrew and the president of the house closed the sitting amid protests from the members of the opposition and cries of "There is no government."

There was a stormy sitting in the chamber of deputies yesterday. After a speech by Premier Sagasta, in which he expressed surprise at the interpretation which had been given to the recent ministerial crisis, Senator Robledo reproached the premier with his political antecedents. He declared that Senator Sagasta was not the leader of a party, but the favorite of the king, a statement which occasioned an angry debate.

The Spanish cabinet resigned November 16, and after considerable difficulty Senator Sagasta, on Nov. 14th, formed a new ministry, which took the oath of office Nov. 15.

ICE BOUND.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—A special despatch from St. Petersburg today announces that Baron Toll, who is exploring the Siberian coast line, has been cut off from the coast by early winter ice in New Siberia. No anxiety, however, is felt for his safety, as his expedition is well equipped and will reach the mainland as soon as the ice is strong enough.

Higuchi, chiefs of the naval construction bureau of Japan, has arrived here and will proceed today to Pittsburg, where they will place orders for armor plate. The visitors will spend some time in the eastern navy yards, studying American methods.

THIRTY DROWNED.

VIENNA, Nov. 21.—A Danube steamer loaded with workmen sank off Orsova (a frontier town of Serbia, on an island in the Danube), yesterday evening. Thirty of those who were on board were drowned. Owing to the darkness the boats from the shore were only able to rescue five persons.

STOCK MARKET.

(Latest Reports.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The advance went further here and there, notably in St. Paul, which advanced 3-4 in all to 176-8. Manhattan meanwhile broke to 147-8. The somewhat circumstantial reports of its lease to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company forced large realizing sales on the market. The stock of the latter company, which is dealt in the curb market, jumped 10 points in consequence of the reports. Profit taking sales, coupled with the steady selling of Manhattan then caused a reaction in prices all around buying. At noon the market was more active and higher.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Ballots for the vote on Dec. 4 on the liquor act have been printed and distributed to the returning officers. The ballots for each constituency bear the name of that constituency and are numbered in rotation so that no two ballots in the province will be exactly alike.

DR. GIBBONS

Testifies Before the Anthracite Commission Today.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 21.—The examination of Dr. R. H. Gibbons, of Scranton, Pa., was resumed when the anthracite commission met today. He said that the occupation of a miner subjects a man to risks of pleurisy, gout, asthma, bronchitis and other diseases. He believes the day will come when men will be required to undergo medical examination before they undertake mining. Children, he said, who have suffered from any form of disease of the respiratory passages or bronchial or from pneumonia, should never be permitted in the mines under the age of 15 years, because they should have a chance for the elimination of the predisposing factor in the so-called miner's asthma. Dr. Gibbons then described the surface indications of miner's asthma. He said that he did not mean to be understood as saying that miners form an unhealthy class, but that they are debilitated and run down. He spoke of the necessity of improved ambulance service at the different collieries.

On cross-examination by James H. Derry, for the Delaware & Hudson Co., Dr. Gibbons said that he did not believe there was an ambulance in the entire coal regions which had sterile blankets or was sterile itself.

"In fact," said the doctor, "they are a bunch of infection. Every ambulance carries death and disease to every unfortunate miner who is placed in it."

GIRL "KNOCKED OUT" IN HALIFAX.

(Halifax Recorder.)

A slight case of very rare occurrence in Halifax was witnessed on Argyle street, Wednesday evening, shortly after 6 o'clock. Two young girls, about seventeen years of age, became engaged in a dispute while at work in the same establishment on Wednesday afternoon, and at supper time they waited for each other. Names were exchanged and then came blows. Finally one of the girls struck the other and knocked the wind out of her. The result was that the girl became unconscious and was carried to a doctor's office in the vicinity, where she recovered in a few minutes. The girl who had been the means of the other losing consciousness, became frightened on seeing the girl fall, and she ran quickly home.

NEW GLASGOW YOUTHS.

An incident which almost amounted to a case of piracy occurred at New Glasgow last Saturday night. A couple of youths, bubbling over with the exuberance produced by remaining too long at the bottle, boarded one of the P. E. I. fleet laden with the produce of that fertile island, and casting her adrift, prepared in true sailor fashion to man and sail the ship. Fortunately the area of water being so limited, nothing was shattered but the nerves of the highly frightened crew as they crouched in the fore-castle in blank terror at the noise and "wonderment" of the mischief happening on deck.

AGAINST CO-EDUCATION.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Segregation is to be inaugurated at the University of Chicago after the Christmas vacation. In each of the junior college courses which 30 or more students register the class will be divided on the basis of sex. Thirty is the limit set by the university authorities for the number of students in any class, and in consequence many of the required courses have always to be taught in two or more sections. When segregation is introduced into these courses 60 per cent of the junior college classes will be affected. Eventually the segregated classes will be conducted in different buildings.

