LONDON EXTENDS CORDIAL WELCOME TO OLD BOYS FOR REUNION OF 1911

CITY THROGGED WITH VISITORS
OLD BOYS BACK TO OLD HOMEExecutive Delighted With the Large Crowds—Former Londoners
From All Part of the Compass Are Here for the Big Celebration.

The Old Boys are home.

All day yesterday, thousands of former Londoners came back to spend a week with the old folks, and incidentally enjoy the hospitality of the city.

On Sunday, the full force of the demonstration was apparent. This day was given up largely to the cities where organizations had worked systematically to bring the Old Boys together, and when the numbers of Old Boys came in, there was great joy in the city.

The Visitors.

The largest contingent came in from Detroit over the C. P. R. at 3:30 p. m. They were due earlier, but an accident delayed them. However, hundreds of citizens waited for them, and they were made most welcome. There were a thousand of them—all former Londoners, all happy to come back. It did not take them long to make themselves known, and felt, and the city "where life is worth the living" received much advertising from the London Old Boys who came from the City of the Straits. Although no cars were running they were soon taken care of, and taken to their homes.

The Chicago contingent arrived at noon, and they, too, were given a royal welcome. This association has been one of the most loyal to the reunion, and while the number of Old Boys was not equal to some other years, nevertheless 200 of them came in over the Grand Trunk. They were a great lot of fellows, too, and they proceeded to make the Wind City's name prominent in London. They succeeded well.

There was a great deal of interest taken in the visit of the Winnipeg Old Boys. The westerners had created a strong sentiment in their favor, and their arrival was keenly awaited. Owing to a delay in Chicago, it was 7 o'clock before they arrived. They came on a special train, one of the best that has pulled into London in many a day. Some five hundred of them made the trip in the train, while two or three hundred came down on earlier trains so that they would miss none of the celebration. They made a great stir when they arrived, and soon joined heartily in the demonstration. There was nothing of a public nature, but they were glad to be home and showed it.

Representatives from other cities came in on every train. One's idea of geography is wonderfully enlarged by a study of the addresses of former citizens of London. Scarcely a city of importance on the continent fails to have at least one representative. They came from every quarter of the globe, and all of them had a story of success and prosperity wherever their lot had been cast.

In spite of the joy of the home-coming, there was a tinge of sadness. Dear Old Nicholas Wilson, the father of the Old Boys, was no more, and scores of former pupils had a kindly word for their old preceptor. They missed him, and missed him sadly. Since the last reunion he had crossed the great divide. Others had gone, men prominently identified with these demonstrations, P. M. Frank Love and a score of others, and they were all missed.

The day was very orderly. Not an unseemly occurrence was reported to the police, and the officers had a very quiet day. Every person was on his good behavior. Nothing took place so far as could be learned, that would add anything to the discredit of the city.

There were special services in the churches. Sermons appropriate to the occasion were preached, and special music was furnished.

Concert in the Park.
The sacred treat concert attracted an extremely large number. It was with difficulty that a person could make his way through the dense throng. Conservative estimates place the number who attended at 10,000.

The registration booth was a busy place. Over 4,000 people signed the rolls during the day, and but a fraction of the number of the Old Boys in the city had time to do so. John Wood and his large staff of clerks had a very busy time, but all were given the most careful attention.

The Winnipeggers.
The officers of the association were delighted at the outcome. While they expected a big gathering the number exceeded their expectations.

"It is going to be a brilliant success," said Mr. Harry R. Abbott. "It is better than I expected, and I was the most pessimistic of the officers." Secretary J. O. Weldon expressed himself in similar terms. Nothing but bad weather can spoil the reunion, and it (Continued on Page Nine.)

A GOLDEN WEDDING.

Today at their home at 241 Colborne street, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hussey will celebrate their golden wedding in connection with the Old Boys' Reunion festivities. Fifty years ago, on July 22, 1861, Miss Harriet Graham, a daughter of James Graham, who in 1847 first advertised free schools in this city, was united in marriage, in the old Bible Church, on Horton street, to Mr. Henry Hussey, who had come to Canada from the island of Greeney, at the age of fifteen, just five years before their wedding was celebrated by the Rev. Joseph Hoag, pastor of the Bible Church on Horton street, on children, now grown to manhood and womanhood, all but one of whom were during Old Boys' week. Mr. and Mrs. Hussey postponed the anniversary of their golden wedding until today. Four sons and daughters out of six are now living: Mrs. T. A. Jones, of Detroit; Mrs. F. J. Jones, of Chicago; Harry, of Toronto; and James Graham Hussey, of this city. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hussey have been close readers of the London Advertiser ever since it was first published here in the sixties. Mrs. Hussey remembers purchasing a copy of the first issue of The Advertiser, and she has kept it ever since, and it was the first issue of the paper that she read on the first night of its publication.

