Old Resident of Beckwith.
Just as we go to press the news reaches us of the death of Mrs. Chas.
Budd, of Beckwith, in her 84th year.
The deceased lady had been sick only a few days and heart trouble was the immediate cause of her death. Her had been a lifelong resident of Beckwith, being well respected and of a quiet disposition. Her husband survives her. The funeral is to take place to-morrow to Franktown.

of the Order by attending service in the Methodist church last Sunday morning in a body, when Rev. Mr. Henderson, himself a veteran member of the fraternhelpful sermon, taking as his subject the brotherhood of man. There was appropriate music by a large choir, and the service was thoroughly appreciated by all present. On the return of the members to the hall a resolution of thanks was passed to the preacher, to the church officials, and to the organist and choir for the courtesies and services

VERY SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. WILLIAM A. NICHOLS.

Seldom has the town been more startled and stirred than it was on Saturday morning when the sad announcement of the death of Mrs. William A. Nichols became public. A woman in the prime of life, always active and healthy, it was hard indeed to realize that during the night the last summons had come and that for her the active labors of the world were forever laid aside, and yet so it was.

The previous evening she had been about as usual, with her family, and nothing seemed to be amiss. She retired early, her husband not having yet reached home, and shortly after 10 o'clock the telephone bell rang. She called to her daughter May to answer the phone which she did, and immediately afterwards the mother complained of a severe pain in her head, and in a few minutes became unconscious. Medical aid was called at once, three physicians being in attendance in a very short time, but nothing that they could do could relieve the patient, and at 4 a.m.
she sank quietly to rest.

Mrs. Nichols was born in Drummond township, being a daughter of the late Thomas Hands, during his lifetime one of the best known men of the township, reeve for many years, and at one time Warden of the county. In May, 1894, she married William Abner Nichols, and for 22 years they have lived most happily, their home being blessed with a family of seven children, two of whom, one boy and girl, died in infancy, and one bright little fellow of two years, Abner, was accidentally killed by a saw-log rolling over him. The survivors are Misses May and Velma, and Thomas and William. Mrs. Nichols' mother also survives, with one sister, Mrs. W.
Armstrong of Drummond, and three brothers, H. J. and W. C. Hands of Drummond, and James Hands, Mayor of Perth, to all of whom the deepest sympathy flows in their hour of bereavement.

Mrs. Nichols was a member of St.
James Church, and took a deep interest in its affairs. She was also associated with the Horticultural Society, the Red Cross, and other good works, and her death is most keenly lamented by the community.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to St. James church, and was very largely attended, many from outside places being present as well as the townspeople. Messrs. H. M. Williams, H. S. Conn and W. C. Leach, of Ottawa, former townsmen, were conspicuous, others from Almonte, Smiths Falls and Perth, and many members of the County Council. The members of the town council attended in a body. The pallbearers were Messrs. G. T. Fulton, D.
Smythe, R. G. Curtis, J. H. Bond, W.
T. Maguire and Alf. McNeely. The floral offerings were most numerous.

Rally Meetings Postponed.

The rally meetings advertised last week for Carleton Place and Franktown, under the auspices of the Speakers Patriotic League, have been postponed on account of the speakers announced for those meetings not being able to make connections for the dates fixed.
When new dates can be arranged, publicity will be made without delay.

On Suspended Sentence.

A court case of unusual interest occupied the time of Police Magistrate McNeely and County Crown Attorney most of two days last week. It was like a clash between the military and civil powers that be. It appears that some of the soldiers had been rather overjoy-ing and Chief Wilson endeavored to arrest one Chamberlin for making too much noise on the public streets. He resisted the arrest and in this was supported by Alex. and Tom McIsaac. The result was a summons for the first for resisting arrest and for the second two for interfering. Many witnesses were heard and much evidence was taken, Barrister Stafford of Almonte appearing for the soldiers. The outcome of the three court sessions was a conviction, but all three were permitted to go on suspended sentence.

Death of John G. McLean at Pilot Mound.

The sad news reached Carleton Place on Thursday last of the death that day at noon of Mr. John G. McLean, at his home in Pilot Mound, Man. The deceased was born in Ramsay, being a son of the late James McLean, and a brother of Mr. Alexander McLean, so well known to us all. When a young man he entered the employ of the late Archibald McArthur, and after acquiring a knowledge of the mercantile business drifted to the great west, then opening up, and spent some years in Winnipeg. He later went to Southern Manitoba, where with his brother James he started a business at Pilot Mound, and made a success of it. For a long time he has been in poor health, especially the past winter. Mr. McLean was twice married, first to Wilhelmina Allen, in 1887, by whom he had a family of four children, two sons and two daughters. In 1900 Mrs. McLean died and some months later their youngest son,
The survivors are Mrs. S. Creelman, of Wynyard, Sask., and Miss Myra and Gylan at home. In 1909 he married Elizabeth Allen, who survives.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

WANTED.
As good health on Sunday as during the rest of the week; the same ability to attend religious services as to engage in the usual active duties of life.
As great care in listening to religious instructions as is given to scrutinizing each new dress, cloak, bonnet, etc., worn by those in attendance.
As great ability in learning our own faults as those of our neighbors. With the supply of this want the world will soon be renovated, society much improved, and all made happier.
Weather to suit all, or, better still, people who are disposed to be suited by the weather.

Young man, there is one thing you cannot do. You cannot make a success in life unless you work. Older men than you have tried it and failed. You cannot loaf around the street corner, smoke, tell stories and sponge on someone else without making a failure of life. You must learn a trade or get into some honest business. If you don't you will become a chronic loafer, and there is no place in the world for loafers. The ripe fruit is at the top of the tree and you must climb if you get it or some smart man will pluck it from you. Do something no matter how small or how low the wages, it will be a starter. Help yourself and others will help you. There is no royal road to success; will, grit and endurance are the qualities that lead to it.

This is our recipe for home happiness. Who will give us a better one? Love, peppered with patience, salted with civility, dampened with discretion, crowded with cheerfulness, showered with sunshine, tintured with trust, flavored with forgiveness, freighted with frankness, charged with confidence, complete with contentment, heroic and hopeful.

The person who wantonly puts a thorn in the loving heart of a little child will feel the rankling of that thorn in his or her heart some day, in a wound no later repentance can ever heal.

Love is the great homemaker, that makes even the drudgery of house-keeping a pleasure, and home life a foretaste of the bliss of heaven. One cannot get too much love into one's home-making, but easily too little.

There are many so-called homes that do not deserve the name at all. Home means comfort, but when we have it fixed up so elaborately that we must sit in the garret or the back yard to genuinely enjoy ourselves then it is high time we made a change and turned out the too-good-to-use articles and substitute for them the real homely things that we can enjoy every day of the year and every moment of the day.

Though you may be cut off from your early associates, and though you may be separated from all your kindred, young man, is there not a room somewhere that you can call your own? Though it be the fourth story of a third class boarding house, into that room gather books, pictures and a harp. Hang your mother's portrait over the mantle. Bid unholy mirth stand back from that threshold. Consecrate some spot in that room with the knee at prayer. By the memory of other days, a father's counsel, a mother's love and a sister's confidence call it home.

The over-dressed child is always the unhappy child. She is a pet Miss who has learned early to regard overmuch the pomps and vanities of life, or she is a poor little discontented victim, who has never had a chance for childish play, and looks with envy at the ragged, little tumbling urchins who made mud pies on the roadside.

Let us all remember that the higher and happier our home life, the more wisely and better we may hope to do the work that lies waiting for us beyond it. A pleasant place to come home to is the greatest energizer a man can have. Then let us strive with an earnest and constant purpose to make and keep the home cheerful, inviting and pleasant.

Man can build the house and roof it in, a resistance against the storms and elements; but the man with all his genius and artisan science cannot make the home; that ever has and ever will be the task of woman. It is she alone that can bring to it warmth and beauty. Here she reigns supreme.

C.P.R. TO MOBILIZE SCIENTISTS FOR RESEARCH WORK

Arranges With Arthur D. Little to Establish Central Organization at Montreal

CO. LOOKING FORWARD

Dominion-Wide Organization for the Scientific Research of the Country's Vast Resources

Although the potential wealth of Canada's natural resources is known to be marvellous, only a small portion of these have been exploited, and apart from the work done by the Government Geological Survey, the scientific investigation of Canada's resources with a view to practical development has been fragmentary and almost immaterial.

The lesson of the titanic conflict now raging in Europe has brought home how much the Dominion has to learn from some of the European countries with which she is at war, as for instance, the pre-eminence of Germany in manufacturing, metallurgical and electrical development, due pre-eminently to the thoroughness with which chemical research was pursued in that country, a pre-eminence which resulted in a large and profitable market for her manufacturers, not only at home but all over the world.

The wealth and prosperity of the nations and empires of the future will be gauged by their mineral and chemical activities and production. When peace is restored there will be a strong effort to provide the requirements of the British Empire and her allies from friendly sources, and if the war were, unhappily, to be long drawn out, the production of Canadian resources might become more essential to success in peace and war than armies of heroes.

The Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. has technical schools attached to its great shops, and at Trail the company has developed a great chemical and metallurgical laboratory and hydro-electric equipment equal to anything on the continent. These are, however, local activities, and the time has come, in the opinion of Lord Shaughnessy, when a Dominion-wide organization should be formed for the scientific research of Canada's vast mineral, metal, hydro-electric and chemical resources, which will result in the practical application to industry of many minerals heretofore neglected or exported for manufacture to other countries, of by-products in existing industries and of other natural resources which were neglected or insufficiently exploited. The waste of straw, for instance, in our wheat fields, of flax fibre, of lumber, seven-fifths per cent. of the product of which has been wasted in the forest or at the mill, while in tungsten, molybdenite, graphite, oil shale, mica, manganese, magnetite, talc, feldspar and other minerals there is a field for the profitable investment of much labor or capital than at present.

The Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. aims to secure the mobilization of the ablest and most scientific and chemical brains of the Dominion, and to associate them with a central organization to direct the activities of all the scientists and experts engaged in research work in all parts of the Dominion. The discoveries and information gleaned by the central organization, while supplies for the special information of the Canadian Pacific, will be disseminated from time to time by bulletins which should be of great value to merchants and manufacturers as well as to students and prospectors.

To carry out these views arrangements have been made with Mr. Arthur D. Little for the establishment of a central organization at Montreal for research work. Mr. Little has been President of the American Chemical Society and is a member of the Institute of Chemical Engineers, and a director of the Chemical and Engineering Department of the Institute of Technology. Indeed, Mr. Little's fame as a chemist and a chemical engineer is world-wide, and, as an organizer and investigator he has no superior. His activities have extended to every branch of industrial and chemical research work, having seventy practical chemists associated with him. Lord Shaughnessy is confident that Mr. Little will build up an organization in Canada which will confer immense benefits on the Dominion.

A Dominion charter has been obtained and the Canadian Research Bureau will begin operations in Montreal on May 1st, when they will be in a position to co-operate with science professors and others of the Dominion already engaged in research work.

A DASHING MODEL.
One of the First Spring Turbans Yet Pictured.

Brimless, high, springy, this new turban combines much of style. The pliant wing is of helle cerise velvet, a deeper shade than the five floppy roses at its base. The straw itself is a novelty in one of the new tan shades. Please observe the net veil with its attractive border in triangles and dots.

THE ART OF DRESS.

How Clothes Influence Character and Even Destinies.

The influence of clothes on human destinies is enormous. We say "it is not the cow that makes the monk," but that is another erroneous proverb. Its stamp always remains and molds the individual, body and soul, in a certain way. The prestige of the costume has a great deal to do with the sacerdotal or military vocation. Who will ever know how much Mlle. de Montijo's dresses had to do with making an empress of her? She ordered her dresses for Compiègne from Worth, whose fame was just beginning, and, according to her own expression, they were her "battle horse." On them she won her victory, and we all know the effects of that victory.

"The death of a delightful man of my acquaintance," declares Pierre de Coubertin in one of her sprightly books, "was caused by a hat being worn on one side. One of his mother's friends wanted him to marry a pretty girl she knew, who was very charming and well off. He happened to be staying at her house near Vernon when this young protegee was going through on her way to Rouen.

"Anxious for her guest to see the girl, she persuaded him to go to the station with her. He went, saw the girl; but, alas, she had her hat on one side, in the most comical way possible. It was no doubt one of those odious hats, so badly balanced that no pin in the world could keep them straight. The harm was done, though. He never dared tell his mother's friend what his objection to the girl had been. He owned it to me later on, adding, 'I should always have seen her like that.'"

Imagination plays tricks on Frenchmen as it does on no other men. This one married another girl who wore her hats straight, but whose head was rather turned.

The marriage ended in a divorce and the divorce in sudden death, such sudden death that it was generally believed to have been suicide.

NEW AGRICULTURAL WAR BOOK.

The Agricultural War Book for 1916, entitled "Production and Thrift," and having for its particular text:

IN WAR TIME
Produce more and save more,
Make your labour efficient,
Save materials from waste,
Spend your money wisely, consists of 250 valuable and instructive pages. Opening with a brief address to the Farmers of Canada by Hon. Martin Burrell, Federal Minister of Agriculture, under whose direction the book has been issued, followed by extracts from the Budget Speech of Sir Thomas White, Finance Minister of the Dominion, and an article bearing upon the national income and expenditure of the United Kingdom, there ensue contributions from over seventy expert authorities on different branches of agriculture, including the compiler and editor of the work, the federal Commissioner of Agriculture and the Commissioner of Live Stock and Dairy Products of the Dominion, the Director of Experimental Farms, chiefs and sub-chiefs of departments of agriculture of all the provinces and a number of professors at the different agricultural colleges. A vast deal of general information, statistical and otherwise, covering various countries as well as Canada, is given along with a large fund of sound advice and counsel bearing in particular upon the subjects embraced in the title. Although primarily devoted to agriculture there is much matter that the general citizen will find of interest. Among other things he will be rather surprised to learn that wheat in 1861 was $3.47 a bushel in Britain, while last year it was only $1.61, the latter, however, being nearly twice as much as the lowest point reached, which was in 1897, when the price was down to 68 cents. For the first fifteen years of this century the average price of wheat per bushel in Britain was 98 cents, whereas in the first fifteen years of the nineteenth century the average was something like $2.66.

While crop production occupies a large space, live stock comes in for a large share of attention, horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry all being learnedly dealt with along with dairy products and special crops, such as sugar, sugar beets, honey, maple products, flax, fruit, vegetables and tobacco. In short no branch of agriculture is overlooked. The nutritive and commercial values of different foods are set forth in company with a deal of excellent advice on the practice and results of thrift. Marketing is dealt with, and sections of the book are devoted, among other subjects to Economy in the Home, Patriotic Purchasing, Women and the War, the Call to the Colors, Patriotic Relief Work, and Education and the War.

The Monkey Ranch.

"During the last campaign," said Senator Helfield, "I spoke all over Idaho. One day, up in the northern part of the state, a wheel came off the buggy in which I was riding. I walked along the road a piece until I came to a rancher's house. The only person I could find was a big, shock-headed Swede.

"My friend," I said, "can you tell me where I can find a monkey wrench?"

"He looked at me blankly for a minute and then said:

"No, this has been a sheep ranch all over than a cattle ranch. I don't know where th' hall's a monkey ranch."

Lowestoft was shelled by German cruisers, which were driven off by local naval forces. Five persons were killed and some of the British vessels were struck, but none was sunk. The material damage was slight.

Home is a magic word, and we seldom try to analyze it. A little Polish girl in a public school was asked recently to write a definition of home. She wrote, "A home is where people live, and where a man or somebody comes home and finds people there, and then eats!" And then she said: "To how many thousands of men that is the end and aim of coming home! To how many thousands of women the preparation of the food to be eaten is the chief business of home making."

THRIFT—THE CLARION CALL.

Last year Canada responded magnificently to the call of the Empire. The soil was cultivated to its utmost limit, with the result that a bountiful harvest was reaped. Boys and girls united with their parents in showing the good will and the proud national spirit that they possessed. They bent their energies towards making the land produce all that it was capable of doing. The times were not financially good and bitter experience had been had with crop failure in the previous year. Nothing daunted they went to work with determined will and persistence and they reaped where they had sown. When the crops were gathered granaries were full to overflowing. Canada had cause for the celebration of the greatest, most intense, most earnest thanksgiving she had ever known. That there was no unminfulness of the source from which all blessings flow was shown in action as well as in words. Patriotic gifts came from many directions in many ways. The women worked with life and love. They gave the fruits of their labors and they gave their offspring. The men devoted their acres and their services to the cause of the Empire. Boys and girls cultivated what they termed war-plots, the yields from which went towards filling the exchequer of patriotism. There were slackers then, there were Scrooges then, there are the same elements to-day, but the evidences of sympathy far overshadowed the discordance and such a front of union was displayed as commanded the respect and admiration of the world.

This year there must be no backing up. Even the unwilling of last year, the Scrooges and the men and women who put personal profit before love of country, must, if possible, be brought into line. The situation is more intense than it was. There is more suffering, there are more widows and orphans, and there are twice as many men on the fighting line and under arms. As the war progresses the slaughter becomes greater, more shipping and more property are ruthlessly destroyed, and the cry for help is keener. Were it not for the British Navy our allegiance would cost us dear. Were it not for the united armies and for the organization for protection from assassins, traitors and incendiaries that exists in our own land, we should be at the mercy of the same cruel and barbarous forces that have overrun and laid waste Belgium, Poland and Serbia. We should be taxed beyond all bearing. We might even practically be slaves, working not for ourselves, but for tyrannical taxmasters, for men compared with whom, judging from some of their actions, Legree, the novelist's type of a brutal, cruel slave-driver, was, in deeds of villainy and harshness, no worse.

The future of the empire rested in a large measure with Canada at the beginning. It rests with us to a greater extent now. We have increased our responsibility. We have voluntarily added to the weight of our share of the titanic burden. We must bear the self-imposed load cheerfully and generously. We must show our worthiness of the trust assumed. We must prove our appreciation of the high and honorable partnership into which we have entered. We must do all this and we must perform our tasks with, if at all possible, increased zeal and enthusiasm. To halt or pause would be fatal. Our works of charity must continue to the full and be added to. Our eye, not only on the present but also on the future, must never hesitate or waver. When peace comes our granaries and our stalls must be full.

