BERLIN, Nov. 13.—The Vossische Zeitung asserts, in spite of denials, that Angola, which has just arrived in Liverpool from the west coast of Africa. While steaming off the coast between Bey Reach and Lagos a long moving mass was made out about a mile from shore. Closer examination showed it to be an immense serpent. The attention of the whole of the officers, crew and passengers on board the Angola was directed to the creature. There were no fins or flappers visible. The serpent was moving through the water at about six miles an hour, with apparently an undulating wriggling motion. It was traveling in an opposite direction to the Angola, and was kept in sight for quite ten minutes. The serpent's length was estimated at about 200 feet, and its body seemed to rise several feet above the sea surface. The water at the time was smooth, and an unobstructed view of the monster could be obtained. At one time it raised an enormous head, and glared at the ship, as it seemed. So impressed were those on board with what they saw that a written record of the fact was drawn up and signed. As is usual in cases of the kind the signers have been subjected to a great deal of ridicule, but they are nevertheless convinced that the monster they saw was a marine mystery and a sea serpent. Such is the report in the Liverpool papers.

The Hopes and Desires of Lendon Tradesmen-Women-Workers' Conter-ence-Mortality of English Dukes-Sarah Bernhardt Indignant.

London, Nov. 14.—The cessation of court mourning for the late Duke of Clarence was emphasized by an operatic performance last week at Baimoral Castle, where the Carl Rosa Company performed Donizetti's "Daughter of the Regiment" in the presence of the Queen and court. A stage was fitted up in the ball room, and the orehestra was installed in an alcove in a side wall, in order that the Queen's view of the performance might not be interrupted. The programme was printed on white satin for the use of her Majesty, but other people present had to be content with the ordinary thing. The Queen led the applicable throughout, laughed heartily at the jokes, and altogether thoroughly enjoyed herself.

that it is a specimen taken from a quantity sent to Quito in payment for stores by an American who has lived a hermit's life many years in the wilderness. The consul adds that gold abounds in the region inhabited by Indians, who bring it to Quito on certain days in the year. When they purchase corn of the Government they grind up nuggets to dust and throw the surplus in the river, to avoid exciting suspicion and pressure to reveal the source of wealth. The consul further says that all that is necessary is the construction of a road from Quito to the Napo district when "It is possible that the dreams of past ages may yet be realized, and El Dorado may at length be found."

BPECIAL MEETINGS OF COUNCIL Reference to Sec. 236 of the Ontario Municipal Act of 1892 shows that the mayor has power to call a special meeting of the council at any time, and he is bound to call a special meeting of the council if the majority of aldermen request him. The same provision applies to councils of rural municipalities as well. Here are the

"1. The head of every council shall pre-"1. The head of every council shall pre-side at the meetings of council, and may at any time summon a special meeting thereof, and it shall be his duty to summon a special meeting whenever requested in writing by a majority of the members of a special meeting when the writing by a majority of the members of the council.

"2. In the absence or death of the mayor or head of the council, a special meeting may be summoned at any time by the clerk upon a special requisition to him, signed by a majority of the members of the council, R. S. O. Chap. 184, Sec. 236."

It would not, as we have already pointed out, be a sensible thing to require a bylaw before a special meeting could be held, even though the act were silent on that point. Ald, Jeffery, who objected to some business done at a recent meeting of the council, did not question its legality, because it was transacted at a special meeting, having been called for a purpose stated in the notice, other business was taken up. His contention is that if this is done, even with the ununimous consent of the alderspecial business to be taken up at a special meeting, but where the business is stated, it is resonable to believe that the aldermen will take up no other matter. This men will take up no other matter. This line has not been followed out in the past, but after the recent experience it is probable that the view so strongly put by Ald. Jeffery will in the future be re-selves, but to promote the wolfare of the workers. The era of democracy is at hand, and the old fogies shudder as they think INDEPENDENT anadians will be more than ever encouraged by the result in the United States to persist in their opposition to the monopoly system. "High taxation must go!" is the motion. must go !" is the motto.