DOCK LABORERS WIN STRIKE
HOLD MIGHTY DEMONSTRATION
Thirty-Five Thousand Strong They March Through Streets of London Cheering and Singing.

London, Aug. 6.—London today witnessed a great labor demonstration, when 35,000 dock laborers, after a long march, assembled at the base of the Nelson monument in Trafalgar Square, and heard for the first time the news that they had won their strike. The march, inspired by the music of thirty bands, in the long line of paraders, marched all the way from South London to Trafalgar Square, cheering and singing as they went.

Here the announcement was made that Alfred Robt, the arbitrator agreed upon by both sides to the conflict.

OVER 800 DETROIT OLD BOYS
REACHED HOME TOWN SUNDAY
A Crowded Train of Ten Coaches Brought Visitors Here—
Thomas Luscombe Was Probably the Oldest
Old Boy on the Special.

Eight hundred or more London Old Boys from Detroit arrived by special train of ten coaches over the C. P. R. at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. When the train pulled into the local C. P. R. depot with flags flying from the car windows and platforms the hundreds of waiting Londoners who crowded the station platform forgot the quiet of the Sunday afternoon and a cheer went up from their hearts and voices as they surged close in to the slowing train, scarcely leaving room for the visitors to alight in their eagerness to welcome them.

Leaving Detroit at 10:30 a.m., the special made good time without the slightest mishap or accident until Kent Bridge was reached. Here a delay of some fifteen or twenty minutes was necessitated while a hot-box was attended to. Mr. A. E. Edmonds, C. P. R. district passenger agent, of Detroit, was on the train and personally attended to the arrangements for the trip. Barring this brief delay everyone commented favorably on the otherwise successful run.

SOME FINE FLYING

McCurdy Soars to an Altitude of Seven Hundred Feet.

Toronto, Aug. 6.—"Betsy" worked diligently on Saturday. She enabled Charles F. Willard, the American birdman, to make eight successive and successful flights at Donlands Farm, carrying passengers with him on the last two, and she enabled John A. D. McCurdy, the ever-popular Canadian birdman, to bring the aviation programme of the day to a triumphant conclusion by making a splendid flight when it was dark, attaining the greatest altitude of the meet, 700 feet. "Betsy" is Willard's old reliable biplane, which carried him on his notable trip from Hamilton last Wednesday night, and which has figured in numerous notable feats at Los Angeles, Cal., and other American fairs. The three feats of Saturday's flying at Donlands were McCurdy's performance in Willard's machine, Willard's two flights in which he carried press representatives, Percy

Returns From the Wheat Lands.

Mr. J. C. Elliott, M.P.P., West Middlesex, has returned from a trip through the west, and brings back glowing accounts of the prosperity of that country. "If nothing happens between now and harvest time, the west will have the largest crop in its history," he stated to The Advertiser. "The grain is in grand condition all over the country, and every person there is hopeful that the crop will be saved. The grain did not ripen as fast as was expected owing to the rains, but it is now ripening fast and will be ready in a few weeks. Harvesting has commenced in Southern Alberta, the fall wheat being nearly all cut. It is a big yield. Harvesting will commence in Northern Alberta in a couple of weeks. I think the crop will be saved without much trouble." Mr. Elliott declares that western sentiment is strongly in favor of reciprocity. "Alberta and Saskatchewan will be almost solid for the agreement," he stated. "The sentiment in these two provinces is very strong. I do not know so much about Manitoba, as I was not out there for any time. The west looks good."

While Going 70 Miles an Hour.[Special to The Advertiser.]
Chicago, Aug. 6.—While speeding at 70 miles an hour, the Pennsylvania 18-hour special for New York, which left Chicago at 4:25 this afternoon, was wrecked one mile east of Indiana Harbor. Sixty passengers occupying the Pullman and observation cars were severely bruised and battered. The accident occurred when the engine, tender and baggage car jumped the track. The cause has not been explained. The engine rolled down a slight embankment and overturned. The baggage car and engine jumped from the cab but the latter, W. L. Hoy, of Fort Wayne, was seriously injured. Three of his ribs were broken and his left leg was fractured. None of the passengers were seriously injured.STRATTON AGAIN

A PECULIAR MISSION

Prisons Inspector to Settle a Row
Between Turnkeys' Wives.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith, provincial inspector of prisons, paid a hurried visit to Ottawa on a peculiar mission today. It was to restore peace between two women, the wives of Turnkeys Clark and Dawson. Both women are employed at the jail and have quarters in the institution. They have been at loggerheads for some time, and it is said there were open hostilities between them in a corridor this week. Sheriff Richardson was unable to arrange a peace agreement, and called in the inspector. None of the officials seem to know what the result of the inquiry will be, and Dr. Smith refused to talk.

