Fatal Regults.

"The memory of the oldest inhabitant" has to stretch away back before it finds a parallel to yesterday's weather. It was a blizzard, a cyclone, a cold snap and a snow storm combined. It seemed as if old Jupiter Pluvius was making up for lost time with a vengeance, and was determined to get even with the individuals who were growling about the mild winter. The wind blew faster than an express train, and seemed to delight in piling up huge drifts where they weren't wanted, and in hurling the snow in the faces of everybody who was out, to the special discomfort of the man with whiskers. It even crept down the neeks of those with big coat collars, and many of them had to be turned down to prevent their owners from smothering. And then they were chary about opening their mouths for fear of being blown inside out. The exertion of battling the hurricane and wading through a yard of snow, besides being blinded by it, made walking harder than sawing wood, and the streets were deserted save for the policeman on his lonely beat, the street cars and floundering opera-goers, who wouldn't have been out, perhaps, if they hadn't paid for their seats in advance. The great mass of London's inhabitants thought there was no place like home, and they stayed there. The wind was perfectly impartial and blew in every direction - generally the opposite way to which a person was going. The streets were in an almost impassable condition and the pedestrian's feet had to perform the functions of a snow-plow. The street railway system was paralyzed for a little while. Up to 6 o'clock the cars remained on duty. Then the blizzard commenced to build snow banks on the track. A car full of passengers started up Richmond street and stuck in a heap near St. Paul's Cathedral. The two horses tried to pull it through but the driver was forced to hitch them on the other end and drive back. All the cars were at once called in, and by 8 o'clock the company had a complete set of "bobs" and vans ca the system. The drivers and horses were to be pitied, but the nelpless public had to ride when they couldn't walk.

Telephone connections were somewhat tangled. The lady subscriber who called up her bosom friend found herself taking to a stranger at the "club" and some wires sounded like a cross between a buzz-saw and a boiler factory.

The policeman plodded his weary way from 8 o'clock at night until 5 this morning and listened to what the wild winds were saying, brushing the icicles off his mustache at intervals and sighing for the dawn, home and breakfast. The veterans say they do not remember such a night in

The storm affected the railway systems centering in this city to a considerable degree. The C. P. R. probably escaped lighter than either of its neighbors, the day trains being on time and the midnight express from Toronto being only about an hour late. The snow drifted so badly at Richmond street that a C. P. R. freight train stuck for about three hours.

The train on the Stratford branch of the G. T. R., due at 9:15, had to be canceled. The accommodation from the east, due in London at 9:50, was at Paris at 12 midnight, and got through about 2 a.m. On the Sarnia branch the snow drifted badly. The Erie express, due from Chicago at 11:30, was three or four hours late. No. 20 from Windsor, timed to arrive at 11:20 p.m., was also a couple of hours be-

The M. C. R. train left for St. Thomas at 7 o'clock, but only got as far as Wellington street. At that place it got stuck and could not get either way. That train was canceled, as was the one due from St. Thomas shortly before 11 o'clock.

Country roads in the vicinity of the city are simply impassable. A huge drift, 5 or 6 feet high, formed on Richmond street between the Grand Trunk station and Dundas street on the east sidewalk. Liverymen did a rushing business in cabs and coupes until an early hour. The attendance at all the public schools during the day was very small. As it was, the children had a difficult task to reach their

In London West the storm did considerable damage. The railway people managed to keep the electric car going until about 2 o'clock, when it was run into the Oxford street shed. The 'buss, however, made regular trips until 10:30 p.m. The drifts on the Wharncliffe are in many places three and four feet deep.

AT HAMILTON. HAMILTON, Feb. 12.—One of the worst storms which has struck this section in a good many years is prevailing to-day. The street railway company attempted to keep their cars running as usual, but were obliged in the afternoon to abandon the fight with the elements. NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 12,-The worst snow storm of years struck this town this morning. A SCORE OF LIVES IN PERIL. MILWAUKEE, Feb. 12.—There are twenty men on the new intake tunnel crib, and the wind has raised such a sea that it is impossible to take them off. NEBRASKA SNOW-BOUND. Омана, Neb., Feb. 12.-Nebraska is snow-bound. For the past 24 hours a terrific blizzard has prevailed throughout the State. The fall has been about twelve inches, and, following the eight-inch fall of Thursday, makes the depth at least twenty inches. The cold is extremely severe. With few exceptions Omaha traffic of every description is suspended. Reports from the interior show stock to be in good condition, and farmers are pleased with the immense snowfalls, as it assures a fine winter wheat

HURRICANE AT CHICAGO. CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—The worst blizzard that ever struck this city, so far as the weather bureau record shows, for 23 years, is raging here. Street traffic is greatly impeded, and walking is accompanied with great danger to life and limb. Many persons have been injured by being blown to the ground against walls and street posts by the wind. The velocity is 80 miles an hour, the highest ever recorded for this city and almost double the velocity of the wind which is blowing a blizzard in the Western States. The wind was so furious at the corners where sky scrapers are built especially, the Monadnock annex block, bounded by Jackson, Van-Buren and Dearborn streets and custom house place, that extra policemen gave all their attention to pedestrians. Dozens of women were litted off their feet, and blown to the ground or else pushed across the streets until they came in violent contact with walls, posts and other obstructions. Mrs. Brohany, of 361 South Clinton street, a charwoman at the Art Institute, was lifted in the air and dashed against the fire plug at the Dearborn and Vanburn street corner. Two of her ribs were broken and it is believed she is internally injured.

Both engines and several freight cars were smashed and piled up in confusion. Engineer Connel, of the light freight, No. 25, Fireman McMullen, of engine 25, Brakeman Johnson, of freight engine No. 28, and Engineer Samuel Stowell, of engine No. 28, were killed.

WIDESPREAD. KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12. - The worst snow storm in years raged all over Kansas and Missouri last night and to-day. Not a single train in the two States was on time. In many places schools were closed to-day. In towns with street railways the service was paralyzed. The snow was dry and the telegraph service was not injured.

ST. Louis, Mo., Feb. 15.-Wifhout warning from the weather bureau a veritable Manitoba blizzard struck this city at 11 o'clock last night and continued up to 6 to-night. Rain, hail, sleet and snow alternately swept over the city before a high wind. Two horses were shocked to death by coming in contact with a broken live wire.