Today we are called upon to do our share of the fighting to care for the sick and wounded, to honour the dead and to admire the living hero—and they are all heroes who go forth—tomorrow we may be summoned to replenish the earth, to help in the arts of peace, and to do all we can to assist in repairing the terrible ravages of a war that has taken on such proportions in magnitude and savagery that even "Armageddon" is scarcely thought a fitting descriptive term. In short, it is our duty to be prepared for any and every eventuality both present and future. At war, we are yet not at war. We can plough and sow and reap and tend our flocks and herds undisturbed by the thunder of artillery. We can carry on our industries without let or hindrance. We can win glory on the battlefield or we can live our own lives amid peace and plenty. All that is demanded is renunciation of our country and truth to ourselves. That is the clarion call.

CANADA'S GRAIN STORES.

Ottawa, April 19.—The Census and Statistics Office has issued to-day in the form of a press bulletin a summary of the results of inquiries into (a) the merchantable quality of the field crops of 1915; (b) the stocks of grain and other agricultural produce of 1915 remaining in farmers' hands on March 31 and (c) the stocks of wheat in Canada on the same date.

MERCHANTABLE QUALITY OF 1915 CROPS

The returns received from crop-reporting correspondents show that of the total estimated wheat crop in 1915 of 376,303,600 bushels over 95 per cent, or 356,281,000 bushels, proved to be of merchantable quality. This proportion compares well with the previous years, being superior to last year by about 2 per cent and somewhat above the average of the past seven years. The proportions of other crops of 1915 which proved to be of merchantable quality are as follows: Oats 92 per cent (480,208,000 bushels out of 520,103,000 bushels); barley 88 per cent (47,082,000 bushels out of 53,331,300 bushels); rye 88.5 per cent (3,118,500 bushels out of 3,524,100 bushels); buckwheat 83 per cent (6,512,000 bushels out of 7,865,900 bushels); corn for husking 77.5 per cent (11,142,000 bushels out of 14,368,000 bushels); flaxseed 95.5 per cent (10,144,000 bushels out of 10,628,000 bushels); potatoes 73 per cent (45,630,000 bushels out of 62,604,000 bushels); turnips, etc., 86 per cent (55,266,000 bushels out of 64,281,000 bushels) and hay and clover 86 per cent (9,400,000 tons out of 10,953,000 tons).

STOCKS IN FARMERS' HANDS ON MARCH 31, 1916.

Out of the total estimated yield of wheat in 1915, 23 per cent, or 86,854,000 bushels remained in farmers' hands at the end of March. This proportion compares with 12½ per cent last year, 16½ per cent in 1914, 22 per cent in 1913 and 27 per cent in 1912; so that this year the proportion in hand is larger than in any year since 1912 which related to the crop of 1911. Last year the proportion remaining over was the smallest on record since these inquiries were instituted in 1909. Not only however is the proportion this year a high one; but owing to last year's excellent yields, the quantity on hand at March 31 is larger than in any previous year, 1912, (the crop of 1911) coming nearest with 62,188,000 bushels.

Of the remaining field crops the proportions and quantities estimated to be in farmers' hands at March 31 are as follows: Oats 45 p.c. or 235,530,000 bushels; barley 34 p.c. or 18,514,500 bushels; rye 30 p.c. or 732,700 bushels; buckwheat 22 p.c. or 1,747,000 bushels; corn for husking 24 p.c. or 3,453,000 bushels; flax 25 p.c. or 2,700,300 bushels; potatoes 20 p.c. or 12,960,800 bushels; turnips, etc., 15½ p.c. or 8,952,000 bushels; hay and clover 23 p.c. or 2,524,000 tons. For oats, barley and rye the quantities on hand at the end of March are larger than in any previous year on record.

STOCKS OF WHEAT IN CANADA ON MARCH 31.

The Census and Statistics Office also report the completion of an inquiry into the total stocks of wheat and wheat flour in Canada at March 31, the results of which are available for comparison with the special inquiry of the same kind which was carried out last year for the date of February 8, 1915. This year the total quantity of wheat, and wheat flour expressed in terms of wheat, estimated as in stock in Canada on March 31, is subject to slight revision, about 196 million bushels, as compared with about 80 million bushels on February 8, 1915. The total for 1915 includes in round figures 86½ million bushels in the elevators, flour mills and in winter storage in vessels; 87 million bushels in farmers' hands and 22½ million bushels in course of transit by rail.

The fond mother always has the welfare of her little ones at heart. She is continually on the watch for any appearance of the maladies which threaten her little ones. Thousands of mothers have learned by experience that nothing will equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the children well. Concerning them Mrs. R. Morehouse, Blissfield, N.B., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I have ever used for my baby. He was very cross but the Tablets soon put him right again." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

When She Was a Girl.

A school teacher who has been telling a class of small pupils the story of the discovery of America by Columbus, ended it with:

"And all this happened more than 400 years ago."

A little boy, his eyes wide open with wonder, said, after a moment's thought: "Oh, my, what a memory you've got."

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body.

In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, dreamful sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown. To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich nutriment gets into the blood and rich blood feeds the tiny nerve-cells while the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. Free from harmful drugs. Scott & Borne, Toronto, Ont.

NEXT SPRING'S BERRY CROP.

Moisture Conditions of the Soil Materially Affect the Yields.

Berries of all kinds, like other cultivated crops, require the right kind of soil and preparation for the best results, says a contributor to the Farm Progress. Big and profitable crops of berries grow from soil that is well fertilized and thoroughly worked before the plants are set out in the hills or rows.

Moisture conditions of the soil affect the yield of all kinds of berries wonderfully. In years when the soil is moist during fruiting season the crops are usually large, while at other seasons when the soil is dry when the fruit is setting and ripening the crops are usually light and often an entire failure. Other things considered, "to regulate the soil moisture of the berry patch means practically regulating the berry harvest."

The humus supply in the soil determines to a large degree the length of time moisture will be held during a dry spell during the growing season. The more humus the longer moisture will be held; the less humus the quicker the soil will dry out and the plants suffer. One of the best ways to supply humus to the soil and at the same time furnish extra fertility is to apply stable manure. Land that is to be planted to berries this coming spring should be covered heavily with manure this winter, the sooner the better.

If the berry patch soil is covered early in the winter any kind of fresh stable manure may be used liberally with safety. During the winter and early spring it will have time to leach, decompose, and become mild, to be turned under when the soil is plowed. It is not safe to apply and plow under fresh manure for berries, because the fresh manure has a tendency through fermentation and decay to dry the soil and injure the roots of the young plants. If berry soil is treated in late winter or early spring the manure should be reasonably well decomposed and mild. That from cow stables is milder than that from horse stables.

For winter treatment of berry soil any kind of manure of home produced fertilizer may be used. A variety is better than a single kind. That from the poultry house is excellent, but must be scattered thinly over the ground, as it is strong. That from hog and sheep houses is good, but is rich and must be used sparingly. The different kinds may be mixed together for use. Wood ashes are excellent fertilizer for all kinds of fruits and especially good for small fruits. They may be applied to the soil any time during the winter and early spring.

One of the best ways to use poultry droppings on small fruit soil is to use coal ashes or dry soil to mix with and to serve as moisture and odor absorbent for the perch droppings. In this way the full value of the droppings is saved, and when the fertilizer is applied with the absorbent it is disintegrated and mild for use. More surface can be covered with the same amount of fertilizer. Do not, however, use wood ashes in the poultry house as an absorbent for poultry droppings, as the ashes decompose the droppings.

Ground rock phosphate, either acidulated or raw, may be applied to the berry soil with good results. If the acidulated is used apply it only just before planting time, or even later, working it into the soil between rows through cultivation, as it acts quickly. Raw rock phosphate may be applied any time before preparing the soil because it dissolves very slowly in the soil, acting slowly, but a longer time. One of the best ways to use raw rock phosphate on berry soil is to sprinkle it in the cow stable as an absorbent, then applying it mixed with the stable manure.

Protect Show Birds.

Birds which have been shown at the poultry exhibitions should be given special care when they return to the cold houses to prevent them from taking cold, and they should also be treated for lice which they may have gotten at the show.

Good Season for Wood.

Little snow is left through the counties bordering Lake Ontario; farmers there have a good opportunity to get a supply of wood cut.

HE THRUST GRIEF ASIDE.

Because He Was a Journalist, With Duty to Perform.

Apologies of journalistic enthusiasm, Mr. Arnold Bennett furnishes a humorous illustration. He was twenty and a reporter for a small paper. An election had taken place in which his paper's candidate had been defeated and a brewer had won. His editor had given him instructions that if they lost he was to make fun of the brewer, and in any case to deliver his copy by 11 o'clock next morning. Mr. Bennett says:

"I attended the declaration of the poll, and as the elated brewer made his speech of ceremony in front of the town hall I observed that his hat was stove in and askew. I fastened on that detail and went to bed in meditation upon the facetious notes which I was to write early on the morrow. In the middle of the night I was awakened by My venerable grandfather, who lived at the other end of the town, had been taken ill and was dying. As his eldest grandson, my presence at the final scene was indispensable. I went and talked in low tones with my elders.

"Nothing domestic could be permitted to interfere with my duty as a journalist."