Trouble in Toronto.[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, Aug. 6.—Rev. Thomas Holt Wilson, an English Church clergyman, who had only been in Canada for a month, was walking along Dundas street with his wife on Saturday night when he collapsed. He was carried into the Cottage Hospital, nearby. Mr. Wilson did not recover consciousness, however, expiring shortly after of heart failure. He was 68 years of age, and came from Redgrave, Suffolk, England.For Reciprocity.

AND NO CANDIDATE NAMEDSlim Attendance Causes Postponement—Mr. Essery Calls
President Taft a "Barroom Bully"—Mr. Gray's
Accusation—Will Mr. Beattie Drop Out?

The Conservative convention called on Saturday evening at the Auditorium for the purpose of naming a candidate for the coming federal elections failed to accomplish its purpose, an adjournment being taken until Friday evening, Aug. 18. It was deemed inadvisable to proceed to business owing to the small attendance, and sixty-eight or seventy persons being scattered about the rear of the hall.

Mr. William Gray, the president of the London Conservative Association, presided, and with him on the platform were Major Beattie, Dr. Kingsmill, Dr. Roome and Mr. E. T. Essery, K. C.

Anomalous as it may seem, the heat was blamed for the "frost," although insufficient advertising and the London Old Boys were held partly to blame.

While Major Beattie freely expressed his willingness to give place to any other gentleman whom the Conservative party of London care to support, and Mr. Gray declared that he had additional evidence that his defeat in the contest in 1904 for the London seat in the Federal House was due to illegitimate tactics of his opponents, the feature of the evening was the character of the address by Mr. Essery.

Mr. Beattie on Reciprocity.
Major Beattie stated that the convention had perhaps been called as unexpectedly as the Parliament was dissolved by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and in this manner he accounted for the unsatisfactory attendance. The question of sheep importations and possible injury to the industry in Canada through reciprocity, was referred to, together with the report of a flat encounter between Messrs. Oliver and Fielding.

The speaker declared that he has no objection if the Americans care to lower the bars and purchase from Canada, but he said they should not attempt to dictate Canada's tariff policy. He again explained in closing that if the party is able to secure as good a candidate, or a better one, to contest the riding, he would be pleased to step out. The duties of a representative in the Dominion House necessitate an absence from home of seven months each year, while the position also demands quite an expenditure, he said.

Mr. Gray's Association.
President Gray said that Canadians, when they went to the polls, would not forget their loyalty to Great Britain. Had I my right, and had you your rights, I would have been elected in 1904, when I represented you," said Mr. Gray. "I have evidence that on that night I was elected member for the city of London, but when the returns showed that I had a majority, and but one poll

New York, Aug. 6.—The smashed bows and torn decks of the Anchor liner Columbia, in port today from Glasgow, bore silent testimony to the collision of the steamer with a huge iceberg in mid-ocean last Wednesday. Nine passengers and sailors were injured, but despite their cuts, bruises, lacerations and fractured collar-bones, all praised the captain and heaven that the damage was not worse. So dense was the fog at the time and so high was the berg out of the water that no one saw its top. Those who were brave enough to climb out on deck estimate the height of the berg as being 100 feet out of the water and describe it as of cube formation.

Shortly after his arrival in this city on Saturday on C. P. R. express No. 234 from Windsor, Conductor Baker, while going through one of the coaches found a wallet containing $100 in cash and a check for $1,800. He at once turned the money over to the superintendent, and an effort was made to find the owner through the names on the check. The amount is an unusually large one to be found in this way, and the conductors of the train were laud in their praises of the promptness with which Conductor Baker reported the matter.

To Enter Federal Fight.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 6.—Prior to the Conservative gathering at the exhibition grounds, a conference of the anti-reciprocity campaigning forces was held at the Albany Club for the purpose of discussing the Ontario organization. Hon. Frank Cochrane presided, and there was also present Hon. Robert Rogers and Hon. Colin Campbell, of the Manitoba Government; Hon. Jas. Duff and Hon. George E. Foster, Hon. J. J. Foy and others. A call had been sent out to some forty Conservative members of Parliament and Legislature in Ontario, but the attendance was comparatively light. Mr. Borden, whose presence had been advertised, was himself not present.

The proceedings were of a private character, but it is reported that the Conservative members of the Legislature in several constituencies were told to be ready to resign their legislative seats to contest federal ridings. Three provincial members, Messrs. Hugh Clark (Huron), W. J. Paul (Addington), and Gordon Wilson (Wentworth), it was announced, had decided upon this course.

The Grand Trunk officials have no record of the accident, and Taylor could not give any connected account as to how it happened. He is expected to recover.

Sir John Carling

That the visiting Old Boys take a keen interest in Sir John Carling was shown by the numerous inquiries that were constantly being made by them yesterday upon their arrival in the city. Sir John has not yet fully recovered from the very serious illness he had some weeks ago, but it is reported that he is steadily improving, and in a short time hopes to be as well as ever again.

Dundas Street.