ST. STEPHEN NEWS.

The sudden death of John Conley, a well known resident of St. Stephen, was announced Monday morning. Mr. Conley was in his usual health on Sunday and attended divine service during the day.

John Dooley, of St. Stephen, an employee at the St. Croix shoe factory, had his left hand badly crushed in the rollers of a machine at which he was working. The knuckles of the second and third fingers were taken off. Dr. Mire used his X-ray apparatus in dressing the injury and by the aid of the same was able to do a very neat job of surgery.

A SEAFARING SQUIRREL.

(Baltimore American.)

The steamship Romsdale, which arrived yesterday light from Boston, has on board a small animal, the species of which is seldom seen on shipboard. The animal is a common gray squirrel, such as is seen in Druid Hill Park. The little fellow was shipped at Vera Cruz, Mexico, about six months ago, and has since proven himself to be a splendid sailor. In lieu of a forest, the frisky little chap disports himself among the rigging of the big steamship. He is on friendly terms with everybody, and often perches himself on the shoulders of the sailors as they walk about the decks.

A WOMAN "CABBY."

In the New Zealand town of Nelson a woman has been asserting her rights in quite a new direction. A local lady recently secured a cab and horse and entered into competition with the cabs of the town, who at once took alarm and protested that she had no license. This difficulty was quickly overcome, and the lady "cabby" entered the lists on equal terms in that respect. Now with her smart turnout she is securing all the fares she can find time to drive.

GIGANTIC DEAL

To Combine New York Underground and Elevated Lines.

Will Surpass Everything in the History of Municipal Transit.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—In magnitude, the rumored proposition to combine the underground rapid transit railroad now being constructed and the Manhattan Elevated system surpasses anything of the kind in the history of municipal transit, says the Herald.

The Manhattan Elevated Railway system embraces thirty-seven and one-half miles of double tracked road. It is now in process of equipment with electricity, and this work has been nearly completed. It operates 334 locomotives or motors and 1,122 passenger cars. Its authorized capital stock is $48,000,000, of which $47,999,700 has been issued. Its outstanding debt is $39,883,000. In addition to the lines already built, it has franchises for additional extensions in the Bronx.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Co. is the outgrowth of the plans of the operators of the rapid transit tunnel. When John B. McDonald, obtained the contract for the construction of the tunnel, August Belmont formed a syndicate which took the corporate shape of the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company, capital $6,000,000.

A new company, for the specific purpose of operating the rapid transit tunnel and any other tunnel roads or extensions that might be authorized by the rapid transit commission, was created besides, and in pursuance of this idea the Interborough Rapid Transit Company was incorporated on May 6, of the present year. Mr. Belmont also is president of this company. Its capital is $35,000,000. A contract also is held by the Subway Construction Company to build an extension of the tunnel to Brooklyn under the East River.

By the purchase of the Manhattan lines the Subway Company, or its successor, the Interborough Company, would be able to transfer to the elevated at many points where the lines cross each other, thus forming a permanent network covering the entire island.

Statistics of the companies believed to be under process of amalgamation show a total stock issue of $89,000,000, and a bond issue of $39,000,000. The mileage foots up 97.75.

THAT BOYCOTT.

The Tide is Setting in Strongly Against it.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The extremists in the trades assembly, who are trying their best to have the boycott against the Schenectady railway Company made effective, now make no secret of their belief that if the united traction employees of Albany and Troy do not come to their aid, they will lose their case entirely. The action of the trades assembly last evening, in declaring against the boycott with practical unanimity, has taken away the last support from under the labor men, who have for a long time endeavored to foment strife between the trades assembly and the railway, and all eyes are now turned to the Albany local office, Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees, which will be held on Monday evening of next week. Six delegates from the trades assembly are to be present. They will be designated by Pres. H. V. Jackson, who is expected to head the delegation, and he will make a last attempt before the association to stem the tide setting in so strongly against the boycott.

PLEA FOR THE SOLDIERS.

In a recent speech in Montreal Lord Dundonald made a strong plea for the men who have returned from South Africa only to find their old situations filled by stay-at-homes and new ones hard to get. He said in part: I will touch upon only one point more. There are here amongst you many who have power to assist the Canadian soldiers who have gone to the front and in some cases have lost their employment through their absence.