Telegrams from all points south and west show that the storm is widespread and disastrous.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 12 .- A violent snow storm raged throughout Central Illinois all day to-day. The snow is ten inches on the level and is badly drifted. Many trains are delayed and one passenger on the Big Four is stuck in a drift near Tremont. There are drifts hear five feet

Miss Jennie Johnston, a young Indian school teacher, who went to Alva recently from Scranton, Pa., left her school house Saturday night for her boarding house. She has not been seen since. It is feared she was caught in the blizzard and died from exposure. Miss Johnston recently fell heir to $20,000 at her old Pennsylvania home, and was immediately surrounded by a score of admirers. She thought all of her lovers were mercenary, and gathered up her effects and went west, where she secured a school.

INDIAN CHILDREN LOST. EL RENO, O. T., Feb. 13.—The storm of Sunday was the most severe in twenty years. There is much suffering in this section but only a few fatalities are recorded in the immediate vicinity. Three Indian school children lost their way in the heavyfalling snow and perished Saturday night. In the sparsely settled and in inland towns west of here the suffering and fatalities are greater than in any previous winter in years. Overland mail routes are blockaded and all communication is cut off by lines to this city from the west. All railroad traffic is impeded.

The two counsels have instructions from the Ontario Government to take every step that can be conscientiously done toward establishing the right of the Province to deal with the question. It will also be argued that the prohibitory powers enjoyed by the Province before Confederation still

So far as known, the temperance and liquor interests have taken no steps to be represented at the argument. The other Provinces, which are as much concerned as Ontario, will probably also ask leave to be represented by counsel.

Though all sides concede that the matter must go to the Privy Council, the end of the whole business may be witnessed this year. The Supreme Court will give judgment by May. Then the appeal to the Privy Council will be argued a month or two later, and the final judgment will be had by next December.

Ald, Parnell Attacked.

A Mean Attempt to Deprive Him of His Seat,

Because He Sells Bread to the County Jail.

Political and Liquor-Dealing Enemies Alleged To Be at the Bottom of the Lawsuit.

A dead-set is being made to deprive Ald. E. Parnell, jun., of his seat in the council chamber as a representative of No. 6 ward. It was decided to spring it while he was on his sick bed, and yesterday he was waited on by Richard M. C. Toothe, a local lawyer, who served papers notifying Ald. Parnell to appear before Judge Wm. Elliot in eight days to defend a motion to unseat him. Ald. Parnell placed the matter in the hands of Macbeth & Macpherson, who will defend him when the case comes up.

The people behind the move, it is understood, are Conservative politicians and liquor dealers, though Mr. G. Park. butcher, has been prevailed upon to accept the position of nominal plaintiff. Ald. Parnell does not hesitate to say so. The fact that he announced his intention of running for the mayoralty in 1895 had a good deal to do with determining it too, hethinks. The attack has been under consideration min, chlorid, morphin, sulphid, dropfor some time. They had six weeks after the date of the election in which to enter the protest. It was decided on the very last day permitted by law-yesterday-to lish forms, and shown "that the present cordingly issued.

The ADVERTISER understands that the frivolous reason for objecting to Ald. Parnell holding a seat in the City Council is that he sells bread, under tender, to the County Council, which is paid 60 per cent. of the cost of maintenance of prisoners by the city authorities, the other portion being defrayed by the county and the Ontario Government. The jail is in no sense under the management or control of the City Council, and the city in no way interferes with its affairs. The contracts for jail supplies are under the sole control of the County Council, and the bonds are prepared and certified to by the county clerk, while the sheriff and jailer must certify to all accounts, on behalf of the Government, before the County Council can pass them. That the present attack is an afterthought is further shown by the fact that though Ald. Parnell has been a relation and construction with "sheep" and tenderer for jail supplies for years, no at- should be a separate word, for hyphenating tempt has hitherto been made to interfere the words does not change the sonse of with his seat, and indeed it has been con- them. ceded on all hands that the jail contracts are main a fact that many more flagrant short- what was nearly forgotten, that the fullcomings on the part of aldermen have been overlooked by the individuals who are now alleged to be bound to push this attack to the end. That Mr. G. Parke, butcher, is only the nominal prosecutor, was proved by an AD-VERTISER representative who visited him this afternoon. He acknowledged that there were others in the "deal," but on being pressed to tell who were his associates he firmly declined to say. He further states that he is personally friendly to Ald. Parnell as an alderman, and this statement but emphasizes the remark made by a leading liquor man, at the close of last meeting of No. 1 committee, when a threat was made that at as early a day as possible Ald. Parnell would be prevented from further voting on the license reduction by-

It is understood that Ald. Parnell refuses to be intimidated, and when the question comes up next Monday night, if he is able to leave his sick bed, he will be found in his place in the council chamber. Those attacking probably hope that he will take a different course, but the stalwart No. 6 representative has the courage of his convictions.

A GREAT DICTIONARY.

Far More Words in It Than in Any Reference Work Ever Before Published. The notable publication of 1894 is the

guage," the first handsome volume of adian office of the publishers, Funk & Wagnalls, of New York (11 Richmond street west, Toronto). This volume bears unimpeachable evidence of extraordinary care and research as well as of great liberality, and the publishers' statement that over $500,000 has already been spent in its preparation can readily be believed. The dictionary complete will cost nearly $1,000,-000. The dictionary is well printed on good paper, and the illustrations actually assist the definitions, which is not always the case. The staff of philologists and contains many noted names, and it is evident also from the opinions already ventured by learned celebrities that the whole English-speaking world of letters will hail the Standard Dictionary as a full realization of its name. In the prospectus which Funk & Wagnalls issue with the first volume of the dictionary practical evidence of the pains bestowed upon the publication in every particular is afforded in photo-engraved pictures of the proof sheets showing the corrections made in a single page at various stages and by the different editors and specialists. As for the vocabulary, some idea of its richness may be had from the fact that it contains under the letter A alone something like 4,000 words more than any dictionary now extant. To those who have frequent occasions to use a dictionary the handy and compact size of the two volumes into which the Standard is divided will seem a great recommendation. There is to be an edition in one volume

During the four years that the dictionary was in preparation there have been engaged upon it 247 office editors and specialists, 500 readers for quotations, and hundreds of others, men and women, who have assisted in defining words or classes of words. The magnificence of the undertaking is seen best in the statement that the publishers began it with the expectation that $1,000,000 would have to be spent on it before a single copy was ready for market.