Three small boys, who it is alleged were trying to lift a grating and obtain entrance to a Dundas street store are in custody on a charge of burglary. The boys had a number of articles in their possession, which the police allege they obtained by making their way into the store through the grating. They were taken into custody on Saturday night and are being held for trial before Magistrate Judd in the juvenile court today.

Rev. Dr. McDowell, of Baltimore, preached twice yesterday in the First Methodist Church. Miss Beattie, of the First Church, having returned after her vacation, participated in the musical part of the services, morning and evening yesterday. LONDON, MONDAY, AUG. 7.

THE HOMING.

London is enjoying itself to the full in welcoming the host of relatives and friends who have come back home. It makes the heart of both home-dweller and old-timer glad to contemplate the joys of the coming day and week. The keenest pleasures will not be found in the public and formal demonstrations, but in the privacy of many a family circle re-united again. There is a peculiar satisfaction in reflecting that it was London Old Boys who initiated a movement which has become wide-spread, and have kept up the home-coming festivals with greatest regularity and success.

The term "old boys," as well as the idea, seems to come from the custom of British public schools. Any reader of "Tom Brown's School Days" knows how the Rugbyists, the Etonians and the rest, remember the old school and go back to it with love and joy, when they can, on one day of the year. For they too, are boys again, transported by the magic of old scenes, of old masters' faces, and of old traditions and years into the golden past of memory. Our city "old boys" have an advantage over those of a British school, in finding old boys like themselves, the former playmates and workmates, living on within the well-remembered precincts. They are welcomed home, not only perfunctorily or respectfully by younger faces "which knew not Joseph," but demonstratively by ranks of veterans like themselves, who still find and make London the best place to live in.

There are, of course, sad gaps in the ranks both at home and from abroad. Each returning festival brings some measure of regrets amidst its pleasures. One old master, the famous Nicholas Wilson, is seen no more. That wonderful veteran, Mr. Joseph Mantel, may perhaps feel a shade of loneliness at the thought of the schoolmaster gone before, aged, yet much younger than himself. The loss of Mr. Frank Love and of others, will be felt by many of the home-comers.

Could not the Middlesex Historical Society find information on many topics from some of these Old Boys? In their memories must be written things generally unknown that belong to the older London and County, not to speak of their experiences of life elsewhere, which doubtless would often provide material for both tragedy and comedy. With so many amongst us from all corners of the continent to-day, the thought is brought home of the fullness and variety and value of human lives as they arise, and experience, act, reflect and branch forth endlessly. London, spacious as it is, hardly holds a crowd comprehends her progeny, but looks upon them with admiration and pride.

Was there a thought three years ago that these reunions would play out? They, or something like them, will always be, while home is home and man is man, while man has some boy left in him. The enthusiasm of the home-comers and of the citizens is this year not less but greater than ever. To express it, London's poet, Arthur Stringer, is needed, and it is to be hoped that he is here today.

A CONTRAST IN LEADERSHIP.

In elections, as in war, half the battle lies in leadership. The statesman who holds the devotion, love and confidence of his followers, who is the hero of a hundred fights, enters the struggle with a great advantage over the leader who is distinguished by wavering tactics and a series of defeats.

Even sanguine and aggressive Conservatives, perhaps they more than others, concede in their hearts that the personality of Sir Wilfrid Laurier weighs against them, and that the personality of Mr. Borden weighs upon them. In contrast to the Premier's marked distinction, his hold on the affections and imaginations of his countrymen, his prestige both at home and abroad, they know very well that Mr. Borden cuts an undistinguished figure too dazzlingly conspicuous above the hurly-burly of the combat. He is a modern Ivanhoe, a terror to his opponents, a tower to his following.

By some in the Conservative camp the contrast in leaders is so openly deplored that Mr. Borden recently had to face revolt on the part of the Montreal junta. Even before that motley

It seems to have been only by a piliat submission on the navy question to the dictates of an unscrupulous clique, typified by the Roblin-Rogers machine that the Conservative leader maintained his position. Some time ago it was fashionable among Conservative journals to make Laurier out a weak sunny-smiler, but nobody now pretends to think that the Premier is not "the master of the administration." In fact, his assailants call him a despot, the bouncer of "independent" ministers, and the boss of Botha!

Mr. Borden, on the other hand, makes himself the tool of the more turbulent element in his party. Time was when he was praised for consistency and principle. But when he swallowed himself on the navy question, which he had talked so finely of raising above the din and dust of party strife to a national level, this reputation was shattered. There are signs to show that the same weakness has marked his course with reference to reciprocity; it looks as though he had been shoved into the position of being the first Conservative leader to oppose such a measure. But he would have been stronger if he had stood his ground on the navy question. As it is, he is playing with Mr. Bourassa, the double game in Ontario and Quebec which appealed to the Roblin-Rogers strategists and by which they seem to expect to win before the reciprocity issue upset their calculations.