Instances of the evil he mentions are not unknown in St. John. Right here there are men who, throwing up good positions to take their places in the firing line, came back after winning glory for themselves and their country and were made acquainted with the fact that glory is not nourishing in the place of three good meals a day. They were cheered and praised and feted enough the day they came back, but the next day they were forgotten, and the patriotic citizen who had yelled himself hoarse in honor of the man in khaki coldly showed the same man the door when he came in civilian clothes and asked for a job.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

The attitude of the Moncton Transcript in relation to provincial politics is a peculiar one. That paper has professed to have little or no faith in Messrs. Tweedie and Pugsley, yet would apparently support them if they would run the local elections on federal lines. Mr. Pugsley, in his interview which the Telegraph published, said the fight would be largely on federal lines, but the Chatham Advance, which is Mr. Tweedie's organ, flatly denies the statement and professes to believe that Mr. Pugsley did not make it at all. The Transcript should be able to see clearly that an attempt is being made to humbug both liberals and conservatives; and should therefore, in the public interest, condemn the guilty ones. This it has not done, but, on the contrary, in the article which the Star quoted yesterday, professes to believe that there is a conservative plot to injure Mr. Blair. Why should the Transcript turn its back upon obvious facts and conjure up imaginary issues? Either Messrs. Pugsley and Tweedie deserve to be supported, or they deserve to be defeated, on the merits of their administration. The honest attempt made by the conservatives to divide on federal lines some years ago was scornfully rejected by the government which the Transcript heartily supported. Mr. Emmerson is not now in the field, and the Transcript cannot pretend, if it supports Messrs. Tweedie and Pugsley, that it is supporting liberals. There is of course no truth in the story which the Transcript published yesterday to the effect that the conservatives were plotting to capture the provincial government. Mr. Hazen asks liberals and conservatives to unite in defeating the government. He does so in good faith, and there will be liberals as well as conservatives on the opposition side. One of these liberals, Mr. F. M. Anderson, the Transcript has itself heartily endorsed since he was nominated in St. John county. The Star is reluctant to believe that the Transcript is now seeking an excuse to support a government which it has so sharply criticised. That sort of thing should be left to the opportunist press, which the Transcript so strongly condemns.

Winnipeg is having a heavy argument over the wickedness or otherwise of running street cars on Sunday. In this connection the Free Press has been asking for a vote on the question, through its columns, and the other day that paper received a vote, all the way from St. John, in favor of Sunday running.

THE COAL INQUIRY.

The Commission Now Hearing About the Health of Miners.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 20.—The economic and sociological features of the anthracite coal industry and the effect that employment in and about the mines has upon the health of the mine workers, were the principal subjects brought before the arbitration commission today by the attorneys of each side in the controversy. While there was an entire absence of oratory and brilliant examination which marked the proceedings during the last four days, the cross-examination nevertheless closely held the attention of the commissioners and they gained much information on the several features touched upon by witnesses.

The afternoon session was particularly interesting because it brought out much expert testimony on the question of the health of the mine workers. Three physicians who have practiced in Scranton or Wilkesbarre took the stand for the miners and in substance testified that the occupation of a mine worker was "very unhealthful" and shortened his life. One physician, Dr. F. P. Lennahan of Wilkesbarre, who says he has had a long experience among mine workers, testified fully 99 per cent of the men who work in the mines are anemic. Their health is impoverished and their general condition is below par, thus increasing their earning powers. The principal illustration offered by the miners, the physicians said, were miners' asthma, rheumatism, lumbago and sciatica. Miners' asthma comes from coal dust, powder smoke and vitiated air. Dr. John O'Malley of Scranton said that as postmortems he had seen miners' lungs as black as anthracite itself, and Dr. Lennahan testified he had personal knowledge of a man coughing up coal dust nine years after he left the mines. He said he had information that a man had coughed up coal dust 15 years after he had left the mines. It was also stated that 90 per cent of miners who reach the age of 50 years are afflicted with some form of rheumatism.

CHEAP LABOR COAL.

A meeting of the people who put up their money to bring soft coal here will be held tonight in Labor Hall, when the matter of bringing hard coal to St. John will be discussed. The laborers somewhat critical look as they pass by each session of the commission finds the hearing room jammed with interested persons. The commissioners continue to hold daily conferences, but what is discussed is as a rule strictly withheld from the public.

The body was recovered about an hour after the accident.

HARVEST SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT.

At St. Mary's Church Last Evening Very Largely Attended.