LOOK AFTER THE BALANCE SHEET.
Rural municipalitie may be reminded of the necessity for getting ready a balance sheet for the year during the present month. The not demands that a meeting of the council be held on Dec. 15 for the purpose of preparing a financial statement of the assets, liabilities and uncollected taxes.

A similar statement in detail respecting the last fifteen days of the preceding year, 1891, is now required to be attached thereto. The peope are beginning to look sharply after the expenditures of municipal councils. thereto. The people are beginning to look sharply after the expenditures of municipal money. By direct taxation, they know how much local government costs them. If they could as effectively ascertain what hev have to pay to support extravagant

WHY THE STEAL WAS NOT IN-VESTIGATED.

The organ of Mr. Carling has a new fense for the London seat steal. It asserts that it is "vulgar abuse" to point out the means whereby Mr. Carling "honestly" occupies Mr. Hyman's seat in Parliament To tell the truth about Mr. Carling, and his judicial henchman, who so vigorously edited the Free Press while he was waiting to see whether or not his services would be needed to count him in, is "vulgar abuse" forsooth! It reminds us of the answer of our contemporary to the contention that the majority of the electors in the city of London had their rights sustained by six superior court judges, and taken from them superior court judges, and taken from them by a judge who asserted prior to giving his judgment on the case that Mr.
Hyman would never be permitted to occupy the seat. To this Mr. Carling's journalistic mouthpiece propounded the Boss Tweed query: "Well, what are the poor whimpering devils going to do about it?" Practically our contemporary once more brings forward that last refuge of a clever rogue, for it says that if Mr. Hyman was entitled to the seat it could have been vas entitled to the seat it could have been obtained for him in the courts, while it obtained for him in the courts, while it knows that it misrepresents the question of law. Six judges of the superior courts held that the bogus votes polled at last election should not be counted, but by the provisions of the infamous Franchise Act Judge Elliot but by the provisions of the in-famous Franchise Act Judge Elliot was able to set at defiance their judgments. Being rendered the sole judge of the question whether or not the votes should be counted, he ignored the un-equivocal decision of the higher courts equivocal decision of the higher courts opposed to individual predilections, though for two months he had pretended to be waiting to give effect to the decision of his superiors, he did not hesitate, when it was found that Mr. Carling could not be elected without the bogus votes, to show his contempt for the decision of the higher courts. -a course unprecedented in the annals of British jurisprudence.

Well does our contemporary know, well Well does our contemporary know, well does Mr. Carling know, that with the aid of the Dominion Franchise Act, which allowed no appeal from Judge Elliot's final decision, Mr. Carling was rendered secure against all attack from the courts, yet it continues to pretend that all Mr. Hyman had to do was to go into the Election Court and assert tend that all Mr. Hyman had to do was to go into the Election Court and assert his rights. The Franchise Act is not built for that purpose.

There was one court of appeal, and that

There was one court of appeal, and that was Parliament. The facts in connection with the case were laid before that body. The most serious charges that could be made against a judge were formulated against Judge Elitot. He was charged with action as a precise a throughout the with acting as a partisan throughout the whole matter. Mr. Lister, M.P., was ready with proof to show that while the validity contention is that if this is done, even with the unanimous consent of the aldermen present, it places an absence at a serious disadvantage. There is, it appears, no provision in the act requiring the presiding officer or clerk to notify members as to the nature of the special business as betaken up at a special business as betaken up at a special further allocations. further alleged that he had written anony-mous letters in support of his view that Mr. Hyman should be counted out and it was represented that he had asserted on was represented that he had asserted on the streets, while the case was pending before him, that Mr. Hyman would never get the seat. In the high court of Parlia-ment was Mr. Carling anxious to have these charges investigated? That was the these charges investigated? That was the only court open to the aggrieved majority, but Sir John Thompson, at Mr. Carling's instance—for he could have had a trial if he had chosen—ordered that no under the "odium" which attached to many annumer anted defiance of the superior courts of justice and of equity.