"I must write those facetious comments while my grandfather is dying! This thought filled my brain. It seemed to me to be fine, splendid. I was intensely proud of being laid under a compulsion so startlingly dramatic. Could I manufacture jokes while my grandfather expired? Certainly. I was a journalist. And never since have I been so ardently a journalist as I was that night and morning. With a sense of the theatrical, I wrote my notes at dawn. They delicately exonerated the brewer.

"The curious thing is that my grandfather survived not only that, but several other fatal attacks."

Religious Statistics of Japan.

According to statistics furnished by a Tokyo news agency as official, there are 15,000,000 Shintoists, 30,000,000 Buddhists and 104,000 Christians in Japan, which leaves some 20,000,000 with no profession of faith or otherwise unaccounted for. The returns also show one Shinto priest to every 200 adherents, but only one place of worship to 10,000. The Buddhists have one place of worship to 400 and one priest to 250. The Christians have one place of worship to 120 and one priest to seventy-five.—East and West News

THE HERALD.

TUESDAY, MAY 2ND, 1916

The Dominion Government will aid Canadian aviators to the extent of $100 each.

Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, says the acreage in crop in Alberta this year will not be much less than last year.

CANADA'S trade for the last year was $1,424,000,000, of which more than half was due to export. The effect of the war is seen in the increase of exports of manufactures from $85,000,000 to $242,000,000.

GERMAN official casualty lists up to the end of February show total losses of about 2,700,000 with death aggregating 671,000. Add fifty per cent to these figures and approximately the right total are obtained. Neutral observers like Col. Feyler, of Switzerland, have agreed, in their conclusions with the carefully worked out calculations of the French General Staff showing total German casualties of four million, with over a million deaths.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATION.

Although still in opposition, the Liberals, under the leadership of Mr. Rowell, actually obtained many reforms in the Legislature this Session, with the result that such a Conservative paper as the Hamilton Spectator, for example, contains the following item:—

"Mr. Scott Davidson, Liberal M.L.A. for North Brant, in speaking at London on Saturday, claimed that Mr. N. W. Rowell was practically leading the Legislature. Quite a few people will consider the remark is more than half true."

Among the reforms accomplished this session by Mr. Rowell and the Liberal party are the following:—

1. Prohibition.
2. Establishment of a Trades and Labor Branch.
3. War Resources Committee.
4. Northern Ontario development.
5. Hydro power for Eastern Ontario, as well as for the west.
6. Equal treatment for Ontario citizens in the armies of the Allies.
7. Submission to the House of T.N.O. and Hydro accounts.

On the other hand, among the proposed reforms advanced are:

1. Radical programme of social reform in aid of the workmen and working women.
2. A thorough-going advance in agriculture.
3. Votes for women.
4. Destruction of the patronage system.
5. Government control of nickel.
6. Heavier taxation of private nickel companies.
7. Tax reform and to exclude the drainage in taxation of farm property.

Death of Michael Doyle.

Yesterday morning, at 9:30 o'clock, Mr. Michael J. Doyle passed peacefully to rest after an illness extending over a period of eight months, his illness, Bright's disease. Deceased was born in Doylestown, Penn., U.S., in 1865, and was the first male child born in that locality, the place being named after him, now a village of about 500 population. When two years of age he went with his parents to Wexford County, Ireland. On reaching manhood he married Catharine Walpole, and came to Canada, residing for a short time in Perth, afterwards coming to Carleton Place, where he has been a resident ever since. He was foreman shipper for the Gillies & MacLaren Co. here for eleven years, afterwards moving to Pembroke, where he was head shipper for the Pembroke Lumber Co., then coming back to Carleton Place. He purchased the Leland Hotel some twelve years ago, which he rebuilt, and made into a prosperous hotel. He made several trips to the old country, four years ago visiting France and Spain, and could tell some very interesting stories of his travels. He crossed the Atlantic and was on the old sod when the war broke out finding much difficulty when home ward bound. He was a man of the cheerful disposition, had a good word for every one, and was widely known throughout the country. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow, one daughter—Mrs. Fred Hughes, Ottawa—three sons, Michael and William, of Smiths Falls, and Leo at home. One son, Frederic, predeceased him twelve years ago, and one and only brother Ned of Winnipeg. The funeral takes place Thursday morning at 9:30 to St. Mary's church and thence to the R.C. cemetery.

H.R.H. Duke of Connaught was 66 years of age yesterday. Austrian troops were defeated with heavy losses by the Italians. A German submarine has been sunk by the British, eighteen men being captured. Rejected men to the number of 776 were given buttons at the Recruiting Headquarters Toronto. The British battleship Russell was sunk by a mine in the Mediterranean Sea. About 124 men are missing. Germans in the United States contributed $14,000,000 toward the expense of invading Canada, says Max Lyman. Mr. Allan McLennan, Police Magistrate for some years at Kenora, has been appointed Judge for the High Court Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

IRISH RISING IS ENDED

"Provisional President" Calls on Rebels to Surrender.

"Irish Republic" Has Passed Into History After an Existence of 120 Hours—Rebel Flag Still Flies Above a Few Houses, but Troops Are Gradually Routing Out the Snipers From Their Strongholds.

LONDON, May 1.—With the setting of the dusk of the last Easter-week day upon the city of Dublin the "Irish Republic" passed into history. It had lived a little more than 120 hours. Proudly, triumphantly, it set out on its short-lived career last Monday, defying everything and everybody, making the world sit up and take notice of "ourselves alone." Unconditionally it resigned Saturday night to its predestined fate of failure.

From the tops of a few isolated houses in the Irish capital there still flies the flag of the "Republic" amid the clatter of snipers' rifles holding to the last. But the banners are battered with bullets and reduced to mere rags, and the snipers are at bay. Small fires are still smouldering in various parts of the city. Otherwise Dublin experienced an almost perfectly normal Sunday.

The "army of the republic" has unqualifiedly surrendered; the "seat of the Government," the general post-office on Sackville street, is a heap of ruins, the "commander-in-chief," James Connolly, is dead, and the "president," Peter Pearce, a prisoner in the hands of the Government troops. The republic's newspaper, the Irish War News, has suspended publication—as such at least—its day-dream of "our allies in Europe," the Germans, "conquering England" having failed to become a reality.

A despatch from Kingston, Ireland, dated 8 p.m. Sunday says:

The proclamation issued by "Provisional President" Pearce advising the surrender of all the rebels follows:

"In order to prevent the further slaughter of unarmed people, and in the hope of saving the lives of our followers, who are surrounded and hopelessly outnumbered, the members of the provisional government at headquarters have agreed to unconditional surrender, and the commanders of all the units of the republican forces will order their followers to lay down their arms."

(Signed) "Pearce."

The main body of the Sinn Fein rebels in Dublin surrendered during the course of the day. There was, however, considerable fighting throughout Sunday in Dublin and the suburbs. It was especially severe at Ball's Bridge, outside Dublin.

The rebels in the College of Surgeons surrendered Sunday morning. Briefly, this is the fate that has befallen the Sinn Feiners' revolt, as far as Dublin is concerned. Officially, the end of their reign of terror is described by the following summarized facts:

Immediately upon their unconditional surrender at the hands of the Government troops, who had practically "burned them out," the leader of the Dublin rebels sent out messengers to revolutionist bodies in the west and south, including the Counties of Clare, Galway, Wexford, and Louth, and those immediately adjacent to the Irish capital, and ordered them to lay down their arms and give up to the Government troops. Friends and constables at once spread this news broadcast to bring about a speedy end of all the outbreaks in Ireland.

When the message from Dublin reached the rebel leader in Ennis, he first fell upon his knees, "Impossible!" "Never!" greeted the bringer of the order to surrender. Persuasion on the part of the messenger, however, finally succeeded in prompting the Ennis "general" to order a truce, and then to betake himself to Dublin in a convoyed motor car to find out the true state of affairs for himself. Similar doubts were expressed by the rebel chief in Ashbourne, whence a deputation is now on the way to the levelled Dublin post-office. In Galway the rebels heeded the order from Dublin and began disbanding.

On board the Scandinavian there were: 69th French-Canadian Battalion, 34 officers and 1,023 of other ranks; Army Service Corps draft, 11 officers and 190 of other ranks; Royal Navy, 1 officer and 6 of other ranks; details, 1 officer and 13 of other ranks, 2 nurses.

On board the Mississauga there were: 51st Edmonton Battalion, 37 officers and 1,055 of other ranks; 3rd Divisional Ammunition Sub-park, 3 officers and 163 of other ranks; detachment 224th Lumbermen's Battalion, 16 officers and 378 of other ranks; draft Canadian Dental Corps, 15 officers and 39 of other ranks; details, 16 officers and 3 of other ranks.

German Raider May Have Escaped.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The Evening Post says:

"That another German raider had slipped through the British sea patrol was reported Sunday in financial circles, and war risk rates, both here and in London, stiffened as a result."

The raider is believed to have escaped during the recent bombardment of British east coast towns by a German battle-cruiser squadron.

KUT GARRISON YIELDS

General Townshend Surrenders to Turkish Forces.

After Five Months' Brilliant Defence of Mesopotamian Position British General Destroys Munitions and Gives Up Rather Than Let Men Starve—He Has 3,000 British and 6,000 Indian Troops.