Concerning new words the editors proceeded on the principle: "Omit no word Cairneross & Lawrence CHEMISTS AND DRUGGISTS. 216 Dundas St., Corner Park Ave.

now read by any considerable number of people-and whose meaning is likely to be sought for in an English dictionary." In the matter of spelling the editors say: "Weight has been given to the phonetic canon, 'write as you speak.' That there is a drift, conservative, yet real, toward the simplest forms of spelling, has been recognized throughout the work. In all words fully anglicized e is preferred in the Standard to the diphthongs e or ce, as in fe(ce)tus, home(ce)opathy, e(æ)sthetics." Words in chemistry are spelled in accordance with a recommendation by the Chemical Section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, as broping the final e. Of the simpler forms of spelling the editors say that investigation has shown them to be old Engcumbrous and awkward forms are the result sometimes of typographic error, sometimes, as Dr. Samuel Johnson would have confesed it, of 'sheer ignorance,' sometimes of the mere caprice or whim of an author."

On the compounding of words, in which there has been great confusion in the dictionaries, the editors of the Standard lay down these rules:

1. Thatall words should be separate when used in regular grammatical relation and construction, unless they are jointly applied in some arbitrary way.

2. That abnormal association of words generally indicates unification in sense, and hence compounding in form. 3. That no expression in the language should ever be changed from two or more words into one (either hyphened or solid) without change of sense. In some large dictionaries and in not a few books "black sheep" is found as "black sheep." "Black" is in regular grammatical

The London Postoffice Entrance.

The disagreeable means of ingress to the postoffice in this city afforded by the chief entrance has for some time been the subject of adverse criticism. The Board of Trade has proven itself particularly active in demanding that the Government should do something towards remedying the defect in point. At present the doors which admit to the public portion of the interior are at the south side of the lobby; these it has been proposed to cut in the west wall. A direct and straight-ahead access would thus be established. A prominent postoffice official, to an ADVERTISER reporter, has pointed out one of the chief reasons why it would be inadvisable to adopt the suggestion mentioned. Even as the doors are at present situated when a person opens a private box the contents, on a which has now reached us from the Can- windy day, are often blown upon the floor in the enclosure. Time and patience are generally wasted in securing some one on the other side of the wall to pick them up. Sometimes they are even left undetected. The reporter was shown a scatteration of letters which had been made without the boxes being opened. And, indeed, considerable draft was to be felt. All this, the official in question stated, would be greatly aggravated if the main doors were changed from their present location. What was sadly needed, he thought, was a general and complete remodeling of the inlexicographers by whom it is being made terior arrangement of the postoffice build

New York, Feb. 12.—The annual reception and ball given by the Kingston Club, a Twenty-fourth ward social organization, was in progress at an early hour Saturday morning, and the floor of Harmony Hall, at 145 Marion street, was filled with merry dancers, when an unusual event occurred which put a sudden stop to the festivities.

It was in the middle of a waltz, when the music was the liveliest and hundreds of merrymakers were gliding over the floor keeping step to the popular air played by the orchestra, when Death stalked into their midst and laid his hand upom Wm. Agnew, a popular young man of highly respectable family. The young man suddenly placed his hand to his forehead. A handsome new Y. M. C. THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT'S TURN.

(Montreal Witness.) The organs of the Dominion Government are far from satisfied with Sir Oliver in our large east window a Mowat's reply to the Ontario prohibition-ist convention's delegates. They say that the Premier of Ontario does not fully commit himself or his Government, that when pushed by the delegation he retreated to another ditch. As most of these organs have shown antagonism toward prohibition, their solicitude lest the prohibition cause be betrayed is extremely touching and magnanimous. They will, however, be glad to hear that Conservatives will have an opportunity of showing the people of Canada what a fair and square pledge, free from suspicion of evasion, or mental reservation, or any other kind of political trickery, should be. The Ontario convention at the very meeting, and, indeed, in the same set of resolutions. determined to seek a pledge from the Dominion Government as well as from the Ontario Government in respect to prohibition. The clauses of the resolution upon which the delegation sought and obtained the pledge of the Ontario Government, and is yet to urge upon the Dominion Government the enactment of prohibition legisla.

tion, reads as follows: 3. That a deputation be appointed to wait forthwith upon the Ontario Government, and respectfully request them to declare in favor of the total prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating liquor to the full extent of the power vested in the Legisla-

4. That a deputation be appointed to wait upon the Dominion Government and urge the duty of the immediate enactment by the Dominion Parliament of legislation giving effect to the strongly expressed desire of so large a proportion of the electors of the country, and making effective provision for the carrying of such legislation into practical operation. And that prohibitionists of other Provinces be invited to co-operate.

Sir Oliver Mowat's pledge was perfectly satisfactory to the prohibitionists, even the advanced ones, and even to the Conservatives among them, but we have no doubt that they will be glad to get from the Dominion Government a pledge as much more complete as the Conservative organs can desire. Sir John Thompson, with the assistance of that old prohibition war horse, Mr. Foster, ought to be able to "dish the Whigs" in this matter. No one would be gladder than the prohibitionists, Conservative, Liberal and Independent, to LONDON A MUSICAL CENTER. We desire to see London become as decided a musical center for the West as it already is a railway, wholesale, and manufacturing center. The opportunity will be presented to citizens at an early day to show how far they are willing to aid in the movement. It is proposed to invite the Associated Choirs to hold their festival here next summer, thereby bringing many thousands of visitors to London when the city can be seen at its best.

What shall be the additional local at traction? On Thursday evening next, the London Choral Society, assisted by the symphony orchestra, will render Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," as well as give an attractive secular concert, in the Grand Opera House. There is a chorus of great speech at Whitby: over 100 voices and an orchestra numbering 40 musicians, and the society will be assisted by Mrs. Martin Murphy, the wellknown Hamilton soprano and Mr. Frederick Rogers, the noted English tenor. If this attractive entertainment is a success, and conductor Pococke and his associates deserve the support of every Londoner who enjoys good music, there is a reasonable probability that the two organizations will be kept together till summer, when their promise to repeat the concert will form one of the leading attractions in the great gathering of Associated Choirs. Mr. Pococke aided in the choir assembly last year, and he maintains it is a massing of musical talent that London may well encourage, as it would bring to the city, for several days' sojourn, a very large number of visitors. Let a boom for the musical event of 1894 be set on foot at the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening next.