Mr. Carling tells us that future elections — and he says he speaks for elections for the Legislature as well as those for the House of Commons—will be conducted with just as much honesty as is exemplified in this transaction, and we are told that we must not say a word about it—that it is "vulgar abuse" to object to a continuance of this demoralizing policy, and that exposure of the rascality by means of which Mr. Carling usurps Mr. Hyman's seat but elevates that individual in the minds of his friends. The Free Press argues as if the worse the deed the more it should be upheld. But we believe the large majority of the people of this city will refuse to indorse either the policy emanating from the Brewery or its lame defense. There should be fair play in politics as well as in everything else, and until justice is done there can be no sparing of the wrong-down. The more they squeal the more done there can be no sparing of the wrong-doers. The more they aqueal the more thorough must be their exposure.

THE United States trade restrictionists confess that the sentiment in favor of free trade was too much for them in last Tues-they could as effectively ascertain what hey have to pay to support extravagant and corrupt men at Ortawa, there would soon be a revolution in the governing methods now pursued by the Government of Canada. It is because the people pay their taxes indirectly on what they cat and wear, on their tools of trade and household necessities, that they so complacently submit to the rule of the complacently submit to off far greater advantage than a high perthe rule of the combines and their agents now in power.

WHY PEOPLE DO NOT BUY. There is rejoicing among high tax news papers over a report from Ottawa that surplus of $4,628,611 has been piled up in the coffers of the Dominion Government during the four months ending Oct. 31.

Surely it is no matter for rejoicing that by the process of heavily taxing the people nearly four millions and threequarters have been withdrawn from the pockets of the people and placed where there is a continual tempta tion to squander surplus cash for the benefit of favorites and in unproductive enterprises.

An outcry has come from all over the country that collections are hard to make, and that trade is duller than it ought to be Is not a good deal of the depression lirectly traceable to this withdrawal of over $4,000,000 from the pockets of the consumers by the agency of the tax colector? You cannot eat your cake and have it too; the people of Canada cannot drop into the voracious maw of the taxcollecting cormorant several millions of dollars more than are needed to run the country, and have the money to spend in purchasing the goods of our merchants and manufacturers—in making trade boom through the acquirement of necessaries to the comfort of the populace.

Away with all taxes not necessary to run the country in an economical manner.

TOPICS OF TO-DAY.

The London Domestic Servants' Union is The London Domestic Servants' Union is now fully established, with a headquarters. Gen. Booth asks for £60,000 more to carry on his "Darkest England" regeneration scheme. The value of murderers' relies to such places as Mme. Tussaud's is considerable. Clothes and things belonging to the lately condemned murderer Neill were refused by that show on account of the very high price asked, but the kitchen in which Deeming, of Australia, did his murders brought nearly $3,000.

Somebody has reported the important fact that the royal family of Russia has at length discarded the China tea, which, from length discarded the China tea, which, from time immemorial has been carried on camels across the wastes of Central Asia to the Russian markets. The Czar and his household have transferred their patronageto the tea raisers of Coylon, in which respect their example seems to have been followed by nearly the whole of Great Britain. The weaker teas of China are being displaced by the stronger teas of India and Ceylon and within the past five years, while the import of Ceylon teas into Great Britain, has increased fivefold, the quantity of China tea imports has diminished about one-half.

The Century is unusually interesting this month. It contains Mr. Lowell's last article, unfinished, on Francis Parkman; and two remarkably interesting articles on the Paris Commune—the first by Archinald Forbes, the second by an anonymous writer, who as a child saw much of the bloody doings in Paris in May, 1871. The first installment of the Letters of Two Brothers, Gen. Sherman and Senator Sherman, afford a valuable contribution to the histoire intime of the early days of the rebellion. Mr. Suffern Tailer writes of Road-Coaching; Miss Hapgood discusses Ilya Repin, a Russian national artist; there is an appreciative tribute to Mr. Curtis, with a remarkable good portrait of Mr. Cole; and the first installment of the nevel by Mrs. Button Harrison, entitled "Sweet Bells Out of Tune," appears with C. D. Gibson's pictures. The short stories and the poems are entertaining and interesting.