LONDON, May 1.—After holding out for nearly five months the British army under Major-General Charles V. Townshend, which had been besieged by Turkish armies at Kut-el-Amara, has been compelled to surrender because of the exhaustion of supplies.

In the official announcement of the surrender which was issued Saturday afternoon, it is stated that Major General Townshend's army consisted of only 2,970 troops and 6,000 Indian troops.

To prevent the Turkish forces from capturing them all the British guns and ammunition were destroyed before Gen. Townshend surrendered.

The surrender of a British army is an event of very rare occurrence, and much sorrow was caused in London by the announcement.

The following official announcement was made:

"After a resistance protracted for 143 days and conducted with a gallantry and fortitude that will be forever memorable, General Townshend has been compelled by the final exhaustion of his supplies to surrender."

"Before doing so he destroyed his guns and munitions."

"The force under him consists of 2,970 British troops of all ranks and services, and some 6,000 Indian troops and their followers."

13,300 Say Turks.

LONDON, May 1.—A Constantinople despatch, received by way of Berlin, says that the Vice-Chief Commander of the Turkish army announces that the British garrison at Kut-el-Amara under General Townshend, which surrendered unconditionally, numbered 13,300 men.

Although the British report puts the size of the surrendered garrison at 2,970 men, it refers to the Indian troops "and their followers." This may account for the additional 4,300 reported from Constantinople and the seeming discrepancy between the British and the Turkish official reports of the surrender.

GERMANS DRIVEN BACK.

French Recapture Trenches and Take Several Prisoners.

LONDON, May 1.—Although the Germans continue heavily to bombard first and second French lines north and northwest of Verdun, the French, in sharp, quick rushes, have retaken from the enemy a German trench and captured 30 prisoners north of Verdun, and a trench north of Le Mort Homme, with 53 prisoners, Saturday night and Sunday. The French also ejected the Germans south of La Signy, and they repulsed German assaults in the Vosges.

The fighting in the Vosges consisted in the attempting of three "coups de main" against French positions in Ban-de-Sapt, Tete-de-Faux, and south of Largitzen. These were all repulsed with considerable losses to the Germans.

A train standing at the Haudicourt station, northwest of St. Mihiel, was shelled by a French long range gun and several cars were destroyed. In the artillery fighting around Verdun, the French successfully shelled the German batteries that were bombarding Avocourt wood, Hill 304, the region south of Haudicourt, and the sectors south of the Meuse.

The Germans reported Sunday that French attacks on the German positions on the eastern slope of Dead Man Hill and adjoining lines, in the region of Verdun, were repulsed Saturday night, after tenacious fighting.

VICTIMS OF OWN GASES.

Germans Suffer Heavily When Fumes Blow Back.

LONDON, May 1.—The Germans made several attacks Saturday and Sunday against the British lines, but have everywhere been repulsed. Under cover of gas an assault was attempted opposite Hulluch, but the gas broke back over the enemy trenches, and the Germans were seen leaving their trenches and running to the rear on a front of about seven hundred yards. Judging by the number of ambulances seen coming up to Hulluch, declares Sir Douglas Haig's report, the enemy must have suffered considerable casualties from our artillery and his gas. The ground behind the enemy lines was colored by gas on a front of about a thousand yards to a depth of three thousand yards.

Gas was also liberated north of the Messines road on a 2,000-yard front, but the infantry attack which followed was broken down by the British fire. An attack with bombers at another point was equally unsuccessful.

General Smuts Captures Supplies.

LONDON, May 1.—A British official communication concerning the operations against the Germans in East Africa says: "Lieut. General Jan Christian Smuts, commander of the expeditionary forces, telegraphs under date of April 29 that his mounted troops captured in the vicinity of Kondoa Irangi various convoys of munitions, including 200 slaughtered oxen, 80 rifles, a large amount of ammunition, a herd of 600 mixed cattle, and 200 donkeys, with saddlery and supplies."

Mrs. Wm. Montgomery spent yesterday in Kingston.

We are sorry to record the death of Mr. Howard D. Watt, mentioned last week. His ailment was cancer of the bowels. About four years ago he was married to Miss Minnie Daron, of Lanark, and the union was blessed with two little girls, Winifred and Florence. He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his wife and children, his mother, brothers and sisters. The funeral, which was conducted by Rev. A. D. Fraser, took place on Wednesday afternoon at Lanark village. Much sympathy is expressed for the sorrowing widow and little ones and the relatives and friends in their great bereavement.

Another old Hopetown boy going to the front shortly is Duncan M. Affleck, son of Mr. John Affleck, of Middleville. Duncan's mother died when he was an infant and his childhood and boyhood days were spent with his uncle, Mr. Hugh Stewart, at Hopetown. Sixteen years ago he went west and most of that time he has been in British Columbia. In September he enlisted with Company A of the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver, which reached Ottawa on Friday.

ALMONTE.

Mrs. (Capt.) E. M. MacBrayne of Calgary, Alta., is visiting with her aunt Mrs. W. S. Moir.

A quiet military wedding took place in St. Mary's church at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, when Miss Della, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Bolton of town, became the wife of Pte. Lorne, of No. 4 Co., 130th Battalion, Rev. Father Fay performing the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Martin entertained the staff of Taylor Bros. Ltd. on Saturday evening as a farewell to Mr. Harry Houston, who has enlisted for overseas, and who was home for the Easter holidays. During the evening the staff took the opportunity of presenting Mr. Houston with a wrist watch, and an address, expressing their appreciation of him as a fellow worker and also expressing the hope for a safe return.

Mr. Allan McPhail, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McPhail, passed through here last Friday morning with the Seaforth Highlanders, on the way to England. Several members of Mr. McPhail's family went to Ottawa where they had the pleasure of his company for an hour or more. It is several years since Mr. McPhail went to Vancouver and previous to his going he was employed with the Dominion Express Co. here.

Pte. Edward Malone is in Almonte this week visiting at Mrs. John Walker's and with other friends. Private Malone, who was born in Almonte, but who spent the most of his life in Ottawa, enlisted at Brockville in August, 1914, with the 2nd Battalion. From there he went to Valcartier, and went with the First Contingent to the front. Last June he was injured by shell concussion from a Jack Johnson, at Givenchy, and had his arm and collar bone broken and his leg fractured. He was taken to the Voluntary Aid Detachment hospital at Walmsworth where he spent some time before being invalided home. He reached St. John on the 18th inst., having come over on the Metagama on which there were 114 soldiers and officers returning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. McAdam are spending a few weeks with Kingston friends.

Mr. Wm. Aikenhead, late of Mr. M. R. McFarlane's drug store, has enlisted for overseas service.

Mrs. J. MacIntosh Bell has returned home from Montreal. Her mother, Mrs. Beauchamp, and sister, Miss J. Beauchamp, of New Zealand, will spend the summer here.

Miss Mary McIntosh, who was a member of the Rosamond Memorial Staff here for some time, has been appointed for overseas service and expects to sail in the latter part of this month.

Mrs. (Dr.) Lynch, who has been in poor health for several years, passed away at an early hour last Friday morning at her residence on Queen street.

A few days before her demise she contracted pneumonia, and in her enfeebled state of health it was quite evident that recovery was not within the bounds of possibility. The late Mrs. Lynch, whose maiden name was Mary Elizabeth Brooks, was a native of Brockville, and was married to the late Dr. Lynch in 1881.

Of the union there are three sons—Dr. John Lynch, of Sidney, Cape Breton; Morris, with the overseas forces, somewhere in France, and Desmond, in the 51st Battery, Montreal. Deceased's husband died in August, 1911. So far as we are aware only one sister of her family survives, Mrs. Jones, of Ottawa. The funeral took place on Monday morning at St. Mary's church, interment being made in the 9th line cemetery. The obsequies were largely attended, and the floral tributes from friends in town and other points were numerous and elaborate in design.

Musical Comedy Coming.

The long-looked for musical comedy comes to the Opera House, Carleton Place, Wednesday night, May 10th. "September Morn" of course gets its title from the painting of the same name, which stirred up comment from coast to coast. The story has to do with the aspiration of one Rudolph Plastic, owner of an art studio, who claims to have been the painter. Of course Rudolph does not know how to paint a picture. The model of "September Morn" is laid claim to be an actress, who has instructed her present agent to circulate the rumor that she is the original. The ludicrous moments when the two impersonators are dodging each other. The scenery is prettily designed and painted, and the costume introduces the latest Parisian creations. The company numbers nearly fifty people. The dancing numbers are many, the world's popular Tango being introduced in various forms.

The Farewell Concert of the 130th.

A concert of unusual merit was that given in the town hall, last evening, by the 130th Battalion, before a full hall, there being standing room only. The programme was good, well arranged, and was carried off without a hitch anywhere. Col. de Hertel, of Perth, acted as chairman and gave a very stirring and clever farewell address, thanking the people of Carleton Place and surrounding district for their hearty support, and complimenting Capt. Bates on his good work in recruiting. It may be of interest to know that the 130th is a record battalion, there being nearly 1,100 men in uniform in the short space of five months. The band played a number of selections during the evening, which were splendidly rendered. They are recognized as being the best marching band of any of the different battalions. Miss McCaffrey, of Montreal, a soprano soloist, sang a number of pieces, and was most heartily applauded. Lieut. Jordan, of Perth, a baritone, has an exceptionally fine voice and greatly pleased his audience. The Finlayson family contributed much to the features of the programme, Wee Alex being a very clever little fellow, also his sister, who sang some songs very acceptably. Other singers were Pte. Davie and Capt. Crowe, of Perth, who did themselves credit. The concert closed with the National Anthem and three cheers for King George. The total receipts are not yet known, but will exceed $250.