THE LATE SHERIFF M'KELLAR. Hon. Archibald McKellar, sheriff of Wentworth county, who died at the Hamilton City Hospital on Sunday last, was at one time the best known public speaker in Western Ontario. He was born near Inverary Castle, Argyleshire, on Feb. 3, 1816, so that at the time of his death he was in his 79th year. In 1817 his parents trifling character, and nobody supposes moved to Canada, and settled in Aldborough township, which was then embraced in the London district. Ten years later the family moved to Raleigh township, county of Kent, where Archibald Mc-Kellar was educated and grew up. He entered business as farmer and lumberman, and early took an intelligent interest in public affairs. When he was 40 years of age, in 1857, he was elected to Parliament as an advanced Liberal, and for twenty years afterwards, in Parliament and on the public platform, as the coadjutor of Hon. Alex. Mackenzie and Hon. George Brown, ne did yeoman service for progressive legslation. From 1871 to 1875 he was Minister of Agriculture and Emigration and Commissioner of Public Works under Hon. Mr. Blake and Hon. Mr. Mowat. A man of powerful physique, towering over six feet high, with a ready command of language and an abundant fund of anecdotal illlustration, Mr. Mc-Kellar was one of the most effective of public speakers. He was especially at home in a Highland Scotch neighborhood. Spending his early days in a locality where Gælie was almost the only language spoken. he became a fluent speaker of that language, and he was able to sway his fellow countrymen in their native tongue as no other public man could. In the famous contest for the Legislative Council in the Malahide district, when Hon. Elijah (afterwards Senator) Leonard was the successful candidate, one of the hardest workers in his behalf was Archibald McKellar. In after life, the Senator often had a hearty laugh at the odd tactics adopted by his Gælicspeaking lieutenant to get at the heartsand votes-of his fellow-countrymen. Sheriff McKellar was a worthy representative of the old school of Liberals. He was likely to discharge old and tried servants, an honorable, upright gentleman, and a life-long abstainer from intoxicants, and often said a good word on behalf of tem- them by the condoners of the far greater perance reform. He was twice marriedfirst in 1836 to Miss Lucy McNab, who Parliament.

died in 1857, leaving nine children, and LADY ABERDEEN'S ADDRESS IN again in 1874 to Mrs. Catherine M. Mercer, widow of the late Lawrence William Mercer, and daughter of Dr. Grant Powell, of Toronto. There were no children by the second marriage, but the widow survives him. The funeral of the deceased takes place from his son's residence, Chatham, to the family burying ground to-morrow (Wednesday).

WHY SHOULD CONDONERS OF WRONG-DOING BE TRUSTED?

When, in the bye-election of 1892, Mr. W. R. Meredith left his comfortable home in Toronto to make a house-to-house canvass in favor of Mr. Carling among his former fellow townsmen, it was made quite evident that the leader of the Opposition in the Legislature was prepared to condone not only Judge Elliot's gross partisanship, and to indorse the London Seat Steal, but was also ready to support the Administration at Ottawa about whose misdeeds Principal Grant wrote "As well defend Sodom." Before the electors of Ontario replace Sir Oliver Mowat, the veteran statesman, by either Mr. Meredith, Dr. Ryerson or Mr. Clancy, they will have to be convinced that these men have repented of their indorsation of the Ottawa Ministers, and are capable of ruling this fair Province with at least as great ability and carefulness as have characterized the rule of the Liberal Administration. Can that bo hoped for? It is not at all probable. There would be too great a risk, if the change were made, that the hordes of timber limit grabbers, contract jobbers and election agent manipulators would transfer their operations from the depleted treasury at Ottawa to the solid cash and rich natural resources of this fair Province. We had a sample of how this would work in the famous Rykert timber limit scandal and in the dishonest distribution of timber and mineral lands in the disputed territory of Western Ontario, which the Ottawa ringsters seized and appropriated among their favorites while the ownership of the territory was being discussed in the courts. The Ottawa timber limit coveters have never forgiven Sir Oliver his success in that great contest to prevent the resources of Ontario from being appropriated by the centralizers at the Dominion capital, and if they only could secure the defeat of the champion of his native Province they would consider that they had been revenged. Of the petty charges against the Administration and the management of the Provincial institutions Sir Oliver had this to say in his recent "Looking at the timber and land policy of our opponents where they have power, and on the fruits of that policy, as compared with the policy of the Ontario Reform party, and the fruits which the Reform policy has yielded, the Opposition carpings at our financial management are absolutely grotesque. Thus, they occupied a great deal of time in the committee of public accounts to show that the officer whose duty it is to look after the supplies of groceries at the Toronto asylum had allowed the sellers to get for some of the articles somewhat more per pound than was necessary; that I cent a day might have been saved on some currants and some tapioca; that a few cents a bottle might have been saved on some Anchovy and Worcester sauce; that 3 cents a gallon might have been saved on some vinegar, and so on; and that an unconscionable number of eggs appeared in the supplies for one of the medical officers, who lived in the asylum, and that some objectionable luxuries appeared amongst the supplies obtained by others. I suppose every housekeeper sometimes finds that he might have got this or the other item of his supplies at a little lower rate than he would perhaps have paid if he had been more wide awake and better informed; and an officer will sometimes be too lenient in regard to supplies desired by brother officers. But I do not suppose that any Government in the world has managed to avoid overcharges or waste of supplies to the same extent as the Ontario Government has. If any have occurred they are of or pretends that they occurred with the knowledge of any member of the Government. They are the merest bagatelle as compared with the proved losses to the country in Dominion matters from private arrangements with contractors and grantees of timber limits, in regard to which it cannot be said that no member of the Dominion Government for the time being had anything to do with them; and yet the Provincial Opposition do not condemn them. We have taken steps, however, to prevent the possible occurrence of even these small overcharges and excesses in the future. The effort to make capital out of them is all the more absurd in view of the fact that the aggregate expenditure in the maintenance of our institutions, including all supplies, is undoubtedly very small as compared with most other institutions of the same kind in the United States and elsewhere. And yet no institutions of the same kind anywhere are conducted more efficiently or successfully than our own. Experts from other countries who have visited us from time to time so reported on returning to their own country, Let me give you some samples of the comparative cost, as taken from official reports. Thus, the average annual cost per patient in the Ontario asylums, after taking into account all the alleged overcharges for groceries, is not half the average in the like asylums in Buffalo and Utica. The averages in the asylums at Trenton, N. J., Columbus, Ohio, Pittsburg, Pa., and Fulton, Missouri, are 50 per cent. more than the average in Ontario. The Belleville Institute for the Deaf and Dumb has a like record, the like institutions in New York State costing 50 per cent. more per and, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Facts like these, which cannot be gainsaid, have a powerful effect on the electorate of Ontario. The people are not who have proved their faithfulness to the public by their works, merely to replace wrong-doing in the greater sphere of at the Brantford Institute for the Blind is greatly less than in similar institutions in