St. Mary's Church annual harvest supper and entertainment was held last evening and was a most enjoyable affair; in fact one of the most successful in the history of the church, which must be extremely gratifying to the rector, Rev. W. O. Raymond, and the ladies and gentlemen who worked so hard to make it a success. Rev. Mr. Raymond was assisted by the following: Mrs. Eckerbrecht, Mrs. Thos. Dyer, Mrs. S. G. Olive, Miss Thompson in charge of one table, with Miss Sullivan, Miss Sproul, Miss Evans, Miss Giggie and Miss Olive as assistants. Mrs. S. Willis, Mrs. F. Wright, Mrs. S. H. Givan and Mrs. D. Patterson were assisted at their table by Miss Myrtle Patterson, Miss Sproul, Miss Edna Godfrey, Miss Fanny Godfrey, Miss Ada Ferguson and Miss Laura Kirkpatrick. The third table was in charge of Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. E. N. Rogers, Mrs. Dennison and Mrs. E. A. Lawrenson, assisted by Miss Curry, Miss Barton, Miss Nelson and Miss Winnie Raymond. Mrs. J. Boyer, Mrs. Debo, Miss Patton, Miss Bessie Davis and Miss Annie Nelson had charge of the tea and coffee, while Mrs. Godfrey, Mrs. R. Dow, Mrs. Robt. Coleman, Mrs. Jas. Mackay and Mrs. H. Crawford looked after the serving room. The refreshment table was looked after by Mrs. W. O. Raymond, Mrs. Stevens, Miss Lizzie Wetmore, Miss Ada Ferguson, Miss Mary Eckerbrecht, Miss Earle, Miss Leonard and Miss Ida Sproul. Messrs. R. Doo, A. W. Golding and Ernest Jobe rendered the ladies valuable assistance.

J. M. JOHNSON'S NEWEST HORSE.

The latest addition to the list of gilt-edged stock owned on the border, is the yearling colt, which may be J. M. Johnson purchased recently in Massachusetts. The colt is by Baron Wilkes, the sire of Dulce Cor and many other winners of recent events, and the grandsire of Prince of Orange, Baron de Shay, and the blind stallion Rhythmic, winner of this year's M. and M. Baron Wilkes is a son of George Wilkes, dam by Eldorado, son of Guy Wilkes, grandsire of John A. McKerran, second dam by Aberdeen, grandsire of the great mare of 1902, Anzella, and sire of Wiggin, sire of Katherine A. and Hilgar, two of the greatest colt trotters of the year. Mr. Johnson's yearling is a splendid bay, with three white ankles and a small stripe, and is nicely put up, handsome as a picture, and as good a gaited colt as ever wore harness.

THE HARRISS CONCERTS.

The first meeting of the committee of the St. John Chorus in connection with the (Cycle of Musical Festivals in the Dominion of Canada) was held last night, when 85 ladies and gentlemen were elected members. It was decided to commence rehearsals on Wednesday, Dec. 3, in the Church of England Institute rooms. The music for Hiawatha's Wedding Feast, one of the works to be performed at the Festival in April, is now on sale at Messrs. Flood & Sons. A. O. Skinner was elected president of the following committee in charge: Judge Forbes, J. N. Sutherland, Rev. A. G. H. Dicker, Major Crawford, Geo. McSorley, J. J. Foote, J. B. Gillespie, J. H. Kelly, J. H. Lindsay, W. H. Turnbull, F. W. Fraser, A. G. Burnham. As many good singers may have been overlooked when invitations were sent out, all applications are made to the secretary, R. G. Allan, 106 Elliott row, will be considered by the committee and due notice given before the first rehearsal. As admission to the chorus can only be obtained through application to the secretary, the committee will be glad to receive answers to the invitations already sent and not replied to, as it is not their desire to overlook any one in forming the chorus.

N. B. ADVERTISED.

The Tourist Association this morning received an illustrated circular of the new New Brunswick which Rev. A. F. Kempton will deliver in the States during the coming winter. Mr. Kempton was in St. John last summer and made an extensive trip through the province acquiring material. That he was successful is amply testified by the circular which he issues. His lectures will be illustrated by lantern slides of views of bits of historic and scenic interest in New Brunswick of which Mr. Kempton made a splendid collection this summer. His lecture takes the listener from this city along the I. C. R. to Campbellton, to the St. John river and on side trips to Woodstock, St. Andrews, St. Stephen and other places of attraction to tourists. A number of the views have been supplied by the Tourist Association and the I. C. R., and the whole should prove a splendid advertisement for the province.

MILLION-YEAR-OLD ROMANCE.

Hero and Heroine Were Cliff Dwellers Among Prehistoric Mountians.

A love affair millions of years ago and an elopement aeons back in the dim and hidden past is believed to have been revealed by the explorations of Amos Harrit, an eastern scientist. Colorado was the scene of the ancient romance. The hero and the heroine were Cliff Dwellers, of course, and they lived in an age so long before the Indians flourished that not even a legend is recalled by the red men of the strange people who lived when Mother Earth was a mere miss in her teens.