The best that can be said for the Conservative chief is that he shows courtesy in contrast to the vulgar and abusive character of some of his prominent associates, mild manners which offer a refreshing contrast to the truculent leadership of his predecessor, Tupper. On the other side stands Laurier at the head of the Liberal and reciprocity forces, the greatest political force, and most distinguished figure yet produced by Canada, and as a man like Bayard, the Chevalier without fear and without reproach.

LORD CURZON'S ADMISSION.

In a recent speech Lord Curzon refutes very flatly the opinion commonly expressed by Unionist journals and their Canadian flunkies, that under the Parliament Bill there will be single-chamber government in Great Britain.

Opposing the no-surrender wing of the Lords, he asked what they would gain by forcing the King and his ministers to swamp the upper house with Liberal peers. The Government would then be able to carry all their measures without delay. But leave things as they are in the upper house and it will be able to resist and even perhaps to defeat some of the measures "odious to Unionists." Does this look like single-chamber government under the "revolutionized" constitution?

The fact is that the normal life of the House of Commons, as Mr. Asquith has said, is going to be not more than four years, instead of the present six. With its suspensive veto the Upper House can delay for two years measures passing the Commons during the first two years of a Parliament's life. Measures passing in the second half of the quadrennial term will be held up for the electoral vote whenever a Liberal Government is in power and the Upper House chooses to obstruct.

By the way what has become of the peers' boast, or the boast made by them, that they are the true guardians of the people's interests? Lord Curzon talks coolly of blocking measures for which the people have declared, merely because they are "odious" to his class and party. The House of Lords has long been a Tory Club unashamed, and the changes proposed in its constitution by Lord Lansdowne were calculated to fix it in this character.

THE ALSO RAN.

[Washington Herald.]
"Are you related to the bride or groom-elect?" inquired the busy usher.
"No."
"Then what interest have you in the ceremony?"
"I'm the defeated candidate."

THE TEST.

[New York Sun.]
Diogenes was searching for an honest man.
"He will advertise that his summer resort has mosquitoes," explained the sage.

UNTOLD WEALTH.

[Exchange.]
"You say he has untold wealth?"
"Hasn't filed a tax statement for years."

HIS FATHER TONGUE.

[Exchange.]
"I see you mail your son all the baseball editions."
"I don't want him to forget his native language while fooling around that coronation."

ONE ADVANTAGE.

[Life.]
"So you have adopted a baby to raise?" we ask of our friend. "Well, it may turn out all right, but don't you think you are taking chances?"
"Not a chance," he answers. "No matter how many bad habits the child may have, my wife can't say he inherits any of them from my side of the house."

TRIAL UP TO DATE.

[New York Tribune.]
Breef was accused of bribery. He admitted the charge.
"What, sir?" the judge thundered. "What, you, a practicing lawyer, admit without shame that you bribed the witness?"
"Yes, your honor," said Breef hastily. "But I bribed him to tell the truth. He had been bribed by the other side to lie."

PEOPLE STOPPED EATING.

[Popular Magazine.]
A New York man, taking pen in hand, calculated that he could make a fortune by establishing and financing a restaurant. Three months after he had launched forth on his ambitious venture, a group of his friends fell in to discuss about him.

"What made Bill get out of the restaurant business?" asked one.
"It was this way," explained another: "People quit eating, and he had to."

AS WILLIE SAW IT.

[Judge.]
Ma—"Is the clock running, Willie?"
Willie—"No, ma, it's just standing still and wagging its tail."

POOR RECOMMENDATION.

[Detroit Free Press.]
"He means well," she said.
"Say no more," he replied. "I know now exactly what sort of a fool he is."

COLOR TRANSITION.

[Judge.]
An aged colored man was engaged in burning the grass off the lawn of a young broker when the latter returned to his home and, thinking to have some fun with the old man, said: "Samba, if you burn that grass, the entire lawn will be as black as you are."
"Dat's all right, sah," responded the negro. "Some of dese days dat grass grow up an' be as green as you are."

A REASON.

[Milwaukee News.]
"I never judge a woman by her clothes," observed Bill.
"No," put in Mrs. B. sarcastically, "a man who gets to be as many burlesques shows as you do wouldn't."

GETTING EVEN.

[Elegance Blatter.]
Tailor—"The raincoat suits you splendidly, sir. Makes you look ten years younger."
Customer—"Good. Then you can send in the bill in 1921."

SURE RETURN.

[Toledo Blade.]
"Out to luncheon—back in five minutes," read the sign on the door.
"Are you sure he will get back that soon?" asked the anxious caller.
"Yes," said the wise office boy. "He ain't got the price of a ten-minute's lunch in his clothes."

CONGRATULATIONS.

[Scraps.]
Young Lady (coming in with partner from room where progressive bridge was played): "Oh, my dear, I've captured the 'booby'."
Mother—"Well, my dear daughter, come and kiss me, both of you."

JUST SO.