New York State and city, and in Mary-

LONDON TO-MORROW NIGHT. Lady Aberdeen, who journeys all the way from her vice-regal home in Ottawa to address a public meeting in the Grand Opera House of this city to-morrow (Wednesday) evening, in behalf of the National Council of Women, needs little or no introduction to readers of the ADVER-TISER. Since the first advent of the Laird of Haddo and his good wife in the Dominiou, our columns have from time to time contained many interesting items of news regarding her Excellency and the many commendable movements with which she has been connected. Though yet in the bloom of early womanhood, this lineal descendant of the royal house of Robert Bruce has accomplished much substantial work for the benefit of common humanity. She successfully inaugurated the Haddo House Association-an organization which now numbers many members and associate members throughout the United Kingdom, and has been instrumental in improving the relations of employer and employed in the domestic circle to a marvelous extent. As a result of her life and observation in Ireland, Lady Aberdeen was chief in the work of establishing a society for promoting Irish domestic industries, and to her wonderful powers of organization was due the setting up of the unique Irish village at the Chicago Exhibition last year. Lady Aberdeen, like her husband, has always been a

She succeeded Mrs. Gladstone in that position, and was elected by acclamation. Like many others of her sex who have studied the question thoroughly, Lady Aberdeen is a firm believer in the view that as women must obey the laws of the land as well as men they should have the same right as men to say who shall make those laws. Lady Aberdeen comes here to address a meeting, open by the way to men as well as to women-though women are most earnestly invited to be present-on the aims and objects of the National Council of Women. The primary aim of this newly formed organization is to form a body of women representing all phases of women's work in every center of population in the Dominion. Such a council has been formed in Toronto and Montreal and to-morrow's gathering will complete the formation of a similar council for Western Ontario. It is hoped and believed that such a body will promote unity and charity amongst religious, philanthropic and secular associations, thus affording all an opportunity of knowing of what is being done for the good of the world outside their own immediate sphere. It is not intended that the organization shall in any way interfere with the individual work of the societies federating, but rather it is desired that all shall be strengthened by cooperative action as opportunity may arise. The council will be entirely undenominational and non-political, and there will doubtless be a large attendance of every class in the community, not only from London, but from many places in the

Those who attend the meeting, which will begin at 8 p.m. sharp, will enjoy s rare oratorical treat. Lady Aberdeen is a very effective speaker. She has a voice full of music and free from shrillness, she marshals her facts admirably, and illustrates her subject with the keenness of an "old parliamentary hand." There should not be a vacant chair in the Grand Opera House to-morrow night.

-Surely it is not a fact that there are men in Sarnia and Orillia willing to put up from $30,000 to $50,000 to have James Corbett and Peter Jackson engage in the "sport" of a prize fight. These exhibitions of brutality are illegal in the first instance, and we are confident that if by any means the assembly of thugs is convened on Ontario soil the authorities will take good care to gather them, and put them where they will be out of temptation for many a long day. Prize fights are demoralizing, disgusting spectacles, and there are some other so-called "entertainments" that are so perilously akin to them that they need to be opposed in every way

"I Am Cured Through the Use of Paine's Celery Compound."

Mrs. C. Lumley, of Cobourg, Ont., was wonderfully rescued from death by the use of Paine's Celery Compound, that marvelous medicine which is now so much talked of the world over. Nervousness, weakness and a stroke of paralysis had almost dragged Mrs. Lumley into the grave. All medicines failed to bring relief; her case was sad and critical. Fortunately her wise physician recommended her to try a course of Paine's Celery Compound. An almost miraculous cure was the result. Mrs. Lumley writes as follows.

"I have much pleasure in recommending Paine's Celery Compound for nervousness and weakness, with which I was afflicted for a number of years, and for which my doctor could give no relief. I became very weak, and had a stroke of paralysis. I was confined to my bed, and the doctor requested me to try a course of Paine's Celery Compound as the last thing that could be done. I did as recommended, and before I finished the first bottle I experienced a change. I am glad to say that I am cured through the use of Paine's Celery Compound. I have recommended it to others and they have been benefited by it; and I would urge all who need a medicine to give it a trial, as it has worked miracles for

Robin Hood Last Night-Bessie Bonehill To-Night-After the Ball on Friday Night.

"AFTER THE BALL." Rober E. Graham, who appears at the Grand on Friday, is winning laurels in his new farce-comedy, adapted from the French, entitled "After the Ball." When Minnie Palmer was starring in this country in "My Sweetheart," Mr. Graham was her principal support. Later, when Miss Palmer sought to cajole smiles to the hard faces of the London public and forsook America, Mr. Graham became leading comedian with the McCaull Opera Company, where his success was pronounced. "After the Ball" is piquant, and its title is the result of an inspiration such as rarely sweeps the soul of a latter-day dramatist.

BESSIE BONEHILL TO-NIGHT. "Playmates," with Bessie Bonehill as the leading character will be the lively attraction at the Opera House to-night. The play is termed a musical comedy and from the press comments it more than satisfies an audience. The company assisting Miss Benehill are all premiers in their acts. The scenic effects are magnificently represented. Among the specialty performers are the Jerome brothers, with a reputation on both sides of the Atlantic; Signor Borelli, a musical wonder, whose act calls forth numerous encores; Minnie Thurgate, a clever English soubrette and dancer: Seeley and West, musical specialists; Bessie Tannehill and Diana Harding. If an audience can be satisfied, this performance will do it. It can safely be said that it will be one of the most laughable plays to appear here this season,

"ROBIN HOOD" AT THE GRAND. Again last evening the opera-loving element in London had an opportunity of enjoying that delectable feast of music contained in De Koven and Smith's "Robin Hood." And, considering the violence of the prevailing storm, a surprising number availed themselves of it. An audience which would have done honor to any performance was present. It is scarcely necessary at the present time to say anything regarding the opera itself-music and libretto-as the unvarying excellence; of both have secured universal approval and besides the opera has been twice before presented in this city. The present company of singers would not suffer severely even in comparison with either of its predecessors, for the principals formed a galaxy of un-

The Daily Chronicle, commenting on the reopening of Parliament, remarks that "there could scarcely be a more humiliating position for a popular assembly than is the case in Great Britain with the House of Commons, baffled and insulted by a survival of medievalism, which exists for no other reason under heaven but to afford a cover for every anti-popular reactionary

The Lords Must Go.