HELD SECTION SEVEN DAYS.

Canadian Brigade Put Up Heroic Defence at St. Eloi.

OTTAWA, May 1.—The heroic defence of the St. Eloi positions by one of the Canadian infantry brigades is recorded in the weekly communique of the Canadian general representative at the front. The splendid part played by a Nova Scotia battalion, and many individual instances of gallant and conspicuous service are given in the despatch, which follows: Canadian General Headquarters, May 1.—During the week the main efforts of the enemy on the Canadian front were once again centred on our St. Eloi positions. For seven days one of our brigades held this section. It was an eventful experience for the men concerned. On the second night four separate bombing attacks were made by the Germans on advanced posts of a Nova Scotia battalion. In each instance the enemy was repulsed by detachments under Lieuts. W. A. Cameron and L. S. Johnston. On the same night another of our posts, under the command of Lieut. G. C. Parrish, was heavily bombarded with grenades. After daylight a German bombing party advanced against this position under cover of intense artillery fire. When well clear of its trenches it was greeted with rapid machine gun and rifle fire and retired hurriedly, leaving a number of dead or wounded on the field. On the next three nights further bombing attacks were delivered by the enemy and beaten off. A party of Germans succeeded in getting into one of the disused trenches on the front of a New Brunswick battalion. A patrol consisting of Lieut. Mowatt and Ptes. Bamsey, Kennedy, and Chatterton, stumbled on the enemy. Private Bamsey, who was leading as guide, was suddenly hit on the head and fell. Almost at the same instant the explosion of a bomb wounded Lieut. Mowatt in both feet, while another bomb hit Private Kennedy in the chest, but fortunately failed to explode. Private Chatterton, who alone of the patrol was unwounded, returned to our lines for help. Sergt. Henderson started out at once with reinforcements, when the enemy retired and our wounded were brought in.

REBELLION IS BROKEN.

Authorities Say Work Remains to Be Done in Rural Ireland.

LONDON, May 1.—An official statement issued Sunday night by the Official Press Bureau regarding the situation in Ireland says: "The general officer commanding-in-chief, the Irish command, has reported the situation in Dublin much more satisfactory. Throughout the country there was still much more to be done, which would take time, but he hoped that the back of the rebellion had been broken."

"Last night messengers were sent out from the rebel leaders in Dublin to the rebel bodies in Galway, Clare, Wexford, Louth, and Dublin Counties, ordering them to surrender, and priests and the Royal Irish Constabulary are doing their utmost to disseminate this information. "As regards the situation in Dublin, rebels from the areas of Sackville street, the post-office, and the Four Courts are surrendering freely. More incendiary fires took place in Sackville street Saturday night, but the fire brigade is now able to resume work."

"It is further reported that up to the present 707 prisoners have been taken. Included among these are the Countess Markievicz. "The rebels at Ennisceorthy are reported to be still in possession of this place, and a mixed column of cavalry, infantry, and artillery, including 4.7 guns, has been sent from Wexford with a view to engaging the rebels. The latest information from Ennisceorthy shows that the rebel leader at this place does not believe the rebel leaders' message from Dublin, and has proceeded to that city in a motor car under escort to verify the information. In the meantime a truce exists."

"A deputation for a similar purpose from the rebels at Ashbourne (County Meath) has also been sent to Dublin. At Galway the rebels are believed to be disbanding, and few arrests have been made. "At New Ross, Gorey, Wicklow, Bagenalstown, and Arklow the situation is reported normal. Carlow and Dungarvin are believed to be quiet."

TURKS REPULSED.

Advance Guard Defeated by Russians at Diarbekr.

LONDON, May 1.—The Russians, in their advance southwards from Bitlis, after dislodging the Turks from a mountain range, have got close to Diarbekr, but they will probably have to fight another engagement with the Turks before they are able to advance south and west upon Nisibin, the present railroad of the Baghdad railway.

The Russian official report, received here from Petrograd Sunday, says that the Russians repulsed near Diarbekr an attack by Turkish advanced guards.

This is taken to indicate that the Turks have brought up fresh forces to oppose the advance of the Russians. It is believed that the grand duke has full knowledge of the Turkish dispositions, and has made the proper moves to check them. The decision will not be known, perhaps, for several days.

Germany Protests to Greece.

ATHENS, May 1, via London.—Replying to the protest from Berlin against the transportation of Serbian soldiers over Greek railways, the Greek Government has informed Germany, says The Journal d'Athens, that the Cabinet recognizes such an act would be a violation of neutrality. This action, the newspaper adds, followed a declaration from Germany that in the event of such transportation German aeroplanes would be obliged to bombard the railways and transport trains.

Old City of Verdun

Is Closely Associated With British History

VERDUN, where the French lion stands courageously at bay to the German tiger, is a town of particular interest to British people. For during our gigantic struggle with the French Empire in the early years of the 19th century it was the principal place of internment of Napoleon's British prisoners. It was selected for this purpose in preference to other towns mainly because of its distance from the sea, which rendered the complete escape of prisoners a matter of considerable difficulty. However, in spite of the obstacles, a number of Englishmen did manage to get away in many cases with the kind assistance of French women. Such was the case with a midshipman of the name of Temple, who in 1807 escaped by carriage to Strassburg, and from thence into Austria. He escaped detection by hiding beneath the skirt of a French lady, who was in love with him, and her female servant. It was not only broken hearts he left behind him, but also disconsolate creditors. Some of the prisoners who remained at Verdun did not altogether approve of this cavalier's treatment of his French creditors, for they memorialized the British Government to dismiss him from the navy.

The British captives at Verdun, who never numbered at any time more than about 1,100, consisted, roughly, of two classes: (1) British civilians who were visiting in France at the time of the rupture of peace in 1803, and were promptly interned by Napoleon's orders; (2) captured military and naval officers and officers of the mercantile marine. Captives were allowed to take lodgings in the town and environs. One of the leading British captives at Verdun during those eventful years, says The Manchester Dispatch, was Lady Cadogan. She was the divorced wife of the first Earl of Cadogan and great-grandmother of the late earl, who was for so long Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland. She gave entertainments at Verdun, and when she finally shook the dust of the town from off her feet she left no debts behind her. Another captive at Verdun was Colonel Robert Clive, a son of the great Clive. His wife wore a costly toilette at a ball which was given by another member of the British colony, Mrs. Concannon, in 1804, to celebrate the Prince of Wales' birthday.

Men, it may be remarked, were allowed to have their wives over from England to live with them, and were in some cases allowed to proceed to England to transact pressing private business. Internment at Verdun was not the mechanical affair that a German internment camp is to-day. It was run with more laxity, and also with more humanity. The natives of the place were not filled with feelings of ferocious hatred towards the captives. In some cases the Englishmen took French wives. The English folk had their clubs, their horse races, their gaming rooms, their masquerade balls, even their duels, for, as Napoleon said, "a prisoner of war may fight a duel." The most stringent regulation was that captives should answer to the roll-call morning and evening.

There were many very black-sheep among the prisoners. There was, for instance, the fourth Viscount Barrington, who passed off a French lady as his wife. He also gave a Frenchman a draft on London which was dishonored. There was also a certain infantry lieutenant who escaped to England by breaking his parole. This so incensed the Prince Regent—one of the few occasions on which he was inspired with honorable feelings—that he returned the lieutenant to the French under a flag of truce. Lord Blayney (whose peerage is now extinct) put in three years at Verdun. But, perhaps, the best known of all the Englishmen connected with Verdun in those eventful days is Lord Yarmouth, afterwards third Marquis of Hertford. He was subsequently immortalized in two novels—as Lord Monmouth in Disraeli's "Coningsby" and as the Marquis of Steyne in Thackeray's "Vanity Fair," one of the greatest novels in our language. It was this notorious nobleman's subsequent place of residence in Regent's Park when he had more or less sowed all his wild oats—which is now being utilized as a training school for those who have been blinded in the struggle for the liberties of the world.

Lord Tweeddale, whose great-grandparents, the seventh marquis and his wife, died within a few weeks of one another while in captivity at Verdun, is one among the hundreds of well-known people alive to-day who had ancestors and ancestors among these prisoners of Verdun. One day stories will be released of life and experience at Rubeleben and the other great internment camps in Germany. But it will be a surprise if the treatment of the Germans towards their captives contrasts favourably with the chivalry, taking all things into consideration, of the gallant French nation towards those who were their enemies a century ago.

Bonar Law's Memory.

Mr. Bonar Law has an amazing memory. He can reel off dates, place names, and incidents with uncanny accuracy in the course of a speech, without a note or reference of any kind.

PATRIOTIC MOTHERS.

One Widow in England Has Given Seventeen Sons to the Army.

There would never have been any need to introduce compulsory military service in Great Britain if every British mother had followed, to the best of her ability, the example of Mrs. Davies, of Church Streeton, Salop.