[Boston Globe.]
"Why do they call a bell boy in a hotel 'Butler'?"
"Because he's always off when you need him most, I guess."

TO MEET AN EMERGENCY.

[Washington Times.]
"Madam, have you any old clothes to give away?"
"I have a suit belonging to my husband, but I fear it is too big for you."
"Oh, that will be all right. You just send me a source mail and I will see that it gets to me in time."

GARDEN SPOT.

[Washington Star.]
"Only one thing my wife's big hat needs," said Mr. Groucher.
"What's that?"
"A sign reading, 'Do not pluck the flowers.'"

FAST TALKER.

[Judge.]
The orator spoke about the things he had not said, the things he did not believe, and the things he would not do. He was talking at the rate of about thirty notes an hour.

THE WISE MAN.

[Cleveland Leader.]
"The wise man treats his friends well," says the philosopher of folly, "but not often."

DIDN'T UNDERSTAND.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.]
"So you don't want no huckleberries?"
"No, I don't want no huckleberries. I see your cat is asleep on those huckleberries."
"That's all right, mum. I don't mind waking the cat up."

TRYING TO EXPLAIN.

[Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.]
A gamekeeper was going over his master's estate one morning, when he encountered a gentleman of the poaching class. The gamekeeper noticed that the other's hat was subjected to the hat to an examination he found a young pheasant.
"How did this get here?" the gamekeeper asked, glancing at the culprit.
"I know," growled the poacher, gazing at the pheasant with an apparent look of great perplexity. "The 'blooming' thing must have crawled up my trousers leg."

THINKS LOVER HAS TURNED KIDNAPPER.

Attempts to Steal Daughter of Wealthy Easterner, but Fails.

Washington, Pa., Aug. 5.—Frightened away before he had a chance to carry off his victim, a kidnapper left Beatrice Heckman, the daughter of a wealthy and prominent H. D. Heckman, blindfolded, bound and gagged on the rear door step of their home in fashionable Allison avenue today.

Several days ago Mr. Heckman received a letter purporting to come from a member of the Black Hand, saying that if he did not leave $1,000 in a stated spot his daughter Beatrice would be kidnapped. He did not place the money as instructed. Instead he engaged a guard.

This morning, in the absence of the guard, a man came to the rear door, gagged and blindfolded her. She swooned and he started to carry her away, when the approach of a milkman forced him to flee. That a more sinister crime than kidnapping was contemplated is indicated by the fact that Miss Heckman's death-rate, known as a rope around her neck, and when found she was almost choked to death.

Physicians worked with the victim several hours before they succeeded in resuscitating her.