London, Feb. 12.-After the Cabinet council was concluded to-day, the executive committee of the National Liberal Federation obtained permission to put a resolution before the annual meeting of the Federation on Thursday declaring that no further mischievous meddling by the House of Lords shall detract from the work of charter reform which the representative House is authorized to carry out. It is reported that the delegates will be asked to approve a resolution declaring that the continuance of a house of hereditary legislators has become intolerable, and that the House of Lords has been allowed to exist

At the meeting of the National Liberal Federation in Portsmouth to-day, Robert Spence Watson, the president, said in his introductory address that he rejoiced in the recent conduct of the Peers. As the judge concluded the prisoner, who had a large piece of bread in his hand, drew back his arm and threw the bread at the judge. The missile struck the judge on the nose. The act of the prisoner created great excitement in court, many of those present thinking the piece of bread

DO MOTHERS KNOW

That Cow's Milk Very Quickly Absorbs Impure Air?

An eminent authority on the "Feeding of Infants" says: "Milk absorbs impure air as rapidly as a sponge does water. Milk need not be kept long in the house before it is absolutely unwholesome. When it has but slightly changed it might, possibly, be used by some with powerful ligestive vigor without causing uncomfortable symptoms; but to feed a baby milk of such a quality is a sin, and to that grave error may be attributed many cases of diarrhea and cholera infantum.' This theory accounts for the large mortality amongst babies. Instead of using the life-giving Lactated Food, many mothers feelishly cling to cow's milk, which often carries with it the seeds of disease and Mothers who have used Lactated Food successfully, and all physicians who know its composition, will tell you that there is no other form of food so well adapted to promote the growth and health of the baby. Lactated Food has saved thousands of frail and sickly babies from death. If you are using other forms of food, mothers, depend upon it, your babies are in danger, and cannot thrive as they should.

-About 5 o'clock last night Caretaker Fletcher of the county jail, discovered a fire in the interim sessions room. A large hole was burned in the floor, but a few pails of water extinguished the blaze. The damage will only be light. The only reason assigned is that some person threw a burning eigar on the floor in the morning.

His Feet Frozen. A youth named John McConley, who lives on Ontario street and drives a wagon for Josh Hartley, coal and wood dealer, was found on Lorne avenue, near Quebec street, the other morning with both feet frozen. He had been to a dance the night before and lay down on his way home. He now just as much as I will after examining your case," remarked Magistrate Parke, as Catharine Hastings and a man she alleges to be her husband, Samuel Henderson, stood up. "However, I will remand each a week for trial." Catharine is an old girl who appears to be very much the master of what she surveys. Henderson was quite meek and submissive. William Evans, who left his vehicle unattended at the roadside for an undue length of time, has sentence suspended. John Watson, a strong, burly fellow, was fined $5 for assaulting a little chap called Edward Reid. He was, also, required to give sureties to keep the peace. A lad at the Grand Opera House let a couple of his friends in through an exit in the "gods," and was fined the price of their admission. The Waste of Water.

Mr. Wm. Duffield gives this as his view of the waste of water question: "If I were dealing with the waterworks questionhandling it as if it were my own property, you understand - I would put in an auxiliary main at the lowest point where the pressure is greatest, about 100 pounds, but it is not needed on the higher levels, where the pressure may be as low as 50 pounds. Then to save the water I would reduce the pressure in the city by using an automatic governor, so as to check the waste in domestic and ordinary consumption. There is a fearful waste in the taps all the time. Most people, in order to draw half a glassful of water for drinking, let a gallon run so as to get it cool. If the water was under meter, this would not be done; he would have a piece of ice for cooling the water. There is waste also owing to the weak material used in making the taps, which spring and leak under the high pressure. We have taps specially made in Toronto at three times the cost of these ordinary taps and there are no leaks now on our premises. When a fire breaks out, there is the telephone, to tell them at the works to put on full pressure. It would only take a minute, and could be done long before the firemen reached the scene of fire." There certainly is a great waste of water in this and every other city and an effective and fair

How the Trains Were Running-Gradually Getting Clear.

THIS MORNING'S SITUATION. To-day was a busy day on the railroads All freight trains were canceled on the Grand Trunk, and the train crews put to work on snow plows. The latter were sent up the Stratford branch, the Sarnia main line east; and west and the Glencoe and the Kingscourt branch. Strange tosay the trains on the London, Huron and Bruce appeared to get through easier than any of the other lines, and the trains on that section ran almost on time. The storm played greater havoc with the timetable in the east than in the west. By noon the line was open from Windsor to the Bridge and trains from the west were not unusally late. It was different, however, with the eastern connections. The storm extended into New York State and the American connections with the Grand Trunk at the Bridge were all several hours late. No. 3, due here at 10:15, was billed to arrive anywhere between 2 and 3 p.m., while No. 5 had not left Hamilton at noon She is due in London at 11:20 a.m. Nos. 7 and 9, due at 11:30 a.m and 12:30 noon, were announced to arrive about 5 o'clock in the evening. As a result of the delay the eastern mails will probably not be distributed in this city until to-morrow morn-To-day is the 13th of the month and pay day on the Grand Trunk. Happily for the men the pay train was not delayed by the

A snow plow got through the numerous drifts on the Stratford branch at noon and last night's train that was snowed up at St. Marys began its journey to this city in the afternoon. The local Sarnia trains made good time, but the American connections were behind.

The M. C. R. had a hard time of it. Three engines could not move last night's train for St. Thomas out of the yard and it would have been there yet had not a plow been sent up from the Railroad City. It left the latter place during the night and arrived here at noon. The first train in eighteen hours was sent out at 1 o'clook. The snow drifted badly in the many cuttings on the L. and P. S. R.

The C. P. R. kept remarkably good time throughout the whole progress of the storm. Their trains are all running and very little

The snow plow men in the employ of the city had their work cut out for them this morning. They were out at 4 a.m. and had a hard time of it. In many cases the plow rode gallantly on the crest of the drifts, and the only way to open the paths was to dig. The drifts on Dundas street were leveled over the road.