An amateur scientist who found all that is left of the participants of the tragedy, which proves that Cupid is old enough to be grown up and not the babe he is generally represented to be, was first attracted to the particular cliff by the sight of a skeleton in a seemingly inaccessible place. Being equipped with all the appliances for cliff climbing, he determined to make an attempt to reach the spot, and after two days' hard work he was amply rewarded for his pains. It was a shelf where no modern scientist or relic hunter had ever trod. At intervals of twenty yards or more lay the remains of skeletons. Some were almost annihilated and others were better preserved. Following the path the Cliff Dwellers had apparently been traveling when fate overtook them, the explorer came to a cliff dwelling, but the door, or entrance, was barred by a big stone. A thrill of awe came over him when he discovered the stone had been placed in position by some one on the inside, and from that day had never been removed.

With a hammer and a drill he at length succeeded in breaking the stone at the door, and on the inside he found two skeletons in a state of excellent preservation. It was apparent from the relative sizes that one was once a man and the other had been a woman. With faces close to the stone floor and lying with their heads toward the door, the grim relics were close together, and one bony arm of the woman lay across the neck of the man.

Closer examination of the dwelling revealed the fact that it had once been supplied with water by a small ditch running from the main reservoir, after the manner apparent in so many of the Cliff Dwellers' homes. Tracing this ditch, the eastern savant found where the pursuers of the couple had shut off the water supply.

After a further inspection, and taking into consideration many little circumstances which he is to embody in a report to a scientific journey, the easterner came to the positive conclusion that the skeletons were those of a young couple who fled together, and who had been pursued, doubtless, by the relatives of the woman. It is Harrit's theory that the avengers waited outside until another clan came along, when a battle took place. This is shown by one crushed skull among the skeletons lying outside the dwelling. The others there were so crumbled that no inference could be drawn from their appearance. The skulls of the couple on the inside of the cave were intact, their bones being much better preserved on account of shelter.

"OUGHT TO BE THRASHED."

Literal-Minded Scholars Carry Out a Teacher's Suggestion.

When the name Constantino Pellegrino was called in the Children's Court in New York last Thursday, a grinning, black-eyed little Italian bobbed up before Justice Mayer. His father, a Seventh avenue cobbler, was there with his mother and a half hundred neighbors and pupils from public school 55 in West Twentieth street. The principal of the school, Edgar Vanderbilt and Miss Annie Murphy, the teacher of Pellegrino's class, were there also. They had all been summoned to testify in the case.

The complaining witness, George Edward Gowan, a classmate, testified that he appeared at school late on Friday and that his teacher, Miss Murphy, thereupon issued an order that he be "done up" and that as soon as he started for his home in the afternoon he found all the boys of his class lined up near the schoolhouse, ready to carry out the sentence. The first to attack him he said was the defendant who "landed on the complainant and gave him a black eye."

"Then," said the witness, "I soaked him one and gave him a bloody nose. But the reason he patted me was because the teacher gave it out in school that I ought to be done up."

THISTLE CURLING CLUB.

Seventeen New Members Taken into Camp Last Night.

The Thistle Curling Club held its preliminary winter meeting last evening. President Sinclair, in the chair, and a big roll of members in attendance. Great enthusiasm was manifested over the coming outlook and this was raised to the highest pitch when the following 17 new members were added to the already large roll: Jas. E. Fraser, W. T. G. Cosman, H. H. McLellan, F. McAndrews, W. J. Shaw, D. Brown, E. I. Simonds, R. T. Patchell, H. S. Keith, L. A. Barnes, M. G. Adams, A. G. Golding, Jas. Mitchell, Dr. A. F. Emery, F. S. Murdoch, E. L. Corbett, James H. Pullen.

At the December meeting the rinks will be selected. While the Thistles want to see keen ice, they, one and all, as coal consumers, hope that winter will not set in at a very early date. The Thistles are all canny Scots and have an eye to the hearthstone, far and beyond curling.

DEATH OF BRITISH VETERAN SOLDIER.

The death occurred yesterday of the western side of the harbor of John Nixon. Mr. Nixon was well known in St. John. He served in the English army for years and finally came out here. For a long time he was in charge of the Martello tower, just outside of Carleton. Wherever he was known Mr. Nixon was highly respected. He left a widow and one daughter. His remains will be interred at 2.30 Sunday from his late residence, Charlotte street, west end.

ANCIENT EGYPT.

Professor Steen Brought It Home to St. John, Last Night.

The Ancient Egyptians might be thought a dry subject for a popular lecture, but in the hands of Professor Steen, and with the aid of picture slides, these pioneers of the world are clothed with life and interest.