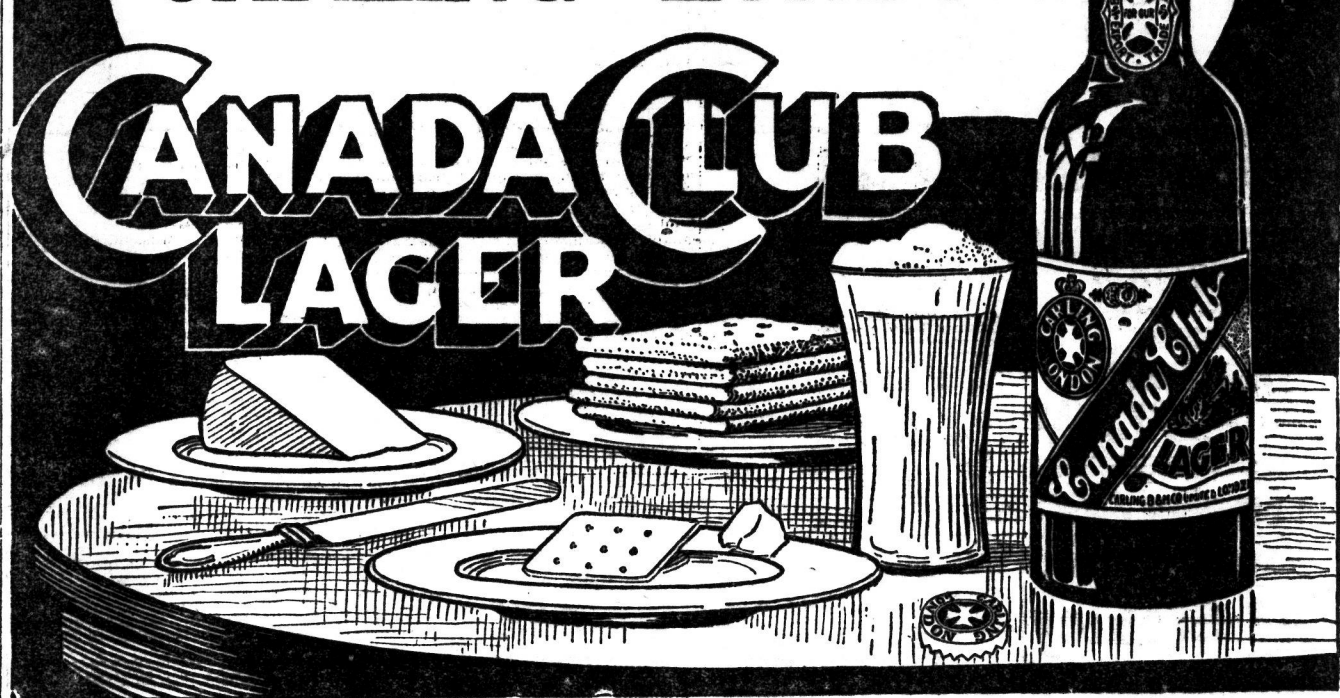

Mr. Heckman stated tonight that one clue had offered to the police, who are now working on the theory that a rejected suitor was responsible for both the letter and the attack on the girl.

Several weeks ago, received a letter from a former sweetheart, in which the writer said he would kill Miss Heckman if she persisted in her rejection of his matrimonial offers.

JOHN BURNS ON WHITE SCOURGE

Noted Labor Leader Declares Consumption Is on Decline.

SOME STRIKING FIGURES

Message of King George to Those Combatting the White Plague.

"Tuberculosis is dying a natural death." This statement was made by Mr. John Burns in the course of an interesting speech at the annual conference of the National Association for the Prevention of Consumption and Other Forms of Tuberculosis, which was held at the Grosvenor Hotel, London, on Saturday last. Five hundred representatives of public health authorities in all parts of the country were present.

At the opening of the conference the chairman, Sir William Younger, read the following message from the King to Dr. J. J. Perkins (honorary secretary of the association):

"I am glad to hear that the important questions to be dealt with at the conference are useful, practical and eminent authorities by whom the meetings will be conducted and addressed. In his address Mr. Burns described the conference as useful, practical and human. It was useful because it had brought to the attention of nearly 300,000 people in this kingdom who were ill and sick through tuberculosis in some of its forms. It was practical because it sought to terminate the premature death of two army corps of men and women before their time by what he regarded as a preventable disease. It was human because it intended in their day in this generation to undermine and destroy tuberculosis, which John Bunyan described as 'the captain of the men of death.'"

The conference, in a word, was a meeting of the national staff in the attack upon the increasing and alarming tuberculosis. The man in the street had determined to co-operate with the medical officers in the fight against the disease. Tuberculosis his notice to quit. The largest decline in the last ten years had been in the last six years, which, by the way, coincided with his term of office at the Local Government Board, but, taking a broad and hill-top view over a longer period, he saw that, in fifty years tuberculosis had declined over 50 per cent for all ages, and between birth and death it had been reduced by 70 per cent.

There was another significant thing. Coincident with the declines in the consumption death rate and the general death-rate, there had been the drink bill diminished from £4 12s per head of population to £3 11s—a diminution of 25 per cent—and the most distinguished men ever identified with consumption had said that the public-house was the purveyor of tuberculosis and that alcoholism was the most potent factor in propagating it. All these declines, too, were coincident with better housing, improved education, the world's greatest decline of tuberculosis had synchronized with the establishment of that association.

Concluding, the President of the Local Government Board said that the prime minister sent them a message of good cheer and good luck in the campaign. Twenty-five years hence they would be able to accelerate the rate of the decline of tuberculosis, and might be able to stamp it out in half the time that even an optimist like himself thought would be necessary with the existing agencies and methods.

The insurance bill, supplemented by the finance bill, gave them one and a half millions of money for building sanatoria, convalescent homes, hostels for the dying, and other institutions for tuberculous people. With the increasing opportunities thus afforded they would be able to accelerate the rate of the decline of tuberculosis, and might be able to stamp it out in half the time that even an optimist like himself thought would be necessary with the existing agencies and methods.

URGES JAP TO JOIN THE PEACE AGREEMENT

Taft Invites Nippon, Through Togo, to Join Arbitration Alliance.

Washington, Aug. 5.—President Taft tonight extended to Japan through the nation's guest, Admiral Count Togo, at a dinner, in the White House, in honor of the Japanese naval hero, an invitation to join the United States, Great Britain and France in the great world-wide movement for international peace. Rising from his chair between Admiral Togo and Speaker Clark, the President offered a toast to the representative of Japan. Then turning to Count Togo, he said, "I would indeed like in my duty and be untrue to my own deepest convictions if I did not take this occasion of the first public welcome to you as our national guest, to express my own appreciation, and that of the American people, of your broad and humanitarian view taken by his majesty, the Emperor of Japan and the Imperial Japanese Government in so readily and generously affirming in the most positive and solemn manner, that no consideration of selfish interest should be permitted to obstruct the progress of the great world movement for international peace as exemplified in the general treaties of arbitration between the United States, Great Britain and France, signed on the day of your arrival in this country."