The snow drifted on Adelaide street against N. McLeod's store and up against the private houses between Dundas and King streets eight feet high, completely agh pleaded guilty, and was commended to shutting the inmates in until they were PIGS FOR THE DUKE. The Duke of Saxe-Cobourg-Gotha intends to farm on a large scale in Germany and I hear that in the course of the next month extensive purchases of high class cattle and sheep will be made for him at the principal sales. A valuable consignment of large white Yorkshire pigs was recently dispatched to the Duke at Cobourg by Mr. Fulcher, of Elmham, Norfolk. SWIFT TORPEDOES.

Last Wednesday the Decoy was launched from the yards of John L. Thorncroft & Co. at Chiswick. The Decoy is a torpedo boat destroyer of the same type as the Havock, and is supplied with steam of 250 pounds pressure. It is expected considerably to increase the stipulated speed of 27 knots, while it is said that Mr. Yarrow is hoping for 30 knots out of his new destroyer the Hermit. Thirty knots is 341 statute miles. This is not a bad speed for a railway train but enormous for a vessel. TORY BUNCOMBE.

I have hitherto abstained from noticing the rumor lately which referred to John Morley's desire to escape from his present position but that the news has now been published I need not undertake to speak of it. Whether he has at any time contemplated resigning I do not pretend to know, but I have reasons for saying that his position in the Irish office has been proving more and more difficult and distasteful. It could not well be otherwise even with a less sensitive man than he. He has found himself compelled to adopt the very action which formerly he denounced in such unmeasured terms. In the recent murder case in Dublin he has been obliged to sanction recourse to the Explosives Act to obtain the very powers which under the Crimes Act he might have used openly but for his wild denunciation of that enactment. He recognizes that England is more opposed to home rule than ever, and that the agitation in its favor in Ireland is hollow and unreal, and the revival of Fenianism is a serious discouragement to him.

GAY MADEIRA. A correspondent informs me that Madeira was unusually gay and animated during the recent visit of the Channel Squadron. The sudden influx of some 5,000 men caused the place to assume the appearance of an English naval station. The British residents entertained the officers of the fleet, and Admiral Fairfax had a dance on board the Royal Sovereign. The Empress of Austria was so delighted with Madeira that she hopes to visit the island again next year. The season is about an average one.

Out of the Workhouse

"Come, Lucas," said the chaplain heart-tly, "don't look so dazed, old triend; this gentleman is a lawyer from London, come to ell you of a wonderful bit of luck."

'Luck-luck for me?" stammered "Yes, indeed," broke in the lawyer quietly, "a piece of extraordinary luck, but not undeserved, I'm sure. You've been un-lucky, Mr. lucas, lately, but we hope you've nany prosperous days before you. You had brother Samuel, who went to America in '58—that's so, isn't it?"

'Ay, sir, it is so. I had a brother Sam, three years younger nor me."
"Well, Sam's lately died, and left a large fortune. You are his sole heir." "D'ye mean I come in for Sam's money?" with a momentary flash of quicker perception. The lawyer nodded, smiling. "Yes, my friend, I do."

"And how much may it be?" Lucas tottered a little. The chaptain quietly pushed a chair towards him, into which he sank, though, perceiving the next moment that he was the only person seated, the instinct of habit made him murmur, "Axing your pardon, gentlemen, for sitting down."
"It is a hundred thousand pounds," the lawyer said slowly. The master and the chaplain both started and looked at each other. Clearly and emphatically as he spoke, Lucas's mind could not take in such an idea.

"A hundred pounds," he said slowly;
"that'll keep me a'most, I reckon, so long as I lives, outside of this." "You don't understand, Lucas," said the chaplain, bending down to him; "you're a little deaf. Mr. Wilbraham said a hundred thousand pounds." There was a strange

Peter broke the silence with a low mutter-

"A hundred—thousand—pounds! Lord save us!" Then he looked sharply at the lawyer. "You're in arnest? you means it? "Upon my honor I'm not. It's a fact, a you ain't a jokin' with me?" positive fact. I made quite sure of it before I came down. You're a rich man."

And I can leave here to-day?" "As soon as ever you please. You can return with me, if you like, to London this evening, or you can sleep at the inn at Ebrington and start to-morrow."

No, no, to-night-to-night.' "But not by yourself, Lucas," said the chaplain gently; "you'll want some friend or relative with you."

"I've only one relation as I claim as such," the old man said with sudden fierceness. "I'll go round and fetch her now. Her'll come along of us. Ha! ha!" he chuckled grimly; "I'm even now with Mat, and Mat's wife too.

He rose stiffly and glanced about him,

"I'm ready sir, if so you be."
"Yes, certainly—I've a fly at the door. If there's anything you want to take—"
"No," chuckled the old man again; "a chap don't have much property in here. I'll go fetch Bell.

Then he held out his horny hand, hard with 70 years' labor, to the chaplainwith 70 years' labor, to the chaplain—
"Here's good-bye to you, sir, and wishin' you good luck like mine. You done your best by me, and by us all. I hopes you'il get your due for it."
"Maybe, Lucas," said Mr. St. John, smilfing, as they shook hands. "I suppose we mostly do some time or other, here or hereafter: but not a hundred thousand pounds.
I don't want that. Good-bye, old friend! I

I don't want that. Good-bye, old friend! I hope with all my heart your money'll bring you happiness.

Peter proceeded, but this time rather glumly and without good wishes, to shake e lawyer to the door, and stood on the eps a free man, a man of property, drawng deep his first breath of independence, ter two long, blank years of prison. Once inside the fly, Mr. Wilbraham sugsted calling first at a tailor's to exchange he workhouse garb for something more in accord with his position. Lucas was reluctant to delay taking his news to Bell, even for this, but with a little difficulty was persuaded. The astonished tailor could not do much at a moment's notice, but a tolerable suit of black was found at last, a tall hat, and a great coat, that covered many deficiencies. Even in this bravery the old man scarcely looked his part; but his silvery locks lent him a certain dignity. When seated in the fly again, Mr. Wilbraham held out a handful of gold and silver.