The learned and philosophical lecturer illustrated his address with a display of views, but these were subsidiary to the text, and not the main element in the entertainment, if that can be called an entertainment which has a serious and important educational purpose.

The audience was large, and representative. Rev. Canon Richardson briefly introduced Professor Steen, who began by showing the effect of Egyptian climate and physical condition upon the character and culture of the inhabitants.

In this secluded land the first settlers were protected from invasion, and discouraged from wandering. It was necessary to irrigate the lands, and so the people formed settled habits, acquired some simple crafts, developed an organized government, and established conditions under which some record of life and actions could be preserved, while yet other people were wandering about the earth and leaving no permanent tokens.

The lecturer explained the law of hieroglyphics and their development into the modern alphabet, described the process by which the French Oriental scholar Champollion discovered the key to the Egyptian inscriptions through the Greek translation on the Rosetta stone.

This led up to an interesting discussion of early Egyptian art, chiefly the art of sculpture. To bring more clearly to the mind the great antiquity of these records, it was pointed out that the period of Menes, the reputed founder of the first dynasty, was nearly three thousand years before Abraham, and King David was much nearer our time than he was to the time of this Egyptian monarch.

Art in Egypt is wholly connected with the temples and the tombs. The representations of animals and of the incidents of daily life are to be interpreted by the Egyptian doctrine of the other existence. Starting with the idea that every man has his double in the character of a disembodied, or less substantially bodied projection of himself, and that after death this ghost haunts the scene of burial, the Egyptian was accustomed to leave food for the spirit of the departed.

A YOUNG SPENDTHRIFT.

He Figures on Getting Rid of a Large Fortune—Considers Carnegie a Fool For Giving to Posterity.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—"Carnegie," quoth young Mr. Robbins, "is a fool. He is allowing other people to get enjoyment out of his money. I'll take good care that I get as much pleasure as I can out of mine." "But posterity will bless the name of Carnegie," said the writer.

"Posterity, indeed! Who cares about him? Who's the toff that said once that posterity never did anything for him? That was a sensible man—one after my own heart. What effect can anybody's talk have on me when I leave this fine world behind me?"

Now these words of worldly wisdom are memorable, for they came from a sort of rival of Mr. Carnegie; not a rival in philanthropy, exactly, but a sharer of the Carnegie idea that however rich a man is he has no business to die rich.

When Edward Arthur Robinson gave forth the dicta quoted above, he was seated at one of those little round tables in the ante-room of the Carnegie, known to every irresponsible American youth who "does" London. He was accompanied by three fascinating young women and was engaged in paying for a round of beer when he was asked to unfold his ideas as to the best way of getting rid of money.

What he had to say was worth hearing for its own sake, but was even more interesting when it is considered that with the exception of Mr. Carnegie he is the best possible authority on the subject—and he is only 21, whereas the Skibo millionaire was 65 on the 25th of this month.

Mr. Robinson burst upon an astonished London on the day he came of age, a few weeks ago. On that day he entered into possession of £1,500,000 left to him by his father, Peter Robinson, whose name is a household word to every shopper in London, and to every American woman who has ever bought dry goods here.

Young Robinson celebrated his accession by giving a dinner at the fashionable Trocadero restaurant to sixty guests at a cost of $5,000. Puffblasts, men-about-town, minor actresses, and, more especially trades people who had supplied the youth with goods on the strength of his I. O. U.'s, made up most of the merry party who made things hum at the Trocadero along toward four in the morning. The cigars cost $1.50 apiece, and the liqueur cognacs were $1 apiece, with other luxuries to match.

Since then he has been much in the public eye. The day after the banquet he was attacked in the street by a man who hadn't been invited to the feast and who had also failed to sell to him for $7,000 a yacht bought three years before for $1,500. An ex-puffblast named Stevguard, and chancellor of the ex-assaultant that the police were called in and the row had to be straightened out in court.

Robinson left the Hotel Victoria a few days ago, and is now living in the Metropole, in a suite of rooms for which he pays $500 a week. He has two valets, and a prodigious train of volunteer attendants. He has been credited with the statement that he intends to go through his $1,500,000 in a year and a half, thus beating the record of the famous "Jubilee" Benson, who got rid of a million in two years, and then wrote a book telling how he did it.

It was with the idea of asking the young man concerning his plans for the undertaking that an interview was sought with him on a day when his health warranted such a tax on his energy.

BOTTLED BEERS.

At a Great Cosmopolitan Exhibition in London.

The Product of Simeon Jones Ltd. of St. John Receives Special Mention.

A Boake, Roberts & Co., limited, have brought together a very unique collection of colonial and foreign beers, which are on view this week at their Stratford works. Never, to the best of our knowledge, has a more varied assortment been seen under one roof.