"I gladly acknowledge this important part which Japan has played in facilitating this notable achievement by its prompt and unreserved recognition, in the recent Anglo-Japanese agreement of the great moral principle of arbitration, and I entertain the view with confidence that the time may not be far distant when Japan will see fit to join in the movement now so auspiciously inaugurated."

In toasting the Emperor of Japan the President said: "To one who has shown himself a great ruler, who has given all his time and energy and intellect to the progress of his country, and the preservation of his people, whose wonderful power in the selection of great men to accomplish great tasks has lifted Japan to a place among the first nations of the world, and whose sense of humanity and justice can be always counted on to be effectively to the peace of the world—His Majesty the Emperor of Japan." The toast was drunk standing.

Count Togo acknowledged the toast through Commander Tani Goshi, his aide. He said: "Mr. President, it is my pleasant duty and great honor to convey to his majesty the Emperor, my august sovereign, the most kind words you have just said for him. As for me, words fall me to express what I feel deeply at heart. I can only say that I thank you most heartily for the honor you have done me."

A most diligent search failed to reveal anyone who had dropped the yellowbacks. There have been no robberies reported, and the only plausible explanation is that yeggmen, planning to rob Wheeler's store, accidentally dropped the money and were frightened away before they discovered their loss.

Mr. Wheeler put the money in his safe, properly labelled and sealed, and then began to advertise his find by telling his customers. "The whole town and half the countryside know the story of the find now, and private 'banks' are being examined to see, perchance, the secret hoard is missing."

SORRY HE SPOKE.

She was fashionably dressed and gave out the perfume of violets as the brakeman turned to help her up the steps of the train which was due to leave. Turning to her maid, she said: "Oh, I must kiss Ethel good-bye."

"Ethel, go on and kiss the fresh brakeman!" "I'll kiss Ethel good-bye."
"No, you won't, either," came from the woman. "That precious dog was never kissed by a stranger in her whole life!"

FINDS FAT ROLL AT HIS DOORSTEP

Hunts Far and Near for Owner of $50,000 in National Yellowbacks.

Utica, Aug. 5.—Geo. B. Wheeler, a grocer, living at Middleburgh, picked up a roll of $50,000 in yellowbacks near the door of his store yesterday, and as no one has appeared to claim the money, he placed advertisements in the newspapers today, waiting the owner of the cash to come in and get it.

A most diligent search failed to reveal anyone who had dropped the yellowbacks. There have been no robberies reported, and the only plausible explanation is that yeggmen, planning to rob Wheeler's store, accidentally dropped the money and were frightened away before they discovered their loss.

DETROIT OLD BOYS

renew old remembrances with all the ardors of his younger days. He does not remember ever having missed an Old Boys' Reunion and does not intend to for a long time yet. Twenty years ago he left this city, where he formerly was employed in the G. T. R. shops, and went to London, since that time he has noted the absence of many old landmarks with each successive reunion. Coming to London first in 1883, he saw London rise from an infant city to the importance and extent by which it is characterized today. On the train he told The Advertiser many interesting stories of the London of yesterday, when the Grand Trunk depot was a little one-story shack, and the site of the present Advertiser Building was the one interesting spot in London so far as the Leon companions were concerned. Mr. Luscombe was accompanied by Mrs. Luscombe, who takes quite as active an interest in the boys' reunion as her husband. During their stay in London, Mr. and Mrs. Luscombe will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trafford, of West London.

A Drum Major.
The Detroit Old Boys brought along with them, as drum major, Mr. A. Hamby, who will appear in the procession today in "some" regalia. Whitley's Military Band, which will head the Detroit procession, will arrive this morning. Mr. Hamby, who is drum major for the famous Burrough's Advertising Machine Company, was formerly employed with the Hobbs Hardware Company of this city, and is an enthusiastic Old Boy. The Detroit Old Boys will be the best of Detroit clubs in the matter of successful entertaining. The club is assisted in the social side of its work very greatly by the ladies' auxiliary, which is presided over by a capable group of officers. Mrs. Geo. Moore is president; Mrs. George A. Grigg and Mrs. John Davidson are vice-presidents, and Mrs. John Davidson is secretary. The London Old Boys' Club has been on the map of Detroit for the past twelve years, and just as soon as the Detroiters return from the reunion, or to be exact, a week from Friday night, a meeting will be held at which it is proposed to enlarge and amplify the association into a permanent Canadian Club, the membership of which will be open to all former Canadians, irrespective of their native city. It is fully expected that a membership of not less than 200 will be secured from the very beginning.

Grandson of Old Nick.
Among the Detroiters who returned to London on the special train yesterday was Edward Wilson, a grandson of Nicholas Wilson, accompanied by his wife and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Wicks. He will visit his brother, Mr. Albert Wilson, who is a resident of London. His brother, Nick Wilson, the younger, who also is a Detroit, was also on the special train. During Old