This good lady, herself the widow of a soldier, has given no fewer than seventeen sons to the army, of whom fourteen were actually on active service with the colors on September 15, 1914, six weeks only after the outbreak of the war.

Another patriotic mother, Mrs. Jones, of Kyverdale road, Stamford Hill, gave her three triplet sons and a fourth son to the army. The triplet brothers, who are so much alike that it is impossible for strangers to distinguish between them, enlisted a few days after the declaration of war, and their proud mother soon afterwards received a letter of praise and congratulation from the King.

Then there is Mrs. Potter, a Portsmouth widow, aged eighty-three, who has been awarded a prize locally for being the head of the family with the most members in the fighting services. Sixteen of her grandsons are in the army and navy, and the husbands of four of her granddaughters are on active service, making twenty of her descendants altogether fighting for King and country.

In addition, two other grandsons, now dead, were in the navy.

Many other similar records there are, all equally remarkable in their way. There is, for example, a family named Smith, of Norwich, which has nine soldier brothers serving; while Mr. and Mrs. Bresnahan, of Dufford, have eight sons in the army, most of whom are now at the front.

Yet another splendid record has been created by Mrs. Williams, of Plumstead. Herself the daughter of a soldier and the wife of one who fought through the Indian Mutiny, Mrs. Williams is the mother of six soldier sons, four of whom have risen from the ranks to be commissioned officers. The amazing nature of such a record as this in the case of a single family can only be quite fully and rightly appreciated by old army men, who know how difficult it is for enlisted men, without birth or influence, to attain to this high honor. No wonder King George, when he heard of it, sent the proud mother a special letter of congratulation.

The above are all magnificent examples taken from the present war; but the record in this direction, so far as actual numbers are concerned, is believed to have been established so far back as 1801, by a family named Taylor, thirty-one members of which were then serving in the forces. These included eight brothers, five of whom afterwards fell in the South African War, and the husbands and sons of their four sisters, all of whom had married soldiers.

Depends on Retired Generals.

While most of the Austrian generals at the front to-day are men whom the war has brought to high place, virtually every German command is in the hands of men who, for one reason or another, were on the retired list when the war was declared. Field Marshal von Hindenburg was placed on the retired list two days after a court-martial had supported a contention of the Kaiser with which the Field Marshal did not agree. General von Blomberg had been in retirement for eight years when he was appointed military governor of Belgium. He was asked to retire in 1907. He protested, caused an army scandal, and the Kaiser withheld the usual decoration conferred on retiring commanders. General von Falkenhayn, commanding in North Alsace, had been out of the active service for thirteen years when the war began. He was placed on the retired list after having served as commander of the Wurtemberg corps for only three months. General Gade, commanding in South Alsace, was in command of a division at Metz in 1903, when he was placed on the retired list for incapacity. General Count von Bothmer, in command in Volhynia, was removed from his place at the head of an army corps three years before the war began and was made chief of the Royal Corps of Archers at Munich, a corps composed of one hundred non-commissioned officers armed with halberds.

Vodka Prohibited Forever.

In the course of a discussion on the report of the estimates of the Excise and Liquor Department of the Ministry of Finance in Russia, it was pointed out that there are still in the country a vast stock of State vodka, amounting to something like 260 million gallons.

This, as I. Grinevitch said, constituted a public danger, and he recommended either its export or (in the war zone) its destruction. M. Bark, the Minister of Finance, in the course of an important speech, indicated a scheme for the utilization of spirit for technical purposes. He was, however, entirely in favor, he said, of destroying the existing stock of vodka, and declared categorically that the Government did not intend to return to the old state of affairs after the war is over.

It is, indeed, now engaged in drawing up a bill on the lines suggested by forty-five members of the Duma for the maintenance of temperance for all time. This bill has already met with the sympathy of the entire Council of Members, and vodka will, in accordance with the Tsar's wish expressed to M. Bark, "be totally prohibited forever."

SYNOPSIS.

Dudley Larnigan, district attorney of New York, attacks the liquor and vice trusts. He is killed by an agent of a secret society, the committee of fifteen. His son, Bruce Larnigan, is elected district attorney and takes up the fight. Bruce is in love with Dorothy Maxwell, whose father is head of the insurance trust. Bruce Larnigan is decoyed to an evil resort in an effort to frame him up. He beats the conspirators by having the police commissioner present. A fire starts in a tenement across the way. Larnigan saves the children of Dow, one of the conspirators. This man agrees to expose the trust. He is murdered by the gang.

BRUCE LARNIGAN'S crushing defeat of the tenement house trust, resulting in the murder by the graft syndicate itself of Anton Dow, who was about to give Bruce evidence against the fifteen, served to show Stanford Stone and the remaining members of the graft syndicate that in Bruce they faced a foe far more dangerous to them than his murdered father had ever been.

Stanford Stone, the secret head of the powerful graft syndicate, had despised Bruce in the beginning. Now he was beginning to fear him. And the fact that he was in love with Dorothy Maxwell, the girl who was Bruce's fiancée, only increased his determination to get rid of Bruce.

It was impossible for Stanford Stone to work in the open. It seemed to him vitally important to hold secret his own connection with the graft syndicate. Even Bruce Larnigan was so far from suspecting it that after the death of Anton Dow he confided many of his plans for the future to Stone. "Dow's death is unfortunate," he told Stone. "He was a villain, but he was about to turn over a new leaf. He would have been a useful witness too. However, I have other irons in the fire. I am more and more convinced that all the graft in this city runs ultimately to a central spot; that one man dominates all the corrupt elements. I can't strike at any particular form of graft, no matter what it may be, without weakening that great central power."

"That sounds reasonable," said Stone sympathetically.

"Now, for instance," said Bruce, "I am planning to look into the operations of the traction trust. I am convinced that whole organization is riddled with graft and that the city is being looted right and left in connection with the new subways. I haven't got all my evidence yet, but I'm going after it. And I may need your help."

"I am at your service," said Stone. "As I've told you before, I feel, as a public spirited citizen, that it is my duty to uphold you in the fight you have undertaken."

Through men and women known to him he got into touch with Bruce Larnigan's chauffeur. This man, seemingly respectable and actually faithful enough to Bruce, had a dark spot in his life. Black managed to learn of this and so got the man Bonner into his grip. He arranged to have Bonner drive Larnigan through the park while gunmen were planted there.

Stanford Stone by means of a dictaphone was able to keep in close touch with Black's movements, since he never for a moment trusted Black. On the day after his conversation with Bruce, however, Stone, listening over the dictaphone, nodded with approval. Bruce he knew was coming to see him. Afterward Bonner should be able to take him through the park. And then—the graft syndicate's most dangerous enemy would be removed!

Bruce arrived while Black was still discussing his plans. With him was Dorothy Maxwell.

"We're not really together, Mr. Stone," she said gayly. "I'm looking for papa. I thought he might be here."

"I'm sorry he isn't, Miss Dorothy," said Stone. "But if you'll call up Boyd Penrose's office I think you'll get him. I'll take Larnigan outside while you telephone."

Dorothy smiled her thanks. She was left alone and by pure accident picked up the dictaphone receiver. To her horror and amazement she heard Black giving the final orders for Bruce's murder. Her heart almost stopped, but she managed to control herself and heard enough to put her in possession of all the details of the plot. Then, schooling her features, she went out and joined Bruce and Stone.

"I think I'll go straight home. I can't reach papa," she said. "Coming, Bruce?"

He nodded a farewell to Stone and went down with her. At the curb she seized his arm.

"Bruce, where are you going?" she asked tensely.

"To see an old friend—Jim Stevens," he said. "He's a newspaper man, and we're going to pull off a stunt together."

"Let me take you there," she urged. "Please, Bruce! Send Bonner home alone. I want to show you how my new car runs."

He thought nothing of her request and was glad to yield. Bonner, startled and dismayed, saw what had happened, and at once, instead of going home as he was told to do, he hurried to Black.

"Damn!" said Black. "Well, we'll have to get those fellows and plant them near Larnigan's house. Come on; take me through the park. It's riskier, but that can't be helped."

Bonner obeyed. They hurried into the park, and at the fatal spot, as Black stood up, a volley rang out. The gun men had mistaken their employer for their victim. Black fell dead!

Meanwhile Dorothy had waited for Bruce during his talk with Stevens and then driven him home. They found Mrs. Larnigan in tears. The holder of the mortgage on her house had arbitrarily refused to give her more time, and her lawyer had told her that he had found no one willing to take it up, good as was the security. Bruce saw in this plot on the part of the fifteen to punish him. But Dorothy, without telling him of her intentions, determined to save him.

"Everything will come out all right," Dorothy assured Bruce.

She had some property of her own, and she went straight to her father and asked him to advance her a large sum on certain securities. He laughed as he did so, giving her the money in cash.

"What do you want it for?" he asked.

She told him, and, though she saw the startled look that came into his eyes, she did not know the reason nor that it was Roger Maxwell's insurance company that had threatened to foreclose on Mrs. Larnigan's house. Yet it was true—she had unwittingly defeated a plan concocted by her father and Stanford Stone.

"The graft is that night run to millions!" said Jim, appalled. "And the danger—my God! The whole thing might collapse at any minute!"