Thos. G. Shearman, the distinguished free trade writer and speaker, took a widehorizoned view of the United States Presidential context a week before election day. Addressing a large gathering in Brooklyn he predicted not only the triumphant relection of Cleveland, but an unprecedented majority in the Electoral College. "I believe," said Mr. Shearman, "he will have over 200 electoral votes, and in no event will his vote fall below 244." Mr. Shearman is the one and only prophet who came wear the figures.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES.

Mr. Chamberlain's price for continued co-operation with the British Conservatives is made evident in the flop-over of the party convention at Edinburgh in favor of more than one advanced measure of legislation.

We like to see this Radicalizing of the Conservative party. It proves that no pollitician can expect to gain power in Britain nowadays unless he is willing to romise to a mend class, not to specially benefit the conservative party. It proves that no pollitical can expect to gain power in Britain nowadays unless he is willing to romise to a mend class, not to specially benefit the clock after themselves, but to promote the welfare of the workers. Terms for the Amalgamation of Lon don West.

A Fixed Assessment for Ten Years

On the Present Property-New Build ings and Improvements to be to the City's Advantage-London West People to Vote on the Proposals.

In the City Hall Saturday evening Mayor Spencer, Aid. Gartshore, Judd, Hannah, Yates, Dreaney and Jefiery, composing No. 1 committee of the City Council, met the Council of London West, represented by Reeve Platt, Deputy-Reeve Scarrow, Councilors Chapman, Collins and Spence, and the cierk, Mr. W. H. Bartram. Their mutual object was to discuss the amalgamation of London West, and to endeavor to arrive at satisfactory terms upon which the transfer could be made.

Naturally there was a good deal of discussion. The London West delegates were informed that the waterworks engineer estimated the cost of supplying the proposed new ward with water for fire protection (including 25 hydrants) and domestic service at about $14,000.

Mr. Bartram thought five hydrants placed on the Wharneliffe road would be sufficient.

Reeve Platt said they had excellent water

The Lizzic Borden murder case comes before the grand jury to-day (Monday) at Tanton, Mass.
Hon. W. A. Adams, president of the Portsmouth, Ohio, fire brick works, the largest in the world, died suddenly Saturday omrning.

Eight persons were poisoned on Saturday at the boarding-house at Cassiday & Thessil's mills, Bangor, Me., by eating diseased pork. The mill is temporarily as hint down in consequence.
Dr. Abraham Reeves Jackson, of Chicago, one of the most prominent physicians in the United States, in his special line—gynecology—died States, in h the amalgamation will be against the city's interest.

Mayor Spencer (to the London West man)—What are your temrs, then?

Mr. Scarrow—We want a differential rate or a fixed assessment. All we want is it that by amalgamation the burden of taxation will not be increased. Our sidewalks and roads are in such splendid condition that I believe the Board of Works could get along with $200 a year for the next five years. All we ask is a fixed sasessment on the present property; on any new buildings or other improvements the city will get the benefit. The city's rate will be ours.

Mr. Bartram thought Mr. Sarrow's proposition fair. They wanted something to induce the people of London West to vote for amalgamation, and they asked for a fixed assessment on the present property to for fifteen years, the city to have the liberty of assessing all new property and improvements.

The city aldermen expressed the doubt oresent assessment was fixed for five years?

Mr. Scarrow—It would be of no use at

III.

Mr. Spence—What say you to ten years!

And thus they talked for nearly two ocurs and a half before coming to an agreeeent. The terms which both parties finally onsented to west to be known as Ward 7.

2. The present assessment to be fixed for my gears, but any improvements on new uildings to be assessed by the city on the ame basis as other property in the city imiliarly situated.