"Here, sir," he said easily, "put this in your pocket to go on with. I don't want to do not be said by a property."

do paymaster longer than is necessary. The old man did not take it-he looked angrily from the money to the lawyer. "I'm not a-goin' to take yourn." said he:

"where's mine?" "This is yours—I'm only advancing it— you shall account for it—but you must have money about you." The face relaxed a little, and Lucas thrust the coins into his pocket, stealing his hand in afterwards to feel the unwonted guests. By his direction they next stopped at Mrs. Jenkins'. Mr. Wilbraham suggested the grandfather's interview should be a private one; he had a telegram to send from the postoffice next door. The telegram was to J. L. Wilbraham, and ordered rooms to be got ready in the sender's house in Regent's Park, for Mr. Lucas and a young lady. Meanwhile old Peter marched into the baker's shop, and confronted the stout proprietress with an appearance of sang froid which his new attire helped him to main-

"Good-mornin', mum," said he. Not for the moment recognizing her little servant's pauper grandfather, she returned the salutation civily. Then a look of blank surprise came into her broad, red face. Well, I never! If it ain't old Master

Lucas-as fine as fine-"I wants to see my Bell, mum," the old man went on, a grim smile relaxing the muscles of her mouth at her astonishment, which was a new and agreeable hint of the wonderful change that had come over him.

"I'm a-goin' to take her away with me as soon as she can clean herself and come There's no odds about her bits o' things-her won't want 'em. I'm a-goin' to Lunnon, and Bell's to come along. "Going to London! Well, I'm blessed—and you think as I can spare Bell at a moment's notice—are you gone daft, Master Lucas? or have you come into a fortin'?"

"Just that, mum. I'm willin to pay a fair price for ill-conveniencing you, but Bell must come, and quick too, for I've no mind

Mrs. Jenkins could only gasp and stare, and repeat her formula, "Weil, I'm blessed!"

Impatient at the delay, Peter raised his voice and called "Bell!"

Bell quickly appeared, not recognizing, in the loud, authoritative tones, the feeble roice she was used to in her grandfather. Her hair and her coarse apron were covered with flour, and her face was pale and scared. "Granddad," she cried, stopping short, pewildered, in the doorway.

clean yourself—don't stop to bring a thing— I've come in for a fortin', lass, and thee shalt help spend it. Be quick—there's a lawyer gentleman waitin' outside to take us to Lunnon. Mrs. Jenkins and me'll sett e our little bit o' business while thee makes thyself decent." He waved her away, and Bell hurried to her little attic to obey him. Had he been in his ordinary clothes she would have thought his brain was turned, but the hat and coat carried conviction of a change. Presently Mr. Wilbraham, outside, was joined by old Lucas and a shabby little girl who could hardly find words to whisper an answer to his kindly greeting.

"Where next, Mr. Lucas?" he inquired. "We have still an hour and a half."

"To Briggs & Manton's, sir," the old man answered promply. "This girl of mine has got to be rigged out."

"Won't you wait till we get to town?" said the lawyer, taking in at a glance the sordid details of poor Bell's array.

"Not a minute," returned the other, almost fiercely. "My Bell shan't look a servant no longer than I can help."

A small growd of children, vaguely scent-

A small crowd of children, vaguely scent ing excitement, had gathered round the fly; a few men and women, too, had stopped to look. One recognized Bell and her grandfather. "Eh, but it's old Lucas out of the House," she cried to her neighbor, "dressed like a toff! What up? And Bell, Mother Jen-

Mr. Wilbraham hastily put his clients into the fly, and ordered the man to drive on to the draper's. The bland Mr. Briggs himself, seeing a vehicle, and scenting profit, advanced smiling to receive his strange customers; the shopwomen stared wonderingly as they recognized the little servant girl. "I wants a reglar fit out for my grand-daughter here," the old man said, sturdily planting himself by the counter; "send a young 'oman as knows what a woman ought to wear—the best, mind. I'll sit down the while, for I'm tired. This gentleman, here, can show you as I can pay."

He sat down and watched, while Mr. Briggs, astounded, but still smiling, beckened an elegant and haughty-looking damsel with a very fashionable "head of hair," to wait on the shrinking little Bell.
"Take her along with you into a room, said the old man, pointing with his thumb at Bell; make her look smart, and be quick about it, that's all. I'll pay." (To be Continued.)

A Man Made Happy .- GENTLEMEN,-For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. THE OPEN FORUM.

The Burned-Out Missionary. To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

I have just received a letter from Mrs. Eidridge, of Bear's Cave, Muskoka, in answer to one I wrote, asking ages of members of the family and what sized boots were needed and what clothing, etc. I will quote portions of the letter as it will give the public full information of their dire need. "We can never expect to get a home again such as is now gone. We had all worked for years to get it and were not in debt. The house had nine rooms and was comfortably furnished for people in our circumstances. I feel God gave it to us and he is just and will surely do what is right, and I pray for grace to commit it all into his care. There was no carelessness; it was purely an accident, and we feel sure he will help us to get what is really necessary for our comfort. We are receiving kindness and sympathy from all our neighbors around and it is very precious to us just now; but they are not able to do much to help us in goods, etc. You could hardly send us the wrong thing, everything being gone. Mr. Eldridge's age is 60. He has no boots or clothing of any description; size of boots for him, No. 8; his height, 6 feet. My son, aged 20; height, 5 feet 10 inches; size of boots, 7. Everything he had is gone—books, Bible and prayer book, watch and everything. My daughter is aged 19.

Everything is lost except the working clothes she had on. Her height is 5 feet 3 inches; size of boots, 5. I am 54 years old, of medium height; size of boots, No. 5. All sheets and table cloths gone. We need under-clothing very much, and boots and rubbers. It is very cold here, and we need clothes, socks and shirts for the men. My son is obliged to stay home to attend to the farm, as his father is not in good health. My daughter had a lot of good comfortable clothing, as well as many good books. She came home in October to nurse me, as I had a bad foot, and later on had a paralytic stroke, and have been almost helpless. Anything will be seen to be useful, if only a spoon or knife, a cup and saucer, or even a cooking tin or a tea-cloth to wipe dishes, and if we had an old clock we perhaps could do it up. Our present arrangements are to accept an empty room in my married daughter's home and stay there till spring, when we must build a small house. In the meantime my daughter will be making over any clothing that may come for us all, and my son will do the best he can to get things ready to build by May when the boat will run, and we hope to get up a little furniture and a cook stove. We feel that perhaps household linen, blankets, etc., may possibly be sent from some if our need is known. All Mr. Eldridge's tools were lost. We had made a spare room a tool room for the winter. He built all the house and finished it himself with my son's help, so that he had many carpentering tools. If only one tool from here and another from there were sent us it would be a great help. Will you kindly give my kind remembrance to all inquiring for us and my gratitude and thanks for all their

Any parcel sent before May must come to Utterson Station and then forward by stage to Rosseau, Muskoka. The freight is very expensive and anything that cannot be put in a box had better wait until May, but we -At the police court this morning should be thankful for some clothes and bedding.