"Get the facts down—and print them," said Bruce. "I'll stay here to get more evidence if I can. I don't think they suspect us yet."

Stevens obeyed. But at the office of his paper instead of being praised for his enterprise in securing a wonderful story he was bitterly attacked by his managing editor. Stevens had not known it hitherto, but his paper was a tool of the graft syndicate and was preparing at that moment to launch a bitter attack upon Bruce Larnigan. The story Stevens turned in was torn up. He himself was summarily discharged.

But that, as it turned out, was a false move, for it only aroused the fighting blood of Stevens. He went from newspaper to newspaper, until finally in the office of the independent he found an editor with courage enough to face the consequences of defying the trust.

"They may smash us," he said, "but Larnigan is in the right, and we'll back him up. We'll begin by printing your story and putting you on our staff. Go out and get as much more stuff of this sort as you can."

A new danger threatened, however, for Stanford Stone had been in the office of Stevens' paper talking to the managing editor when the reporter made his report. Unseen by Stevens, he had heard everything and so knew that Bruce, in disguise, was working as a laborer in the subway. At once he saw a chance to crush his enemy. He went to Penrose, and the two concocted a new scheme for Bruce's destruction.

Bruce, suspecting nothing, was pleased by the praise that Kelly, ostensibly "Everything will come out all right," said Dorothy.

the foreman of the work, but actually the personal representative and graft collector of Penrose, gave him for his work.

"Sure, an' you do well for a greenhorn," said Kelly. "I'll be after raisin' your pay and givin' ye better work to do."

Bruce grinned his thanks. He was disposed to like Kelly and to believe that the man did not understand the rottenness of the work that was being done. Kelly, as was afterward to appear, was a good actor wasted on the job he held. He refused, in spite of Penrose's urgency, to be hurried.

"You'd be wantin' him to smell a rat," he said. "He's no fool, that lad. He takes careful handlin'—such as he gets from me. Lave it to me, Mister Penrose. I'll see that he goes to kingdom come. Lave it to Kelly!"

Day by day Kelly saw to it that Bruce got better work and more important to do. He praised him, encouraged him. And he did lull Bruce's suspicions, so that when at last, he was ready to strike Bruce trusted him.

"It's toime ye learned the blastin'. That's the work that pays!" said Kelly. "Take this dynamite cartridge, now, and carry it into the tunnel. The place to set it is marked wid a red cross. The hole the driller left is there. Ye see, ye carry the wire along. Then when ye come back ye report and make the contact—and blif! Alsy does it—see! Don't be droopin' that stick!"

Bruce obeyed, working his way into the tunnel. But above, when Kelly came out, Penrose was waiting by the electric switch.

"Alsy does it, sorr!" said Kelly. "Give him time to get the end and start back. Then I'll touch the switch—and good night Larnigan!"

"Splendid!" said Penrose. "Here, I must get my girls out. They're inspecting the work. I don't want them to take any chances."

Dorothy and Mabel, indeed, were near by. And Dorothy had recognized Bruce. She had an accomplishment that few of her friends suspected—she could read lips. And so, though out of hearing, she knew what Kelly and Penrose had said. At once she slipped into the tunnel after Bruce.

"Come quickly! There's a plot to kill you!" she screamed. "Drop that stick and run! Don't ask me how I know!"

Bruce obeyed. Together they ran for the street. And just as they got out of the tunnel there was a dull roar behind them. Bruce had escaped.

But the blast had unforeseen consequences, for the rotten cement gave way, the street fell in, and Bard Penrose, sitting in his automobile, was swept to his death.

Lesson VI.—Second Quarter, May 7, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xi, 19-26; xiii, 1-12—Memory Verses, xiii, 2, 3. Golden Text, Matt. xxviii, 19—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Before the Lord Jesus visibly ascended to heaven after He had appeared many times to His disciples during those forty days between His resurrection and ascension and spoke so often of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God He commanded His disciples to go and teach all nations what He had taught them; to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature; to proclaim repentance and remission of sins in His name among all nations. And He sent them, as the Father had sent Him, in the power of the Holy Spirit that people might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and, believing, have life through His name (Acts 1, 1-3; Matt. xxviii, 19, 20; Mark xvi, 15; Luke xxiv, 47; John xx, 21, 31).

The disciples were slow to obey this command, and the Lord permitted Stephen to be killed, a persecution of the saints to follow, and the believers thus scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word, but only to the Jews. Some went as far as Antioch, and everywhere they preached the word of the Lord Jesus, and the hand of the Lord being with them a great number believed and turned unto the Lord (verses 19-21). In the chapters which we have already studied in this book of the Acts of a risen and ascended Christ through His witnesses we have seen how Peter and John and Stephen and Philip and Paul, and now these scattered abroad ones all have the same topic—namely, Jesus Christ crucified, risen, ascended and returning to set up His kingdom. And as they thus speak of Him the Spirit inclines many to turn to Him, and they become joined to, or added to the Lord. Thus His body, the church, began to grow, as the word of God grew and multiplied (xli, 24). The one only calling of the believer is to proclaim Jesus Christ and win people to Him, that His Eve may be built and the marriage of the Lamb come, for only after that will His kingdom come.

If denominations and societies and the so called boards could sink their self seeking and see and seek Jesus only and His kingdom so much more might they see of His good hand upon them.

When the brethren at Jerusalem heard of the good work at Antioch they sent Barnabas, true son of consolation, full of the Holy Ghost and of faith, and when he came and saw what the grace of God had done he was glad. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ is briefly but fully set forth in II Cor. viii, 9, which with Rom. iii, 24; Eph. ii, 8, 9; Tit. ii, 11; iii, 4-7, and other passages teach us that the benefits of the finished work of Jesus Christ are for Jew and gentile alike, without exception, and that without any works of ours or any merit whatever on our part, any and every sinner truly receiving Jesus Christ becomes a part of Him, has in him eternal redemption and may become a messenger to win others to Him.

Barnabas and Saul, having been sent twelve apostles not one of the committee of seven, but just a Levite of the country of Cyprus, who became a true believer and handed himself and his possessions honestly over to the Lord for His service (Acts iv, 36, 37). It is not necessary to be on the board or on

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."

Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely. It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Teaching a Parrot. Don't try to teach Polly to talk unless she is perfectly tame and quite confiding. Begin on a one syllabled word without "th" or "ch" in it; then let her pronounce her name. Repeat the word you're trying to teach her endlessly and always in exactly the same tone of voice. If, as sometimes happens, Polly can't be taught to talk, repeat over and over again a whistle, a catcall or any other unusual sound. This will teach her to imitate, and she may from that go to repeating words and sentences.

R. J. ROBERTSON, Principal

Death of Robert Mitchell.

A western paper contains the following notice of the late Robert Mitchell, of Gallifree, Sask., whose tragic death occurred some weeks ago: "Once more we have to record the departure from our midst to the 'Great Beyond,' a good neighbor and friend, Mr. Robert Mitchell, who died on March 27th, at his home near Gallifree, aged 39 years, 8 months, 5 days. The funeral took place to Expanse cemetery. Mr. Robert Mitchell was born on a farm near Armagh, Ireland, July 22nd, 1876.

When about 5 years of age he, with his parents, moved to Carleton Place, Ont.
where he lived until manhood. On August 2nd, 1899, he and Mary Eleanor Olive were united in marriage, and soon after they removed to Chapleau, where Mr. Mitchell was employed as brakeman on C.P.R. After spending a while there they went to Sault Ste. Marie, on the Canadian side of the national boundary, where he was engaged as conductor on a street car line. In 1907 they moved to Moose Jaw, where they resided for six years, and then came to their homestead in June over two years ago. To Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were born three children, one girl and two boys, Edna F., Clarence R. and J.
Douglas. The deceased is survived by his wife, the three children, his mother and his brothers James, Thomas, William George, John David, Alexander J. and Victor. Mr. Mitchell had been a long and patient sufferer from diabetes.
On March 21st, he tried to go to the home of a near neighbor, but the storm was too much for him. He wandered and was out over a day and a night despite all the efforts of neighbors and relatives to find him. He was badly chilled, it being too cold for his weak constitution. The who's community was shocked to learn that he died the following Monday."

NEW SIRENGTH IN THE SPRING

Nature Needs Aid in Making New Health-Giving Blood.

In the spring the system needs a tonic.
To be healthy you must have new blood, just as the trees must have new sap to renew their vitality. Nature demands it, and without this new blood you will feel weak and languid. You may have twinges of rheumatism or the sharp stabbing pains of neuralgia.
Often there are disfiguring pimples or eruptions on the skin. In other cases there is merely a feeling of tiredness and a variable appetite. Any of these are signs that the blood is out of order —that the indoor life of winter has lessened your vitality. What you need in spring is a tonic medicine to put you right, and in all the world of medicine there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills actually make new rich, red blood—your greatest need in spring. This new blood drives out the seeds of disease and makes easily tired men, women and children bright, active and strong.
Mrs. Eugene Cadarette, Amherstburg, Ont., says: "I suffered for a long time from dizziness, pain in the back and sick headache, and nothing I took did me any good until I began Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These cured me after taking six boxes and I now feel better than ever I did in my life. I had fallen off in weight to 82 pounds, and after taking the Pills I had increased to 100 pounds.

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from