3. Police protection to be afforded as irected by the city.

4. It is understood the city will extend its water service through the village when he revenue thereon will guarantee 10 per ent. interest on the outlay, and hydrants will be placed on the streets so extended upon without charge to the ward; but it is moderstood that any further extensions of mains for fire protections only shall be paid too by the new ward, and extensions only to be made on the majority vote of the rate-payers of the new ward.

5. No additional expense to be incurred for the protections on the present of the new ward.

6. No additional expense to be incurred.

5. No additional expense to be incurred or electric lighting than that at present neurred by the village.

6. The village debt to be assumed by the ity, including their share of the county labt.

village on the question before New Years. It must be advertised three weeks. The amount of debt the city will have to assume is $24,000 in round numbers. Some of the councilors gave it as their opinion that amalgamation will cause a building boom in the new ward which will redound to the city's advantage in increased taxation.

SKIN FOODS.

Unlike powders, pastes, cosmetics and other lotions in use that only benefit the outer ap-pearance of the skin temporarily by covering up imperfections, stopping up the pores, drying up the skin, resulting in a faded or muddy appearance, Peach Bloom is a skin food that cleanses from impurities, soothes irritation, frees the pores from exudations and corrects imperfections, leaving the skin smooth, pure and beautiful in its natural healthy condition. It quickly dissolves and removes brown and liver spots, freckles, black heads, pimples, blotches, redness, tan, sunburn, and gives firm-ness to the skin, thus removing wrinkles, corrects rough and oily skin, cures chapped lips skin; not a paint, powder or whitewash; clean, and leaving no mark of its application one ninute after use. Toronto, Nov. 13.—During the past week the city clerk registered 108 births, 92 deaths and 28 marriages. Of the deaths 10 were due to diphtheria, 4 to typhoid and 2 to scarlot fever.

The inquest on the body of Wm. Ticknor, the young "C" Company man who was shot on Thanksgiving night by Policeman Campbell, was held Saturday afternoon. The sevidence showed that the revolver was used by the officer only as a last resort.

The jury, without hesitation, returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Chard Gould yielded—an easy, good-ired soul he was, swayed with the wind in daway the lot went, through the rain mud, to the Pig and Whistle received them with respect. It had got a blazing fire and a milling troom to welcome them; and is enconced in it with their pipes and k, they were as oblivious of homes, es, chi dren, and weekly marketings, as such things existed not. A few, who de' the house regularly, called for their es on entering and settled up for the saven day. The Pig and Whistle was a rishing house now, for the workmen, of or a long while had been engaged thing the new bridge in place of the danuel of the had been engaged.

recting the new bridge in place of the dangerous old one had patronized it extensively. Meanwhile Richard Gould's wife was sitting at home, in all hope. They occupied one of the cottages in Prospect Row, neath wellings of three rooms and a detached buck kitchen; or, as it was called in local buck kitchen; or, as it was called in local buck kitchen; or, as it was called in local buck kitchen; or, as it was called in local buck kitchen; or, as it was called in local the works, but there was a wide difference in their conduct, and consequently, in their in their conduct, and consequently, in their homes. Some drank their wages away, and the works, but there was a wide difference in their conduct, and consequently, in their homes. Some drank their wages away, and she in the down-stairs room and the brew-house letting the two other ones. Some of the wives were slatternly wife and their wise were slatternly wife and the wines, converting the brew-house into a kindle of these cottages complete pleasant bomes, converting the brew-house into a kindle of these cottages complete pleasant bomes, converting the brew-house into a kindle of the second of the second of the work-the washing and cooking—and the front room into a parlor. Jessy Gould, smart and nice in all things, was one who had done the last, fitting the most of the workmen of his grades more than he could afford, and this great work finishing a child's freek, and expecting feet helped them, so that they were better off than most of the workmen of his grades and return the parlor, busy at work finishing a child's freek, and expecting feet helped them, so that they were better off than most of the workmen of his grades and return the parlor, busy at work finishing a child's freek, and expecting feet helped them, so that they were better off the work with a story of the strength of the work with a state of the work w

The clock struck 9 and Jessy Gould laid own her work with a sigh of despair.