Here are beers from many of the European countries (Belgium, in particular), sending some most interesting specimens, our leading colonies, India, the United States, and Japan. The exhibition is entirely due to the original enterprise of A. Boake, who, during his recent tour round the world, visited many breweries and sampled their products. Finding many of these of an interesting character, it occurred to him that English brewers would like to know what their confreres in other parts of the world are doing.

Everyone who visits Stratford this week will admit that the present exhibition is fully adapted to supply such information. We have already mentioned that the Belgian beers form a very interesting class. Among them will be found a curious beverage known as "Gueuze Lambic," which is brewed in a very novel manner, the wort being placed into yeast casks, and fermentation in a wicker basket—is also suggestive of wine rather than beer. "Pilsener" the beverage of the working classes in Belgium—is also shown, together with many beers of the Munich and Pilsener type. Sweden sends a porter, which resembles the London type, and was brewed, we understand, from John Plunkett's Dublin malt.

The samples of India beer represent the manufactures of E. Dyer & Co., of Lucknow and Solan. The India pale ale of this firm, which is brewed on the Burton system, with the aid of ice, from English and German hops and Indian barley, was a very creditable production indeed. "There are few women who do not spend new money reluctantly," said a clerk in one of our leading stores. "It is worth one's little while to watch them. A woman will invariably hunt around in her purse for one penny in paying for a purchase. Why this she has never been able to discover, but the exceptions truly prove the rule."

"Daily I have examples of this trait in women right here in this store, and when a female customer finally pays for a little precious little crisp bill it is with some of an attitude of annoyance and frequent angry rebuffs. On such occasions I have been known to smile and leave the victor sooner than break a new bill. I have benefited so by my different experiences with the peculiarity of sex that I have learned to take it philosophically, believing there may be something in it. I have never been able to get rid of the knowledge of how much money I have been saved from a woman's dislike in parting with new money. The secret, as I always manage to carry my salary home in beautiful, clean, crisp bills, and the reluctance with which my wife gets rid of them is a tip for other married men, and I am certain they would save money by adopting the suggestion."—Washington Post.

QUEBEC, Nov. 20.—David Cumberland, many years manager of the Bank of British North America in this city, died, aged 52. He leaves a widow and four children.

At the time of our representative's visit, all the samples expected had not arrived. English brewers have been concerned, and still more so from the United States. Indeed, the American beers add the artistic touch of color to the exhibition. A larger set by the Indianapolis Brewing Company is so daintily put up with the gold foil and artistic labelling, that it resembles a perfume flask rather than the utilitarian bottle of beer.

Canada also supplies some excellent examples of the skill of dominion brewers. Where so many are good, it is difficult to particularise, but we think the pale ale of the Cosgrave Brewing Co., Toronto, the "Blue Star" ale of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Co., Ontario, and the India Pale Ale of Simeon Jones, Ltd., St. John, N. B., will secure many admirers. The above article is taken from the Country Brewers' Gazette of London, England, following the list of all these manufacturers who exhibited beer at the show referred to. Among the exhibitors are eight from Canada, two being from Halifax, and it is highly creditable to the Simeon Jones Co. of St. John that among all the beers shown theirs should receive special mention. The product of this firm is so well known and appreciated that no further praise is necessary, but the firm must feel gratified to know that their ale takes such a high stand in competition with that of many of the best brewers of the world.

To the editor of the Star:

Sir:—Will someone inform me whether it is impossible for the management of the Opera House to keep that building clean and speaking plainly, to rid it of the numerous fleas which now infest the auditorium? I, in common with many others, have suffered from the attentions of these unnecessary pests which almost spoil the pleasure of witnessing a performance. Several persons who have been made uneasy by the presence of those creatures have told me that they would attend the opera much more frequently if the building were not in such a condition. The trouble is most apparent under the balcony, but fleas are not uncommon in any part of the hall.

SUFFERER.

The lighting of Carleton City Hall is done after a system in vogue in the middle ages. One small chandelier with oil lamps hangs in the centre of the hall, and the feeble rays from this are entirely insufficient to properly brighten the place. There is in Carleton an electric lighting plant, which is occasionally in working order, and even this might be an improvement over the present arrangement.

GOOD DRAMATIC TALENT.

Much favorable comment is heard regarding the work of the members of the Carleton Dramatic Club, who gave a performance in City Hall on Wednesday evening. It is stated that several members of this organization display highly creditable talent, which is well worthy of further cultivation.

SMALLPOX UP NORTH.

Epidemic in Maine and Northern N. B. Assuming Dangerous Proportions.

A subscriber of the Star recently returned from a trip through northern Maine and New Brunswick, says that the smallpox epidemic in that section of the country is assuming dangerous proportions. The principal trouble is in the lumber camps along the border line, and districts in Maine, New Brunswick and Quebec are alike affected.

The Star's informant states that several of the lumber camps in the Spalding district are seriously infected, one camp has twelve cases alone and the other men fleeing in terror from their stricken companions are carrying the disease out of the woods into the neighboring villages. He says that in the Jackman village, where there are about five hundred inhabitants, there are already six cases and the authorities are considering seriously the quarantining of the whole place. There is fear that the epidemic may work up into Megantic. The United States authorities are fighting effectively against the disease in Maine, but the New Brunswick people seem to be lethargic regarding the danger and the Quebec authorities who consider smallpox a matter of course are criminally careless.

NEW LAWYER IN TOWN.

J. W. deB. Farris, B. A., LL. B., who recently passed with distinction the New Brunswick examination and was admitted to the bar last week, has decided to begin the practice of his profession in St. John. Mr. Farris, who is a son of the minister of agriculture, comes to St. John with a brilliant record as a student and a speaker. He received his B. A. from Acadia University in 1899 and immediately afterward entered upon a law course in the University of Pennsylvania, where he was given his LL. B. last June. While at Acadia he won honor as a debator, being a prominent member of the college team which defeated Dalhousie and Kings College, and he was also one of the class orators on graduation day. At the University of Pennsylvania his record in that department was even more distinguished. He was the winner of the gold medal awarded the best debater in the university and led his college debating team to victory in a notable contest. Mr. Farris has taken office in the Pugsley building and starts his work here with unusually good chances for a successful career.

A PROTEST

Against the Damming of the Harbor of St. John.

Dr. Gilchrist came to the Star office this morning to enter a protest on his own behalf and also at the request of owners of intervals land along the river against the damming of the harbor. Dr. Gilchrist says that at his own place at Bloomfield on the Kennebec, twenty-seven miles from St. John there is a rise of eighteen inches of water at high tide, and if the harbor were dammed the intervals land would all be flooded in freshet time. Dr. Gilchrist's protest was due to the fear of immediate action being taken by the city with respect to the proposed damming which would cost some millions of dollars, but he wanted it understood that if ever such a scheme were undertaken it would make a lot of land along the river valueless.

CHEAP RATES TO SOUTH AFRICA.

The fight of the steamship concerns between New York and South Africa, says a New York despatch, began last July and not only has it been of advantage to those shippers who already had business relations with South Africa, but it has caused new interests to become concerned in the trade to that country. At least six steamships sail on the rival lines every month.

The traffic to Cape Town and neighboring ports varies between 40,000 and 60,000 tons monthly, but is growing rapidly, and some of those interested claim that money is being made even at the cut rates. The principal articles of exports are foodstuffs, oats, hay, lumber, kerosene, machinery for agriculture and mining, and miscellaneous small wares.

LOTS OF STEALING.

David Komienky, who keeps a store on Mill street, stated today that during the past two weeks upwards of 40,000 worth of goods have been stolen from his place. Mr. Komienky, in common with other merchants on Mill street, has a habit of displaying goods in boxes and baskets in front of his store. In these, small articles are placed, and among the goods stolen were five pairs of gloves in numerous pairs of rubbers, an overcoat which was hanging in front of the store. It is impossible to continually watch the goods, and articles are picked out of the baskets by idle characters passing by.

$4,000 DAMAGES.

In the Seattle admiralty court recently, Judge Hanford awarded Albert Louie, a sailor of the ship Troop, of St. John, $4,000 damages against that vessel because Capt. The captain himself insisted on performing an amateur surgical operation, thereby, according to the finding of the court, acting in a most brutal manner.

POLICE COURT.

Carr and Buchanan Were Both Remanded Today.

Four drunks were this morning fined four dollars each.

The case against Joseph Carr for stealing a pair of rubbers from David Komienky was taken up. Evidence was given by Fred E. Hanington, who saw Carr steal the rubbers, by Mr. Komienky and by Deputy Jenks.

Both Mr. Hanington and Mr. Komienky positively identified Carr. The latter blamed the theft on a man who had been walking along the street in front of him. The prisoner was remanded until it was decided whether it would be best to dispose of him at once or send him up for trial. Enquiries were made with regard to Carr's past history and Chief Clark, who took the stand produced his records which showed that Carr had twice appeared to answer the charge of theft, once in 1890 and again in 1891.

Frederick Buchanan was charged with assaulting his father, Samuel Buchanan, in their house on King street, Carleton place, Wednesday afternoon. James Lord and Whitney Clark gave evidence and the prisoner, who wanted to bring witnesses on his own behalf, was remanded until tomorrow.