"He is off with the men again! I am cerain of it! He might have come home this ight when he knew what I wanted to do with the money." And her work went on the sensibility of the membrane of the membrane of the might have come nome this night when he knew what I wanted to do with the money." And her work went on again, but more heavily.

In the next cottage to theirs lived a man of the name of 'Reed, an inferior workman, for the name of 'Reed, an inferior workman, Mrs. Reed was in tribulation more dire than Jessy's, and was audibly lamenting that this was Saturday night, and that Reed had gone a-drinking again. She knew to her cost the propensity' he had to "go a-drinking," not only on Saturday nights, but on others. The first step was togo after him and try to get him home before he was too far gone, and half his week's money spent. She threw a shawl over her gown, put on her bonnet, blew out the candle, left the bit of fire safe, and opened the door. But she hesitated on the threshold, for the wind and hesitated on the threshold, for the wind and hesitated on the threshold, for the wind and through. Turning to wet her through and through to the selbows, for she had been hard at the elbows, for she had been hard at the lebows, for she consisted on the latest so they all say, and there the lebows, for she consisted on the lebows of the latest so they all say, and that we're all like a different person," at least so they all say, and ther this had been the train, with perpetual in the train, with perpetual in the train, with perpetual in the train, with perpetual Jessy thought to herself that he had drank away far more than he ought of it, but she did not say so.

"Won't you sit down, Mrs. Reed?"

"Law, no! 'Pm off to find him out, and get some money from him. It's hard lines with us, at the best, since our lodgers left, and it's harder when he gets drunk on wages night, for then the money moits like butter. Not but what I'm loath to leave your free, and turn out into it; so comfortable as you are, to be sure!"

The woman moved to the door as she spoke. The rain was coming (down in torrents.

FITZGERALD, SCANDRETT & CO.,

169 DUNDAS STREET,

Successful

successfully. It was a weary search, and she grew disheartened, she was wet to the skin, and returned to Prospect Row, hoping he had gone home.

"Has he been for the key?" she asked, pitting her head inside Mrs. Gould's door. "No, here it is. Have you seen anything of my husband?"

"I have seen nothing of either of them. I wish the beer-houses were burned!" added Mrs. Reed, in exasperation. "What a life is mine, to be thed to such a sot!"

Back again to the search. She must have money for her markelings, and she must try and prevent him getting intoxicated. Just before II o'clock, the hour when the snope closed, she heard where he was. An acquaintance, bent on the same errand as herself, gave her the information that he, and about fifteen others, were at that noted public, the Pig and Whistle, "atoping theirselves stupid."

"All that way!" exclaimed poor Mrs. Reed. She went splashing wearily on, till she arrived at it, and she asked to see him. He came sullen'y out of the tap-room, pipe in mouth, chafing at the jokes of his companions, who asked him if he was in leading strings that his missis must come after him. He was fresh, not yet worse, and in a shocking humor, for drink always put him in one, though he was a civil man when quite sober.

"What do I want?" she retorted, "why money, for one thing. You know the house is empty. Coals, and candles, and bread, to, and potatoes, and soap, and salt, and meat—" birth of a son of Napoleon and Marie Louise of Austria; arranges by the expedient of an accident to the carriage of the new Empress, after Napoleon's consent to exile in Elba, and while Marie Louise is en route to Vienna, a scene between the two Empresses, when Josephine bitterly reproaches the selfish and heartless Austrian for deserting Napoleon in his downfall; and finally at Malmaison Josephine dies with shouts of triumph ringing in her ears, as the popular tumult and the singing of the Marseillasies tells her of the exile's return. It will be seen from this hasty description that the play covers that very interesting epoch which takes us from Josephine's marriage with Napoleon to the latter's return from Elba at the head of his conquering army, and amid the acclamation of all France. This latter incident, by the way, is made the subject of what is generally conceded to be one of the most realistic and effective theatrical tableaux ever devised.
